Police Still Searching

From further information received by the police the belief is that the body of the man seen floating in the Yukon near to Murder Island by the state of the Dawson could not be that of Constantin, as it could not have got to the position in mid current where it was seen without going up stream and then coming down again. From this and other indications the body is believed to be that of a passenger who fell or jumped from the deck of the Clifford Sifton in the latter part of August. The police are still searching for the body.

An Expensive Meal

Chas. J. Miller went into the Centre restaurant yesterday and did not find his stomach of the good things provided. But when he sauntered back past the counter he told "Mac" that he had no money. This would not have cut much figure with "Mac" but Mr. Miller gave him some of his money this morning to Mr. Justice Macaulay that he was very sorry, and the judge believed him and let him off with a fine of $1 and costs, the latter amounting to $1. Mr. Miller has probably eaten his expensive meals than the one he got out of sight last night.

What do you mean by saying that he has no money?—An ordinary man. Why, he is precious and beautiful and the best that ever lived. He is 7—Life.

ON WINGS OF LOVE

Linked Together in an Express Wagon

Under the Midnight Moon She Reached Her Goal and Slept.

To a handsome young man so unaffected by his surroundings that he can still blush, the position of Constable Timmins just after the clock struck one this morning, might be considered one of considerable embarrassment. Miss Edna Stephens and a "gentleman friend" were singing an anastrophe to the Klondike moon on Third avenue just after midnight, and she was dressed like the priestess of Ancient Egypt who carried water in slaves to the glory of the Goddess of Night. This Constable Timmins considered from the standpoint of official duty very unseemly, and he tried to arrest the lady while looking the other way. He did not succeed in this so he hunted up an express wagon. Meanwhile the "gentleman friend" escaped.

Then came the embarrassing part of the adventure. Mr. Timmins thought he could ride behind with his back to the lady and so spare his blushes. But she would sing songs of love on the journey, and needed one of the other sex to give spice to them. When they drove up to the jail even the sour visaged provost very nearly smiled, and the other men on duty had a hearty laugh to see the arm of the lady around the neck of the youthful Timmins. The lady was treated "like a lady" in Mr. Justice Macaulay's court this morning. She was not charged with being drunk, but with being "intoxicated." Mark the fine distinction. But the fine which was handed out so delicately was the same old fine—$2 and costs.

NEGLECT FATAL

It is always the small things, which one is liable to disregard, that often prove most serious and often fatal. A cough or a cold in itself is insignificant, but if not promptly treated often results in pneumonia, consumption and an early death. Avoid all risks by getting a bottle of Cribbs' Cough Cure—it does the work. Try it, then tell your friends.

NO BLOCKADE

Special to the Daily Nugget.
Skagway, Oct. 14.—The general manager's office of the White Pass route gives out the following statement of the freight situation: "There are about 1100 tons of freight at Whitehorse at the present time waiting shipment to Dawson. This represents the total amount on hand as it is entirely cleared away from Skagway. If the weather will hold good for this week everything will be cleaned up. The situation looks very favorable at the present time and it is our belief that every pound of freight now en route to interior will reach its destination before the close of navigation."

Frail, Fair and Fragile

This is a story of two fair but frail daughters of Eve, one a daisy blond with her hair arranged in a bang and the other a dashing brunette with her frizzes a la Cleo Merode. Both were from la belle France, and neither understood English and their names were Mlle Marguerite Benoit and Mlle Paulette Barge. They were charged with having been improperly familiar with men on the streets without a formal presentation. They in company with a dozen or so others had had a measure of justice doled out to them in the lower court, but were unimpressed with the way in which the magistrate had viewed their alleged iniquity and had appealed to the high court. An interpreter being needed, Mr. Noel, then in court, was pressed into service.

The evidence for the crown consisted of that of Sergeant Smith, Constable Burns and Constable Wright, neither of whom gave the accused a spotless character. All agreed that they were women of the half world and Wright testified that on the night of the arrest, which had been made near the Salvation Army barracks, they had accosted him with a proposal that he be scorned.

For the defense John Merritt was the first on the stand. He is manager of the Gymnasium baths and testified that on the night in question both the ladies had been to his establishment and taken a Turkish bath. They were there about midnight and remained about an hour or two.

Mlle Benoit on oath through the interpreter swore that on the evening she and her companion had left her home in Klondike City about 10:30, had gone direct to the baths, took a bath, took a sleep, took a drink and then took supper on their way home. She has been in Dawson but three weeks, coming from Portland, Oregon, knew no one here, had not accosted anyone while either going or coming. Asked why

Striking Miners Will Agree to Terms as Laid Down by the Operators—Roosevelt Is Waiting Mitchell's Reply.

