Government Officers to Lease Grand Trunk and G. T. P. Charges Against O. T. A. Inspector to Be Investigated

GOVERNMENT OFFER TO TAKE BOTH GRAND TRUNK AND G. T. P. Sir T. White States in Return Shareholders of Grand Trunk Would Receive Millions Annually as Perpetual Rental—W. F. Maclean Urges Speedy Nationalization of Old Grand Trunk.

Special to The Toronto World. Ottawa, March 20.—The house today discussed the railway question upon the resolution of Sir Thomas White approving the action of the government in placing the Grand Trunk Pacific in the hands of a receiver. The finance minister read the correspondence leading up to this action, and took the house into confidence respecting the negotiations for the purchase of the old Grand Trunk. The government has offered to take over both the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific, assume their obligations, and say the stockholders of the Grand Trunk a rental of $2,000,000 per annum for the first three years, $3,000,000 per annum for the succeeding five years and $3,600,000 per annum thereafter in perpetuity. The Grand Trunk however, seems to ignore its heavy commitments in respect to the Grand Trunk Pacific, and demands a yearly rental of 1,163,000 pounds sterling or approximately $5,815,000.

W. F. Maclean (South York) commended the government for winding up the Grand Trunk. He hoped that the necessary steps for the speedy nationalization of the old Grand Trunk. The offer of the government is regarded as generous, and could save the Grand Trunk from financial disaster. The Grand Trunk Pacific, amounting to $97,000,000, should be ignored or forgotten in determining the value of the Grand Trunk stock. He declared himself to be a firm believer in public ownership and operation of railways, and hoped to see the nationalization not only of the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific but of the Canadian Pacific as well.

Liberals Not Definite. The Liberals did not oppose the resolution outright, but argued that the government should not have taken a step so drastic without first framing some definite policy in case the Grand Trunk refused to sell at a reasonable figure. Judge Maclean, the new Liberal leader, did not commit himself definitely, but Mr. Cahill (Pontiac), thought the government by taking over the road, had merely assumed a bill of expense, and Mr. Rob

THE DAY AT OTTAWA
By TOM KING

Ottawa, March 20.—The long expected Unionist caucus on the tariff question occurred this morning, and tho it lasted a long time and called forth a good many speeches, the waiting newspapermen were told at its close that an enjoyable time was had and that the best of good feeling prevailed. The acting premier frankly stated that no general revision of the tariff could be attempted until times became normal, but he also intimated that some adjustments and changes might be made if, after hearing from all sides, they appeared to be in the public interest. The government has no intention of shifting its responsibility to a caucus or caucus committee, from all sides, they appeared to be in a mood of anxious and willing to hear the views of all its supporters and is confident that its decision will be satisfactory to all who take a reasonable view of the situation. That decision when reached will be announced in the budget speech which Sir Thomas White will deliver within the next three or four weeks.

The caucus probably cleared the air to some extent. High tariff and low tariff men, it is understood, freely expressed their views, but there was an under current that made for harmony within the ranks. It is not generally believed here today any more than it was yesterday that much tariff tinkering will be indulged in at the present season. The western members are doing their best to look pleasant and the Ontario members seem to be pretty well satisfied.

At any rate the members forgot their varying views on the tariff sufficiently to become engrossed at today's sitting of the house in the railway question. That question came before them shortly after the house convened this afternoon, when Sir Thomas White moved the preliminary resolution upon which a bill will be founded to validate the recent action of the government in appointing a receiver for the Grand Trunk Pacific under the war measures act. In the nature of things the debate arising thereon could not be limited to the affairs of the Grand Trunk Pacific, but widened to such an extent as to involve more or less discussion of the entire railway situation. Judge McKenzie, the new Liberal leader, felt his way cautiously, and asked for more information. Mr. Robt. the chief Liberal whip, frankly declared himself to be an opponent of public ownership, and argued that state ownership of the Intercolonial had lighted the maritime provinces and discouraged private enterprises. Mr. Cadogan, Liberal member for Pontiac, and railway critic for the opposition, argued that the government had either gone too far or not far enough in taking over the Grand Trunk Pacific. They had the road on their hands, but what would they do with it? If under private ownership it could not pay operating expenses, would it be anything more than added expense to the government when operated by a receiver?

