

MOVEMENT FOR COMPLETE REORGANIZATION OF THE LONDON LABOR PARTY

Find At Delaware Interests New York Scientists

LOCAL LEADERS FAVOR ORGANIZING LABOR FOR NEXT BATTLE AT POLLS

Movement For Complete Reorganization of the London Labor Party Will Be Launched at Its Next Meeting—Defeat of Dr. Stevenson But Temporary Setback, Is Claim of Leaders.

WILL GET READY NOW FOR MUNICIPAL FIGHT

"Keep the radical element out of the local Central Labor body," warns D. J. Tallant, treasurer of No. 1 Branch of the London Labor Party, who senses the need for a complete and immediate reorganization of the party.

The Labor party and its candidates, not only in London, but throughout the province, had to suffer for the sins of the Drury government, declares Treasurer Tallant, who just prior to the election raised his voice in protest against any further alignment with the United Farmer movement.

Mr. Tallant does not consider, in view of this, that the elimination of several Labor members from the legislature can be characterized as a black eye for the movement in the true sense of the word, and he believes that a new party will rise from the wreckage of the recent political shambles.

"We should not quit now," he said today. "In fact, we should redouble our efforts and go back into the fight without a moment's delay. We should organize anew, and if no one else takes up this phase of our local situation at our next meeting, I will."

Prepare For Next Fight.

"We should prepare at once for the next municipal election. If the workers will organize again, in spite of the recent defeat, and I know they will, we should elect a goodly number of councillors at the next municipal election, in addition to the two excellent representatives we now have there."

Treasurer Tallant points a finger of warning to his associates, however, and tells them to exercise every caution that the right type of men are called upon to lead the party in the Central Labor body. We must always be careful that the so-called radical element does not gain the control.

Mr. Tallant assures that he will urge at the next meeting for an immediate reorganization in preparation for the next municipal election, and for the good of the movement generally.

Sees No Radicals.

Ald. Frank McKay is another to declare that the Labor movement is far removed from the "down and out" class, either in London or throughout the province.

He fails to discern any "radical" element at the Labor Temple, however. "I don't believe there is any dangerous radical element in the party," he says, "and as far as reorganization, as suggested by Delegate Tallant, I contend that we have a well-balanced organization now."

Ald. McKay feels that Dr. Stevenson's defeat can be attributed chiefly to the fact that several thousand people did not vote who apparently voted in 1919. He believes that the Labor party did not vote in substantial numbers.

Discussing the defeat of the U. F. O. Labor administration generally.

Ald. McKay suggests that likely as not hundreds of former Conservatives in the U. F. O. movement were driven back to the Tory standard by Drury's "broadening out" policy, and his "flirting" with the Liberal party. But like Delegate Tallant, Ald. McKay predicts that the political Labor movement will come back strong, and has only encountered a temporary setback.

ROTARIANS DESERT CITY FOR PORT.

Rotarians left city affairs to themselves yesterday to adorn the beach at Port Stanley. The public utilities building was forced to manage for a day without the two gentlemen smiling in the foreground, E. V. Buchanan, manager of the public utilities committee, and "Bill" Blay, sales manager of the Hydro Shop. To judge from the profile, at the rear of the view, "Russ" Taggart, the American consul, is hugely enjoying himself beside Canadian waters.

PROVES PRISONER IS NOT MURDERER WITH SCOPOLAMIN

Alkaloid Used in Tests Made in St. Quentin Prison.

ADMITS CRIMES

Associated Press Despatch. San Quentin, Cal., June 27.—Scopolamin, an alkaloid, was used in experiments on three inmates of San Quentin here yesterday, and John J. Farrar, convicted of the murder of a Chinese in Sacramento, was proved innocent. Eugene O'Leary, sentenced from Sacramento on a grand larceny charge, provided authorities with information as to his identity; John L. Johnson, negro, admitted his guilt and confessed to participation in other crimes, according to the experiments. Dr. R. E. House of Fort, Texas, conducted the experiments before several prison officials and criminal investigators. Dr. House declared the scopolamin rendered the subject incapable of mental inhibition, and deprived them of reasoning power, so that they were incapable of lying while under its influence. Other faculties, however, remained intact, he said.

BROADENING OUT MIGHT HAVE SAVED FARMERS' PARTY

Quebec's Minister of Agriculture Comments on Election.

BLAMES MORRISON

Special to The Advertiser. Quebec, Que., June 27.—"The farmers' party has received a blow which means its end," stated Hon. J. E. Caron, minister of agriculture of the province, this morning on commenting on the results of the Ontario election. "I am not surprised by the results," added the minister of agriculture. "I expected that landslide because the policy advocated by Mr. Morrison did not seem to be the best one to be followed. Mr. Drury had shown a desire to enlarge the lines of his party and if such had been the case I believe the party would have been elected. The extremists in Ontario are responsible for the placing at the head of the administration of that province a man who has been very much attacked and who has as far as the French Canadians are concerned certainly sympathetic judging by his utterances against them, now the farmers and Liberals will likely unite. As to the effect on the federal progressive party Hon. Mr. Caron stated: 'The Ontario results will likely affect the federal party, which though not having the same program is based on the same system in the province of Quebec, the defeat of the farmers' party in Ontario should have a good effect, and will teach farmers that they must remain attached to the old party, and start organizing in this province. Hon. Mr. Caron stated that it was still wise to wait for the Ontario election to see the common sense of the farmers of this province there was little fear to be entertained.'

STATE GANG'S SINGING CAUSES ANNOYANCE

Stanley Street Residents Protest Against Noise Made During Night.

A number of Stanley street residents have lodged complaint against the singing of men engaged in paving the street car tracks, alleging that in the early hours of the morning the men proceed to proclaim to the world at large their vocal ability. While the residents admit that it is necessary to work at night, they feel they can retire to bed with ease if the men will only refrain from exercising their vocal organs. The work of paving the London Street Railway's share of the road is rapidly nearing completion, and it will only be a week or more till the street is open to traffic.

WINDSTORM PLAYS PRANKS WITH CALF AND CHICKENS

Special to The Advertiser. Sayre, Pa., June 27.—A calf was whirled into the air, did a nose dive or two, and landed while attempting a tail spin during the storm that swept through the farming section north of here late yesterday. Chickens were swept from their feet and blown so far away they had not returned this morning.

QUEBEC RAILROAD CUTS ITS CHARGES ON FREIGHT

Canadian Press Despatch. Montreal, June 27.—For the first time on record, at any rate, within the past few years, the Canadian railway has this week voluntarily made a reduction in its freight rates. This unusual course has been taken by the Quebec and Montreal Southern Railway, which has issued circulars announcing a straight reduction of 25 per cent on all freight carried on its lines.

