WESTERN TROOPS ARRIVE AT DIGBY

Digby, October 15—The town of Digby was trimmed with flags yesterday in honor of the arrival from Camp Hughes, Manitoba, of the 209th Battalion, under command of Lieutenant Colonel Smith. The trains were run in two sections of 500 each, the officers and men coming through from Winnipeg without change. The battalion has a good band, which has already rendered fine music on our streets. The battalion is quartered at Green Point camp, recently vacated by the 4th Pioneers. They are a fine looking lot, of men and appear to be well trained.

MEMORIAL SERVICE IN HONOR OF MAJOR JAMES HOWARD TUPPER

The large auditorium and vestry of the Baptist Church were crowded to their utmost last Sunday afternoon by a congregation of people which had assembled from far and near to pay a tribute of respect to the memory of one of our fallen heroes in the present great European conflict, viz., Major James Howard Tupper.

Long before the hour appointed for the service every available seat was occupied, and many were compelled to stand, nearly 1000 people being present.

The service was in charge of the Rev. F. C. Simpson, Pastor of Gordon Memorial, Presbyterian Church, of which the late Major Tupper was a consistent member, and with him on the pulpit platform were the following clergymen: Rev. W. B. Muir of Annapolis, Archdeacon Martell of Windsor, Rev. A. R. Reynolds and Rev. E. Underwood.

The Masonic Lodges of Bridgetown and Annapolis Royal were present in a body and occupied seats in the centre of the church.

The following was the Order of service:

The Lord's Prayer,
Hymn, "Peace, Perfect Peace."
Scripture Lessons: Zechariah 10:5-12; 2 Tim. 4:6-8; Rev. 21:1-7.
Rev. A. R. Reynolds,
Hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past."

Prayer, Rev. E. Underwood.
Hymn, "Now the Laborer's Task is O'er."
Address, Rev. W. B. Muir.
Hymn, "Be Still My Soul."
Address, Rev. F. C. Simpson.
Solo, "Shadows," Miss Simpson.
Letter of Tribute written by Rev. E. B. Spurr, and read by Archdeacon Martell.

Hymn, "For All The Saints who From Their Labors Rest."
"Dead March in Saul."
Benediction.

The service was an impressive one and there was many a tear-dimmed eye in the vast assemblage as words of sincere tribute to our hero were uttered. With the rendering of the Dead March the large congregation stood with bowed heads.

A touching part of the service was the reading of a letter written by Major Tupper to his son which was to be read at his (the son's) twelfth birthday, and which portrayed the true manly and christian spirit of the writer.

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. At any drug store.

RED ROSE TEA "is good tea"

REPORT OF THE ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE UNITED BAPTIST WOMEN'S MISSIONARY CONVENTION OF THE MARITIME PROVINCES

Held in the Baptist Church, Bridgetown, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 10-12

Beautiful October weather greeted the delegates to the United Baptist Women's Missionary Union that met at the Baptist Church Bridgetown, at ten o'clock on Wednesday morning, Oct. 11th.

The Convention was opened by the President, Mrs. David Hutchinson of St. John. A number of executive meetings were held on Monday and Tuesday, and Tuesday evening was employed in registering the delegates and having social intercourse in the church vestry. It was found that almost every hamlet town and city of the Maritime Provinces were represented at the convention. A splendid impression prevailed with the business like manner in which the great interests of mission work were handled by the officials.

The financial report was the first taken up and read by Miss Clara Fullerton. This was followed by a report of the secretary, Miss Emma Hume. This was a long report of the financial aspect of the Union. A large number of letters were read from the fields in India. Many of them breathed of great encouragement in the spread of the gospel, while others gave a tone of warning of trouble among the natives that now and then crop up and give the missionary grave anxiety. One of the most encouraging lines of progress at the work is that which they have on the women. They readily memorize the Scriptures and are most helpful in the spread of the gospel. Some forty thousand copies of religious papers have been distributed. Special effort has been made to get at the wealthy class, but they usually turn a cold shoulder to all appeals.

There is a great call for nurses in the foreign mission field, as the people are the more readily reached in this manner. There is only one in the field at the present time.

Miss E. Gillespie read the report of the Mission Band. There had been collected $5,217.00, the largest amount in the history of the Band.

Mrs. Mary Smith read the reports of the Union. The total amount raised this year was $36,523.00. After the expenditure there was a balance of $11,501.00. At a suggestion the meeting acrossed sang "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." Mrs. Smith explained that after mature judgment she had decided to use the Anniversary fund for the building of a home for Doctor Clarke, their only medical missionary in India.

The Home Mission Report was read by Mrs. F. H. Beals, as written by Mrs. I. W. Porter of Wolfville, who was not present on account of illness. This report was most encouraging throughout, and elicited strong expressions of approval of the methods used on the home mission field. Contributions had somewhat fallen off during the past year. New church buildings had been erected on five fields in Nova Scotia and one hundred and twenty-one baptisms have taken place. Generally speaking our home mission churches are very comfortable and well attended. One lady had contributed five dollars for books for one of the churches, and there was room for other amounts of a like nature for this purpose. In the New Brunswick field there had been one hundred and sixty-seven baptisms. The interest in home missions is greatly increasing, and the time has come when we must have more ladies on the fields as preachers. The roll call was taken up at the close of the morning session.

