THE DIAMOND OF GANGODWARRA

By GERARD, P. E. The Major dropped a second piece of ice into his whiskey "peg," and puffed absently at his cheroot until the value of the diamond would be carried by the high priests through an avenue of thousands of kneeling, quivering fanatics. My pulse beat and I trembled in every limb with a suppressed excitement, as I saw the priest advancing, bearing on a platted red, tray an enormous diamond, the facets of which shot out rays of a thousand brilliant hues. Nearer and nearer, drew the priest and had it not been for my two companions I feel sure I would have sprung out and seized the coveted treasure. At last—I held my breath—the wonderful jewel, larger by far than a hen's egg, was opposite me. I raised my head, gazed spellbound and for the first time in my life I felt that I might have my nerves possibly the excitement I had passed through—but I put it down to the disappointment. It was not a diamond after all, but only the top broken off the stopper of a cut glass decanter.

The Major halted, and with evident relief, sipped at the cooling beverage at his elbow, which seemed to him renewed energy to continue the narrative. "My mind was made up, dangers or no dangers, that diamond had to change ownership, by fair means or foul. I had determined to become its possessor. What may I ask, did a hideous old man want a jewel of such marvellous beauty and priceless value. The more I thought upon it, the more determined I was to possess it, and I laid my plans accordingly. Every week my spies brought me fresh news of the Ghoribees, as the wild tribe of hillmen were called, and I therefore had to alter my plans. "I applied for leave, and set out on my mad expedition, fully determined to bring back the diamond, or to my farthest outpost which was about a hundred to a hundred and twenty miles from my destination, Gangodwarra—the city of snow.

Don't waste your money buying plasters when you can get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment for twenty-five cents. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment is superior to any plaster for lame back, pains in the side and chest, and much cheaper. Last evening the inclemency of the weather was responsible for the artillery band returning to town without holding a concert at Seaside Park. There was not a large attendance at the park, the weather being too threatening. There will probably be a band concert on Saturday afternoon.

FAMOUS PURITAN CUP RACE AT MARBLEHEAD Won by 45 Foot Yacht Adventure—Annual Cruise Starts Today.

BOSTON AMERICANS WIN ON HOM RUN Stahl Makes Ever of Longest Drives Ever Made on Grounds

WHIST CHAMPIONSHIP DECIDED IN CLOSE FINISH Kelly and Gilman, of American Whist Club, Boston, Jumped From Third to First.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 9.—The new 45-foot Adventure, owned by C. C. Runtell, of Boston, but sailing from New England, Conn., won the honor in the annual regatta of the Eastern Yacht Club tonight of having her name inscribed for the Puritan Cup, the trophy won by the famous cup defender of Newport, in 1888. The regatta today, at Marblehead Neck, in which eleven boats participated, was sailed in a light southeast wind and brought out some good sport, especially in the P class, in which six boats contested. Tonight the captains gathered on board the flagship Arbelia, where it was decided to start the annual cruise tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock in order to cover the 75 miles run across the northwest arm of the Gulf of Maine in good season. It was expected tonight that nearly two score boats will start the annual cruise, the largest number that has participated in this event for many years.

A. Gilman, of Boston, was elected President.

ROME, July 9.—King Victor Emmanuel went on Thursday to Assergi to make the ascent of the Gran Sasso d'Italia. His Majesty was accompanied by aides-de-camp, and the ascent was begun towards noon, two guides preceding the royal alpinist. The first part of the ascent—as far as Portella, 640 feet—was accomplished without difficulty. Beyond this point the road was obstructed with snow, which covers the summit of the mountain. The ascent was now not only difficult but dangerous, but the king insisted on proceeding. His Majesty's steps were first cut in the snow by the guides, but new difficulties arose, snow fell, and the guides warned the king that it would be impossible to reach the summit of the mountain, if he was to return, until long after midnight. As it was impossible to telegraph that he would be late back, his Majesty, much against his will, gave up the idea of proceeding. The return was made without difficulty, the king reaching Assergi as dusk was falling. His Majesty passed the night there at a simple inn, and returned to Rome yesterday morning by motorcar. The Duke of the Abruzzi, cousin of the King of Italy, has reached the foot of the Himalayas peak known as K2 (Godwin-Austen), which is 28,265 feet high.

HAYDN MANUSCRIPT AS "RUB-BISH." LONDON, July 9.—Dr. Cummings, principal of the Guthrie School of Music, in an address on the subject of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, Hanover Square, on Saturday night, said that some time ago he visited a second-hand music seller in St. Martin's lane and purchased a Haydn manuscript for two shillings and sixpence. The manuscript was rescued out of a sack of what the music seller described as rubbish.

