CHAPTER LI.

The two strangely united in death were laid in the beautiful grounds of Nutwell church, while the unhappy mother lay battling with death.

On Lady St. Just's recovery there was no need to tell the secret, nor to reveal who it was that tried to save her son from drowning, and in so doing lost his life—no need to tell the sin of her life-time.

What Vivien St. Just suffered in her illness was known only to herself and Heaven. She recovered in time, and in time another little son was born to her, but she never lavished on another child the passionate love she had given to little Arthur. It was four years after Arthur's death that the little boy came, and she named him Adrian, after her noble husband—Adrian Neslie of Lancewood. But she never told him of his title that was to be. She did not hold him as an idol to be worshipped, but in the dewy summer evenings, when she wandered by the riverside, she prayed that he might make a good man and be kept from sin.

She was never the same again. She recovered from her long illness; she had a lovely little daughter who grew up the picture of herself. She took her place in the world; she fulfilled every duty; she was a model wife, a true lady, a true friend, a noble mother—but she was never the same again.

In her room at King's Rest hangs the picture of a lovely laughing boy with a noble face and sweet, dimpled cheeks—a picture that she shows to no one, but before which she likes to stand in the twilight or when the sun throws a golden light on it. Underneath is written, "Arthur Neslie, heir of Lancewood," and in the green churchyard at Nutwell there rises a marble monument—a broken column—bearing the name of Henry Dorman, telling how he died. There was no need to reveal who Henry Dorman was. The secret lay dead and buried—the sin of a lifetime was ended.

As years passed on and all things prospered with him, Lord St. Just gradually forgot the tragedy. Francis was to have King's Rest, Adrian to have Lancewood, and his lovely young daughter was to be richly dowered. He was himself one of the most popular men in England, and it pleased him that rich and poor great Catarrh is bound to come with this weather. Slight colds become more offensive and sickening every day. The inflammation extends further into the head. Soon the ears begin to buzz and ring. The head aches, the eyes pain dreadfully, the nose gets plugged up and this forces the patient to breathe through the mouth. Vile filthy secretions are forced back into the throat, requiring a great deal of coughing to keep the air passages free. Finally, this foul matter finds its way into the stomach, causing dyspepsia and general ill-health. By this time the patient has SYSTEMATIC CATARRH, which saps strength, depletes the vital energies till consumption is the unhappy result.

and small, high and low, should unite in praising and blessing his wife. They said her charity was without bounds, her goodness without parallel.

"What are you thinking of, Vivien?" asked her husband one day, long after these events.

She looked at him with her beautiful, dark, mystical eyes.

"I am thinking," she said, slowly, "how strange it was that, after pretending Oswald was drowned in a river, he should be drowned in a river eventually."

"Try to forget," advised Lord St. Just, for he knew not what better counsel to give.

Did she forget it? People said she must be happy. She was beautiful, wealthy, good. She had a devoted husband, lovely children. She held a high position; she was blessed by every one who knew her. But her face, beautiful with a calm, unearthly beauty, has a whole story in it—that story is The Sin of Her Lifetime.

THE END.

"ECHOES of the Past;

OR,

The Recompense of Love!"

CHAPTER II.

I can't cut you off with a shilling, because I do not possess, at this moment, that useful coin; but I would suggest that, while this insanity of yours lasts, it would be as well if you avoided your people and Eaton Square, and confined yourself to your new friends. Good-bye, my dear Clive. I wish I could bid you God-speed; but the hackneyed benediction would be so completely inappropriate, that I really must refrain from uttering it. The only hope I can express is, and I do so devoutly, that you will soon be clothed and in your right mind. When you return to this desirable condition, we shall all, of course, be glad to see you. Until then—Don't let me detain you. Good-bye."

Clive possessed that which is a rarity in these days, a warm heart; and he felt the parting from his father and his brothers, Adolphus and Bertie, very keenly; but he had put his hand to the plow, and he was not the man to drop it and slink home to Eaton Square, crushed and beaten.

The money he had inherited from his mother provided him with only a small income; but, notwithstanding a somewhat riotous time at Oxford, his tastes were very simple, and he cheerfully settled down in a couple of rooms in a back street in Chelsea, and as cheerfully denied himself the familiar luxuries of Carlton dinners, Bond Street clothes, and shilling cigars. Of course, he was ambitious; every man who is worth his salt desires to make his mark on the age in which he lives; but, strange as it may seem in these pushing, self-seeking days, Clive's ambition was subordinated to a genuine desire to help the people whose cause he had championed.

To-night he had scored a great, an amazing success; he had put his foot on the first rung of the ladder which leads to great things; the applause, the cheers were still ringing in his ears; but sweet as they were—and why shouldn't they have been?—the few words of praise from his leader, and from Lord Chesterleigh especially, were sweeter to him. His thoughts turned toward Lady Edith. He was not a susceptible man, but it would have been impossible that he should not have been struck by her youthful grace and beauty. His keen eye—and Clive Harvey's eye was very keen indeed—had noted the indications of the girl's proud and haughty spirit; but he was not inclined to dwell upon them; for, you see, she had been very gracious to him. She had smiled upon him, as the youngest woman of her class knows how to smile when she wants to be sweet and to favorably impress a man. Her voice had softened when she spoke to him, and her words were still present with him.

Both father and daughter had given him a cordial invitation; should he avail himself of it? He had got to regard himself as an outcast from the exalted sphere in which they moved; would it be wise to go back to the flesh-pots of Egypt; would it be prudent to place himself in the way of temptation; had he not better stick to "the people" with whom he had cast in his lot?

Pondering these questions, he had wandered on down Victoria Street and into Piccadilly, so lost in thought that he paid no heed to the direction which he had taken; and suddenly looking round, he found that he had strolled into one of the shabby streets leading off the main thoroughfare. The street was nearly deserted, though it was not very late—the House had risen early—and the public houses were still open. A drunken man, who was cheerfully zig-zagging home, nearly collided with Clive; he hiccupped an apology, which he made with difficulty while he supported himself by clutching Clive's arm; and it was characteristic of Clive that he did not push the man away from him with impatience or disgust; for the Radical aristocrat had learned to tolerate and even to pity that which he loathed.

