

CRUSHED TO DEATH IN COLLAPSE OF BIG BUILDING

At Least Six Workmen Killed and Many Injured in South Framingham Accident—Others Are Missing—Were Rushing New Post Office to Completion—Many Maimed for Life.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 23.—The front of a partially constructed three-story brick and cement building, a portion of which was being fitted for the local post office, collapsed today, and the tangled mass of iron beams, posts and girders, with the brick and mortar carried down more than a score of workmen, only nine of whom were taken out alive, while four bodies had been recovered at dark tonight.

It was in the middle of the afternoon, while the building fairly hummed with busy workmen, that two loud cracks were heard which was immediately followed by the roar of the iron, brick and mortar as they tumbled in one great mass to the basement. The building is situated in the very centre of the business section of the village, and hundreds of passers by rushed from the flying debris, only to return when they heard the cries of the injured. An alarm of fire was rung in and word was sent to the camp ground, where the ninth regiment of infantry of the state militia was on its annual tour of duty.

The rescue of those who showed any trace of life was begun at once, and soon half a dozen bruised and mortar covered beings were dragged out from the tangle of iron beams and broken girders. In some cases only a hand was seen, and it took some time to unearth the rest of the body.

The crowd was greatly excited and it was with difficulty a space was cleared by the small body of police. The arrival of the soldiers came an hour later, however, materially assisted in the work of rescue.

As fast as the injured men were taken out they were sent to the hospital, while the dead were taken to a temporary morgue.

The building was a three story structure in process of erection at the corner of Concord and Kendall streets. It had a frontage of 150 feet on Concord street and was 75 feet deep. The construction materials were brick, steel and cement, the roof being of a light colored brick and the sides and rear of cement, with interior beams and braces of steel.

The government was to use a part of the ground floor for post office purposes. The work of construction had proceeded as far as the roof, the girders for which were being put in today.

When the accident happened at 3.50 o'clock this afternoon there were between 35 and 40 men at work in the building. Two or three very loud explosions or cracks were heard in rapid succession and then the north side wall and above it, the front wall collapsed and crashed through to the basement.

Apparently very few of those who were in the building at the time escaped injury. Although the fall of the building attracted a great number of people to the scene, the tottering walls and the shaky floorings which had not been carried down by the fall of the mass of the material made those who gathered extremely wary about approaching the ruins. After a few minutes had elapsed the fire department was on the scene and the work of rescue was begun in earnest.

In a short time also the members of company D of the Ninth Regiment M. V. M. arrived and they assisted the firemen in getting out such of the injured ones as were near the top of the mass of ruins and in showing up the mass of rubble that the work of digging could be carried on with greater safety.

Nearly every physician in the village as well as in Framingham responded to the hurried calls which were sent out as soon as the magnitude of the disaster was understood.

The injured ones as soon as they were taken out of the ruins were given quick medical attention and were then hurried to the Framingham hospital, where preparations had already been made to receive them.

One of the first persons taken out of the building was George M. Amsden, the owner. He was on one of the upper floors when the crash came. Mr. Amsden escaped with a fracture of the leg and some severe bruises.

As darkness came on powerful electric lamps were rigged so as to illuminate the ruins, and the rescue work went on. Two carloads of Italian laborers were brought from Boston and were put to work shovelling, thus relieving the soldiers and firemen as well as the citizens who had volunteered.

DROWNED AT REVOLUTIONARY ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE ADOPTED

Demands that No Money or Troops be Furnished to the Government—Copies of the Appeal in the Hands of Newspapers, But Censors Will Hardly Allow It to be Published.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 23.—The great news of today is the adoption of an address to the people by the deputies to parliament who assembled at Viborg, the language of which, with its revolutionary demands that the people cease to furnish money and troops to the government to lodge its authors in the fortress. It feels strong enough. A rumor was spread tonight that this course had been decided upon.

A large crowd gathered at the Finland station where the deputies were expected to arrive, but only a few appeared and these were not molested and neither was there a popular demonstration. Among the arrivals were President Mourontsev and Ivan Petrunkevitch. The former came on a local train, entirely unattended. He was particularly downcast and regarded Press correspondents with mere raising of his hat, and hurried to escape an interview. Mr. Petrunkevitch, filled with the revolutionary spirit, claimed for the Constitutional Democrats the credit for the text of the appeal.

