Uproarious Scene at Investigation of Charges in Army Hangings--"For Two Pennies," Said Irate Member, "I Would Slap Your Face."

Washington, Dec. 13—A scene said to unparalleled in the history of the nited States Senate occurred during the vestigation of the Watson charges that nerican soldiers were hanged in France thout trial, when Thomas E. A "lantern-jawed dog" and a "bull-jawed brute" were expressions that Watson shouted at Major Cocheu. The officer was in uniform and on duty, and, therefore, unable to make a retort of any kind to the insults that were heaped upon him by the senator from Georgia. Major Cocheu sat ealmly through the ordeal, and not once did he lose control of himself. Watson was standing within a few that the property of him shaking his fist in his face.

The outbreak against the officer was natirely unexpected, not one among them aving uttered a word during the hearing. The officers were Col. Walter A. Bethel, who was General Pershing's thief adviser in France, Major C. W. Dinsmore, an assistant to Col. Bethel and Major Cocheu.

Senator Watson was plainly in ill-numor when he came into the room. All of the members of the committee, Senators Brandegee, Overman, Willis, Shields, and Ernst, were in their seats. Watson started off with a protest against the hearing being "narrowed to hangings without trial." Watson brought in a big bundle of letters and affidavits, sixtytwo in number, which he handed to the clerk of the committee and asked that they be made part of the record, a request that was granted by the committee. "I made five charges, but you have confined me to one," asserted Watson.

"Not at all, when we finish with the first one we can take up the others," Senator Brandegee answered."

It was at this point that the Georgia senator lost complete control of himself. Like a flash he turned on Major Cocheu who was seated at the table reserved for representatives of the War depart-to Washington from any part of the country the makers of the affidavits, and the authors of the letters that have been at the authors of the letters that have been at the authors of the letters that have been at the authors of the letters that have been at the authors of the letters that have been at the authors of the letters that have been at the authors of the letters that have been at the authors of the letters that have been placed in the record.

"We will summon any man, woman, or child you want summoned; we will summon any man, woman, or child you want summoned; we will summon them all," interposed Senator Cocheu and pointing his finger in a menacing way at the officer. "For two pennies," Watson said as he glared at the young officer, "I would slap your face, you insolent officer. You think you are n France, don't you? "Senator Watson, "Senator Shields demanded—but Watson ignored the Tennessee senator. "For two pennies," he repeated as in a rage, he addressed Major Cocheu, "I would slap your jaws, you lantern jawed dog."

"Is the sergeant-at-arms in the room?" demanded Senator Brandegee and Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Woodworth stepped forward. "Inform the senator," said Senator Brandegee, "that he cannot insult witnesses."

Watson stopped for a moment, and then he surprised everybody in the room wannouncing in a much aggrieved tone "voice that he, Senator Watson, had been insulted. "Having been insulted I will retire," said Senator Watson, had been insulted. "Having been insulted I will retire," said Senator Watson, but he remained in the room.

ADVICE TO PARENTS

Deformities Should be Treated Early-Physician Consulted Before Going to Him-No Miracle Man, He Says.

One of the big factors in causing misaderstanding and confusion over the work of Dr. Adolf Lorenz, the Viennese orthopedic surgeon, on his present visit to New York has been the spread of a belief that he was a sort of "miracle man," despite his repeated assertions to the contrary. The circulation of such a belief is ascribed to overzealous friends man," despite his repeated assertions to the contrary. The circulation of such a belief is ascribed to overzealous friends of Dr. Lorenz.

Dr. Lorenz and his associates wish that these friends, instead of advertising him as a Miracle Man, had undertaken a campaign of education to inform the public what kind of cases should not be taken to him. For lack of such knowledge, thousands have pressed to see him who could not be helped by him. Many have come from other cities—Toronto, Buffalo, Albany, Ossining, Newburgh, Boston, Stamford, Conn., Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Erie, Pittston and Springfield, Ohio—without any appointment and with no assurance from their own physician that Dr. Lorenz could help them. Many of them had to be referred to proper specialists in other fields of medicine and surgery.

