Why London Needs a Board of Control

By Staff Photographer.

LAYING WATER MAINS ON RIDOUT STREET.

Within a few days after the city had repaired this roadway on the Ridout street hill, the water commissioners came along, and, in order to put down mains, tore it up again. Not only was the surface of the road spoiled, but the labor involved was practically coubled.

It may not be the fault of the water commissioners that such loose methods prevail; rather, it appears, it is no more their fault than anyone's, but the vital fact to taxpayers is that they do prevail.

The promoters of the board of control idea believe that the city should have a head engineer, so that such overlapping would not occur. A head engineer would have the work of the water commission and the city council in his own hands. When a street was torn up all necessary work, such as laying pipes and conduits, would be done at the same time under his direction. Not only would it be a great advance from the standpoint of economy, but it would bring about a material reduction in expenses.

During the past summer the city has had a number of streets torn up after work had been done by the

At present the reins of direction are in the hands of half a dozen different bodies or commissions. The head engineer idea is a part of Ald. Richter's program for municipal advancement. Officials of Ironworkers Charged With Part in Dynamiting

McNAMARA IS ITS HEAD

Jury Is Expected to Take the Case Some Time This Afternoon or Evening.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 26,-At the dynamite conspiracy trial today District Attorney Miller continued to review to the jury Ortic E. McManigal's confession as a dynamiter. Nearing the close of his argument, District Attorney Miller charged that "all of the officials of the International Association of Bridge and Structurel Ironworkers on trial here knowingly entered into this nefarious conspiracy." "Attended by riots, assaults and even by attempts to kill, this great conspiracy against employers who refused to recognize the union, grew, until it reached the murder stage at Los Angeles," said the district attorney.

McNamara Its Head.

"At the head of the conspiracy was McNamara, but behind him was President Frank M. Ryan, directing explosions by writing letters from New York and other cities. On the Pacific coast were Olaf F. Tveitmoe and Eugene A. Clancy, directing the work of destruc tion from San Francisco, and showing by their letters and movements that they had full knowledge of affairs. At Salt Lake City was J. E. Muncey, alias Jack Bright. At New Orleans Philip A. Cooley, clamoring that the dynamite campaign be carried to the Southern States, but disappointed because the men he had retained to do the work got frightened. "At New York was Frank C. Webb, who failed to take the witness stand here in his own defence, and at Boston was Michael J. Young, a member of the union's executive board, who personally pointed out the jobs to be blown up in New England, At Buffalo was John T. Butler, the vice-president; at Cleveland were the sluggers, Peter J. Smith and George Anderson, carrying on a reign of terorr there. And so throughout the length and breadth of the land, there was carried on between the international officials and the local business agents a conspiracy which was disgrace to organized labor. It was a conspiracy of which John J. and Jas. B. McNamara, Ortic E. McManigal and Edward Clarke, all confessed dynamiters, were only a part." It is expected that the jury will have the case in its hands this evening.

Municipal Matters Are Unusually Quiet [Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoil, Dec. 26.—Keen interest has not yet developed in the communation meeting to be held Monday evening. It is All the joy and gladness that Christian peoples associate with Christmas Day characterized the observance of the occasion by the residents of this town. With a mantel of the beautiful—sufficient to produce the music of the bells—and with an atmosphere just sufficiently charged with frost to impart the wintry spirit which gives zest to the day, everyone made the most of the occasion. Families The Strathcona Has Strenuous Final were reunited, hearts gladdened by tokens from friends near and far, and the day passed most pleasantly. In the church of the Sacred Heart, and St. James' (Anglican), special services were to wonder when they will begin regular practices. Building permits are not in great de mand this month, and as a result the total will be much below that of December, 1911. However, the year will show an excellent increase.

So far, the building permits issued this month amount to $24,098, as compared with $187,553 for the same month of the previous year[The reason for this as given at the city hall is that some large permits were taken out last December following the Chapman and Per rin fires.

The total for the year to date is $1,-32,943, as compared with $1,036,880. in 1911. The growth will be easily $100,000 for the year.

Among the permits taken out during he month were the following: Mr. F. B. Ware, two-story brick residence, Richmend street, $6,000; Mrs. S. R. Not Too Old.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am a young girl, 18 years old, and have been keeping company with a young man of 27. What wish to know is, Do you think he is too old for me? Some people seem to think he is, but he is such a gentleman in every respect, and I think so much of him that I think it would be hard for me to give him up.

