FORT NELSON TERMINAL

No Official Decision Reached But This is Declared Probable—Minister Makes Address on Project Wrapped Up in New Railway Plan

Pas Mission, Kewatin, Sept. 7.—(Special)—The first sod in the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway was turned here yesterday by Hon. Geo. Graham on the south shore of the River Saskatchewan near the approach to the bridge, now under contract of construction.

The minister of railways, in a brief address, outlined the project of opening up the new country and furnishing a water route to Liverpool. The Saskatchewan government was represented by Hon. A. P. McNab.

The minister and the government engineer, John Armstrong, went over a portion of the projected route through the spruce country. No official decision was reached but it is probable that Fort Nelson will be the terminal point of the new railway.

The construction of the bridge under way is in charge of R. W. Graham who during the summer has built four miles of bridges on 600 miles of track for the Canadian Northern. Chief Antoine Constant of the Assiniboine Indian tribe, addressed a gathering in tribute to the work of the minister of railways.

BIG OPIUM SEIZURE

Customs Officers at Vancouver Find Three Hundred Pounds in Chinaman's Trunk

Vancouver, Sept. 7.—While Customs Officer Scouler was searching the baggage of Chinese passengers who arrived on the Empress of Japan, he came across 300 pounds of opium in a trunk, which at present value is worth landed here, $10,000.

The opium completely filled a trunk and was the property of a Chinaman who was going to Mexico.

The purpose of the opium caused some inquiries as to what the powers are in case of this sort. The Chinaman and his baggage were booked to Mexico, and some respects would be treated as a regular through in bond. As Mexico prohibits the importation of opium, however, the Chinaman is in trouble in any case.

BRITAIN WINS VICTORY IN THE FISHERY CASE

Most Important Points Are Decided Against United States At the Hague

Uncle Sam Wins Five Out of Seven But They Are the Ones of Lesser Importance—Judgement of Court Not Too Cheerily Received in Gloucester

Associated Press.

The Hague, Sept. 7.—The century old fisheries dispute, the source of constant diplomatic friction between the governments of Great Britain, Canada, Newfoundland and the United States was finally closed today with the award by Great Britain as the most important of those submitted.

The American Government is sustained on points two, three, four, six and seven of the total seven points. Great Britain wins points one and five. Point five has been held by Great Britain as the most important of those submitted.

The fifth point was stated in the form of this question: "From where must be measured the three marine miles off any of the coast, bays, creeks, or harbor referred to in article 1 of the American British Treaty of 1818."

United States fishermen claimed the right to take the measure from any part of the coast North America, and therefore, the liberty to fish in the middle of the bay or estuary having a radius of more than three miles.

The British contention was that the limits should be measured from an imaginary line connecting the head lands.

The peace court sustained the British contention.

From one upon which Great Britain also was sustained embodied the question of whether any local laws adopted by British Colony must be submitted for approval to any foreign power having a treaty on a similar subject with the imperial government.

This point was considered of great importance to the British and their triumph will be a matter of much satisfaction to them.

On the other hand the Americans will be enabled to employ foreigners in their fishing and are not liable to light-house dues. They are not compelled to enter their vessels at the customs house, and the vessel "Bays, harbors and creeks" referring to Labrador in the treaty of 1818 apply also to Newfoundland and American waters when fishing do not lose their right of trading. The question of the right to make laws regulating the fisheries is dead in favor of Great Britain. The court also upholds the British contention in relation to large bays being territorial waters.

In connection with point one, the United States has raised certain questions of equity which will be submitted to a special commission for determination.

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 7.—News of the decision of the International court at The Hague was received with doubtful sentiment by Gloucester fishing interests. The point won by Great Britain gives that country the right to regulate the time and method of fishing and the implements used and establishes the three mile limit around Newfoundland from headland to headland and not following the line of the bays as contended by the United States.

CARDINAL'S REPLY TO GREETINGS

Pope's Legate Gives Address at Eucharistic Congress in Montreal

TELEGRAM TO KING

Reply From His Majesty and Blessing from Pope Pius—Cardinal Vannutelli Speaks of Congress and the Eucharist

Montreal, Sept. 7.—The opening sessions of the Eucharistic Congress yesterday, were attended with great splendor. The first session was held in St. James' Cathedral, and Cardinal Vannutelli gave an interesting address and also read the telegram sent to and received from King George V. The Cardinal's message was one of loyalty, and thanks for the change in the declaration oath. The King's telegram expressed good wishes for the success of the congress. A message was also received from Cardinal Merry Del Val, papal secretary of state, conveying the Pope's blessing. The great Cathedral was now large enough to hold the crowds who sought admittance.

The Legate's Address

Cardinal Vannutelli, after expressing his appreciation of the welcome tendered him, continued in part as follows:

How beautiful is the spectacle presented today to the entire universe by the Catholic Church in this fortunate land of America. Europe stretches out her hand to America, and America, in a sublime enthusiasm, joins with her to exalt the greatest of the sacraments under the guidance and with the encouragement of the supreme pastor.

It seems at first as if the difficulties of such a long voyage would deprive America of the honor and satisfaction of entertaining an international eucharistic congress. But faith will move mountains, and when planted in the heart, as it is in the heart of all Catholics, it excels no difficulties, it sees only the good which it has to do, and it manifests itself. To Montreal he sent the honor of receiving within its walls the first international eucharistic congress held on the American continent, but there is every reason to hope that, thanks to this first example, other congresses will be held in America, alternating with those in Europe and other parts of the world. Towards the end of the fifteenth century a great occurrence, the discovery of America, revealed the aims reserved by Providence for modern times. God said to His church, as he had said to His Divine Son: "I shall give Thee as a heritage all the nations of the earth. I shall give unto Thee the countless population of these immense regions, to be added to those already in my bosom. I shall raise up apostles who will spread my words through these new lands." Here in particular to this beautiful valley of the St. Lawrence shall come champions of the faith and of civilization who will quickly transform this deserted, forest-clad land and will found a colony to establish here the Catholic religion and to effect the conversion of its savage people. Canada shall be the cradle of a great Christian world. Barely two centuries and a half shall have elapsed before Catholic North America shall see its flourishing dioceses attached to the ancient hierarchy of the churches of the old world and the universal Shepherd shall show to an astonished universe the old and the new world realizing the universality of the church, predicted by the Saviour to His apostles.

