

"I Can Now Do My Work Without Feeling Tired"

Mrs. A. Moffatt, Roxton Falls, Que., writes:

"I suffered from a run-down system and nervous debility. I could not sleep or rest at night, and felt so weak I could not walk any distance. I took several tonics, but they only helped me while I was taking them. Mother advised me to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I felt great benefit from the first box, and continued taking several boxes. Today I feel like a new woman, and am able to do my work without that dreadful tired feeling."

CHAPTER XXIII.

She stood before him, proud and unbending; the count's face fell as her words shamed the manhood within him.

"Lie is not a nice word," she continued, mockingly; "and for a Venetian noble to tremble before a woman and feel himself a convicted liar, is no enviable position. But I am preventing the count from explaining the miracle of his appearance."

"Don't take that tone with me, Inez," he replied, savagely, "remember you are in my power; one word from me, and you are hurled from your present height of grandeur to the lowest depths of infamy and disgrace."

"I do not fear you," she retorted; "but I intend you to fear me, as every man should fear the woman he has deceived. I am no coward, Count Rinaldo; you might slay or torture me, but you could never cause me so fear."

She looked so bright, so brave, so undaunted, that he felt she spoke the truth, and that one part of his scheme had already failed; for Count Rinaldo had intended to trade upon the wife's fears. He knew that she was enormously rich, and he had arranged in his mind that she should purchase his silence at a very high price. But he saw at once there was no hope of that; he might trade upon her love, but never upon her fear.

"Inez," he said, gently, "it is useless for us to quarrel; let us be friends; believe me, it will be better policy for us both."

"Friends!" she repeated, with a tone of scorn and contempt in her voice that half maddened him; "friends!—to say nothing of the difference that exists in our position, I, a descendant of the Monteleones, could never stand on a friendly or equal terms with a liar, a traitor, and a coward."

"By Heaven, Inez," he replied, "if you were a man, and dared to say such words, I would slay you."

"Being a woman, Count Rinaldo," she said, with a mocking laugh, "I dare repeat them; and I tell you again that you are a liar, a traitor, and a coward."

He made a hasty step toward her, his face livid with anger, and half raised his hand.

"Complete the description of your character," she said; "let me, to those charming titles, so descriptive of your nobility, add yet another."

"If you retain any sense or wisdom," he replied, "you will be silent, and not irritate me; we shall not perhaps be here alone much longer. You had better listen to reason. If you do not, the moment my Lord Lynne returns, I will ask him to restore to me my wife."

Even then she gave no sign of fear. "I have much to say to you, Inez," he continued, rapidly; "do not let us waste another moment in idle altercation. We have important interests at stake."

"You have, perhaps," she replied, carelessly; "I have none."

"You shall not irritate me again," he said; "and, after all, you are foolish. Are there many people, think you, who would credit the story you have to tell? Were you not very willing to be imposed upon, Inez? Did you receive the news of my supposed death very calmly?"

"No," she replied; "may Heaven pardon you my long agony of suspense and grief."

"Was it so?" he said; "then Luigi deceived me; he told me you were easily consoled."

"I may add that you were easily deceived," she retorted.

Again anger nearly overpowered him, but by a strong effort he controlled himself.

"Nothing can make wrong right, I know," he continued. "I am not here to defend my conduct, or excuse it; it was the desperate resort of a desperate man. I did love you—nay, spare me that contemptuous look—I did love you. Had you been rich, I would have been faithful. Hear me patiently, I pray you, and then say what you will."

"When I persuaded you to that secret marriage, I was already a ruined man. My impetuous love hurried me along blindly, you were so beautiful, and I loved you so, that I felt that at any price you must be mine."

"I have borrowed largely in Seville, on the prospect of my marriage with a wealthy heiress, Donna Maria Fabez. After I had seen you, I gave up all pursuit of her. But a few weeks after our marriage my life was hunted from me. Debt, prison, and ruin stared me in the face. I was lost and bewildered. Then Donna Maria smiled upon me again, and almost asked me to follow her to Madrid. You were the only obstacle between me and fortune. I determined to give you up. I offer no excuse for what I did. I repented of the hasty marriage, which had plunged us both into ruin, and I resolved upon letting you believe that I was dead. I thought you were young, and would soon forget me. I thought I should marry Donna Maria, and share her fortune. In that hope I was deceived. She used me as a blind, and then cast me off with scant courtesy."

A dark look here crossed the Italian's face, which was not pleasant to see.

"I am telling you the simple truth, Inez," he resumed. "When I found that all further pursuit was useless, I came back to Serrano. I longed to see you again. Luigi told me all about the finding of the letter and your anger. I did not know whether I had made up my mind to disclose my scheme to you or not. I longed to see you; your face haunted me."

"Spare me!" she cried. "You humiliate me too much when you presume to speak of what you call your love."

"You did not always think so," he replied; "but you must hear the truth. I remained near Serrano until one day I found that I was lingering near a deserted ruin. It was from one of the old servants who lived with Madame Monteleone that I discovered all that had happened, and found that the wife I had deserted was the daughter of a rich English lord. She gave me a marvelous description of the splendours procured for La Signorina. Your new toilets and surroundings made a great impression upon old Nita. I saw and regretted at once, the blunder I had made. If I had been faithful and patient, I should have reaped a rich reward. I determined to find out your relatives, to follow you to England, and claim you as my wife."

An irrefragable shudder seized Inez at these words. She could not help it.

"I was many months," he continued, "before I could discover who was this English lord. At times I almost gave up the pursuit in despair. I found at last, by dint of patient inquiry, that your father was the wealthy Lord Lynne, of Lynnewolde. I was almost amused at the horrified expression on Luigi's face when I told him this. 'A nice mess you have made of your love affairs,' he said. 'I shall desert you. You must have been born under an unlucky star.' And I have never seen him from that time. I heard he had fallen in a duel; but I cannot say if it be correct."

"It was the beginning of this year before I could raise money to follow you to England. I went direct to Lynnewolde, and there I heard the story of your marriage. You were then on your wedding-tour. I need not say I took the precaution of adopting a disguise before visiting your home. I was rather overwhelmed by its splendor; I had not anticipated such magnificence. I heard of the large fortune left you by your father, and I resolved to have my proper share of it. Hearing you were in London, I followed you. I had letters of introduction from several Venetian nobles, and these procured me an entrance into the highest and best circles. I saw you at the Duchess of Rutwell's ball, and resolved to make myself known to you. You are more beautiful a thousand times, Inez, than the simple girl I saw and learned to love at Serrano."

"Have you finished?" she asked, quietly.

"Yes," he replied. "I have more to say; but I await your pleasure."

"I have nothing to say, Count Rinaldo," she said, proudly. "If I could find words in which to express my utter contempt for your character, and my loathing for yourself, I would use them. But I know of none; therefore I am silent."

Household Notes.

Cucumbers are nice cut into thin strips without paring, chilled in ice water and fried in deep fat.

Summer squash is quite delicious when pared, sliced, dipped in egg and breadcrumbs and fried as eggplant is done.

Orange sauce is delicious on raisin-diced tart apples, celery and coconuts, marinated with French dressing and dotted with tart jelly.

Very young carrots make a nice pickle. Boil until tender in salted water, then scrub, trim and boil in cider vinegar, using one pint of vinegar to two quarts of carrots. Add a little sugar and pickling spice tied in cheesecloth.

Before using canned foods, allow them to stand half an hour after being turned from can. This is done to freshen or reoxygenize them.

"PAPER, SIR!" CALL TO GREET OCEAN TRAVELLERS.

So far Australia has been backward in the matter of wireless news broadcasting. But Amalgamated Wireless (Australia), Ltd., has now made a move, and will go ahead until travellers at sea will awake to the cherry call of "Paper, sir!"

Then passengers will be able to read the very latest news in bed each morning.

A high power broadcasting station will, it is believed, be erected at a suitable point on the coast in preference to a site in one of the principal cities.

Arrangements will be made with newspapers and news agencies, says Rouger, to supply the power station with the latest news from all parts of the world up till midnight. A selection will then be made and immediately broadcasted.

Both overseas and inter-state steamship companies will be invited to subscribe to the scheme, and only those vessels whose owners are subscribers will be permitted to publish the broadcasted news.

NO COMFORT.

There is sorrow on the sea, there is trouble on the shore; but it doesn't comfort me to put up a bitter roar. Better face the hour of grief "with a heart for any f. a. t. e.," saying, "Tribulation's brief, joy will come at half past eight." Better say, when trouble's loose, "It will do no good to whine, and affliction will vanooze at ten minutes after nine." I don't hold with Sunny Jims who contend there is no we; brine will flow from human glands while we linger here below; care and trouble will exhaust, life will seem like twenty cents; there will sometimes be a frost for the merriest of gents. But the gloom will pass away, and the sun will shine again; nothing punk is here to stay, grief will slide at half past ten. When I see a wee ahead, I don't cry. "You don't exult! You are there, a thing of dread, but you'll wink out soon. I wish! And the prospects, when you're gone, will be fairer than before; you will vanish with the dawn, you'll be squelched by half past four." And a trouble pulls its freight it defied by dauntless hicks; it shows up a speedy gait, hitting on all four or six.

