Creeping up the Stairs.

Oh, how I hated him then, and how earnestly I longed to deprive him of his boasted happiness! And soon after that the means were given me to do so.

One night during the summer a jewelry store in an adjoining block was entered by burglars, and a large amount of valuables taken therefrom.

This alarmed old man Gerald; and at his request, Lambert and I slept together in the store for a period of two or three weeks.

Lambert talked in his sleep, and one night he babbled forth words that pleased him in my power. Oh, how I chuckled at the possession of that secret! How I gloated over the prospect of a speedy revenge! I felt easy in my conscience, too, for had not the means been placed in my hands without an effort of my own? A direct interposition of Providence, I argued, then—a scheme of the devil's, I say how.

The weeks rolled by, and Victor Lambert's was more popular than ever. His praises were rung daily in my ears. "Has the making of a fine man in him," was the universal comment. I smiled in a grim sort of way when I heard him spoken of, but I never said you or nay. Oh, how I held my secret—the secret that was to destroy the man who had come like a thief in the night and stolen away my happiness.

The autumn came on, and the day that Amy Gerald was to become the bride of Victor Lambert was at hand. The marriage was to take place at nine o'clock in the evening, and the couple were to leave on the midnight train for an extended bridal tour.

The spacious mansion was crowded with guests. The feast was superb. Everbody was happy—except myself. I went around morose and heavy hearted, feeling more like a condemned criminal than a guest at a merry wedding.

I drew away from the gay assemblage and sought a secluded corner, where I stood alone and communed with myself. Now, as the hour drew near, I dreaded to strike the blow that was to ruin two young and happy lives.

"Why do this?" a small voice whispered in my ear. "Better far, and more noble, to smother that feeling of revenge and anger, and go forth into the world with clean hands and a clear conscience."

"But," interrupted another voice, "he has been wronged deeply. He has been robbed of a happiness that was rightfully his by one who is totally unworthy. Strike—revenge yourself ere it be too late."

I came to myself with a start, and all the old bitterness surged through me. "Strike—avenge yourself!" rang in my ears with fearful distinctness. Yes, I would strike and—strike deep, too.

I looked around me. The vast room had been emptied of all save Victor Lambert and myself. He was standing, leaning against the mantle, and was unaware of my presence. The time for my revenge had come. I advanced noiselessly, and laying my hand heavily upon his shoulder, I hissed in his ear:

"Henry Mervin, you are an impostor! I know a great deal about your past life. I know all about the forgery you committed in New York, for which crime you were sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of years; I know all about your escape from the prison after serving two years of your sentence; I know that you bear the mark of shackles upon your person now. I will tell you, too, why I know all this. Because you came here—unworthy as you know yourself—and won away from me the love of the only woman I can ever care for. But for you I would have been a happy man to-night. You have brightened my life and robbed me of the only joy I ever had or can hope for. The happiness you have deprived me of shall not be yours. Tomorrow officers of the law will be upon your track."

When I ceased speaking, Lambert's face had assumed the hue of death and he was trembling in every limb. Raising his hand in a supplicating manner, he said in a scarcely audible voice:

"I am going to marry Amy Gerald in the autumn, I want you to rejoice in my good fortune."

"Ah!" was all I said, as I took the proffered hand.

"For God's sake, Luke, have mercy on me! You surely would not blight my life and—hers. Give me a chance Luke—only a chance."

"No," I said, in a cold, hard voice "I will show you no mercy. It is too late to talk of that."

He looked at me with an expression of mute despair. Then he turned and strode from the room, muttering as he went:

"God have pity on us—God have pity on us!"

A faintness came over me, and I stood I know not how long in a dazed and helpless manner. Presently I was aroused by people entering and calling for Victor. He could not be found; and the train on which the bridal party was to leave would start in twenty minutes.

All was excitement and bustle in the midst of which a servant entered, and advancing to Amy handed her a note. She hastily tore it open and read it. Suddenly she swayed to and fro, and before assistance could reach her, fell with a low cry, to the floor, bleeding from mouth, nose and ears. In a few moments she lay a corpse where she had so lately stood a happy bride.