Thousands of persons from all over the country have written asking for appointments, offering any fee Dr. Lorenz may wish to charge. One such letter was from a woman—a hopeless cripple—who saw Dr. Lorenz in Vienna in 1920 and was told there was nothing he could do for her. She returned to America. Reading of his visit, she wrote that perhaps he had discovered some new method since she saw him in 1920 and insisted that he examine her again.

Another woman came to New York and other day from Long Island. Her child was also a hopeless case. Ten of the best orthopedic surgeons in New York had told her so, but she insisted on seeing Dr. Lorenz.

One woman wrote: "My baby was born without legs. Maybe you could give him legs!"

Because of these incidents Dr. Lorenz has now insisted that those who wish to see him should consult their own physicians first. This is for two reasons: First, that eases for which Dr. Lorenz ean do nothing may be eliminated before seeing him; second, that when they come to him they may bring written histories of their cases, prepared by physicians in scientific terms.

Dr. Lorenz explained that all cases of come to him they may bring written histories of their cases, prepared by physicians in scientific terms.

Dr. Lorenz explained that all cases of paralysis were not orthopedic cases. The largest proportion probably should go to neurologists first. If a neurologist finds there is a possibility of correcting operations, the case should then be re-either.

'In general, cases of infantile paralysis of long standing, with total paralysis of the extremities, are cases which can be handled in American orthopedic clinics as well as by Dr. Lorenz.

The essential thing in all cases of infantile paralysis is that the child must be kept under the supervision of a competent orthopedic surgeon, not only throughout the acute stage and during the operation, but constantly thereafter until its full growth is reached. The after-treatment is all-important, because it prevents a deformity from developing or recurring, and deformities do develop in such cases if they are neglected.

As to deformities in general, the principal point that Dr. Lorenz drives home in such cases if they are neglected.

Dublin, Dec. 15—The political correspondent of the Freeman's Journal summed up yesterday the situation at the opening of the Dall Eireann session for action on the Irish treaty. He said:—"Opposition to the treaty of independence is evident in Dublin to much greater extent than throughout the country. That is, the amount of dissatisfaction in the capital should not be exaggerated, it being more vocal than powerful. Men Just returning from the Midlands and the west are astonished to find a strong minority in Dublin opposed to harvesting the fruits of the struggle. In the west, particularly, including the counties of Limerick, Galway and Clare, the treaty is an accepted fact and the people are all looking ahead. They are discussing the political constitution of the provisional government which will immediately follow ratification and the date of the evacuation by the British army.

"Before yesterday's session of the Dail was finished, however, there was every reason to believe that the majority for the treaty will have been considerably augmented. The forty opponents which I gave in my calculation on Tuesday may yet be reduced when the full facts of the situation are realized. It is believed that even some of those who cannot vote for the treaty will refrain from voting against it."

BAGS FIVE GORILLAS FOR N. Y. MUSEUM

Cable Message Says the Akeley Expedition Has Obtained an Entire Family in Africa.

A family of five gorillas has been bagged for the American Museum of Natural History by the Carl E. Akeley expedition, which went to Africa for that purpose, according to a cablegram from Mr. Akeley, received by the museum.

Besides the gorillas the museum's collection has been enriched by the capture of a takin—a rare animal known as "the Chinese buffalo"—and a number of small mammals new to science, which are reported as taken by the American Museum's third Asiatics expedition, of which Roy Chapman Andrews is the leader. Mr. Andrew': messages tell of encounters with Chinese bandits.

Mr. Akeley's cablegram said:

"Very successful securing family of five gorillas for museum. Largest specimen, male, 360 pounds; has span seven feet eight inches."

The message located Mr. Akeley in the Lake Tanganyika region of South Africa near the borderland between German East Africa and the Belgian Congo. The gorilla family, it was said at the museum, would probably reach New York some time in February.

Mr. Akeley left New York in July, accompanied by a party of five, two of hem women and one a six-year-old irl, the daughter of Herbert Bradley of Chicago. The object of the expedition, it was said at his departure, was ne of immediate necessity, as a danger misted that the gorilla would become atterminated before there was anything.

