DISTRICT AND GENERAL

The London Methodist Conference will be held in Windsor next year. Windsor's population increased by 5,055 during 1923. The total population is now 47,177.

The banks are calling in all the old Canadian five-cent pieces and coppers and will issue the new coins as speedily as possible.
 A St. Thomas citizen was fined $10 and costs for transferring a marker from a car for which it had been issued to another car.

The merchants of Leamington, with the exception of the grocers, have decided to close their places of business on Friday afternoons throughout the year.

It is estimated that the various inventions put forth by Thomas A. Edison are now furnishing employment to nearly 1,000,000 men and women in America alone.

Friday, November 9, was the tenth anniversary of the terrible storm on the Great Lakes, when many sailors lost their lives and a large number of vessels were destroyed.

The ten accused directors and officials of the Home Bank were denied their request for a speedy trial before a county judge, without a jury, and their trial will traverse to the January assizes.

From an acre of land a farmer in the Leamington district sold 1,425 baskets of silver skin pickling onions at $1.25 per basket, and 13 bags at $4 per bag. What it cost to produce the crop is not stated.

The failure to eat breakfast in the morning, coupled with late hours at night, is responsible for a large number of children failing in their school examinations, is the opinion of Chief Inspector Greer, London.

The Manitoba Government has decided to abolish the agricultural representative system. Extension work in agriculture in the future will be carried on by the staff of the agricultural college, and the activities of boys' and girls' clubs will be directed through the department of education.

Jack Brigham, Metcalfe, wanted in connection with the theft of milk cans which were found on the property of Ames Bros. near Strathroy when the premises were raided by License Inspector Bolton a short time ago, has been arrested at Sarnia. The cans are alleged to have been stolen from a Brooke township farmer.

A few nights ago, before retiring to bed, Herbert Wright, of Campbellton, heard a strange noise upstairs in his house. Going up to investigate, he found the floor on fire, having evidently caught from an overheated stovepipe. By using a fire extinguisher he got the flames under control before any great damage was done.

Wardsville Schools Observe Armistice Day

Wardsville, Nov. 14.—A memorial service was held at the high school Friday morning for Armistice Day. At 10.40 the students of the public and high schools, with their teachers and several of the townspeople, gathered at the flag staff. The flag was raised by the two champions of the high school, Malcolm Elliott and Roy Whitfield, after which the students sang "O Canada." Louisa Simpson recited "The Meteor Flag of England." Principal Ashdown then gave a few words reminiscent of the first occasion in France. The two minutes of silence were then observed, during which time the bell was tolled by the three champion girls, Janet Elliott, Bessie Saylor and Frances Murphy. Prayers were given, led by Rev. R. J. Murphy, and the Lord's Prayer repeated. "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" was then sung. Rev. S. J. Bridgette led in prayer. Three hearty cheers were given for the flag, the school and the teachers.

CHEERIO NOTES

The Thanksgiving meeting of the Cheerio Club was held at the home of Jessie Currie on Friday, Nov. 9, with an attendance of over thirty. The meeting opened with the club song, followed by the secretary's report of the last meeting by Susie Gardiner. The roll call was well answered by what each was most thankful for, after which Walter Walker sang, and the "Live Wire" was read by Wm. Reycraft. Games were then played, at the close of which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

GLENCOE'S SEMICENTENNIAL

Fifty years ago in December next the Middlesex county council passed a by-law incorporating the village of Glencoe. The first council was elected in January following. It is suggested that some steps be taken by the citizens to celebrate this semi-centennial some time during the coming year. The first council consisted of John W. Campbell, reeve; George Dobie, Finlay Steinhoff, John Boan and Samuel Frederick, councillors. Andrew Clamahan was returning officer for the charter election. The council did not organize until January 22, 1875, when Mr. Clamahan was appointed assessor at a salary of $10, and James M. Dykes clerk at a salary of $25. Other officers appointed at that time were George M. Harrison and John Doyle, auditors; John McNeil, treasurer; Wellington Stephens, tax collector; John Oldrieve, tavern inspector; J. Orange, poundkeeper; J. Walker, Tom Harris and Tom Hind, fenceviewers. Only two of the men above named are now living—George Dobie, in Detroit, and John Oldrieve, in Glencoe.

TOTAL ECLIPSE IN JANUARY

Parties of scientists from all over the world will begin to gather in Western Ontario early in January, 1924, to witness the total eclipse of the sun, which will reach its greatest depth of intensity in this district on January 25. The sun will begin to be obscured by the moon about 8 o'clock in the morning. If the day is clear all Western Ontario will have a unique opportunity of observing one of the most spectacular of recurrent celestial marvels.

BENEFITS OF SHORT COURSE

R. A. Finn, agricultural representative, in enclosing a report of the stock judging competition held on November 6th, remarks that the boys from Appln did particularly well. The boys who attend a short course in agriculture and take an interest in the work do well in the stock judging competitions. This winter, Mr. Finn says, we are holding a three months' short course in agriculture and home economics at Belmont. Next year it will be moved to some other place, and Glencoe is one of the points we are considering, if sufficient interest is aroused.

THE LATE JOSEPH SIDDALL

There passed away on November 10th another pioneer of this district in the person of Joseph Siddall. He was his 81st year and was born in Mossa on the farm where he resided until his health failed a few years ago, when he moved to Ekfrid gore, from which place the funeral was held on Thanksgiving Day. It was very largely attended by relatives and friends. Interment was made in Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Siddall was a man of sterling character whose word was as good as a note, and although for the last few years his speech was badly affected by many strokes, he always heartily welcomed those who came to see him, and he will be much missed by a large circle of friends.

In his better days he told many tales of the past when this country was all woods, his father being one of the first settlers on the farm in Mossa where he was born, he himself having cleared the land and taken a keen interest in improving it as the years went by.

Savil Simpson gave a beautiful rendition of "That Beautiful Land" after the funeral service, conducted by Rev. Mr. Willans, of the Anglican church, where the deceased attended as long as he was able. The floral offerings were beautiful. The bearers were Tom Patterson, J. B. Jones, Chas. Annett, Robert Dobson, Tom Smith and Geo. Precious.

Annual Social Evening

The annual social gathering of the Glencoe Presbyterian congregation was held last Thursday evening, when the ladies served a chicken supper in the Sunday School room. Afterwards a program was given in the auditorium of the church, with addresses by Revs. Willans and Whitehall, vocal solos by Miss King and Mrs. Hill, a piano solo by Miriam Oxley, violin and cello duo by Hazel McAlpine and Eleanor Sutherland, vocal selections by quartette consisting of Olive Watts, Elma King, Betty Grant and Mrs. Sutherland, selections by Mayme Grant. Rev. D. G. Paton, pastor of the church, presided. The attendance was good, considering the unfavorable weather conditions, and a number were present from the other churches in town.

TOWN IMPROVEMENTS

Not for many years in Glencoe has there been so much building improvement as this year. Besides new houses and additions or alterations to many old ones, there has been a generous use of paint artistically applied. Surroundings and vacant grounds have been tidied up and greatly improved in appearances, especially adjacent to the railway tracks on Main street. The horticultural society has also been active during the summer and the good work of its members was reflected in the many beautiful flower beds prominent in the early fall. Particularly noteworthy were the floral decorations at the post office building. That these improvements are not overlooked but rather greatly appreciated by the public at large is evidenced in letters from outsiders who have visited Glencoe recently in which not a few words are written in praise and commendation. It pays a town when its citizens take pride in being neat and tidy with their home and business premises. It not only indicates that the town is thrifty, but shows a good class of citizenship, and makes people want to come and live among us. May the good work continue!

HE FAILED TO GIVE NOTICE

A case of considerable interest was decided in the Division Court at Orillia last week when Dr. Boyd was awarded $129 for damages to his car. A farmer named Teskey drove out of his yard with a team and wagon, in front of the doctor's car, and proceeded along the road for a short distance and then turned into an opening on the same side from which he emerged. Dr. Boyd, who was following up, ran into the wagon and his car was injured. He claims that in turning in the farmer did not give the necessary signal of his intention. Had he done so the doctor could have avoided the collision. The decision is important inasmuch as many drivers of horse vehicles seem to think it unnecessary to observe the rules of road traffic as applied to automobiles.