I picked up the note that had fallen from her hand, and read:

"I am going—Gods only knows where. My life is ruined. I shall never return. Do not seek me. Good-bye. VICTOR."

No one knows of the part I had played in the tragedy of that awful night. Terrible, indeed, was my revenge.

Years went by. At the death of old man Gerald I became proprietor of his establishment. I mingled but little with the world. I left my place of business only long enough each day to visit Amy's grave.

One winter morning I started out to make my accustomed visit. As I turned the corner of the little church, the cemetery came in full view. I was greatly startled to see lying at full length upon the grave where Amy Gerald was sleeping the figure of a man.

Slowly I approached. The man was either unconscious or asleep. His hat had fallen from his head, and his hair, which was snowy white, fell over his shoulders. I bent over the prostrate form of the sleeper, and called him to arise. He heeded me not. I placed my hand upon the body and turned the face upward. I knew it instantly, despite the worn and haggard look—the long white hair. It was Victor Lambert—and dead. He had found his peace.

What a Mistake!

One half of all the people in this country have been or are now afflicted with catarrh or bronchitis. No doubt many of them have tried every blood purifier they have seen, with the erroneous idea that catarrh is a constitutional disease of the blood. Why, a greater mistake was never made! Stop for a moment and ask any reputable physician what common catarrh is, or bronchitis (which is a catarrh in the bronchial tubes), and what causes it, and the answer can be only this: "It is an irritation or inflammation of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat, caused by neglected colds, damp, piercing, irritable winds, foreign matter in the air, which is poisonous to some persons and not to others; just as the bites of certain insects is a poisonous torture to some and has no unpleasant effect upon others." The reason for this is found in the different structure of the outer skin and its counterpart which lines all the inner organs of our bodies. Some people have chapped hands and chibblains and others are never so afflicted because of the peculiar structure of the skin of different individuals. It is not blood purifiers you want, but good wholesome food, the planer the better; then "keep your feet dry and warm, and your head cool, and bowels open," and use an external application (Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is the best we know) to allay the inflammation, cleanse the surface, and heal the sores, and your catarrh will disappear like magic; and we do not say never to return, because you may cure a severe cold and in three months catch another equally bad; so with catarrh and bronchial troubles, exposure may bring it on again. We learned more about treating catarrh from the wrapper around a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment than we ever knew. Certainly this good old medicine deserves to be called "A universal family remedy." It will pay you to send to I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., for a pamphlet, free, just to learn how to use the liniment economically. A teaspoonful properly used will do more good than a half bottle as some people use it. This Liniment is made from the formula of an old family physician.

A Pleasant Affair.

An interesting ceremony took place at the office of the Sailing Ship Insurance and Indemnity Association, Limited, under the management of Mr Robert R. Douglas, 35A, Castle-street, in this city, yesterday. Mr R. H. Dixon has been identified with these associations as a director for the past 9 or 10 years, and on the occasion of his approaching marriage his co-directors decided to mark their appreciation of his services by a substantial manner. A handsome silver tray was specially manufactured for presentation to Mr Dixon by Messrs R. Jones and Sons, of 2, Castle-street, in this city. The tray bears the following inscription:—"Presented to Robert H. Dixon, Esq., by the co-directors and manager of the Liverpool Sailing Ship Insurance and Indemnity Association, Limited, on the occasion of his marriage, 24th April, 1889, in token of their goodwill and esteem toward a valued and trusty colleague."—Directors John Baker, A. Bilbrough, Alex. Cassel, W. J. Chambers, R. B. Crowe, John Starr DeWolf, Charles G. Dunn, H. W. French, Wm. Griffiths, John Heron, G. R. Leyland, Thomas D. Robertson, Palgrave Simpson, W. M. Stimpson, James Sutherland, W. Thomas; manager, Robert R. Douglas. Yesterday the tray, which has been on view for some days past, in the window of Messrs Jones and Son's establishment, was formally presented to Mr Dixon. Mr Heron presided, and in handing the tray to Mr Dixon gave expression, in well chosen words to the good wishes of all present. He stated that he had had business relations with Mr Dixon extending over many years, and he knew no one of whom he could more sincerely say that all the happiness they wished him he deserved. Mr Alex. Chisels then proposed the toast of Mr Dixon's health, which was drunk with enthusiasm; and Mr Dixon having suitably responded and acknowledged the gift the proceedings terminated.