University of Church

Where can this universality, provided by Divine will, better manifest itself than in an international congress such as this which I have the satisfaction to salute in (Continued on page 7, fourth column)

MESSAGE TO THE KING FROM CHURCH OF ENGLAND CONGRESS

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 7.—(Special)—At the church congress this morning, Archbishop Cody, of Toronto, and Rev. Mr. Wilkinson, of Trinity parish, New York, spoke on "The Church's Work Among Men." The former made suggestions based on successful experiences in his own parish. It was necessary, he said, that every man be a missionary, a seeker, a saviour.

At the close of the church congress today a resolution was passed instructing Bishop Worrell, president of the congress, to send a telegram to King George expressing loyalty and thanks. The following was sent:—

To His Majesty the King, The Church of England in Canada, holding congress in Halifax, desires to assure Your Majesty of its loyalty to the throne and to express its gratitude for the gracious gift of a magnificent prayer book presented to the Canadian Church. (Sigs), CARLE L. Nova Scotia.

"It is because the true Havana flavor is there, and yet the cigar is so mild that a man can smoke fifteen or twenty every day if he wishes, without any harm."

THE ALBERT GATE MYSTERY

BY LOUIS TRACY Copyright 1904 by R. F. Fenn & Co.

They waited along the Corso Vittorio Emanuele. Sir Hubert, fresh with the series of his morning's drive with a guide, pointed out the chief buildings, becoming sadly mixed up in the names of some of them.

Still, this was a safer topic than his previous conversation with Hussein-ul-Mulk, so he persevered gamely.

They soon reached the quay. Sir Hubert became almost incoherent with agitation when they passed the Blue-Bell and came into full view of Edith, Jack, Fairholme and Daubeny, who happened to leave the hotel shortly before five o'clock in order to visit the yacht and secure a good cup of tea.

Brett refused to accompany them on the ground that his Italian accent, as a pilot, might bring news at any hour, and he must remain within immediate call.

It was a supreme moment when Gros Jean halted and called general attention to the smoky-looking vessel and the tea-drinkers.

Sir Hubert keenly examined the top of the funnel, and tried simultaneously to yawn and light a cigar. In the result he nearly choked himself. Mr. Winter, somewhat more prepared for emergencies, endeavored to interest Gros Jean in the wonderful clearness of the water.

But Hussein-ul-Mulk and his two sedate friends suddenly betrayed a keen interest in the Panfalone.

When they last met the earl on the tower of the Chateau d'Il they were so engrossed in the object of their visit that they had passed them without notice.

But now, looking steadily at him—for Panfalone was seated facing them, and was striving to maintain the semblance of an animated chat with Edith—there came to the Turks a memory, each instant becoming more definite, of an exciting scene in the Rue Barbette, and the opportune arrival of the Scotch engineer.

"They have recognized you, Bobby!" murmured the quick-witted Edith. "Oh, why didn't we remain with Mr. Brett?"

There is no knowing what might have happened had not Fate stepped in to decide in dramatic fashion the important issues at stake.

While Gros Jean and the Turk were still conferring in stealthy tones, and the English people endeavored to keep up an appearance of complete unconcern, a tramp steamer swung round the corner of the mole that protects the harbor.

and brother, vainly seeking to discover the best line of action to follow in this disastrous circumstance, for she knew that the diamonds must now be in the personal possession of Dubois. It was a golden opportunity to recover the stolen gems. If once he eluded the grasp of his pursuers after landing they might—probably would—a secret man, but not the diamonds.

Daubeny, now purple with perplexity, and Fairholme, swearing softly under his breath, springing from the deck to the low wall of the quay. Almost unconsciously they joined Sir Hubert and Mr. Winter. Edith followed them. She glanced at her brother. He was gazing curiously, vindictively, at the two figures on the deck of the Belle Soreur. There was a fierce closed lip, a nervous twitching at the corners of his mouth, that betokened the overpowering motions of the moment.

With a woman's intuition Edith realized that no power on earth, no consideration of expediency, would restrain him from laying violent hands on Dubois at the first possible opportunity. She knew there must be a struggle in which Gros Jean and the Turk, perhaps the four saloons, would participate. They might use knives and firearms, whereas the Englishmen were unarmed.

So she ran back to the yacht and cried to the Scotch engineer—"Oh, Mr. Macpherson! Please come with some of your men! There may be a fight on the wharf and Mr. Daubeny and the others will be outnumbered."

Macpherson for once forgot his cautiousness. There was noise of the characters he abhorred of the Scottish nation in his pinnac or language as he yelled down the fore-hatch: "Tumble up, there! Some damned Eys-talians are goin' to hammer the nose. Bring along a monkey wrench or the first thing to hand. Shar-p's the word!"

Fortwith there poured from the hatch way a miscellaneous mob of seamen, firemen and stewards. Following Edith and Macpherson ran along the quay. Al ready there was something unusual in progress. Longers by the harbor, perceiving a disturbance, were running towards the scene of action.

A solitary Italian policeman, swaggering jauntily over the paved roadway, was suddenly startled out of his self-complacency. "Casabala!" he shouted. Drawing his sabre, he broke into a run.

For matters had developed with more dramatic suddenness. Casting off the steamer's tow-ropes, the Belle-Soreur swung alongside the wharf much more easily and quickly than did the friendly vessel by whose aid she had so soon reached the harbor.

Both steamer and smack had already been searched by the Customs' officers, who boarded them at the quarantine station, and the reason that the schooner had not been earlier sighted from the shore was supplied by the mere chance that she was rendered invisible by close proximity to her bigger companion.

The instant that the fishing boat was fired upon along the quay, all eyes were turned to the schooner. Gros Jean, breathless and excited, was there to greet her. But the greeting was fettered and stammered as he moved some slight distance away.

At this juncture Mr. Winter strode resolutely forward, seized Dubois firmly by the shoulder, and said—

"Henri Dubois! In the name of the King of England I arrest you for the murder of the detective's words were stopped by a blow.

A wild struggle promptly ensued. The man turned on him like a tiger, and the Turk joined in. Gros Jean, too, ran back to take a hand in the fray. Fairholme, Sir Hubert, Daubeny and Talbot flung themselves on the would-be rescuers, and the French sailors of the Belle Soreur leaped ashore to assist their passenger in this unlooked-for attack.

