Mr. Gladstone Confers With the Dominion Ministers.

Report of Capture of the Dahomeyan Capital—Terrible Life of Indian Slaves in Peru—Universal Suffrage Voted Down by Belgian Deputies.

Universal Suffrage Voted Down.

Brussels, Nov. 2.—The Chamber of Deputies committee on the revision of the constitution have rejected the proposal to grant universal suffrage. The vote stood sixteen to four in its favor.

Labby's Remedy.

London, Nov. 2.—Henry Labouchere, the Radical leader, proposes as a remedy for the depression existing in the agricultural industry in Great Britain, that every parish expropriate the land of non-occupying owners, giving them a fair price therefor in village bonds, the land thus acquired to be let to tenants by the parish.

Lord Salisbury Prompts the Unionists.

London, Nov. 2.—Lord Salisbury has indicated to the Unionists a line of attack upon the Irish evictions commission. In communications to the press he declares that the commission is "a monstrous and a monstrous order of reference on which the commission's inquiry will proceed involves a gross misstatement of facts."

Questions of Interest to Canadians Discussed.

London, Nov. 2.—Sir J. J. C. Abbott and Hon. Geo. Foster met Mr. Gladstone and the Earl of Ripon, Secretary of State for the Colonies, to-day, and fully discussed the Bering Sea, Newfoundland and other questions which Canada is at present deeply interested in. The Canadian Ministers were cordially received.

Crusade Against Canadian Cattle.

London, Nov. 2.—The Central Associated Chambers of Agriculture of the whole kingdom, are sending an influential deputation to the Board of Agriculture urging that Canadian cattle be immediately scheduled, thus making it compulsory to slaughter them immediately upon landing.

Capture of Dahomey's Capital.

Paris, Nov. 2.—A dispatch from Porto Novo states that Col. Douda captured Koko on Saturday and Abomey on Sunday. If the latest Porto Novo dispatch proves to be true the end of King Behanzin's reign has come. The famous Dahomeyan Amazons, who have formed such a picturesque feature in the campaign, fought desperately.

Col. Douda, the commander of the French forces operating in Dahomey, will be promoted to be a general and will be made an officer of the Legion of Honor. A Dahomeyan chief who has been captured since the Dahomeyans are led by 200 white men. He gives the names of many Belgians and Germans.

The "Man Hunt" Man.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Nov. 2.—"The Wild, Wild Region of the Orient" is the subject of an interesting work by the Rev. R. Caceres, superior of the Ecuadorian Jesuit Mission. The author made a journey from Quito to Napo, across the Eastern Cordillera in November last year, taking such scientific observations as he could make, and his narrative is a very graphic description of the journey. The historical data clearly tends to establish Ecuador's right to the River Napo. The corrieas, or man hunt, organized by the Peruvians on the Amazon, is dealt with, and his story, the slave trade. The writer cites the case of a young child torn from his mother's arms and bartered in her presence for a few dollars of white man and two pieces of cloth. He says: "I baptized no mean number of Indians who had been hunted down by Peruvian rubber extractors, and afterward sold at from $40 to $80 each."

Neil-Cream's Sentence.

A London cable says Judge Hawkins, in passing sentence on Neil-Cream, used these words: "Thomas Neil, the jury, after having listened with most patient attention to the evidence which has been offered against you on this most terrible charge, and having paid all attention to the most serious and to the very eloquent speech which your learned counsel addressed to them on your behalf, have felt it their bounden duty to find you guilty of wilful murder, a murder so diabolical in its character, fraught with so much cold-blooded cruelty, that one dare hardly trust oneself to speak of the details of it. What can have actuated you to take life in that cruel way and with so much torture to that poor creature, who could not have offended you? I know not what motive actuated you. I know not but I do know that your cruelty makes your crime, to my mind, one of the most heinous and heinous of which you have been convicted for many years. The sentence I must pronounce upon you according to my duty, during the short time which remains to you before you are sent to the gallows, I beg to say to you, and beseech you to remember that when you descend the steps whence you now stand this world will be no more to you. Endeavor to seek your peace with Almighty God. Pray him to pardon you for your great sin. He alone can do that. The crime which you have committed can only be expiated by your death. The sentence of the law is that you be taken from hence to the place whence you came and thence to the lawful place of execution, and that then you be hanged by your neck until you are dead. Your body will be buried in the precincts of the prison within the walls of which you shall have been confined last before execution. May the Lord have mercy on your soul."

Quarrel Over a Brooch.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The trial of the suit for damages for slander, brought by Mrs. Leader against Mrs. Smyth, was resumed to-day. Nearly all the testimony was in the plaintiff's favor. Mrs. Leader, who is the wife of Lieut. Leader, called on Mrs. Smyth, wife of Major-General Gibbons Smyth, after Mrs. Smyth had gone away. Mrs. Smyth missed a diamond brooch. Some time after Mrs. Smyth saw her brooch exposed for sale in a shop window. The jeweler said he had bought it from Mrs. Leader. Mrs. Smyth denies that she accused Mrs. Leader of stealing the brooch, but pleads that if she used the words imputed to her by Mrs. Smyth she was justified by the circumstances. Mrs. Leader asserts that Mrs. Smyth never owned the brooch in question. She declares that she received it as a marriage present from a gentleman now dead, but who was formerly an officer in the Indian army. Mrs. Leader asked the court, some weeks ago, that the brooch be taken to Cairo for identification by the merchant who sold it. The court refused the request. During cross-examination Mrs. Leader produced a letter in response to a question as to whether Mrs. Smyth had not on several occasions loaned her the brooch, which was the cause of all the trouble. She replied, "She loaned me a paste necklace once—not a diamond."

The Cholera.

BRUDA-PETH, Nov. 3.—The cholera continues unabated in this city. Twenty new cases and nine deaths were reported yesterday.

Tennyson's Unpublished Poems.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Besides the volume just published, Lord Tennyson left a quantity of manuscript poems. It was left to Hallam Tennyson's discretion whether these poems should be published.

An Awful Disaster.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegraph Company from Cagliari, in the island of Sardinia, says that floods have destroyed 248 houses at Santa Perate, and that 100 persons are supposed to have been drowned.

Statue of the Queen.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Countess Feodorovna Gleichen, who has succeeded to the studio in St. James, Palace, occupied by her father, Prince Victor of Hohenlohe, is now engaged on a life-size statue of the Queen, which is to be placed in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, and for which her Majesty has given several sittings. This statue is being executed for Lord Mount-Stephen and Sir Donald Smith.

Lord Ailesbury's Victim.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—In the suit brought against George Maxwell by John Tyler at Edinburgh, to recover $25,000, being the amount of a check paid to Lord Ailesbury by Maxwell for losses in a game of bacarat at Brighton, the court has decided that the transaction was illegal, and that Maxwell was not obliged to pay the check. Maxwell's defense was that Ailesbury took advantage of his intoxicated condition to induce him to play and lose the amount.

Slandered the Duke of Sutherland.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A meeting of the country people and the tenants of the late Duke of Sutherland has been held at Grantham to express indignation at the remark reflecting on the character of the late duke, made from the pulpit by the vicar, the Rev. Mr. Mitchell. Sheriff Hales and others made vigorous protests against his conduct, and an order was passed to demand from the bishop the removal of the vicar from his pulpit or his public retraction of his remarks. This is one of the many evidences of esteem in which the late duke was held by his friends and neighbors.

Will Remain for the Winter.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The Queen has no intention whatever of leaving England during the winter. She will probably go to the continent toward the end of March, but nothing has yet been arranged as to her destination, as everything must depend upon the sanitary state of the continent. The Queen has been in excellent health during her residence at Balmoral. She has commended the performance of her favorite opera, "The Daughter of the Regiment," at Balmoral, by the Carl Rosa Opera Company. Hitherto dramatic productions at Balmoral have been attempted on a very small and modest scale, but the Queen has ordered the portable stage to be considerably enlarged for this occasion.

