Sweet Eva!

CHAPTER XXXIX.

A hundred times he had been tempted to send for Philip. He hated lending himself even to an apparent share in this farce. He felt that he could strike Peter whenever he met the boy's condemning eyes and heard the chilliness in his voice.

He knew what Peter thought—he knew what Kitty thought, and he knew that he had been a fool to allow Eva to do this thing. It was madness, sheer madness, so his common sense would tell him when he was away from her. Every night he swore that he would go to the flat no more, and every morning his determination weakened and he went as usual.

One night when he and Eva were having dinner at a restaurant a man at the next table looked across at them and nodded to Calligan.

"Who is he?" Eva asked. Her head was splitting. She was feeling worn out. Only that night as she dressed to come out she had realized how white and haggard she was looking.

For the first time in her life she had rounded her cheeks. She felt that she could not bear anyone to see that she looked as wan and unhappy as she knew she did.

Peter's sharp eyes had been quick to see the make-up. He accused her angrily. "Eva—you've been rouging!" She laughed defiantly. "Well, what if I have? Kitty does."

Peter had said no more, but somehow it had seemed to matter less at that moment what Kitty did than what his sister did.

The man who had nodded to Calligan was looking hard at Eva as she asked her question, and she repeated it: "Tell me who he is?" "It's a man named Faulkner," Calligan said reluctantly. "He is a friend of Philip's."

"Faulkner!" She echoed the name breathlessly. "That's the man who is sending him to Rhodesia. . . ." Her eyes blazed with excitement. "Bring him over here—I should like to know him. Please bring him over here!" Calligan obeyed reluctantly. He knew what she wanted with Faulkner, and his heart ached for her.

"I know your husband very well," Faulkner said as he was introduced. He was a handsome, middle-aged man with kind eyes; "but I don't think I have ever had the pleasure of meeting you since your wedding. Do you remember me?"

Eva shook her head. "I have heard Philip speak of you, of course. He has told me all about Rhodesia. I hope it is satisfactorily settled."

"I am glad to say it is," Faulkner was watching her interestedly. He thought she was a very charming-looking woman. He was trying to remember who had told him the Winterdicks were unhappily married.

"I saw Philip this morning," he went on; "but, of course, you know, he said he had been staying down in the country. He ran up to settle a few business matters with me."

will be there, but I shall be delighted to see you."

It was only when Faulkner had gone that she turned to Calligan with sudden weakness.

"Oh, do you think we might go home?"

"We will go at once."

He found a taxicab and put her into it.

"Would you rather go alone?" he asked. He was dreading being left with her, but Eva insisted.

"Come with me—of course! Why ever not?"

There was a little excited note in her voice. She talked away the whole time, covering Calligan's silence. She never spoke of her husband, and it was only just as they were nearing the flat that Calligan said desperately:

"What are we going to do? What can we do?"

She wittily misunderstood him. "What are we going to do? Why, go home and have a smoke and some coffee, of course! What else can we do?"

He took her hand in a hard grip. "Don't play with me, Eva. Don't pretend that you don't understand . . ."

somehow I can't stand it to-night. You know what I mean, Philip is going away in a fortnight, and if you expect me to stand by and let him go without an effort to prevent it I tell you that I can't. I tell you that it's a physical impossibility.

She looked away from him out into the dark street; then she said, in a voice so hard and strange that he hardly recognized it.

"Let him go. Why should we try to prevent him if he wants to go?"

"It's your whole life's happiness. You can't throw it away for what may be just a misunderstanding. Philip's a good fellow. I've known him longer than you have, and I beg of you—for your own sake . . ."

She dragged her hand away. "It's no good. I've done everything I can. I can't be hurt, and humiliated any more. Oh, it's all very fine for you to talk! You don't know what it's all been. You heard what Mr. Faulkner said—that Philip is in town. He hasn't troubled to come and see me—he won't trouble. . . . It's finished and done with, and perhaps when he has really gone I shall be able to begin to forget him." She drew a long breath. "I mean to try—I must try."

"Let me speak to him. We've been friends for years. Let me say something to try and put matters right—I implore you!"

She turned her eyes to his pleading face.

"You would only add to my humiliation. No, no—there's no chance that it is just a misunderstanding. . . . We've just got to let things go. We can't stop them—it's too late."

"Philip may have heard that we have been seen about together a great deal; he may be jealous."

She laughed at that.

"That was my hope—but it's dead now—quite dead! I don't believe it ever really existed!"

Calligan leaned his head in his hands.

"There must be some explanation," he insisted doggedly. "It's impossible that things can be allowed to end like this—you've only been married such a little while. I—I do anything in the world to see you happy."

"I know you would," her voice softened. She slipped her hand into his with a little confiding gesture.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Ready and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup. Instead of sugar syrup, either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.00. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract. Known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

I'm So Tired

Fatigue is the result of poisons in the blood. So when the kidneys fail to purify the blood one of the first indications is unusual and persistent tired feelings and pains in the back.

Neglected kidney troubles lead to years of suffering from rheumatism or develop into such fatal ailments as Bright's disease.

The kidney action is promptly corrected by use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills—the best known regulator of kidneys, liver and bowels.

Mrs. John Ireland, R.R. No. 2, King, Ont., writes:

"I was a great sufferer from severe headaches and bilious spells. I tried a number of remedies without obtaining any benefit until I was advised to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These completely relieved me and made me feel like a new person. I am very grateful to Dr. Chase's medicines for what they have done for me, and you may see my letter for the 'New Star' of others."

Arthur Balfour.

PROVED TO BE GREATEST DIPLOMAT AT WASHINGTON CONFERENCE.

Though it became Mr. Balfour's duty to use words respecting France that might in other circumstances have brought about a rupture of friendly relations, his record is the shield to all suggestions that he is either anti-French or pro-German. The fact that his utterances concerning the French submarine demands have been submitted without exception by the American press shows that what he said everybody believes. Throughout his long career he has been prominent among British statesmen of his generation in admiration for France and in the understanding of her development in art, science, literature and politics. If Balfour was steeped in French literature, it was due to him and to King Edward that the Entente Cordiale was brought about which reversed the foreign policy of one hundred years so far as Britain was concerned and ended her period of splendid isolation.

Again at the beginning of the year Balfour stood out for France and Belgium and was, perhaps, the first great leader to declare for intervention. Some of the Liberal Ministers were in favor of remaining aloof. The chief organ of Liberalism at that time, the London News, controlled by the Cadbury cocoa people, told England that her interest lay in remaining neutral and making a fortune out of the struggle. Morley and Burns, leading Liberals, retired from public life when war was declared. It was Balfour who led in bringing the Unionists into the support of Asquith, although it is not to be suggested that they would not have declared for war in any event.

In the war, Balfour was a tower of strength, accepting one portfolio after another and distinguishing himself in them all, and we may be sure that there was no member of the Cabinet to whose views greater respect was paid than to those of this venerable bachelor, who is the only survivor of the Congress of Berlin. In 1917 he visited the United States, and no Englishman who ever went there made a stronger impression. (Mr. Balfour is not an Englishman, but a Scot, but we do not desire to bring him into national disputes.) He is one of those who is at home in all circles. A room full of kings or a room full of armies would find him the same courteous gentleman, and we recall that an American newspaper on that occasion in comparing him with Von Bernstorff made the remark that Balfour had the inestimable advantage over the other in the fact that he was a gentleman.

Arthur Balfour has been the most interesting and eminent figure in Washington, as all the correspondents bear witness. Though he is a veteran of the old, bad diplomacy which everybody nowadays is deploring and condemning, and the dean of the assembly of diplomats, nobody there so heartily applauded the new diplomacy which Harding and Hughes are credited with tabaring to. His utterance concerning France shows this same gentleman can speak in the plainest words when the occasion demands. One recalls that for all his apparently hesitating utterances and diffidence, he had the name of "Bloody Balfour" when he was Chief Secretary for Ireland. We do not know if he abhors the title, and we have an idea that Irishmen respect him none the less. It might have been a good thing for everyone concerned if he had always been Secretary for Ireland.

How many-sided the man it may be inferred from the fact, attested by Frederick C. Green, C.B.E., that he is one of the most talented of amateur pianists. At Wittinghams, his Scottish home, the c. c. rooms are equipped with a couple of grand pianos and he is never so happy as when he can find more congenial and equally gifted player to play down-ble duties with him. He is also the author of several articles, and even a book on Handel, of whose works he has an unrivalled collection. Though well into his seventies, he plays not only golf, but tennis. It surely is difficult to imagine that this man, whom we might class with Frederic Harrison as the last of the great Victorians, is a godson of the D'ites of Wellington and as keen in the service of the country to-day as was the victor of Waterloo a hundred years ago.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you get an imitation fig syrup.

Borrowers Rush Faster Than Ever.

MONTREAL FINANCIER ASKING $500,000 IN LONDON—MONEY CHEAPER.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(Special cable to Montreal Star)—The rush of new financial issues is greater than ever. Borrowers are tumbling over one another, especially in view of the rise in price and therefore the lessened competition of British Government stocks which, when taxes are deducted, now yield as low as sixty-seven shillings net.

A sensation was caused by the issue of the City of Sydney, Australia, which secured its million sterling within an hour of the opening of the lists. The new Seine, French issue, yielding one hundred and forty-nine shillings and five pence, is now at one-half premium.