MONTREAL, July 9.—The opening day of the second annual meeting of the Automobile Association of Canada on the Blue Bonnet track this afternoon was marked by the death of two contestants. The dead are C. Bachelier, of Newport, Vt., and J. T. Wobey, of Montreal. Last evening Lorne Haly, of Montreal, wanted to enter his sixty horse power steam car in the mile open race for stock cars. The committee refused the entry, but today when Haly announced that he had secured the services of Bachelier he was allowed to start. Twohey was his mechanic. Eight miles of the race had been covered the car running well together with Burman in the lead, stretch Bachelier evidently tried to pass Burman going out on the far side of the course for the purpose. Whether he was blinded by the dust or whether a tire burst no one knows. But the steam crashed into the fence, leaped over the embankment and was hurled in the air forty yards.

DASTARDLY ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP MINE AT BRIDGEPORT, C. B.

GLACE BAY, N. S., July 9.—A dastardly attempt was made to blow up No. 8 mine at Bridgeport on Thursday. A bomb was constructed and placed in the mine, consisting of twelve pounds of powder, covered carefully with stones and rubbish, to which a squib was attached. About eight o'clock Thursday morning Rory McPherson, who does guard duty underground, saw a man crouching suspiciously about 400 feet from the pit bottom, between the travelling and haulage roads. He started to investigate the man's actions, but when the would-be destroyer of human life saw him approaching he made a dash for the travelling road.

McPherson followed for a short distance, but finally lost trace of the man. He then returned to the spot where he saw the man first. After a short search he discovered the powder and attached to it was one of the squibs which are in use in the mine for shooting down the coal.

It was quite evident that the attempt did not have time to finish his dastardly work before he was discovered by McPherson. Had the culprit not been discovered at his nefarious work at the time he was the powder should have undoubtedly been set off and an explosion occurred which would have carried death and destruction to all in the mine. As there were nearly 200 men employed in the mine yesterday the results are too horrible to contemplate, as the explosion of the gases in the mine would have destroyed every living thing underground.

Detectives are at work on the case and are following a clue which may result in an arrest. It is believed that the man who did the nefarious deed went down with the men in the morning and thus got into the mine without arousing suspicion. Notwithstanding the many threats that have been made by strikers, it is not believed that any miner would be guilty of the crime of attempting to send without warning into another world two hundred or so of his fellow-workmen. The bomb was discovered early Thursday morning, but the find was kept a secret in the hope of discovering the perpetrator.

COLORS FOR TERRITORIALS.

The King Presides at Interesting Ceremony in London.

(London Standard.)

Amid scenes of impressive brilliance, His Majesty the King presented colors to 117 Territorial units on Saturday. The presentation took place on the East Lawn of Windsor Castle, and the King, who wore the uniform of a field-marshal, was accompanied by Her Majesty the Queen, their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, Princess Mary of Wales. Perfect weather continued throughout the ceremony, which was witnessed by a large number of foreign officers and the delegates of the Imperial Press Conference.

There is a gaunt beauty in Windsor Castle that those who see it across lush meadows in its setting of green lands cannot stone. Nearer at hand there is a mild, tragic bleakness in the grey pile, an over-shadowing and depressing sadness in the stark building that overlooks the East Lawn, for which all the softness of its parklands cannot atone. On Saturday the lawn was aglitter with brilliant uniforms and polished equipment, for all that was greatest in the world of military achievement was gathered to witness a unique ceremony. On three sides of a hollow square were grouped the color parties of 110 units of the Territorial Army, and with each, caled in their polished leather covers, were the colors which they were shortly to receive back at the hands of the King.

There were Yeomanry dragons, all gallantly accoutred in silver and blue, Yeomanry in scarlet and silver, Yeomanry in green and red. There were smart infantry units in characteristic scarlet with facings of buff, and facings of green, and facing of royal blue. There were Highland units, a goodly sight, and Irish corps more sombrely uniformed, and representatives of regiments which sported the dirty khaki of service dress.

At one end of the square the hands of the Brigade of Guards were massed, and running up from there, in four rigid lines, the non-commissioned officers of the Guards, whose duty it was to "nurse" the colors until the King presented them. The wide stretch of lawn blazed with the many hues of two hundred battle flags—crimson and royal blue, buff and green, with a deeper, richer tinge of claret in the guidons and a flash of lemon yellow in the regimental flags of the Scottish regiments.

At a word of command from Colonel Bingham the non-commissioned officers turned outward and marched to the centre of the square. Here they stood waiting, like upon line of drooping flags. Upon the overlooking terrace a crowd of silk-hatted spectators had gathered. There were the Empire Press delegates. In a space below them were the high officers of the army and the foreign officers. French chasseurs, Italian officers, Russians with their distinctive flat-topped hats and wrinkled riding boots, Japanese in dark blue and yellow, a German officer in unrelieved black, with the crossed knives of the Garukas on his black helmet.

