CHAPTER XXXII.

"Is gone to the same place he was coming from when you met him last July; to James Legh's, an old friend of our family. He told poor Gilbert last year if anything could ever benefit him it would be total cessation from work, absolute freedom from anxiety; and that I know he has had. 'Try those,' said Doctor Legh, 'and come again next summer; so he is gone, much to my surprise. I thought he had given up the notion, but this morning it appeared to have taken hold of him, so I would not vex him by saying 'no' to it; I merely remarked, 'I'm afraid it's a waste of money. Gilbert dear, and with quarter-day near I am short, as usual; nevertheless, here are two sovereigns, and I know you'll give me any change you bring back.' But really, Miss Grey, you look as if you had a headache; how glad you will be of a quiet day with me alone. While you are getting up I'll go down and make you some strong tea. You'll enjoy that; and with a pleasant glow of self-appreciation of trotted Miss Hurst.

In half an hour Sydney descended; too: the stairs, the hall, the very sunshine, all looking strange, as if she had some illness since noticing them last. The gleaming river beyond the garden set her shuddering. The house seemed curiously, eloquently empty. The absence of one pervaded every room, every minute.

At the end of the breakfast table Miss Hurst sorted and dusted sundry inherited treasures of crockery. While Sydney made the best feat of a meal she could, the industrious lady proceeded with her Crown Derby, explaining,

"I take the opportunity of doing this while Gilbert is away. I am so careful not to hurt his feelings; I always try to avoid saying, 'Mind where you are going or what you are doing; and I'm sure the way he moves about is extraordinary; but I tell him prevention is better than cure; so I put cups and saucers like these out of his reach, for he would be sorry to do me an injury in anything, little or large, as I'm sure he proved last night." Then, after ostentatious pause,

"You will like to hear how I got out with him, Miss Grey?"

"Yes. If you don't think Mr. Hurst will mind your telling me."

"Why should he! If I choose to confide in any one, what need stop me? Mr.—Mr.—Oh, dear!"—with quite a juvenile simper—"I must say Horatius, is gone to Hereford till this evening, and I am not one who can stand I had no intention of driving him into work. 'Of course,' I said, 'dear Gilbert, if you just live with us, you will make—our children your companions. They are backward now, but in a year's time Belle will be able to read to you. And you wouldn't expect me to go on paying Miss Grey to stop here, when there will be plenty of us to attend to you, and my poor little income will be wanted in fifty new ways.'

A tremor of that coming separation turned Sydney cold.

"It is reasonable," she said, shrinking from her own words, "that I should leave you."

Miss Hurst had strayed on awkward ground. In her own embarrassment she overlooked Sydney's emotion.

"You and I will settle that by and by. But I was bound to just name it to my brother. And, dear Miss Grey, now don't mind this, but I said, too, that I thought for your own self it would be a good thing for you to leave us."

The blood rushed tingling over Sydney's face. Was her secret an open one? What had Miss Hurst guessed? What had she told her brother?

"A good thing for me to leave!" she faltered; "but—why?"

Miss Hurst had finished her china. Now she drew her chair close to her startled companion, and patting her arm, said, with genuine kindness,

"Because, my dear, if I may call you so—for Miss Grey sounds stiff, and whether you or Susan, or Sarah, or Sybil, you've never told us—because I really do not think this is the place for you. As Horatius himself said, being interested, you know, in every one I like, a lady so young and nice-looking ought hardly to have been put in such a post. I was conscious of it from the beginning. But I never spoke of your age or your appearance to my brother. They have been alluded to before him, but such remarks seemed simply to go in at one ear and out of the other; so I am free from trouble on that score. But other people make comments. Mrs. Preece has done so. And I think, and Horatius thinks, that another home would be more suitable for you. Besides—"

"Well—besides?" said Sydney, slowly.

"Why—I must drop concealment, and say to you as I did to my brother last night, that I feel confident—yes, quite, that you have some matrimonial project which may be brought to a happy crisis by your quitting us. Now, don't be offended"—as Sydney started violently—"I will be quite frank. I have put things together which you have said, and so on, the weekly letter you are so particular over, and the one that comes for you—the gentleman's letters, as that inquisitive-eyed Fanny called them, though I've never seen even the address of one—and I can quite see you have had disagreements with your family. But—with a gust of romantic fervor—"you and your lover have been constant! So let me just write to this mother and sister of yours, 'travelling in France,' you know, and tell them that you've earned a right to be rewarded! It's not that I want to lose you. If I had the means we lost really through that wretched Mr. Alwyn, why I would say 'stop, Miss Grey!' Some one, I am told, has paid that unfortunate man's actual creditors after all. But we have no legal claim. No one thinks of our moral one. So we must go injured to the end of our days, and so must others, indirectly, even you. But, as I said to Gilbert, it is my firm trust that Miss Grey in leaving us will gain her due—a home and a husband such as she is fit for. Now, my dear, have I not guessed right?"

