There is more money to be made in Real Estate in London, Ont., today than in any other business where the element of risk is entirely eliminated. In a newspaper ad, we could give you but a faint idea of the numerous eligible properties we have to offer, but we will be pleased to haveyou call at the office and we will give you full particulars regarding any property we may call at the onice and we will give you have particulars regarding any property we may have for sale. Two points to remember. First: We have the properties and are se lected with great care for buyers' requirements. Second: We take great pleasure in ments. Second: We take great pleasure in showing properties and giving information, whether you buy or not. Gen. Hutton's Brigade Is Still Further North.

Part of a Boer Convoy Captured-Nearly 100 Prisoners Taken-Still Pushing On.

London, May 12-11:35 a.m.-Lord Roberts telegraphs to the war office under date of Geneva Siding, May 11, morning, as follows:

"My headquarters, with Pole-Carew's division, marched 20 miles today, and are now at Geneva Siding, 14 miles from Kroonstad, and about six miles from Boschrand, where the Boers are holding entrenched positions. It is expected the railway to the Zand River will be completed tonight. The line is almost entirely destroyed north of the river, but beyond, where the British are, the Boers retreated from their positions too hastily to do damage. The Boers are reported to be entrenching themselves around Kroonstad, 20 miles off.

MOBILITY OF THE BOERS. Eden, Friday, May 11.-The Boers retired somewhat today, but it is impossible to say where they may turn up, owing to their great mobility. Gen. Grenfell succeeded in pushing them back near Rapuiskop, while Gen, Brabant pushed forward in the direction Seats of Brands Drift, along with Gen. Campbell and the sixteenth brigade. A body of Boers has appeared at Ver-ona on the Ladybrand road.

Lord Roberts is apparently keeping the federais moving far too quickly to give them time for effective occupation of any position so near him, and though numerous kopies in the neighborhood of Kroonstad afford strong positions from which a delaying action might be fought, it is fully anticipated by the best experts here that the Boers will now hurry on to the Vaal, where they will once more attempt to stem the progress of the invading army, while the bulk of the federals prepare for what will perhaps be a decisive battle on the ridge running east and west southwards of Johnannesburg, where open ground to the southward offers the defenders splendid advantages over any attacking force.

Ottawa Builders' Laborers Want Better Terms.

Toronto Trades and Labor Council Favors Independent Political Action - The St. Louis Situation Is Serious.

Ottawa, May 12.—Builders' men want their wages increased. After July 15 the union will demand that the rae of wages be 20 cents per hour. At the present the builders' men get 16% cents per hour, for a day of nine hours. They claim that they are the lowest paid union in Canada. In Toronto the rate is 23 cents.

Toronto, May 12.-By a vote of 48 to 10 the Toronto Trades and Labor Council last night decided in favor of independent political action and the bringing out of labor candidates in the forthcoming elections. The decision was come to at the suggestion of the Dominion Trades Congress, which at its last session asked that local bodies vote on the question. Hamilton, May 12.—The trouble between the Hamilton, Ont., journeymen plumbers ond master plumbers has been settled, and there will be no strike. Many concessions were made to the journeymen, but they did not get all they asked for.

Detroit, May 12.-There are no new developments in the team drivers' strike. At the headquarters of the strikers the men say they are attending to all the business that comes their way, and that they have all the teams they need to handle the business of the merchants. The association has not yet attempted to do any business. St. Louis, Mo., May 11 .- The street railway strike situation shows little change.

According to President David Kreyting, of the Central Trades and Labor Union, the strike may assume vast proportions if not soon settled. Kreyling says: "It is a fight of unionism for its very existence, and must be won if it takes every union man in St. Louis to do it. The leading unions in St. Louis are willing to go out on sympathetic strike. That means 100,000 men and women will lay aside their work.

Detriot, May 11.- The street railway employes' committee will interview the company this afternoon on the question of a raise of pay from 21 cents to 23 cents an hour. At the last conference the company acceded to all the men's requests, with the exception of this one, which they asked to be laid over till today "to see how the assesors would treat them," as one of the men put it.

A MYSTERY

Who Asked for the Orders Written by Andrew Grant and Signed by Mr. Macnish?

St. Thomas, May 11.-Mystery deep and unfathomable still surrounds the issuance of the orders by which Bole. Montgomery, Johnson and Stratford became deputy returning officers at the West Elgin election in the place of the men whom it was intended should act. For four days the commissioners have been endeavoring to discover who was in communication with these mysterious personators, but without success, except in the case of the confessed ballot-slipper, Pritchett, whose evidence on this very point has been contradict-ed. Today Mr. Andrew Grant, of St. Thomas, admitted writing the orders, afterwards used, but said he had no idea who asked him to do so, and Mr. Macmish testified that he probably signed them two days before the elec tion among a bundle of other documents which he did not read. And there the matter rests. The other evidence of Mr. Macnish and Mr. Grant was a total denial of any knowledge whatever of any wrong-doing. It is altogether probable that the commission will finish its work here tomorrow, and possibly hold a sitting later in Toronto for the purpose of examining some of the party organizers. Mr. W. T. R. Preston arrived here today from Ottawa to meet his accusers face to face. Having failed to elicit a response from Mr. Whitney, he wrote to Judge

Yesterday afternoon an Advertiser representative visited the Nordheimer piano warerooms, at 188 Dundas street. This establishment, which has heretofore been carried on under the style of the London Piano and Music Company, is now under new management, and will in future be conducted as a branch of the Nordheimer Piano and Music Company, limited, Toronto. Accompanied by the affable manager, James J. Callaghan, the reporter was shown through the establishment. The new firm will carry on business as wholesale and retail dealers in musical instruments, musical sundries of all descriptions, sheet music, etc. The Nordheimer Company, in addition to manufacturing a piano, which has won for itself a deservedly high reputation among musicians and persons of taste and culture, are the sole Can-The Canadian patriotic funds now adian representatives of Steinway & amounts to $272,813. Still further back is a stock room in which are kept a number of new and secondhand pianos, and at the rear of the flat is the manager's private office. The walls are constructed in white staff, the style of decoration being in French applique relief, with figures representing Music in high relief. Nine large mirrors, four on each side, and one in the end surround the This hall was used by Ladies' Morning Music Club for their meetings and recitals last season, and other of the ladies' societies also avail

A number of instruments of other good makers are also displayed here. A decided innovation in musical instruments, is also displayed here, in the shape of the "Angelus." a musical instrument which can be played by any person, and is capable of the most finished and artistic musical effects. The instrument differs from all others in having the tachment, and it can be played as an instrument by itself or can be attached to any piano in a moment. May 11 .- Jim Jeffries is still the heavy- Brooklyn captain will not return to weight champion of the world. He defeated Jim Corbett in the 23rd round of their fight with a decisive stay where they are. knockout. The finishing blow came as a sudden and startling surprise. Corbett had been making a wonderful battle. His defense was absolutely perfect, and while he was lacking in strength, he had more than held his own, and stood an excellent chance of winning the fight had it gone the limit. He had not been badly punished, and had managed to mark his man severely. The winning punch was a short left jab to the jaw. Corbett dropped like a weight, and was clear out. Jeffries showed ability to take a punching, go any distance and punch hard. He was clearly outboxed, and at times made to look like a novice. The crowd, which numbered fully 8,000, was a Corbett crowd, and his defeat fell upon a silent audience. There were cheers for him when he revived and left the ring, and he was generally treated with more consideration than the victor. Corbett is still a factor in the pugilistic game. He has regained much of his old-time form. The battle was clean, and it is doubtful if there was a single infraction of the rules. The crowd was mostly orderly. fries was very reticent when seen after the contest. He said: "Corbett gave me the best fight of my career, was really a surprise. I thought I should have whipped him sooner, and I think I would have had my left arm not given out early in the fight. The result I at no time felt doubtful of, for I knew I would eventually land the blow that I had been looking for all along. Corbett was really a revelation to me, and I did not look for such a battle from him. Jim made a game fight, and I have no wish to detract in the least from his credit, but I am still the champion, and will go along the line until I trim them all." Jeffries was favorite in the betting.