MOSA COUNCIL

A meeting of the Mosa council was held at Newbury on October 20th. Members all present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Moved by J. A. Leitch, seconded by James Gilbert, that F. J. James and R. W. McKeel be paid $4 each and C. C. McNaughton $6 for selecting jurors and making returns to clerk of the peace; Percy Lumley, $2.65, for formaldehyde for fumigating D. P. McCallum's house; Municipal World, $6.20, for collection roll and blank forms. Carried.

Moved by J. A. Leitch, seconded by Arch. McCready, that J. D. McNaughton be paid $6 for sheep killed by dogs and that Joseph Babcock be paid $2 for valuating sheep killed by dogs. Carried.

The council adjourned to meet at Glencoe on November 17 at 10 o'clock a. m.

A TOUCH OF WINTER

Glencoe and country surrounding experienced quite a touch of winter for a few days last week. At dusk on Wednesday evening a heavy snowstorm set in and continued intermittently all night and the greater part of the following day. Although the snow melted more or less as it fell, a depth of about six inches covered the ground on Thursday, necessitating the use of the village snow plow for the first time this season. Under warm, sunshiny conditions and a stiff sou'westerly wind on Friday and Saturday the snow disappeared, and Sunday and Monday were Indian summer days, with the roads well dried up. The snowstorm did not extend as far east as London and westward only a short distance beyond Chatham. Old-timers are now predicting mild weather until Christmas, but it might be well to be prepared to keep the home fires burning.

WARDSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

On Friday, November 9, a splendid meeting of the Progress Club was held. The president, Allan McLean, presided. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Rhea McRae and adopted. After the business of the club was discussed the following program was given: Piano solo by Roberta Bridgette, papers by Miss Anthiasle and Roy Whitfield, solo by Jim Kearns, duet by Helen and Albert Brooks, short speeches by Myrtle Downie, Janet Elliott, Alberta Armstrong, Winnifred Parnall, Jimmie Bunda, Janet Stalker, Florence Wilkins and Florence Parnall. The ballad "The Ballad" was read by Francis Murphy. The school joined in singing a number of songs.

The snowstorm brought no joy to the hearts of the boys of the W.H.S., as they were unable to journey to Thamesville to play the return football match.

COLIN LEITCH IMPROVING

London, Nov. 13.—The condition of Colin Leitch, of Thorndale, who has been in Victoria Hospital for the past week suffering from a fractured skull and shoulder as a result of being hit by a car driven by Robert McKay, of Embro, on the Governor's road one week ago Sunday, was reported this morning by his physician, Dr. J. McWilliam, to be greatly improved. It is expected he will be able to leave the hospital the first of next week.

REVOLUTION IN BAVARIA PLACES LUDENDORFF IN CHIEF COMMAND

A despatch from Munich says:—The Bavarian Government has been declared overthrown by Adolf Hitler, the Fascist leader, and the administration placed in the hands of General Ludendorff, as Commander-in-Chief.

Dr. von Kahr, the Military Dictator in Bavaria, had just finished addressing a patriotic manifestation in the Burgerbrau on Thursday, when Hitler entered at the head of 600 men. Hitler announced that the Government had been overthrown and was replaced by a new Government, with Gen. Ludendorff as supreme head and Hitler as political adviser.

Ludendorff, who was present, spoke after Hitler, and placed himself "at the disposal of the national German Government, and avowed his willingness to lead the national German army. Ludendorff was greeted with wild cheers.

Armed Hitlerites occupy the principal Munich squares, the State police occupy the Munich main telegraph office.

Incidentally, Hitler proclaimed a march on Berlin and a crusade for the establishment of a national Reich Government.

Former Chief of Police von Pohner has been named as Administrator of the country, and General von Lossow Minister of War.

After Hitler's declaration his troops drew a cordon around the Burgerbrau. About 10 o'clock Thursday night troops of Oberland and Empire flag organizations concentrated on the Burgerbrau and occupied different quarters of the city, chiefly the squares.

Conferences are being held within the Burgerbrau, and it is reported that Dr. von Kahr is attempting to negotiate a settlement with Hitler.

The attitude of the police and the Reichswehr has not yet been disclosed. Those who gathered in the Burgerbrau, which is a famous Bavarian beer cellar, were members of Nationalist patriotic organizations, to whom Dr. von Kahr read a manifesto to the German nation denouncing the principles of Marxism. The reading of the manifesto was greeted with applause, and Hitler's sudden entry with strong forces was something in the nature of a dramatic surprise.

NET RESULTS OF IMPERIAL PARLEY

Dominions' Right to Make Treaties Chief Constitutional Gain.

A despatch from London says:—Another Imperial Conference has passed into history. The Economic Conference meets again on Friday for the consideration of wireless communications, but its proceedings will probably be brief. For all practical purposes both conferences have concluded their labors. It has been six weeks of constant consultations, committees, conferences and speeches.

What has been the result? Not until Sunday will the official text of the resolutions be issued, but it may be forecast that they will not indicate any organic change in constitutional relations; in fact no constitutional proposals of a sweeping nature appear to have been brought forward at all.

In matters of foreign policy there is no change in the existing machinery. As seen from the Canadian point of view the results of the Conference are summed up by a member of the Canadian delegation as follows:

1. A much clearer understanding of the Canadian position as to Imperial relations.
2. Recognition of equality and independent initiative in matters peculiar to one part of the Empire coupled with willingness to co-operate in matters of common concern.
3. The clearing up of the present position of the Dominions in respect to making treaties with the unanimous understanding reached along the lines adopted by the Canadian Government from the treaty of Versailles to the Halibut Treaty.
4. Recognition by the Admiralty for the first time of the principles of Dominion navies.
5. Emphasis on the responsibility of each part of the Empire for its own defence.

Winston Churchill, who, it is announced, will seek election in the constituency left vacant by the death of Andrew Bonar Law. He is anxious to get back to the House of Commons.

6. Recognition that it is for the Parliament and people of each part of the Empire to decide on the measure of its own defence preparations. These concern the main conference. In the Economic Conference the chief gains to Canada lie in increased preference, in the probability that as a result of the Conference discussions Canadian ships trading to Great Britain will be freed from British taxation on profits made here, and further in the probable concessions by the British Government in the administration of regulations under which Canadian cattle are admitted.

The great source of pleasure is variety. The Chinese consider red a lucky color.

MOTHER COUNTRY TO DOMINION PRODUCTS PREFERENCE TO VARIOUS GIVE TARIFF PRE-

A despatch from London says:—The British Government is prepared to widen the scope of its offer of Imperial tariff preference. At the Economic Conference Sir Philip Lloyd-Greaves, president of the Board of Trade, intimated that in addition to the list already submitted, the British Government was prepared to give tariff preference on fresh apples, canned salmon, fruit juices and honey. In each case the British Government proposes to impose a new duty when these products are imported from foreign countries and admit them free when imported from countries within the Empire.

The proposals are:—
Fresh Apples—Dutiable at five shillings per hundredweight when imported from foreign countries. Empire apples free.
Canned salmon—Foreign imports to be dutiable at ten shillings per hundredweight. Empire imports free.
Fruit Juices—Foreign imports to be dutiable at six pence per gallon. Empire imports free.

Honey—Foreign imports to be dutiable at ten shillings per hundredweight. Empire imports free.
The offer also touches unmanufactured tobacco. The original British proposals on unmanufactured tobacco offered as alternatives either the stabilization of the existing preference or an increase in preference from one-sixth to one-fourth. The various dominions affected, however, prefer the increased instead of the stabilized preference and the British Government intimated its intention to bring down legislation increasing the preferential duty accordingly. Legislation is to be introduced also to give effect to the remainder of the British offer.
The preference to be given canned salmon and apples is particularly welcome by the Canadian delegates. They feel it will be a great stimulus to apple growers throughout the Dominion as well as encouragement to the salmon canneries on the Pacific Coast, whose products are to enter the British market free, while the foreign competitor is taxed.

