ANXIOUS DAYS FOR TAXPAYERS

Startling Proposals.

Talk of Duty on Foreign Timber and Iron Ore-War Expenditure $100,-000,000 Less Than Last Year.

London, April 9.-The budget is to be introduced tomorrow, and there is considerable speculation as to its nature. Everything points to the levying of duties on some imported articles which have hitherto escaped impost. The timber trade is disturbed by a fear that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach intends to mulct foreign timber, but the rumor does not find much acceptance in the parliamentary lobby.

INCOME TAXPAYERS ANXIOUS. Income taxpayers are dreading tomorrow. It is such simple finance to meet a deficiency in the budget by taxing the money which people earn, and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has yet to prove himself a financial genius.

INCREASED SUGAR DUTIES. The prevailing impression is that some addition will be made to the duty on bounty-produced sugar, and the chancellor of the exchequer is being urged to grant at the same time a rebate in favor of West Indian sugar.

A NEW LOAN. There is almost certain to be a new oan. The general opinion in the city is that if peace is in sight the issua will be likely to take the form of a Transvaal loan, guaranteed by the government. But if, on the other hand, the negotiations should break down, the issue of consols or exchequer bonis is anticipated. The present large balance in the exchequer renders the government independent of immediate financial assistance, while conditions in the money market are not such as to ham's counsel, E. F. B. According to the best opinions, the chancellor of the exchequer will not depart from his traditional free trade policy. expenditure is estimated at £40,000,000, as against £60,000,000 last year, while the grant to the South African colonies is only £1,800,000 colonies is only £1,800,000, as against £6,500,000 last year. Altogether Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has to meet an estimated expenditure of £171,000,000, as against £197,000,000 last year. It is expected that the chancellor will endeavor to raise £6,000,000 by additional taxation, bringing the revenue, roughly speaking, up to £150,000,-000, and that he will provide the remainder by a loan for the interest, on which he may possibly tap the resources of the Transvaal. A persistent rumor is current here that, besides timber, iron ore will also be taxed.

The Second C. M. R. Appear To Be Senarated in South Africa—Scouts Are Doing Good Work.

London, April 8.-The correspondent of the London Standard at Klerksdorp has cabled a graphic account of the battle at Dornbalt farm, March 31, in which the British lost 3 officers and 24 men killed, and had 16 officers and 131 me.: wounded, while the Boers had 137 men killed or wounded.

A small force of Canadians and mounted infantry, the correspondent says, were opposed by calling upon them to surrender. Lieut. Carruthers, of the Canadians, sprang to his feet, and exclaiming that he would not surrender, shot the foremost Boer with his revolver at a distance of fifteen paces. The Canadians had no cover except the short grass. Lying prone upon the ground they fired steadily and forced the Boers to seek shelter of a screen of trees. Many of the Boers climbed these trees and fired down on the Canadians. The latter kept the enemy at bay .* FOR TWO HOURS.

When all but fifteen of the British troops were killed or wounded, the Boers ventured another rush, and captured the handful of survivors. Lieut. Carruthers was the only British officer who was not seriously wounded. He had several flesh wounds, but refused to go to a hospital. Some of the Boers wanted to shoot him when he was taken prisoner, but they ultimately thought better

South Africa. "When trouble over Cuba came," said the premier, "I cannot believe America would have faced the war that ensued if it had not been assured that the navies of Europe would kept at bay while she riddled the decrepit fleets of Spain."

The Negotiations.

PEACE NOT EXPECTED. The Hague, April 8.-There is little faith among the Boer sympathizers here that peace is imminent in South Africa. Hearts are hardened in consequence o fthe conference held here and at Utrecht, and the Boer convoys and refugees are asserting in a louder key peace without independence. The credulity of the burghers in South Africa is matched by the assumption of their agents here that their deliverance is coming from England's foreign complications, when there is not a cloud in the sky.

ILLUSIONS DISPELLED. for an investigation of the military conduct of the war, and the shipment of supplies of horses and mules from the United States would be prohibited. These illusions were dispelled when the delegates returned, and a new fiction has been supplied. The Boer advocates are asserting that England is fatally embarrassed by her alliance with Japan, and certainly will be drawn into a war of tremendous magnitude in the far east. The Boer sympathizers are consequently justifying an indefinite continuance of the guerrilla warfare, and forecasting the ultimate triumph of the cause of independence when British troops cannot be spared from the larger treater of European operations. NOTHING TO TELL.

Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" at the Dundas Center Church.

The spacious auditorium of the Dundas Center Methodist Church was found all too small last night to comfortably accommodate the throng who desired to hear the production of Mendelssohn's grand oratorio, "St. Paul," given under the conductorship of Mr. W. H. Hewlett. The size of the audience was a pleasing testimony to the reputation Mr. Hewlett has gained as a musician of exceptional ability, whose connection with any musical event is a sufficient

The oratorio "St. Paul," acknowledged to be one of Mendelssohn's finest creations, deals with the central episodes in the great apostle's career. In the first scene, that of Stephen's martyrdom, at which Saul of Tarsus looks

Then comes the entry of St. Paul himself, with the fiery bass of St. Paul himself, with the fiery bass solo, "Consume Them All." In spite of house to affirm the principle that the threatenings and persecutions and operation of the present tariff had been slaughter, the Church still sings of unsatisfactory. Rise and Shine!" The light has broken in upon the soul of the future apostle, and again the Church speaks to him, and indicates his appointed work in the fine old choral, "Sleepers, Awake." He cannot at once realize the great things that have been done for him. Questions Answered.

DETROIT .- Can a minister regularly ordained in the United States, but living in Canada, perform legally a marriage ceremony in Canada, even while without a charge or being identified with any Canadian religious denomination as a minister of such, though being in good standing in his denomination in the United States as an ordained minister? Ans.—The question has never been judiciously decided. According to the letter of the statute law he could, but in our opinion he could not, as the evidence of his ordination would be outside this jurisdiction.

Chatham, Ont., April 9.-William Cruickshank, a man living alone in North Chatham, died at St. Joseph's Hospital at 8:30 last evening from an overdose of laudanum, administered undoubtedly by himself. Joseph Northwood, a neighbor, in making his daily call on the old man, found the house fastened at noon, and, being suspicious that something was wrong, notified Dr. Rutherford, who had been treating him for incompile and also wrong, notified Dr. Rutherford, who had been treating him for insomnia, and also sent for a policeman, who forced entrance and found Cruickshank unconscious, with an empty ounce bottle labeled "Laudanum," by his side. He was mustered out as adjutant of the 110th Illinois Volunteers. A personal letter from President Hayes, praising his valiant services, was found in his pocket. IN LABOR'S FIELD

75,000 Operatives Affected by Advance in Wages in New England Cotton Mills.

