SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Mrs. Sidney Middleton. Henry Manley.
Miss Tucker and a number of others.

UNKNOWN DEAD.

It is feared that several persons are under the debris, and have not been recovered.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Peterboro, Aug. 28.—Four people were killed and a score injured when the big Turnbull millinery and drygoods store, at the corner of George and Simcoe streets, collapsed, carrying down into the basement the human cargo of clerks, morning shoppers, and also a gang of workmen who were reconstructing the northwest wall.

THREE VICTIMS WOMEN.

It is practically assured that the list of dead will number four, three being women.

Four persons have been taken to the hospital, one seriously injured, and two girl employees of the mantle department are still buried in the ruins. These are Miss Dorothy Sisson and Miss Boddison.

FOUR IN HOSPITAL.

Four in the hospital are Mrs. Findlay, customer, whose back was broken; Harry Manley, carpet layer, whose leg was broken; Mrs. Sidney Middleton, customer, and Miss Tucker, employee of Mantle department, neither of whom is seriously injured.

REPAIRS BEING MADE.

Extensive repairs were being made to the Barrie building, which adjoins the Turnbull store. A partition wall had been removed, with the result that the three-story departmental structure was weakened. Thirty feet of the outside wall on the northwest corner suddenly fell away, carrying the workmen on the outside and the clerks and shoppers within, down to injury or death.

Two men were working on the Barrie building and a dozen on the Turnbull structure. The plan was to place a new front on both buildings, which were being made into one.

FIFTY GOT OUT SAFELY.

Immediately a collapse occurred, and 50 employees rushed into the street in a panic-stricken state. When the extent of the disaster was realized, 100 volunteers at once began to search the ruins, and the hospitals sent all available ambulance and nursing facilities to the rescue.

FOUR BODIES TAKEN OUT.

Up to noon the dead bodies of three unidentified women and one man had been taken from the ruins of the Turnbull store.

Eight other injured persons have been sent to their homes or the hospital. The man who was killed, Cuffe by name, was employed with the construction gang.

Miss Dolie Sisson, a clerk, is dead. Her cousin, Eva A. Sisson, saleslady in the ready-to-wear department, escaped. It is believed that the death list will reach six at least.

LOSS IS $50,000.

The financial loss will be heavy, and is now estimated at $50,000. The large majority of the seventy clerks employed were uninjured, and made a panic-stricken rush for safety when the building went down. Immediately the firemen were called, and with large crowds of volunteers frantically searched the ruins for the dead and injured. Doctors and nurses waited to render what assistance they could.

FIRST REPORTS STARTLING 25 REPORTED KILLED

[Canadian Press—11 a.m.]

Peterboro, Aug. 28.—The large store at the corner of George and Simcoe streets, at which alterations were being made for the J. C. Turnbull Company, has collapsed.

Several clerks and workmen have been taken out from the debris dead.

It is stated that the dead will number 25. The disaster is one of the worst that ever happened in Peterboro.

The Turnbull Company had between 60 and 70 clerks employed in their store, but the large majority escaped without injury.

The wall separating the two stores on the ground floor had been removed, and only those employees and customers on the second floor of the building when it collapsed were in the danger zone. So far no fatalities have been received. Gangs of men are removing the debris, and the worst should be known by noon.

There are four dead and seven injured in the collapse of the store. The militia has been called out, and is guarding and searching the ruins for the bodies. The four taken out dead are girls. The cause of the collapse was the congested condition of the store owing to a rush sale that was started this morning. The building was a new one and was opened for the first time this morning. A great crowd besieged the doors, and when all were inside the whole building collapsed.

CALLS UP MEMORIES OF THE REID DISASTER

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Peterboro, Aug. 28.—At 9:40 o'clock this morning the worst disaster in the history of Peterboro occurred, when the Barry store, next door to the Turnbull department store, collapsed and carried down twenty persons. Four bodies have been taken from the ruins, seven or eight are seriously injured, and it is possible that a number are confined under the debris.

WAS BEING REPAIRED.

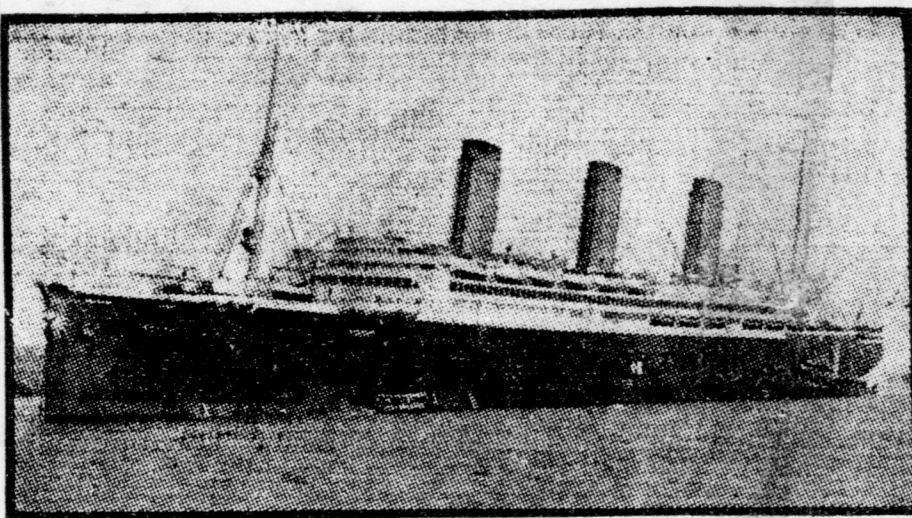

The Barry store, on the corner of Simcoe and George streets, was recently acquired by the Turnbull interests. The mantle department of the Turnbull company was on the top story of the Barry building, while repairs were being made to the two lower stories preparatory to its occupancy by the Turnbull company.

WARNED BY TREMBLING.

Repairs were being made to the building by Ald. Johnston, contractor, and it is supposed that the walls were weakened. The whole structure began to tremble suddenly, and workmen in the upper stories and a number of girls in the mantle department had time to get out before the crash came. The old store was also given warning, and the 50 or 60 employees streamed into the streets.

THE GIANT IMPERATOR, which was badly damaged by fire which started as she lay at anchor at Hoboken, N. J.

TWO KILLED WHEN FIRE SWEEPS WORLD'S BIGGEST OCEAN LINER

Flames Soon Got Away From Ship's Own Brigade and New York Fire Tugs Were Called—Interior of Great Emperor Is Badly Damaged.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Aug. 28.—The steamship Emperor, the largest vessel afloat, was swept by fire early today as she lay at her dock in Hoboken, with her crew and 1,131 steerage passengers aboard.

Second Officer Gobrecht, who led the crew into the hold to fight the flames, was out from his men, enveloped in a cloud of smoke and suffocated, his body being found an hour later, untouched by fire, and brought ashore.

A seaman, one of the party who went down with Gobrecht into the bowels of the vessel, was missing at roll-call. He undoubtedly perished also.

A fleet of fire-fighting craft, augmented by apparatus on shore, surrounded the ship and poured tons of water into her hold. When the fire was checked at 8 o'clock, the great vessel had listed fifteen degrees.

Panic in Steerage.

The small army in the steerage, aroused from their sleep by the crackling of flames, rushed, panic-stricken, for the pier. Most of them returned to the ship for their clothing when reassured by the ship's officers, and spent the remainder of the night huddled in discomfort at the shore end of the pier.

None of the steerage passengers had been inspected by the customs or health authorities. Because of this, armed guards surrounded them. The immigration authorities planned to rush them to Ellis Island at the earliest possible moment this forenoon.

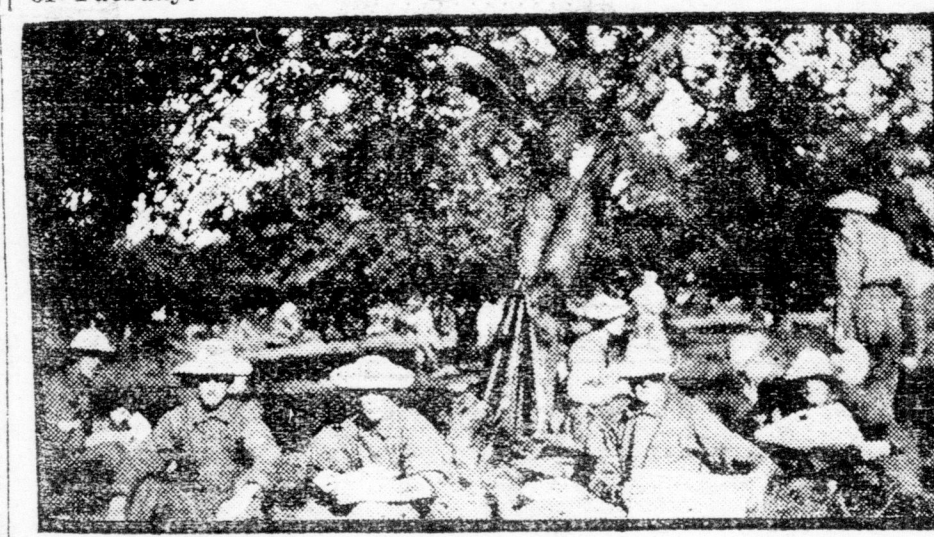

All Were Asleep.

The great ship was dark, with all on board asleep, save the officers on watch, when smoke, ascending from the provision room, was discovered simultaneously a seaman on deck watch, and a petty officer on the bridge. Almost at the same moment the crackling of flames was heard in the steerage quarters.

A quiet alarm was sounded. Capt. Ruessor, commander-in-chief of the vessel, was among the first to respond. The crew of 1,180 men were in their places within a minute. The complete fire-fighting apparatus of the vessel was set in motion. Every compartment was ordered closed except those which it was necessary to leave open for steerage passengers to get ashore.

RED FORCES ARE VICTORS; INVADERS ARE DRIVEN BACK

Mount Brydges, Aug. 28.—Noon.—London is safe. At noon today the defenders, or Red Force, drove back the invaders, or Blue Force, on Mount Brydges, thus bringing the manoeuvres to an end. Both "armies" are now encamped on the fair grounds. While the umpire has not given any decision it is generally conceded that the Red force is victor in the manoeuvres that have been going on since Tuesday evening. The Seventh of London has been well to the fore in all operations, and headed the column which entered Mount Brydges on the heel of the enemy.

RAILWAY BD. WILL INQUIRE

Refuses to Let Roads Raise Eastern Canadian Freight Rates.

MILLERS UP IN ARMS

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The railroads will have to show reasons before they can raise freight rates in Eastern Canada of grain and grain products. Some time ago the railway filed tariffs which proposed increases up to six cents. A protest to the railway board was made by the millers of Ontario and the Camps Milling Co. The commission has responded by forbidding the companies to charge the new rates, until it is established to the satisfaction of the board that such increases are justified.

ROYAL BANK SAYS CITY IS TAKING BANK'S PROPERTY

Protest Made Against Removal of Fittings in Hydro and Waterworks Office.