The timekeeper for Corbett was Teddy Foley; for Jeffries. Dan O'Rourke. In his dressing room Corbett owned to weighing 185 pounds.

In the 23rd and last round, after a couple of passes Jeffries sent his left to Corbett's jaw and rushed him across the ring to the ropes. At close quarthe ring to the ropes. At close quarters Corbett hooked his left twice to the face, sending the blood spurting again from Jeffries' face. Jeffries threw two hard lefts to the body and spurious three two hards are considered to the body and the sending the se smashed again on Corbett's face, smashing Corbett's head back. Then Jeffries crowded him to the ropes, and with a full swinging left smash on the jaw, sent Corbett rolling down and out. Corbett's head struck the floor heavily, and he rolled over in an attempt to regain his feet, but he was unable to recuperate within the call of ten seconds. Corbett lay like a log after rolling twice over on the ring floor, but a moment after Referee White counted him out he regained his feet, and his seconds had little difficulty in recuperating him. Time of round, two min-utes eleven seconds.

Referee Charley White said: "There was never a squarer or fairer ring contest. Both men fought fairly and lived up to the rules. The winner had an uphill fight all the way, and the loser deserves all the praise that can possibly be given him. His foot work was simply perfect, and he is to be congratulated on his return to his old-time form. From his showing tonight time form. From his showing tonight Corbett has more than a look in with the best of them."

HELD FOR MURDER

Decision in the Case of Arthur McIntyre -Mother Gives Evidence Against Her Son.

Toronto, May 12.—A charge of mur-der was laid against Arthur McIntyre, who on Thursday shot and killed his who on Thursday shot and killed his father, Peter McIntyre, at Yonge street wharf. The charge will not depend at all on the finding of the coroner's jury, but will be investigated independently. The boy being under the age of 14, came up in the children's court yesterday, where the trials are held in strict secrecy. He gave his age to the clerk as 12 years, saying he would be 13 in June. It was decided not to arraign him yesterday. Crown Attorney Curry asked a week's remand, which was granted. which was granted.

The post-mortem examination of the body of Peter McIntyre had a most peculiar feature. The bullet had lodged in the aorta, behind the heart, causing almost instantaneous death from hemorrhage. The strange thing is that the bullet was carried by the blood through the arteries, down into the left leg, where it was found by the doctors.

TESTIFIED AGAINST HER SON. Quebec, May 12.-Adele Potvin, widow of Ferdinand Cazes, and mother of the accused, was in the witness box in the matter of her son, Joseph Hermenegilge Cazes, accused of having killed his wife on Feb. 24. There was a certain amount of sensation when the poor old woman appeared, and her son, the accused, seemed much affected. Mrs. Cazes said that when her son came home at 12:30 on the day of the murder, he was slightly under the influence of liquor. During dinner he had a quarrel with his wife. She retired to her own room, where two children were crying, and closed the door. She subsequenty heard three shots when she was in her room, and heard at the same time someone locking the front door and going out by the back door. Some minutes after that she saw the prisoner's wife lying on the floor. She did not know if she was dead or not. The witness called for help, and Constable Letellier, who lived in the same house, came.

The Farmer's Interest. We do not believe in laying too much emphasis on the interests of any one class or in attempts to set one class against another. The best policy is that which is best for the country as a whole, but Canada is at present so much of a farmer's country that we | spirit. may safely say that whatever is of wital importance to such a large section of the community is of great interest to all. Any view which proceeds upon the supposition that the interest of different parts of the community is one altogether separate is condemned by its own shallowness. If the farming community is prosperous all other portions of the state must feel a beneficial influence. In order for the farming community to be prosperous there must be a good market provided for the products that cannot be consumed by the country. The policy of the Liberal party has been to seek such markets. Liberals have no aversion to trading with the United States, but desirer to do as much of that as is possible on fair

But it so happens that the farmers across the line have many of the same kind of products to dispose of as our own farmers, and for these Britain is the open market. Britain being a trading center and a work shop for a great part of the world needs the produce of our farms. At this point our sentiments and our interests coincide, and it becomes the duty of our statesmen to encourage trade with Britain. This can be done, and is done, by giving a preference to certain classes of British goods which we need, and which we cannot produce so well in this land. All trade is exchange, exchange with mutual benefit, and it is folly to think that the benefit can be all on one side. Seeing that free trade is not yet possible all round, it is surely wise to promote freer trade with the motherland, where so many of our products are already received and where there is room for

This is the present policy of the Government and upon this broad policy the Government will by and by have to be judged. In order to judge a policy fairly we must look at it all round and seek to understand it. Then we can give an intelligent answer to the question is this a good policy? Is it the best under the circumstances? From the farmers' point of view it seems to be specially good, for while it endeavors to make gradual changes and to avoid any violent disturbance to the regular course of trade, it seeks to let in what the farmer needs and so create a better market for the goods he has to dispose of. If such a policy can be carried out it is good for the whole country. It is working well now, and gradually getting on to a sound, healthy basis. Reasonable people do not look for instantaneous miracles in this sphere, but are willing to give a good idea a fair trial. We can say with confidence that the Government can commend this part of their policy to the careful consideration of intelligent citizens.

Sir Redvers Buller

There may be difference of opinion as to whether Sir Redvers Buller is or is not a great general, as to whether he did or did not conduct the operations for the relief of Ladysmith in the best possible way; but on one point there is no difference of opinion—there is perfect agreement that he is an honorable man, a good specimen of cussion, Sir Louis Davies moved the · British gentleman. We knew that adjournment of the debate. before, but his conduct in connection with the Spion Kop dispatches has made it stand out in bold relief. The publication of these dispatches has provoked criticism, but the feeling against the War Office has been intensified by the explanations that have since been made. The strength of this feeling springs from the suspicion that has been created that the Government officials were not quite straight in their conduct. We are not prepared to discuss the matter, as it relates to those officials, for we have not at our disposal all the material required for forming a fair judgment, but we call attention to this point, that the thing which creates the strongest feeling in Britain is the least suspicion of crooked dealing.

The public is prepared to have some patience with inefficiency and blundering, knowing that the resources of the army have been strained by the greatness of the task thrust upon it; but if there is the least appearance of juggling and crookedness, strong indignation is quickly roused. This is as It should be. The most important thing, after all, is straightforwardness and strength of character. The criticism of the Government has not been merely of the partisan character: It has come from varied sources, and has evidently sprung from a desire to see the nation's honor kept quite clean. General Buller, at any rate, has come well out of it; he stands before the world as a man of noble character. The task that he laid upon himself was exceedingly difficult, and he must have gone through terrible experiences before it was achieved. No one can have felt more than he the loss of life that was involved in his various attempts to reach the besieged city, but when it is all done he refused to rewrite dispatches for public reading, or to improve his own case.