Underwriters are insuring good class issues with ease, but while 5 per cent. has been the standard for municipal loans, the Swansea Corporation is offering only 5 1/2 per cent. at 98 for its new $800,000 issue, redeemable 1935-45. This is taken to be an indication of the market tendency.

Five new prospectuses asking for over $2,500,000 appear in to-day's paper. One is for $1,000,000 cumulative participating preference 10 per cent. of $1 each, by the British International Film Corporation, of which James Brown Mackay, Montreal, is chairman and managing director. The new company acquires extensive plants in London and New York, and also controls half of the issued shares of Windsor Film Service, of Montreal. Two hundred and fifty ordinary shares of Windsor Service have been bought for $1,000 each.

3837. There are no boucharies to smart versions of this popular style. In this instance the model stimulates attractive redingote lines. The effect is becoming to slender as well as mature figures. Tulle and satin could be here combined, or velvet and satin. Velvet with braiding would be nice, or broad cloth, with bands of kimmer.

The pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. The width at the foot is about 2 yards. To make the dress for a 38 inch bust measure, will require 4 1/2 yards of 40 inch material.

TARTAR.

"Tartar" is a lime-like substance that forms on the teeth. It is composed of saliva, phosphate of lime and becomes attached to the teeth by the salivary duct. It is porous and spongy and holds particles of food which decompose and taint the breath with an offensive odor. This once formed increases, always in the direction of the gum, first causing them, then causing them to pull away and recede from the teeth, and finally by absorption of the long and cause good, round teeth to drop for want of support.

Anglo-Irish Relations Embarrassed.

Politicians do Not Throw Light on Subject—Freeman's Journal Expresses Great Relief—Eight Thousand Pounds for Princess Mary Gift Fund—Ulster Special Constables Attacked.

IRISH UNCERTAINTY.

LONDON, Feb. 24. The embarrassment and uncertainty into which the Ard Fheis has thrown the Free State in connection with the Free State Parliamentary elections has thrown a gloom over the relations between England and Ireland as stressed by the morning papers. Political writers do not seem to shed any light on the situation, agreeing with the Government spokesmen that not enough was known concerning the action of the Sinn Fein Convention to form a judgment upon it. Writers expect the Government's suspension of the consideration of the Anglo-Irish Treaty bill in the Imperial Parliament until further knowledge of the subject is gained.

GREAT RELIEF, SAYS IRISH PAPER.

DUBLIN, Feb. 24. There was abundant evidence yesterday that the three months' pact proposed by Ard Fheis for the purpose of carrying unity in the ranks of the Sinn Fein Organization has brought relief to the great body of the Free State. The political correspondent of the Freeman's Journal suggests that the agreement was naturally to be heard, and the general disposition was to consider them as futile and mischievous.

FORWARD, SAYS CROKER.

DUBLIN, Feb. 24. Richard Croker, former Tammany boss who has just recovered from a serious illness, declared in an interview in the Freeman's Journal that he knew ninety-eight per cent. of the people of the United States were in favour of the Irish Treaty. He himself believed that Ireland had gained practically everything fought for in the past seven hundred years. He added, "I would say that Irish men and Irish women should cease looking back and look to the future."

PREMIERS TO MEET.

BOULOGNE, Feb. 24. Premier Poincare and Premier Lloyd George will meet here tomorrow afternoon to discuss various questions bearing on the coming International Economic Conference at Genoa.

CANADA'S POPULATION.

OTTAWA, Feb. 24. Revised Census figures issued tonight give Canada's population as 8,769,459, compared with 7,206,642 in 1911. To-night's figures modify the totals of the three Maritime Provinces and Ontario. Nova Scotia's population in 1921 was 523,327, compared with 492,338 in 1911; New Brunswick's 387,839, compared with 351,839; P.E.I. 238,615, compared with 232,728; and Ontario 2,229,954, compared with 2,523,274.

THE PRINCESS MARY GIFT.

LONDON, Feb. 24. Over £8,000 has been received by organizers of the wedding gift of Princess Mary from various parts of the Empire. Princess Mary will be asked to accept a rope of pearls.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

LONDON, Feb. 24. Reports circulated both in this country and in the United States that the Queen Mother Alexandra was seriously ill, are untrue. It was declared at Marlborough House, her residence, this morning. On the contrary she is enjoying good health.

SCANDAL IN HIGH LIFE.

LONDON, Feb. 24. In the Divorce Court to-day the Earl of Cathcart was granted a decree for the dissolution of his marriage with Lady Cathcart upon proof being given of her indiscretions with the Earl of Craven. Lady Cathcart, who is regarded as one of the most beautiful women in England, is about thirty, the Earl of Cathcart fifty-nine, and Lord Craven, who is married, twenty-four.

HERE ALSO.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24. The need of militant leadership in the work of the temperance forces throughout the province was strongly emphasized at the 42nd annual convention of the Quebec branch of the Dominion Alliance to-day. The first step in the battle for complete prohibition was to get the traffic under Government control and then kill it altogether, said one speaker who thought the situation in Quebec Province was developing in the right direction. Mrs. James Geggie, Quebec's Province President of the W.C.T.U., said the Government believed temperance and woman suffrage were allied.

CONSTABLES BOMBED.

BELFAST, Feb. 24. A party of Ulster Constables of the B special class were bombed last night near Lurgan, County Armagh. It was learned to-day. Three were wounded. Two arrests were made in connection with the affair.

THE FEEBLE-MINDED.

EDMONTON, Feb. 24. The Federal Government is to be asked to take steps to control the increase of the feeble minded and degenerate by resorting to scientific means to prevent the feeble minded from reproducing their kind, in a resolution adopted by the local Council of Women here to-day.

ALLOWED TO EXPORT BEEF.

OTTAWA, Feb. 24. Owing to the shortage of food the slaughter of a few hundred cattle in the Maritime Provinces will be allowed for export to St. Pierre and Newfoundland without the special Federal inspection, which made it impossible to supply rush orders to those markets, as there are no Government slaughter houses with officials in charge in the Maritimes.

WHEN THE PAPER'S GONE TO PRESS.

I've sat at banquet tables, and I've seen the silver shine, and I've had all sorts of dinners since my dining-days began; But there's one glad table somewhere that I'd like to see with when the long day's work is o'er. One meal I'd like to rush to after all the rooming and stress— That good old midnight supper when the paper's gone to press.

We held them in the old days in a hole down in the wall. And many a night the table had no linen on at all. And the food was far from dainty, but the gang which gathered round Was the finest bunch of fellows that could anywhere be found. Then we talked the long day over, with its list of various deus, which reporters live in, but the reader only reads; We punctured sham with satire, as the boys still do, I guess, Who meet and scold at midnight when the paper's gone to press.

Now the gang with which I gathered has been scattered far and wide. And some of them are wealthy and some of them have died. There's a new lad writing murders and a new pen telling tales Of his sad and sorry fellows in the hospitals and jails; And I, who once was eager for excitement, sit sedate. Doily idle rhymes for joy—just a dreamer by the grate. For my day of youth is over, age has brought me some success, But it stopped those midnight lurches when the paper's gone to press.

When all the town is sleeping and the midnight bells have tolled, The boys who still the columns will assemble as of old. They'll be hungry just as I was, and they'll be at short of cash. But the room will ring with laughter and the lightning will flash; And some cub will sit by my place, but he'll never know or care How many gray old-timers now are wishing we were there. For with all the years have brought us, we still miss the happiness Of those good old midnight lurches when the paper's gone to press.

Well-Known Songs Faultlessly Rendered.

Last night, patrons of the Nickel were treated to an excellent programme of vocal renditions well known to everybody. Miss Ruth Chase sang Tosti's "Good-bye" and "Love is Just a Game." The solos rendered by Mr. George Dale were "I hear you calling me" and "Believe me." Although the above selections are very popular and well known by St. John's audiences, they are always new, and are seldom heard in such advantage as last night. The photoplay attraction was one of unusual entertainment value. The title of the picture is "Three Sevens" and featured in the leading role is Antonio Moreno. It is a powerful drama of the injustice of circumstantial evidence, it causes the victim, Daniel Craig, No. 777, to effect a general jail delivery and put into practice his theories. The ensuing results are startling and far reaching, and as developed in the screen version of absorbing and thrilling interest. There is no mawkishness or play for sympathy. The straightforward presentation of the facts is all that is needed to enlist the sympathy of the spectators. The cast is an all around good one, containing a number of well known characters and headed by Antonio Moreno. His delineation of Daniel Craig is restrained and displays talent and understanding.

"Billeted."

FOR CHILD WELFARE.

Mrs. J. Baxter will again stage the three-act comedy "Billeted" on Monday. The performance will be in aid of the Child Welfare Association. This will be welcome news to the many who were anxious to see the play, but were not afforded an opportunity to do so. "Billeted" is not a play which contains any complex situations and the audience is not kept guessing what the climax will be. It is wholly and solely a play to amuse. The acting could not be excelled by professionals. Those who have not seen this play would be well advised to secure tickets at once.

Persian Revolution.

HAD SHORT AND IGNOMINIOUS END.

