Importance to Rural Districts.
Sir William spoke of the importance of the phone to rural districts. He thought no scheme would be satisfactory which did not provide for the serving of isolated individuals in the country with telephones at reasonable rates.

TO-MORROW'S MOVE-IN DAY HOUSE IS SPICK AND SPAN

Formal Opening Has Attracted Heavy Demand for Tickets—Historic Carpet for Assembly Hall.

The opening of the legislature to-morrow afternoon promises to be an occasion of special interest and brilliancy. A change of government always incites a desire to see how the parties look under changed conditions. After thirty-two years, the satisfaction on the Conservative side is genuine and Mr. Whitney wears these days the smile you used to read about before the expression became ranged at the edges. The premier waited on the lieutenant-governor yesterday morning and spent some time at government house discussing the speech from the throne and arrangements for the opening ceremony.

Style in the Semi-Ready Sack Suit

These are the chief style points in the semi-ready three-button Sack Suit for Spring, 1905.

The coats are cut somewhat longer, with a longer roll to the lapel to harmonize with it. It is not cut away quite so much.

The centre seam at the back has a six-inch vent. It is not closing but defines the figure.

It has the broad natural shoulder, with the extreme point squarer, the collar sitting up closely to shirt collar, giving appearance of broad shoulders.

We would like you to see how stylish these suits are. You can go to your tailor and tell him what after, if you wish.

A RELATED COMPROMISE.

In this separate school controversy there is much more than the bare constitutionalism of the proposed clauses of the autonomy bill for the new provinces.

Even if it were undoubted that the imposition of separate schools on the new provinces were strictly within the powers of the Dominion parliament, the question would remain whether it is wise or prudent to exercise them.

Many things may be done by the Dominion parliament, but whether or not any particular legislative act is justifiable must always be a matter for debate.

And when it is in entire opposition to previous declarations and actions of the responsible minister, it is quite within the province of legitimate criticism to demand an explanation of the inconsistency and, if need be, to denounce it as prompted by other motives than the real good of the country.

The attempt which is being made by the leading government organ to limit the discussion to the bare legality or illegality of the separate school clauses and to exclude all question of their propriety is ridiculous and can only be taken as evidence that other influences are at work that those which guided it in the adoption of its original stand for the principle of provincial freedom in educational affairs.

If submission of separate schools should be considered, it follows clearly enough that even if the Dominion parliament has now the power to restrict them in the case of the Territories that power should not be exercised. To have the power to do this and not to exercise it is to be a failure.

Under any circumstances, all this bargaining between the Dominion government and the Western Liberal members of parliament is irregular and indefensible. Fortunately, it is futile, except as a move in the parliamentary game.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier may, in that way, secure the passage of his bill, but neither he nor they can fetter the action of the new provincial legislatures.

These legislatures will come to the consideration of the question with an absolutely free hand. They will be entitled, if they choose, to stand by the full rights conferred upon them by the Federation Act and to ignore the clauses which seek to limit their freedom of action.

But should the courts of law ultimately uphold Sir Wilfrid Laurier's contention that, by a subsequent act, the imperial parliament did confer the power which he claims, he will none the less be open to reproach for fastening upon Alberta and Saskatchewan what he so strenuously resisted in the case of Manitoba.

And the whole righteousness of the policy he is now pursuing will remain as it is now, a mere question of debate. The constitutional objection, if it is sound, prevents him from exercising any option in the matter. In that event, it matters nothing whether separate schools are right or wrong, desirable or inadvisable.

To have the option in the matter that the argument on the double ground of principle and expediency becomes of vital importance. Yet a section of weak-kneed supporters of provincial freedom are seeking to limit the opposition to the question of legality alone—a point which can neither be affected nor decided save by a judgment of the competent court.

It is now said, apparently on authority, that a compromise has been reached by which the existence of separate schools in their present form is guaranteed by the constitution, but their sharing in public grants is made dependent on their conforming in text books, qualifications of teachers and government inspection to the standard instituted for the public schools of the new provinces.