Special to the Daily Nugget.
Pittsburg, Oct. 14.—Indications are that the striking miners will accept the operators' offer to compromise although it excludes the strikers from any representation and submits the trial of the case to a tribunal presumably prejudiced in the operators' behalf. President Roosevelt has intimated his willingness to proceed on the lines the operators suggest as soon as he hears from Mitchell. The latter is in conference this afternoon with the district presidents. The acceptance of the operators' offer would virtually be a surrender of the strikers in deference to the public demand for fuel and the clamor of the workers who desire to secure employment at any price.

BOLD ROBBERY LAST NIGHT

John McDonald's Residence, Corner Third Avenue and Princess Street, Is Burglarized of Gold Dust to the Value of $1,000.

One of the boldest robberies that has taken place in Dawson occurred last night when the residence of John McDonald the tailor was broken into and looted. The house is located near the corner of Second avenue and Princess street and is occupied by Mr. McDonald and his family. The robbery is supposed to have occurred between 7:30 and 8 o'clock as none of the family was at home during that period. The thieves got away with a poke containing gold dust to the value of $1,000. They made their entrance through she had come to Dawson she said with blushing naïvete that her trip was for the purpose of visiting her friends and to amuse herself. No, she was not engaged in the business of which she was accused, but frankly admitted that she was a prostitute and had been one for several years, though at present was not working at her trade.

The evidence of Mlle Barge was practically the same and at its conclusion his lordship said he would take the case under advisement.

Fine Ivory Carvings

W. N. Craigie is back to town from another of his long prospecting tours, thought it in the winter in which he most delights to do his traveling. It was Craigie who last winter shared his grub with the starving Peel river Indians, and drew the attention of the Mounted Police to their destitute condition. At the Standard Library today he was showing some fine specimens of ivory carving, the ivory having been collected by him in the Mackenzie basin. The carving, although it is quaint in its Indian symbolism, is the work of Mr. Craigie's spare moments on the trip. Mr. Craigie is an art decorator by profession, and carving on ivory is merely one of his fads.

Dishonest Officials

Stockholm, Sept. 20.—The Swedish Reichs Bank was cheated out of $100,000 by an official, whose frauds went undiscovered for fourteen years. The Swedish chamber court official accountants, who failed to discover the frauds, will have to reimburse the bank.

New British Subjects

Within the past two weeks an unusually large number of persons have applied to Clerk of the Court MacDonald for naturalization papers, thus identifying themselves more or less permanently with the country. This morning in open court Deputy Clerk McKay read to his lordship the following list of names to whom the rights of British subjects have been accorded: Frank Jackson, W. T. Thompson, Andrea Bogliani, Nicola Mongelli, J. J. O'Neill, James Gassio, Fred Sala, Innocenti Bucci, (Ottavio) Marino, Elvina G. Miller, Henri Hussell, T. H. Collins, Albert Thompson, Murray S. Fada, Jacob Gasper, James H. White, Anthony Phyllides, Joseph Snyder, Adolph Jostland and Edwin W. Mutch. Of the nationalities represented the large majority were Italian, a few were Greeks and natives of the lower provinces of Austria-Hungary, and a small number were Americans.

Population Increasing

Dr. Brown has been receiving congratulations all day long, the occasion being the arrival of a 12 pound boy. Mother and son are reported as progressing very favorably.

Licked a Conductor

Paris, Sept. 20.—Alvarez, the tenor of the Metropolitan Opera House, was temporarily locked up in Arryport for licking a conductor whose ear upset his automobile. The accident, which resulted in no more than a severe shaking up for the tenor and his family, occurred because the soloist's brakes refused to work. The police held that the conductor was pummeled gratuitously and that Alvarez will have to pay damages.

Motions and Arguments

Mr. Justice Macaulay occupied the bench in the territorial court a short time yesterday morning hearing a number of motions and arguments in chambers. In Goetsman vs. Hall an order was made allowing service by mail, 90 days being the time given for a return.

Anderson vs. Ripstein, Falconer vs. White Pass Company and Thomson vs. Henderson each stand for a week.

The capias case of the N. A. T. & T. Co. vs. Burnett came up for argument but was adjourned until a later date. The same disposition was made of the case of Steel vs. Mullin. In the first named the defendant was arrested by the plaintiff company as he was about to leave the country, so it is alleged. He declined to pay the bill which it is claimed he owes and was placed in jail at the instance of the debtor where he has been kept ever since, now over a month.

Macdonald vs. Armstrong was dismissed with costs. In Anderson vs. Newwood and Fredrickson vs. Newwood an order was made allowing the addition of another defendant.

It is reported by wire from Big Salmon that there was a more terrible storm there than was experienced here. The wind was very high and the rain fell in torrents. No damage has been reported.

ASSESSABLE PROPERTY

Totals Over Twelve Million Dollars

Half Million More Than Last Year. Court of Appeals in Session Tonight.

