THE MONETARY TIGHTNESS

What the United States Treasury Department Is Doing—Help May Be Asked from the Other Side.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Secretary Wind said last evening: The Treasury Department is doing all it can to relieve the present unfortunate condition of the money market, and it will continue to do so on the same line of policy as that followed to the present time. The money stringency is not a result of a contraction of currency. During the nineteen months that I have been at the head of the department, the amount of money in circulation has been increased over $100,000,000, and during five months of this half year the increase has been between $75,000,000 and $80,000,000.

000. What I may do in the future I cannot say; but I do not propose to let the train become bankrupt, wherever else it becomes so, while I am the head of the partnership.

The London Times' financial article says it will probably be necessary to assist New York banks to cope with their difficulties with gold from London.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Roberts, Cushman & Co., dealers in and importers of hat materials, have assigned. The firm has been rated at $1,000,000. Silverman & Co., manufacturers of hats and caps, have signed.

MONTREAL, Dec. 8.—The total liabilities of John A. Patterson & Co.

A SANGUINARY STORY

DENVER, Dec. 8.—A special from Paso, Tex., to the Republican, says: "Bull fights this afternoon at Juarez, Mo. were viewed by an immense crowd. The were fierce in every respect, and a horse ridden by a fighter was horned three times, ripping the left foreleg almost from body. The bulls were vicious and kept crowd in a fever of excitement during afternoon. The last bull was snatched dragged from the arena dead.

While the soldiers were absent from post attending the fight the convict sold revolted at the barracks, killing the gent of the guards, a corporal and private. The murderers, eighteen in number, broke from the barracks and escaped into the mountains. They were followed by the soldiers, three overtaken and shot dead, and four captured and returned to the post. They were ordered to be killed at sunrise to-morrow.

The crowds in attendance on Saturday the great sale now being conducted by Messrs. J. H. Chapman & Co. were larger than on the previous Saturday. The largely increased staff of obliging clerks was kept busy from early morning until after 10 o'clock at night, the rush dur-

THE IRISH LEADERSHIP.
As was expected, the majority of the Irish delegates to the Imperial Parliament met on Saturday afternoon and refused to endorse Parnell's conduct in sticking to the party leadership despite adverse public opinion. Nearly two-thirds of the Irish Parliamentary party support the step taken, but Mr. Parnell still clings to the idea that he alone can lead the Irish M. P. Time will tell how far he is right; it cannot be denied that he has a following. Justus McCarthy, who has been chosen chairman of the Irish M. P., in succession to Parnell, has a world-wide reputation as author of the "History of Our Times," one of the most attractive publications of the age, as well as other works of fact and fiction. He was born in Cork 69 years ago, and for over 40 years has been a journalist and author. He is a safe man in the sense that he is cautious and weighs well his words before he utters them and his steps before he takes them. It is questionable if he has the ability to manage men or to enthuse the populace that Parnell had; and it may be that his chairmanship of the party will be but temporary. A good deal will, no doubt, depend upon the result of the agitation that will now proceed in Ireland. Both wings of the party will engage in a lively campaign during the Christmas holidays.

WHY RECIPROCITY IS COMING.
One of the tricks of the average restrictionist newspaper is to represent that, though reciprocity with the United States may be a good thing, there is no indication that the United States will agree to that. A reply to that objection is to be found in the attitude of Frey papers in Canada. They tell the United States that on no consideration will the present Administration agree to complete reciprocity with the United States; they know, or ought to know, that partial reciprocity is out of the question. How, then, could we expect the United States, the larger body, to force upon us a reciprocity that the Government of the day says it will not have? But if the people of Canada desire to know where the hitch lies they have but to read Sir Richard Cartwright's reply to a Conservative questioner at the great public gathering in Guelph last Saturday. It must have delighted the gallant knight to have the Tory bogey brought under his notice in this public manner, for Sir Richard made a most effective reply. He maintained that the chief statesmen of the United States, when they saw that Canada had an honest Government which really, honestly desired to cultivate free and fair trade relations with the United States, would be willing to meet them half way. After the hearty applause which this declaration caused had subsided, Sir Richard continued:

"The most distinguished statesman of the United States, the late President, Mr. Cleveland, the late Secretary, Mr. Bayard, on the part of the Democrats, and on the other side Senator Sherman and Mr. Hitt, the chairman of the Committee on Trade Relations, and Mr. Blaine, the most important man either in public or in private life in the United States, had openly and publicly declared on the floor of Congress and elsewhere that they were willing to trade with Canada if they were willing to meet them fairly and honestly, but while the people of Canada were governed by men who said, as Sir John Macdonald had said at Halifax, that they would quietly sit down while the United States of America were convulsed and torn to pieces by revolution and civil war, they need not be surprised if it were impossible that friendly relations between the two countries should prevail. No more amicable inroads were ever offered to a friendly nation. It was an act of treason to the people for Sir John Macdonald to dare to say this to a nation amongst whom there were 1,000,000 of our own people, representing almost every family in Canada. The people should disavow such language, and for his part he disavowed and repudiated it. These people dare to talk as if it were disloyal, forsooth, for the people of Canada to cultivate friendly relations with the United States. He maintained, on the other hand, that it was the greatest service that Canada could render to the British Empire to cement together those two great nations, which ought never to have been torn asunder. These straightforward utterances have the right ring about them. They show an aimful foundation the opponents of reciprocity build their contentions and try to mislead the electors. The great reform cannot be delayed by any such subterfuge."

—Mrs. Langtry, who is known on the stage as the "Jenny Lily," is reported by cable to have broken the record by sitting for her photograph in sixty different positions. If the attitudes of the lively small boy who is compelled to remain in pained poses throughout the camera work, they would be found to number many times sixty.

A VICTORY FOR THE RITUALISTS.

The Archbishop of Canterbury's decision in the Bishop of Lincoln's case establishes a modus vivendi, or compromise, between the ritualists and their opponents in the Anglican Church. As there is a ritualist wing in the Church of England in Canada, which is causing a good deal of excitement in some of the dioceses—notably in Niagara, where one preacher has had his salary cut down to $1 a year because he persists in the majority of the congregation regard as ritualistic practices—the judgment of the Archbishop is not without interest to clergymen in the Dominion. The Anglican Church in Canada while self-governing, looks to the old world for precedents by which to be guided.

Complaint was made that the Bishop of Lincoln was guilty of a number of offenses against the rubric. The acts complained of were first, the administration of the mixed chalice, that is to say, of a cup in which water had been mixed with the wine; secondly, the performance of a so-called ceremony of ablution, by which his accusers meant that, as a part of the communion service, the Bishop of Lincoln poured what remained of the wine and water, after the service, into the chalice and drank it; thirdly, that the Bishop in the first part of the communion service assumed an eastward position; fourthly, that he broke the bread so that the manual acts were not visible to the communicants; fifthly, that he permitted the singing of the Agnus Dei before the reception of the elements and immediately after the prayer of consecration; sixthly, that during the communion service he permitted the use of lighted candles for the purpose of giving light; seventhly, that the Bishop, while pronouncing the absolution and the benediction, made the sign of the cross.