I am working in a little city not far from my home town. My parents never have objected to my going out in the evening, providing I do not stay out later than 10 o'clock, and I never have stayed out later, knowing it to be against their wishes. But the folks I m working for think 10 o'clock is too late an hour for me to come in. Have they any right to object so long as I am in good company and it does not inter-fere with my work? I seldom get out until 8 o'clock, and sometimes later. How can I let them know without offending them that I do not wish to be tied down n that way? AN ANXIOUS GIRL.

But when a girl is working in the home of others she must consider their wishes. Can you not talk the matter over with those who employ you, telling them courteously and respectfully your views on the matter? You express yourself well in your letter o me. I believe that if they are fairminded people and you are as modest and temperate in your presentation of your views as you are in your letter they will accede to your request for permission to remain out until 10. Don't forget that if silver not in frequent use is rubbed with oatmeal it will not tarnish easily. Don't fail to wash all lemons before using. The black specks on their skins are the egg cells of minute insects. Don't fail to keep a small strainer hanging near your stove with which to strain all gravies and sauces.

EGGLESS RECIPES

When the price of eggs soar so high as to make their use almost prohibited, the wise housekeeper turns to her recipe: that call for no eggs at all. It is possible to make delicious corn bread and muffins chocolate puddings and even cakes and ookies without eggs. Some cooks offer rolled crackers as substitute for eggs, and, in many food combinations, they succeed admirably. In frying oysters, when eggs are high-priced, the oysters will be found most acceptable if rolled in corn-meal before frying, or dipped in corn-starch moistened milk to the consistency of batter.

Baby and Superstition

Lots of superstitions cluster about Master Baby. The curious thing is that most of them are believed in ountries as far apart as China and Peru, among savages as well as among civilized nations. The most widespread of all is that, if a baby is to rise in the world, he must go upstairs before he goes down. If the house is a one-storied one it is usual for the nurse or friend to stand Another common one is that, if any clothes are accidentally put on inside out they must be left that way or back luck will follow. Millions of mothers world firmly believe that the baby will have had luck if he is measured. many parts of England this superstition extends to weighing also. Nearly every Scots mother is conrinced that to let a baby look at himself in the glass is to shorten his life. Every Scots baby, too, gets a piece of silver pressed into his tiny palm before he is a day old, to bring him financial prosperity.

Nearly all the ferns like to have their leaves washed every now and then. The best way of doing this is to set them out of doors on a wet day and let the rain wash them gently.

Plants hate gas. It poisons them, se do not keep them at night for many burning, but carry them out into the passage or into an unlighted room. You must be careful not to put deli-

Remember that plants which live in a sitting-room where a fire is kept burning need more water than these that live in cooler places. If a plant stands on a mantelpece it will want to be watered every day, but one that stands near a window will need watering only once or twice a week.

glad that as yet the room was dim. She needed the cooiness and the silence and the gray to calm her pounding heart. She lay very still, not daring to move, feeling herself some new creature. Three times a woman thrills with new birth—once when she awakes to the knowledge of her love, once to the knowledge of her motherhood. Three times the world stands new created to her.

To Julie this realization came with virginal freshness. She had had no schooling in love. There had been no preparation even with 'Gene. It had come like a revelation. Even in the occasional queries she had put to herself during the winter she had not thought of love. Even when he had appeared at her window she had not thought of love. Even when he had appeared at her window she had not thought of love. Even when he had appeared at her window she had not thought of love. There had been no great the word, not until he had walked away from her, that she had grasped its meaning. Then and then alone had the many mysteries of the last few months been made clear.

A light breeze rustled through the trees, making them sound as though they were shaking out their clothes. Then sleepily and hoarsely a cock tried his voice in the barnyard. It was answered by a low moo from the cows, a stamping from the horses and a howl from a distant dog. For a few minutes then the world again relapsed into sleepy silence. Julie rose to her elbow. CHRISTMAS TREE

Was a Great Success. [Special to The Advertiser.]

Hyde Park, Dec. 26 .- A most successful Christmas tree entertainment was given by the young people of the Meth-odist Sunday school. The chair was taken by the Rev. S. Salton. The church was well filled, and everyone was delighted with the program.

The cantata, entitled "Santa Claus, Sir Knight," was splendidly rendered, and the singing of the little tots was a feature.