He seems to say: "Here I stand; I have done my best in this terrible business; I have served my country to the best of my ability, and I leave tine thing as it is to the judgment of honstable and reasonable men." That is a stand that appeals to the British heart. The people would have admired Buller if the thing had turned out easy and he had had a quick, successful campaign; but they admire him still more when he is thrown into the shade and meets with small success, but fronts his difficulties with the dignity of a true gentleman. Greater even than success is the character that stands firm in the time of greatest peril. To face the criticism of friends may be as great an ordeal as facing the fire of the enemy, and he is a true man who faces it in such 2

The many substantial expressions of sympathy that have been made in connection with the recent disaster at Hull and Ottawa is a specimen of true imperial feeling. From London it was to be expected that help would come. There is always in that great city a "Mansion House Fund" for some good object, but coming now, when so much has been raised for patriotic funds and Indian famine funds, we know that it is no perfunctory or official charity, but an evidence of real sympathy with a Canadian city. From the Cape there has also come an expression of sympathy, and we hear of the same thing done in the same spirit by our brethren in Australia and New Zealand. This is a fitting sign of the unity of the Empire, a manifestation of fellowship in the time of misfortune. In the present war there has been a mantfestation of the same thing in a different, a more tragic, form.

We trust that the need for such manifestation will not soon occur again. War is at best a hateful necessity, and one is always sorry that the heroic courage displayed in the course of it cannot be shown in some way that accords more fully with true Christian feeling. We do not undervalue the thing that has been purchased by the blood of our soldiers. We believe that they have, as they fought side by side with brothers from other climes, cemented the empire together by strong and lasting bonds. This manifestation of imperial unity will, we think, in the future make for peace. But we value the other expression of mutual sympathy and helpfulness. We trust that in days of peace, when the tumult of the present strife has been forgotten, that Britons the world over will feel that they have common interest and common aims; that they have a mission to stand together for freedom and righteousness. The terrible disaster that swept away a city and left many poor and homeless may be but: small incident in the life of a great empire, but it has served to call forth feelings that will accomplish great things.

A good advertisement may be made ridiculous in its treatment; just as a good story may be sadly bungled in the telling by one who is not able to bring out its strong points.

Ottawa, May 11.-The House of Commons made good progress with legis-lation of a public nature today; a number of government measures were passed and others advanced a stage. PROTECTION OF FORESTS. Mr. E. Stewart, the recently appointed chief inspector of timber and forestry, was before the committee on agriculture this morning. He recommend ed that in order to protect the forest areas against fire a number of fire rangers should be appointed to watch the districts where there is likely to be danger. He estimated there would be needed seven men in the British Columbia railway hills, twelve for the foothills and Edmonton district, and about eight or ten for the other districts of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories. They would be employed four a five months in the year and builds. ed that in order to protect the forest

YOU WOULDN'T DO IT.

You Would Not Think of Blowing Powder or Snuff on a Scre on the Outside of Your Nose-Would You?

Why Do You Do It Then With the Little Catarrhal Ulcers on the Inside of Your Nose?-Japanese Catarrh Cure Is a Healing Salve—It Is the Only Real Cure for Catarrh.

A well-known lady of Springfield, Ont., writes a few common-sense words regarding her experience in trying Japanese Catarrh Cure. She says: "Inclosed find $2 50 for six boxes of Japanese Catarrh Cure. A few days ago I received a sample box, and from the results obtained from this sample I am sure the remedy will cure me. I have great faith in a salve like this for catarrh, and believe it to be the proper thing. We never blow powder on a sore of any kind, and I don't see why people advertise powders to cure catarrh. I have tried all the powders on tarrh. I have tried all the powders on the market; they relieved at the time, but I was worse when I stopped using them." Japanese Catarrh Cure is a healing, penetrating, volatile pomade. It reaches every catarrhal diseased portion of the head and throat, and will permanently cure any case of catarrh, wherever located. But humanity rests more contenied now, for it knows that Hood's Sarsaparilla, the wonderful blood cleanser, never disappoints. You need it today.

Meat was offered in fairly large quantities. Quotations in this line are unchanged. The supply of poultry is very limited at present. Small quantities are coming in from the country. Local dealers are all depending, to a large extent, upon the small farmers near the city for their supply. The offering of both butter and eggs were fairly large today, but prices remained firm. Dealers are taking advantage of the present low prices, and the good stock that is being supplied, to replenish their decreased stock of eggs.

Bringing Fame to Canada.

We are not sure that everyone recognizes to what extent the reputation of a country is helped by those who manufacture its goods. "Made in Canada" is a term that when wisely used can bring a good. can bring a good reputation to Can-ada. We are seeing this more and more in the case of the plano made by the old firm of Heintzman & Co. From the Atlantic to the Pacific the good name of this piano has spread, and while there are some pianos of foreign manufacture that are very choice pianos, Canadians are always proud to refer to the Heintzman & Co. as one that will hold its place alongside of the most noted foreign and the state of the most protect foreign and the state of the BUTTER. The members of the jury, after hearing the evidence of twenty witnesses, decided that the boy had no murderous intent, and by a recom-mendation against the sale of bad books to children, showed that in their opinion the reading of detective stories to some extent had affected the boy's nature. The verdict reads as follows: "Peter McIntyre died on Thursday, May 10, from the effects of a pistol wound. The pistol, at the time of the discharge, was in the hands of his son, Arthur McIntyre. We find that there was no

HOBO FLAGGED TRAIN

And Will Appear Before a County Magistrate to Explain His Action.

As express train No. 22, from Detroit to London, came down the grade near Hyde Park this morning, Engineer Alf. rail flitted through his mind as he applied the brakes and brought the train to a standstill. Then the sig-naler, who proved to be a tramp of a particularly trampy aspect, stood off and gave the train crew a hearty laugh at having delayed their progress. The crew promptly retaliated by seizing the happy hobo and putting him on the train, treating him to a free excursion to London, where the city, represented by the patrol and a couple of police-men, gave him a drive up Richmond street to the police station. There he gave his name as George Corrigan, and claimed to have been born in the Isle of Malta, of Irish parentage. He was brought before J. B. Smyth and remanded till Wednesday. The deputation that visited Hamilton and Toronto to view the permanent pavements in those cities have returned, and are well satisfied with their trip, on account of the splendid treatment they received at the hands of the civic authorities in both places, as well as the information they obtained. Their inspection included asphalt, vitrified brick and tar-macadam pavement. The latter was considered a very good road, and although it was claimed for it that it would stand heavy traffic, it would serve better on a residential street. The committee intend going to St. Thomas to see the brick pavement there, and will then submit the results of their investigations to the council. Pritchard represented Mayor Rumball on the deputation.

Big Street Car Employes' Union of Kansas City-Tinplate Workers to be Advanced Two Per Cent.

Kansas City, Mo., May 12.-The union of street railway employes voted early this morning to order a strike on all the lines of the Metropolitan Street Railway. Not enough men responded to the order to tie up any of the main lines, and at 8:30 o'clock it was evident that unless there should be a great change in the attitude of the men the company could run cars continuously. Buffalo, May 12.-There are indications around the headquarters of the railroad strikers this morning that a movement is on foot for a general extension of the strike. The agreements not to extend the strike, which were made with several railroads, expire at midnight tonight. So far as can be learned, all negotiations between the railroads and the strikers are now off. Pittsburg, May 12.-The American Tinplate Company has announced that the result of monthly wages adjust-ment will be an advance of 2 per cent of the 8,000 tinplate workers of the Amalgamated Association throughout the country. This is the second advance in the present scale this year, the former amounting to 4 per cent. Ottawa stone cutters are on strike for $3 and a nine-hour day.

The Philadelphia Apostle Charged With Manslaughter-His Peculiar Ideas on Dieting.