Want U.S. Three-Mile Limit Extended In Liquor Fight

National Dry Leaders Determined To Expend League's Annual Income of $2,000,000 in Effort To Gain Prohibition.

Special to The Advertiser. Westerville, Ohio, June 27.—Demands that President Harding wield the full force of the army and navy against liquor law violations were made in resolutions placed before the $2,000,000 war council of national dry leaders here today.

The league's general counsel, Wayne B. Wheeler, presented historical evidence intended to show the three-mile limit is out of date. His version is that the imaginary line three miles from shore was drawn in the eighteenth century on the basis of the distance coast defense cannon of that day would shoot. Every dollar of the league's annual income of approximately $2,000,000 will be thrown into the war on prohibition repealers. P. A. Baker, general superintendent, declared today. "Prohibition today is purely theoretical," said Baker. "Our campaign is to make it a reality. It may be 1930 before America is strictly dry, but we are prepared to hold out as long as there is opposition."

Baker scored Canadian drys for "permitting Manitoba to vote wet and the wet trend in the election in Ontario."

MANY OLD BOYS ARRIVE ALREADY FOR CITY REUNION

Association Secretary Estimates 45,000 Will Attend the Festive Gathering.

PLAN FOR MOTORISTS

Business Concerns Offer Co-operation To Make Event Unprecedented Success.

In anticipation of London Old Boys' Reunion to be held here during the first week of August a number of former citizens have already arrived in the city for the event.

Ed Smith, secretary of the Old Boys' Association, was accosted by several ex-Londoners on the street this morning who told him they had come to town in answer to his invitation to be present for the great carnival.

Mr. Smith declared today there would be a minimum of 45,000 persons in the city from August 4 to 12, the week of the big celebration. This will swell the population to well over 100,000. The majority of the tourists will be billeted in local homes and, of course, local hotels will be crammed. Provision is being made to accommodate hundreds of summer tourists who will bring tents and housing equipment in their motor cars. Wonderland will be the site of the tourists' camp. Every conceivable thing will be supplied them by the city in co-operation with the Old Boys' Association.

Twelve thousand official announcements were printed today, giving information on tentative plans already arranged by the executive. These will be broadcast over the city on July 1.

Complete Co-operation.

Business concerns of the city have written to the secretary assuring him of every assistance in decorating London for the occasion. Streamers and flags will be draped from buildings to building along with purple and gold bunting, the colors of the Old Boys.

Tomorrow evening the executive will meet at the city hall, 7:30 o'clock. This will be followed by a meeting of the general committee to which the public is cordially invited. All citizens may have a voice in the proceedings by becoming members of the association upon payment of a small nominal fee. Estimates will be presented at this meeting and ways and means of financing the union discussed. Ten to fifteen thousand dollars will be required to defray the cost of the event, and officials expect this sum will be easily obtained.

A new feature of the seven-day program is the athletic program. Handsome prizes for the most artistic floats will be awarded. Numerous industrial and business concerns have applied for permission to participate in the parade and competition.

Extensive Boxing Program.

In addition to holding the amateur championship boxing bouts here during the week, it is probable that noted American tennis players will demonstrate their wizardry with the racket on the courts of the London Tennis Club. A baseball game between the local team and one of the big league nines may also be included in the athletic program. The extensive boxing program is another feature that will add zest and fun to the festival.

Application has been made for permission to hold a "military day" on August 11. It is expected that Brigadier-General King will give consent readily. The executive plans to hold a parade of all veterans in the city, including old-timers who volunteered for service in '18.

STORM CAUSES LOSS TO FARMERS OF PEEL

Great Damage Reported by Barns Collapsing in Monday's Cyclone.

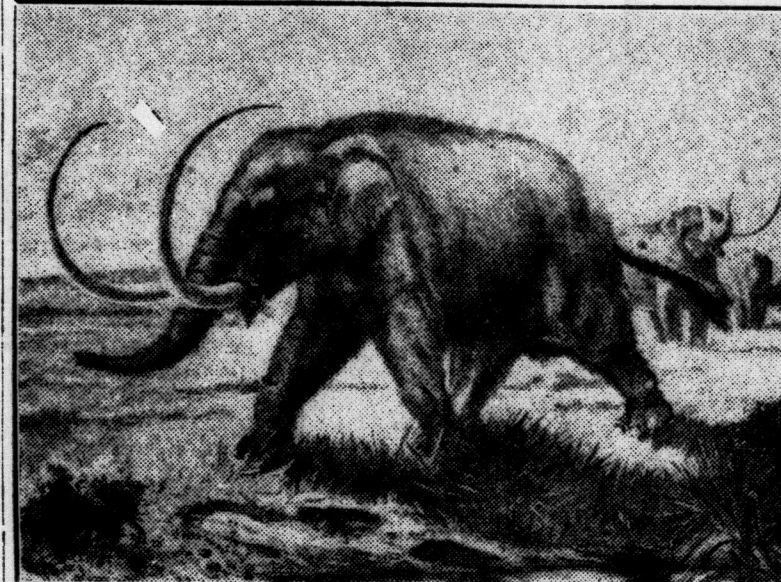

Special to The Advertiser. Brampton, Ont., June 27.—With the re-establishment of the telephone service, word is coming in from outlying districts of Peel as to the extent of the damage from Monday night's storm. The Meadowdale district suffered some $75,000 loss in barns demolished, trees uprooted, and general damage.

Definite reports cannot be secured from Cheltenham, but it is thought the total damage there will be in the neighborhood of $150,000. The barns of this section are among the finest in Peel, and it is believed from scattered reports that in all about thirty barns have suffered to a certain extent.

If the wind had followed the rain, the damage would have been less, but everything was so dried out with the intense heat of the preceding week that timbers came apart with the first impact of the storm.

ORDERS U. S. RAILROADS TO REDUCE GRAIN RATES

Associated Press Despatch. Washington, June 27.—Railroads are ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to reduce tolls 10 cents per 100 pounds on or before September 20, the rate on wheat moving from Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mo., to Duluth and Minneapolis, in transit at Minneapolis.

THE DELAWARE MASTODON WHEN "PEEVED."

Here's the way the Mastodon Americanus went after his enemies in the good old days. Thirty thousand years ago he was some pumpkin as a heavyweight. A few days ago a Delaware farmer found what have been pronounced the bones of an animal of this type, and they are being washed up at the Western University so that the people of today can look at them in a glass case. He was the original Tammany boss, and when he stamped something broke loose. In his day he was called the "Fighting Cyclone," but nowadays he is known as the Mastodon Americanus, and scientists all over the world are comparing the measurements of his bones and the size of his teeth.

