SOCIALIST SAYS PEACE SPEECH IS REASONABLE

"Invitation to Entente Allies to Initiate Peace Negotiations at Once."

DISCLAIMS ANXIETY ABOUT WAR'S OUTCOME

Germany Will Be Heartened by Knowledge That She Does Not Bear Responsibility.

Berlin, Dec. 9. (via London, Dec. 10.)—(Delayed)—Deputy Otto Landsberg, a socialist democrat, in his speech in the reichstag today, after the imperial chancellor had answered the socialist interpellation on peace, expressed approval of the chancellor's address as a reasonable invitation to the entente allies to initiate peace negotiations in which Germany was willing to join.

Herr Landsberg declared that the socialist appeal for peace was based on no anxiety about the outcome of the war. He said he shared the opinion of the imperial chancellor that the war has been forced upon Germany and that guarantees were necessary to prevent a repetition. No true German, he said, was desirous of ending the war on any other terms. He repeated the declaration made earlier in the day by Dr. Scheidemann, socialist, that the Socialists never would consider a peace involving the return of Alsace-Lorraine.

Germany's Mild Answer
Deputy Landsberg said that, with Premier Asquith of Britain and Premier Briand of France both demanding the destruction of Prussian militarism, which was equivalent to the destruction of a strong Germany, he would understand the chancellor's attitude in his speech and his demand that Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg in return had not demanded the destruction of Russian and French militarism or British "marine-ism," which could render peace impossible. Regarding the acquisition of territory the deputy expressed high satisfaction that the chancellor had made no mention of annexation.

The chancellor repeatedly has designated occupied territories as redemption pledges, he said, "and has said that the statesman who must hold out hopes to their countrymen of a better future, speak of the destruction of German militarism and the taking away of German territory, but the statesman who is crowned with success declares himself in principle ready for peace, naturally for honorable peace. No German would wish to conclude any other peace."

Want Security For Peace
Deputy Landsberg said the chancellor had demanded securities against repetitions of wanton attacks. The Socialists, too, wish to preserve future generations from the danger of a new war, but there was no security against future wars in conducting this war to the exhaustion or subjugation of another nation. This, however, he said, was not the intention of the chancellor, who had expressed readiness to conclude an honorable peace and in whose words he found no mention of unreasonable demands for Germany's opponents did not desire peace because they insisted upon the destruction of Germany's defensive force and the annexation of German territory, said the deputy. They must learn that the Socialist appeal for peace was based on no anxiety about the outcome of the war. He declared that nothing could increase the courage and resolution of German troops more than the consciousness that the responsibility for a further continuance of the war rested with their opponents.

Mexico City, Dec. 10.—Dr. Manuel Pore Amador, director of the government institute for biological research, has announced the discovery of a method of taking X-ray photos without the use of radium, Crooke's tubes or expensive apparatus of any kind.

Dr. Amador claims to have discovered a cheap substitute for radium during his experiments of the past eight years with the radio-active properties of white sulphur.

Northside is Ready For 'Em

Ten Planks in Platform to be Given Candidates Tonight, and Views Are Expected.

Candidates for municipal election will be expected this evening to state their attitude towards the various planks in the platform formulated by the Northside Ratepayers' Association. The meeting is being held in the Sons of England hall, Bell street north of Dewdney, at eight o'clock, and the floor will first be given to those candidates who do not speak last Friday.

Up to the present the campaign has been the quietest in the city's history and fireworks have been conspicuous by their absence. In addition to this, the campaign is probably the shortest in the city's history and the number of meetings being held are comparatively few. The only other opportunity ratepayers will have of stating up the aspirants for municipal honors will be tomorrow night in the east end halls, and probably in Chalmers church in the Eastern Annex.

For tonight's meeting on the north side an attractive leaflet, containing the ten planks of the platform, together with some comments on each, has been printed for distribution among the audience. The platform is introduced by the following statement: "After careful consideration the association in general meeting agreed that the following ten planks do seriously require attention and consideration by the council for the benefit of the whole city." The planks and the printed comments read as follows:

1. More adequate provision for parks and playgrounds, especially on the northside.
2. The imperial government is based on the ward system.
3. Preference to returned soldiers in filling vacant civic positions.
4. Election or appointment of an auditor independent of the council and commissioners.
5. Abolition of the poll tax.
6. Continuance of operation of Sunday closing.
7. Appointment of a superintendent of utilities to look after the collection of accounts from the public, etc.
8. Day labor on public works.
9. Who's been abused and chased round the city looking for the man to get satisfaction from? Who took the money back from the city workmen after it had been paid to them?
10. Of course there will not be so much in it for "our friends," but—

The establishment of public commissions.
Well, we used to have the accommodation of the hotel and now they've gone dry.
10. That the city council urge the provincial government to amend the city's existing By-laws by giving the city its own form of municipal government.
There is a lot in this. Consider it well. The writing is on the wall of despotism, and we certainly have a right to the best that is formulated.

BRITISH PRESS COMMENTS ON PEACE SPEECH

Attempt to Present Picture of Germany Waging Defensive War Against Enemies.

COMPARISON OF GREECE AND BELGIUM FALLACIOUS

Evening Standard Says Germany is Expecting to Surpass Former Achievements.

London, Dec. 10.—The speech of the German chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, before the reichstag yesterday, is commented on extensively by London papers this morning. The chancellor's utterances are described editorially as "colorful and perfunctory," and as an attempt to present a picture of Germany waging a purely defensive war against enemies which would encircle and starve her. All of the new papers characterize as fallacious the chancellor's argument in regard to the analogy between British proceedings in Greece and the German invasion of Belgium.

Not Asking for Peace.
The Evening Standard says Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg's speech disposed of the idea that Germany intends to ask for peace. This newspaper considers the prospect of peace as perhaps more remote at this moment than at any other period since the outbreak of the war. It contends that any assumption that Germany's strength is weakening is merely based on an unpleasant surprise in the spring, at which time Germany hopes to surpass her previous achievements.