Water Commission Says Agreement Would Have No Effect on the Furnishings.

Formal notice was served on the city this morning by Local Manager F. E. Karn, of the Royal Bank, that the city was removing fittings from the city hall property on Richmond street that was rightfully the property of the bank through its purchase of the building two years ago. Manager Karn backed up his formal notice by a protest to General Secretary Oliver Ellwood, of the water commission, that railings and partitions were being taken out from the hydro and waterworks offices, down stairs, that belonged to the bank.

In Hands of Solicitor.

Other than to take the formal notice to City Solicitor T. G. Meredith, Mayor C. M. R. Graham took no action this morning. The case is now in the hands of the city solicitor, and any further action on the part of the bank officials will be referred immediately to Mr. Meredith.

Manager Karn's protest is a "blanket" one, no particular fitting, or fittings, being specified. His verbal objection, however, was to the removal of the iron grills and the heavy counters in the waterworks-electrical department office. His contention was that these fittings, having been in place when the building was sold, they were part and parcel of the property.

Are Fittings Included?

In this, however, he is mistaken according to Secretary Ellwood. The latter declares that an agreement between the city and the bank would have absolutely no effect on the fittings of the water commission offices. The water commission, as a tenant of the city hall, was simply a lessee of its premises in the city hall. All counters, grill work and fixtures were purchased by the water commission, and are therefore immune from any claim that might be instituted by the bank.

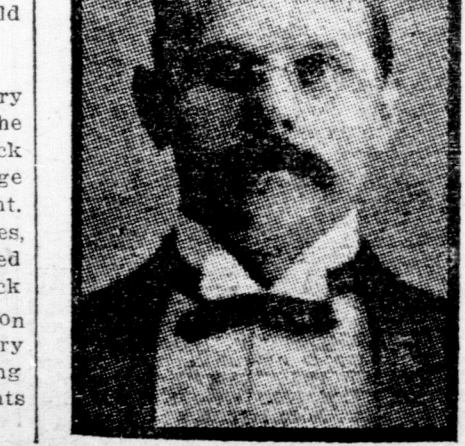

Manager Karn refuses to discuss the case whatever.

"We have nothing for publication," was his statement when asked by The Advertiser what particular fittings or equipment was referred to in his notice. According to Mayor Graham, the formal objections were simply served on the city to cover up any possible difference that might result in the future between the Royal Bank and its former tenants—the city of London.

"So far as I can see it was simply served to protect the local interests of the bank," said the mayor. "There is a difference of opinion between the bank and the city as to what belongs to us and what they own, but nothing was specified in the notice of Mr. Karn."

Special permission for the removal of partitions, erected since the bank purchased the building two years ago, was secured some time ago from the head office of the bank, although it is claimed that such a procedure on the city's part was unnecessary. The permission from Montreal allowed the city to remove any or all partitions that would not weaken the building.

Wilson's Demands Are Humiliating and Uncalled For Says Gamboa in What Is Regarded as an Ultimatum to the States.

SAYS CONDITIONS ASKED OF HUERTA ARE BASED ON GRATUITOUS SUSPICIONS

Wilson Advises Embassies to Notify Mexicans That They Will Be Held Responsible for Any Losses or Injuries to Americans.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Washington, Aug. 28.—President Wilson last night warned all Americans to leave Mexico at once.

At the same time the American embassy and all consular representatives throughout the southern republics were instructed to "notify all officials, civil and military, in Mexico that they would be held strictly responsible for harm or injury done to Americans or their property."

Mexico's Reply.

Official Washington read with great interest the reply of the Mexican Government to the American mediation proposals, the text of which the President laid before Congress today.

The reply, which was written by Gamboa, the Mexican minister of foreign affairs, contains what is almost an ultimatum in serving notice upon this country that recognition of the Huerta Government was the only condition upon which mediation would be considered.

Gamboa refers to the American demands as humiliating and unusual in character and declares that they would hardly have been admissible "even in a treaty of peace after a victory." The reading of the Mexican communication cleared up many points about which information has been vague thus far.

GAMBOA'S REPORT.

[Canadian Press.] Mexico City, Aug. 28.—Without comment, Federico Gamboa, the minister of foreign affairs, presented to the standing committee of the Mexican Congress last night all the facts in the controversy between Mexico and the United States.

The congressmen compiling the committee received the facts without comment, other than that indulged in as individuals, after adjournment. Unless there are new developments, it is improbable that discussion, even of a private character, will continue long.

Not Yet Concluded.

Senator Gamboa insists that the negotiations are not entirely concluded, but should they be, it is probable that soon the entire affair will be regarded as a closed incident.

The congressmen, in discussing the notes exchanged, freely commended the action of the Mexican Government, and that small portion of the public which is cognizant of the character of that action was loud in its praise of what is characterized as the patriotic and dignified attitude of the administration.

No afternoon paper in the capital carried any part of the correspondence between the two countries, or reference to President Wilson's message. Officials of the Government refused to discuss it, with the exception of Senator Gamboa, who referred to the exchanges, and then only sufficiently to explain that the documents he was handing out for publication were those exchanged up to last night.

The Government's Statement.

All the Government cared to say regarding the situation was published last night in the official Diario.

"Since the strained relations existing between Mexico and the United States began," said Senator Gamboa in this article, "Continued on Page Eleven."

town, and I think the newspapers go a little too far once in a while.

"I don't think Mr. Beck realizes what this road means to us shippers, who are almost solidly opposed to him, in his present scheme. If he did he would, in the best interests of the city to which he has given such good service, try to bring about a situation whereby their interests would be served first."

"As it is now the only appeal that can be made for the service is of a fast passenger service to the lake. The man who goes to Port Stanley for two months in the year is not the one to be considered first. What he gives the road would not help much. Neither would the excursion business amount to much. It is a freight road which gives a wonderfully efficient service to hundreds of buying places in Western Ontario, and it would be destructive to the business interests if the freight were disturbed by re-shipping. When the people realize how vital a

ALMOND BALSDEN KILLED BY THUMB TOUCHING LIVE WIRE

Chief Electrician of the London and Lake Erie Transportation Company Met Instant Death at St. Thomas Sub-Station While Making Repairs.

[Special to The Advertiser.] St. Thomas, Aug. 28.—Almond S. Baisden, chief electrician of the London and Lake Erie Transportation Company, was instantly killed at the St. Thomas sub-station today, when his thumb accidentally touched a live wire carrying 13,000 volts as he was helping Ed. Rapson, an electrician, remove a high-tension fuse.

One of the transformers got out of order, and was being repaired. As Baisden and Rapson were trying to remove the fuse it stuck. Baisden took a fuse frame and tried to remove it. In doing so his thumb barely touched the high-voltage wire, and in an instant he fell dead against Rapson.

A Careful Workman.

The dead man was 37 years old, and was generally regarded as one of the most careful men in the business. He had a thorough knowledge of electrical matters, having been manager of the St. Thomas street railway for some years, and taken part in the electrical work in connection with the Detroit tunnel. Later he went with the Pere Marquette, and last February was appointed chief electrician for the Lake Erie Company.

He only came back to work a few days ago after meeting with an accident at Lambeth when his foot was run over by one of the large rolls on which copper wire is coiled.

Mr. Baisden came from Sheddin, besides his wife, he leaves one son, aged 17 years. He was a very prominent Oddfellow.

Listowel Youth Was Badly Burned

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Listowel, Aug. 23.—An explosion of gasolene in the basement of F. S. Howes' barber shop resulted in Roy Bryant being so badly burned that he may not recover.

The young fellow lighted the gasolene hot water heater, came upstairs, later went down again to see how it was burning, found it out, and apparently struck a match to light it again, when the explosion occurred, setting his clothing on fire, and filling the cellar with a dense smoke.

The lad rushed for the stairway, and his head was just level with the upper floor when the pain caused him to fall back. Mr. Howe grasped him, however, pulled some of the burning clothes off, and managed to get the fire out, but not before the boy was frightfully burned. Drs. Nicol and Livingstone were at once summoned, and after giving treatment to relieve the pain ordered the boy removed to Mr. Howe's home, his parents both being dead.

Farmers Are Still Clamoring for Help

Immigration to London has practically ceased for this year. A few come in every week, but the numbers are dropping off, but find it hard to get men recently arrived. The men seem to prefer to remain in the city, although the farmers are offering higher wages now than they have for some time. Mr. John Riggs has a waiting list of nearly 100 farmers who are asking for help to bring in the crops. Many of them are willing to employ a man for a year if they can get one.

Cousins Are Going As Missionaries

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Kincardine, Aug. 23.—Miss Margaret H. Brown, daughter of P. J. Brown, of Tiverton, left yesterday for Honan, China, where she will work as a missionary in the Presbyterian Church.

She was met at Palmerston by her cousin, Miss Margaret Walks, of Paisley, who is also going to the mission field. Upon reaching Hong Kong they will journey 800 miles up the Yang Tso Kiang River, and then go a two days trip into the interior to Hevey, where they will be stationed.

Miss Brown has ever since she was a little girl wished to be a missionary. For the past seven years she has been teaching school, as women under 25 years of age are not allowed to go to China as missionaries.

School Children Like Gardening

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Wyoming, Ont., Aug. 23.—The several garden plots in connection with the rural schools in this locality are presenting an attractive appearance this summer. The occasional rains during the midsummer have given them the required growth, while a remarkable absence of weeds is noticeable, which speaks well for the interest of the children even during play time.

That this is an excellent method of encouraging agricultural pursuits is the general belief of those who watch the progress made where the school plots are organized, and an additional link between teacher and scholars.

LONDON, THURSDAY, AUG. 28.

A BATTLE FOR CANADA.

It is said that Mr. Arthur Hawkes, the leader of the British-born propaganda, and Mr. John A. Cooper, editor of the Canadian Courier, will stump Ontario this autumn in opposition to the policy of naval construction.

Mr. Hawkes in his paper, the Canadian and British News, and Mr. Cooper in the Courier, have consistently championed the cause of the Canadian navy, discarded by its erstwhile advocates, who rule at Ottawa. As one who professed to see danger to British unity in the reciprocity agreement, Mr. Hawkes cannot be stigmatized by Conservatives as a separatist. No doubt in his coming meetings he will address himself particularly to the British-born, who listened to him not wisely but too well in 1911. At that time he was hailed as a true prophet by the whole Conservative party. They owe him too much to repudiate him now. He bears their own brand of loyalty.

Mr. Hawkes states the situation precisely when he says the old battle of autonomy against centralized government is being fought over again. Canadians who thought that question had been settled forever over-rated the patriotism of many of their fellow-countrymen. Four years ago they could not have dreamed that the leaders of a great party, then proclaiming the doctrine of Canadian self-reliance in matters of naval defence, would today be seeking to drive Canada into the helot role of tribute-payer, and degrading Canadian manhood and Canadian nationhood.