Moscow. (Associated Press.)—Ehsanulla, the chief of the red revolutionary movement of Persia, who last June made a daring raid that all but succeeded in capturing Teheran, has escaped the Shah's Cossacks and is now here. "The people's struggle against the Shah and the feudal landlords has failed. There'll be no more," he said. His comrade leaders in the revolution were killed. Ehsanulla is rated the most picturesque figure of all the bandit and revolutionary leaders of the Middle East. Educated and daring, for 16 years he has fought the established order in Persia. His long hair and shaggy beard are known to thousands of Persian peasants. He is known as the Karl Marx of Persia, but in many ways resembles Makno, the peasant leader of South Russia. He has never been captured, though he has taken part in every armed struggle of Persia since 1905. He might now be for quarrels between two of his associate leaders, Kutchik and Haider.

BETRAYED BY A FOLLOWER.

With a peasant army strengthened by Russian Communists, he struck from Rescht to Teheran, while many of the Shah's 50,000 troops were putting down risings at Tabriz and at Horoshan, and was within 35 miles of Teheran when a betrayal in his own ranks gave news of his whereabouts and forced his retreat. "After the Anglo-Russian treaty, by which both nations agreed to leave Persia alone," said Ehsanulla, "I realized that the Sayyid Zia-U-Din government was a reversion to the old corrupt law of the feudalists, each of whom is a sort of a little Shah, and that the rule of the combined peasantry and educated class would go under, perhaps forever, unless I made a last desperate effort. So I got together a few thousand peasant soldiery and by secret paths and rapid marching tried to reach Teheran. The Cossacks of the Shah began to attack me and the Russian Communists with me lost heart. I fought until I was surrounded and then retreated. An Englishman no longer dares to go into North Persia, but this is not much satisfaction for me since they will again control in Teheran. My pity is for the poor peasants. I built schools and hospitals for them. There need be no fear that Persia will join the Pan-Islamic union projected by Enver Pasha. The Islamic religion has ruined the Orient, and we have no desire to form a union that would again place us in subjection to the Turks."

Obituary.

WILLIAM T. HEARN. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Wm. T. Hearn, a well known business man of Duckworth St., passed away after a rather protracted illness. For some years the deceased had suffered with a throat affection but up to about two months ago he was able to perform his social and business duties. Despite the best medical attention his condition grew worse and he died unexpectedly. Son of the late John and Mrs. Hearn, deceased was an old pupil of St. Bonaventure's College. He captained the College hockey team and took an always active part in local athletics. For some years he filled the office of Chairman of Review and Correspondence in the Benevolent Irish Society, and was also a staunch member of the Knights of Columbus. Formerly an employee of A. J. Harvey & Co., he was obliged through ill-health to give up his position and later commenced and operated a very successful grocery business. His genial disposition and his untiring zeal and energy in all things entrusted to his care, won for him a foremost place in the hearts of all who knew him. Mr. Hearn was only 32 years of age. He leaves a wife nee Miss Jean McKay, two children and a mother to mourn his loss. To the family the Telegram extends sympathy. The funeral takes place to-morrow afternoon from his late residence Duckworth St.

Just What Might Have Been Expected.

It is reported in circles that are usually well informed that the Government has shrewdly considered the matter of taking over the railroad from the Reid Nfld. Co., and that the latter are filing claims which run into millions for rolling stock and work done. Mr. Morgan, who recently resigned from the Management Committee, it is understood is likely to remain here as advisor to the Government.

Lowell F. Parks Abandoned.

CREW ROWED 300 MILES. A message has been received by Messrs. A. S. Rendell apprising them that the schooner Lowell F. Parks had been abandoned about 200 miles N.E. of Barbados. The crew landed safely there in the ships boats. The Lowell Parks, Capt. Wm. Robinson left here about Jan. 17th bound to Harbor Buffett to push loading fish for market. The schooner had about 15 or 17 hundred quintals of fish on board. After leaving here a series of storms prevailed and the vessel was not heard of until the message of to-day reported the crew at Barbados. It is a curious coincidence that Captain David Robinson, a brother, is also at Barbados having put in there a week ago, his vessel the Elizabeth Rodway being in a damaged condition. The Rodway was over 60 days out from Cadiz to Marytown.

Many Happy Returns.

Congratulations and best wishes for many happy returns to Right Hon. Sir R. Bond, The Grange, Whitebourne, who to-day is celebrating the 65th anniversary of his birthday.

To the Padre.

COLDEST NIGHT.—Last night was the coldest for the season. From Valley Nurseries, on the Waterford Bridge Road, the proprietors report that the glass last night fell to 18 below. Mr. H. W. LeMessurier reports a temperature of 22 below at King's Bridge. This morning the thermometer on Water Street stood at 3 above.

Botwood Flight Postponed.

BAD WEATHER CONDITIONS MAKE FLIGHT DANGEROUS — MAJOR COTTON BRINGS MAIL FROM CARBONEAR.

Major Cotton started to-day on the flight to Botwood but poor weather conditions which were bound to make the flight a very dangerous one, caused him to postpone it until the first available opportunity. Before returning to town, he landed at Carbonear and took a mail from there to the city. Major Cotton was prepared to leave for Botwood at 11 a.m. and when leaving for the hangar the glass was falling and the weather might become bad. A considerable time was occupied in turning up, and accompanied only by J. R. Stannard, his mechanic, Major Cotton took off at 12.30 p.m. Upon leaving the ground he discovered that clouds prevented him from rising to a height of over 500 feet. The visibility was very poor and the weather looked as if it were steadily getting thicker. While there was a possibility of the flight being accomplished safely, Major Cotton did not think it advisable to attempt to fly 150 miles at the low altitude of 500 feet, with the chance of having to fight the greater part of the way through a blizzard. He wisely decided to land at Carbonear and there heard the storm signals had been held. As a consequence, he decided to return to the city with a mail and to await the first favourable opportunity for the longer flight. Major Cotton's intention is first, to fly to Botwood, and from there to proceed to St. Anthony where he will remain a day or two. He will bring a mail to that and other Northern settlements. The number of work signals has been held since time ago in a hurricane and the machine will have to be left in the open during the time it remains there. On his way back from St. Anthony to Botwood, Major Cotton will fly over the ice fields in an effort to locate the main patch of seals, and if successful, he will attempt to dispose of the information to the sealing owners. If weather conditions are favourable for flying, the trip to Botwood will be made to-morrow. Mr. A. S. Butler and Capt. V. S. Bennett will proceed by train to Botwood as early as possible and will take with them the moving picture camera and other accessories.

Reviving Mounted Police

PATROL OF SIX MOUNTED MEN WILL DO DUTY ON HIGHER LEVELS AND OUTSIDE BOARDS.

The Telegram is in a position to-day to state that the mounted police will be revived. The new force will consist of a patrol of six men and will, it is understood, be commanded by District Inspector Nesworthy. The duties of the mounted force will be to patrol the higher levels and outside roads, and regulate motor traffic. The revival of this force is the result of several urgent requests made to the Government by Inspector General Hutchings. The Inspector General said that an increase in the number of men on active duty in the Constabulary was necessary. He also showed that a small mounted patrol could do far more work at a much lower cost than a larger number of infantry constables. Outside the city, motor traffic could not be regulated and motorists were able to drive as fast and as recklessly as they pleased without fear of prosecution. With a mounted policeman on duty on the Topsail, Torbay and other outside roads, the speed limit will have to be maintained and car owners will not be permitted to do any reckless driving and get away with it. The disbanding of the old mounted police force was greatly regretted in the city and its revival will be welcomed, not only from practical, but also from sentimental reasons.

A POPULAR SELECTION.

The selection of Inspector Nesworthy to take charge of this force will meet with popular approval. A more experienced and efficient officer could scarcely be found. For a long number of years he was a member of the old force, and since its disbandment he has been attached to the regular police, where his ability and attention to duty has won for him the highest recommendations. The mounted police was organized in 1870 by late Chief of Police Major Cartwright, father of Lt.-Col. Carter Sergeant McCowen (later Inspector General) took control of the force. He was followed by Sergt. Lacey under Chief of Police Colonel Fawcett. At this time the force was increased from 6 to 8 members on account of the bread riots. After Sergt. Lacey, Head Constable Squires assumed command and held the post up to the disbandment of the force, which took place when the new fire department was organized. The members of the force went to the first halls and the horses were sold as too small for that service.

Hikers Hike Away.

"WORLD TRAVELLERS" CLEAN UP PLENTY OF CASH—LEFT ON SABLE I.

Jane and Frank Richards who were here in the course of what they called a world hike, left on the Sable I. for Halifax, presumably in search of the "suckers" who, according to the proverb, are born every second and do not exist only in St. John's. While there is no actual proof that these so-called world hikers are fakirs, the circumstances surrounding their visit to St. John's are sufficiently peculiar to give colour to this belief. The Richards arrived here on the last Kyle and made their presence known through the press. They soon became well known figures on Water Street, their khaki garb causing them to be easily distinguishable. Their only luggage was knapsack which they carried strapped on their backs. They put up at a local hotel and during the few days they were here, visited every business house soliciting purchasers for the post cards which they had with them and which gave an account of the conditions of their supposed world hike for a wage of $50,000. According to common report a large amount was cleaned up by the sale of these post cards. One citizen states that he saw the Richards in a city Bank changing money and that most of it was in fifty and twenty cent pieces, a good sign of the characteristic generosity of our people to outsiders. The Telegram has nothing against these hikers. We subjected them to an examination when they visited our office on Wednesday and their ignorance of world geography and their unwillingness to answer questions concerning the club responsible for the wage and other questions of a similar nature was sufficient to arouse our suspicions. It is possible that we are doing these people an injustice, but we think not. When they claimed they were going to visit Lhasa, the hidden capital of Tibet, and also Baluchistan and Afghanistan and other countries in which every yard of road is infested with dangers, they overstepped the mark. If we are wrong, we are prepared to withdraw our allegations, but from all appearances these so-called hikers are no thing more than peripatetics who are looking for easy money and light work.