Over this excellent-intentioned labyrinth of words Sydney turned dizzy. What to set right, what to leave unexplained, she could not sift out. Deeply reddening, then chill and pale, she was able only to thank Miss Jean disjointly for her expressed interest, interrupted by a brisk "Don't say a word about that. Our obligations are equal. As I insisted on to Gilbert. He was naturally taken up with my prospect, and appeared to pay no attention to yours; kept walking at the other end of the room, and didn't answer once till I said, 'Really, Gilbert, you ought to wish Miss Grey prosperity in marriage or

PERFECT CURE FOR THE KIDNEYS

Suffered For 10 Months With Terrible Kidney Trouble Until He Learned Of GIN PILLS

"I suffered misery even when under treatment from the best doctors for ten months, and nothing seemed to do me any good—relieve my painful condition. My trouble was inflammation of the kidneys and bladder. I finally determined to go to the Victoria Hospital, Halifax, for treatment. Two days, however, before my intended departure, a neighbor called and happening to have a GIN PILL in his pocket insisted on my trying it. I did so, and six hours after taking it, the results and benefits I derived were simply nothing short of miraculous. Instead of going to the hospital, I sent for a box of GIN PILLS, with the result that I am a cured man. I recommend GIN PILLS to everyone suffering from Kidney and Bladder Troubles". LEWIS MACPHERSON.

It makes no difference what you have been using—if you have any trouble with the kidneys or bladder—if the urine is hot and scalding—or if your back aches or you have rheumatism—take GIN PILLS and cure yourself. Remember, every box of GIN PILLS is sold with a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50 at all druggists. AFTER SUFFERING TWO LONG YEARS

Mrs. Aselin Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"After my little one was born I was sick with pains in my sides which the doctors said were caused by inflammation. I suffered a great deal every month and grew very thin. I was under the doctor's care for two long years without any benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try it we got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the third bottle of the Compound I was able to do my housework and today I am strong and healthy again. I will answer letters if anyone wishes to know about my case."—Mrs. JOSEPH ASELIN, 623 Monroe St., N. E., Minneapolis, Minn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy we know for woman's ills. If you need such a medicine why don't you try it?

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

anything else! Don't let me have to tell her you care nothing for her going or staying! Then he said—(Sydney sat motionless, but with hands so tightly locked her father's small seal ring cut deeply into the finger it encircled)—I certainly care for Miss Grey's well-doing. I have regretted her being here for months past. She should be freed from us immediately. No more breakfast?"—Sydney had risen, had moved away—"Well, I am to fetch the dear children to lunch, and must be going for them. Take a day or two to determine what you wish. And ask me to do anything you can think of for your advantage."

So ended Sydney's last lengthy convulse with Miss Hurst. For during her remaining days at Wynstone, if the elated fiancée was not holding charmed converse with Mr. Babington, Florry's frocks or Harry's food or Bella's boots, or some willingly antedated duty, demanded her time, and Sydney was left weary leisure in which to chafe her spirit more and more sorely. Miserably useless encouragement, despite all her cravings to serve them, no matter how cruel the wrench. One hour she longed to be away; another, the prospects of him who, all-unaring, had drawn forth her love, never to be given back, the foresight of his isolation, sympathy only too poignant with that night fatal acme of his desolate sorrow, and leaving him seemed impossible. But very soon decision was imperative.

The Aching Void.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"There's such an aching void between the girl I want to be and the girl I succeeded in being," a dear little letter friend writes me, "that I get completely discouraged. I don't believe there's any good in me."

Dear little letter friend, don't get discouraged. Don't think there isn't any good in you. For by your will of woe you have proved just the opposite.

"There's such an aching void," you say, "between the girl you are and the girl you want to be." Little letter friend, let me tell you something. No longer as that void aches you're all right. It's when it stops aching that you will have reason to be displeas'd at yourself.

The pangs we feel at our failure to fulfill our ideals are the growing pains of the soul. They are not a sign of disease, but of health. The sick soul is the self-satisfied soul.

Except for a saint, there must always be a void between the reality and the ideal of conduct. In the morning we face the day with shining morning face and high courage. We are sure we are going to be kind and tactful in our speech; we are going to control that hasty temper; we are going to overcome that turbulent desire to have our own way in everything, and sacrifice ourselves and will some of the time; we are going to drive out ugly thoughts of hate and envy and jealousy from our mind; we are not going to fritter away time as we usually do, but make the most of every precious moment and really accomplish something.

A few moments later—surely it was no more than that—we find the day has slipped away. It is night, the record is written, and such a different record from the one we planned! Not seven times, but seventy times seven, have we slipped down from our ideal. How could we have done it, we wonder. What is it that makes us so much worse than other folks. Courage, comrades, we're not worse than other folks, at least not so long as we try, and care when we fail. Perhaps we have more to struggle with than others; who knows? The only real failure is to stop caring and trying.

I said it was only the saints who did not have reason to feel the aching void. I need not have excepted any human being. Could you find a better description of the aching void between real and ideal than St. Paul's intensely human cry, "For the good that I would I do not; but the evil which I would not, that I do."

Don't worry, little letter friend, we're all with you and St. Paul, and the only thing that ever need utterly discourage you or any of us is to find that the void no longer aches.

Siam.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Sivasch."

Siam is a patch of hot, moist ground a little smaller than Texas which lies so far away that there is considerable dispute as to whether it is west or east of the United States.

Very little is known and hardly anything suspected concerning Siam in this country. Going over our regular stock of knowledge we find that Siam is related to China, is governed by a king named Chulalongkorn, and that its principal products are white elephants and twins. Referring to the encyclopedia we discover with sorrow that Chulalongkorn has died and that his son Chawfa Maha Vajirvudh, is running the country, creating consternation and despair among thousands of schoolboys who do not like geography any too well any way.

The encyclopedia also ignores the celebrated Siamese twins and pays no attention to the blonde elephants. These corrections leave practically everyone on the ground floor, with plenty of building room as far as knowledge of Siam is concerned.