[The above we clip from a late number of the Liverpool Journal of Commerce. The Mr Dixon named is the elder brother of our Mr Frank A. Dixon and the Mr John Starr DeWolf is the son of the late Dr William H. DeWolf, of this place.—Ed.]

CATARRH CATARRHAL DEAFNESS HAY FEVER.

A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and catarrhal tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N. B.—For catarrhal discharges peculiar to females (whites) this remedy is a specific. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. Dixon & Son, 35 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.

Sufferers from catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

"Pears to me," said old Uncle Pete as he leaned his hoc against the oorn crib, and abstracted a pebble from his shoe, "pears to me lik dar was some kin' o' misdecomposishun in all dis talk 'bout babies cuttin' teef. De way I've come to look at it, hits de teef cuttin' the baby. Leas'wise dat's de way hit looks in de case of cu'ld children."

"What are you doing, Patrick?" "Wakin' up your husband, ma'am."

"But why?" "Because it's in o'clock, ma'am, when I was to give him the drops to make him shleep."

As long as a man can sign the property of his creditors over to his wife, marriage is not wholly a failure.

A Bolted Door

May keep out tramps and burglars, but not Asthma, Bronchitis, Colds, Coughs, and Croup. The best protection against these unwelcome intruders is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. With a bottle of this far-famed preparation at hand, Throat and Lung Troubles may be checked and serious Disease averted.

Thomas G. Edwards, M. D., Blanco, Texas, certifies: "Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there are none within the range of my experience and observation so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."

John Meyer, Florence, W. Va., says: "I have used all your medicines, and keep them constantly in my house. I think Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life some years ago."

D. M. Bryant, M. D., Chicopee Falls, Mass., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has proved remarkably good in croup, ordinary colds, and whooping cough; and is invaluable as a family medicine."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price 50¢; six bottles, $2.50.

Young wife—Horror! See here, sir, your dog has run off with a whole sponge cake I left outside to cool. Tramp—Don't worry, mum. That dog's tougher'n he looks. He kin eat anything.

A well known English actress is angry because a manufacturer of false teeth has placarded his town with pictures representing her "before and after" taking a set of his famous teeth. The "before" portrait is the one which makes her angry.

"Miss Brown would be a charming girl," I heard a young man say.

"If she had a good complexion, and those blots would go away."

But hey spoil her looks completely."

If Miss Brown would only take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, what a happy change 'twould make.

It would drive out all the humors from her blood and make it pure, and the blemishes complained of disappear, be very sure.

This medicine is the great purifier of the blood, and disfiguring eruptions and blotches will soon vanish when it is used.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., MAY 10, 1889.

Unnecessary Delay.

At the recent meeting of the Municipal Council a petition was presented from the rate-payers of Wolfville asking that a committee be appointed to examine into the propriety of opening a new road, continuing College Avenue across to Chapel St. Such a road is greatly needed and is a matter of considerable importance. What was asked was quite in line with all previous action with regard to the opening of new roads and it was expected that the Council would extend the same courtesy to the rate-payers of Wolfville as is shown to petitioners in other parts of the county. This, however, was not done. Instead the petition was handed over to the committee on roads and bridges for their approval before such a committee as the law requires could be appointed. This action is altogether unjustifiable and quite irregular, and will only result in delaying a necessary work for another year. In any case it takes long enough in all conscience to get anything done by the Council and when a matter of importance is unnecessarily delayed it is time to complain.

Something Wrong.

