

A SCORE DEAD IN CRASH
OF WORLD'S FASTEST TRAINThe Twentieth Century Limited Runs Into Open Switch
While Traveling 70 Miles Per Hour.

OFFICIALS BELIEVE TRAIN DELIBERATELY WRECHED

Cleveland, Ohio, June 22. — While traveling at the rate of 70 miles an hour, the Twentieth Century Limited, the fastest long distance train in the world, ran through an open switch at Mentor, about 25 miles east of Cleveland, at 9:20 o'clock last night, causing one of the most horrible wrecks in the history of the Lake Shore road.

The engine was hurled into the ditch. A part of the train was crushed on top of it, and the wreck was partly burned. The horrors of the wreck were redoubled in the horrors of the fire.

More than a score of people were killed and injured, and the famous train was largely demolished.

The train was crowded, practically all its accommodations being taken when it left the city. It was behind time and the greatest of speed was being made to make up the lost time.

The dead:

Thomas R. Morgan, of the Wellman-Seaver-Morgan Company, Cleveland, burned to death.

John R. Bennett, patent attorney, New York City, burned to death.

A. L. Rodgers, Platt Iron Company, No. 33 Liberty street, New York City, died on operating table at Cleveland General Hospital.

N. B. Walters, baggage-man, of Hamburg, N. Y., scalded to death.

Allen Tyler, Collinwood, Ohio, engineer, crushed under engine.

H. H. Wright, traveling man, Chicago, died at Cleveland General Hospital.

Fireman Graham, Collinwood, crushed under engine.

—Williams, first name and address unknown.

Five bodies not yet identified.

Missing:

A. L. Johnson, of Coney & Johnson, Cleveland.

The barber and the porter of the combination car.

Among the injured at the Cleveland General Hospital is Archibald P. Head, a London, Eng., steel company's representative, seriously burned and injured, probably fatal.

Latest reports gave the number of injured as 21 and of these fifteen are seriously if not fatally hurt. Practically all the injured were burned, and were taken from the blazing wreckage by rescue parties. A peculiarly distressing feature of the rescue work was that the injured were so crazed when they were taken out from under the mass of wreckage that they could not even reveal their own identity, despite the urgent appeals and entreaties made by officials and others who knew how anxiously news from the wreck was awaited by families and friends of the passengers.

The order was finally given to search the living wreck victims in the hope that identification might in that way be established, but even when this was resorted to but three sufferers could be identified. The rest were demoted by the pain and agony they had undergone.

Work of a Crank.

Assistant General Superintendent D. C. Moon, of the Lake Shore, on the scene of the wreck, gave out the following statement:

"So far as can be learned the switch was opened and locked open by some party unknown; probably a crank, and evidently for malicious purposes. Train No. 10, a fast eastbound train, passed through the same switch 45 minutes ahead of No. 26, and it was all right at that time. It is positive that no other train or engine, either freight or passenger, passed through the switch between No. 10 and No. 26."

Traveling at a rate of more than a mile a minute, the heavy train was hurled to its doom with a momentum that was appalling. The scene of the accident was at the Mentor depot. The switch that caused the trouble is located about 130 yards west of the depot. As the heavy engine struck the switch it left the main track and swung violently to the left. For a distance of 20 yards the engine ran on the rails, and then, leaping from the track, turned on its side just to the east of the depot. The momentum was such that the heavy tender was hurled entirely over the engine and was buried in the depot. The combination car was hurled with terrific violence on top of the engine and tender, and in a moment was enveloped in flames from the engine.

Sleeper Thrown Into Station.

The Chicago sleeper, which was immediately behind the combination car, swung from the track, and, crashing into the depot, was completely buried in the wreck of the building. The violence of the crash was such that the depot collapsed on top of the wrecked coach. The hapless passengers in this coach were crushed and maimed in the wreck, and then completely buried in the collapse of the structure.

The next sleeper following left the track and the other remained upright on the rails.

An instant after the crash of the wreck the boiler of the engine burst, scattering fire and steam through the wreck in a manner that made escape for the imprisoned passengers impossible.

The wrecked combination car, which had landed crushed and splintered on top of the engine, was at once enveloped in blinding flames and scalding steam. The cries of the imprisoned passengers were heard above the awful roar, but they were beyond all human aid, and the car became a pyre for a number of human beings.

A score of physicians from Cleveland, Collinwood, Ashtabula, and Painesville went to the scene of the wreck at the request of the Lake Shore officials. After the physicians had treated the injured, the latter were placed aboard a special train and brought to this city, where they were hurried in waiting ambulances to the several hospitals.

Officials of the road started an informal investigation immediately on their arrival. They could not understand why or how the train was wrecked, but they were determined to get to the bottom of the switch, which is provided with every known safeguard, and was carefully inspected prior to the passing of the train. While there is no reason known why any one should tamper with the switch, the officials don't believe the accident could have taken place with the switch properly set and in position.