S. P. C. A. Case Dismissed.

WITNESS HUMOROUS COMMENT. At the instance of Mr. W. H. Crowdy, a well known cabman was prosecuted to-day by the S. P. C. A. for cruelty to a horse. The cruelty charged was that the defendant had had a tight strap bound around the horse's nose. Mr. Crowdy, called by the prosecuting counsel, said he saw the horse on Water Street with the strap bound around its nose so tightly that the blade of a pen knife could not be passed beneath it. The horse was a crib biter. Asked by counsel what objection he saw in the strap, witness replied, "Put one on yourself, and you'll know the objection to a strap around your mouth." Witness also said that counsel and others did not know a horse's head from its tail. Told by Mr. Ayre, cross-examiner, to keep to the point, witness said to the Judge, "When you want me to stop, just tell the sergeant to put me out on the book." The case was dismissed.

Bolts as Bullets.

Fitting a patch over a hole in the side of a sunken ship has always been a ticklish job, but now, thanks to an English engineer, this can be done quickly and safely. The patch, a steel plate large enough to cover the gap, is lowered into position outside the ship. Then, through bolt holes previously drilled around the gap in the ship's side, a diver literally shoots short pieces of screwed steel rod into the patch, where they become firmly embedded. Nuts are then put on the inner ends of the screwed rods and drawn up tight, thus holding the patch securely in position. The steel rods are "fired" with enormous force from a "gun" held by the diver; but the details of this "gun" and the explosive used are secrets held by the inventor. During a recent demonstration of this "run" steel rods were shot into a plate half an inch thick, and so firmly were they embedded that they broke when pulled out of the plate.

 February 24th.—At the office in the morning. By the public despatches, I see how Sir Eric Geddes, that was member of the British Cabal, resigns in the Parliament. Amon to the next, where meeting Rev. Johnston, and discourse with him of the Industrial Home and the methods of managing it. So to the Board of Trade. I did have some talk with Mr. Job of air flight which Major Cotton did yesterday. And Sir Michael Cash- ing yesterday, he also to discourse of the coming in the afternoon, to the Bill and play at Billiards with Mr. and he beats me by a little, he that I was not in my usual good mood. At night out and to play at Billiards. So home and to bed, mighty tired.

Champs Defeat St. Bon's

PELIDIAN WIN KEENLY CON-TESTED GAME.
 A good hockey was seen at the rink last night when the Pelidians defeated St. Bon's by 6 goals.
 The game was exciting throughout and the Pelidians had only 1 goal until shortly before the final whistle when they increased their mar-tal to two. Both teams combined well in some very pretty passing work.
 In evidence the goalkeepers were of great work to do and at times, exhibited great difficulty in keeping the pucks clear. In the first period the Pelidians scored for St. Bon's and retained two goals for the Pelid-ians. The second period was the best for the game. Ewing scored for the Pelidians and Cahill did same for St. Bon's. Winter and Bell were responsible for a goal for the Pelidians in the third and Pelian beat Hunt after a brilliant run through for St. Bon's goal. Mr. "Plus" Parsons was responsible present.

Decided Improvement.

Evening Telegram.
 Sir—Some of us who are interested in dancing, are delighted to see Mr. Bailey's advertisement in the O.C.C. Dance on Monday, 27th, that in future the intervals between the dances are to be shorter than has been the custom. This is really a step in the right direction. The long intervals have been annoying to the dancers, more especially when the Hall was not heated. Another good thing about it is that by having shorter intervals it will be possible to have the programme by twelve o'clock which is quite late enough.
 Some two or three times a week a little too much of a good thing. Most of those who attend dances, I am sure would find dances finished promptly at midnight and come away feeling they had easily continued another hour.
 I am sure that Mr. Bailey will be glad to hear that the night had been so successful. Another suggestion I make is, that only half of the program should go to supper at one time and going away with another program and some interval.
 I am, yours truly,
 J. M. Bailey

The Rink Fan Says:

What About Thursday's Ice Sports?

There have been so-called championship winter sports in the past, but on Thursday night next the first real serious attempt will be made to award championship honours, when the Ice Sports will be held at the Princess Rink.

The sports will have the sanction and be under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Association, and certificates will be awarded the winners of the various events in addition to the cups and medals offered as prizes.

The 1 Mile and 3 Mile events are those attracting the attention of our speed kings. Corworthy won the mile effort a fortnight ago in 4 minutes and 1/2 second, with Coultas second, but it is felt that if such men as Dick Fraser, Mark Marshall, W. McGrath, J. Evans, Leo Kennedy, B. Kavanagh, Billy Darcy, A. Murray compete on Thursday night, this time will be reduced considerably. One dark horse is mentioned as a very likely runner up in the person of Ralph Peach, who is reputed to be very speedy.

George Squires of the Methodist Guards Old Comrades has for years been the undisputed 3 and 5 mile champion, and successfully defended his laurels a short time ago when he did the 5 miles in 21 minutes 12 1/2 seconds, with Chanocoy a good second. Squires is in great fettle and the M. G.O.C. feel that he can retain the honour. His old opponent, Hackett of the C.L.B. Old Comrades, is practicing hard as are Eric Robertson of the Highlanders and Leo Kennedy of the Cadets. Other starters will likely be W. Ebbs, G. Bailey, J. Chaney, Daly, Jim Jacobs, and O. Burton. This will be the event of the evening and will be well worth witnessing.

The three survivors of the old Terra Nova team (George Marshall, Plus Parsons, and Jim Vinnicombe) have challenged the only Victorians left in captivity, viz.—George Hunt, Ern Churchill, and Jack Tobin to a relay race. This is sure to be a dandy as the memory of the speed of the former triumvirate is still vivid.

The relay teams of Reid Nfld. Co., Royal Stores, Baird's, and Knowling's are buckling on their armour for their event, and it is likely Bowring's, Harvey's and Ayre's will also be represented. This will be one of the most popular items on the programme, and the various departments of the Civil Service are entering as well. Now then, you Post Office lads, show them!

The 1/2 Mile Junior (under sixteen) and the College Relay will furnish most of the excitement for the youngsters. Peters, Hiscock, and Rooney for the M.C.; Power, Eagan, and Fraser for St. Bon's; and Bailey, Lloyd, and LeMessurier of the B.F.C. will be the likely entrants in the latter event, though a slight change is rumoured in the personnel of one of the relays.

The sports thought it would be ungalant to exclude the fair sex from a Championship Meet, and as a result we find a quarter mile to decide the speediest fem-skater. In addition the hockey teams of the Methodist College, Bishop Spencer, and Mercy Convent will likely be seen in action. All these teams have been practicing hard all winter and an exciting contest is assured.

Have you ever noticed how difficult it is to walk on ice with any speed? One of the events is a half mile walk, but the contestants must do it in ordinary boots without spikes or protruding nails, and minus rubbers. Harry Wilson and young Burnell (who did so well in the A.A.A. Sports last year) have both signified their intention of entering, and the fans hope to see Newfoundland's champion, Dick Steele, in action also.

Other Relay races will be the Hockey League; Club or Society; and the Press. Special zest is added to all these by a very highly prized addition to the trophies already held. Watch your points!

Dick Hall and his team of husky Cadets are anxious to have another go at Tommy Sparks' M.G.O.C.'s, who won Sir Richard Squires' Cup at the indoor sports in the tug-of-war last fall. We feel sure that President Ern Chafe has enough heavyweights in the C.L.B. Old Comrades to prevent the others from having an easy win.

If you have a good skating partner, item No. 9 on the programme, (the Double Arm-in-Arm) should make a very strong appeal to you for there is a great difference of opinion as to which is the speediest couple on the ice in both Rinks. It is claimed that the Parade Rink has the goods and this event is sure to be a very popular one.

Another interesting event is the Backward 1/4 Mile. There are many who are prepared to challenge Geo. Hunt's assertion that this is an easy win for him.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Jim Wilson, intending competitors may practice at the Rink from 10 to 11 on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday mornings.

Great interest has been given the sports by the announcement in this morning's News that Mr. Will Neal has presented a silver trophy for the club or society aggregating the most points on Thursday night. Three points will be awarded the winners in each event; two to the second, and one point for third place. This will make the various events all the more interesting and Mr. Neal's generosity is much appreciated by the sports.

We think it fair that warning should be given the public that there are only 340 reserved seat tickets for sale. Bookings can now be made at the Royal Stationery at a dollar each. Each seat is numbered and the old saw "first come first served" should be borne in mind by those who want to view the events from good vantage points.

The general admission is only 25 cents, and no collection will be taken up. The entire proceeds are for the National War Memorial, and the athletes request the hearty co-operation of the public in their laudable effort.

Please make your entries to J. A. MacKenzie, Law Chambers, or to Mr. Chaney at the Rink office as promptly as possible as a special souvenir programme is being prepared, and it is desired, in view of the importance of the Championship Meet, that all the names of those competing should be in it.

