LIFE SAVED .- Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a threat trouble with the best result. Acting on this advice I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me: I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

Liberals Attacking the House of Lords.

Suggestion That Britain Combine Business With Friendship.

In Regard to the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty -An Italian Concession to France That Creates Comment.

London, Feb. 14.-In the House of Commons, Mr. Henry Labouchere, Liberal member for Northampton, made an attack on the House of Lords, with a view of limiting its veto power, from which, he said, Liberal members invariably suffered. He moved an amendment to the address to the throne, providing that bills adopted by the commons in one session and not adopted by the peers, should, if repassed by the commons at a subsequent session, become the law of the

After a discussion of Mr. Labouchere's amendment, Mr. John Lawson, Walton, Liberal member for South Leeds, proposed an amendment to the address, declaring that the power now possessed by the House of Lords of overruling the decision of the House of Commons demanded the urgent attention of parliament. Sir Henry-Campbell Bannerman, the newly-elected leader of the Liberals in the commons, supported the Walton amendment. In the course of a vigorous speech, he denied that the Liberals were actuated by partisan spirit in raising the question; but the House of Lords, he declared, has always formed a continuous and stereotyped Conservative majority. On patriotic grounds, he said, the situation was full of danger, and no dispassionate man can deny the anomaly and absurdity of a House of Lords in the face of a representative system of government. The Liberals desire to guard the interests of the representative chamber, while giving to the House of Peers a reasonable power of criticism and advice. Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, government leader, said there was no middle course between the policy expressed in Mr. Labouchere's amendment, and the policy of leaving the House of Peers in its present condition. He declared it to be his firm conviction that the Liberals, in proposing constitutional reform, were really acting in the interest of party. The house rejected both amendments -Mr. Walton's by 257 against 107, and Mr. Labouchere's by 223 against 105.

FRIENDSHIP AND BUSINESS. The London Times publishes a long wer treaty, advocating compensation for the abrogation of the treaty, and declaring that "the Americans will think no less of us if we combine friendship with business. We admit that, while our interests in the canal scheme are large, America's are vital, and therefore, as an act of friendliness, we ought to abrogate the treaty on reasonable conditions, which will not be in any way objectionable to the United

Commenting on the report of the special commission appointed by President McKinley to investigate the conduct of the war department in the war with Spain, the Times says: "We are not surprised that the American public greets it with derision. President McKinley's loyalty to Secretary Alger is natural, and even commendable; but the United States is to have able administrators, it is absolutely essential that those at its head shall be above suspicion. If the taint of politics is once fastened upon the new colonial administration, our hopes of its future must be considerably dashed." CONCESSION TO FRANCE. Italy and France, says the Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail, have agreed to share possession of Cape Dumeira, on the Raheita coast, at the southern extremity of the Red Sea. It is expected that France will fortify her position on the Cape. In the opinion of the correspondent the British fortifications at Perim, in the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb, at the entrance to the Red Sea, opposite the Raheita coast, will lose much of their strategic value by this Italian concession to the French Government. DREYFUS. The judicial officer who has just returned from a visit to Dreyfus on the Isle du Diable, states that the prisoner is in good health, but declines to reply to the written interrogations of the court of cassation, on the ground that his answers are inaccurately transmit-

THE CAPITAL

Iloilo in the Hands of Uncle Sam's Forces.

No Casualties Among the Captors-The Place Fired Beiore It Was Evacuated.

Manila, Feb. 14-9:30 a.m.-The Americans captured Iloilo on Saturday. The United States forces, under Brig.-Gen. Miller, captured Iloilo, capital of the Island of Panay, and seat of the socalled government of the Visayan federation, on Saturday last, after a bombardment. The rebels set the town on fire before evacuating it, but the American troops extinguished the flames. There were no casualties on the American side.

BOMBARDED BY GUNBOATS. Manila, Feb. 14.-9:45 a.m.-The United States gunboat Petrel arrived late last evening with dispatches from Gen. Miller to Gen. Otis, announcing that Iloilo had been taken by the combined military and naval forces on Saturday morning. Gen. Miller, on receipt of his instruction from Gen. Otis, sent native commissioners ashore from the U. S. transport St. Paul, with a communication for the rebel governor of Iloilo, calling upon him to surrender within a time stated and warning him not to make a demonstration in the interval. The rebels immediately removed their guns and prepared to defend their position. Thereupon, the Petrel fired two warning guns, the rebels immediately opening fire upon her. The Petrel and the Baltimore bombarded the town, which the rebels, having set on fire, immediately evacuated. American troops were promptly landed, and extinguished the fires in all cases of foreign property, but not before considerable damage had been done. It is believed the enemy's loss during the bombardment was heavy, but no American casualities were reported.

MESSAGE FROM OTIS. shington, Feb. 14.—Adjutant-Ge eral Corbin shortly after midnight made public the following message from Gen. Otis, reporting the capture of Iloby Gen. Miller on the 11th inst: "Manila, Feb. 13.-Gen. Miller reports explanatory history article on the from Ilollo that town taken 11th inst. Nicaragua Canal and the Clayton-Bul- and held by the troops. Insurgents given until evening of 11th to surrender, but their hostile action brought an engagement during the morning. Insurgents fired native portion of town. But little loss to property of foreign inhabitants No casualities among the United States troops reported .- (Signed)

Otis." SITUATION SUITS UNCLE SAM. New York, Feb. 14.-A dispatch from Manila says Gen. Otis said to the Herald correspondent: "The situation is excellent now. Aguinaldo is collecting servants of British residents. forces somewhere near Polo. His present estimated strength is 30,000. more he brings together the more satisfied we will be, for we would rather have him attack us than to have to hunt for

Gen. Anderson, commanding the first division, said: "Gen. Otis, in congratulating me on behalf of the first division, said there were 6,000 Filipinos opposed to my division, and that we cleared out 3,000 of them. I think we shall have to GIVE THEM ANOTHER GOOD LICK-

ING." The most prominent English business men here say that the Filipinos received a severe lesson during the last week. Were it not that their military leaders are men who know they must lose all power, once the fighting is over, and consequently are deceiving the natives into the belief that they have got the best of the recent fighting, these Englishmen do not think there would be much trouble in bringing the Filipino Government to terms. In the opinion of English observers the campaign should be carried on energetically.

FROM DEWEY. Washington, Feb. 14.-The navy department today received the following cablegram from Rear-Admiral Dewey: "Petrel just arrived from Iloilo. That place was taken by our forces Saturday and is now occupied. No prisoners. No casualties on our side. Insurgent loss not known, but believed to be slight. They attempted to burn the town, but the foreign property generally was saved by our forces.' Particulars.

GEN. MILLER'S ULTIMATUM. Manila, Feb. 14-11:55 a.m.-Particulars of the capture of Iloilo by the United States forces under Brig.-Gen. M. D. Miller, on Saturday last, have been received here. On the morning of Friday, Feb. 10, Gen. Miller sent an ultimatum to the commander of the rebels on shore, notifying him that it was his intention to take Iloilo by force if necessary. Non-combatants and foreigners were warned to leave the town within 24 hours. The rebels were also warned that they must make no further belligerent preparations. The gunboat Petrel was then moved to a position close in shore and near the rebel fort, while the cruiser Boston took up her station at the other end of the town.