LATER.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 22. — Charles H. Wellman, of the Wellman-Seaver-Morgan Company, of this city; Engineer Allen Tyler, J. A. Bradley, a prominent attorney at Akron, Ohio; A. P. Head, of London, Eng., and E. J. Brandt, of this city, all died this morning as a result of their injuries. Two additional bodies burned beyond recognition were also taken from the ruins of the train early today.

VESPER AND LEANDERS
Will Likely Fight It Out at Henley for Grand Challenge Cup.

New York, June 22.—A London dispatch to the Times says: English rowing opinion has veered markedly in its sentiments toward the Vesper eight-oared crew of Philadelphia and its chances of winning the Grand Challenge Cup in the Royal Henley regatta. Prior to the advent of the victors on the Thames they were not thought to have a chance of winning the trophy in spite of their fine record in previous regattas. After their first practice they were viewed with more respect, though not with any particular uneasiness.

New rowing experts who have followed their work in three days practice are ready to admit that they are a dangerous crew. Every one says the Vesper and the Leanders are the only crews on the Thames.

Not until Friday night will it be definitely known what crews will start in the race for the Grand Challenge Cup. It is rather expected that the Berlin crew will not start. The Berlin crew is expected to row, and Leander and Vesper, but it is possible that neither of the two college crews that have entered will race. So far the Vesper and the Leanders are the only crews on the Thames.

Berlin Fears French Reply to Kaiser Re Morocco Not Acceptable.

Berlin, June 22.—France's answer to the German note on the Morocco question has not yet reached the foreign office, but it is expected that Ambassador Rihoud will present it in the course of the afternoon. The impression here is that the answer does not promote an understanding between France and Germany, but the foreign office here does not abandon the hope of an adjustment of the differences in a manner satisfactory to Germany.

Paris, June 21.—Premier Rouvier handed a note to Prince von Radolin, the German ambassador, this afternoon. The note takes the form of a reply to Germany's communication of her acceptance to the invitation of the Sultan of Morocco to take part in an international conference on the reform of the Moroccan constitution. M. Rouvier explains France's standing in Morocco, and her intention to maintain the integrity of the Moroccan empire, and her intention to maintain the integrity of the Moroccan empire, and her intention to maintain the integrity of the Moroccan empire.

WILL LET NORWAY GO

Stockholm, June 22.—The separation of Norway and Sweden seems today to be amicably arranged by a modus vivendi between the two nations. At today's session of the Riksdag, the moderates prevailed, and the request of King Oscar and the council of state for authority to dissolve the union, but to preserve the friendly relations of the two countries, so as to insure cooperation in the future, will be granted.

Both chambers decided in favor of the Government's request to appoint a special commission to consider the matter.

APPEAL WAS DISMISSED.

In high court at Toronto, before Mr. Justice Street, re-McIntyre vs. London and Western Trust Company, A. R. Aylesworth, E. C. C. plaintiff, David McIntyre, appealed from report of local master at London dated May 25, 1906, fixing maintenance for two infant children of deceased, upon the ground that maintenance should be derived in the first instance, not from the interest accruing on contingent legacies, but from the shares of the infants in the residue of the estate. Held, dismissed. Appeal dismissed with costs.

Another Nipped by Dog,
But Canine Was Not Mad

The mad dog excitement in London which has been at its height just now. After the scare of yesterday, it was expected that citizens would be somewhat alarmed, and to make matters worse, a dog in the south end of the city attacked Gordon Finchamp, son of Mr. Charles Finchamp, of 462 St. George street, and badly lacerated his hand.

The dog, a beautiful pet collie, and the pride of its owner, Mr. George Trace, 47 220 Burwell street, was lying on the lawn in front of its owner's home, when young Finchamp came along. The lad, who is employed in a downtown store, was late for work, and he was running along the sidewalk, when the dog saw him, and, overtaking him, bit him on the hand. The boy at once had Dr. Jento cauterize the wound and the matter was reported to the police. The owner, who being extremely sorry over the occurrence, does not wish to kill his dog, and the children of the family are hysterical because of the doom which threatens the animal.

It is not claimed that the dog has hydrophobia, but young Finchamp quite naturally does not care to take any chances in the matter. When the police took a hand in the matter, they found they were powerless, and so it now rests with the Finchamps to say whether or not the dog shall be destroyed.

In this connection Mayor Campbell advises citizens to be in no hurry to kill a dog which has bitten anyone. He says it will be far better to tie the animal up where he can do no harm and watch him to see if he develops hydrophobia. As a matter of fact, it is said, that the dog which bit young McGregor is not mad, but is merely sick.

In the north end of the city, a large foxhound which had been a family pet for years, without warning, attacked a young man who was visiting at the house. Inside of half an hour the owner had the animal destroyed.