Secretaries of the various Associations should see that their members are entered in their name so as to secure the Neal Club trophy.

C. C. C. DANCE.—For goodness sake don't miss this wonderful Dance on Monday night in the C. C. C. Hall, or you will regret it for the rest of your life.

Young and old will be there. It's the talk of the town, even the depression talk takes second place to it. However, remember the C. C. C. Band have done their part and are still doing it for all kinds of charitable and other affairs, but they too have bills which must be paid. Help them on Monday night by your presence. If you don't dance, come and look on; plenty of room in the gallery.—feb25, 1f

Two Character Act at the Crescent.

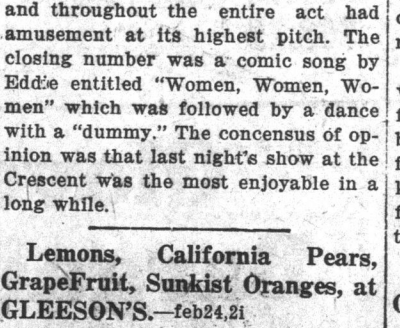

EDDIE MCGINLEY AND FATTY COLE IN SCREAMING COMEDY.

An unusual vaudeville attraction was witnessed at the Crescent Theatre last night when Eddie McGinley, the popular comedian introduced a second character in his act, who was none other than Harold Cole. Eddie opened his act with a parody on the "Love Nest," entitled "Oil Can" and next told some of his own made stories and gave a funny recitation which had the audience in roars of laughter. The next item of his programme was a diversity of fun, entitled "A Lesson in Concentration." This is a comic mind-reaching act, brimful of laughs. Eddie and Fatty worked together like brothers, and throughout the entire act had amusement at its highest pitch. The closing number was a comic song by Eddie entitled "Women, Women, Women" which was followed by a dance with a "dummy." The consensus of opinion was that last night's show at the Crescent was the most enjoyable in a long while.

Argentine President Overrides Court Sentence.

BUENOS AIRES (Associated Press)—A ponderous legal controversy has arisen between President Irigoyen and the courts over the President's right to pardon a boy who had been sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary for stealing a dozen pairs of cotton socks. Jose Ibanez, the 19-year-old youth, who was employed in a Buenos Aires clothing store, did not steal the socks for himself, but for a poor boy who had none. Nevertheless, the judge gave him the full penalty of the law. Appeal was taken to the Criminal Court of Appeals and Jose was kept in jail for 11 months while the judges deliberated. President Irigoyen intervened and pardoned him and Jose returned to his home.

Husband Made Monkey Bite Wife.

HAIFA, PALESTINE, (Associated Press)—Accidental discovery of a consignment of several thousand automatic pistols and 25,000 rounds of ammunition, which were being smuggled into Palestine in boxes supposed to contain beehives, has aroused much comment and tended to revive the bitter feelings between the Arabs and Jews. Sir Herbert Samuel, the High Commissioner, had exempted beehives from customs duty in order to develop Palestine's industry. Ninety-six boxes supposed to contain beehives were being unloaded at Haifa when one of them was broken revealing the weapons and ammunition. The whole consignment which had been addressed to Jews was seized. The head of the Jewish Co-operative Workmen's Association at Haifa and a noted Jewish lawyer at Jaffa was arrested and charged with being implicated in the affair. The Zionist leaders have disavowed all responsibility and condemned the incident. The native press has warned the people to be on guard, and that very likely great quantities of arms and ammunition have been brought in this way.

Basuto Brides.

We people who live in civilized surroundings have much to be thankful for, although perhaps we may not realize it. Our girls, for example, enjoy a freedom which might well be the envy of the maidens of other lands. Take the Basuto girl. In her case she is not allowed by custom to have anything to do with the choice of a husband. What usually happens is this: The dusky male sees a maiden who pleases him, and he goes to the girl's father and states his desire for marriage. After this the matter is taken up by the heads of the family and relations, the girl herself being in ignorance of what is actually happening.

The principal point for discussion is the dowry, which usually takes the form of cattle, to be handed by the prospective bridegroom to his prospective father-in-law. Once this is arranged, the custom is to pay a deposit of so many beasts, the balance being handed over at the time of marriage.

Meanwhile, the girl is informed who her husband is to be, and no matter whether he be young or old, good-looking or ugly, the girl has to do as her father bids her. This custom, however, does not apply rigidly throughout Basutoland, for those natives who are living near the borders of civilization have discarded the dowry part of the business, much to the bride's father's disgust. In these cases, the wedding-party wear European clothes, and return from the church by wagon to the bride's father's hut, there to feast on freshly-killed sheep and drink much kafir beer. As a general rule, the feasting and merrymaking lasts for two days.

The Binder and the Bible

"Probably the most important printed book in the world is the Mazarin Bible, issued by Gutenberg in 1455," says the Saturday Review.

In 1911 the Robert Hoe copy fetched fifty thousand dollars (then the record price for any book) in New York; and in November of last year a copy, containing only 588 of the 641 leaves and having some further blemishes, was sold for £2,750 at Sotheby's.

This copy was from the Baroness Zouche's library at Parkham; and apparently it is this volume that has now passed into the hands of Wells, the New York dealer, who has taken what is certainly a drastic step in splitting the volume up into several parts, each with a specially printed title page and flyleaf. Some of these fragments consist of a complete book of the Bible, others of single perfect or imperfect leaves.

"This Mazarin Bible will therefore now be scattered piecemeal over America and, possibly, other parts of the world. The artistic morality of such an act will certainly be much discussed; on the one hand a large number of institutions will be able to own a specimen fragment of one of the world's masterpieces; on the other hand a wonderful volume (even in its imperfect condition) has been put beyond the hope of possible completion from other fragments."

Princess Mary's Will Be the Last.

Royal marriage licenses are quite imposing affairs. That prepared for Princess Mary cost £50. It is written with very black ink in old English lettering on finest vellum. Linen drawn with red ink under certain words relieve the sombreness of the document. It bears two signatures—the King's and that of the Archbishop of Canterbury. Princess Mary's will be the last royal marriage licence to be engrossed—in future they are to be printed. Anyway, engrossing is now by way of becoming a lost art. The work is done with quill-pens, no fewer than twenty of which, of various thicknesses, are required for writing different portions of the document.

Gypsy Invasion of Germany.

BERLIN, (Associated Press).—North and East Hanover, from Oldenburg to Brunswick, have been invaded by an army of gypsies, travelling in bands comprising sometimes 100 wagons, and camping in fields and woods. They invade the market places in towns and on market days crowd out German vendors. The authorities in the several communities are taxed beyond their resources to control these hordes, and prevent them from beating the Germans in trades, at which they are adepts. Members of the Reichstag have asked the government what steps were to be taken to drive out or control the unwelcome guests. Where they have come from the authorities do not know, but many of them are rich, travel in state in luxurious wagons, equipped with rich oriental rugs and fine furnishings, and ice-boxes in which there are always supplies of good wines, liquors, and costly champagnes. Men of these gypsy bands have adopted modern European apparel, but the women cling to the quaint and picturesque original costumes. The young girls are beautiful. Communities through which the invaders pass, usually are cleaned out through trade, purchase, or theft, although it is next to impossible to fix crimes upon the gypsies.

The Stings Were There.

BULETS MANIFESTED AS BEES. HAIFA, PALESTINE, (Associated Press)—Accidental discovery of a consignment of several thousand automatic pistols and 25,000 rounds of ammunition, which were being smuggled into Palestine in boxes supposed to contain beehives, has aroused much comment and tended to revive the bitter feelings between the Arabs and Jews. Sir Herbert Samuel, the High Commissioner, had exempted beehives from customs duty in order to develop Palestine's industry. Ninety-six boxes supposed to contain beehives were being unloaded at Haifa when one of them was broken revealing the weapons and ammunition. The whole consignment which had been addressed to Jews was seized. The head of the Jewish Co-operative Workmen's Association at Haifa and a noted Jewish lawyer at Jaffa was arrested and charged with being implicated in the affair. The Zionist leaders have disavowed all responsibility and condemned the incident. The native press has warned the people to be on guard, and that very likely great quantities of arms and ammunition have been brought in this way.

Newfoundland for Rotary.

"ROTARIAN" HAS ARTICLE ON COLONY.

The February number of the "Rotarian," official organ of Rotary, contains an interesting account of the organization of the Newfoundland Rotary Club from the pen of Mr. C. F. Bond, one of the prime movers in introducing Rotary to this country. The article is well illustrated and consists of a brief description of our island and its commerce. This is how Bond describes the formation of the St. John's Rotary Club:

"The average Rotarian knows as little about Newfoundland, as the average Newfoundland knew about Rotary. To-day, thanks to the able pen of District Governor Bob Paterson, Newfoundlanders know a great deal about Rotary, and judging by the enthusiasm of the newly constituted Rotary Club of St. John's, this latest opportunity to enter Rotary's circle, will be enjoying the fruits of some of the club's early labors. My pleasant mission is to tell readers of this wonderful something about this wonderfully interesting country and the attractions it affords to the tourist, the fisherman, the hunter, the canoeist, the family man—all of whom go to make up the great Rotary circle."

District Governor Bob Paterson's thousand-mile journey included a three-day trip across the Cabot Strait to St. John's, a narrow gauge railway to St. John's, the capital of the Dominion, situated on the eastern side of the island, sixty miles north of Cape St. John, and five miles from Cape Spear, the most easterly point of the North American Continent.

