Just Some Remarks BY COMMENTATOR

A lady friend asked me the other day if I did not think the street car conductors were an insolent lot. I replied that I had observed many little incidents that would substantiate her charge against at least some of the men who collect the fares on the cars, but, on the whole, the men had a god deal to put up with, end cometimes had some reason to be irritable. She related the following in-cident which cannot be excused: "Look out for 371! Tramp it under foot, if you have the opportunity. And, if you have not the opportunity, make it For 371 deserves nothing so much as a righteous chastisement, in the most primitive method possible. "This 371 is one of those worms of so-called humanity, who has not mounted beyond the jellyfish stage of civilization. In other words, a ser-vant whose perceptions of class dis-tinction were warped before he saw beyond the limits of his incapabilities. "Yes, you must have guessed; 371 is a car conductor on the belt line, or was a few days ago. Many of the conductors employed by the Toronto Street Railway are insufferable. Three hundred and seventy-one is more. He is a cad of the worst possible species; an insolent, insinuating, loathsome worm! ritable. She related the following in-worm! "The other day, a well-dressed lady boarded an uptown belt line car at the corner of Baldwin and Spadina. She had nothing but a five-dollar bill. She wanted blue tickets, but, to save this insolent servant trouble, she bought red tickets, too, in order that he would not be obliged to overtax his limited brain with counting out change. She got off at College street. "Thank you, conductor; Thank you very much!'

"She was a lady. She showed this by her courtesy. The car had no more than started, when that wretch went to the front of the car and began be-rating this lady in the most insolent way imaginable. The only reason why he did it, evidently, was the fact that she had been polite to him. "When another passenger said to a friend that she would report him, he chanced to overhear the remark, and leered at her with a muttered: 'Guess I'll be reported, eb? "Now, what are the Toronto citizens going to do about it? Are we to endure the insults and insolences of these servants? We would not endure them from our personal servants. Why should we be obliged to, from our pub-lic servants, such servants, too, as should we be obliged to, from our pub-lic servants, such servants, too, as would never be of our own choosing. "Next day the lady who had men-tioned reporting this fellow, called at the offices of the Toronto Street Rall-way, spoke with Mr. Gunn, and sug-gested that the case be taken up. "She received polite attention, the number of the offensive servant was taken down, but-whatever else was done has not yet been learned. We wonder if the citizens of Toronto are going to allow these servants to tyran-nize over them any longer."

What do you do with the newspa-What do you do with the newspa-pers you buy on the train, when you are traveling? Leave them on the seat, when you leave the car? Prob-ably you do, and if so, you are uncon-sciously depriving the publishers of rightly-earned revenue. In this way: You buy a one-cent paper for cents, or maybe two for five c cents, or maybe two for five cents. When you leave the train the news-agent passes thru the car, collects the papers left on the seats, puts them with the unsold papers, and sells them over again. All the papers in pos-session of the "newsles" are turned back to the newspaper offices for the refund, and the publishers do not get the benefit of some of the actual sales. With two other newspapermen I was traveling to the Falls the other day. We had all taken the morning pa-ers onto the train with us, and before Hamilton was reached the newsagent came in and began to gather them up. When checked in his operations, he explained: "You see, if I don't do this, I can't sell any pa-pers." I don't do this, I can't sell any pa-pers." The same newsagent took a dollar from a man in the smoker for a paper. He didn't have the change, but would get it. I saw the fellow who bought the paper squirming in his seat as the train approached his station, and leave the car before the man with his dollar returned. It seemed to me that if the newsy had been anxious to get rid of the change he would have made sure that the passenger did not "escape." Such incidents are met with on every train. It is more than graft— it is downright robbery. The best way to even up with the newsagent or the Pullman car por-ter is to have the right change. Recently on a trip to Montreal, I.ask-ed the sleeping car porter, after he

These Five Acre Market Garden Plots Place You on the High Road to The Richest, Blackest of Soil-- Two Weeks Advantage in Climate-Marketing Plan.

LGIN MARKET GARDENS will more than pay for themselves the first year they are planted. The soil when analyzed by experts was found to be one of the richest of any on the continent. It is black, deep, rich in nitrogen, very friable, and absolutely perfect for the growing of such big-paying vegetables and small fruits as celery, lettuce, tomatoes, onions, string beans, garden peas, potatoes, strawberries, raspberries, melons, etc. We will arrange with you to market all the vegetables and fruits you can grow on Elgin Gardens, and in a way to pay you the biggest profits possible.

Besides increased income, Elgin Gardens offers you improved health for yourself and family, a greater independence, and better social standing. You will no longer be-long to the great army of city toilers—you will be your own boss, your own employer. Your land will increase in value, and in a few years it will be worth two or three times the amount you pay for it now.

ELGIN GARDENS are in the heart of Elgin County in south-western Ontario. Elgin County is a narrow strip of land with a shore-line of about 60 miles on Lake Erie. The "Gardens" are situated on the height-of-land of the county, and water from them runs into Lake Erie on the south, and into the Thames River on the north. Two rail-ways pass right through the property, and it is so situated that in less than ten hours you place your produce on any market in the following cities—Toronto, London, St. Thomas, Woodstock, Ingersoll, Hamilton, Windsor, Detroit, Buffalo, Cleveland, New York, or Chicago. Elgin Gardens has almost an ideal climate for growing garden products. The climate is two weeks earlier than other sections of Ontario, which gives its gardeners the opportunity to get their vegetables on the market before their rivals' products are ready, thus commanding top price.

He proceeded to "dust off" the other occupants of the car, accepting a quarter from each of several gentlemen, but there was no sign that the culled pusson in-tended to return my seventy-five gents. On the other hand, as tim on the Liberals in so ibed the belief that the bill might be withdrawn if they put up a vigorou opposition. Undoubtedly the for fort ght's continuous sitting focused pub attention upon the parliamentary situation and the opposition members at one time had determined to force, and apparently believed that they could force, an appeal to the people. It was a case on both sides of underrating the enemy.

For one thing they had convinced themselves that it would as endless a ask to amend the rules as to pass the bill, and the clever strategy by which the closure rules were adopted in a fortnight, took them completely by surprise. Indeed, they never ral-lied from their signal defeat, and the continued struggle against the passage of the naval bill become more and more perfunctory. The Laurier meeting at Toronto, moreover, had a depressing effect. Dr. Clark, of Red Deer, returned to the capital disil-lusioned and disappointed. He went to his tent, and remained an inert if not a guilting Achillar. Then too if not a sulking Achilles. Then, too, there sprang up resentment against the ex-ministers who kept up the ghost dance in and out of season, urging on their erstwhile supporters to conflict. Ex-ministers, as a rule, are so many millstones about the neck of an op-position. The party workers are not eager for the fray, when victory means that the same old crowd are to occupy all the seats at the head table. Even the prospect of having Mackenzie King restored to his port-folio does not lure the average Liberal M. P. to entrust his argosy to the uncertain tide of a general elec-