The Pall Mall Gazette thinks the essence of the German chancellor's speech lies in its omission of the Westminister Gazette says: "If Germany had gone into Belgium on the invitation of the Belgian government to bring assistance to a neighbor who was being attacked by another power, say France or Holland, she would have had no difficulty in a sudden change of policy on the part of the Belgian king, the analogy might have been arguable. Whatever may happen in Greece, the history and nature of the two transactions have not the slightest resemblance."

Patched-Up Peace Dressed.
Referring to the remarks of the chancellor in regard to the carrying on of the war until the triumph of Germany is conceded, the Globe says: "That is good news. What was to be dreaded was that the mightiest of men should be so high in conception of statesmanship and endeavor by careful manipulation of admitted fact, force the allies to call the struggle a draw and patch-up a peace."

NO NOBEL PEACE PRIZE.
Christiania (via London), Dec. 10.—The Norwegian parliament will not award the Nobel peace prize this year. No award was made last year.

THREE HOLDUP MEN CAUGHT.

The police say $600 has been recovered. James Lowe and Frank Lutz, arrested last night, are said to have told where Maloney could be found. The police say Maloney confessed.

"I Remember"

"The doctor's orders first started me toward the Northwest," said former Lieutenant Governor George W. Brown.

"I was then a student in Toronto University, and was advised to leave school on account of bad health. The doctor also added that I probably would not live six months. That was just thirty-three years ago, and Mr. Brown smiled broadly at the recollections of the score and ten years which had elapsed since that physician's prophecy was made.
"It was in May, 1882, when my brother and I, with two other men in our party, started out with oxteams from Brandon. We went south first, then finding ourselves too far from the line of the railway, went back to Brandon and started out for Regina. For five months we did not sleep under a shelter.
"We found Regina composed of two or three tents near the Mounted Police Barracks. The present site of the town was mostly slough, full of wild ducks.
"At the time I came here there was not a mile of railway, not a school, and not a bank in what is now the Province of Saskatchewan. The only farming was around the Hudson Bay and Mounted Police posts.
"The first steel of the Canadian Pacific Railway was laid through Regina August 23, 1882. I remember the little crowd that gathered to see this. I remember also the party of press men from the Canadian press with the railway, the first line across the great Northwest.
"In the fall of 1882, the last of the buffalo were seen in this part of the country. I remember seeing the first with which they were driven back west and south toward the United States. Herds which had been estimated at from five to fifteen thousand were killed and driven away till none remained.
"A street car clanged by beneath the office. Mr. Brown spoke again. "I have seen this country settled three different times. There were waves of immigration here in '82, in the late '80's, and in '01, what he called the last great immigration."

"I remember one Christmas dinner we had in the early days. An Englishman who was with our party insisted that it would be impossible to have a Christmas dinner without roast beef and plum pudding. Well, we managed to get the materials together to make the pudding, but no beef was to be had in this country. So we had to eat buffalo instead. And a good dinner it made too.
"I remember New Year's Day of 1889. It was such a merry day that people sat out on their verandas. It seems to me that the winters have never varied from year to year from that time to now. I do not think that the winter climate as a whole has changed to any great extent.
"The office was lined to the ceiling with legal volumes and statute books, records and witnesses of a country that was a completely organized society. The man who had known this country when a pioneering settler and as its lieutenant-governor was speaking of the character of its development.
"The population of this province has always been agricultural in nature. This fact and the absence of any large cities within the province have tended to the establishment of many co-operative institutions which are well known. But that is off the subject of the old days."

When you were asking if we enjoyed living here then. To me it was a life. We had many things, things which make for real enjoyment, which we do not and probably cannot have in the same degree now. I mean the spirit of mutual interest, of neighborliness, and of sympathy, which everyone of the early settlers felt for every other. That spirit more than made up for the lack of material comforts and conveniences. It was that spirit which made pioneer community life.

HEROIC FATHER, THREE CHILDREN, PERISH IN FIRE

C. W. Mitchell, Plenty, Sask., Farmer, Two Girls and Boy Fatally Burned.

PLUNGED INTO FLAMES; CARRIED TWO TO SAFETY

Returning for Other Three, Fell; All Four Bodies Found in Heap.

Plenty, Sask., Dec. 10.—C. W. Mitchell, 48 years old, and three children—Lenora, 16 years; Lucy, 4; and Lloyd, aged 6—were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their farmhouse and one granary, three miles south of here this morning.
Mr. Mitchell and the hired man were working in the stable when Mrs. Mitchell discovered fire in the kitchen and ran outside calling "Fire" in her night clothing. In an endeavor to save his children, Mitchell ran through the flames, which had made rapid progress, and succeeded in getting Clifford, aged 14 years; and Alex, aged 9, out of the burning building.
"In the fall of 1882, the last of the buffalo were seen in this part of the country. I remember seeing the first with which they were driven back west and south toward the United States. Herds which had been estimated at from five to fifteen thousand were killed and driven away till none remained.
"A street car clanged by beneath the office. Mr. Brown spoke again. "I have seen this country settled three different times. There were waves of immigration here in '82, in the late '80's, and in '01, what he called the last great immigration."

Several Improvements Might Be Effected, They Say, But Treatment Generally Good.
Winnipeg, Dec. 10.—Several returned soldiers testified this morning before the board of officers appointed to investigate complaints as to their treatment. The soldiers declared that any disadvantages had been met by their generous treatment in other respects. They were well fed and they had good accommodation on board ship and en route west by train, they said, but they stated they were unable to get underweight before leaving England. They believed the morning parades on the decks of the troopships might have been shortened advantageously, and they claimed they were given poor food in Quebec.
Lt.-Col. Rowley, one of the board, explained that the Canadian authorities could not discharge soldiers in England unless it was certain they would not become a charge on the British authorities.

"On Thursday 2, Austrian aeroplanes dropped bombs on Cetinje without causing any damage. On the same day the Austrians launched from aeroplanes over the Montenegrin front a proclamation addressed to the army and population advising them to cease resistance. If they did not, the proclamation stated, Montenegrins would suffer the same fate as the Serbs, the entente allies being unable to succor them or even to repulse an invasion of their own territory."