Siam began to edge into Eastern history for the first time about 1,500 years ago. It was discovered by the Portuguese 350 years ago. Its real discoverer was P. T. Barnum, who opened the "hood gates" of interest throughout America concerning Siam by means of his celebrated menagerie and doubled the tourist business in two years.

Siam lies in the Indo-Chinese Peninsula, about 6,000 miles west of San Francisco, and contains 6,000,000 small brown inhabitants, who make their living by raising rice and opium and cutting lumber. They are strictly vegetarian in their building, living in reed and bamboo huts. Bangkok, the capital, has much cleaner streets than Chicago, but this is because most of them are composed of water. Water is the favorite road-making material in Siam, and the children of the country teach the ducklings how to swim. The automobile is not a great success in the outlying districts, where the tourist travels with a canoe, an axe and ten pounds of quinine.

Siam has 600 miles of railway and some moving picture shows. It is a better educated country than Venezuela, but women are not taught to read which accounts for the fact that there is no department store advertising in the country. The Siamese are very musical, using the Cubist system and repelling invaders with great courage by playing at them. We can learn much from Siam, but how to do so without investing in steam-fer fare remains a great puzzle to most of us.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hessong Fueselle

Memories of Former Home-Comings

The early twilight had descended when Marian got aboard the street car, after bidding Mrs. and Miss Van Dine good-bye, and promising to be at their home at 3.30 the coming Friday. The Van Dines made their way to a waiting automobile, inviting Marian to accompany them. Marian declined, ashamed to let them know where she lived. She pleaded the necessity of doing some telephoning; and, before proceeding to the street car, she entered a telephone booth. She entered the boarding house, and was told that she might have her old room again.

Had it not been for the fortunate meeting with the Van Dines on the train, Marian would have returned to the city with a heart full of misgivings, with the prayer that she might defer longer the hour of reckoning with the forces of circumstances that lie crouched, like an evil army, in the pathway of a woman who has her own way to make, yet who does not possess the tools which enable an individual to carve her way to economic safety.

She would have been filled with painful memories of the tilts for jobs she had already gone through. She would have laughed ironically at the boasts she had made to her former husband, in fretful moments, that she could take care of herself, little dreaming what the actual undertaking would mean.

But instead of feeling thus, Marian made her way to the car with light steps and a lighter heart. Pleasant, professional, and no doubt profitable work had been tossed her way by a curious and delightful trick of fate. Looking into the future, she could already see herself teaching many wealthy girls, possibly in an artistic studio of her own, building an enviable reputation, making a big and useful place for herself in the world.

As the trolley car darted on with many a pause, Marian's thoughts reverted to former home-comings, as she gazed at the familiar details of the city. She had taken several little journeys during her wedded life. To-day she contrasted her feelings with those on her way home on previous occasions. Hitherto she had always come home with satisfaction. Home! Despite its defects and shortcomings, despite the temperamental gulf between her and Frank, there had always been the feeling of possession as to her home, the subconscious feeling that it lay within her power to raise it higher and higher, even though only little by little, toward the perfect home of which she had dreamed.

To-day, as she looked back upon her lost fight, she regretted that she had not had the strength to fight on, and not the strength of will and purpose, the strength that overrides odds and obstacles, haps and mishaps, was the force that makes for success. She knew it now. With overwhelming envy, she felt her thoughts leap out toward those who have that strength to execute, and fight, and persist with dogged determination which alone can overcome defeat in the face of odds.

To what divorced woman do these regrets not come—in their lonely, fearful, tired hours? Better to endure anything, they reflect, than to have launched forth into the uncharted seas of unwed life after the learning years. Dazed after their act, they question its wisdom, lose faith in themselves, and stand trembling in the snarl of circumstances that grip them.

But again, Marian's thoughts reverted to her new-found opportunity, and she swiftly shook off her mood of depression. "I left Frank with my eyes wide open," she said to herself. "I'd do it again if I were in the same position. I'm glad I made a fresh start. I'm going to fight—and win."

Had she waited ten years longer, she knew she could never have executed the revolt. The bravery of youth would have been gone. She was glad she had acted.

Track Meets.

Red McGhee says:

Red McGhee

A lot of people every year get all togged up an' go to hear grand opera singers shout. Some really 'preciate it; too, but on the dead there's doggone few know what it's all about. Somehow it strikes me that's the way the field an' track meet crows to-day turn out to foot an' cheer. Not many really know the stunts—so much is goin' on at once it puts 'em in the clear.

Some watch the weight men practicing an' never know a bloomin' thing about the hurdle race. Or else they watch the pole vault guys while some one cops the mile run prize right there before their face. An' if they try to keep a score, it only balls 'em up the more—the half points get their goat. They cheer an' yell alright enough an' make a fairly decent bluff at knowin' what to note.

Of course the megaphone brigade yells out each record that is made an' keeps the crowd in touch. Some never hear an' those that do don't understand it when they're through; so that don't help so much. Some folks can tell who won the day by watchin' as the crowds go 'way to see who makes the noise. But most of 'em to get it straight forget it for the night an' wait for mornin' paper boys.

The Sealing Enquiry.

WIRELESS IMPERATIVE.