As soon as the house adjourned on Thursday evening, Hon. Bruno Nan-tel lighted a cigar and smiled serenely at the vanishing forms of the opposition members. The minister is a placid philosopher, who has_kept his head as well as his seat during the somewhat trying ordeal of the naval debate. He is a notary at St. Jerome, and is accounted a rich man in his own country, being worth, according to popular rumor, nearly a million dollars, and in liquid assets, at that. He has always been entirely willing to have his riding open, and to contest it again, this time in defense of the government's naval-program. His Liberal colleagues from Quebec made merry when he rose to vote upon the naval bill, as, no doubt, Mr. Nantel in former days was strong in the faith of the Nationalists. At the same time, he has many warm friends on both sides of the house, being democratic in all his ways, and fond of a quiet chat. Col. Sam Hughes, once considered garrulous, is becoming as taciturn as Von Moltke. He keeps a sharp eye on his own department, and attends strictly to his own business. He and Mr. Nantel may not have agreed in their speeches before they came together in the present government, but nowadays, at least, they agree in the matter of silence. Indeed, the majority of the ministers had little to say during the long series of de-bates on the naval bill. Mr. Burrell spoke for the first time on the last day, and several others did pot speak at all. Mr. White, Mr. Pelletler, Mr.

BORDEN RECEPTION TO BE BEST EVER

Conservatives Prepare For Monday's Event on Scale Never Before Attempted

in Toronto.

The demonstration in connection with Premier Borden's visit and the big mass meeting in the Arena tomorrow, will be on a scale ab-solutely unprecedented in any city in the Dominion. The ward as-sociations and the Borden clubs have eagerly responded to the call, and Tory Toronto is determined to excell all previous records in doing honor to the first minister of the land

Hon. Mr. Borden arrives in the norning from Ottawa, with his colleagues Hon. L. P. Pelletier, postnaster general, the Hon. J. D. Haxen, ninister of marine and fisheries, and Paderewski Buys me or more other members of the lederal 'cabinet. During the day he will meet the civic board of control to sonfer as to various matters of local importance, but Hon. Mr. Borden and the officers of the local Conservative rganization, under which auspices the present visit is made, are anxious that he should not be disturbed by risitors, but allowed to rest, to be in trim for the evening meeting. Presi-lent Mark H. Trish and other officers of the Central Association will meet the Premier on his areival the Premier on his arrival. The Procession.

The Procession. The procession which is scheduled to start from the corner of York and Front streets at 7.30 o'clock, will be headed by a massed band and the large lelegations from wards one and two. Members of the east end associations are asked to assemble at Victoria Hall tot later than 7 o'clock. Headed by a band and with a huge hoat emblematic of the Borden naval program, bedecked with bunting and lags, and drawn by a team of horses, also be-ribboned, the two east end associations which are co-operating in ull the proparations edu.

Iso be-ribboned, the two east end associations which are co-operating in all the preparations will start in pro-tession along Queen street at 7.15 p'clock. The route of march is along Queen street to York, and south to Front street, where the other associa-tions will fall in line, and the procession will start eastward on Front street. Bands Galore. All the ward associations and the South and Centre Toronto Conservative plubs have made very, elaborate pra-subs have made very elaborate pre-partions, and the demonstration will be on a grand scale. Each contingent be on a grand scale. Each contingent has engaged one or more bands for the eccasion, and many naval designs in ficats and banners will feature the boccession. In addition to a large Areamer, 12 feet by 5, with three meadnaughts in colors, and various legends on the reverse side. South and Centre Conservative clubs will barry the banner used after the victory of September 21, 1911, with the club's motto: "Canada First and Always within the Empire. One People, all Creeds and Nationalities. We are One." Hamilton Contingent.

brigade of 500 stalwarts from Aurora and Newmarket, with Mr. T. H. Len-nox, M.P.P., and the Newmarket band will also be in the procession. Cer-tainly it will be a demonstration the like of which was never before attempted in Canada, and the streets will be lined with cheering thousands as the Premier passes, following the procession. It will be Toronto's wel-come to the prime minister. With faming torches the same procession will escort the distinguished visitor and his party to the North Toronto station after the meeting. "Everybody's Premier." Altho held under the auspices of the Conservative organizations of the prity, the gathering will in no way be offensively partisan. even an easier feeling over the money situation cannot be expected to accelerate trading beyond the ordinary routine of house and factory site business. So many things in the way of improved rallway facilities and big building operations should happen and are not happening that speculation is liable to become backward. Investment buying is not dependent upon what is to be so much as what is happening and the openings for investment were seldom better at the moment, as owners are quite prone to be lenient in their terms of payments, a factor of almost as much importance to the man who is buying income property as the price itself.

Real estate, in the opinion of many, is gathering strength for another advance movement. The full in central buying that has prevailed all spring is merely a rest. Even in a large city like this the operators cannot be buying without cessation, and besides, they seldom assert themselves when the market is occupied with regular trading. Most of the very large deals in Toronto in the last two years have been put thru in the winter time when business, in bulk, was very small. About midsummer next, when the regular trading is seasonably quiet, the big operators will be ranging around for snappy purchases. That is what is likely to happen just as soon sean accurate line on the country's crop condutions can be secured.

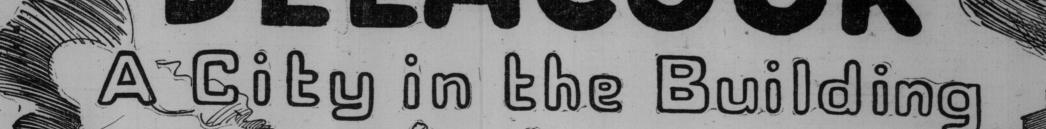

Farm buying is about normal in quantity, but there is a movement to pick up good properties for three or five years' holding. In the last two months a million dollars' worth of subdividable property, which will be held several seasons until thigh prices reach it, has been purchased it, has been purchased. There has been considerable turnover of farms at Richmond Hill, Bond's Lake and Aurora, the buyers in many cases being people who will set up country residences. That is seen in the invariable command to agents that farms must have woods, and a sheet of water. The country above Richmond Hill is dotted with little lakes that are now one of the district's best assets from a real estate standpoint. The activity, which has only become noticeable in the last two weeks, shows prices to be ranging between $50 and $175 an acre.

The building of a Chinese Y.M.C.A. in Toronto will probably have the effect of checking the disposition to hord in Chinatown, now evident here on East Queen street, near George, and West Queen street, near Yörk. Toronto's Chinese population is about 1700, not a tenth of Vancouver's, but still of sufficient quantity to be a factor in realty values in neighborhoods favored by the clustering of orientals. On York, near Queen, they own two properties of a value of about $50,000. On the south side of East Queen they own ten different properties, with 150 feet frontage, in one plot. Chinese holdings in Toronto do not exceed half a million dollars.

Another little spurt in Belt Line frontage, due to some extent to holders who had to realize getting out has been apparent in the last few days. Practically all the trackage along this line that the Grand Tsunk is developing is held tightly and at figures commensurate with anticipated building up of the neighborhood.