"A great number of Austrian dead covered the field after the engagement of Wednesday."

FIRE DAMAGES PLANT OF GRAND TRUNK LINE

Several Buildings at Point St. Charles Destroyed by Flames; Cause Unknown.

Montreal, Dec. 10.—Fire broke out in the shops of the Grand Trunk Railway at Point St. Charles today. The flames were discovered in the bookshops and spread rapidly to the blacksmith and erecting shops. Grand Trunk officials said the fire appeared to be of a serious nature. A double alarm brought out the full strength of the main division of the fire department.
It was feared for a time that the shops devoted to making war munitions might be destroyed, but the firemen confined the blaze to these buildings, the tube shop, erecting shop and blacksmith shop. The damage estimate is not yet known.
The cause of the fire has not been ascertained though it originated in the tube shed and spread to the erecting and blacksmith shops. An acetylene gas tank was exploded, and caused considerable alarm, but did not constitute a damage. About fourteen hundred men will be temporarily thrown out of work. Grand Trunk officials said they would issue a statement later when they would have an estimate of damage. The fire was under control at 1:30 p.m.

WOULD BAN SPORTS TILL ATHLETICS ALL ENLIST

Former Montreal Controller Says Young Men Have Qualities Useful to Country.

Montreal, Dec. 10.—Ex-Controller P. L. Wanklyn said at an enthusiastic recruiting rally last night that he disliked to see at this time the portraits of athletes and captains of baseball, football, hockey and other club sports. He thought such men should drop their hockey sticks and their games and take up the rifle and the bayonet to do their part in the stern game of war.
"I do not think that a single one of us should go to baseball, hockey or football match as long as this war lasts," he said amid applause. "These men have manhood, physique and ability that would be of great use to the front, but they have something lacking inside that they don't realize the appeal now being made to them."

SAMUEL ELECTED EASILY

London, Dec. 10.—(C. A. P.)—The by-election in Cleveland, the north riding of Yorkshire, yesterday resulted, according to expectation, in the overwhelming victory of Rt. Hon. Herbert Samuel, postmaster general, who was compelled to seek re-election on account of his recent appointment as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, vacated by Winston Churchill, and which confers cabinet rank. The figures announced today were: Samuel, 7,312; Knight, 1,463. At the last election, in December, 1911, the vote was: Samuel, Liberal, 6,870; Lewis, Unionist, 5,343. Cleveland is a Liberal stronghold, but Mr. Samuel was supported in the present contest by Unionist voters. He has announced he will not accept the salary attached to his new office.

Washington, Dec. 10 (4.30).—Emperor William has personally withdrawn Captain Boy-Ed and Von Pappen, the naval and military attaches of the German embassy here, and has made a personal request that the United States secure safe conducts for them and their successors. This was formally announced late today by Secretary Lansing.

AS THE GOVERNOR SAID TO THE GOVERNOR, 'TIS

A Long, Long Time Between Drinks, and Forty-Nine Years Sets a New Record.

Forty-nine years between drinks is a long time. Apparently about fifty-five years of age, M. P. Dunn, charged in police court this morning with being drunk, informed Magistrate Heffernan that it was the first time in forty-nine years.
"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," said His Worship, as he fined him the usual two and costs.

PROSPERITY DAWNED IN EARNEST FOR MERCHANTS

Young Lady Who Bought So Lavishly Eventually Taken in Charge by Police.

Visions of the dawn of a new era of prosperity gladdened the eyes of several prominent storekeepers in the city yesterday, with the appearance of a young lady who ordered the best of everything on the most lavish scale.
Announcing that she intended to set up a first-class boarding establishment, the lady in question visited a large furniture store and commenced to buy on an unprecedented scale. Before she left the excited salesmen were knocking and rubbing their hands with glee for the day's sales had been boosted $1,800 in a most unexpected manner.
The Christmas shopping joy spread to other establishments when the lady with the bottomless purse appeared. One salesman was overjoyed with an order for a $500 piano. The prospect of an expensive "Victoria" exchanging hands caused another salesman to chuckle.
A costly automobile was purchased at one of the large garages, and the proprietor of one of the furrier's shops had the pleasure of assisting in the sale of his entire stock. No money was paid, and all the storekeepers were told to hold the purchases for a day or two until arrangements could be made to house them.
There was a rude awakening, however, when the police notified the storekeepers that the lady and her wealthy patron in tow on a charge of insanity, and that she had not a cent to her name. This morning she was brought up before the magistrate and remanded pending further inquiries. She is believed to come from Alameda, and an attempt is being made to get in touch with her relatives and friends.

TRY TO GET ASSINIBOIA LINE GAP CONNECTED UP

Between Expanse and Assiniboia C.P.R. Branch Has Gap of Eight Miles.

Winnipeg, Dec. 10.—E. J. McMillan, secretary of the Moose Jaw board of trade, interviewed Grand Hall, vice president and general manager of the C. P. R., this morning with a view to getting the eight-mile gap in the C. P. R. line south to Assiniboia completed at an early date. The conference had no definite results as Mr. McMillan was referred to George Bury, vice president and general manager of the eastern lines.
The line in question has already been built south from Moose Jaw through Expanse to Vantage. From Assiniboia it is built north for nine miles to a gap from the extension from Assiniboia and the southern extension from Expanse for eight miles, and if this were completed and in operation it would be a big benefit to wholesale and retail law and passengers in the district who wished to visit the larger centers.
It would have no material effect on grain movements, as runs north and south. This line runs through the Coteau Hills, which might make the hauling of trains a little heavy, and it is believed that this is the reason the C. P. R. does not care to open the line at present, though they have not mentioned this point.