A little farther on, a sleek cat scratched at a door and mewed plaintively, looking up at Clive and saying quite plainly: "You're taller than I am; do ring the bell, or I shall be shut out all night!" So Clive stroked the cat and rang the bell. As he walked on, he heard the sounds of music, and, turning a corner of the street, came upon a public house. It was a quiet one, no doubt "used" only by the inhabitants of the shabby, seedy houses, and outside the curb stood a man, a diminutive hunchback, playing a violin, and playing it well. Beside him stood a young girl singing. It was not a strong voice, but it was so sweet a one, and with such signs of careful training, that Clive stood on the other side of the street and listened. The girl's back was turned to him, and she wore a shawl over her head, so that he could see no part of her face; but he was struck by a certain grace in her figure and her attitude. She was standing with her head slightly thrown back, her hands loosely clasped in front of her; and, as she sang, the slight, girlish figure moved almost imperceptibly to the rhythm of the music.

Clive felt the pathos of her presence and the sweet, low voice, and he crossed the road and stood just behind the pair, so that he might hear the song more distinctly. It came to an end presently, but the girl stood without changing her attitude until the hunchback touched her gently on the arm. She started slightly, and, drawing her shawl about her face, looked round, and, seeing Clive, came toward him with a little tambourine extended, while the hunchback went into the public house to collect contributions.

Clive dropped half a crown in the tambourine; without raising her eyes, the girl made him a graceful little curtsy, and was turning away when Clive involuntarily spoke to her. Involuntarily, because he was more touched by the sight of her face than he had even been by the grace of her figure. It was a singular face, strangely out of keeping with the shabby surroundings and her humble calling. London is full of pretty girls, and they are almost as numerous in the slums and the byways in Piccadilly and Whitechapel as they are in Mayfair; but this girl's face was not merely pretty; for, though it was not yet quite beautiful, it was rich with the promise of a natural loveliness.

In the pure oval of its contour, the dark-gray eyes, the long lashes, the soft, almost black hair, and delicately shaped lips, there was a suggestion of Italy, or even of warmer Spain; but Clive knew, even before she spoke, that she was not foreign, and there was no relation between this girl with the downcast eyes and the timid demeanor and the overripe Italian young lady who accompanies the street organ.

"You sing very well, my child," he said; "but your voice is not strong enough for the streets; and I am afraid you will spoil it."

Up to the present she had, when she raised her eyes, looked past and beyond him, as if she were moving and acting in a kind of dream; but at the sound of his voice, she met his gaze with a little startled look and a suggestion of fear in a half-shrinking movement; and Clive was sorry that he had frightened her by addressing her. He felt that it would be kind to walk away at once; but with a mistaken idea of reassuring her, he said: "I hope you are going home now. It is getting late. Perhaps you have had a bad day—I know what that means—let me give you a little more; your singing is worth it."

She looked down at the coin in the tambourine, no doubt expecting to see a penny, and she colored vividly as Clive dropped another half-crown on the parchment. Her lips moved with a whispered "Thank you," and with a swift, grateful glance up at his face—a face good to look upon at that moment, for it was full of a strong man's pity and tenderness—she was moving away, when the hunchback came out of the public house, and, limping quickly toward them, caught her arm, and, looking angrily and suspiciously at Clive, muttered:

LONDON, Sept. 15.

Premier Asquith rapped the knuckles of the officer members of the Commons, who recently returned from the front with a signed memorial urging the Government to hasten to adopt conscription. The Premier repudiated any desire to close lips, but he added: "They ought to feel themselves under a most strict sense of responsibility. Let them remember," said the Premier, "that they sit in the Commons, not as representatives of the Army, but of their constituents. It would be most unjust, because they happen to be in the Army, that they should pretend to come to this House with any mandate from the Army. That would be an evil thing for the Commons. It is a claim I would never admit." The vote of credit which the Premier will move to-morrow, it is understood, will be at least $750,000,000, possibly more. In the Lords, Field Marshal Earl Kitchener will review the progress of the war, and explain the present state of recruiting.

NEW CREDIT VOTE.

LONDON, Sept. 15.

An official announcement says that the Premier will ask the Commons to-day to vote a credit of £250,000,000, not only to equip the Army and Navy, but civil lists growing out of war conditions.

warded by Emperor Nicholas to King George. "In this serious time my country going through, I have decided to take the leadership of my armies in my own hands. Announcing to you this fact I once more express my conviction that with God's help and through the combined efforts of the Allies, their final victory will crown this bloody war." The Emperor, according to the correspondent received this reply from King George: "I am delighted to hear that you have now assumed command of your armies in the field. I heartily share your convictions that with the help of God, you and your brave troops, with those of our Allies, will finally secure victory, with an honorable and lasting peace. My thoughts will be more than ever with you in these anxious times."

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, Sept. 15.

The German drive toward Dvinsk goes forward unchecked, according to a Berlin official statement issued to-day. Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's Army has taken five thousand prisoners during encounters of the last 24 hours, and has forged ahead within about thirty miles of Dvinsk fortress. Riga, for the time being, is left unthreatened by direct attack, but should Von Hindenburg succeed in getting effectively astride of the Petrograd railway further south, it would expose the Baltic port to a serious enveloping movement.

All mid-Poland fighting, the Germans claim, is progressing in their favor, but the Russians are still on the offensive in Galicia, pressing the Austrians with a vigor that recalls their dash through Galicia in the latter part of last winter. The artillery duel west, as yet, has not heated. Both sides are making a prodigious expenditure of shells, leaving the public to guess when, if at all, any general infantry attack is coming.

SUBMARINE LOSSES.

LONDON, Sept. 15.

The tell-tale wake they leave behind is responsible for losses of German submarines, according to the Daily News, which adds that the losses have been more than formidable. They are irretrievable. The submarines leave a peculiar trail on the surface, marked by air bubbles. Auxiliary boats follow this curious wave, which seamen soon learn to recognize, although it is not easy to distinguish in rough weather. Twenty-three hundred trawlers are now engaged in the submarine hunt, constantly patrolling waters around the British Isles.

DOUBTS LOAN STORY.

LONDON, Sept. 15.