Assessor E. Ward Smith has completed this year's assessment of property within the corporate limits of the city and at the meeting of the council last night he read a resume of the totals, which are as follows:

Land	$1,816,940
Buildings	2,369,950
Total realty	$4,186,890
Personal	$6,932,300
Income	913,530

Grand total $12,032,720
The assessment is not quite as high as last year but exceeds the amount upon which the tax was levied by almost $400,000, a million and a half dollars having been taken off the original assessment by the court of appeal. The revised roll last year upon which the rate was struck amounted to $11,647,600.

What the rate will be this year it will be impossible to state until a compilation of such data is rather been compiled and the assessment court of appeal has finished its work. George Calvert, assistant to the assessor, is busy arranging the expenditures of the past year which will be taken partially as a basis of what they will be this year. The compilation of such data is rather complicated as to the list of June all monies pertaining to the then incorporated city of Dawson were disbursed through the office of the territorial controller, the city not assuming charge of civic affairs until after that date.

The matter of the reduction of the assessment by the court of appeal is also entirely a matter of conjecture. The notices of assessment were mailed September 20 and the law allows fifteen days thereafter within which anyone feeling themselves aggrieved by such assessment may appeal therefrom by giving notice of such intention to the assessor who is clerk of the appeal court sitting for that purpose. At the expiration of that time a list of those who have so appealed is made out and a copy posted in five conspicuous places in the city. Five clear days thereafter in the last day upon which an appeal may be taken.

This evening the court of appeal sits for the first time this year and will probably be in session fully a week or ten days. Last year there were 87 appeals filed and this year there are 82. The list embraces most of the big companies, corporations and heavy property holders who consider their assessment has been made unduly high. At the sessions of the court Mayor Macaulay will preside and be assisted by Alderman Wilson. Assessor Smith will be the clerk of at any price.

Capias Was Issued

CLARKE AN IMPOSSIBILITY.

In every community there is a class of people who live entirely in the traditions and memories of the past. In the southern states of the republic to the south there are still a few men in whose breasts the hatred engendered during the civil war burns today as brightly as ever. They have cherished the bitterness of those old days so long and so steadfastly that it has become almost a part of their religious belief. They hate the north because it is the north—forgetful that war days are over, and that peace has reigned for nearly four decades—forgetful in short of everything but their blind, unreasoning prejudice.

As noted above their number is small, their influence is nil and they are growing fewer every day—simply because it is not in normal, healthy human nature to remain bound to the dusty memories of bygone years. There is a similar class in this territory, correspondingly small, who have never yet been able to turn their eyes away from the fact that in the early days of Yukon history, many things were done by the government which called for forcible condemnation. They continually harp back to the royalty, the claim reservation law, the toll road, the ten dollar door and other grievances, for each and every one of which they now aim to attach all blame to Mr. Ross.

The lack of logic in their position is apparent to everyone who gives a moment's consideration to the actual facts in the case. True it is that the government erred in many particulars during the early days and equally true it is that the criticism then generally bestowed upon federal legislation for the Yukon was well deserved. But the further fact must not be lost sight of that the old-time grievances were wiped out one after another until nearly all have been cleaned up. The royalty was reduced from time to time and finally replaced by the export tax of two and one-half per cent. The claim reservation act was repealed, the old toll road was closed up, the ten dollar door and other abuses were abolished and Joe Clarke was removed from the public service along with others of the same ilk.

Had these old abuses been maintained until now—had the government made no move in the direction of remedying the wrongs which existed, if Clarke were still doing business at the old stand, there would be room for the captious criticisms occasionally heard. But the circumstances and conditions which exist at the present time destroy any validity which otherwise might attach to such criticisms. The government has dealt wisely and generously with the Yukon, since it has been placed in possession of the actual facts in connection with the country, and to that extent we submit that due credit should be given.

The great body of enterprising, energetic and progressive men in the territory have more profitable employment than is to be found in continually harping upon grievances long since wiped out. They are concerned with the living present and with the possibilities held out by the future. They propose to make use of the right of suffrage in order to accomplish practical results for their own benefit. To use their votes for the purpose of electing a man who can offer nothing better than a promise to reopen discussions of old, worn-out subjects would be simply suicidal. There are more important objects to be attained and questions of greater weight at issue than are set forth in Clarke's agreement to turn his abusive powers loose on members of the government.

The people are alive to the great things the future holds in store for the Yukon and they will take no such foolish risk as would be involved in placing their interests in the hands of a man like Clarke. There are still a few people who cannot realize that conditions are changed and that the old abuses were long ago wiped out, but they are hopelessly in the minority and are decreasing every day. They can no more hope to elect Clarke than they can expect to prevent the Yukon from freezing over. Joe is today an impossibility.