One fact to our mind stands out more clearly than any other fact in connection with the "Newfoundland" disaster, and that is the misapprehension in the minds of Capt. Westbury Kean and Capt. Abraham Kean as to whereabouts of the sealers caught out in the storms of March 21st and April 1st. Capt. Westbury Kean thought they were aboard the Stephano, and Capt. Abraham Kean thought they were aboard the Newfoundland. They were on board neither ship. They were perishing on the ice. Capt. Westbury Kean had received a signal on the Monday evening of March 30th from his father, Capt. Abraham Kean, which gave him the idea that the Stephano was in the seals, and which as he thought was an invitation to steam the Newfoundland there where he would find plenty of seals to pan. The Newfoundland was jammed and after consulting with his second hand, George Tuff, he determined to send his crew with their master watches to the Stephano. George Tuff volunteered to take charge, and the crew set out. No information as to the plan of campaign was given out generally to the crew. Capt. Westbury Kean expected not unreasonably, but wrongly as the facts show, that the Stephano and the Florizel would remain in the vicinity, while their crews and his crew were panning seals. The facts however were quite different from what he believed existed. There was no great body of seals in the vicinity. Capt. Abraham did not intend to remain, nor did Capt. Joseph Kean in the Florizel. Capt. Kean's intention in signalling was to invite his son, Capt. Westbury, to come up in the Newfoundland to take a small patch of seals which he did not intend to go after. He was not inviting the Newfoundland's sealers without their ship. The Newfoundland's sealers reached the Stephano and Capt. Westbury saw them board that vessel. He did not see them leave her. But they did leave her and after being carried and afterwards walking in the direction of the patch pointed out by Capt. Abraham Kean they made for their own ship. This Capt. Westbury Kean did not know, as he expected the Stephano was still in the same neighborhood and his men were aboard her. Nor did he expect them back in any case, storm or no storm, as he thought they would pan all day and stay aboard his father's or brother's ship for the night.

The misapprehension of the true facts led to an awful tragedy of errors. All these errors could not have occurred between the captain of the Stephano and the Florizel, or between any captains who had wireless aboard to enable them to exchange messages and obtain full particulars of the situation and the intentions of one another. The Newfoundland, however, had no wireless aboard this time. The Newfoundland would have saved the disaster. The installation of wireless on board sealing steamers should be made imperative by the Legislature. That is the chief lesson of the disaster. That is one of the most important matters a commission should take up. We are pleased to find in the Daily News this morning, an announcement that a more comprehensive investigation of the conduct and management of the Sealing Industry will in due course follow.

WEATHER.—A strong south east wind with rain, prevails on the West Coast to-day. It is calm and dull along the line of railway, with the temperature ranging from 35 to 50 above.

Closing Subscriptions.

The Executive Committee of the Sealing Fund have decided to close the subscription lists on June 15th. All subscriptions should be sent in by that date, and with the amount of the fund known and the claims on it before them, the Committee can then determine more exactly how to allocate the money and make provisions for those coming on the funds. Exclusive of those of the survivors, permanently or temporarily disabled, there will be about 700 persons dependent on it. A sad feature of it is that 100 of these are under two years of age. A gratifying feature of the list is the hearty response which has come from city, outports and countries abroad. At present the amount in hand is nearly $200,000 and there are large sums still to come in from abroad. Among them there is about $11,000 from Montreal, and $25,000 from the Government of the Dominion of Canada.

Congratulations.

We congratulate the Hon. R. A. Squires, Grand Master of the Newfoundland Grand Lodge of the I.O.A., on his election as Grand Master of the Grand Chapter of the Grand Black Chapter of British North America. The Grand Lodge of British North America has voted $500 to the Marine Disaster Fund. The information came to Mr. Puddister from Mr. Squires at Regina. Mr. Puddister has, we are pleased to find, been appointed Deputy Lecturer for Newfoundland.

Vessel Sank.

CREW HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

News reached Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, of the Customs Department to-day, that the schooner Agnes R., owned by Ryan Brothers of Trinity, was lost and that the crew had a very narrow escape with their lives. The Agnes R., Richard Walker, master, was bound from Brigus to Trinity, and at ten o'clock on Tuesday night last, she struck a large piece of ice near the Horse Chops and sank. The crew had a close call. They saved themselves by rowing to Green Island, where they reached at noon yesterday after having an anxious time of it.

Boys Return.

The two boys, McNamara and Kelly, referred to in yesterday's Telegram, returned by the Trepassey train last night, and are none the worse for their experience. They left here for Petty Harbor and having run short of food set out for Witless Bay, where an aunt of one of the lads, Mrs. O'Driscoll, resides. The boys evidently did not realize the distance as it would have been much easier for them to return to town for supplies, and thus avoid the anxiety which they caused their parents.

A MENACE TO THE PUBLIC HEALTH.—Now that the clean-up season is on, the attention of the Health authorities may be directed, with advantage, to the pile of garbage that has accumulated inside the walls of the hotel foundation at Port William. This offensive matter is detrimental to the public health and should be removed as speedily as possible.

Two nights ago two young seamen, belonging to the s.s. Meadowsfield, who had been celebrating ashore, went on board, attacked the donkeyman and gave him an unmerciful overhauling. The aggressors used their boots as well as fists, terribly bruising their opponent about the head. The latter took out a summons for the culprits, who to-day were fined $5 or 14 days.

This Would Suit Partial Payment Investors

—as it fills their requirements to such a satisfactory degree that we know of few other securities equally desirable. We refer to the 6 p.c. Cumulative Preferred Stock of Robin, Jones & Whitman, Ltd.

—In the first place, it is distinctly a high-grade security, with a large margin of reserves, actually amounting to $127,002.87. (Partial Payment investors demand "safety first" in their investments.)

