We suggested, in our list number, the removal of the Cali Stands from the Place d'Arress, and the placing it is Craig Street, which is not one quarter of a minute's walk further; we would further suggest to the authorities the propriety of carabilishing and enforcing the rule observed in London, that is, that no driver of any vehicle plying for hire is the public streets small be permitted, when that vehicle is on the Stand, to leave present, the habit of many of the Cubmen is, jeave their vehicles, and assemble in knots on side walks in the vicinity, where they not only interrupt the discoughture, but often seriously annoy people by the sude horse-play and bud language in which they include. We have received a copy of the Rev. Digby Campbell's Lecture on "The Ancient Catholic Faith contrasted with the Modern Creed of the Church of Rome," which was delivered at Trinity Church, Montreal, on the 9th of last September. It is not our custom to notice any works which treat of the questions in dispute beourselves with saying, that the pamphlet is very neatly printed, the work having been executed by Lovell & Gibson.

It gives us much pleasure to copy, from the don Lancet, the leading English medical periodical, the following highly complimentary notice of the Work on the Eye, lately published by which he treats. The anatomical section com-prises, with a few exceptions, all the discoveries of modern auatomists. We may observe, how-ever, that the very valuable researches of Mr. Edwin Canton, on the occus sentile, have not been Edwin Canton, on the orcus senilis, have not been alluded to; but the omission may probably have arisen from that discovery not having, at the time of publication, reuched the author: The fact developed by Mr. Canton is too important to be omisted in any systematic work on the Eye and its Diseases. The physiology of the eye is minutely and accurately given. The pathological section of the work, and particularly that which teams of the perioateal diseases, is worthy of comsection of the work, and particularly that which treats of the perioateal diseases, is worthy of commendation. The portion which refers to inflammation of the 'tunica vaginalis oculi' is more than usually interesting. We may also enumerate the remarks on gonorrhoed and purulent ophthalms smoongst the most practical in the work. In the operative department, we notice several omissions, particularly in relation to the treatment of extransment of think the author scarcely lays sufficient atress on the importance of the constitutional treatment of those diseases of the eye which are connected with the lachrymal sac,"

We availed ourselves of the ticket sent by the Garrick Club to attend their performance on Saturday evening lest, and were much gratined, not alone with the acting, but also with the Theorem itself. Montreal, 15th October, 1850. to the Editor of The Montanas, Counter: Ms. EDITOR, The press being as the cities of efuge in Israel, I hope that I will find entrance in yours when I have every reason indeed to call he attention of the public to my case, so ill represented at first by one of the Journals of this

Sir, I have been repeatedly asked within these few days, what could have actuated some of the Judges in the manifestation of their ill humour spainst mer and my answer has been, that I was totally maware of basing given them the least

All I know is, that having been made a state prisoner in 1838, at Three Rivers, during the susnsion of the late and so deservedly regretted Mr. Justice Vallieres de St. Real, l'applied to Mr. Justice Rolfand, who was then in Mr. Vallieres place on the Bench of the Resident Judge, as he was then called. My reason for applying to Judge Rolland for my habeas corpus, was his declaration, made in a letter addressed to the late Mr. Justice Bedard, of which a copy had been sent to Mr. Vallieres, who had communicated it to me, and in which Mr. Rolland highly approved of the judgments rendered by Messrs. Panet, Bedard and Vallieres, on the subject of the habeas corpus, which had been by them granted to different individuals more or less implicated in the political troubles of that unfortunate time. You nust remember the result of my application. Mr. Instice Rolland found out the best reasons possible for differing in his judgment from the me-above alluded to. We are in a strange world, Mr. Editor; I have never, to my knowledge, shewn to the Honorable Mr. Justice Rolland other feelings than those of Mr. Justice Reliand other feelings than those of respect; and yet this gettleman has always appeared to me as if I was a sort of remore before him. For more than that I cannot account.