This, of course, in no way detracts from the constitutional objection that the provinces are entitled to say for themselves whether they are to have a separate school system or not. At the best, it only means that other equally grave exceptions that as originally proposed the bill sought to remove separate schools entirely from the control of the provincial legislatures and governments.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, during the recent debate, ventured the amazing assertion that this particular clause "was intended to give the minority only what they had already enjoyed for three decades."

He must have spoken this with his tongue in his cheek. Whatever the defects of the special section of the cabinet who engineered the measure may be, they will be given credit for knowing exactly what they wanted and for taking care that the phraseology of the bill gave them precisely what they did want. If it were not so, why the care to keep the members of the cabinet

A RELATED COMPROMISE.

In this separate school controversy there is much more than the bare constitutionalism of the proposed clauses of the autonomy bill for the new provinces.

Even if it were undoubted that the imposition of separate schools on the new provinces were strictly within the powers of the Dominion parliament, the question would remain whether it is wise or prudent to exercise them.

Many things may be done by the Dominion parliament, but whether or not any particular legislative act is justifiable must always be a matter for debate.

And when it is in entire opposition to previous declarations and actions of the responsible minister, it is quite within the province of legitimate criticism to demand an explanation of the inconsistency and, if need be, to denounce it as prompted by other motives than the real good of the country.

The attempt which is being made by the leading government organ to limit the discussion to the bare legality or illegality of the separate school clauses and to exclude all question of their propriety is ridiculous and can only be taken as evidence that other influences are at work that those which guided it in the adoption of its original stand for the principle of provincial freedom in educational affairs.

If submission of separate schools should be considered, it follows clearly enough that even if the Dominion parliament has now the power to restrict them in the case of the Territories that power should not be exercised. To have the power to do this and not to exercise it is to be a failure.

Under any circumstances, all this bargaining between the Dominion government and the Western Liberal members of parliament is irregular and indefensible. Fortunately, it is futile, except as a move in the parliamentary game.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier may, in that way, secure the passage of his bill, but neither he nor they can fetter the action of the new provincial legislatures.

These legislatures will come to the consideration of the question with an absolutely free hand. They will be entitled, if they choose, to stand by the full rights conferred upon them by the Federation Act and to ignore the clauses which seek to limit their freedom of action.

IF LICENSE, HOTEL MATRONS LEAD PROTEST

Capitalists Who Would Make Ward's Island a Continental Summer Resort Get Setback From Controllers—Island Estimates Rudely Dealt With—Amount for Groynes Struck Out.

The board of control yesterday put a damper on the promoters of the hotel at Ward's Island. J. H. Roaf, H. W. VanEvery, James M. Sinclair and Thos. Alkenhead appeared to urge the granting of a lease for the property on the terms before agreed upon. They proposed a building costing $300,000 and said $20,000 would be spent this year and the rental was put at $500 per year and they asked a fixed assessment for 15 years of $100,000.

"I think a clause should be placed in the lease to prohibit the sale of liquor on the property," said the mayor. "It was a rock on the track. The promoters were unanimous on the proposition that a hotel without a license could not be made to pay."

"The citizens are strongly opposed to granting liquor licenses on the island. Some years ago a license was issued for the west end and a tempt was made to create a hotel on the west end of the island but it was not successful. I think you will agree that the west end of the island has suffered by reason of the license there."

"So far as I am concerned," said Controller Ward, "I would not favor a license for any part of the island, but a big hotel like this would be a pretty safe place."

"It is not right to call it a drinking place," said Mr. Roaf. "We want to bring people here from the States. They do not want drinking places, but when we get people here who spend $25 or $50 a day in Toronto they want to see who, if they like a bottle of wine, wish to be where they can get it."

Controller Spence: "You want a license? Mr. Roaf: We want a hotel license, but that is a matter for the commissioners. We do not desire to have this permit if we cannot have the right to secure a license."

Controller Spence: "The committee who authorized the expenditure for each taken over this winter. 'It is time,' he said, 'that the heads of departments understood they can't incur these liabilities.'"