City May Become Mecca of Scientists Following Delaware Mastodon Find

Prof. Robertson Will Have Skeleton Reconstructed From Bones Already Found—Western University Museum Will House It.

A valuable addition to the cumulative evidence of evolution is represented in the discovery of the Delaware mastodon remains, according to Professor A. D. Robertson, chief of the zoological department of the University of Western Ontario.

Within recent years, the Darwinian theory of the descent of man has been generally accepted. Professor Robertson declared, but the finding of the tusks, jaw, teeth, vertebrae and other bones of a prehistoric elephant by William Jones last week, constitutes one more link in the chain of evidence.

All parts found of the immense skeleton, with one exception, were taken by Professor Robertson for the university. Mr. Jones, who found the first two teeth and pieces of tusk, kept one of the molars of the animal for the purpose of exhibiting it to his friends and relatives. Later, however, it is anticipated that Mr. Jones will readily hand over the remaining part for academic demonstration at the college.

According to a report from New York City today, anthropologists at the American Museum of Natural History declared the discovery of bones of a mastodon on an Ontario farm would be of great scientific interest if the entire skeleton were found, although scattered bones have been unearthed in various parts of Southern Canada and Northern New York.

Will Be Reconstructed.

If plans of Professor Robertson materialize, the skeleton will be re-constructed. At first he did not believe the skeleton was complete, but upon consultation with J. W. Russell of the department of geology, it was decided the frame could be built.

With the use of a chemical solution of glue and other materials, the bones will be put together. Turn to Page 2, Columns 6 and 7.

RESULTS FROM ALGOMA STILL MUCH IN DOUBT

Liberal and Conservative Candidates Both Claim Victory by Half Dozen Votes.

Canadian Press Despatch. Sault Ste. Marie, June 27.—Dr. A. G. Wallis, Liberal, this morning claims Algoma riding by seven and Dr. J. M. Robb, Conservative, claims it by six. All polls have been heard from, but the exact figures are uncertain, as corrections from the returns collected by telephone are being made as the returning officers' papers come in.

TURKISH NEWSPAPERS ATTACK ALLIED STAND

Adopt Menacing Tone Claiming Time to End Lausanne Conference.

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. Special Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News, Copyright. Constantinople, June 27.—The allies are again under the fire of the Turkish press, which, since Monday, has been instructed to adopt a warlike and menacing tone. All are unanimous that the conference has lasted long enough, and Hakimett Mills, Mustafa Kemal's personal newspaper says: "Our patience has come to an end. If we do not have positive results before the end of the week, Ismet Pasha and other Turkish delegates must leave Lausanne without further delay."

It is officially announced that the cabinet council has telegraphed Ismet Pasha to settle the matter. The allies accept the Turkish point of view regarding the refunding of the pre-war debts and the evacuation of Constantinople.

DO YOU KNOW HIM? This is Charles Brown, who claims London as his home, and was sentenced by a Michigan judge to fifteen years in the penitentiary for robbery with violence. Brown told the police who arrested him that he lived at 467 Taibot street, London. There is no such number.

BODY IS EXHUMED OF RAUL DELORME TO FIND BULLETS

Action Taken To Determine Calibre of All Shots Fired.

CALL ATTENDANT

Question Condition of Remains of Victim When Discovered.

Canadian Press Despatch. Montreal, June 27.—The body of Raul Delorme has been exhumed from the Delorme family vault in Cote de Nogues Cemetery.

Crown Prosecutor Calder announced that the body had been exhumed when the trial of Abbe Delorme was reopened this morning.

The members of the jury who yesterday looked a little jaded after their long incarceration in the close atmosphere of the courtroom, were taken for a four-hour automobile ride last night, and today appeared refreshed.

Making his announcement that young Delorme's body would be exhumed, Mr. Calder said: "Yesterday the question arose as to the number of bullets fired and the calibre of each. I immediately got in touch with the attorney-general, and he has issued an order of exhumation. The body will be exhumed and examined."

Defence May Attend.

"If the defence wishes it can have a medical man attend the examination, which will be for the purpose of removing the bullets from the body."

Examination of Dr. McTaggart was resumed by Mr. Calder. The doctor said one of the shots which hit young Delorme hit right above the adam's apple, and the shock of which, Dr. McTaggart said, would have been sufficient to cause death.

C. H. Cahane, K.C., counsel for the defence, recalled the evidence of the morgue attendant, who said when he removed the clothes from the body the arms moved easily. He asked what that proved.

Indicates Two Things.

The witness said that might indicate two things—either that rigor was not complete or that it had passed away. The time for appearance and disappearance varied, and to his mind played but very little part in estimating the time of death.

His Lordship—"There is no fixed rule."

Dr. McTaggart—"There is one fixed rule, and that is that rigor mortis takes place very rapidly. It disappears likewise and vice versa."

Mr. Cahane asked: "If the body of Raul Delorme were placed at Snowdon Junction soon after his death in a temperature varying, say from 3 to 6 degrees above zero, or from 2 to 5, I have forgotten the number, not the low temperature prevent rigor mortis from setting in?"

The witness—"Yes."

SUGGEST HOSPITALS AS HELP TO MOTHER

N. C. W. Association Considers Maternity Legislation at Convention.

Special to The Advertiser. Halifax, N.S., June 27.—The field of employment for women, both public and domestic, came in for a share of attention from the National Council of Women, as did the overwhelming problem of midwifery and maternity legislation.

Mrs. Adam Shortt will head a committee composed of the heads of nursing bodies and lay members of the council to discover how the National Council of Women can move effectively to assist with the reduction of a 50 per cent attendance of midwives at childbirth in Canada at the present time.

Small hospitals such as those established in the outposts by the Canadian Red Cross were pointed to as the most practical solution to date. Some international suggestions for the protection of women in the industrial world and that women be restricted from night work were put down. The only special protection, apart from the general betterment of conditions for both men and women, endorsed by the national council is for mothers.

RUSSIA PLANS TO FORM GERMAN-BALTIC ALLIANCE

By GEORGE WITTE.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News, Copyright. Berlin, June 27.—That a conference to discuss the formation of a Russo-German-Baltic alliance will be called soon and held in one of the Baltic states became known today. The idea originated in Moscow where it is felt such an alliance is absolutely vital to both Germany and Russia and will be all the more powerful if Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, themselves in need of protection, were linked to the two large great powers.

CITY BUILDING PERMITS SOAR TO NEW RECORD

Month's Total of $520,525 Beats June, 1922, With $317,100.

It's a busy, bustling, building London during 1923, according to the number of building and alteration permits issued at the city hall. The first half-yearly 1922 record has been easily smashed already.

Since June 1, as an instance, 198 permits have been issued, for building estimated at a cost of $520,525, as compared with $317,100 during June, 1922.