Natural Resources Bulletin.

The Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, says:—
The interest of one province in the natural resources of another is very clearly illustrated in the dependence of the telephone service throughout Canada upon the forests of British Columbia.

A recent report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics gives the number of pole miles of the telephone service alone in Canada as 184,147. Of this total but 2,102 miles is in British Columbia, Ontario having 47,176 miles, Quebec 13,458, and the Prairie Provinces 108,733 miles. The telephone poles for this huge mileage are practically all taken from the forests of the Pacific province, each pole representing one cedar tree. As approximately 40 poles are required per pole mile, the 184,147 miles would require 7,365,880 cedar trees to provide telephone service. It will readily be seen, therefore, that when a forest fire attacks a British Columbia forest Ontario is directly interested in the timber that is being burned.

Oil Geyser, Two Miles at Sea, Makes Small Island

A despatch from Baku, Azerbaijan, says:—Caused probably by shifting strata in the Caspian Sea, an unusual phenomenon in oil wells was noticed recently near here.
A geyser suddenly began erupting from the sea, two miles off the coast, and during two hours of activity spurted at a height of seventy feet, throwing off stones as well as oil. The eruption was accompanied by flames. On the spot a small island formed after the "gusher" died down.

Fog Often Costs London $5,000,000 in Damages

A despatch from London says:—As the season of fog approaches people here are recalling what these visitors do to them and their city.
They keep sunlight away from the city dwellers, deposit enormous quantities of soot broadcast over everything, and a single bad London fog costs the capital $5,000,000 in extra laundering and injury to fabrics.

Premier Bruce of Australia Will Visit Canada

A despatch from London says:—The Times Melbourne correspondent says Premier Bruce has telegraphed that he is leaving England at the middle of December. He will stay eight weeks in Canada and the United States and reach Australia in February.

Will Inform Dominions on Aviation Progress

A despatch from London says:—Empire air communication was discussed at the Economic Conference and it was decided that the British Government should undertake to inform the Dominions and India of present and prospective air performances, both of gas and heavier-than-air craft. The home Government is to keep the Dominions supplied with up-to-date information on all aviation subjects, as well as all the details of the progress of the Burney airship scheme, which provides for an Empire service from London.

Survivors of Earthquake and Fire Seeking Life Mates

A despatch from Tokio says:—Matrimonial agencies which survived the earthquake and fire are being flooded with applications for husbands and wives. Among the female applicants are hundreds of widows anxious to find life companions who will care for them and their children. Hundreds of girls, hardly 15 years old, who lost all their relatives in the disaster, have applied. Most of the male applicants are mechanics who make good wages.

Dominion News in Brief

Nelson, B.C.—Nelson is having a government fish hatching station located right in the business section of the city. G. W. Harrison, of Vancouver, Dominion Inspector of Fisheries for British Columbia, announced that accommodation has been secured and steps will be taken immediately to establish a fisheries subsidiary station here which will be the centre for the whole district.

Calgary, Alta.—With threshing occupying practically all the time of the farmers and very little machinery being sold in this province at the present time, the machine companies have had an opportunity to check up on their sales of binder twine for this year, which have exceeded the sales of any previous year in this province. During the present season between 30,000,000 and 35,000,000 pounds have been sold in Alberta. This estimate exceeds the amount used in any former year by 8,000,000 or 4,000,000 pounds.

Regina, Sask.—The incorporation of the Regina Vinegar Co., Ltd., with headquarters in Regina and capitalized at $20,000, is announced in the current issue of the Saskatchewan Gazette.

Brandon, Man.—Several farmers in this district are experimenting with fall wheat this season, and the ideal fall weather has permitted the grain to get a splendid start. It is up several inches and in many cases has made better progress than rye. Many farmers are watching the experiment with interest, and if they are successful, others will likely adopt this method of growing wheat.

Fort William, Ont.—Ernest H. Godfrey, in charge of the agricultural statistics of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, after completing a tour of the western provinces, said that he was of the opinion that the estimates given out of a yield of about 425,000,000 bushels of wheat for 1923 was not an over estimate.

Quebec, Que.—The president of the Board of Trade, recounting the advantages of Quebec for handling grain in large volume before the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission, stated that all that could be offered would be expeditiously handled. Figures presented showed that a total of 23,000,000 bushels passed through the port in 1922. With the 2,000,000 bushel storage capacity of the port it was claimed that 30,000,000 could be easily handled at the port in the season for ocean vessels which is roughly eight and one-half months.

The Rule of Self.

Contentment does not come till a man has brought his own being into subjection to certain laws which through the ages have been slowly formulated and vindicated by the general experience of mankind. Among those to whom the only "red-blooded" way is the way of red radicalism, the thought of any sort of contentment—individual, social, industrial—is abhorrent, and any concept of law, as regulating life, is detestable. They try to pretend that all deencies and dignities are merely ridiculous, all conventions narrow and mean. They look with simulated pity on the "conservatives" who do not follow them beyond all bounds into the wild life which knows no guidance but unshaken desire.

The rule of self, meaning control over self, costs struggle. The rule of self, meaning doing as one pleases, without any care for pain to others, or harm to those who are trying to live, is the easy way to take. Nature plays no favorites, she inflexibly affixes and collects her penalties, and the fool pays. "The sin ye do by two and two ye must pay for one by one."

The moralist is least welcome when he preaches control to the uncontrolled. It is held that the time through which we pass is peculiarly depraved and given to strange gods. So men who thought at all have thought in every period our earth has survived. As soon as an earth began to be populated some of the people were gripped and shocked at the behavior of the rest and started to reform them. It is easy to condemn the reformer and, because certain reformers have failed and fallen, to set them all down as miserable hypocrites. If anything is sadder than the fall of a minister of God, it is those who rejoice over it.

But there is a control, whether the advocates of untrammelled personal liberty care for it or not. What an unbearable earth it would be if a thousand restraints did not interpose to safeguard the individual! The frat kingdom and the last must be that sober rest, whereunder a man sets watch and ward on his own nature, as one who says, "For their sakes I sanctify myself."

Planting Trees by Machinery.

Machines have been devised to do many things, but one of the most remarkable is one used by the United States Forest Service, which sets out seedling trees ten times as fast as the old hand planting method. Its capacity is from 12,000 to 15,000 trees a day, while a man might set out 1,200 to 1,500 if he were active. It is an adaptation of a machine made to set out tomato and cabbage plants, and it takes three men and two horses to operate it at capacity.

In appearance the tree planter is something like a mowing machine and just about the same size. It has a "hopper" arrangement in front and back of the feeder are two metal wheels, which push the dirt around the recently placed tree seedlings and packs it down. It is run at a speed of the team's walk, and the two men needed beside the driver are kept busy placing the seedlings in the planting hopper.

Extra features of the tree planter include a marker that indicates where the next row is to go, and two hop-pers containing water and fertilizer that function by a cam system, dropping the nutrient for the young trees around their roots just before the metal wheels fill in and tamp the furrow.

According to the published statistics of the Bureau of Statistics covering the year 1923, the birth rate in the eight provinces of Canada, excluding Quebec, was 26.3. The birth rate of the Province of Quebec in the year previous was 34.7. Among the eight provinces, Manitoba led with 30.3 per thousand of population.

Enormous growth in British Columbia's lumber industry during this year is shown by lumber scale figures made public by Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands. Lumber scaled in British Columbia from January 1 to the end of August totalled 1,489,892,000 feet, an increase of almost 50 per cent. over the figures for the corresponding period last year, when 1,029,893,000 feet were scaled.

STORIES OF WELL-KNOWN PEOPLE

The Amazing Song-Writer.

World-conquering songs composed in ten minutes or so!

That is one of the records of Mr. Ernest R. Ball, who is now in London from New York.