Shameful Conduct of the Wreckers.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Later reports confirm the earlier statements concerning the barbarous treatment of the survivors and dead of the wrecked Anchor line steamship Ronanoff by the natives of the Portuguese coast. The bodies of the dead, carried ashore by the waves or dragged in from the sea, were stripped of clothing and jewelry, and some of the people even concealed bodies that fell into their hands, in order that they might have a chance to get a reward for finding them. Hamilton Brooke declares that the passengers were not aware of the danger of their situation, and that a strong man, able to swim ashore with a rope, could have saved everybody on board. He denounces the officers, and declares that the vessel itself was not in the condition it ought to have been for a voyage to India.

A Crushing Defeat.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Deacon was defeated yesterday in her bold move to steal a march on her husband by a divorce suit in Paris. Mr. Deacon was on hand when the case came up and confronted his wife in the tribunal of the Seine. Mr. Deacon came out with the order of triumphantly. The president of the tribunal not only dismissed Mrs. Deacon's petition, but severely censured her for having made frivolous charges against her husband with the object of procuring a divorce while he was under the charges of the gravest character. The court gave orders that the eldest child, now in a convent, where it had been placed by Mrs. Deacon, should be delivered to Mr. Deacon. This latter portion of the court's decree was a crushing blow for Mrs. Deacon, who seemed deeply affected and looked appealingly at her husband. It was all the more crushing because entirely unexpected, as Mrs. Deacon had supposed that the utmost that would be done by the Seine tribunal, in event of an adverse judgment, would be to dismiss the case and leave the whole issue to be decided at Aix. Mrs. Deacon, by bringing the Paris suit, thus brought disaster upon herself.

British Silver Coin.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A census taken by the Institute of Bankers of the silver coin held by banks in the United Kingdom, shows a total of £4,418,545. The aggregate of amounts given as excess of average required is £1,222,545. It is thus proven that the supply of silver coin exceeds the needs of the public.

Deep Mutterings of War.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 3.—If the attitude of the Russian press be taken as the criterion, it would not be at all surprising if the next few months were to witness one of the greatest upheavals that ever occurred in Central Asia, which is considered the official organ of the Russian Government, says with reference to Afghanistan: "It is simply impossible for things to go on as they have hitherto. There must be a change soon, and that a radical one. Afghanistan can no longer be allowed to pursue its present policy of alleged neutrality, where it is no neutrality at all."

"We know full well that behind the Afghanistane lie hidden the British and the Russian."

"We are then to allow it? No! Is there any remedy?"

"Yes."

"Afghanistan must be made part of the Russian Empire. Then, and only then, will we stand fairly and squarely face to face with England, and then, too, will we know what we have to do, and how to do it."

The general opinion in Russia seems to be that as long as Afghanistan remains a neutral country Russia will never have a fair chance to strike at England. Hence this anxiety to annex it.

The question now comes up, what will England have to say about this matter?

Terrible Accident to Children.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A terrible accident happened in the elementary school at Osaka, Japan, on Oct. 6. A school festival had been organized for the 5th inst. at Schenanko Temple, and extensive preparations were made for the outing; fireworks, miniature balloons, etc., were among the amusements. One junior teacher, Makino Maranosuka, interested himself greatly in the matter, and, having some knowledge of the manufacture of fireworks, pitilessly took the necessary steps to work with the aid of four or five of his pupils to make fireworks. Four senior pupils, Toyonaga, aged 15; Okano, 14; Otsuki, 15; and Kusibori, 13, were helping. Suddenly an explosion occurred, and when the smoke cleared from the floor, three pupils were lying on the floor groaning with pain. Doctors were speedily summoned, and upon the arrival of the parents of the unfortunate boys on the ground the wounded teacher and boys were removed to another room. Teacher Makino expired almost as soon as help arrived, and Toyonaga and Okano died a little time afterward, the former while being removed to the hospital. It is needless to add that the accident cast a deep gloom over the schools and that the proposed outing was indefinitely postponed.

MERELY CORNSTALK FEVER.

Canadian Cattle Slaughtered as a Precaution—Pierre Pankas Does Not Exist in Canada.

MONTREAL, Nov. 3.—Mr. Robert Reford, steamship agent, received the following cable yesterday from Dundee, Scotland, which speaks for itself: "Report about scheduling Canadian cattle; facts are one slaughter, Government examiners say it was pleuro, but Prof. Williams of the Veterinary College, Edinburgh, says he is certain it is not pleuro, but bronchial pneumonia or cornstalk fever. Another animal ill on another farm, but although it was reported recovered it was slaughtered. Government examiner appears to consider it pleuro, but the farmer to whom the animal belonged, who is experienced in pleuro, says it is not. The Board of Agriculture declared three farms infected and ordered the slaughter of all the horses and non-Canadian animals as a precaution. These are now mostly slaughtered without any sign of pleuro in their lungs. As far as we can learn the farmers here generally consider that the sickness is not pleuro, but that the cattle simply got a little in very wet weather."

Mr. Reford has received a second cable upon the cattle question. The dispatch is from the managers of the Thompson steamship line in Glasgow, and is as follows: "Canadian cattle are not scheduled."

HARRISON OR CLEVELAND?

The Republican Plan of Campaign—Cleveland Says It's "One of Dollars."

The fusion between the People's party and the Republicans in Arkansas for Presidential electors and Congressmen has been completed.

Cleveland spoke in New York and Hill in Schenectady Tuesday night. Cleveland said the Republican plan of campaign was now purely one of dollars.

Suffrage for Women.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 3.—The bill granting universal suffrage to women was passed by the House to-day by a vote of 149 to 83.

Pelted With Stones by Women.

SCRANTON, Nov. 2.—In June last Edward Clark, of Jersey, Pa., assaulted Ella Powers, 10 years of age, from the effects of which she died. Clark, the father of the child, was made public her disappearance. For months Clark found a safe refuge in Philadelphia, but the crime preyed so much upon his mind that he determined to return and stand trial. When he appeared in the streets of Jersey Tuesday morning he was at once recognized, and had not gone far before he was set upon by a crowd of infuriated women, headed by the mother of his victim, who pelted him with stones. Clark was severely wounded, but managed to escape and find refuge in the house of his sister. Later in the day he was arrested and taken to jail.

In his moments of abstraction even the pickpocket thinks time is money.

It is found by actual measurement that the water in Lake Nipissing has lowered about eight feet in two years, or at a rate of four feet per year. The water is about 50 feet deep at the lowest point in the bed of the lake, and at the present rate of lowering it would take about 50 years to evaporate or drain the lake.

MARINE MISHAPS.

Probable Loss of a Large Lake Steamer—Sixteen Cases of Freshets Sent to the Bottom of the Hudson.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 2.—It is almost certain that the steamer reported foundered north of the North Manitowish Islands, at the foot of Lake Michigan, was the steel steamer W. H. Gilcher, owned in this city. The Gilcher is one of the largest steamers on the lakes and the largest ever built in Cleveland. An exact duplicate of the Western Reserve, which was lost with all on board on Lake Superior the latter part of August. The Gilcher left Buffalo on Wednesday morning for Milwaukee. She was commanded by Capt. L. H. Weeks. There were no passengers aboard. The crew probably numbered from eight to twelve men, and the total loss of life will prove almost as heavy as that of the Western Reserve.

A large owner in the Gilcher says the vessel's crew consisted of eighteen men. New York, Nov. 2.—The steamer Kaiser, while going to her dock to-day, ran into a couple of Pennsylvania cars floats at the foot of Liberty street, sinking one and damaging the other. The float which was sunk was loaded with sixteen cars filled with corn. The steamer was not damaged.

He returned to Windsor and reported the loss, and the pocket-book was found lying on the track where he had boarded the car, with the contents intact.

Suicide at Woodstock. WOODSTOCK, Nov. 2.—Mrs. Annie Gould, wife of Wm. Gould, action maker at D. W. Karn & Co.'s, committed suicide at the family residence, Mary street. The unfortunate lady had been ill for some time, and during the last few days appeared very melancholy. Last night she managed to get some Paris green, which had been secreted by her husband under the veranda in the summer-time, and thus ended her suffering. She took two dessert spoonfuls of the poison dry in an outbuilding and came into the kitchen. Dr. Sinclair did everything possible to relieve her, but without avail, and she died at 7 a.m. Deceased had been married seven years and always lived on the most happy terms with her husband. They had no children.

THE YORKSHIRE CALAMITY.

