BOSTON, March 18. The steady, well talanced heart of New England must have beaten a little faster on Saturday morning when the Washing ton despatches bore the news of Senator Sumner's defection from the Republican Party, and his official declaration of war on the Administration. Perhaps I should be nearer the truth to call it the Republican Party's retrogression from its pristine purity, for if the distinguished Massachusetts statesman differs in aught from party opinions, it is his advanced ideas and unswerving devotion to principle. Mr. Sumner is a radical among Republicans,