Mr. Hawke will perform a service to Canada and to the Empire if he can make some of his admirers and followers of two years ago see the naval situation in its true light. The issue is the most serious one raised in Canada in many years. The centralizers cannot win permanently because a united empire could not survive their success. The fight against the policy of contribution is a fight for the maintenance of imperial unity.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

The chief Conservative organ in Toronto has a very solemn article condemning the dismissal of members of the civil service for political reasons, and strongly advocating permanency in office. It is very good reading. Here is an extract:

"Civil servants who do their work faithfully and who consistently abstain from politics should be absolutely sure of their positions. The hunting of such public employees from office to make room for partisans of either party must always cause distress to decent people. Often 'tragedy' is not too strong a word to describe the situation of men thus displaced late in life. Their financial calculations as to provision for their old age are overturned, and the loss of their posts perhaps means an insufficient livelihood for the rest of their days."

Coming from a strong supporter of the present Government this sounds rather amusing. We have no fault to find with the language itself, but when we note the source we can only think of the old adage about Satan renouncing sin. No one more strongly denounced the evils of the patronage system than Mr. Borden—when he was in Opposition. No government has sinned more outrageously in this connection than the one of which Mr. Borden is the nominal head. We do not suppose he has dismissed many himself, for the reason that there are probably not more than a dozen or so in his department. But his ministers have been doing it with a thoroughness that must be very gratifying to office-seekers. The Minister of Customs and the Postmaster-General especially have acquired an unenviable notoriety in this respect. And Mr. Borden has either changed the views he professed when in Opposition, or else he has not control of his cabinet. The latter alternative is probably the worse of the two.

The Liberal Government was the first in Canada to take any legislative action looking towards the removal of the civil service from the evil influences of the spoils system. It placed the Ottawa service under a commission which was to have complete charge of appointments, and dismissals. It provided for a plan for promotion according to merit. It banished the old system of dismissals for partisan purposes. To reorganize the whole service was no easy matter, and the Government did not claim that it could be all done in a moment. But it started with that part of the service immediately under the eye of the minister, and promised to extend its reform to the outside service as soon as the system could be brought into full operation. Its successor has done nothing yet, except dismiss officials. When it has been dismissed out of the service, it will be ready to adopt some plan which will insure the permanence of its own appointees. After which it will, doubtless, become very virtuous. And the next Liberal Government will follow the Liberal custom, and keep all the Conservative office-holders in their places. Which is good morals, but questionable politics, from a Conservative point of view.

IF LAURIER HAD DONE IT.

The bilingual postcard is the latest compliment to the Nationalists. The printing of a few French words on a postcard will not threaten Anglo-Saxon supremacy in this country, but if the Laurier Government had done this what a howl would have been raised from the Atlantic to the Pacific!

The Conservative press in the English-speaking provinces would have shrieked over this fresh assertion of French domination. Twelfth of July oratory would have had a new access of warmth and fervor. As an electioneering asset it would have been worth almost as much as the ne temere decree.

There will be no murmur from Ontario Conservatives. They are so tamed that they will eat out of the hands of Pelletier, Nantel and company.

SAVING LIFE AND LIMB.

There seems to be a general awakening in Canada to the ravages of life and property by railway accidents of one sort and another. Collisions, derailments, level crossing tragedies, injuries to employees, have been too numerous by far and compare unfavorably with conditions in some European countries. The Grand Trunk Railway is rousing itself to a systematic effort for improvement in this regard.

Mr. George Bradshaw has been engaged as a "safety engineer," whose duty will be to inspect the lines, terminals and shops, and to confer with the various officers on matters pertaining to the safety of the travelling public and employees. He will hold "safety meetings" at all important centres of the system, at which practical instruction will be given to employees in all departments. The lectures will be illustrated with stereoscopic views of safe and unsafe conditions. Thus the principles will be drilled in. An official circular has been issued calling the attention of officers and employees to the "great importance of an organization for the prevention of injuries and damage to property." Committees will be organized in all divisions, terminals and important shops, to look after the maintenance of safe conditions and make improvements.

The Grand Trunk is following the example of some American lines which have been moved to such action by the shocking loss of life and limb of late years in the United States. Good results have been shown there and the Grand Trunk's vigorous management expects equally good results from its own effort. Public commendation is richly deserved by this departure in Canadian railroading. While our Ontario law delays to do justice to the workmen of dangerous trades, this great corporation takes upon itself to save life and property for both employee and patron so far as possible. It is to be hoped that the work will be well done. The "safety engineer" is cordially invited to look over the crossing conditions in London and consider the fatalities which have occurred here and elsewhere from the same cause.

Those cheers for Thaw show that he is not the only paranoiac in Sherbrooke, Quebec.

The truce proclaimed by Mrs. Pankhurst seems to indicate that the cat and mouse bill has ended in a triumph for the cat.

Yuan Shih Kai is arresting and beheading members of Parliament. Whether he is a Robespierre or a Napoleon remains to be seen.

It is now disclosed that Britain wishes to include Germany in an Anglo-German-Japanese alliance, but Japan objected. The Borden Government must be thankful. Its naval policy, which stands on a wooden leg, would have been deprived of even that artificial prop.

Our local contemporary pretends that the letters signed "Taxpayer" were written by someone identified with the Advertiser. "Taxpayer" has no association with this journal in any capacity, directly or indirectly. Our contemporary cannot answer him, so it abuses him.

Jack Johnson, accused of white slavery, is being nightly cheered in London music halls, and Thaw has been given an ovation in Sherbrooke, Que. The United States cannot be proud of these specimens of American citizenship, but neither have Britain and Canada cause for pride in the hospitality afforded them.

THE BATHYANY BLACK PEARL.

[Pall Mall Gazette.]
Pearl stories being the order of the day, one may recall the story of the precious black pearl which Count Louis Bathynany, the Hungarian revolutionist, had in his scarf-pin. Sentenced to death for his part in the rising of 1849, he gave the scarf-pin to the valet who attended him in prison. The valet bequeathed it to his son, and the son decided to sell it. It was taken to Budapest to be valued, and there exhibited in a jeweler's shop window. Crowds assembled to stare at it, and the suspicions of the Austrian police were aroused. They instituted a rigorous inquiry, and discovered, to their amazement, that the pearl had been stolen from the crown of England 150 years before. The British Government bought it back; but no one has been able to discover by what means it had passed into the possession of the Bathynany family.

THE PERIL OF EASE.

Are you sheltered, curled up and content by the world's warm fire?
Then I say your soul is in danger.
The sons of the light, they are down
With God in the mire—
God in the manger.

The old-time heroes you honor, whose banners you bear,
The whole world no longer prohibits.
But if you peer into the past you will find them there—
Swinging from gibbets.

So rouse from your perilous ease to your sword and your shield.
Your ease is the case of the cattle.
Hark, hark, where the bugles are calling!
Out to some field—
Out to some battle!

Not clamor nor the buzzing of the crowd,
Bridges, beset the lonely way you took;
The mountain path, the laurel-shelter'd nook,
The upland peak earth-hidden in a cloud.
The skyey places—here your spirit proud
Could meet its peers, the lowland rout forsook:
Here were your palimpsest and singing book,
Here scope and silence, singing-robe and shroud.
Let England learn of thee her ancient way.

Long time forgot; the glory of the swift
Is swift, not acclaim, and to the strong
The joy of battle's need. Thy song
Will call no clearer, nor less surely fit
Our hearts to Beauty for thy crown of bay.

HIS LATER DECISION.

[Chicago Tribune.]
"Huggins, didn't you tell me you were going to resign your job as travelling man for Spotsch & Co. next January?"
"I think I did. Snoodle, but I've just had a confidential talk with the boss himself and I find—er—I'm going to resign next Saturday."

A TERRIBLE PROSPECT.

Dr. Olive Lynn, of Colorado Springs, says: "If the woman of today wants to be beautiful, it's back to the old days of the freezing cold bedroom, the chilly sheets and the warming pan," she says. "It's back to the broom and the rolling pin and the breadboard, if she wants firm, round, white arms; to the wash tub and the mop and the task of making beds, if she wants small waist and hips; to the clothesline and the cook stove for full chest and gracefully rounded shoulders; to washing windows and weeding the garden for grace and freedom of movement."

INCREASED FREIGHT RATES
MAY HURT FOREIGN TRADE

Canadian Millers Find Recently
Imposed Schedule Highly Objectionable.

[Canadian Press.]

Winnipeg, Aug. 28.—According to Hodley Shaw, managing director of the Maple Leaf Milling Company, Canadian millers could make the domestic consumer pay the increased freight rates on flour, recently authorized by the railway commission. Nevertheless the increase is highly objectionable to millers, from the bad influence they expect it to have on foreign trade.

"I do not know just what the increases are," said Mr. Shaw. "Probably they affect only the Intercolonial. But a general increase in flour rates would hit us hard. We might shift it on to the Canadian consumer, but that wouldn't help our foreign business. It would affect us badly if there were not proportionate increase in rates on grain."

"What the miller is closely concerned about is that freight rates on flour should be kept on a par with those of grain, so the milling of grain in this country will be encouraged."

Mr. Shaw has just finished a tour of the entire west. He says the crop this year is a one average. The wheat will pay farmers much better than last year's crop did. Wheat between Calgary and Winnipeg is better than half cut. The crop was easy on to handle, the straw being short. "The quality of the wheat is generally yields well. From the farmers' point of view the crop is excellent, for the quality is better than last year by a good deal," said he.

Famous Pictures
For London's FairArt Building Will Be a Centre of Attraction This Fall.

The art building at the Western Fair this year promises to be of unusual interest. Mr. W. H. Abbott has just returned from Detroit and has succeeded in securing the loan of many very famous pictures, "The Return from the Pastures," by Howe, and "The Vespers," by Gari Machers. These two pictures will be well worth the price of admission to the exhibition. They are from the Detroit Museum of Art.

In addition to these, a number of leading artists of Canada, and also some American artists are sending pictures for exhibition purposes only, while a large entry is being made for professional and amateur work for competition. This will make the art building a centre of attraction for the exhibition this year. Exhibitions close Sept. 4, and pictures should be in their places on Friday, Sept. 5. All information from the secretary, Dominion Savings Building, London.

Sudden Death of

Mrs. W. F. Newton, wife of the manager of the Merchants' Bank at Gladstone, Manitoba, died suddenly there on Wednesday. Mrs. Newton at one time lived in London. Only a brief telegram of her death was received this morning by Mr. W. F. Newton, of John Marshall & Co., who is a cousin of Mr. Newton. The telegram stated that the remains would be brought to London for interment, but gave no further particulars of her death. She had been married only thirteen months.

BIGGEST OCEAN LINER

For three-quarters of an hour they fought the fire with only the Imperator's own apparatus. Then, despairing of success, the Hoboken fire department was notified and a general alarm was sounded.

Two Were Cut Off.