The Marquis of Huntley and the Marquis of Tweeddale Among the Passengers—Ten Killed.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The disastrous railway accident in Yorkshire is said to have been due to a dense fog, which prevented the engineer of the express train seeing ahead of him for any distance. The express was crowded with passengers returning from the Highlands of Scotland, from Huddersfield and Edinburgh. Among the passengers were the Marquis of Huntley and the Marquis of Tweeddale. The Marquis of Huntley had one of his shoulders bruised and one of his thumbs fractured. Eleven other persons were injured. The time of the accident the express was traveling at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The goods train into which the express ran was making slow time. The engine and tender of the express and the coach next to it were smashed, but the Pullman was only slightly damaged. The passengers in the Pullman coach were all asleep when the collision occurred.

Among the killed are the driver of the goods train and the stoker of the express train. The driver of the express train had both thighs smashed. The engine and tender were doubled back against the first car, and the Pullman car forming one heap, which took fire from the engine room furnace. The carriage behind the Pullman car was broken.

The accident occurred at 3:50, and the night was pitch dark.

TEN KILLED. Among the dead is Capt. Duncan McLeod, of the Forty-second Highlanders. The official report of the killed in the fatal railway accident near Thirsk places the number at ten. Many persons received slight injuries and a severe shaking up. The signal man who was charged with being asleep at the time of the accident, and he had been pending an investigation. The escape of the wrecked Pullman car was little short of miraculous. The wheels were torn off, but the body of the coach stood the crash with but little damage. Pinned beneath the huge engine the rescuing party saw a woman seeking for help, but they were powerless to aid her and she was burned to death. The fire burned fiercely until noon, when the flames were gotten under control.

The engineer of the express train himself, badly injured and held down by the debris, implored the rescuers to save the passengers and not mind him.

A passenger named Reith, in an interview, said that he saw Signalman Holmes after the collision. The man's child had died on the previous night, and he had asked the stationmaster for leave of absence, but had been refused. He had to take his turn on duty, and was so tired that he fell asleep and neglected the signals.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Throughout the night men were working upon the debris of the wreck of the express and goods trains, which collided near Thirsk yesterday morning. The tender of the express train has not been lifted from the mass of wreckage. It is expected that when it is removed several bodies will be revealed. Signalman Holmes, who is held responsible for the disaster, shows signs of mental derangement.

Holmes had passed Tuesday night at the bedside of his dying child. After the death of the child he asked the stationmaster for leave of absence, but his request was refused and he was compelled to take his place at signals. Physically worn out by the fatigue of his sickbed vigils and tired mentally he fell asleep and thus precipitated the wreck. The wreck gives interest to the evidence of witnesses now testifying as to railway management before the Royal Commission. The men assert that they are overworked, while the railway officials testify that it is impossible to work the traffic of their lines in a fixed day of ten hours.

ANOTHER RAILWAY DISASTERS. TWO TRAINS HANDS BURT. PIRRETTOWN, Pa., Nov. 2.—At 1 o'clock this morning an east-bound freight train on the Fort Wayne road ran into at Washington street crossing, Allegheny City, the Keystone express train also going east. Four of the freight cars were thrown on the track in front of a west-bound passenger train and knocked into kindling wood. The engineer of the Keystone express, Harry Securick and his fireman were injured, the former seriously. The passengers were severely shaken up, but not dangerously hurt.

Suicide of a Famous Explorer. PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 2.—About 2 o'clock this morning Lieut. Frederick Schwatka, the famous Arctic explorer, was picked up on First street in an unconscious condition. Beside him lay a bottle of laudanum. A patrol wagon was called and the lieutenant was removed to the police station, where he soon died. It was undoubtedly a case of suicide.

The surmise that Lieut. Schwatka committed suicide is fast giving way to one that he took an overdose of laudanum by accident. He had been troubled for some years with a stomach complaint.

Burned to Death With Vitriol. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—Peter Shields, night watchman at Schweibert & Co.'s dye house, was found dead this morning. The remains were horribly mutilated by the action of vitriol. The dead man's clothes were burned to rags, and large holes had been eaten by the acid into his body and limbs. Mrs. Shields went to the dye house with her husband's supper last night. A quarrel arose over some trivial matter, and in her anger the woman picked up a pitcher full of oil of vitriol which stood near her on a shelf and hurled its contents at her husband. She evidently did not know what was in the vessel. The woman is under arrest.

THE MERCIER-PACAUD CASE.

Testimony for the Defense—Mr. Mercier's Brother Examined.

QUEBEC, Nov. 2.—Previous to the examining witnesses for the defense in the Mercier-Pacaud case, Mr. Fitzpatrick addressed the jury. He said the Crown declared the case was not a political one, but they had only to read the indictment to convince themselves, it was. The indictment, he said, contained two counts, first, charging Mr. Mercier with defrauding the Caisse d'Economie of $80,000, the second charging him with defrauding the Province of a large sum of money, because the Crown thought if it failed to prove one accusation it would probably succeed in convicting Mr. Mercier on the other. Neither of them, however, had been proven. In regard to the charge against Mercier, namely, that of asking and receiving from Langlois $50,000 for election purposes, Mr. Fitzpatrick said that if all those who had accepted election subscriptions were sent to jail the Legislature would be emptied. "If we were to place all these people in jail," he went on, "there would be few remaining in this building, either among high-placed officials or among those occupying humbler positions." Mr. Fitzpatrick concluded by saying: "Remember, O'Connell was accused of conspiracy when he could not be reached otherwise."

Mr. J. A. Mercier, brother to the then Premier, testified that he had been the business manager and attorney for his brother for several years. He always had in his possession blank checks signed by the Hon. Mr. Mercier. Being shown two checks, he said that he remembered them quite well. They were filled out by himself, and had been deposited at the Banque Nationale and the Banque Du Peuple to the credit of Mr. Geordien. Two checks of $12,500 each were drawn by himself without the knowledge of Mr. Mercier. There are yet three witnesses to be examined.

LABOR NOTES.

Gompers Has Issued a Call for the Federation Convention—Is Being Near Election Time, Miners' Wages Are Raised in Pennsylvania.

The Carmaux miners have resumed work. The telegraph operators and their employees in the south have reached an agreement, the demands of the men having, it is said, practically been conceded. Joseph Skewes, superintendent of the various mills of the Carnegie plant at Homestead, has resigned. He is considered the best roller turn in the country, and his loss is a severe one to the firm.

A board of conciliation consisting of six directors of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and six members of the Trades' Council is making another effort to adjust the dispute between the cotton spinners and their employers.

At the coming session of the British Parliament Joseph Chamberlain will introduce a bill providing that miners shall not work more than 48 hours a week. The bill will, however, contain a provision for local exemptions where miners so desire.

A labor society controlling a bank, as well as an educational establishment and large stores, has joined the Socialists in Milan. This society has been organized by a number of Radicals in Parliament, and their change of politics has caused a great sensation.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has issued a call for the twelfth annual convention of the federation. The convention will begin in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, on Dec. 12.

In calculating the wages of miners and laborers of the Schuylkill region for the last half of October and the first half of November, the Schuylkill Coal Exchange has fixed the rate at 5 per cent. above the $2.50 basis. This is an advance of 2 per cent. over the wages of last month.

At the last meeting of the retail grocers of Hamilton, Ont., a resolution was carried in favor of the weekly wages system.

THE TURK. RECORD-BREAKING. COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 3.—Among the races yesterday afternoon was a mile dash for 2-year-olds for a purse of $500. J. J. McCafferty's filly Helen Nichols won on a circular track, time 1:13, beating the world's record for 2-year-olds.

THE BATTLE OVER THE BORDER

The United States Presidential election takes place on Tuesday next, and the present week is devoted to getting the two great opposing forces into line. It has been one of the quietest Presidential elections ever held over the border. This is in part owing to the fact that both the candidates are eminently respectable men, who may be relied on to work and act for what they believe to be the best interests of their native land; and partly attributable to the well-defined nature of the issues before the people. Many people affect the belief that whichever way the majority go it will be a perfect landslide. They say this is always the case when there is a calm campaign. There is a great deal of thinking, a decided leaning to one side, and a big vote. The most generally accepted view, with which we agree, however, is that which looks for a very close battle, with the electoral votes from one large State, or those from several smaller divisions of the country, turning the scale either way.