Copies of the appeal to the people are in the hands of all the St. Petersburg newspapers, but it will scarcely be printed tomorrow. The reason for this is that a detachment of police is posted at the door of every newspaper printing office in the city with orders not to permit any papers to leave the buildings unless authorized by the censor. The authorities hope by this vigorous measure to prevent the publication of the appeal in other cities and in the meantime to nullify the effect of the people as to the possible effect of the appeal.

Police tonight are posted at the lodgings of M. Sedelnikov and M. Gerasimov, the two most prominent revolutionaries who already have involved themselves in the acts since the dissolution of parliament. The theatres and other places of amusement were almost empty tonight, the only conflicts being between crowds and the military and police. Several encounters took place in various parts of the city, but they were of a petty character.

Arrangements were made for a continuous search of the ruins throughout the night.

At that time it was stated at the hospital that of the twelve injured workmen taken there, several were not expected to live. Arrangements were made for a continuous search of the ruins throughout the night.

At ten o'clock tonight the body of Frank Driscoll, a mason residing at Newton Lower Falls, was taken from the building and left in a hearse last night, but was pushed back into place by the workmen.

At 6 o'clock tonight three bodies had been taken from the ruins of the building and twelve injured persons had been sent to the hospital.

FLED FROM DRUNK CRAZED FATHER

Daughter Broken Hearted Tells Piteful Story Attempted to Throw Coffin Containing Body of His Dead Child out of the Window

NEW YORK, July 23.—Returning home crazy last night with drink after an absence of two years, Charles Anderson, of 1952 Park Avenue, found his wife and daughter gathered in the front part of a room, round a little white coffin containing the body of his youngest daughter who died yesterday morning. Anderson staggered into the room raging and swearing and wild with liquor. With a shriek his daughter fainted and his wife ran into the hallway and screamed for help. Meanwhile Anderson staggered across the room and picking it up in his arms made for the open window. Just as he was about to throw it into the street Policeman Buckley ran into the room and fell on Anderson with his club, pounding him until he dropped the coffin. In the Harlem police court this morning, Lillian, his daughter, heart broken and weeping bitterly, told Magistrate Moss the story.

"Anderson" said the magistrate, "you are an inhuman monster. It is the most striking story I have ever heard. What penalty shall I impose?" "A life sentence, Your Honor," said the drunkard, huskily. "I wish to God I could," replied the magistrate, fervently, as he sent Anderson to the Island for six months.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., July 23.—The body of John Feenan, of Rocky Point, was found yesterday on the shore of East River, three miles from Charlottetown. He was last seen alive on the night of the tenth, when he left Charlottetown for his home in a sail boat. MORE LETTERS IN THAW CASE

Written by Mother-in-Law to Stanford White.

Letter was Asked to do all in His Power to Influence Former Actress to Leave Harry

NEW YORK, July 21.—The World tomorrow will say: "Motives for the murder of Stanford White is indicated in a series of letters written by Mrs. P. J. Holman, mother of Miss Nesbit to Mr. White and after the latter's death found among the effects."

Abraham H. Hummel, of Howe and Hummel, who is counsel for Thaw, and also for Stanford White, was consulted by the architect regarding the letters.

In the letters Mrs. Holman refers to Thaw as a scoundrel, a villain and a man with murderous intent in his heart.

In one letter she describes an interview with Thaw while they were in Paris and declares that Thaw wanted Mrs. Holman to sign an affidavit to the effect that Thaw had never intended to make Evelyn his wife.

It appears that Thaw became aware of the fact that White had been appealed to by Mrs. Nesbit, now Mrs. Holman, and that the architect knew of the quarrels between Thaw and his wife also that Evelyn had told her mother that she was not married to Thaw at the time they arrived from Europe and were driven out of the hotel in Cumberland.

Thaw at that time had given a statement which he afterwards corroborated from Pittsburgh, that he and Evelyn had been married while in Europe. Thaw knew that White was the only person not of his family who walk upon a field of ice and eat some when I like," are the words Sisowath is alleged to have used to his followers, carrying out his project.

