The Things that Count.

Not what we have, but what we use; Not what we seem, but what we choose. These are the things that make or break. That give the heart its joy or ache.

Not what seems fair, but what is true; Not what we dream, but what we do. These are the things that show like gems. Like stars, in Fortune's diadem.

Not what we take, but what we give; Not as we pray, but as we live. These are the things that make for peace, Both, now and after time shall cease.

IN THE CAGE.

At Morrison's Trained Animals Show I had a seat in the top row. The benches below were well filled in a three-quarter circle which faced the cage. This structure was of iron rods, in detachable sections, oblong and some twenty by forty feet in its greater dimensions, and perhaps twelve feet in height.

When Mons. Raoul Du Charme went into the cage, through an iron-gated alley, followed by bears, lions, tigers, leopards, great Dane dogs, and a varied assortment of other animals, which proceeded, at the crack of his whip, to dispose themselves demurely upon various seats, boxes and barrels ranged about the outer rim of the cage, the sight was sufficiently thrilling.

In the face of such an array we were prepared for exciting scenes, and we had them.

Du Charme lost no time in beginning his exhibition. We saw his young lions—born and reared in a cage, and as docile as collie dogs—submit to stange evolutions, at one time forming a pyramid, and at another, one by one, submitting to be trundled about the cage in a hand-cart pushed by a brown bear.

And during this performance a bald-faced 'Malay' bear, the clown of the show, sat upon his perch, grimacing and grinning in a manner which set the audience into roars of laughter.

The four leopards formed a quadrille, choosing as their partners an ape, two Dane dogs and the clown bear; and their evolutions, as the trainer waved his wand to the music of an orchestra, was highly humorous.

But the Malay bear gave the most sensational performance of all. Du Charme's attendants aboved in through the entry gate what appeared to be an inclined trough on wheels. The trainer made it stationary in the centre of the cage. Then, at a gesture of command, the Malay bear got down from his perch, lifted out of its setting the wooden sphere which had served him for a seat, and rolled it to the foot of the trick machine.

Du Charme lifted the ball to its proper position in the groove. The bear mounted several cushioned steps to a level with the ball, set one foot after another upon the sphere, and then, with deliberate ease, trundled the globe some dozen or fifteen feet to the top of the incline.

At the summit he paused, lolling and grinning, while stormed at with shouts and hand-clappings. Then, still rolling the sphere beneath his feet, he descended with the same ease, going backward to the bottom of the groove.

This act 'brought down the house,' apparently to the delight of the bear, who capered away to his station. With a single exception, the animals and birds of the cage seemed absolutely under the control of the trainer.

This exception was a surly Bengal tiger, which lay upon a bench at the extremely opposite the gate of entrance, and which had taken his position with remonstrant growls, baring wicked fangs as the whip cracked. This animal spat and snarled sulkily during the performances of its fellows.

The trainer attempted no tricks with his tiger, although he appeared to have no fear of the ugly beast. Doubtless there would have been no trouble with the animal, ill-tempered though it was, but at about the time the bald-faced bear had finished his globe-rolling, their came upon one of those summer storms which pounce upon us so violently on the Western prairies.

Torrents of rain were preceded by gusts of wind, which flapped at the roof of the great tent, swelling and cracking the canvas in an alarming fashion, while the rain pounded upon it, sifting through in a mist which dimmed the lights.

For a moment it seemed that the whole great dome of canvas must collapse. Women and children screamed and scrambled to get outside, fearing the terror without less than the terror within. From the lower benches they ran toward the entrances, and on the upper tiers many dropped to the ground through the spaces beneath the seats. However, the fierce thunder-gust subsided as quickly as it had attacked. But few persons had succeeded in passing the guards when the storm settled to a steady roar of rain, accompanied by copious waterfalls of the vast spread of tent.

Make New Blood.

THAT IS WHAT DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS DO—THAT IS WHY THEY CURE SO MANY DISEASES.