The following are only a few of his successes which have exceeded a million in output: "Let the Rest of the World Go By," "Love Me and the World is Mine," "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," "A Little Bit of Heaven," and "In the Garden of My Heart."

"I compose my songs as the mood takes me, doing most of my writing in the quiet after midnight," Mr. Ball told me. "I did 'Who Knows' and 'The Garden of My Heart' in the same evening. 'Ten Thousand Years from Now' is one of the compositions I did in ten minutes. 'Mother Machree' took me twenty minutes.

"Thousands of men who married after hearing 'Love Me and the World is Mine' are blaming me," was one of Mr. Ball's whimsical comments.

King George, Yachtsman.

King George, though the first gentleman in the land, is also one of the most modest, and he does not assume that he knows everything simply because he wears a crown. "The King never talks at Ascot," said an intimate friend the other day. "He simply listens to the experts with quiet deference. But he happens to be the greatest amateur expert yachtsman, and at Cowes talks with any of the professionals most learned."

One of his most recent yachting observations ran thus: "I have known a lot of men who have been able to buy yachts, but I have known very few who have been able to sail them."

That is perfectly true. Perhaps he was thinking of a certain amateur who, after purchasing a yacht, went off to have some necessary lessons. "Well, can you sail a yacht yet?" asked his friend, after the first lesson. "Good gracious, no!" replied the other. "I'm learning to swim!"

The Safer Course.

The Hon. Lionel Tennyson, the cricketer and all-round sportsman, has a middle name. It is Hallam, and his father bore it before him. And thereby hangs a tale.

Before Hallam senior was christened, Alfred Lord Tennyson offered the role of godfather to his friend Hallam, and Hallam accepted the honor.

"What are you going to call the boy?" asked the godfather. "We are thinking of calling him Hallam," replied Tennyson. "Hallam was flattered, but he inquired modestly: 'Why not Alfred?'"

"Yes," said the poet, "but suppose he should turn out a fool?"

Shoemaker's Last.

The word "last" as used in the shoemaker's trade has nothing to do with "last" in the sense of latest, but is derived from an old Saxon root, a "last" meaning a footprint, or shape of a foot. Though the word dropped out of general speech centuries ago, it has, by some freak of language, been retained as a technical word meaning the foot shape on which the shoemaker builds up his boot.

It Always Works.

She (indignantly): And when I waved to you you paid no attention to me whatever!

He: But—how could you expect me to see such a tiny hand at that distance?

Grower's Luck.

A certain window garden was a mass of sweet peas in bloom. The mistress of the house was snipping off a few dead leaves. An aged colored man, observing the operation, evidently perceived that she "knew how," but perhaps he wondered how so much loveliness could come from simple flowers like sweet peas. "My land!" he exclaimed as he turned away. "If some pussions was to plant a jew's-harp it'd come up a planter!"

This Old Emire.

This old Emire of our—in spite of her faults and in spite of her sins—loves justice, and loves mercy, and loves truth—when she truly sees the truth—and upon her rests a large part of the responsibility of leading the way up the steps of progress.—Sir Michael Sadler.

Surnames and Their Origin

MacQUEEN
VARIATIONS—MacQueen, MacSwen, MacSweyn, MacCunn.
RACIAL ORIGIN—Norwegian-Scottish.
SOURCE—A given name.
The family name of MacQueen might easily be mistaken for one of those combinations of an English word with the Gaelic "mac" (equivalent to the English termination "son"), which are met with quite frequently in both Scotland and Ireland. Undoubtedly the fact that there was a word in English spelled "queen" had some influence on the spelling of this family name, however, when it came to be translated into that language from the Gaelic, in which the correct spelling is "MacSubhne."

The "MacSubhne" constitute one of the Highland clans, although a small one, independent of but closely allied to the MacDonnells, and like so very many of the Highland clans, coming originally from Ireland.

But in the name of MacQueen is to be read the history of the days following the Irish invasion and settlement of the Highlands, when many of the Norse vikings, driven from home by civil wars, swooped down on the northern and western coasts of Scotland and settled there. Ultimately their rule was broken by an uprising of the Scots, but many of them remained, and through intermarriage left their stamp upon the nomenclature of the section.

"Subhne" is simply the Gaelic form for the very widespread Norse name of "Sweeney." Under the varying influences of the Gaelic tongue it has assumed the variations mentioned in the heading of this article, all of which are borne by one or other of the septa of the Clan MacQueen.

COOMBE
VARIATIONS—Coombes, Coombe, Combs, Comber, Camber, Coomber, Kempster.
RACIAL ORIGIN—English.
SOURCE—A locality, also an occupation.
The derivation of this group of family names is almost the exact parallel of that of the Hill group. It is more puzzling simply because it is the derived meaning of the original word which has survived in this case instead of the primary meaning. The word, in the only form in which we have it to-day, is "comb."

It will be remembered that the original meaning of the word "hill" was hill, and that there was a derived meaning, roof, which has disappeared. The original meaning of the word "comb" was a series of ridges and hollows of the upper hillsides. This meaning has disappeared and in our language to-day we have only the derived meaning which we apply to various articles of ridge formation, as in "honeycomb," "cock's comb," or as we more instinctively think of it, the ordinary hair comb.

The names Coombe, Coombs and Combs were originally preceded by "de la" (of the) or "atte" (at the) to denote that the person to whom the surname was applied lived in such a place. It was spelled "cumbs," "combe," "kembe" or "cume," however, "Combers" and "Coombers" were sometimes persons who dwelt in such places.

But more often they were those who followed the occupation of wool combing, for even in the early middle ages, about the time family names began to form, the derived meaning of the word had already grown up and was in common use, particularly among the wool trades, and the surnames are often found in the form of "le Comber," "le Kembester" and "le Camber."

Window Boxes for Fine Blooms.

Where we have a good light and want to plant for flowers especially, the window box is ideal. It is seldom that flowers will be as large and perfect in a pot as in a window box, for the soil is kept more moist and better aerated, so roots spread widely.

The box need not be more than six inches deep. The soil should be rich and mellow and not inclined to run together or get sour. It should contain a fair proportion of sand for most plants.

It is not best to grow too many sorts in one box, but a tall plant or two in the middle and a row of lower plants outside, with a border of trailers, will make a pretty box. Your varieties should be such that blooms will be produced all winter. Snapdragons of some pretty self color for the middle, petunias next, with a border of portulaca or verbenas, make a good box of annuals, while a Black Prince fuchsia in the middle, surrounded by cyclamen and bordered with Mad. Solerol geraniums and Kenilworth ivy, would make a very pretty box, and the contrasting colors of the cyclamen and geranium foliage would be pretty when not in bloom.

Window boxes are especially valuable for the bulbs. Lilies can be made to bloom freely in a cool window if the box is fairly deep and the bulbs set down pretty well. Violets bloom all winter and furnish a lot of flowers to bunch and sell, as well as enjoy.

Bending Copper Tubing.
When bending the small copper pipe or tubing leading from the tank to the carburetor of the car by the usual methods, the pipe will kink, or sometimes even close up when abrupt turns are made. This can be avoided by inserting a piece of string solder into the tubing, after which even complete circles can be made without the tubing closing up at all. The solder pulls out easily after the bend is made, especially if it has been well greased. If not, it can be easily melted out.

The Teacher.

He never wandered far from his own town.
The little hamlet where he lived and died.
And yet his pupils traveled up and down
The whole wide world of town and countryside.
He sought no honor to adorn his name
Nor dreamed of crowns that tarnish and grow dim;
But those he taught achieved undying fame
And in their triumph hour remembered him.
He had not time to mould the wide world's life
Or take a hand in the affairs of state;
But others did he send into the strife
And through them helped to shape his people's fate.
He won no earthly riches for himself.
He had no time to waste in seeking gold;
But every day bestowed on him a pelf
Of love whose value never could be told.
—Clarence E. Flynn.

GOOD RED BLOOD A REAL NERVE TONIC

Weak, Watery Blood the Source of All Nervousness.