The dusky potentate is becoming a source of embarrassment to the French government, and the latter will be glad when the period of his visit is at an end. He evinces a great dislike for England, and is always inquiring, very often in public, if the French and himself could not make war upon that country.

The offense of even suggesting such a thing has been pointed out to Sisowath, but he is unable to understand the niceties of international etiquette.

Now the French authorities have begun to treat Sisowath like a child that he is. "If you do that again, Sisowath," says his official mentor in effect, "you shall not be allowed to see the big review." So Sisowath, who is looking forward to the pageant with eagerness, expresses his sorrow and promises not to offend again.

Mrs. Falliers held a garden party at the Elvisee this afternoon, for which 7,000 invitations had been issued. The chief attraction was the presence of King Sisowath and his dancing girls. The Cambodian monarch and the Cambodian ministers were enthusiastically greeted by the Parisians as they drove from their residence in the Avenue Malakoff.

In the midst of the pretty lawn a large carpet had been put down on the grass, and there the ballet gave an exhibition of native dancing.

ECHT TAKES GREAT PAINS AND EXPENSE

UTRECHT, July 21.—Utrecht cannot tolerate herself upon having at pains and expense afforded them the centenary a vivid representation of life in ancient Rome when she the height of her civilization.

The occasion was a student's gala, and Utrecht quite outshone all its previous performances in this line, for, having once conceived the project of transforming a part of itself into a Roman city, it spared neither cost nor energy to make the attempt a success.

Gorgeous banners and flags festooned the picturesque gables of the principal streets, varied here and there by triumphal arches of a highly elaborate character, while a Roman theatre, erected on true historic lines, and sufficiently extensive to afford scope for chariot races, was about to be inaugurated.

Of course, the usual processional masquerade was not wanting. It bore somewhat the appearance of a Roman triumph, consisting as it did of persons and equipages purely Roman, and was everywhere received with manifestations of delight.

The chief attraction was the presence of King Sisowath and his dancing girls. The Cambodian monarch and the Cambodian ministers were enthusiastically greeted by the Parisians as they drove from their residence in the Avenue Malakoff.

WHITE SLAVE DEALER GETS ONE YEAR'S JAIL

Harry Rothgerber Sentenced in London—He Had Led Many Girls to Their Deaths.

LONDON, July 19.—Harry Rothgerber has just been sentenced to one year's imprisonment by Judge McConnell for stealing a diamond ring from a London jeweler. The statements concerning the ring did not, however, attract much attention, as did the statements of Detective Sergeant Bissell, who appeared in court and read the following records regarding Rothgerber:

Deaths of a white slave trafficker. Long ago the Berlin police were looking for a certain Harry Rothgerber, from Cincinnati, who called himself a commercial traveler; in fact, however, he was an international fraud, and carrying on the white slave traffic. He was arrested on September 15, 1904, at the Potsdam Station, in Berlin. Rothgerber undertook to attract girls of better education and persuaded them to follow him to different parts of the world. Some of the girls were assisted home by the Consulates. Many others perished in foreign countries. Some months ago the Criminal Investigation Department found out that Rothgerber was living under a false name with a titled lady at Charlottenburg, but he left after taking his landlady's jewelry away. After his flight the lady found out that Rothgerber had obtained goods under false pretenses in her name, and sold them again for cash. For similar offences he was wanted by the Hanover police. He was seen at the Potsdam Station, and was accompanied by a well-dressed and good looking man, who was about to buy tickets for himself and her to Brussels. Officers who knew him arrested him.

GUATEMALA WON THE LAST TWO BATTLES

GUATEMALA CITY, July 10.—The following official account of the fighting at Platanar and Metapam, July 17, is communicated to the Associated Press today.

The last two battles, fought before five o'clock Wednesday morning, July 18, when the armistice began, were won by the Guatemalans, who defeated the Salvadorans, and as a result completely destroying them. If a few remained in the fortifications at Platanar it was because the armistice which found them there, was respected.

MONTREAL HARBOR REVENUE INCREASES

(Montreal Herald.) That the business of the port is increasing is shown by the revenue returns for the month of June, reported by David Seath, the secretary treasurer.