The Minister of the Crown, in their neat uniforms, began to put in an appearance before the King arrived. Mr. Winston Churchill, with the row of war medals that his service as correspondent had won him; Lord Crewe, with the blue ribbon of the Garter; and Mr. Birrell, strangely unfamiliar in the cocked hat and gold embroidered uniform of his office, Mr. Haldane and Mr. Balfour clustered whilst Mr. Churchill found an old war acquaintance in Sir Ian Hamilton. Lord Howe and Sir George White were there, and most gorgeous in their scarlet and silver, the lieutenants of the command, the responsible for the Territorial organization. Punctual to the minute, His Majesty walked down to the lawn, accompanied by Queen Alexandra, and the Royal Standard was hoisted at the flag staff at the rear of the pavilion. Beneath the scarlet canopy His Majesty took his place, and the arms of the color parties came to the present as the united bands crashed forth into the National Anthem.

Then began, perhaps, the most picturesque ceremony within the memory of man. It began solemnly, with the harmonious playing and the singing of the Old Hundredth. Bishop Taylor Smith, the chaplain-general of the army, in his black and scarlet robes, stood by the stacked drums before the royal pavilion, and led the singing, and from the great throng rose the deep-toned notes of the old hymn.

It rolled across the spaces of the broad grounds, and echoes of it came back from the grey castle beyond. Then the bishop, speaking in a clear voice, began the prayer which preceded the consecration:

"Forasmuch as men at all times have made for themselves signs and emblems of their allegiance to their rulers, and of their duty to uphold those laws and institutions which God Himself led His people Israel by a pillar of fire by night and a pillar of cloud by day, are met together before God to ask His blessing on those colors, which are to represent to us our duty towards our sovereign and our country. Let us, therefore, pray Almighty God of His mercy to grant that they may never be unfurled save in the cause of justice and righteousness, and that He may make them to be to those who follow them a sign of His presence with them in all dangers and distress, and may increase their faith and hope in Him, who is the King of Kings and Lord of Lords." Every head was bowed as the bishop continued. The King, standing a little

H. G. CHESTNUT PASSES AWAY

SWEPT FROM DECK BY A HUGE WAVE

NORTH SYDNEY, July 9.—After one of the hardest times ever experienced on sea the French trawler Sacha arrived in port today from St. Pierre, Mic., and reports the loss of one of her crew, who was swept away from her deck by a huge wave at two o'clock this morning. The gale of yesterday, which was the most severe of the season, struck the steamer as she was making for this port, and for a time fears were entertained that she would never reach her destination. When men were swept overboard a boat was quickly launched, but the heavy sea smashed it on the side of the steamer. Hatches and other moveables were also carried away. The Sacha had just landed a fare of 70 tons of fish at St. Pierre and was on her way here for supplies.

The Enormous Demand WHICH HAS BEEN CREATED FOR Kumfort Headache Powders

Since their introduction in 1896 has been built up on Merit and Merit alone. This has caused a number of imitations to appear but they lack the merit of the Genuinc. Avoid substitutes, which you know nothing about and which often contain opiates and other dangerous drugs. Demand and insist on KUMFORT Headache Powders and avoid cheap substitutes. Remember there is nothing "just as good," as in that case the article would be good enough to sell on its own Merits. Kumfort Headache Powders are not an unknown quantity, but are endorsed by physicians who are familiar with the formula.

TESTIMONIALS:

Mrs. J. F. DAVIDSON, Burnt Church, N. B., writes: "I have used Kumfort Headache Powders, and my experience is that they will cure nervous headache in a few minutes."

LONDON INVADED BY ARMY OF 'CROOKS'

Some Old-Time Tricks Work Well, and Public Never Seems to Learn.

LONDON, July 9.—Hundreds of the cleverest sharpers and "crooks" from various parts of the world have lately invaded London for the purpose of preying on those very innocent people—visitors mostly—who fondly imagine they are going to get something for nothing.

These criminals have the same old "trick" of the same old tricks, the same old bundles of flash notes; but they are always finding new victims to fleece. The hoarded wealth and they manage to do their work so neatly and so efficiently that at times even the "rats" themselves do not know they have been swindled.

"The police," said a well-known Scotland Yard detective yesterday, "do their best to protect themselves from these rogues, but, of course, we cannot always succeed."

"One of the most astonishing things is that the older the swindle the more it seems to flourish. Take the purse trick, for instance. The sharper offers to sell three half crowns in a purse for one half crown.

"His many victims do not stop to reason out the matter themselves. They think they are going to get something for nothing, and, naturally, they are trapped. They find only three pennies in the purse.

"Then there is the three-card trick, which is practiced in trains and on race courses, as often as ever it was. Here again the deluded folk who are lured into 'finding the lads,' imagine they are smart enough to trick the bookster, and that they will go home with pockets bulging with gold.

"West End hotels are the headquarters of the confidence trick gentlemen. As a rule they are well-educated men, and, of course, nimble-witted. They dress stylishly, talk 'big,' and show a considerable display of wealth while they mark down their victims.