Among the visitors at the county jail today was Mrs. Grant, a sister of Mrs. Christina Charlton, who died in West Williams last week, while under treatment by Victor B. Hall, the Philadelphia apostle of "Vital Science." Mrs. Grant was accompanied by the 7-year-old son of her dead sister. Mrs. Grant's mission to London was to engage a lawyer for Hall's defense, and J. C. Elliott, whom she secured, had a long interview with the prisoner. Mrs. Grant said she had baked the "un-leavened bread," which her sister, Miss McEwen, had brought to the jail yesterday for Hall. The "unleavened bread" consists of two varieties, one light in color, but the opposite in weight, studded with raisins and currants, the other is of a darker hue, and has specific gravity of pig iron. There were also a number of onions and a package of red pepper.

Mrs. Grant and Miss McEwen reside with their father, Donald Mc-Ewen, and two brothers, John D. and Hugh J. McEwen, on lot 21, con. 3, Mrs. Grant seems much more worried over the imprisonment of Hall than over her sister's death. She herself claims to have been marvelously improved in health by treatment which she received from Hall in Philadelphia. She said that there are about 800 "Friends" or followers of the vital scientists scattered around the world. Hall, she said, was married, and was highly thought of in Philadelphia, and she believes him to be a true Christian man. She further volunteered the statement that a special law had been passed entitling him to occupy, in the United States Congress, same position as that taken by the The following graduates of Coo's premier of Canada in the Dominion Parliament

Hall is said to have formulated the theory that to make heavy, solid flesh, one should eat solid, heavy foods, and not soft and liquid diets, hence the putty-like "unleavened bread."

TRAIN WRECKED IN A TUNNEL

Seven Persons Killed and a Number

Injured on the B. & O. Railway. Philadelphia, May 12.-Seven persons were killed in a disastrous freight train wreck which occurred early this morning in the tunnel of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad under Twenty-fifth street, just outside of Fairmount Park. Fire followed the wreck, and while extinguishing the flames more than a dozen firemen were injured or over-

A PROFESSIONAL WOMAN.

Experiments Made With Food. A certain professional woman in New York, connected with one of the large institutions there, has had a curious experience with an experiment in using a certain kind of food. It seems that in October last, she had a serious illness and was at the point of death, the brain and the body in the last stages of exhaustion. Her remarkable experiance with the food was brought to the attention of the makers by some of her friends, and in reply to a letter, she wrote as follows:

"I have no objection to the public knowing of the wonderful transformation my system has undergone by the use of Grape-Nuts since November, I began using the food when convalescing and when in an exceedingly low condition. And used a small quantity and became so fascinated with the flavor that I gradually discontinued nearly all other food, including tea and coffee. "Up to now I have consumed about 150 packages and have gained 20 pounds in flesh. Am a marvel to all my friends who are aware of my former state of health. There are about fifty families who have adopted the use of Grape-Nuts because of my experience. You can give my name and home address, but do not mention my professional connection." Mrs. E. N. Wood, 832 Amsterdam avenue, New York There is a reason. The makers of Grape-Nuts select certain parts of the grains of the field that contain delicate particles of phosphate of potash and albumen. These elements, when combin-ed in the human body, go directly to rebuild the gray matter in the brain and nerve centers of the body.

This is a demonstrated fact and can be proven by anyone who cares to make the test. When one nourishes and builds up the brain and nerve centers, that is practically the keynote to the whole health proposition, for when the nervous system is in perfect poise all parts of the body respond.

Grape Nuts are for sale at all the large grocery stores in the country, and can be found in use in practically all of the best families in America. from Laut.-Col. Vidal, who will reFor clear, clean, glossy Laundry BRIEF AND Work, try

Bright weather prevailed, and immense crowds assembled about all the approaches of the palace and warmly welcomed the arriv-ing royalties. United States Ambassador Choate and a number of American ladies were present. Among others presented to her majesty was Miss Alice Kay, daughter of Mrs. F. W. Kay, of Sherbrooke street, Mon-treal. Miss Kay was presented by Lady Kay. Their dresses were much

WOMAN QUESTION

Very Much Alive at the M. E. Conference in Chicago.

Chicago, May 11.-The question of the rights of women in the general con-ference is not a dead and buried issue. At least, it was revived with unexpected suddenness yesterday morning, when the report of the commission on the organic law of the denomination came up for discussion.

Dr. Buckley, of course, was ready with his speech of opposition to the admission of women, but evidently he was not on the popular side, and all who followed him on the same side of the question were both tame and weak. Dr. Potts, of Detroit, made a telling speech, in which he virtually accused Dr. Buckley of resorting solely to parliamentary tactics in defense of his position, as a last but hopeless resort.

Bishop Thoburn, of India, made his report yesterday, and indicated by weakness of voice and lack of energy the great strain under which he has labored for fourteen years. He suggested that it might be his last report, and pleaded for two colleagues. He received great applause when he suggested that their salaries be placed lower and that his own be cut with them.

The committee on book concerns has decided that some of the denominational papers must be discontinued, where not self-supporting. No action has been taken as to the book depositories, but some of them, such as the Detroit, may be discontinued.

Dr. Potts, editor of the Michigan Christian Advocate, is wanted by many to take the place of Dr. Edwards as editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, of Chicago.

WOMEN PLAGUES

Dr. Treves Tells How With Morbid Curiosity They Invaded Hospitals.

London, May 11.—The storm which the eminent surgeon, Dr. Treves raised by publicly declaring that "the plague of women" at the Cape was worse than the "plague of flies" shows no sign of abating. Interviewed, Dr. Treves said:

"How any reasoning person can possibly have construed my remarks into a sweeping condemnation of all women workers at the front, I cannot, for the life of me, understand, for, of course, nothing half so foolish or unjust was conveyed in what I said. Probably no one living has a deeper sense of the splendid work which many large-hearted, unselfish women, professional and amateur alike, are doing in South Africa.

"But," and Dr. Treves brought the clinched right hand into the palm of his left-"but when I explain the condition of affairs at Cape Town you will be able to judge whether I was justified in entering a strong protest. Cape Town was, at the time at which spoke, packed with women idlers, the majority of them 'society' 'smart' people, who, yearning for new excitement, had come out to South Africa to make holiday. The condition of affairs brought about by the presence of these ladies, was an absolute disgrace. "The hotels at Cape Town were crammed with these people in the enon a large scale, and if a sick or front in search of accommodation he had not the slightest chance of getting into a decent hotel. These ladies had not the slightest pretext for being in South Africa.

"That, however, was not the worst side of their presence. When dinner parties and other junketings grew wearisome, they would make up par-ties to visit the hospitals. 'What shall we do today? 'Oh, let's go and see the wounded,' would be the prepara-tion for an invasion of the hospitals and incalculable amount of interference with the work of the medical staff. Officers in charge of wounded ould, in the course of their duties, be interrupted by ladies bearing permits signed by personages whose requests the officers dared not or did not care to refuse.

'You know, perhaps, what influence means in the matter of promotion, and so the women would be taken round the wards and shown the wounded to the utter disorganization of discipline and duty. There were cases in which the wounded men, aroused half a

Sir Richard Banqueted

Ontario Liberals Do Honor to the Minister of Trade and Commerce-The Veteran Financier's Masterly Address -Eloquent Speech by the Premier.