The statement submitted at an adjourned meeting of the commissioners from the opening of navigation to the end of June, there had been a decrease of fourteen in the number of seagoing vessels arriving in the harbor, as compared with the like period of last year, but there had been an increase of 32,000 tons of inland craft there had been an increase of 588 vessels and 108,837 tons.

A conference is to take place at the next meeting of the board between the commissioners and the Anglo-Canadian Cold Storage Exchange representatives regarding facilities at the harbor.

WILL DISCUSS GAINED MEATS

Meeting Between Kaiser and King of England Will Undoubtedly Take Place—What Action the American Government Should Take.

(By Malcolm Clarke—copyright, 1906, by the Heart News Service.)

BERLIN, July 20.—The arrival of a new heir to the imperial crown of Germany has been a source of great delight, not only to the parents of the young prince, but still more to the Kaiser's daughter, Princess Victoria Louise, who is exceedingly happy in her new dignity as aunt. I am told that as soon as she heard the shots fired in honor of the new-born prince, she had found out that she was to have a nephew and that he was immediately went down in the wine cellar and ordered the "kellermeister" to send up champagne for every servant and soldier on duty in the palace.

The dealers of the city of Berlin proved themselves to be very much up-to-date, for hardly had it become known that a prince had been born when they had for sale in the street new postal cards showing the old Kaiser and his daughter, Frederick, and the present Kaiser holding the baby, whom he had not yet seen, in his arms, and the Crown Prince. Underneath the charming family picture was the caption: "The new-born prince."

It is considered significant in view of the rumors that a reconciliation is to take place at Copenhagen between the Kaiser and the Duke of Cumberland, that a very cordial letter of congratulation was received by the Crown Prince from the old Dowager Queen, Maria of Hannover and her son, Duke Ernest August of Cumberland.

It seems to be beyond any doubt that a meeting will take place between the King of England and the Kaiser before the end of this year. There have been many rumors to this effect, but I am informed by a chief of department in the government service that it is the wish of both monarchs to meet and confer upon certain matters, and more especially as to what may be done to avoid the American peril and to find a substitute for the American goods.

The declaration made by President Roosevelt, through the American ambassador to England, that the American government would guarantee the quality of all American meats hereafter, is ridiculed here, and it is pointed out by many papers that the American president must either be a very foolish person or he must be lacking in good faith. All experts here agree that inspection under the new American law will amount to little more than a farce.

The scene of the battle was at Rheinland Westphalia, the greatest industrial district in Germany. A great colliery concern, the Gelsenkirchen Colliery Union, began the campaign by absorbing the Aachen Blast Furnace Union and the Schenke Coal and Iron Union. The combination then employed 34,000 men and produced annually 7,000,000 tons of coal and 700,000 tons of pig iron.

A great German trust which sought to acquire control over the electricity supply of an entire province, has been defeated in its object by a combination of towns which have fought the powerful "octopus" under the banner of municipal ownership.

While Canada has this spring or summer been enacting a Sunday law that would inspire almost any American citizen compelled to spend Sunday in Canada with a resolve to sleep over from Saturday evening to Monday morning the Sabatarians in New York have been trying to prevent all baseball playing in that city, with the effect that the chief promoter of the sport said a few days ago that he had been arrested fourteen times for as many different kinds of violation or evasion of Sunday laws and had been discharged every time.

The trust then turned its attention to Rath and Gersheim, suburbs of Düsseldorf, but that city acquired the electricity works at those places. The final blow at the trust has been

Bob's Trip to Mexico

NEVER was there a sinner looking for a change of scene, or a vacation, or a change of air, who did not feel that it was his duty to go to Mexico. The reason is that Mexico is a land of such beauty and interest, that it is well worth the journey. Bob's trip to Mexico was a most successful one.

...The first thing that struck Bob when he stepped out of the train at the station was the heat. It was a most oppressive heat, and he was glad to see the men in the street.

...The men in the street were dressed in the most elegant and stylish clothing. They wore long, flowing robes, and their hats were of the most beautiful design. Bob was struck by the beauty and interest of the scene.