It may be, of course, that the organized People's Party and the Prohibitionists, both of whom put up candidates for the Presidency, will upset all the calculations of the shrewd guessers, but the most that can be said at this stage is that outwardly both of the two big parties are claiming victory and working as if the efforts of individuals may have momentous results.

Not unprofitable, in the circumstances, may be a brief review of the contentions of the leaders on either side.

For the Democrats it is contended that the South is solidly Democratic, including both of the Virginias. That would give the Democrats a start of 159 votes. Then the Democrats assert that they will carry New Jersey, which they generally do in Presidential years, and that New York, which was lost in 1888 by sectional disputes, is united this year, and will be kept in line. In New York and Brooklyn, the Democratic strongholds, the registration is in round numbers 50,000 more than it did in 1888, and it is conceded that at least two-thirds of this is Democratic. There is a hard fight in Connecticut, but the Democrats say they will carry it, too. Enormous sums of money are being spent by the Republicans in Indiana, which is a doubtful State, and which was undoubtedly carried for Harrison by corrupt means in 1888, but the Democrats hope to win it also. In Michigan, where the new system of electing Presidential electors by districts has been inaugurated, the Democrats will make a gain of five or more. The party has little hope of victory in Illinois, Iowa or Minnesota, but there is a chance in Wisconsin. Supposing the Democrats carry the entire South, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Wisconsin, and get five electors in Michigan and lose Indiana, they will have 228 votes. They need 223, so that they will have five to spare. If they carry Indiana and Idaho they could do without Wisconsin and New Jersey and yet have five votes to spare. Put in a table of States the Democratic view of the situation is as follows:

Alabama.....	11	Missouri.....	17
Arkansas.....	8	New Jersey.....	36
California.....	21	New York.....	36
Connecticut.....	5	North Carolina.....	11
Delaware.....	3	South Carolina.....	9
Florida.....	3	Tennessee.....	12
Georgia.....	13	Texas.....	15
Idaho.....	3	Virginia.....	12
Illinois.....	13	West Virginia.....	6
Indiana.....	8	Wisconsin.....	12
Iowa.....	8
Kansas.....	9
Michigan.....	9
Minnesota.....	9
Mississippi.....	9
Montana.....	3
Nebraska.....	3
Nevada.....	3
New Hampshire.....	3
New Mexico.....	3
New York.....	36
North Dakota.....	3
Ohio.....	23
Oklahoma.....	3
Rhode Island.....	3
South Dakota.....	3
Tennessee.....	12
Texas.....	15
Vermont.....	3
Virginia.....	12
Washington.....	3
West Virginia.....	6
Wisconsin.....	12
Wyoming.....	3
Total.....	155

But there are sanguine Democrats who hold that the People's Party, with the aid of fused Democratic votes, will carry Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Nevada, and that Wisconsin will go Democratic. In that case, which is scarcely probable, all they would leave for Harrison would be as follows:

California.....	21	New Hampshire.....	3
Illinois.....	13	North Dakota.....	3
Iowa.....	8	South Dakota.....	3
Kansas.....	9	Oregon.....	3
Michigan.....	9	Pennsylvania.....	23
Minnesota.....	9	Rhode Island.....	3
Mississippi.....	9	Vermont.....	3
Montana.....	3	Washington.....	3
Nebraska.....	3
Nevada.....	3
New Hampshire.....	3
New Mexico.....	3
New York.....	36
North Dakota.....	3
Ohio.....	23
Oklahoma.....	3
Rhode Island.....	3
South Dakota.....	3
Tennessee.....	12
Texas.....	15
Vermont.....	3
Virginia.....	12
Washington.....	3
West Virginia.....	6
Wisconsin.....	12
Total.....	155

Let us now turn to the Republican contentions. The managers of that party profess to be certain of victory in the battle of Tuesday next. They assert that they will carry New York State sure; that they will capture Connecticut, also, and we know enough of the political situation in the last named State to believe that such a result may be achieved. They hardly expect victory in New Jersey, though even some Democrats concede it to be a doubtful State. Then they hold that West Virginia, which only gave Cleveland a small plurality in 1888, will this year go Republican. They also hope to snatch Virginia from the Solid South column of their opponents. In the west the Democrats claim everything except Colorado and Nevada, which they acknowledge are doubtful. The Pacific slope and all that thereon is, they say, is theirs. Indiana is put in the doubtful column, though the Republicans hope to carry it; but, say they, "we will win without Indiana and in a pinch without New York." Here, then, is the Republican calculation:

California.....	21	New York.....	36
Connecticut.....	5	North Dakota.....	3
Delaware.....	3	Ohio.....	23
Florida.....	3	Pennsylvania.....	23
Georgia.....	13	Rhode Island.....	3
Idaho.....	3	South Dakota.....	3
Illinois.....	13	Tennessee.....	12
Indiana.....	8	Texas.....	15
Iowa.....	8	Virginia.....	12
Kansas.....	9	West Virginia.....	6
Michigan.....	9	Wisconsin.....	12
Minnesota.....	9	Wyoming.....	3
Mississippi.....	9
Montana.....	3
Nebraska.....	3
Nevada.....	3
New Hampshire.....	3
New Mexico.....	3
New York.....	36
North Dakota.....	3
Ohio.....	23
Oklahoma.....	3
Rhode Island.....	3
South Dakota.....	3
Tennessee.....	12
Texas.....	15
Vermont.....	3
Virginia.....	12
Washington.....	3
West Virginia.....	6
Wisconsin.....	12
Wyoming.....	3
Total.....	206

This is a roseate Republican compilation, and if it is verified Harrison will be elected with 43 votes to spare. That party, with such a result, could afford to lose New York and Nebraska and give the Democrats Indiana. They could afford to lose New York, Indiana, New Jersey and Connecticut. If they gained all the others they could stand the loss of the States of Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska and West Virginia. This claim, which is probably far too sanguine, would leave the Democrats these States:

Alabama.....	11	Mississippi.....	9
Arkansas.....	8	Michigan.....	9
California.....	21	Missouri.....	17
Connecticut.....	5	Minnesota.....	9
Delaware.....	3	Montana.....	3
Florida.....	3	New Hampshire.....	3
Georgia.....	13	New Jersey.....	36
Idaho.....	3	New Mexico.....	3
Illinois.....	13	North Carolina.....	11
Indiana.....	8	North Dakota.....	3
Iowa.....	8	Ohio.....	23
Kansas.....	9	Oklahoma.....	3
Louisiana.....	8	Rhode Island.....	3
Maine.....	3	South Carolina.....	9
Marland.....	3	Tennessee.....	12
Massachusetts.....	15	Texas.....	15
Michigan.....	9	Virginia.....	12
Minnesota.....	9	West Virginia.....	6
Mississippi.....	9	Wisconsin.....	12
Montana.....	3	Wyoming.....	3
Nebraska.....	3
Nevada.....	3
New Hampshire.....	3
New Mexico.....	3
New York.....	36
North Dakota.....	3
Ohio.....	23
Oklahoma.....	3
Rhode Island.....	3
South Dakota.....	3

Texas.....	15
Vermont.....	3
Virginia.....	12
Washington.....	3
West Virginia.....	6
Wisconsin.....	12
Total.....	155

The estimate is interesting as showing that the Republicans estimate that their opponents will have to make a desperate struggle to gain 67 votes in the electoral college or be defeated. If the Populists do half the damage to the old parties in the Western States that it is claimed it will do, neither party will have a majority in the electoral college, and the election will be decided by the House of Representatives, which at present is overwhelmingly Democratic. That would elect Cleveland. But all speculation as to the probable outcome of the voting in these Western States, as well as in the doubtful States of the East, but goes to show how much at sea with regard to the probable result outsiders must remain till the votes are counted. At present, it seems to be established that the doubtful States will turn the scales, and that the advantages in the "sure" States is with the Republicans, though the tide appears to be with the Democrats.

The Death and Funeral of the Poet Laureate.

Interesting Speculations as to the "Crossing of the Bar."

Why a Sealed Box With a Copy of Shakespeare Was Placed in the Coffin.

(Special Correspondence of the ADVERTISER.)

LONDON, Oct. 21.