Frantic yells and calls came from the confused mob, and knives were drawn. Talbot had but one desire in life—to get his fingers on Dubois' throat. He had almost reached him, for Winter clung to his prey with bull-dog tenacity, when an astonishing thing happened. The Frenchman's handsome mustaches fell off and beneath the clever make-up on her face were visible the boldly handsome features of La Belle Chasseuse, now distorted by rage and fear.

"You fool!" yelled Talbot to Winter. "You have let him escape!" Tearing himself from the midst of the fight, he was just in time to see the female figure he now knew must be Dubois masquerading in his mistress' clothes, jumping into a cab and driving off towards the Corso Vittorio Emanuele.

"Come on, Fairholme!" he cried. "He cannot get away! Here comes an empty carriage!"

But now Macpherson and his allies had reached the scene. Using a "monkey-wrench or the first thing to hand," they placed the Turk, Gros Jean, and the crew of the Belle-Soreur on the casualty list. Mr. Winter's indignation on finding that he had arrested a woman was painful. In his astonishment he released his grasp and turned to look at the disappearing vehicle containing the criminal he so ardently longed to lay hands upon.

La Belle Chasseuse, with the vicious instinct of her class, felt that Talbot's pursuit of her lover must be stopped at all costs.

She suddenly produced a revolver and leveled it at him. Fairholme and Edith alone noted her action. At the same instant they rushed toward her, but she might be in time for she had been told of this woman's prowess with a pistol—Edith caught hold of her wrist and pulled it violently. Her grip not only disconcerted Mademoiselle's deadly aim, but also caused her to press the trigger. There was a loud report, a scream, and Edith collapsed to the ground with a fractured skull wound in her forehead. Even her cloth jacket was set on fire by the close proximity of the weapon.

It is to be feared that Fairholme and La Belle Chasseuse from off the quay into the harbor with unnecessary violence. Indeed, the Italian on-lookers, not accustomed to sanguinary broils, subsequently agreed that this was the piece de resistance of the spectacle, for the lady was pitched many feet through the air before she struck the water, whence she was rescued with some difficulty.

Careless here or there Mademoiselle ended her flight, the earl dropped on his knees beside Edith and quickly pressed out the flames of the burning cloth with his hands. He burnt himself badly in the act, but of this he was insensible. Then he bent closer, and looked desperately, almost hopelessly, into her face.

"Speak to me darling!" he moaned in such a low, broken-hearted voice that even Sir Hubert, himself almost mad with grief, realized how the other suffered.

Edith heard him. She opened her eyes, and smiled heavily.

"I don't think it is serious," she murmured. "I was hit high up—somewhere in the shoulder. Don't fret, there's a dear."

Then she fainted. (To be continued.)

From an address on "Intellectual feeds ship in American history" before the society of Phi Beta Kappa at Brown university, Providence, R. I., June 15, 1875. BEHOLD at our door the power of a man abiding through eight generations! Taught to shrink from the forms of arbitrary power whilst a boy lounging about the doors of the star chamber, taught law from the living lips of Coke, tolerant charity and reforming love from the private hours of Milton, many languages at Oxford, where the classic statue of liberty broke in Grecian model upon his sight, taught experience and trial, sorrow and courage in Massachusetts, Roger Williams came hither from fortunes as varied, as romantic, as those of John Smith or Walter Raleigh, and planted the first purely free government on the globe. While Descartes was writing out in clearest dialectics, Williams was establishing in concrete and everlasting form the absolute and unqualified freedom of conscience under human government. I do not know why I should not say, since it is true, that Massachusetts in her march of progressive culture took two centuries almost to a year from his removal out of her borders, to strike from her own constitution the last faded badge of the connection of the church and the state. The charter which he dictated to the crown, alone of the original 13 scarcely changed in essentials, still endures for his visible monument; but in the breadth of true catholicity, in the belief of the benevolence of human nature, in the cultivation of methods of peace and fraternity in the predominance of a religious sect never at variance with any other which have tended the life of his gifts and graces over the lapse of two hundred and forty years, the memorial of his invisible glory is reflected through all habitations and all hearts.

FULL PLANS FOR THE DEVELOPMENT AT COURTENAY BAY

This is a reduced photograph of the plan sent to Hon. Wm. Pugsley on Monday from Ottawa, for the C. T. P. terminals at Courtenay Bay and showing the site under consideration for the dry dock and shipbuilding plant. Looking at the plan, the reader should suppose himself standing on the eastern side of the bay, a first thing which meets his view is a cul-de-sac jutting out at the bottom of the picture. This marks the site selected for the construction of the breakwater which would necessarily have to be built in order to afford protection for the many berths inside. The breakwater starts from a point between the Provincial Chemical Fertilizer Company and the municipal home. It is to be over 4,000 feet in length and 100 feet wide on the top. Adjoining the breakwater, as can be seen in the plan, is the site of the proposed dry dock and shipyard. The words "Dry dock—1,000 feet long," are easily discernible in the above cut, speak for themselves. Adjoining the shipyard and following the detour of the bay around to the Cornwall cotton mill, the location of which can be seen in the cut, is shown the site of the Blue Bell—momentarily forgot the minor excitement of the situation in view of this unexpected separation. "Vive! Il viennet! Vive vive!" cried Gros Jean. He ran further along the quay, followed by the Turk, and the other two of the mannequin from the deck. Hussein-ul-Mulk and the other two Turk unable to restrain their excitement, crowded round the pink-and-white Frenchman, jabbering volubly, but Mademoiselle and her father moved some slight distance away. At this juncture Mr. Winter strode resolutely forward, seized Dubois firmly by the shoulder, and said—

TWO MURDERS FOR MONEY, BUT NO BOOTY SECURED

Gang Who Shot Paymaster and Driver Dropped Loot in Hurry to Escape

Hudson, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The men who murdered Denton Fowler, paymaster of the Atlas Brass Company, and George Ragdale, his negro driver on Saturday, never got one cent from their hold-up and robbery. The slatted in which $3,000 had been sorted and ticketed to pay off employees at the brick yard, was found hidden under a dump of bushes.