HEAVY FIGHTING STILL BEING WAGED, REPORTED

Major Portion of Bulgarian Army Now Fiercely Attacking Anglo-French Forces

Berlin, Dec. 10 (via Sayville wireless).—According to information received in military quarters here the Anglo-French expedition in the Balkans has capitulated its retreat and has now entirely evacuated Serbian territory.
London, Dec. 10.—The Times this morning regards as an ominous sign the news received from its Athens correspondent that the hospitals of the entente allies at Ghevelin, in southeastern Serbia, have been evacuated.
London, Dec. 10.—What seems to be an intimation that the troops of the entente allies are contemplating evacuating Serbian territory if they have not already done so is contained in a statement in a Reuter's dispatch from Saloniki said to have been issued by the French general staff on the Balkan front.
The statement quoted by the Saloniki correspondent is:
"We, the French and British, are retiring for reasons easy to understand in view of the fact that the Serbian army for the moment is out of the reckoning, our presence in Serbian territory is no longer necessary. Bulgarian successes amount to an occupation of history no longer disputed by us. They have invariably suffered each time the Allies troops assumed the offensive notwithstanding the numerically superior forces."
Fighting ended Wednesday, London, Dec. 10.—Fighting on the front where the British are facing the Bulgars was suspended Wednesday and Thursday, it is said, which began their withdrawal Thursday morning, says a Reuter's dispatch from Saloniki today. The general retirement of the British troops is proceeding, the dispatch says.
since fighting began Monday has not been considerable. It is reported that the losses of the Bulgars are thought to have been heavy.

Coal Famine in Greece

London, Dec. 10.—Reuter's Athens correspondent telegraphs that on account of restrictions placed on Britain on the foreign commerce of Greece several steamship lines, including those subsidized by the government for the postal service, contemplated suspension of business.
A coal famine is feared, and the correspondent says Greece has called the attention of Great Britain to the grave consequences entailed by prohibition of importation of coal from England, notwithstanding the orders placed in America. The British legation at Athens has published a list of articles liable to seizure at sea and submission to prize court unless accompanied by special certificates establishing the fact that they have not come from countries hostile to the Allies.
Athens newspapers publish extensive reports of the movements of the entente troops in Macedonia. Some of these newspapers state that the French have been routed in circles it is said, however, that the Allies are withdrawing in conformity to pre-arranged plans and have sustained no losses.

Bulgars Ransy Attacks

London, Dec. 10.—The Bulgarians, heavily reinforced and well supported by artillery, are renewing violently their attack upon the Franco-British forces in Macedonia. Their assault has gone through all the preliminaries and is now approaching the climax of intensity.
Although pursuit of the Serbians continues, it is apparent from the reports which the Macedonian conflict is assuming that the major part of the Bulgarian army has devoted its intention to the allies.

Seven Men Should Be On Ice Whenever Possible; Rules Are Contradictory

Article seven of the Saskatchewan amateur hockey code reads as follows: "The game is played on ice by teams of SEVEN on each side."

Here we have a contradiction of terms. In the case of a man being ruled out for infringement of the rules it is perfectly proper that the team so offending shall be forced to play the other with one man short.

ARCHBISHOP MATHIEU

Regina pays today to Archbishop Mathieu, so significantly honored yesterday by the Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church in his appointment as Archbishop of the newly created Archdiocese of Regina, which will embrace the whole of Saskatchewan, heretofore divided into two dioceses and included in the Archdiocese of St. Boniface.

Further than that the honor is personal to the new Archbishop. He has received honors in the past at the hands of His Majesty the King of England and from the Republic of France, being a companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George and a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Pepper Talks

By George Mathew Adams

Promptness. Because of the lateness of Marshal Grouchy of the French army at the battle of Waterloo, Blucher had time to whip his army on to the help of Wellington. Napoleon ordered: "Had not the man to whom he entrusted his awful orders blundered—hesitated—been late—the whole history of Europe would have been changed from this day on."

Be on Time. "The Train was late," is the most frequent explanation after a terrible accident. What a multitude of lives have been lost, what an army of men and women have been deprived of position and honor, what untold suffering and humiliation have followed in the path of the late Mr. Late. Nothing pays better than Promptness.

Be on Time. Promptness is the act of being on the job when your name is called—and answering to it. Not NEARLY—but THERE.

Be on Time. Time tells its minutes with even, regular strokes—never has a stroke been tolled out of Time or out of Time. The Job, the Appointment, the Order, the Friend, the Opportunity—won't wait for the man who doesn't respond on the spot.

Be on Time. Promptness is the act of being on the job when your name is called—and answering to it. Not NEARLY—but THERE.

Be on Time. Time tells its minutes with even, regular strokes—never has a stroke been tolled out of Time or out of Time. The Job, the Appointment, the Order, the Friend, the Opportunity—won't wait for the man who doesn't respond on the spot.

HEALTH TALKS

By WM. BRADY, M.D.

The largest, the most hideous appearing and the most harmless kind of goitre is the cystic goitre. Cyst means a swelling containing some fluid. In cystic goitre the enlargement of the neck is often monstrous, and the enlargement within the normal outline of the neck is sometimes as great as the visible outward growth. However, outside of the appearance and the annoyance of the enlarged neck, there is no influence upon the general health.

As for remedies, we have never observed the slightest benefit from any remedy whatever in cases of true cystic goitre, although simple goitre and exophthalmic goitre do respond to treatment in most instances. A cystic goitre, in our humble opinion, is an amenable to local or internal medication, charms or incantations as a way on the scalp and a way utterly refused to disappear until it is neatly and painlessly excised.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Gargle for Speakers and Singers. Please suggest a simple astringent gargle which one doing much public speaking and singing may use to clear the voice. Answer—Mix a dram of powdered alum with half pint of barley water and add an ounce or two of honey or rose. Gargle before speaking or singing to avoid roughness of the voice.

What is considered the most hygienic material for underwear, cotton, silk, wool or linen? Answer—For the eight months of the year when the weather is such that indoor heating is required, wool is the ideal stuff—light weight, knitted garments.

BOYS

After a baby has grown out of long clothes and has acquired pants and freckles and so much dirt that well-meaning relatives do not dare kiss it between meals it becomes a boy.

A boy is nature's answer to the claim that there is no perpetual motion. He is a man, minus wide ambition, pretence, greed and about 11 pounds. When he grows up he will trade romance, energy, helpfulness, waris and a snag-proof stomach for these other possessions. A boy is always getting the worst of it in some trade or other.