Commissioner Chambers: "The island committee approved it, and I think it passed the council." Controller Spence: "The committee who authorized the expenditure for each taken over this winter. 'It is time,' he said, 'that the heads of departments understood they can't incur these liabilities.'"

SPLIT BY INDUSTRIALISM LINKED BY CASH PAYMENT. Race for Wealth and Lust for Power as it is Seen by Prof. Wyckoff of Princeton. The Canadian Club had for its guest at luncheon yesterday a distinguished American sociologist in Prof. Walter Wyckoff of Princeton, who spoke on "Industrialism." He asked, is industrialism furnishing a remedy for the problem which capital administrators are attempting to link together by cash payments? Is it lessening the higher life of society, or is it stunting the better side of life? To solve these problems he became an unskilled laborer and traveled to California, earning what he could by the work of his own hands, assisted with a certain amount of knowledge. He concluded that industrialism is on trial; but that from the advance it has made it is possible to forecast something of the verdict.

Is it lessening the higher life of society, or is it stunting the better side of life? To solve these problems he became an unskilled laborer and traveled to California, earning what he could by the work of his own hands, assisted with a certain amount of knowledge. He concluded that industrialism is on trial; but that from the advance it has made it is possible to forecast something of the verdict.

Food Authority GRAPE-NUTS

A FAMOUS ENGLISH PHYSICIAN (WHO REQUESTS THAT HIS NAME BE WITHHELD FROM PUBLICATION) SAYS OF GRAPE-NUTS: "In cases of slow digestion, lack of stomach tone, and debility, this food is invaluable."

Now for the reason: The great bulk of human food is starch in some form—bread, pastry, potatoes, rice, cereals such as oats, wheat, rye, barley, etc. This class of food supplies "energy" if it be properly digested, but there's the rub. Starch and sugar in food are digested by the liver and intestines. When these organs are overworked or become weak, then the food is not entirely digested and lies in the warm moisture of the body until it decays, producing gas, and therefore disturbance and incipient disease of the liver and intestines and frequently appendicitis.

To meet this trouble Grape-Nuts food was invented. In it the starch part of wheat and barley is transformed by long soaking, warmth and time into sugar—just the same method as the body employs in digestion. Hence when one eats Grape-Nuts he eats a pre-digested food, ready for immediate digestion and assimilation, supplying the body with the needed food elements in a soluble and delicious form.

The London "Lancet" says: "The features worthy of note in our analysis are the excellent proportion of proteid, mineral matters and soluble carbohydrates per cent. The mineral matter was rich in phosphoric acid. 'Grape-Nuts' is described as a brain and nerve food, whatever that may mean. Our analysis, at any rate, shows that it is a nutritive of a high order, since it contains the constituents of a complete food in very satisfactory and rich proportion and in an easily assimilable state."

The food is naturally pre-digested by heat, moisture and time. The diastase is thus produced, and the transformation of starch into sugar accomplished. A perfect food for persons with weak intestinal digestion and who need, but cannot fully digest, ordinary bread and starchy food. For athletes, brain-workers or the weakest babe. (For infants, pour hot water over three or four teaspoonsful of the food. Use that water with a trifle of the food dissolved in it.)

"There's a reason."

TOPOGRAPHY WORKS CIVIC PRIDE

WORLD BE CITY BEAUTIFUL We're Going Backward All the Time—What Other Places Have Done and What We Might Do.

J. P. Hynes, architect, on Saturday night gave an address before the Canadian Institute on "Civic Improvements," which was made the more interesting by stereoscopic views showing improvements and contemplated improvements in some American cities.

"Not the number of buildings that bear evidence of being altered and re-erected. Alterations seem to be the specialty here. In fact it is seldom that a building comes down in Toronto until it is burned down. In London they walk from King-street to see meeting old one-story frame buildings originally erected for horse traffic. They walk back from the street, that have been altered by building a shop front to the street, and see how they hold themselves together."