The square tower in the centre, with turrets at the corners, is the "White Tower," in which a wonderful collection of ancient English armor is kept. Do you wonder how it got its name? Just because it was whitewashed in the reign of Henry III. The name has stuck to it ever since, although it looks more black than white nowadays.

WILL BE DISOLVED ON RESULT FROM ACTION OF THE CZAR

Parliament is Dissolved and Revolution is Imminent.

Time Fixed for Convocation of Newly Elected Assembly is March 5, 1907 — Terror Already Reigns in St. Petersburg

ST. PETERSBURG, July 21.—Russia's first experiment in parliamentary government came to an end tonight with the promulgation of two imperial ukases, the first dissolving the present parliament and providing for the convocation of its successor on March 5, 1907, and the second proclaiming the capital of Russia to be in a state of extraordinary security, which is only infinitesimally different from full martial law.

It is now but a step to dictatorship. The texts of the ukases, both of which are addressed in the usual form to the ruling senate are as follows: "According to paragraph 106 of the fundamental law which orders the imperial parliament dissolved and fix the time for the convocation of the newly elected parliament for March 5, 1907."

"Regarding the time for the new elections to the imperial parliament we will later issue special indications."

The text of the second ukase follows: "In consideration of a report of the council of ministers presented to us regarding the necessity in the future for the preservation of order and public safety in the city or province of St. Petersburg, we consider it necessary to declare in the above city and province, instead of the state of reinforced security which now prevails there, a state of extraordinary security."

The prefect of the city and the governor of the province are instructed with the rights appertaining. "The ruling senate will not fail to take proper measure to place this into effect."

With these pithy but momentous orders which were promulgated at 3 o'clock this morning, Emperor Nicholas backed to where some two years ago, in the full grip of autocracy and irresponsible government, wiping out for six months at least the whole structure of parliament erected at such cost. There is but little doubt that the convocation of the new assembly will still further postpone this time, unless the new parliament promises to be more amenable than the present.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 22.—With the imperial ukase dissolving parliament, which was promulgated early this morning, the curtain rose upon possibly the last act in the great drama of the Russian revolution. The people and the government now stand face to face, and upon the loyalty of the army depends the immediate issue.

Even should the government, however, succeed in getting on the lid of the victory probably will only be temporary and simply confine the stem of the final explosion. No one doubts that the severity of the storm which will arise in the country in response to the emperor's dispersal of the men whom he welcomed two months ago in the winter palace as the "best men in Russia," but the die is cast. The government has elected to fight and the capital today here eloquent testimony of the preparations made to repress the masses by force. The city was packed with soldiers and resembled an armed camp.

During Saturday night additional troops were brought in and disposed according to plans previously adopted. These reinforcements included four infantry regiments of the Chevalier Guard, Hussars, mounted Grenadiers, and a battery of machine guns. The troops occupied railroad stations and the bridges across rivers and canals and the patrols of both police and Gendarmes were everywhere doubled. The work of gathering in revolutionary agitators began immediately after the ukase placing St. Petersburg in "a state of extraordinary security" was promulgated, and hundreds of arrests were made before daylight. The powers conferred upon M. Von Der Lamm, prefect of police, and M. Zinovief, governor of the province, make them little short of petty dictators. Searches and arrests can be made without process of law, newspapers forced to suspend publication and persons deposed by administrative order without trial. Public and private meetings are forbidden. Those

MEMBERS OF RUSSIA'S OUTLAW PARLIAMENT TO SOLEMN CONCLAVE

Will Adopt a Manifesto That People be Summoned to Stand by the Dispersed Members as a Body.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 22.—An imperial ukase relieves M. Gorenkyin of the premiership and appoints M. Stolypin his minister. He also retains his present post of minister of the interior. M. Stuchinsky, minister of agriculture, has resigned. The parliament building closed and guarded by police, who refused admission except to the president and the vice-president of the house. The streets are empty and bear the usual Sunday aspect.

ers with the members of parliament, among these latter are a number of the members of the council of the empire. ST. PETERSBURG, July 22.—An imperial manifesto issued tonight which is regarded both as a threat and an appeal to the emperor's millions of Mujiks to join in suppression of the revolution under promise of land, summed the "faithful sons of holy Russia." Many liberals consider this a direct incitement of the Black Hundreds. In spite of the excitement the day passed in comparative quiet in the capital, and street rioting only began with the advent of darkness; but the collisions generally were on a small scale.