—Secondly, the return on the investment considering the security is very attractive—7.07 p.c. on the Preferred alone and in addition a 25 p.c. bonus of valuable dividend—earning Common Stock. (Partial Payment investors insist on as high a return as possible consistent with safety.)

Therefore, we anticipate numerous requests for our Special Report on this issue from those likely to purchase on the Partial Payment Plan.

Belleoram Notes.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Even since the latter part of February, the weather on this coast has been desperately bad, and unless a great change takes place in a favorable direction it is hard to tell what time the Western Shore trips of fish are going to be made up fit for market.

The past winter's fishery went far ahead of last year's figures, but as far as it would have gone had it not been hampered by an almost constant blockade of heavy Arctic drift ice.

Seven of our Belleoram schooners prosecuted the fishery the past winter and secured among them about 4,000 qtls., of which the Effie M. Prior, Capt. Stephen V. Cluett, secured 800 qtls., the Valoria, Capt. John Kearley, 600 qtls., the Winifred, Captain Richard Critchell, 500 qtls.; the Acme, Capt. Matt. Cretchell, 450 qtls.; the Alice M. Pike, Capt. Benj. Keeping, 500 qtls.; the Nahada, Capt. John B. Dicks, 450 qtls., the Harry Nicolson, Capt. John M. Fudge, 750 qtls.

Since they left on their second trip messages have been received stating that the Valoria had secured 400 qtls. more, the Acme, 500 qtls., the Winifred, 250 qtls., and the Valoria 800 qtls. None of the others have been heard from.

The lobster fishery all round the bay to date is almost absolutely nil, the catch being less than one-third as great as that of last year. At this time, and as a result times are beginning to look gloomy indeed.

And times in Belleoram, though not at all bad are most unusually dull just now, there being no strike whatever to break the chronic monotony. Only for the Church Women's Association that manages to get up something to entertain the men when the banking schooners arrive, there would be no chance whatever to relax or intermingle in any general social way. But the members of that body prove themselves equal to the occasion whenever an opportunity offers, with the result that a little amount of money is realized for some worthy purpose.

They were greatly hampered the past winter by an extensive outbreak of smallpox which affected some 25 families in the place. All places of public gatherings were closed from Xmas until the last week in February. Since that time, they have had a Sale of Work and a Tea, at the former they realized $117 and at the latter $65. They will devote $100 of this towards helping to pay off the debt on the new school, and $25 to the Nfld. Disaster fund.

Since its inception here about six years ago the Association has done surprisingly good work. It has raised for various purposes during that time somewhere between three thousand and four thousand dollars. Among its most pious undertakings might be mentioned the placing of an organ in the church at a cost of $700, the painting of the church at a cost of $400, the purchasing of a carpet for the church at a cost of $100, and their grand subscription of $500 to the new school fund. Mrs. Stinson Green is the present President, and, in common with all her predecessors, she deserves great praise for her extraordinary zeal and energy with which she goes into the good work.

With considerable regret we record the announcement from the Rev. A. E. Tulk at the annual Vestry meeting of his resignation from the Parish of Belleoram. Mr. Tulk took charge of this mission about five years ago, and by his steady zeal and untiring energy, he has transformed the "second worst" mission in the country into probably the second best. It is now a self-supporting parish, raising between two and three thousand dollars a year over and above its assessment, or about twice as much as raised before he took charge. We congratulate him on the abundance of success which ever increasingly followed his willing labors amongst us, and heartily wish his even greater success wherever he may be called to work in the future.

Miss Agnes Baldwin's many friends regret to learn of her resigning her position here as assistant teacher. By her inoffensive manner and kindly disposition she has made many friends here, especially among the little ones, who seem extremely fond of her.

We received a severe shock a short time ago in the almost sudden death of one of our most respected townsmen in the person of Mr. E. J. Burdock. He had just started in a new business which promises extensive developments that would have been most beneficial to our people. He was greatly esteemed by all who knew him, and his early death was a sad blow to Belleoram.

We notice that F.P.U. Councils are being established all up and down the coast with almost magic quickness. Belleoram has not yet fallen in line, but there is one at St. Jacques only about three miles distant.

Thanking you in advance for inserting these notes,
Yours very respectfully,
—G.C.

Belleoram, May 22, 1914.

Nickel's Good Bill.

Bunny Buys a Baby.
The Nickel Theatre was crowded last evening, and the hundreds of patrons came away delighted with the performance. "The Waterfalls of Idaho" is a very picturesque story and was watched with the greatest interest. "The Old Guard" was a pathetic tale splendidly acted. "The Pawned Bracelet" is a social comedy drama in which Arthur V. Johnson and Lois Briscoe were seen to advantage. One of the funniest comedies ever seen was "Bunny Buys a Baby," which kept the audience in roars of laughter. The pictures will be repeated this evening and all should make an effort to attend.

Farming in Codroy Valley.

MR. G. KNOWLING REPLIES TO MR. A. ENGLISH.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—In your issue of March 28, a copy of which I have recently seen, appears a letter from Mr. Arthur English. As one who has lived in Codroy Valley for twenty years, I think it only fair to make some remarks as to the statements contained therein, and I think further that I may be pardoned for presuming to think that I know at least as much as he or any other non-resident can, what has and what has not benefited us in this or any other Government measure.

After pronouncing judgment upon the Government Mr. English proceeds to say, "very few living on the land in this country are acquainted with even the rudiments of agricultural science." I think that on the contrary there are in this Valley alone, many individuals who quite strongly believe that they know something of the rudiments of agriculture and who are short notice to show Mr. English his error and to prove that he, at least, is not qualified to question even a very ill-informed man as to his proficiency in that science.