James J. Coffey, a local heavyweight, and "Soldier" Kearns, the heavy-hit-ting Brooklynite, is to match his slug-ging ability against the recuperative qualities of George Rodel, the rugged Boer heavy. Coffey, who has a number of knock-outs to his credit, will be given his first chance with a flighter of reputa-tion. Coffey was once knocked out in one round by "Soldier" Kearns, but that was before either flighter had ac-quired sufficient knowledge. of the game to last him over night. It was hardly a fair test of Coffey's prowess and, as he has since that time cleaned up half a dozen or more of the third-taters who bill themselves as "hopes," he has earned the right to be pitted with a better class of flighter. If suc-cessful over Flynn he will be given an opportunity to square accounts with the "Soldier." Kearns, who last week administered another sleeping powder to "One-Round" Davis at Buffalo, will have to cut loose with his very best punches

Kearns was coming to the front with great speed until he bumped into Jess Willard. The beating the Kansan gave him did not discourage the "Sold-ier" a whit, and he began all over again. Recently he has put every opnent to sleep within the ten-round hit, with the single exception of the experience and knowledge of boxing enabled him to not only last the route ut to earn the popular verdict on points. If Kearns could be taught to defend himself occasionally while fighting and not to depend altogether on his slugging ability he might amount to something some of these days. His method has proved effective against sluggers of his own kind for the simple reason that his punches outweigh those of his opponents, but it was of little avail against Willard and Sullivan, men who use their brains as, well as their hands when oppoaed to hard-hit-ting, rushing fighters such a Kearns.

assembly, and another fathered by another Brown was knocked out in the senate. So for two years more at least the swat of the glove will resound in the western land. And this is exactly as it should be. Boxing in California is conducted on a high plane at present, and a person objecting to it must feel the same way toward any other pastime that is pos-sessed of a thrill.

The sport is handled in such a way that a suspicion of creokedness rarely attaches to it. It aoffrds entertain-

Moreover, the breed of boxers has improved. The Friday night shows from the cheapest phase of entertain-ment and offer the smallest remunera-tion to the four mound exceeding the the ssed of a thrill.

An Honest Draw. This, I guess, is on the principle that "splits go to the dealer," and is only one way of looking at the matter. I am inclined to agree with an old time English authority who held that when a, man entered the ring he relinquished his championship—that the belt, if there was one, was hung on a ring post and became the principal trophy of the fight. If this line of reasoning holds good it seems to me that a challenger who does every bit as well as the champion in a fight is entitled to share the honors of a draw, and I certainly believe that Dundee held his own that day at Vernon. It is gute possible that the malority

The other boy was not con-ceded a chance. It was merely a ques-tion of how long it would take Kilbane to secure a knockouf, and there was speculation as to whom he would meet when he threw in his lot with when he threw in his lot with the ightweights.

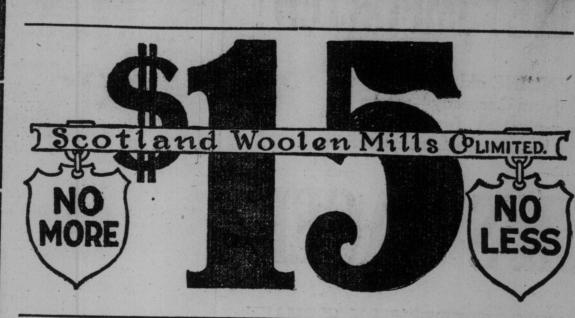

The judgment and the expectations of Kilbane's backers were reflected in the betting. It was as bad as 10 to 3 against Dundee at one stage, with very little "three."

This naturally led the non-batting element to look for an overwhelming victory for Kilbane, and when round victory for Klibahe, and when round after round went on and he failed to encompass a knockout, or even es-tablish a lead, disappointment pre-vailed, and maybe the work that Dunce was doing was overestimated. This may have accounted for the pathetic condition of the crowd at the apathetic condition of the crowd at the finish. The opinion is given for what it is worth, but the writer still holds to the view that Dundee was entitled to share the honors of the award. Britania and Borden, Monday.

Played Baseball With Golf Ball-Is Killed

PITTSFIELD, Mass., May 17. Lee Cummings, catcher on a schoolboys' baseball team, which was using a golf ball in place of a baseball, missed a foul tip yesterday, and the ball went thru an opening in his mask. The lad's skull was fractured and he lived only a short time.

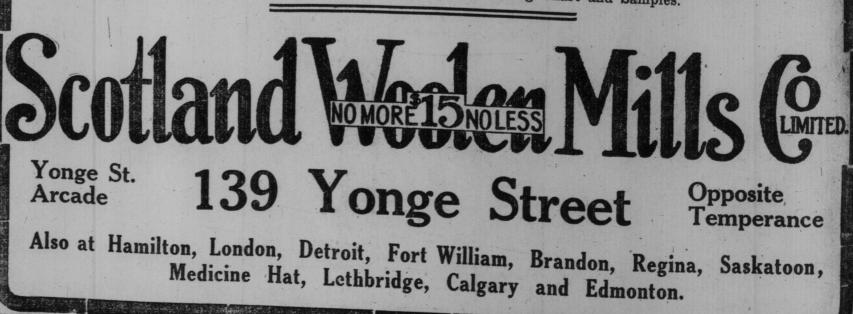

We don't believe in going to extremes in the fashions of the clothes we produce, and are therefore guided rigidly by the designs produced by the best of London and New York tailors.

Blue Serge-The most popular of all material for Summer wear is the Blue Serge. The Scotland Woolen Mills has a great reputation for these goods, and we are now showing some particularly fine lines in light weights, made from Botany Bay Yarn dyed in the wool. These goods now on view come in three weaves of coarse and fine texture. All one price.

Tweeds-The very exclusive tailor shops of London and New York are showing for Summer wear some catchy patterns of tweeds, in homespun effects of grays and greens. We have in our showrooms several lines of this cloth, which have just recently been received. These goods also make excellent overcoats for Spring wear.

OUT-OF-TOWN MEN: The out-of-town man cannot complain now that he is not able to secure as good clothes as his city cousin, for since the advent of the Scotland Woolen Mills and its improved Mail-Order System, such things are procurable. Write to us today for our new Catalogue, Self-Measuring Chart and Samples.

GUANANIELL

The growing popularity of the Scotand Woolen Mills Company clothing is something of which we are more than proud. We have made good and more than good. A lot of merchants have attempted to follow us, forgetting that the basis of our business is built on our direct dealing between the mills and the wearer of the clothes.

Cutting out all of the Middlemen's profits enables us to make a highclass suit for Fifteen Dollars. In no other way is such a thing possible, and we believe that we are the only tailors doing this.

Our big workroom building on Richmond street, Toronto, is not a factory, but a superior workshop, in which each suit of clothes is individually handled and carefully tailored to your measure.

We use only one class of linings. and finishings, which as the very best money can buy. We use only imported woolens from which we cut your clothes. We guarantee everything and your money back if you aer not satisfied.

By Donald G. French.

TOT much more than a century ago this province was an almost unbroken forest. Now the southern portion which we call "Older Ontario" is all but denuded of its woodlands. The settler's axe made the clearings which were necessary before agricultural industry could flourish; the lumberman cut off the valuable timber; and now, where the log-heaps blazed merrily in the "clearings" within memory even of many of us, the farmer burns coal, not for convenience, but of necessity; and manufacturers are beginning to tell him that it will be cheaper to build his barns of corrugated iron than of lumber.