M'ss Sarah Springett was warmly com Fortner and Irving Springett for the fine platform and Christmas tree provided for the occasion. The tree was loaded with presents for all the children, while Santa brought a goose for Mrs. Wm. Routledge, the Bible class teacher, and

CHRISTIAN CHRISTMAS

Passing of the Old Customs Amongst the Celestials of Chicago.

[Canadian Press.] Chicago, Dec. 26.—Chicago Chinese are to celebrate the dawn of the New Year for the first time on Jan. 1. The old and familiar sights, which usually ese New Year here in February are to be passed next year. The celebration also will be changed to the new Chinatown, where the Chinese propose celebrating the event according to the western custom, and at the same time. With the fall of the Manchu dynasty, the ages old calendar of the Ming dynasty, it is said, will be followed no longer, and that hereafter Jan. 1 will be the date of the beginning of the year with all Chinese.

In Chinese homes, which once either ignored Christmas altogether or celebrated it only simply, the Christmas tree was to be seen yesterday in many instances. It was said there was a general distribution of presents among

- BY FREDERICK ORIN BARTLETT.

"'Gene," she murmured. "'Gene, come back to me. Come back for only a moment."

She thought she heard his voice calling to her again from the road. She crossed the room and threw up the window. An hour ago she had been afraid and terrostricken at his approach. Now she stood at this same window ready to welcome him, her eyes as eager as his had lately been. But he was nowhere to be seen. The tree branches rustled against the house, but they were not moved by his on past It.

"But I'd just as soon right here. So here is one for you, and here is another."

She made two very small crosses. It didn't seem a silly thing to do.

"So now I hope you'll forgive me if you thught I was cross with you. 'Gene dear, there are so many things—new things that I never thought of until this minute use, but they were not moved by his light. The road was deserted. It was serted as though it began nowhere and led nowhere. It was a dead, barren id. She shuddered back from it, and

I tried to catch you, but you walked so fast I couldn't. I felt so weak I couldn't cun very fast. I ran as fast as I could, 'Gene, but something took all the strength out of me, so that I could only sit down and cry. I wanted you, and I want you now. I don't know how to tell you what I want to tell you. It is hard to say it here—alone. It would have been much easier—when you asked me. But I didn't know then, 'Gene. 'Gene dearest, I didn't know then, so you can't blame me, can you? But if you were standing here now and you asked me that question, I should have to say Yes.'

She stopped, and bending over the letter and you asked me that question, I should have to say Yes."

She stopped, and bending over the letter shyly kissed it at this place. She was very glad, and simple-hearted about it. Now that she had begun to write she was inding some relief for her pent-up 'emotions. She lost herself completely in the joy of talking to him again. She was not conscious of being in her room. She was again in the road, and she saw him listening. She scribbled on, her thoughts moving so fast her pen could scarcely 'eep pace with them.

"And if you asked me now to do what"

"It feel that I'll always be safe everywhere if only I can hold on to your arm. I'll though to her seem queer. Only yesterday you were just 'Gene Page and today why, you are 'Gene, my 'Gene! Yesterday I thought of you every now and then as just a boy. Now you aren't a boy any more—except my boy. And that's a different kind, somehow. Your mother must be very proud of you, 'Gene. I shall go over and see her just as soon as I can. She will miss you, too, I suppose, and we can talk about you. You mustn't forget to write to her. If yop write to me every day, you ought to write to her at least once a week. Now, please, remember this.

wish you could find time to go on "I wish you could find time to go on with your studies. You were doing very well in your English and pretty well lately in your algebra. It would help you a lot when you get to be captain to know about these things. Won't it be fun when you come back in charge of your own ship? Will you wear a uniform. I think you, would look very handsome in a uniform. But when you're a captain I shall go with you. And you will take me first to Rio de Janeiro. I shall follow you in the geography everywhere you go. to Rio de Janeiro. I shall foliow you in the geography everywhere you go.

"And now I'll say good-night to you. I've always thought of you a little bit before going to sleep, but now I shall put you in my prayers. I hope you will get this before the ship sails for—"

She paused. Why, 'Gene had forgotten to give her his address! When he had walked away he had said she needn't write to him. Her heart sank. She could never write him if she didn't know the parse of his ship. The world went blank

LOCAL INTERMEDIATES BEAT PRESTON SENIORS

Great Exhibition of Hockey at Princess Rink Last Evening-London Youngsters Spring Surprise on Fans and Visitors Alike-Score Was 6 to 5.