A Winnipeg telegram says there is trouble on the C. N. R. between the management and the trackmen. The latter want a revision of the pay schedule and contract.

The striking 'longshoremen at Halifax have applied to Deputy Minister of Labor King to try and arrange a set-tlement of the difficulty. The Washoe smelters at Anaconda are practically at a standstill because of the strike of the hoisting engineers of the Amalgamated mines. The ore oins were emptied late yesterday. Over 3,000 men are now idle in Anaconda, by reason of the walk-out of the en-

A general advance of about 10 per cent in wages of the cotton mill operatives has gone into effect in practically every mill down in the southern half of New England, except Fall River, where the increase was given last month. More than 75,000 hands are benefited by the raise. After a strike of one week the Chicago plasterers' helpers, having membership in the Hodcarriers and Building Laborers' Cnion, have scored a victory over the Employing Plasterers' Association. Complete concession to the strikers' demand for an increase of five cents an hour in wages was nard. made by the employers. More than 00 men were involved in the strike. The resignation of Terrence V. Powas commissioner-general of immigration has been placed in the hands of President Roosevelt. Mr. Powderly is to be succeeded in office by Frank P. Sargeant, but as the latter does not expect to take office for more than a month the present commissioner's resignation will probably not be accepted by the president until that time. Organized labor won a victory in Hartford, Conn. Following the example of Bridgeport and Ansonia they elected a mayor of the city. They captured the Democratic nomination, and their man, Ignatius A. Sullivan, clerk in a clothing store, received the solid vote, practically of the trades unions. Republicans elected a majority of the council. There is little change in the lock-out n Toronto's painting trade. The trouble at Tuckett's tobacco factory, Hamilton, is all over, and the strike declared off by Mr. John Flett, international officer, and Mr. James Connell, chairman of the grievance committee of the local union. This action was taken after the two had had a long conference with Messrs. Whit-ton and Lamoreaux, representing the Tuckett Company. The basis of set-tlement is not made public, but it is understood both sides made concessions. The question of wages, a minor ore, was satisfactorily settled.

At a meeting of the vestry of St. Mary's Church, Walkerville, on Monday evening, a communication was read from the Messrs. Walker, stating that a new church will be erected by them as a memorial of the late Hiram Walker, and that the congregation would not be ask-ed to contribute anything towards the expense. Action was deferred in the matter, as it was thought best to submit it to a meeting of the whole congregation. The matter would then be placed before Bishop Baldwin for his sanction.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wright, pastor of St. John's Mr. Church, Thamesford, in the presence of about eighty of the friends of the contracting parties. The Wedding March was played by Miss Tay, of Kintore. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a costume of white organdie, and wore a bridal veil filled with orange blossoms and carried roses. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Maggie, who was attired in white organdie, and carried carnations. Her youngest sister, Miss Lena, was ring-bearer. The groom was sunported by his brother, Mr. Albert Walters. At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests repaired to the dining-room. where a supper was served, and conaddress DR. COLLAPSE OF THE NERVES

Strange, Dizzy Feelings, Sleepless Nights, Head Felt as Though It Would Burst, Thought She Would Lose Her Mind-A Re markable Cure by

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

If you have been discouraged in seekng a cure for nervous exhaustion or prostration, the case of Mrs. C. H. Jones, of Pierceton, Que., will interest you. Hers was a severe case, but is a fair sample of what thousands of women are enduring, with the belief that they can never be cured.

Mrs. Jones describes her case as follows: "For several years I had been gradually running down in health, and growing weaker and weaker. I did not know exactly what ailed me, for strange, dizzy feelings would come over me. I got a terrible fright, and it so unsettled my nerves that shaking spells would come over me, and could not keep my feet still, and finally I had to keep the bed most all the

"The doctor said I had nervous pros-tration, and though I took his medicine from fall till spring, I did not improve in health and could not read or sew. I would lie awake at nights, and often would not get more than five or six hours' sleep in a week. head felt as though it would burst, and I thought I would go out of my mind.

"An uncle from New York visited me at this time, and told me of what an awful time he had gone through with his nerves. He said that he always had more faith in Dr. Chase than in anl other physician, and was cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I began using this preparation, and improved from the first. Alto gether I used five boxes, and it has done me more good than I ever thought medicine could do. My health is better in every way than it has been for many years, and my nervous system is strengthened and invigorated."
"I might add that I have also used Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, with excellent results."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cannot fail to benefit any man, woman or child who is pale, weak or nervous. It contains in condensed form the most po-tent restoratives of nature. It does with approximate percentages:

WORLD'S CHIEF FLOWER CENTER Metropolis of States Is Chief

Point of Export. Millions of Dollars Worth Are Annually Rheumatism Shipped From This Side to the Old Country.

Twenty-two million dollars are spent annually in the city of New York for flowers. That is an average of nearly $2,000,000 a month; and it is this enormous expenditure of money for a commodity which is purely a luxury that makes New York the greatest flower center of the world. There is another evidence that the metropolis of the United States is the world's chief flower city. We have be-gun exporting flowers. The chief exports at present are the American Beauty roses, of which a large quantity is shipped to England to be sold in London. For those who are not familiar with all the ins and outs of the business of raising and selling flowers, it will be interesting to know how pack the American Beauties which I send to London. The grand old flowers receive as much care as a mother would give to her sick child. The Beauties are put into long boxes. Their glorious heads are wrapped first in a covering of oil paper. This is to prevent their losing their moisture.

Then comes a coat of tissue paper, which acts something like a cushion to of tin foil. But the most careful part of the packing is at the other end of the stem, where it has been cut from the parent plant. The stem of each flower is thrust into a long, narrow bottle, so slender that it is practically a tube, and is about the size of a man's middle finger. At the top end of the bottle is a smal rubber cap which fits closely around the stem of the flower, so that when the bottle is filled with water none of It will escape through the rubber cap. Each stem has a bottle of its own to keep it refreshed during its ocean journey; and when the flowers lie in their box, there is a cluster of long, slender bottles at the foot of the box and a cluster of heads wrapped in tin foil at the top of the box and the roses are

Who Owns the Sawlog Policy?