Detectives who followed the puzzling trail of the hold-up, found a letter written in Italian, soaked with water, but still decipherable, which carries out the first theory that the murder was committed by foreign laborers on the brick works.

In an ante-mortem statement to Coroner Fay, Paymaster Fowler gave these facts:

"Seven masked men jumped out of a thick and aimed shotguns at us, at the same time commanding terms of us to hold up our hands, George Ragdale, the negro driver, tried to rush through. I told him to get out of the way, but he was grabbed for a gun in the hands of one of the robbers, and then the shooting began. George fell out of the wagon after the first two shots. Then they shot me. I don't remember anything more until they picked me up."

The fact that the money was thrown away, the desperate haste of the murderers and the credit which it was given that they were not convinced the police here that the murder was not the work of professionals as they thought, but was effected by laborers at the brick yard.

AVIATOR CUTS PIGEON WINGS IN BOSTON FOG

Boston, Sept. 6.—A heavy, low lying fog driven in by the wind, set down the aviator, who was carrying the landplane, the gatway that only one event, a single try at rising from the ground with the shortest possible time, was permitted. This was done directly in front of the grandstand, Claude Grahame-White, of England, getting away in 66 feet 10 inches in his Farman.

If the fog was impetuous to the sight-seers it did not prove the same to the aviator, however, who was covered by the contest committee and in good faith toward the 6000 or more persons in the grandstand, White, H. Curtis, Charles F. Willard and Walter Brooks came out in their machines, of the Farman, Curtiss and Wright makes, and carried on an interesting and daring exhibition of stunts in the air. Darting up and down the field, over the grandstands and parking place, they made a most interesting and exciting show. The Wright flies have found some difficulty in getting their engines into proper working order but hope in a day or two to get a fair start toward winning some of the prizes.

His Hubbard monoplane nearly ready to fly and the triplane of A. V. Roe, of England, were also ready to start. Exhibitions for the last six days of the meet.

TORONTO WOMAN IS BRUTALLY ASSAULTED

Unknown Entered Her Home and Attacked Her in Her Sleep—Miss Moran Made Desperate Fight

Toronto, Sept. 6.—Miss Maggie Moran, a lone woman, who keeps a waiting room and refreshment stand at the Weston terminal of the suburban railway, was brutally assaulted by an unknown man, who broke into her house last night.

The first she knew of the intruder, an entrance was made when he woke her up by touching her shoulder. He threw himself upon her and she was unable to cry out, as she was choking her. After her struggle the man struck her a second blow on the head with the iron, and then she managed to get hold of it and throw it away.

She remembers nothing more of what took place until she was found between 1 and 2 this morning by Constable Conlon seated in a chair in her bedroom. The man and clothes were covered with blood. The man got away, but left a trail of blood behind him and the fact that he was wounded may help in his identification.

JAPAN'S TRADE AMBITION

Steps Taken to Push Her Commercial Interests in South America

Japan does not wish to be outdone by the United States and the European powers in the competition for trade with the more prosperous of the South American republics. In Tokyo a Latin American association has been organized to assist the government in its policy to push Japanese commercial interests in the continent. The chief imports to Japan from these countries are nitre, wheat, corn, leather and animal hair, and in return Japan exports her famous silk, cotton, sulphur and porcelain. The task of these Japanese commercial agents is to see that these goods are imported to Japan without the employment of Chinese, French and German middlemen. The result is that Japanese shipping companies are doing a good business.

It is Japan's intention also to secure a share in the development of the agricultural and mineral riches of South America. The government is vigorously backing the various Japanese emigration companies in their efforts to introduce Japanese labor in the sugar and coffee plantations.

The work is hard and little better than slavery, and popular feeling in Japan is that such work is derogatory to the dignity of Japanese citizenship. Farmers on the South American plantations earn not more than 50 to 75 cents a day with some of lodging thrown in.

A few weeks ago the Peruvian government sent to Japan for 200 contract laborers, and when the Morioka Emigration Company attempted to collect them there was a great outcry against sending more laborers in this way to South America. Despite the government's backing the emigration companies have not succeeded in shipping more than 5,000 Japanese laborers to South American countries.

AMHERST WEDDING OF MUCH INTEREST TODAY

Amherst, N. S., Sept. 7.—(Special)—This afternoon Trinity Methodist Church was the scene of a brilliant wedding, when Miss E. Winona Cove, daughter of the late Dr. J. W. Cove and Mrs. Emma A. Cove, of Victoria, was united in marriage to Huxley H. Johnson, D. D., S. M. D., late of Broom's Africa, son of the late Rev. L. S. Johnson.

The church was elaborately decorated, the altar being beautifully banked with flowers. The bride couple stood under an arch of green and white. Rev. G. F. Johnson, of Napan, N. S., uncle of the groom, assisted by Rev. Hamilton White, of Trinity church, performed the ceremony. The bride was given away by her brother, J. Aubrey Cove.

Mrs. Evelyn B. Harnett artistically played the music for the ceremony. The bride was the recipient of many costly presents. Valuable furs and fabrics, soured by Mrs. Johnson, were also in evidence. The ceremony the happy couple left for Halifax and will proceed via Boston, New York, Washington and other cities to Baltimore, where they will marry their home.

THE BAD ROADS

There are persons so partisan in their views that they would continue without complaint to endure the hardship of bad roads rather than admit that their party leaders had failed to do their duty. Whoever rides over the country roads of New Brunswick knows that they are in bad condition, and that the Government has not carried out its promises.

Some newspapers in Canada would like to stir up a little political feeling over the Eucharistic Congress in Montreal, and the reception given to the distinguished visitors. Inasmuch as the event has no political significance such a proceeding would be both futile and unwise.

At the closing of the supervised playgrounds of Fitchburg, Mass., for the summer, no less than twelve hundred children took part in the games, and over five hundred people were there to applaud. How many years must elapse before St. John people take a like interest in the children?

Every visitor to the exhibition should give attention to the educational exhibits, especially those that are of a practical nature. The manual training and consolidated school exhibits are suggestive of results that should be made universal in the schools of the province.