W. F. Maclean, Unionist member for South York, believed the government had made a move in the right direction, but wanted to see it lose no time in also taking over the Grand Trunk. W. F. Cockburn, Unionist member for Brantford, thought the government should have grasped with the Grand Trunk situation long ago instead of handing out annual dotes to the Grand Trunk Pacific. The one strong point in the government's possession which no one could assail was the necessity for keeping the road running. The Grand Trunk Pacific had given notice that it would cease operating the road on March 10, and thus inflict untold injury upon the vast territory served by the G.T.P. and its branch lines. What else could the government do but appoint a receiver to operate the road?

The story of the Grand Trunk Pacific, as unfolded to the house by Sir Thomas White this afternoon, reads like a weird romance. That same business men should construct a railway at a cost of two hundred million dollars which cannot even pay operating expenses seems incredible, yet the old Grand Trunk had commitments in respect to the Grand Trunk Pacific which aggregate the principal sum of ninety-seven million dollars, and weigh down that road with a staggering interest charge of five million dollars a year. The Dominion government guaranteed bonds to the extent of eighty-four million dollars, for which, however, it is secured by first mortgages on the road. It also loaned twenty-five million dollars directly to the Grand Trunk Pacific upon the guarantee of the old Grand Trunk. Not content with this, it loaned the Grand Trunk Pacific, with practically no security at all, sixteen million dollars in 1914, eight million dollars in 1915, seven million five hundred thousand dollars in 1916, and another seven million five hundred thousand dollars in 1918. In 1919 this Oliver Twist of railway companies was back for "more," and when the government refused to again unbet, the officials announced that they would cease operations.

On top of this, the government, upon the face of a contract it made with the Grand Trunk Pacific, expended two hundred million dollars in the construction of a railway between Moncton and Winnipeg. The entire system from Moncton to Prince Rupert represents an investment approximating half a billion dollars, and there is no present outlook for the system being able to earn operating expenses for a long time to come.

The government is now willing to take over, by perpetual lease or purchase, the old Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific, assume all their obligations, and pay what is really a gratuity to the stockholders of the Grand Trunk at the rate of two million five hundred thousand dollars a year for the first three years, three million dollars for the next five years, and three million six hundred thousand dollars per year after that in perpetuity. Unless these stockholders are entirely out of their senses they will jump at the proposition.

DENISON BIASED, SAYS ELLIS' CLAIM

Counsel for Ex-Constable Says Colonel Self-Convicted of Prejudice.

That Gordon Ellis was wrongfully dismissed from the police force; that he was marked for dismissal and condemned in Col. Denison's mind before the riots took place because of his activity regarding the union, and that at no time during the hearing of the royal commission had it been shown that his manner of giving evidence was such as to justify his dismissal from the force; that, in part, was the plea of B. W. Essery in summing up the case for the defence before the royal commission yesterday afternoon. Proof of Col. Denison's bias, said Mr. Essery, was the magistrate's statement that nothing that could be said would change his opinion. Admitting the value of over 40 years on the bench, that could not be considered a reasonable or judicial attitude. Judge Winchester on the other hand admitted that he might make a mistake, because he was only human. Mr. Essery claimed that Col. Denison's own evidence before the royal commission had been hesitating, and pointed out that Judge Winchester admitted that it was an everyday affair in his court for witnesses to hesitate. But apart from these facts, if "hesitating evidence" was something Ellis could be dismissed for, it was proved that he was not in condition to give evidence at the time. Dr. Norman Allen had testified that the day before the investigation Ellis had a temperature of 104 degrees and was taking influenza.

That the activity of Ellis regarding the union had influenced the judgment of his superiors was, Mr. Essery thought, proven beyond a shadow of doubt. Ellis had been thoroughly marked as the first link between the union and the "outside influence" talked about. Col. Grassie had stated that he gave no order to any one to get information about the union, but he had stated in the presence of men looking for his favor and anxious to please him that he would like to have some information about it; further, that a list of 25 names was submitted to him.