Another dog took sick today, and crawled into the subway, one of the finest stores on Dundas street. The proprietor appealed to Inspector McCallum to remove the animal or kill it, but Mr. McCallum refused, as he had no power in the matter. He sent the proprietor to the police, but the sergeant again sent word to Mr. McCallum to know what to do.

"I'll shoot the dog and throw it into the roadway," said the sergeant.

"If you do I will prosecute you for committing a nuisance," replied the inspector. And thus the matter hung fire. The dog was finally taken away by the owner.

Ald. Stevely is anxious that the city council shall pass a bylaw prohibiting dog running large for the next month or so in order that the citizens may be properly protected. If the bylaw is passed a penalty will be levied on the owner of the dog. It is likely that the matter will be brought up at once.

Big Forgery Revealed by Why Conservatives Oppose Financier's Death.

BANKS VICTIMS IN LOANS MORE "PULLING" FOR CALGARY

Executors of B. H. Gaskill's Estate Find He Raised Share Certificates.

Philadelphia, June 22.—Details of forgeries which have caused a loss of $750,000 to $1,000,000 to certain banks and trust companies of this city have been brought to light through the closing up of the estate of Benjamin H. Gaskill, recently a prominent financier in financial circles, who died four weeks ago. Those who have been examining his financial affairs announced that certificates for a few shares of stock in a number of instances had been fraudulently raised and represented as bona fide shares, and corresponding loans had been obtained with the forgeries as security.

In its scope the fraud is one of the most sensational that Philadelphia's financial district ever has known. Gaskill was the sole member of the banking and brokerage concern known as Benjamin H. Gaskill & Co. He had offices in the financial district, and his credit was considered high. At the time of his death Gaskill was believed to be worth about $500,000. He left no will and administrators began to close up his business. A patron of the firm, who has been known as a member of the estate, 100 shares of Philadelphia Traction Company stock and 100 shares of stock of the United States Steel Corporation, he turned his account over to E. C. Miller & Co., who sent the traction stock certificate to the Philadelphia Traction Company's office to have the transfer recorded. The certificate did not agree with the company's books, and an investigation showed that it had been raised from six shares to 100. The discovery was reported to E. C. Miller & Co., who immediately notified the stock exchange, of which Gaskill had been a member, which on turn sent out notices to its members not to receive stock certificates from the Gaskill estate.

A further investigation showed that Gaskill had credited himself with his own books with 5,000 shares of Philadelphia Traction stock, valued at approximately $500,000, while the traction company's books showed he had only 400 shares.

It was also discovered that he had raised stock certificates of the United Railways of New Jersey from 2 to 200. The certificates of the Philadelphia and Southwark Street Railway Company, of this city, from 2 to 20. The latter stock worth $450 a share, and the former $5,000 a share. One recorded the transactions of his customers, which was correct, and another giving his own transactions. His books showed that he was losing from $15,000 to $25,000 a year in his business. His method of operation was to obtain certificates of first-class securities, calling for one, two, or three or some other small number of shares, raise the figures and give them as securities for large loans. At least six banks and trust companies of Philadelphia admit holding fraudulent securities for large loans, but not one will make public the amount of money advanced. The amount of money advanced in investigation said the amount of money loaned on the raised certificates was between $750,000 and $1,000,000. It is believed that very little will be recovered from the estate.

Gaskill was 41 years old when he died, and had been a high earner. He was a member of the Manufacturers and other clubs, and well and favorably known. He left a widow, to whom the stock exchange a few days ago paid $5,000 as life insurance. His seat on the exchange is valued at $15,000.

Twenty-Two.

Lodz, Russian Poland, June 22.—Twenty-two persons were killed as the result of yesterday's firing by dragoons and Cossacks on a procession of 50,000 workmen, which had been organized as a demonstration against the Government. Ten of about a hundred wounded are dying. Two women were crushed to death in the rush of the panic-stricken crowds, after the firing began.

This morning some workmen, in revenge, shot and killed a Cossack and two policemen.

WORK HAS COMMENCED
Car Barn for Traction Company Now Being Built.

Contractor John Nutkins has commenced work on the car barn of the Southwestern Traction Company, which are to be located on the Taylor property, just south of the city, and east of Ridout street. The barn is to hold nine cars, and it is to be one of a number to be constructed by the company. Another one is to be built at Ingersoll, it is said.

It is generally understood that the traction company intends to enter the city by Richmond street south.

Mr. Wm. Holbrook, of Leicester, England, has arrived in the city, having been sent out by the Brush Company to erect the cars being furnished by that company for the traction line.

HARD LOT OF OLD MAN
Refuge Would Not Admit David
Munro, and He Is Sent Back.