Santa Claus filled the stocking of the London Hockey Club with some real live hockey players, judging from the exhibition given by the local aspirants for O. H. A. intermediate honors, against the mighty Preston senior team, twice intermediate champions, and strong favorites for senior D. H. A. honors this coming season. London won by the score of 6 to 5, a mighty achievement, when one considers the reputation of the Preston team, and the fact that the local team was practically composed of youngsters who were playing together for the first time

Large Crowd of Fans Present. A large crowd of fans witnessed the game, and the result was a big surprise. The most enthusiastic of local followers of the London team would not have conceded them a victory over Preston, especially when the two teams came on the ice. Preston had it on London for weight by many pounds, the locals looking like a bunch of school boys compared to the big, husky Dutch-It was apparent, however, after the game had progressed a few minutes that Preston would have to show their best to win. It was a battle in which condition was the main factor. The ice was soft, and the going heavy. And it was condition that won out. Showing that condition is a wonderful thing

GUELPH VICTORIAS EASY FOR BERLIN

Dutchmen Have eBst Team Since 1905 and Game Was Good Workout.

Berlin, Ont., Dec. 25. - Berlin intermediates took a lopsided game from the Guelph Victorias at the Auditorium here today by the score of 7 to 1. At half-time the score was 5 to 0, and at no stage of the game was there any doubt as to the outcome. It was a fair practice game for the locals, who shape up like the best team that has represented Berlin since 1905, when the championship was captured after every game had been won except the last. The visitors were sadly out of condition, and at the end of the first half Heffernan was forced to retire on account of illness. Grant played spectacularly in goal for Victorias, while Foster played best on the forward line. The Berlin team as a whole played good hockey and are counted on clean up in this district. CHRISTMAS DAY IN LOCAL CHURCHES

A Special Union Service Held in Colborne Street Methodist Church.

TWO BISHOPS PREACHED

His Lordship of Huron in St. Paul's and His Lordship of London in St. Peter's.

Special Christmas services were held in all the Anglican Churches yesterday morning, and a union service of the borne Street Church at 11 o'clock. In the Anglican churches the rectors preached, with one exception, when Rev. S. R. Heakes spoke at Memorial Church. The subjects of the sermons were all closely connected with the life of Christ. Rev. S. R. Heakes chose as his text,

John, iii., 16: "For God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten Son." The speaker stated that the conditions of life are infinitely better than they were before the beginning of Christian era. He referred to the Jews and the advancement they had largely attended. At 11 o'clock, Rev. Canon Craig preached the usual Christmas sermon from Luke, ii., 24: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men." The choir rendered special Christmas music, including the anthem, "The Lord Is Thy Light," and the church was decorated for the services by a committee of ladies.

St. George's Church.

Rev. Canon Sage preached at the second service in St. George's Church, West London, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, at which there was a very large attendance. Canon Sage chose as his subject, Mathew, ii., 1. The choir under the leadership of Miss Minnie Raymond rendered special music. Holy communion was held at 8:30 in the morning.

A Union Service.

Rev. A. McKibbin, B.A., the evengelist of the London Conference, occupied the pulpit in Colborne Street Church at the union service on account of the absence of Rev. S. A. Anderson There was a large congregation present and special music was furnished by number of the soloists of the various lethodist churches. The sermon was based on the quotations: "For we have seen His star in the east," and "I am the bright and morning star." The speaker stated that as the first seekers after Christ were heathen, it should be easily believed that the heathen of today are just as anxious to receive him now as then. In connection with the second passage, he said there were four lessons to be taken from it that would be of great encouragement to church workers. Christ by comparing Himself to a star, made Himself one of us; as a morning star He ushered in the be ginning of a new day in Christian life. He is a guide the same as the star guided the wise men to His birthplace, and it also signified that the church of God is making steady progress all

St. Paul's Cathedral. Bishop Williams preached the sermon at the service in St. Paul's Cathedral at 11 o'clock, and chose for his subject, "The Desire of the Nations."
"As Christ fulfilled all the desires of mankind, the celebration of the anniversary of His birth is the most joyful festival in the world, and everyone Miss M. Hican and M. S. Lillian Joyful Miss M. Hisan and M. S. Lillian Joyful M. S. Lilli should lead a better life after naving the sacrifice and work of Christ again impressed upon them," was the continuous the bishop's sermon. There was a large congregation present, and the choir, led by Mr. G. B. Sippi, rendered a number of anthems. Rev. Canon Tucker, the rector, Rev. G. F. St. Andrew's Church.