I met Bob Paterson for the first time at the railway station, and his warm countenance after his long journey bespoke his enthusiasm. I was with him long before I realized that one of his hobbies was Rotary promotion.

From the first we enlisted the cooperation of our friends "the press," and the day Bob arrived was well-timed by a long editorial in the leading paper extolling the advantages of the principles of Rotary to the individual, the community, and the nation. The other papers followed suit, and within twenty-four hours "Rotary" was the main subject of conversation in the club, shop, office, and home. During the three days of organizing work with the members of the local committee, there appeared in the press more than 200 inches of copy, publicity—the kind of fine publicity that helped wonderfully in getting the message of Rotary across to the general public.

So after much arduous preliminary work—it was deemed important to have no stone unturned in getting the new club started right—there was born on the evening of the 23rd of November, 1921 the Rotary club of St. John's, Newfoundland with twenty-two members and the head of the lordly lion decorating the "wheel" of its emblem. It was an event which marked a new epoch in the welfare of this country; it was an event which is also destined to mark a new mark in the annals of Rotary.

It is difficult to imagine any community where the principles of Rotary function more happily than they do in St. John's. Taking into consideration the isolation of the place and the fact that it is the first club of its kind, non-political and non-sectarian, meeting weekly, it will line up all the arguments for co-operative work which are so much for progress. It would be impossible to over-estimate the good work that was accomplished by our district governor, Bob Paterson."

The Tragedy of Majuba Hill

On the night of February 7, 1853, Sir George Colley left the British camp at Mount Prospect, with six hundred men, and climbed to the top of Majuba Hill, from whence he hoped to command the Boer Camp at Laing's Nek, two thousand feet below. Soon our bullets fell on the crest above him, and he realized the danger. Some volunteers offered to try and take the hill, and actually made their way to the face of the superior force of the Boers, passing them as if they were charged. A little before dawn, Commandant Nicholas Smit, with seventy or eighty men, resolutely retreated, losing ninety men, including Gen. Colley, 124 killed and 1,500 wounded on the spot. Nineteen years later, on the same date, Majuba was retaken by the Boers, and the British were driven back to Paardeburg, and the relief of General Sir Buller's White River, just in time to prevent the capture of that town by the Boers, and the starvation of the garrison.

Canal Through Palestine

250 MILE WATER-WAY PROPOSED.

Jerusalem. (Associated Press.)—The Zionist organization has resurrected the old plan of constructing a 250-mile canal through Palestine as a supplement to the Suez Canal. This project was first brought out twenty-five years ago by the late Duke of Sutherland, but was buried unceremoniously by Sultan Abdul Hamid, because of his opposition to progress. Traffic through the Suez Canal has become so congested these days that it is claimed an alternate canal route is required. Zionist leaders have become convinced that the ever-expanding trade relations between Continental Europe and the Far East have reached such dimensions that a canal in Palestine would fill an urgent need and reap untold commercial benefits for Palestine. As planned by F. A. Maier, of Holland, its ardent supporter, the canal would be divided into two sections, one of which would extend from Haifa on the Mediterranean to Afulah, on the Lake of Tiberias, or Sea of Galilee. Then there would be an intervening part to be formed by a proposed Jordan Lake to extend from the Lake of Tiberias toward the Dead Sea. This would be filled with Mediterranean sea water. Having crossed the Dead Sea, the canal would begin again at Arabah, at the foot of that sea, and extend to Akabah, at the head of the Gulf of Akabah, giving access to the Red Sea.

WOULD CHANGE CLIMATIC CONDITIONS.

While the building of such a canal would necessitate the submergence of a considerable tract of fertile land as well as a few towns and villages (along the Jordan), its champions claim that the advantages would far outweigh the loss. It is claimed that the proposed Jordan Lake would increase the humidity of all Palestine which now suffers from excessive heat and dryness, thus improving the climate as well as the vegetation. Also, it is asserted, the Jordan Valley and the desert lying to the east with the prairies south of Houran, owing to the increased area of water, would become great centres for colonization and development. Together with these climatic benefits must be reckoned the commercial possibilities in the scheme. Haifa might become a second Port Said, a touching place to ships of all nations. Raw materials from Europe and America so much needed for the building up of industrial enterprises in Palestine and which now are being held back due to scarcity of calling ships, would begin to flow more freely. Thus it is claimed there would be opened up to the residents of Palestine great industrial opportunities.

PRINCE'S PARTY FIRED ON.
LONDON, Feb. 24. The firing upon several members of the Prince of Wales party, while they were motoring from Delhi to Patiala, in the Punjab region of India, is reported by the Times. No one was shot, and character of assailants are unknown. The Delhi correspondent of the Times reports continued agitation among the Sikhs, which is assuming a political aspect, with wild talk of Sikh rule. Redoubled efforts have been made to tamper with troops. Sepoys are being subjected to intimidation by Non-co-operationists.

THREE KILLINGS.
BELFAST, Feb. 24. Two further shootings took place in Belfast to-night. An armed party entered the home of a Protestant named James Hutten, and shot and killed him. Later a Catholic saloon-keeper, named Kelly, was shot near his home. His body being marked with twenty bullets. At Millford, Donegal, a commercial traveller was shot and killed, when he declined to obey an order to "throw up his hands."

The Emerald Isle.

There are about seventeen thousand people in Ireland who speak and understand no language but Irish. Ireland possesses the biggest lake in the British Isles, Lough Neagh, with an area of 153 square miles. It is also, probably, the only freshwater lake in the world that boasts an admiral of its own. The Marquis of Donegal holds, amongst many other titles and offices, that of Hereditary Lord High Admiral of Lough Neagh.

Can't Kill These Things.

Though some microbes are very tough and can stand great extremes of heat and cold, the majority of them are easily killed if the right methods are used. But what puzzled scientists for many years was that "killed" microbes seemed to be able to come alive again! You could kill them as dead as door nails, but in a very short space of time they would reappear in swarms and as lively as crickets! Then a discovery was made. It was found that many microbes bred by means of seeds or spores, which are almost indestructible, save by fire. Experiments made with spores show that they do not in the least mind undergoing a temperature 400 degrees below freezing-point for many hours. Nor does it hurt them to be boiled! That is why such a disease as anthrax, the microbes of which produce spores, is so extremely difficult to stamp out—no ordinary means of disinfection is of the slightest use. Spores have the remarkable power of being able to lie dormant for almost any length of time. Microbes of many kinds have been hatched from spores which had lain for more than two thousand years on the wrappings of mummies! Certain seeds have the same power—the germ of a seed is really very much the same thing as a microbe spore. Grains of corn found in Egyptian tombs sprout readily when they are planted.

SISTO IN ICE AGAIN.—A message was received this morning from the S.S. Sisto stating that the ship was jammed in the ice in about the same position as that given yesterday.

Judge's Congratulations.

SUPERINTENDENT O'NEIL WELCOMED BY BENCH—ASSUMES NEW DUTIES.

Judge Morris extended his congratulations at to-day's session of the Police Court, to Superintendent O'Neil when he assumed his new duties for the first time since his appointment. The Judge said that he noted the presence of the new Supt. and on behalf of the Bench and Bar, he welcomed him to his new position. Everybody regretted the departure of Superintendent Grimes, and were very sorry to lose him. They were, however, reconsoled in the appointment of Head Constable O'Neil to the position of Superintendent. The Judge had much pleasure in recognizing his presence there this morning, and he hoped that Superintendent O'Neil would have a long, useful and prosperous term of office.

Superintendent O'Neil briefly expressed his thanks. He will have his office in the apartment in the Court House formerly used by the Inspector General, and which is now in course of renovation. With his advent to his new position, several other changes and innovations will be made in connection with police and detective work. A criminal register similar to those in every large city abroad, will be kept, and in it will be registered the names and all particulars of all who come under police observation. These particulars will include descriptions, photographs, where possible, and finger prints. Superintendent O'Neil has always been a great believer in the press, and he assured the Telegram to-day that he will always be prepared to give what assistance he can to the news hunters when possible. When his appointment was made the new Superintendent was out of town on special business, and his first news of his promotion came to him through the Telegram, which had it before any other paper, and before the announcement was officially made. The new Superintendent has attained his high position while still a young man, and within the next few years will be given the opportunity to demonstrate that ability of which all know him to be possessed.

Germany Captures

ABERDEEN TOMSTONE TRADE.
ABERDEEN, (Associated Press.)—German competition is even cutting into the tomstone business and thereby affecting the granite trade which is one of Aberdeen's leading industries. Large English cities are reported to be buying tomstones, and even war memorials from Germany, at rates that are substantially cheaper than Aberdeen granite firms can produce them while paying present wages. America wholesale agents, who once brought large quantities of Aberdeen granite, also are reported to have purchased $50,000 worth of headstones from Germany, these being manufactured from Scandinavian granite. In consequence there has been a great slump in the received here for tomstones and war memorials. Many Aberdeen granite firms have notified their men of an impending cut in wages.

Woman Rescued in Mid-Atlantic.

BOUND FOR 7 PICS WHEN VESSEL SPRINGS LEAK AND SINKS.