David Munro, an old man of 70, whose home appears to be nowhere, was yesterday given a pass by Inspector McCallum to St. Catharines. He had been in the House of Refuge there for some time, and he said he felt sure the authorities would admit him. But today the St. Catharines people bundled the old man back to this city. Munro came here from St. Thomas on Tuesday. Now the city does not know what to do with him. To make matters worse the old man is suffering from a loathsome skin disease, and the mayor, Dr. Hutchinson, and Dr. English had a look at him, his worship ordered him sent to Victoria Hospital, the name of the medical man would say much, it is known that both Dr. Campbell and Dr. Hutchinson suspect that Munro is suffering from some form of leprosy, and for this reason he will not be allowed to leave the city until he has been thoroughly examined by an expert. "I don't know what the city is going to do with all the poor people," Inspector McCallum said today. The number of applicants for assistance grows larger each month. The city is up against the poor problem good and hard.

ATKINSON-WOOLTON.

A very pretty June wedding took place Wednesday noon at the home of Mrs. Woolton, 628 Mulholland street, when her youngest daughter, Maude Beatrice, was united in marriage to Mr. George A. Atkinson, cashier for the Erie, Ontario Railway at Walsburg formerly of this city. The bride looked very dainty in white silk, trimmed with point d'esprit and Jersey lace, and carried a bridal bouquet. Miss Pearl Manness made a very pleasing maid of honor, attired in a sea-green gown. The bride's bridesmaid, Miss Florence Woolton, sister of the bride, wore figured mouseline de soie. Dr. Daniel performed the ceremony under an arch of syringa blossoms. The groom was attended by his brother, James Atkinson. After the ceremony, the guests, numbering 20, sat down to a bountiful wedding breakfast. The many beautiful presents testified to the high esteem in which the young couple are held. Among them was a $100 check from the groom's parents. The young couple left on the afternoon train for Detroit and Chicago.

MR. HAGGART GAVE
THE SCHEME AWAY

House of Commons chamber today was so warm that Mr. George Taylor complained and asked for some relief from outside. Members evinced their sympathy by their restless attitude toward the campaign waged by a few western Conservatives against the redistribution of Alberta. They claim that the southern part of the province is not receiving fair treatment. This feature of the bill has been the subject of a debate, which, it must be said, is evidently forced, and an early collapse is expected. Nearly the same figures and arguments were presented today as were traversed yesterday. Private members' business also received considerable attention today.

Replying to Mr. Monk and Mr. Uriah Wilson, Hon. Mr. Oliver said the Government pay a bonus for farmer immigrants to this country.

Mr. George Taylor asked if it was not possible to get more fresh air in the Commons chamber. The temperature there was 75, whereas it was only 65 in rooms 6 and 16. The air in the House was simply unbearable.

"I will call the attention of the Minister of Public Works to this matter," replied Hon. Mr. Fielding. "No doubt the minister will be here in a few days, and then everything will be all right." (Hear, hear.)

When the House went again into committee on the Alberta autonomy bill Mr. Foster criticized the statement for discrepancies between the figures furnished as to the population of the various constituencies.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the question whether northern districts should be represented by themselves or not was not for the judges, but for Parliament to decide, as a matter of policy. Referring to Mr. Foster's adulation of Liberal principles, in regard to representation, Sir Wilfrid said it was always pleasant to hear the member for North Toronto talking about Liberal principles, but he regretted that that gentleman never followed those principles or applied them.

Col. Sam Hughes inquired why the Premier did not ask the question of representation to the greater population, and give the majority to the larger population.

Sir Wilfrid asked whether Col. Hughes would rest his case upon the application of the test of population, and Col. Hughes replied in the affirmative. Sir Wilfrid quoted the census of 1901 to show that in eleven districts north of Red Deer there were 35,388 people, and in eleven districts to the south there were 31,034 people, giving a balance of population in favor of the north of 5,000.

Col. Hughes asked that the number of registered voters be taken.

Sir Wilfrid replied that whether in regard to the number of registered voters' lists or the number of householders entries the north had the larger number.

John Haggart took the floor, and was the first member of the Opposition to admit frankly that the motive of the opposition to the bill was the struggle to secure the location of the provincial capital at Calgary.

ARMY STORES SCANDAL

Balfour Concedes a Statutory Commission to Investigate Affair.

London, June 22.—Under pressure from all sides Premier Balfour has made a further concession in regard to the investigation into the army stores scandal, and today announced in the House of Commons that the Government would immediately introduce a bill creating a statutory commission to inquire into the scandal. This commission will be armed with powers to compel the attendance of witnesses, and to enforce penalties for perjury, etc., which the previously proposed royal commission would not have possessed.

Mr. Balfour also agreed to give June 26 for the debate on the vote of censure proposed by Sir Robert Thresholt Reid (Liberal).

SHOCKED TO DEATH.

Montreal, Que., June 22.—Max Sanders, whose parents reside in Buffalo, was working at the switchboard in the Shawinigan Falls power transferring station yesterday, when 55,000 volts entered his system, killing him instantly. He was 29 years of age.