That the present sawlog policy of the Province was filched by the Government from the Opposition is one of the latter's stock charges.

The great revival of the lumber mill Industry, and the removal of many large concerns from Michigan to the shores of the Georgian Bay, ha' been in a great measure due to the regulation governing the sale of pine timber, which prohibits the export of sawlogs, and requires that these be manufactured into lumber in Canada.

The Opposition's claim to the credit for this state of affairs is based on a resolution moved in the House by Mr. Miscampbell in 1893, to this effect: "That the right to cut timber upon the present reserves should be sold under such conditions as will insure the manufacture of the timber cut within improvement system. The question the Province." The resolution was opposed by the Administration and voted down at the time for reasons which will be stated later.

As a matter of fact, the Government is the real parent of the present policy, not the Opposition. In 1890, when the late Hon. A. S. Hardy was Commis-Sioner of Crown Lands, he decided that In the sale of certain timber berths in the Rainy River district, a clause should be inserted in the leases requiring the logs to be converted into lumber in Canada. A few months afterward the Conservative Government at Ottawa came to an understanding with the Washington Administration, by which the duty on Canadian lumber entering the United States was reduced to $1 per thousand, the Dominion in return agreeing to remove the export duty on logs. This was the condition of things in 1892 when the next timber sale in Ontario became necessary. Mr. Hardy very properly decided that it would not be public pol-1cy to embarrass the relations of the Ottawa and Washington Governments, and practically annul their agreement by inserting a manufacturing clause in the conditions of the new sale. Besides, these berths were in the Ottawa Valley, where none of the logs could be shipped profitably to the United States -in fact, not a log was cut for exportation. The Opposition virtually admitted that Mr. Hardy had acted wisely, for in a resolution on the timber question, moved by Mr. Miscampbell in 1894, there was no further demand for an embargo on sawlogs.

When the Wilson tariff was framed at Washington lumber was placed on the American free list, an arrangement highly satisfactory to Canadian lumbermen. But this was soon overturned by the Dingley tariff, which imposed a duty of $2 per thousand on Canadian lumber, with the rather impudent provision that if the Dominion put an export duty on logs, the American tariff on lumber would be raised pro rata. These changes, which put a new face situation occurred in 1897. The Government took the matter into consideration, and passed an orderin-council declaring that from the 1st of May following, when the current timber leases expired, all logs cut on crown lands should be manufactured Into lumber in Canada. The House met in December, and in the Speech from the Throne notice was given of a bill dealing with the timber question. Later on in the session the bill was intro-duced and adopted, embodying the terms of the order-in-council.

The Opposition took the ground-and they make much ado over this-that the Government should have immediately prohibited the export of logs in the fall of 1897 without waiting for the leases to expire. This would have been equivalent to a breach of contract, or to say the least, a violation of justice and British fair play. As the present able Commissioner of Crown Lands, Hon. E. J. Davis, said in his recent speech on this subject: "We hold that when a license is issued for the year, the conditions which prevail in that license must not be altered in equity and fairness until another license is issued." Equally open to reproach was Mr. Miscampbell's resolution in 1893, which demanded that the logs be manufactured only in Ontario, thereby inviting reprisals from Quebec and fostering a spirit of narrow provincialism.

This is the history of the sawlog poiicy about which so much has been heard and will be heard in the approaching campaign. We fail to see how the Opposition can indict the Government for larceny, in view of the whole truth.

The Mail and Empire says that "15,-$00 square miles, or 9,984,000 acres of pulpwood, worth, according to the Quebec price, $1,900,000, have been given away gratuitously to syndicates." Is this an honest statement? The Ontario Government collect 40 cents per cord on all the pulpwood cut, or more if they find the value of the spruce warrants 12

Council Too Hasty.

The city council Monday night, on the mayor's casting vote, decided to bring all roadways under the local improvement system.

This is an important question, and the council should have proceeded with nore deliberation. We doubt if there is any municipality in Canada that has gone to the extreme of making every roadway a local charge.

In the case of the more expensive classes of pavement, such as asphalt, nacadam or brick, there is some argument for charging a large proportion of the cost against the properties abutting on the roadway, as these are enhanced in value by the improvement of the street. But there is also this defect in the system, that a ratepayer assessed for, say $100,000, pays no more for his roadway than another assessed for $1,000 who happens to have an equally large land frontage. Another thing, a highway is for public use, and there is a good deal in the claim that it should be paid for by the public. Very often the enterprising residents of a street are punished for putting down a high-grade pavement by the volume of traffic it attracts. This is a sort of appreciation which property owners do not appreciate in turn. If the council would make inquiries it would find that other cities among them Detroit and Toronto, are seeking to modify rather than extend the local certainly warrants more attention than has been given it.

No Sense In It.

The budget debate in the House of Commons closed at an early hour this morning, the amendment by the leader of the Opposition being voted down by a majority of 56.

Mr. Borden's resolution was selfcontradictory to the point of absurdity. In effect it declared in favor of protection and reciprocal trade within the Empire. And this, while his supporters flooded the House with appeals for higher tariff on textiles, on the ground that Canadian manufacturers could not compete with British goods under the existing preferential tariff! The Opposition knows, and Mr.Chamberlain has declared, that an imperial trade among the component parts of the Empire, or at least a much lower tariff than Canada even now imposes on British imports. How Mr. Borden can reconcile this with the protective end of his policy is one of the curiosities of politics.

Cecil Rhodes' Will.

The will of Cecil Rhodes has been likened to that of Julius Caesar. The motives being vastly different, the comparison is a forced one. The former sought to promote a spirit of unity among Anglo-Saxon peoples; the latter to satiate the Roman populace. Cecil Rhodes' method for promoting a unity, which must needs prove the highest kind of imperialism, is to harmonize the future leaders of thought and action. He has left the bulk of an immense fortune to provide for scholarships for deserving students in Great Britain, Germany and the United States. 'For." said Mr. Rhodes. "a good understanding between England, Germany and the United States will secure the peace of the world, and educational relations form the strongest tie." Canada is not specially mentioned in the will, but a great deal has been left to the executors, and it is quite probable that the provinces of the Dominion will be remembered.