The 1923 total building expenditure to date has reached a total of $1,849,415, which compares quite favorably with $1,366,325 for the first six months of last year.

Assessment Commissioner Bennett reports continuing real estate transactions, which augurs well for the future, and is an unfailing signal that the city is practically back to normal.

BLAME THIRST FOR OUTRAGE BY CHINESE BRIGANDS

EXPECT SIDNEY MURRELL IN LONDON IN FOUR WEEKS

"PORT" PROMISES THRILL A MINUTE ON DOMINION DAY

Big Program For Visitors On Summer's Most Popular Holiday.

EVERYTHING READY

Port Stanley, June 27.—For the majority of Londoners, Dominion Day really forms the opening of the season at Port Stanley. Throughout the month of June the resort has been in full swing for cottagers and week-enders, but the greater part of the citizens will be eager to take advantage of the public holiday for their first trip this season to Port.

The excellence of the Dominion Day program, recently announced, leaves little doubt that if weather conditions are at all sympathetic on the first the 1923 crowd should be a record. Port Stanley, with its constant quota of improvements, is in a finer shape for visitors this season than ever before.

The first-class accommodation of the London & Port Stanley Railway Company's facilities for recreation has been augmented in every way possible.

In addition to the opportunities afforded by the bath-house, the L. & P. S. cafeteria with its excellent cuisine, and the picnic park and Japanese tea-house on Inverleigh Heights, the day will be enriched by a long and varied program of sports, two famous bands, the G. W. V. A. and First Hussars, in attendance, free moving pictures and community singing, with at night a triumphant climax of gorgeous fireworks.

Daylight fireworks, with prize scattering bomb-shells, are but one of the special features which Dominion Day will disclose.

A thrill has been provided for every minute of the day. The 1923 program will be unique in its excellence. Acclamations are heard from all over the province that the city of London has such a splendid means of recreation at hand.

The prizes offered for the sports will be an outstanding feature of the day. The commencement of baby show sweepstakes will be held, with a prize of $500 to be awarded on Labor Day, the conclusion of the season.

For Dominion Day winners there will be a silver cup given. All children winning first prizes will be eligible for the sweepstakes prize of $500 which is to be given by the Northern Life Insurance Company of London. By this award, the winner, on reaching 20 years of age, will be given the sum of $500 in cash and until that time will be covered by a fully paid insurance policy of $500.

A promising innovation in connection with the popular community singing which accompanies the free moving pictures on the board walk is the fact that Don Linden of Toronto has been secured as the leader. Mr. Linden secured an enviable reputation in this line of work at the recent musical festival held in Toronto, when his work as song leader was most favorably commented upon by the leading Toronto newspapers and musical critics. Under his inspiring presence, the community singing promises to be an unusual success.

There will be the customary excellent picture program, together with the popular L. & P. S. facilities are preparing to handle a record crowd.

POINTS OUT SURPLUS PAID TO CITY COUNCIL

Alderman McKay Replies to Question Brought Forward by Mayor Wenige.

Mayor Wenige has asked for proof that the waterworks department has ever paid over cash surpluses to the city council.

Ald. Frank McKay refers to his worship to the general manager's report, Dec. 31, 1921, which reads: "After paying all the charges there is a net surplus of $34,723.56, of which $15,044.45 was applied on capital account, and the balance of $19,679.11 was handed over to the city council for the reduction of the general tax rate."

Turning to page 41 of the 43rd annual report of the public utilities commission, Ald. McKay states that while the waterworks department showed deficits from 1880 to 1889, substantial surpluses were yielded from 1889 until the present, excluding 1913 and 1919. These figures speak for themselves and defy argument, he maintains.

There was certainly nothing mysterious about the affair, he insists.

Obituaries

MRS. MARY A. HARRISON.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Ann Harrison, who died in this city on Sunday last, will be held at her late home of her son, T. G. Harrison, 117 Colborne street. Service at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. R. G. McCormick, of Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church, and interment took place at Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Six grandsons of the deceased acted as pallbearers.

Annual SummerHobo Crop Fully Up To the Average

"Rod-Riders" Arriving in London at the Rate of Half a Dozen a Day—Halfway House Between Toronto and Detroit.

"Hark, hark, the dogs do bark. The vagrants are coming to town." The above lines might have been written to apply to this city, had it been founded when they were penned judging from recent police court sessions.

Within the past two weeks not one day has passed but men and boys charged with vagrancy have appeared in the local police court. Some have been on their way to Windsor and Detroit in search of work, others have been beating their way away from the border disgusted.

This morning three youths of 18, claiming Windsor as their home, appeared before Magistrate Graydon charged with being without visible means of support. They were picked up on Dundas street at 5 a.m., after having beat their way here and told the court they were going to try and find a job in this city. Failing this they would try Hamilton. They admitted having nine dollars between them. On informing the court that they had parents in Windsor, remarks to that effect for a week pending investigations. Their relatives will be communicated with.

London, being half way between Toronto and the border seems to be the stopping place of all those who are without sufficient means to pay their fare to either place, although some of those brought into court have more than sufficient money but do not wish to spend it. That this is false economy was emphasized by the fact that one of the boys, a fine three youth, who had come to town on a freight, $10 and costs. Between the three they had $60 but they were told that this had dwindled to between $20 and $30.

DAUGHTER ATTEMPTS BREAK MOTHER'S WILL

Interesting Action Before Judge Macbeth at Summer Assizes.

A case in which the defendant is really the plaintiff opened before His Honor Judge Talbot Macbeth, when the summer assizes were continued this morning.

Although the statement of claim reads Turner vs. Patterson, it is Mrs. Amy Patterson who is seeking to set aside a will made by her mother, Mrs. Mary Turner, while Peter Turner is trying to uphold it.

The will deals with an estate of about $1,200 all left to Peter Turner when his mother died in October, 1921.

Mrs. Patterson claims that her mother was not competent to make the will, dated February, 1919, and as she is executor of a previous testament, she asks the later one be set aside.

According to the evidence for the plaintiff, Mrs. Turner desired that her estate be left to Peter Turner, owing to the fact that he had supported her in her old age. She did not get on well with other members of the family, it is said. Herbert Turner, another son, had also been in the money until he got married. The case is continuing this afternoon.

J. M. McEvoy and E. H. Johnston are acting for Mrs. Patterson, and Loftus E. Dancy for Mr. Turner.

ADVERTISING CLUB HOLDS BIG FROLIC AT SPRINGBANK

Members of City Organization Motors to Riverside Park For Festivities.

INFORMAL AFFAIR

This is the day of the Advertising Club picnic at Springbank. This is the day when the designers of commercial art and attractive copy forsake the lure of the sales appeal and revel in the stronger appeal of nature.