While the Akeley party was plodding through the African jungles, Mr. Andrews' party was beating its way into the roughest mountain country in China. The message just received from him says:

POVERTY BECOMES

Sign of Honesty and Patriotism in the Budapest Upper Classes.

Budapest, Dec. 15-Poverty has beof the upper classes and even among some of the Hungarian nobility in Budapest. It is a sign of honesty and patriotism.

Those of the Hungarian nobility and aristocracy who are, so to speak, picking up crumbs to exist, console themselves with the thought that their mantle of poverty is at least proof that they do not belong to the ranks of the detested "Schiebers"—that is "grafters" and "profiteers"—a class of veritable leaches

General von Kovess, Hungary's most famous general, is running a little store in Andrassy Street. General von Tamassy, the heroic defender of the fortness of Przemsyl, has been granted a municipal permit to open a small cabinet workshop. A number of high officers, from generals to lieutenent-colonels, have stalls in the Central Market, where they sell game, poultry, fruit, etc.

Countess Clara Andrassy, who through marriage is Princess Odescalehi, has opened a ladies' hair and beauty parlor. Baroness Maria Fabry-Ghillanyi sells pint and needles, threads and buttons and other little things in a small store, while Madame Theodor Bonyhadi-Perczel, once replendent in the high social set, is now designing and selling hats in her millinery shop.

BRANTFORD MAN SHOT BY BANDIT

Receives Bullets in Shoulder and Groin - Had $2,000 Worth of Diamonds in His Pocket, But Robber Got No

Brantford, Ont., Dec. 15—George L. Cartwright, jeweler, was held up by a lone bandit near his home in Echo Place, on Saturday night and received two shots, one in the shoulder and one in the left groin. The bandit, a youth about twenty-five years of age, attempted to fire seven shots in all, but the cartridges missed fire in five attempts. Mr. Cartwright called for help, and his wife came to the scene with a light, which frightened the bandit away without his getting any loot. Mr. Cartwright was carrying less than two dollars in change, but he had in his pocket five thousand dollars' worth of uncut diamonds.

The police were at once notified and made an arrest on Saturday night and another on Sunday morning, but the two suspects are held on a vagrancy charge, pending further investigation, and nothing as to their identity was available today. Mr. Cartwright is doing fairly well.

FOCH KISSES A BOY NAMED AFTER HIM Foch Blouin Was Born at Ottawa on Armistice Night.

As Marshal Foch turned from the altar at the conclusion of mass in the Basilica yesterday, a little lad was brought to him in the stalwart arms of a soldier to present him with a bunch of beautiful roses. The great soldier kindly took the boy in his arms and, after kissing him, learned that the lad was a namesake of his, born on that memorable night—November 11, 1918—within sound of the Basilica bells as they pealed forth the glad news that an Allied victory was the result of the efforts of Marshal Foch and the great army he commanded. The boy is Foch Blouin, named after the famous general by his

Two records will be established by the steamer Sazintoca, when she arrives in St. John from Tampico, Fla., where she is now loading fuel oil for this port. She will be the first steamer to bring fuel oil in bulk to St. John and her cargo of 55,000 barrels will constitute the largest bulk cargo ever brought into the port. CLIPPER SHIP DAYS.

A reminder of the old days in which St. John used to be a shipbuilding centre of world-wide note, in the form of a scale model—one-half inch to a foot—of a full-rigged ship, Britain's Queen, holds a prominent place in the window of F. E. Holman's store in King street. It was formerly in the museum of the Mechanles' Institute whence is was taken to the Natural History Society Museum. The boat modelled is thought to have been bullt between 1807 and 1845 and would be between 800 and 900 tons register. The model is complete, even to the three boats carried and the figurehead at the bow. It has been in "drydock" for repairs for a few days and will be returned in the near future to the Natural History Society Museum.

Captain Holbrook sent Alfred Noble, seriend of the fugitive trio, into the cave last night to ask the men to come out. They sent word that when they came out it would be "feet first."

Captain Holbrook did not feel that his little force was adequate to hold both entrances of the cave, so he came back here this morning and got more men. Bloodhounds were brought here this morning, but it was not said for what purpose.