Friday passed quietly. During the day many refugees left the town of Iloilo, the majority of whom were taken on board foreign ships lying in the harbor. Searchlights from the United States warships were kept all night long illuminating the town and its defenses. The rebels, so far as the look-outs on the ships could discover, reminion Laundry, and try them by placing the hands on the bars outside of window, one in each hand. R. M. Millar. These batteries are also for sale at F. B. Clarke's, 416 Richmond street.

completely clearing them of their occupants in a very short space of time. Soon after the bombardment flames broke out simultaneously in various parts of the town. Thereupon 48 marines, acting as infantry and artillery, landed from the cruiser Boston, and a company was sent ashore from the gunboat Petrel. These detachments marched straight into the town of Iloilo, and, hoisting the Stars and Stripes over the fort, took possession of the place in the name of the United The capture of the town and its defenses having been accomplished, the marines and soldiers who had been sent ashore proceeded to the task of saving the American, English and German consulates from destruction by the fire which was raging among the frail and inflammable buildings of the town. RAVAGES OF FIRE The Swiss consul's residence, which was in the same row as the consulates named, was burned. The entire Chinese and native sections of the town were destroyed, but foreign mercantile property escaped with slight damage. NOT A SINGLE AMERICAN WAS INJURED. Gen. Miller's forces had complete control of the situation when the gunboat Petrel sailed from Iloilo for Manila. The Sixth United States Artillery Regiment occupied a position commanding both the bridges leading into the town,

STABBED TO DEATH

Mysterious Murder in Cleveland-Girl Accidentally Shot.

Cleveland, Feb. 14.-Jacob Gerbrand, night fireman at the Hunt stamping works on Hickox street, near Euclid avenue, was found dead in the boiler room of the plant early yesterday morning, having been stabbed through the heart. The motive for the crime was evidently not burglary, for Gerbrandt's watch and money were found on his body. The only clue found was a woman's knit fascinator, which was lying near the body. The opinion is advanced by the police that Gerbrandt may have been holding a clandestine meeting with the woman, and that a lover or husband witnessed the meeting, and killed Gerbrandt. The murdered man was 40 years of age, and had a wife and three children. ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

New York, Feb. 14.-Carrie Gurbin, aged 16, was accidentally shot by Christofer Pfletfzer yesterday morning at Coymans, about 12 miles from this city. Pfletfzer was cleaning a re-volver, when it discharged, and the bullet passed through the girl's heart, killing her instantly.

Scrofula From Birth.

Dr. Radway—Dear Sir: It is with pleasure I take my pen in hand to inform you of the great cure effected by your medicine called Sarsaparillian Resolvent. I have a girl three years old last September who has suffered with scrotula ever since she was two years old. It fact, the doctor told us she was born with it. We had our best local doctors with her, and it seemed like all hope was gone, for they told us if the disease settled in her lungs she could not be cured. This frightful disease seated or seized upon her lungs severely. I began to think that our little girl could not live very long, our physician's medicine doing no good. In the meantime I received a copy of your medical publication called "False and True," which you sent me. After seeing the accounts of so many cures effected by your treatments, I at once resorted to them, and by the time she had used one bottle she was most well. The ulcers that were making their appearance on her body are were making their appearance on her body are entirely gone, her lungs almost healed, or at least she has quit coughing. Dr. Radway—Dear Sir: For a long time past I have been suffering in the most distressing manuer from a long train of symptoms which have baffled the skill of all the medical men down here, and which I feared, if not arrested in their progress, would terminate in the total prostration of my strength. Loss of appetite and desire of stimulating and artificial means of symptomes. and desire of stimulating and artificial means of sustenance at irregular times, want of healthy sleep and consequent depression on arising in the morning rendered life quite a burden to me, until a friend induced me to try your medicine. AN ACCIDENT ON THE WABASH

Caused by a Broken Wheel-Engineer and Fireman Killed Near Lancaster, Pa.

St. Thomas Journal: A great big hoodoo must be following Conductor Sancier of Windsor. About a week or ten days ago he was in charge of a train on the Air Line, and when leaving Cayuga yard six cars and the caboose left the steer and caused a bad smashup. Again yesterday he was in train, a Wabash freight, left here shortly before noon, and at 12:30 p.m., three miles west of Jarvis, a wheel broke, derailing twelve cars. As the train was going at full speed the smash was a bad one and the cars were badly broken up. Three of the cars contained stock from Chatham, and several of the cattle were killed and others badly injured. The other cars contained general freight, and the damage in them was not so great. The dead and wounded stock, however, was disposed of to farmers, so the loss to the company will not be very heavy in that respect. Superintendent Jones places the loss at about $2,500.

The road was cleared by 6:30 last evening, and in the meantime the Wabash passenger trains were detoured over the M. C. R. from Canfield Junction to this city with little delay.

The freight was pulled by engine No. break was purely an accident due to the extremely cold weather. frare consisted of two loads of cattle. one of sheep, two of provisions, and the palance cornmeal. Three head of cat-He and 25 sheep were killed.

DYING IN HIS CAB. Binghampton, N. Y., Feb. 14.-Martin C. Sheehan, an engineer on the Lehigh Valley Railroad; was found dying in his cab near Alpine, Pa., by his fireman, George F. Dodge. Shee-han was running a Mother Hubbard engine, which, drawing a freight reached a rate of speed that aroused the suspicions of the fireman, and going to the cab he found Sheehan leaning partly out of the cab window, his head crushed in, and his hand grasping the lever with a viselike grip. He was taken to the hospital at Sayre, where he died. It is supposed that his head came into contact with a truss, while looking out of the

oab window. ENGINEER AND FIREMAN

KILLED. Lancaster, Pa., Feb. 14. - A fatal wreck occurred yesterday at Gallagher, three miles west of Downingtown. The fast train east crashed into the rear of another passenger train, supposed to be the Chicago express. Engineer Jos. Smith and Fireman Corsan were killed outright. Smith was pinned down under the engine. A number of passengers were injured.

HELD FAST IN THE ICE PACK

Perilous Position of the Steamer Gaspesia.

Distress East of Halifax-Plowing Through an Ice Field 800 Miles Long-Bulgarian and Pavonia Still Outside.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 14. - For over two weeks the steamer Gaspesia, of 39 Below Zero in Kentucky-Coldest the Canadian Steamship Company, has been jammed fast in the ice blockade in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. She left Paspebiac, in the Bay of Chaleur, over two weeks ago, and the gulf was then full of ice. It was feared the vessel would be crushed to pieces or founder. Nothing was heard or seen of her until yesterday morning, when a North Sydney dispatch was received, stating that the Gaspesia was sighted in the ice off Etang du Nord lighthouse, on the Magdalen Islands. The ice was at that time reported stationary, with no wind. A later dispatch reports that the Gaspesia hull is obscured by ice. She has four signal flags, but she is so far out at sea that they cannot be distinguished. The steamer was apparently all right, for she had steam up and seemed to be resting on an even keel. The steamer is in a critical position, and unless the wind breaks a channel, may be ice-bound all winter. She is bound to Milford Haven via St. Johns.

IN DISTRESS. Halifax, N. S., Feb. 14. - A special from Country Harbor, east of Halifax, says: The government steamer Aberdeen reports at 9 o'clock this morning she sighted a three-masted schooner on Eighth avenue. There is some dan-four miles off Wedge Island showing ger of a bread famine in the city if the signais of distress. The steamer boarded her and found her to be til Thomas W. Holder, of Liverpool, N. S. (McDonald & McMaster), from New York for Halifax, coal laden. The captain's leg was broken in two places, and four seamen and the cook had their feet frozen. The vessel was covered with ice, leaking, and the decks were awash. She had lost mainsail, jib, anchor and boat. The sea was too rough to move the captain, but the steamer's boat took off the four frozen men for treatment, four of the Aberdeen's crew being placed on board. The Aberdeen then took the Holder in tow. Before reaching here the hawser parted once, and one of the steamer's surf boats was lost. As soon as the schooner was safely anchored, a doctor was secured to attend to Capt. McDonald and his men.