THE WESTERN CROPS.

Winnipeg, Man., June 22.—Crop reports received from the principal points throughout the west, indicate that wheat, oats and barley are all in splendid shape, plentiful of rain, but not too much. And no damage from frost. The weather, in fact, could not be better if made to order, and growing crops are a week or ten days earlier than last year.

5,000 SAW THEM MARRY.

Montreal, June 21.—Five thousand people, controlled by a squad of police, witnessed today Rev. J. Armstrong, a Methodist minister, marry William Hicks and Emily Marston, the ceremony taking place in Workman's window, at the corner of McGill and Notre Dame streets. Workman gave the bride $100 and secured the "ad" of the season.

MR. HAGGART GAVE
THE SCHEME AWAY

House of Commons chamber today was so warm that Mr. George Taylor complained and asked for some relief from outside. Members evinced their sympathy by their restless attitude toward the campaign waged by a few western Conservatives against the redistribution of Alberta. They claim that the southern part of the province is not receiving fair treatment. This feature of the bill has been the subject of a debate, which, it must be said, is evidently forced, and an early collapse is expected. Nearly the same figures and arguments were presented today as were traversed yesterday. Private members' business also received considerable attention today.

Replying to Mr. Monk and Mr. Uriah Wilson, Hon. Mr. Oliver said the Government pay a bonus for farmer immigrants to this country.

Mr. George Taylor asked if it was not possible to get more fresh air in the Commons chamber. The temperature there was 75, whereas it was only 65 in rooms 6 and 16. The air in the House was simply unbearable.

"I will call the attention of the Minister of Public Works to this matter," replied Hon. Mr. Fielding. "No doubt the minister will be here in a few days, and then everything will be all right." (Hear, hear.)

When the House went again into committee on the Alberta autonomy bill Mr. Foster criticized the statement for discrepancies between the figures furnished as to the population of the various constituencies.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the question whether northern districts should be represented by themselves or not was not for the judges, but for Parliament to decide, as a matter of policy. Referring to Mr. Foster's adulation of Liberal principles, in regard to representation, Sir Wilfrid said it was always pleasant to hear the member for North Toronto talking about Liberal principles, but he regretted that that gentleman never followed those principles or applied them.

Col. Sam Hughes inquired why the Premier did not ask the question of representation to the greater population, and give the majority to the larger population.

Sir Wilfrid asked whether Col. Hughes would rest his case upon the application of the test of population, and Col. Hughes replied in the affirmative. Sir Wilfrid quoted the census of 1901 to show that in eleven districts north of Red Deer there were 35,388 people, and in eleven districts to the south there were 31,034 people, giving a balance of population in favor of the north of 5,000.

Col. Hughes asked that the number of registered voters be taken.

Sir Wilfrid replied that whether in regard to the number of registered voters' lists or the number of householders entries the north had the larger number.

John Haggart took the floor, and was the first member of the Opposition to admit frankly that the motive of the opposition to the bill was the struggle to secure the location of the provincial capital at Calgary.

ARMY STORES SCANDAL

mission to Investigate Affair.

London, June 22.—Under pressure from all sides Premier Balfour has made a further concession in regard to the investigation into the army stores scandal, and today announced in the House of Commons that the Government would immediately introduce a bill creating a statutory commission to inquire into the scandal. This commission will be armed with powers to compel the attendance of witnesses, and to enforce penalties for perjury, etc., which the previously proposed royal commission would not have possessed.

Mr. Balfour also agreed to give June 26 for the debate on the vote of censure proposed by Sir Robert Thresholt Reid (Liberal).

The Judgment of Mr. Justice

Anglin

In his judgment on the Pere Marquette alien labor case, Mr. Justice Anglin notes the difficulty in carrying out the law (and the alien), and on this rather than on the special limitation of colonial legislative power he seems to base his decision holding our alien labor act ultra vires. The act provides that the alien brought in under contract to labor is to be returned to the country whence he came. Counsel for the arrested alien contended that this is virtually impracticable, and the judge adopts their reasoning. The difficulty alleged is that the officer whose duty it may be to return the alien to the country whence he came cannot do so without entering that country in the act; this would involve exercising official functions in the foreign country, which, of course, our officer has no right to do. Once he has crossed the international boundary, though by only the fraction of an inch, he is merely a private individual and a foreigner at that, and cannot constrain his prisoner without breach of the foreign law.

Various methods of meeting the difficulty were suggested to the judge, such as putting the prisoner on the ferry boat at Windsor, and releasing him from custody in midstream. This plan the judge held unavailing, as the constraint would nevertheless continue while the boat, on which he had been forcibly placed, and over which he had no control, continued on its way through American waters. The deported would, during that two or three minutes, be a Canadian prisoner within American territory. The method proposed by the Toronto News, that of putting the alien across the border, does not seem to meet the case, as firing a missile of any kind at a foreign shore might be considered an act of war or a casus belli. The Pere Marquette, of course, "fired" the Canadian employees, who were quite "cald" to make room for him and his compatriot, but they did not bombard the United States of America with the discharge. Those discharged were not "big guns," not even "small arms," merely "hands."