Wednesday Afternoon
2.15—Praise Service, Mrs. G. D. Hudson.
2.45—Address of Welcome, Mrs. W. A. Warren.
Response, Mrs. H. Coy.
Guests invited to seats in the Convention: Mrs. L. A. Therrien, Quebec; Mrs. J. C. Hardy, India.
Greetings from Local Societies, Methodist: Mrs. C. Jost, Presbyterian: Mrs. A. O. Price.
Provincial Reports:
New Brunswick—Miss Slipp. While the work may not have advanced as much as could have been wished, yet good work was reported. We take up the work for the new year with glad hearts and determined to make it the "best yet."
Nova Scotia—Mrs. C. S. McLearn. The ladies from Nova Scotia feel very grateful to the Lord for the answer to prayer to send forth laborers into the field. Two bright young ladies have been accepted by the board and are on their way to India. It is hoped that more of our young people may catch the vision and at the next Convention our hearts may be cheered by more going out to give the "Glad Tidings."
Prince Edward Island—Miss A. Wadman. Good work was reported from the Island and there have been gains in a number of lines.
Provincial Treasurers' Reports:
New Brunswick—Miss H. Clarke. Money raised, $5,440.85.
Nova Scotia—Mrs. J. W. Seaman. Money raised, $11,239.45.
Prince Edward Island—Mrs. A. W. Sterns.
Discussion.
Echoes from Northfield, Mrs. J. R. VanWart. It was evident from the practical things in this address that great instruction is given and great inspiration received.

Wednesday Evening
7.30—Hymn.
Scripture reading, Mrs. M. L. Greig.
Prayer, Mrs. Mary Smith.
Music, Choir.
President's Annual Address, Mrs. D. Hutchinson.

This address is always listened to with great pleasure. It was just ten years ago at a convention held in the same church that Mrs. Hutchinson was elected President of the Convention and well and ably has she filled the position ever since. She said in part: Although the war has been raging we have been able to carry on our work. In some cases there is gain and in other cases there is a loss. We should enlarge the work. Another need is Love. Love is the Gospel message. The invitation comes "All ye that are tired and heavy laden, come to me, and I will give you rest." We have a world in need, locked in war and destruction all around. In our own land before the Gospel can be known it must first be made known. Non-Christian religions fall to satisfy the longings of the soul. The time was never greater than at the present.

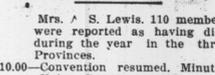

Music by choir.
Address: Grand Ligne, Mrs. L. A. Therrien. Mrs. Therrien's address received great interest and gave a great insight into this work. Grand Ligne is one of the important Home Mission stations, and the work done therein is something which causes us to give thanks. Madam Feller came from Switzerland, came to Quebec surrounded by Roman Catholics and founded the school for boys. She says the least the work done there has been nothing less than a miracle. The Maritime Provinces sent $1,000 to this school. Now girls as well as boys are admitted. One of the great needs of this school is a Manual Training Department. 1,000,000 people in Canada are denied the open Bible. There are a great number of children born in the province of Quebec but the rate of infant mortality is high owing to ignorance and early marriages. The poor are very illiterate. One girl who came to the institution had been in a charitable institution for four or five years and could scarcely read or write. All she had been taught was manual labor. The poor are kept in bondage. The same conditions prevail in Quebec as have been found by the investigations in the charitable institutions in New York.

Address: Western Missions, Rev. N. A. Harkness.
Mr. Harkness has spent some years in the great west, and was so full of his subject, that he had difficulty in choosing a starting point. As he expressed it he was afraid of getting lost and if he did the audience would never be able to find him in that great country. The comparison of the different provinces to the size of the countries of Europe showed us what a marvelous west is ours. Not "Canada for Canadians" should be our watchword, but "Canadians for Christ." This will have to be a Home Missions field for some time to come on account of the sparsely settled communities and the ever changing population. There is nothing permanent about the West. The people settle where there is employment but when the factories close the smelter is moved or the mine shuts down, the people seek work elsewhere, and the church is compelled to close its doors. The country is rich in potential possibilities. The melting pot of Canada is in the West. The civilization of the days to come depends upon the impress we put upon to-day. Nearly one-half of the population are English speaking people, but in all about seventy languages are spoken. After the war people will come to the provinces in great numbers. What have we to give them? The church of today has great working opportunities. What have we done in the West to meet the challenge? The future of Canada must be fought out in the West. Foreign element and Canadians are grappling, and God says "Stand Fast."
After prayer by Rev. Z. L. Fash the session closed with the National Anthem.
Thursday Morning, Oct. 12
9.00—Memorial Service conducted by

DO YOU IMAGINE

that your skin trouble is incurable because ordinary treatments have failed? If so get Zam-Buk and prove, as thousands of others have, that Zam-Buk is capable of healing after everything else has failed! Mrs. Horgan, of 181 Manning Ave., Toronto, writes: "For eight months my little son's face was simply covered with eczema. The pain and irritation were so intense that he could not sleep. He received treatment at a hospital, but it did him no good. Then I heard of Zam-Buk and commenced using it. It really worked wonders. The pain and irritation soon disappeared, and I could notice a decided improvement. I persevered with the treatment, and now his face is quite free from sores and his skin is perfectly clear. I cannot be grateful enough for what Zam-Buk has done, and I shall never be without it."