In the election of a student to a scholarship, the will provides that re- the Bell telephone monopoly's wires gard shall be had to his moral as well get crossed. as his intellectual qualities-his courage, devotion to duty, sympathy for the weak, unselfishness and other manly attributes. Cecil Rhodes evidently had the true ideal of education-that it ought to be something more than a erebral massage treatment by developing character as well as mind.

HOW THE EASTER BELLS ARE RUNG

In the Old Church of St. Dunstan's-in-the-East.

Chimes for a Century and a Half Have Been Rung by Members of One Family.

The Church of St. Dunstan's-in-the-East, close by the Tower of London, eight church bells and only one bell ringer. He is Arthur P. Dix, the only man in the world who can ring a tune out of eight big church bells by his own unaided efforts. Mr. Dix has been a bell ringer since he was a very little boy. He seems to have inherited his fondness for the work, because his father, grandfather and great-grand-uncle were all companologists at St. Dunstan's-in-the-East before him. The bells of this church have been rung for a century and a half by the Dix family, but only the present representative dared attempt to ring all eight by himself. One bell ringer generally finds he is kept busy by attending to the pulling of one bell rope, and the ringing of chimes on eight bells usually requires the services of eight bell ringers. When Mr. Dix was a youngster he attended an entertainment and heard a man play "Home, Sweet Home" on eight small hand bells. It was here he conceived the idea of duplicating the hand-bell performance on the eight big bells at St. Dunstan's-in-the-East. First of all, he started with two bells, and after a little practice increased he number to three, then to four, to five, six, seven, and at last to eight bells. It took him several years to reach this degree of perfection.

How does he do it? Well, he simply envelops himself in a mesh of ropes.He rings one bell with each foot, one with each hand, one with each elbow, ene with his mouth and one with his neck. "The strain of ringing the bells in proper order and time is very great," says Mr. Dix, "and, of course" I have to concentrate all my attention upon the subject. It is exceedingly hard work, too, and sometimes I am so exhausted at the end of half an hour's ringing that I am almost unable to get The strain on the neck is very great, and a lump which has formed there is, the doctor tells, me the result

When a man is as heartless as Mayor Beck has shown himself to be, he ought not to object to fair criticism, and in reply he ought not to descend to misrepresentations.

The Free Press credits the mayor with saying: "The statement that appointments were made without the trust being consulted was not the fact.' Who brought Miss Meiklejohn here from Ottawa and offered her the position? Who, when she refused, authorized the mayor to offer the position to her nominee, Miss Mayou, of Philadelphia? The mayor knows well that the trustees were not consulted.

The mayor objected to The Advertiser's statement that "Col. Smith, for whom the superintendency was designed, declined to take the post." The mayor knows that no charge whatever a place for Col. Smith or someone else? The mayor knows he offered the position to Col. Smith and that he declined it because he had a better one. The mayor knows that a meeting was held and that the origin of the agitation against Dr. Balfour was to make a place for Col. Smith.

The mayor objects to have his conluct termed "harsh" or "heartless."

Dr. Balfour resigned rather than subnit to the mayor's nagging. Did the mayor exhibit no heartlessness or harshness when he moved to have Dr. TO MR. RHODES Balfour dismissed without even an investigation? Miss Murray resigns. She was appointed lady superintendent on the recommendation of the best physicians in London. Was there nothing ings, but the regular services harsh or heartless in bringing Miss Meiklejohn from Ottawa to take her place without the slightest hint to her that the mayor intended to put another in her place? The fact that Miss Meiklejohn did not take the place does not soften his harshness in the least.

Miss McCutcheon, the assistant lady superintendent, sent in her resignation vesterday. Is there nothing harsh towards her? What had she done to deserve such "wholesouled magnanimous treatment," as the Free Press called it the other day? She resigned because Miss Mayou stipulated that she wanted to bring her own assistant; and if the mayor produces his letter, it is possible the name of the assistant is given, or who she is to be indicated; but since attention has been drawn to the point, Miss Mayou writes: "I should give the preference to a Canadian or other British subject, as being of better calibre and having more executive ability than the average American."

And so Miss McCutcheon, a Cana-A dispatch from Moscow to the Lon- ject," on account of her superior calibre and executive ability. The cithas received a communication from the izens may well ask if Miss Mayou did by the evidence. Irwin has to pay the not have anyone in view, why did she court costs. stipulate that Miss McCutcheon be put riots, asking him, as representative of out? Is it not plain that this letter comes because of the way Canadian workmen are treated at Buffalo? Is Miss McCutcheon's treatment not worse than harsh and heartless?

Is not Miss Mayou's letter a stinging rebuke to the mayor? Canadians have more calibre and executive ability, she says this morning that the conclusion says, than Americans. Yet she learned her profession in an Illinois school will be held probably at Carlsbad be-tween Count Von Buelow, the German American practiced. If she intended to get a Canadian, why not wait till she saw Miss McCutcheon before stipulating that she should go? And the mayor tells us she stipulated "to be allowed to bring her own assistant because such a one would be conversant | H.'s reply: with her methods in a training school.' Now, if, like Col. Smith and Miss Your letter came, but came too late, Meiklejohn, the one intended can't be had, why does the mayor offer the public such cant as that she is looking for a Canadian because Canadians have better "calibre" and more "executive ability" than Americans? Who is her appointee?

With reference to the cost of the hospital, let the city treasurer give the figures and it will be found, under the new hospital, that the cost of maintenance, including interest on the cost of construction of the hospital, more than doubles the cost under the old hospital-perhaps, nearly trebles it. The figures given by the mayor are not correct. Let the city treasurer give them.

To complete the list, the matron, whose home is in Nissouri, and whose father is a farmer there, will be replaced by one trained in one of the chools where they lack "calibre" and "executive ability," according to Miss

The mayor says: "I will not be a member of the trust if we are to be accused constantly in this unjust manner." If the mayor means to resign, nothing better could happen for the good of the hospital. He has not only accused in an unjust manner, but affected the lives of several by his harsh, heartless and unjust conduct towards them. He must learn to respect the rights of others, and if criticism causes him to threaten resignation, he ought frankly at least to realize the suffering his inhumanity has caused to others.

YEAR'S WORK SATISFACTORY.

Talbot Street Baptists Enjoy Prosperity.

Reports Presented at Annual Meeting Show Excellent Results of Year's Efforts.