Parliament Wednesday honored Sir Richard Cartwright, the Ontario chief-tain, at a brilliant canquet in the senate restaurant. The greatest enthusiasm and devotion to Sir Richard marked the banquet. Sir Richard delivered a speech charged with his old-time vigor and wit. Sir Wiffrid Laurier spoke in terms of unqualified admiratian of Sir Richard and expresseed comtian of Sir Richard and expresseed complete confidence in the triumph of the Liberal party at the next election. The dining-room was decorated with flags and portraits of the Queen, the premier and Sir Richard Cartwright, and the dinner was excellently served.

The chair was occupied by Mr. Wm. Gibson, M. P., who proposed the toast of the Queen, briefly speaking of the closer feeling that now exists between closer feeling that now exists between Canada and the mother country. In no place in the world was the Queen more beloved than in Canada. The toast was honored with great enthusiasm. Mr. Frost read letters of regret from Hon. David Mills, Mr. N. A. Belcourt, M. P. of Ottawa, and Hon. Wm. Paterson, who was detained in the house. SIR RICHARD'S HEALTH.

Mr. Wm. Gibson, in proposing the toast of Sir Richard Cartwright, said that no one was better entitled to the regard of the Liberal party than the Minister of Trade and Commerce. He had always stood up sturdily for the principles of the Liberal party, and had upheld Liberal opinions. The Lib-eral representatives did themselves honor in recognizing the important services of Sir Richard Cartwright dur-ing his long term of public life. After speaking of the great difficulty that the committee had in restricting the at-tendance to the Ontario Liberals, Mr. Gibson said that the Liberals loved Sir Richard because of the unkind things that had been said of him in the last quarter of a century by his opponents. He was the man of all men who was the borey of the Conservative party. the bogey of the Conservative party. He was a worthy successor to George Brown. Long before the passing away of George Brown, Sir Richard received a large share of the ill-will of the Conservative party throughout the Do-minion. No one could look at Sir Richard's long career and say aught against him as to his loyalty to the Liberal party. He was loyal to Mr.
Mackenzie and loyal to their honored chief, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The province from which he comes looked up-on Sir Richard as the beacon-light of the Liberal party. As long as he was connected with the government they were assured that the government Mackenzie, and had served through the eighteen years of opposition, and was now in the government that would go out, he supposed, in the course of ten or fifteen years, (Cries of "No," and and "You are a pessimist.") Mr. Gibson said he was willing to make it twentyfive years, but whether the time be long or short, they all felt from the experiance of the past that Sir Richard and the government of which he was a member would have the same regard as the Mackenzie Government for honesty and fair dealing.

The toast of the guest of the evening was honored with great enthusiasm.
The meeting sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and cheered and cheered again with vim.

SIR RICHARD'S REPLY. Sir Richard Cartright on rising to speak, was received with three more heartier than the others. He said:-Mr. Chairman and gentlemen. I rise on the present occasion with very mingled feelings. I must say I feel ex-tremely gratified, indeed, to see round me tonight so many old comrades, not forgetting a few of those whom I hope to see take our places when we can serve the Liberal party no more. But while I see a very considerable number of gentlemen whom in times past I have fought and conquered, with whom in times past I have fought and been considerable well beaten, and in times not so long past fought and conquered again, I cannot help looking back over the time when I was one of the youngest ones in parlia-I cannot but feel somewhat sensible of the losses the Liberal party has sustained and of the very large number of good and true men who have passed away from public life, and from life altogether, since I first had the honor of a seat in the parliament of the two Canadas in 1863. I find of the 65 gentlemen who sat with me in the last of the United Canadas' Parliament I myself am the only one in the Province of Ontario who still retains a seat in the House of Commons. Of the 200 who sat with me in the first Parliament in the Federal Canada, I think there are but two besides myself who still re-tain seats in the House of Commons. would be in that length of time strange and unreasonable if one did not learn some things, and I am bound to find myself able to tolerate a considernumber of things that former times would have brought down a great deal of virtuous indignation on my part. I can recollect, as Byron would put it, I

SCOTT & ECWNE, Chemiate, Toronte

Ottawa, May 11.—The Ontario Liberal, can recollect in the old times, when members and senators of the Dominion I was young, when John Macdonald was king and Sir George Cartier viceroy over him. The time was when I retained pretty strong views on a great many subjects, and gave strong expression to them. For instance, if I had to deal with Sir Charles Tupper's variations on facts I am afraid I sometimes was induced to look with undue harshness on his little eccentricities, and even to make use of much stronger language than I would deem necessary at present. But, as I said, with age and experiance one comes to understand these things, and I have come to re-cognize that in the case of Sir Charles Tupper, for instance, I was dealing with a very remarkable specimen of humanity, one of those personages who were brought into the world, as I might say, morally color blind, who are physically and congenitally incapable of distinguishing black from white, or right from wrong, or truth from flatschood. Under these circumstances, you see, I learned to regard Sir Charles as a curious pyschological specimen. Some hard things have been said even by gentlemen around this table even by gentlemen around this table about Sir Charles. It was from lack of understanding. (Laughter.) I have heard, I am afraid, some members of the Liberal party and the Liberal press speak of Sir Charles, for instance, as an immoral man. I do not regard him as an immoral man. I do not know I would call him moral, for if I were called upon to define his species or genus I would say he was what you might call an unmoral man. (Laughter) The difficulty in his case, as I read the situation is not that his morals are bad but that he has no morals at all. You and I, Mr. Chairman, and I am afraid half a dozen archangels might reason with him till doomsday, and you would not convince him that he had made any mistake in his life or done anything wrong. He would not understand. All that he knows is that on a given occasion he has followed his instincts, and they were all the law he ever had.

HARRING THE PROPERTY OF THE PR

COMPARED WITH KRUGER. Now, I have lately come on a curious bit of information, which I do not feel disposed to keep to myself with respect to Sir Charles. A considerable time ago I was very much struck with certain portraits of the most estimable Mr. Paul Kruger, and with the remarkable resemblance in face and figure between himself and Sir Charles Tupper, and when a little while after he published that cele-brated ultimatum of his, in which he would be honestly and uprightly admin-istered. Sir Richard had served under to withdraw from South Africa, I felt to withdraw from South Africa, I felt that in addition to the physical resemblance there was considerable mental resemblance. In fact, if I had not known that Sir Charles was promot ing companies—not in the Rand, but in British Columbia—if he was within one thousand miles of South Africa, looking at the stupendous effrontery, at the 46,000,000 horse-power impudence of the ultimatum, I would have said, "Aut Tupper, aut diabolus." I would have concluded that Sir Charles must have been there. I am going to impart to you a most profound secret. In Germany they are in the habit of preserving with great minuteness records of families. I caused inquiries to be made, and I am in possession of facts that I think warrant me in stating that there are reasons to believe that at no very distant period the families of Kruger and Tupper were very close together. So far as I have been able to find out, it appears that somewhere about the end of the seventeenth century there resided in Munchester Calr Jacobus Von Double. This Carl Jacobus Von Double had two daughters; one Katarina is reported to have married Christopher Kruger, who went to South Africa and founded the family of Krugers there. The other, Gretchen, married a certain Carl or Carlos Tupper, and the descendants of these worthy people seemed to have enlisted in the Hessian contingent, who, in the reign of George II. immigrated to this continent in the pursuit of glory and of loot; and, although I am bound to admit that here the connection is somewhat loose, there is strong reason to believe that this Tupper was the ancestor of the Tuppers of that ilk whom we now enjoy. At any rate, you will observe, that if my information be correct, Sir Charles comes perfectly honestly to his dislike to the British preference, and while his kinsman, Paul Kruger, has been for some years back busy in trying to undermine British supremacy in the southern half of Africa by setting English against Dutch and Dutch against English, his kinsman, Sir Charles, is now actively employed to the utmost of his power in undermining British supremacy in the northern half of this continent by setting French against English and English against French. Sir Charles reminds me of the French quotation, "Mauvais sujet mais bon soldat." which, roughly translated, means that a man may be a good fighter without being very much of a saint. To that praise at any rate Sir Charles is fully THE CONSERVATIVE REACTION. Sir Richard said, in continuation, that he was filled with admiration at the way the Conservatives were booming the Conservative reaction in this Dominion. They were defeated at the general election, and at 42 out of 45 elections since then, and in something like five local elections. It was true that they had carried the Province of Manitoba, but that was under peculiar circumstances, and Mr. Greenway had a majority of the votes, if not of the representatives. A Conservative youngster of ten years with a pennytrumpet could make more noise than a Liberal orchestra with a brass band. It was all noise and nonsense, but must not be disregarded.