The statement issued from the general manager's office of the White Pass railroad is highly satisfactory. It is anticipated that with the continuation of present weather for the balance of this week no difficulty will be experienced in handling all freight now at Whitehorse safe in this city. The volume of freight handled by the company in the last six weeks has been extraordinarily large and if the hopes of the management are realized and none is left at Whitehorse a record will have been established which would be hard to excel.

The News never mentions Clarke's name unless compelled to do so. To an impartial observer, it looks very much as though the way was being paved for a new candidate.

Retort Courteous: Parson—Why don't you join the church? Growley—I would but for one thing. Parson—And what is that, pray? Growley—It is full of hypocrites. Parson—Oh, no, it isn't. There's always room for one more.—Chicago News.

FRANCHISE DESIRED

Creeks Railway to Traverse First Ave

Mr. Hawkins Applies to Council for Permission to Lay Tracks Along Water Front.

At the meeting of the council last night two communications were received from Mr. E. C. Hawkins relative to the passing of a bylaw granting to his company the right to build railway tracks over certain streets in the city. In his letter to the mayor and council Mr. Hawkins freely admits that the terminals granted by his charter at Klondike City which were at one time considered adequate are not so now and such an arrangement would be disadvantageous to the business interests of Dawson. The franchise asked by the petitioner is for the right to construct the railroad along First avenue where it will be of easy access to all the large stores, saw mills and wharves. The privilege is not for the purpose of using the trackage in any way as a local street railway enterprise but for the legitimate uses of the creeks railway. Mr. Hawkins' petition, which is self-explanatory, is as follows:

"To His Worship the Mayor and Council of the City of Dawson—Gentlemen: It has been considered advisable on the part of the Klondike Mines Railway Company, as well as a matter of great public convenience, that the Klondike Mines Railway Company secure trackage in Dawson city. The terminals as granted by charter at Klondike City, while quite sufficient for the purposes at the time the charter was granted, are disadvantageous to the business interests of Dawson. It is proposed by the Klondike Mines Railway Company to extend its tracks to and over the westerly side of First avenue in such a manner that it will reach all the business houses, saw mills, quartz mills, etc., on the water front. It is not, however, to utilize the trackage in any way as a local street railway and the company makes no objection to the granting of other franchises to any electric street railways, for strictly city passenger business, but I would respectfully ask your honorable body on behalf of the Klondike Mines Railway Company to grant the fullest extent of having such franchise granted subject to the rights of the Klondike Mines Railway Company to enter the city at the most convenient point and to extend its tracks along the westerly side of First avenue as above described. I have the honor to be, sirs, your obedient servant.

"E. C. HAWKINS." The second communication from Mr. Hawkins was a formal request that a bylaw such as he desires should be passed by the council at its earliest convenience. It reads as follows: "Pursuant to provisions of section 137, sub-section 77 of Ordinance No. 45 of 1901, of the Yukon council, I beg to request of your honorable body that a bylaw be passed to sanction and permit the laying of tracks and switches by the Klondike Mines Railway Company from a point on the Klondike river and running therefrom to and along the westerly side of First avenue, the proposed route being marked on the accompanying plan, together with all other rights which may be granted by you under the powers on that behalf."

There is a certain roadside hostelry not many claims from No. 15, hillside on Hunker, which changed hands about a month ago. Prior to that time a certain lady worked at this roadside and, as a matter of course, there was a man somewhere near who desired to marry her. There might have been several, but only one figures in this story. He handed to the lady $300 and told her to go to Dawson and make all the necessary arrangements for getting married and then to let him know. The lady accepted the money, came to Dawson, and in accordance with the agreement, did make all preparations for getting married. So far, as the agent of the capitalist who furnished the money, she seemed to have acted in perfect good faith, and for such actions, therefore, there is no law to which she has rendered herself amenable. But, it is claimed, just as it is in the long drawn out Syndicat Lyonnais litigation, the agent (in this case the lady) went beyond the instructions given and the authority vested in her. She not only made the preparations for getting married, but she did get married, and without "letting him know."

It is this latter point upon which the man has to rely, whether in a suit to prove the woman to have acted to hold as his wife, whether he sues for mere money damages for breach of promise, or whether he merely enters a civil suit for the return of his $300. Now, in the first place, if he sues

Stroller's Column.

The anniversary of the big fire in Dawson recalls the story Fred Wade was so fond of telling, one of the first reminiscences Mr. Wade recalled to the memory of the Stroller during his last visit. Upon turning to the Nugget of October 19th, 1898, one reads:

"The San Francisco Examiner correspondent started a man out to Dyea with the news while yet the Dawson fire was burning. It is reported that the dispatch carrier was to be given $1000 if he reached Dyea ahead of anyone else. It was an enterprising feat to start poleing up the river against all this ice and it is to be hoped that there will be no sensational untruths published about the matter."