But scarcity of wood, either as lumber or as fuel, is not the only reason why reforesting should be considered a matter of provincial or national economics. In the clearing and timbering operations vast areas of soil were laid bare which were really suited for producing little else but forests. It is one of Nature's apparent mysteries that the mighty trees will grow where the much smaller plants, grains, and even grasses can scarce find sustenance. Some of this land was cropped for a time but the accumulated humus made by the dead leaves and decayed plants was soon used up and the soil became "blow sand" ready to drift like snow with every . blast of wind. Our illustration shows how the sand has been scooped away from the stumps of the by-gone gigantic pines until these tower in the air, sprawling upon their massive roots.

Reforesting operations in Ontario had their beginning in the establishment of a forestry department at the Ontario Agricultural College in 1904. Here the agricultural student was trained in tree planting and care of woodlands, and nurseries were established to produce young forest trees suitable for replanting. From these planting material was distributed thruout the province to replenish the farmers' woodlots and to set out land unsuited for agriculture.

The opening of the Norfolk Forest Station in 1909 enlarged the scope of the work, because it took up the actual reclamation of waste land by replanting. The/ province now owns about 1500 acres at this point. Very extensive nursery work is carried on here in addition to the actual planting. The rearing of the young trees from the seed is a somewhat delicate process. The seedlings are first grown in carefully screened seed-beds where the conditions of the forest as to light and sunshine are reproduced as nearly as possible. From the seed-beds the young trees are transplanted to the nursery lines where they remain until they are ready to set out. At present the forest nursery contains about 500,000 seedlings in seed-beds and 980,000 plants in the nursery lines.

Waste land to the extent of 100 acres has now been replanted at the Forestry Station chiefly with white pine, red pine, Scotch pine, white cedar, larch, chestnut, red oak, black locust, walnut and butternut. When the young plants are first set out they are usually covered over with brush to keep the wind from blowing all the soil away from the roots. Our photographs show the progress of young pines that are waxing lusty amid the high-rooted stumps that mark the graves of their ancestors. As a hint to would-be tree growers, I might mention that it was pointed out to me when on a visit to the Forestry Station that the young pines set in the bare sand usually thrived, but those planted in portions where grass was growing were done to death by the thirsty grass-evidence enough that sod is not the proper surrounding for a young orchard or any young trees.

At present the varieties in the seed-beds at the station are chiefly white, Norway and yellow pine; white cedar, larch and white spruce, while the nursery lines contain the additional varieties of black locust, black walnut, butternut, chestnut, soft maple, elm and white ash. During the last season 375,000 plants were sent out to 35 different countles, and since the organization of the forestry department about one and a half million plants have been sent out so that there are now experimental plantings in 45 counties or districts of Ontario. These plantings are made to fill vacant spots in existing woodlots, to prevent the encroachment of sand on public roads, to protect springs and sources of water supply, and to reclaim or put into use waste portions of farms, sand ridges; hillsides and the like.

Because one can cut down a tree in half an hour that it may take fifty years to replace, there are few persons who have the broad vision and enthusiasm of Mr. E. J. Zavitz, the director of forestry for the province. In an address before the Dominion Forestry Convention he pointed out that Southern Ontario with 20,000 square miles has only 9 per cent. of inferior woodland, while Saxony with 5,789 square miles has 27 per cent. of forest land which yields an annual revenue of $2,299,000. Prussia with 10,420 square miles, one-half the size of Southern Ontario, has 23.5 per cent. of forest land which yields an annual revenue of 17 million dollars. In addition to the value as a financial investment, reforesting will protect the headwaters of streams, provide breeding ground for wild game, provide object lessons in forestry and prevent citizens from developing under conditions which can end only in failure, argues Mr. Zavitz.

As scientific forestry has been practised with great success in several countries of Europe, it is of interest to refer to some further evidence from these. Prussia has been cited because of its large annual forest revenue, yet in 1778 it was reported from eastern Prussia that "not a single acre could be found that had not been hurnt in earlier or later times." Her present revenue is the result of a vigorous reforesting policy. For instance, in 1902 she set aside $30,000,000 for the purchase of waste land, and annually spends half a million in reforesting these.

In France during the last 60 years some 2,300,000 acres of waste land have been planted at a total cost of 15 million dollars. The net annual revenue of these plantings is now 10 million dollars. Most of this planting has been done by private and municipal enterprise. The French Government itself planted 200,000 acres of blowing sand at a cost of $2,600,000. Recently it sold one-half of the plantation for $120,000 more than the . expenditure on the whole planting. A marshy sand waste of 2 million acres was drained and reforested by the municipalities and a useless waste thus turned into a property worth over $7,000,000.

Considering Southern Ontario as a whole it is a region of remarkable fertility and yet the examination of a "map of waste lands" which prefaces an early report on reforesting, shows a number of blotchy patches which are described as "sandy areas unfit for agriculture." It is on one of such areas that the young pines and trees of other varieties are growing so healthily at the Norfolk Station. The other areas of considerable extent are found in South Bruce, 'Lambton, Simcoe, Northumberland and Durham, ranging in extent from 5,000 to 60,000 acres. It is estimated that 200 square miles of such soil may be found in Southern Ontario.

The work that has been done so far furnishes ample evidence that Ontario can easily repeat the guocesses that scientific forestry has accomplished in various countries of Europe. Not only is there the large area of waste lands in Southern Ontario to be reclaimed, bup every farmer with 50 acres or more can profitably set out at least from 10 to 20 per cent. of his farm in woodland and use more intensive methods of cultivation on the rest. The foresight of the tree-planter demands that this work of reclamation be carried out with the least possible delay.

Lord Byron

On April 19 The London Times published in its obituary column a memorial notice of the death of Lord Byron at Missolonghi in 1824. The notice appears annually under the provision in the will of a lady admirer of the great poet and will continue until a memorial is placed in Westminster Abbey. So far the Deans of Westminster have refused their sanction basing their opposition on the circumstances of his private life. Of late there has been a marked revival of interest in Byron and the recent publication of a new biography by Ethel Colburn Mayne has resulted in many critical articles giving fresh estimates of his character and genius. One of the most remarkable features in regard to Byron has been the marked difference between the British and continental views of his contributions to English literature but not a little of the more recent criticism. points to a recasting of the British verdict.

The Germans have always ranked Byron as second only to Shakspere among English poets. In the earlier years of last century Germany was still largely influenced by the sentiment of the "storm and stress" period typified by Goethe in his novel "The Sorrows of Werther." To that sentiment Byron made strong appeal and the Germans at once claimed Byron, as they had previously claimed Shakspere, as more truly exponent of German than English temper. Reviewing Miss Mayne's book Professor William Ellery Leonard remarked that he found his best clue for understanding Byron in the life of Goethe. "The great, the noble aim of Goethe's eighty years was to develop the self, to become a man harmonious, independent, dynamic in the world. His studies, his friendships, his travels, his writings, his passions, he compelled, by wisdom and by will to this high end, so that the generations have said with Carlyle: 'Life has furnished no such spectacle ere this.' Byron's whole being too was a struggle in becoming and possibly his fascination for us is greater than Goethe's in that, like us, tho of more heroic heart and vaster brain than ours, he knew not altogether and could not altogether what he would. The greatness and glory of Goethe is in the achievement; the greatness and pathos of Byron is in the struggle. Goethe is the god, Byron is the maneach a type and each imperishable."