It seems hardly fair that after one person has gone to expense to have his premises improved and trees planted out, &c., that another man's cattle should be allowed to break down and despoil. A case in point is the work that was done on Chapel St. last summer. Messrs Chambers, Pick and Woodworth have been to large expense to improve the appearance of their respective properties and the improvement was most marked. We notice now that a large quantity of the terracing has been knocked down and the sidewalk generally greatly disfigured by cattle which are every day on the streets in this vicinity. The regulations of the Council do not seem to be effectual in prohibiting the nuisance as every spring they are allowed to be on the streets. We would like to see some move made to effectually keep cattle off the streets so that when a person does make an improvement in the appearance of our town it may remain lasting. It is rather discouraging, to say the least, to spend money in improvements which are so soon destroyed.

A Word to the Commissioners.

The act to incorporate the water district of Wolfville having been accepted by a large majority of the electors and the commissioners confirmed in their appointment it is but reasonable to expect that a move will soon be made to find out where water can be procured and an estimate made of its probable cost. With the experience of towns similarly situated which have lately been supplied with water facilities our commissioners should be able to avoid the difficulties which some of these towns have experienced. The luxury of an abundant supply of water must of necessity cost a considerable sum of money under the most favorable and economic conditions. We therefore hope that those having the matter in hand will move with due caution and have their plans fully matured before entering upon the work so that the expense may be reduced to a minimum. We have already expressed our opinion as to where water could be found within a short distance of the town, and we are now informed that the commissioners have been assured by competent engineers that the springs to the south on the high land known as the ridge, will supply all the water necessary for the purposes of the town for years—and at a nominal cost.

A Big Blaze in Kingston.

The residence of Mr Talford Messenger, of Tremont, together with three barns was consumed by fire last Sunday morning. All the residents of the house except the hired man and girl, were at church when the fire broke out. After the fire was discovered the man was unable to do anything, as the high wind soon swept all of the buildings in a blaze, and before help could arrive everything was totally destroyed, except a little parlor furniture. All the farming utensils, furniture and quite an amount of money were burned up, together with a valuable horse, purchased only a week before. The amount of the loss to Mr Messenger is supposed to be about $3500, and only $1,000 insurance on the house. There were some others visiting the place who also lost heavily by the fire. It is supposed to have originated from a spark from a pipe.

Ladies be sure and ask your druggists and grocers for the Excelsior Dyes they are only 8 cents a package, and will dye brighter and dye more goods than any dyes sold.

Mr Harris' New Store.

Last week we referred briefly to the fact that Mr O. D. Harris was removing his stock to the three story building recently erected by him on Main St. The store, which occupies the entire first flat, is 60 feet long by 30 feet wide, with ceiling 13 feet high, and is one of the finest if not the finest used as a dry goods store in the Annapolis Valley. The front may be said to be of solid glass the windows reaching from the floor to the ceiling. The floor is of yellow birch and the walls &c. are painted in imitation of Ohio stone with vermilion trimmings. The store is fitted through with solid black ash counters, from the establishment of F. A. Clark & Son, Berwick, and is lighted at night with lamps hung from handsome chandeliers.

Mr H. intends to keep his stock fully up to the requirements of his rapidly increasing trade, and those in want of general dry goods, carpets, gents furnishing goods &c., would do well to give him a call.

The second story is being fitted up as a dwelling and contains ten light and airy rooms with ceilings ten feet high, in addition to a commodious hall running the entire length of the flat, the entrance to which is by an outside stairway on the west side of the building.

The third flat is being fitted up as a public hall and is reached by a broad staircase leading from the south end of the ground floor. There are two ante-rooms, one of which will be connected with the main hall by folding doors, which, in case of need, may be thrown open, thus affording extra audience room. We will again refer to this part of the building when it is completed. Under the building there is a frost proof cellar, forty-five by thirty feet, and the whole is surmounted by a French roof.

The entire work has been done by our local mechanics, the master builder being Mr Fred Woodworth, assisted by Mr Thos. Foster. The mason and plastering work was done by Messrs Burton and Frank Angus, and the painting by Mr James Burbridge.