When persons have not enough blood, or when their blood is weak and watery, the doctors name the trouble anaemia. Bloodlessness is the direct cause of many common diseases such as indigestion, palpitation of the heart, debility, decline, neuralgia, nervousness, rheumatism and consumption. The surest signs of poor blood are paleless, bluish lips, cold hands and feet, general weakness, low spirits and headaches and backaches. If anaemia is not checked in time it will probably develop into consumption. There is one certain cure for anaemia—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually make new, rich, red blood, which fills the veins and brings new life, new energy and good health to bloodless people. In proof of this Miss Mabel Clendenen, Niagara Falls, Ont., says: "For two years I suffered from anaemia. I was weak, thin, had no appetite; I sometimes had distressing headaches and felt low spirited. My heart would palpitate violently. I could do no work around the house. I became very pale and my nerves got unstrung. The efforts of two good doctors failed to help me. I was in such a pitiful state. One day a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I did so. Soon I saw the pills were helping me and by the time I had taken nine boxes I was completely cured. I had a good appetite; gained in weight, I hadn't an ache or pain, could sleep well and I am in far better health now than I ever was. I cannot speak too highly of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me."

What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for Miss Clendenen they will do for you. But you must get the genuine with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around every box. If your dealer has not got the genuine pills you can get them at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Caring for Linoleum. A household economies authority says: "In caring for linoleum do not use soapuds as for scrubbing a floor. It stands to reason that soap is going to injure the varnish and the finish. On a lawn where there is plenty of milk, a cloth wrung out of skim milk is the best means of eating up the dust and brightening the linoleum. Where milk is scarce or needed for food, use lukewarm water, to which has been added half a cupful of kerosene oil or some good furniture polish. Wring the cloth rather dry from this, and go over the linoleum after sweeping and it will be quite new and bright, and the finish uninjured. Most housewives scrub linoleum and linoleum as though it were bare floor; it is dusty rather than dirty, and for this a clean cloth slightly damp is all that is necessary.—The Country Gentleman.

Health for Run-down Women. From the experience of Mrs. Jno. Panke, Saskatoon, nothing compares with Ferrozone. "At times I was confined to my bed and couldn't do any work. Ferrozone started a new kind of life in me, built me up, vitalized and strengthened my nerves, and finally cured my heart and stomach pains. Ferrozone is a re-builder that has special virtue in female ailments. Sold everywhere in 50c boxes; try Ferrozone.

On the part of the troupe there seemed a disposition to ignore both trainer and tiger, although the threatening aspect of the beast must have been clear to the instinct of every one of them.

Du Charme had not retreated an inch. He stood near to the center of the cage, his eyes upon the raging brute, his whip carelessly dangling. His lips were moving, and we knew, although we could not hear, that he was talking in low and soothing tones, trying to calm the ruffid temper of the tiger.

For a moment it seemed that his fearless attitude and calm voice might subdue the beast, which several times halted, leaning against the bars and snarling less ferociously.

Then the brute broke into fresh rage and swung back and forth at the gallery, approaching at each time appreciably nearer the trainer.

At this moment a young man, sitting two or three tiers of seats below me slipped to the ground and approached the cage. He wore the wide-brimmed white hat and the dress of the cattle-ranger. At the end of the cage he stood with hands in his pockets, peering through the bars.

The attendants were now too intent upon preventing an impending tragedy to note the movements of outsiders.

It was at this moment, when we were pallid and men were gripping their seats, that we heard the trainer speak.

"Open the safety gate, Jim," he said, and a man who stood by the cowboy leaped as the tiger passed—upon an outer rim of the floor, which projected some three or four feet above the ground, and swiftly slid a bolt.

"Now stick him, Raymond!" Du Charme said, his voice ringing up to us cool and careless. And we saw his attendant respond with a mighty thrust of his steel prod into the tiger's flank.