Byron described himself as "cursed" when he thought of his heritage. From his mother he inherited her irresponsibility and he had from her the worst of trainings in boyhood. She alternated between moods of fury and tenderness and this accounted for the contradictions that marked his own life. Much of its tragedy came from the belief that he was born for a life of action and when that came near of accomplishment in his romantic expedition to Greece, he died. Miss Mayne sees the secret of Byron's fascination and of his enduring appeal in his incarnation of the age-long human struggle toward self-expression. "His tragedy resided in his being so like, yet so much more than, the rest of us. His good and evil are both colossal." Professor Edward Dowden noticing Miss Mayne's biography agrees in this and says: "It is impossible to separate the works from the man. In both we perceive Light and darkness And mind and dust, and passion and pure thoughts Mix'd and contending.

Is ragtime syncopating its way to an early death? J. N. Weber, president of the musicians' union which met in Toronto last week, says it appeals to the legs and not to the brains and that the fever is at its height.

Some day the good within every man may dominate his entire nature, and then we shall be done with the dross against which, unconsciously perhaps, mankind has striven. "Ragtime" is simply one of a thousand appeals to the lower senses just as "ragging" is a beastly form of animal expression. It is all rubbish, neither entertaining nor ornamental, and its disappearance will be a harbinger of victory for the cause of wholesome entertainment which lifts up and leaves the mind better than it finds it.

Japan's Claim for Equality

Japan is taking the situation in California very seriously and is basing her protest against the land act passed by the legislature on the ground that the discrimination it is intended to secure touches her national honor. As amended, after Mr. Bryan had explained the attitude of the federal executive, its phraseology closely follows that of the existing treaty between the United States and Japan which is interpreted so that Japanese may own houses or places of industry but not land and it is against land-owning that the measure is directed. Whether or not this interpretation is correct, and it can be tested in the federal courts, the Japanese are evidently convinced that it separates them from nations of European stock in that alien and the commissioners for four years, two re- He was a good sporting proposition, but he has death other than death." Whether it immigrants into California, who are eligible for American citi zenship, may freely acquire and cultivate land holdings. The Japanese see in this question the whole issue of the status of Japan among civilized nations. They claim equality of treatment with white races and to be exempt from anti-Asiatic legislation because they are not of Mongolian origin and have adopted western civilization.

California is not alone in its opposition to Asiatic immigration. All the Pacific states are antagonistic to it and the sentiment is just as pronounced in British Columbia, in Australia and in New Zealand. The latter Dominions have protected themselves by imposing an arbitrary educational test while Canada has an understanding that the flow will be checked by the government of Japan itself. In all cases the antipathy is avowed to be founded on impolicy of permitting the growth of large populations alien in spirit and tradition to'Anglo-Keltic civilization. But the real reason is fear that the lower standard of living will drive the home worker to the wall. The Chinese and Japanese are admittedly thrifty and industrious. They do not meddle in polities and rarely become burdens on the community. Having made their pile they fold their tents like the Arabs and as silently steal away to their native land, there to spend the remainder of their days. As agriculturists the Japanese are unsurpassed, toiling early and late and producing more from a given acre than their white competitors. The Japanese Government in standing on its dignity and pressing its demand for equality has raised an issue fraught with serious possibilities of dangerous controversy.

It is declared, after a year's trial, that the new system works to advantage. Business men are satisfied, and that feeling is shared by the public at large. The Sunday World has frequently pointed to American cities as examples of the benefits to be derived from commission government and it is pleasing to note that a Canadian community has taken such an important step. # Never Did Rim-Cut

SEAL OF QUALT

Here's the story of a tire which has set all America talking because it set new standards in tire mileage and was the first and only tire to make freedom from skidding a realizable factor in motoring. This tire, which is patented by us, stands alone in the whole field of tiredom as the anti-skid without a rival for efficiency. It is the one tire in Canada which has a built-into tread. That exclusive feature alone saves Canadian motorists 30% of tire life.

Unique Construction

Have you ever noticed closely the construction of Dunlop Traction Tread? As many motorists say, this tire is the most stylish anywhere, yet every point in its construction serves a purpose, and, therefore, serves you.

"Classy" in Action

Have you noticed how under application of the brake, the "Vs" of Dunlop Traction Treads act upon the wet or greasy pavement? Each "V" finds a footing, so to speak, passes off the greasy mud by means of its side channels, and finds dry pavement for each succeeding "V" to grip.

Other Tires Ineffective

READ

Other so-called anti-skid tires just wiggle through the mud er over the asphalt-on chance. Each "button" or "wart" just pushes aside some of the grease for the next button to slide on.

No Loosened Treads

With Dunlop Traction Treads in service there is no "wave of rubber" being pushed shead, as with other tires, because with Dunlop Traction Treads the tire runs along under pressure, each "V" expanding the maximum amount without touching the next "V." You see, there is a space between each "V" as big as the width of the "V" itself. This exclusive Dunlop Traction Tread feature prevents leosening of the tread, a defect in ordinary tires eating up 30 per cent. of the life.

"bumps." said strip being stuck onto the tire. You probably have noted with ordinary tires that all the "buttons," no matter their shape, are of one depth. This is because if the "buttons" of the stuck-on type of anti-skid were made big enough to really be effective they would air-fill in the process of manufacture and crumble away in first usage. Comfort to Passengers

With Dunlop Traction Treads, no unevenness is felt by the passenger or driver. The deep, resilient rubber absorbs all shock, and removes altogether that consciousness of tire contact with the road, common to so-called anti-skids. Motorists tell us they notice how often different manufacturers have their cars equipped with Dunlop Traction Treads when they take the prospects out to demonstrate the comfortable riding qualities of the cars.

Exit to Skidding

Air-Cooled Feature

The construction of Dunlop Traction Tread "V's" prevent neating of the tire tread when the car is going at high speed. It's a matter of common-sense that the greater you make the depth of your antiskid corrugation the greater opportunity you afford for the free passage of cooling air. Dunlop Traction Tread anti-skidding feature is made larger than that on any other tire in the world, because the tread of the

The Old Way

Other anti-skids merely possess a strip of rubber covered with

That extra depth of rubber, an exclusive Dunlop Traction Tread feature, besides giving double tire life, absolutely ensures to the motorist a real anti-skidding feature, and a feature which lasts with the life of the tire. You know yourself that with ordinary tires the ee. called anti-skidding virtues vanish after a few hundred miles of tire usage, then the rear tires are shifted to the front of the car to do "plain" duty.

Passing of Punctures

Punctures are almost unknown to Dunlop Traction Tread Tires, because of the impenetrability of the combined depth of tread and heavy fabric wall. You see, Dunlop Traction Tread in use has approximately one inch space between that portion of the tire touching the road and that portion of the tire which contains the inner tube, No other tire in the world gives the user such protection from those obstructions on the road commonly found in motoring experience.