On considering these charges, the Archbishop and his assessors reached a unanimous decision, except on one point, when there was a dissent. Regarding the first charge, the court found that, although the communion service with the wine during the law of the church, there was no ground for declaring the use of a cup mixed beforehand to be an ecclesiastical offense. On this count, therefore, the Bishop of Lincoln was acquitted. The second charge, that of ablution, in which it was alleged that the Bishop ceremoniously washed the paten and chalice, and afterward drank the wine and water, was held to be unsupported by evidence, and accordingly dismissed. The court explained that a minister was liable after the benediction, to cleanse the vessel of all elements in a reverent way before leaving the holy table, and that such cleansing could not be fairly described as a ceremony in the ecclesiastical meaning of the word. In dealing with the eastward position, which the Bishop of Lincoln was accused of taking during the administration of the sacrament, the Archbishop of Canterbury went at great length into the historical aspect of the question. His final conclusion was that the court had no power to curtail the liberty of the celebrant with regard to his position at the holy table. At the same time the court held that the Bishop of Lincoln was not justified in so standing that the communicants could not see him break the bread and take the cup into his hands according to the rubric. These two features of the decision taken together mean that there is no objection to the eastward position, provided the minister taking it can perform the manual acts in such wise as to be visible to the communicants.

Another question decided by the court was whether the singing of the hymn Agnus Dei by the choir before the reception of the elements and immediately after the prayer of consecration, is, as it had been alleged, an "addition to the service in contravention of the ecclesiastical laws of England." After carefully tracing the historical attitude of the Anglican Church toward this hymn, the court concluded that the singing of the Agnus Dei by the choir is not an illegal addition to the communion service. It was also declared by the Archbishop of Canterbury that the mere fact of two lighted candles, though not needed for the purpose of giving light, standing on the holy table continuously through the service, does not constitute a ceremony in a technical sense, and is not therefore open to objection. On the other hand, the court held that to make the sign of the cross while pronouncing the absolution or giving the final benediction in the communion service is a distinct ceremony unauthorised by the usage of the Church of England. It is an illegal innovation which must be discontinued.

The judgment of the Archbishop, it will be seen, is a distinct victory for the Bishop of Lincoln and the Ritualists.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—As at present reported, the next House of United States Representatives will be made up of 88 Republicans, 234 Democrats, 8 Farmers' Alliance men, 1 uncertain and 1 vacant.

—A notable fact in connection with the numerous agitations regarding public lighting is that in one year—from March, 1889 to 1890—the gas companies of the United States increased their ownership of electric lighting plants to the extent of nearly 60 per cent. More than 300 gas companies are now operating electric lights in connection with their gas works, and supplying current to 32,000 areas and 140,000 incandescents.

—The Hamilton Spectator, discussing the departure of Rev. W. W. Carson from Kingston to Detroit, from a Methodist rostrum to a Presbyterian pulpit, says the acceptance of the new post "is not evidence that Mr. Carson preaches for money; but it is evidence that fences between the various evangelical denominations are being so broken down that men may walk over them without being aware that they have wandered from their own pasture." Yes, they are getting together with greater elasticity than many people suppose; and by-and-by, when the union becomes complete, they will wonder why it has been delayed so long.

—The Minister of Education, in reply to a Lambton county correspondent, has made an important explanation in regard to the contemplated legislation regarding public school teachers. Hon. Mr. Ross says: "I have no intention of raising the age of teachers to 21 years, as was hinted in the papers and as you seem to think I intend to do. It is possible I may, however, require a uniform age of 18 all around. My object is not to throw any insuperable obstacle in the way of entering the profession, but to try and obtain a reasonable maturity on the part of teachers before intrusting them with the management and discipline of pupils in our public schools."

In attaining this end, the Minister will no doubt have the undivided support of trustees and parents.

—Labor questions seem to occupy the public mind the world over. Some Government actively engaged in trying to reach a consensus of opinion as to the best means of advancing the welfare of wage-earners. The French Government is perhaps the most active. It recently instructed the Minister of Trade to ascertain opinions on the labor question from all classes of men in the mercantile world. One hundred and fifty thousand question blanks were sent out, and 35,000 were returned with all answers. All boards of trade throughout France protested against the interference of the State in the solution of labor problems. The industrial circles spoke for the nine-hour day; the trade societies for the eight-hour day. All French chambers of commerce declared that the introduction of the eight-hour day would result in the decrease of production. A somewhat unexpected result of the investigation was the discovery that an unusually large number of Swiss and German workmen have been crowding into French factories of late years.