The entire building is certainly a credit to the place, and we congratulate the proprietor on its handsome appearance, and our town on having business men who are able and willing to expend large sums in erecting such handsome structures. We wish our townsman a large measure of success and the share of patronage his enterprise so richly deserves.

"Book of Wonders."

(L. L. DAVISON.)

NO. 2.

"Book of Wonders." Let us open the book and read the pages. What is this—the first article? "Dawn." An appropriate title it is for the initial article. Let us read it over.

"DAWN."

Again the darkest hour; again the stars slowly dissolve; again the darkness silently steals away, borne on the wings of the new day. So still, so calm, so tranquil! The air so clear and fresh, free of dust and smoke, and sweet and pure. A bird twitter above your head; you look up, and see him on the wing—an early riser seeking material to build a nest wherein to raise his brood. Floating upon the still air, borne on the gentle morning zephyr, from some distant fold come the music-tinkling tones of the belled herd, as driven up from their night's abiding-place to be milked. The dew is on the meadow grass, and on the flowers and plants in the garden, and the delicate spider-webs by the roadside are covered with it. Soon the long white cloud in the east gradually lowers, and slowly, silently, a ray of golden light gleams from the horizon, and almost before one knows it the sun is up, shining with all its heat and brightness upon the fair, still earth. The delicate folds of the flowers, which last night were wrapped so protectively around the leafy pistils and stigmas, are now being unrolled by his heat, and the dew on the spider-web and meadow is rising to the clouds. Tiny curls of smoke begin to rise from the chimneys around and another day is commenced—a day of strife and labor—a day of tears and sorrows to some, a day of joy and blessings to others. How many there are who may look on this same quiet picture—look, perhaps, for the last time on home and friends—on meadow and on forest, on familiar nook and dell, wherein are associated so many happy reminiscences of youthful days; and from the old home whose homely walls have sheltered them from April flood and December storm, where trouble was unknown and joys were many, they take their departure out into the great world. And what may be in store for them? Joy—sorrows; strife—victory; tears—blessings; rejoicings—death. The scene of the morning of their departure from friends and fireside will never be forgotten, and its chastity, purity, serenity, may be a lesson which may keep them from walking in the paths of sin and strife—a lesson which, may we hope, will guide them through an unlighted world to one of joy and gladness, and where there is no night but all morning. And as the day grows on and the sun rises toward its zenith, we also grow from youth to manhood, and the quickly descending sun will soon set behind the distant hills of the west, when we, too, must lay down the scythe and the sickle and give our place to others. May our decline leave behind a brilliant sky, and as the setting sun is only outvalued in splendor by its rising, let death come on unshielded against, for we know of the glorious Dawn to come.

Further on is "Daisies," a pretty little poem, and his first effort in poetry. Both this and "Dawn" appeared in previous numbers of the ACADIAN, but the "Book of Wonders" would not be itself with these omitted at its commencement.

"DAISES."

Down in the meadows and up on the mountains Alike the daisies I see— The prettiest, sweetest, dearest flowers In all the world to me: Their little white petals sparkling— Sparkling so beautifully. Out in the pasture and here in the garden I see them where'er I go— Beauty and innocence commingled And white as December's snow. To you it maketh small difference If in garden or roadside you blow. BEN ZEEZE.

Arboriculture in the Schools.

Inspector Roscoe has handed us a copy of the Journal of Education and requested us to republish from it the following article. We have great pleasure in doing so:

ARBOR DAY.—To encourage the proper arboriculture of school grounds, and thereby a cultivation of a taste for the beautiful in nature on the part of the pupils, the Council of Public Instruction has ordered the publication of the following Regulation:—

"On such one of the first thirty teaching days of the summer term, as according to season, weather, or other circumstances may be deemed most suitable, Trustees are authorized to have substituted for the regular school exercises of pupils, the planting by the latter of trees, shrubs and flowers on the grounds surrounding the school house. The day devoted to this purpose shall be known and entered in the Register as 'Arbor Day,' and when duly observed full credit will be given for it in the apportionment of public funds, on the basis of the actual attendance of pupils as ascertained by roll call at the beginning of the exercises, or other convenient time during their progress. Additional value and interest should be imparted by mingling with the practical duties of the occasion short addresses from the teacher and other competent persons on the aesthetic and economic importance of arboriculture. During their summer visitation, Inspectors shall take note of all schools in connection with which 'Arbor Day' has been observed."