For eight days two women, Mrs. Percy Oxner and Mrs. Bennett Peeler of Lunenburg, N.S., faced death while the British schooner Donald J. Cook foundered in an angry sea hundreds of miles from land. On Feb. 5 they reached Boston on their way back to Lunenburg, after having seen much more of the world than anticipated when the Cook started out of St. John's, Nfld., last December 2, bound for Kingston, J.L., laden with codfish and pickled herring.

The schooner encountered gales that stripped her of sails and started a leak, only to have the pumps choke. Mrs. Oxner, the skipper's wife, and Mrs. Peeler, wife of the cook, had a cruel awakening from a dream of the tropics. The schooner became unmanageable. Distress signals were displayed, but never a sail was sighted, the Cook ceiling till the deck was about level with the sea, when she momentarily regained an even keel.

The situation looked bleak until the British tanker San Eduardo, Swansea for Puerto, Mex., sighted the crazy-acting craft and bore down, taking the women and crew of seven aboard. Capt. Oxner set the schooner afloat and the wreck was reported on several occasions following December 14, when the rescue was effected. The San Eduardo landed the castaways at Puerto, Mex., whence they secured passage to New York. Arrived here they were provided sustenance by the British consul, who furnished them transportation home.—Boston Sunday Herald.

Audacious Robbery of Bullion.

On the afternoon of February 26, 1887, one of the most audacious robberies of bullion recorded in the annals of crime, was perpetrated. Messrs. Rothschild had despatched from their banking establishment in St. Swithin's Lane, London, E.C., a covered van containing twenty-four cases of bullion for shipment to Hamburg and Rotterdam. Twelve of the cases were for the "Waterloo," bound for Rotterdam, and the remainder were for the S.S. "John Bull," bound for Hamburg—both belonging to the General Steam Navigation Company. All the cases were marked and lettered, and the person sent with them was provided with two lists or tallies of the marks on them. The cases containing the bullion were safely delivered on board the respective vessels they were assigned to, and weighed about two hundredweight each. On board the "Waterloo" they were securely stowed away in the hold and the hatches put on and fastened with iron bars, which were secured with a padlock, the key of which was retained by the chief mate. Three Custom House officers came on board and one of these was always on deck until the "Waterloo" was under way, and yet, by some unaccountable means, two of the cases of bullion were abstracted from the hold, and the thieves got clear away with them. The intention was, no doubt, to carry off all twelve cases, but the robbers were apparently disturbed and made off. The next morning a lighter was found abandoned off Blackfriars Bridge, which had evidently been used in the robbery, but no trace of the missing bullion—valued at £2,500—was ever discovered.

STILL WORSE.

When I paid up my income tax, a few brief days ago, some wild alarums and shrieks I uttered in my woe. I had to pay a frightful sum, a tribute much too vast; I for a time was stricken dumb, and made to stand aghast. I have to earn my scanty rocks by long and patient toil, by packing sonnets in a box, and burning midnight oil. And so it jars me when I find how great a goal I am; the product of my weary grind must go to Uncle Sam. I said, "I'll seek some other land, some quiet place abroad, where tax collectors do not stand and rob man of his wad." I tried to locate such a shore—there's no such place of bliss; in other lands they tax men more than we are taxed in this. A poet on a foreign strand who earns three bucks a day, would find an officer on hand to take two bucks away. However great our griefs may be, however fierce they seem, they're twice as bad across the sea, where eagles do not scream. So let us bear our trifling load and cease to tear our hair, and gambol up and down the road, our cartloads in the air.

School Concert at Caplin Bay.

The residents of Caplin Bay and nearby settlements were treated to a very enjoyable entertainment on the night of February 12th by the school children of Caplin Bay, under the direction of Miss Conway, Senior teacher. The programme contained besides songs, drills, sketches, recitations, etc., which were ably performed by the children to the great delight of the audience, especially the Pastor, Rev. A. J. Mahar, who spoke in the highest terms of the performers and their popular teacher, Miss Conway, who, to use his own words, could not be excelled. A special feature of the evening was the Hop Dance by 12 tiny girls dressed in white, and wearing scarves of green and white. The size of the performers, their dress, the graceful movements all in perfect unison, made this item, as was unanimously declared, second to none of its kind. After the singing of the National Anthem choruses were given for the Pastor and for "our talented teacher," after which dancing was indulged in till the wee' sma' hours of the morning.

TRINITY.

A STORY OF TRINITY.
Continued and concluded from last week.

The parting of Robert from his mother was so sad, that it well influenced him to change his plans. It was painfully evident to him that they would not see each other again in this world. She, however, fearing what might happen if he remained, advised him to go. He had him God speed; and at the same time she put into his hand a package that he was not to open till he had reached his new home. After a long journey by land, Robert and his wife met their friend in Pool, and within a few days they were on the ocean en route for Esquimaux Bay, Labrador. As their friend was the larger shareholder of the vessel, he was in a position to make the voyage as comfortable for them as it was possible. He could not, however, at the best, make it other than a long and perilous voyage, and they were glad when, after much sickness and many dangers, they sighted the land in which, for a year or two they were to make their home.

Their friend had in no sense deceived them, and though every thing around them was so utterly and entirely different from their past life and surroundings, yet the house and its appointments to which their friend had brought them, were all as he had promised them, and the novelty of it all lent an indescribable pleasure to it. After the first year, the pleasures of home life were enhanced by the arrival of a baby boy; for whose life, owing to the absence of medical skill, the mother all but gave her own. When the next Spring gave place to Summer, it was evident to Robert that the loneliness, and the lack of female companionship were telling upon his wife, and that a change was absolutely necessary. The question most difficult to decide was the direction in which they were to go. To the right was Canada, to the left was Newfoundland, each with its own attractions: both equally unknown. In the meantime, however, the decision was made easy for them by the unexpected arrival of their friend's vessel, to take his wife and other things to England; and as she had to call at St. John's, they at once decided to take passage.

mer day, God called the soul of Mrs. Collingham to Himself, and her body was laid to rest in the old Church-yard, till the Resurrection Morning. Robert's school days had fitted him for office work, and upon the recommendation of Parson Clinch, he was given a position in Lester's employ in Trinity, and he settled down to a contented life in the best interests of his baby-boy and himself. He often thought of the old home in England; but knowing that his mother had died within a few months after he had left England, and that his father was still living, and still unforgiving, he bought a property of his own in Trinity, and ten years after the burial of his wife, there was made in the marriage register of old St. Paul's, the following entry: "Married, Robert Collingham, of the Parish of Sutton-upon-Trent, Nottingham, England, and Charlotte Way, of Trinity." Six years after this, Robert received a letter from a lawyer in his old home town, to the effect that his father had died, and that he had left his farm and fortune to Robert's son William, on conditions that Robert bring him to England, and that his present wife and children accompany him, and that they all take up their residence in the old home within the next six months. Robert was sorry to leave Trinity, where he had built up a beautiful home, and where he had made many kind friends, who deeply regretted his leaving. For the sake of his boy, however, he did not hesitate, and he at once gave the necessary notice to his employer, Mr. Lester. It was a grief to him, too, to have to leave behind him the body of her whom he had loved so dearly, and who had been so loving and loyal to him in the days of his great testing time. He knew, however, that her soul was with God, and with the prayer that God would still be good to her, he went back to the old home, together with his wife and children, and entered again upon the duties of the farm life, that had been so suddenly and so tragically suspended so many years before.

A friend of mine in Canada who had spent a summer in Newfoundland, and who stayed with me in Cape Breton on his way back, told me how thoroughly he enjoyed it all; also he told me that his experience of the average Newfoundland fisherman was—that he was a pessimist. I asked him why he had come to that conclusion, and he said: "Well, as I met a fisherman, I would say: 'Well, John, how are you today?' and he invariably answered me: 'I'm middlin' Sir.' There was, I found nothing wrong with his health, but he would never admit that, and preferred to stick to the 'middlin' Sir.' Then again, on some beautiful day—a day so delightfully fine that it seemed to me that no other country in the world could provide such a day—such an atmosphere—I would meet some Bill or George, and I would say, 'George, what a beautiful day,' and George would look seriously at the sky, shake his head and say, 'Yes Sir, 'tis beautiful enough whilst it lasts, but just wait a bit Sir, you'll find it's a weather-breeder, and it won't be so fine to-morrow.' I had not noticed this pessimistic habit of my countrymen, but the truth of it then became very evident to me from instances of the past that flashed upon my memory. Since then I have asked the question many times of Bill respecting his health, and on many times I have made the same remark to him about the fine day, only, however, to get the same replies that my friend noticed. Without a doubt, many of our Newfoundland fishermen are pessimists.

I anticipated that my references to the marriages of the Gaspe whalers—Miss Coleman and Miss Doherty, would awaken some interesting memories, and sure enough they did, and some of them from quarters that I least expected. All the memories are happy ones. One man wrote: "I read your account of those weddings over and over again, and every time I read them, some new memories came back to me, and for the time I was back in Trinity again (though I am many miles from it in body) racing with you up to John White's wharf, ducking my head as the guns went off, happy as only a boy could be in such circumstances, etc., etc."

Another wrote in the same happy, grateful strain about it all. "I was at the wedding in Church, Sir," he wrote, "and I can still remember the crowd of young men standing opposite William Tilley's Tin Shop, where the Magistrate's house now stands, with guns heavily charged, waiting for the wedding party to pass from the old Church. There was Charley Hall, Jim Hunt, Dick Hiseck, George DeGrih, Bill Grant and goodness knows how many more in the firing party. Bill Grant had an old-fashioned gun seven feet long, with a powder charge of eight fingers, and when it went off Bill went off too, and the explosion well nigh shook 'Gun Hill. These were the days of real sport."