OLD ROMAN BOAT FOUND IN LONDON

Relic of Imperial Invasion Unearthed on Site of New County Hall—Contained Rare Coins

The remains of an ancient boat, which have been discovered on the site of the new hall of the London County Council, have now been examined. The report of the Local Government, Records and Museums Committee of the London County Council contains the following statement: "In the course of excavations on the site of the new County hall a discovery has been made, the importance of which from an historical and archaeological point of view can hardly be overestimated. The principal feature of the discovery consists of a Roman boat. As this is a unique example of such a find in Britain it is of greater interest even than the clinker-built boat of King Alfred's time, discovered at Walthamstow a few years ago, and of other Viking boats found in various parts of the kingdom. A considerable portion of the vessel, which is of oak, is still covered, and until the earth is removed it will not be possible to ascertain its exact size, but, so far as can be judged, the vessel would seem to be about 60 feet long and 16 feet beam. Several articles were found in the boat, comprising some shreds of Roman pottery, bones, iron nails, glass gaming buttons, iron-studded soles of footwear, a coin of Tetricus in Gaul (288-273), a coin of Carausius in Britain (286-293), which is stated by the keeper of coins at the British Museum to be of date 290 or 291, and a coin of Allectus in Britain (293-296), and these objects are stated by the authorities of the Geological Museum to be the safest evidence as to the age of the boat, which may therefore be assigned to the end of the third or beginning of the fourth century A. D. Dr. G. H. Read, keeper of the department of British and medieval antiquities at the British Museum, who has examined the boat, points out that the discovery is of special interest and value as having been made on the council's own property on what must have been the bank of the river in Roman times, and expressed the opinion that the vessel is capable of preservation.

WHEAT IN THE SOUTH?

Will the southern states become a successful wheat producing area? This question will be discussed at the Ohio Valley Exposition. It is felt that if wheat can be produced with success in the south, the movement of American farmers north to Canada may be diverted. The New Orleans Times-Democrat has the following interesting article on the subject: "Improved farming methods have helped corn culture throughout the southern states, so that both the yield and the acreage are increasing rapidly. It is said that southern farmers are also getting satisfactory yields of oats. As for wheat, the Mississippi farmers who made trial of that crop last fall are reported well satisfied with results, and within the next few days the organization of what might be termed 'wheat-growing clubs' has been reported from two Mississippi counties. Home grown seed wheat is reported on sale in Jackson, with a good demand. These demonstrations are of special value at this time, when there is excellent prospect that the tide of homeseeking northern farmers may be diverted from Canada into the southern states. Hundreds are coming, and thousands are already here. The impression, until lately rather widespread in the north, that the settler upon southern hands must depend upon his cotton crop, has without doubt operated somewhat to our disadvantage, for the reason that the northern farmer preferred to settle upon lands where he could raise the crops which he was familiar. That error has been corrected to a very large extent, and its correction has helped to bring the farmers from the middle west this way. As their number increases in the southern states, the acreage devoted to grain will correspondingly increase, so that the talk of a southern grain belt, it will be seen, is not without a supporting foundation of logic and statistics.

Senator Lafollette is still the man for Wisconsin, and a national figure of some importance. He swept the primaries yesterday.

It took four men to carry a drunken man to the police station yesterday afternoon, and a hundred or two of people to watch this method of setting the law in motion. Such a scene disgraces the city.

The organs of Mr. Hazen may continue to attack Mr. Bentley until this time next year, or ten years hence; but that will not convert a bad road into a good one. The roadwork must be done by the roads, and not in a newspaper office.

The firm that expended considerable money in setting up an exhibit at the fair should spend a little more advertising it for that portion of the public which does not see it. The Times-Star is an excellent medium.

Some newspapers in Canada would like to stir up a little political feeling over the Eucharistic Congress in Montreal, and the reception given to the distinguished visitors. Inasmuch as the event has no political significance such a proceeding would be both futile and unwise.

At the closing of the supervised playgrounds of Fitchburg, Mass., for the summer, no less than twelve hundred children took part in the games, and over five hundred people were there to applaud. How many years must elapse before St. John people take a like interest in the children?

Every visitor to the exhibition should give attention to the educational exhibits, especially those that are of a practical nature. The manual training and consolidated school exhibits are suggestive of results that should be made universal in the schools of the province.

OLD ROMAN BOAT FOUND IN LONDON

Relic of Imperial Invasion Unearthed on Site of New County Hall—Contained Rare Coins

The remains of an ancient boat, which have been discovered on the site of the new hall of the London County Council, have now been examined. The report of the Local Government, Records and Museums Committee of the London County Council contains the following statement: "In the course of excavations on the site of the new County hall a discovery has been made, the importance of which from an historical and archaeological point of view can hardly be overestimated. The principal feature of the discovery consists of a Roman boat. As this is a unique example of such a find in Britain it is of greater interest even than the clinker-built boat of King Alfred's time, discovered at Walthamstow a few years ago, and of other Viking boats found in various parts of the kingdom. A considerable portion of the vessel, which is of oak, is still covered, and until the earth is removed it will not be possible to ascertain its exact size, but, so far as can be judged, the vessel would seem to be about 60 feet long and 16 feet beam. Several articles were found in the boat, comprising some shreds of Roman pottery, bones, iron nails, glass gaming buttons, iron-studded soles of footwear, a coin of Tetricus in Gaul (288-273), a coin of Carausius in Britain (286-293), which is stated by the keeper of coins at the British Museum to be of date 290 or 291, and a coin of Allectus in Britain (293-296), and these objects are stated by the authorities of the Geological Museum to be the safest evidence as to the age of the boat, which may therefore be assigned to the end of the third or beginning of the fourth century A. A colored man was brought before a judge charged with beating a mule over the head with a club. A member of the C. P. C. Santiago, Chile, Sept. 6.—After an illness of six days with pneumonia, Vice-President Elias Fernandez Albano, who had been acting president of the republic of Chile since the death of President Pedro Montt at Bremen, Germany, Aug. 16, died today. AN APPRECIATION OF SOL. E. LOGAN'S WORK. The August number of the Templar of Honor contains a portrait and the following appreciative sketch of a well known St. John Templar: "Bro. Sol. E. Logan, whose picture you are able to present to our readers in the uniform of a Select Templar, has recently been appointed superintendent of the junior work in New Brunswick. He was born in St. John in 1859, and in his boyhood evinced interest in the temperance work. He joined the Cadets of Temperance, the British Templars, the Sons of Temperance and the Good Templars. But his main work has been done in the Temple of Honor, which he entered as a member of Alexandria Temple thirty-two years ago. He has occupied nearly all the office in the Temple and Council. In 1890 he was elected G. W. V. Templar and in '92 was elected G. W. V. Templar, which office he has filled with great fidelity. In 1891, he entered the Supreme Council at the session in Providence, R. I. In 1894 he was elected M. W. Guardian. He served four years as D. M. W. T. But his most successful work is among the juniors. He has worked in their interests and is especially successful with the boys, and we expect good results from his efforts this year as superintendent.