As to Mr. Justice Aylwin, it is true that I was once unfortunate enough to be in the ranks of his political opponents, and that in that situation I did my best to serve and aid purposes which were not his. It is equally true, that, throughout his professional career as a lawyer, he never missed an opportunity of manifesting his ill-will towards me. But when I was pleased to think that he would thence he far above the human weaknesses, and that he would only remember that he was would there he far above the human weaknesses, and that he would only remember that he was my actual, superior, and not my old adversaty. How far I was right in my appreciation, it is for those who have witnessed what took place at the Court of Appeals during the last term of that Court to decide. As lar as I am concerned, during the whole of my stry as Clerk of the Court of which this Hongrable, Jentleman is a member, my conscience tells me that I have done nothing to recall the past, but that I have acted throughten and a member, with a more feeling of respect to recall the past, but that I have acted throughast as I angle to mith a noner feeling of respect and zeal for the duties of my onice.

The seal for the seal feeling to which I have been subjected since the beginning of this month.

From Mr. Justice Panet, to whom I attribute no such seelings against me, I have universally met with the greatest courtesy. I wish his motives for partaking with his two other brother judges in what I cannot help calling their persecution; would be better known to me. All can pretend to know in this matter is, that he never Henry Howards Enq., M. R. C. St. L., of this pretend to know in this matter is, that he never attend a word during last term until the eleventh day of the Court, to let any one suspect that he man thoroughly acquainted with the subject of which he treats. The anatomical section som-to account for that participation of his in the treatment, certainly most very agreeable, of which I have been the object on their part.

These gentlemen have repeatedly acknowledged that Mr. Duval was well qualified for the place of deputy, and that in fact he was a much better clerk than myself. How did it happen then that they could not consent to do without me, as in the they could not consent to do without me, as if I had been such a very necessary part of the Court, that even the judgments could not, on the last day, be given without my presence, though they thought themselves authorized to appoint an ad lac clerk to enter their adjournment to the twelfth of Nevember next?

hoc clerk to enter their adjournment to the voil that of Nevember next?

Sir, I do not like to lift up too high the voil that covers the entire affair, I merely wish to put my-self in the true light that I occupy, and not to succumb in the midth of obscurity. I still hope that the judgment of the public will not be so entirely answorable to me, as to force me to acknowledge that my persecutors alone are really infallible.

I have the honor to be, Your most obedient humble servant, J. G. BANTHE

Jenny Lind's Farewell Concert. — Trememdous Gathering. — Errayston of Promemaders. — Grand Stampeds all Resind!

The Concert on Saturday evening—the list which Jenny Lind will give in Boston, at least for several months, was attended by a crowd of some 6000 people, nearly double the number for whom seats had been provided, or who could find convenient elbow room. We have witnessed many scenes of extraordinary pressure and excitementbut never anything that would compare with the demonstration on this occasion. There were three classes of tickets sold—first class $3, second $2, and promenade tickets $1; and the reduction in price from former exorbitant premium rates, added to the ananouncement that it was to be Jenny's last concert, induced an extraordinary rush for seata among our own clizans, which alone sould have filled the immense hall. This however appears to have been but a mere fraction in the comprehensive mind of Mt. Bernum, and his agents in Portland, Fortsmouth, Lowell, Salem and in towns which few who had beard of the Nightingale could withstand.

The consequence of all this extra puffing and stam, was precisely, what might have been arported. Those always arrived at the ball earliest were enabled, with the sid of the police, to obtain easts; and at half part 7 o'check a large and highly respectable audence were in waiting for the concert to commence. At this mement word was Miss Lind was exceedingly grieved and frightened at the threatening aspect of affairs, and burst into tears. She begged that the crowd might be informed, from her, that their money should be returned to such as were disappointed in hearing her. Barnum himself made his appearance, but was received with a storm of hisses. He retired, and shortly after left for his hotel. One gentleman in the crowd offered $500 to any person who would find Barnum, and bring him within reach of the crowd.

