Longest Title for Five-Cent Fare.

Some time ago the editor of the Street Railway Journal of New York, began to receive information as to the longest titles given for a five-cent fare in the cities of this country containing over 100,000 inhabitants. ITS SIGNIFICANCE.

SOMETHING OF THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR MOVEMENT

The President-Founder of the Rev. Francis E. Clark, writes of the Recent Great Convention and What it Means to the Christian World.

I have been asked to write concerning the result and significance of the recent Christian Endeavor convention at Washington. It is too early as yet, perhaps, to tell the results of the convention, but it is not too early to give some idea of its profound significance.

The fact that 40,000 young people should come together in the hottest month of the year, in one of the holiest cities of the country, to attend a purely religious convention is in itself significant. Nor are these figures any mere estimates or wild guesses.

Thirty-one thousand one hundred and twenty Endeavorers actually were in the city, and the careful committees were convinced that 40,000 visitors were in attendance upon the convention.

On many occasions throughout the convention the three enormous tents, Washington, Williston and Endeavor, were crowded to their utmost limit, and the thousands of people, with their ear-of-thunder voices, and at the same time perhaps half a dozen churches, the largest in the city, were put to overworking.

But what brought these young people together in such vast numbers? The impelling motive was the Christian Endeavor convention. It was, as I have said, a purely religious convention. The first morning prayer meeting, nearly 30 churches were simultaneously filled morning after morning with the young people.

The convention closed, as always, with a serious and delightful consecration service in the various auditoriums. The highest motives were appealed to from the first day to the last. The religious atmosphere of the assembled throngs was the harp of a thousand strings, upon which every speaker played with a magnificent freedom of descending to clapping or sensationalism. Their character would have prevented this had the audience desired it, but there was no such part of the audience for anything but the deepest and the strongest truths.

It has never been thought that young people must be coaxed and enjoined into piety, must have their religion sugar-coated and made to consist of sentimentalism, this convention and other international conventions of the Christian Endeavor Society have demonstrated the truth.

And yet it must not be thought that there is anything unduly solemn and mysterious about this great assembly of young Christians. No one who was in Washington during the convention could have obtained a false idea of the character of the city were bright with their fluttering badges. The street cars were veiled with their sunshades, and when they came together in their State receptions they evidently had not forgotten their pride in their own communities. They frequently refrained from question and answer, "What's the matter with Pennsylvania?" (for instance, "She's all right")

But the Keystone Endeavorers had a right to be proud of their community. It has never been thought that young people must be coaxed and enjoined into piety, must have their religion sugar-coated and made to consist of sentimentalism, this convention and other international conventions of the Christian Endeavor Society have demonstrated the truth.

UNIONVILLE FAIR NOTES

Never Known to Fail.

The Three Great South American Remedies Always Cure—Mrs. Edward Parr of Surrey Centre, R. C. Once Paralyzed on One Side, Now as Well as Ever. Because of the South American Nerveine, W. W. Brownell of Avonmore, Ont. Thought He Would Die From Rheumatism, but is Now Well. Because of the South American Kidney Cure the only South American Kidney Cure.

To do all that one undertakes to do is commendable in these days of broken promises. The application is apt in the case of proprietary medicines. In the three great South American Remedies, however, are found agencies that square up to every claim and promise.

The wife of Edward Parr of Surrey Centre, B. C., was taken bad last August with nervous prostration, which later developed into paralysis of one side. Her husband writes—"She has now been cured by the South American Nerveine, but only in vain. We have tried many remedies, but only in vain. We cannot speak too highly of the remedy."

As an aftermath from an attack of typhoid fever W. W. Brownell of Avonmore, Ont., became a victim of the South American Kidney Cure. He called in the best medical aid, but got no relief. His words are—"I thought I must die and many nights I could not live till morning, the pain was so severe. The doctors said I must give up the struggle, but I secured a bottle of South American Kidney Cure from Mr. E. H. Brown, druggist, of Cornwall. The first dose gave me relief and after taking two and a half bottles the pain all but left and now I am well as ever."

There is no experiment in the use of South American Kidney Cure. It is not a pill nor powder, but a liquid, that immediately dissolves the hard stone-like substances, that constitute an absolute cure. D. J. Locke of Sherbrooke, Que., says he spent $100 in treatment for a complicated case of kidney disease, but received no permanent cure until, to use his own words, "I began to use South American Kidney Cure, when four bottles completely cured me." Sold by J. P. Lamb & Son.

Continued experiments are needed to test the efficacy of some things, but there is no application in the case of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. Mr. Wm. August, J. P. postmaster, New Day-Dr. Agnew's Catarrahal Powder, the only Remedy to Dr. Sylvester Lawrence of Toronto, Ontario, writes—"I have used Dr. Agnew's Ointment a Certain Cure for Piles—Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills Cure Constipation and Headache."

On Sunday evening last the Rev. Mr. Railey, a missionary among the British Columbia Indians, who is presently visiting in this section, addressed a large congregation in the Methodist church. The subject of his address was: Paganism on the Pacific Coast. The speaker graphically described the heathenism of the Indians, and the effect it had upon their superstitious minds. The reverend gentleman spoke of the social condition of the aborigines at the time the gospel was introduced among them, and the change wrought, and the part played by the doctrines of Christianity in effecting it. Though the evils had decreased there was still much work to be done, as numerous pagans still existed, where a missionary was needed and would be welcomed. It is seldom an Athenian audience has the pleasure of listening to so interesting, eloquent and instructive an address as that delivered on the subject of the heathenism of the Indians, and a goodly number had the effect of arousing a deeper interest in missionary work, especially in that of the home field.

When the English Church picnic closed on Wednesday evening last, the committee found that they had a large amount of provisions left on hand after the picnic. Some suggested that they should take the remainder down to the House of Industry and give the inmates a regular blow-out. The suggestion was approved of, and a goodly number of Athenians went down to assist in serving up the viands, as well as to help the inmates dispose of the same. The tables were laid in the spacious dining-room, and were tastefully set. Bowls of flowers placed at intervals added very much to the appearance. All the inmates were seated at once and partook to their hearts' content of the good things provided. Several are said to have made short work of from four to five pieces of pie each. A new-comer to the House arrived that evening, and on being conducted to the dining-room and seated before the piles of good things, began lamenting that he had not been informed sooner of the benefit to be derived from the picnic. Steady kept a small reserve of pie for the special use of the new arrival for a day or two, for near the reaction might work disastrously to his constitution.

A Change in Future.—Nearly every week the Reporter receives a quantity of obituary poetry for insertion, in memory of some friend or relative of the writer. A large amount of this is of interest only to those who send it in. In many cases the composition is such as to require the careful attention of our poetical editor to make it presentable to our readers. We have therefore decided that in future all obituary poetry will be inserted only at a uniform rate of 50¢ per five stanzas or under; additional stanzas pro rata.

A Change in Future.—Nearly every week the Reporter receives a quantity of obituary poetry for insertion, in memory of some friend or relative of the writer. A large amount of this is of interest only to those who send it in. In many cases the composition is such as to require the careful attention of our poetical editor to make it presentable to our readers. We have therefore decided that in future all obituary poetry will be inserted only at a uniform rate of 50¢ per five stanzas or under; additional stanzas pro rata.