In a fury, the beast whirled and parred the jabbing point. The slender man in tight measured the distance with an eye, darted at the gate which Jim had opened, and made a flying leap. Although the aperture was no more than three feet by four, Du Charme went through it like a projectile.

His plan of escape was admirable, and its success would doubtless have been complete had his attendant been armed with a stouter prod. As it was, the beast, in his fierce whirl, caught the slender weapon in his jaws; and his weight and strength bent it half-dozen across the cage rod.

Out of the tail of his eye in the same instant he caught the flash of Du Charme's retreat, and his rush after the trainer was scarcely delayed by the attendant's attack.

The man called Jim was well-nigh instantaneous in his attempt to close the gate, but the big beast struck it on the swing, and bowled him, heels over head, yards away.

The tiger, his body twisting from the impact, whirled into the arena. What tragedy might have followed the beast's frantic rush into the crowd no one can guess.

The youth of the broad-brimmed hat came into the action with a lightning right-hand 'draw.' There were the gleam of a blue-stel barrel, white films of smoke and the crack! crack! crack! of an automatic pistol.

Beyond doubt, the tiger was mortally hit before his feet struck the ground; and seven or eight shots within two seconds crumpled the brute like the hail from a rapid-fire gun.

Du Charme, standing in a sulphurous haze of smoke, saluted the dumb audience with a wave of his hand. "The tiger is dead," he announced in a high, calm voice. "Our friend of the machine gun is ridiculous accurate!"

And then the shouts of applause beneath the roof utterly drowned the pounding of the rain.—Youth's Companion.

The Origin of Gall Stones. They are simply dried bile, made up of crystalline constituents of that fluid. Very common is this disease among merchants, clergymen, shop girls and those of sedentary habits. Prevention consists in maintaining correct action of the liver and bowels, which is best accomplished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. No person using this medicine need fear gall stones, nor will they ever be bilious. Sound digestion, good appetite, a clear color will evidence the health giving properties of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are the safest and best for general family use. Insist on having only Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, 25c per box at all dealers.

The residents of Rio Janeiro and Buenos Ayres are keen rivals and the latter have just voted to spend $15,000,000 more in beautifying their city. Already it is one of the most magnificent cities in the world, and great sums have been spent broadening streets and putting up public buildings.

Reading Aloud. The longest and dreariest winter evenings may be rendered pleasant if one member of the family will read to the rest. Do not choose for your books heavy histories or pronounced religious works, both of which can be read in due time, but select light and cheerful literature which will amuse the mind without requiring any great efforts to follow the thread. If you live in the country, you will thus have no need of theatres or public places; but can entertain your own little family circles till, living within yourselves, you can find ample recreation for all your leisure hours. Do not exclude any of the children who are old enough to take part, but include the whole family so far as their capacities will permit. Let your sons and daughters grow up with the idea that the old homestead of their youth was the most beautiful place on earth, and the enjoyable influences there and then acquired will follow them through life, saving them many a pitfall and leading them on to many good and noble deeds. Home influence has a mighty influence for good or evil.—Our Young People.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., NOV. 22, 1907.

The Anarchy of Apathy.

We of Canada have not failed to register our unmitigated hatred of anarchy. We have made it clearly understood that in this new country we will not tolerate that type of man who declares his opposition to law and order, and who takes dastardly methods for overthrowing it. And yet, in spite of our fine stand and forcible opposition, we have in our midst a type of anarchy that is infinitely more subtle and dangerous. It has none of the outward symbols of the old-fashioned sort. Outwardly it is respectable, refined, even pious at times. It knows nothing of bombs. It does not even indulge in bombast. It makes no confession of its principles. And yet it is really anarchistic as the kind that dogs a man in the dark or blots out a Russian prince. It is the anarchy of apathy.