A feeling of satisfaction with the result of past efforts and of confidence in the future pervaded the annual meeting of the Talbot Street Baptist Church, which was held last night. It was well attended by members of the church, who displayed keen interest in the business before them. Gratification with the year's work was exwas proven against Dr. Balfour. Why pressed by both pastor and congregawas the agitation begun, if not to make tion. Its success has been shown by the largely increased attendance at the services, which is now taxing the accommodation which the church supplies. The feeling of the congregation was expressed as follows, in the clerk's report: The year for which this report is made has been one in which the hand of Divine Providence has been abundantly manifested by constant influx of new members. We must not, however, fail to note that instrumentally the work has been carried on so successfully by the faithful, persistent and personal work of the members, led by the pastor, who has not only taken the leadership in the work, but has also given encouragement, where faith lagged, and wise counsel at all times for their guidance and direction in the work of church upbuilding and soul-saving. "My Friend.

The following poem was written in the The following poem was written in the prison dead-house at Camp Chase, by Col. W. S. H. A fellow-prisoner was engaged to a beautiful lady; she proved faithless, and her letter came, breaking the truth. Soon after he died, and this was Col. H.'s reply:

Your letter came, but came too late,
For Heaven had claimed its own;
Ah, sudden change! from prison bars
Unto the Great White Throne!
And yet I think he would have stayed
For one more day of pain,
Could he have read those tardy words
Which you have cent in vain Which you have sent in vain.

Why did you wait, fair lady, through So many a weary hour?
Were other lovers with you in
That silken, dainty bower? That silken, dainty bower?
Did others bow before your charms.
And twine bright garlands there? And yet I ween in all that throng His spirit had no peer.

I wish that you were by me now, As I draw the sheet aside,
To see how pure the look he wore Awhile before he died. Yet the sorrow that you gave him still Had left its weary trace, And a meek and saintly sadness dwelt Upon his pallid face.

'Her love," he said, could change for me The winter's cold to spring;"

Ah, trust of thoughtless maiden's love, Ah, trust of thoughtless maiden's low Thou art a bitter thing! For when these valleys fair, in May, Once more with bloom shall wave, The northern violets shall blow Above his humble grave.

Your dole of scanty words had been But one more pang to bear; Though to the last he kissed with love This tress of your soft hair; I did not put it where he said,
For when the angels come
I would not have them find the sign Of falsehood in the tomb.

I've read the letter, and I know wiles that you have wrought To win that noble heart of his, And gained it—fearful thought!— What lavish wealth men sometimes give For a trifle, light and small!
What manly forms are often held
In Folly's flimsy thrall!

You shall not pity him, for now
He's past your hope and fear;
Although I wish that you could stand
With me beside his bier,
Still, I forgive you: Heaven knows
For mercy you'll have need,
Since God His awful judgment sends On each unworthy deed.

Tonight, the cold winds whistle by As I my vigils keep Within the prison dead-house, where Few mourners come to weep.
A rude plank coffin holds him now, Yet Death gives always grace,
And I would rather see him thus
Than clasped in your embrace.

Tonight your rooms are bright and gay With wit and wine and song;
And you are smiling just as if
You never did a wrong. Your hand so fair that none would think It penned these words of pain;
Your skin so white—would God your soul
Were half so free of stain!

rather be this dear, dear friend I'd rather be this dear, dear friend
Than you in all your glee;
For you are held in grievous bonds
While he's forever free.
Whom serve we in this life, we serve
In that which is to come;
He chose his way, you yours; let God
Pronounce the fitting doom.

TOO MANY VOTES

Leamington Councilor Is Ordered to Step Out—The St. Thomas Aidermen.

Windsor, Ont., April 8.—Judge Horne this morning decided that there had been sufficient proof to show that wwm. Irwin had been elected to the council of Leamington by frdauulent means, and declared the seat vacant. The quo warranto proceedings were brought by Henry W. Iveson, of the same town. In this bill of complaint the relator alleges that Iveson had received more votes than the number of bona-fide voters warranted. This consumptions are presented in the London, England, Times, to meet with a German book, or at least a book in German hook, or at least a book in German book, or at least a book in German book or at least a book in German book or at least a book in German book or at the stage and in the South African strugg. The author, we gather, is an Austrian subject; and possibly his experience of pan-German methods in his own country It is a pleasure as real as at present it evidence has led him to refute and condemn the monstrous travesty of his-tory invented by the anti-English press. Herr Hertz brings the war into its true perspective, by a scientific investigation of the history of South Africa and traces it back to its political, social and economic causes. He shows that it was the colonial activity of Germany in 1884 and the visit of Mr. Kruger to Berlin that led Mr. Rhodes, in defense of British interests, to encompass the Transvaal with the "hedge" of British possessions which the ex-president resented. The history of the reform movement is carefully told. Herr Hertz proves that it was the natural outcome of the oppression of the Uitlanders by the Boer oligarchy, and that in its origin and in its earlier years it was a purely demognit Herr Hertz brings the war into its true oligately, and the state of the capitalists held aloof. Dr. Schiele, who made alists held aloof. Pr. Schiele, who made part of the campaign with the Boers, speaks as plainly of the corruption of the Boer police and of the administration, from which the capitalists held aloof. Dr. Schiele, who made part of the campaign with the Boers, speaks as plainly of the corruption of the Boer relies and of the administration in even police and of the administration, in even the highest departments, as any of Mr. Kruger's victims. The Jameson raid was the work of capitalists, but even after the raid the Boer government sought to the raid the Boer government sought to divide the Uitlanders by favoring this class, while ignoring the legitimate grievances of the British workmen. Herr Hertz fully acquits the British government of complicity in the raid. "Nobody," he says, "who reads the contemporary correspondence can doubt the absolute good-will of the minister" (Mr. Chamberlain. His condemnation of Mr. Kruger's sham scheme of electoral reform is thorough. "It is," he says, "abform is thorough. "It is," he says, "absolutely inconceivable to me how anybody can pretend that this botchwork * * would have honestly relieved the grievances of the Uitlanders." In the events of the summer of 1899 and notably the the gray in which we allowed engrein the way in which we allowed enormous quantities of ammunition to pass through Cape Colony in July, and through Delagoa Bay in August and September, when, as Herr Hertz observes, a protest from us to Portugal would have stopped them he sees a clear would have stopped them, he sees a clear proof that it was not the English but the Boer states which were the aggressors, not merely in a formal but in a real