You are there, a thing of dread, but you'll wink out soon. I wish! And the prospects, when you're gone, will be fairer than before; you will vanish with the dawn, you'll be squelched by half past four." And a trouble pulls its freight it defied by dauntless hicks; it shows up a speedy gait, hitting on all four or six.

There is sorrow on the sea, there is trouble on the shore; but it doesn't comfort me to put up a bitter roar. Better face the hour of grief "with a heart for any f. a. t. e.," saying, "Tribulation's brief, joy will come at half past eight." Better say, when trouble's loose, "It will do no good to whine, and affliction will vanooze at ten minutes after nine." I don't hold with Sunny Jims who contend there is no we; brine will flow from human glands while we linger here below; care and trouble will exhaust, life will seem like twenty cents; there will sometimes be a frost for the merriest of gents. But the gloom will pass away, and the sun will shine again; nothing punk is here to stay, grief will slide at half past ten. When I see a wee ahead, I don't cry. "You don't exult! You are there, a thing of dread, but you'll wink out soon. I wish! And the prospects, when you're gone, will be fairer than before; you will vanish with the dawn, you'll be squelched by half past four." Complete Tie-up in Sydney Threatened.

Forest Fires in Quebec Cause Terrific Damage—Language Question Cause Split in Belgian Government.

COMPLETE TIE-UP EXPECTED.
SYDNEY, N.S., June 14.—A complete tie-up of every coal in District 26 is threatened, according to reports emanating from the mines at Glace Bay; this forms the latest development of the strike of miners on North Cape Breton which commenced at four o'clock yesterday and which tied up all operations on the Sydney and North Sydney side of the peninsula in consequence of the laying off of a number of workmen employed in the Florence Colliery. No negotiations have been entered into by the operators to induce the five hundred employees to return to work.

WANT McCAN'S HEAD.
GLACE BAY, June 14.—The local officials state their contention is an alternative to a general strike for the immediate removal of Superintendent McCann, chief official of the Dominion Coal Company, at Glace Bay.

QUEBEC'S FIRE LOSSES.
QUEBEC, June 14.—Several villages were completely wiped out, several sawmills, two dozen scattered dwellings and numerous barns were reduced to ashes, and immense tracts of valuable timber were swept. This particularly presents yesterday's toll of forest fires in Quebec. The situation is described by the chief forester as "catastrophic."

ITALIAN DUTIES REMOVED.
OTTAWA, June 14.—MacLeod Clarke, Canadian Commissioner at Milan, Italy, advised the Department of Trade and Liverpool Mining Engineer Here.

NEWFOUNDLAND ONE OF THE WORLD'S TREASURE CHESTS.

Why should the gold discovery at Bay not prove to be the Klondike? The interest which it has aroused has at least attracted the attention of the outside world to the possibilities for investors in this, the least and most neglected British colony. Capital to develop the wealth which we undoubtedly possess is sadly needed, and it is a pleasure to note that English investors have turned their thoughts in this direction. Such is the main purpose of the visit of David Murray Thomson, a Liverpool Mining Engineer, who is at present staying at the Balsam House. Mr. Thomson incidentally is going to Labrador and has for his companion Stanley Greenfield, of Hove, formerly Chief Petty Officer in the R.N.V.R. They both expect to get off to Labrador by the first steamer leaving here.

Mr. Thomson is an Associate of the Institution of Mining and Metallurgy, London, and a Fellow of the Royal Scottish Geographical Society. He has had a long and wide experience in mining, having been during the past 17 years in practically every corner of the world, except North America. His first gold strike was done in New Zealand in 1895. He has prospected in South America and all over Africa. A Telegram representative had the pleasure of an interesting interview with Mr. Thomson yesterday at the hotel. Asked what drew his attention to this part of the Empire Mr. Thomson replied that he had become interested through reading in the papers reports about Labrador and the development of the Hurmeby the Armstrong Whitworth works. He has practically a half million square feet of practically unknown territory, Labrador, he said, offered an immense and fascinating area for exploration and with the additional possibility of gold being discovered, the elements so blended that he could not resist coming. POLITICAL CRISIS IN BELGIUM.
BRUSSELS, June 14.—The political crisis arising from the conflict in Parliament over the proposed to substitute the Flemish language for French in the University of Ghent, came to a climax today, when after the Senate had rejected the resolution introduced by Baron Charles D. Brouhville for use of the Flemish language alongside the French, the Cabinet headed by Premier George T. Thonnin decided to resign. The King accepted the resignation. Not only was Parliament split on the question, the Chamber approving the Flemish language and the Senate being opposed to it, but there was division in the Cabinet itself.

MINERS ADOPT RESOLUTION.
SYDNEY, June 15.—A resolution adopted by 5,000 miners at a mass meeting at Glace Bay to-night states that a general strike of miners employed in the mines of the British Steel Corporation in Cape Breton, will take place at noon tomorrow unless fifty men, recently laid off, are reinstated before that time. About 7,000 men would be affected. 1,500 of these employed in the mines on the North side of Sydney Harbor where the 50 men were laid off, went on strike at 4 o'clock Thursday morning.

say a strong financial group in London is interested in Mr. Thomson's visit, and according to him, there is money aplenty there awaiting opportunity of investment in Colonial enterprises. Since his arrival Mr. Thomson has visited Bell Island, Argenta and many other mineral areas. Of Bell Island he says: "I am of opinion that the people at home do not realize the wonderful asset which the Empire possesses in this great ore deposit." Regarding the workings he states that for cleanliness and ventilation the mine was equal to or better than other workings on a similar scale that he has seen elsewhere. Regarding Silver Cliff, Mr. Thomson would say but little. That it appeals to him as a good proposition could be gleaned from the adroit way in which he turned some direct questions on the subject. He, however, stated that his visit here has convinced him that Newfoundland is one of the world's treasure chests, and he was puzzled to understand how it was that our mineral resources have remained stagnant, in view of the fact that we are close to the world's markets, with simple transportation problems, "white coal" everywhere, labor seeking employment abroad, and generous mining laws. Turning to other topics Mr. Thomson says our scenery is delightful, our salmon delicious and much better in flavor and texture than any to be had in England. He has also a good word to say for the various outport hotels at which he has put up. "Delightfully clean, serving good solid food, they are on the style of the Old Country Inns of a few years ago." Mr. Thomson is a keen observer, and during his visit he has gleaned and recorded a surprising lot of information about Newfoundland. He has a commission from the Daily Express, and no doubt the account of his trip will be a valuable advertisement for us. The Liverpool Daily Post of May 19th contains a half column article on Mr. Thomson in addition to a large size cut of himself and Mr. Greenfield as they were about to board S.S. Digby for Newfoundland.

Household Hints.

Serve the correct dessert: With the substantial meat dinner, fruit or a light pudding; with a vegetable dinner, a rich dessert made with milk and eggs.

Time and clothes may be saved if small articles, such as handkerchiefs and stockings, are pinned together with a safety pin and thrown over the line.

When a child has a contagious disease and quarantine is necessary, the bedroom with a glass door proves a blessing, as he can see into the hall or adjoining room.

Fill meringues with whipped cream into which has been beaten sifted banana pulp. Sweeten and flavor the cream and fill the meringues just before serving.

Municipal Council.

WEEKLY MEETING.

The regular weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held yesterday afternoon. Mayor Cook presided and Councillors Vintcombe, Collier, Ryan and Dowden were present. G. L. Whitty, Dominion Secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association, asked permission to rope off certain sections of the streets around Sergeant's Monument, Garrison Hill, on Memorial Day, Sunday, July 1st, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. His request was acceded to and the City Engineer instructed to see him with regard to same.

The Secretary of the Newfoundland Road Commission asked if the Council could supply them with any old piping, which could be utilized in connection with the rebuilding of bridges, etc. The Council has none to offer.

F. Berteau called attention to the unsatisfactory condition of Pleasant and Springdale Streets. The Superintendent was instructed to inquire into same.

G. E. Taylor drew attention to the condition of sidewalk, Patrick Street. His communication was referred to the Roads West Committee.

Job Brothers and Company asked if arrangements could be made to have the plank sidewalk leading from Water Street to the breakwater of Job's Cove, replaced with concrete, and if the Council would be prepared to pay all or part of the cost. The Engineer was asked to submit an estimate of cost.

W. D. McCarter, Architect, forwarded explanation in connection with materials used in roofing of the building, Bonaventure Avenue, stating that the material first decided upon had been found unsuitable to this climate and that in replacing same it had not been his intention to violate the City Regulations.

The residents and storekeepers along Duckworth Street thanked the Council for their prompt attention given the petition in connection with street sprinkling, etc. They suggested that garbage receptacles be placed along this thoroughfare as in other cities, where citizens can dispose of waste paper, fruit peelings, etc., instead of throwing them on the sidewalks as at present. They were also of opinion that notice should be placed, warning suburban residents against throwing hay, moss, boughs, and other rubbish into the drains, giving same a very untidy appearance. These matters will be given consideration.

W. Rogers and W. Sullivan applied for position as inspector of electric wiring. This matter has been the subject of communication between the Council and the Newfoundland Board of Fire Underwriters but nothing definite has been decided upon.

R. G. Benson's application to have light at junction of Angel Place and Alexander Street moved to inner part of the street was not acceded to, as the Council is of opinion the light was placed in the best possible position.