Zam-Buk is equally good for ringworm, salt rheum, blood-poisoning, eczema, old sores, piles, burns, scalds, cuts and all skin injuries. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25. All druggists or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Mrs. A. S. Lewis, 110 members were reported as having died during the year in the three Provinces.

10.00—Convention resumed. Minutes. Union Reports continued:—Bureau of Literature, Mrs. George Dishart. Tidings, Mrs. B. W. Ralston. Editor of Tidings, Mrs. J. W. Manning, $300 copies taken. Column, Maritime Baptist, Mrs. E. M. Sipprell. Discussion.

Estimate for 1916-1917: Foreign Missions, $18,738; Home Missions, $8,500.

"Systematic Giving" by Miss H. Clarke. In all activities of life we find system spelled with capital letters. If for material gain it is found so successful why not be used in our religious life? The Bible commends it and states emphatically how it should be used and how much we should give. Give God a square deal.

Election of officers: President, Mrs. D. Hutchinson. General Treasurer, Mrs. Mary Smith. Recording Secretary, Miss C. Fullerton. Corresponding Secretary, Miss E. Hume. Mission Band Treasurer, Miss N. Gillespie.

The re-election of all the former officers met with the hearty approval of the entire Convention. The President, Mrs. Hutchinson, was given the chancery salute.

2.15 p.m.—Prayer Service led by Mrs. H. A. Therrien.

2.45—Convention resumed. Minutes.
Baby Band Reports: P. L. Mrs. A. Schurman, N. B. Mrs. J. H. Hunter, N. S. Mrs. I. A. Corbett, Miss L. Miss Gamble, N. B. Mrs. W. E. MacIntyre, N. S. Mrs. L. H. Crandall.

4.30—Consecration Service, Mrs. F. H. Beals. This was a most impressive service. The Spirit's power was felt. Everyone felt it was good to be there.

Thursday Evening
7.30—Devotional Exercises.

Address: "The Mission Work at Palcoona" by Mrs. J. C. Hardy. She shared with us very vivid impressions of her first Sunday spent at the station. The work was a new one, and small in its beginnings, but progress is being made and souls are coming out of heathen darkness into the light and liberty of the Gospel. Some special cases were mentioned showing the marvelous transforming power of the Gospel. The children are the hope of the country.
Address: "Panama Congress," by Mrs. D. H. Simpson. The speaker summed up the wonderful congress in the one word "Evangelism." It was begun with prayer and ended with prayer. The consecration service each day lasted three hours. A theatre was engaged for the services but the Roman Catholics opposed it so hard that this had to be given up and a dance hall was engaged. South America is so marvelous in extent that one can hardly comprehend it. South America has no sacred book fit to read. 75% of the population know almost nothing, but the missionaries are hopeful. Immorality is something frightful. The conditions are something beyond description. In one small area of a mile and one half square 20,000 people are huddled together. "Is this nothing to you?" On the line between Brazil and Argentine there is the statue of "Christ of the Andes." It faces north and almost seems as if it were looking for the messenger to come from that way to bring the gospel of love.
Address: "Two Soldiers of the Cross" by Mrs. Grace MacLeod Rogers. In her most charming style Mrs. Rogers gave us a glimpse of the lives of two of the fathers of the church, viz:

Henry Alline and Harris Manning. It gave us a grand uplift, made us see more clearly that strong spirit, marvelous endurance, patience and faithful ministry, through all the hardships they had to endure for the Gospel's sake. It should make the young people of this generation feel that they should not get discouraged but press forward, surmounting all difficulties and realize that to him that overcometh a crown shall be given. After the usual resolutions were passed, and a few remarks by the President, the session closed with prayer by the Rev. G. C. Warren, and the National Anthem, followed by "God save our splendid men."

Why He Enlisted

He was born in South Africa but was the son of an American gentleman, whose residence was in California, and who had large interests in mines and railways. He was also the nephew and heir of a well known mining engineer who is still living on the Pacific slope. His education began in California and was continued in Beaumont College, England. He learned there to appreciate the history of England, her people, her government, her methods of Colonial administration, her love of healthy sport, and being called upon very early to manage his father's estate, he exhibited a fine business ability which would have enabled him to accumulate great wealth.

But when the news reached San Francisco that England had declared war against the nation which, in violation of a sacred treaty, and after the manner of the barbaric Attila, had sought to crush the little kingdom of Belgium, he at once determined to put himself on the side of the Allies. He received his first commission in a Warwickshire Regiment, in the early part of 1915, and has now made the supreme sacrifice to his adopted cause on the blood-stained field.

In one of his early letters he gives the reasons for his enlistment, as follows:—"I am now no longer untried. Two weeks' action in a great battle is now to my credit, and if my faith in the wisdom of my course, or my enthusiasm for the cause had been due to fall, it would have done so during that time. But it has only become stronger. I find myself a soldier, among millions of others in the great Allied armies, fighting for all I believe right and civilized and humane against a power which is evil and which threatens the existence of all the right we prize and the freedom we enjoy. * * * I tell you that not only am I willing to give my life to this enterprise, (for that is comparatively easy, except when I think of you), but that I firmly believe, if I live through it, to spend a useful life with you, that never will I have an opportunity to gain so much honorable advancement for my own soul, or to do so much for the world's progress, as I have here daily defending the liberty that mankind has so far gained against the attack of an enemy who would deprive us of it, and set the world back some centuries if he could have his way * * * Yes, my dearest folks, we are, indeed, doing the world's work over here, and I am in it to the finish."