The world is full of boys that it is impossible to touch off a band or a ball game without collecting a thousand of them. Boys are not sentimental but they are just as sentimental as the newspapers of the country would go unscrutinized and unread and a thousand circus elephants would die of thirst. Boys are also useful in running errands. The best way for boys to get into trouble is to get into trouble.

Boys are not popular except with their parents, but they have many fine points. One of them is the fact that they will grow up to be men some day. Another is their entire trustworthiness. You can rely absolutely on a boy if you know what to rely on. Trust him to get into trouble.

Boys are abstemious, seldom eating, except when awake. They are also very durable. This accounts for the fact that the world is still populated. A boy, if not washed too much and if kept in a cool, dry place for a while after each accident, will survive fireworks, broken bones, swimming holes, hornets, runaways, fish fights, pirate bands, Indian wars and nine places of pie at a sitting. If only some method of making a boy's clothes as durable as he is could be discovered, life would be more attractive for boy growers.

A Victory Won by The French

An indication, and not the first, that the French are either more skilful or more fortunate than their neighbors as inventors of names for new things is to be found in the word "avion," recently manufactured and now in common use by them for application to the machine which we other peoples are still calling "aeroplane" when we have time—by the almost intolerably awkward name of "aeroplane."

The French name is exactly right. It pleases both the eye and the ear. It is perfect in construction, and it carries the essential, all-important and only distinctive idea of birdlike flight—a significance that is wholly lacking from "aeroplane." There are probably a dozen, possibly a score, of other devices that are "aeroplanes" just as much as is the one we so denominate. Among them are windmills, kites, weather vane and sails.

Another objection to "aeroplane" is that it demands an accent so far from its own, that our linguistic instinct, or sense of verbal rightness and propriety, is offended by the request, and most of us insist on stressing the antepenult and letting it go at that. "Avion" has no such faults, and it is as good English as French, now that it has been revealed to us.

But it is perhaps too late, alas! for us to change, and the chances are that we shall continue, though not gladly, to suffer "aeroplane," just as we do the even worse word, "automobile."—New York Times.

The Hod Is Doomed. The hod is doomed. So says E. C. Hathern, president of the Building Laborers' International Protective Union.

The quiet old hod-carrier, with his briar pipe—the man who merely carries the brick up to the fifth story, who the fellow up there does all the work—will soon be but a memory. "It will not be many years until the curio shop will claim the hod," says Hathern.

Hoisting machinery is filling the place of the laborer, and even mixing machines are becoming the rule in building operations. The hod-carrier has stepped up a notch. He has discarded his blackened pipe and now a cigar rakishly adorns the corner of his mouth. The hod-carrier wears a natty suit, and stands with his hand upon the lever of the hoisting machinery, sending up the material by that means for the "fellow who does the work."

"So moves the world. No one regrets that the labor of the workman is being made more pleasant and less wearisome, and yet who will not miss the old hod-carrier, with his cheerful humor? There will be less of the human element entering into the construction of home and public buildings.

The passing of the old-time workman may give place to better methods, but it has its element of sadness."—Emporia Gazette.

"OFF AGIN, ON AGIN" The Life Line

By Strickland W. Gillilan

Preachers are divided into two classes: Those we like and those we don't. Those we don't like are subdivided into two classes: Those who write and talk out, and those who try so hard to be "good fellows" that they disgust the very ones they are trying to impress.

Those who always wear conventional clerical garb and always talk like preachers make one nervous and tempt one to similitudinous mysticism. But they are preferable to the one that tells the proper way for him to get a hold on the layman is to tell said layman questionable stories containing as much second-hand profanity as possible, smoke plenty of cigars, take a nip with considerable regularity, and otherwise give the lie to his pulpit professions.

The roughest rough-neck in the world will desert a minister who acts in that way. We all expect a preacher to be a little better, a little cleaner, a little bit more redolent of recent and continuous contact with divine things, than we are ourselves. Maybe we shouldn't expect it, but the thoughts and conduct of this human race are not governed by shoulds.

The minister who thinks the way to be a good fellow is to tacitly ridicule his own teachings and those of the church, jars the latent reverence in breasts where he evidently doesn't think it exists. The real preacher is one with a keen sense of humor, a fine warm (not moist), manly, understanding sympathy with every real joy or sorrow of his fellow-men, but who always dignifiedly leads his companions to do and think the things that will lighten their own self-respect.

Get some, you say, to be and do these things. Sure. But a real preacher ought to be willing to exert himself a little. He is a human representative of the finest conception we mortals can ever know. Right important job, the preacher's!

Finnigan/Philosofy. The man that th' thrain waits for never kicks labour ut's betn' in-ale. Consistency. "Where do you expect to winter?" "In the very same place where I sprung, summered and fell."

An Annual Outburst. Thanksgiving Day comes on apace. Frank turkey's roosting high. The smile is on the small boy's face. He thinks of pumpkin pie. Cranberry sauce must soon be made. The meat's not right without it. The celery and apple trade improves—ay, none may doubt it. The rustics plan a rabbit hunt. "Mid alder brush and birch. Write those who do the pious stunt. Fix up and go to church."

But all unite at eating time. Because perfume they must. All o'er that bill of fare they climb. And—well, you'd think they'd bust! Some folks remember why they stuff. And carry on that way. The others simply know it's tough. To have such heads next day.

A Criticism and Opinion

BY "OPINIONIST"

A crusade for better schools is being organized by the present government. This is a move in which we can all heartily take part. The Regina Leader, on one page at least, professes to be a party organ. It is a department devoted to non-partisan province-wide popular discussion of educational needs and conditions.

This being an agitation for educational progress, of course frankness with each other and with the public is the foundation of our attitude. Disinterestedness of motive; frankness in the expression of personal opinions; open-mindedness toward the opinions of others. Let us take these elements as a matter of course in our discussion. We agree in purpose. We are seeking facts, examining them from every standpoint, and for the best of our judgment, testing them for their absolute value—regardless of any personality attached to them. Then we have mutual freedom to differ from, to question, to criticize, or to endorse the opinions expressed.