Reports from New York of efforts by the Franco-British commission to establish a billion dollars credit on behalf of the Allies are received skeptically here. The Times says in a financial article: "A good deal of water is likely to flow under Brooklyn Bridge before any such proposal can become practicable. Well informed people will note that gold in increased quantities is being sent to New York, and will pin their faith to its being used there for its proper purpose."

GERMAN AGENTS ALARMED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.

agitation. The attack included, not only a negative stand in refusing to participate, which the agitators hope will be taken by banks with large list of German-American depositors, but embraced extreme measures against any banks with German-American depositors helping in any way to finance the loan.

WILL PROBABLY BE INVITED TO PARTICIPATE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.

The pro-German element in the New York financial world, will probably be invited to participate, if they signify they desire such an invitation, in the floating of the billion dollar credit loan, which Britain and France hope to establish in this country. The mooted fact of this element in Wall Street heard that they would be glad to have the chance to help. Another faction, composed largely of middle and western bankers, are raising funds for the use of Germany's enemies, even though the money will all be spent in the United States. This was the big feature of to-day's negotiations of the Anglo-French financial commission with Wall Street bankers who are endeavoring to assist in adjusting the foreign exchange situation. Heretofore the commission has conferred with only such bankers as are probably in their sympathies and connections.

TWO ZEPPELINS MISSING.

LONDON, Sept. 15.

In a despatch from Amsterdam, Reuter's correspondent says that a telegram from Ameland in Holland, states that only three of five Zeppelins, which last evening sailed westward, returned this morning, flying in an easterly direction.

THE ARABIC CASE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.

Prospects for a favorable adjustment of the controversies between the States and Germany depend entirely on the attitude which the Berlin Foreign Office will take toward the recommendations made to-day by Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, following on his conference yesterday with Secretary Lansing. Details of the conference became known to-day, throwing light on the critical point that had been reached in the relations between the two countries. The Washington Government was almost ready to sever diplomatic relations, but decided to delay any step until Germany could be furnished with the evidence in its possession in the Arabic case. Friendliness and candor are understood to have characterized the conversation between Lansing and the Ambassador. The latter has now been given the opportunity to communicate freely with his government, so that it may be clearly understood in Berlin why officials here are convinced that the torpedoing of the Arabic could not have been a mistake, justified or unjustified. In view of the evidence, the United States wants a disavowal of the act. This was made clear to Count Von Bernstorff. Arbitration cannot be an issue for consideration until the attitude of the German government toward the act itself is placed on record. Later, the American Government may take under consideration a proposal to arbitrate, not a principle, but what indemnity should be paid for lives lost. Evidence which has been submitted by the United States is regarded here as proving conclusively that until she submerged to launch the torpedo against the Arabic, the German submarine was concealed behind the sinking British steamer Dunsley, and could not have been seen by the captain of the Arabic. Furthermore, it is shown that the Arabic was struck in such a way that the submarine must have been at right angles from her, when the torpedo was fired, instead of in a position to make ramming by the liner a possibility. Von Bernstorff is understood to have scrutinized this evidence carefully, and to have made certain suggestions to his Foreign Office. Probably it will be ten days before any reply can be received. If disavowal of the submarine commander's act is made, officials here feel that the question of indemnity then can be left to arbitration tribunals. Should Germany fail to disavow, the American demand for disavowal, and follow its original purpose, and sever diplomatic relations.

HESPERIAN NOT SUNK BY SUBMARINE.

LONDON, Sept. 15.

A semi-official statement issued in Berlin to-day, says that it has virtually been established that the steamship Hesperian was not sunk by a German submarine. The statement forwarded from Amsterdam is as follows: "According to evidence from competent quarters, it appears, from news at present available, and from facts known in official quarters, to be as good as excluded, that a German submarine can be held responsible for the sinking of the Hesperian. First, in view of the distribution of submarines in accordance with war plans, no German submarine was at sea in the district on Sept. 4th, where the Hesperian sank. Second, according to descriptions received from English sources, the explosion was of such a kind that it must be inferred from its effects that it was caused by a mine rather than a torpedo. Support of this assumption is found in the fact, according to accounts received, that the ship was hit close to the stem and the foremost compartments were filled with water."

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP LAPLAND.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.

Two bottles, believed to contain high explosives, were found late to-night on the steamer Lapland, of the White Star Line, at her pier on North River. The Lapland was to sail for Liverpool to-morrow. Inspector Eagan, of the Bureau of Combustibles, said that from a superficial examination, the bottles appeared to contain high explosives. The bottles were of thin glass and resembled dumb bells in shape. It is believed the bottles were sealed after the liquid had been placed in them. According to Inspector Eagan, the bottles were so constructed, and so placed that the motion of the ship would roll them together easily, and smash the fragile glass, permitting the liquid to mingle. And that caused the explosion. The Lapland reached New York last Friday from England, and had as passengers the commissioners to arrange for the Anglo-French loan.

LOYD GEORGE FAVORS CONScription.

LONDON, Sept. 14.

The political correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette says that it may be taken as quite conclusive that Lloyd George has finally ranged himself on the side of those in the Cabinet who demand compulsory service.

CONSCRIPTION MAY COME.

LONDON, Sept. 14.

Official admission was made to-day for the first time, that the British Cabinet was seriously debating the question of conscription. When Parliament opened to-day the subject was raised on a motion for adjournment. Premier Asquith announced that this was a matter which has escaped the attention of the Government. When the Government, without undue delay, and with that due deliberation which the gravity of the subject demands have arrived at their conclusions, they will be presented to the House, and will then become the subject of Parliamentary discussion. The Premier expressed regret that the question as to the best way in which this country shall meet the call to bring the war to a successful conclusion, had become a matter of public controversy. He hoped that there would be no further debate on this subject for the present.

HEAVY CASUALTIES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.

An official announcement was made to-day in the Commons that the total British war casualties up to August 21 were 281,983 officers and men killed, wounded or missing. Detailed figures of the casualties are as follows: Killed or died from wounds, officers, 4,965; other ranks 7,099; wounded, officers 2,973; other ranks, 24,086; missing officers, 1,501; other ranks, 53,466. These figures refer to the army alone. Losses in the British army during the summer were some what smaller than in April and May last. The previous statement of the total of British casualties made by Asquith on June 9th, gives the total as 233,059 of to May 31. Losses from that time up to August 31 are shown to have been 123,914, a daily average of about 1,500. In the two months before the end of the May period, the losses averaged 2,000 a day.