On the whole, by reason of the difficulty of working the law, Judge Anglin holds it ultra vires the Dominion Parliament. It seems to us, with all respect, that this argument, the only one on which he bases his judgment, is not sound. If it proves anything, it proves too much. If such legislation be for the reason alleged unconstitutional here, it must be equally so in the United States and Great Britain. The British Parliament does not claim and could not exercise any authority over an alien outside the territory of the British Empire, and the British official would have no way of effectually deporting an alien which is not equally open to a Canadian official. If a Canadian official has not the right to take his stand firmly on Canadian soil, say down east, just north of the parallel of latitude, or out west just north of the 49th parallel, and seizing the American contract laborer by those parts of his clothing or anatomy commonly spoken of as available for the purpose, to hurl him forcibly back to the land of the free, by what means can the American official effectually get rid of the over-industrious Canadian without infringing our territorial rights? By the reasoning of the learned judge, if once the alien obtained a foothold in our country, no matter how undesirable he might be, afflicted with contagious disease, poverty, anarchy, criminal record, contract to work for a living, or any other of the dreadful things for which men drive off their fellowmen, the invaded nation would be helpless. The undesired might be imprisoned for life or slaughtered at the port of entry, but not taken back to, meaning into, the country from which he came.

If Judge Anglin has discovered a real difficulty, though it is one which the Americans have never found in working their similar law, we presume Parliament might easily get over it by passing a law such as our Police Magistrate Love occasionally enacts to meet other cases, of giving the culprit 24 hours to get out of the jurisdiction on pain of imprisonment, if found therein after the limited time. All of which demonstrates that alien labor laws as between Canada and the United States are unobjectionable and illogical. Uncle Sam began it, and if he chooses to drop it, Canada will meet him half way.

The Czar Sees Light.

The reply of the Czar to the Zemstvo delegation will be heard with joy by every friend of freedom, for it is the most unequivocal utterance that has fallen from his lips. "My personal wish and my will as Emperor to summon a national assembly is unshakable," he said, "I await with anxiety the carrying out of this my will. You can announce this to the inhabitants of the towns and villages throughout Russia, and from today you will assist me in this new work. The National Assembly will establish, as formerly, a united Russia, and the Emperor will be the supreme support of the condition of grants based on the principle of Russian nationalism." The Czar had on previous occasions given halting promises to this effect, but Russian reformers doubted his good faith when he contrived to promote reactionary counsels to high station. This week young man has been an object of mingled pity and contempt. He has been the sport and prey of circumstances, which a stronger sovereign would long ago have controlled or directed for the weal of his people and the safety of his own throne. But Nicholas continued to sit on the safety valve until the explosion was imminent. He has oscillated between his bad angels, the grand dukes, and his good angels, such as de Witte and Prince Mirsky. Confidence bestowed upon the reforming minister one day would be withdrawn the next and transferred to a violent reactionist. No wonder the thinking people of Russia, who are the soul of the revolt against the bureaucracy, lost confidence in a ruler who had no confidence in himself.

From his last pledge, so positive and explicit, he cannot recede. His words are being published throughout the length and breadth of the empire, and will raise hopes which the bureaucracy dare not attempt to disappoint if it would avert a revolution. There is a flash of statesmanship, too, in the Czar's declaration that "Russia will emerge strengthened from the trials she is now enduring." The war is teaching her rulers that consolidation, and not expansion, is the imperative need of an empire torn by intestinal troubles, of which the corruption and tyranny of the Administration is only one cause. The discontent of oppressed and conquered races and the degrading poverty of the masses have the first claim upon the patriotic energies of a reorganized and responsible government.

Definite Religious Teaching.

The Bishop of Huron enters a plea for "definite religious teaching" in the public schools. The day school, he says, compels attendance and discipline and the Sunday school can do neither. "The home, the church, and the school," he added, "were the influences that played the greatest part in the formation of the character of the child, and of the three, the last was perhaps the most important, especially for the great majority of the children, the children of the working classes."

In declaring that he yields to no one in loyalty to the system of national schools and would have no other, the bishop differs from some members of his own denomination, who have established separate schools at their own expense, particularly in the city of Toronto, so far they have failed to obtain state recognition, though they have more than once petitioned the Ontario educational department to assimilate these schools with the public school system in the matter of inspection, and high school entrance examinations. No doubt these schools are the expression of a sincere conviction that the public school is deficient on the religious side. Those who are responsible for them cannot very well quarrel with Roman Catholics who hold that religion is the warp and woof of education. On the other hand, many Protestants believe that religious liberty is bound up with the principle of the separation of church and state, and fear that this principle may be compromised by sectarian encroachment under the guise of theological instruction. They point to the present situation in Great Britain, though it may be answered that the conditions in the mother country, which are rooted in the far past, are different from those in Canada. In the public schools of Ontario there are estimated to be 50,000 Catholic children, say down east, just north of the parallel of latitude, or out west just north of the 49th parallel, and seizing the American contract laborer by those parts of his clothing or anatomy commonly spoken of as available for the purpose, to hurl him forcibly back to the land of the free, by what means can the American official effectually get rid of the over-industrious Canadian without infringing our territorial rights? "The Dear Old Days."