Down at Springbank all the writers and artists and kings of the milline and actline, under the leadership of their gallant president, Peter Glen, who was elected a few weeks ago, will forget all about publicity and for one afternoon at least be really natural and devoid of all ulterior motives in the way of story and picture and personality.

Really Young Club. The London Advertising Club, one of the really young clubs in the city, not so much in age as in spirit, always has an enjoyable picnic. The baseball teams make it snappy and interesting, the entrants in all the races, whether for grown-ups or for the children, take their amateur status seriously and run as for a prize, mightily. Just as they take their winter dinners with vim, energy and enthusiasm, so they make the welkin ring with their songs and sportive cheers. Most of the members of the club will be present today, though Tom Yull, one of the peppiest of the peppy when it comes to an outing of this kind, is away on business.

Some twenty or thirty cars are expected to start at 2 o'clock from the corner of Queen's and Richmond. Supper will be provided by a London caterer at the park, and the advertisers will come home in the evening in the form of a 100 per cent perfect advertisement for the benefit of the club, which is London's finest picnic on the nerves of the family in these busy days.

This is not one of those very formal affairs where they have a regular program drawn up just as if it were a show. Not a bit. These clubmen just go ahead and do anything in the way of stunts and contests that appeals to them, and they are not the least bothered by any set form or hide-bound tradition. If they think leaping the best thing on a cool day, then they'll leap; if they come to the conclusion that a sack race is the correct thing, then a sack race it will be; or should these exuberant clubmen who spend the rest of the year juggling with advertising appropriations and wonderful color schemes that will tickle the palate and touch the pocket, believe that climbing a tall tree with a robin's egg in one's mouth is perhaps the most thrilling thing in the world then up they go, and no staid, ultra-respectable member or any other club is going to stop them.

More Primitive Life. At 2 o'clock they start from London, at 7 or 8 or 9 they will presumably get back, and in between these times Springbank will produce its share of home runs and base slides, and by chance one or two really neat and artistic fails. The amusement park wide awake from the scintillating rays of the heroes whose national anthem is "Old MacDonald had a Farm," and the evening will close, though it cannot dim the radiance of the Advertising Club picnic.

DENIES ANY MYSTERY IN TALK ON SALARIES

Assessment Commissioner Declares "Caucus" Was Entirely Informal Meeting.

Just who attended a supposed "salary caucus" at the city hall during recent weeks and what they said is causing about as much speculation as the "caucus" itself. The "caucus" was held in the Ontario legislature.

As a matter of fact, while much has been said and written, and charges and counter-charges have been the order of the day, it is no great secret who was present.

"I was there," Assessment Commissioner Harry Bennett declared quite frankly today. "And the city auditor and the city engineer were also there."

The commissioner states, as was known before, that while possibly it was primarily intended that the meeting would take the form of an informal talk upon the wage question, many questions of general interest were discussed by the mayor and the three department heads, who responded to the notice.

"We discussed different matters," the commissioner explained today freely, as there was nothing to hide, although the conference was purely of a domestic nature and not a "caucus" in the real sense of the word.

"Salaries were discussed," he explained further, "but not exactly from a point of interest, however. We discussed salaries and wages that have been paid in the past."

"I can say this, however, that I did not hear the mayor say anything about recommending me for a $200 increase. I know that he did not mention anything like that or there would surely have been some discussion."

Mayor Wenige maintains strenuously that the gathering was not a caucus within the meaning of the word. He merely called a meeting of city officials to discuss questions of common concern as the head of any business firm could be expected to do every day.

There was certainly nothing mysterious about the affair, he insists.

Obituaries

MRS. MARY A. HARRISON.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Ann Harrison, who died in this city on Sunday last, will be held at her late home of her son, T. G. Harrison, 117 Colborne street. Service at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. R. G. McCormick, of Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church, and interment took place at Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Six grandsons of the deceased acted as pallbearers.

ADVERTISING CLUB HOLDS BIG FROLIC AT SPRINGBANK

Members of City Organization Motors to Riverside Park For Festivities.

INFORMAL AFFAIR

This is the day of the Advertising Club picnic at Springbank. This is the day when the designers of commercial art and attractive copy forsake the lure of the sales appeal and revel in the stronger appeal of nature.

Down at Springbank all the writers and artists and kings of the milline and actline, under the leadership of their gallant president, Peter Glen, who was elected a few weeks ago, will forget all about publicity and for one afternoon at least be really natural and devoid of all ulterior motives in the way of story and picture and personality.

Really Young Club. The London Advertising Club, one of the really young clubs in the city, not so much in age as in spirit, always has an enjoyable picnic. The baseball teams make it snappy and interesting, the entrants in all the races, whether for grown-ups or for the children, take their amateur status seriously and run as for a prize, mightily. Just as they take their winter dinners with vim, energy and enthusiasm, so they make the welkin ring with their songs and sportive cheers. Most of the members of the club will be present today, though Tom Yull, one of the peppiest of the peppy when it comes to an outing of this kind, is away on business.

Some twenty or thirty cars are expected to start at 2 o'clock from the corner of Queen's and Richmond. Supper will be provided by a London caterer at the park, and the advertisers will come home in the evening in the form of a 100 per cent perfect advertisement for the benefit of the club, which is London's finest picnic on the nerves of the family in these busy days.

This is not one of those very formal affairs where they have a regular program drawn up just as if it were a show. Not a bit. These clubmen just go ahead and do anything in the way of stunts and contests that appeals to them, and they are not the least bothered by any set form or hide-bound tradition. If they think leaping the best thing on a cool day, then they'll leap; if they come to the conclusion that a sack race is the correct thing, then a sack race it will be; or should these exuberant clubmen who spend the rest of the year juggling with advertising appropriations and wonderful color schemes that will tickle the palate and touch the pocket, believe that climbing a tall tree with a robin's egg in one's mouth is perhaps the most thrilling thing in the world then up they go, and no staid, ultra-respectable member or any other club is going to stop them.

More Primitive Life. At 2 o'clock they start from London, at 7 or 8 or 9 they will presumably get back, and in between these times Springbank will produce its share of home runs and base slides, and by chance one or two really neat and artistic fails. The amusement park wide awake from the scintillating rays of the heroes whose national anthem is "Old MacDonald had a Farm," and the evening will close, though it cannot dim the radiance of the Advertising Club picnic.

Governor Dawson stated this morning that he was not at liberty to discuss whether any extra precautions would be taken or preparations made for the housing of Murrell.

"It is against regulations of the department," the governor told The Advertiser, "but as it is the business of a jailer to look after the prisoners, I will not say anything about their records and character, you may rest assured that good care will be taken of Sidney Murrell."

Mr. Murrell, who was assigned to him before his trial, queried the reporter.