THREE HUNDRED MILES OF ICE. St. Johns, Nfld., Feb. 14. - The British steamer Dahome, which left Halifax on the 9th for this port and Liverpool, has arrived here. She reports coming through a field of ice 300 miles long. CREW MISSING.

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 14 .- The steamship William Lawrence, of the Mer-chant and Miners' Line, running be-Royal. Three other boats, containing are crowded. the balance of the crew, are missing. She had no passengers.

SANK AT HER PIER. New York, Feb. 14.-The White Star Line steamer Germanic sank at her pier last evening, and is now lying there partially submerged. The accident is said to have been due to the heavy coating of ice which formed on the sides of the steamer. It is said that no lives were lost. THE PAVONIA'S PASSENGER LIST Liverpool, Feb. 14.—Reinsurance upon the Cun d Line steamer Pavonia, from been casted here at the rate of 10 guineas per cent. Following is the list of first cabin passengers of the Pavonia: George Carr, Dr. J. W. Inches, A. A. Cheeseman, James Shankland, another and more serious wreck. His Mrs. James Shankland, Mrs. Edith Howard, Miss Edith Howard, Master

> Howard, F. L. Scott. The following are the second cabin passengers: C. Carruthers, H. Carruthers. Mr. and Mrs. E. Fielding, two Misses Fielding, Mrs. Emma Dahl, Mrs. Graves, Miss M. C. Collins, T. Houston, F. R. Stevens, J. McEwen, four Misses McEwen. The entire passenger list amounted to only 47.

WHAT STEAMER WAS THIS? Swampscott, Mass., Feb. 14.-A big steamer, apparently an ocean liner, was sighted off Dread Ledge, in Swampscott Bay, yesterday afternoon in the midst of the storm. She was apparently at anchor, and was blowing her whistle continually, but whether as a distress signal or a warning on account of the thick weather, could not be determined. The steamer stood off here for some time, and then suddenly put to 1,125, Engineer Riley, of this city. No sea about 3 o'clock, apparently en-blame is attached to the crew, as the deavoring to weather the gale in the open sea. Her identity could not be learned.

Another account says: The derailed | THE LABRADOR'S ROUGH VOYAGE Halifax, Feb. 14.-The mail steamer Labrador, from Liverpool, via Moville, had a very rough voyage. On Wednesday she ran into a heavy field of ice, and on the following day met a furious gale, which compelled her to lay to for 48 hours. THE BULGARIA STILL OUT. New York, Feb. 14.-There have been no tidings of the Bulgaria since yesterday's dispatches were published.

THE BULGARIA

Reassuring Statement From the Company's Office in London.

London, Feb. 13. - The Hamburg-American Steamship Company has issued an assuring statement, regarding the company's steamer Bulgaria, reported in a dispatch from Ponta Del Gada, Azore Islands, yesterday, as drifting helplessly 800 miles from the Azores, where 25 passengers, women and children, were taken from her by the tank steamer Weehawken, and landed at Ponta Del Gada. The company's statement is to the effect that they have been advised that the Bulgaria's rudder was injured, but that her commander, Capt. Schmidt, one of the oldest and most efficient ship masters, evidently considered the situation so free from danger that he de- under a lot of bags in the wagon. clined the Weenawken's offer to take the Bulgaria in tow. The company has taken steps to render assistance to the steamer.

Ice-Bound for Two Weeks-Schooner in All the Sound Steamers Were Tred Up.

Weather Ever Known in Alabama -Coal Famine Possible.

New York, Feb. 14.-At 3 p.in. yesterday the blizzard continued unabated. In the various harbors and coves on the sound there were over 100 vessels of all descriptions reported frozen solidly in the ice. The sound has not been so choked up since the biizzard ten years ago.

Orders were issued to suspend all operations on the main line and branches of the Long Island Railroad until the storm subsided. Superintendent Potter said it was useless to attempt to do anything as they could not move a wheel or work a switch in such a raging blizzard. Drifts nearly ten feet high were prevalent throughout the island, and the wind blew the snow on the track almost as fast as plows could remove it. All of the sound steamboats are tied up by the

It Must Be Exterminated in Ontario.

The Minister of Agriculture Intro duces a Bill for That Purpose-New Enterprises Seek Incorporation.

Toronto, Feb. 14.-In the legislature yesterday Mr. Whitney cailed the premier's attention to the paragraph in a Toronto evening paper, saying that Hon. J. M. Gibson intended resigning his post and that Hon, S. C. Wood would be his successor. Mr. Hardy said he had not heard of it himself and he apprehended Mr. Gibson would be found in his place as heretofore.

Mr. Gibson shortly after arrived from the south, where he had been sojourn-ing for his health, which is very much improved. Ne denied the rumor.

SAN JOSE SCALE. minister of agriculture introduced a bill respecting the San Jose scale. The bill comprises three distinct paragraphs, the most important of which provides for a general fumi-gation of all nursery stock by hydrocyanic acid gas, which is extremely poisonous. The object of this is to destroy all insect life on these plants. The department has found that the nurseries are the breeding ground for all these foreign pests, and it is from these that the country is being supplied with new pests, among which is the scale. The law is now in force in Maryland with splendid success. Another paragraph provides for the destruction of an entire orchard where there is general evidence of the prevalence of the scale. Heretofore only traffic, which had been carried on with individual trees could be destroyed, traffic, which had been carried on with individual trees day and the government was put to a great more or less success during the day, and the government was put to a great deal of unnecessary expense thereby. The bill p rovides that the department shall be notified before such action is taken, and another inspector will be named. If both are of opinion that the sibility of having it delivered, owing orchard is generally infested or liable to the impassable condition of the to become infested, it will be destroyed. Another clause provides for the notification of the department in all cases where inspectors discover the scale, and thereafter the owner of the stock shall not be permitted to dispose of any of the trees until after full examination the inspector shall report that

Ed Hanlon's radical idea regarding the scoring of hits would make fielding averages an impossibility and practically wipe out the fielding records. Hanlon says that every ball hit on the ground or bound should be scored as a hit, while the error column should be confined solely to dropped flies or thrown down balls. If the Hanlon idea became the law the value of batting and fielding averages would be utterly destroyed.

Several residents of Mount Pleasant, near Brantford, give reports of curious phenomena which occurred there Friday night. They declare that an earthquake took place in the vicinity of the village, and that several of the houses were shaken so that dishes rattled in the cupboard, and that they also heard ominous sounds which produced a general scare. A probable cause for the strange occurrence is that the extreme cold had so contracted the frozen ground as to cause a large fissure, and that the noise and vibration of this alarmed the residents.

A Notable Armenian Dead. A notable man died a few days ago in Paris, Nubar Pasha, a Christian Armenian, who has played a great part in the political life of Egypt. That prince of journalists, the Paris correspondent of the Times, devotes three and a half columns to a statement of his life and work. His life is by no means lacking in romance, and his work as a statesman was inspired by love of Egypt and loyalty to Britain. His view of Egyptian policy is summed up in his own words-"What Egypt needs to become great and flourishing are two things-justice and water." That is a simple statement, and it expresses a need which is meeting its fulfillment under British rule more fully than ever before

We cannot follow this distinguished career through all its many changes. but it is well that we should pay a little attention to the life of one who was such a faithful friend and servant of the empire. The old man "had followed with passionate attention the Soudan campaign, he had foreseen its difficulties, and predicted its success, and he traced enthusiastically the new empire of the Soudan." He was more than once Prime Minister of Egypt, and stood by the land when it was difficult to get anyone to act in that capacity. For example, when England withdrew from the Soudan, though he did not England."