[Frank L. Stanton.]
Gimme back the dear old days—all the boys in line—
"Boys on the burnin' deck," an' "Bingen on the Rhine!"
"Twas midnight in his guarded tent"—
"Twas midnight in his guarded tent"—
While Mary trotted out that lamb "whose fleece was white as snow!"

Gimme back the dear old days that ment'ry love to keep—
With "Pilot," "is a fearful thing—there's danger on the deep!"
The old-time awkward gestures—the jerk, meant for a bow.
We said that "Curfew does not ring," but, Lord! 'tis ringin' now!

Gimme back the dear old days—the path-way through the dells—
To the schoolhouse in the blossoms; the sound of far-off bells
Thinking "most the meadows; the song of the bird an' brook"
The old-time dictionary, an' the blue-back spellin' book!

Gone, like a dream, forever!—A city's hid Where stood the old log school house; in no familiar face
Is such there in welcome beneath a mornin' sky—
There's a bridge across the river; an' we've crossed an' said "Good-bye!"

Had Been There.

[Philadelphia Ledger.]
"Some people," said the timid man, "are criminally reckless. Now the fellow who jumps on a moving train is a fool."

"Well," replied the clumsy fellow, "if he's not a fool he feels like one when the woman who owns the train grins at him."

The Fool and the Lazy Man.

[Philadelphia Record.]
The fool doesn't know a good thing when he sees it, the lazy man doesn't see a good thing when he knows it.

Hopeless Case.

[Chicago News.]
"Aren't you aware," said the kind lady, "that there is something dignified about honest labor?"
"Yes, ma'am," answered the unlauded hobo, "I've heard uv fellows who stood on their dignity, but I'm saters-fide 't set on mine."

Russian Assassinations.

[T. P. O'Connor in M. A. P.]
What a strange being the man must be who has the ambition to be a high Russian official; it almost seems like signing one's own death warrant. The governor of Baku has just been assassinated by a bomb; and apparently bomb-throwing has become quite a usual occurrence. I was looking over in a newspaper a list of the high officials assassinated during the last few years. Here it is. It is a formidable and dreadful list. M. Bogoloff, Minister of Education, by Karpovich, after the university troubles, Feb. 27, 1901. M. Sipagin, Minister of the Interior, by Balmashoff, April 15, 1902. Gen. Bodanovich, Governor of Ufa, after a massacre of strikers, May 19, 1904. Gen. Bobrikoff, Governor of Finland, by Eugen Schumann, June 17, 1904. Vice-Governor of Elizabethopol, Trans-Caucasia, July 17, 1904. M. Plehve, Minister of the Interior, assassinated by means of a bomb, the result of his removal of the district of the Caucasus, August, 1904. Grand Duke Sergius, killed by a bomb at Moscow, Feb. 17, 1905.

Among those on whom attempts have been made, in some cases involving serious injury, are M. Pobedonostseff, procurator of the Holy Synod, March, 1901; General Wahl, governor of Vilna, May, 1902; Prince Obolenski, governor of Kharkoff, August, 1902; M. Bessonoff, chief of police at Kharkoff, same time; Prince Gallitzin, governor-general of the Caucasus, October, 1903; M. Melenchuk, chief of police of Grodno, November, 1903; chief of Warsaw police, March, 1905; governor of Warsaw, May, 1905.

Face the Facts.

[Montreal Star.]
No man can have a permanent success in federal public life who does not recognize the fact that the country is composed chiefly of two races and two religions. It is not Ontario sentiment, nor Quebec sentiment, which must prevail at Ottawa, but Canadian sentiment.

Early in the Game.

[Detroit Tribune.]
The honeymoon was just two weeks old.

"John, dear," she said, "I made some angel cake this morning."
"Ah, darling," he replied, "old cake would be angel cake if you manufactured it."

MANIAC'S STRANGE STUNT

Bombards Crowd With Bills, Wounds Nose and Blows Head Off.

San Francisco, June 21.—After holding 1,000 persons at bay for two hours in Eddy street early today, shooting nine persons and defying the police, Thomas Lob, a maniac, was finally shot and killed. All the victims were hit with No. 4 shot, except a Chinaman, who received a rifle ball. The insane man was barricaded in a room in the United States Hotel.