The War Review by Asquith and Kitchener

With the opening of Parliament came the reviews of the war situation by Premier Asquith and by Lord Kitchener, Secretary of War in the House of Lords. The most salient feature of the Premier's speech was that relating to the finances of the war. The Imperial Government was now spending three and half million pounds a day and he expected that it would reach a maximum of five million a day. Extensive war loans had been made to the Dominions and the Colonies and large expenditures had been made in directions, which public interest forced him from indicating. More money was needed immediately. A vote for 250 million pounds sterling would be taken and this should enable them to carry on until the third week in November. He said that since the beginning of the war nearly 3,000,000 men had enlisted in the army and navy, but that recruiting had fallen off somewhat. To those who have been hearing of a new army of 3,000,000 men for the past six months, it will be somewhat surprising that the enlistment for the army alone has not yet reached the 3,000,000 mark. Lord Kitchener laid the responsibility which had been made to the call of the army, but he admitted that the question of reinforcements was the problem which was engaging the attention of the authorities, and that the solution of the problem would call for serious sacrifices, which he felt would be cheerfully borne. From this it would appear that in Kitchener's opinion some step of a radical character must soon be taken. In all probability this means that a resort must soon be made to National service. Mr. Asquith stated that some 800,000 persons were now engaged in munition work, which was constantly being extended. The war had resolved itself into mechanism and endurance. He declared the unalterable determination of Britain to conquer and called for a cessation of hickering and the presentation of a united front to the enemy, which would not depreciate the effectiveness of Britain's dogged determination and unconquerable will to win victory at any cost.

Hiawatha Disaster.

There arrived by the s.s. Florizel Tuesday evening the remains of the late Capt. Clarke, who was burnt to death following an explosion of gasolene on board his schooner Hiawatha. The corpse was sent to the late home of deceased at Burin by yesterday's train, accompanied by Mate Hussey, who had a miraculous escape from meeting the same fate as his captain. Mate Hussey said the terrible explosion occurred on Saturday morning last. The captain was in his room dressing, Cook Farewell was preparing breakfast and the other four members of the crew were on deck. The explosion came as sudden as a flash of lightning. Seaman Kirby was thrown overboard with a broken leg and otherwise injured, though he managed to reach the shore, seamen Saunders and Hooper were done to death instantly when the deck was blown up. The cook, who was in the fore-castle, escaped. As soon as he struck a match to light a fire the escaping fumes of gasolene caught and then the explosion. Right away mate Hussey ran to call the captain, who was coming out of the cabin enveloped in flames. Hussey assisted him and helped to tear off the burning clothes, getting his own fingers scorched as a result. The captain and mate then

City Council

Accedes to Request.

On Tuesday night a special meeting of the Municipal Board was held mainly to consider a petition from Mr. W. White, Manager of the Nfld. Clothing Factory, on behalf of several other prominent citizens, asking for an extension of the tarvia pavement on Duckworth Street, the petitioners undertaking to meet the expenses. Having regard to the public spirit shown by the petitioners the Board decided to ask a certain sum frontage for the extension of this pavement. It is proposed in the new legislation to have half the amount, as in some cities, paid by the properties on each side, but in this case for the small extension that is required and owing to the fact that the new road is an experiment, an amount asked for sufficient to cover necessary expenses only. Provisions of the new city charter were also discussed at the session.

SHORT OF WATER.—The schrs. Engene and Gladiator, two backport handliners, were at Bay Bulls this morning, having put in there short of water.

TABASCO HERE.—The Furness Liner Tabasco, Capt. Yeoman, reached port last midnight from Halifax. The passage being made in two days. She brought 200 tons of wine and sails again to-night for Liverpool.

NOT FROM HORSE COVE.—The people of Horse Cove resent the statement that the man who was fined last week for offensive behaviour at Donovan's halls from Horse Cove. They deny that he is a resident of that place. He is, however, described as "of Horse Cove" on the police sheet.

BOYS ISSUE SUMMONS.—Two boys visited the court house to-day and had summonses issued for a vessel owned by them, which they were engaged working at fish. The boys claimed they agreed to work at the rate of 80 cents a day, but were only paid 70 cents. They now want the difference.

ROPEWALK OUTING.—The employees of the Ropewalk held their annual outing on Tuesday night last at Smithville and it proved to be the most successful yet. A sumptuous dinner and supper were served by the management. At night the enjoyable dance concluded a pleasant outing which passed all too quickly.

POLICE COURT (Before Mr. F. J. Morris, K.C.).—Two drunks were discharged; a drunk and disorderly was fined $5 or 14 days; two fishermen, who assaulted another, was ordered to give bonds to be of good behavior; another assault case was withdrawn; a resident of Battery Road was building a house without permission from the Council, and was given ten days to remove it.

SQUID ABNORMALLY SCARC.—The fishery on the local grounds has been prosecuted with little success the past week or so. The squid school has not yet struck in, which is an unusual occurrence. The non-appearance of these bait fishes is a great hindrance to operations. Boats are only getting an average of a quintal of cod daily, owing to the scarcity of bait, whereas if squid came along fishermen contend they would get a good fall catch as codfish are numerous on the grounds.

MEYERHOFF SHOW COMING.—The Meyerhoff Show Company are now negotiating with the Municipal Council to come to St. John's on October 24th for an eight days' engagement. These people, it will be remembered, applied last year for permission and were coming to exhibit their shows on the Parade Ground, but the war intervened, hence their proposed visit this season. The arrangements for the use of the Parade Grounds were deferred for one year.

Miss Gertrude Parsons will resume classes in Drawing and Painting at her Studio, Forest Road, Sept. 20th. A variety of very fine hand-painted Cards in Water Colour and Oils always on hand.—sep16,21

A very pretty wedding took place at Bell Island yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Miss Winifred Colburne, daughter of Mr. J. C. Colburne, Superintendent of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co.'s piers, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Harry B. Thomson, druggist, of Bay Roberts. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wm. Swann, at the residence of the bride's father. The bride, who was prettily attired in a gown of white silk with chiffon over-dress, was attended by Miss Gladys Martin, who wore pink nixon, while the groom was ably supported by Mr. Charles Penney, of Carbonear. After the ceremony a reception was held and the health of the newly married couple honored. The trees in the spacious grounds surrounding the Colburne residence were hung with electric lamps, while tents were also erected around the ground.