"One of them 'tells the tale.' He has inherited a fortune, and in order to show his deep appreciation of his new friend's many acts of kindness he intends to intrust him with $250,000 to invest for him.

"Confederates—all apparent strangers to each other—sing the lucky heir's praises, and eventually the new friend consents to hand over just as much money as he possesses in order to show that he, too, has confidence in the honesty of the smooth-tongued swindler. And the fool and his money are parted—forever.

"Quite recently the police broke up a clever gang of Australians—one of whom was actually a member of the Automobile Club—who swindled a man of hundreds of pounds by the old trick of backing a horse after the result of the race was known; but in spite of the publicity given to the case this

BOER SCULPTOR EXHIBITS WORKS

LONDON, July 9.—An interesting exhibition of bronze statuettes by Anthony Van Wouw was inaugurated yesterday afternoon at the Fine Arts Society's galleries by Sir Richard Solomon, who deputized to Dr. Engelburg, one of the South African delegates at the imperial press conference, the task of introducing the personality of the Boer sculptor.

Anthony Van Wouw's nationality is betrayed by his subjects rather than by his style, which is the result of sound training in the European art centers. He has chosen his models from among his own people and the indigent black races, whose varied types he renders with considerable realistic force. Nor is this realism confined to the faithful reproduction of racial characteristics; in several cases, as in the statuette of a "Kaffir Eating Mealie" and the pathetic group "Bad News," he endeavors, with marked success, to convey a suggestion of the arid, stony veldt. There is something of monumental dignity in his little seated figure of "Paul Kruger in Exile." Of peculiar interest are the two figures of Mexican scenery and architecture, vivid in color and well balanced in design, but a little fuzzy in execution.

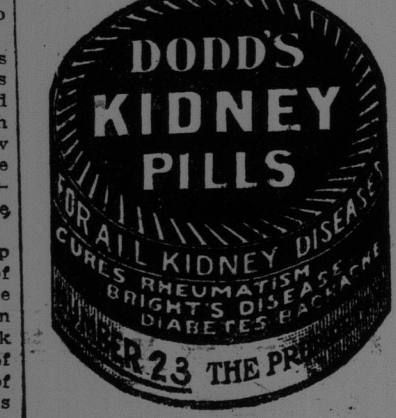

KEEPING IN PRACTICE

"You have broken my heart," sobbed the young wife after their first quarrel.

"I always was a heart breaker," he jauntily replied to the young husband.

"But you have broken mine for the last time."

"What—going to deprive yourself of so much pleasure?"

DIVERS FIND WRECK OF BRITISH WARSHIP

Gun of Craft Lost 150 Years Ago Brought From Its Sea Bed.

LONDON, July 9.—After lying at the bottom of the sea undisturbed for a century and a half, one of the guns of H. M. S. Ramillies, which was wrecked near Bolt Tail on the south coast of Devon, has been recovered.

In March last, the French steam trawler L'Algie was wrecked in a gale close under Bolt Tail. Salvage operations are at present in progress upon her, and this week while engaged in salvaging the boiler of L'Algie, a diver of the salvage steamer Malvern discovered beneath the sunken trawler the remains of an older vessel. Investigation proved these remains to be undoubtedly those of the Ramillies whose loss with over 700 lives was one of the greatest disasters in time of peace in the annals of the British navy.

Carefully exploring the sea bottom in the vicinity the diver found scores of guns and hundreds of round shot partly embedded in sand and incrustated with rock and rust. It was decided to salvage one of the guns, and this was successfully accomplished. The gun which has been brought to the surface is of iron, 3 feet long, with a 4-inch bore.

One side of the weapon has been worn away with the action of pebbles and shingle washed over it by the tide to such an extent that at the muzzle the thickness of iron is very little, and for its whole length the metal has the appearance of being gradually filed away. Even the trunnions which originally took its weight on the gun-carriage have been worn to spikes.

In contrast to this the top part of the gun shows not the slightest sign of wear. Its perfect preservation is due to the fact that it was embedded in sand and shingles, which formed a complete protection. On this part of the gun is the touch-hole, and standing out in bold relief are the letters G. R., surrounded by a large crown. The touch-hole is quite clear, and the bands running round are well preserved.

The remains of the Ramillies lie amongst huge boulders in six fathoms of water, but a great deal of the metal which lies about in profusion, has become incrustated to the rocks.

The Ramillies, a 74-gun ship, while making for Plymouth during a severe gale on February 15, 1760, mistook Bolt Tail for Ram Head, a headland marking the entrance to Plymouth sound. Getting too close in shore she became embayed, and was obliged to anchor. Gradually she was driven ashore by the gale and, striking the rock, was pounded to pieces by the fury of the waves.

Of 734 souls on board only 26 men and a midshipman were saved. Tradition has it that one of the crew warned the captain that the ship was in Bishbury Bay, but was put in irons for what was regarded as an act of insubordination.