Some one has defined an optimist as being a man who doesn't care what happens, if it doesn't happen to him. The same definition may be aptly applied to the type of anarchist under discussion. His sole interest in civic life is to safeguard his own welfare. That accomplished, the rest of the city may go to perdition for all he cares. So long as the law keeps boys out of his orchard and thieves off his side alley and protects the business from which he draws his income, he cares not a jot for anything else. If he does not drink or has no boys to be drawn into a quaternet, he cares no more for the enactment or enforcement of a liquor law than he does for the wooden dolls in Hungary. If he has invested his money in American bonds, he is completely apathetic concerning the juggling of civic finances, by which taxes may be raised or unwisely obligations incurred.

This is the kind of man most dangerous of all in a community. At best he is a dead weight and a clog. He refuses to assume that responsibility for the proper conduct of civic affairs which is a part of every good citizen's task.

He is an anarchist. There is an anarchist who disregards law, and there is another who permits law to be disregarded. It is in a difference between the two, it is in favor of the former. The latter is the more contemptible and the more to be feared.—Ottawa Citizen.

Warning to our Merchants.

The following taken from an exchange hits the nail so squarely on the head that we reprint the paragraph for local perusal.

"We beg to say to you that the holiday season is right upon you and if you have anything special to say to the public you had better be quick about it. Ours is the only live medium through which you can reach the best buyers. So if you want to talk direct to them make haste and don't come running here the first of the year and try to tell people of your holiday goods that you might have easily disposed off in the proper season had the public only known you had the stuff for sale. Upper Province departmental stores are flooding the country with catalogues, and the money will go up there if you don't counteract it. So get busy, you have the goods, just as good as fair, if not better; postage, freight and trouble reckoned on. We have faith in the buyers, they would not spend a dollar in Toronto if they only knew they could spend it profitably and as well in this town."

Baby Smiles.

One mother happily expressed her opinion of Baby's Own Tablets when she said 'there's a smile in every dose.' In homes where the Tablets are used there are no crosses, fretful, sickly children. The Tablets make children well and keep them well. They cure indigestion, colic, constipation, diarrhoea, teething troubles and all the other minor ailments of childhood. They can be given with absolute safety to the new born child, for the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that the Tablets do not contain one particle of opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Isn't such a guarantee worth something to you, mother? The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., at 25 cents a box.

Immigrants Maritime Provinces.

An Ottawa despatch says: An effort is to be made to divert some of the volume of immigration to the Maritime Provinces. Most of the immigrants now arriving are located in the West or in Ontario. However, there is a demand from the East, for more people.

W. K. Scott, superintendent of Canadian Immigration will proceed to the Maritime Provinces in a few days and will enquire into the attractions of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and inducements which can be offered to the people from the British Isles to settle there. It is believed that a considerable number of immigrants can be directed to the Maritime Provinces.

Municipal Elections.

The municipal elections took place on Tuesday of this week, and in some sections were keenly contested. It is very much to be regretted that in so many instances these contests have become altogether a political fight. In our opinion it would be much better if men were selected to fill these important positions because of special qualifications for the office, regardless of party affiliations. In some of the wards good men were selected and elected without a contest, and this course is certainly a commendable one. In Wards 1, 5, 6, 8, and 14, however, elections were held.

In Ward 1 the fight was largely between the moral reform party and the anti-moral reform, and considering the methods said to have been pursued by the latter their success is not to be wondered at. Five dollar bills, it is said, were floating around like snow-flakes. No one supposes that the candidates themselves invested a dollar in the enterprise, but the money was there all the same, and was provided by the "machine" through its headquarters at Kentville.

The same game was worked in Ward 5. Although Mr. Fisher is a liberal of the liberals he is a "clean, manly" one, and hence the order went forth weeks ago with brazen boldness, that Fred Fisher must be defeated at all costs—the machine knowing, of course, that neither he or his friends would use one cent in order to win.

A similar attempt was made in Ward 8. Mr. R. F. Reid was known among those who have followed the history of the several past municipal councils as a staunch friend of the Alliance—therefore he was to be among the slain. A good man—though a mere figure-head so far as the contest went—was selected as a candidate, and the campaign started as early as July—fortunately without success. All the arts of the "machine" were brought in play. A type-written requisition was brought down from Kentville and circulated months ago, imitating the "early bird" that catches the worm.