THE LIBERAL PARTY'S POSITION. Sir Richard then devoted some time to the position and duties of the Liberal party in Ontario. He did not think it was in the slightest degree exaggerating when he said that the four years that elapsed from 1896 to 1900 had been pre-eminently fruitful years in the history of Canada. Look-ing over the past he challenged any impartial man to point to four years in which Canada had made such gigantic strides, both morally and materially, as it had done under the The Secret of Health

A SEVERE CASE OF ANÆMIA.

Miss Mabel J. Taylor, living at 1334 City Hall Avenue, Montreal, writes: "I write to give you the honest testimonial of a young girl who believes her life was saved by the use of your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. In November, 1897, I was suddenly stricken with loss of voice, and for eight months could only speak in a whisper. At the time I was completely run down. I had no appetite, no energy; suffered from headache, palpitation of the heart, and shortness of breath. I was not able to walk up or down stairs. I was given up by the best doctors, and the different remedies I took did me no good. While in this condition I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the time I had taken four boxes my voice was restored, and after the use of eight boxes I am

Mrs. J. Sinclair, of Rockway Valley, Que., writes: "I have suffered more than my share from the agonies which accompany a severe attack of rheumatism. I was first attacked with the disease some four years ago. The trouble gradually grew worse until finally I was confined to bed, and could not turn myself. I was not able to put my hands to my head, and every bone in my body ached, and pained if I dared to stir. I was run down and felt very weak and wretched. I took several bottles of medicine prescribed by the doctors, but it not help me. I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills so highly recommended that I got a few boxes, and before I finished them I saw I was gradually gaining health and strength. I kept on taking them for a couple of months, when every pain and ashe had for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me, and you are at with rheumatism now, and I have to thank Dr. Williams' Pink liberty to publish this letter, in the hope that it may be of benefit to Pills for my release. Liberal party. In these four years we had shown our American friends that, while we are willing to carry on trade with them, still if they will shut their doors to us we are not merely able to stand the blow, but to prosper and develop our trade and commerce with a greater ratio than even they can do. We had shown our friends on the other side of the Atlantic that Canada can send to the field soldiers well worthy of taking their place alongside the bravest veterans the empire can produce. (Cheers.) These things indicated the success they had attained in the task to which they had set their hands, and in the contest which the Liberal party were now approaching they had every advantage of wind and tide in their favor. At the same time he warned them of the necessity of organization. GREAT QUESTIONS OF THE FU-TURE. The one and only thing he feared was that they might be a little overconfident and forget that their opponents had been busy and active, and that in every constituency for the last four years there had grown up a large number of voters with whom they must keep in touch. These young voters must be instructed and set on the way in which they should go, and now was the time in which careful attention to their constituencies would benefit members. Continuing, Sir Richard said: "Let me heartily urge you to make yourselves solid with your constituents, because, gentlemen, on the success of the Liberal party, as I read the signs of the times, de-pends the continued success of the people of Canada. (Hear, hear.) Great things have been done in the last four years, but unless I wholly deceive myself there are greater and more important tasks for the Liberal party to perform in the next parliament, and if the people continue to repose the same confidence in us, that they do, I venture to say that these duties will be performed faithfully and well. We will have the task of aiding in the probable reconstruction of the empire. Canada must be an important factor in any project of that kind proposed to the British people. Canada is the youngest confederation that owns the sway of Britain, and upon the states-Canada intrusted in the next parliament with its government the success of that experiment largely depends. Then, internally, I see the signs of probably the greatest industrial development we ever saw, and that industrial development will have its dangers as well as its advantages. The dangers as well as its advantages. The task before the Liberal party—the task for which it is specially fitted—the task for which our present premier is especially fitted—is the task of reconciling, as far as possible, the jarring interests which arise in indus-[Continued on page 11.]

Rev. Dr. Talmage Shows How ther told him to come in he stayed Many Christians Today Re semble Those Two Men.

In his last Sunday's sermon Dr. Talmage pleads for a hearty reception to all those who have done wrong and want to get back, while the unsympathetic and self-righteous are coriated. Text, Luke xv., 28-"And he was angry and would not go in.'

Many times have I been asked preach a sermon about the elder brother of the parable. I received a letter from Canada saying: "Is the elder son of the parable so unsympathetic and so cold that he is not worthy of recognition?" The fact is that we ministers pursue the younger son. You can hear the flapping of his rags in many a sermonic breeze, and the cranching of the pods for which he was an unsuccessful constestant. I confess that it has been difficult for me to train the camera obscura upon the elder son of the parable. I could not get a negative for a photograph. The father in the parable of the prodigal had nothing to brag of in his two sons. The one was a rake and the other a churl. I find nothing admirable in the dissoluteness of the one and I find nothing atttractive in the acrid sobriety of the other. WELCOME OF THE PRODIGAL. From all the windows of the old homestead bursts the minstrelsy. floor quakes with the feet of the rustics, whose dance is always vigorous and resounding. The neighbors have heard of the return of the younger son from his wanderings, and they have gathered together. The house is full of congratulators. The senior son stand's at the corner of the house, a frigid phlegmatic. He has just come in from the fields in very substantial One would have thought apparel. that on hearing that his younger brother had got back he would have gone into the house and rejected. The father rushes out bareheaded and coaxes him to come in. He will not go in. He scolds the father. He says: "Father, you put a premium on vaga-bondism. That vagabond deserves to be cowhiden instead of banqueted. Veal is too good for him!" That even-Veal is too good for him!" That evening, while the younger son sat telling his father about his adventures and asking about what had occurred on the place since his departure, the senior brother goes to bed disgusted. That senior brother still lives. You about the soul. How

THE ELDER BROTHER. First, this senior brother of the text stands for the self-congratulatory, self-satisfied, self-worshipful man. With the same breath in which he vituperates against his younger brother he utters a panegyric for himself.

He was disobedient, for when the fa-out. He was a liar, for he said that the recreant son had devoured his father's living, when the father, so from being reduced to penury, had a homestead left and instruments of music, had jewels and a mansion, and instead of being a pauper was a prince. This senior brother, with so many faults of his own, was merciless in his criticism of the younger brother. The only perfect people that I have ever known were utterly obnoxious. I was never so badly cheated in my life as by a perfect man.