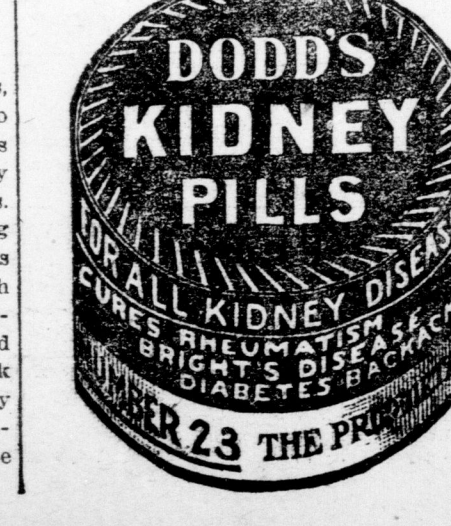

In the first sharp skirmish with the flames Second Officer Gobrecht and Seaman Otto Stumpf, caught in the withering breath of a belch of flame, were cut off from the door by which they had entered. Their companions were driven back to open air. Although they stormed the flames again and again the wall of smoke kept them from rescuing Gobrecht and Stumpf. When the fire was checked their bodies were found and taken ashore.

Gobrecht and Stumpf, like the rest of the fire-fighting force, were equipped with smoke masks and ropes, which served as guide lines.

Badly Damaged.

The whisp of smoke curling into the second cabin when the flames were first discovered, had by this time grown to a cloud. Through this cloud the Hoboken firemen rushed. The dining saloon of the second cabin suffered the greatest damage from smoke. The handsome appointments of the saloon were a wreck when the smoke cleared away.

According to hasty estimate, was greater than that to the provision room and hold, although only careful examination could reveal the extent to which the vessel had suffered. It was said that the Imperator's sailing tomorrow might have to be postponed. She arrived here yesterday.

Strike Not Blamed.

One thousand longshoremen, employed by the Hamburg-American Line, the Imperator's owners, went on strike 48 hours before the vessel's arrival. Their places were filled by men from Brooklyn docks, and the strikers were told that they would not be taken back. Officers of the line said, however, that they believed the strike was in no way connected with the fire. Somebody's carelessness they thought had been responsible.

The Imperator has suffered several mishaps, more or less serious, since her launching May 23, 1912. Her maiden trip was postponed from month to month, first because she ran aground while on her way to Hamburg and then because of trouble with her turbines. A benzine explosion occurred aboard the vessel April 24, which caused the death of two men and serious injury to six others.

Fancy "Weskits" for Women

Regular Men's Vests, Only of Brilliant Hue, Are To Be Added to Feminine Wardrobes—And Rings on Their Forefingers, Too!

The prevalence of black for tailored suits will drive the woman who loves color to fancy waist coats or vests. These will be ultra mannish in shape, but they will be made of all sorts of materials and colors, much too flamboyant for mere man. With the new waist coats women will wear the watch chain stretched across the front, with presumably a watch in one pocket and a latch key in the other. The gown pictured is of black chiffon broadcloth, with a tan silk ratine vest.

You will notice that the model is wearing one of the new forefinger rings. This "old fashion" is rapidly becoming as much of a craze as was the bracelet watch this summer.

PROBLEMS OF THE FAIR SEX SOLVED BY CYNTHIA GREY

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.]

Dill Pickle Recipe.

Dear Miss Grey—Please put in your ladies' column the addresses of Sir Thomas Lipton and Lord Strathcona, and oblige; a recipe for dill pickles not to be put in brine—just in the vinegar; also the best food and medicine for a person with very poor blood, and what not to eat, and oblige.

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.

A.—1. Sir Thomas Lipton, Osidge, Southgate, Middlesex, England. Lord Strathcona, Canadian High Commissioner, Victoria Chambers, London, England.

2. I think this recipe will answer nicely: Take three cups vinegar, 1 cup water and two tablespoons salt. Pick cucumbers fresh from the vine, wash, pack in jar, using alternate layers of dill and pickles until the jar is full. Have the vinegar and water boiling and pour over the pickles.

3. Sorry, but we cannot answer medical queries in this department. You should consult a doctor.

I owe an Old Subscriber an apology for keeping her waiting, but her letter when it reached my desk was written on a very small piece of note-paper. Owing to its diminutive size this got misplaced in some manner, and has just come to light now.

Does Anyone Know?

Dear Miss Grey: Can you tell me where I can secure the song, part of the chorus is:

For I want to fight the foe
Once again before I go,
And stand beneath the dear old flag.
Yours sincerely,

THE WOULD-BE WARRIOR.

A.—The chorus is new to me. Can any reader supply the remainder of it, or tell our correspondent where the song may be obtained?

Ontario's Largest Cities.

Dear Miss Grey—Please publish in your column the names and populations of the five largest cities in Ontario and oblige.

ARGUMENT.
A.—In order they are as follows: Toronto, 375,238; Ottawa, 87,023; Hamilton, 81,969; London, 50,000; Brantford, 23,132. The figures given are as nearly correct as it is possible to obtain at short notice.

More Wedding Queries.

Dear Miss Grey: Some time ago, I noticed in your column that guests forming a house party were provided with conveyances by the bride's parents to go to a church wedding.

Kindly let me know as soon as possible through your paper if what you meant by house party was guests from out of town who were stopping at the bride's home, or did you mean the guests who were invited to the reception at the bride's home?

2. How many days before the wedding should you send the present?

Books For School.

The stores that deal in school supplies are busy centres these days trying to fill the wants of scores of youngsters who cluster in a continuous stream around the counters which contain scribbled pencils, erasers and the like. "Give me three of them red pencils and a couple of two-fer-five scribbled pencils," comes from one bright-looking boy.

"Gee, Bill, I'm getting pencils just like yours, only mine's blue," says another.

"Oh, well, you're a Tory, anyway. Say, these glass inkwells are swell. Wish I had ten cents more."

"See, mamma! Do you see one of these sweet little pencil sharpeners," pleads a girl of ten years of so.

And thus it goes on all day long—the London kiddies are preparing for the opening of school.

How many children, out of the thousands that attend the public schools of this city, do you suppose, are pleased at the prospect of recommencing classwork? How many, do you think, would rejoice to have their midsummer vacation prolonged?

Holidays vs. Classes.

These were questions that arose in the minds of two people interested in education in this city, and as an experiment a number of boys and girls were asked their feelings regarding the opening of school. Out of fourteen children questioned, eight were eager to begin school days once more, four were doubtful about it, and two, a girl and a boy, frankly stated that they preferred holidays. The ages of these children ranged from 9 years to 13.

One small girl said she liked school "only for the 'rithmetic, and Timmy Smith, who pulled her hair, when the teacher wasn't looking." Let us hope for her sake that the 'rithmetic won't seem so difficult this term, and that Timmy Smith has mended his ways.

Years of 11 years rejoiced in the opening of school because she "didn't have to wash the dishes when holidays were over."

But neither likes nor dislikes, fears nor tears, can postpone the day of opening, and as has been the case for hundreds of terms in the past, the first day will witness all assembled for the autumn work, bright little maidens, with new ribbons on their smooth pigtails, and sturdy urchins wriggling uncomfortably in the unaccustomed restraint of shoes and stockings.

And the first day will not be without its touch of pain to some. There is Tommy Jones, who "falled his exam" this year. He has the sorrow of seeing this year, while he is left behind with a "bunch of kids," as he despondently terms them. The poor Tommies! Their term is bound to be a number of them in sympathy to the boys and girls who did not "pass." With renewed efforts and patience, may this term bring to them the best of success.

Some "Don'ts" For All.

An exchange gives voice to some excellent "Don'ts," which any of us might take to heart and endeavor to express in our individual lives. They are: Don't laugh at your idea of a good time is just noise. Leave that method of mirth to boys under ten. Don't look with a superior air at those who have neither read nor heard of the books published yesterday. The latest books are not the best, and so many are worthless that it is a sign of a cheap intellect to find satisfaction in them, when so many of our good books lie unread on the shelves.

Don't preface your remarks with "As Homer says," "According to Emerson," etc. It is both priggish and stilted.

Don't be humble before fine raiment and scornful before raiment that is plain. This is the first and last proof of the snob.

Don't think that excessive politeness when a guest in the home of a friend gives you the privilege of criticising your entertainment after it is over.

KATHERINE LESLIE'S HOME CHAT

The Young Person's Tenth Birthday and Her Gifts.

A silver vanity box on a chain containing a mirror and powder puff seems a very unsuitable birthday present for a little girl of nine years, yet such was the gift presented to a child I know. What can you expect from a girl who is thus early initiated into the ways of the mundane, and who learns at ten to powder her face and consult a mirror dangling from her neck? O, these indiscreet gifts! But it is not always easy to choose presents for children. Children nowadays have so much, their parents seem to lavish everything upon them with such profusion that they become quite blasé and critical, and small gifts that would have enraptured the child of twenty years ago, is despised by the modern young person of ten years of age.

But there are still dolls, thank heaven, and even a ten-year-old young person has not yet been able to rid herself of an ancestral love for dolls. And then there are hair ribbons and beads—for vanity and personal adornment begin almost with birth in girls—and a small parasol will fill the heart of any little girl with joy. She takes kindly to a fan, too, for coquetry begins early, and silk stockings for her first party make a sure appeal. Books are not so acceptable presents if the young person is a reader, but no sentimental books about girls who convert and bring up their parents in the way they should go, if you please! A cup and saucer of pretty china, good in shape and in color, for by such things is the taste formed, often delights a young person of ten, and a little work bag, or "party" bag, to carry my slippers in, Aunt Kate, is not an unacceptable gift. A small butterfly pin in lovely Norwegian enamel was received with rapture, and a "Blue Bird" pin recalled a perfect day when the young person saw that the best of fairy parables, by the great religious poet. But a cloud lay over the brow of the young person. She turned over all her gifts gladly, but there was a reserve in her. "Wouldn't you have had, child?" asked her aunt. "O, yes—these are all lovely, but I did want a pretty blue motor veil!" O, the modern young person! Is there anything that at ten years she does not need or want? My one surprise was that it was not a motor cape, and should never be allowed to touch the liquid.

It is a great mistake to allow the liquid of germs enter, there. After a few days raise the cotton and note the condition of the "head" on the liquid. It should become thick and have a dark appearance. As soon as the liquid becomes comparatively quiet, it will be found fairly bright and limpid. Under ordinary conditions some time is required before a good product can be made. When so much vinegar is required and strained and the "mother-of-vinegar" left for next season.

Making Good Vinegar

Every housekeeper should know the art of making vinegar.

Applies that are picked up from the ground are usually dirty, and should be thoroughly washed before being placed in the cider mill.

Where one has no mill, the fruit can be pulsed by hand with wooden mauls in a wooden trough. The juice can be extracted very effectively by this method, and where only enough vinegar is wanted for home use it is not a difficult matter to secure it in this way.

The best receptacles in which to put the cider are molasses kegs or whiskey barrels, preferably those which have held vinegar previously, since fermentation commences sooner when the fermenting organism is present than when it must find its way into the liquid from outside sources.