Remarkable Cure of Dropsy and Dyspepsia.
Mr. SAMUEL T. CASEY, Belleville, writes: "In the spring of 1884 I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, which gradually became more and more distressing. I used various domestic remedies, and applied to my physician, but received no benefit. By this time my trouble assumed the form of Dropsy. I was unable to use any food whatever, except boiled milk and bread; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size; all hopes of my recovery were given up, and I quite expected death within a few weeks. NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY having been recommended to me, I tried a bottle with but little hope of relief; and now, after using eight bottles, my Dyspepsia and Dropsy are cured. Although now seventy-nine years of age, I can enjoy my meals as well as ever, and my general health is good. I am well known in this section of Canada, having lived here fifty-seven years; and you have liberty to use my name in recommendation of your VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, which has done such wonders in my case."

Dyspepsia Had to Go.
Mr. W. J. DEVELL, Wingham, carpenter and builder, writes: "Three years ago I was greatly troubled with Dyspepsia; a pain between my shoulders was so bad that I thought I would have to quit work altogether. No medicine gave me ease until I got a bottle of NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, which gave me relief. I continued using the medicine until I had taken three bottles, when I was perfectly well. I consider it invaluable as a cure for Dyspepsia. I know of several persons who have used it with the same benefit."

Dyspepsia

Many men live miserable, and often lead to self-destruction. Dizziness after eating, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common and increasing disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves sick headache, clears the mind, and cures the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia. Read the following:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me no good, and my food was not digested. I felt as though I had been eating poison. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I am happy to recommend it." G. A. Foss, Watertown, Mass.

SPURIOUS SPRINTERS.

Toronto Peds. Running Under Assumed Names.

Death of the Fugitive Joe Coburn—Baseballist's Speculations—Senecker's Big Run in a Billiard Game.

SPRINTING.
The sprinters who ran at Sudbury about two weeks ago as "Dunovan, or Sid Clark, of Buffalo, and Anderson, or Jack Gibson, of England," turn out to be two young Toronto men who can run pretty well, but who are not in the same class with the men they were supposed to be. They took in a few hundred dollars of the deal, and the "winner" very generously presented "the loser" with $25, which gulible spectators increased to about three times that amount.

THE KIDNAP.
Joe Coburn, the old-time pugilist, died in New York on Saturday night of consumption. Coburn was born in Armagh, Ireland, 55 years ago and came to America when a boy. Part of Coburn's later life was spent in State prison for the murder of a New York policeman.

Cal McCarthy, of Jersey City, the feather-weight champion of America, and Geo. Dixon, the colored boxer of Boston, are to fight 25 rounds with four-ounce gloves before the Puritan Athletic Club, of Long Island City, Feb. 5. The club guarantees a purse of $400, of which the loser will receive $200.

FOOTBALL.
Now out on the campus.
The luscious collegians gather in squads.
The "half-backs" and "rushers,"
The "kickers" and "crucifers," Disporting like wild Hibernian gladiators.

Now loudly a war cry.
Now they are in a tangle.
A very grotesque and a little morbid.
Now they are in a tangle.
Now they are in a tangle.

Like farmer with barrow of buckwheat to thresh.
And when, at conclusion,
In glory continue.
The bones and the features from campus are picked.
I would seem that, as show forth
The golden and the forth.
The goal is the one thing that hasn't been kicked.

—Boston Courier.
By permission of the Staten Island Athletic Club an exhibition game of football under Rugby Union rules will be played between a team of the British residents of New York against a team from Toronto, Canada, at Madison Square Gardens on the evening of Dec. 13.

The final game in the championship series of the American Football Union was played at Brooklyn, Saturday. Score, Crescents 14, Orange 0. This ties the Orange and the Crescents. When the team, twenty in number, entered the grounds the horses shied, the crowd of spectators and the fifty foot endowment, demolishing the vehicle. The team crawled out unhurt.