VANDERBILT TO HAVE BIG FLOATING PALACE

New Houseboat of American Millionaire Will be Wonder of Thames.

LONDON, July 9.—One of the specially interesting features at Henley regatta next month will be A. G. Vanderbilt's new houseboat, which is one of the largest and most tastefully appointed ever seen on the river. It is 98 feet long without the tender, and has been built by Salters, of Oxford. And the interior decoration and furnishings, the bath and electric light fittings, etc., have been entrusted to the well-known decorative artist, Waring and Gillow. The saloon is a delightful lounge paneled in mahogany in the Adam style. On each side there is a bay window with a window seat, and additional light is obtained by large windows at the forward end. The principle decoration is displayed at the piano end, where the paneling is supplemented with a refined carved frieze, a noble mirror and mercurial gilt electric light fittings of exquisite design.

The saloon is supplied with fitted mahogany cabinets, as well as with movable furniture, specially designed by Waring and Gillow to suit the style. There are four bedrooms, two double and two single, and the latter have berths fitted over the beds. Lavatory appliances for hot and cold water are a feature of each bedroom, and the boat also contains two fine porcelain baths. All the bedrooms are carried out in white enameled woodwork with chintz draperies, pink and white being the prevailing note.

The upper deck comprises a dining room with bamboo and wicker furniture and a smoking room. This is so constructed that it can be taken down to enable the houseboat to pass under the bridges. All the carpets have been specially designed and made, and for the promenade deck being forty feet long.

PASTEL SUCCEDES AT ANNUAL SHOW

Eleventh Exhibition of a London Society of Artists Now Open.

LONDON, July 9.—The eleventh annual exhibition of the Pastel Society, now open at the Royal Institute, Piccadilly, has but few of the large and sensational works with which it was filled in its earlier days. The only exceptions are three violent scarlet and black "posters" by Leonetto Cappiello, which might with advantage have been relegated to the staircase.

The entire absence of exhibits from some of the most brilliant members of the society is also much to be regretted, but enough is on view to make the show quite an enjoyable one.

Undoubtedly the most striking and at the same time the most beautiful pastel in the large room is the head of a lady playing a lute, by Melton Prior. It has all the transparent and luminous qualities of certain early sketches by J. Russell, R. A.

Mr. Sargeant's five splendid charcoal heads of well known ladies in society can scarcely be classed among pastels, nor can Miss Anna Atrey's life-like portrait of herself and a pendant drawing of a small boy on the verge of tears, "The Desire to Cry," while Mrs. Helen Bedford's delicate chalk drawings of children and their elders have only a faint indication of color.

Gwelo Goodman, the clever young South African painter, is highly successful with his limpid Venetian water. His work is slight, compared with M. le Gout Garard's groups of Britany boats and peasants seen in the twilight.

Mrs. E. Borough Johnson's delightful peasant children dancing, Mr. Bruckman's brilliant little "Gosse Girl" in a blue cap, Mr. Tuke's "Boys Bathing" and Bernard Partridge's charming sketch of Sir Percy Scott's little son should not be missed.

The set of seven impressions by the late H. Brabazon are disappointing and inadequate.

Lady Sassoon's four heads are a great advance on any previous pastel work by her. They show the influence of French teaching, but are free from exaggeration.

CHARLOTTE ST. CHURCH AT MEETING DECIDES TO HAVE FREE PEWS

At a congregational meeting in the Charlotte street United Baptist church last evening the following resolution, moved by J. S. Clark and J. B. Coen was passed unanimously:

Resolved, that the pews of the Charlotte street United Baptist church shall be free from August 1st, 1910 with the exceptions hereinafter mentioned. That the pews, the rent of which had been paid in advance, may be held by the present occupants for the period for which the rent has been prepaid or until May 1st, 1910.

Second, that the present occupants of pews may hold the same until May 1st, 1910, by notifying the pew committee of such intention. That after May 1st, 1910 no pews shall be rented.

The policy of the church in the past had been to have only rented pews, but strangers and new families found it difficult to obtain seats, which tended to their going elsewhere to divine services.

All the Protestant churches on the West Side except the Ludlow street Baptist and the Methodist churches now have free seatings.

MONCTON, N. B., July 9.—Jas. Reid, who recently completed the Bank of Montreal building in this city, and completed alterations to the Bank of Nova Scotia building, has been awarded the contract for the new building to be erected in connection with the Ladies' College at Sackville.

"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults.

OSTRICH FARM OPENED BY GERMAN EMPRESS

Novel Royal Ceremony at Hagenbeck's Famous Zoo at Hamburg

HAMBURG, July 10.—Yesterday morning, Carl Hagenbeck's famous "Tierpark" at Stellingen, near Hamburg, was visited by the Kaiserin, who formerly opened there an up-to-date ostrich farm, which covers seven acres of ground.