From the first he had shown the neceswaking up one fine morning and finding a flag, a corporal and four men there. She must keep watch even to the Cape. When there are at home three men like Salisbury, Balfour and Chamberlain, and abroad three men like Cromer, Kitchener and Rhodes, if their country and the civilized world are not presented with a new empire. they themselves, as well as outsiders. will be disappointed." This from an Englishman would have a jingo sound, British rule it sounds quite natural.

The Trust-Ridden Newspapers. ried everything before them.

The newspapers of the United States are making a vigorous fight against the paper trust, and are flooding the country with literature on the subject. The Journal of Commerce points out American paper-makers exported last year 53,718 tons of paper, and argues that this export is sufficient evidence that they need no protection from foreign countries. If this is good logic, then none of the great industries of the United States needs protection, for all of them are exporters. Many of the newspapers that groan under the extortion of the paper trust, and upon the throw down the tariff on per, are champions of extreme protection. They advocate the general policy which has made it possible for a trust to rob them. They attack the product of a system and defend the system itself. It is selfish and inconsistent in them to condemn the paper trust because their own interests suffer, while tolerating other trusts which oppress the whole community. What is sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander.

Judging the case on its own merits, the newspapers of the United States are shamefully imposed upon. The trust pays no duty on its raw material-pulpwood. The duty pound is $6 a ton, which is absolutely prohibitory. The trust, therefore, can practic lly dictate its own price, and it has been computed that every increase of a quarter of a cent a pound true hero of the war. in the price of news printing paper adds $34,000,000 to the value of ing the reciprocity treaty with Canada, and dictating to the United States Congress. The newspapers ask that the duty on paper and wood pulp shall be stricken off. This would compel the trust to reduce prices to the level of international competition. Canada is interested in the matter, as it will be more profitable to export our forest products to the United States in the manufactured form of paper and wood pulp. In fact, if we cannot export our forest wealth in that form, it is questionable whether we ought to export

Meantime, the newspapers of the United States are getting the best education they ever had in sound tariff

The Dear Old Farm.

In a reference to Mr. Barr's forthcoming book on pioneer days in Western Ontario, we stated that this field had not been touched by Canadian writers. In this we unwittingly overlooked a very valuable work which was published last year, entitled "The Dear Old Farm." The author has for years contributed to the St. Thomas Journal, over the nom de plume of Malcolm, a weekly budget of literary criticism and original essays of a high order of merit. In "The Dear Old Farm" he has produced a very attractive volume, written with the sympathetic insight of one who knows and loves his subject. The writer is, as he tells us in the introduction, a son of one of the early pioneers, and his early childhood was passed amid the later surroundings of the axe and spinningwheel period of our national existence. To this fact we owe so accurate a picture of those brave days when our approve of this step, he was willing to sturdy fathers and grandfathers were make the best of it, because "the evac- engaged in the rough-and-tumble fight | tional and philanthropic agencies. The French Chamber of Deputies has sanctioned the Government's concession to the anti-Dreyfusards. The excuse is that the ministers are trying to ward off a military coup which would wreck the republic. Is a republican form of government worth saving if its existence depends on a denial of justice to even one man?

The Merchants' Club, of Chicago, has been applauding Hon. John Charlton's arguments for friendly commercial relations between the United States and Canada. It is safe to say that nearly every chamber of commerce in the United States would vote in favor of reciprocity. The whole thing is blocked by a comparative handful of men in the fish, paper and lumber business.

The late H. A. Massey, of Toronto, built the splendid Massey Hall, at a cost of $150,000, for the public use, under the pledge that it should be exempt from taxation. An attempt is now being made to repudiate the pledge. Complaint is often made that Toronto's wealthy men are chary in their public benefactions, and the newspapers point to Montreal, where millions of private money have been showered on educa-Massey Hall incident seems to indicate that there is little inducement to rich citizens to open their pockets in Toronto. The controversy which has been raged around this question for months is not at all creditable to the city.

Our Conservative friends are full of noise over the West Elgin election, but they should make sure of their ground before hurling charges so recklessly. The Sault Ste. Marie Express has interviewed Mr. Duncan Bole of that town, who is accused of being the chief Grit sinner in the riding on election day. Mr. Bole is an insurance man, whose business takes him all over the Province. He happened to be in St. Thomas on election day. While there it transpired that the deputy returning officer who was to have held the poll at Shedden reported that he would not be able to act on account of illness, and Mr. Bole was asked and consented to take the place. vote resulted in 127 votes being cast for Mr. Macnish as against 42 for Mr. Macdiarmid, and after the ballots had been counted the Conservative scrutineers complimented Mr. Bole upon the impartial manner in which the poll had been conducted. "In view of these facts," says the Express, "it is but natural that Mr. Bole should feel annoyed at the slanderous charges of crookedness that are being made against him, and if an investigation is heard it will give him an opportunity of showing conclusively that everything in connection with the election with which he had to do was conducted fairly and honestly, and the 'Tories' are kicking because they don't relish defeat."

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Civilizing the Doukhobers. [Toronto Telegram.]

Now that these Doukhobors have broken into hockey, they may develop the other vices of civilization, and attend the Winnipeg bonspiel, to shout "Hoot, mon," and "Noo, laddie, put it tae the tee," with the other curlers.

Astor's Asininity. [Boston Herald.]

The next time William Waldorf Astor contemplates bringing a libel suit against a London newspaper for a trivial offense to his feelings, he will do well to think twice, and think hard. He may save himself from being internationally laughed at.

[Detroit Free Press.] Just as two brothers can live in harmony, pursuing their common interests and at the same time be on friendly terms with other people, so Great Britain and America can work out their kindred interests without necessarily alienating the rest of the world.

The Galicians.

[MacGregor, Man., Herald.] When the Galicians first came to Manitoba there was almost a universal prejudice against them. It was asserted that they would never succeed, that they were filthy, ignorant and depraved, and that they were altogether an undesirable lot and could never become good settlers. The Herald, too, was of that opinion; time, the great rectifier of mistakes, has proved that we were all wrong. Experience proves that they are industrious and successful settlers.

Aren la d Lampman.

[Ottawa Journal.] In the passing of Archibald Lampman, a gentle and kindly soul is gone, an owner of high thought and master of pure English whose ill-fortune it was to be born in the suburbs of civilization. This country has as yet but a limited place for the poet or the artist, nor will it have much better for many a decade. Raw, rough, mainly unbroken, it is the land of the engineer, the railway promoter, the contractor, the hard-headed practical man. There is no leisure, little cul-necessity and nature absorbs the mind and presses upon the body. Money is the god, and the worship must be material. However sweet the voice of a singer, it is scarce heard amid the roar of steam whistles, the grunt of engines or clang of hammers, the clatter of business and buzz of politics, and if we do hear it we can scarce halt to listen for fear that we shall not overtake our daily bread.

Solid Sore from Knee to Instep. Thought have to be Amputated. Walked with Crutch. Almost Wild with Pain.

Physician Said "Never could be Cured." Tries CUTICURA. Sleep after First Application. Cured in Eight Weeks.

I was afflicted with a terrible sore leg, caused by a cut. It became so inflamed that it was ught it would have to be amputated. My physician said that "it could never be cured. that it would remain a running sore on account of the poisonous state of my blood." When I got out of bed I could hardly stand the pain, and had to get along with a crutch. I tried all kinds of blood and other medicines without success, my leg getting worse until it became a solid sore from my knee to instep. Utterly discouraged and almost wild with pain, I gave up in despair, rasking up my mind that death would be a sweet rollef. Casually picking up an old paper. I making up my mind that death would be a sweet rollef. Casually picking up an old paper, I noticed the description of a man who had been cared by Cuticuna remedies, afflicted like myself. I immediately procured the Cuticuna Resouvent, Cuticuna Foar, and Cuticuna (ointment). The first amplication of Cuticuna (ointment), after careful y washing my leg with warm water and plenty of the Cuticuna Soar, gazs me so much relief that I was able to sleep over half of the night, and after the third day I rested wall every night. I went on improving, and in well every night. I went on improving, and in cractly eight weeks from the time I began the use of CUTICURA remedies I was able to return to my trade (corpectating), well and sound. F. C. BRISCOE, Aug. 19,1808. 100 W. Many old people are troubled with a distressing Cough which seizes on them as soon as the cold weather sets in, and renders them almost invalids for the entire winter.