Criticizing the evidence given before the royal commission, Mr. Essery said that he thought many constables did not tell all they knew. Some of their statements made there had not been verified. If what they said were true, then they had not told the truth on other occasions. Sir William Meredith objected to that statement, and counsel withdrew it.

In view of the previous good record of Ellis for four and a half years, unblemished except that he had been late for court once, Mr. Essery submitted that, having the foregoing argument in view, there was nothing to justify the forced resignation or the dismissal of Gordon Ellis from the police force. He asked that the commission decide that Gordon Ellis had been wrongfully dismissed, even altho he could not now be reinstated on the police force even for twenty-four hours.

Replying as counsel for the police commissioners, Mr. Robertson simply stated that the commissioners had acted within their rights as employers, in discharging Ellis. Sir William Meredith thanked counsel for the assistance, and said that the press might announce that the commission would be glad to receive suggestions from anyone regarding police affairs.

But Metropolitan Deal Involves Many Issues, Says Mayor.

Upon the requests from stock raisers and owners of light horses it was decided at a meeting of the directors of the National Exhibition to allow racing this year. There will be four days of it. The first on Saturday afternoon preceding the formal opening, and on the afternoons of the following Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. A motion by Cont. McBride, requiring that, hereafter, voting in executive should be open instead of secret, was defeated. The estimates of the Exhibition this year are $363,285. Those who receive increases in salary are: H. W. Waters, superintendent of manufactures, $300; H. V. Cummings, superintendent of agriculture, $200; J. Hay, press agent, $400; D. C. Ross, superintendent of midway, $400. W. N. Tilley's report on the purchase of the Metropolitan Railway from the point of view of the city, will be ready Friday morning, announced Mayor Church yesterday. It will be considered at the board of control on Monday, and if approved, a special meeting of the council will be called for Wednesday. "We want to be fair with them," said his worship, referring to the Metropolitan people, "and give them a definite answer, but we do not want to go into the thing with our eyes shut." He said that he wanted to do everything possible for the people of North Toronto, but a lot of things had to be considered. There is the matter of a Hydro and radial line. The Hydro line may become a belt line, and there may be something in the agreement which would be opposed to the general bylaw.

"Made in Canada" Stands for Perfection

Canadianization Increases Earning Capacity

We cannot hope to succeed well in the coming contest for home and foreign trade unless we co-operate among ourselves.

If we do so the foreign anti-government agitator cannot recruit a following.

The foreign immigrant is given opportunity, freedom, equal laws and charity, and he accepts these boons for granted without any thought of gratitude or appreciation. He should be told that they are the fruits of free institutions, which he should cherish and guard, but, instead, is prevented in many instances by agitators from absorbing the spirit of Canadianism which made these things possible.

Alien education will remove the main cause of misunderstanding between employer and wage-earner. With the knowledge of English the alien will develop increased intelligence, efficiency and better earning capacity.

Canadian Products Must Compete With the Products of the World

We have proved that we can successfully manufacture many things not thought of before the war.

Capital and labor must become partners and work side by side for their common good. Capital is dependent for its profits on the efficiency of labor. Disagreements should be settled promptly and harmony prevail. Grievances can be discussed and removed from the field of contention without interruption to business. Conflict and disunion at home will mean a serious handicap in our competition for world trade.

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 21.

Controller McBride's Line.

Controller McBride appears to have passed the stage when reform is possible. It is as unfortunate for the city as for himself that he cannot control himself, and take impersonal views of public affairs. His outbursts in connection with the health department are not only foolish in that issue, but weaken his influence in other directions. His tirades against Dr. Hastings, who is known all over the continent as a leader in sanitation, and whose health administration is the accepted model for other cities to follow, are lamentable displays.

Controller McBride should reflect that we all want to live as long as possible and his efforts to cut down our chances are unwelcome. As between tax bills and undertaker's bills, anybody but Sam McBride would prefer the tax bill every time.

Controller McBride thinks that the board of control, including himself, knows more in any "line" than Dr. Hastings. Perhaps if we take this in a mathematical sense it may be true. The mathematical definition of a line is length without breadth. Controller McBride should not have reminded us of the fact.

Capital and Labor Discussed.