THE KENNEL.
The celebrated St. Bernard dog Guide died in England last week. Guide was the father of Watch, who cost $800 guineas and is now owned in Toledo, Ohio.

THE TURF.
W. H. Wilson, of Abilene Park, Cynthia, has sold four trotting fillies to Dr. P. K. Wise, of Los Angeles, for $10,000.

The Board of Review of the National Trotting Association at New York on Saturday reached a decision in the famous Alcyon-Alcyon match for the Balch stakes. The decision was reached through Nelson's confession.

The conditions of the $25,000 Futurity Chase Stakes of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association have just been perfected. Mares must be nominated March 1, 1891, which will cost $10. Fifteen dollars must be paid Oct. 1, 1891, to name the filly of the stake to race in it. Five thousand dollars and colts to race in it to have to pay $50 on June 1, 1893, and $100 the night before the race, the winner to get $3,000, second horse $1,000, third $500, and the breeder of the winner's dam $500. To start in their 3-year-old form colts pay $100 on June 1, 1894, and $250 the night before the race, the winner to get $15,000, second

BILLIARDS.
Slosson refused Dick Roche's offer to match Ives against him, the game to be played in 30 days. Slosson wanted three months.

Schaefer beat the world's record at billiard in his recent match at Boston. In five innings he made a total of 400. His average was 80 and his high run was 233. Victor's best average in a similar game was 75. Ives and Mike Kelly, the baseball player, acted as running mates with Schaefer, but neither did much.

If the custom officials of Windsor, Ont., has been credibly announced in the daily papers, have been ordered to collect duty on all weapons, rods, etc., of Americans passing that way into the Dominion, we can only greatly deplore the fact. Our experience this last season was that our boxes of rods, etc., were not opened and our assurance was taken that nothing would be left, and more gentlemanly interest in us could not have been expected. Some unfortunate imprudence has been the origin of this order, we feel sure, or the Canadian Government would not so determinedly exclude sportsmen—the majority, as a fact, who will not pay duty on their tackle and guns, and no blame to them, seeing the money they leave behind.—[Week's Sport.

The cheese from Walton and Winthrop factories was shipped from Sudbury station the other day. It was purchased by Mr. Thomas Ballantyne, of Stratford. There were in all 650 boxes, for which was paid $4,500.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—With a wet flushed face returned to mine she stood.
A question shining in her soft brown eyes.
Those eyes whose glance had never failed to harm.
And whose great power most willingly I own, since in them such a tender love-light lies.
She stood beside me, gentle, pure and sweet,
And laid her hand on my arm.
That's hesitating, as if loath to speak,
And yet as if compelled to voice her mind.
Her rounded figure, full of sun-like grace,
Her soft, dark hair, low on her gentle brow,
Her fair, flushed cheeks, her dainty morning gown.
Impressed me with her girlish loveliness,
Swayed by her charm, into her eyes I gazed,
As if to read the secret half she would reveal.
Silent, she stood a moment, then with voice
As sweet as ringing music from a flute,
With gentle dignity, she said: "My dear, Five dollars, please; the children need some shoes."

she is credited with having a very bad temper. The Magistrate decided to com-she will have a home for the winter months.

presenting him with such a handsome gift.

William Pringle is a bright little boy about 12 years of age, who is in the care of the police at present, because he has no other place to go. He appears to be fatherless, motherless and homeless, and when he was the Police Court a week ago the Magistrate laid his case over, pending some charitable effort in his behalf. This morning the same disposition was made by the Magistrate. It is to be hoped that some citizen will take the child in hand, as he is a promising boy, with material for development into something better than an outcast.

took place at the residence of the bride's parents, and was performed by Rev. Dr.
Jackson, of the First Congregational Church in the presence of relatives and many friends. The bride was handsomely attired in white silk, trimmed with satin, and was the picture of happiness. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Lou Meek, dressed in light purple silk with with satin trimmings.
Fred Sanderson, brother of the groom, was best man."