In selecting trees, it is well to avoid those that bear flowers or edible fruits, as such in the flowering and fruiting season are apt to meet with injury from ignorant or mischievous passers-by, and to offer temptation to the pupils. But, terminals and Horse Chestnuts are not to be recommended as shade trees. The Balsam Fir is objectionable from the liability of its balsam to stain the hands and clothing. Deciduous or broad-leaved trees are easily grown, their fibrous roots rendering transplanting a comparatively simple operation. If care is taken the young saplings of the elm, maple and ash, as found in the under growth of the forest, can be transplanted without difficulty.

No school grounds should be without a suitable number and variety of the standard deciduous trees. However, during the winter season they are bare and unattractive, and affording little or no shelter. On the other hand, evergreens, such as Spruces, Pines, Hemlocks and Cedars, retain their foliage and provide a shelter as useful in winter as it is grateful in summer. Trees should always be planted according to a definite plan, being arranged either in curves or straight lines, according to circumstances, and with an obvious relation to the building and fences. They should never be placed so near the school house as to interfere with the free play of light and air.

Our native trees grow so freely in the woods that we are apt to suppose that they are merely to be taken up by the roots and transplanted, to start at once into a vigorous growth as before. This is a mistake. Great care should be taken in digging up the trees to preserve the fibrous roots; long runners should be cut across with a sharp knife, and not torn. All trees thrive best in well-drained soil, varying from sandy loam to clay. A clay loam suits all descriptions. The holes for the trees should always be made before the trees are brought out to the grounds. They should be too large rather than too small. In filling in, the better soil from near the surface should be returned first, so as to be nearer the roots, but where the soil is at all sterile, and generally there should be put below and around the roots, some well-rotted compost, mixed with sand and sandy loam, in order to promote the growth of the rootlets. In setting the tree it should be placed a little deeper than it stood before, and the roots should be so spread out that none are doubled. When finally planted the tree should be tied to a stout stake in such a way as to prevent chafing of the bark. Some mulch or stable litter should then be thrown around the stem to protect the roots from drought. Stirring the ground is preferred by some cultivators to mulching. In transplanting evergreens, the roots should not be exposed to air or light—especially to the heat of the sun—more than can be helped.

Several varieties of shrubs planted together in clumps produce a very pleasing effect, while the care of judiciously arranged flower beds, will be to the children an important means of education.

Students.

You can learn to write well and rapidly from the start. Indeed if you like you can follow a speaker quite easily. Probably you will find that a help in school as well as in business. How can I teach by mail? Well, it is not how much you write but the way. Many men write every day for several years yet do not become good writers. There are a great many habits that prevent success; they can be pointed by mail just as well as personally. Actually three months is enough. The charge is $4. The work is not much if the student is bright. S. G. SNELL, Windsor, N. S.

Cornwallis Items.

A very fine house is being erected in Church St. by Mr Lewis Donaldson for himself. His brother has charge of the house, and it is reported that he soon intends to join the "great majority."

The Cornwallis Valley Railroad is still progressing. Quite a large number of men have been engaged in the construction. Now that the spring work is pressing a great many farmers all along the line, who have been working on the road, will have to quit work and look after their farms.

We notice that some improvements are soon to be made in the way of new buildings in Canard. Mr Stanley Eaton has the timber framed for enlarging his barn, and Dr Woodworth has the foundation laid for a new house on the farm recently purchased by him.

A piece of dyke of only two acres and a half, situated on the east side of the Grand Dyke bridge was recently sold to Mr Eaton Dickey, of Saxon St., for the sum of $1000. This is undoubtedly the best piece of dyke for grass and after feed that can be found along the Canard river. Mr Leander Eaton was the purchaser.