Next, Mr. English says, "no farmer in Codroy Valley ever thinks of forcing or food for his sheep, beyond that obtainable by grazing in a worn-out pasture, in his woodland, or on the public highway." Taking the last statement first, I will admit that sheep are sometimes seen on the public roads. But why should they not, no one objects, and the sheep help by destroying many weeds, the seeds of which would otherwise find their way to the farmers' fields. Our roads do not lead to cities, and traffic upon them is, I am sorry to say, not so great as to require the removal of a few stray sheep. Please note that I say a few; by far the greater number are in fenced pastures and good pastures at the woodlands. If Mr. English knows anything of the rudiments of which he assures us we are ignorant, he will know that woodland is sometimes the very best pasture, and for many reasons, always a help.

Now as to the feeding of grain. I can give many names of farmers who feed their cattle with grain and their sheep also. I will mention as a proof of this that Wanan McLean, merchant, Seaton, has sold here since March 19th 400 (four hundred) sacks of ground feed, Mr. Duncan McLean a considerable quantity, and private orders amount to over 1,000 (one thousand sacks) besides oats. This seems to indicate that we feed grain. We also feed roots in considerable quantities. The things that change our mind are at least try to feed well. Some few of us even know how to make good butter and even have vantage opportunities as to how to make up a good balanced ration out of the cheapest and most available foods.

Speaking of the Societies. They are not working "for the carrying out of an utterly worthless policy," but on the contrary, of a policy which if properly carried out would be of the greatest benefit, further the members of these societies are not so ignorant as Mr. English rashly assures. They can and do see the good that would result from a more thorough application of the present agricultural policy, otherwise how is it that so many men well known in their several districts and generally well informed, also sell themselves without pay to form committees for these societies. What do they do so if they thought they were doing no good? I think not. I know I would not nor any member of our committees. Before I close this rather lengthy letter, I would say a few words as to the value to this place of the pure bred animals imported by the Government.

Before the pre-hackney horses were brought here, foals sold for 20 to 30 dollars. No foal ever sells for less than $50 (fifty dollars) now, many for $60 to $75. One man has not sold here this year for which he has been offered one hundred dollars and he has not as yet decided to close with that offer. The same thing applies as to the increased value of almost all the livestock that has been brought here. I bought lambs last fall here that weighed as high as 60 lbs. and over-year sheep of from 75 to 103 lbs. I also sold an ox 1 year and 10 months old (twelve months) weighing 238 lbs. not specially well fed but had some grain. Many people of course are indifferent if not actively opposed to all improvements or attempts at improvement, and when this indifference is fostered and nursed by the petty attacks of parties, who are themselves utterly ignorant of and unable to suggest better ways and methods, and actuated only by a desire to pull down what others have built up, the benefits are almost impassable barrier in the way of progress. No one should lightly undertake to air his views upon a matter when by so doing he can do little good and may do much harm. Mr. English, in particular, is not sufficiently well informed either by reading or practical "agricultural science" to become a Moses either for the Government or for the people. I had almost omitted the "wholesale destruction of potatoes at Doyle's Station and at Little River last year." The facts are these. The Government forwarded to this society thirty-six sacks of seed potatoes, two sacks of which were spoiled at Doyle's Station owing principally to the fact that they arrived too late for distribution, but partly also, to the fact that the people for whom they were intended did not approve of that particular kind. No potatoes of any kind were destroyed or lost at Little River or Grand River; no, not even one single small potato. This is our first and only admission of culpability. Yours truly, G. KNOWLING.

We know who he will buy it for? But who will he buy it from? Hundreds of Engagements and Weddings are scattered yearly in Newfoundland with Trappell's Solid Gold Rings. Hundreds of friendships and tokens of affection to sweetheart, wife, mother, sister and friend are embodied in lasting embrace with Trappell's Rings, the popularity of which is based upon their quality, finish and variety and beauty of design. Rings for men, women, baby and miss for every occasion. Gem Rings. Chased Rings. Signet Rings. Birthday Rings. Should you have a desire to get a ring of such design as you may create yourself, or that you had seen somebody else wear, just take your design to Trappell; there is nothing impossible along these lines for his talented workmen. A splendid assortment of unset stones can be seen if your design calls for a Gem Ring. Ask to be shown the new White Sapphires. They are hard and brilliant like diamonds so much so that they puzzle experts.

Boy Drivers.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—I was greatly amused at a letter I saw in this morning's issue of the Daily News, entitled "Boy Drivers," and signed "One of the S.P.C.A."

In the first place I sincerely sympathize with the large employer that he speaks of, if the man really exists outside the imagination of the writer of the above named letter. If he does exist would it be too much for one of the S.P.C.A. to ask him "if the boys that he had all the trouble with were under eighteen or not?" I don't think that he will find that our large employers of labor are in the habit of employing boys under eighteen, at least I know of only one boy losing his job in such a place, and his master employed thirty or forty men. If the truth was known there were lots of less capable drivers in that employ. No, Mr. Editor, the man that this law bears hardest on is the small shopkeeper.

Again he states that in a very few weeks he (the boy driver under eighteen presumably) develops a "habit and style of swearing that no man can rival in point of vigor." Now taking the average boy driver at sixteen when he begins work (at least that is about the age that I usually take them), one of the S.P.C.A. will find that by the time he swears as vigorously as he states, the same boy will be eighteen or very nearly to it. Of course, after he passes that age it doesn't matter if he doesn't know a "horse from a hairbrush" he is considered a perfectly capable driver.