"Everybody was invited to the wedding, and because they all got there, several of the old people's guns were missing the next morning. Thomas Green and George Spence took old Jimmy Jettison's gun from off the collar, and Jimmy found her, with others, high and dry on the beach at Margoty Cove. Old Jimmy was very cross about it, and he made use of some funny expressions—expressions that were all the funnier, because Jimmy used them, with his peculiar lisp. Yes, Sir, those were happy days. Youth is a great thing, and now I am an old man.

On several occasions in the past I have referred to an old friend of my boyhood days—George Bellows. He was noted for his sunny sayings and ready wit. Some fifty years ago when he lived in Smith's Sound, he paid a visit to his old friend Dougal White, and came with dogs and slide. Dougal appreciated the visit and opening the door of an old stove, and throwing down some bags for a dog's bed, he said: "Bellows, put the dogs in here." Before the dogs went to the bed, however, they turned around four or five times, as is their natural habit. "Bellows," said Dougal, "I wonder why dogs turn around like that before they lie down?" "I don't know, Dougal," said Bellows, "unless it is Dougal, that ope good turn deserves another."

died at his home on February 11th, and was buried on the 14th. He was a member of the "Trinity Benefit Club" and the "Loyal Orange Association" and the members attended the funeral, which was conducted by Rev. Chas. M. Stickings. It was this Mr. King's wife who wandered away from home last fall, and whose body was never found. God be good to them.

Magistrate Somerton, of Trinity, lectured to the members of "Blackledge Club" at Port Rexton, on the evening of February 14th. His subject was: "Fur Sealing in Northern Fied-er, on the Coast of Japan in 1893 and 1894." Those of us who know Mr. Somerton as a sportsman, fully realize what a good time he must have had during those years, and how indelibly the details of the spot are impressed upon his memory. Hence, we are not surprised to hear from those who were present, that the lecture was highly instructive and deeply interesting. The Blackledge Club had its origin with Rev. Hugh Blackledge when he was rector of the Parish. It has a steadily increasing (though carefully selected) membership; owns its own Hall, and represents the best intelligence of the community. Its syllabus for the winter months includes a debate every Saturday evening, and a course of Lectures spread over the season.

The following marriages were solemnized within the last week. At Christ Church, Port Rexton: Herbert Pterocoy to Sarah Hannister; at St. Paul's, Trinity, John Thomas Hayter, of Trinity, to Susanna King, of Port Rexton.

Answers to Correspondents—

"M.L." St. John's—It is kind of you to write as you have done re my items; to evince such an interest in the people of Trinity; and to express such a high opinion of the Trinitarians you knew in business transactions long years ago. I thank you in their behalf, and for myself.

"S." Catalina—So the whaler weddings stirred the depths of almost forgotten memories, and for the time, made you feel young again! Well, 'tis better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all. So by youth, and the source of happy memories. Thank God that you once had them.

"S.M.P." West Coast—And you, too, remember the whaler weddings! And the story of them brought you back in spirit to Trinity for a while! Come back again in body in the good old summer-time; but be prepared for many changes. Glad to hear from you.

"B.F." Bonavists—No, I don't know why those marriage entries of Rev. Mr. Coster were copied by Rev. W. Bullock in the Trinity Register. I mentioned that when I referred to them, and I asked for information on the subject. To date I have not received any. Try to get some.

By Ruth Cameron.

THE WISE MAN WILL PRAISE HIS WIFE.

There are certain things about women that men take a particular pleasure in laughing about. And one of these is the feminine propensity to shop.

"Why I mean go from store to store and picking and comparing without doing very much buying."

"I mean to tell how a woman will spend an afternoon looking about the shops and come back with a couple of yards of thread, or how she will go to a dozen shops looking at gowns and come back with the first and buy the last one."

"I tell themselves on the back of their hands that they will explain with great gravity that when they want to go into a good shop and find that that is the end of it. They wonder how long a purchasing agent's big business would last if it were not for them."

"I wonder if any business man has ever anything funny about it. If a purchasing agent who had an immense purchase of stock to make could see what kind of a man he could make with half a dozen dollars, and finally went back to him because it gave him the goods."

she is going from store to store trying to see where she can get the best values in overcoats for herself and underfannels for Johnny and a new double boiler for the kitchen.

Of course all shopping is not done intelligently. Women do wander about and waste time and wear themselves out futilely. But the intelligent shopper makes it her business to study values, to know the different departments in the different shops, to know which carry the best values in each particular line, and to get the most for her money. And any wise husband will praise his wife instead of laughing at her for that kind of shopping.

Asquith Defends Lord Kitchener.

In a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post, Mr. Asquith makes a neat job of Lord Esher. Few public men wield a pen so adroitly as the former Prime Minister, and he is readily understood by those who have studied his speeches, for his speeches are the work of a man of high literary taste and skill rather than that of the born orator. Asquith comes to the defence of Lord Kitchener, with whom he was on the most intimate terms for two years. The acquaintance between the two men was slight, and he says that Kitchener was a hard man to know; but from the day Kitchener became Secretary of War, until the day he sailed on the Hampshire he and Asquith were in daily contact. Indeed, often Kitchener would visit Asquith three or four times a day. He believes that, with the exception of the devoted Fitzgerald, who perished with him, to nobody did Kitchener open his heart as to the man who was then Prime Minister.

A great man with certain very obvious limitations; some of them congenital, others the natural, perhaps the necessary, results of the environment of his past career. This, in brief, is Asquith's judgment of Kitchener, and at the close of his article he quotes with approval the verdict passed on him by Sir William Robertson, who served for some time as Kitchener's chief of staff:

"On the whole I would say that the achievements and foresight of Lord Kitchener place him in a class entirely by himself; and they justify the conclusion that no man in any of the Empire's countries accomplished more, if as much, to bring about the final defeat of the enemy." These words from one of the greatest soldiers of the war and concurred in by Asquith should do much to contradict the impression of Esher's book which has received the probability that Lord Esher was more concerned with turning out a smart and sensational book with a political slant than in presenting a dispassionate picture of one of the greatest Britons of his generation.

Asquith says that Esher's portrait of Kitchener as a man who found that he was too old at sixty-five to undertake the duties imposed on him, as a man "whose soul had rusted" is a caricature, whose only excuse is the superficial knowledge possessed of the subject by Lord Esher. He denies, too, that Kitchener was baffled and exasperated when in Cabinet Council he came into contact, or even conflict, with the keen legal minds of his colleagues. The writer says that he was disposed to be secretive and did not find it easy to throw his knowledge and judgment into the common stock. But it is an absurd travesty of the facts to say that at the War Office "he neither asked nor took the advice of any man." In the first month Kitchener had to be, for his own chief of staff, but when Sir Archibald Murray, and later Sir William Robertson, were appointed, there was between Kitchener and them complete and cordial co-operation.

On this point Asquith quotes again from Sir William Robertson's recent book: "At the War Office and in Downing Street I found him to be a staunch supporter of the General Staff, and his aptitude for detecting essentials enabled him to give us much constructive assistance. Without quite knowing why, sometimes, he had a quite wonderful knack in being right in the things that really mattered. As to his alleged habit of overconcentration, all I can say is that it was never displayed during the six months that I had privilege of working with him, and that he was as ready to listen to the advice of his departmental heads as were any of the other seven Secretaries of State under whom I have worked. He was a kind and delightful chief to serve, once his ways were understood."

Mr. Asquith speaks of Kitchener's feat in raising the volunteer army history of the greatest in the whole history of war. He says that at the time when the Czar invited him to Russia no name stood so high there as that of Kitchener, and that if he had not lost his life on the Hampshire he might well have altered the whole course of subsequent Russian history. He dispates the idea that it was the clamor of Lord Northcliffe's papers which led to Kitchener being appointed Secretary of War, an office held by Asquith himself at the time, and says that he never for a moment thought of any other successor. The later clamor about positions, which resulted in the creation of a Ministry of Munitions under Lloyd George, he intimates, however, that the agitation and intrigues against Kitchener were inspired by Lord French, with whom it will be recalled, Asquith had some recent passages at arms. Mr. Asquith's article is a gallant defence of a colleague who can no longer speak for himself and a tribute to one of the truly heroic figures of our time.

The Influence of Money!

When money is scarce interest rates rise and investors loan their funds on mortgages and bonds for the high return, but when money is plentiful interest rates naturally decline and surplus funds are put into good stocks causing them to advance in price.

The latter condition exists in America. That country has accumulated the lion's share of the world's gold, and this surplus money is seeking higher earning power than bond interest offers. We suggest buying good stocks now for advancing prices.

What is Your Verdict!

Is it not safe to assume that the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, who manufacture in their own huge perfectly equipped plant practically every part of the Ford car, are the people best qualified to make replacement parts at the lowest price compatible with the high quality which must be maintained?

Manufacturers of spurious parts, operating as they do on a small scale with limited capital and inadequate equipment, cannot possibly make parts of the same quality or accuracy at anywhere near the low price you have to pay for Genuine Ford Parts. Yet you are asked to believe that these spurious parts not only equal Genuine Ford Parts in quality but can be produced for less!

We rest our case here. The verdict we leave to you.