He locked upon the scene with perfect Moslem stoicism. A verdant looking gentleman, suggested that the Turk had lost his hat in the crowd, as his head was covered with a sanguine looking ban-danna. This innocent attempt to get up sym-pathy for Amin, failed in the general row. As we were tortunate enough to get out of the half without receiving personal damage at the time the concert confinenced, we copy a paragraph re-

iting to it from the Sentinel;—
"At eight o'clock the orchestra made its appe ance, and courageously attempted the overture of Der Freischutz, but the music was completel drowned in the infernal appear.

"Next, Belletti endeavored, with fortitude, and almost unexampled storcism, to make himself heard in that beautiful passage from Handel's Messiah,—' but who may abide,' but he met with poor success. When he had finished, we heard a few cheers smid the con-fusion, but they were like the breath of a child in fusion, but they were like the break! Jenny Lind, apparently frightened and disheartened by the uproar, shrunk before the crowd. The noise of shricks and groans did not subside, however, until that most perfect of human voices was heard to swell out in that sublime passage from the Meaning of the part of the passage from the Meaning and neavenly tones were distinctly heard pure and neavenly tones were distinctly beard above all the upror; they subdued it, and in a few moments nothing was heard but the voice of the

"The programme was good, the orchestra did well, Belletti achieved wonders, for the occasion, and had not the avarice of certain parties poured in upon the legitimate audience a superfluous ocean of promenaders, we have no doubt but this would have been one of the most felightful concerts ever patronized in Boston."

Now, in reference to the Concert of Saturday night, there is obviously much excitement against Mr. Barnum for the bungling manner in which tickets were disposed of. They were sold in city tickets were disposed of. They were sold in city and country, apparently with a total disregard of the espacity of the hall, and the sale was continued Saturday night, when it was known the holders could not obtain scats. This is wrong upon the face of it, and we look to Mr. Barnum for some explanation on the subject.

In connection with Jenny's last concert, we are glad to learn from the Chronotype, that measures are in train to build with despatch, in a central locality, a grand Music Hall, which will prevent the necessity of resorting to a place so unmusical, and altogether frightful as a Railroad Hall. A committee of the Musical Fund Scriety, having on it the prince of Pianoforte manufacturers, has obtained the refusal of the Burnstead estate, and of the Mariboro chapel adjoining it, and will proobtained the refusal of the Burnstead estate, and of the Mariboro' chapel adjoining it, and will probably soon come out with a proposal for doing up the desirable thing—in all its length and breadth, in that admirable locality. Success to the enterprise, and may all our readers live to hear Jenny's Echo Song in that Hall.—Boston Mail.

The Grand Review of Versailles—Prench Politics
—State of Europe, 4c.

Pans, September 26, 1850.

The most important event worth mentioning, since my letter of the 23d inst., is the grand review at Versailles, in Tuesday last. The official retraitive of that warlise display, given "apparently" in honor of the Ambussautor of Neptul, can be found in the French newspapers which I send to you; but I think you will prifer to receive the private details of that affair, which I have witnessed myself, being on the ground, and having seen and heard the whole of it. Monday evening last, after having mailed my correspondence for the Herald, I hought proper to go to my house in Versailles, in order to be ready on the next morning and sen the sight before anybody. As soon as I arrived in Versailles, it ascented the nills of the Satary wood by nine of clock, P. M., and went to see the encampment of the trop ps. One of my triends, who is an officer of the 57th regiment of the line, that dined with me, and, knowing the pass-word, he had not difficulty to lead me among the addice. It was really a very splendid sight to see these warriors frying the tile of the camp, and surrounding the wood fires which were prepared to cook the supper. The brilliancy of the maskets upon which the rays of the mode gistered; the martinal aspect of the group; the separed erice of "gire size P" (whu's

The solid-ray were also included in these manufacences principles, and 150 casks of red wine, which had been carried to the spot, specially for the use of the traupa, were opened by the cantiniers, and the contents distributed a meme.