It will be noticed that this information was not given out by the Examiner correspondent until the dispatch bearer had been pushing his canoe against the current and the gathering ice for five days, and therefore had a fair start. The dispatch bearer was the celebrated Montana Kid, celebrated as a masher and his abilities to spin yarns about it, not at all the most discreet person to select as a dispatch bearer of news which at that time was certainly worth to the Examiner the price said to have been paid for its transmission. The Kid was proud of his important mission, but kept it a profound secret for the first part of the journey. There was no one on the trail at the time, and this may have had something to do with his success in this regard. A couple of days after he left the canoe had to be abandoned and the dogs were hitched up. It was hard traveling even with dogs, and he hailed with delight the sight of a camp somewhere near Phil Walsh creek.

Fred Wade, Ed. McKeown, and two or three others were musing it in over the ice for the second time. They had not intended doing it a second time but had procrastinated longer than the winter had. The Kid was welcomed to their tent and told his story of the difficulties he had already overcome, hinting in a manner which piqued Fred's curiosity at the immense importance of his mission and its invulnerable secrecy. After warning the Kid up well with the oil of joy, and then warning him up some more, Fred got an inkling of the important mission. A plentiful supply of the liquid helped him still further. The news leaked out as the good liquor soaked in. Fred was an old newspaper man, news he had obtained was worth in a newspaper sense. He asked the Kid if he would carry a letter for him to an old friend in Skagway, a letter of introduction which was sure the Kid would be proud of. Then he asked Ed McKeown the wink to take the Kid to his own tent while he wrote the letter.

The Kid carried that letter with as much pride as he did the dispatch to the Examiner. It reached the hands of the Stroller at Juneau, went on the same boat as the Kid, but was put on the wire at Comox, and thus the story of Dawson's big fire appeared in the New York Herald two days before the Kid reached Seattle. The first breach of promise case in the Yukon is liable to come up for hearing at the present term of the territorial court, and if it does come up it will be one of singular interest because of the peculiar and complicated law points involved. What adds materially to the interest is the fact that the plaintiff in the action is a man. What he will demand as a money penalty for his lacerated affections cannot be stated. Nor is the course of action yet definitely decided upon. The circumstances are these:

At an outside meeting of the amateur athletic association held yesterday, it was unanimously decided that the civil service hockey team be affectionately dubbed "the pleasers." It came about in this way. After service on Sunday evening Dick Grant gathered together a few of his own church to play the innocent game of progressive euchre and to keep them out of mischief until bedtime. As an incentive to the game he promised them pie. He took them to a restaurant, and they politely attempted to do justice to his hospitality and to make it cost him something. Dick Edwards and Jack Kilbeck eat two whole pumpkin pies each, drank two glasses of milk, cat two turkey sandwiches and drank two cups of coffee, and then took two pieces of chocolate turn-over. Grant will enter them for the championship at the next bean feast.

"Oh, you should just see that eagle that we caught in the Rockies now," said one of the prospectors who were out with Martin Gateley. "Yes, and you should hear him talk," said the other. "Dr. Horkan and all the men that goes to the Standard library are tickled to death with him. He sings just as plain as you can."

"Not for Joe," "Not for Joe," "Not for Joseph," "If we know it." Dr. Clendennis, the stone which the builders at the Clarke convention rejected, may yet become the head of the miners' rostrum. Dr. Catto is advised upon the most reliable authority that Mr. Ross will resign and that Joe does not intend to come back unless he can get as good a "plant" as that $10 door job. So the doctor sleeps well now. A Botanist sailed forth in search of a Plant, Something very like a white elephant. He knew all its uses. Also its abuses. He wanted that Plant to disseminate Cant. This Botanist sailed till the Yukon grew bubbly. And its waters became both hilly and bubbly. The waves rolled so high. That Joe began to cry. "My platform's too thin and its planks are too wobbly."

What an exasperating misery it is to wear a plaster cast on the leg. One can do little but mope and dream. It recalls one's childhood days, when we wondered about the false gods whose limbs were of brass

City Needs Money for Current Expenses

Council Resolves to Effect a Loan From the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Last night witnessed another short session of the city council. There was barely a quorum present, Adair being at Whitehorse, Wilson at his copper mine down the river and Norquay ill. Had it not been for quite a spirit of determination on the part of his worship, who hobbled to the meeting on crutches, there would have been no session for the lack of a quorum. When the council was convened the reporters had murder in their eyes, as it was observed no provision had been made during the week for their accommodation, notwithstanding the vigorous protests made at former meetings. Alderman Murphy with a rare discrimination and a fine show of feeling of one who has majority ambitions that need the fostering care of the newspaper men, offered a resolution that the privileges of the aldermanic table be extended to the press for the evening, a motion that met with the approbation of all the members. Subsequently, after the adjournment, Mr. Moran, managing editor of the sordid department of the Sun, called an informal meeting of the Dawson Press Club, which resulted in the thanks of the club to the council for having extended the courtesies so much appreciated.

that at a meeting to be held not later than two weeks hence he would introduce an amendment to the license bylaw fixing the maximum fee chargeable for making the transfer of a license at $5. The assessment appeal court will meet this evening at the court house for the purpose of hearing the appeal of all who are not satisfied with the assessment made by the city assessor. The court will consist of Mayor Macaulay and Alderman Wilson, Alderman Adair, the third member of the court being at present absent from the city. It is expected the sessions will last a week or ten days.