The opening ceremony consisted of the releasing from a handsome structure of a herd of about 100 magnificent birds into a spacious inclosure some three acres in extent and containing a pond. The manner in which some of the birds raised their wings and stamped about their new home was highly interesting to the Kaiserin.

The party was then conducted by Mr. Hagenbeck to the chick house. The eggs are hatched in special incubators, a process which occupies from forty to forty-two days. After the birds have broken through their shells they are transferred to a run artificially heated and roofed with glass. On sunny days the windows are thrown open and gradually the birds are acclimated to the cold winters of north Germany.

One chick made its appearance late on Saturday evening and two more were born a few hours before the royal visit. The empress was most interested in these baby chicks, taking them in her hands and fondling them. At the moment there are some 112 ostriches in the park—forty from German East Africa, fifty from Somaliland, nineteen from Libya, one from the Cape and two magnificent cock birds from the Blue Nile. In a few weeks these birds will be considerably augmented. Mr. Hagenbeck believes that ostrich farming can be made to pay well in climates as cold as that of Hamburg. For some years past he has kept ostriches out in the snow all through the winter.

WOULD MAKE LONDON A WINTER TOURIST RESORT

Hotel Managers Tire of Empty Rooms Filled During the Summer by Various Sporting Events That Attract Americans to British Metropolis—Ambassadorial Home Meets With Favor.

LONDON, July 9.—When Americans come to London this time of year and stop at hotels of the best class, they usually feel quite at home. Everything in the way of luxury and convenience that they are accustomed to is at their command, which is more than can be said for the second rate hotels.

Then they hear tales of how poorly the balance sheets of these hotels show up at the year's end, and this causes no little wonderment. Just now everything is jammed to the limit and places like the Carlton and the Piccadilly turn away more persons in one day than they could house in a week. Even the monstrous Hotel Cecil is full to overflowing.

It would seem that a good hotel in London must be a veritable mine, but it is not, you see, the season is so short from June to October, and the hotels by virtue of the demands of the Americans have to be so close packed that they are unable to get the business that the coast of the upsking during the dull months can up the profits.

Just as it is today will be four-fifths empty during November and December, and this means a movement among the hotel managers here to attract more winter business.

LONDON AS A WINTER RESORT.

London is to be boomed as a winter resort, and it is believed that a good trade will be created that way. It is not thought that London will stand very high as a wintering place, but the movement is likely to attract Americans if the south coast resorts are properly made a feature and London contented itself with being the distributing point for the traffic.

New arrivals at the hotel daily in thousands, a strong return movement having already set in from the Continent, and hundreds of American tourists are on their way to their homes, and the lobby is full with tales of European wanderings, both serious and amusing.

Mr. Edgar Selwyn of New York, who has arrived after a five days' tour in the Holy Land, Asia Minor and Turkey, has collected a mass of fine material for his book, "The East as it is." He says: "We were warmly received at not going to the late Sultan's office, Mr. John G. A. Lehman, told us that trouble was being had with the ship to shore or to another ship. The immediate reason for the formation of the committee was the terrible disaster which occurred to the liner Berlin, off the Hook of Holland, in February of that year, when nearly 100 lives were lost within 20 or 30 yards of the shore.

The primary object of the Ungo aerial torpedo was for use in war, and the military rights have been acquired by the famous German firm, Messrs. Krupp.

For life-saving purposes from ship to shore, ship to ship and shore to shore, the rights have been acquired by the Ungo, of the Normal Powder and Ammunition Company, of Hendon, Mr. Roos superintended the trials yesterday with Colonel Ungo.

In the course of a very few seconds the torpedo was fired upon the launch, and the launch was destroyed with undeviating exactitude at the objective.

One of the most valuable qualifications of the Ungo aerial torpedo is its portability. The torpedo, when fully charged, weighs some twenty-eight pounds.

It rotates within a collar by means of a turbine which is driven by the explosion taking place at the top, the gases escaping in a slanting direction through the turbine, and thus giving at the same time a powerful impetus to the torpedo and a strong rotary action which assures absolute accuracy.

It is to the collar mentioned that the line is attached by a screw.

DIGGING THE MIGHTY MOUND OF BABYLON

Archaeological Research Laying Bare Marvelous Culture.

Nebuchadnezzar Castle—Great Work That German Excavators are Doing on the Plain of Mesopotamia.

Across the dead flat of the Mesopotamian plain, studded with ancient water channels, sun-drenched and arid, heaves itself up a mighty mound. There, no need to ask its name; as certainly as if temple and fortress wall still crowned its summit you know it to be Babylon, the northern mound that yet bears the famous title Babil. The city wall stretches out southeastward from it, and turns back sharply toward the Euphrates, wall and river inclosing in a huge triangle the area of the town. The palaces, covering the site of the palaces and temples, lie near the river, and by the water's edge, buried in the little of the hours in which the German excavators have lived and worked for the past eleven years. Upon the traveler who enters its hospitable doors there falls a sense of thanksgiving for the best fruits of civilization, the ruins of the past, and the knowledge that he has never yet encountered on land.