The tender of A. Osmond to build Fish market, Steer's Cove, according to specification, was accepted.

The following matters were referred to the City Engineer:—Communication of J. Barter, Inspector S.P.C.A., with regard to road conditions, Holloway Street, and that of R. J. Grouchy, asking that attention be given sidewalk, Belvidere Street, and G. LeDrew for permission to bring drain Alexander Street.

The following plans were passed, subject to the City Engineer's approval, and conditional upon the applicant's conforming to the Municipal Act:—Garage, S. Ryall, Circular Rd.; Extension, A. Faulkner, Charlton St.; Coachhouse, J. Edwards, Circular Rd.

Messrs. Ryan and Holden's application to erect dwelling, Southside, was deferred.

Permit was refused Ryan and Spurrell to build factory, Gear Street. The place in question is a "cul-de-sac," where water and sewerage facilities are not available.

It was brought to the notice of the Council that a number of dwellings on Golf Avenue and Mundy Pond Rd., are not connected with the water and sewer mains. Although same were extended to these streets some time ago at considerable expense to the City, it was decided that the owners be given one month in which to install sanitary appliances.

The City Engineer pointed out the necessity of having Job's Bridge replanked. This work is to be arranged for immediately.

Tenders were ordered to be called for quantity of cast iron pipe and quarry spalls for City Works.

Courts Treat Bad Boys on New Lines.

ADOPT CONSTRUCTIVE ATTITUDE

The bad boy is about to have his day in court.

The boy who steals fruit from the corner stand is going to come into his own. The girl who steals the jewelry from the woman whose baby she tends during the afternoon is going to have some real attention paid to her. The terror of the neighbourhood, who delights in setting fires just because he likes to see the flames, also will have his innings.

They are not "bad," from the point of view of the men and women dealing with them. The bad boy is merely the sick boy, and the bad girl is only the girl who has some defect, either physical or mental, or even both.

The boy who steals fruit may need to have his adenoids removed. The girl who decks herself out in her employer's jewelry probably has a system utterly polluted by the drainage from diseased tonsils. The terror of the neighbourhood very probably is deaf and needs medical care and protection.

Courts Undertake New Constructional Work.

Such is the new basis of constructional work of the courts. Such are the premises that men and women, the probation officers, social workers and even the judges themselves are working upon in their treatment of the delinquent child. Not that he is bad, but that he is undoubtedly sick. Not that he needs institutional care and restraint, so much as he needs a thorough physical examination by a competent physician, together with whatever course of treatment or operation that physician may advise.

Take this scene, for example—this page from real life, the story that really happened:

A stern-faced judge wrapped in his silken robes, sat at his bench in an oak-finished courtroom. The sunlight glancing through the window, touched the face of a little, pale-checked boy, standing by the side of the probation officer—the prisoner of the day. Such a little fellow he was—so small that he could barely reach above the railing, so small that spectators in the courtroom had to crane their necks to see him.

What had he done, this child—to find himself within the clutches of the law? Listen while the complaint is being read:

"This boy, your honor, goes to school in South Acton. While in the boys' basement the other day he threw lighted matches into a pile of waste paper, thereby starting a fire that might have destroyed the schoolhouse. That it did not was due to the prompt action of others, who were near."

Why Had He Done It.

The judge, leaning over the bar questioned the boy. Why had he done this thing? Had he no respect for the lives or the property of others? Didn't he know what wrong-doing was?

The child mumbled, plainly frightened. He was so little—and the law was so big! So little, like the little lad who calls you "Daddy," perhaps—that little lad in whom you are going to live over all your youth and all your fun. Only—he's going to have all the chances that you missed.

Something wrong about him caught the eye of his honor. Perhaps it was the evident frailness of the lad, the too pallid cheeks, the tired stoop of the shoulders, the whole general attitude that somehow spelled under-nourishment and malnutrition to the practiced eye of the man. And so, instead of uttering some imposing sentence about the Lyman School or Reform School, he did this thing:

He motioned the guardian, or the father of the child to the bench, and his sentence was: "Take this child to a doctor and see that he has a thorough examination. After that we'll see what we can do. This case is continued."

It was Justice Prescott Keyes of the Central Middlesex Court in Concord, and his judgment and his wisdom are directly responsible for the fact that 11-year-old Earl Ladd will have no reform school record to his discredit. No sojourn to the Lyman School, or at Shirley awaits him. Instead, Earl Ladd was taken to one of the best physicians in Concord. An order of the court is an order to be obeyed, and it was obeyed at once.

Examined By Doctor.

Earl Ladd was examined by a doctor, who recognized in the partly open mouth and the nasal tones the sign of adenoids. He is recovering and everybody concerned believes the operation will mean the turning point for him—not only in point of health, but in other things as well.

Girl With "Wrong Crowd."

When a girl gets in with the "wrong crowd," when she stays out nights, goes to movies and dances with unknown men, the very next step is that she finds herself in court; and, after that, she finds herself being examined by the Baker Foundation. If the home influence is wrong, she is removed to another home where the influence is better. If the crowd is too much for her, she is placed where there will be no crowd.

"It is all a part of the general trend toward constructive work with children, just as it has been going on with adults for some time," commented Herbert F. Parson, prohibition commissioner for Massachusetts. "It is an attempt to apply the remedy to the disease while the disease is in its infancy. But there are times when everything fails."

"Just now we are especially interested in those two boys concerned in the payroll hold-up, where the girl held them off, you know. They are boys of eighteen and nineteen, indicted now by the grand jury and awaiting trial. One of them was caught, and he told, so that the other one was finally caught also. Our records show that since they were 12 years old, both of these boys have been subject to our reconstructive processes. That is, they have been to the Lyman School and they have been to Shirley. Everything had been done for them in the work of reconstruction that could be done, though we did not employ the methods of examination, medical, psychological and social, that we are doing now."

"But all that we had applied had apparently failed. Those boys were lawbreakers and now, beyond the jurisdiction of the juvenile court, they will have to stand trial. And they have admitted that they are responsible for a chain of daylight apartment breaks, as well as the other crime."

On the Right Track?

"Those things make you wonder," ruminated Mr. Parsons, "make you wonder if you are on the right track at all. Of course, the only way we can prove it is by watching the records of the men who come into the clutches of the law in the next six or eight years. The hold-up man, the apartment thief, the gunman, is a young man generally. He will be the man in that time who is examined for physical and for mental defects, who is being analyzed and examined to-day, to see what additions or subtractions to his make up may do for him."

THE LURE OF MONEY.
Oh, a dollar is a nice thing and a splendid thing to own. In all the coins of all the world no fairer coin is known: But there is something richer than the dollars you collect. And something money cannot buy, and that's the world's respect. A dollar's worth an honest deed and worth an honest trade. There's joy in every silver coin when honestly it's made: But all the silver dollars which the nation has to spend Aren't worth a troubled conscience, or the good-will of a friend. There isn't any money that is worth the price of shame. The richest treasure on the earth is not an honest name. And though you stole a fortune vast, you still would come to grief, You might be very rich in purse, but still you'd be a thief. Heed not the lure for money when it whispers of deceit. Refuse to touch the silver coin which urges you to cheat; There isn't any dollar worth a pale and haunted face, Or any gold or silver worth the anguish of disgrace. THE FANS SEE FIRST GAME—CADETS 2 GOALS; B.I.S. 0.

Ideal weather conditions for the season for 1923 was ushered in last night. The Cadets, who were defeated by 7:30 Mayor Cook kicked the ball and declared the season open.

THE GAME.

The play opened with the B.I.S. kicking the western goal. It was not until the ball was kicked into the Cadets territory and started a movement on goal. The Cadets cleared in fine style and play then continued to centre field. The Cadets took a hand in the play after some clever work, Walter was sent in a scorer, but failed to beat the B.I.S. goal. Shortly after, Donnelly, for the B.I.S., made a run but lost to Maddigan, who passed to W. Callaghan, who kicked the B.I.S. goal, scoring the first goal of the season. When the ball was kicked the play became concentrated, field and some very good play was in evidence, although the players showed signs of fatigue. The B.I.S. made several plays, but could not beat the goal. A free kick just outside the penalty area. Higgins took the kick but could not beat the goal. The B.I.S. made a goal, which was converted by Angel; bringing the score up to nine points.

awarded a corner. Flynn took the kick and placed a beautiful shot across the goal which was placed between the posts by Meaney, scoring No. 2 for the Cadets. On the ball being recentered, play became lively, but no further scoring resulted. The final whistle sounded leaving the Cadets the victors by 2 goals to nil. Mr. C. Quick refereed the game in a very capable manner. To-night's game will see the Saints and C.E.I. in action.

GUARDS TRACK TEAM.

The Guards track team had a workout last night at the Ayre Athletic grounds. The boys are getting down to serious training and will give a good account of themselves in the season's events. Quite a few "dark horses" were on the field last night, and it is said they are above the "all-so ran" class.

INTERCOLLEGIATE RUGGER.

The Methodist College team took a second fall out of the B.F.C. team yesterday afternoon when they defeated them by 9 to nil. The M.C. boys have a strong team and play well together. In the first half Angel scored on a drop kick, giving his team a four point lead. In the second half Johnson went over for a touch-down, which was converted by Angel; bringing the score up to nine points.