After the lunch was over, by four o'clock, the review of the troops began, and it was not ended-

Fortunately, the illustrius painter of "ILa Sanala" was not hut, and I had the pleasure of "playing whist" with him on the same evening, at his house, and to be assured, my-self, that he had plut de peur gue de mai. review, at which 16,000 men of arms took part, and which - as witnessed by about 40,000 people, I must explain what was the plan of the Elysie, in arringing that military exhibition. It is now ertain that this display was another trial of the feeling of the troops for the President. No doubt that his courtier and extourage relied upon the greatest enthusiasm, which would have been the pretext of an instance. Among the groups of people, I saw than y members of the acciety of the 10th December, dis we call them the Decembraellards.) who many members of the society of the total becom-ter, (as we call them the Decembraellards.) who were the only ones ready to shout, "Five Lows Na-po'eon! Fire P Empereur!" Five la President!" With the exception of a few cries responded to those in the ranka of the staff, the greatest silence was observed by the mass of the people; and thus ended the day of the 24th inst., which, according to many political prophets, was to be the "very day of the era of Cas ar." MR. LATARD'S LATEST DISCOVERIES.—A few weeks 270 me announced (says the Literary Gazette) Mr. Layard's return from his expedition into the desser, a discrete of some of his larger antiquities from the mudof the river, and their embirkation for England. We have since, however, received further particulars of his recent discoveries at Koyunjik, which are extremely interesting. He found, as has been stated, a chamber which is He found, so has been stated, a chamber which is completely filled with terra c. tta tablets, the inscriptions on which, we now learn, are strauped in, so that though Major Raw linson thinks it very promable these tatlets may be records of the empile, it is still not unlikely that many of them may, in tact, be duplicates of, or a collection of, manifester, be in the people of their immediate. thes for issuing to the people or their immediate rulers—in short, a sort of Assyrian official printing-office.

We believe that no fewer than 25 cases are on their way to England. In the pyramid at Nim-roud, also, a unique staffie has been discovered. It is from four to five feet in height, in gyptum, It is fr. m four to five teet in height, in gypsum, elaborately carved and very pasteet. There is also a high relief of the King, very beautifully executed, standing in an arch eight feet high, and covered with minute inacriptions. Mr. Layard's last communication is dated Akra, July 17, where, we are sorry to say, he had been confined by a sivere attack of fever. The inefficient assistance he has received has enused him to over-exert him self, and thus he has been stopped awhile on his way to Vae to secure inscriptions. He hopes to way to Vae to secure inscriptions. He hopes to pass great part of the Winter in Babylonia, and to return home in the Spring. The very important ciscuscries he is now making render it imperatively necessary that his exections should not be stayed for want of funds.

Special orders from the English Admiralty have been received at Woolwich, Chatham, Sheerness, and other ports, directing the authorities to allow Admiral Mackau, the gallant ex-Minister of the French Marine, to view the dockyards, and to pay every attention to this distinguished officer. Ad-miral Mackan, we believe, is the only French miral Mackan, we believe, is the only reach officer living who, in a fair fight and on equal terms, exptured an English brig-of-war.

We correct an erroneous statement going the und of the press, to the effect that the gallant General Guyon, late of the Hungarian army, "has forgotten his faith, and has become a Moslem, to gain a pachalick." This is not true. The general, in accepting; an espointment in the Ottoman service at Damaeus, was not compelled to change his vice at Damascus, was not compelled to change his faith, and he is living at that place, with his wife and family, after the manner of an English Chris-tian. Moreover, we may state, that he is a native of Bath, and has never been in Ireland at any period of his life.

THESE truly valuable WATERS are distinguished for the large quantity of Bremine and Iodine they contain, and are acknowledged superior to all other Medicinal Waters. They are and Iodine they contain, and waters. They are superior to all other Medicinal Waters. They are the most agreeable refreshment of the description that have yet appeared. They can be used cold to the greatest degree in the most oppressive heat of Summer, and that without altering or affecting injuriously the health of the person using them; upon the contrary, they are found to improve and attempthen. The large number of cures effected by the use of the above Waters, enable us to recommend them to the public as an excellent remedy in a very great number of cases. The names of a few only of the persons of celebrity, who have given their written recommendation of the Waters, are here given. These, however, show the happy, results arising from their application: TO THE LADIES.