The great event which has happened on this side the mighty main since I sent my last letter is the death of Tennyson—best known and most revered without the aristocratic prefix lord and the strangely inaccurate affix poet laureate. This event has temporarily overshadowed home and foreign politics. I went to the internet of Tennyson in the venerable mausoleum of our most illustrious dead—Westminster Abbey. The sight was impressive. The applications for tickets of admission were ten times as many as the abbey would hold. Mr. Gladstone was asked to be a pall-bearer, but respectfully begged to be excused on account of his advanced age and under the advice of his doctor. The most noticeable absence was that of the Prince of Wales, who, instead of paying a tribute of respect to the distinguished poet who had written so fine a poem, trembling with sympathy but grand in appreciation of his ever-to-be revered father, Albert the Good, was actually attending Newmarket races. Our public journals have only voiced what all right-minded men have felt, when they have severely condemned the bad taste of the heir apparent. This is another mistake worse than crime by which the Prince of Wales has taxed the patience and respect of a long-suffering people. It is customary amongst syphants to prate about the unfailing tact of his Royal Highness. But his absence on this solemn occasion was a conspicuous failure of good policy. The nation would have forgiven mere absence, but when our journals reported that on this day of mourning he was at the races, it was felt universally that the sin was unpardonable. Such flouting of propriety only strengthens the hands of Republicans and Socialists. The day of reckoning will come, and it may be a veritable diis irae.

Amid a thronged assemblage of the noble and worthy of the land, and before the eyes of a multitude of the people in general, all of whose intellects had been charmed with Tennyson's stately verses and whose hearts had been touched by the lofty sentiments enshrined therein, he was lowered into the grave which was encompassed by fragrant and beautiful flower wreaths. The Queen had sent several wreaths with a touching message expressive of love and respect for the deceased poet. The religious ceremonial in the glorious old abbey was imposing, every part of the service—liturgical and musical—was, of course, exquisitely rendered. But we could not help but feel that it was a matter for real regret that the rite of sepulture used on the occasion could not have been made more representative of the nation as a whole. Nonconformists form one-half, at least, of the nation; Tennyson belonged to all classes, and yet the service was identified exclusively with that branch of the church called by courtesy, the Church of England. Not a single Nonconformist minister was asked to take part in the solemn service. Is this right? fair? courteous? Christian? Surely in the case of the great and good who are interred in the ancient, sacred fabric, fitly called our Walhalla, the nation should be represented and not a single denomination. It will be some day.

Though Mr. Gladstone could not be present at the interment of his old friend, yet many of us remembered how, only ten years ago when the freedom of the Burgh of Kirkwall was presented to the two eminent men, Mr. Gladstone, with the modesty inseparable from true greatness, said, "Mr. Tennyson's life and labors correspond in point of time as nearly as possible to my own, but Mr. Tennyson's exertions have been on a higher plane of human action than my own. He has worked in a higher field, and his work will be more durable. I anticipate for him the immortality for which England and Scotland have supplied in the course of their long national life many claims; and your record to-day of the additions which have been made to your municipal body may happen to be examined in distant times, and some may ask with regard to the Prime Minister, 'Who was he? and what did he do? We know nothing about him! But the poet laureate has written his own song on the hearts of his countrymen and can never die. Time is powerless against him.' This was a public tribute of appreciation as true as it was magnanimous.

At the funeral service in the abbey two of Tennyson's own poems were sung, "Crossing the Bar" and "The Silent Voice," the latter of which had been set to music by his accomplished though invalid wife, Lady Tennyson. The words of the latter brief poem—the last the laureate ever composed—were wonderfully appropriate to the death scene at Aldworth, which Sir Andrew Clarke, the distinguished physician, said was the most glorious he ever witnessed. "When the dumb hour, clothed in black, brings the dreams around my bed," recalls a famous passage in the book of Job, which book Tennyson greatly admired and closely studied. "In thoughts from the visions of night, when deep sleep falleth on men." After a tender allusion to the lowland ways behind, and the sunlight that is gone, the poet rises to a loftier note:

"Call me rather, silent voices,
Faded in the merry track,
Glimmering up the heights beyond me
On, and always on."

It cannot, I think, rightly be said that Tennyson's latest epigram to the sea was popular. "Crossing the Bar," nevertheless no lines ever written by the poet harmonize more fully with the moonlit chamber of death. In the poem "Crossing the Bar" there is a general misunderstanding of the verse:

"For 'tho' from out our bourne of Time and this
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have cross'd the bar."

That capital P in "Pilot" has misled great numbers of Christian people, and lots of preachers have quoted the last couplet, with unctious, as expressive of the Christian trust that immediately on "Crossing the Bar" the dying saint will see Jesus, his pilot, "face to face." By the law which theologians designate the law of accommodation, this interpretation may be permissible, but it will surprise and disappoint many good people to learn that the allusion is to the good Sir John, but to Tennyson's dead son, Lionel, to whom also the line, "And one clear call for me" refers. Even Sir Edwin Arnold falls into the popular error when, referring to Tennyson's lines, he says:

"And Christ the pilot to the peace to be,"
It is almost a pity to know too much, for the laureate's lines henceforth lose their sacred charm. Like the primal pair when their eyes were opened, we pass out of a fragrant and glowing paradise into a hard practical wilderness world.

Our journals have been debating the question to whom Tennyson refers in Canto I. of "In Memoriam," when he sings:

"I hold it truth, with him who sings
To one clear harp in divers tones,
That man may on stepping-stones
Of their dead selves to higher things."

Some hold that they refer to French, a college chum of Tennyson's, but it is generally believed that they refer to Goethe, with special allusion to his immortal poem, "Eternal Music." Tennyson was once asked to name the person alluded to, and he answered rather hesitatingly, as if he had almost forgotten, "I believe the allusion is to Goethe."

A writer in the Aftenposten tells the following story of the deceased poet. "The late William Allingham informed me that he had recently been assisting Tennyson in a removal from one of his London residences to another. The laureate was naturally solicitous respecting his books and instead of allowing the men to carry out the removal to pack them in cases, the poet hired a truck, or hand-cart, wherein he himself placed the volumes so precious to him, and then, assisted by Allingham, wheeled them himself triumphantly to his new abode."

After the death of the laureate, some mystery was made of the fact that there was placed in the coffin a sealed box the contents of which were secret. It seems that this was a copy of Shakespeare. The last few days of Tennyson's life he asked for his Shakespeare and read "King Lear," "Troilus and Cressida," and "Cymbeline," through. On the last day of his life he asked for his Shakespeare. His son says, "I gave him the book, but said, 'You must not try to read it. He answered, 'I have opened the book! I looked at the book at midnight when I was sitting by him, lying dead on the Thursday, and found he had opened one of the passages which he had called the tenderest in Shakespeare. We could not part with this volume, but buried another copy of Shakespeare with him. We had the favorite work inclosed in a metal box and laid by his side."

Tennyson was a devout believer in the great and holy Nazarene. Canon Benham said in his memorial sermon, "On my last visit to him, when he lay dying, he spoke of the perfect redemption which Christ had wrought for the world." On one occasion when talking with a friend, who asked him what he thought of Jesus Christ, Tennyson, pointing to a flower, replied: "What the son is to that flower Christ is to my soul. He is the sun of my soul." It may be of some little interest to students of his works to know that he considered the best line he ever wrote was one in "The Gardener's Daughter":

"The mellow omelet fluted in the elm,
Tennyson was twice offered a baronetcy, and both times declined the honor. His elevation to the peerage was the first instance in England of literary merit alone having been rewarded with a patent of nobility.

Were the scrofula sore on my poor little boy, skinning and disgusting. They were especially bad on his legs, back of his ears and on his head. His hair was so matted that combing was sometimes impossible. His legs were so bad that sometimes he could not sit down, and when he tried to walk his legs would crack open and the blood start.

Physicians did not effect a cure. I decided to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two weeks the sores came off and all over his body new and healthy flesh and skin formed. When he had taken two bottles of

The Reported Sale of Ormonds for $100,000 Confirmed—General Sporting News.

ATHLETICS.

