THE TORONTO WORLD

It is bearing fruit every year in the shape of deflation. It is not evidenced alone in the performance of clerical duties. Reports on clients bear its stamp. A private report or a client should contain description of character, business knowledge, habits of life, extent of business and known means. What should be a matter of minute investigation and a serious reflection is attended to in a spare half hour, the material being mainly drawn from heavy rather than personal knowledge. What wonder that directors fall into error?

The one absolutely necessary qualification in a bank officer is a sterling character. Fidelity to high principles and a love of work are the tests of excellence. Man is a mere imitator, and when officials in commanding positions show themselves to be selfish speculators, wanting in principle, we may rest assured that the fruit of their evil example will sooner or later become apparent in their employes.

THE LAND QUESTION IN SCOTLAND. Mrs. McDougall, whose letters on Ireland over the signature of Nora, were so much interesting to our readers, writes in the Montreal Witness concerning some Scotch landlords. Going over facts made known in the reports of the recent commission that investigated the subject she shows us a state of things in the Scottish highlands and islands about as bad as anything we hear from Ireland. Here are some of the oppressions to which the poor people of the island of Skye have to submit, and some of the "rights" which are enforced by their mercenary landlords. 1. The right to turn out a tenant at will. 2. The right to raise the rent at will. 3. The right to strip the soil of the houses and pour water on the roofs. 4. The right to take a tenant's goods and sell them at a public sale. 5. The right to take a tenant's goods and sell them at a public sale. 6. The right to take a tenant's goods and sell them at a public sale. 7. The right to take a tenant's goods and sell them at a public sale. 8. The right to take a tenant's goods and sell them at a public sale. 9. The right to take a tenant's goods and sell them at a public sale. 10. The right to take a tenant's goods and sell them at a public sale.

It will probably turn out that the victory of the democrats in Ohio was owing mainly to the large prohibition vote, which as we know, draws most of its strength from the republican ranks. Ten thousand votes taken from regular party tickets, and cast for prohibition, mean three times as many, probably six times as many, lost to the republicans as to the democrats. As far as yet appears, at this distance, the liquor question has been the real dividing question of the day in Ohio, while the tariff question was away in the background all the time.

Coming so soon after the death of the Russian novelist, Alphonse Daudet's reminiscences in the November Century of Tourgenieff in Paris and the full-page portrait painted from life for the Century, will have a special interest. Daudet was a member of the Club of Hissed Authors, of which Flaubert and Tourgenieff were the most conspicuous personalities. The anecdotes he tells throw light on the private character of Tourgenieff and on literary fellowship in Paris. When the paper was written, early last summer, Tourgenieff was very ill, and Daudet describes his last visit to him at that time.

It is worth while to contrast the practices of our stock exchanges with the stock exchange of London, England. There every broker comes under an obligation to make a return of all transactions with persons in banker or other public companies, high or low, from the president to the junior clerk. Here, these people are the most constant customers of the brokers. What is the consequence? The Exchange Bank breaks, after its president has used its funds to buy the stock; a barber borrows securities and goes to the penitentiary; a number of persons die on a volcano; and the list is a danger of being overwhelmed. Cannot our stock exchanges reform their rules and alter their practices?

A Smart Man is one who does his work quickly and well. This is what Dr. R. V. Paine's "Golden Medical Discovery" is to a blood-purifier and strengthener, it arouses the torpid liver, purifies the blood, and in the best manner for consumption, which is a chronic disease of the lungs.

On Wednesday morning Mr. E. Macaulay had four rings on a plain at Ramsey's carriage factory, Orillia. Some one entering drawing room: lady visitor—What a beautiful suite of furniture you have got, and how nicely upholstered, it does credit to your house both as regards style and finish. Lady of house—Yes, I am very well pleased with my suite; last week I had occasion to pass the upholstering workrooms of T. F. Cummings & Co., 340 Yonge street, saw the suite in their window, the price only being $75, I was convinced at once I could not do better elsewhere.

English Blue Ribbons. When the "blue ribbon" or teetotal society was first started in England it was made the subject of unlimited ridicule, particularly by London saloon keepers. It is stated by the Medical Press that a number of the blue ribbons were kept in stock by these saloons, and whenever a customer leaving the house because he was too drunk to drink more of the beverages would take one of the badges out of a bowl under the counter, and while it is in his buttonhole. The Buchananians would then at glee hand over to the saloon-keeper, and the matter was so arranged that the saloon-keeper would turn over to the teetotaler a number of blue ribbons for the latter to have become further adorned by the statement that the list of blue ribbons footed up to 4,000,000, and the average annual consumption of alcoholic drinks per head of population in England has fallen from 24 sterling to considerably under £3.

The Lights of London

Our eastern exchanges speak in terms of the highest praise of Shook & Collier's Lights of London combination which opens for a week at the Grand and night. The Ottawa Citizen says: The play itself is of a highly sensational character, and in the introduction and development of the thrilling incidents with which it is clothed the company stamped themselves as worthy exponents of the histrionic art, and deserved the hearty applause that greeted them at frequent intervals. In all its bearings it is safe to say that without an exception it was the best play ever put on the boards on the Grand opera house. Its beauty and realism were manifest from the outset; the vast audience sympathizing where sympathy was demanded, cheering to the hilt the brave conduct of the unfortunate Harold and his noblehearted and devoted wife through their terrible trials, and himself their terrible trials, and himself their terrible trials.