NEGLECT OF WORKMEN

Again Pointed Out in Police Court

The Plaintiff Worked All Summer Without Distinct Agreement.

A wages case took up nearly the whole of the morning session in the police court, and it was the same old story upon the subject of which Mr. Justice Macaulay has spoken so often from the bench that he must be weary of it, namely, the neglect to have a definite understanding as to the wages to be paid. In this case the judge said for perhaps the fiftieth time, "The plaintiff was very careless not to have made an agreement when he was engaged as foreman."

MASTER AND MAN

A Strong and Popular Comedy Drama

Being Produced at the Auditorium This Week—Play of Excellent Merit.

The Bittner Company is producing this week for the benefit of the theatre goes the strong comedy drama "Master and Man," a play of excellent merit which appeals directly to the sympathies, gains immediate favor and commands the closest attention, from the rising of the curtain in the first act until the final drop at the end of the fourth act, on the part of all who witness it. One of the strong points in the play is the fact that it is devoid of the impossible situations which are so pronounced in many plays of a similar character. The characters in "Master and Man" are more true to real life and gives the play a natural tone which greatly increases its value over plays which portray life in characters which are devoid of any semblance of reality.

CHORAL SOCIETY.

A very satisfactory rehearsal for the choral concert was held in St. Andrew's hall last night after which the society (to be named as above), was duly organized. The following officers were elected: Hon. President—Major Z. T. Wood, President—F. T. Congdon, Esq. Vice Pres.—Geo. Craig, Esq. Secretary and Treasurer—Oswald Finnie, Esq. Executive—Mrs. Henry Macaulay, Mrs. P. R. Ritchie, Mrs. (Dr.) Thompson, Mrs. Fysh, Mr. Batchan, Mr. Fysh, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Torrey. Musical Director—Arthur Boyle. The first concert of the society will be held on the evening of Thursday, Nov. 6th, particulars of which will be duly advertised. The proceeds will be devoted to the purposes of the society.

A Princely Scandal

Paris, Sept. 20.—A telegram from Algiers today reported that the Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch, a cousin of the Czar, who arrived at Algiers on board the Russian Imperial yacht Standart, had attempted to commit suicide with a revolver, at the hotel where he was staying, the dispatch said, with a Russian woman. Later dispatches, however, give the true story, according to which Prince Vladimir Troubzetkoi, who is an officer of the Standart, after drinking copiously in company with a woman friend, tried to shoot himself, but was not hurt.

Beautiful Legs

Paris, Sept. 20.—Claire Inault, who earned 1,500 francs per year by exhibiting her lower limbs at the Moulin Rouge in the can-can, recovered 20,000 francs damages from a street car company on account of injury to her right leg, a car having crashed into her carriage. Never before were such heavy damages voted in a case of that kind, but it is said Claire enjoys international fame for the beauty and symmetry of her legs.

WATER FRONT NOTES.

There was quiet along the water front this morning, not even the usual gossip of the last few days as to the time the river will close. People are inclined to think it is too soon for guessing; that the event is too far off. Even Meinher Herschberg has given up the idea of having a guessing contest this year. Yet at this time last year there were no boats expected to leave except the little steamers of the mosquito fleet, and there was lots of snow and ice about. The knowing ones say we are sure of a continuance of this mild weather until the next change of moon on the 19th, and if that is favorable there is no knowing when the river will close. Manager Rogers says the latter statement is absolutely correct.

The White Pass had three boats out today. The Bonanza King left at 8:30, the Bailey left at 11 o'clock without passengers, she being rushed away after her advertised time. The Yukoner sailed at 2 o'clock this afternoon with a good list of passengers.

The Canadian and the Zealandian left Whitehorse yesterday evening. The Clifford Sifton is due, and may be here sometime tomorrow. She is billed to leave at eight o'clock tomorrow evening.

Hockey League Tonight

The Yukon Hockey League will hold a meeting at eight o'clock this evening, in the association building, to draw up a schedule of games for the series to be played during the winter, to elect officers and do other important business. The four clubs in the league have now all organized and the delegates to attend the league meeting this evening are as follows:

- Civil Service—Pattullo and Benfournet. D. A. A.—Tobin and Muir. Mounted Police—Moreton and Timmins. Citizens—Buchanan and Tomlinson. Auditorium—Master and Man.