In his account of the war itself, Herr Hertz declares that he has relied solely on pro-Boer sources of information—a circumstance which may explain his cen-sure on the charge of the Lancers at Elandslaagte as an act of cruelty. He treats the accusations of cowardice and brutality brought against us as they debrutality brought against us as they deserve, and quotes the testimony of foreign eye-witnesses, acting on the Boer side, to the valor and humanity of our troops. He points out the significant fact that Miss Hobhouse, "on whose report the Anglophobes gladly rely," could give no single act of ill-treatment of women by British soldiers, save that of a drunken soldier, who pushed against a woman and was punished for it. The drunken soldier, who pushed against a woman, and was punished for it. The foulest lies of all circulated against us are traced to a Dutch preacher named Broekhuizen, who had given and broken his parole, and had thereupon been sent to Europe. His revenge was to state in the Indocendence Belga that 30 per cent to Europe. His revenge was to state in the Independence Belge that 30 per cent of the Boer women had been ravished by our soldiers. Herr Hertz gives the answer of M. Constancon, formerly Swiss consul at Pretoria, who tersely characterized the article as "a bundle of lies from beginning to end," and its reverend author as a perjurer. The Rev. Mr. Grey gave evidence in the same issue of the Gazette de Lausanne to the same the Gazette de Lausanne to the same effect. Herr Hertz disapproves of farm burning, but he honestly admits that it is sanctioned by the recognized usages is sanctioned by the recognized usages of war, and that it is "neither against 47k-xt of the Hague Convention.

Herr Hertz is opposed to annexation on principle, but then he admits that our right of conquest is indisputable, and he applies his principle all round. He quotes very effectively the royal message of Aug. 16, 1866, in which King William of Prussia justified the incorporation of Hanover and other conquered territories with that kingdom. "Not from the lust of conquest," says the grandfather of William II., "but because it is our duty to protect our hereditary dominions from the recurrence of danger, and to give the national reconstruction of Germany the recurrence of danger, and to give the national reconstruction of Germany broader and firmer foundations, we are compelled to unite the Kingdom of Hanover, the Electoral Duchy of Hesse, the Duchy of Nassau and the Free City of Frankfurt for ever with our kingdom." Prince Bismarck went a little further than his august master. He spoke of the danger which might come to Prussia from the existence of a state which might use every external difficulty of hers to attack her in the rear. The continued existence of such a state, he said, would be incompatible with that of would be incompatible with that of Prussia. "The Prussian minister," he added, "who should miss the first chance that offers to get rid of such a Hanover, would be a traitor to his country and traitor to Germany."

A Physicians Testimony

ALEXANDRIA, DEC., 20th. 1901 Speaking from personal experience I can state that your Stout is excellent in building up the system-I was very much run down and was advised to use Labatt's Porter—this I have done for some time and I largely attribute to its effects my steady improvement in strength and weight. I deem it but justice to you, and it certainly is a pleasure to me, to add my testimony to its sterling qualities, and I gladly recommend your Stout as an excellent tonic and food in cases where such is required.

For Labatt's Stout.

Some stocks, when compared with their last week quotations, show material gains.

LABOR MEN HOLD VARYING VIEWS

Difference of Opinion Respecting McLean Case.

Typographical Union Back Him Up But Trades and Labor Council Reject Him.

The question of Trustee John Mc-Lean's claims to membership upon the Trades and Labor Council again came before that body at its meeting last

A communication from the London Typographical Union was received, asking the council to reconsider its former motion respecting the case, as they the evidence was not sufficient for the action taken. The council, however, refused to accept Mr. McLean as a delegate, and the communication was filed for future reference. London Typographical Union will be notified of the action taken.

Basement of Market House in Bad Condition.

Ald. Campbell Says That Money for Repairs Should Have Been Appropriated.

Ald. Campbell was very emphatic at the last council meeting in the expression of his opinion that sufficient money should be appropriated to put the market building in a more sanitary condition. "The situation is plain enough," he said, today, when speaking of the council's action. "The building has been declared by the medical health officer to be in such an unsanitary state that the board of health would be justified in closing it up. The matter came up last year, but it was after the estimates had been passed, and there was no money. This year, there was no such excuse; and the $500 or $600 required should have been appropriated without question. The facts as stated by the medical health officer are, that the basement of the building is not only unclean, but it cannot be cleaned in its present shape. There is a brick floor which was laid when the building was constructed half a century ago. The floor is uneven. The bricks are rough and broken, with as many cracks and crevices as there are bricks; and for ages decaying animal and vegetable matter has been thrown and dropped on the floor. Even though frequently swept, particles of this foul material lodges in the crevices. Then when the floor is washed, the water dissolves portions of the refuse and carries it between and under the bricks, which are soaking in a bed of filth. This in a building where butter and meat are constantly exposed for sale. The conditions are liable to produce disease, and no one can say how have come from this source. There is much disease throughout the city may no possible remedy except to take up the bricks, clean out the dirt, and lay down a cement floor, with proper facilities for flushing and draining. I have done all I can towards purifying the council last year, and again this year. If nothing is done," concluded the docter "the responsibility is not on my

A Lady who cures her husband of His Drinking Habits Writes of Her Struggle to Save her Home.

A PATHETIC LETTER.

"I had for a long time been thinking of trying the Tasteless Samaria Prescription treatment on my husband for his drinking habits, but I was afraid he would discover that I was giving him medicine, and the thought unnerved me. I hesitated for nearly a week, but one day when he came home very much intoxicated and his week's salary nearly all spent. I threw off all fear and determined to make an effort to save our home from the ruin I saw comins, at all hazards. I sent for your Tasteless Samaria Prescription, and put it in his coffee as directed next morning, and watched and prayed for the result. At moon I gave him more, and also at support. He never suspected a thing, and I then boldly kept right on giving it regularly, as I had discovered something that set every nerve in my body tingling with hope and happiness, and I could see a bright future spread out before me—a peaceful, happy home, a share in the good things of life, an attentive, loving lasband, comforts and everything else dear to a woman's heart; for my husban, had told me that whisky was vile stuff and he was taking a dislike to it. It was only too true, for before I had given him the full course he had stopped drinking altogether, but I kept giving him the medicine till it was gone, and then sent for another lot, to have on hand if he should relapse, as he has done from promises before. He never has, and I am writing you this letter to tell you how thankful I am. I honestly believe it will cure the worst cases."