The Baptist church of Canard was opened again for services on Sunday May 5th. The inside of the church has been thoroughly cleaned, painted and ornamented so as to present a very pleasing appearance, and it certainly is much more attractive to the eye than formerly. A large congregation was present at the morning service, and listened to a fine discourse by the pastor. Some of the details of the church added much to the occasion by ornamenting the pulpit with several beautiful bouquets of flowers.

A very sad event has brought to our mind the saying of Shakespeare: "When sorrows come they come not single spies but in battalions." Not many weeks ago Mr Leander Rand, M. P., received word that his son Stephen, a young and promising lawyer of St. John, was dead. The boy had been on a visit to his home and had been taken ill. A telegram was received by the relatives on Saturday last saying that Mrs Leander Rand had died of typhoid in St. John, where she and Mr Rand had gone for a visit. The news of her sudden death has cast a deep gloom over the whole community and Mr Rand and his family receive much sympathy in their bereavement.

The remains were brought home on Monday and buried on Tuesday afternoon.

Special Announcement.

We have made arrangements with Dr B. J. Kendall Co., publishers of "A Treatise on the Horse and his Diseases," which will enable all our subscribers to obtain a copy of that valuable work free by sending their address (enclosing a two-cent stamp for mailing same) to Dr B. J. Kendall Co., ENGLEBROOK FALLS, VT. This book is now recognized as a standard authority upon all diseases of the horse, as its phenomenal sale attests, over four million copies having been sold in the past ten years, a sale never before reached by any publication in the same period of time. We feel confident that our patrons will appreciate the work, and be glad to avail themselves of this opportunity of obtaining a valuable book.

It is necessary that you mention this paper in sending for the "Treatise." This offer will remain open for only a short time.

THE BUTTERFLY.—We were shown on Monday last by Mr Eardly Handall, of this place, a handsome specimen of the Emperor Moth, which measured across the wings 5 inches. Mr Handall found the cocoon in March hanging to a plant-tree and took it into the house where it hatched out some three weeks earlier than it would have otherwise done. It is a handsome fellow and belongs to a species not often seen here.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editors of the ACADIAN:

MR EDITOR.—In reply to "Fair Play" in your issue of the 3rd, the certain mill owner referred to feels it to be his duty to give some facts in reference to saw-dust, milling, &c. First, I will call attention to the material who dares to falsify the name of "Fair Play" by slandering and making false statements and as would be expected don't care to sign his own name. I ask then who is this "Fair Play"? Is he one of our "industrious" men of the Caspeau Valley, who values the fish as an inherited yearly blessing with all the other beauties of the valley, which, by the way, is one of the prettiest spots in Nova Scotia, with its fruitful, industrious people? I say it can't be one of these people, they have too much brains. Then is he one of our leading men in any industry? No! But if he can be induced to come out from his hiding place and give his own name I will then ask the public his own judgment, and I will guarantee he is a man whose absence from the country would not be to his country's hurt, and is very likely getting his living out of the public without giving fair return. And yet such a man dares to slander our fishery officers who have seen years of well performed duty, the best evidence of which is the steady increase of fish for the past few years in our river. But with it all I must ask one favor from "Fair Play." Please don't turn all the officers out; do leave Charley, at Ottawa, because from his directions fish have increased in our river. For up to the present date from reliable information gained, the boats in the lower part of the river have taken upwards of 300,000 fish already this season; besides the enormous number taken in nets above the tide. And still the river is apparently alive with them passing up through the sawdust and all to the spawning ground above—the fish ladders doing their work nobly. And in reference to wheeling sawdust. None but such an "Fair Play," who must be an egotist, as would suppose that a water power saw-mill cutting the quantity of mill cuts could keep all the sawdust out of the river. He appears anxious to see our pay fines, and says that wheelbarrows are kept to deceive the officers, which is utterly false. The wheelbarrows are being run just as I promised the officers. "Fair Play" would probably say, Stop the mill if sawdust can't be kept out. No doubt he would like to see it stopped. I wonder if he could be made to understand that stopping the mill would stop the means of getting all honest living by a large number of men. And could he be made to understand that there is paid out at the present time $1,500 per month or about $3,000 per year, all in this country. Besides this at the present state of freight for contract saw-mills it will give $25 on the shipping tonnage and lumber to fourth America. If he can't be made to understand stop let him come up and wheel sawdust and mind his own business, and make an honest living.