That some boys under eighteen are naturally cruel I will not deny, but the mere fact of their passing their eighteenth birthday doesn't cure them of that. They will continue cruel in the end of the chapter. If each individual member of the S.P.C.A. in particular, and the public in general don't do their duty. I think, Mr. Editor, that if one of the S.P.C.A. would interest himself on a subject he probably knows a little more about, he might be instrumental in getting the Government to pass the "Compulsory Education Bill" and instead of compelling boys to attend school until they are fifteen (as in other countries), keep them there until they reach the glorious age of eighteen.

Thanking you for space. I remain, yours truly, A SMALL SHOPKEEPER. St. John's, May 25th, 1914.

St. John's, Nfld., April 15, 1914. To Manager, St. John's Gas Light Company. Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season. Yours truly, D. JAMES DAVIES, B.S.C., F.C.S., Analyst and Assayer. May 14th

MINARD'S LINIMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS.

Big Boom in Calgary.

NEWFOUNDLANDERS ARE DOING WELL.

From recent Canadian exchanges we learn that Calgary, Alberta, bids fair to become one of the richest sections of Western Canada, because of the recent discovery of natural gasoline oil a few miles to the southwest of that town. The new well is said to be the richest find made for many years, and already shares have been greedily devoured. Every day capitalists are pouring into the city, and no less than one hundred new brokers' offices were opened in one day. When the oil in question was first discovered, it spouted to a height of ninety feet, and developments to date show that those interested have found a treasure that will cause the real estate business to fade into comparative insignificance. The population of Calgary is about 70,000, but of late several thousands have been eagerly rushing there from all the provinces, with the result that it is estimated that the present population number in the vicinity of 100,000. Many Newfoundlanders who went to Calgary a few years ago to engage in farming, have suddenly become successful stock buyers, having bought a large number of 10 per cent. shares, which are now being eagerly purchased at fancy prices by the influx of visitors who are wild with enthusiasm over the prospects of the rich find. Capitalists are literally shovelling out money to advance the development of this new area, and if the expectations of those interested materialize, we shall not be surprised to hear of the accumulation of small fortunes by some of our Newfoundlanders who recently emigrated to the Western Provinces.

Count Ten! Bad Cold Relieved Figure Three Hours--ColdCure.

Never a Failure With Catarrhazone; it Cures Completely. Don't snuffle and sneeze with a nasty cold. Kill it at once by "Catarrhazone." It's the surest thing on colds ever known; simply knocks them off in no time. The medicated vapor of CATARRHAZONE spreads through all parts of the breathing organs, and its beneficial action is felt instantly. Doesn't matter whether the cold is in the head, chest or lungs, Catarrhazone will reach it and cure it quickly.

Easy to use—you bet it is—not a single drug to take because you simply breathe in the most healing and soothing of piney vapors that come from the wonderful Catarrhazone Inhaler.

"I can cheerfully testify that Catarrhazone is simply a magical cure for colds," writes P. F. Clement, of Augusta. "For days last winter my head was completely filled up with cold. My eyes ran water, I sneezed and coughed constantly. I took many medicines. I was sick of the sight of them. Finally, I tried Catarrhazone. Its effect was magical. It soothed the inflamed membranes, stopped the sneezing, and cured in no time. I never met anything to kill a cold like Catarrhazone."

SIGN OF CODFISH.—Codfish are reported very scarce down north, the only sign being at King's Cove and Hant's Harbor where a few were jigged recently.

HIGH PRICE FOR SALMON.—A salmon, taken at Broad Cove, was offered in the market yesterday at 30 cents a pound. At this date last year salmon were far more plentiful.

FAST MOTOR DRIVING.—Special instructions have been issued to the police regarding the enforcing of the law relative to motor driving. Two complaints have been made already and the drivers will be summoned.

POLICE RESIGNED.—Constable Whealan, who was stationed at Carbonear since October last, has resigned. He came on the Prospero with his family. This is the eighth man to leave the force within the past month.

COMES A TRIBUTE TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

William Nash, Well-known Farmer, Tells How They Cured Him After Two Years' Suffering.

Marchbank, King's Co., N.B., May 27. (Special).—After two years' suffering from Kidney Disease, William Nash, a well-known farmer here, is a well man, and, like many another in this neighbourhood, he is shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My trouble started from a strain," Mr. Nash says, "and for two years it gradually grew worse. My appetite was awful, I had dark circles around my eyes and my skin had a harsh, dry feeling and itched and burned at night. I was troubled with headaches, cramps in the muscles and stiffness of the joints. Rheumatism finally developed and I was a sick man generally, when I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. They helped me almost from the start and two boxes cured me."

Dodd's Kidney Pills simply cure sick kidneys. They cured Mr. Nash because every one of his ailments is a symptom of Kidney Disease. Anybody who has any two of these symptoms needs a Kidney remedy, and the greatest of all Kidney remedies is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Steamers Chartered to Load Pulp & Paper.

The S. S. Meadowland which brought a cargo of salt to Bowring Bros. is now ceasing from the Bonaventure, and when finished, will leave for Botwood whence she loads paper and pulp for England.

The Mariana which put in here Tuesday has replenished her stores and will likely get away for Botwood today. The Tritonia leaves as soon as repairs are effected and will also load pulp. In addition to the three steamers already mentioned, the Cape Breton under charter to Donaldson Line, is now 14 days out from Glasgow for Botwood, with a load of coals and after discharging the same will load pulp also. With these four steamers the products of the A. N. D. Co. will be greatly lessened as all of them are large carriers.