This confession reveals a noble spirit. It was not the love of war, or the love of adventure that took him across the ocean. It was the love of right, of truth, of liberty, of honor. And, without doubt this is the spirit of many Canadian boys and English boys who have been proving their valor and their moral courage, by deeds which have won for them an enduring fame in the history of these sad days. It is this spirit, too, which will bring a final success to the arms of the Allies.

"Thrice is he armed, that hath his quarrel just,
"And he but naked, though locked up in steel,
Whose conscience with injustice is corrupted."

Reprisals

It is not to be wondered at that some of the English people, especially Londoners, who have been kept in a state of fear and peril, and have seen their fellow citizens killed and their property destroyed by zeppelin raids should advocate reprisals. But it is to the credit of those responsible for the direction of affairs, that they have not yielded, and are not at all likely to yield to this demand.

These Zeppelin raids, if they aimed at the destruction of munition plants, gun foundries, aeroplane shelters, or even of armed men might be justified.

Indeed, some of the allies have used their aeroplanes with considerable success for such purposes. The destruction of war supplies of various kinds tends to bring an end to war. But, the murder of women and children and unarmed citizens and their homes is not war, as understood by international laws and regulations. This German method is a relic of barbarism, and is just of a piece with the "frightfulness" which has shown itself in so many ways. It began when a solemn treaty was declared to be a mere "scrap of paper," and the German hordes swept down upon undefending Belgium. The treatment of Belgian women and children, the cruelty to interned prisoners of war, the piracy upon the high seas, the poisoning of wells, and other barbaric methods which have been established by documentary evidence have followed in rapid succession. They reveal a set purpose in defiance of obligations to public opinion, and, have produced the conviction in almost every nation that the peace and progress of the world can only be secured by the destruction of the system of military despotism which is responsible for the war.

Reprisals against these Zeppelin raids on British towns would not be a sure remedy for the evil. Probably they would only provoke more frequent raids. At any rate, reprisals against this method of German barbarism would justify reprisals against all other methods, and distressing as is the present condition of the contending nations, it would be made much more distressing by the general adoption of this or any other form of German barbarism.

Despite the German effort to prove that Germany did not want and did not begin the war, the historian of the future, after a frank examination of the documents, will have ample proof of the contrary, and ample proof that the relation of Great Britain to the war has been in the interest of international justice, righteousness and honor.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH PAROCHIAL MISSION

The series of Mission Services conducted by Archdeacon Martell, of Windsor in St. James Church came to a close last Sunday evening. As intimated in our last issue great interest was being taken in this mission not only because of the personality of the Missioner but also because of his message. Continuing the course of his addresses on Wednesday evening the Archdeacon spoke on "The Malignity of Sin" and this very naturally lead the subject for Thursday evening—viz., "Repentance". In the clearest possible terms the speaker pointed out the great and vital difference between worldly and godly sorrow the former thinking chiefly of itself and of self the latter of the wounded heart and the slighted love of the Heavenly Father, the blessed Saviour and the Gracious Spirit. This is the great and vital difference between false and true repentance, the latter always involving a turning to God, definite confession, and restitution—restitution applying to all our relationships in which we have done any wrong that can be righted.

On Friday evening the subject was the invitation to that great means of grace—the Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Jesus Christ.

On Saturday evening no mission service was held.

On Sunday the day began with a celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 a. m. This was followed by a second Celebration at 11 a. m. when the Archdeacon preached a most impressive sermon from the words—"Died Abner as a fool dieth?"

At 2 o'clock a special Children Service was held and the Church was well filled with children and friends.

At 7 p. m. the closing service of the mission began. The Church was crowded to its utmost capacity. The subject of the address was "The Last Judgement" in clear and forceful terms the missioner pointed out how that just as we are writing certain books here, so we are preparing our own particular judgment there. He also emphasized the certainty of the justice and inerrancy of God's judgment thus brought about and how this will stand out in the strongest contrast to the judgment of men which, at best is faulty and from appearance rather than motive.

This sermon was a fitting close to a course which has meant an uplift and inspiration to all who have heard them.

On Monday morning the "Mission" Committee waited on the Archdeacon and on behalf of the congregation, thanked him for the splendid service he had rendered the Parish by his visit. This was accompanied by an appropriate worded address; to which Dr. Martell made a very feeling reply. He returned to Windsor on Tuesday.

The Bank of Nova Scotia has opened a branch at East End, St. John's Nfld., under the management of Mr. J. A. Dunbar.

News was received here yesterday of the death of Elmer Brinton, formerly of Port Lorne, which occurred at Halifax. The remains will be brought to Port Lorne today for interment.

Little Miss Marguerite Elliott of Clementsvale sent to the Monitor office last week a few ripe wild strawberries which she picked on Oct. 7th, indicating the mildness of the weather we are enjoying this autumn.

Messrs O. M. Rogers and Gordon Goldsmith of Canning with Mr. Samuel Swift of Dalhousie as guide, were successful in shooting a moose on Oct. 10th near Stony Lake, Dalhousie, which dressed in the neighborhood of 600 lbs.