Dr. Sargent, Harvard's physical director, estimates that the pursuit of outdoor sports is limited probably less than 1 per cent. of vigorous young men in the States. Even among the members of athletic organizations only 10 per cent. are really active. Dr. Sargent attributes the increasing lack of interest in athletics to the growing tendency among Americans, as a people, to pursue sport as an end in itself, rather than as a means to an end. In making excellence in the achievement the primary object of athletic exercises they are robbed of half their value in various ways; for instance, by increasing the expense of training; by the devoting of too much time to practice; by reducing the number of active competitors; by relying upon natural resources rather than upon cultivated material; by depriving the non-athletic individual of incentive to physical exertion by depriving the exercise of their efficiency as a means of health. Dr. Sargent holds that the harmonious development of the physique, and the building up and the broadening out of the highest types of manhood and womanhood ought to be an end in itself, and should be the aim of every individual enough for each to work.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

Robert Downing's Great Production of "Virginius" at the Grand—Primrose & West Coming—A Talented Elocutionist.

A fine audience greeted Mr. Robert Downing at the Grand Opera House last night. Sheridan Knowles' great play "Virginius" was given a magnificent production—such an one as city theater-goers seldom have the privilege of enjoying. Mr. Downing filled the title role with much dignity and vigor, and showed the ability of judicious restraint in some of the most pathetic parts where exaggeration would produce just the opposite of the intended effect. He created a deep and lasting impression, convincing his auditors that he was an actor of the very best school. Not only does he deliver his lines well and deliberately, but every action is well suited to the words. There is no straining after undue effect, no effort to startle and tickle the ears of either groundling or god, but an almost perfect performance that pleases the thoughtful and delights everyone. Mr. Downing's splendid physique exceptionally qualifies him for noble heroic parts. He was twice called before the curtain by the enthusiastic audience. Mr. Mark Price as Appius Claudius proved himself an accomplished artist. Mr. F. C. Mooley's "Iolius" left nothing to be desired. Miss Eugenie Blair as "Virginia" was a dream of white-robed innocence. She united rare artistic ability with a most engaging presence. The other members of the company provide fitting support for the principals. The appropriateness and beauty of the costumes were much admired. To-night the great tragedian will present that grand heroic play, "The Gladiator," and the Opera House should be crowded. "If Mr. Downing had played no other part in Toronto his representation of "The Gladiator" last night was sufficient to stamp him as one of the greatest of living actors," says the Toronto Empire.

SARA LORD BAILEY.
Sara Lord Bailey, of Boston, Mass., will give a musical and humorous recital this evening in Victoria Hall. Miss Bailey is among the most successful elocutionists on the public platform to-day. Although she has established her popularity in many Canadian cities and towns this is her first appearance in London. Miss Bailey, who is said to have a handsome and striking personality, is wonderfully versatile, and is equally at home in the tragic, sentimental or humorous. Her vocal powers are also remarkable. To-night's programme is a representative one and should be enjoyed by a large audience.

PRIMROSE & WEST COMING.
Primrose & West, with their brilliant company of minstrel merry makers, are announced for to-morrow night at the Grand. This will be the one minstrel event of the season. Primrose & West are the acknowledged leaders in this style of entertainment. They have spared no expense in keeping this most genuine form of amusement in the very front rank of popular entertainment. This year is the epitome of their career. Their entertainment is new from the overture till the curtain falls. They claim to have the best minstrel organization ever put together in America, and their appearance here should prove one of the happiest events in the amusement year. Plans now open.

NOTES.
The Boston Globe calls Annie Pixley "deliciously droll, winsomely frolicsome and fascinatingly vivacious."
Jane Elizabeth Kellogg, mother of Clara Louise Kellogg-Straconsk, died at the Clarendon Hotel, New York, Tuesday evening of heart trouble.

A Lakeview, N. J., dispatch says: Edwin Booth has decided to leave here and go to New York where he can consult his family physician. He is feeble and has not been picking up as much as he expected.

A waltz, "The Debutante," composed by Mr. James K. Flock, city, was played by the Grand Opera House orchestra last evening. Its air is pretty. The work of the orchestra this season has been admirable.

Mme. Adeline Patti is making preparation for a seventh farewell tour. On Nov. 15 she begins a season of concerts in England, at the conclusion of which she will go to the Riviera for a holiday in order to strengthen her throat for the American engagement. Her repertoire for this country will consist of "Comin' Thro' the Rye," "Within a Mile," and "Home, Sweet Home," with incidental diversissements by Flotow, Bellini, and Donizetti. A friend of the diva states officially that while Mme. Patti is willing to sing for Marcus Mayoe at $5,000 a night, no monetary inducement can tempt her to take part in a second jubilee. It may be remembered that the enthusiasm of Mr. Chapman's fair characters almost smothered the diva at the Madison Square Gardens last spring. A further intimation comes to us that while Patti admires the "Star Spangled Banner" as the symbol of a great people, she holds it in low esteem as a musical composition, and has resolved never to sing it again.

UNDER THE SEMAPHORE.

Passenger rates between Chicago and south-western points have been raised. The advance means an additional $2,000,000 annually in the income of the railroads. The railway committee of the Dominion Privy Council on Wednesday granted the application of the Ottawa and Parry Sound Railway for a level crossing over the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks in Nepean township, eight miles west of Ottawa.

A BAREFACED FRAUD.

The following, clipped from the columns of the Toronto Globe, Oct. 29, is of sufficient importance to newspaper readers to warrant its reproduction in these columns: To the Editor of the Globe:

Sir,—I am sure you will agree with me when I say that something ought to be done to stop the barefaced swindling (no matter how small the sum) which is going on in certain directions in our midst, and I have no reason to doubt that my experience in this city is the experience of others in many parts of Canada. I have read so much of the great success of "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" that I determined to give them a trial for nervous troubles. I accordingly went to a drugstore to procure a supply. On asking the druggist for the pills he took down a glass jar and proceeded to take out the quantity. "But," said I, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not sold in bulk, and that cannot be them." "O, yes, it is," said the dealer; "we always get them in bulk and sell them that way." I had read the caution of the proprietors to the effect that these pills were never sold in bulk, and thinking they should know best, I declined taking them, and left the store. My next experience was no more fortunate. Again pink pills in color, to imitate the genuine, were offered me. When I demonstrated that the dealer admitted the pills were not supplied him by the Dr. Williams' Company, but declared that they were just the same. And yet, for the sake of a little more profit he would have imposed them on me for the genuine Pink Pills had I been less cautious. As I left the store, I thought the repeated warnings against imitations given by the Williams Company must be the result of bitter experience on their part. But I did not expect I would meet with three dishonest dealers (do you think the term is too strong?) in succession. My next experience proved the third dealer little better than the other two. When I asked for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills he said he had them, and then produced a package which I saw at a glance here another name, and which he insisted were just as good. I declined taking them, and turned to leave the store, when the druggist offered to give me the genuine pills. But I did not feel that I ought to patronize a man who would have imposed something else on me had I been less guarded, and declined buying. I almost despaired getting the genuine Pink Pills unless I sent to headquarters; but on my visit to the fourth drugstore I was more successful, and was at once handed the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. No doubt, Mr. Editor, my experience is that of many others, and no doubt hundreds less cautious are constantly being deceived. I think the newspapers ought to do something toward protecting their readers from frauds of this kind. We frequently read of reporters doing clever detective work, etc., visiting churches in the garb of the lowly, and then writing up the reception. Here is a new field for the same kind of work. Let some reporter travel the length and breadth of this city in humble guise, and see how many dealers are honest enough to give him a substitute upon him.

HEATING PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

A Former Londoner on the Furnace and Ventilator Question.

To the Editor of the Advertiser.
Reading the letter written by Mr. Jeffery in your paper has prompted me to write a few remarks on the system of school-house heating and ventilating. It is pleasing to know that the school boards of the Dominion are having their eyes opened to the fact that the heating and ventilating is not the least important matter in designing and planning of school-houses. It is not long since the subject of heating was not considered until the building was about completed; then a heating man was called in to secure the contract if possible. As the lowest estimator would secure it, the result was that a furnace of insufficient capacity was put in; consequently in cold weather, in order to secure comfort, it is necessary to raise the radiating surface to a high temperature, often to a red heat. The contraction and expansion due to such great changes of temperature soon loosen the joints of furnace and boiler of several pieces, and permit the escape of gases of combustion into the fresh air supply. Of these gases, carbonic oxide and sulphurous acid are the most hurtful, and in violation of the plainest teachings of hygiene, they come into the rooms of the children, and are inhaled with the air.