By this victory the Methodist College won the shield presented by Sir Joseph Outerbridge.

Sachem in Port.

The Furness liner Sachem, Captain S. Furneaux, 8 days from Liverpool, reached port at 7 o'clock last evening. Sagona Returns From Straits of Belle Isle.

GOOD SIGN OF LOBSTERS AND COD REPORTED. There is a good sign of lobsters around Port aux Choix, is the report brought here by the s.s. Sagona, Capt. Tavernor, which ship docked at Curling Sunday evening from her first trip to the Straits of Belle Isle for the season. The ship made all ports of call at Battle Harbor and met with no ice. She reports a good sign of codfish at Cow Head and Bonne Bay. The ice the past winter did not shift the wharf. Ralph lost last fall near Forteau, not the coal steamer which came to grief on Flowers Cove Ledges. And both ships are lying in the same position they were in when the Sagona made her last trip last December.—Western Star.

First Commercial Holiday.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—This first Commercial Holiday under the schedule of the Importers Association will fall on June 22nd. As this day will be Friday, I would like to suggest to the Importers Association that they change the date to the following Monday, June 25th. There are various reasons why Monday would be more acceptable to the general public. Friday, amongst a large number of our citizens is a meatless day and in the case of those who intend going into the country to spend the day motoring or fishing obvious inconvenience would be felt in being deprived of the use of meat. The second objection is that the clerks in the stores would want all their energy to handle the maximum volume of trade that always awaits them on Saturdays. They would be too tired on Saturday following the holiday of Friday to do justice to their work and the trade would suffer accordingly. The suggestion seems to be a reasonable one, that the holiday be changed to Monday and under all the circumstances, I believe that the Importers Association would do well and cause no loss or inconvenience to any body whilst pleasing those who cannot use meat on Friday by making the change. Yours truly, CITIZEN. St. John's, June 15th, 1923.

Child Burnt to Death.

MOTHER MAKES FRANTIC EFFORTS AT RESCUE.

A message received this forenoon by the Deputy Minister of Justice from Mr. J. F. Staples, English Harbour, records a shocking burning fatality which occurred there this morning. According to the message the home of Thomas Green took fire at 5 a.m. and shortly afterwards was razed to the ground. A daughter aged 19 years was trapped in the burning building and consumed. The mother made a frantic effort to rescue the child and sustained very severe burns. Nothing was saved, and the family are left destitute.

Play Grounds for Children.

ROTARIANS OPEN CAMPAIGN. The St. John's Rotary Club in their survey of the boys of the city conducted last fall found that next to compulsory education, a play ground for children was most desirable. The compulsory education programme being too large to handle under present circumstances, the Rotarians directed their attention to the play ground for children, having in view particularly the children of the congested parts of the city. The Municipal Council has fallen in line with the idea of play grounds and has allocated a portion of Bannerman and Victoria Parks for the purpose. The Rotarians to-day opened a subscription list to get funds to erect the necessary swings, straddle horses, slide ways, chute the other things that children delight to play on. The Municipal Council it is understood is also rendering some financial assistance. The necessity of play grounds in these days of fast driving vehicles is apparent to everybody and it is hoped that the public will respond generously to the Rotarians call for funds.

Magistrates Court.

One drunk was discharged. A domestic belonging to Caplin Bay, was arrested under warrant by the police yesterday, at the instance of Joseph Burnstein, New Gower Street, for the larceny of a cape and skirt, valued at $30.00, the property of Mrs. Burnstein, taken within the past two months. Joseph Burnstein who appeared against the defendant gave no evidence that would lead to the conviction of the accused, and she was honourably acquitted.

No Hope of Recovery.

Mr. Andrew Bugden received word a few days ago from Toronto saying that his brother Benjamin had been operated on but the doctors held out no hope for his recovery. The news will be a great disappointment to his friends who anticipated that the operation would be of benefit. Mr. Benjamin Bugden is a printer by trade, formerly working on the Evening Herald staff. About sixteen years ago he left here to reside in the Queen City of the West.

Craig, President of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, after a three weeks motor trip through Central and Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta. He reports the crop conditions excellent everywhere.

FOREST FIRE SITUATION IMPROVES. QUEBEC, June 15.

Sweden's Paper Money May Be Worth More Than Gold.

STOCKHOLM, May 17.—(A.P.)—When the dollar began to rise in London recently, the Swedish State Bank continued to sell dollars in order to keep the Swedish crown on par with the American currency, but the dollar went up to 3.765 from 3.74. The State Bank at the beginning of this year had a portfolio of foreign currency amounting to 160 million crowns but this has now been reduced to 63 million.

STAMBOULSKY CAPTURED. SOFIA, June 15.

Former Premier Stamboulsky was captured to-day at Molavi, a village near Slavoviza. A sensation has been created by the discovery in the archives of the National Bank that Stamboulsky, last March cashed a check for one hundred and twenty million levas. The sum having been authorized at a secret meeting of three members of the cabinet for the purpose of expenditure which was not designated, beyond a statement that it was for security of the State. The moral character of Stamboulsky is being attacked by the press.

BONAR LAW SERIOUSLY ILL. LONDON, June 15.

The condition of Andrew Bonar Law, which seemed to have improved after his resignation from the Premiership, doesn't continue so favorably, according to reports circulated amongst his friends in Parliament. It is believed that Bonar Law has grown worse during the past few days and that he is now seriously ill.

IMPERIAL OIL TANKER ASHORE. HALIFAX, June 15.

Information was received in Halifax this morning that the Imperial Oil Company's tanker Imperoyal, had run ashore on Grimes Rocks, near Casco at an early hour and was lying in a dangerous position. The Imperoyal in command of Capt. Sloane was returning empty from Montreal and bound here for cargo. She is twenty-six hundred tons dead weight. The Canadian Govt. steamer

Arras is being rushed to her assistance. Details are lacking.

Concrete tests also have been made. The reasons for the tests were to ascertain the suitability of the various sands for concrete and mortar work.

The experiments with the various sands were undertaken at the laboratory as a part of the work of ascertaining methods that will assist the concrete user in obtaining the best results in the use of the material.

Fresh Salmon for English Market.

Determined to Discover Best Sand for Concrete.

CHICAGO, June 6.—(A. P.)—Row after row of little glass bottles, filled with sand and carefully piled away in glass covered cabinets is a part of the technical "library" at the Structural Materials Research Laboratory at Lewis Institute in Chicago. It is probably the only collection of its kind in existence, and the information contained on the labels of the bottles gives an interesting insight into the part that science is playing in modern industrial undertakings. This "sand library" was started 10 years ago, and specimens have been added from time to time until there are more than 2,800 different bottles of sand in the collection. The specimens come from every state in the union and from Canada, Cuba, Mexico and other foreign countries.

Employment.

We regret to say that although Midsummer Day is at hand when all our people should be working, there is very little improvement in the employment situation. It will evidently be a long time, probably a year or more, before the Humber Valley project will offer employment to any considerable number of laborers. At the present time there are about 900 there and this is a very small number when compared to the total of those who are seeking employment. We do not wish to take the role of a pessimist and make conditions appear worse than they really are, but truth compels us to say that the general outlook for the future welfare of the people of this country who depend on manual labor for their living never looked so gloomy at this time of the year. There is, it is true, an improvement in labor circles along the waterfront the past two or three weeks due to the arrival of so many steamers with freights of coal, salt and general cargoes; but only about fifteen to twenty per cent. of the men who want work succeed in getting it from this uncertain source. If there is a job to be done that requires only twenty men one hundred will congregate on the waterfront seeking to be taken on. The situation has been helped out somewhat also this month in the loading of some ten cargoes of dried codfish for Oporto, Brazil and West Indies. This work, however, is about over as nearly all the 1922 catch of fish has been shipped. Unless arrangements can be made to provide employment for about 1000 St. John's men at the Humber, conditions in a great many families will be very distressful in the course of the summer. What then can be expected in their case the coming winter? It is to be hoped that the fish will strike in as usual next week, and from this source many men who can procure a boat and a jigger will be able to earn a good day's pay in supplying the market with fresh codfish every day when the weather is fair enough to get to the fishing ground. There are firms in town, we understand, who are prepared to purchase fish from the knife and salt bulk fish.

The Party at the Wheel.