"If people would attend to their blood, instead of worrying themselves ill," said an eminent nerve specialist, "we doctors would not see our consulting rooms crowded with nervous wrecks. More people suffer from worry than anything else."

The sort of thing the specialist spoke of is the nervous, run-down condition caused by overwork and the many anxieties of to-day. Sufferers find themselves tired, low-spirited and unable to keep their minds on anything. Any sudden noise hurts them like a blow. They are full of groundless fears, do not sleep well at night. Headaches and other nerve pains are part of the misery, and it all comes from starved nerves.

Doctoring the nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a good supply of rich red blood. Therefore to relieve nervousness and run-down health, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills enrich the blood, which tones the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and sprits, and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. If you are at all "out of sorts" you should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

East Wind.

The east wind's fingers prick and pry
About my windows and my door;
The icy breath of him comes in
And creeps along the floor.

The windows chatter noisily;
My fire leaps high, then flickers low;
Along the dim length of the wall
The shadows come and go.

The Last Voyage.

Some morning I shall rise from sleep,
When all the house is still and dark,
I shall steal down and find my ship
By the dim quayside and embark.

Nor fear the seas nor any wind,
I have known Fear, but now no more,
The winds shall bear me safe and kind,
Long hoped for and long waited for.

To no strange country shall I come,
But to mine own delightful land,
With Love to bid me welcome home
And Love to lead me by the hand.

We shall not hear the ticking clock,
Nor the swift rattle of Time's wings,
Nor dread the sharp dividing stroke,
Being come now to immortal things.

With all those wonders to admire,
And the heart's hunger satisfied,
Given at long last the heart's desire
We shall forget we ever died.

Oh, in some morning dazeless yet
I shall steal out in the sweet dark
And find my ship with sails all set
By the dim quayside and embark.
—Katharine Tynan.

The Breath of Life.

Fresh air is the breath of life. There is little use in trying to keep well if we do not get abundance of pure, fresh air to breathe.

People whose resistance is weakened by disease and who must fight not only to keep alive but to conquer the germs of any disease like tuberculosis must have abundance of fresh air. For them it is not enough to spend the daylight hours in the open; the entire twenty-four hours should be fresh air hours. The windows should be open or the porch available at all times. The tuberculosis patient who tries to stay in the open air as much as possible and who fully follows the other directions of his physician, has the best chance of recovery.

For those who are well, good health is promoted and maintained by no better means than suitable outdoor exercise and good food. If every man, woman and young person in this country could be persuaded as a matter of daily routine to take at least twelve deep breaths in the open air, or before an open window every morning, the residual air in the lungs would be replaced by fresh air and more oxygen supplied for the general upkeep of the body. The result would undoubtedly be beneficial to everybody and would bring about a standard of the entire community.—Dr. J. J. Middleton.

Physical Training Creed.

This is displayed on the walls of gymnasiums in some of our city schools:

1. I believe my body is my house and should be kept clean as long as it is occupied.
2. I believe my muscles should be kept working smoothly by systematic exercise.
3. I believe this training develops the will to make the best of myself and to do greater service for others.
4. I believe daily exercise trains me to feel and to understand the joy in work and play.
5. I believe in athletics, in taking my part in school contests, in courage, fair play and sportsmanship.
6. I believe I am growing in manhood (or womanhood) and am preparing myself to be an active, intelligent, useful citizen, ready to take my part and to give the other fellow a "square deal."
7. I believe in playing the game to the end with all my mind, strength and courage.

"I have sold lots of Tanlac here in my store," says Mrs. Watell, "and most everyone who buys it comes back with the highest praise. I have also taken Tanlac myself and know from my own experience that it is a wonderful stomach medicine and tonic. After I had suffered a long time from stomach trouble and got so run-down and nervous I could hardly attend to business Tanlac has made me feel like a new person. In fact, I feel like the time since taking Tanlac."

Sleighting on the Water.

A voyage on the Magdalena River, South America, which formerly occupied 36 days, has been reduced to as many hours by the introduction of a novel motor launch, known as a sea-sled.

This boat, which is 50 feet long, is fitted with 80 h.p. petrol engines, and attains a speed of 34 miles an hour. It glides over the water rather than cutting through it.

There is nothing particularly new in this form of boat, but the craft concerned is more than a racing hull filled with machinery. It carries 65 passengers and their baggage, the total weight being approximately 10,000 pounds, and is able to run in less than 2 feet of water. A few sea-slides of this type are to be seen in this country.

BACK ACHED TERRIBLY

Mrs. McMahon Tells How She Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chatham, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition after the birth of my baby boy. I had terrible pains and backache, and was tired and weak, not fit to do my work and care for my three little children. One day I received your little book and read it, and gave up taking the medicine I had and began taking the Vegetable Compound. I feel much better now and am not ashamed to tell what it has done for me. I recommend it to any woman I think feels as I do."

—Mrs. J. R. McMAHON, 163 Harvey St., Chatham, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has for nearly fifty years been restoring (tickling) women to health and strength. It relieves the troubles which cause so many symptoms as backache, painful periods, irregularities, tired, worn-out feelings and nervousness. This is shown again and again by such letters as Mrs. McMahon writes, as well as by one woman telling another. These women know, and are willing to tell others, what it did for them; therefore, it is surely worth your trial.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women."

The Transcript

Published every Thursday morning from The Transcript Building, Main Street, Glencoe, Ontario. Subscription in Canada, $2.00 per year; in the United States and other foreign countries, $2.50 per year.

Advertising.—The Transcript covers a wide section of territory in Western Ontario, and its readers are the leading farmers and townpeople. It is a first-class advertising medium. Rates on application.

Job Printing.—The Jobbing Department has superior equipment for turning out promptly books, pamphlets, circulars, posters, blank forms, programs, cards, envelopes, office and wedding stationery, etc.

A. S. Sutherland, Publisher.

Every man should recognize himself as a factor in his home town and become a worker for the common good. Why not? We are mutually dependent, every one of us, from the sunrise to the sunset of life, for no man lives for himself alone.

The utterly selfish man is a misfit in the scheme of human existence and of no help nor value in his community.

Hon. Charles McCrea, minister of mines, has issued a warning to the public against fake coal dealers, who have been caught establishing agencies throughout the province for the sale of cheap Alberta coal.

No such coal, of course, is available now and the fake dealers, having collected tidy sums in advances from the duped agents, calmly disappear with the money.

At Windsor two vicious bulldogs attacked a little girl in the street and all but tore her to pieces. Owing to a peculiar city ordinance the dogs were able only to tie them up. The ordinance requires that a dog must be adjudged vicious on two occasions before it can be shot. The law is less considerate of a human criminal; if caught he is not supposed to be given a second chance.

It is reported that the influence of the big coal dealers in the cities prevailed in keeping Alberta coal out of Ontario. Many of these dealers are financially interested in the Pennsylvania mines, and if coal from another place found a market in Ontario, it would seriously interfere with their interests. One thing is certain, however, and that is, that people cannot go on forever paying $18 per ton for hard coal. The small town dealer is at the mercy of the "big fellows" and generally has to pay a high price for supplies, especially so during the past few years, when coal has had to be purchased through brokers, who are stool pigeons for the mine owners.

The latter, like all private monopolies, will eventually drive the people to nationalize the mines and run them for the public benefit.—Orangeville Sun.

WHAT'S THE USE?

Rewards totalling $4,000 are offered for the arrest of the two members now at large of the bandit gang responsible for the murder of Russell Campbell at Melbourne. But, in light of the outcome of the recent trial at London, what's the use?

The Poor Man's Friend.—Put up in small bottles that are easily portable and sold for a very small sum, Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil possesses power in concentrated form, its cheapness and the varied uses to which it can be put make it the poor man's friend. No dealer's stock is complete without it.

DIGNITY OF LABOR

That the visit of the Prince of Wales to his ranch in Western Canada is good immigration advertising for Canada is conceded by all who give the matter thought.