Rev. Dr. Ross, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, addressed a meeting in Wesley Hall, First Methodist in Wesley Hall, First Methodist Church, last evening on the subject, "The Word Was Made Flesh," choosing as his text, John, I., 14. Dr. Ross gave a sympathetic and practical talk of a Christmas nature, and stated that God by sending His Son to the world to save men should give all a true conception of the value of a true conception of the value of In Catholic Churches.

Masses were commenced at day-preak in the different Roman Catholic churches of the city, and were terminated by high mass at 10:30. In St. brated high mass at 10:30, and was assisted by Rev. Fathers Tobin, Corcoran, Tierney and Harding. His lordship said that while all, no doubt, appreciated the gladness and joy connected with the birth of Christ, the sorrowful side should not be forgotten. CHRISTMAS AT RIDEAU HALL

Ottawa, Dec. 25.—Christmas Day was spent quietly in the capital. At Government House none of the time-honored customs associated with the day were neglected. Christmas Eve was marked by the distribution of gifts by the Duke of Connaught to the public works employees, 40 in number, engaged about the grounds of the vice-regal residence. The members of the personal staff, servants and others were not forgotten, the duke personally wishing every member of the staff a merry Christmas, while they were also presented with gifts.

Their royal highinesses attended divine service in St.

Bartholomew's Anglican Church today, and in the evening with their staff partook of Christmas dinner. Throughout the city the various charitable institutions distributed Christmas cheer, many thousands attending the Salvation Army and missionary homes dinners. The weather was

St. John's Church.

Holy communion was celebrated in the Church of St. John the Evangelist yesterday morning at 8:30 and was largely attended. At 11 o'clock, Rev. Canon Craig preached the usual class of the assumption that they will be equally wide from what are likely to be the eventual terms of the peace treaty, as to the assumption that they will be equally wide from what are likely to be the eventual terms of the peace treaty, as were the demands of the allies, and that they will be equally wide from what are likely to be the eventual terms of the peace treaty, as there still is a prolonged process of barden of the conference is ended.

HAY AND OATS TODAY

These Were the Only Offerings on the Local Square.

About fifteen loads of hay and three or four loads of oats were the only offerings on the local market today. The price of oats was the same as has prevailed for the last two weeks, from $1 05 to $1 13 per cwt.

Hay, although there has been a plentiful supply for some time past, was slightly higher in price today, when the sales were made at prices ranging from $13 to $14 50 per ton.

No vegetables or poultry were offered.

BALKAN ALLIES OWE SUCCESS TO RUMANIA

Turkey Out.

London, Dec. 25 .- Among the grave problems which the Balkan war prought into prominent view there is hardly one so fraught with far-reaching consequences as the mutual relations of Bulgaria and Rumania. The ordinary observer probably discerns ittle to interest him in the friendship or enmity of those two States. But the political student will realize that the most vigorous currents of national vitality in the peninsula are Bulgarian and Rumanian, and that the future of the Balkans will be the resultant of destructive and constructive forces of grafted on again without the hearwhich they are the sources. At the present moment the relations of the two States are in flux. Rumania is eagerly looking forward to Bulgaria for the keynote to their future intercourse, while M. Gueshoff and his cabinet, with their eyes still unaccustomed to the new position and its possibilities, are hesitating, wavering, try ing to gain time. Rumania expects, but has not formally demanded a free gift of a strip of territory from King Ferdinand's Government, more as token of good will than for any strategical benefits which would result from No territorial changes-which she could reasonably ask for, now that her neutrality has had its effect, or that to bestow, now that she has attained her end-would give Rumania a reasonable military frontier. To All in Christ Jesus in the Diocese

God became man. That is the great fact-the great message of Christmas

Day. Two of the greatest perplexities that bewildered and oppressed man-kind were: Can man know God? Can man have fellowship with God? Jesus Christ, born as on Christmas Day, is God's answer to these questions. know Jesus is to know God; to have fellowship with Jesus is to have fellowship with God. Thus the clouds and darkness that surrounded the eternal were swept away; the humble and the lowly may know and have fellowship with the high and the holy One that inhabitieth eternity. Thus also the message of Christmas is essentially a message of universal joy; for it opens to all people, new hopes, new visions for the individuals and for the race; new possibilities of goodness and greatness and glory. It does this for all—even for the sinners, the outcast, and the lost; for "this is a faithful saying and worthy of all men to be