"It is possible, but I can't tell you. Of course, after the trial and the found guilty, there will be the death watch which will never leave him, but until he is sentenced, I am afraid that I cannot say anything about him."

Asked what he thought of the statement that Murrell had found some hidden in the ceiling of the cell in which he was confined, Governor Dawson said that he thought "Will Murrell had obtained them and hid them in the ceiling without saying anything to his jailers."

"You know, those bars were saved in daylight," he said, "and I can quite believe that he took them six weeks ago, during the day, and they were allowed to walk in the wards which open on the outside, but at night they are confined to the cells, which have no exterior windows."

"You can say this," he added, "that there will not be much chance of him making a second escape, whether he receives outside assistance or not."

C. BROWN NOT KNOWN AS LONDON RESIDENT

Negro Sentenced to 15 Years in Penitentiary Not Known to City Police.

Charles Brown, negro, who was sentenced last week in Detroit for robbery with violence, gave his address as 467 Talbot street, London, Ont. He also stated that his mother, Mrs. Victoria Williams, is living at that address.

Inquiries in the neighborhood and a search for his address disclosed that no such family live in that neighborhood and the number itself does not exist.

Talbot between the numbers 462 and 475. The colored section was visited and its residents apparently know nothing of Brown or his mother.

When the matter was brought to the attention of Chief of Police Birrell, he said that as far as he knew, Brown has never been convicted in this city, and they know nothing of his character or whereabouts. "The address is evidently a fictitious one," he said. "I have no recollection of having heard of the man before."

Brown, who was given fifteen years in the state penitentiary for armed assault and robbery, in which he stole 12 cents from the farm, was found to be the value of $0.1275 in American money, is described as being over middle height, and his age as 23 years.

Several of the colored community said that they have known Brown who had left this city for Detroit and some by that name who answer to his description, but a Charles Brown, who gives Mrs. Victoria Williams as his mother, is evidently not known to the colored folks or the police officials.

EXPECT MURRELL BE BROUGHT HERE ON JULY 21

Authorities Estimate Time Required To Carry Out the Extradition Order.

MAY ENTER APPEAL

Sidney Murrell will be back in Middlesex County jail by July 21. Local authorities state, after having been at liberty for almost two years, during which time no trace of either he or his brother William, both wanted here for murder, could be found.

With the recommendation of Immigration Commissioner Krull of San Francisco, that Murrell be extradited and returned to London to stand trial on serious charges, made at the hearing in the coast city last Saturday, all doubt as to whether the slaying of Russell Campbell, Melbourne, would go unavenged by the law, is over. Murrell will be brought back here and put on trial for his life.

Crown Attorney J. C. Elliott stated this morning that although Murrell would be allowed 15 days in which to enter an appeal against the decision of the U. S. court, there was not much chance of an appeal being granted, due to the conclusiveness of the evidence submitted by the British consul and Murrell's own admissions. One phase of the evidence, relating with a statement of the wanted man is alone sufficient for any appeal being refused.

Admits Guilt. Murrell admitted that he was present at the robbery, and was one of the party committing it, during which Russell Campbell was shot, while defending the money of the bank at Melbourne. With this admission, neither he fired the fatal shot nor, he becomes liable to a charge of murder, and if it is proved that he, although not firing the bullet, was connected with the affair, he is, according to British law, equally guilty of the crime, and must face the gallows.

Mr. Elliott stated that the matter of sending the recommended Murrell to Washington, to the secretary of state, was merely a formality carried out in all such cases, and would not affect the decision of the court in any way. Murrell will be returned, and the only thing now in doubt is the date on which he will be handed over to the Canadian officers.

With fifteen days allowed for an appeal, this would make the probable date about July 10. The officers, however, according to the report received this morning, will not leave before July 7 for San Francisco, and therefore, the date is more likely to be about July 14. Allowing another six days for the return trip, Murrell should arrive in London July 20, and be safely lodged in the jail on July 21.

Scientists May Come Here To Examine Delaware Relic

remains will be made impervious to disintegration. The tusks will probably be given a coat of enamel, and the reconstructed animal will be one of the finest antediluvian relics on the continent.

The "mastodon Americans" became extinct some 30,000 years ago owing to unfavorable changes in climate. It lived during the Pleistocene or Glacial period, when primitive man first appeared on earth. The beast had long, pointed, curved tusks and was covered with thick hair. It roamed all over Canada and Alaska, and fed on fruit trees. Its haunts were almost exclusively in the forest.

Professor Robertson has given the world a lifetime to the study of zoology and kindred subjects such as embryology and evolution. He is a staunch advocate of Darwin's theory, and believes that the action of colleges of the United States, prohibiting the teaching of evolution, to be reactionary and deplorable.

Strong Evidence. "William Jennings Bryan is going about the country, agitating against the acceptance of Charles Darwin's theory," the professor said. "And, of course, persons who are not familiar with the science easily become convinced that evolution is a fallacy."

Bryan has never come in contact with the actual evidence of evolution, and he probably seeks support and money as an anti-evolutionist because he knows the majority of the people are against it, not knowing what it means.

"The cumulative evidence of evolution is so strong," continued Professor Robertson, "that men like myself, who have devoted years to its study, are positive of its truth."

Interest aroused in scientific circles throughout the continent following the discovery of the Delaware mastodon bones will probably bring a number of eminent anthropologists to London to examine the remains. It is possible that in the vicinity of Delaware, there may be a number of other skeletons. Professor Robertson stated that the mired nature of the ground covering it was responsible for the good state of preservation. Only perfect chemical conditions would enable the shell of an ancient organism to remain intact after thousands of years. That is the reason, he stated, why very few specimens of the cave-man have been found. Our prehistoric ancestors invariably buried their dead in earth, which soon entirely disintegrated the body and bones.

STORE EMPLOYEES MAKE MERRY AT PORT

Smallman & Ingram Workers Hold Annual Picnic at the Lake.

The employees of the Smallman & Ingram Company left London for Port Stanley at 1:15 today. The picnicers traveled by special train to the lakeside with the W. O. R. Band in attendance.

The picnic is under the management of a special committee of the Smallman & Ingram Employees' Benefit Association, who have the general backing of the management. The committee is composed as follows: C. E. Speiran, president; Bennett, secretary; Gordon Ingram, V. Wyant, G. Sutton, and J. W. Bennett. This committee has made special arrangements to have this year's picnic the most successful in the history of the firm.

On arrival at Port the races will be run off. Besides the usual sprints and dashes, there are several feature races, including a Run-Runners Relay, a Fan and Balloon Race, for directors only, and a Potato Salad Race for the ladies.

Following the races, the girls' softball game will take place between two teams captained by M. Graham and T. Bamford.

Another special event will be the racing show, in which babies to be boys 21 years and over.