More Rubber--More Air

Dunlop Traction Treads are larger than any other tires made in Canada. Actual tests made in our laboratory show that users of Dunlop Traction Treads-or, for that matter, Dunlop Tires in general-get an average of 66 more cubic inches of air capacity. That means Dunlop Tires are larger than so-called "over-size" tires, or any other kind of tires.

Never Did Rim-Cut

Two years' search for information from the men who knew about rim-cutting in actual experience-dealers and motorists-proves that Duniop Tires are the one make of tire which never did rim-out. All the tires which come to our repair shops labelled: "Defect; rim-cutting," have some other maker's name moulded into them.

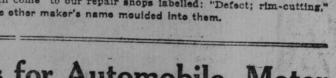

The Dunlop Line consists of Tires for Automobile, Motor Truck, Motorcycle, Bicycle and Carriage, Rubber Belting, Packing, Hose, Heels, Mats, Tiling and General Rubber Specialties.

Great Numbers of Monarchs Are Devotees of Temperance, Yet All Keep Well Equipped Wine Cellars - President Wilson a Teetotaler.

Alfonso XIII. of Spain, and his mother, Queen Christina, are both total abstainers. So, too, is Vic-tor Emmanuel III. of Italy, as well as Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, and her mother, Queen Emma; the two queens of Sweden and King Gustavus Ad-olphus, and Ferdinand of Bulgaria. Yet all these sovereigns possess cell-ars of historic fame and world-wide celebrity, the contents of which are offered to their guests on the occa-sion of avery officiel and martine family and his ars of historic fame and world-wide celebrity, the contents of which are offered to their guests on the occa-sion of every official and private en-tertainment. No matter whether they themselves refrain from partaking thereof, for reasons of health, prin-ciple, or mere distaste, they do not dream of inflicting their views upon those whom they receive at their table as guests. Eardinand of Bulgaria.

As guests, Ferdinand of Bulgaria. No monarch has derived a greater amount of advantage from total ab-stinence than Czar Ferdinand of Bul-garia. In his case, it is not a matter garia. In his case, it is not a matter of principle, or of health, but of pol-icy, pure and simple, and in for-swearing beer, wine, liquors, and stim-ulants of every kind he acted on the advice of his wonderfully clever mo-ther and most sagacious political ad-visor the late Bringer Clementing deviser, the late Princess Clementine of Saxe-Coburg, of whom it used to be said by Bismarck that she was far and away the shrewdest diplomat in said by

Thanks of his abstinence, his nerves are always under the most perfect control, and the fact that he never loses patience or temper, never dis-plays signs of irritation under the most trying circumstances and intense pro-vocation, gives him a tremendous advantage in his dealings with the pass-ionate, hot-headed, intemperate races of the southeast of Europe, among whom his lot is cast. With King Alfonso, total abstinence is not a matter of policy, or even of principle, but merely one of taste. If he declines to touch alcoholic bev-erages of any kind whatsoever it is because he finds all wines and spirits because he finds all wines and spirits unpalatable. Temperance was not only dis-countenanced by the throne and by society during the whole of the eighteenth century and the first half of that which followed, but was ac-tually penalized by the state. Thus Frederick the Great, one of the most enlightened and sensible sovereigns of his time, issued in 1779 a proclamation bearing his sign manual, deploring "the increased consumption of coffee by my subjects, and the amount of

In these days of political fux however with Mr Lloyd George as radicals. In these days of political flux, however, with Mr. Lloyd George preaching Imperialism, and a number of the younger Unionists advancing principles which it would be difficult to differentiate from Socialism, it is at least useful to know there is one man whose mind is absolutely fixed, stolid and unshekeble. This is a since a si or the other. He did not rant; he talked quietly. He would spot an in-dignant Liberal making explosive interand unshakable. This is Sir Frederick. The present play is considered by far the best. The story of "Mrs. Dot" deals with the trials of Mrs. Worthley--nicknam-ed Mrs. Dot--a young widow who is in love with Gorald Halstane, a hand-some young Englishman of good fami-ly, who has made some unlucky in-vestments and finds himself penniless. He is in love with Mrs. Dot but a year previous to the time of the first act he permitted himself, under the im-pulse of a moment's infatuation. to become engaged to Neille Sellenger. Gerald is on the point of releasing Nellie from her engagement to him. a penniless gentleman, when news comes from the war office that a distant re-lative has been killed in battle, and that he is now the new Lord Holling-ton with an income of six or seven thousand pounds a year. He feels that he is now in honor bound to marry Nellie, no matter how much he lowes Mrs. Dot. He tells her so. Mrs. Dot at once contrives to force an attach-ment between her cousin and private secretary. Freddie Ferkins, and Nel-lie by teaching each of them individu-ally that the other is head over heels hat the other is head over he e with him and her. And to a by that the other is head over near a love with him and her. And to still writer matters she conspires with ames Blenkinsop, a middle-aged ynic and woman-hater, to indulge in a make-believe ilirtation in order to make Gerald jealous and to cause him to break with Nellie. A couple of special marriage licenses are se-sured by Mrs. Dot one for herself and Blenkinsop, and the other for Nellie and Freddle. Nellie thinks Freddle has obtained the license himself, ad-mires his boldness and consents to elope with him. The pursuit of the elopers and the cunning of Mrs. Dot in extricating herself from a mass of complications form a delightful end-ing to this brilliant play. No expense will be spared by Miss Haswell to costume the play up-to-date, and the scenic effects will be in competent hands. It is expected that the production will long be remember-ed, and that Miss Haswell will score one of her greatest personal triumphs.

THE COMPANY BEHIND THE COMING CITY OF OJIBWAY.

The industrial organization which is bringing into existence the city Ojibway is the largest financial concern on earth-the United States Steel Corporation.

This Company a few years ago spent $20,000,000 in buying nine thousand acres of land-twentysix miles east of Chicago-grading and erecting mills.

To-day there is a city of 38,000 people located

The demand for steel in Canada is so great that the same Steel Corporation has decided to erect mills costing twenty million dollars or more in Ojibway, just below Sandwich, opposite the city of Detroit, and a short distance from Windsor.

It is understood that building operations will commence almost at once, and when the mills are

EVERY INDICATION IS THAT CIVIC IMPROVEMENTS WILL COMMENCE IMMEDIATELY

Surveyors and town-planners are now at work doing the foundation work upon which the city of Ojibway will be built.

The streets are being laid out by men who have had long experience in this work. It is expected that the main thoroughfares will be about 100 feet wide, with 16 or 17-foot sidewalks on either side.

The cross streets will be about 60 feet in width, and shade trees will be planted every few feet.

Water mains, gas mains, and sewers will be install-ed as quickly as possible, after which roadways and sidewalks will be laid with all possible speed.

The time to buy real estate is now, before these improvements are completed, for every improvement means enhanced land values.

THE RELATION OF RIVERVIEW PROPERTY TO THE STEEL MILLS.