If the signs of the luncheon club count for anything, the public mind is being aroused to the importance of understanding the labor situation. The addresses recently given by Hon. Mackenzie King, by Mr. Tom Moore, and yesterday by Dr. Ribourg, with another in prospect from Mr. Chas. H. Cahlan, K.C., are the best evidence of the new spirit of enquiry. Whether in favor of or opposed to new developments, the man who wants to succeed in life today must be acquainted with facts and conditions.

There is but one opinion in regard to the change that has occurred in the relations of labor and capital. They were inevitable and they are unavoidable. Labor has shown itself to be intelligent and reasonable, and capital must meet it in a spirit of concession, if, as Dr. Ribourg observed, a worse evil is to be averted. Bolshevism is not so much due, he added, to ignorant labor as to reactionary and autocratic sentiment on the part of employers.

He suggested three principles which must be faced in the coming days, if industry is to maintain its function of public service, and all the parties to industry, brain, brawn and capital must be loyal to the common interest: (1) The community should be offered the best service possible at the lowest price compatible with adequate payment to those who provide it; (2) The second implication is that when all charges necessary to the supply of a service have been met any surplus which exists should pass to the community; (3) The third is that no class should receive an income for which no service is rendered.

In essence this is as radical as any plank in the labor platform, but it has been accepted by numbers of leading representatives of capital. That Dr. Ribourg, representing the church, should advocate such views is sufficiently significant, and indicates a return of early church sentiment. The recognition of the necessity of consultative and conciliatory councils is now a general feature of all the more prominent exponents of a wise adjustment of the relations of the several parties to industry. Unless they understand each other, which is the only way to have faith in each other, labor and capital can never pull together. An effort of intelligent publicists are therefore being bent towards the desirable end of bringing about frequent, full and free communication between representatives of labor and capital in all their phases.

As long as capital, thru its political affiliations, leads the dice by its electoral methods and its refusal to adopt proportional representation, there cannot be the full confidence yielded by labor to capital that a fair selection law would help to establish. Full labor is properly represented in the legislatures of the country, capital handicapped in its profession of good faith.

Influenza, the reactions of the war, unusual weather and other causes have led to many unexpected deaths in recent months. The passage of Hon. Mr. J. Hanna yesterday emphasizes the uncertainty of mortal affairs. Mr. Hanna first came into prominence as provincial secretary in the Whitney administration in 1905. Of the ten members of that cabinet, five are dead and only two are associated with the public life of Ontario—Sir John Hendrie, who was a minister without portfolio, and Sir Adam Beck, who held a similar position. None of the present cabinet was in the first Whitney government.

HELP WANTED

Mr. Hanna had a turn for humanitarian work, and he made a record in his department by reorganization and co-ordinating the business and expenditure of the provincial institutions, and by adopting advanced reforms in prison management and in psychiatric hospital practice. After Sir James' death there was no room for him.

IDA TALKS OF THE WAR BRIDES

BY IDA L. WEBSTER.

A few days ago we had the pleasure of meeting a group of war brides, and right here and now we would like to extend to them a public welcome to Toronto. And, by the way, while we are on the subject of welcome, we might say that from what we can learn, the greeting has not been any too warm from circles.

The ladies whom we met were perfectly delightful. Not only because they were natural in their manner, and free of all facial make-up, but more especially because they were brave. That may sound like an exaggerated term, but it is really and truly quite a modest one.

After hearing some of the stories which these women had to tell of the manner in which they had been received in the family of their husband, we again repeat, that they are brave. It may have taken nerve to go over into France, and face all the unknown dangers of war, but believe us that was a cinch compared with journeying to Canada, and facing the mighty wrath of an injured mother and family.

The boys married the girls whom they desired to travel for the rest of their lives with. Because they happened to be English, was merely one of the twists which Dame Fate adores to give to her little games. If we are to believe in any of the teachings of the good book, we must believe that it was to be a circumstance which had to come to pass.

Very well, then supposing that we admit that much. The boy married. He arrives home with his bride. Then what is there for a family to do, but receive them both with open arms? In practically every case they are well treated. Of course, there are instances when perhaps the outsider may have other views on the matter, but the same thing is happening right here in this city every day, and therefore when it is found among the war brides it should not be marveled at.