Those subject to recurring colds of this kind, will find relief and cure by using Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It is wonderful the way it checks the Cough and so heals and gives strength and vitality to the lungs that they are able to resist an attack of cold.

Mr. S. Smith, Sidney had a 'ory bad cold which lasted nine weeks. I tried various remedies but got no relief, I then bought six bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup which made a complete cure." Price 25c. a bottle. All dealers.

SNOW THE SOUTH

Washington Literally Buried Under "the Beautiful."

All Cold Weather Records Broken in Florida and Louisiana.

Washington, Feb. 14.—The storm swept past Washington about mid-night last night, and this morning the sun shone brightly from a clear blue sky on a city buried approximately three feet deep in snow. The gale of wind-driven snow traveled northeastward during yesterday, leaving its heavy mantle of snow and its tales of hardship and suffering in the south. When householders in this city awakened this morning they found them-selves banked in by huge snowdrifts. But finding the skies serene they started to work with energy to clear a way out, and by noon travel afoot and in carriages was possible, though difficult. A single cable car running to the eastern end of the city was the only one in operation. In places the drifts were eight feet high. The official weather bureau re-cords show that from Washington south the weather conditions were unprecedented in the history of the service. They show that since Sunday, Feb. 5; 35 inches of snow have fallen in Washington, and of this 14 inches fell between Sunday night and last night. This is almost twice that of any ever before known in this city.

All through the south records of cold weather was broken. In Jacksonville Fla., the thermometer registered 10° above, which is 4° lower than ever before. New Orleans registered 6° above, weather was broken. At Jacksonville a temperature of 1° below exceeded all previous records by 4°. The wind was blowing at a high rate in most places

MLLE. TREBELLI AT THE GRAND

Large Audience Attracted by the Popular Soprano-An Artistic Treat.

The grand concert at the opera house last night was a pronounced success. The attendance was large, and a programme, consisting of a choice selection by various composers, was presented by artists well fitted to furnish an artistic treat. The artists were Mlle. Antoinette Trebelli, the famous soprano; Mr. Harold Jarvis, of Detroit, a well-known tenor, and Mr. George Fox, of Hamilton, a rising young violinist. Mr. Jarvis and Mr. Fox have on previous occasions established themselves in popular favor here, but it was Mlle. Trebelli's first appearance before a London audience. She met with a warm welcome. She sang a varied and highly pleasing selection, which admirably revealed the beauty of her voice and finish of her method. The "Ah fors Elui," from "Traviata," aroused the audience to enthusiasm, and in response to the applause which greeted her first effort, the singer gave that beautiful old melody, "Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair." Later she sang "The Swallows," by Frederic H. Cowan, and "Love Has Eyes," by Sir Henry Bishop, and as one of her encores the "Laughing Song," by Auber. The accomplished singer's personality is charming. Her voice is one of exquisite sweetness, and the most difficult passages are rendered by her with much neatness and certainty of tone. Her hilarity in the "Laughing

Song" is remarkably infectious. Mr. Harold Jarvis was in excellent voice, and sang most admirably the recitative and aria from Gounod's "Queen of Sheba," "Lend Me Your Aid," and for encore "Good-bye, Fond Heart"; "The Lament of Flora Macdonald," and for encore "The White 'Squall." Mr. George Fox gave violin selections consisting of a cavatina by Bohm and salterello by Franz Ries; the "Valse Caprice," of Wieniawski," "Spring Song," by Grieg, and "Serenade," by

G. Pierre," very acceptably.
Mr. W. H. Hewlett, as the accompanist, acquitted himself in a very Printers' Concert and Smoker a Big Success-Large Turnout of the Tramp Brotherhood.

Tramps of all colors, shapes and sizes congregated at Germania Hall last night on the occasion of the printers' tramp concert, under the auspices of London Typographical Union, No. 133. The knights of the road parading down Richmond street in small, awkward squads caused numerous citizens to have the nightmare and wonder if they had securely locked their stables and chicken coops. One citizen was mean enough to suggest that it was the advance body of unemployed on their way to the civic headquarters to demand work. This was a hard blow, but the Sons of Rest bore up bravely. Stray dogs took a great fancy to some of the aggre-

the motley assemblage at the hall, one would have thought that all the prisoners in the jails for miles around had been liberated. If tramps are as bad as they were painted by last night's aggregation, hanging is too good for the whole outfit of them. The tramp with the "jolly red nose," was the most conspicuous, while hobos, peg-legs, coons, and every stamp of the tramp fraternity were well represented. The costumes were "costly and handsome," and should have been in the hands of the rag-man some ten

An alleged fistic bout between "Kit Carson" and "Kit Robinson," was too tame to consider anything but a fizzle. Referee Count de Brophy called it

'a draw.' The rest of the evening was spent in playing cards and social conversation. The tramps had lively times getting to the place of meeting. An amusing incident happened to four of the brotherhood who had to pass the railroad track down south. A policeman got his eagle eye upon them, and thinking they had just dropped from a freight car standing near by, made after the quartet, who saw the humor of the episode and made off at a lively clip. After a long stern chase the "tramps" came to a standstill and waited for the officer, not wishing to injure him with overexertion. Before the guardian of the law could get his breath, the situation was explained by one of the quartet in the following manner: "Buy a ticket to the tramp concert, 15 cents. The blue-coat is now a wiser and sadder man. The tramp policeman had his troubles ooking after the crowd. He made numerous arrests, the prisoners being charged with the serious offense of having been caught working. A number of resolutions condemning work in general were passed by the brotherhood before an adjournment was made.

"WORLD AGAINST HER" TONIGHT The New York News has the following to say about the performance that appears at the Grand tonight: Mr. Frank Harvey has not only written a powerful melodrama in "The World Against Her," produced at the Peoples' Theater last evening, but has admirably suited Agnes Wallace Villa in the role of the suffering heroine, Madge Carlton. The story is of English country and London life, and is very cleverly constructed, the wrongs and sufferings of a young wife, susgles to keep her child from him, from the main idea of the plot. The situations are well arranged and the of the vast audience last evening was held from beginning to close, only interrupted by repeated roars of laughserved applause at the strong scenes. These men who drive the heavy lorries in all sorts of weather must be able to read, write and figure correctly, and in many other ways have a great deal of responsibility resting on their shoulders. The lot of the railway teamsters been gradually growing worse until now, if a merchant wants a team as late as nine and ten o'clock he can get it, though the teamsters do not receive one cent overtime. I do not hesistrengthen the delegation by adding tate in saying that the present state of affairs is both unchristian and inhuman. It is a disgrace to the fair name of our city, and it is high time that the public conscience was aroused to the fact that these men are human beings, whose welfare should be considered, and not wooden machines run by an electric current. It is uncharitable and unfair for any business man to seek to make a system of filling orders that invariably come in at the last moment, and which entails a couple of hours' labor on the part, not of the teamster alone, but of the shippers and freight handlers. The railways could easily put a stop to this outrage ous system of they would, and I am pleased to know that at least two of them are heartily in favor of a change. What is needed is that the public should realize the onerous and unjust conditions forced on an unfortunate New Yorkers Pay for the Embargo on | class of men by people who, to say the least, are criminally thoughtless. It is a hopeful sign to see the clergy taking their share in preaching against late hours on Saturday night; but it needs far more than this. The agitation should go deeper, and extend to every night in the week. Men do not work late all through the week because the factories pay on Saturday night; but most people seem to lose sight of this flact. I am in favor of paying wages on Friday evenings, but consider the time has come when the clergymen the W. C. T. If the teamsters were automatic machines, that could be run by pressing an electric button, their owners would be careful to oil them well, and see that they were kept in good repair; but as they are only men, and can easily be replaced without expense, we suppose it is all right to wear them out. I trust, Mr. Editor, that our preachers and philanthropists will take a broad view of this matter. It is time we had a change, and it cannot come any too soon. To Whom She Said

CHAPTER IV.