Riverview property is situated a short distance from the Corporation property, and very conven-ient, to not only the Steel Mills, but to Sandwich, Windsor, Walkerville, and Ford City, with which it is connected by car line, and it is near Detroit.

Riverview will be a high-class restricted district. It will be the homesite for the heads of the many departments of the Steel plants and other industries which will be erected in close proximity to Ojibway.

OUR PROPERTY IS LEVEL AND READY FOR BUILDING PURPOSES

This Park is situated just far enough from the Steel plant to be free from any noises or smoke of the mills-it is the ideal site for the homes of Ojibway's particular people.

completed employment will be furnished for thousands of men.

Those who invest now may select lots at very low figures-figures which will double quickly,

Will be the Greatest Steel City in the Dominion

OJIBWAY

The initial expenditure of the Steel Corporation at Ojlbway will be $20,000,000.00, but it is finally believed, by those who have been following the operations of this giant firm, that before very long many times this amount will have been invested in the mills located in this coming city.

Six years ago $20,000,000.00 was the expenditure at Gary, but already between $80,000,000 and $90,000,000 have been spent, and the mills are still far from complete.

It is expected that similar amounts will be spent in Canada's first steel city, which must, of necessity, be the greatest steel city in the Dominion.

Ojibway is midway between Montreal and Winnipeg-the steel-consuming area of Canada. This fact alone assures the almost immediate enlargement of the steel mills at Ojibway, Apart from her location, Ojibway is the ideal site for Canada's largest steel mills because she is situated on the Detroit River, and has the best shipping facilities of any city in the Dominion. From Ojibway's harbor and railway front shipments can be made to all parts of Canada with dispatch. It was because of Ojibway's unexcelled shipping facilities that the Steel Corporation chose it for the site of their enormous plants and mills.

president of the San Francisco cham-ber of commerce. In his nine races of 1912 this horse was never headed, and as Geers has no other 2.10 trotter in sight, California fans are expecting great things of San Felipe. At Pieas-anton he is rated as a sure 2.05 trotter. In a workout mile recently he stepped the last half of a slow mile in 1.03¼, and was not at his limit them.

Mr. Mackenzie did not decide until the last minute to send the McKinney pacer along with Joe Patchen II. to Geers. It is probable that later in the season Vernon will be sent to the Western Circuit, out of the Patchen horse's way, unless the latter gets under the two-minute mark early in the season, and is demanded for exhibitions. Mr. Mackenzie is confident Joe Patchen II. will clip something off of two minutes before mid-season. He thinks the horse's last fast mile last vear, timed at Los Angeles in 2002:

Interesting Discoveries in the Ancient Cny of Hercules which Seem to Prove the Legend of the Greatest Strong Man's Slavery to Sively Queen Omphale only a Memory of Woman's Oldest Conquest of the Ballot

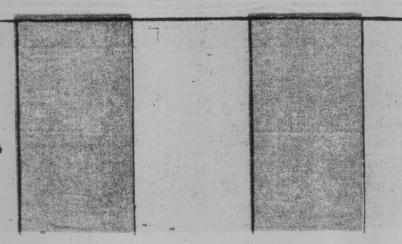

E German society now digging among the ruins of the ancient civilization of Crete has just un. earthed militant suffragette movement at ast 1200 years before our era, and ably 2000 years before it. The discoveries which lead the Germans to the conclusion that women on that distant date arose for their rights, and got them. were made at Firyns, on the Greek mainland. Tiryns, in its heyday, was one of the greatest cities of the Cretans. It has been famous for centuries as the birthplace of Hercules, the greatest strong man and most vigprous demi-god of legend. Tiryns is now, and has been for centuries, mass of ruins, mostly deep in The sheep of the Greek shepherds have grazed above its palaces and temples for ages.

In the astonishing wall paintings at Tiryns the signs of the mastery rites first aroused Tiryns and in snake-goddess, the patroness o in her hand is always shown the of dominance. Juno was known in later times even as Juno Regina, the Queen Goddess, a relic of the age in which the primeval woman of the older stock ruled all mankind and she is always depicted with that prominent chin . which betokens power and determination, and the high forehead, expressing great intellectual powers

This remarkable wall painting, the first complete believed, and this ancient lady is seen carrying an offerpicture of a woman of the advanced Cretan civiliza- ing to the Snake-Goddess, the dominant deity of this tion of 3000 years ago, has recently been discovered vanished civilization. The legend of Hercules and on one of the nuned palace walls of ancient Tiryns. Omphale is thought to be a record of a militant The corset and flounced skirt are astonishingly like our suffragetic uprising of the women of the city and also began and was first successful in Tiryns. The method is one perfectly familiar to all students of legend and mythology.

The Cretan or Minoan language has never yet been read. No Rosetta stone, by which the hieroglyphics of the Egyptians were first deciphered, has been found to give the clue to the Minoan characters. But at Tiryns there was uncovered a mass of wonderful wall paintings, jars and vases and mosaics, most of which bore in 'pictures the story of this women's uprising and its consequences so plainly that there, can be. little doubt that the German scientists have read their meaning rightly These were not Greeks who built Tiryns and who erected the magnificent palaces now being uncovcred. The builders had come from Asla Minor, they were of the same old Minoan race as the Trojans. It was the might of the barbarian Greek city of Argos, a neighbor, which brought about the destruction of the Minoan cities, and with them Tiryns, about, perhaps, 500 B. C. The very ancient Greeks did not hold women in very high regard, and so they felt that it would never do to admit that woman had ever ruled, or there might be danger of the Greek women setting up their "rights" to dominate the State and society. Thus came about the peculiar twist in the Hercules legend which none has been able to explain hitherto. It has been recognized as a Lydian part of the story, which means that it comes from Asia Minor, and this adds to the value of the new interpretation As the story goes, the hero Hercules is entrapped by Queen Omphale, and devotes himself to pleasures, losing himself in the society or women so far as to put on feminine attire, while his lively lady Omphale takes up his lion skin, puts it on, and with the club of Hercules in her hand flaunts herself before the degenerate bero, and proves herself the real hero. Even though according to the legend Hercules does break forth from his effeminacy at times and Manquishes the Cecropes, the goblins who used The to waylay travellers and slew Little Sylens, who compelled all trav. Pet Dog ellers to dig in his vineyard, of a woman is still the dominating Fashionable Lady sower. Quean Amphalo has of Ancient Tie

Ever and again he stopped, looked down at the shipping in the harbor, using a small pair of glasses he carried in his pocket. And always his gaze finally fell and rested lovingly on the long, weather-beaten craft he called his own. Another silence, as if these two men were measuring one another up, as friends or opponents might. "With that beautiful young girl I saw you talking to just now?" Then he looked almost apologetically at Stopford. "Rather simple fare for you, I'm afraid. Perhaps the wine and the cigars will make up for it."

"A woman drove me forth. Sounds like the old excuse our respected relative, Adam, made, doesn't it? But I'm grateful to her, for I only began to live when I deserted that imitation of existence which we call ife."

Stopford was staring across the harbor at the mountains clothed in their green olive trees, in their clambering vines and their golden orange bushes. It was good to know that this strong, iron-hearted man had loyed; at least he need not be ashamed of the horeless parsion which had sudof the hopeless passion which had sud-denly consumed him.