At Sadovya crowds with stones had the gendarmes and the police on the run when a squadron of Cossacks came to the rescue and charged and dispersed them with their whips. The trouble arose out of a raid on a tea house by Russian patriots, that is, Black Hundreds, before their arrival the Cossacks, who fired three volleys in the air. A regular battle with stones ensued. Three officers and a number of policemen were wounded and scores badly beaten by the Cossacks, but no one was killed.

with a similar council here in conjunction with the group of toll of parliament a rising of the people will be engineered. The leaders at a recent meeting at Moscow issued instructions to branch organizations throughout the empire warning them against premature divided action and specifically instructing them when the signal was given, to extend the strike gradually and carefully, avoiding collisions at the beginning. M. Chernoff, who aspired Friday from the office of the Cispala when a raid was made upon a sitting of the central committee of the social revolutionary party, which was being held there, is regarded as one of their most skillful leaders.

A STRONGER PREMIER. While M. Stolypin, who succeeds M. Gorenkyin, as premier, undoubtedly is a much stronger man than his predecessor, he probably will be unequal to the task of piloting the country through the revolutionary upheaval which is just ahead and the general belief is that a dictatorship must come soon.

The government's action, as indicated in an interview by the Associated Press of controller of the empire Von Schwabach, will prove that the dissolution of parliament does not mean an annulment of the principle of popular representation granted last fall and is certain to have little effect upon the people. The fact that the government, however, to the indignation of the revolutionaries, under authority of the fundamental law, of the government's agrarian programme and the gravity of the situation resulting therefrom, will somewhat appease the peasants and give the government a majority in the next parliament. The vacillation which existed at Peterhof, even to the last moment is evident from the fact that the text of a ukase declaring St. Petersburg in a state of extraordinary security were ready. The stronger one, which proclaimed a full martial law, was discarded at the eleventh hour.

FOREIGN POWERS NOT INFORMED. Perhaps the most remarkable feature of the events connected with the dissolution of parliament is that the government carefully avoided notifying the representatives of the foreign powers of what was coming. No word of official warning was received even by the representatives of Russia's ally, France. The only intimation that something was about to happen was the appearance of guards at the embassies, legations and consulates shortly after midnight, but this morning immediately after the guards had been stationed notes were sent explaining the measures taken to protect the foreign representatives. Up to this evening no other communication has been transmitted to them. The representatives of the powers were busy today dispatching long telegrams to their governments, advising them of the sudden and serious turn of events. There were several conferences of diplomats this afternoon concerning the advisability of asking for warships, or at least of hiring steamships to take off foreign subjects in case of necessity; but no concerted action was decided upon. Tonight the trains are filled with foreign-

FRANCE DISAPPOINTED.

PARIS, July 22.—The dissolution of the Russian parliament attracts widespread comment and disappointment in this city. Sentiment in all quarters, including governmental circles, is unanimous concerning the unwisdom of the precipitate action of Emperor Nicholas and the gravity of the situation resulting therefrom. The Temps expresses this view when it says this morning: "The emperor's counsellors have committed a fault which probably is irreparable. The dissolution of parliament and the postponement of its next meeting to March 5, 1907, means that parliamentary guarantees have been completely suspended for seven months. The government dismissed the assembly without attempting anything but the nature of loyal collaboration, probably hoping that time will change the current of events before the next session. Emperor Nicholas, though personally sincere, was obliged to choose for or against parliament, and his counsellors prevailed upon him to decide to violate the promise he made when convoking parliament, whose votes have not justified the present measure of dissolution. The future, therefore, is dark. The people had confidence in the emperor. What will become of that confidence now? Perhaps it is vainly hoped a chamber elected in another manner can be more easily controlled; perhaps it is thought possible, by means of repression, to prevent a meeting of a new parliament altogether. The government's lack of courage in carrying out the new and difficult regime has placed the country in a crisis, the dangers of which are immeasurable and the end of which cannot be foreseen."