The ceremony was performed with the bride and groom standing under a beautiful floral wedding bell. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Thomson left the island by special steamer for Kelligrews, where they entrained for Placentia to spend their honeymoon. Many handsome presents were received by the bride, testifying to her popularity on the island and elsewhere. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Thomson many years of wedded bliss.

When it reaches $10,000 the manner of expending it to the best advantage will be discussed. The meeting then adjourned.

Labor Men Favor Co-Operation

IN RECRUITING PLANS.

Bristol, Eng., Sept. 9.—The Trades Union Congress adopted virtually without opposition at to-day's session a resolution, presented by the Railway Clerks' Union, on the subject of recruiting. The Congress resolved: "That this Congress, being convinced that the issues involved in the present European war are of transcendent importance to the democracies of this and other countries, hereby records its entire approval of the action of the Parliamentary Labor Party in co-operating with the other political parties in the national recruiting campaign."

The consensus of opinion as revealed in speeches in support of the resolution was that it was no part of the teaching of trades unionism that it is the duty of man to smite his neighbor. One speaker said that if, when "Dear Brother Fritz" invaded Belgium, the British Government had not decided to resist this move, the men and women of Britain would have forced it to do so.

NOISE.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Sivash." Noise is a disturbance in the atmosphere which concusses the eardrum and causes the owner thereof to sigh for a pleasant home in a town which hasn't a commercial club.

Noise is produced by dogs, locomotives, machine guns, babies, college students, cheap orchestras, politicians, locomotive whistles, scarehead newspapers, volcanoes and other things.

It is usually disagreeable and inventors often work all night trying to produce noiseless institutions of one kind or another. They have made the automobile as quiet as a tombstone, but have not been able to do anything as yet for the automatic piano or the self-made man who is trying to advertise the fact.

A few noiseless politicians have been perfected in the last century, but as a rule they have been more fatal than the reverberating kind. A politician should be compelled to work with cowbells tied on him.

About five years ago the noise was strained out of the Fourth of July with great success. We now have a perfectly quiet Fourth, and celebrate our national birthday by closing the banks.

Some people are naturally quiet and can remove an entire tinware store in a one-horse wagon with loose spokes without awakening the police—while other people are so noisy that they cannot read a religious paper without keeping the neighbourhood awake by yelling for more quiet.

This nation is very fond of noise and uses it at times with great success as a substitute for music, theology, statesmanship, advertising and argument. Of late years it has become impossible to feed in public without being assisted by noise. There are few stranger sights than that of a New York man yelling pleasantly at a guest across the table, while close behind him a reformed boiler-shop worker is committing personal assault on a snare drum, a triangle, a bass drum and a xylophone.

Anti-noise societies are now being formed all over the country, and if they succeed in their crusade we may have to pay fifty cents a day to see the home team play ball instead of standing outside the fence and keeping the run of the game by the rise and fall of the mad-house chorus inside.

The World's Great Wheat Crop.

Every wheat grower is interested in the world's wheat crop for 1915. The accompanying table, prepared by the London Grain, Seed, and Oil Reporter, gives estimates for the different countries as follows, based upon the assumption of normal weather conditions:

	1915	1914
Europe	2,170,000,000	1,959,200,000
Canada	224,000,000	160,000,000
U. States	956,000,000	891,200,000
Australia	196,000,000	176,000,000
India	383,200,000	314,400,000
All others	508,800,000	151,200,000
Total	4,148,000,000	3,652,000,000

This shows an increase of 496,000,000 bushels over last year. And if we take into account the world's exportable surplus, unaffected by war conditions, we have 236,000,000 bushels in excess of import requirements. It is interesting to note in this connection the visible supplies of wheat as compared with this time last year. At the middle of August the visible supply in Canada was 2,067,000 bushels, as against 10,010,000 in 1914; and in the United States, 10,000,000 bushels as against 40,000,000 on the same date last year. The total quantity in sight, including wheat on passage to the United Kingdom and the Continent of Europe, was 40,114,000 bushels on August 14th last, as compared with 78,869,000 on August 15, 1914.

Banker Damaged.

Schr. Casaga With Mainmast Broken. Hollett Brod. banking schooner Casaga came into port yesterday having sustained serious damage a few days ago. After obtaining a squid baiting at Davis Cove, Placentia Bay, the vessel left for Labrador for the finishing trip. When off Cape Race at noon Sunday the vessel was struck by a heavy squall and the mainmast was broken off below the cross-trees. For two days then the banker had been dodging her way to port. The schr. Gladys which arrived here in company with the Casaga had a lot of canvas blown away about the same time as the Casaga met with mishap. The bankers Olga with 50,000 and the Gordon Hollett with 90,000 passed the Narrows are now on their way to the Labrador. After getting repairs and supplies the Casaga and Gladys will sail for the Labrador if it is not too late.

What Dyspeptics Should Eat.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Those who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, should try a meal of any food or foods in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. Do not dose an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs but get rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and note remarkable results. Insurated Magnesia, No. 25, E. 26th St., N.Y.C.

Ship on the Rocks

The Norwegian pit prop steamer Carisbrook, which went ashore near Little Bay Island following a riot that occurred on board, as alluded to in the last issue of the Telegram, is still on the rocks and leaking badly. The forepeak, forehold and foretank are filled with water. Several large pumps belonging to the S.S. Prospero, were sent north and are being used to-day to assist in pumping out the ship. The Carisbrook is a ship of 2784 tons gross and 1875 net. When she is pumped out it is thought that the ship will be brought here under escort for repairs and will need to be dry docked.

Record Shooting.

While shooting recently at the 200 yards rifle range, thirteen volunteers of the Reserve Force made 211 points or 8 points ahead of the previous range record. The possible score for each man to make was 200 points. The individual scores were:—

Timothy Harvey	19
J. Harham	19
D. Meehan	19
T. Lake	18
T. Grosady	17
H. Williamson	17
J. Moakler	16
N. Evans	16
E. V. O'Donnell	15
S. Bird	14
G. Brinston	14
B. Brown	14
H. Adams	12

Grand Total 211 points out of a possible 260.