She threw herself upon a luxurious She threw herself upon a luxurious lounge, and surrendered herself to a delicious reverie. In less than ten minutes the had fallen into a sound slumber, a tender smile wreathing her sweet lips. Max did not return until nearly six. He met a servant in the hall as he entered, and, giving her a box, told her to carry it to Miss Walton's room, give it to her, with his compliments, if she was there, and if she was not, to leave it upon, her table. Then he went directly to his own chamber.

The girl was Annie, Mrs. Remington's maid; but just as she was going upstairs maid; but just as she was going upstairs to do his bidding, the table-girl called to her that Mrs. Remington wanted her in the dining-room.

A dressing-maid, who had been engaged just for the evening, to assist the lady guests in rearranging their toliets upon their arrival, was passing through the hall at that moment, and, thrusting the box into her hand, Annie bade her to take it up to Miss Walton's room, with Mr. Remington's compliments, then she hastened to see what her mistress wanted.

The dressing-maid had been in the house only an hour, and she did not really know who Miss Walton was; but she had seen Laura pass from the bathroom to her own chamber about half an hour previous, and, supposing she was the lady referred to, and for whom the box was intended, she went directly upstairs and tanged upon her door.

the room, she found Laura standing before her glass, arranging her hair for the evening.

"How lovely!" Laura said, as she bent to inhale their fragrance, "but—I cannot wear them with garnet and old gold. How absurd to get them without asking what I should like."

Laura knew, the moment that she had read these line, that they had never been intended for her eye; that Agnes alone had the unspeakable felicity of being Max's darling, for had she not heard him call her so that very morning?

She understood at once how the mistake had been made—the strange dressing-maid had been directed to take the box to Miss Walton, and, knowing of only one young lady in the house, had supposed the gift was intended for her. For several minutes she stood like a statue, glaring wrathfully down upon the fragrant, beautiful buds.

She was half tempted to dash them to the floor and crush them beneath her feet, stamping all life and perfume out of them, even as she would have liked to crush out all beauty from the face of her rival. But the expression of her countenance, and and a Five Favorites Took First Money at Bennings.

THE McGOVERN-YOUNG CORBETT FIGHT.

A week from yesterday the bids for the McGovern-Young Corbett fight will be opened at Cincinnati. The clubs that have bids in are the International A. C., of Fort Erie; the Stage Athletic Club, of Covington, Ky.; the Southern Athletic Club, of Louisville, Ky.; the National Sporting Club, of San Francisco; the Twentieth Century Club, of San Francisco; the Colorado Athletic Club, of Denver; the Nutmeg Athletic Club, of Hartford; the Charleston Athletic Club, of Charleston, S. C., and the Eureka Club, of Baltimore.

"YOUNG CORBETT" TRAINING. New York, April 8 .- Young Corbett began training last week for a series of fights which he expects to take part in between May and November.

AFTER MCCOY AND MARTIN. New York, April 8.-Having failed to secure the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight, the Century Club, of Los Angeles, Cal., is now trying to arrange a match between Denver Ed. Martin, the colored pugilist, and Kid McCoy. The Los Angeles promoters think that a contest between McCoy and Martin would be worth at least $20,000 to the fighters. Madden wired his acceptance, and said in his telegram that Martin "would fight any man in the world if McCoy refused.

Some Royal Habits.

It would be an interesting study in royal habits to make an inventory of the articles that are habitually carried by monarchs in their pockets. The Em peror William carries a pen about with him, it is said; but then he is a "literary gent," with a habit of jotting down his ideas as they occur to him at all hours of the day. King Edward of England does not do this, the task being intrusted to the private secretary, who is always on hand with a pen when any letter requires to be signed or note to be made.

There is also a complete service of pens and ink in all the rooms used habitually by King Edward. He carries, however, in his waistcoat, a gold pencil case, as well as a cigar cutter, the key to his private desk, and a cronometer which is kept strictly to Greenwich time, and not-as the house clocks at Sandringham were many years agohalf-hour fast. The King also has a handful of gold, although it is, of course, a fairy tale that the change Griffith's delivery in three innings of provided for his convenience by the Sunday's game. Callahan worked for equerry is always made up of new equerry is always made up of new pieces. Sometimes, but not invariably, there is a little silver as well. His majesty has the regal habit of seldom waiting for change, and this is taken into account when he is traveling, as it would be rather onerous to have to tip a half-sovereign every time he wishes to pay a porter or some other humble attendant.

Property Out West.

Residents of St. Boniface who invested in lands in the Eli district on the Canadian Northern Portage branch are congratulating themselves on the big profits they have made. Land which was bought two or three years ago at $3 an acre is now being sold at $7 50 to $10. Over 10,000 acres have changed hands in the district within the past give that aggregation a bitter fight. A two months. Mr. Aime Benard, of the Grand Central Hotel, has sold 2,400 acres at $11 per acre to an American party. The principal purchasers have been settlers from the Western States.

The "Royal Muskoka."

The opening up of the Highlands of Ontario, Canada, and the beautiful Lake region, has been a veritable labor of love to the advertising department of the Grand Trunk Railway, and the coming summer promises such an influx of American tourists as will amply justify the outlay in hotel accommodation which has been recently made. The "Royal Muskoka," in fact, promises to become to Canada, in summer, what the "Royal Ponciana" is to Florida in the winter months, the most fashionable resort of the continent, where the romantic and the beautiful can be enjoyed with all the luxury and comfort of the most modern hotel life. The "Royal Muskoka," which has been built at a cost of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, very much resembles the architecture of the famous Flagler hotels, soft gray stucce walls, timbered across under its redtiled roof with deep, cool verandas, commanding views of the surrounding lakes and islands. It has accommodation for 400 guests, and is the finest summer hotel in Canada. It will be

Inspector of Prisons Says Interior Is Antiquated—Advises Many Improvements.

"Have the necessary repairs made on the walls and outside, but don't spend a dollar on improving the interior," was the advice of Mr. T. The members of the board agreed with Mr. Chamberlain that it would be useless to attempt to make any other than extensive repairs. The inspector contended that the place would have to be torn to pieces and thoroughly re-modeled before it would be properly fitted for the habitation of prisoners. The Trust Favors the South Street Service.

Members Want to See Sunday Visiting Decreased.

Ladies Will Assist to Make Concert a Success-Mayor Objects to Press Comment.