If the educated young person of today is not to lose sight of the dignity of labor, the home must supplement the schools and put on a course in carrying in wood, hoeing weeds, cutting grass, emptying ash cans, washing dishes and other favorite amusements of domesticated man. This is the only way in which the youth of today will learn that all work is worth doing and that the educated and intelligent citizen should do work of any kind better and easier because of that education and intelligence. It is not to learn to get out of work that we go to school, but if the home does not act as a link between education and work the child of today is very apt to absorb that idea. "By the sweat of your brow" was the blessing handed out to humanity when they were banished from Eden.

British women are being sent out to Canada as immigrants and all sorts of men are being induced to come to Canada, some of whom very soon tell us that they are sorely disappointed upon arrival and are sorry that they came. This kind of talk comes from the pap-fed immigrants of today and was not known when farms were being hewed out of the wilderness and the foundations of civilization were being laid on our prairies.

We are insisting today that the immigrants we welcome should have some ready cash to bring with them to this land of ours. Yes, and some of our grandfathers spent their last shilling for a drink of buttermilk when they got off the boat at Port Stanley.

Who made this country what it is today? Immigrants who were assisted and persuaded to come out here and who came with money in their pockets? No.

The farming communities on the prairies and elsewhere in Canada were founded and built up by penniless adventurers, who had nothing but their stout hearts, strong bodies and the will to do and dare as their initial capital.

And their descendants of the third generation have become so accustomed to plenty, to comfort, to the flesh-pots of Canada, that they would put a bar across the door and allow only hand-picked immigrants with money to come in because they cannot see how they can make good in Canada without money.

The tower of Babel was a great advertising enterprise, but so many had a "say" in it that it got nowhere. Another case of too many cooks spoiling the broth.—Parkhill Gazette.

Mrs. Templeman leaves three sons and two daughters—Geo. ### CUTTING INTO STORE BUSINESS

Reports of various church organizations indicate that many of them are preparing for sales of work, bazaars, etc., in order to raise money for various church purposes, says the London Advertiser.

All these sales are planned for late fall or early winter in the knowledge that many people will be arranging for Christmas gifts at that time, and will make some of their purchases from the sales.

The stores that stay in business 12 months in the year to give continuous shopping service to the citizens are likewise depending on extra business at this same time to balance up some of the lean months of the year.

They are entitled to consideration, and it might be well for the church organizations to give the matter a little serious and considerate thought.

Something unusual occurred when a Muncey Indian won a prize over a white veteran for plowing.

Although Alberta has gone wet, its citizens will still claim that you don't feel the cold there because it is so dry.

KITCHEN SINK SERVICE

Where and How to Place This Very Necessary Article.

Hot Water For the Farm Sink—Have One of Generous Size—Location and Height Important—How to Combat Scours in Calves—Lubricants for Farm Machinery.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The simplest arrangement for a kitchen sink service that supplies cold water only is a small pitcher pump mounted at the edge of a sink. This is the first step in improvement over the outdoor pump and cistern. For the hot water service at the sink, it is necessary to have a heating arrangement which is best supplied by a water front in the range, a water reservoir and a supply of cold water under pressure. The water under pressure may be furnished through the use of a pressure tank system, an attic tank or a gravity supply.

Place the Sink at the Proper Height. The height of the kitchen sink is of great importance. The location of the most flexible joint in one person's backbone is not a standard for all. The correct height of the sink and a matter that must be determined by the person who is required to work over that particular sink.

Every woman knows that working over a low sink is anything but pleasant. Watch the man who installs the sink, and see that the height is satisfactory. The bottom of the sink should be just six inches below the point of your elbow. Such little attention to detail while the work is being done may save you many a backache. If you do not issue any instructions to those installing the sink, it will, in all probability, be installed at a height of thirty inches, which is correct for a woman only four feet, eight inches tall. You may be taller than that.

Have One of Generous Proportions. Considerable choice can be had in size, design and material in kitchen sinks—the shape, weight of metal and quality of finish largely determine the price. If the size of the kitchen will permit it, a sink of generous proportions is to be recommended. The drain board is important and generally desirable, but sometimes a movable flat wire basket or rack suspended over the sink is more desirable. Taps, faucets, or bibcocks of various types and quality are offered by the trade. The ordinary brass or nickel finish compression faucet is generally satisfactory. These may be had in either screw, joint or solder joint.

The Location is Very Important. The kitchen sink should be located at a convenient point beneath a window or on a wall opposite a large window, so that the lighting may be good. Do not build the sink in with shelving, cupboards or closets unless you are prepared to cover all woodwork that is likely to be splashed with greasy water with copper sheeting. Open plumbing for the sink is to be preferred on the score of accessibility and cleanliness. The cockroach loves wet woodwork and grease. So try to avoid conditions that attract such insects. Locate the sink, if possible, on a wall on which there are no cupboards or cabinets, and do not consider anything but a high back type of sink. It may cost a little more but it is worth it when we consider the added service that such will give.—L. Stevenson, Dept. Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

How to Combat Scours in Calves. Like all diseases of cattle, prevention is the best method of combating scours. Ordinarily scours, as distinguished from white scours or calf cholera, can usually be traced to overfeeding, irregular feeding, dirty pails, cold milk, sour milk, or old milk, and any one or all of these are due to carelessness on the part of the feeder.

Constant vigilance is the price of healthy calves. As soon as trouble is detected, the feed of the calf should be reduced at least half. Administer a dose of castor oil in warm milk by means of a small drenching bottle. This will tend to remove all irritating substances from the bowels. Feed should then be gradually restored to the normal amount, and formaldehyde solution should be added to the milk at the rate of one teaspoonful per pound of milk. This solution should be made up of one part of formalin (40 per cent. solution of formaldehyde) to thirty-one parts of water. If prompt improvement does not follow this treatment, repeat the dose of oil, and accompany it with another reduction in the feed.

Calves are always greedy, and for this reason overfeeding should be avoided. This is true particularly when alfalfa is being fed, as it is exceedingly palatable, and the animal is apt to gorge itself.

Lubricants for Farm Machinery.

Heavy oils and greases are used on all bearings where the pressure is great and the movement slow, as on axles and slow turning shafts. Generally speaking, the greater the speed of the turning part the lighter the lubricant used. No oil should be used that has not sufficient body to remain on the surface of shaft and bearing for a reasonable length of time. All farm machines, excepting engines and cream separators, can be kept well lubricated with the heavier oils and greases. Cream separators running at high speed require a light high grade oil, while gasoline engines require an oil of medium body and capable of standing a high temperature. Grease or hard oil cups should be attached to all bearings where practicable.—L. Stevenson, O.A.C., Guelph.

Have you given careful attention to the selection of the stallion to which to breed the farm mare.

Stricken with a paralytic stroke at his home in Windsor on Monday of last week, John J. Whittaker, chairman of the fourth division of the Canadian National Railways Insurance and Providence Society, is in a serious condition. Mr. Whittaker, who has been an employee of the railway for over 40 years, has held the position of train baggageman on train numbers 1 and 12, between Windsor and Toronto and return, for about 30 years. ## CULLING THE FLOCK AND FLUSHING BREEDING EWES

The culling and flushing of the breeding ewes are two essential factors in profitable sheep husbandry. By culling, we mean that during the early days of September one should go carefully through the flock and take out all non-producing ewes, all poor milkers made evident by a poor unmarketable lamb, and all ewes having defective or broken mouths. It is these ewes that are increasing the cost of production and decreasing the profits from the flock.

From data collected over a period of three years at the Experimental Farm, Nappan, we found that the average cost of maintaining a breeding ewe properly was $10.02 and the average value of a grade lamb ready for market was $7.20. From these figures one can easily estimate the loss from every non-producer—one means a loss of $17.22 and three such ewes mean a loss of $51.66. In other words, it will take from two to seven lambs to cover the cost of maintaining one to three non-productive ewes.