Perhaps the greatest fault of all is the fact that some of the boys have kept the news of their marriage a secret, and when they land home hand-in-hand with a wife, it is naturally somewhat of a blow. But even then why should the family make such an undue fuss? The girl is human, no doubt lovable. Just because she happens to have been born in another part of the world should not be a bar which prohibits her from entering the inner shrine of the man's family.

One of the young women told us a story, which we are going to tell to you and here it is: "When I arrived at the station I was fearfully nervous, because very much against my wishes my husband had kept the news of our marriage from his people. Well, just as soon as we got to the landing, Arthur said, 'There they are, God bless them,' and taking me by the hand made a sort of football rush at a tall, stately looking woman, who proved to be his mother. Her face was alight with love for her boy, and she gathered him into her arms, leaving me completely alone and, so to speak, some. And then he introduced us. It was a horrible shock I know, but surely that mother might have said welcome to me. However, she did not; in fact, she merely stared at me, and turned toward the door grasping her son's arm. My husband's father then came forward and putting his arms about me said, 'I do not know your name, my dear, but you are welcome. Unfortunately, he has been home but two days since that time and I have been suffering with all the pangs of homesickness ever discovered. In England mothers would be too charitable to be so unkind."

There were other stories, and all about in the same strain. Girls coming here, hoping to be welcomed, and finding only the "frosty mitt," as one might say. One thing is certain, if the boy is worth his salt he will stick to his wife thru thick and thin, and if he does that, who is going to suffer, if not his mother? Indeed, a mother could not expect other of her lad, and if she would but look at it in a sane manner, she would see only too easily that she alone will be the one who will be left to mourn for the lost love.

Once again we say, that the bravest people of this war are the war brides. And if the families to whom they have been assigned will not act like human beings and receive them in at least a polite manner, then surely there must be others in the city who will. We would like to see some organization form a club where these strangers might meet one afternoon during the week (or more) and thus make friends. They need friends, and this country needs women. Welcome war brides and good luck!

REDEMPTION.
"Tis sadly true that what is writ is writ.
Nor can you change a single line of it.
For good or evil, be it dark or fair,
But true as that may be 'tis also true
A clear tomorrow lies ahead of you.
And if the die for evil has been cast
It holds the story only of the past.
The future yet remains, and if you will
Its pages all unsullied you may fill
With deeds of honor high to blot away
The record of that evil yesterday."

ONTARIO CASE AT PRIVY COUNCIL

Hears Appeal of Electrical Development Company on Act of Legislature.

London, March 20.—The privy council today heard the appeal of the Electrical Development Company of Ontario on whether certain acts of the provincial legislature were ultra vires.

Sir John Simon explained the business of the appellants in generating electrical energy by water at Niagara. The respondent, the Hydro-Electric Commission, he argued, in effect, purchased electric power and distributed to various municipalities, being a department of the executive government of Ontario. The power commission act provided that no action should be brought against the commission without the attorney-general's consent. When the Niagara development act was passed in 1916, which purported to authorize the Hydro-Electric Commission to construct works for diverting water from the Niagara and Welland rivers the appellants were advised that certain provisions in the act was likely to affect their undertakings and decided to test by legal action the validity of the powers given the respondents. They applied for remission of the attorney-general's consent, which was refused. The appellants then took out a summons against the respondent asking for a declaration on their rights, but this action was stayed.

The present appeal was lodged in order that the statutory validity of the acts might be determined. The arguments are proceeding.

THE PROMOTER'S WIFE

By JANE PHELPS.

Mr. Frederick's Words Worry Barbara.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.
Why had Payne Orton had to die? Had he lived, Blanche would still be found. Dead, it left her free to intrigue my husband.

Mr. Frederick spoke to me. I heard his voice, but did not grasp anything he was saying. My mind was numb with the thought that had come to me. Had Payne Orton, before he died, told me that this illness might have been caused by an added cold, never occurred to me. As nearly all women have wanted to die? And was Neil the other party to the intrigue?

I tortured myself with the thought. Mr. Frederick was a shrewd man and doubtless understood more of the cause of my answers to his questions than I realized.