I wish to offer a criticism on an article published in the Leader—not in any spirit of antagonism—I merely restate the matter as it appears to me.

The article might be termed "A Call to Young Men."

Summed up it is as follows: "The teaching profession does not offer to our young men sufficient opportunities for advancement to well paid, permanent positions of influence."

Reasons tend thousands:
1. Increased salaries.
2. More principalships.
3. More supervising official positions.

The object of increasing salaries is to attract and hold the best class of men. The object of increasing official positions (unless it be merely to provide superficial importance) is to enable the actual worker—the one dealing directly with the child—to do better work.

Near the close the call states, "These well-paid openings would offer the best opportunities for constructive and desirable number of young, ambitious male teachers."

A reform which ignores actual conditions would scarcely be on a sound basis.

There are lady teachers in existence, and in all probability, they will continue to form a large proportion of the teaching staff. According to the figures, in 1913 there were in this province 2,739 lady teachers to 1,418 men; in 1914, 2,949 lady teachers to 1,551 men. What business incentive is offered to them to improve their work? Will natural ability, application, efficiency or results with pupils entitle them to promotion of position or advance in salary? No. These rewards are distributed on a basis of sex. Under such an arrangement what will be the relationship between officials and workers? Will the workers have confidence in and respect for their overseers? (Injustice rankles.) Will the lady teachers accept this as just to them? Is there anything about it to strengthen their interest in their work and hearten them to do it well?

Again—"The public and educational authorities, by offering high salaries and making openings for attractive careers, plan to draw the best men—men—men—to necessary mental qualifications possess (quoting from another article in the same issue) "unimpeachable moral qualifications."

In the first place, the best men—men such as our province needs to train her youth are men who are capable of making their own position—the public do not get the privilege.

In the second place, the man who possesses the mental qualifications for official positions is the man whose inherent love of the work itself is his motive power. The "office seeker" is of no more value to teaching worth than he is in business, politics or military life. Such a call attracts the man the teaching staff needs to get rid of, the man who is a dragging nuisance to every profession and business at present in existence—the mentally unfit.

As for the man with the desirable moral qualifications, he recognizes at once that on such a basis to accept is to disqualify himself.

A custom or system which eliminates a part of a profession from just recognition in the way of promotion of salary and puts that part under incompetent supervision does a grave injury to the work itself.

The teaching profession belongs to its workers, irrespective of sex. Interference with the natural progress of its members, instead of removing the "blind alley" aspect of the occupation, fosters for two-thirds of the staff the very condition which it proclaims to remove or one-third.

Men teachers feel keenly the fact that their profession is not held in high public esteem. There is a sort of dog sense in that persistent allure of the public to appreciate them.

A man in the teaching profession, assisted by custom, appropriates a superiority of position instead of winning it. His professional rivals are women—a negligible quantity—in his acting estimation. Unwittingly men have, by this false valuation of their associates, created for themselves a degrading environment. Until sex is forgotten and men are mentally big enough to refuse the bribes of custom and ignorance the teaching profession will continue to be rather a sissy affair for them.

I am not signing my name to this for the reason I saw at first. It is what is thought—not who thinks it or why which we wish to consider in order to improve the educational conditions of our province.

Maurice Costello, Vitagraph Star, Had Varied
Theatrical Experience
Before Becoming Movie Actor

SEVEN YEARS BEFORE THE CAMERA HAS PLAYED EVERY CONCEIVABLE KIND OF CHARACTER.

Involved the "Slow Motion" Style of Acting Now Used by Every Pictorial Star of Prominence.

Maurice George Washington Costello, who will be seen as Martin Fenchford in the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature "The Man Who Couldn't Beat God," was born in Pittsburg, on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, 1877. His father was Thomas Costello, born and raised in Ireland. His ancestors, three generations before, came from Spain. His mother was Helen Fitzgerald, also born and raised in Ireland. Her ancestors are pure Irish, as far back as can be traced.

Maurice Costello's parents were married in America. His father died when Maurice was two years old. The mother still lives. He has two sisters but no brothers. He was educated in the public schools in Pittsburg. Going to work when about eleven years old, as a printer's devil. He never had a chance to attend either high school or college, being compelled to help support the family.

When about sixteen years old he commenced to appear in amateur entertainments. His first professional engagement was with the Davis Stock Company in Pittsburg early in 1897. He continued with that organization for three years, playing everything from the smallest of parts to important characters and ranging from boys to old men. In two comedies he burlesqued female characters. His first professional work was with a company recognized as the most successful stock company in America gave him training such as few actors ever receive.

Possessing an enviable reputation as a stock actor, Mr. Costello was engaged with the Boyle Stock Company in Nashville, Tenn. The Spooner, the Columbia, and the Gotham Stock Companies in Brooklyn, N. Y., the Yorkville Stock Company in New York City and summer stock companies in Wildwood, N. J., and Fall River, Mass. Several road engagements were sandwiched in with these stock engagements.

Seven years ago he played a few extra parts with the Vitagraph Company of America. The crude cameras and projecting machines of that period and the style of motion picture acting did not seem to agree as there was a terrific jerkiness in all pictures. Mr. Costello evolved the "slow motion" style of acting which is now used by every pictorial star of importance in the entire world. This new style of acting attracted the attention of the Vitagraph Company and he was engaged as their leading man.

His exceptionally varied theatrical experience, his remarkably strong facial features and his intensive and constructive abilities in his new style of acting soon gained for him an enviable reputation in pictures. His fame extended to Europe, then all over the world, and he became the first internationally famous motion picture star. His only motion picture engagement has been with the Vitagraph Company of America; he is still in their employ and heading their list of stars.

In December, 1913, he headed a company of Vitagraphers sent around the world. The trip required nearly a year and pictures were taken in every country visited. This trip proved the most successful of the several similar trips made by other concerns, for Costello's ability as an inventive director surmounted many of the obstacles which have been the undoing of the other similar companies. His repertoire numbers about 300 dramatic plays and more than 1000 photoplays. In pictures he has played everything from a servant to Christ—appearing as the Saviour in "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Prior to entering the dramatic profession, Mr. Costello was well known in Pittsburg as an all-round amateur athlete. He is now an enthusiastic automobilist and boxer. He is a mason, and a member of the Greenroom Club and the Screen Club.