Notwithstanding the depression in trade and business of all kinds, there are, we are informed, more motor cars running in the city this summer than in any previous year. There are about 450 cars registered and over 200 are in daily use in the city streets and on the country roads. So far, thanks be to Providence, no accident to life or limb has occurred. To encourage the drivers of these cars to keep up this good record all the season we shall attribute this immunity from accidents to their care and vigilance. If there is any doubt we feel that it is most helpful towards what we have in mind to give them the benefit of that sentiment. Encouragement will, we believe, in this case accomplish much more good than carping criticism. We believe that every driver of a motor car does his or her best when the seat at the wheel is taken to avoid running down a pedestrian. The majority of the motor car drivers keep this intention on top in their minds till the journey is over. But there are unfortunately some few who soon become obsessed by the speed craze, and when there is no police officer in sight scorch ahead with too much speed and recklessness. When an accident involving loss of life occurs they expect the sympathy of the public. They do not deserve it and should not get it. It is better to say this now than to wait till a fatal accident occurs. It is better for the driver whose conscience tells him that he is often a perpetrator of lawless driving to read this to-day than to be confronted with it the "morning after." By doing so he may be induced to exercise more care to give up reckless driving on the suburban roads, and the accident that is possible and highly probable will not occur at all. This applies to only about five per cent. of the motor car drivers and the Motor Association probably knows who they are. Our comment has been suggested by seeing one of these drivers scorching in Monkstown Road last evening at a speed of fifty miles an hour. There were scores of children in the street, but providentially they were all on the sidewalks when the speed fiend flashed along enveloped in the cloud of dust that he had raised. Leaving such speeders in a class to themselves and turning to the careful drivers it must be said in the interest of truth and justice that the conduct of some pedestrians is a sore trial to conscientious and careful drivers. They do not exercise ordinary common sense in crossing the streets and do not stop to take a look to see if a motor car is approaching and are apparently as oblivious to possible danger as if they were crossing a field in the country. The pedestrian has his and her rights, but they have no right to abandon the use of ordinary prudence and common sense. Such conduct embitters and discourages the most careful driver and makes him think that he is a fool to be exercising such scrupulous care. Let the driver and the adult pedestrian do their sincere best all the time to avoid accidents and the chances are ninety-nine to a hundred there will be no accidents. In the case of young children it is different. The whole burden of the care must fall on the shoulders of the man or the woman at the wheel.

Resolutions Subject of Discussion. The resolutions of the Municipal Council setting forth certain sections of the city for cab stands and motor cars for hire is the subject of much discussion by those directly concerned. The chief of these is the East End Taxi Co., which for some time past has been parking opposite their office on Water Street. They claim that having a premises on Water Street they should be allowed the privilege enjoyed by other business firms in respect to parking their cars.

A Slight Blaze. Shortly after 10 o'clock this morning the Central firemen responded to an alarm of fire from box 228, Cooktown Road. The blaze, which was at the residence of Mr. Ronald Martin, Freshwater Road, was caused by sparks from a chimney igniting the shingles on the roof of the dwelling. The damage done was not extensive and is covered by insurance.

Train Notes. Thursday's west bound express arrived at Bishop's Falls 55 minutes late. The express with the Kyle's mails and passengers left for tax Basques on time. The local from Carbonar arrived at 1 p.m. The Trapsay train which went out at 11:30 a.m. took a large number of passengers.

Political Notes.

The Assembly was officially opened two weeks ago yesterday. During this two weeks the Legislature sat two days. It is to be hoped that beginning on Monday, the Government will have its full programme of business outlined and that no further delays will interrupt continuous proceedings. That the Humber contract falls short of the expectations of public opinion is evidenced by the many who are disappointed and dissatisfied with the known terms contained therein. The Reid's as Government contractors are the much favoured party in the agreements, an admission which was thought improbable in view of the repeated statements of the Prime Minister who said "He was going to put the Reid's in their places."

By the terms of the contract the Reid's, under the title of the Newfoundland Power and Paper, Limited, will be paid by the Newfoundland Government two million dollars in 5 1/2 per cent. bonds, the interest of same amounting to one hundred and ten thousand dollars yearly for an indefinite period. For this huge sum the Reid's relinquish their Dock railway and transportation services which have already cost the Newfoundland Government five million dollars to operate during the past three and a half years. In other words the Reid's are relieved of an expensive burden for which relief they are to be paid handsomely by the taxpayers of the Colony for many years to come.

The Reid's still retain their electric light, street car service, and other subsidiary enterprises which, unlike the railway and other enterprises, have been good paying propositions, and will no doubt continue so. The Reid's, with the exception of some 200,000 acres of land which were in dispute since the time they claimed it in 1904, hold all their other vast water and timber areas in the Colony. Their claims which have been transferred to the Newfoundland Power and Paper, Limited, are in every sense of the word still held by them. As already stated, the Reid's are the controlling factors in the company this named.

Under the terms of the contract it will also be noted the Newfoundland Government which together with the Imperial Government guarantees the interest and principal on twenty million dollars; that the Newfoundland Government is only secured by a second mortgage which can only be satisfied after that of the Imperial Government, which means in the event of the enterprise becoming a failure, that the British Government will have first claim to the extent of ten million dollars and interest on same before any claims of the Newfoundland Government can be entertained. Thus it will be seen that the local Government in whose jurisdiction the project is centered, is accorded the least and least protection.

In addition to these big concessions the Reid's or the Newfoundland Power and Paper, Limited, are granted extraordinary concessions in the form of free entry for all materials that would be otherwise dutiable under the Customs' tariff, also free from any taxation whatsoever as might be levied upon equally large enterprises which have or might operate in the Colony. Strictly speaking, Newfoundland furnishes the capital and the industry; with the vague promise of getting in return one hundred and fifty thousand dollars as a royalty on the output of the company.

The Reid's or the Newfoundland Power and Paper, Limited, are the favored of Municipal Income, Business Profits, and other taxes, and the Newfoundland Government is committed to a pledge which, if called upon to pay, will cost the Treasury five hundred thousand dollars a year. So far the complete agreements have not been tabled for the consideration of the Assembly; but it is to be hoped that same will be submitted on Monday, but it is clearly pointed out that this new Humber or Reid deal is identical to that of the one introduced into the House of Assembly on Thursday, April 15th, 1915, when Sir Edward (now Lord) Morris tabled resolutions for the confirmation of a contract with the Newfoundland Product Corporation, Ltd., who were represented by one known as Carbide Wilson and the Reid Newfoundland Company.

In these resolutions which are copied in the Journal of that year, a great deal of the matter which made up the lengthy speech of the Prime Minister in the House on Wednesday last is similarly contained. But the contracts are vastly different, the terms are from every

Mr. Morine and the Mail.

June 14, 1923. Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir:—I shall be obliged to you if you will publish the following. Yours truly, ALFRED B. MORINE.

Editor "Mail." Sir:—Again I am obliged to you for the publication of a letter, though you accompanied it with two columns of scathing denunciation, in which you likened like a ship in a heavy sea.

The "insulting comment" on my first letter of which I complained was not that you charged me with being a director of the Bennett campaign, and with bringing election petitions in 1893 with improper motives, but that you refused to accept my denial and that you made a wholly irrelevant reference to "the Greenspond" letter, for no other purpose, apparently, than to insult and annoy.

Upon the election petitions presented in 1893 you quote the late Judge Prowse. No sane man who remembers him would accept as reliable his testimony concerning incidents in his own time, however valuable or otherwise his researches into the past may have been. It is sufficient to say of his remarks upon the 1893 election petitions, that he was removed from the Central District Court bench in 1898 by the Government for those petitions, and that quotations for that time. His remarks on the subject are as unreliable as your own would be in a partisan journal.

You say that "Mr. Morine is not a political factor to-day, why should we worry ourselves or the country with observations about him." Precisely! Why do you write more about him than about any other man? Why do you persistently abuse and vilify him? Why do you make statements against him which you cannot dispute for those who wish to withdraw from the arena of your valuable space to say he is played out, instead of showing it by omitting to mention him?

But recalling the fact that early in 1918 you came to my door in Toronto with a telegram which you said was from the present Sir Richard Squires, urging me to come back to this country, to help save it from threatened destruction, and remembering that down to the hour in 1919 when I joined the Canadian Government, I was personally gratified with you and your present associates, I am naturally puzzled to know why I should now be so little esteemed by them and you. The Greenspond letter, 1888, and the 1893 election petitions, do not explain my slump in your estimation and theirs, for you knew all about those things long before you sought my aid. What, then, has lessened the esteem in which I am held, the value placed upon me? Surely it cannot only be a matter of "your grapes." It cannot be that, for I can lay the later union to my soul that you mourn my loss, that you are lonely without me, that you would dearly love to have me with you again. Of course, you'll deny this implication, for you could not afford to admit the truth, but there are the facts for the public to decide.

"THE GREENSPOND LETTER." You have made frequent unflattering references to me in relation to "the Greenspond letter," and I seem to be compelled to deal with an old matter which I should, frankly, prefer to let alone. My reluctance is largely because I did not quite perceive how it can be discussed without pain to certain innocent people. Let me briefly state the facts about that letter, and then reply to your question "does he regard the use of such a weapon against a political opponent as one of the characteristics of a 'good citizen.'" I suppose you mean, would I regard the use of the facts that letter was intended to elicit as proper against a political opponent, for the letter itself was not intended for such use, but merely to ascertain the truth of certain charges which had been made. Your question seems to indicate clearly the quality you condemn in the letter. It was written in 1887, I think, or 28 years ago. A fine old lady of the city, the mother of the Crossman brothers, living at that time on the N.E. corner of Prescott and Duckworth Streets, spoke to me as one of the members for Bonavista district, saying that a domestic servant then in her employ had been betrayed and given a syphilitic disease by a married woman in high government office, and she asked my assistance for the girl, the daughter of a supporter living in Bonavista district. I wrote to a colleague living in Greenspond, himself a Justice of the Peace, asking him to ascertain the exact truth from the girl herself, and saying that if it proved the charges as made, I would or might use it to drive the offender from the public office he occupied.