Finally he commenced to talk of Neil. Then I pulled myself together. Anything pertaining to my husband was vitally interesting to me.

"We all have to hand it to him for one thing," said Mr. Frederick. "If he makes up his mind to do anything he will go thru fire and water to accomplish it."

"I thought I detected some subtle desire to comfort me by this praise of Neil—if it were praise, I would put my pride in my pocket and ask one or two questions."

"Tell me about that Mr. Scott—the man interested in Mexican mines," I spoke as casually as I could.

"Do you know him?"
"Yes—he dined with us one night. Not that Scott isn't all right as far as some things go; but he's hardly a man I would want you to meet."

The words had scarcely left his lips before he flushed and stammered an apology:
"I had no right to say that! Your husband is the one who has the right to say who you shall or shall not meet. Forgive me."

"There is nothing to forgive—Neil, Mr. Forbes is connected in some business matters with Mr. Scott and that is the reason he brought him home with him. But he seemed such a different type from any man I have known, that I was curious." As usual, I had not the courage to go on with anything that looked like criticism of Neil.

the war was over and there was no emergency in connection with the measure and when there was not only a statute but a well established practice in dealing with cases of this kind, it was an innovation of a most undesirable character to start proceedings of this character. It would lead to entanglements and difficulties of a very serious nature.

Mr. Lemieux asked if the interest on the loans had always been paid. Sir Thomas replied, because parliament had voted the money for the purpose.

G.T.R. Not Responsible. Sir Thomas referred to evidence given before the Drayton-Acwortia commission in 1916. This clearly showed, Sir Thomas went on, that the Grand Trunk had come to the conclusion that they would not continue to be responsible for the payment of interest on the Grand Trunk Pacific securities, nor would they be responsible for deficits in its operation, but would cast the entire burden of the G.T.P. upon the government of Canada.

Put itself on Record. As long as the Dominion government would continue to introduce measures providing for seven and a half millions or eight millions a year, the Grand Trunk would not be obliged to find any money in respect of its subsidiary undertakings. The point I make is that the Grand Trunk had put itself on record as washing its hands of the G.T.P. as the burden of its operation and its financing upon the government of Canada.

Frank S. Cahill asked whether the government was going to adopt the policy laid down in the Drayton-Acwortia report toward Canadian railways.

Geo. B. Nicholson emphasized the point that the Canadian people were held responsible for money thrown away on the Transcontinental Railway east of Winnipeg, but the G. T. was responsible for money spent in the western section from Winnipeg to the coast. He advocated coordinating all Canadian railways other than the C.P.R., under government control, and in charge of a capable management.

TIGERS HOLD ALLAN CUP BY MARGIN OF ONE GOAL

Sensational Come-Back Staged by Selkirk—Tied Up Round in Regulation Time, But Hamilton Scored the Winning Goal in Overtime.

Hamilton Tigers are holders of the Allan Cup for a year, but the Hamilton team will never forget the fight they had to put up to hold the silverware. Selkirk, Manitoba and western champions, staged one of the greatest come-backs ever seen on Toronto ice last night and beat the Hamilton crew five to one, but fell one goal short on the road.

Hamilton outclassed the western invaders on Tuesday night and beat them, 5 to 1. It was a good thing for the Tigers. The Selkirk reversed the play last night and smothered the Hamilton team with grand checking and dashy rushes that carried them well in for the sixty minutes of play. There is no denying that the western seniors played the right brand of hockey. In the regulation hour of play Selkirk bulged the Hamilton net five times and evaded the count on the road. They were tearing like a lot of mad men when the bell rang.

When they came out for the overtime it was soon apparent that Selkirk had asked themselves into the ground in the last half of the game, and then on came the Tigers. The Hamilton forwards were checking in the right style for the first time during the game, and they broke up the western attacks and carried the play right to the Selkirk. Mattie rushed up alone, worked in thru the whole works, and scored in a minute of play. When the ten-minute session of overtime was up this was the only goal scored, and left Hamilton Tigers amateur champions of the world by 7 to 6.

Fans With the Selkirk. The game fight of the western team soon had all the Toronto fans rooting for them. The pace was terrific throughout and Selkirk got the jump right at the start and kept it up for sixty minutes. The game was played under western rules and about the only difference was that the game was played in two thirty minute halves instead of three twenty minute periods.