Eden's mind was still busy with the proposal thus abruptly made when she set off on the following morning to keep her appointment at Mrs. Merstham's. She had been eager for some time past to be allowed to give her mother some assistance in providing for their little household; but ritherto Mrs. Aubrey had put her off with loving assurances that it was unnecessary—that the profits accruing from her own teaching made a sufficient addition to the small-very small -income she already possessed.

But Eden was too affectionate a daughter to be satisfied with this; and she was too young and inexperienced to comprehend how Mrs. Aubrey, who had transferred to her first born all passionate love she had felt for her husband, dreaded exposing her child to the annoyance and slights that often fell to her own lot. It was one of her greatest consolations to know that when she returned home she should find Eden awaiting her, with the happy smiles of untroubled girlhood beaming in her eyes. It would be time enough for her darling to go forth and toil in the cold, rude world, when she was no longer able to do so; and thinking thus she avoided Eden's pleas .) be made useful.

Of late, too, more ambitious thoughts for her daughter had begun to fill her mind. Eden's voice promised to be a soprano of exquisite sweetness, and the mother, herself an excellent musician-resolved to train it for a year or two, and then take her up to London and place her under the care of and beauty of outline, they had lost some eminent master, thus enabling in the half-bashful, half-arch prettiher to escape the drudgery of a life like her own. She shuddered whenpictured her child doomed as she had been ever since her early widowhood to be a teacher of music in an obscure country village, where the farmers, whose children she instructed, were incapable of appreciat-ing the refinement and ability of their instructress.

But Eden, who was as yet in ignorance of her mother's intentions, was beginning to chafe at the inactivity to which she was condemned. What was the use of her practicing day after day, week after week, if she were not permitted to make use of what she was attaining? It was true, that mama praised her as the best of housepienty of occupation until lately, in in nursing myself back to something nursing and teaching Lotty, who had been a most delicate child. But now that her sister's health was a lately what you wanted the control of t that her sister's health was established and their one servant so thoroughly trained as to be a domestic treasure, Eden's daily avocations did not suffice for the active mind of an intelligent, animated girl, and she hailed with delight the idea of having the dull hours devoted to one slow pupil brightened by the presence of the lively, noisy twins. She was not at all afraid that she should not be able to manage them; and some one to share Lotty's lessons, to tease her a little over her render her more child-like, was just the sort of impetus the little girl re-

On first hearing of the plan, Mrs. Aubery had demurred, and expressed her fears that Eden would find a couple of pupils, whose parents would not properly uphold her authority, very troublesome ones; but her daugh-ter, lying on the naturally good disposition which all the Stretbys appeared to possess, had begged permission o make the trial, and was now specuating as to what the answer her moher had promised to give in the evening would be.

This subject, and the best method of Imparting instruction to such wild damsels, were still uppermost in Eden's thoughts when she was ushered, as before, into Mrs. Mertham's studio. she had a tolerably gracious reception, and was encouraged to talk as she sat in the prescribed attitude, while Verna at her easel sketched into her picture the face whose expression had taken her fancy.

For some time the artist worked con amore, amused by Eden's naive, but clever comments on the copies from the old masters that hung around.

"I must not forget to show you the portrait of myself that hangs in the green drawing-room," she observed, presently. "I should like to hear whether your opinion of it coincides with my own."

"That is putting me to a sharp test, isn't it?" asked Eden. "I am no isn't it?" asked Eden. "I am no judge of paintings. I merely commend what I see because I like it, perhaps for the sentiment more than the execution; while you have an educated eye and taste, and would be quick to discover defects or beauties which I am too ignerant to descry."
"Don't affect too much humility,

Miss Aubrey, or I shall begin to think that you were not in earnest when honored that crude water-color drawing with such a long and apparently gratified inspection.'

"I was quite in earnest in thinking it charming." Eden assured her. "I have just been reading 'Romeo and Juliet' for the first time, and that picture brought the play before me so vividly, that I could have gazed at it ever so much longer."
"Then it was for its associations

you admired it, and not because you thought the Juliet a capital likeness, Verna observed, with an indulgent smile. "Am I not right?" "I scarcely know," was the frank reply. "It is like you, and yet it is not like you." "The attitude is bad," Mrs. Merstham commented, with a glance at her statuesque form and well shaped head in the mirror that hung so conveni-

"Is it. I did not notice that. picture pleased me so well that I forgot to criticise the details; but I remembered thinking when I perceived that the principal female figure was intended for you, that the painter must have caught you in one of you happiest moods; the face wears so soft-so sweet an expression."

"I was happy then—in a fool's paradise, I believe," murmured Verna, falling into a reverie, and forgetting for a few moments that she was not alone. "But it would have been madness! and I acted wisely in marrying as I did. Even he must think so now.'

Eden, who instinctively knew that these words were not for her ear, stooped to caress and talk to the little spaniel that lay at her feet, until Mrs. Me. am arcused herself from her am arcused herself from her day dre ... and resumed work.
"I suppose, Miss Aubrey, I ought to be very modest and deprecate your praises of my portrait; but the honest truth is, that I like to be considered beautiful. When I was a child there was at one time a fear expressed that a painful disease, from which I was suffering, would disfigure me; and the anxiety that was manifested by everyone about me, lest it should be so, taught me to value my good looks. Eden was sympathetic enough to induce the lady to proceed in the same

"I was very young when that little sketch you admire so much was painted. It was just before may marriage, and I was barely 19, when Mr. Mers-tham proposed. Do you think I was handsomer then than now?" "Oh, no!" was the prompt reply.

"But-And then Eden paused in confusion. In what words could she explain to Mrs. Merstham that what her features had gained in beauty of color ness that mush have characterized them? The Juliet of the picture was an opening rose-bud in the garden of girls; the lady who awaited her reply with such grave expectancy was a glowing queen rose, superb in her beauty, but not half so sweet as the earlier blossom.

"Pray don't stop at a but, Miss Aubrey!" cried Verna impatiently, "or Aubrey!" cried Verna impatiently, "or you will lose your character for candor. Do you think I have faded since my marriage? I know that at Mr. Merstham's death, and in the hideous cap I was obliged to wear, I looked quite old and haggard. I had endured enough to make me both. knows the comparative happiness of those last few months has been deeply

"I believe I was thinking that many would consider you much more beautiful than you were when that picture was taken.'

"But you do not. And why?" Eden smiled.

"Take your stand before that glass, Mrs. Merstham, and let your features assume the tender, half-pleased, half-frightened expression they wore in that picture, and then you will know what I mean."

Verna colored, laughed, called her a ridiculous child, and then stood idly playing with her pencil and yielding to the spell of memories that made her sometimes frown, sometimes sigh. But at last, with a pettish stamp of her foot, as if angry at her weakness, she dipped her brush in her paint, and made a few more strokes.