This coming week every one goes to the mound of Babylon. The English club of men who are recovering for his the long-buried history of the past he will scarcely know the fragments that remain of the most incredible labor entailed by his researches and the marvelous way in which he has laid bare. "Only to the wise is wisdom given, and knowledge to them that have understanding."

NEBUCHADNEZZAR'S PALACE.

Within the latest mound, the kear of the mound, the remains of the palace of Nebuchadnezzar. Another eight or ten years' work will be done to complete the ground plan of the whole structure, but enough has been done to show the nature of the palace, which the King rested. It is built of large square tiles, stamped with his name and bound together with a mortar of mud and straw. The excavated consists of an immense irregular inclosure surrounded by a wall of brick, the thickness of which is about 17 metres; but usually the royal building was content with a wall of brick, and even so it is a bewildering complexity of small courts and passages, with more than a hundred rooms, and a great number of smaller chambers. The palace was built on a high platform, and the walls were covered with a mosaic of blue and white tiles. The palace was built on a high platform, and the walls were covered with a mosaic of blue and white tiles.

BARLIER BUILDINGS.

Nebuchadnezzar's father, Nabopolassar, had built himself a very comfortable dwelling which occupied the western side of the mound. This was the private residence of the king, and it was built of brick and had a garden. The palace was built on a high platform, and the walls were covered with a mosaic of blue and white tiles. A WEEK OF ORATORY AND PAGEANTRY

Marked Lake Champlain Celebration

Brought to a Close Yesterday—Tablet Erected on Giant Boulder by Patriotic Women.

ISLE LA MOTTE, Vt., July 9.—The Lake Champlain tercentenary celebration, arranged jointly between the States of New York and Vermont, after a week of oratory and pageantry, beginning at Old Crown Point, N. Y., closed today with ceremonies on historic Isle la Motte, where years ago, in the shelter of Fort Ann, the earliest Christian service in the history of Vermont was held.

Thousands gathered today to listen to addresses by Governor Prouty, of Vermont, Governor Hughes, of New York, Lieutenant de Valseuse Benoit d'Asy, naval attaché of France, the very Rev. P. Prevel, and Wendell P. Stafford, Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

State Senator Henry E. Hill, of Buffalo, secretary of the New York commission, joined Governor Prouty in welcoming the visitors to the island.

"The prayer and the benediction were by the Rev. John M. Thomas, president of Middlebury College, Vermont. Earlier in the day solemn high mass was sung in the chapel of the shrine by Bishop M. M. Burke, of the Roman Catholic diocese of Albany, N. Y.

One of the impressive ceremonies of the day was the unveiling of a tablet erected on a giant boulder along the roadside not far from the shrine on a knoll overlooking the lake. It is a gift to the state by the women of the patriotic societies of Vermont.

Mrs. Clayton N. North of Shoreham, state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, presented the monument to the state, which was accepted by Governor Prouty. The dedicatory address was by President Thomas, of Middlebury College.

Mrs. Eliza Sarah Warner Parker, of St. Albans, great grand-daughter of Nathan Allen, was present. She placed a wreath on the boulder.

FAIRIES ON WHEELS IN QUANT PARADE

LONDON, July 10.—The Woodford Meet and Cyclists' Fancy Dress Parade is an institution which for many years has combined gaiety and philanthropy. How much entertainment it has afforded to the public cannot be estimated, but its contributions to the hospitals of the county have already amounted to $17,000, and last Saturday's program will surely add a very substantial sum to that total.

By the kindness of John Bethell, M. P., vice president of the charity, the riders taking part in the procession were able to form up in the grounds of Park House, Wansford. Twenty cycling clubs were represented by tableaux in which the members took part. There was a large contingent of motor cars and motor cycles, headed by the Walthamstow Motor Club, and bringing up the rear of the procession were some scores of unattached cyclists in weird and wonderful costumes.

Great ingenuity and taste were displayed in the decoration of the cars and cycles, and in the choice of the tableaux. One club—the Manor Park—were attired as "Proliferous Stone-heads," a rather chilly costume considering the weather, but very effective from the point of view of the spectators. Another—the Galah United—presented fairies and princesses—a very pretty contrast.

Both fairies and ancient Britons must have regretted that they had not chosen some other costume when the rain descended, as it did shortly after the procession got under way. Fortunately, it did not last very long, and as by this time the audience were all in their places, it did not spoil the success of the parade. Enormous crowds of people lined the routes across Wansford Flats to Chingford, and again after dark when there was a lantern ride from Woodford to Snaresbrook.

STRAWBERRY MARKET

JUMPING THIS WEEK

Prices Range All the Way From 16 to 31-2 Cents per Box—Big Shipment Expected Next Wednesday.