At the moving figure target several possible scores have been made recently. Such results speak well for volunteers as well as the Musketry Instructors.

Reid Cup Winners Yet Undecided.

It is not unlikely that the remaining game of the Inter-town Baseball series between the city team and Bell Islanders to decide the holders of the Reid Cup may be called off on account of the holiday season being now over, though the outside players were unable to get here during that period, owing to pressure of business. However, there is a whisper going the rounds that there is a likelihood of the rivals meeting on the diamond during October month and that arrangements are now going on in that direction.

Othello Sold.

The S. S. Othello sailed from Nipper's Harbor on Tuesday for Cardiff with 2300 cords of pit props. As exclusively mentioned in the Telegram a short time ago, the Othello was sold recently for sixty thousand pounds to a firm on the other side of the water and when she visits here again will be under a new ownership. Her late owners were Messrs. Bowring Bros., Ltd., and her late commander, Capt. Cox, who will retire from the sea after reaching England.

The Beauties of Shannon Park.

"Mary" Thinks There Should be Some Improvements, and Tries to Wake up the Trustees. They Appear to be Sleeping Soundly.

Dear Sir—If you will pardon me for the neglect of the past year in not drawing attention to the sins of omission and commission among some people who may be termed public servants, and grant me a little space from time to time, I will endeavour in some way to make up for my neglect. Now, Mr. Telegram, the subject of this first letter of the series will be "Our Park"—(Shannon Park.) This beautiful level field, situated on the hill with a magnificent view of the harbour and bay, is a gift to the town from a Harbor Gracian, who loves his native town—John Shannon Munn, Esq.—from whom it takes its name. When the place was handed over to the citizens; when we felt the need of a recreation ground for the young and indeed an afternoon resting place for the middle-aged and old as well, we were all just delighted, and a Board of Trustees was appointed to take charge of Park affairs, with a view to beautifying the place. Tom and I were there, and oh, the speeches were grand, they are fresh in our minds to-day, and it is only now I am beginning to realize what Tom meant when he looked at me and winked, when a certain gentleman was explaining what would be done. Well, a great rush was made to get trees, some imported ones were secured from a person who had an agency for nursery stock, but these are nearly all gone now. Tom said at the time that our own native trees would grow better, look better and last longer than the imported and expensive article. A fine wire fence was put up to keep the goats, cows, horses, etc., off the grass, and although this was many years ago, nothing more to my knowledge has been accomplished since. The Trustee Board has never given the public a statement of their charge. Each season the grass is sold at a good price—$40.00 to $50.00—but this year it was purchased by Mr. M. Thomey for Mr. R. O'Shea for the large sum of $65.00. What is being done with this money. Mr. John Hickey, who resides in the cottage in the Park, is receiving no remuneration for his services in keeping cattle out, other than free rent. There is no doubt, or there ought to be a nice bit of money to the credit of the Park now, with the accumulating interest each year. The public would like and in fact I hear will soon demand from the Trustees "an account of their stewardship." Why are we ignored so long? Can we not have a public meeting, and get a statement of affairs? Who are the Trustees, anyway? What do they mean by their actions? These are a few of the milder questions that some of our citizens are asking others. And is there not sufficient reason for such, considering that after all these years, 12, I think, there is not even one walkway cut through the place. If these men are not going to fulfil their pledge to the people, then they should resign and let others be appointed. I hope soon to see a report, a very favourable one I have no doubt, from the gentlemen who are managing Park affairs. Let Shannon Park be a Park in earnest and not merely a place to raise hay for sale by public auction. Again asking forgiveness for my long silence. I am yours as ever, MARY.

Harbor Grace, Sept. 10, 1915.

P.S.—My next letter will be on the apparently defunct Agricultural Society and what led to its downfall or collapse. It is now nearly two years since a meeting was called.—M.

Miss Gwendolyn Mews, Graduate Owens Museum Fine Arts, Mount Allison, will resume classes in Drawing and Painting, September 14th. Studio: 114 Military Road.—sep13,2f,m,th

LUCK.

By RUTH CAMERON.

There is no such a thing as luck," I heard a New Thought lecturer declare the other evening. Like Grizel of "Sentimental Tommy" fame, who rocked her arms in church because she couldn't get up a n d contradict the minister when she thought he was wrong, I blame many things on luck that are due to their own carelessness, inaccuracy and what not. A neighbour of mine told me last year that she "never had any luck with seeds." This spring she happened to be with me when I was planting my seeds. The directions bade me to cover the seeds with loose earth and then press it down with a board. I was hunting for a board when the neighbour who never has any luck with seeds dropped over. "Dear me," she said, "I never bother over them like that." And then I understood her lack of luck.

Again, the man who grumbles about his neighbour's "luck" in getting some excellent position into which said neighbour had really worked and fought his way is certainly abusing the word.

But that does not mean there isn't any luck in business. There is! Don't Go To The Other Extreme. Because some people blame things to luck that are really their own fault is no excuse for going to the other extreme and shouting that there is no such thing as luck. I have a hazy idea that once when I was young and foolish I wrote something along that line myself, because it sounded well and was easy to illustrate with examples of people who called their follies bad luck. If I did and some faithful reader friend happened to remember that talk, will please consider that I have evacuated that position and not try to attack me with my own words.

Commanders of Canadian Troops.

Thirty-seven Thousand of our Soldiers in the Trenches and 40,000 More Ready for the Front.

Toronto, Sept. 6.—Sir Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, who was a guest of the Toronto Exhibition Directors to-day, in an interview, confirmed the appointment of General Turner, of Quebec, to command the new Second Canadian Division, and the reports that if the Canadians went into action as an army corps of two divisions, General Alderson, commanding the First Canadian Division, would take command of the corps, and that Col. A. W. Currie, commanding the Second Brigade First Division, would take command of the First Division. He added that it was the policy of the Militia Department to appoint officers with experience at the front to new commands, and if a Third Canadian Division were to go into action General Mercer would be offered command of it.

There are at present, he said, 37,000 Canadian troops in the trenches, and 40,000 more in England, waiting to go to the front. Two divisions in action would mean about 50,000 men.