Daily Hints For the Cook

MUSHROOM CATCHUP. Take half a bushel of freshly gathered mushrooms, wipe them carefully with a damp cloth, put a layer in the bottom of a large stone jar, sprinkle with salt, add more mushrooms and salt, until all are used. Let stand over night, wash them and strain off the juice. To every pint add half a teaspoonful of black pepper and half a dozen whole cloves. Put into a preserve kettle and boil slowly until thick. Strain and thin with two tablespoonfuls of vinegar to every pint.

QUINCE PRESERVE. Pare, core and weigh the fruit, put in preserving kettle with one pint of water to every pound of fruit and boil ten minutes or until tender. Then pass a broomstraw through them. If they are not perfectly ripe they will require longer boiling. Take out one at a time and place on dishes to drain. Allow one pound of sugar to every pound of fruit. Put the sugar in a kettle with enough water to dissolve it, then put in the fruit and boil until the cloudy look disappears, skimming all the time. Lay the fruit on a dish to cool, then put it in jars and pour the hot sirup over it. Cover with a paper dipped in brandy before sealing.

PICCALILLI. Chop very finely a peck of green tomatoes, six green peppers and four onions. Stir all together with a cupful of salt, and let the mixture stand over night. In the morning pour what water may have accumulated and cover with vinegar, adding 1 cup of horseradish, 1 cupful of sugar, 1 teaspoonful of cloves, 1 tablespoonful of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of allspice. Cook slowly until tender, tasting at the last, and adding more salt if needed. Do up in wide-mouthed bottles. These are tried and true recipes, but not by me, but I intend to make the following this week. Hope you will like and use one of them. Piccalilli No. 2.—One peck of green tomatoes, one dozen medium-sized onions, three green peppers, one tablespoonful of cloves, two tablespoonfuls of mace, one pound of sugar, one head of cabbage, one pint of salt, one tablespoonful of black pepper, one tablespoonful of allspice, one tablespoonful of celery seed, vinegar. Chop the tomatoes, onions and cabbage fine, but separately. Place them together in a jar, and sprinkle the salt on them. Cover the jar and let stand over night. Four hours drain off all the juice and brine that has formed, and cover the vegetables with scalding hot vinegar. Cover the jar tightly and when the vinegar has cooled draw it off. Chop the green peppers finely, add them to the vegetables and cover. Mix all well together and simmer slowly on the fire until the vegetables are tender. Put up in wide-mouthed bottles.

IT GROWS HAIR

Here Are Facts I Want You to Prove at My Risk

Marvelous, as it may seem, Rezell "93" Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course, none of these cases were the hair roots dead, nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

Rezell "93" Hair Tonic acts scientifically, destroying the dandruff which is usually responsible for balding. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulates and nourishes them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, delicately perfumed, and will not give a permanent stain to the hair.

"I want you to get a bottle of Rezell Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not cure you, I will pay for it. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Sold only at my store. The Retail Store. Chas. R. Watson, 100 King Street.

A. H. Foots of Bath, Me., who is 83 years old, walks 15 miles to small ponds nearly every day to cultivate his garden.

After La Grippe

"I had suffered several weeks with LaGrippe. Had pains in my head and neck. It felt as though there was a heavy weight on the top of my head, until it seemed that my brain would burst. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. When I dozed off I was so awake that a sudden jerking of my whole body, Dr. Miles' Nervine, Heart Remedy and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me. A number of friends have since realized the same benefits."

MRS. ALVIN H. LOCKS, Seabrook, N. H. The after effects of LaGrippe are often more serious than the disease, as it leaves the system in a weakened condition that invites more serious troubles, such as pneumonia, etc.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine should be taken for some time to thoroughly restore nerve strength.

Good, Better or Best?

A VITAL DIFFERENCE IN BREADS

QUALITY you know is comparative. Just as much so in bread, as in woollens or linens.

If you make bread at all you naturally want it to be good—as good as, or better than your neighbor's.

But is your bread as good as it ought to be? Does it furnish its full quantum of health and strength? Is it nutritious as well as delicious?

Ordinary flour makes fairly good looking bread. But if you care for food value, for nutrition, for digestibility, for bone and muscle and blood building quality, you will want a flour rich in the highest quality of gluten. You will want the flour that makes bread not only good-to-look-at, but also makes it strength-producing, health-producing.

But where can you get such flour and how can you tell it from the kind that isn't nourishing?

The safe way is to get OGILVIE'S "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD". Then you can't make a mistake.

"ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" is the finest flour in the world and makes the best bread in the world.

And it is just as good for Pastry as it is for Bread. It is the one flour which has proved an unqualified success for every household purpose. And its absolute uniformity guarantees you against failure.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR isn't just ordinary flour that is ground in an ordinary mill and ground by the ordinary process. It is Manitoba Red Eye wheat which is especially rich in high quality gluten, scientifically milled and subjected to scientific chemical tests as well as baking tests before it comes to you in sack or barrel, etc.

Do you wonder "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" makes the finest and most nourishing bread. No wonder it makes the most delicious and healthful pies, cakes, biscuits, muffins, rolls.

Bread made from ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is vastly more nourishing than bread made from ordinary flour. Also it is lighter, flakier, more delicious as well as more nutritious.

Order "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" at once. Don't delay. The sooner you commence using this finest of all flours the better for your family.

ATTENDANCE FAR AHEAD OF LAST FAIR

Nearly 9,000 at Exhibition Yesterday in Spite of Weather—Some of the Features—Exhibits to Notice Particularly

The big Dominion exhibition is now in full swing, and yesterday was attended by nearly 9,000 people, even though rain interfered with the attendance to a considerable extent. All the features of the fair were in full working order, and were liberally patronized.