Nearly all the Wards in the county were caught, by the way, by this "early bird" game, as it was intended Ward 8 should be caught; and as a consequence the new municipal council will be largely composed of enemies of the moral reform movement.

Let these manipulators and "machine" workers take notice, however, that their little plans will be futile, and will recoil on themselves and their several parties. Two years ago, and in June, 1906, the "machine" had a nice majority in the council, but it profited them nothing. In fact this had much to do with the uncomfortable results, and in a double measure this will occur again, unless a great and lasting reform is manifested, and known by all. The people of Kings county are going to have something to say on all these matters irrespective of hold-and-torn, would-be federal or local candidates.

Previous to June, 1906, it had been many years since the people had much to say about things—they didn't know themselves, groaning under a worse than Egyptian bandage. They patiently thought themselves helpless. That is no longer so. Neither municipal "machines," nor any other, will be able to force down the people's throats candidates not acceptable to them and their families. So, all this worry and grind, this municipal fund which is said to have reached the sum of $3,000, to say nothing of other necessities, will not amount to anything so far as electing or even selecting, men to represent us at either Ottawa or Halifax.

The Calgary Eye-Opener, which has been brought into the limelight by the suit of Sir Frederick Borden against the Nineteenth Century, has further discussed certain matters in a manner which leads the Toronto World to remark: "The Calgary Eye-Opener of Nov. 9 just to hand, ought to be interesting reading to the reverend editor of the Globe, not to mention others. Thousands and thousands of these papers are sold in the west and several thousands in the east. The editor of the Nineteenth Century must take note of it; Sir Wilfrid Laurier has probably before this taken some action in regard to it."

The immigration season for 1908 promises easily to surpass all records in the number of those who are coming to Canada. Inquiry elicits the information that the great influx of new settlers into Canada will commence early in February. The Dominion line alone has sold all accommodations for three of their big ships, the Southward, Kensington and Vancouver, for the first three or four weeks. These vessels each carry 1,600 and 2,000 steerage passengers, exclusive of second cabin and galoon. This means that upwards of 20,000 new settlers for Canada will come by this line alone to Halifax, before the opening of the St. Lawrence season.

About a year ago Fred E. Cox, proprietor of the Outlook newspaper, Middleton, instituted a competition with a split-log drag for making good roads in Annapolis county. There were thirteen entries. Last week the judges awarded the prize of $25 to E. B. Fisk, of Clarence. The roads of the county have been wonderfully improved by this split-log contrivance which was first used in the middle states of America.

The Brown Tail Moth.

CIRCULAR FROM THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE CONCERNING THE BROWN-TAILED MOTH.

During the spring of this year (1907) nests containing caterpillars of the Brown-tailed Moth were found in fairly large numbers in parts of Kings, Annapolis, Digby, and Yarmouth counties. With the hearty co-operation of the citizens of these counties, many caterpillars were destroyed and much temporary damage prevented. However, numerous caterpillars must have eluded even the most careful searchers, and there can be no doubt but that specimens of this pest will be observed not only in the sections infested last spring but also in adjoining localities. The people of Nova Scotia are determined to suppress this insect, and it is, therefore, important that the men of the Department of Agriculture, in whom is reposed an oversight of these matters, and to whom the people are looking for information should be kept informed as to its movements.

The White Moth with golden-brown terminations to its body and hence called the Brown-tailed Moth, was flying during July, and has probably reached localities where it has not previously been found. Its eggs were laid and hatched during August. Since then small brown caterpillars, not yet (November) a quarter of an inch long, which hatched out from these eggs, have been feeding on the leaves of fruit and other trees and constructing the nests in which they will pass the winter. These nests may be found usually attached to young branches or spurs of the trees and generally toward their tips. Each nest consists of a tough web surrounding one or more leaves and enclosing 200 to 300 small brown caterpillars.