The pupils are compelled to inhale over and over again, along with their own vitiated breaths (there being no provision for the removing of it from the room), thus establishing in the rooms a stagnant atmosphere, the baneful impurities of which are destructive of health. Due to this cause largely, throat and lung affections of all kinds have within the last few years been alarmingly on the increase. It was stated some few years ago, according to the statistics of mortality, it was estimated that 10,000 children die annually in the city of New York alone, of the effects of the vitiated air of badly ventilated school-rooms.

It is pleasing to notice that the school boards are becoming educated to the fact that it is highly essential to have a thorough system of ventilation. Mr. Jeffery's arguments are good, and he is a man I would like to deal with in arranging for a proper and good system of heating apparatus. He appears to have studied the matter thoroughly, and has discovered that the best is the cheapest. It is impossible to heat two large rooms and two smaller ones with one furnace, containing 35,000 cubic feet of space, for such a furnace as the lowest bids given, unless it was carried out on the plan I have just described. Mr. Jeffery says the other manufacturers would add to their profit by installing a furnace of this kind, but they would not doubt find it profitable, while reasonable competition would lower the cost to the public.

This is something I have often wondered at, how some of the large and able manufacturers will let Smead-Dowd Company secure all the finest school buildings in Canada and not make any attempt to compete with them on an equal system. It can be done and with some of the furnaces now manufactured by the Smead-Dowd Company, also with the best fuel than the Smead-Dowd Company's furnaces use. For the past five years all the schools in Toronto have been heated by the Smead-Dowd Company without any opposition whatever. Why do the architects not draw up an and specification for heating and ventilating, all to be arranged before the plans are completed? If the architect is not competent to do this, call in some expert engineer who has made a study and who can lay out a complete system, whether it be by steam, or hot water, or gas. It is carried out in this way in New York and Toronto at all large public buildings. Then call for estimates (not specifying any particular heater), specifications to state the desired temperature in zero weather, the number of cubic feet of space to be heated per hour, and the number of cubic feet of air to be supplied for each pupil per hour, then give the contract to the lowest responsible estimator. When work is completed, have apparatus put to proper test, so that every cubic foot of air is changed in accordance with specification and guarantee. If this plan were carried out, there would be no more trouble in the proper heating and ventilating of our schools, and no more discontent among local dealers, for all would be on an equal footing.

JUMBO'S SUCCESSOR.

His Name is Jung Fash, and He is the Best Beast of the Season.
Poor Jumbo, whose departure from the Zoological Gardens for America, where he met so untimely a death, and was at one time a question of absorbing interest, has a worthy successor. Jung Fash, the elephant brought over by the Prince of Wales, was at one time quite a dwarf compared with the departed favorite. He has grown and grown, however, until at the present moment he measures only three inches in height less than Jumbo, an inappreciable difference.

Every day the majestic beast may be seen in the Regent Park Gardens, walking with stately tread round the grounds, carrying a complement on his back of little boys and girls and grown-up people.—(London Daily News.)

Danesbury House.

"I have been there for a long visit. We appreciate your kindness, and shall be happy to render Miss St. George's visit to us as agreeable to her as the somewhat rigid answer of Miss Philip."

CHAPTER IV.

THE GAME PLAYED OUT.

The time went on. March came and passed, and Roger Giles entered upon the punishment awarded him—two years' imprisonment. Miss St. George stopped at Danesbury House, nobody suggested to her that she should leave it, and she took care not to suggest it to herself. She behaved wonderfully well, and endeavored to ingratiate herself with all in it, master, servants, and children. Her chief consideration seemed to be that of rendering herself unobtrusively agreeable to Mr. Danesbury, and so far as he or anybody else saw of her, she might be the best of angels. The temper, they were indulged, the children were petted; it all went on as smoothly as oil. Miss St. George was playing her game.

Summer came round, and with it Isabel's birthday. Some children were invited to dinner, and Mrs. Philip Danesbury was expected to preside, but she did not come and they set down without her. Miss St. George, occupying the place opposite Mr. Danesbury, when Mrs. Philip was there, she always took it herself. At the period of dessert, Miss St. George filled glasses of wine for the children, including Arthur and Isabel.

"Why have you given wine to me and Isabel?" asked Arthur.

"It is Isabel's birthday, and you must drink her health," was Miss St. George's reply.

"But we never drink wine," repeated Arthur.

"That's no reason why you never should. On such an occasion as this it is necessary. What would Isabel say if you did not drink good wishes to her?"

"I'll drink them in water," said Arthur.

Untold Misery—What a Well-Known Commercial Traveler Suffered, and How He Was Cured.—Gentlemen, and About five years ago I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time traveling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of dyspepsia. (Signed.) T. S. BISHOP FOWLER ON DEATH.

He Says His Sunday Sermon Was Not Intended to be Sensational.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The dramatic sermon of Bishop George Fowler, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at St. James' Church, One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Madison avenue, on Sunday, has created a sensation in church circles. His portrait of death, which was the subject of his sermon, was so realistic and gruesome that several women in the church were overcome and a few left before the eloquent speaker concluded. Dr. Fowler, who belongs in Minnesota, is here attending the semi-annual meeting of Methodist bishops, and a reporter interviewed him at the conference.

"I saw the account of my sermon on death in the morning papers," he said. "I suppose they wanted to get a crack at me. The point I made last about the Protestant Church in England in its struggle with Romanism was ignored. My object in delivering the sermon was to show that we are delivered from death, and to emphasize the value of that deliverance. I painted death as it is. I wanted to show that going into death is going into the shadow of obscurity, but that the light of faith illumines that gloom and dissipates it. I noticed that two or three persons left the church, and I thought perhaps that I was bearing a little hard on them, as they were in mourning, so I let up in my remarks. My object was not to achieve any sensational effect."

"Was it an extemporaneous sermon?"

"No. I always write my sermons out and think them over, but I do use notes in the pulpit. This one was preached without notes."

Some of the persons who heard Bishop Fowler's sermon say that it was by far too realistic and was particularly affecting to those who were mourning recently deceased friends.

PHOEBE COUZINS NOT THERE.

She Plainly Shows That That Fiery Dynamite Simon is London Was Not Here.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Miss Phoebe Cousins, who succeeded her father in the office of United States marshal of the district of Missouri, and who is secretary of the board of lady managers of the World's Fair in Chicago, was in a cable message received from London last week accredited with having advocated the use of dynamite and other extreme measures in order to force upon the male community the just claims and rights of women in taking their places in the cable message. Another person making a claim to the office of secretary, but I am the officially recognized secretary and in receipt of the salary for the services of that office from the Government."

"German Syrup"

For Throat and Lungs

Hemorrhage "I have been ill for about five years, "have had the best medical advice, "and I took the first dose in some doubt. This result "ed in a few hours easy sleep. There "was no further hemorrhage till next "day, when I had a slight attack "which stopped almost immediately. "By the third day all trace of "blood had disappeared and I had "recovered much strength. The "fourth day I sat up in bed and ate "my dinner, the first solid food for "two months. Since that time I "have gradually gotten better and "am now able to move about the "house. My death was daily expected and my recovery has been "a great surprise to my friends and "the doctor. There can be no doubt "about the effect of German Syrup, "as I had an attack just previous to "its use. The only relief was after "the first dose." J. R. LOUGHEAD, "Melbourne, Australia."

We Believe

That a straight, honest business always turns out best in the end. A little money is sometimes made on catchy schemes and doubtful enterprises, but a permanent business can be built up and maintained only by square dealing. The process of getting rich is sometimes a little slow, but the result is usually gratifying. We have aimed for twelve years to give the best very low condition, and that his death might be expected at any time.

—The ADVERTISER is in receipt of a in the garden of Mr. E. Dutton, P.M., Wardville. This demonstrates the wonderfully mild nature of the weather this fall.

—The London Hunt Club had a pleasant cross-country run yesterday afternoon.
The turn-out was probably not up to the usual standard, but those who participated enjoyed a lively chase. There will be an-

—It seems to be generally accepted in Conservative circles that Mr. A. W. Ross,
M.P., will succeed Lieut.-Gov. Schultz, and inside of a few months will occupy the of East Williams, Middlesex county.