Again the senior brother of my text stands for all those who are faithless about the reformation of the dissipated and the dissolute. In the very tones of his voice you can hear the fact that he has no faith that the reformation of the younger son is genuine. That is the reason why more prodigals do not come home to their father's house. It is the rank infidelity in the Church of God on this subject. There is not a house on the streets of heaven that has not in it a prodigal that returned and stayed home. There could be unrolled before you a scroll of a hundred thousand names—the names of prodigals who came back forever reformed. Who was John Bunyan? A of the returned brother, and the other returned prodigal. Who was Richard | hand in the hand of the rejoicing fa-Baxter? A returned prodigal. Who ther, let your heart beat time to the was George Whitefield, the thunderer? clapping of the cymbal and the mellow A returned prodigal. And I could go on in all the aisles of this church today and find on either side those who, once far astray for many years, have been faithful, and their eternal salvation is as sure as though they had been ten years in heaven. CENSURE OF THE FALLEN. Oh, if this younger son of the parable had not gone so far off, if he had not dropped so low in wassail, the protest would not have been so severe; but, going clear over the precipice, as the younger son did, the elder son is angry and will not go in.

Be not so hard in your criticism of the fallen, lest thou thyself also be Again, I remark that the senior brother of my text stands for the spirit of envy and jealousy. The senior brother thought that all the honor they did to the returned brother was a wrong to him. He said: "I have

While there is so much congratulation within doors, the corners of his mouth drawn down, looking as he felt-miserable. I am glad his lugubrious physiognomy did not spoil the festivity within. How many pouting Christians there are in our day—Christians who do not like the music of the churches, Christians who do not like the hilarities of the young-pouting, pouting, pouting at society, pouting at the fashions, pouting at the newspapers, pouting at the church, pouting at the government, pouting at high heaven.

Oh, what a God we have! Bring your doxologies. Come, earth and heaven, and join in the worship. Cry aloud. Lift the palm branches! you not feel the Father's arm around your neck? Do you not feel the warm breath of your Father against your chee? Surrender, younger son! Surrender elder son! Surrender all! Go in today and sit down at the banquet. Take a slice of the fatted calf, and afterwards, when you are settled, with one hand in the hand clapping of the cymbal and the mellow voice of the flute. It is meet that we should make merry and be glad, for this, thy brother, was dead, and is alive again; he was lost and is found.

trial development. I would fain see my country free from those troubles current in other countries. We start with many advantages. We have neither the dead weight of militarism which they have in Europe, nor the protection and high tariff of the United States. It is not too much to say that in the adjacent republic, over the most part of it, labor and capital today are in two hostile camps. I think we should try, as far as the government can do, to steer clear of these difficulties in Canada, not so much by legislation as by giving an opportunity of bringing about a better understanding. This is a lofty task, well worthy of a Liberal government, and if it pleases the people to continue the reins of government in our hands that will be one of the greatest and most noble tasks we shall have in the next parliament; and if we succeed in doing it, then we may say that we have rendered a great service and placed the prosperity of Canada upon a stable basis for this and the next generation. (Loud cheers.) I am not in favor of long speeches, and shall take my seat, briefly thanking you for the cordial welcome you have given me on this occasion, and feeling that I am well repaid for whatever work I have done and for all the abuse which I have received—which I may frankly tell you has sat very lightly on my conscience and my nerves. It is only for me. THE PARILIAMENT OF CANADA. "The Parliament of Canada" was proposed by Dr. Landerkin, who said it gave him great pleasure to couple with it the name of their distinguished leader, the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Cheers.) He thought he liked the leader better than he liked the parlia-(Laughter and Cheers.) would all agree that Canada is very well satisfied, and has reason to be proud that affairs are conducted in parliament by a leader so gifted as their present chieftain. On occasions such as this, why should they not say a word in favor of the policy they have pursued and the manner in which they have conducted the important affairs of the nation. He echoed the sentiments expressed regarding Sir Richard Cart-wright, who deserved the tribute at the hands of the Liberal party in On-tario, and who had worked long, faithfully and with great ability in order to produce the results which we have in Canada at the present time. He desired to say a word for their leader, a gentleman so mild in manner, so kindly and polite in deportment, that it was wonderful that anybody, even the most hidebound Tory, could find it possible to say anything against him. (Laughter.) It would, he thought, be a good thing for every Liberal in the counonce every three months to read the Daily Mail, and if the tirades of misrepresentation it published did not stimulate them to work he did not know what would. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was industrious in endeavoring with all his energies and abilities to bring about peaceful, happy and harmonious relations between the different peoples that live in the Dominion, and it should be the pleasure, as it is the duty, Liberals to strengthen his hands and the hands of the government, which had done many good things and had made a name and record that will when the government goes out of office, whether it is early or late.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was received with most hearty cheers, and after quiet was restored he said: "Gentlemen, though I have been put down to answer to this rather pompous toast of the Parliament of Canada, I beg to tell you that for my own part after these many days I am rather surfeited with speeches. New York State Commissioners Visit the East Side Slums.

New York, May 11.-Several members of the State Tenement-House Commission the other day saw the difference between their own homes and the homes of the very poor. They spent an hour and a half on the east side. Seeing dying babies who were gasping for pure air, bedrooms dark as coal pockets, houses with air-shafts tourteen inches wide, halls reeking with filth, fire escapes built of wood and encumbered with bedding and rubbish, and courts black as Erebus, they learned something of life amid squalor and misery.

They started at 3:30 p.m. from the University Settlement House under the guidance of Secretary Lawrence Veiller. Next door, at No. 178 and 180 Eldridge street, a new tenement of light brick is going up.

Some men working in a field near the scene of the accident were the first the terrible plunging of the ponies.

They were strong men, but they turned sick and faint at the sight of the mangled face. They laid him gently on the green bank, while they raised the wreck of the carriage. They saw her then, lying quite calm and still. Whether she had been suffocated or hurt they did not know. There was no sign of life in her. They raised the mass of costly silk and velvet. They tore off the black lace that shaded her white face.

"Why," cried one of them, Peter Green, by name, "this is Lady Selwyn of Selwyn Castle. I know her. I have seen her a hundred times and more.'

"It is her, sure enough," said another. I know the groom."
Then they looked at each other in

"If I were my lord," joined in a third, "I should feel queer. This is the sec-ond Lady Selwyn killed by accident. The first was a beautiful, golden-haired woman. She died in a railway accident somewhere abroad." There is no time for talking," said Peter. "One of you remain here, one run to Selwyn Castle. I will go to Shilton and get a doctor. It seems to me that the lady is not dead."

His orders were punctually obeyed.
The village of Shilton lay at the foot of the hill, and in a short space of the injured lady was laid, and the driver told to go carefully to the castle. There was soon quite a crowd col-

"Is the lady dead?" asked one of the bystanders of the doctor.
"No," he replied; "she is fatally infured but not dead.' One of the ponies was found to be so severely injured that in pity it was immediately shot. The other was taback to the castle. The dead body of the unfortunate groom was also taken there. It was a mournful procession on this bright, sunny morning, when the whole world looked so gay and bright, when singing birds and blooming flowers, golden sunshine and rippling leaves were at their fairest.

"Papa." whispered a faint voice, "I am much better, I shall feel life at my heart again; do you think I shall get well now?"

"Yes, my darling," said his father; "heaven has been very merciful, and has spared you to me this time." There was a smile on Rupert's face as he listened—a smile that had not been seen there for many long, sad

Lord Selwyn turned to the gentle, pa-

"I know that," said the boy grateful-"I shall never forget it. I shall love her as long as I live.

She bowed her head as he spoke. If they knew—if they only knew, that the hour was drawing near! Before sunset Lord Selwyn would know that she was living. Rupert would know that the mother whose memory he had worsniped had deceived the whole world, and had nursed him. Before sunset—and it was now near noon.

Then his lordship told her that Lady Beatrice had been suffering all night, and was resting in her own room. While the words were still on his lips there came a gentle tap at the ante-room Fearing Rupert might be disturbed, Lord Selwyn went himself to answer it. There stood the butler with a white, terrified face.