Mr. Costello was married to Mae Tresham, a non-professional, and has two daughters, Dolores and Helen. Costello, who are well known as child artists in the motion picture world.

"The Man Who Couldn't Beat God" with Maurice Costello as the "Man" will be seen at The Rose on Wednesday and Thursday.

THOSE WINDOW ENVELOPES
Whenever they hand my mail to me I look it over, quick,
As anxious as the deuce, to see
If fate has played a trick
And sent me one with windowed side.

The address showing through,
I've always groaned when those I've spied—
They tell me something's due!

It may be from the grocer man,
It may be from the plumber;
It may be for the lovely lass
Top-coat I bought last summer.
But whatsoever goods 'tis for,
It makes me shudder still—
Those things with that transparent door

Always contain a bill.

And so I look the letters o'er
With fear down in my heart,
One may be from some grouchy store

Down in the busy mart,
Such cowardice may be a sin,
But I admit it still—
Those envelopes with windows in
AL-ways contain a bill!

AURIER ASKS FRENCH CANADA TO DO ITS PART

Primes Asselin's Action in Raising Entente Greater in Europe Than Canada

Entente Greater in Europe Than Canada

Eliminate Race Feeling in This Country, Says Liberal Leader

Montreal, Dec. 10.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in his address at the Montevideo conference last evening, declared that the entente cordiale between Great Britain and France, and the other countries of the two political blocs in Canada, did not mean to exist in Canada to the same extent as it does in Europe.

Mr. Laurier, in a letter to the Minister of Education, in which the Nationalists had asked to raise a French-Canadian regiment, said: "Asselin says, 'Sir Wilfrid contended, 'that to fight with the allies is to fight for civilization and there are no two ideas about this in the civilized world. He says that he has not departed from his ideas. I have never heard of them, but I have no reason to make. We are in a free country, but when he comes back from the war covered with glory, we will again hear those ideas.

"To claim that it is the duty of each man to fight is to claim it is the collective duty of a nation to fight, and it is because of that fact that Mr. Asselin is enabled to carry out his noble aspirations which animate him.

"Now, I have talked the war from a point of view of humanity, and what is the effect on Canada? Can this be increased? Germany wants to crush France, Britain and Italy, and then Germany would have the hand in the world.

"Do not forget that the powers in that case would be Germany and the United States, two continents face to face. Perhaps Germany, bruised by the war, would not be ready to start war on the United States at once, but it would start at once with military operations for the next war, and the United States would have to start at once to become a military nation. The world understands that if Germany triumphs in this war the United States will receive its neutrality in the war as Britain today receives its neutrality in 1870.

"I appeal to the good sense of my countrymen. I see the house of my neighbor burning. Do I go into the question of his conduct while it is burning? More than that, I see France attacked by Germany; England going to her help; and yet some people here saying that we should not help. England is accused of not helping France in 1870, but these same people say that France is not above reproach, and allowed Prussia to despoil Denmark.

"Cause of Humanity Triumphed. In 1914 in the British parliament it was the cause of humanity which triumphed. France addressed herself to England and asked for help to save her. Britain that day immediately replied and covered the seas with its fleets, and immediately rubbed its whole army over, and started to raise new armies of 4,000,000 men, and English, Scottish and Irish rushed to range themselves beneath the banner, without conscription or force upon them, but for liberty and civilization.

war, and the manner in which all instrumental influences in France had disappeared.

"I am forty years in public life, and in all parts of the country I have always proclaimed my French origin but at the same time have always made my declaration that British institutions are greater than all others. I have always thought of these two great nations, Britain and France, marching at the vanguard of civilization together, and I praise heaven that I have lived to see the entente cordiale—an entente, I am sorry to say, which is greater perhaps between the two mother countries than in this country. Those who have patriotism should work to restore harmony here on a basis acceptable by all, understood by all, with justice to all.

"When our young soldiers come back from the front, and Mr. Asselin, when he comes back, there should be an end of discord. French-Canadian and English-Canadian have fallen side by side and now sleep together in eternal sleep in the soil of France. If these difficulties here continued they would rise from their graves and cry to us here, 'Peace.'

"People in Montreal have said that Canada should not take part in this war, and should only defend its own soil. That there is no merit in that. Any man who would not defend his own soil would be worthy the indignation of everyone. That is the most elemental of duties. For a noble cause we must do more than our duty. Let us look at the example of Lafayette. If we need another example, we can look at the United States who went to Cuba to save the people there from Spanish tyranny.

"If Germany is victorious in this war all Europe will be at her feet. If we need another example, let us look at the example of Lafayette. If we need another example, we can look at the United States who went to Cuba to save the people there from Spanish tyranny.

"Cause of Liberalism. 'You Liberals, this war is the cause of liberalism. You have heard some people say that in this war England has reaped what she has sown. This idea is affirmed and reaffirmed in Montreal (Sir Wilfrid had in his hand a copy of a local publication) that she should not have allowed Prussia to degrade France in 1870.'

"Sir Wilfrid then referred to politics of those days, and publication or projected secret treaties in which Napoleon the third participated which had alienated sympathy in England from France.

"Today," continued Sir Wilfrid, "British armies are on the soil of France to defend it against the Prussians. Those who make statements to hurt recruiting—would ask Canada to commit the same fault they accuse England of having made in 1870. I see the house of my neighbor burning. Do I go into the question of his conduct while it is burning? More than that, I see France attacked by Germany; England going to her help; and yet some people here saying that we should not help. England is accused of not helping France in 1870, but these same people say that France is not above reproach, and allowed Prussia to despoil Denmark.