At the directors' luncheon Sir Sam delivered a brief but inspiring address. He spoke of the gallantry of all the Canadian regiments, notably that of the 48th Highlanders, in holding the line in the battle of St. Julien. He delivered a message from the men at the front the following: "Give our love to the boys and girls at home, and tell them we are doing our duty."

"They have faithfully and nobly performed their duty," said the Minister, "and they are determined to stay on the job till they smash the autocracy of the Kaiser. During their whole arduous service there has been not one reflection on their honor, their fearlessness and their determination."

How the Holiday Was Spent.

Yesterday which was the last commercial holiday for the season, was taken advantage of by everyone who could and an enjoyable day was spent. In the morning thousands of all classes could be seen wending their way countrywards. Some were berry picking and basket parties were seen bound for the most popular resorts. Many others left by excursion trains while not a few Wal-tonians went whipping the suburban streams and ponds, so that when mid-day arrived the city was almost deserted. Altogether the day was well spent and not a single serious accident of any kind was reported.

Enjoyable Event.

A successful dancing assembly was held in the C. C. C. Hall on Tuesday night by the Loyd Amusement Club and the large gathering of folks who attended thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The event opened at 9 p.m. and the dancers tripped the light fantastic to the strains of the Cadet band until the early hours of the morning. During the interval at midnight vocal selections were rendered, adding much to the enjoyment of the evening. The promoters were highly pleased with the success that attended their efforts and intend holding a similar event shortly.

PREMIER ASQUITH ASKS FOR MONEY AND REVIEWS THE WAR SITUATION.

LONDON, To-day. The seventh note credit, since the outbreak of the war, bringing up the total to $6,310,000,000 was moved in the Commons yesterday afternoon by Premier Asquith. The amount asked for to-day is $1,250,000,000. The Premier announced that nearly three million men enlisted. He made this statement in reviewing the financial and military situations, so far as military exigencies permitted, but this requirement necessitated in many instances only vague references to the trend of events. The growing expenditures of the war was emphasized by the Premier. He said the average daily cost from April 1st to the end of June £2,700,000; from July 1st to 15th, £3,000,000; from July 15th to September 11th, £3,500,000. Thus the total for this year is £28,000,000. There has been repaid £50,000,000 to the Bank of England; £50,000,000 has been lent to foreign Governments and £28,000,000 lent to the Dominions. Comparing the actual expenditures since the last vote credit with the estimate, Asquith said that there has been some abnormal items to disclose which could not be made in the public interest, but the House might take it that these expenditures were incurred for the purpose of financing necessary operations. Part of this amount was to be repaid in the course of a few months; the remainder represented advances for future expenditure. Asquith estimated that the weekly gross expenditure henceforth would not exceed thirty-five million pounds. It was his opinion that the new vote would carry the country through the third week of November. These figures throw some light on many of the contributions we are making to war. He continued I do not wish to say even that we are doing all we can, but as mischievous attempts are constantly being made to depreciate them, I give some comparisons between peace and war figures. Since the outbreak of war enlisting will be found to aggregate not far short of three million in the army and navy.

KITCHENER'S REVIEW OF WAR SITUATION.

LONDON, To-day. The Germans appear almost to have shot their bolt, said Earl Kitchener, Secretary of War. To-day their advance in Russia which at one time averaged five miles a day now is diminished to less than one mile a day. Kitchener's statement made review of the war in the House of Lords. The response of the House to his remarks had been little short of marvellous, but the problem however to insure the field force being kept at full strength is causing our attention, and will, I hope, soon receive a practical solution. I do not for one instant doubt that whatever sacrifice may be necessary will be undertaken cheerfully by our people. Regarding the military operations, the War Secretary said, for the last few months the work held by the Allies in the West had been practically unchanged. This does not mean that there has been any relaxation of offensive work on the part of the forces in the field, for the continuous local fighting which has taken place all along the line called for a display of trenching and fortification. Meanwhile our posts have been much strengthened, not only by a careful elaboration of the system of trench fortifications, but also by a large increase in the number of heavy guns, which have been placed along our lines. The Germans recently on several occasions used gas and liquid fire. The enemy's bombardment of our lines with asphyxiating shells, but these forms of attacks, lacking as they now do the element of surprise which they formerly possessed, owing to the steps taken by us to counteract the effect of these poisonous methods, no longer become trained and ready to take the field. Considerable reinforcements have been sent out to join Field Marshal Sir John French's army. You will be glad to hear his opinion of these troops, communicated to me. He writes: The units appear to be thoroughly well concentrated and equipped. Several units of artillery have been tested behind the firing line trenches, and I have very good reports of them. Their shooting has been extremely good. They are quite fit to take their place in the line. These new divisions have now had an opportunity of acquiring by experience of actual warfare a portion of the necessary training as soldiers, which it was impossible to give them in this country. Once acquired it will enable them effectively to take their place in the line with the rest of the British Army. With these additional reinforcements, amounting to eleven divisions (about two hundred thousand men), Sir John French has been able to extend his front along their extended line from some place notably near Arras and Alsace they have made substantial progress. French trenches along the entire front have been developed and strengthened, and now everywhere present a network of almost impenetrable positions. Of this I was able to satisfy myself during a visit lately to the front, in connection through General Joffre. I was profoundly impressed with the high state of efficiency and morale of the French army. In my opinion the war, said Earl Kitchener, few episodes stand out more prominently and more creditably than the masterly manner in which the British Army distributed along a line 750 miles have been handled, while facing the violent assaults from an enemy greatly superior in numbers, especially in guns and munitions. The success of this great war was guaranteed and the action had been rendered possible by the quality of fighting qualities of Russian soldiers who in every case where an actual conflict had taken place, had shown himself infinitely superior to the enemy. This fighting quality of the Russian army empowers her able generals and competent staff to carry out the immensely difficult operations of retirement and move the line over some 100 to 200 miles, without allowing the enemy to break through any part or by surrounding their forces bring about a tactical position, which might have involved the surrender of a considerable portion of the Russian Army. This we see in the Russian Army remaining in contact as a fighting force. It doubtless has suffered severely from the light to which it had been subjected during recent months, but the German forces also had to pay a heavy toll for their advance into the trenches, and will venture to say until the present grips are relaxed which armies suffered. They succeeded in forcing the line, the artillery taking several forts, he said, but all accounts show the Russian retreat is being conducted in a most masterly fashion and that the Russian army is still unbroken. The assumption of the supreme command by the Czar is the most significant proof yet given of the unalterable determination from the highest to the lowest of the Russian people. It must not be forgotten that the Russians with vast territory have always been able ultimately to envelop and annihilate large invading armies. In this case certainly is no less capable to-day than she was a century ago. As regards the net result, all that Germans can place to their credit is that at enormous sacrifice they have captured certain fortresses, but our recent experience shows that the best fortification is practically the only one that can effectively resist the new machinery of war are those which can be quickly dug in deep soil. Such trenches are the most carefully fortified places, of which engineers until lately were so proud. The Germans have succeeded to have shot their bolt. Their advance into Russia which at one time was carried out at an average daily rate of five miles has now diminished to less than one mile a day, and we see forces which they boastfully described as defeated broken troops fleeing before them, still doggedly and