Anyone reading this circular, who knows of a locality where these nests occur, is requested to communicate, at the earliest opportunity, with the Agricultural College, Truro. Anyone unacquainted with the moth or its nest, who finds any suspicious object upon trees, particularly fruit trees, oaks, elms, or maples, should send them at once in a strong pasteboard box, to the College for identification. If citizens in every locality where the Moth occurs will take the trouble to write and inform us, as far as possible, both as to occurrence and how many or how common are nests, they will greatly facilitate future movements in connection with the suppression of this dangerous pest.

This circular has been sent to teachers and citizens in various sections of Nova Scotia. It may be that it will not directly reach many who have valuable information. We, however, would solicit every one by giving information and by every other means possible to join the campaign against the Brown-tailed Moth. We would particularly request each school teacher to find out the conditions which exist in his or her school section and report as soon as possible. United efforts during the next six months may save the province of Nova Scotia from being overrun by one of the most serious of insect pests.

The Apple Crop.

The apple crop returns for 1907 will average fully 100 per cent. As an indication of the excess of yield of fruit this year as compared with last year, the following statement of the number of barrels of apples shipped from Halifax to Europe during September and October as compared with the corresponding months last year is significant. The number of barrels shipped during September and October in the year 1906 was 58,988. During the corresponding month in 1907 the number of barrels shipped was 100,389. Dealers have been paying all the way from $1.75 to $3.50 per barrel for fruit since the season opened. It is estimated that the heavy gales of October 8th blew anywhere from 25,000 to 50,000 barrels of apples off the trees.

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN.
MR. EDITOR.—There are rumors afloat that liquor has been sold by me. I wish to rectify this statement, and I don't plan to stand as a cloak for any one else. If the authorities of the town or Scott Act inspectors wish to know where a great deal of the liquor comes from, they can easily find out. I have never sold a drop of liquor and I have too much respect for my family to sell liquor.

Do no fail to attend the auction sale of cows and young cattle to be held on Saturday afternoon, November 23rd, at the farm of F. W. Wickwire, Kentville. Terms, $10 cash or 12 months credit approved joint notes, interest at 6 per cent.

The M. P. A. A. has declared that the Acadia-U. N. B. game here on Nov. 24th was illegal on account of Hughes being professionalized. The New Brunswick boys want Acadia to play the game again in St. John, but it is hardly probable that Acadia will agree to this.

We are glad to learn that there is a prospect of the Wolfville laundry being again started. The plant and building, we understand, have been taken over by Mr. Pelton, of Berwick who will remove his business here and begin operations about the first of December. THE ACADIAN speaks for him a liberal patronage.

In this issue will be found the announcement of the Christmas Fair to be held next month under the auspices of the Alumnae Society of Acadia Seminary. This promises to be the most successful affair of the kind ever held in Wolfville, and no doubt will draw a large patronage. Watch our columns for further announcements concerning it.

In anticipation of the marriage in December of Miss Jennie Rand, one of Wolfville's most popular young ladies, to John Strothard, formerly of this town, now manager of the Northern Bank at Hanley, Sask., her young lady friends, presented her with generous showers of linen and tin, accompanied by most appropriate poetical compositions.

Hiawatha Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Kentville, was visited on Friday evening last by Mr. Marshall Black, of Wolfville, the District Deputy. A large number of the members of Wolfville lodge were present. The initiatory degree was put on in a very creditable manner and the degree team was congratulated by the District Deputy.—Western Chronicle.

Now is the Time.

We notice in the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal an earnest appeal from the publishers requesting subscribers to renew earlier than usual this season. It must be a great problem to handle the thousands upon thousands of subscriptions pouring into that great paper every day during December and January and old subscribers and new subscribers too, should remit their subscriptions now in order to prevent any possible delay later on. The Family Herald and Weekly Star never was so popular as it is to-day and is beyond doubt the biggest dollar's worth to be had.