Yesterday was the day for receiving nominations for County Councillors. We understand that all the former councillors will be returned by acclamation excepting in Wards 13 and 7, where elections are likely to take place.

The famous 168th Battalion of Toronto, said to be the best battalion raised in Ontario, is now at Aldershot and are continuing their training for a short period before proceeding overseas. They are fully one thousand strong and besides being Ontario's crack battalion they have with them the best equipped and prize band of Ontario.

A Digby despatch of Oct. 15th says: A special trip of the Empress, the steamship plying between Digby and St. John, was made on Saturday night from Digby to take on a cargo of forty cars of apples shipped from Kingsport and Canning consigned to the western provinces. She was loaded during the night and cleared at eight this morning.

Urgent communications are being sent out to all recruiting officers and committees relative to the need of men for all branches of the Service, Overseas and Home. The forward move at the "Front" is emphasizing the need of more volunteers. Full information may be obtained from any recruiting officer or from Rev. E. Underwood, Bridgetown.

Next Sunday, Oct. 22nd is being observed as anniversary Sunday on the Bridgetown Methodist Circuit. The special preacher for the occasion will be the Rev. D. W. Johnson, D. D., Editor of the "Wesleyan" and a former pastor of the circuit. The Rev. A. R. Wallis will assist in the service of the day and will be preacher at Providence church in the morning at 11.

We are asked to call attention to the notice of the annual inaugural meeting of St. James Church Bible for the season 1916-17, to be held in the school-room next Friday evening commencing at 7.30. As our readers will remember this class is conducted on the "organized" plan. On Friday evening officers and committees will be elected. Any person interested in Bible study is cordially invited to attend whether as a member or visitor.

Owing to the great scarcity of news print and the continuous soaring of prices for the same, the Monitor Publishing Co. is compelled to somewhat reduce the size of the Monitor this week and until such time as the paper market shall improve. In consequence of this fact we would request our correspondents to be as brief as possible in their reports, and not to report neighborhood or Sunday talks, which is not news. We would also request them to send in their copy not later than Monday.

A very enjoyable and pleasing Sacred Concert was rendered at Providence Methodist church last Sunday evening at the close of the regular church services to a large congregation that filled the spacious auditorium of the church. Every number on the program, which consisted of anthems by an augmented choir, solos, duets and quartettes, was exceedingly well rendered. The concert was under the direction of Miss M. D. Robb, who very ably presided at the organ. The proceeds from a silver collection will go towards purchasing a motor for church organ.

ACHIEVEMENT IS UNPARALLELED IN ALL HISTORY

(Yarmouth Times)

Paul D. Cravath, the corporation lawyer of New York, returned recently on the American liner Kroonland from a two months' trip to France, where he visited the Somme and Verdun fronts. He said the official figures regarding the aerial fighting gave the Germans as losing 120 machines and the Allies 60 during the month of August. It was evident he said, that the Allies were preparing for at least another year of war, if not longer. Mr. Cravath said:

"My observations, superficial as they necessarily were, have completely revolutionized my conception of the magnitude of the achievement of the French and English nations in this war and of the issues at stake, not only for them, but for us in America. I return home with all doubt removed as to the ultimate certainty in this regard and I am told that the same opinion has become general in neutral countries in Europe, even in those having pro-Teutonic sympathies. It now seems to be as certain as human affairs can be that the German armies that lost the Battle of the Marne two years ago to a veritable armed camp. Soldiers are greatly inferior forces, when every advantage was in their favor cannot now win when superior and highly organized forces are facing them in every front.

"The governments of both England and France have already committed themselves to a definition of the term 'conclusive peace,' which involves not only the liberation and indemnity of Belgium and Serbia, and the restoration of Alsace and Lorraine to France but also the assurance of an enduring peace by the destruction of Prussian militarism.

"Few with whom I talked expect Germany to come to the Allies' terms within a year, and the governments of England and France make no concealment of the fact that they are making their preparation on the assumption that the war may last even longer.

"We in America have no adequate conception of the magnitude of England's achievements in the war. The appeal of France has been so simple and direct that one's sympathy and admiration could not go astray but we have heard so much of England's mistakes and shortcomings that we have lost sight of the real greatness of her achievements. By common consent among the Allies, the creation of England's volunteer army with the mobilization of the industries of the nation for the support of that army, is the most marvelous achievement of the war—always excepting the victory of the Allies in the Battle of the Marne, which still remains the miracle of the war. We are apt to forget that before conscription came, almost 90 per cent, of the available men of England, Wales, Scotland and Ulster had already volunteered. England has assembled trained, equipped and officered a volunteer army of about 4,000,000 men. No one who has not seen for himself can form any conception of the gigantic proportions of this task. England has done in two years by the voluntary action of her people what it has taken Germany and France two generations to accomplish with the most drastic measures of conscription and organization. England has been turned into a veritable armed camp. Soldiers are everywhere. To equip and munition this army there are over 4,000 factories operated by the Government or under its control many of them built since the beginning of the war.

"In two years England has spent over $9,000,000,000 on her own preparations and loaned about $4,000,000,000 more to her allies and colonies. After allowing for all the blunders and delays, this gigantic mobilization of the energies of the nation has been accomplished with a promptness and a universality of sacrifice and service for which history affords no parallel. The women of England have been wonderful. Hundreds of thousands of them, of all ranks, are doing work which in normal times is being done by men.