The local strawberry market has been cutting up this year in accordance with the usual habits of that uncertain commodity.

Last Saturday the berries were selling at 18 cents a box and as late as Tuesday the price held to 16 cents. Then came the deluge. On Wednesday every boat arriving at Indiantown carried immense quantities of the ripe red fruit. This was the first big consignment and it was so big that it flooded the market. At Indiantown the wholesale price ran about 5, 5 1/2, and 6 cents per box, and late in the day sales were recorded as low as 3 1/2 cents per box. In the city the berries were sold at from 8 to 9 cents.

On Thursday the prices continued fairly low, the fruit selling at 8 to 10 cents in the city and at 7 and 8 cents in the North End.

With the news of the low prices orders began to pour in on the grocers, and as another shipment as large as that of Wednesday was expected yesterday the dealers readily booked large orders at low prices. The berries arrived as usual, but for some reason which no one seemed to know, they brought among them, scarcely half a dozen packages of berries.

This resulted in a sudden increase in the wholesale price and many of the orders were left unfulfilled. The price will hold firm today, but those that are left over will be sold low tonight and on Monday. The berries will be no shipments to speak of on Monday and Tuesday, but on Wednesday another big shipment should arrive.

As this will be about the height of the season the prices will likely be about as low as they will go, and housewives who are planning preserving operations will want to get their orders in early.

An enormous work is being carried out at the Marsh Bridge. The construction of the aboudeau has caused great activity and daily there are a great number of visitors to witness the work. During the past few weeks splendid progress has been made. Clark & Adams, the contractors, are thoroughly satisfied with the way in which the work is proceeding.

The preparatory plans at the bridge are practically completed. Today the contractors will start in earnest at placing the concrete wall. There are a number of difficulties encountered on this job, but the workmen are surmounting them.

The flow of water from the creek is gradually being stopped. However, as a great depth there is as yet some water. Two pile drivers and a steam concrete mixer are constantly employed. The contractors are building a coffer dam and filling it with mud. It is necessary to make the dam of sufficient height to stand the high tides.

On the upper side of the bridge the piling has already been driven and excavations have been made permitting the work to proceed. There will be a great improvement as a result of the contract. The old fashioned Marsh Bridge aboudeau will be replaced by a thoroughly up-to-date one. A number of new sewers will have to be installed as the result of the changes made.

The workmen will reach a depth of twenty-eight feet. The dimensions of the wall in feet will be 20x28x28. The piling will be strongly placed on both sides.

J. A. Adams, of Clark & Adams, informed a Star reporter that as the work of placing the wall and general improvement proceed, employment would be found for more workmen. Everything is in readiness to start to erect the wall today.

HIS EXPERIENCE GETTING INFORMATION

Judge McDonald is Convinced That Reports He Has Heard of St. John are Not Without Foundation.

His Honor Judge McDonald, of Charlottetown, came to the city last evening accompanying some friends who were en route to the United States, and returned home this afternoon. In conversation with the Star Judge McDonald said that at home he had frequently heard of the discourtesy with which strangers in St. John are sometimes treated by officers at the depot, and this morning he thought he would find out for himself whether such reports were well founded. He has no longer any doubt. Judge McDonald's experience, as he relates it, was enough to give an ordinary man a fit of the blues for a week. He was insulted when he asked information about his train, and after repeated efforts to secure the desired knowledge was told he could find what he wanted in the time-table.

In the Charlottetown Club there will now be one more affirmative voice when the vote is taken on the brassiness of St. John officials, but before going home Judge McDonald will report to the J. C. R. Board of Management what he found here.

WAR IN OUR MIDST THIS AFTERNOON

Civilian Soldiers of 62nd Regiment Will be Given Taste of Service Conditions in Annual Field Day Manoeuvres.

Considerable interest is being displayed in the 62nd Regiment's "field day" which will be held this afternoon. Ideal weather greets the soldiers and a lively few hours is anticipated.

Various tactics will take place on the barracks and at Fort Howe, of primary importance are the final manoeuvres.

The force will be divided, one part forming the attacking body and the other the defence. The manoeuvres will last in all about five hours.

Assembling at the Barracks Square plans will be made and orders given out. The regiment will form about 2 o'clock and headed by the 52nd band and drummers will start to Fort Howe. At points along the march, manoeuvres will be carried out. Lt. Colonel Edwards will command the march, with Major Perley second in command.

The "field day" commands but once in a year, and keen rivalry is being manifested by the different companies.

There has been some talk of the soldiers proceeding to Fairville to continue the manoeuvres, but this course quite unprobable.

Wm. Howe is reported by Sergeant Boss for being one of a disorderly crew on the corner of Watson and Rodney streets.

Seven common drunks were before the magistrate in the police court this morning and they were dealt with in the usual manner.