1889. THE 1889.

Yarmouth Steamship Co. (LIMITED.)

The shortest and best route between Nova Scotia and the United States. The Quickest Time—Only 17 Hours—Between Yarmouth and Boston.

The fast steel steamer "YARMOUTH" will leave Yarmouth for Boston every Wednesday & Saturday evenings, after arrival of the train of the Western Counties Railway.

Returning, will leave Lewis' Wharf, Boston, at 10 a. m., every TUESDAY and FRIDAY, connecting at Yarmouth with train for Halifax and intermediate stations.

The "YARMOUTH" carries a regular mail to and from Boston and is the fastest steamer plying between Nova Scotia and the United States, fitted with triple expansion engines, electric lights, bilge keels, &c.

S. S. ALYPIA leaves Pickford & Black's wharf, Halifax, every THURSDAY at 8 a. m., for Yarmouth and the South Shore Ports.

For all other information apply to D. Mumford, station master at Wolfville, or to W. A. CHASE, L. E. BAKER, Secy-Treas. Manager, Yarmouth, April, 1889.

From such Unwelcome Visitors as Neuralgia, Mole Throat, or Diphtheria.

The surest protection and relief is SIMSON'S LINIMENT!

Mr Edwin McKinnon, Hampton, P. E. I., says: "I have never found anything so beneficial for Neuralgia as Simson's Liniment."

Mr Robert Reid, of Frogue, P. E. I., says: "Nothing relieves Neuralgia so readily as Simson's Liniment. I have tested it thoroughly and am assured of its merits."

Mrs Elizabeth Paquette, of St. Thomas, Quebec, says: "After suffering excruciating agony with Neuralgia for two sleepless nights, I found relief by inhaling and bathing the affected parts with Simson's Liniment. Fifteen minutes after using it every vestige of the pain disappeared. There never was anything so efficient."

Simson's Liniment is just the remedy every one has been looking for. The largest bottle in the market for 25 cents. One trial will assure you of its reliability. Manufactured by Brown Brothers & Co., Druggists, Halifax, N. S.

The Detroit Free Press

The Free Press is without question the Greatest Literary and Miscellaneous paper now before the American people. It is not a new aspirant for public favor, established over fifty years ago, it has stood the test of time, and is today stronger, better and more popular than ever—120,000 subscribers affirm its excellent excellence. The funny sketches and sayings of the Free Press are ever-presently quoted and laughed at, while respect to literary excellence it will conquerably with the expensive magazines, "M. Quad," "Lark," "Shag," "Established, Rose Hartwick Thorpe, Established, Hamilton Jay, Jessie York, Cest, Brown Howard, H. C. Dodge, and a number of other favorite writers, contribute regularly to its columns. Recognizing the growing demand for first-class fiction,

The Free Press has offered

$3,000.00 IN CASH prizes for the three best Serial Stories of 60,000 words each. A number of the best writers have announced their intention to compete.

In addition to the many other special features it is the intention to publish sections of

Three Serial Stories Each Week, written expressly for The Free Press by the best American and English authors.

It will be seen, therefore, that by subscribing for THE ACADIAN and the Free Press, the entire family can be supplied with all the News and with the best of current Literature for a year, at a cost of Less Than Three Cents A Week.

The Free Press is a large eight-page seven-column paper, and the regular issue is One Dollar per year. Remember that for $1.50 you can have The Free Press

Sample copies can be seen at this office.

We hope that our friends will show their appreciation of our efforts in their