"I for one, have never realized, as I do now, how deeply concerned we are in the victory of the Allies, and what terrible risks for the future our government is running in imperiling our friendship with France and England, to say nothing of the deadening effect upon the spiritual life of the nation which aloofness from the struggle which is convulsing the rest of the civilized world would entail."

THE CLOSED HOUSE IN QUEEN'S GATE

The Romance Behind an Empty House in a Famous London Street

"A romantic story of a bride-elect who eloped on the wedding day, forty-five years ago, with the brother of the bridegroom-to-be was told at a Westminster inquest," says the Evening News.

"Two men were killed in the collapse of a portion of a house in Queen's Gate, where they were engaged in structural alterations.

"According to Mr. Bingham, who appeared for the widows, the house was purchased forty-five years ago by a gentleman who had intended to give it to his bride.

"On the day of the wedding she eloped with his brother. The owner of the house placed a caretaker in charge. Only when he paid the wage of the caretaker had he visited the premises.

"During the whole of the forty-five years practically no repairs had been carried out. The house had been sold recently and was being modernised.

"The Coroner: 'What happened to the lady—retribution?'"

"Mr. Bingham: 'I am not instructed. The facts were common knowledge in the locality.'"

The Owner

The house remained empty till the death of its owner, Mr. W. H. C. Nation, who died in March, 1914, when the house was sold. The extraordinary romance behind these facts has been told at length by the Evening News and the housekeeper.

"Mr. Nation was a rich man. He was lord of the manor of Rockbeare, and presented the town with twenty-two acres of land for a public park.

"Educated at Eton and Oriel College, Oxford, he always had a love for theatrical work, and his first venture in that direction was when, aged twenty-three, he took over the management of a theatre and produced 'The Golden Duetman' a play adapted by himself from 'Our Mutual Friend.'

"In later years he had productions at Terry's, the Scala, and the Royalty whilst his last 'show' was at Wyndham's in 1912. All the plays he produced were written by himself, and imitated from the French, but few met with any success.

"During the 45 years 'No. 19' was unoccupied Mr. Nation paid an annual ground rent of £60.

"The property could easily have been let at £300 per year, so the secret actually cost the owner £5,200 apart from the expenses of the caretaker.

The Housekeeper

"The table set for the wedding breakfast remained undisurbed, not a piece of furniture was removed from the reception rooms, nor were the blankets, sheets, or counterpanes in the bedrooms interfered with.

"All these years the secret was in the possession of the woman who lived on the premises. She went there as a young girl with her mother and on her mother's death continued to occupy the servants' quarters at the aristocratic residence till her mysterious employer died.

"Mrs. Wick said she was nine years old when she went to the house in Queen's Gate with her father and mother.

"My father was a pensioner," she said, "and had served in the 9th Lancers for twenty years, fourteen of which he spent in India. His name was James Shove.

"He was, like Mr. Nation, the owner of No. 19, a remarkable character, and the two had much in common. My father was the caretaker of 'Mr. Nation's house, which the latter bought in 1864.

"No sooner had he bought it than he called in a man from the street, a Mr. Archer, who looked after the premises for five years. After that my father and mother went there, and when mother died about eighteen months afterwards father remained in occupation for the next twenty-eight years. Then he died, and I continued there as caretaker till March, 1914.

He Never Slept There

"During all that time Mr. Nation was a frequent visitor, but sometimes he would be away for 18 months. He was a very eccentric man, but when away he always sent money from different parts of the Continent in banknotes cut in half.

"He never in his life slept in No. 19, but he used sometimes to come there and have a glass of wine and a biscuit. We had instructions not to move or disturb anything when workmen came in.

"He never held any intercourse with his people, and never saw them. He had two half-sisters and a step-brother.

"When he died at Dover he had an enormous amount of money, which had been accumulating for many years, at a bank. His two half-sisters and his step-brother got £40,000 each. All his Devonshire and Somerset estates went to his nephew.

"He never talked about money, but would talk freely about his travels in France, Germany, and Switzerland. From time to time he took furniture away from spare rooms in the house.

Her Barouche

"It was a splendid barouche, but the rats ate away the cushions and the silver fell off, and after his death it was broken up.

"He would not have the place done up. I told him several times there would be an accident, but during the forty-five years I was there it was only whitewashed once.

"When Mr. Nation paid visits to the house he never went into any other room but the library. He did not carry a latch-key nor would he have any but the eight bedrooms, the two drawing-rooms, the library, and the dining-room were by his orders left completely undisturbed.

"Beds, carpets, furniture, and everything had to remain as they were, and the carriage he bought for his prospective bride had to remain untouched in the coach-house.

"Only candles were used as an illuminant. Mr. Nation had a lot of clothes which were kept in a chest in a bedroom which he never occupied but he sent to me for any change of clothes he wanted.

"He had a hobby for hansom cabs, and in the old days drivers used to wait long for him.

"He would never receive anybody at the house, but he was a generous man and subscribed largely to charities.