The following is a comparative statement of the attendance for the first three days in 1908 and of the present exhibition:

Table with 2 columns: Day, 1908, and Day, Present. Saturday... 3,968 Saturday... 3,862; Monday... 6,514 Monday... 14,898; Tuesday... 11,830 Tuesday... 8,712.

The rest room at the booth of the Women's Council is thronged continually. The ladies' orchestra delighted hundreds yesterday in their choice musical program.

The display of fruit on exhibition in the agricultural hall is attracting much attention. S. L. Peters is in charge of the exhibit. The New Brunswick apples are an excellent lot, considering the earliness of the season.

The ladies' orchestra delighted hundreds yesterday in their choice musical program. The display of fruit on exhibition in the agricultural hall is attracting much attention.

SHOWING THE PLATER'S ART. Among the busiest of booths is that of Grondine, the Plater, on the upper floor of the annex. There his workmen show the interested housewives how, when their table ware becomes dingy, it can be replated and made like new.

EDGECOMBE'S CARRIAGE EXHIBIT. The name of Edgcombe has been for so many years inseparably connected with their carriage exhibits at all of the important exhibitions in the maritime provinces that one is not surprised as he enters the transportation building to see on the right and left of him some forty specimens of their excellent manufacture.

of vehicle that is at once popular and useful.

The fact that winter will soon be here and pungent and a necessity is emphasized by the presence of many essential and handsome ash pungs both single and double, finished in the natural wood as well as richly painted. Then there is the physician's sleigh with its cover and storm front and these have been so taking that several have already been sold to visiting doctors. This storm front, by the way, can be shifted to the carriage of the physician when carriages are in use.

Mr. Edgcombe has one Glaxton with audside trimmings which for the sake of advertisement has been placed at the unusual price of $100, which is more than $100 than the usual sale price. His specimens of Concordia and piano box wagons show much evidence of workmanship. As in the Bangor type which has proved so popular he has the physician's cover with its storm front. The well-known beech wagon with its two seats, strong and serviceable, either for a family or a fishing party. Then there is the family sleigh with two movable seats finished in his cloth as well as the speed sled. And next to that a very handsome two-seated Surrey with canopy top. And last but by no means least, the fashionable ladies' out under carriage. All of these exhibits are from the sawmills and manufacturing of Alfred Edgcombe on the City Road, where there are many bargains which will suit scores of visitors. Mr. Edgcombe is at all times ready and willing to meet his old friends and customers and to show them his goods.

Mrs. Josephine Sullivan is the first policeman of Chicago. She has been invested with all the authority and privileges usual to a policeman of that city. No man is as important as his wife would like to think he is.

KEEP YOUR MUSCLES LIMBER

And Relieve Soreness with Father Morrissy's Liniment.

Athletes owe their prowess not so much to natural bodily superiority as to the systematic conservation of Nature's gifts, particularly by means of regular rubbing with a good liniment. We are not all athletes, but in any way of life if we keep our muscles limber, the walking will be much easier.

Father Morrissy's Liniment has repeatedly cured rheumatism, bruises, burns, frostbites, chapped hands, chilblains, sprains and sore muscles, backache, toothache, neuralgic and neural affections. Its connection with the skin is a valuable adjunct to the use of the liniment in sore throats and chest affections.

This well-known and reliable liniment is mild and soothing to the skin and does not blister. It is clean and has a wholesome, agreeable odor, unlike other preparations.

In every family medicine chest, there should be a bottle of Father Morrissy's Liniment. It is sold by all druggists and is also available in the form of a ointment.

Every one who has tried the Liniment testifies to its wonderful soothing and healing powers. From the young ball player to his rheumatic father or grand-father, every member of the family will find occasional or constant use for this incomparable preparation. The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"A BABY'S grandmother is often its worst enemy." So a splendid trained nurse who makes her specialty the bringing back to health of sickly babies, told me the other day. It was a pretty harsh indictment of that class of persons whose very name evokes a thought of tenderness and wisdom and a sort of selfless devotion, so naturally I demanded an explanation. She gave it.

"They are the worst enemies of our modern methods. Not all of them, of course, but some. Because their babies lived and grew up in spite of what mistakes they made they try to have their daughters make the same mistakes."

"There is no doubt about it that modern methods have reduced infant mortality immensely, and though of course it's true that plenty of babies grew up into healthy children with the old careless methods, a baby brought up in the modern way has twice the chance to grow up that they did."

"But the grandmothers don't see it that way. They say all their babies grew up, or if one or two died, they would have died anyway, no matter what precautions were taken, and they tell their daughters that all this sterilizing and boiling and the rest of the things that we are trying to teach them is all nonsense."

"Most of them talk behind our backs but one in a while one of them speaks right out to me so I know about what they say."

"Here's a few samples: 'This feeding a baby every three hours to the minute is all tommyrot. Why, when Jennie was a baby I fed her whenever she cried and she doesn't look any peaked now, does she?'

"This boiling the nipples and bottles is perfect nonsense. I never boiled a thing and I brought up five children an only lost one by cholera infantum, and you needn't tell me any child gets cholera infantum from not having its nipples boiled."

"Waking a child up to feed him is the silliest thing I ever heard of. He has been under nourished and needs the nourishment. Nonsense. I had eight children and I always let them sleep as long as they would."

"That's the sort of thing they are continually saying, and as some of them have more influence than we do, the result is that many of our most important instructions are neutralized."

"Why, I even know of one baby that I am sure would be alive today if he had had the proper care, but they lost him because the mother let the grandmother boob-hoo her out of doing what the doctor and nurse told her."

"No, grandmothers may be well enough for older children, but a good many of them are the babies' worst enemies."

In the Philadelphia schools a lecture on the care of babies was given to the little mothers of the tenements this spring. The next day they were asked to write an essay on the lecture and one child of eleven brought in this startling indictment of grandmother:

"I never understood why my little brother Mikky turned over one day after he was several months with us, and gave a little grunt and died. Now I believe it was because my grandmother used to feed him the same things as she ate. Sometimes she would squeeze orange juice in his mouth and other times she'd give him a bit of cabbage to strengthen him. I think some germs got into these and made Mikky twist up in knots and die."