Supper will be served by the management, at 2:30 on the heights, through the catering service of the L. & P. S.

REALTORS OF LONDON ATTEND CONVENTION

Members of City Board Visit Cleveland For Annual Assemblage.

Five members of the London Real Estate Board, Sam B. Campbell, Harry Seiman, Bert Weir, Lloyd Kelly and S. W. Renwick, are representing the London district at the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which opens in Cleveland today and lasts till Saturday.

This annual assemblage of real estate men from nearly every city on the continent, is recognized as the largest annual businessmen's convention held in the United States, and always attracts nation-wide interest, because there are numbered among the delegates some of the outstanding business life. According to advance reports, 7,000 delegates alone have made the trip to Cleveland for the event.

The Cleveland Real Estate Board, which is an impelling force in industrial circles of that city, has spared no effort to give their visitors a royal welcome, and elaborate arrangements have been made for the entertainment of the delegates and their wives, families and friends.

The yearly conventions are held with the idea of imparting to every realtor new, up-to-date and precise information about the special phases of the real estate business, in which he is interested. The convention has been nationally advertised as "a post-graduate course in real estate."

Acting on instructions from Ottawa, Indian Revenue Inspector Cecil Webb has withdrawn the charge against Julia Demeyre of being in possession of a still contrary to the inland revenue act.

Mrs. Demeyre, who appeared in police court a week ago, was remanded on her own personal recognizances until this morning, but when court was convened was not present. Mr. Webb then stated that he had had orders to withdraw the charge.

Accompanied by License Inspector Bolton and Provincial Officer Stratton, Mr. Webb visited Demeyre's farm on Tuesday last and found, hidden in the well, a most complete still, together with barrels and mash. Across the road from the farm was found about 24 bottles of home brew. This was all confiscated and Mrs. Demeyre arrested. She pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Magistrate Graydon.

DOCTOR DECLARES TWO MAY HAVE SHOT DELOMEExpert Medical Autopsists Give Evidence of Sensational Character.

EXPLAIN WOUNDS

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, June 27.—Evidence of expert medical autopsists in the hearing of the charge against Father DeLorme of having murdered his half-brother Raoul yesterday was to the effect that the victim was struck by six 25-calibre revolver bullets. There were eight wounds, seven on the right side of the face and one on the left, but two of the wounds are thought to have passed through the flesh, causing two extra wounds. One of the autopsists, Dr. D. D. McTaggart, stated that in his opinion one of three bullets that struck Raoul could have caused death. There were two that pierced the neck in close proximity to the internal jugular vein and another which lodged about one inch in front of the right ear.

The other autopsist, Dr. Derome, in the course of his cross-examination by C. H. Cahon, K.C., for the defence, admitted that more than one person might have fired the shots which killed Raoul. His evidence was to the effect that five bullets were fired into the right side of the face and one into the left side. Two bullets were extracted, he continued, but two were never found when he and Dr. McTaggart performed the autopsy on the afternoon of Jan. 7, 1922, the day following the murder.

Two May Have Fired Shots.

"Can you say," asked Mr. Cahon, "whether the two bullets which were right through the head were of the same calibre as the ones you extracted?"

"I would not be positive," replied Dr. Derome. "I could not say from the wound alone whether a .22 or a .25 bullet had been fired."

"Or even a .32?"

"Yes."

"Can you declare with any degree of certainty whether a person fired the six or seven shots?"

"I can say that the same person could have fired the shots, but I can not say whether one person fired or not," was the reply.

"Is it not possible," asked the lawyer, "that two persons fired shots into the victim?"

"Yes," replied the witness. "From the questions as to the wounds, the cross-examination carried on to the field of what is known as rigor mortis. This state, the autopsist explained, usually sets in after from three to six hours follow death. In two cases, however, it sets in almost immediately. That is if at the time of death the victim is engaged in a violent muscular combat, or if he is shot either through the heart or the brain."

Body Half Frozen.

Mr. Cahon asked a series of questions which the witness answered that the body of the deceased had not been known to clerk that it was so difficult to wrench it out of his grasp, and that this was caused by rigor mortis.

Dr. Derome said he had never seen such a case personally. In the case of Raoul DeLorme, the autopsist of the opinion that rigor mortis probably set in from three to six hours after death. Making an assumption from the contents of Raoul's stomach after his death, he gave it as his view that if the victim had eaten a meal about 1 o'clock he could have been killed about 5 o'clock that afternoon. The body was only half frozen, and the witness ascribed the rigidity of the body to rigor mortis.

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, June 27.—Charles A. Jones, a foreman at the Kroehler Mfg. Company factory, had a narrow escape from serious injury, perhaps death, when his car was struck by a C. N. R. train. He was on his way home, and at the curve near the little lake came only a few feet from the train, which nearly sheared away the radiator, the generator and other parts of the mechanism at the front of the car and carried them down the track. Mr. Jones was not hurt, and in fact was left sitting in the car in the middle of the road, the vehicle not even turning over.

COCKSHUTT ACCEPTS

Lieut.-Governor Calls On Conservative Leader To Form
New Government.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 27.—The Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, His Honor Henry Cockshutt, this afternoon formally invited Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Conservative party, which was swept into power by a huge majority in the elections yesterday, to form the next government of the province. This action was taken after Premier Drury, following a meeting of the cabinet, had tendered his resignation to the lieutenant-governor to take effect July 16.

Mr. Ferguson, in accepting the responsibilities of office, stated that he would be glad to assume the premiership as soon as the position was vacated by Mr. Drury.

According to latest reports from the various constituencies, the Conservatives will have 75 members in the legislature. The United Farmers will be the second largest group with 18 representatives, the Liberals having fallen into third place with 15. There will be four Labor members and one Independent.

Takes Second Place.

The advance of the United Farmers to second place was brought about by the election of Hon. Dougald Carmichael in Grey Centre and Hon. H. C. Nixon in North Brant. Until this morning it was thought that the Conservative candidates had been elected in these constituencies.

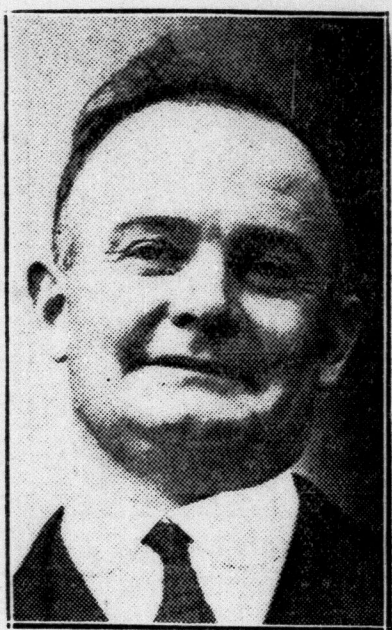

In addition to the prime minister, members of the government defeated yesterday were Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer; Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education; Hon. R. Rolfe, minister of labor; and Hon. Henry Mills, minister of mines.