It would be difficult to make every farmer believe lack of sanitary equipment for his household and neglect of his barnyard caused sickness and deaths in his family. It may be impossible to convince him that the death of his wife at an early age was a result of too much pumping, churning and washing by hand; but they are really so closely related as cause and effect that one might almost declare that only the willfully blind will or can fail to see their reason. — Community Builder, in American Lumberman.

The Orchard

LEAVES FALLING IN UNSPRAYED ORCHARDS BEFORE THE SPRAYED

(By G. E. Sanders, Dominion Entomological Laboratory, Annapolis Royal, N. S.)

In comparing the fall of the leaves in the sprayed and unsprayed orchards we may at this time of the year see the reason for one orchard having a full strong bloom next spring while the next orchard may have a short weak bloom. Other conditions, such as cultivation being equal the sprayed orchard will invariably hold its leaves later in the fall and so develop a stronger, better fruit bud for the following spring. One of the very best instances of this was in Prof Brittain's orchard at Bridgetown last season. In 1915 ten sprayed Golden Russett trees gave a crop of apples worth $2.46 per tree and held their leaves until Nov. 5th, while ten unsprayed Golden Russetts in the next row averaged 69 1/2 cents worth of apples per tree and dropped their leaves about Oct. 26th.

This spring the ten sprayed trees had a fine full coat of blossoms, while the unsprayed trees had practically no bloom. The cultivation and fertilizing in the two rows has been identical for three years.

It is unreasonable to expect a tree which drops its leaves early in the season to form as strong and as healthy fruit buds as the tree which holds its leaves till the frost kills them. Spraying, therefore, not only keeps the crop of the current year clean, but it increases next years crop more than any other single factor. This is the reason why men who spray continuously and well are almost without exception getting continuous crops of apples, while their neighbours who do not spray may have one enormous crop followed by two or three of years.

Compare some orchards in regard to the dropping of the leaves.

CANKER WORM

(By G. E. Sanders Dominion Entomological Laboratory, Annapolis Royal, N. S.)

We again beg leave to call the attention of apple growers throughout the Valley to the very serious outbreak of Canker Worm now at its height, and remind them that the best method of combating Canker Worm is to band the tree with tree tanglefoot between the 20th and 25th of October, so as to prevent the ascent of the wingless females or slugs.

A summary of the life-history of the Canker Worm is as follows.

The winter is passed in the egg stage, the eggs being deposited in very irregular patches or clusters on the limbs of the tree. About four or five days before the apple blossoms open in the spring the young caterpillars emerge and feed on the leaves, often defoliating entire orchards and getting more difficult to poison as they grow. In the caterpillar stage they are popularly known as measure worms or inch worms, and may be solid green or stippled with black, depending on their maturity. About the end of June they drop to the ground and burrow down one inch and there pupate. About the first of November the adults appear; the males, small winged moths which may be seen flitting about the trunks of the apple trees, the females small wingless slugs which crawl up the trunks of the apple trees to deposit their eggs on the branches.

The best method of combatting the Canker Worm is to place a band of tree tanglefoot, from two to three inches wide, around the trunk of the tree and so prevent the females from depositing their eggs. Homemade tanglefoot may be made by boiling together 9 lbs resin, 7 pints castor oil and 1/4 lb. paraffin or beeswax. If found to be too hard, add more oil, if too soft, add more resin, tempering to suit temperature. Commercial tree tanglefoot may be obtained from any agency of the United Fruit Company in the province, and is probably better and as cheap as the homemade article.

When the orchard is infested with Canker Worm and banding is not practised in the fall, a very thorough application of poisoned spray immediately before the blossoms next spring, when the young caterpillars are very small and so most easily poisoned, is all that can be done to prevent defoliation in an orchard.

Poultry

CARE OF FLOCK IN FALL

As the pullets approach maturity they should be so managed that they will begin laying at the right time in the fall which is usually the latter part of October or first of November. It is desirable to get them into permanent winter quarters early—no later than the middle or last of September. The birds are thus given time to get used to their new quarters before time to start laying. Also the poultryman is enabled to watch carefully the growth and maturity of the birds and to control their development by feeding. If he notices that they are maturing too rapidly he can check them slightly by a different method of feeding; or if he wishes to force them slightly before cold weather begin to get them in good laying condition, he can increase his protein feeding stuffs. It enables him to bring pullets into laying condition with continuous winter production. If his pullets are giving an egg production during October or November of 25 to 30 per cent it will be comparatively easy to maintain this high production, and even to increase it slightly during the next three months. But on the other hand, if he is getting a production of only from 2 to 10 per cent at this time, and cold weather shuts down it will be difficult if not utterly impossible, to get the flock to maintain an average production throughout the winter high enough to be profitable. Through December, January and February, with the prevailing prices for market eggs, it takes a production of from 12 to 15 per cent to pay food and labor costs. If the birds are hatched during March and April, and not later than the middle of May, if they are attaining maturity at the right time, properly brooded and given a good environment where they can make a uniform continuous growth thereby and if they possess an abundance of vitality, they should make a production of from 25 to 50 per cent during the winter months.

HOW TO IMPROVE THE FLOCK

There is no live stock on the farm which responds to careful, methodical and thoughtful breeding as does poultry. This is true principally for two reasons, first because we can get such large numbers.

For these reasons it is true also that there is no live stock on the farm which will deteriorate, decline and fall back as quickly as the poultry when careless breeding is practised.