Football Annual.

Season Opens June 8th.

A meeting of the Football League took place last night when a considerable amount of business was done, including the drawing of the season's fixtures. There was a large attendance, all the clubs were represented and much enthusiasm was manifested.

There will be no inter-brigade contests this year, replies to this effect having been received from the Commanding Officers of each brigade. This decision will be regretted by the public generally.

The committee in charge of such reported that the marking of a baseball diamond on St. George's Field would not interfere with football. The games will be played on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. Whenever a whole holiday falls on Monday the match set down for that night will be changed to Wednesday.

The first round of the fixtures are:— Stars versus Saints, B. I. S. versus Casuals, Collegians versus Feildians, St. Bon's versus C. E. I.

The opening game for the season will be played on Monday, June 8th, and as the Star and Saints, who are the favourites this year, are the contestants, a lively exhibition is being looked forward to.

Carthaginian's List.

The Allan Limer Carthaginian sailing to-day for Halifax and Philadelphia took these saloon passengers:—

Mrs. McNeil, Mrs. W. Marshall and two children, W. Alcock, Mr. Davies, Miss Parker, Mrs. Foster, W. H. Shaw, O. B. Stanton, Mr. Sherwin, Master Sherwin, Miss Lyon, Mrs. J. Peters, W. T. Hodge, A. M. Marshall, R. J. Chambers, Mrs. G. Nicholls and child, Miss M. Warren, C. B. Blackler, F. Batson, S. McBrien and four in steerage.

CHANGE OF SHIPS.—We understand that the Allan Limer Pomeranian which left here Tuesday for Glasgow will not make another trip in the Newfoundland route and is being replaced by the Sardinian which is set down to leave Liverpool on Saturday.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, May 27. Durbar II. won the Derby. Hapsburg came second and Peter the Hermit, third.

WASHINGTON, May 27. Official despatches sent from Mexico City, and received by a diplomatic source here, to-day, say that the withdrawal of Huerta is possible, but that it is being delayed by the necessity of arrangements to permit the dictator to abdicate with dignity.

MONTREAL, May 27. There have been few steamers arriving at Montreal during the past two or three days, owing to fog in the vicinity of Cape Race and in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The ice and fog conditions at this season of the year are unprecedented. Captains say that large fields of ice remain closely packed as a result of the severity of last winter, and the few wind storms of the past Spring.

LONDON, May 27. The personal property left by Lord Strathcona was disclosed when probate was granted to-day. The precise value of the real estate left by the testator, who died in London, was not made public, but the fact that the succession duties amounted to $4,000,000, indicate that his entire personal estate had a value of $27,000,000.

EPSOM, May 27. Ada Rice, a supposed suffragette, was arrested at Epsom Downs, to-day after she had discharged a pistol, loaded with blank cartridges, at a policeman. The powder, burning through the policeman's trousers, blistered one leg.

NEWCASTLE, May 27. Homel, the British aviator, given up for lost in the English Channel, landed to-day from a fishing boat at South Shields. The fishing boat, which saved him, was a foreign vessel which had driven out of her course. This caused the delay in giving information as to the rescue of the aviator.

HALIFAX, May 27. It has been arranged between the C.P.R. and British Pacific Cable Board to inaugurate a week-end letter service between Canada and Australia, including the Fiji Islands, commencing May 28th. The rate between the Dominion and Australia will be three dollars for twenty words or less, each additional word 15 cents.

MONTREAL, May 27. The Newfoundland Society, at a meeting, besides reporting that $11,000 had been received in the city, exclusive of church collections, for which returns had not yet been made, decided to discontinue collections and send all money to Hon. J. R. Bennett, Acting Premier of Newfoundland. The above sum does not include large subscriptions from the Bank of Montreal, Sir William Macdonald and other donations sent direct.

The Mule.

A cheerful critter is the mule; his disposition's bright and gay; and when the weather's crisp and cool, he says, "Hee-haw!" a n d runs away. His "Hee-haw" cheers us like the deuce, it's such an optimistic shout, a n d when he turns that slogan loose, it jars the welkin inside out. At midnight, when the world is still, the mule, from out the barnyard strayed, comes close up to the window sill, and tries to make Caruso fade. We must admit he can't sing, however earnestly he tries, but he has such good traits, by Jingo, that we forgive his frantic cries. How patiently he drags the plow, how earnestly he'll strive and strain, and swallow grub that horse or cow would peck up with a high disdain! He toils to bring his master dimes, so faithfully, the long day through; at night lies down and rolls three times and then gets up as good as new. He doesn't stall around or shirk, though roads be long and days be hot; he's always ready for his work, and never dies unless he's shot. And yet 've greeted the mule with jeers, make him the butt of jockets raw, because he has too many ears, and cannot slug like Ellen Yaw!

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland—apt171f

SIX PER CENT. Mortgage Debenture Stock.

Desirable opportunity for a conservative 6 per cent. investment afforded by the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company's 6 per cent. perpetual debenture stock, which we offer at 98 and interest. The company's property is admirably situated for economical production which is very essential in the Steel and Coal business. The value of the company's property is appraised by a high official of the company at $20,000,000. The debenture stock is a direct charge on all these assets, subject only to the $6,000,000 five per cent. first mortgage bonds, thus leaving assets of $14,000,000 as security for the $3,000,000 debenture issue. Write to-day for full information.