"And now you've returned," he said. "And now I've returned. It isn't just poverty that's called me back; in the countries where I lived and the seas on which I sailed one can exist on practically nothing, and the old best will hold together for a few years oat will hold together for a few years

Flop had never set eyes on such a spread. "Now, will you do me the honor to come and dine?" graciously invit-ed Frisby, when all was ready. "You must excuse me if there's anything lacking. For it's easy to see you're up against it hard and strong. And I remember when I was a young man, and a fool." "A young man and a fool!" Stopford repeated the words aloud. He was not offended at his host's bluntness. He would have resented it in any other man. It would have been difficult to resent anything Captain Smith said. and I do all my own house-keep-ing." Anything lacking! Flop was al-most over-awed at such style, and suddenly became uncomfortably aware of his seedy appearance. "If you please, Cousin Frisby," he said, politely, "Id like to have a wash and brush my hair first." "Certainly," assented Frisby, "Come out here to the bath. There's plenty of room to splash; and you'll find soap, towels and a hair brush on the ledge. This tiny pool does nicely for a looking glass." Flop had always made a great fusa when he got his face washed, and-I'm ashamed to have to tell it—he had never taken an all-over bath in his life. As for combing his hair, his mammy had given that up in despair Smith said. "The point is whether I have been a fool or I am a fool," he said slowly. "You certainly are one if you can't make up your mind." Stopford laughed, but Smith was prefectly serious. They both smoked in silence for some time. Stopford knew that Captain Smith was waiting for him to speak, to tell his story. And he felt ashamed. It seemed so weak to confide in another person and one he had only known a couple of hours or so. "Go ahead. You'll feel better when you've spoken. There's a woman, I or so Stepford moved his chair so that Stepford moved his chair so that Smith could not see his face. "There are two women: one to whom I'm en-gaged to be married—a widow, pos-sessing everything one most wants in this world. The other I only met a few days ago, and apparently pos-sessing nothing. I know little about her, except that she's married to a man who I'll swear is a wrong-'ut and man who I'll swear is a wrong-'uh and that she's his dupe. Before nightfall I shall probably discover that she her-self is nothing else than a thief. I love her. That's all. Faintly across the waters of the harber floated the sounds of music, of voices, from the gardens of the Ho-tel de Paris and the terrace of the casino. Captain Smith threw away the end of his eigar, and Mt another. "If your thief wasn't married what would you do?"

Stopford felt as if Captain Smith was reading his thoughts. That was just what he wanted, to talk over his sition with some one. He had ought of going to Vibart, but that thought of going to vibar, but that happy-go-lucky journalist would not understand. Besides, Stopford knew which way the remorseless finger of duty pointed. There was no happy medium between right and wrong, and, morally, he had been color-blind, seeing only black and white in the world. The dingay from the yacht had

Lew Sarett explains the difficulty which the non-swimmer has in remaining afloat in an interesting article, "The Knack of Learning to Swim," as follows:

"The non-swimmer, fearing the water, very naturally tenses his muscles as he struggles to keep his head above the water, until he is as hard as a rock, and, like a rock, he sinks; whereas the swimmer, having no fear, relaxes his muscles, and hence becomes buoyant. The explanation is a simple physical one. Tense, taut muscles increase the specific gravity of the body and make it sink in water; loose, relaxed muscles (given an ordinary supply of air in the lungs) will make the body float."

A fashionable and cultured audi-ence filled the concert hall of the the concert hall of the the summer.

Canadian Academy of Music last Tuesday, when Mr. Stanley Adams, the English tenor, gave an "evening of song and story." His program was a most important one, comprising Italian, French, German, and English songs and ballads, musical monologs, songs and ballads, musical monologs, humorous and dramatic recitations, and light comedy songs. Mr. Adams' voice is of excellent quality, and is equally effective in song or story, while his movements and gestures are those of a refined and finished actor. The stage was arranged as a draw-ting-room, which, in itself, made a very pretty picture. Miss Winifred Lanceley and Mr. E. Gray acted as accompanists, and both played well. The evening will be remembered as one of the most enjoyable of the sea-son.

There is nothing new in this. It has all been done before. But tell me, what is new? Does the aspiring and perspiring summer vaudeville artist flatter himself that his stuff is going big? Then does the stout man with the oyster-colored eyelids in the first row, left, turn his bullet head on his fat-creased neck to remark huskily to his companion:

The nook for him, R-r-r-rotten! That last one was an old Weber'n Fields' gag. They discarded it back in '91. Say, the good ones is all dead, anyhow. Take old Salvini, now, and Dan Rice. Italy today abounds in mystery and subjects of all-absorbing interest. What of the Italy of the ancient days, What of the lialy of the ancient days, when the gaming spirit was upper-most in all men's minds? When the toss of chance meant even more than the interdicts of the pope? When the loaded dice and stilletto were of equal import at all the games of chance? One of the most daring of all the pranks of the young men at that time was to have a band seated on the ridge of some church roof and play, while two opposing teams waged war, such as a football game understands the term, on the piazza! It was not unusual for some papal legate, strolling by, and being struck by the godlessness of such behavior, to take alm and send a shot from his pistol, right into the midst of the miscreants. And then there were carnivals, and

And for such excellent reasons, as well as the limitations of the space allowed, all that will be required of me is to write down a long, detailed list of the different articles in this marvelous collection. ## "THE THIRD DEGREE."

third act when Richard Brewster, at-When Charles Klein wrote "The torney for Howard Jeffries, jr., ac-Third Degree" he proved himself a better prophet than he himself be-lieved. For, by reason of the recent police scandals which have arisen in New York and stirred the entire coun-sry, Mr. Klein's great drama appears in an entirely new light. Thruout the entire action, there is an undercur-rent of suggestion of blackmail meth-ods used by the police of New York City. When the piece was produced, it is doubtful if this attracted much at-tention. It was probably accepted as necessary only to the development of blaywright. Since the revelations of playwright. Since the revelations of the plot and taken as the vagaries of a playwright. Since the revelations of they present a much different appear-ance. The idea which Mr. Klein is thus attempting to impress upon his sudiences reaches_its climax in the Third Degree" he proved himself a cused of murder and forced into mak-

Bag Monograms. Attractive Fans

The fashion of having one's bag The fashion of having one's bag marked with a monogram of metal is again popular, the of course, the style of lettering changes decidedly year by year. If a woman's mono-sram does not present an unusual combination of letters, she may find in the shops, at much reduced prices, cut and ready to adjust to the bag. The single lettering is at-tractive. Of course, the single let-ters may be bought and combined at will. Attractive fans of the size liked for dances and the theatre have plain san-dalwood mountings and spreads of flex-ible soft satin in delicate tones, edged with a fine vine in hand work. Some-with a fine vine in hand work. Some-tully carved sandalwood with tops of silk embroidered and hand-painted with a cherry blossom design. Celluloid mounted fans come in every imaginable color, sometimes with spreads of hand-painted celluloid and again topped with marabout and decorated with tiny flowers in silk. Nowadays all self-re-edged with white or black lace or with gold or silver net.