"Mother's Necessary." The common name for this organism is "mother-of-vinegar," which in the course of its life processes brings about a somewhat complicated change of the sugar in the apple juice to acetic acid, which is the sour principle in vinegar.

In order to make a good grade of vinegar two things are very essential during the process of fermentation. First, the air must have free access to the liquid to support the organism. Second, the temperature must be favorable for the growth of the fermenting agent. If possible, the barrels or kegs should be placed in a room where the temperature will be fairly constant at 70 to 75 degrees, placed on their sides in order to give more surface to the atmosphere, and filled with juice to within six or eight inches of the bung.

Care Necessary. The hole should be carefully covered with clean cotton, so as to exclude the entrance of germs and vermin. This cover really permits the gases to escape, and should never be allowed to touch the liquid.

Let the long contention cease! Geese are swans and swans are geese. Let them have it, how they will! Thou art tired; best be still!

They out-talk'd thee, hiss'd thee, tore thee; Better men fared thus before thee: First their ringing shot and pass'd Hotly charged—and broke at last.

Charge once more and then be dumb! Let the victors, when they come, When the force of folly falls, Find thy body by the wall.

—Matthew Arnold.

Picnic at Springbank.—The Golden Link Circle of King's Daughters and the Women's Auxiliary of St. George's Anglican Church, West London, held their annual joint picnic yesterday afternoon at Springbank.

AS TOLD BY AUNT GERTIE.

Now Pinkel loved the daughter of the king, but he had never hoped to be able to win her. This was a wonderful opportunity for him, and he made up his mind to get the prize offered him, or die in the attempt.

He knew that the old crone would be looking for him this time. He believed that there would be very little chance of his getting the golden shawl without being hurt, and perhaps killed.

He will go, whatever happens, Pinkel thought, pushing his little boat off into the lake.

The brothers were delighted, for they were sure Pinkel would be trapped this time.

After thinking and thinking what would be the best way to do, Pinkel decided on a strange plan. To carry this out, he bound a big bag around himself, under his clothes. Then he started out, going boldly onto the island and right up to the door of the hut.

"That you?" called the old crone, when she saw Pinkel after off.

"Yes, mother, I have come," answered Pinkel very bravely and gaily.

"Well, my dear boy, you got away from me twice. This time I am not going to let you get out of my power. You have stolen my golden lantern, and my goat with the golden horns. Now I shall make you pay for them."

She took a large knife from off the top shelf and prepared to make a quick ending of poor Pinkel.

Instead of being frightened to pieces, he lived happily ever afterward.

Jellied Vegetables.—Soak one tablespoonful of granulated gelatin in one-fourth cupful of cold water, and dissolve in one cupful of boiling water; then add one-fourth cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and one teaspoonful of salt. Strain, cool, and when mixture begins to thicken add one and three-fourths cupful of prepared vegetables. Turn into a ring mold and chill thoroughly. Remove from mold, arrange around thin slices of cold cooked meat, preferably roast lamb, fill centre with salad cream and garnish with watercress. For the vegetables, use one-half cupful of finely-shredded white cabbage, one-half cupful of cold baked peas, one-half cupful of small cucumber cubes, and one-fourth cupful of tiny cubes of cold cooked beef.

Pickled Walnuts.—Pick the young walnuts while tender enough to be pierced with a needle. Lay them in a strong brine and keep in this for three days; drain the nuts and cover with cold water and leave them in this for six hours. Scald a gallon of vinegar into which have been stirred one cup sugar, two tablespoons each of whole peppers and cloves, one tablespoon allspice and eight blades mace. Boil for ten minutes and pour the scalding vinegar over the nuts, which should have been put in a stone crock. Leave them alone for three days; drain off the vinegar, bring it again to a boil, pour it back on the nuts and cover the jar and put in a cool place. The nuts will have to ripen for at least six weeks.

Helps for the Home Cooks

When pouring hot fat into a basin add to it an equal quantity of boiling water. This will make any pieces of meat and gristle in the fat sink to the bottom, and will prevent this way will always turn out beautifully.

When making any kind of boiled suet puddings, put a piece of well-greased grease-proof paper over the top before laying on the cloth from becoming greasy, and it is quite easy to wash.

First chop the parsley very finely, then screw it up in the corner of a clean cloth, hold it for a few seconds under the cold water tap, and squeeze it as tightly as possible. Then shake it out of the cloth and it will fall like a green powder. Unless it is done in this way the parsley will be clogged together in little lumps.

When cutting jelly squares, use a pair of perfectly clean scissors dipped in cold water. The jelly can then be cut into much smaller pieces than when a knife is used, and dissolves quicker.

When making a pie, the juice from the fruit very often soaks through the undercrust, and spoils the appearance of it. This can be prevented by brushing the crust over with the white of an egg.

When making baked custard pour boiling milk on to the beaten eggs. It will then bake beautifully firm.

When butter goes rancid, try the following plan: Take as much butter as you are likely to require, and put it to soak for a couple of hours in cold water to which a good pinch of carbonate of soda has been added. Then take it out and work up into a pat. You will find that the rancid taste has quite disappeared and the butter is as good as ever.

When making sponge cakes or sandwiches it is a good plan to put a tablespoonful of water with the chill off it in the cake mixture directly after pouring in the eggs. This makes it beautifully light and spongy.

Never turn out boiled puddings, the moment they are taken from the saucepan. They are very liable to break if this is done. Let them stand for a few minutes until some of the steam has evaporated and you will find that they will turn out easily.

When poaching eggs try adding a teaspoonful of vinegar to the water. This helps to set the white and keeps it from spreading.

The stalks may be very quickly removed from currants by well flouring the hands and rubbing the currants between them. This takes up far less time than picking each one separately and is just as effective.

When cream is only slightly sour, it can be made quite delicious to serve with puddings, etc., in the following way: Put it into a basin with the juice of a lemon and a good tablespoonful of sugar and whip it. This increases the quantity and the sour flavor cannot be detected.

Beauty in the Kitchen

Has it ever occurred to you that for the same amount of money an attractive kitchen can be had for less than an unattractive kitchen can be made? This part of the house, where the housewife spends much of her time, receives little consideration, and is often the ugliest part of the house.

The walls of the kitchen can be painted with a yellow or light blue; they can be finished in wash paint, that is, sanitary and requires very little effort to keep clean. The woodwork can be white or it may be a darker shade of yellow, both of which take very little time to keep clean. The shelves may be covered with white enamel, or oilcloth, neatly put on with brass-headed nails.

If the closet room is limited, the saucepans may hang from brass hooks on the walls, ranging from the smallest to the largest sizes. A series of brass hooks is placed over the sink like those at the sides of the shelves, and on these are hung different sizes of enamel spoons, dippers and measures; the dishpan and drainer are kept out of sight in the sink closet.

If the kitchen is finished in blue, which is very effective, a roller in white wash with a broad blue border may be placed on the door leading to the pantry. Dutch curtains of the blue and white crash on brass rods are placed at the windows.

The kitchen table, when not in use, also has a blue and white crash cloth. Underneath one of the windows two pine shelves may be placed and painted to match the rest of the room. They hold the cook books, which are covered with removable covers of the blue and white crash.

Window boxes can be fitted for the kitchen windows, one to hold parsley, which is most luxuriant, another to contain sweet alyssum, which blooms late in the spring, and at a third window, a plant board shelf may be placed where a hanging basket, book or magazine may be laid. A large rocking chair, standing at this window, affords a restful place for odd minutes, especially on busy days.

FOR MOTORING.

There is no adjunct more conducive to real comfort when driving in a motor, than a feather pillow to tuck up at one's back, or to be used as a foot-rest. Three or four such pillows are a wonderful addition to any machine. They should be incased in washable covers made of flannel or heavy linen in dark colors. The covers should be held in place by means of buttons and buttonholes so that they can easily be removed and laundered.

PROSPECTS FOR GAME TODAY
ARE NOT VERY FAVORABLEOrizzling Rain Which Started Early This Morning May Prevent Ottawa-London Game—Double Header Saturday
If Game Is Called Off.

[BY JINX.]

Well, the Senators are here, and if the weather man will only put a stopper to the drizzling rain, which started in this morning, Babe Demaree and his hands will endeavor to even up with the Shammen for the treatment accorded them at Ottawa last week.

May Be Double Header Saturday.
The prospects for a game today were not very bright at noon, and at 11 o'clock Manager Demaree stated that if the game had to be called off owing to the moisture, a double-header will be played on Saturday. However, as the rain is not heavy, and the Tecumseh Park diamond dries quickly, the teams may be able to play if it clears up by 1 o'clock.

Senators Looked Scared.
The Senators arrived in town last evening and put up at a different hotel than the one they have heretofore stopped at in this city. The reason is that some of the London players stop at the latter place, and as there is a hostile feeling between the players of both clubs, trouble might have broken out had they been together. The Ottawa players went about the streets this morning in twos and threes and looked as though they were afraid they were going to be mobbed any moment.

Davis Will Be Here.
However, the feeling against the Senators locally is not as bad as all that, and outside of a wish to see them beaten London fans have no particular enmity against Shaughnessy and his men. One of the biggest Thursday crowds of the season should turn out today if the game is played. Unless J. Ira Davis and either Holly or Evans, the former a Toronto man and the latter from St. Thomas, will officiate, Cripple Day was to have gone to Peterboro this morning, but he missed his train and will not be able to officiate there this afternoon. He may attend the local game.

It is also stated that President Jimmy Fitzgerald is in town, although he was not seen around this morning.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I am pleased to see that my letter in The Advertiser of yesterday in relation to the London and Port Stanley Railway drew fire from the Free Press. Permit me to say, however, for the information of the editor of the latter journal that I am neither Mr. T. H. Pardon, nor any person connected with The Advertiser.

The Free Press is guilty of gross misrepresentation when it states that my proposal is to lease the L. and P. S. R. to a single railway company. What I did suggest was that the existing agreement under which the New York and Long Branch Railway is operated jointly by the steam railroad companies be taken as a model. Under this plan all the steam roads desiring running powers over the L. and P. S. R. would unite in a 99-year agreement with the city of London. This city would appoint the superintendent, who would have supreme authority to maintain the road in first-class condition, to direct the movement of trains over the line, and to fix such passenger and freight rates as would amply suffice to cover the expenses.

1. Wages of the superintendent and all his employees.
2. Maintenance of the line and rail-ways.
3. Fixed charges or rental.

These outlays would be guaranteed by the operating companies, and the rates on traffic would be such as would fully provide the necessary amount, the surplus to be returned to the operating companies pro rata on their traffic over the line.

I presume the chief difficulty would be in agreeing upon the fixed charges, which should be much more than they have been heretofore; but I have no doubt the steam lines would gladly agree to a liberal figure for the sake of securing the much-desired running rights to St. Thomas and Port Stanley.

With a competent superintendent in charge the worn-out old London and Port Stanley Railway would soon become equal in all respects to any railway on the continent, and the commercial interests of London would receive a "boost" such as they have never before known.