The truth was never ascertained, and the matter would never have been made public, but my colleague and I got into opposite political camps, and he gave my letter to my opponents, who used it against me in Bonavista Bay, the people of which heard the whole matter discussed, and vindicated me by their votes. It was, then, my opponents, not me, who actually made public use of the private matter in this connection, and my opponents have from that day to this used the private matter for their public purposes. Would I have made use of the facts in the way my letter suggested, if they had been established to my satisfaction? I cannot now say, for at 66 years of age a man cannot say what he would have done at 30. The fact is, I did not use them, but, offended, if at all, by harbouring the thought of using them, and an offence which is merely mental, and never develops into action, seems rather small in contrast with many overt acts of my opponents. Was not my thought, never acted upon, less objectionable than the conduct of my opponents in making public use of my private letter, regardless of the hurt inflicted on innocent third parties? Was it not less so than the conduct of journalists who have used the letter publicly for over thirty years to harm me without a thought for the others they were injuring? Would it have been right to use the truth in the manner suggested? That is to say, if men holding public office are guilty of grievous moral offences in private life, is it right to make public use against them of their misconduct? In Great Britain the answer has not been consistent. Delke and Parrell, for instance, were driven from public life, practically by an exposure of their misconduct in private life, but on the other hand, the private faults of many public men are never mentioned. Perhaps the quality and number of the offences themselves determines the propriety of using the material. Moderate drinking should not be used against a candidate, but how about drunkenness? One that might be forgotten, but if an habitual thief becomes a candidate, would it not be right to expose him? The fact of one's sexual offences might be suppressed, but a notorious evil doer in this respect might properly be exposed on this ground as a candidate. I confess that even now I do not think that notoriously bad men in private life should be trusted with public office. What do you think on this point? In the case of the Greenspond letter referred to, the offence alleged was very grievous, and the victim apparently was one I was under some duty of defending and protecting, for, in 1888, a member for a district was a sort of protection for all the people he represented. When the letter was written, I believed the charge was true, and, being impetuous naturally, I acted upon the spur of the moment, with the thought of going to the offender with proof in my hands, but what I really would have done, had the proof been produced, I cannot now say, being older, and more prudent, I hope, if not any better otherwise. Now, those are the facts about "the Greenspond letter." Sir, and to many long known to you, Sir, and to many others, and advantage has been taken of my comparative helplessness, because, for the sake of others, I did not wish to discuss the matter, to grossly misrepresent the letter year after year, until I am at last weary of misrepresentation. What was so wrong about my conduct, that it should be used against me for 36 years. In the last general election campaign, men on your own side circulated slanders concerning the private conduct of a certain Bennett candidate, and it is undoubted that if you could lay any such charge against me, as the Greenspond letter refers to, you would be overjoyed to do it. The writing of this very letter was a private matter, which never eventuated in any public action by me, and all your tribe use the private act to do me harm as a public man. In 1919, the Greenspond letter was widely circulated in pamphlet form by your associates to injure me and my party. In 1913, it was sent to Canada, and accompanied by the greenspond falsehoods concerning me, it was used there to injure me in the public employment I held. The cowardly attack made upon me, in the Commons at Ottawa, in which one Carvell made use of it, has been republished here by you on more than one occasion to injure me politically. What can be said in defence of using my private confidential letter publicly, by those who, like you, condemn me for the mere expression of an intention to use against a public man the fact of his gross immorality in private life. Why do you use my private letter against me, yet condemn me for merely harboring the thought of exposing the private misdoings of a public man? My thought, if a wrong one, was very excusable in contrast with the offence my letter referred to, yet though both thought and offence were private, you publicly condemn me with evident zest for private thinking of publicly exposing a very gross wrong upon a poor girl. My private conduct you condemn, yet if it were wrong, it was in that it proposed to do what you are all the time doing in my case, condemning the private acts of a public man. When you came to me in 1918, seeking my help, you knew all that you now know about the Greenspond letter. So did all your political associates. Yet, apparently, you and they saw no unforgivable harm in that letter, and were glad to have me as a colleague; yet in 1919 and ever since you and your associates have never allowed the memory of the Greenspond letter to die, or lost an opportunity to injure me by referring to it, coupled with hypocritical whining about the enormity of using the private misconduct of public men to their public disadvantage.

Yours truly, ALFRED B. MORINE.

Legislative Council. Mr. McNamara. President. — We had a few observations on the speech of his Excellency and wish to thank him for his previous speech in regard to his Excellency's visit to this country. His Excellency's visit was only a few months ago, and a great interest was shown in his industrial concerns, and will administer the affairs of the Colony during his absence. That well known personality which is so characteristic of his Excellency. It is true that the progress of the colony is being made in a most notable manner, and notably English speaking from her development reduced her income, and duties to some extent, and increased her number of men. One million compared with ten out of work is a most significant fact. It must appear that the Government should obtain in the future if our main interest had not been in the same consideration, and the same treatment accorded to the same. It has been given the Humber, and all is said and done, it is to be hoped that the industry represented by the earnings of the colony, and it is most gratifying to see our four hundred and forty thousand employed as a result of the speech from his Excellency. JUNE 14, 1923.

Mr. McNamee. President—I would like to make a few observations on the speech of his Excellency the Governor and wish to take advantage of this opportunity of associating myself with previous speakers in welcoming him and his family to Newfoundland. His Excellency although only a few months, has already shown a great interest in our social and industrial concerns, and I am sure will administer the affairs of the Colony well known fair play and impartiality which is traditionally his. It is true that post-war reconstruction the world over is proceeding slowly, but compared with conditions one year ago, it will be observed that marked improvement is being made in the British Empire and notably England. It is fast and notably England. It is fast and notably England. It is fast and notably England.

It is in view of these facts that I am glad to see that the Governor is so well pleased with this Chamber, and I am sure that he will be able to do much for the Colony. It is in view of these facts that I am glad to see that the Governor is so well pleased with this Chamber, and I am sure that he will be able to do much for the Colony. (BY OBSERVATOR.)

OUR "KNIGHTS OF THE REALM."

In looking over our list of "Knights of the Realm," I notice that at present we have in our midst no less than four Sir Williams, namely: His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Allardice, Sir William Horwood, Sir William Lloyd, and last, but by no means least, Sir William Coaker. Here let me congratulate the latter gentleman on his assumption of that distinguished honor, and express the hope that, like the late Sir Hugh Hoyle, Sir Frederick Carter, Sir Edward Shea and Sir William White-way, he may live long to wear it sans peur et sans reproche. The news of his appointment has already received pages of congratulations, and can say with the poet:

"I thank you, my friends, for the warmth of your greeting; 'Tis a blessing that's breaking out always in fresh spots; And is worth going in for, it's poplar applause."

"It sends up the spirits as lively as rockets, And I feel it—well, down to the end of my pockets. Just loving the people is Canaan in view. But 'tis Canaan paid quarterly to have them love you. It's a blessing that's breaking out always in fresh spots; It's a following Moses without losing the sheepskin."

THE MORAL FRUITS OF PROHIBITION.

As to the moral fruits of Prohibition, there is practically unanimity of opinion among impartial and right-thinking people, notwithstanding what hard-shell, anti-Prohibitionists say to the contrary. My own observations, and information drawn from published and unpublished official documents, confirm these opinions and testify to the following facts: Crime and pauperism, as a result of drink, have been considerably reduced. The police say that a very great improvement has taken place in domestic relations, notably in quarrelling between husbands and wives; that workmen now, with few exceptions, go straight home, and spend most of their spare time with their families; social drinking among workmen and old drinking customs are almost extinguished; arrests for drunkenness are much fewer, and most of them are due to consumption of intoxicants obtained on doctors' scripts and at the Controller's Department. We very rarely hear, these days, of fighting at the street corners and assaults on the police. The authorities also report that Prohibition has been the means of promoting greatly advanced ideas in regard to temperance in the rising generation; has reduced the number of confirmed drunkards in a marked degree, while comparatively few persons of the so-called "outcast class" remain. Anyway, the temperance reputation of St. John's has been greatly improved by the Prohibition Act. Previous to its operation, two-thirds of the convicts sent to the Penitentiary came from the city; now conditions are changed and two-thirds come in from the outports. I keenly sympathize with the efforts of the working classes to obtain more of the things which, in a material sense, make life better worth living, and sincerely trust that, during the present session of the Legislature, something will be done to brighten their outlook and make conditions as easy as possible for them.

AN IMPENDING CRISIS.

Two unfortunate circumstances—the difficulty experienced in getting supplies for the fishery in many of the outports, and the consequent growing scarcity of employment—are forcing a constantly greater number of men into the city and creating a rapidly enlarging and dangerous proletariat. Ominous rumblings and an occasional earthquake shock, shaking certain of our fabrics to their foundation, point to the mighty, heaving, smouldering mass beneath our social soil that, unless it finds outlets through natural channels, will one day rend the whole. As all ordinary opportunities for the unemployed have been availed of, and as our once great staple industry, from various causes, seems to be languishing, we look for such a crisis as the Colony has seldom, if ever, before, known. Whether that crisis will result in sudden and violent outbreak, or whether it will result in a gradual, but none the less certain, overthrow of existing institutions, is not to my purpose in this article to hazard a guess. But the signs of the times point to such an overthrow, unless some really unexpected remedy is found.

HOW AND WHERE TO LOCATE THE BLAME.