THE LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, To-day. Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's drive toward the Dvinsk, Vilna railway is not progressing as fast as his previous enterprises of a similar kind have done, and except at one or two points about midway between these towns where his cavalry cut the railway it is still being stubbornly opposed by the Russians, who are making vigorous counter-attacks. Von Hindenburg has however reached a point West of the Bridgehead across from the town of Dvinsk and is preparing to attack that fortified area. Elsewhere the German advance has also slowed up, while in Galicia the Russians are still attacking, and according to unofficial reports from Bucharest and other points, the Austro-German armies are falling back across the Dneister River. Just north of the Galician border the Russians also are on the offensive and making efforts to recapture the fortress of Dubno, which the Austrians took last

We have just received another shipment of them, and we have still another on the way. We have sold nearly a half hundred of these machines, and though all of them were sold on a "Money-back-if-not-as-represented" basis, we have yet to have a claim or a complaint. Let us tell you who the purchasers were. Most of them were sold to Water Street firms. Ask for our Booklet "What We Do, and How We Do It." It tells how we save you $50.00 to $80.00 on a typewriter. Take a machine, try it for a week or a month, test it in your own office—by an expert if you will—you will then be convinced that you need not pay more than $50.00, $60.00 or $80.00 for your typewriter.

MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY VERY LARGELY ATTENDED.
The Nickel Theatre was filled yesterday afternoon and last evening. It being a general holiday the place was crowded and everyone was delighted with the pictures. The 17th episode of the "Million Dollar Mystery" was shown; it proved most interesting. There was a beautiful drama entitled "Minerva's Mission" in which Dorothy Gish played the leading role. "The Leopard's Lair" is a thrilling story of the jungle, and there was a very funny comedy—"Alias Greased Lightning." Messrs. Huskins and Cairns will repeat their popular numbers this evening. Be sure and attend to hear them. Tomorrow Flo Labadie, the well known actress will be seen in "The Final Judgment" a picture which attracted immense audiences in America.

BRITISH THEATRE.
A holiday programme of extraordinary brilliance was presented to patrons of the above theatre yesterday. Included in the excellent plays selected the magnificent two part drama: "The Lieutenant Governor"—from the celebrated Essay studio, was also shown. This particular photo-play is replete with interest and excitement throughout and is undoubtedly one of the best which has yet been turned out by that famous organisation. Madame Olive Timmons sang the late Sir Arthur Sullivan's greatest composition—"The Lost Chord"—as SHE can sing it—everybody knows what THAT means. In other words the bill which is presented at the British will be difficult to duplicate anywhere.

AT THE CRESCENT.
See the advertisement of the Crescent Picture Palace in another column of this paper for particulars of the big picture programme they are showing to-day, it is certainly a fine show, the crowds who attend the popular palace yesterday were more than satisfied. Mr. Harvey Collins sings "My Own Kentucky Lady" and having a rich silky finish, unlike any we have yet handled; faint shades of Pale Blue, Salmon and Fawn, mixed with White; deep knotted fringe edging, large enough for the largest bed; size 2 1/2 x 2 3/4 yards. Remember only 8 for this sale. Friday, Saturday and Monday 23c

ROSSLEY'S THEATRES EAST AND WEST ENDS.

At the East End Theatre during the remainder of the week, the Ian MacKenzie Co. will give a complete change of programme, songs, stories and violin selections. Mr. MacKenzie has already won golden opinions from all who have attended, and his songs and humorous Scottish tales met with unstinted applause. Mr. MacKenzie's record as a singer is of the very best; he is a pupil of Dr. Henschel and has been a soloist at the Queen's Hall, Royal Albert Hall and Crystal Palace, London, Eng., with all the best British artists. He was leading bass in St. George's, Edinburgh, under Sir A. G. Mackenzie, now principal of the Royal Academy, London. Miss Rix Curran has an established reputation in New York and Boston, and has been enjoyed at many of the best concerts in these cities; Mr. William Wallace, the phenomenal boy violinist has given ample proof of his mastery of the instrument. His delicate phrasing and complete control of the high class music he has already rendered is only a foretaste of what is in store for the patrons of Rossley's Theatre. His playing is marvellous for one of his years, and the people of St. John's will miss one of the greatest musical treats ever presented to the city if they fail to attend.
At the West End Theatre by special request, will be shown the great film of the Nfld. Regiment and other troops on Monday next, together with splendid new films just received from New York.

THE CONQUEROR.

Who is this man of stately mien, who gains applause wherever he wends, who makes a hit in every scene, who has all people for his friends? The rich and poor, the high and low, behold his coming with glad smiles, the women say he is a Jo, the merchant princes lift their tiles. He is no soldier, who in vain a million quarts of blood has shed; he has not cluttered up the plain with ricks and windrows of his dead. He is no statesman who has held a senate breathless while he spied, and he has never whooped and yelled throughout the broad Chautauqua field. He is no author, who has made a book with fire in every line, that made Gene Stratton Porter fade, and H. Bell Wright take in his sign. Who is this man of lordly air, whom all the people thus applaud, and greet with fervor everywhere, whenever he may walk abroad? Why does he cut such sads of ice? What has he done that is sublime? He is the man who has the price—the man who pays his bills on time.