Now, let us see whether the Free Press will discuss this proposal on its merits, free from personalities and insinuations. Let it justify, if it can, its attempt to shut out the Canadian Northern Railway from entrance to London over the L. and P. S. R. tracks. Let it produce any evidence it can and let it produce any evidence it can procure that any steam railway is willing to operate steam trains over an electrified L. and P. S. R. line.

How Australian Boys
Treat Snake BitesCampaign of Education Has Good Results—India's Terrible Death Rate From Snakes

The British Australasian, in a long article, gives some interesting information about snakes. It appears that while 20,000 people a year die in India from snake-bite, only about ten a year die in Australia, though a very large number get bitten. The low death-rate in Australia is due to various causes. In the first place, the bite is usually received in the leg, which is protected to some extent by clothing, or on the hand. It is quite a usual thing for an Australian boy who puts his hand into a burrow or a hollow log in quest of a rabbit and pulls the hand forth with a venomous snake clinging to it—by no means an infrequent occurrence—immediately to take heroic measures. He chops off the bitten finger with a hatchet, which is almost always part of the equipment when boys are hunting rabbits, or g's one of his companions to do it for him. Failing this, he at any rate slashes the bitten finger vigorously with a knife to let the flow of blood carry away the venom, and ties a ligature tightly round his finger and round his arm, in order to check the return of the poisoned blood to the heart. In this he is carrying out the instructions which are posted by the Government of Victoria in every state school and on every railway station in the state.

On the school walls and station platforms are seen everywhere colored prints depicting some of the more venomous snakes, the two punctures of the poisonous reptile, the four punctures of the Earl Herbert, a Cincinnati recruit, caused a howl of joy among the Red players by asking Joe Tinker "which gate we players go in through at this ball park." Without even a grin, Joe pointed to a little gate labelled "Directors and Officials," and then a fat door-tender hurled Mr. Herbert forth into the dusty street.

"Almost as bad," said Frank Bancroft, "as the day Marty O'Toole joined the Reds, he was at Chicago, and when O'Toole asked which gate was to be used by the visiting players he was informed that everybody, players and all, had to pay. O'Toole bought a 25-cent ticket, and went into the bleachers. Then, as soon as the Reds came out for practice, he hopped over into the field to join his new pals, and a policeman was just dragging him away when I interfered and rescued him."

Ancient Order of Foresters
Give Many Advantages
As a Fraternal Society

Many people do not know that the Ancient Order of Foresters, now holding their 19th biennial session in this city, is the only legal fraternal society doing business under the 3½ per cent. reserve basis in contract policies, under Dominion act of incorporation.

It issues to the people policies like a line company, a straight life, or a pay life, or an endowment, according to a person's requirements. It has all the privileges of loans, cash surrenders, paid-up insurance and extended terms, with the advantage that, being on the fraternal basis, it carries with it the benefits of the lodge system, and every policyholder being a shareholder, the participant procures it at cost price.

It is a practical sick benefit society. It provides medical attendance and medicine. It gives $4 per week for 52 weeks, it gives $2 per week for 52 weeks, $100 insurance and $50 death of wife.

It gives a blanket protection for the home, for the husband, the wife, the boy and girl.

It is instituted on the broad principles of the brotherhood of man; no degrees, no creeds, color or nationality. Any man who has a good moral character and who is healthy when he joins is eligible for membership.

The porter's chance of a tip vanished with this information, but subsequently, upon relinquishing the bag, he was astonished to find himself the recipient of a shilling.

Momentarily surprised, he stared at

"Yes, sir—no, sir," stammered the porter, and then, recovering his self-control and closing his left eyelid, he said: "But one employee never splits an another!"

No Other Way

BY GORDON HOLMES.

Author of "A Mysterious Disappearance," "The House of Silence," Etc.

There could be no doubt of it, and the detective frowned at the nonsense he was indulging in. Mrs. Waverton, the French nurse, the servants at 44th street, Rice, who had been Waverton's valet for seven years, the family lawyer, with whom Waverton must have been in constant communication of late—none of these people had questioned his identity. Then, there remained Mrs. Delamar and Teale, intimate acquaintances of the last twelve months, whose fortunes were bound up so curiously with Waverton's that the notion had never entered his mind that the hero of so many wild escapades and the worn, tired man now nestling in a corner of the car was not one and the same person.

Steingall laughed softly to himself. "Guess it's a clear case of metamorphosis," he said. Then his brows wrinkled again, though he chuckled at some conceit which had occurred to him.

"At New York it was Waverton who showed the greater self-possession. Steingall was about to bid him good night, when the other caught his arm.

"By the way," he said, "are you taking a taxi?"

"Yes."

"Good! You shall drop me at my hotel. Thus do I revenge myself for being regarded as a suspicious person. I waste your day, smoke your cigars—by the way, let me have another—and use your car. Do you always treat criminals in this lordly way, Inspector?"

"If they conduct themselves well, Mr. Waverton," and Steingall grinned at the humor of the situation.

Talking matters over with Clancy, he reverted to the singular character of Claude Waverton's present manners and past history.

"Summing him up while he slept in the train," he said, "I called it a case of metamorphosis. One uses such terms loosely. Can you tell me just what metamorphosis means?"

"Yes," chuckled Clancy. "It means exactly the opposite of what you think it means. The word you wanted was metempsychosis."

"Oh, was it? Then perhaps you will be good enough to carry the correction a stage further."

"Metempsychosis implies the passing of a man's soul after death into some other body."

"Excellent! Let's put that in our diary. The joke will explain itself when we watch the Commissioner's face while he reads it."

"Commissioners are unimaginative mortals, or they would not be chosen for the job," snapped Clancy. "It is my firm belief that when Waverton was hauled into the station, he was not a man, but a metamorphosis of the rocks at Palm Beach—probably they were metamorphic rocks, so you were 'right,' as children say—his soul quitted his body for a time, and some prowling spook jumped the claim. How else can you account for the change in the creature? A Frenchman named Ducloux has a theory—"

"Look here!" broke in Steingall, waving a fat hand impatiently. "This thing is getting on my nerves. We are being surfeited with wonders; but facts are uncommonly scarce. The Waverton divorce has no concern for us except in its bearings on the death of Kyrle, and there we have to depend on the diary, the doctor's analysis, and some cigarettes, either whole or in part. The clues are substantial enough in their way, and they are backed by a strong motive; but, somehow, I seem to feel a lot of blood pressing on my brain when I begin to construct theories from the material at command. Mrs. Delamar is a clever, cunning man, and I cannot bring myself to believe that she would deliberately build up evidence against herself. Then, she must still be pretty sure of marrying Waverton, notwithstanding the interview in the Waldorf-Astoria, or she would not have Teale in such determined strain. Yet we have Waverton himself saying 'I led to the Adlon-Palace, and for four days lived like a hermit, or as nearly resembling a hermit as the conditions of existence in a well-kept country house would permit. On the score of ill-health, he politely declined to receive the manager. The butler, the head gardener, or anyone who meant to discuss household affairs or business in any shape or form. He hardly realized the manifest concession made by the Rev. George W. Norton, local pastor of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in calling on him admitted that he happened to be his chief parishioner, or he might have endeavored to assure the worthy clergyman of his devotion from the servants in the house, and if he encountered an employee in his solitary wanderings through the park, he would have the man altogether, or, if that was impossible, acknowledge the salute and cheer 'Good-day, sir,' with a smile and nod and a quickened pace.

Within doors he lived mainly in the library, and his constant companion, whether inside the house or strolling about the domain, was an old hound that had hobbled into view when he chanced to pass the stables on the afternoon of his arrival.

"Hello, Bob!" he had cried joyously, and the dog ceased growling and lay down at him. In fact, Bob's hoarse yelps of delight brought out an apprehensive groom, who was manifestly surprised when the two went off together.

"Queer thing," said the man to Rice later, "old Bob isn't a 'silly' sort of beast, an' I thought he'd remember the boss pepperin' him with shot last time he was shot. I believe."

"What was that for?" demanded Rice, who was beginning to think that the Claude Waverton of former days, the evil dream, a fragment of a distorted imagination.

"Well, you see, Bob was a bit spoiled by one of the keepers who took 'im out, an' he flushed a flight of duck the first day he was tried. The second time he was let drive 'im, an' he's been lame ever since."

Odd enough, Waverton discovered the shot marks in Bob's rear hind leg next day, and asked Rice if he could say what had caused them.

"For once the valet was at a loss to frame an answer. 'I don't rightly know the facts, sir,' he stammered. 'The dog was shot, I believe.'

"I can see that for myself. Was it an accident?"

"Something of the kind, sir."

"Some clumsy brute blundered, I suppose. Find out from the head keeper—what's his name?"

"Blinks, sir."

"Ah, yes, old Blinks how it happened. Rice hoped that the thing would be forgotten, but Waverton questioned him again next morning, and Rice was compelled to hunt out the distressing information that Bob had been the victim of his master's annoyance.

Waverton did not look confused, nor try to laugh the incident away. His face took on that curiously stern look which was one of his new and rare characteristics. "Why didn't some man drop his gun and give me a licking," he said quietly. "I was a specimen of a tough in those days, Rice, and the other fellows in the line could not have been much better. Rice, having nothing to say, remained silent, and Bob was consoled for past injuries by half of a juicy kidney.

When in New York Waverton had purchased a typewriter. His right wrist was still so stiff and inflexible that he was unable to use a pen, and as he explained to Rice, and to Curtis, the lawyer, in a letter, it was easier to spell out his correspondence on the machine with his left hand than to draw it laboriously with the same untutored member. The cuts on his right hand and arm were healed, and the bruises had vanished; but he was acutely conscious at times of some damaged nerve or ligament at the junction of hand and wrist. Nothing could be done surgically, the doctors at Palm Beach had assured him. Time alone could cure, and time is a surgeon not to be hurried.

He soon gained surprising efficiency in his one-handed manipulation of the typewriter, and on Friday, the fourth day of residence at The Dene, he spent an hour after breakfast in writing a letter. In the first instance he made a rough draft, which he corrected, copied and burned. Then he addressed an envelope, and summoned Rice.

"Don't mail this in the letter-box," he said. "But take it yourself to the post-office."

MENTAL LIFE OF SCHOOL CHILDREN MOST IMPORTANT

Dr. Lee Says a Vigorous Mind Is the Greatest Source of Health.

Protection of Students Along Hygienic Lines Works Successfully in New York.

[Canadian Press.]

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 28.—The spiritual source of health was the text chosen by Dr. Joseph Lee, of Boston, for his address today to the delegates to the fourth International Congress on School Hygiene, now in session in this city. Dr. Lee is president of the Playground and Recreation Association of America. He said in part: "To the growing child a vigorous mental life is the greatest source of health, and a good teacher is the best hygienic prescription. It is true that the mental life of a child is largely a motor life; he lives and thinks largely in terms of muscular action. But the use of his muscles is important, not chiefly because it serves certain physiological ends, but because it is an expression of the soul. We make too much a fetish of air and exercise. We must have these, but they are not in the promotion of physical health, the only things. The mind life is even more important. Better a stuffy school room with zealous work than fresh air and mental flabbiness."