The good ewe will produce a lamb ready for the early markets of July and August, while the poor milkers yields a lamb late for market and unsightly in the flock and the non-producer is a dead loss. Then there is the ewe that is off-type—she should be culled out of the flock and thus raise the standard of your breed. In the case of pure-bred flock, this is very essential to-day. The breeder who has the right breed type and a uniform flock will have no difficulty in disposing of his surplus breeding stock at good prices. Take the time to cull the flock—it will pay you.

Before the breeding season, all ewes selected for breeding purposes should have a short rest in order that they may maintain their vitality and vigor; this is essential if they are expected to give a profitable lamb crop. March and April lambs should be weaned during the last week of August and not later than the first week in September. The lambs to be retained or sold as breeders should be put on after-feed and given a little grain so as to develop into strong, vigorous stock. The undesirable lambs and cull ewes should be put on the market as soon as they are fit.

The breeding ewes should be put in a good thriving condition before mating time. One of the most economical methods of doing this is to have a field of rape ready for the middle of September on which the breeding ewes can be pastured for from four to six weeks before the ram is turned in with them. The rape is ready for use about the time the bottom leaves and tips of the upper leaves turn yellow. There is little danger from bloating when fed on this. Fallowing a field of rape, good clover aftermath makes a splendid crop on which to flush the ewe. Care of course is necessary at the start to prevent blighting; the clover should be dry and the ewes allowed on it only one or two hours at the beginning; otherwise there is danger of loss.

The two main factors governing the profits from the flock are (1) demand and supply; (2) economy of production. The breeders individually cannot control the former but by a systematic method of breeding, feeding and weaning, the latter can be influenced to a very great extent.

HOW TO CONTROL THE BORER

The methods of control are simple, inexpensive and not contrary to good farm practices, so says Prof. L. Casner of the Department of Entomology, Ontario Agricultural College. To get a clear idea of them it is necessary to keep in mind that the borer winter over and remain until the end of May in any part of the corn plant above ground large enough to conceal them; hence they will be found in the stalks, stubble, cobs or any remnants of the crop left in the field or elsewhere. They will also be to some extent in stout weeds growing among the corn. Control measures, therefore, consist mainly in so treating these that the borers will be destroyed. If there is a silo this is easy for all that is necessary then is to cut the crop low, ensile it, plow the stubble under completely and not drag it up again when cultivating. The cutting knives and fermentation kill all the borers that go into the silo and the plowing destroys all left in the field, provided everything is kept beneath the surface. If there is no silo, or if the silo will not hold all the corn, the task is somewhat a little harder. In such cases the field must of course be thoroughly plowed after the crop has been removed. In addition some method must be practiced of disposing of the stalks and cobs or cobs. The best is to run shredder, feed the cattle all they will eat, throw the remainder into the manure and haul this out and plow it under before the end of May. If for any reason the stalks are fed whole the unclean portion should not be thrown out into the manure but should be kept separate and drawn out and burned. It is better to burn the remnants than to plow them months, skim milk and other protein rich feeds are not so essential. Where corn is fed during the winter months some protein rich feed should be fed to balance the ration.

POULTRY

Professor Graham, of Guelph, states that the average farmer can keep seventy-five hens on the farm waste. Above that number each hen requires about as much feed and care as the hens in the neck of the commercial poultryman. The great problem of the poultryman is reducing the flock. For the early hatches it usually takes six eggs for the incubator for every pullet that is needed.

Feed is not all there is to egg production as this example proves. Two cows, possibly a Jersey and a Short-horn, are both eating the same June grass, but one will produce milk while the other is producing feed. In feeding for eggs a variety of protein is just as desirable as a variety of grains. A variety of greens is recommended rather than using one kind exclusively. Professor Graham observes that when often green feed in the morning the instant they leave the roost, and so advises a little green feed for breakfast when the hens are confined in bad weather. They like it three times per day and it is good for their health and for egg production.

Plenty of green feed has helped prevent the bleaching of the legs in the heavy-laying hens. This may indicate that the hen that bleaches before laying many eggs may be out of condition, due to a lack of green feed in her ration. According to their experiments, the early hatched pullets which lay early and take a rest will produce strong hatchable eggs.

Unrefined cod liver oil, or raw cod liver oil, is the kind that contains the vitamins which are good for chicks. The refined oil is not so good. Inferior eggs tested from incubators are good for chicks. They can be fed raw if the hens are tested for white diarrhoea, but otherwise should be boiled. In feeding chicks they have found a mash made of three parts of yellow cornmeal and one part of low-grade flour will not cause diarrhoea. The yellow is better than the white cornmeal. They have had good results using canned tomatoes for chicks every day and giving no scratch feed for the first two weeks. Both milk and water are given after the first week. All the milk is fed sour. Medical advice says that the chicks cannot handle milk sugar.

In an experiment where tomatoes were given to the old breeding birds, it was found to increase the hatchability of the eggs.—R.

Care of Spray Machinery

The winter care of spray machinery is very important. Good orchardists know that as soon as the last spraying is finished in the summer the spray machinery should be thoroughly cleaned out with enough clear water run through to clean thoroughly all hose, spray rods, nozzles and pumps. All drain plugs of engine cylinders, radiators, etc., should be removed to allow complete winter drainage to prevent freezing.

The winter time is a good time to overhaul the pump. It should be repacked, tightened and thoroughly oiled so that no delay will be caused by sticking valves or pistons when it is necessary to start spraying again. Hoops around the spray tank should be tightened up well and the inside of the tank should be painted to prevent drying.

The urgent necessity of spraying which sometimes develops requires that the spray machinery be kept in the best of order if crop values are not to be decreased.

Ditching With Dynamite

BY GASTON FARMER

Late in fall or early in winter, farmers everywhere begin to think about land clearing and drainage. One of the most important of these problems is ditching—a job that is costly and disagreeable to do by hand.

But most of the difficult ditching jobs can be done with dynamite at a cost which is even more economical than ditching by hand.

There are two methods of ditching with dynamite. They are called the propagated and the electric methods. The propagated method is where a line of holes, eighteen to thirty inches apart, is loaded with straight 50 or 60 per cent. dynamite and fired at one time. That is, by firing one hole, the shock is carried on down the line. This method can only be used in wet soil where the dynamite is loaded under water, the water carrying the shock waves from hole to hole in sufficient force to set off the charges.

ELECTRIC FIRING METHOD.

The electric method may be used under any condition. It consists of leading each hole with electric caps which are connected and fired by a blasting machine, the length of the section shot being limited by the capacity of the blasting machine in use.

The cost of some of the dynamite ditching done on my farm will perhaps be interesting. It was desirable to have a canal through 1,000 yards of swamp in one section of the place. To

T. K. DOHERTY, Canadian Commissioner of the International Institute of Agriculture, who predicted that Canada will control the world market for wheat this winter. He indicated that Canada would probably ship three hundred million bushels of grain to the world markets this year, twice the export predicted for the United States.

DAIRY

The milk stool should not be used as a currant.

Then 300-pound cows will give you six times the profit that twenty 150-pound cows will return.

Put your best effort in the first two years of a cow's life. After that your reward will come.

Remember that good breeding brains to carry it on. Nature, apparently, tries to care for her own needs. The thing that compels us to cry "dairying" so hard is not so much the economical production of human food, but, more particularly, because dairy products are so essential to the best development of the human organism.

The shortest way for the dairyman to increase his bank account is to join a good cow-testing association.

The pedigree that appeals strongest to the average farmer is the pedigree of performance.

Remember that good breeding requires corresponding good care.

The scrub cow shivers when she sees the scales and Babcock tester. Give the scrubs the plank.

Keep chummy with the butcher so long as you have non-profitable cows in the herd.

It is fatal to the dairy business to fall in love with a scrub cow.

To prevent crosstee from running down the stovetop, take a length of stovetop and cut a hole in it six inches deep and five inches wide. Then take another pipe and cut it down to nine inches long. Cut a hole in it the same as in the other. Make the short length large enough to slip over the longer one, and put a handle on each side of it. Put two flanges on the first pipe to keep the short one from sliding up or down. Now, all you have to do when the draft is shut, is to slide the outside pipe around till you can see in. This will make a draft above the fire, sending the smoke out before it has time to condense.