The Story of Fan-Fan, the Fairy

On the edge of a forest about a mile from where the fairy Fan-Fan was born there lived a poor widow who was childless. The hut she occupied was a wretched affair, and yet it belonged to a man who had no pity for her and demanded that she pay him one-half of what she earned from the sale of roots and berries gathered in the forest. As the widow was old and crippled and had no friends to take her in, she had to pay what was asked of her. There were many times when she had little food in the house, and when she suffered for the want of shoes or clothes, but the owner of the hut would say to her:

"You must pay me just the same. It is nothing to me if you are cold and hungry. If you cannot pay me, you go; and I will stable my cattle in the hut."

For three years the widow managed to satisfy the avaricious man and remain in her lowly home. Then, as summer came on, she fell ill and could work no longer at anything to bring in money. There were no neighbors near at hand to render her assistance, and if a traveler called at the hut, to ask his way he left neither words of sympathy nor money. When the poor woman had been unable to pay her rent for a month the owner came to see her and said:

"To-morrow you must go away. As you can pay no longer I will not have you here another day."

"But where can I go?" asked the widow. "I am old and crippled and ill and have not one shilling in the house. If you turn me out I shall die by the roadside."

"That is not my affair," gruffly replied the man, "and I shall be here in the morning to see that you go."

have heard of them. I have been told that fairies are good to people in distress."

"So they are. And now let me see what I can do for you."

"The widow told her story, and shed many tears over it, and she had just finished when the owner of the hut came stamping in and roughly exclaimed:

"Well, your time is up and you must get out. What is that little girl doing here?"

"I am a fairy, sir," replied Fan-Fan. "Have you no pity in your heart that you would turn this poor old woman out doors?"

"What is that to you? Can I make homes for people who have no money?"

Letters were read from the Queen Insurance Company of Montreal, the Law Union and Crown Insurance Company of Montreal, and the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society of Toronto, acknowledging receipt of the reports of the city engineer, chief of the fire department, bylaw for the prevention of fires and the plan of the city. The large photograph of the city had not arrived at the time the letters were written. The companies manifested much interest in the welfare and progress of Dawson and asked that duplicates of the enclosures be sent them that they may be forwarded to their home office in London.

New bills presented included the following: Legal fees $2.65 J. G. Scott 35.00 Klondike Nugget 32.00 Department Public Works, building 108 feet sidewalk on Harper street, near Seventh avenue. 138.55 Quite a lengthy and numerous signed petition was received from the residents of South Dawson protesting against the proposed removal of the demi-monde from that portion of the city, particularly on Dugas street. The communication states that previous to the arrival of that class property was decreasing in value and business was stagnated. Lately, trade has increased in all channels, values are higher and more firm and the petition bore over 100 signatures, considerably more than the counter petition submitted at the meeting of the council a week ago.

The finance committee was the only one of the standing committees to make a report, which was done by Alderman Vachon in the absence of Alderman Adair, the regular chairman. The only thing the report contained was the recommendation that the council borrow the sum of $15,000 from the Canadian Bank of Commerce for the purpose of paying current expenses, the loan to be repaid out of the first taxes collected next month. Murphy introduced a bylaw providing for the borrowing of the $15,000 required and it passed all the stages and came into effect with the signature of his worship.

The bylaw respecting the Dawson Public Library was given its second and third reading and passed. Alderman Macdonald moved the following resolution which was supported by Alderman Murphy: "Resolved, That this council do express to Mayor Macaulay our heartfelt condolence and sympathy with him in his recent family bereavement, and we also express our pleasure in seeing him again able to occupy the mayor's chair so soon after the accident which to our regret incapacitated him for a few days." His worship thanked the gentlemen for their show of kindly feeling. Alderman Macdonald gave notice of a meeting to be held not later than two weeks hence he would introduce an amendment to the license bylaw fixing the maximum fee chargeable for making the transfer of a license at $5. The assessment appeal court will meet this evening at the court house for the purpose of hearing the appeal of all who are not satisfied with the assessment made by the city assessor. The court will consist of Mayor Macaulay and Alderman Wilson, Alderman Adair, the third member of the court being at present absent from the city. It is expected the sessions will last a week or ten days.

Both sides of the case were well represented and ably argued, Mr. Taber appearing for the defendant company and Mr. Tobin for the plaintiff. Mr. Taber's defense was that plaintiff had been engaged as a common laborer and although he had acted as timekeeper and so on he had had an easier job than as laborer, and he therefore was certainly not entitled to more than a laborer, especially as he had never been employed as a foreman.