I do not blame any particular Governor or Government for the deplorable condition of things to which I refer. Our political and financial troubles began with the advent to power of the Morris Party, in 1908, and have been increasing, instead of diminishing, ever since. The present Prime Minister is not responsible. As a matter of fact, he has been doing all in his power to "save the situation" and to popularize his administration. In one respect, he is like Milton's "affable archangel." He is nothing if not affable. He is courteous, conciliatory, pleasant, reasonable. He is ready to make concessions on everything but the last principle which he thinks essential at any given moment. Like Bonar Law, in human intercourse, he is always the same. He has the gift of intimacy. He understands difference of opinion. After estrangement through clash of conviction, he is placable and considerate. In manners he is always the same. He has no side, and even diffident, in his manner, than any young man who ever attained to the same position. In his office he is all that the interviewers could desire. He smokes and listens. He knocks out his pipe and considers. When he thinks aloud in private talk his examination of both sides is urbane and dispassionate. He is always acute.

THE NEWSPAPER AND THE PUBLIC.

Asked, the other day, by a well-known member of the "Fourth Estate" to define what I considered to be the more essential requisites to successful journalism, I expressed the opinion—as far as I now remember—that you can carry on the business with self-respect—whatever your success—if it is also something more than a business; if, for example, you can honestly feel that you are helping on the propaganda of sound principle, denouncing real grievances, and speaking from genuine belief. No man has a right to lay down the law to parties and party leaders as though he were in possession of absolute knowledge, or as though he were a man of science talking to a class of ignorant schoolboys. But every man ought to believe that truth is attainable, and to endeavor, with all his power, to attain it. He should study the great problems of the day historically; for he must know how they have arisen; what previous attempts have been made to solve them; how far present suggestions have been mere reproductions of exploded fallacies; and so qualify himself to see things in their true relations as facts of a great process of evolution. He who has a reasonable share of these qualifications—no man is perfect enough to have them all—and is not prevented from showing them in his paper, need not fear a scarcity of readers, nor have any anxiety about wielding his due share of influence in every department of public life.

SOMETHING BETTER THAN PARTY OR PERSONAL EXPEDIENCY.

Then, again, the useful journalist should endeavor to be philosophical in spirit, so far, at least, as to seek to base his opinions upon general principles and to look at the political and other events of the day from a higher point of view than that of party or personal expediency. And he must—though upon this it is hardly necessary to insist—be familiar with the affairs of the day; for no one can apply principles to politics effectively without a genuine first-hand knowledge of the actual currents of political life. Unless a man takes up his calling in some spirit, he can be but a mere retailer of popular commonplaces and must live from hand to mouth, or upon the chance utterances of people as thoughtless as himself, increasing the volume of mere noise, such as we hear at election times, which threatens to drown sense. But if he seriously cultivates his powers, and enriches his mind, he may feel sure that even in journalism he may be discharging one of the important functions which a man can undertake.

POLITICAL AND OTHER TEMPTATIONS.

With respect to the political and other temptations held out to the journalist or newspaper man at election times, they may be briefly summed up by saying that they tend to degrade the profession into a mere occupation, and an occupation which has as many tricks as the least elevating kind of business. It will be, perhaps, desirable to end by deducing some definite moral. But, in the first place, I think that any such moral as I could give is sufficiently indicated by the statement of the dangers. And, in the second place, I do not think that there is any moral that can be regarded as peculiar to journalists. For a journalist, after all, is a man and, as all men ought to be, a workman. His power comes to this, that he is a man with a special capacity for exciting sympathy. That he should be a good workman, therefore, goes without saying; and it follows that he should not bestow his advice upon us without qualifying himself to be a competent adviser; nor write philosophical speculation without serious study of philosophy; nor, if possible, produce poetry or fiction (such, for example, as appeared so abundantly in some of the party papers during the recent campaign) without filling his mind by observation, or training it by sympathy, with the great movements which are shaping the destinies of even the little Dominion in which we live. Horace Greeley autobiographically gave us the fondest wish of his ripened years when he cherished the hope that "the Journal I projected and established will live and flourish long after I have moulded into forgotten dust, being guided by a larger wisdom, a more unerring sagacity to discern the right, though not by a more unflinching readiness to embrace and defend it at whatever personal cost; and that the stone that covers my ashes may bear to future eyes the still intelligible inscription—FOUNDER OF AN INDEPENDENT AND SUCCESSFUL NEWSPAPER."

"Grand to Have Your Health"

says Mrs. Jenny Evans, of Detroit, Mich. Few of us appreciate our health until we lose it. Mrs. Evans worked in a factory, but owing to a weakness and pain in her back she was forced to give up work. She says: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me well. It is grand to have your health, to feel well all the time and to go around like other women without that awful torture of female troubles." Women who are suffering from such troubles should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the tried and true medicine, now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for female ills.

Household Notes.

When dampening seams for pressing use a discarded tooth brush. It is quite effective. Green muskmelons can be cut into thin slices, dipped into tarter and fried like waffles. If the grade of sugar you buy is very fine grained use only scant cupsfuls in your recipes. For variety's sake, flavor baked custards with one-fourth teaspoon of powdered cinnamon. Cold sliced meat and hard-boiled eggs molded in aspic make a delightful dish for a hot day. Serve vanilla ice cream in halves of chilled muskmelon and sprinkle with powdered cinnamon. Boil your green onion in salted water and serve on toast, like asparagus, with a cream sauce. A pretty sun umbrella of dark green silk is bound all about with a narrow edge of colored leather.

Quite the contrary. As a rule, the less personal interest an Executor has in an Estate, the better its affairs are administered. The selection of an Executor is a matter of business, not of friendship. Friendship should, therefore, give way to sound business judgment.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

FAMILY FINANCES.

They are going to be married in June. The girl has been in business for several years, and is very intelligent and thrifty. The man admires her so much as he loves her. Which seemed to be an altogether satisfactory thing. Until the other day, when we commented upon it and the girl said: "I'm glad he can admire me, if he does. But I hope he won't presume on that admiration to the extent of taking advantage of it." Which we didn't understand, until she explained: "Frankly, it worries me a little. You see he seems to admire me so much that he is expecting almost impossible things of me, I'm afraid. For instance, there's the matter of our income. You know, of course, that Bob is just starting out in his profession and we will have to be very careful of our pennies for a while. I'm glad to help him through the lean days; but do you know Bob seems to think that I'm so thrifty and know the value of money so well that I can make just any amount cover whatever expenses there may happen to be, and that he will not have to worry—or help. "I don't want him to worry, and I wastes money in the little ways where he could easily do his share of the family saving.

This is one of those financial problems that have deep roots in almost every family of moderate means and are productive of more unhappiness and lack of harmony, I do believe, than much more serious matters. So I asked the girl, who is so modernly efficient, how she thought the difficulty could be avoided. And she proved her capability, I think, when she answered:

The Passing of Martyrs.

"Substitute fairness for unfairness in the distribution of the family finances, my dear. I am working out our budget now on the basis of Bob's income. When it is ready I shall show him its fairness and wisdom, and necessity, and ask him to accept it as the business basis of our partnership. Of course he will, because his intentions are perfectly right—it is only his dependence upon my thrift and his own careless extravagance that are dangerous, you know. And then he will know exactly how much he is fairly entitled to spend. I'm marrying to be a partner, not a martyr, you see!"

I do see, and I think they are going to be very happy and prosperous. Don't you?

A Matter of Fair Play.

No man would be willing to slave interminably at his office to save expenses and to get ahead if his partner in the business was squandering the savings—or even—was thoughtless and careless in the way she spent them. Yet all too often that same man will expect his wife, or at least will permit his wife to scrimp and save and do without for the sake of the new home, or the imminent payment on the insurance, or the needed furniture, or even the monthly bills for current expenses, without making any effort to do his part. He may not, indeed, squander money recklessly. But I think it must be even more tantalizing and discouraging if he merely School Children Taught to be Kind to Animals.

DETROIT, June 8.—(A.P.)—People are becoming more humane in their treatment of dumb animals, according to F. E. Hutchinson, Manager of the Detroit Humane Society, basing the statement upon personal observations over a period of many years, and upon letters from those engaged in similar work in various cities of the country.

"There are two reasons for the success of the humane movement," Manager Hutchinson said. "The most important work is being carried on in the public schools. Some children are being drilled from the kindergarten on, and it is mainly and womanly to be kind to all helpless creatures. As a result boys and girls are looking out for the interest of the birds and animals as never before. They personally are watering and feeding animals in need of attention and do not hesitate to call to the attention of the proper authorities any cases of inhumane treatment they observe."

"The second reason is that men dealing in animals have discovered that it pays in dollars and cents to be humane. Cat buyers are beginning to insist that the animals under their charge be humanely treated. To do otherwise decreases the value of the animal and brings them heavy losses. Some of the animal dealers now are our warmest exponents of humane treatment of animals. They are compelling their employers to practice this."

"There is still another reason and that is the American spirit of fair play. No normal American cares to injure anything that cannot fight back."

Another Rex Ingram Masterpieces.

WILL BE SEEN AT THE NICKEL MONDAY NEXT.