"Will you please come out, my lord?" he said. "I want to speak to you." He went, with a heavy foreboding as of some coming sorrow at his heart. He closed the door gently and followed stopped short, his white lips could not form the word. "No," was the reply; "the groom was killed on the spot; my lady still lives."

Where have they laid her?" he asked, in low, hoarse tones. "In her own room. Let me tell you the worst, my lord; she will never leave it again."

With a cry that resembled no human sound, Lord Selwyn hastened away. He met strange men and weeping servants in the corridor and on the broad staircase: they made way in silence for him. He entered the room where she layproud, beautiful, imperial Beatrice, proud no longer—the color and flush to run to give help. They had watched proud no longer—the color and flush the mad, furious gallop down the hill, but they were poweriess to render any assistance. They saw the terrible catastrophe—the carriage overturned, and two doctors stood on either side. They made way for him as he entered. They made way for him as he entered. He knew by the expression on both grave faces that for the hapless lady lying there hope had vanished.

He went up to her, but for the first

"It is useless, Lord Selwyn," said Dr. Danvers. "Lady Beatrice will never seee you or hear you again."

"Is there no hope?" he asked.
"None," was the grave reply. "Her ladyship has sustained two injuries, either of which would be fatal. Her spine is terribiy injured, and there is concussion of the brain. It is merely a matter of a few minutes; but she will never know you again. she may continue in this state one hour or twono longer; nor can we render any assistance by remaining."

His distress was terrible to witness.

He knelt down by her side, and took the white, helpless hand in his. It was not that he loved her so dearly;
but the manner, the suddenness of her death bewildered him. He had been so happy a few minutes since, because Rupert was better, and now he stood by his wife's death-bed.

The shock seemed too much for him. One by one the servants came, all anxious to render some assistance, but he waved them away. Nothing could be done for the doomed lady whose

Someone—he never knew who it was Someone-he never knew who it was of the hill, and in a short space of time men came to the rescue. Dr. Argent brought his own carriage, in which at the sight of his mother, then cried again, because he was frightened at stillness of her white, death-like face. away. A few minutes more, and the solemn silence of that death chamber was broken by the entrance of Mrs. Rivers. She made no apology, but went up to Lord Selwyn.

"Is there anything I can do?" she asked gently; and when he shook his head—for all words failed him—instead or leaving the room, she went round to the other side of the bed, and looked earnestly at the changed face. There was no mistake. The gray shades of death were creeping over the beautiful features. No one noticed Mrs. Rivers. For heaven's sake, I forgive you, and as you spared my memory to my child, I will spare yours. No one shall ever know of the wrong you tried to do my son. Take my words with you to another world. I forgive you!

I pray God to save you!"

No motion of the lips, no quiver of the white eyelids. Long and earnestly Mrs. Rivers looked into the face of the woman who had been so bitter an en-emy, so cruel a foe. Then she laid her face upon the white brow, she kissed the cold lips, and bade farewell forever to Beatrice Leigh.

THE SHORTER WORKING DAY. There are, of course, many things to be most carefully considered and ad-justed before any change in the number of working hours can go into effect. Unfilled contracts, or established prices for product, are the most obvious; the longer hours of idleness for expensive plant can by no means be ignored. "What is R, Hewson: he asked. Is anything the wrong?"

"My lord." said the man, turning blant can by no means be ignored. But with proper compensation in the manner of working, there is little you. I cannot find words."

"I do not like suspense," said Lord Selwyn, and in one brief moment his mind went through various phases. No-mind went through we mind went through various phases. Nothing could be wrong with Rubert, with little Lance, or Lady Beatrice—they were all there, safe and well at home. "My lady went out this morning. my lord." said the man: "I can not say whose fault it was, but she took the to his hours of working, is almost as fallacious as the trade-union proposi-"What has happened?-tell tion that the amount of wage-winning work in the world is a definite quantity, and will be exhausted sooner by more diligent working.—Charles Buxton Going, in the Engineering Magazine for

SILK WAISTS.

There is to be a great fad for wearing Chinese and Japanese silks. Many new designs in Japanese silk have been brought out this season, and these exquisite silks have been made up into fea gowns, tea jackets, house gowns and even pretty shirt waists and the most chic of Ascot ties.

May 7. There is no general rule you may follow. It all depends upon the per-sonality of the wife. If she is irritable and nervous and fretful, no matter how much she may think of you, your troubles will be an added burden to her.

If, however, she is light-hearted and optimistic, and disposed to take a cheerful view of things, by all means tell her everything that happens during the day. You will find that she will take a peculiarly feminine view of your affairs, and that she is disposed to travel by instinct rather than judg-ment in business matters. Nevertheless, her position as confidante will halve your cares. You will understand that she is trying her best to help you, even if she does not succeed. On the other hand, you should be equally ready to listen when she brings ribly—had power to move her.

They laid the child by her side. Its little warm hands touched her; but woman's soul as Wall street or driving a street car is to a man's.

If Johnny has been naughty, refrain a moment from brooding over your business worries to fan him with a slipper.

By all means tell your business troubles to your wife, if she be a normal woman, lest a wall of business and gradual separation of cares should come between you. From this stage to the divorce court is a short step.— New York Journal.

TO CLEAN CHAMOIS GLOVES. Make a strong suds with white castile soap, or any other kind of good white soap, and to two quarts of suds add one teaspoonful of borax dissolved in half a pint of hot water. When the suds are cold put the gloves on the hands and wash them slowly and gently, as if washing the hands. Rinse in the same manner in clear water; then draw off gently and hang in a shady place to dry, drawing them into shape when they are almost dry. When perfectly dry, rub them between the hands to soften them.

THE 1900 SAILOR HAT. Each season brings with it a new pattern of sailor hat, a style so distinct from that of the season previous that women who aim to be at all up to date find it impossible to renew their allegiance to the sailor hat of the past season without the world being well aware of the fact. Sailor hats for 1900 have rather broad crowns of moderate height, with brims neither particularly broad or narrow. They are trimmed with bands laid in folds more often than with flat ribbons and are constructed of plain straw, with white the most desirable color.

HIS WAGES. A firm in Liverpool, delighted that one of its employes was called upon to join the reserves, volunteered to pay half his wages to his wife in his absence. At the end of the month the woman appeared, and, and the money was given her. "What?" she cried; "four pound?" "Yes," replied the senior partner, "that is exactly half; sorry you are not satisfied." "It isn't that I'm not satisfied. Why, for years he has told me he only got 16 shillings altogether, and—and—if the Boers don't kill him, I will."

JUST THE OTHER WAY. "The other day," said Jones, "an old woman bounced into our office, dis-playing a notice that we had written CHIFFON EMBROIDERIES. Embroidery in chiffon and other thin materials is a great feature of the new trimmings. Open embroidery, lace beads, gold and silver thread and silk are all employed and variously combined in these pretty novelties. Something decidedly unique is a combination of lace and linen spangles overlaping one another in varying sizes and forming different designs.

REAMERS.

"There's nothing half so sweet in life as love's young dream." The old song is right. Lovers are dreamers. They create a special world in which they live immune from the hurts and ills which vex common humanity. In their estimate of household expenses there's no place for a doctor. And very often when the dream dissolves they find that the doctor's bill, the one thing they didn't count on, is now the one thing that's as regular as rent and taxes. And many times it is money wasted. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do for a woman and her womanly ills, practically every-thing that can be done by any doctor or medicine.