The hospital trust met at Victoria Hospital in regular session yesterday cluded the indorsation of the South street belt line scheme, the passing of a resolution to lessen Sunday visiting, and the arranging of some details of the forthcoming benefit concert. The mayor took occasion to enter a protest against what he considered unfair statements and insinuations in The Advertiser editorial columns.

The members present were Chairman McCormick, Trustees Waterman and McLeod, the mayor, Dr. Balfour and Superintendent Heard.

LETTERS AND REPORTS. The medical man who had had charge of the case of Wm. H. Brown, who claims, through his solicitors, that he lost an eye through neglect on the part of a physician and lack of care, wrote, stating that Mr. Brown's case and that Mr. Brown's wife took him from the hospital contrary to the physician's advice, thereby losing al chance of saving his eyesight. The substance of the letter will be communicated to Mr. Brown's solicitors.

Miss McCutcheon, assistant lady superintendent, tendered her resignation, to take effect May 1. On motion of Mr. Waterman, action on the resignation was laid over. The nembers of the trust spoke in the highest terms of Miss McCutcheon, and favored retaining her in some other capacity when her services are no longer required owing to Miss Mayou bringing her own assistant.

Miss Patricia Foote, graduate of the Toronto School of Domestic Science, applied for appointment as matron of the hospital. Her application was laid over, as the board has not yet decided to appoint a matron. Misses Mary McVicar and Hannah Dufton were reported as having passed their examination, they being the first nurses to take the full three years' course. Two applications for the position of laundryman were received and refer-red to the superintendent. Miss Mary H. Julian, Winger, Miss in Maud Liddycoatt, Hamilton, and Miss he Edith Hughes, Dresden, applied for admission to the training school.

The superintendent's report for the fortnight showed 24 males, 17 females and 1 child admitted, and 22 males, 24 females and 2 children discharged. There are now under treatment 33 males, 52 females, and 11 children, a total of 96 patients. LESS SUNDAY VISITING. 'Attention was called to the practice of Sunday visiting, which tends to tire and annoy the patients, and is don by many people merely through curi-On motion, the superintendent was ordered to restrict Sunday visiting to those conducting religious serices and the immediate relatives of the patients.

The ladies submitted a resolution passed at their meeting in the morning, suggesting that tickets for the concert be sold at $1, 75c and 50c. The suggestion was adopted. Other suggestions were made by the ladies and the members of the board, many being adopted. The ladies promised to use their efforts to make the concert a success. Incidentally the question came up of allowing as many nurses asas could be spared from hospital duties to attend the conpital duties to attend the con-cert, and Mrs. McMechan drily observed that she hoped the nurses could be allowed to have an evening of innocent enjoyment without being made will be notified of all meetings so that they may attend if they so desire.

OTHER BUSINESS. Mr. Waterman said he wished to see the requisition system utilized in the ordering of all supplies. He was in favor of all the ordering being done through the head of the institution. The mayor agreed with Mr. Waterman's contention.

Dr. Balfour pointed out that for years past all ordering had been done by requisition, signed by himself and the chairman. The mayor moved, seconded by Mr. Waterman, that the board urge the of the trust and allow such things to city council to put forth every effort to pass unchallenged. secure the building of the South street

McMechan and Mrs. H. E. Gates, representing the ladies' advisory board, were present by invitation of the trust, accounts totaling $2,156 04 were pass-

THE MAYOR'S PROTEST. Just before the meeting closed the mayor said he desired to protest against an editorial appearing in The London Advertiser of April 7. He believed it was the duty of the trust to rectify misstatements, and he thought himself justified in what he was about ot do. The mayor characterized the statement that the superintendency was intended for Col. Henry Smith as false, as far as he knew. Col. Smith had never been an applicant, and the only mention of Col. Smith's name was in the newspapers. The statement that Canadians were being displaced by Americans in the hospital was also untrue. Miss Mayou was a native of England, had lived as long in Canada as she had in the Unitthe case on a recent occasion.

On motion, the ladies' advisory board was reappointed for another year. They will be notified of all most increase that the office of all most increase that the office of all most increase that the office of the occasion of the occasion.

ed States, and was anxious to live again under the British flag. The mayor read from Miss Mayou's letters to show that the assistant brought by Miss Mayou would also be a Canadian, as Miss Mayou believed they are of better caliber and possessed of more executive ability than the average American. The statement that the hospital changes were costing the city more money, said the mayor, was disproved by the fact that the estimates for maintenance were $19,000 in 1900, $16,000 in 1901, and only $12,000 in 1902. The mayor closed by declaring that he considered all such insinuations and statements very unfair, and he declared he would not sit as a member

The meeting then adjourned.

There are in London, including one n each of the three fire stations, 62 are alarm boxes. Each bears a distinctive number, by which it is known to the members of the fire department, and when one of these boxes is "pulled" the number of the box is made known at the three stations as quickly as electricity can flash it over the wires. In order to turn in an alarm from one of the modern boxes in use in London, one has only to break a glass to your assistance. inserted in a small box placed over the key. This glass is easily broken with a penknife, small stone, etal key or lead pencil. The breaking of this glass permits one to turn the key and open the door of the fire-alarm box. IN CASE OF FIRE.

All fire-fighting authorities agree that a fire intercepted in its incipiency cannot amount to a serious conflagration. These authorities will tell you to lose not a second in turning in the alarm. And they will further tell you that to send in an alarm promptly, you must know the exact location of the nearest fire-alarm box. Therefore, it is imperative that every citizen acquaint himself with the location of the fire-alarm box nearest his residence or place of business: to learn how to pull the box, and, above all things, to "keep cool" and move quickly. Of the two, a fire-alarm box or a telephone, use the former, unless you know beyond all doubt that you can save time by using the telephone. If you decide to use the telephone, say to central: "My place is on fire. Give me firealarm headquarters." Such messages are given the right of way, and when a second later you are given fire-alarm headquarters, say:

"My house, so and so Blank street, is on fire.' You need not say more, for the operator at fire-alarm headquarters will do the rest.

PROMPTNESS IS THE THING. The moment you give him the number of your residence or place of business, the fireman answering the 'phone presses a button, which gives what is call a "still" alarm in each of the stations, and almost before you have had time to hang up your telephone transmitter the companies are on their way

When the alarm reaches the station, the doors of the stalls in which the horses stand fly open, men spring from every part of the house to their places, the impatient horses are hitched up with marvelous rapidity, and the nex