"Toronto's park acreage does not fall very far in comparison with other cities, yet what she has is not well distributed and not easily or pleasantly accessed. From the point of view of the system, while the lack of method in acquiring park property is most regrettable, Toronto certainly requires a park commission of independent character to see that the park system is developed in a systematic and judicious manner."

Does It Pay to Be Beautiful

Does it pay to be an educational and social center? In 1888 there were 500 students at the Ecole de Beaux Arts in Paris, who expended not less than $500 per year each, or $250,000. The cost of maintaining the Ecole de Beaux Arts was $1,640, which leaves a balance of $108,360. In other words, Paris educated 500 students for the price of $1,640, but she got more money in Paris, not only to educate themselves, but the French students also and a handsome balance besides. So much for education. It is also estimated that the American real estate market represents $200,000,000 worth, the interest of which is principally spent in Paris, because she is a social center and a city of great wealth, and Paris is the finest municipally improved city in the world.

Popular Ideas Regarding Catarrh. It is the common belief that what is popularly known as catarrh is a true inflammation of the mucous membrane of the body. This is true as far as it goes, but as a matter of fact, catarrh is a term applied to the nasal passages, but extends wherever the mucous membrane extends. It means nearly every part of the body.

The Robinson farm, which was advertised for sale in the Toronto World, was sold by public auction on the 17th inst. to John W. Breakley of Newtonbrook. The purchase price was $24,000, making a total cost of $47,794.10. Large as this undoubtedly is, it is comparatively insignificant when compared with the benefits which resulted financially to the city from the improvement. The amount of $24,000 is the purchase price of the property of the three wards contingent to the park, over and above the ordinary increase in the value of real estate in the rest of the city, was $65,000.00, or $21,000.00 more than the aggregate expense.

The purchase price was $24,000, making a total cost of $47,794.10. Large as this undoubtedly is, it is comparatively insignificant when compared with the benefits which resulted financially to the city from the improvement. The amount of $24,000 is the purchase price of the property of the three wards contingent to the park, over and above the ordinary increase in the value of real estate in the rest of the city, was $65,000.00, or $21,000.00 more than the aggregate expense."

We Must Awaken.

"Now, given a location with exceptional natural advantages for civic improvement, which Toronto certainly is located on the gently inclining shore of the lake, with a natural harbor and island to the south, a picturesque river and ravine to the west, a commanding point to the north, and a fine view again to the city, the lake, the location with exceptional view for civic improvement, as an investment requiring but a moderate outlay of real estate in the rest of the city, was $65,000.00, or $21,000.00 more than the aggregate expense."

Everybody's Magazine Out To-Day - For April

MR. LAWSON WRITES: I start this month on the actual Crimes of Amalgamation. I give names, times, places in detail.

No Wall-street man or investor can afford to miss the: UTAH COPPER BUNCO GAME; HOW SAMUEL LINTERMYER, ESQ., Clark, Ward & Co., and English investors were swindled;

The Munroe & Munroe-CITY BANK FLIMFLAMMING of two professional gamblers;

How one of the BIG THREE INSURANCE companies sold their stocks for $3,800,000, and made sworn statements to the Insurance Departments that the same was $2,075,000.

I describe the insurance trick of "new business."

I make MY FIRST APOLOGY to those I have flayed—to Roger Foster, Esq.

I answer critics from Georgia, New York, Kansas, Tacoma, Boston and Philadelphia straight from the shoulder, calling SADES BLACK SPADES.

If there is any LIQUID BLOOD left in the nation it SHOULD BOIL. Record me, it will.

Garfield reports to Roosevelt, "Beef Trust all right."

If the American people, with this latest insult to their intelligence and with Russell's facts in their hands, don't put another nail in the "SYSTEMS" can I miss my guess?

IN MR. RUSSELL'S ARTICLE, in the April number, a picture is given of sixteen great railroad presidents, terrorized by the BEEF TRUST, sneaking into a New-York Club to rebel in concert against the Trust's gorging methods.

"The Experiences of a Nursery Governess," the many stories and other striking features will interest every woman.