"You are a keen observer, Miss
"You are a keen observer, "If I Aubrey," she said, presently. "If I had anything to conceal I should be half afraid of you, but I have no greater fault to confess to than a little more of that worldly wisdom most women of my age think it is most romantic to decry. Suppose, as you have given me your opinion of the Juliet of my picture, you now tell me what you think of the Romeo in in it? But, perhaps," she added, catching her breath slightly, and laughing a little affectedly—"perhaps you took no notice of what I have been inclined to think the better-drawn and more interesting of the two?"

"Oh! yes, I did," responded Eden ingenuously. "I thought it more carefully painted than your own, and I have never seen a face I liked so well. I tried to draw it from memory, but could not succeed.'

The Drift 75 Feet Deep-Foolish Trick of a Young Farmer-Several Men Frozen to Death.

Denver, Col., Feb. 14. - A special from Silver Plume, Col., says: Many people living in cabins on the mountain sides are moving today in order to avoid possible death in the snow slides, such as that which swept down Cheyenne Canyon Sunday. So far eight bodies have been recovered. Three men who were caught in the slide were taken out only slightly bruised, and they will recover. It is known that and two are missing. Possibly a dozen more were caught. The men who were saved say that it was a miracle, for they were unable to get out of the way of the moving mass of snow. The known dead are: Dominick Destefeno, his wife, his son and his daughter; Joseph, John and Peter Tondeni, Jerome Guinzt, John Bietto, Enric Navaria. The injured are: Tony Negretta, arm broken; Jos. Concono, head cut; Tony Malino, leg broken. The bodies of Destefeno and of Joseph Tondeni have not been recovered.

SEVENTY-FIVE FEET DEEP. Where the slide finally stopped the drift is 300 feet across and 50 to 75 feet in denth, and fully 1,500 feet in length. The drift is filled with timbers and boulders, and the rescue party found it almost impossible at times to dig the hard mass. At Destefeno's cabin no trace of the man could be found. The roof of the cabin was taken off and the sides were crushed. On the floor sat the body of his wife. On one side was the boy, as if kneeling in prayer, while directly in front of the mother was the little girl of two years in the same supplicating attitude. The mother was leaning over the little girl, as if giving her protection. All three were dead. The snow was packed tightly around them. The ore houses of Pelican and Carry City mines were swept away, and it is estimated that $50,000 worth of ore was carried into the basin between the mountains and lost.

DAIRY WORK

Instructors Appointed by the W. C. Cheese and Eutter Association.

Stratford, Ont., Feb. 14 .- A fully attended meeting of the board of directors of the Cheese and Butter Association of Western Ontario was held at Stratford on Saturday, the president, Harold Eagle, in the chair.

It was decided to expend the sum of $3,400 for instruction at such cheese factories and creameries in Western Ontario as should apply for the services of the association instructors. The following instructors were appointed: James Morrison, Stratford, for the southeastern division, comprising the counties of Oxford, Norfolk, Brant, Haldimand, Welland, Lincoln, Wentworth, Halton and Peel; J. C. Luton, Belmont, for the southwestern division, comprising the counties of Middlesex, Elgin. Lambton, Kent and Essex; Geo. Macdonald, Bluevale, for the northwestern division, comprising the counties of Bruce, Huron, Perth and Waterloo; Arch Smith, Beachville, for the eastern division, comprising the counties of Grey, Simcoe, Dufferin and Wellington.

Mr. Smith will be instructor at the summer creameries over the whole of Western Ontario, while the instructors will confine themselves wholly to instruction at cheese factories. A grad-uated scale of fees will be charged to cheese factories and creameries for services of instructors, and the $3,400 appropriated for instruction will be increased by the amounts received for fees. It was urged that greater efforts should be made to have the milk delivered to the factories in uniformly perfect condition, as that is the first essential to the making of a high class article, which it is necessary to have, to compete successfully in the market of the world.

MORE MARRIAGES NEEDED.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.-Rev. Father Falon, of St. Joseph's Church, stated from his pulpit that there were altogether too few marriages in his parish. Last year there were only seventeen marriages in his parish, an increase of four over the previous year.

THE TUBERCULINE TEST. Albany, N. Y., Feb. 14.-Tuberculosis forms an important chapter of the annual report of New York State Board of Health. The legislature granted an appropriation of $10,000 for the prosecution of the work in this direction. Since Janua.) 1898, the committee have reported the examination and tuberculin test of 1,874 cattle, of which 192 have been condemned, and 64 of the number have already been destroyed. The tuberculosis committee felt the need of a larger appropriation for carrying on their work.

> Machinist Perishes in Attempting to Save His Tools-Round House at Sarnia Burned.

Digby, N. S., Feb. 14.-Letteney & Bros.' drygoods store was discovered on fire about 10:30 last night. It spread very rapidly, burning the principal business portions of the town. Buildings, from Jenner's drug store to Shreve's block, were all consumed at 12:15. A heavy gale was blowing from a northeasterly direction.

The fire started while a howling gale was sweeping over the town, a heavy snowstorm having prevailed all day, which left nearly two feet of snow on the ground.

At 2 a.m. the fire seemed to have received a check at the Dufferin House, one of the largest hotels in the town. Both sides of the street were covered by the sweeping flames. Up to this point and at the hour named, it was thought the worst was over. The Dufferin House has probably been saved, as well as the Bank of Nova Scotia building, but only a few of the larger business buildings were spared. The burned structures include Jenner's drug store, Mayor Shreve's office and store building, G. F. Stone's drygoods and hardware establishment, Burnham's grocery block, the Waverly House, Lindstrom's jewelry store, the Turnbull block, the post office, and a dozen small buildings, occupied chiefly by small stores, and two restaurants. A number of the buildings burned were occupied in their upper stories as dwellings, and probably 100 households were cleaned out by the Digby is the third town in Western Nova Scotia to have suffered a severe visitation of flames within fifteen months. In the month of October, 1897, Windsor, N. S., was wiped out, and only a month ago Bridgewater became a prey to flames. The insurance in Digby will be very much heavier than the loss.

LOST HIS LIFE FOR HIS TOOLS. Gananoque, Ont., Feb. 14.-Part of the George Gillies' bolt factory was destroyed and part of the main bolt shop damaged by fire last night. The loss will probably exceed $15,000. W. Ramsay, a machinist, employed in the factory, entered the shop to secure his tools and was suffocated by smoke. His family are heartbroken with grief, he being the only son and eldest child.

ROUNDHOUSE BURNED.

D. R. R. Company suffered a heavy loss by fire here on Sunday morning, when the Erie and Huron roundhouse, with all its contents, including two passenger locomotives, was destroyed. The fire started in a small room at the southeast corner of the roundhouse, where oil, waste, etc., was kept. The men were at work endeavoring to thaw out the waterpipes, which were frozen, and in less than ten minutes they were surprised to see the small room at the southeast corner of the building a seething mass of flame. The fire had gained such headway that the work of saving the building was out of the question. Two passenger engines were in the roundhouse at the time, and as their fires were out and steam down, it was impossible to get them out. The property destroyed is said to be covered by insurance.

Montreal, Feb. 14.-Fire broke out about 10 o'clock in an unoccupied building on Victoria Square, owned by Thomas Leggett. The fire started in some debris in the basement, and it was feared would extend to the adjoining buildings, but it was soon under control. Albany, N. Y., Feb. 14 .- One hundred and fifty feet of a business portion of South Pearl street was destroyed by fire on Sunday morning. Eight firms doing a prosperous business had their stocks totally destroyed. The loss will reach $250,000, about half of which is covered by insurance. Mann & Anker, makers of ladies' garments; the Grand Union Tea Company; Hallenback & Co., milliners, and Mann & Waldron, wholesale dealers in ladies' suits, are the principal sufferers. MR. RADCLIFFE

The Poet of Imperialism Ably Treated.