"Cause of Humanity Triumphed. In 1914 in the British parliament it was the cause of humanity which triumphed. France addressed herself to England and asked for help to save her. "I hear another objection. Is it any use for Canada to send 100,000 or 200,000 across in the midst of millions and millions of Germans, Austrians, French, British and others. What can our few men do? It is little for them, yet their millions, and yet the sacrifice is enormous upon us.

"I will not admit that what we are doing is without result, and will be without result on the final decision. (Cheers.)

"Is it for us Canadians to say that numbers alone count, and not courage? Our history is filled with incidents which show that the weak have triumphed. We have the memory of Dollard Des Ormeaux, who did not fear to die, but who saved the colony. We have the testimony of General French to the effect that our men have not lost the courage of their ancestors and know how to die. And at Langemarck, that day, who was it saved the day, recovered the cannon and held the field? Who but our own sons.

"Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" was delight to large audience. The rhythm of Longfellow's "Hiawatha," combined with the beautifully appropriate setting of Coleridge-Taylor's music, could not fail to appeal to any audience. Combined with this pleasant fact was an orchestra which did justice to the music and credit to themselves, and a full chorus to render the words in a meritorious manner and with instant response to the directions of the capable conductor, Professor Moncrieff Mawer. Mr. Mawer is responsible for the concert which was held in the Westminster church auditorium last night, and to him is due the credit for the undoubted success which attended it. The financial effort was made for the church choir.

There was but one solo in the "Wedding Feast," and that was the song of Chibiabos, the sweet singer, taken by Mr. Louis S. Heile, tenor of Winnipeg, who was present for this special occasion. In this song, "Onaway, awake, beloved," Mr. Heile revealed the lyric quality of his voice, while in the second part of the programme he showed himself in a different light in his native tongue, more especially in the "Marsellaise," which the audience received with enthusiasm.

The choir was full and fairly well balanced, the lack of volume from the male voices being apparent at times. Of the orchestra, too much cannot be said. Professor Laubach was in charge of this, while Miss Jamieson was leader of the first violins. Both Mr. Laubach and Miss Jamieson were heard in most satisfying solos in the second part. Miss Jamieson having chosen "Deep River," the work of the same truly American composer as the main piece of the evening, arranged for the violin by Mand Powell. Mr. Laubach was forced to respond to an encore.

A new soloist in Regina, Mrs. E. B. Morrison, was welcomed with all enthusiasm last night. Mrs. Morrison has a rich full contralto, and when she used it in Scotch songs "With a Hundred Pipers" and later in "Annie Laurie," she won a permanent place in Regina's heart.

Mrs. Hisey, another soloist, had a difficult number in the high soprano "Jewel Song" from "Faust," but sang it both easily and with grace. By the same token, Mr. S. F. Holmes sang the prologue from "I Pagliacci" with clearness and dramatic effect that set him above the ordinary soloist.

In the opening and closing numbers of the second part of the program the choir acquitted itself in a way which must have been very gratifying to the conductor, Miss Josie Radcliffe, a pupil of Mr. Mawer. She was at the organ for the chorus parts of the program, while Mr. Mawer himself played the organ accompaniment to the violin and cello numbers. Mr. E. M. Laubach was the pianist of the evening.

Swift Current, Dec. 10.—The engagement of Miss Iowa Briggs to Lieut. M. A. MacPherson, was announced at a luncheon given by Mrs. Frank West on Saturday afternoon, December 4.

S. Donaldson, M.P., Prince Albert, was in the city this week visiting his daughter, Mrs. (Dr. R. A. Ross).

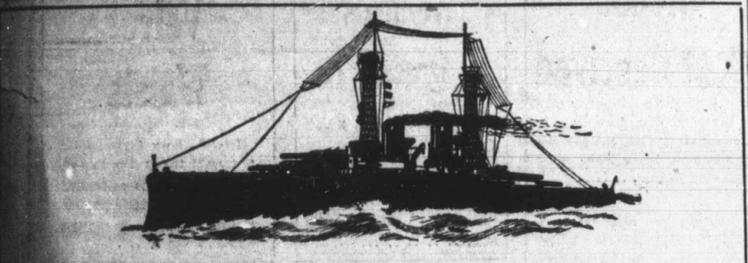

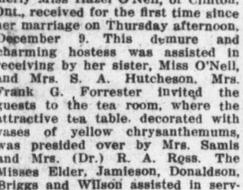

Swift Current will have one of the tallest soldiers in the trenches. "Exp. Constable J. J. Lawrence, or 'Long Joe,'" as he was popularly called, having just to assist with his old regiment at Calgary. "Long Joe" is six feet eight inches high, and to the small boy of the town he was the giant of the fairy tales.

Mrs. (Dr.) Donald E. Ross, formerly Miss Hazel O'Neill, of Clinton, Ont., received for the first time since her marriage on Thursday afternoon, December 9. This ceremony and charming hostess was assisted in receiving by her sister, Miss O'Neill, and Mrs. S. A. Hutcheson. Mrs. Frank G. Forrester invited the guests to the tea room, where the attractive tea table decorated with vases of yellow chrysanthemums, was presided over by Mrs. Sams and Mrs. (Dr.) R. A. Ross. The Misses Elder, Jamieson, Donaldson, Briggs and Wilson assisted in serving and Miss Mina Forrester opened the door for the guests.

Comb Sage Tea Into Gray Hair. A Mixture of Sage and Sulphur Darkens the Hair Beautifully and Evenly.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

Preparedness, The Vital Factor—

not alone in affairs of the Dominion, but with the health of every citizen. One seldom knows when the common enemy, sickness, in one form or another, is about to strike; and the best form of preparedness is to keep body and brain healthy. Active brains and vigorous bodies are the result of right living—food plays a big part.

Grape-Nuts

made of whole wheat and malted barley, supplies all the bone- and brain-building, nerve- and muscle-making elements of the grains, including the vital salts, phosphate of potash, etc., often lacking in the diet of many, but imperative for bounding good health.

Grape-Nuts is easily digested—comes ready for table directly the germ-proof, moisture- and dust-proof packet is opened. With good milk or cream Grape-Nuts supplies complete nourishment.

A ration of Grape-Nuts each day is a safe play for health, and