In substantiation of this line of defence he called Judge S. O. Morford, who was secretary-treasurer of the company and one of the owners, who testified that he had managed the claim and had never had a foreman. When he took hold to work the property on July 1st he found plaintiff there as a laborer and he merely changed his work. Plaintiff had asked for more pay, saying that he would accept $5 per day, but he had told him he could pay but $4. He worked on after that, and gave so many orders upon his wage account that it was exhausted. It was only in this action that he had claimed $8 a day.

Mr. Justice Macaulay said the several witnesses called by the plaintiff showed that he had been acting as foreman, and the defendant himself admitted that he had done the work of a foreman, and had also asked for $5 a day. Under the circumstances he would give judgment for that rate with costs.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

A. N. C. Treadgold, the concessionaire, goes out on the Yukoner this afternoon, and has no present intention of returning until navigation again opens.

Billy Leake, of Eldorado, accompanied by Mrs. Leake, goes out on the Yukoner to spend the winter on the outside.

Edgar Gates of Eldorado, and Miss Maud Gates, left for the outside this afternoon.

Mrs. Lon Griffin, accompanied by Miss Grey, goes out today for Seattle and will probably spend the winter in lower California.

Mr. Travis, manager of the T. T. Wilson store, was wishing good bye to his wife and children on the White Pass dock this afternoon. Mrs. Travis has made but a short stay in the Yukon.

Cut flowers. Cook's, phone 1808.

Mr. Montgomery is excellent in the character of Robert Carlton, the scheming and absolutely unscrupulous villain who while having all the outward appearances of a gentleman, will stoop to the lowest degree in the accomplishment of his purposes.

His career ends to the satisfaction of everyone in his merited punishment.

Mr. Bittner as Jim Burleigh, the outraged husband seeking vengeance on the man who is responsible for his suffering, has a part to which he is well adapted, and his effort to arouse the same feeling of vengeance in the heart of Jack Walton, who has likewise suffered at the hands of their common enemy, was one of the strong features of the play.

Mr. Moran as Tom Brady and Mrs. Bittner as Lettie Lightfoot have the comedy parts and their appearance is always the occasion of a burst of applause.

Mr. Hooley has a strong character, as Humpty Logan, a deformed and crippled— an despised by everyone because of his surly disposition; Logan is made a tool of by Carlton and is the means of ruining temporarily Jack Walton. He finally loses his mind and is sent to the asylum, but escapes and arrives just in time to make a confession which turns the tables upon Carlton and sends him to States prison, as the same time restoring Walton his liberty.

Mr. Morris takes well in the part of Crispin St. James and caricatures the London dandy in a manner which provokes many bursts of laughter.

Miss Kelton as Hester Thornbury—afterwards Mrs. Jack Walton—takes her part, which is one that gives a good opportunity for emotional acting, in her usual artistic manner. Her interference between her husband and Jim Burleigh when the latter was trying to excite a spirit of vengeance in the heart of her husband, and the quieting influence her words had over them both made a very strong scene.

Miss Freeman, as the Irish woman, Mrs. Brady, was excellent both in her make up and dialect, and her part was carried through in a most acceptably manner.

Little Frank Readick, Jr., as Johnny, fully sustained his reputation as a clever little fellow. His enunciation is excellent and his words spoken in a clear tone can be well heard at any part of the house. Master Frank is truly a favorite and many complimentary remarks are made of him.

Mr. Lewis as Inspector Willett, Mr. Thorne as Gypsy Lee, Mr. Dundon as Joe Robbins and Traube as Postmaster in unimportant characters which do not allow much opportunity for a display of ability complete the cast which is a large and strong one all through.

The synopsis of the scenery is as follows: Act I—Mrs. Brady's Farm. Act II—(a) Jack's Home; (b) Carlton Manor. Act III—Mrs. Brady's Kitchen. Act IV—The Carlton Arms. Incidental to Act II, specialties by Mr. Moran. Between Acts I and II, illustrated songs by Miss Chandon.

Some Mysteries and Their Solution The idea of witchcraft was a long time scoffed at by so-called science, because no physical facts could be found to account for it. More recently, however, science has discovered that thought is force; that it is creative substance; that it can be sent from brain to brain through space, by means of telepathy, and that it can affect a passive mind for good or ill. This is not theory. I have myself demonstrated it a thousand times. There's nothing mysterious about the power of thought (some aspects of which used to be called witchcraft),—excepting what ignorance renders mysterious.

Mrs. Webster's Remains E. L. Webster, the well-known insurance agent, left on the Dawson yesterday, carrying with him the remains of his wife for burial among her relatives at Chicago. Mrs. Webster was in poor health when she came here early in the spring, and had been given up by the most famous medical experts of the United States. Mrs. Webster was a sister of Mrs. Parsons, wife of the manager of the Ames Mercantile Company.