The Nickel Theatre announces Rudolph Valentino's great starring vehicle, "The Conquering Power," which is to be shown on Monday next. It is a Rex Ingram production, and judging from such pictures as "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "The Four Horsemen" our amusement lovers know what to expect. When it comes from Rex Ingram it certainly is something big. To give an idea of what the story is like, we give herewith a short synopsis of the plot:

When the father of Charles Grandet finds that his fortune has been sunk in the sea of speculation, he sends his son to his brother and commits suicide. The brother, known to everyone in the village where he lives as Pere Grandet, is a miser and forces his wife and his stepdaughter to help him stint and save, Charles, who has been reared in luxury in Paris, is terribly shocked when he learns of his father's death, and resents it when his uncle tries to blame his brother for leaving the young man penniless. The sympathy of his cousin Eugenie and her beauty of face and character make a deep impression on him, and the two exchange vows of love before he leaves for Martinique to mend his fortune.

The remainder of the story is brimful of exciting episodes. See it at the Nickel on Monday and judge for yourself.

Good Entertainment.

DONE BEAUTIFULLY, IS "BEAU REVEL" AT THE MAJESTIC.

Well acted, beautifully scored, and enhanced by flawless photography, "Beau Revel," an Ince-Vance-Paramount Production, featuring Florence Vidor, is decidedly good entertainment, although its story ends with a tragedy, the suicide of a gay philanderer when he fails to win the heart of his own sweetheart, and incurs his son's hate.

In some indefinable way the effect of the tragedy is softened at the end. The plot is intense and gripping enough for the most melodramatically inclined, though it is not pure melodrama by any means and the interest is well sustained. The characters are all society people.

The acting is uniformly good, with Florence Vidor, Lewis S. Stone, Lloyd Hughes, and Kathleen Kirkham playing the leading parts with sincerity and skill.

Band Concerts.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—I quite agree with a correspondent of yours in his protests regarding the encroachments on the free rights of the public to our city parks brought about by the collecting methods at Band Concerts. I would not wish by any means to discourage our bands, but then I think the City Council should not be putting stumbling blocks in the way of any man, hand stand, where anybody willing to their evenings in the park. Instead of collectors at the gate I would suggest that iron boxes be fastened there instead, into which anybody who felt so disposed could drop a coin, or let the collectors keep their boxes near the stand, where anybody willing to contribute could go and offer their donation. The Council should not infringe too much on the plain people's rights, and I think it is about time now to call a halt on tagging people so to speak who have no other way of enjoying the free evening air of the summer than by visiting our city parks. We could live without Band Concerts, but it is necessary to the ordinary man's health that he should have free access to the pure air of the parks afford. Then don't tax this last remaining untaxed necessity of existence.

Yours truly,
WORKINGMAN.

WINARD'S LINIMENT FOR NEURALGIA.

Magna Charta Day.
WEDNESDAY WAS 706th ANNIVERSARY.
The International Magna Charta Association, which has practically worldwide representation, has for its representative in Newfoundland, Mr. Wood, Principal of Bishop Field School. We understand that a Dominion Committee is being formed, and that the Hon. the Minister of Education has signified his willingness to quote the following from the Association's pamphlet:
RECOGNITION OF GREAT PRINCIPLES OF FREEDOM.
This movement is not for the benefit of a race, but for the recognition of certain great principles of the carrying out of which are essential to the peace of the world. The movement is bigger than any other, but it does not lose sight of the fact that one race has done more than other people to give us the civil liberties which we enjoy.
The INTERNATIONAL MAGNA CHARTA DAY Movement is developing plans which will in time make a greater observance of the law and the development of responsibility for our liberties.
This movement will naturally be confined very largely to the English Speaking Nations. We believe that the freedom of every nation will in a few years recognize the greatness of the idea, and join us in heart and soul. It is possible that out of this movement there will arise in a few years a support for International Arbitration, which will be of definite and positive value to every league of nations, for the movement is primarily for World Peace, which hinges almost wholly on the closest and most cordial cooperation among THE SEVEN NATIONS.
The fact is, the plans of the INTERNATIONAL MAGNA CHARTA Association have caught the imagination literally of millions of people in the English speaking nations and of a large and increasing number of our people in foreign countries; and it is not too much to say that as our efforts develop, the movement will continue in many ways just as our National Holidays are observed.
MEMBERSHIP.
Membership in the INTERNATIONAL MAGNA CHARTA DAY Association is almost automatic, for every man, woman and child in THE SEVEN NATIONS and in other countries as well, will become a member of good standing with all dues paid for their life by merely taking enough money on June 15th and on the Third day in June—MAGNA CHARTA DAY—to think of what the great charter has done for civil and religious liberty, and to speak of The Day of Freedom. Our membership is a sign of the spirit of freedom. Just as Americans in other countries celebrate July 4th, Memorial Day, and Thanksgiving Day, so something that spirit constitutes membership in the INTERNATIONAL MAGNA CHARTA DAY Association, for MAGNA CHARTA DAY is the great outstanding event in the history of world liberty. Let us loyally and heartily observe its birthday on MAGNA CHARTA SUNDAY—the Third Sunday in June.
Clothing Caught Fire.
JAMES OF BRIGUIS DIES FROM BURNS.
As a result of burns received on Wednesday, when her clothing caught fire, Mrs. Wm. James, of Georges, passed away at her home yesterday forenoon. On Wednesday Mrs. James slit a fire in the hall at the rear of her house for the purpose of heating some water, and in so doing she ran towards the home of her brother-in-law, James James, who lived some distance away. Before reaching, however, she collapsed. When neighbors came to her assistance they found the unfortunate woman in a heap on the sidewalk with practically all her clothing burned. Dr. Gill, who was summoned, found the woman too badly injured to have sent on to hospital. Mrs. James was a woman of about fifty years of age, and is survived by her husband and an adopted son.

Nfld. Motor Association.

HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING.
ROAD IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE CONTINUED.

The annual meeting of the Newfoundland Motor Association was held at the West End Restaurant yesterday at 6.15 p.m. The attendance, which was fairly large, sat down to an excellent supper served by Mr. Stirling, and his assistants; and after the many good things had been done full justice to, the meeting followed. Mr. Angus Reid, the President, occupied the chair, while Mr. H. E. Cowan, in the absence of the Secy.-Treasurer, read the report of the past year's work, which was adopted unanimously.

An interesting report of the work done by the Road Commission during the past year was presented by Mr. T. Soper. In the first place the Commission started operations with a deficit of $7,500. This balance, together with the amount expended during the season, totalled about $22,000 against which $18,000 was credited, leaving a deficit to begin this season's work of about $4,000. Considerable work was done to the roads at St. John's, Torbay, Pouch Cove, Carbonar to Brigus, Portugal Cove, Winsor Lake section, Bay Bulls, Topsail and Seal Cove. Work on the Seal Cove line, which was undertaken late last Fall, cost in the vicinity of $6,000. This work is now being continued and the road will be widened to a minimum of 12 feet. The Road Commission has now under discussion the following programme for the season:

To continue building of Seal Cove Line	$6,000
To repair and rebuild Torbay Road, particularly Piper's Stock Hill	1,500
To widen and repair Portugal Cove Road	2,000
To widen, repair and properly ditch Bay Bulls Road	2,000
To expend from Carbonar to Brigus	2,500
To remove boulders, corners and repair from Holyrood to Brigus	1,000
To continue repairs and improvements to Topsail Road particularly to Topsail Hill	2,000
This makes an expenditure of $17,000 out of a budget of $18,000.

Mr. Arch Munn, upon moving the adoption of the Road Commission's report, expressed his appreciation on behalf of the Association, for the splendid manner in which this work had been so well conducted and successfully carried out.

Hon. W. J. Ellis, upon seconding the motion, incorporated all that Mr. Munn had said and joined heartily in extending his congratulations to all concerned in the work. He regretted this road building movement had not been started fifty years ago as during the short time the Commission had undertaken to carry out this work he felt sure that motorists and the public in general appreciated their efforts. California, which boasts of having the best roads in the world, has no frost, and once the roads are made they remain forever. A road from San Diego to San Francisco, a distance of over 500 miles, is now under construction. The building of the road will cost in the vicinity of $20,000 per mile.

President Reid thanked Hon. Mr. Ellis for his very instructive and interesting address.

Mr. E. Collishaw felt that the work on the Cowpath should be abandoned for this season. The amount of expenditure of $6,000 would be better invested in the purchase of a roller and perhaps an extra tractor, or spent on the roads near the city. With the addition of the roller a saving of fifty or seventy-five per cent. would result on the roads already made, as it would prevent the gravel from blowing away with high winds. He supported the other expenditures as proposed for the season.

The matter of purchasing a new roller will be discussed at a general meeting of the Association which takes place on Thursday next.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—
President—E. R. Watson.
1st Vice-Pres.—D. M. Baird.
2nd Vice-Pres.—W. R. Comerford.
Secy.-Treas.—P. E. Outerbridge.
Executive Committee—Messrs. W. A. Reid, F. T. Brehm, Leslie Marshall, Arch Munn and J. A. MacKenzie.

President Watson, in a very happy speech thanked the Association for the honor bestowed upon him, and hoped, with the assistance of the new executive, to make the season of 1923, a successful one. Before the meeting concluded, the new President proposed a vote of thanks to the retiring officers, which was duly accorded by acclamation.