A method which will improve the stock very quickly and which is within the reach of every farmer, is to have a special mating from which to select his male birds for breeding each year. Select a few, if only four, of your ideal females, the ones which in your estimation are those that you want the whole flock to be like. In selecting these few birds, choose them principally for vigor and constitution. Every flock has four or five best females in it. Put these birds in a separate pen. It is not always necessary to build a special house for them. Any place where they will be reasonably comfortable and separate from the rest of the flock is suitable.

To these few females mate your ideal cock bird. In getting this bird, especially if at first you are not perfectly satisfied with your own stock, look around among other poultrymen, make it a point not to be satisfied until you get your ideal cockerel, because your flock will be fashioned after this special pen sooner or later and especially will they be patterned after this first male. If you do not possess a satisfactory bird secure a new one early—a considerable period before you need him for breeding say about February first. You will then have an opportunity to exchange him for a more desirable bird if you are not satisfied with them.

TREATING LAME CHICKENS

I have frequently read about a disease in chickens which causes their feet to crumple backward, thus preventing them from walking. The usual remedy suggested is to kill them. I had a chicken so affected. The toes drew together and it appeared to have no use of its legs whatever. The only way it could move was to flutter about with outspread wings, its body resting upon the ground.

The little fellow was only a few weeks' old, and I concluded to try and save him. I warmed him beside the stove until he panted from heat. Then I spread his toes in a natural position and applied a generous quantity of camphorated oil, rubbing it in well.

After that I used alcohol several times, bathing feet and legs, keeping the toes spread and forcing him to stand upright. Then I wrapped him in a woolen cloth and put him in a warm place until he began to chirp loudly. When I uncovered him he could stand upon one foot firmly, then I put him in the pen with his mother, and in about half an hour he was running about as actively as the balance of the brood and eating heartily, although before being treated he refused to swallow a morsel.—R. Radcliffe.

When buying a heifer the first point to consider is that the animal is strong with a deep flank, indicating constitutional vigor, and the next is to see that her udder is right form, and that her teats are large and set wide apart. If a cow is to be a good milk she must have somewhere to keep it, which does not, however, mean a thick fleshy udder. A secondary and fancy points a slim neck and long head with fine horns are good features. Above all things, avoid those heifers that show very small rudimentary teats, or those with large ones set close together. Such a heifer will never make a first-class cow. There are always risks to be run before securing a good cow without starting with those that can never improve. Even the best of pedigrees cannot make a good cow out of a heifer with a deformed udder.

WEST PARADISE

Oct. 16
Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Millidge Sheridan—twins boys.

Mrs. Patterson of Aylesford is visiting her sisters Mrs. Gullford Foster and Mrs. A. T. Morse.

Dea. Norman Longley after a fortnight's visit with friends and relatives in Lynn, Mass., has returned to his home.

Major J. E. Morse of the Wellington Barracks, Halifax who has been at home for a few days returned to his duties on Saturday.

Private Carl E. Saunders of the Composite Regiment, Halifax, after spending a few days furlough at home has returned to his duties.

Messrs Healy and Willett of the firm of the Willett Fruit Co., St. John N. B. were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Morse.

Miss Lottie Saunders after spending the summer with her parents in this place has returned to her dress making establishment at Annapolis Royal.

Your correspondent had the pleasure of passing through the orchard of Mr. Charles Bothemly of the "Pines" and viewing the heavily laden trees of beautiful apples. Nonpareils measuring ten inches and upward were quite common, also Ben Davis and Bishop Pippins very large and beautifully colored. Mr. Bothemly takes great pride in the caring for his orchard and the beautiful display of fruit shows that his labor has not been in vain.

Mr. A. M. Kennedy another of our orchardists, has a very fine crop. His crop of ninety barrels of Gravesteins were second to none in the County, if not in the Province, being nearly all number ones.

LUSCIOUS the pie that Elizabeth made.
Crisp was the crust and of delicate shade.
Never a flake of it soggy or sour.
Art, a good oven and Purity Flour.

OBITUARY
(Reading, Mass., Chronicle)

WILLIAM CLARKE MILBURY
Mr. William Clarke Milbury passed to his last sleep Tuesday morning, Oct. 12, 1910, in his 76th year, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John M. Berry, Salem Street, with whom he made his home. He was the son of James Priestly and Henrietta (Clarke) Milbury of Bear River Nova Scotia, where he was born on Nov. 13, 1839.

On Nov. 27, 1861, he was wedded to Annie Troop, the union being blessed with nine children. Shortly after their marriage they migrated to Massachusetts 49 years ago, spending 41 years in Reading, where he plied his trade as wood-worker.

Mr. Milbury was forman of the Old Eagle Fire Company and was a member at the time of the large Boston conflagration. He also served for many years in the capacity of sexton of the old Baptist Church when it was located on Salem st., also being a member of the same church. He had been a naturalized citizen for thirty-two years. Five years ago, on Nov. 27, 1911, Mr. and Mrs. Milbury celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

The brightest spot in his life was his home and family circle, being a devoted husband and father. In his business life he was a faithful as well as efficient workman up to within a year of his death. His memory will be ever dear to his loved ones and many friends, who will miss his smiling face and hearty handshakes.

He is survived by his widow and the following children: Messrs. Ora, Lewis and Wm. O. Milbury, Mrs. John Berry.