—Promenaders on Dundas street Saturday evening were astonished to hear the merry peal of a horn, which subsequently proved the herald of a long procession of nobby sleighs, including two tandem turnouts. This mysterious company went at a break pace through, nearly every section of the city, finally concluding in the yards of the infantry barracks, where the passengers alighted and were cordially received by the hosts, who were apparently expectant of the visit. A most enjoyable time was spent in the well-lighted apartments, the party indulging in dancing and refreshments. It was a reception given by the officers and ladies of "D" Company barracks, the sleigh ride forming a pleasant portion of the programme.

The New Congregational Preacher.
Rev. Robt. Aylward, B.A., the new pastor of the First Congregational Church, assumed his duties yesterday. In the morning he preached on "The appointment and theme of a Christian minister," basing his remarks upon Acts, x, 38: "Now therefore we are all here present before God to hear all things that are commanded by the Lord of God."
The sermon consisted for the most part of an explanation of their relations as pastor and people. "There are two elements," he said, "in that work in the appointment of a minister—the Divine and the human. But heaven may well pity the man who attempts to ascend to the holy desk uncalled or uncommissioned by God, and heaven may well equally have mercy upon the man who attempts to preach spiritual things to an unwilling audience. I believe," said the preacher, referring to the appointment,
"that I stand in this pulpit upon the only healthy, strong and acceptable footing—he cause God has sent me." In concluding he urged the members to give him their hearty co-operation, without which the church could not prosper. In the evening Mr.

Aylward preached on "The position and purpose of the Christian church," taking for his text Matthew, v, 14: "A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid."

"Prison Reform."
In response to a special appeal from the Prison Reform Association, Rev. Canon
Davis, of St. James' Church, South London, last evening preached a powerful sermon on the subject of prison reform, basing his remarks on Hebrews, xii, 16: "As Esau, who for one morsel of meat sold his birthright." He pointed out the good being accomplished by the commission, appointed by the Government, one result of their labors being the exposition of many abuses, the existence of which was not dreamed of formerly. There should be some classification in all jails, because the young, being easily influenced for either good or bad, frequently became a permanent burden to the community in consequence of frequent incarceration, often the result of being placed in contact with debased criminals.

Work, he said, was one great remedy, and he thought when the lazy tramp and chronic drunkard came to realize that to be in prison was not a life of comparative ease and comfort, and when the most laborious tasks were chosen as a means of punishment, our jails would not be found crowded, during the winter months especially, with men too indolent to earn their daily bread. The grace of God was pointed to as the one great, infallible remedy for the prevention of evil-doing, and he called on his congregation to show by their righteous living that by embracing Christianity all could be made pure and contented. It should be the duty of Christians to do their utmost towards remedying evils whether in their own community or within the prison walls, and the reverend gentleman paid a warm tribute to the work in which his association was engaged, enlisted the sympathies of the community for the advancement of the great object of training man's mind in the direction of holiness, and asked each one to remember the brotherhood of man, and be compassionate towards those less fortunate than themselves.

What the Dentist Has Done.
Very few people realize how much the dentist has done for mankind. To mention one thing only, the perfection to which the manufacture of false teeth has been carried has practically abolished all age—that is, old age in the sense that I used to know it.
You see none of the helpless, mumbly old men and women that you formerly did.
This is not because people do not attain the age of their parents and grandparents reached, but because the dentist has prevented some of the most unpleasant consequences of advancing years. Men of 90 no longer chafe at old or feel old, because they are deprived of nourishing food at the time when they need it most. Estimates have been made showing that the average length of life has been increased from four or six years by the general use of false teeth, and this does not appear in the least extravagant when one thinks of the difference in the nutrient accessible to one with a fine set of molars and one condemned to gum it through his declining years.