—A goodly number of amateurs have made entries for the flower show next are putting in many names. Those who

The funeral of the late John Pringle took place yesterday afternoon to the Scotch burying ground on St. James' street east.
It was largely attended. The deceased was a prominent member of the Eureka Lodge, I. O. O. F., and the fraternity attended the funeral. Rev. J. A. Murray conducted the religious services, and Bro.
J. Kirkpatrick, N. G., of Eureka Lodge, the Oddfellows' funeral service.

—A Gladstone correspondent writes:
"Three horses belonging to John Abbott, of the west half of lot No. 20, con. 5, died of poisoning one day last week. Two of the animals were 3 years old, and the other rising 2 years. A post-mortem of the case was held by C. Shain, of Belmont, and J. H. Wilson, of London, V.S., when poison was discovered. It is rumored that the case will be placed in the hands of a detective to ferret out the perpetrators of the act."

—There died at his home, near Newbury North, on Nov. 1, Daniel Mann, second son of the late Daniel Mann, of Yarmouth, in his 77th year. The deceased was brought up on lot 6, con. 9, Yarmouth, now of ward No. 6 in this city. His wife, three sons and three daughters survive him, also eight brothers. His brothers

John and Jehiel, Yarmouth; Charles and Gillington, this city; James, of London;
Harvey, of Detroit.—(St. Thomas Journal.)

—The Josie Mills Dramatic Company has disbanded, owing to poor business. Manager Charles Haystead, formerly of this city, arrived in Hamilton yesterday and will remain there until December. On Dec.
12 he will open again in St. John, N. B., with a small company. Mr. Haystead is considerably down on the show business just now, as the result of his hard luck.
"I've dropped $10,000 this season," he remarked to a couple of friends, "but I am going to give the show business another whirl. Not on such a big scale, though. I tried to make people believe there was money in a brass band, but they couldn't see it."

Thomas F. Boyle with non-payment of wages amounting to $14.50, was enlarged morning.

of vagrancy, was let go on suspended sentence.

The charge against Wm. Harris of having assaulted Ellen Summers was laid over

Ongedoe Hall Notes.

Hill vs. Miller.—N. W. Rowell, for the plaintiff, moved to continue an injunction.
E. R. Cameron (London) for the defendant Rogers, opposed the motion, and supported a cross motion to set aside an order of the master adding the defendant Rogers as a party. The latter motion only was argued. Judgment reserved.

Smith vs. Smith.—E. R. Cameron (London) for the Toronto General Trusts Company, moved on petition for the direction of the court as to the disposition of certain trust moneys in their hands. The action was brought by a brother against his sister for the recovery of a large sum of money. The defendant denied any liability, but by a consent judgment the sum of $1,000, less the costs of the action, was directed to be paid to the petitioners in trust to be paid out to the plaintiff in quarterly installments of $50 each. The judgment provided that the plaintiff should have no right or interest in the corpus and no power to anticipate or assign the payments. The plaintiff is now dead, and his widow claims the unpaid balance to recoup her for his funeral expenses and other necessary payments. Judgment reserved.

Ontario Cattle Are Healthy.
An Ottawa dispatch says: Dr. McEachren, chief Dominion veterinary inspector, denies the report that Canadian cattle exported to England were afflicted with pleuro-pneumonia. He returned to-day from a visit to London, Woodstock and Hamilton, from which localities the cattle were shipped, and was unable to discover any traces of disease among the herds.
He does not think the Imperial Government will prohibit the landing of Canadian live cattle in England.

London's Ex-Mayors.
Following are the names of the ex-mayors of London as a town or city who are still living:
Edward Adams, only mayor of London as a town, 1852 and 1853, now living in England.
Murray Anderson, first chief magistrate

DOWN AT SPRINGBANK.

The Twelfth Annual Bake of the London
Clam Bake Club a British success—Good Programme of Special Attractions.

The twelfth annual bake of the London
Clams took place on the big hill at Spring-bank yesterday afternoon, when about 300 persons partook of the Clams' hospitality.
If such a gathering were possible it was ahead of predecessors in point of fun and feed. As usual the weather was gloomy and showery, but the spirits of the Clams were waterproof. As each guest arrived he was received with merriment by the Clam band, and was then "registered," the regular ceremony on such occasions. He was then escorted to the dining-hall, where there was an abundance of eatables and drinkables. Chief Oratorical Clam Ed Griffith and Oratorical Clam Thos. Gillman were in charge of the programme which consisted among other things of a 1,000 yard race (fat women barred) for 100 shares in Ivey's new electric road; a jockey race for Mike Ward's boat; and a prohibition race for the drinking Clams. The special attractions were the landing of Columbus when he discovered America and the rescue of Clam Prelate J. McMartin from a noose which Indians were about to use.

All the clamorers took a little time to make the bake an artistic and gastronomic success and they were amply rewarded. They were Messrs. C. W. Davis, Jas. McMartin, H. Walsh, J. Collins, J. P. Evans, J. W.

KISSES OVER THE TELEPHONE.

Amusing Experiments on a Wire Between Sydney and Melbourne.

An amusing account is given by an Australian correspondent of some experiments in connection with long-distance telephony on the new copper wire between Sydney and Melbourne. The copper wire extended only as far as Albany, a distance of 336 miles, the remaining 190 miles being completed by an iron wire from Albany to Melbourne. The speaking to Albany was remarkably clear, voices being easily recognized, the speaking to Melbourne, though perfectly distinct, was, of course, fainter.

The Hunnings transmitter and double-pole bell receiver were used. Some indications of the results were obtained by the induction on the main lines from some of the railway telephone lines—telephones connected from signal box to signal box and station to station, etc., for railway working entirely, but very often used, especially on Sundays, when there is practically no traffic, for purposes of private conversation.
One conversation between a man and a girl was especially amusing. After a few preliminary passages of an interesting nature, the couple, unconscious of listeners, began "blowing kisses" to each other through the telephone, and afterward describing the effect it produced.

First was heard a girlish giggle, followed by a faint smacking sound, and then a shrill, treble voice, asking with keen solicude: "Did you get that one? Shall I send you another?" answered by a gruff bass, saying: "Wait a bit till I've recovered from the first one," and so on. The girl then sang "In Old Madrid," which came out remarkably clearly, and was as much appreciated, apparently, by the person for whom it was intended as the listeners on the free list.

BROUGHT TO A CLOSE.

The National W. C. T. U. Convention at Denver.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 3.—The first half of yesterday's morning session of the National W. C. T. U. convention was taken up in devotional exercises and the transaction of miscellaneous business. Among the reports submitted was that of Miss Jennie Smith, reporting on work among railroad employees, pleading for more workers in this line in local unions and more assistance in furthering her efforts.

The chief business of the afternoon session was the report of the committee on resolutions. They pledge the moral support of the union to that political party which declares for the home against the saloon, for the enfranchisement of women and for the preservation of the American Sunday. The following resolutions were adopted:

"That it is the sense of this body that our national Congress should at as early a date as practicable, make a thorough investigation of the entire liquor traffic of the United States and ascertain and officially publish the amount manufactured, imported and consumed annually; and the per cent. of poverty, ignorance, crime, insolvency, disease and death resulting from the use of intoxicants.

"That the crown of citizenship should not be placed upon foreigners until they have a thorough knowledge of our laws and institutions, and that a uniform national naturalization law be placed upon our statute books.

"Whereas, a strong effort has been and is still being made to have the gates of the Columbian Exposition opened on Sunday, and

"Whereas, we believe that to open any part of the exhibition on that day would establish a precedent, the tendency of which would be to break down our Sunday laws all over the country, and bring to us a continental Sunday, with all its demoralizing influences, therefore,

"Resolved, that we are grateful for the action of our national Congress in ordering the gates to be closed upon the first day of the week, and we trust no contrary action may be taken.

Resolutions were also passed protesting against liquor being sold on the exposition grounds; against the tobacco and cigarette habit; and approving the movement to prevent the wearing of long skirts on the street. The other resolutions were of an unimportant nature.

Shares in the publishing society were placed on sale at $25, and several thousand dollars subscribed in a very few minutes.
The balance of the afternoon session was taken up in discussions in the serial and legal departments.

The evening session consisted of addresses by delegates on social subjects, and the convention was brought to a close.