Selkirk opened with close checking and rushed in their men two and three at a time. The Hamilton forwards failed to check and did not start to work until the attackers were twenty feet from the goal. This made it almost an impossible job for Mattie and Reize to turn them out.

At the other end Gillespie was a new-comer on the defence and it made all the difference in the world in the blockading of the Selkirk defence refused to work. The Tigers found that they couldn't roam in at will as they did on Tuesday night, and when they were forced to shoot from in the Selkirk net, and the Tigers were unable to score in the first round. Simpson tore down and beat Reize with a hard shot from outside the defence for the only goal of the half.

Simpson opened up some sparkling rushes, and Hughes and Oliver were very good.

Green and Roach were Hamilton's best. Green roamed in and out, but couldn't score. Reize made a mistake from the side, but failed to bulge the net. The western forwards broke up many rushes with their poke-checking. Selkirk had clear goals to make up in the last half to tie the round.

The second half opened at a furious clip. Selkirk tore in, trying to cut down the lead. Simpson and Goodman electrified the crowd with their rushes. Hamilton found it hard to get inside, and their shooting from outside was not on the mark. Oliver raced up and brooded in a hot one from outside the defence when Hamilton shot away.

Selkirk broke up the Tiger attack with their poke checking. The westerners were dead on with every shot. Reize made some wonderful saving with men in on top of him.

Hughes raced up and landed one in the net from outside the defence. The Selkirk defence was too strong for them.

Tied Up the Round. The pace was at a clip one with the Manitoba champions pressing. Back and forth they raced, and Morrison was handling the Tiger efforts nicely. With five minutes to go and Hamilton going up on the round the whole Selkirk outfit was moved up to the attack. It worked. Simpson tore in and shot. Hughes closed to bat in the rebound. The western team were only one goal down. The crowd went crazy when Hughes died up the round by shooting and racing in to bat in the rebound of his own shot.

Hughes was wiggling in when Reize dumped him and was benched. Simpson did the same trick to Green and retired. Full time was whistled and the game tied on the round—six goals each.

The teams retired for a rest. The teams agreed to play five minutes each way and rest, and keep it up to 12. Call A. Burns stepped to the front of the press box. For the first time during the game, the Hamilton forwards were checking in the right manner. The first five minutes elapsed, and they changed ends.

Selkirk was not playing with the same dash that characterized their work in the second half of Tuesday night. The game ended with Selkirk winners, 5 to 1. Tigers visitors on the road, 6 to 1.

Complimentary Dinner to C. A. Burns and S. A. Proctor—Prospects Bright.

The complimentary dinner given by the harness horsemen of Toronto to C. A. Burns and S. A. Proctor, to commemorate the illustrious achievements on the turf of their respective owned trotting stallions, Chilcoote (2:04 1/2) and Ingara (2:13 1/2), half-mile track record, and held at the Carls-Rite Hotel last evening, was a highly entertaining affair.

Other speeches were made by John Wilkinson, W. H. Hamilton, Geo. McCall, Thos. Hodgins, and W. A. McCall, who defended the three heat plan for the exhibition.

The press was responded to by G. L. Hoggan, J. W. Palmer, who presented a plan for futurity racing.

In an able and entertaining manner referring to His Majesty as an energetic patron of the sport of kings, in recalling past experiences with horse racing some amusing incidents of old time racing at the Woodlands in Michigan was in vogue at that splendid plant, also on the old block pavement on Pape avenue.

Following the replies to the royal toast, the chairman mentioned the presence of other of his interesting addresses, featuring four the breeding, driver, horse, and intelligent owner, driver, piloted C. A. Burns on his selection of Chilcoote when but a yearling, and of then rather obscure breeding, and later on his selection of Thos. Murphy as a trainer, who took Chilcoote, an unassisted trotter, and converted him into a near-champion, both as a race horse and a future side.

The chairman mentioned other prominent Canadian stallions in Burt Astworthy (2:08 1/2), The Toddler (2:05 1/2), etc., and concluded by speaking of the presence of S. A. Proctor on the Canadian National Trotting Association. The