Smaller Classes. "Smaller classes are essential to the preservation of the teacher and to her really reading the child. When we learn to tell our children's health and education seriously we shall have the size of classes in our elementary schools. It will increase the cost 80 per cent, but the children's lives and health are worth it."

"To further free the teacher's time for the normal pupil, we must have special schools or classes not only for the blind, the deaf, the tuberculous, but for all requiring peculiar treatment, including the bright pupils, to whom the regular grades are an intellectual hobble, spoiling their natural gait."

Summer School. "I believe that pupils in the lowest grades, probably in the last three grades, should have the afternoon outdoors or in the kindergarten room, not wholly because of the benefits of the play and fresh air, but chiefly to avoid the demoralization of half-hearted work. Half-heartedness is a serious mental disease, worse almost than half-lungedness. Our schools, of all places in the world, should promote it. And a chief benefit of the afternoon out is that a few pupils may each afternoon be kept in and their real problems and difficulties discovered."

"We must have summer schools, because children grow all the year round, and because some could save repeating a grade by this means."

Conserve the Home. "The home must be conserved as a spiritual means of health, not as a mere boardinghouse. School feeding should be confined to sick children; and these should be fed in a way that is not supplemented by outside expert agencies."

"In speaking thus at length of the predominant importance of the spiritual and intellectual forces in the promotion and conservation of the child's health, I do not wish to be understood as placing a low estimate on school hygiene in the narrower and more customary sense. School hygiene is the effective form of race hygiene. To improve the race by other means than selection—which, indeed, is the most important—you must draw a line across somewhere and allow no curable defect to pass."

The Only Place. "Obviously the school is the only place where such a line can be drawn. It is the only place where everyone must pass. And it comes at an age when the maximum number of ways of remedy can be accomplished. We must not be contented in this matter until no child goes by without the best physical outfit that we know how to give."

"What are we waiting for that we do not do this now? People say 'go slow' about such things; but why should we go slower than we have to? Disease and disability do not intermit while we are waiting. Inaction, on our part, is in effect a decision against thousands of children, against their chance of health and usefulness."

Protecting Students. "There is no dormitory life in this institution. There are, therefore, no problems in dormitory hygiene or sanitation."

itation. The students in the collegiate department and the pupils in the preparatory department live at home in the various boroughs of Greater New York city. Their home conditions are, therefore, community affairs, and fall under the jurisdiction of the board of health and other divisions of the city government which bear upon community hygiene and sanitation.

"The entire organization of the department of hygiene has been developed primarily in the interest of student health intelligence and student health habits. For the accomplishment of these results the department has employed carefully planned lecture courses on hygiene; class and personal instruction in health habits; and in Dr. Thomas A. Storey, of New York, spoke about the protection of student health in the College of the City of New York. Dr. Storey said in part: "The protection of student health in the College of the City of New York is accomplished through the organized activities of the department of hygiene and by certain committees appointed by the president of the college. These committees are, 'the advisory committee on hygiene and sanitation,' and 'the committee on student health.' The professor of hygiene is chairman of each of these committees, both of which are advisory to the president."

No Dormitories. "The department of hygiene and instruction in personal hygiene."

A Fine Course. "The courses in hygiene required of the freshman and sophomore classes in the college department include a series of short lectures running through four terms; graded instruction in physical exercise and regular instruction in personal hygiene throughout the same period."

The individual instruction in hygiene is further accomplished by means of regular medical examinations applied to each individual student at three-year intervals in the academic or preparatory department, and throughout the first three years in the collegiate department.

All of this instruction emphasis is laid upon the individual. The lectures are organized with distinct reference to the health problems that arise in the daily lives of students living in a great city.

"The health habits taught are the simple, fundamental habits most essential to physiological efficiency, greater stress being laid upon the needs of the city boy. The individual instruction in personal hygiene is based upon information secured by means of thorough medical examinations of each individual student."

Hygiene Lectures. "The lectures in hygiene are made up of a series of sixteen short talks on 'The Causes of Disease'; a second series of sixteen short talks on 'Our Defences Against Disease'; and a third series of sixteen short talks on 'Our Common Diseases.'"

"Classroom instruction in health habits is accomplished through four terms of work in the exercising hall of the gymnasium. Here are taught habits of physical exercise; habits of personal cleanliness; the sanitation of the exercising hall, the locker room, and the swimming pool, as well as the objective hygiene of the individual, emphasized as matters of community importance, and each student taught his obligation to himself and to the community in which he lives, in his relation to his fellow students."

Swimming Viable. In this connection it may be noted that the summer pool serves as a sort of index to the standard of hygiene maintained by the student community using the pool. If the bacteriological analysis show evidence of human contamination, the fact is brought to the attention of the classes using the pool and the responsibility is placed upon them. With repeated careful instruction before entering the swimming pool; the subsequent bacteriological analysis show an improvement in the sanitation of the water.

Medical Examination. "The medical examinations which form the basis of instruction given the individual students concerning their hygienic needs cover the throat, heart, lungs, abdomen and genitalia. Wherever it is indicated, chemical and bacteriological examinations are made."

Students are given a departmental laboratory and employed the services of a competent man for the purpose of identifying disease carriers among the students and supplying the department with information on individual student concerned. It is planned within the coming year to utilize this laboratory service for the detection of typhoid carriers and diphtheria carriers in the student body.

Report Regularly. "All individual instruction which admits of being followed up is followed up. The individual student concerned is required to report to the department until his case is closed. Failure to report as directed may lose to the student his membership in the institution. The success of this instruction and its follow-up feature is demonstrated by the fact that less than one per cent of the cases followed up failed to report as directed."

About 86 per cent of them finally secured advice and treatment through the regular family advisers, while less than four per cent report to free clinics in the various hospitals of the city.

"The characteristics and striking features of the work in this department are: "1. Its practical application of the laws of hygiene to the needs of the individual; "2. Its instruction in community hygiene."

"3. Its successful follow-up system in the interest of individual instruction in personal hygiene."

Crushed to Death By Load of Gravel.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Leamington, Aug. 28.—Edward Kinsman, aged 9 years, son of Daniel Kinsman, of Mersea, was crushed to death under a load of gravel near his home yesterday. The boy and his father were driving home with gravel when they met a boy riding a bicycle.

In passing on the narrow road, the team took fright and turned into the deep ditch along the road. The Kinsman boy fell over the front of the wagon, and the whole weight of the wagon box full of gravel pinned him to the side of the ditch.

He was carried to his home on a stretcher, where he died two hours after the accident.

Mr. Kinsman was so greatly unnerved by the accident that he had to be held in his wagon while being driven home.

Found Dead Under St. Thomas Bridge

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 28.—The body of a man named George Schneider, of Pittsburg, Pa., was found last evening under the Pere Marquette bridge. It was undoubtedly a case of suicide. An empty carbolide acid bottle and a cup were found by the side of the body. Schneider was about 45 years of age, and came to the city on March 17 last. He worked for two months at Heard's factory. On the body were found $108.25 in cash and the address of his brother-in-law, George Stoffel, of Pittsburg. He is said to have been a married man, of very religious temperament, and a Bible student.

Ingersoll W. C. T. U. Elected Officers

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, Aug. 28.—At the annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, at the home of Mrs. E. Bowes, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. E. Bowes (re-elected); first vice-president, Mrs. (Rev.) Hill; second vice-president, Mrs. W. B. Nelles; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. P. Dunn; recording secretary, Mrs. G. W. Waters.

The announcement that "The Ingersoll Inn," this town's temperance house, will be open to the public in the course of a few days was received with much interest.

The developments since the passage of the local option bylaw have been followed with much interest, and a strong sentiment is behind the temperance hotel is evident from the success that has attended the launching of the project.

Many businessmen are subscribers to the movement, and it is believed that the venture will not only prove to be a profitable one to the promoters but that it will aid in making the hotel a commodious of the town. Very important improvements will be made to the interior of the house.

Chief Was Glad To Get Gun Back

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, Aug. 28.—A suitcase which ex-Constable Wright took with him on the occasion of his mysterious trip to Montreal some time ago, and which could not be found, has at last been returned to Chief Fysh. It contained a revolver, a police uniform and wearing apparel. Chief Fysh was particularly delighted to get the suitcase, as it contained a revolver that had been presented to him.

With favorable weather, the directors of the Ingersoll, North and West Oxford Agricultural Society are looking for a bumper crop of the grain to be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 16 and 17. The prize lists have been issued, and a big demand is indicative of keen interest.

Young Foreigner Robbed of $960

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Berlin, Aug. 27.—Nichan Hachduran, a young Armenian who has been employed here for a number of years, reported to the authorities that he had been robbed of $960 in life insurance money on board the steamer Laurentic last month. According to his story, he took passage at Montreal on July 7, and was bound for his home in Constantinople. On the second day of the voyage, he discovered that his money, which he had concealed in a steel cash box in his cabin, was gone. A stranger, giving his name as Williams, whom he took into his confidence, is blamed for the loss. Being a naturalized British subject, he succeeded in reaching the means from the Dominion immigration agent to return to Canada to search for the stranger, whom he believed left the boat at Quebec.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—The run at the Toronto stockyards yesterday totaled 37 cars, containing 1,533 cattle, 505 calves, 857 hogs and 992 sheep and lambs. Another medium run added further strength to the market today, and prices ranged from steady to firmer. The cattle market was quiet, but the being of supply just about adequate for the demand, with the result that all sales were good. Good butcher cattle were in demand, and all offerings sold quickly at from steady to firmer prices. Cows were also a good sale, and remaining. The exhibition continued, and the market was active, being firm, calves steady with the opening, and hogs remaining steady with the lower prices of closed. The market for butchers grades, as they have been holding firmer as the market has been steady, will probably remain about steady, there being very little likelihood of any increase in this market. Present rates continuing, there will be no decrease in sheep and lambs, while even a slight increase may be registered. Calves and hogs will probably be close at today's prevailing quotations. There will naturally be a small falling off in the poorer grades of cattle, the residue of the past markets, but as these will not be any indication of the proper tone of the market, their quotations will not be taken as being the prevailing prices. Wednesday's quotations were:

Export cattle, cwt., $5.50 to $6.50; Butcher cattle, choice, 6.25 to 6.40; Butcher cattle, medium, 5.40 to 5.80; Butcher cattle, common, 4.25 to 5.25; Butcher bulls, 3.50 to 5.50; Butcher cows, medium, 4.50 to 5.00; Butcher cows, common, 3.25 to 4.00; Stockers and feeders, 4.50 to 5.50; Feeding bulls, 5.00 to 5.50; Canners and cutters, 2.50 to 3.00; Calves, common, 4.50 to 7.50; Calves, extra choice, 8.00 to 9.00; Lambs, spring, 4.00 to 4.50; Lambs, common, 4.00 to 4.50; Doves, light, 4.50 to 5.25; Doves, heavy, 3.50 to 4.00; Bucks and culis, 3.00 to 3.50; Hogs, f. o. b., 9.85 to 9.95; Hogs, weighed off cars, 10.25 to 10.25.