Of course that sort of grandmother doesn't exist among my readers, but I have no doubt that the other kind does, and I think, all things considered, that her sin of boob-hooing the nurse's instructions is quite as bad as the tenement grandmother's orange and cabbage habit.

BIG ORE ROBBERY

FROM COBALT OFFICE VAULT

Cobalt, Ont., Sept. 6.—Twenty-seven bars of silver, valued at $5,000, were stolen from the Nova Scotia mine at Cobalt last night. There was over $17,000 worth in the vault, part of a shipment to be made to England this morning.

HIGH HEELS COST LIFE

OF WIFE AND HUSBAND

High heel shoes, which she wore, were responsible for the drowning of Mrs. Kate Perle and her husband, Louis Perle, in Lake Ontario last week. Mrs. Perle was the leading lady of the Manhattan opera company, which has been playing all summer at the White City Casino. Her husband was the musical director.

Mrs. Perle's little sister, Margaret Nice, arrived from New York to spend Labor day with them. To teach her how to row they took her out in the boat. The older people started to change seats. In so doing Mrs. Perle's heels caught on an obstruction in the bottom of the boat and she was thrown overboard. Her husband jumped in to save her and called for help, which did not come in time. The little girl did not even get wet.

Mrs. Perle, who was 39 years old, was the daughter of Eugene Nice, an artist, of New York.

When George Lacki of Granite City, Ill., was arrested for killing a brown thrasher contrary to law he attempted to swallow the bird, but feathers protruding from his mouth betrayed him and he was locked up.

FOUR WEEKS' JAIL FOR REFUSING TO DO DUTY ON STEAMER

Six Members of Manchester Corporation's Crew Before Judge Ritchie This Morning

Something like a mutiny on board the good ship Manchester Corporation, bound from Manchester to this port, resulted this morning in the police court, in six of the crew being sentenced to four weeks each in jail on a charge of refusing duty, and sentencing themselves without leave from the steamer.

The master of the steamer, Captain Heath, referring to his log book and reading from it, informed the court that the men in question, Edward Reid, Thomas Smith, George Rawlin, Valentine Nicholas, James McDonald and Wm. Chadwick had been unruly during the voyage, and when three days out from the old country, had refused to obey orders, that on their arrival here, they went on shore without permission, and returning played cribbage on the deck, until Policeman Henry arrived. The second engineer corroborated this statement.

The men, on the other hand, claimed that they had been overworked and ill-fed, and that these were the reasons for their conduct. The steward, they said, had refused to allow them to see the master of the ship to complain of the food they had had to eat had been "rotten," and the potatoes the same way and they had had nothing to eat for nearly twenty-six hours.

It was proven that they could have seen the captain, had they desired to complain, and the evidence being strongly against them, they were sent below, muttering that they would "take up the matter again when they reached Manchester, before an English court."

THE C.P.R. AND THE N. B. SOUTHERN RY.

The Montreal Star says: "It is probable that before the end of the present year the New Brunswick Southern Railway, of which Col. H. McLean is president, will have definitely passed into the control of the Canadian Pacific. The shareholders have been notified of a proposition to that end, and a general meeting will be held in December to decide upon the question of leasing the line to the other company."

MILLINERS IN TOWN FOR THE OPENINGS

Wholesale Displays Being Made Today and Tomorrow—What the Fashions Call for This Season

The wholesale millinery openings take place today and tomorrow. Owing to the fact that the Dominion Exhibition is also on, the attendance of milliners from all parts of the province is large. The work done by the wholesale houses have been crowded by visitors eager to learn the newest features in millinery work.

There are two classes of hats this season, brim hats and turbans or toques. The former are wide, with irregular curves or an excessive droop.

Materials are felt, beaver, silk, velvet, leather or fur, the selection being determined by the weather and the occasion. Feather hats are much in favor, and in great variety.

The leading shades this season are dull. The new ones shown are corbea (a new dark navy), myrtle (dark green), mountain, vendange, sand, hay and wine stains, with the ever popular black and black and white. Black is very much in favor with everyone. Pearl gray, royal blue and gray are popular for young people.

In trimmings for street hats the wing and quill are popular, the smaller ones combining with silk, ribbon or velvet. Large turbans and satin bows are also in favor. Silk is much used. Feathers are also much used and in many varieties. Jet, bandeaux and other ornaments are seen.

The Maritime Merchant in an interview with a St. John wholesale firm says of millinery: "There are two features in shapes this season, the broad brim slightly rolling off the face, and the deep mushroom turbans, both trimmed and draped much higher than for several seasons."

Materials are velvets, beavers, plushes and several fancy materials, but velvet will be much stronger than ever, and it will undoubtedly be a great velvet year. Great trimmings, wings, front pieces and handkerchiefs are also seen.

"Colors are much as they have been. There are many dull effects, and a few new ones, such as rain, very dull old rose, etc. There are many pretty greens, different shades of blue, but undoubtedly black and black and white will be far stronger than all other colors."

COSTS MONEY TO FIGHT POLICE

Two Prisoners Have $32 Fines Struck for Drunkenness and Resisting - Two Benches Needed in Court

George Chestnut, Archibald Quinn and Joseph Doherty were fined $4 each on charges of drunkenness.

Henry Bessie was fined $8 for two months' jail on a charge of drunkenness, and remanded on a charge of disorderly conduct.

William White was allowed to go on a charge of breaking a bottle code valued at $8 the property of Wm. Finson. The understanding is that he made good the damage, while a fine of $3 or 20 days' jail stands over him.

Frank Cavanaugh, aged about 20, was fined $20 on a charge of drunkenness and resisting the police. Policeman Linton, who made the arrest gave evidence that young Cavanaugh had kicked a man beside striking the policeman when he was performing his duty. Cavanaugh pleaded guilty to drunkenness and resisting, and the charge of assault was not dealt with.

The same penalty, $20 on a charge of drunkenness and $24 on a charge of resisting, with an option of five months' jail was imposed on Daniel Collins, who, in spite of the fact that he is crippled, gave considerable trouble when being placed in custody in the exhibition grounds yesterday. While policeman McKinnon placed the handcuffs on him, Chief Clark held him.

Bernard Harvey, arrested on a charge of wandering about Union street late last night and not being able to account for himself was allowed to go with a warning.