Degrees for Author and Anthropologist at the Sarbonne.

Paris, Nov. 20. - (By Mail.) - The reat amphitheatre of the Sorbonne could well have been half as large again and yet have failed to hold the students yet have failed to hold the students and lovers of learning and letters who wished to be present yesterday afternoon, when the University of Paris conferred upon Sir James George Frazer and Mr. Rudyard Kipling the degrees of Doctor "honoris causa." Students of all nationalities—for the University of Paris is very cosmopolitan—crowded the galleries, and here and there one, saw little knots of Indians, men and women, who had come to behold with their own eyes the creator of Kim and Mowgli. The benewes in front of the dais were a riot of gay color, with the yellow and scarlet, green, cerise, and purple robes of the doctors of the various Faculties. M. Millerand, president of the republic, who was attended by M. Leon Berard, minister of education, presided over the ceremony, and the tall, stately and venerable rector, M. Appell, conferred the degrees and acted as coaster of a singularly impressive ceremony.

Professor Delacroix introduced Sir James Frazer with an eloquent eulogy of

After a brief testimony to the passionate virtue and faith with which France had withstood the catastrophe of war, he declared that very humbly, but very proudly, he would never cease to cherish the recollection that he had been honored by being included in the great, glorious and jovial company of writers whom the famous University of Paris had honored.

After Mme. Segond-Weber had declaimed with Gallie fervor a French translation of Kipling's Ode to France, President Millerand, in a few words, associated the public authority of France with the homage which was a new associated the public authority of the British Empire to the sons of the French Republic and which will join them tomorrow in peace as it did in war."

MR. LLOYD GEORGE INSTIRRING SPEECH PLEADS FOR TREATY

London, Dec. 15—The opening of the British parliament today to consider the treaty between Britain and Ireland was marked with a degree of pomp and splendor which, in the opinion of old time spectators, outshone any in which King George has previously officiated.

Colonel Hoare's motion was seconded by George Nicoll Barnes, member from Glasgow.

INGREASED TRAVEL TO BRITISH ISLES

Special Trains Passed Through Montreal for St. John and Halifax - Going for Holidays.

るではあるかのではなりのはないのでは、なるとのでは、

(Montreal Gazette.)

For some years the Christmas traveler bound for the Old Land was not seen in Montreal in any numbers, but the man, his wife and kiddies have been passing through the metropolis in generous manner during the past few days. Last night 600 such travelers passed through Montreal in special trains headed for Halifax, where they are to board the for Halifax, where they are to board the S. S. A Christmas Custom.

Some years ago the custom developed for western farmers, who had come to Canada from points in the British Isles, to take a run across to the Old Land in time to reach familiar scenes for Christmas. This travel reached its height in 1913. The following year the war was in progress, and quite a number of these men had proceeded across earlier, a considerable number being reservists. At Christmastide that year travel for pleasure was not looked upon favorably by the authorities and required a lot of red tape, as well as comfortably filled purses. In the after-war years rates of travel on land and on sea were quite high and space was not available. This was said last night by a railwayman and others interested.

Politics, national and international, are forgotten. The country is not worrying about recognition by the United, States, as our commercial relations are just as satisfactory without it. But we expect recognition within a year, and it will be welcomed as an important step in the promotion of commercial friendship and the beginning of an era of good-will be-tween the United States and Mexico such as the two countries have never standards.

tween the United States and Mexico such as the two countries have never known before.

"A great change is being wrought in Mexico in amusements. We like the American forms of light entertainment, but they must be of the highest quality. Great as may be our appreciation of the beauty of American womanhood, that alone cannot carry a theatrical performance to success. There must also be good music, good sligging, cleverness and artistic secnery.

"Recently the Mexican Government was compelled to furnish transportation home for a number of American chorus girls. They won great popularity individually when they were appearing in the various cabarets, but the entertainment in which they appeared at the theatre was a flat failure. It must be remembered that the people of Mexico City are accustomed to musical and theatrical entertainments of the highest type, and they are no longer willing to have anything that does not meet their standards.