His Life and Work Analyzed-Lecture Under the Auspices of the Coiberne Street Epworth League.

Mr. S. J. Radcliffe, B.A., of the Collegiate Institute, delivered an attractive and profitable address on "Kipling" last night, under the auspices of the Epworth League of the Colborne Street Methodist Church. The lecture was a consideration of the author's life, and a comprehensive and lucid analysis of the peculiarities of subject and style, for which Kipling is so remarkable. Mr. Radeliffe, in opening, narrated the author's early life in India, his education in England, his return to India as reporter and war correspondent on the Lahore Civil and Minitary Gazette, in which capacity he gained his insight into the native Indian character, and his knowledge of the British army. At the age of 21 he published his "Departmental Ditties," and at the age of 23 his "Plain Tales from the Hills," which won him fame and popularity, although the English public were slow to recognize the merits of a youth who so disregarded the rules of literary composition. In 1889 he attempted a study of London life in the same manner that he had exploited India, but his "Light That Failed" is not so satis-1892 he married Miss Balistier, a sister of Wolcott Balistier, his partner, in another literary work. After his mar-riage he came to live in Vermont, and remained in America for the next three years. His appearance and habits were then described. He turns out stories with amazing rapidity, which makes us wish that he would retire to India to develop faculties for more serious work. He is the greatest literary hope of our age, and we are naturally very solicitous about his success. He recognizes fully the value of industry as an adjunct of genius. His observation is very keen. He is always on the lookout for a striking expression, scene, character or incident. His descriptive powers are excellent, and his experience covers a wide field for one so young, embracing all he has seen in Vermont hillsides, with the fishermen of Cape Cod, on ocean steamers, in London's streets, in Indian mess-rooms and on Afghan battlefields. Children are one of his hobbies, and the tender interest he takes in them was evidenced by the story of little Muhammeddin. His views on education are of a very heroic nature, where he advises to let boys know something of the evil and disagreeable things in life, and shows us the folly of the sheltered life system, especially in the prepara-

Some critics, continued the lecturer, think his fame depends on his pictures of native life. The English public know the character of the native only from the superficial observations of travelers or reports of officers and government employes. Kipling was not satisfied with that, but describes his habis dress, mystery, superstition, the with which he regards British rule and innovations. In "The Day's Work" his latest book, we have some admirable portraits of these phases of life. In "The Bridge Builders" we find an excellent picture of the energy, skill, self-reliance and ambition of the engineer who builds the bridge to span the Ganges; there is a graphic descrip-tion of a flood which threatens to sweep all away, but greatest of all we have the conference of the animals, symbolizing the spirits and dieties of India, who view with consternation the powerlessness of the great mother of the waters against this new diety in Western civilization and mechanical

"The Gate of a Hundred Sorrows" depicts the horrors of opium with a realism that surpasses even the florid description of De Quincey, in his "Confessions of an Opium Eater." His Anglo-Indian society sketches were not considered as good as the others, as the characters were those we have met before, and the views of feminine life were very one-sided. His women were either coquettes, or the coarse, good-hearted wives and daughters of the non-commissioned officers. One of the most difficult things to attempt is an appreciation of the thoughts and feelings of animals. In the Jungle-Book we go with Mowgli and learn the nature of the wild animals as man does not know it. This book has done as much as any work of the time to restore the wonder of creation, and worship has been defined as transcendent wonder. One thing that readers of Kipling will notice is his use of technical knowledge. It is a very difficult thing to do, as it is so easy to be tripped up when one commences to write in special thoughts requiring technical knowledge. Experts tell his knowledge is wonderfully accurate. When he writes of sport or chase or the racetrack, the sportsmen grow enthusiastic, as they feel that the author must be one of their own fraternity. When he cure it for you writes of ships, railways and steam he seems like a man who had lived his life among these things. In "McAndrews' Hymn," the steam engine seems to be elevated to its proper place in literature for the first time. Wordsworth predicted that the poet would transfigure with his divine gift the applications of science when men were familiarized with them. son treats the subject poetically in his "Locksley Hall," but seems timid lest he should travel beyond the domain of poetry. Ruskin, the apostle of beauty, hurled anathemas against railway trains as demons shricking blasphemy against the fairest works of God. Critics have told Mr. Kipling that he must get the oil off his hands in the dews or Arcady if he wished to be laurel-crowned. But he needs not their advice. He makes McAndrews pray for the poet to sing the song of

"O for the man to weld it in one triphammer strain. Till even first-class passengers could tell its meanin' plain."

But Kipling's greatest power and work lie in his soldier stories. He has made the English people respect and sympathize with the man who guards us while we sleep. He was the man who discovered Tommy Atkins, and expressed his sorrows and disappointments. The lecturer described the three best characters Kipling had ever drawn in the persons of Mulvaney, Otheris and Learoyd, and recited some of the ballads, as "Mandalay," "The 'Eathen, in His Blindness," and "Tommy," as illustrative of different phases of soldier life.

Kipling is also the poet of Imperialism, which would unite the colonies and keep the Russians out of India. Besides this, he sometimes, as in his Recessional, scars above dialect, and writes verse that would command the respect of even so severe a critic as Matthew Arnold in its noble seriousness. After the Queen's jubilee and the huzzas, and boasts of commerce, wealth, navies, armies, bodily and mental vigor, he reminds the nation that its strength lies not in just as the great organ peals porth its great Recessional anthem at the close of the ceremony in the cathedral. Mr. Radcliffe, who was listened to with intelligent interest, and frequently applauded, was tendered a hearty vote of thanks. During the evening a solo was rendered by Miss Hance, and Mr. W. D. "The Good Old Times."

[Hamilton Spectator.]

As one grows older he is inclined to take a look backward and view the past, comparing his experiences of the present, and hoping for a brighter future. So it is with the old Hamiltonian with whom the Spectator had a pleasant interview the other day. That times and things have changed there is no question, some for the better, others otherwise. In the olden times the father was the home provider, and out of his earnings came all the expenses. He could afford to keep his family decent, for his income, though not large, was sufficient for all the necessities, and many of the luxuries of life. There was a demand for his labor as a retail clerk in one or the many departments of trade, as a bookkeeper, indeed every avenue of skilled labor was open to Women him. How different now. have taken the place of men in nearly every branch of industry, and a large majority of them are working for less than one-half, and many at one-fourth of the wages that men used to be paid for the same class of work. The father alone was able to provide for the ramily in the olden days; now it often takes the mother and daughters, and even the children who ought to be in school, to earn a scanty support. These are discouraging facts; but they stare us in face, and the outlook for the future does not promise anything brighter. Capital combines in manufacturing and by organized trusts can crush out the weaker interests; and every time a trust is formed an army of workmen is thrown out of employment. So it goes. Machinery also does away with labor. Five or six linotype machines in a newspaper office will do the labor of twenty or thirty men, and each machine only requires one operator. And this same condition exists in almost every mechanical employn ent. Labor unions deny to boys the rivilege of learning what few trades there are open to them, and as a result the boys grow up without any prospect ahead. They will not become farmers—the most independent calling in life-and even boys raised on farms are constantly planning how they will escape from the monotony of rural life.

Life is a problem, and while our old friend does not desire to take a pessimistic view of things, he insists that facts are facts. Father Whitcombe's debating club might try to crack a few of the hard nuts. in this social problem. What is to be the future of our boys and girls? Seeing the hard time that father and mother have had to provide for the family, the boys and girls cannot see that married life is going to help them.

Much as we may boast of the prosperity that comes from a growing population, yet the old-timers look back with regret to the more youthful days of Hamilton, when there was a de-mand for the labor of men and boys, and the mothers and daughters made the home bright and pleasant for the return of the bread winners at even-