MAKE INSPECTORS OF GARBAGE COLLECTORS

Suggestion of the Toronto M. H. O. Might Be Carried Out in London.

London is not the only place where the garbage problem, and incidentally the garbage department, might be said to be in the public eye, or to be more correct—the public nose. In Toronto there has been considerable agitation recently as to the use of covered tins for keeping all refuse for the garbage collectors. Previously any kind of receptacle was permissible, but recently a new ordinance was passed compelling all citizens to use covered cans.

Now complaints have been made that some of the good people of Hog Town are not using the cans. Dr. Hastings, M. H. O. of the Queen City, claims that nine-tenths of the population are using cans. He has a suggestion, however, that might fit in with the garbage inspector fiasco in London. This suggestion is that collectors be made inspectors, and that in the case of all persons who refuse to comply with the regulations, information will be laid by the collector-inspectors. As another way out of the difficulty he has suggested that the collectors be given to the collector to return to all yards garbage and refuse that has not been set out in accordance with the regulations of the department.

CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT.

STREET SPECTACLE OF SELLS-FOTO OF HIGHEST CLASS

Special Features of the Parade Entertain Thousands Along the Route.

And the Matinee Performance Shows Organization One of Best in the Business.

Tired businessmen turned wearily from their labors about 11 o'clock this morning and ambled over to the open window of their various offices to listen to the music and peek out at the parade. If the circus did not come to visit us once a year, it is really a lamentable what would become of gentlemen who spend seventeen hours out of every twenty-four stooping over desks and wading through the musty mazes of facts and figures.

But this was a day of respite for them, because the good old Sells-Foto Circus reached the city in the early morning hours and gave the time-honored parade exactly at the moment advertised. Nothing could have been more artistic than the costumes of the riders and the general color scheme of the wagons and accoutrements. Indeed, it would seem as if money and ingenuity had been exhausted in order to make the display thoroughly pleasing.

Special Features. Special features of the parade included the famous Devlin Zouaves, who executed many beautiful and intricate movements as they marched along. Hundreds of beautiful horses and countless cages of wild animals, all of which were open so that the crowd could get the full benefit of the free street spectacle. In a word, it was the best parade ever given here by any circus.

The first performance was given at 2:15 this afternoon, the program being loaded to the guards with entertaining numbers. These included the famous Stickney Sisters, the world's premier equestriennes; the Rhoda Royal Troupe of high school horses; the Robsons, Capt. Ricardo and Margaret Ricardo, who introduced the best and most thrilling animal act possibly offered by a circus; Lucia Zora, the only woman trainer of elephants in the world; the Zouaves, in a wonderful act of wall-scaling and military manoeuvres; the two Australian Waifs in bull whip manipulation, proved themselves little short of marvellous, the male member of the team flicking the ashes from a cigarette held between the lips of his lady assistant at a distance of 35 yards, with as much ease as the average housewife says "Good morning" to her next door neighbor. Forty clowns helped out the merriest end of the program. There were all kinds of races on the Hippodrome track, and a host of other conventional features, which have always added to the lure of the circus.

The last performance will be given this evening at 8:15 o'clock. The doors will be open one hour earlier, and as everyone knows, the admission price to Sells-Foto is only 25 cents. They certainly have struck the climax for lavish entertainment at popular prices.

Crushed to Death By Load of Gravel.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Leamington, Aug. 28.—Edward Kinsman, aged 9 years, son of Daniel Kinsman, of Mersea, was crushed to death under a load of gravel near his home yesterday. The boy and his father were driving home with gravel when they met a boy riding a bicycle.

In passing on the narrow road, the team took fright and turned into the deep ditch along the road. The Kinsman boy fell over the front of the wagon, and the whole weight of the wagon box full of gravel pinned him to the side of the ditch.

Quack Doctor Is Held for Murder

[Canadian Press.]
Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 28.—Following the verdict of the coroner's jury that inquired into the death of Mrs. Celestine Marie Petch, on Aug. 20, Elijah Cobb, a negro, was arrested on a warrant charging murder. The jury decided that while Mrs. Petch was suffering from tubercular trouble, her death seemed to have been hastened by treatment given her by Cobb. Cobb claimed to have had a vision from which he learned how to cure consumption, and many were treated by him.

A BUMPER WHEAT CROP.
Thousands of Men Required—This Year's Harvest Promises To Be the Largest in the History of Canada.

According to present indications the wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the east to assist in harvesting the world's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective provinces state that many thousands men will be required for this year's harvest. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route. Dates, rates and conditions will be announced in a few days. M. G. Murphy, district passenger agent Canadian Pacific Railway.

Friday Last Day for Playgrounds

Friday afternoon will be the last time this season that Victoria playground will be open to the children. On that day a special program of sports and a ball game between a team from the Y. M. C. A. and Victoria will play. Volleyball basketball and other games will also be played. During the season now ending many of the children of South London have used the grounds and found that it was easier to have a good time when they were supervised than if they were in their own house. The Victoria Mothers' Club have had a hard time financing the work, but managed to bring it to a successful termination.

More Dredging on The Panama Canal

[Canadian Press.]
Panama, Aug. 27.—The first large vessel to navigate the Gatun Lake section of the Panama Canal, 24 miles in length, a suction dredge, known as No. 82, left its moorings near the Gatun locks yesterday, and sailed under its own steam to a point north of Gamboa Dike.

The dredge will begin the removal of 150,000 cubic yards of silt lodged by currents. The dredge has been tied up in Gatun for several months waiting for the lake to rise to a sufficient height to enable it to make the trip.

INFANT MORTALITY

[Canadian Press.]
Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 28.—That intermarriage, continued through generations with the lack of nourishment of mothers at the time of child birth, and the indolence of the vilest tobacco, by women are the three principal causes contributing to the enormous rate of infant mortality among the Indians of the north, is the view taken by Gerald C. Card, Indian agent at Fort Simpson, on the Great Slave River, who has just come out from his post, having spent about seven weeks travelling by snows and river steamers. Fort Simpson, by the route travelled, is about 1,200 miles north of Edmonton.

HOSPITAL NOT LIKELY TO BUY CITY AMBULANCE
Upkeep of the Apparatus Would Be Too Expensive Says
Member of Board.

When the tenders for the purchase of the city ambulance from the police commissioners are opened, it is likely that one from the hospital trust will be received. Numerous suggestions to the effect that the city should buy the ambulance and install it at Victoria Hospital to be used for sick. The have been made, but several of the members of the hospital trust do not look with favor upon the suggestions.

They contend that if they were to purchase the ambulance and keep it at Victoria Hospital it would cost the city in the neighborhood of $1,500 a year to maintain it. Two men, one day and the other for night duty, would have to be hired, while a staff would have to be built on the hospital grounds to house the ambulance and the horses.

It is estimated that the ambulance is called out between 500 and 600 times a year to convey sick patients who cannot afford to pay for transportation to the hospital, and the suggestion made by members of the trust is that the city enter into a contract with the two firms which own private ambulances to carry such patients to the hospital at $1 a call.

Too Costly.

"I think that is the proper solution of the problem," said a member of the trust in conversation with the hospital. "We are now crowded for room on the hospital premises, and I do not see where we are able to house the ambulance and horses. We would have to employ two men, who would have to be paid a good salary, because we would have to have first-class men to handle that job. Then we would have to purchase horses and feed, which would easily run the cost of maintenance up to $1,500 a year. There are two private ambulances in the city, and I think arrangements could be made with the private ambulance firms to have the hospital at $1 a call. The new police ambulance will look after all emergency cases and patients who can pay for conveyance to the hospital can arrange with the private ambulance firms. When the question comes up at the next meeting of the hospital trust, I am going to make a motion along those lines, and I feel sure that the trust will support it."

Apparatus Turns Out For Benefit of the A. O. F. Delegates.

Wednesday evening at 7:45 London's fire departments made an exhibition run for the benefit of the delegates to the A. O. F. convention. Mrs. Woodstock, wife of the new high chief ranger, rang the box at Queen's avenue and Wellington street, which brought the apparatus at top speed to Dundas street, opposite the Armories. There a demonstration was given of the new aerial truck in operation. It was run up in record time. A cheer rose from the onlookers as the fire ladders agile as monkeys, mounted the swaying ladders, while it slowly swung in a wide circle. Then the ladder was lowered with the same speed and precision as before. There was much favorable comment by the bystanders at the splendid co-operation of the men.

CARD OF THANKS.
Mr. and Mrs. J. R. DeWolfe wish to take this opportunity to acknowledge thankfully the kind sympathy of many friends extended to them in their recent sad bereavement in the loss of their son Gordon.

CORRESPONDENCE
The Moir Case.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:
I note Detective Egerton is playing a bluff game. He says my $500 check lacks being indorsed, and only give him fifteen days to get Moir out of prison. I might say in reference to my check: I don't think my check requires to be indorsed, as there is not a penny in London who knows me that would not take my check for $5,000. And in reference to me only giving Mr. Egerton fifteen days to get Moir out of prison, I might say Mr. Egerton did not ask for any time, but took it on myself to give him fifteen days. I know well Mr. Egerton is simply running a bluff game, so I will make Mr. Egerton another offer as follows: I will put up $500 check indorsed by my banker and give Mr. Egerton 30 days to free Moir from prison, and receive the said $500. I will require Mr. Egerton to put up his check for $100, the same to be indorsed by Mr. Egerton's banker, and payable to Joseph Lawrence, providing Mr. Egerton does not release Moir in 30 days. Yours respectfully,
JOSEPH LAWRENCE.

SPARK FROM LOCOMOTIVE
DESTROYS A COTTAGE

Firemen Have Midnight Run To East End Blaze, and No Hydrant.

Fire, supposed to have been started by a spark from a Grand Trunk locomotive, totally destroyed a frame cottage, owned and occupied by Mr. George Rump, Winton avenue, shortly before midnight Wednesday. Neighbors, aroused by the flames, organized a volunteer fire brigade before the firemen arrived, and succeeded in saving the greater part of the furniture. It is estimated that the damage will amount to about $1,000.

Mr. Rump and his wife were visiting in West London at the time, and while returning to their home noticed from a distance that it was in flames. That was the first intimation they had of the destruction of their house. P. C. Holden, who was on duty in that vicinity, was the first to notice the fire. Flames were then shooting from the roof of the kitchen. He pulled the alarm, but when the firemen reached the scene, which is about three miles from the centre of the city, they found that there were no hydrants in that section. As a result they had to stand around after using the contents of the chemical tanks and watch the house burn to the ground. While going to the fire the automobile truck got stuck in a hole in the road on Winton avenue several blocks from the fire. Before it could be extricated the men had to dig it out. The other apparatus experienced considerable difficulty in reaching the place, as the roads in that section are in bad condition and full of pitch-holes.