Lobb went to the hotel last night, and this morning began throwing furniture and other articles at the police. He began firing a shotgun. He placed $50 and $100 bills in the muzzle of the weapon, and fragments of the paper were scattered over the streets. Hundreds were afraid to pass the hotel. Street car traffic was suspended after one car had been fired upon and its windows broken.

It was determined that he must be captured dead or alive, and all rooms adjoining the one he occupied were filled with armed officers. Three policemen descended from the roof of the room window, while another policeman made an attempt to force in the door. The maniac was attempting to divert by the firing of a revolver.

Hearing the report from an unexpected quarter, the lunatic rushed to the window and fired. The bullet literally blew off the top of his own head. The brains and fragments of skull flew through the air into the street.

Thomas Lob was about 28 years of age. He apparently was an Englishman, and a stranger in the city.

HAD QUIET HONEYMOON

How the Crown Prince and Princess of Germany Spent Theirs.

Berlin, June 21.—The Crown Prince and his bride spent the first week of their honeymoon at the Kaiser's hunting lodge, Hubertusstock, situated 50 miles from Berlin in the midst of some of the most beautiful woodland scenery imaginable. For miles on all sides stretch immense forests of oak, beech and fir, and there is a lovely lake at the very door.

The lodge itself is a simple structure of wood and brick, with about a dozen available rooms, furnished in the plainest possible fashion, the only ornaments being trophies of the chase. The young pair occupy four unadorned rooms, a dining-room, boudoir, bedroom and the room the prince uses for business purposes.

Nothing has been done to give the rooms a bridal aspect, except the furnishing of the princess' boudoir, in which the Empress took a hand. The Kaiser also looked after the adornment of the sleeping chamber, for which she brought with her a beautiful water-color drawings and hung a small case of well-known books. Many books of devotional character, including Thomas à Kempis, lie on a table beside the prince's bed.

The princess took only a few wedding gifts, one being a copy of Guido Reni's famous picture of the Christ with the Virgin Mary, which she brought with her. The Vatican, which the Pope sent, Cardinal Kopp, in presenting the Pope's gift, said it was the supreme pontiff's desire to symbolize in every detail of the princess' life the life of the Virgin Mary. The Crown Prince's way through life be strewn with joy.

The Crown Prince has a sailboat and any amount of fishing tackle has been sent down. A good deal of the time of the young pair was spent at beautiful Werbellin Lake, where the prince has his best violin with him for evenings. No one intrudes on their love-making, there are only four servants with them.

Grand Duchess Anastasia, the Crown Prince's mother-in-law, exercises the minds of Berliners to a large extent. Early on the morning after her daughter's marriage she left the Kaiser's roof for the greater freedom of the Hotel Bristol, the residence of the princess until her daughter was there. She never exchanged an unnecessary word with the Kaiser during the visit.

More Deadly Than Famine

Neglected catarrh sooner or later causes consumption, which destroys more human beings than famine and war combined. The way Catarrhzone cures catarrh is simple; it first kills the germs that cause the irritation; then by soothing away the congestion and inflammation cures the discharge, hawking and dropping in the throat. "I suffered so continually from nasal catarrh," writes Ernest R. Dakin, of Rosemont, "that I scarcely knew what it was to be free from headache and pain over the eyes. Catarrhzone relieved me at once and made a thorough cure." No other remedy cures like Catarrhzone—try it for your next cold.

IMPEACHED JUDGE HOOKER

Member of New York Supreme Court Must Answer Serious Charges.

Albany, N. Y., June 21.—An extraordinary session of the Legislature, the first since 1899, began today a few minutes after noon. The business to be taken up was presented in both Houses in a message of Governor Higgins, recommending for consideration the conduct of Warren B. Hooker, and the question of his removal from the office of justice of the supreme court. The charges against Justice Hooker are a formal statement of the office of justice of the supreme court, and conclusions of the assembly judiciary committee, made to the assembly as the result of its protracted investigation of the Hooker case during the regular session of the Legislature.

The document in the case alleged for removal, and begins as follows: "That the said Warren B. Hooker, while a member of the New York Supreme Court, on the 10th day of November, 1898, and while a justice of the supreme court of the State of New York, since said 10th day of November, 1898, has been wilfully guilty of corrupt, unlawful and immoral acts, which have tended to bring into disrepute the office of justice of the supreme court and the administration of justice into contempt, and which show a personal animosity toward the said Warren B. Hooker to hold and occupy the office of justice of the supreme court, which acts and conduct are in violation of the duties of his office as justice of the supreme court, and in violation of the following allegations and specifications."

The specifications cover at length the charges against the justice of the supreme court. He claims that there is no disease he may not cure, and there is every reason to believe that this claim, startling as it is, is no more than the literal truth, since the records show that he has cured cancer, consumption, paralysis, deafness and other diseases supposed to be incurable with his treatment unlike any heretofore known to science.