Her violin just sang. The tone was great, and full, and the technique almost incredibly perfect and above all her playing full of inner feeling and emotion. It was not surprising when the audience simply went wild and forced her again and again to come before the lights. (In College Hall Friday evening, Nov. 29th.)

Hunting and hunting topics at present occupy the major portion of the thoughts of those who indulge in the pursuit of big game. From all reports the season promises to be one of the best of recent years, and hunters, full of high anticipation, have their preparations well in hand. Included in these arrangements for the perfect enjoyment of the open season must be the possession of the November number of "Rod and gun and motor sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont. Although the October number was filled with hunting stories the supply was far in excess of demand and the November issue shows, and mingled amongst pleasant fishing articles will be found much to interest those who are now on hunting thought intent.

AND NOVA SCOTIA IMMIGRATION. Attention is directed to the adv. of the Truro Real Estate Mart which appears in another place in this issue. The following concerning this business is copied from the Truro News:

In a late issue we called attention to the fact that W. D. McCallum, the Truro Real Estate man, would leave for England some time in January next, to bring back new settlers for some of the farmers in Nova Scotia.

During the present year Mr. McCallum has forwarded gratis copies of the "Real Estate Gazette" to the hotel keepers in every town in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, large enough to boast of a newspaper, and at the present time he is advertising Nova Scotia property in over fifty different English newspapers, published in all parts of Great Britain.

The effect of so much advertising will be to make Mr. McCallum's name one well known to the people over there before he lands in England. There will be a very material advantage over a total stranger going into this country.

Already a large number of inquiries have been received and one or two sales have been made, but several interviews with parties interested in what the situation now requires and Mr. McCallum has already proved his merit as a salesman and has been giving this matter his attention for the past two years, it would be hard to find in Nova Scotia a man better qualified to do this work, the need of which is so apparent to all, or one who will show better results. Three months is the time proposed for the trip, which would bring the first group of settlers here some time in April, ready to take advantage of the coming season.

When we consider that over 100,000 new settlers are coming to Canada every year and practically none of these come to Nova Scotia, it seems a pity that work of this nature has not been taken up by some one years ago, particularly when the fact is taken into consideration that a farm can be bought in Nova Scotia, with buildings and fences erected, and an available supply of pure water, about as cheaply as the land alone would cost in the North West, far removed from schools, churches and either privileged or modern citizenship.

Obituary.

Mrs. JAMES E. WOODWORTH. The death of Mrs. James E. Woodworth, one of the oldest and most respected of Wolfville's citizens, occurred at her home here on Thursday last week. She had reached the ripe age of 83 years. The deceased was formerly Miss Caroline Longard, of Halifax. She was a consistent member of the Methodist church, and was a lady of kindly character and genial manner. She leaves three children, Mr. E. W. Woodworth, with whom she resided in the old home, Mrs. John P. Longard, of Halifax, and Miss Ida Woodworth. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon, the service being conducted by Rev. E. B. Moore.

A Great Health Builder

Mr. J. Hatcher, 224 Sherbrooke Street, Peterboro, Ont., and whose husband is a moulder at the Hamilton Foundry, states: "I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism which left me in a very run down state of health, and in fact my whole nervous system seemed exhausted and worn out. I could not sleep and at times pains in my head were almost unbearable. As a result of these symptoms I was unable to attend to my household work, and felt miserable most of the time. On the advice of a friend I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that it has proven of very great benefit to me. I am able to do my own work now, and feel stronger and healthier than I have for years. I can truthfully state that this is due to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I consider a great health builder."

I could not sleep and at times pains in my head were almost unbearable. As a result of these symptoms I was unable to attend to my household work, and felt miserable most of the time. On the advice of a friend I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that it has proven of very great benefit to me. I am able to do my own work now, and feel stronger and healthier than I have for years. I can truthfully state that this is due to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I consider a great health builder."

Note your increase in weight while using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents, 3 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.