To get rid of rats I establish a feeding-ridge by putting shallow pans, partly filled with cornmeal or flour, in a place where cattle or fowls can't get at it. After a few days I mix dry cement with the contents of the pans—one part of cement to five parts of meal. The cement hardens in the stomach and in a short time death follows. It is best to follow this plan late in autumn, as the bodies of the pests can not always be reached. During winter decomposition will be complete without noticeable stench.—R. R.

Home Education

"The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.

Use the Mirror as an Object Lesson—By Zarah E. Preble

Little Robert came tramping into the room where his mother and I were talking. She took one look at the messy little figure, and exclaimed angrily—"Robert! You are a naughty, bad, dirty child! I told you not to get dirty, and now look at you. I don't love you any more."

The child looked down at himself, and his mouth quivered at his mother's words and tone. "I'm not dirty, Mamma—see my hands, see!" He held out two grimy little paws. He was honestly sincere in his denial, but his mother was too upset to see that fact. "Don't lie about it," she said grimly.

He looked at her pitifully, and tears came into his eyes. "I'm not dirty, Mamma," he repeated. "I'm not dirty, Mamma—I can wash 'em."

His mother glared. I felt that punishment—unjust punishment, for the child was not aware of his own condition—was in the air. I could not help interfering.

"Robert," I said gently, taking one of the dirty little hands in mine, and leading him over to the mirror, "Stand up on this chair and let's play a game. You look in the glass and then tell me quite truthfully what you think about that little boy in there."

He looked, half fearfully, but my smile reassured him. "Is he clean or dirty?" I asked. "His face is dirty," he replied, "and his hands are dirty."

"How about his rompers and his knees?" I suggested.

"The tide is out; the wet gray stones. That firm the slanting beach. Now glisten in the sun, and white gulls circling round. Are watching for the shining fish enmeshed in nets and seines.

Down at low tide between the rocks all barnacled an mussel ground. Surprising shells are found—rare pink and lovely shapes; A sunfish whose round back is like a rainbow tinted spider's web. And a green lobster that's been wedged against the rocks.

By pieces of a broken mast The fog has lifted, and is rolled in small white puffs. Above the soft blue horizon.

Now when the tide is in no beach is visible. The green bay stretches full, and surfs Booms with a deep note against the cliffs. And splashes in a foamy spray high in the air. Hiding the rocks and shoals that border Fundy's shore; Little sailboats bob about on white-capped sparkling waves.

Now is the bay more beautiful When tides are high or when they're low? Some one who loves it less more easily could tell.

—Erica Austin Selfridge.

Would Take It With Him. Reggie: Hope I won't leave a—vacancy by going just now, Miss Sharpe.

Miss Sharpe: I think you'll take it with you, Mr. Sapp.

Your land needs no fertilizer if you need no crops.

Fine wood ashes mixed with turpentine will clean brass or steel.

What becomes of a man's word when he won't keep it, and no one else will take it?

Let the farmer forevermore be honored in his calling; for they who labor in the earth are the chosen people of God.—Thomas Jefferson.

When anything boils over on the stove, cover it at once with salt; the odor will be killed and the spilled food can be cleaned up easily.

Plow under the leaves in the cherry orchard, for the leaves are the chief source of infection of cherry leaf-spot disease which causes cherry leaves to fall in early summer.

The glory of the farmer is that in the division of labor, it is his part to create. He stands close to nature; he obtains from the earth the bread and the meat. The food which was not, he causes to be.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

It is occasionally necessary to give animals physical. Give horse or cow one to two pints of raw linseed oil, or twelve to sixteen ounces of Epsom or Glauber salt in three pints of tepid water sweetened with molasses. Sheep take four to six ounces of these medicines, dogs two to four ounces. Castor oil is best for young animals. Dose is one to four teaspoonfuls.—Dr. A. S. Alexander.

HEATING THE WHOLE OUTDOORS

Of the millions of tons of coal we shovel into our furnaces this winter at least one-fourth will be wasted. It will pour out through the cracks around our doors and windows to heat the back yard and front lawn. We would not be foolish enough to try to store water in a tank that was full of holes—we would patch the holes. Yet many of us, year after year, try to keep our houses warm when they are leaking heat in a score of places. The best method of stopping leakage around the doors and windows is the installing of metal sashes and frames; but this is considerable of an undertaking and rather expensive. However, this should be done without question in every new house when built.

The next best remedy is to close the cracks between the windows and doors and their frames with wood-and-felt weather stripping, the cracks between the window and the door frames and the wall line with strip felt. Stop up the cracks between the frames and the brick of the house with oakum or some other compound that expands and contracts with the crevice in which it is placed. Cement mortar or other solid material does not have this quality to a sufficient extent. For this reason some material that changes with the size of crevice is needed.

Wood and felt stripping is easily applied and very effective. It should be put on the outside at the opening between the window sash and frame for the upper sash, and usually to a better advantage on the inside for the lower sash. This stripping should, of course, be placed on the outside for doors opening inward, and the inside for doors opening outward. The felt should fit so snugly that extra effort is required to move the sashes of the windows and an extra hard push necessary to lock the door. A strip tacked along the jams of interior doors will reduce undesirable drafts and make your floors more comfortable for you and less of a menace to smaller children.

Strip felting may be used in the place of wood-and-felt stripping but not so effectively. However, if the wall line adjoining the door and window frames is irregular the crack can be neatly and effectively closed with strip felt.

There is an old saying that "one blanket under you is worth two over you." A thin leaky floor makes a cold house just as a thin mattress makes a cold bed. Cellars are the best guarantee of warm floors. If the house has no cellar, place heavy insulating paper on the under side of the floor, sealing the joints with lathing or strips of wall board. If the foundation is poor, bank it with straw, leaves and earth, or, better still, mend it.

Storm sash are very desirable for they provide an air space between two layers of glass. This air space acts as an insulator, keeping the heat in and the cold out. A fixed sash is not as desirable as one that can be opened at will for ventilating purposes. Storm sash last for many years and pay for themselves over and over again in their saving on coal bills.

The material for converting a cold, draughty house into a comfortable, healthy one, costs very little. Measure your door and windows, stop at your dealers and bring the material home with you to-day. Most anybody with a hammer and saw and a few spare moments can cut their fuel bill materially, save themselves a lot of expensive trips to the furnace, and enjoy a warm comfortable house.

When fuel is so expensive and scarce it is not only good business but a patriotic duty to waste as little as possible. This is a large universe we live in—don't try to heat it all!

Feed the Dry Cows. Cows to freshen this fall or winter should be put into good physical condition at this time. There is little chance for the cow that is thin at calving time to do her best at the milk pail. Experienced dairymen have often repeated the statement that grain fed to a cow in this flesh before calving gives far larger returns than an equal amount of grain fed after she begins milking. Care should be taken to see that foods supplying the needed amount of mineral elements is provided for the animals.

Efficiency. "Men never fight duels over women any more?" "Not any more—the lady just shoots the one she doesn't want."

Methusalem is the last name of any machine that is oiled regularly and kept out of the weather.

A Foe to Asthma. Give asthma half a chance and it gains ground rapidly. But give it repeated treatments of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy and it will fall back even faster. There is no half way measure about this remedy. It goes right to work and drives asthma out. It reaches the inmost breathing passages and leaves no place for the trouble to lurk. Your Home Town

What causes the Scotsman's eye to kindle when he hears the "accent of a brither exle?"

It's the home-town feeling.

The voice tells its own story. It carries him back home. All the longings, be they for the purple hills, the green fields or the murky streets of a city, are quickened. The sympathy between speaker and listener becomes complete.

Remember, when your thoughts drift back to your home town that many old friends who would like to hear your voice are listed in the telephone directories.

Long Distance will take you back. Station-to-Station evening and night rates make it inexpensive.