Interviewed today Premier Drury declared that defeat was not a pleasant thing, but a public man should accept it philosophically. He had the personal satisfaction, he said, of looking back mentally upon a sufficiently strong element to elect a fair election campaign, all of which meant a clearness of conscience that everything to a man at such a time.

Mr. Drury attributed his defeat to the "wet vote." The "wets" in the province, he believed, constituted a sufficiently strong element to elect any one party with which they aligned themselves.

Raney Satisfied.

Hon. W. E. Raney, who as attorney-general was prominent figure in the defeated government, declared today that a rumor to the effect that who late yesterday afternoon tendered his resignation as premier of Ontario, Premier Drury will retain office until July 16, when Hon. G. Howard Ferguson will assume the duties of prime minister.

HON. ERNEST C. DRURY.

he would resign his seat rather than go into opposition was without foundation. "You know," he added, "I do not mind sitting in the benches."

It is not expected that Mr. Ferguson will announce for some days the names of those who will form the cabinet. During the course of his campaign in Northern Ontario the premier-designate intimated that Charles McCrea of Sudbury would be selected as minister of mines. W. F. Nickle, K.C., elected by acclamation in Kingston, Ont., W. H. Price, Paterdale, Hon. G. S. Henry, East York, Sir Adam Beck, London, and M. M. MacBride, Brantford, are among those mentioned as probable ministers.

FINAL RESULTS.

Toronto, June 26.—United returns from yesterday's provincial elections today gave the United Farmers a party one more seat in the House, but failed materially to affect the sweeping victory recorded by the Conservatives.

Today's tabulation, showing the Conservatives had completely unhorsed the United Farmers-Labor Coalition Government, gave the Conservatives 75 seats, the Liberals 14, and the United Farmers 17, Labor 4, and Independents 1.

Hon. H. C. Nixon is now reported elected in North Brant. Mr. Nixon's supporters claim a majority of 75, while a majority of 5 is claimed for Mr. Patterson.

EXPECT BIG TIME ON DOMINION DAY TOWN STAYS HOMEStay-in-London Celebration of Popular Holiday Largest For Years.

MILITARY PARADE

July 2nd, Dominion Day, is to be celebrated this year in London as it has never been before by staying in the old home town and having all the fun of the fair inside the city limits. A monster program for the day has been arranged by the various committees in charge of the preparations, which include members of the following: Canadian Club of London, Women's Canadian Club, Girls' Canadian Club, Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, Rotary Club, Boy Scouts Association, Girl Guides Association, Boys' Work Board, Army and Navy Veterans, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, mothers' clubs of public schools, mothers' units, separate schools, and Catholic Women's League.

The mayor, the city council, the board of education, the separate school board and the public utilities commission have all lent their aid in making this program successful. Brigadier-General W. B. King, D.S.O., has joined in the movement with his usual energy, and interest in the city's doings and has arranged for a great military parade in which the R. C. R. and the permanent force details will take part.

The day's events will include address by Colonel Ibbotson Leonard, Mayor, and Major Hume Cronyn. The orders of the day as issued by Colonel J. E. Ware of the headquarters staff are as follows:

The Royal Canadian Regiment, permanent force details and the cadets will parade at Carling Heights on Monday morning, July 2, and will move to the inclosure north of the Soldiers' Monument, Victoria Park, via Piccadilly, Waterloo and Princess avenue, and will take up at 11:05 a.m. the following positions in the inclosure: The R. C. R., marching facing south; cadets, east side facing west.

Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and public and separate school children will assemble at 10:30 a.m. at the southern entrance to the inclosure just near the Soldiers' Monument, and will be allocated positions in the inclosure facing the R. C. R. and the cadets.

The school choir will assemble at 11 a.m. in the inclosure just north of the platform facing east.

The standard bearers, I. O. E., will assemble at the platform in the inclosure at 11:05 a.m.

The program, which will commence at 11:15 a.m. by the general assembly will include the following musical numbers, for which the band of the Royal Canadian Regiment will play while a select who will be not more than four minutes duration:

At 12 o'clock noon the 12th Battery, C. F. A., will fire a royal salute, the Royal Canadian Regiment firing a feu-de-joe in conjunction.

The O. C., 12th Battery will take over the R. C. O. personnel at 10:10 a.m. and will be placed in front of the soldiers' monument facing west.

WILL DISTILL MOTOR FUEL FROM COALFactory Costing $500,000 To Be Erected By Ford
At Walkerville.

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, June 27.—Backed by Henry Ford, a factory for the low temperature distillation of coal, whereby a ton of coal is expected to yield as high as 10 gallons of motor fuel as a by-product, is under construction at the Ford factory at Walkerville.

This was announced today by Wallace Campbell, general manager of the Ford Motor Company of Canada. The factory, which will cost approximately $500,000, will distill about 400 tons of coal daily. The motor fuel by-product, which in time its inventor expects may be as universally used as gasoline, will be distilled from the raw coal without affecting the fuel value of the residue. This residue, it is said, will burn as well if not better than the original coal.

Should the experimental factory be found to be entirely feasible other factories for industrial process will be constructed by the Ford Company. The distillation process was the invention of Emil Pirov, assisted by Ralph D. Lammie, who is said to be in Detroit in connection with the new Ford industry.

Mr. Ford is believed to have had the new process in mind when he made his statement recently that he would show the world how to burn coal twice.

CINCINNATUS, 24 00 YEARS LATER.

Called unexpectedly from the plow to take over the reins of government, Premier Drury of Ontario, like the famous old Roman of 500 B.C., lays farm at Crown Hill. Here he is shown they down again, glad to escape the photograph in one of his wheat worries of office and return to his fields, of which he speaks with pride.

FUGITIVE WANTED ON MURDER CHARGE
CAUGHT IN DETROITJohn L. Whitfield Alleged To Have Slain Patrolman.

SURPRISE CAPTURE

Associated Press Despatch.

Detroit, June 27.—Cornered by 25 policemen and detectives in a Michigan avenue lumber yard where for several weeks he has been working as foreman of drivers, John L. Whitfield, wanted in Cleveland for the murder of Patrolman Dennis Griffin, was captured last night.

Whitfield was traced here from Madison, Wis., through Chicago, by Detective Lieutenant Charles O. Hevel of the Cleveland police.

Nevel and a squad of police and detectives, heavily armed with revolvers and riot guns, surrounded the plant of the Ternes Coal and Lumber Company late today.

When men with riot guns had been placed about the yard Nevel accosted Whitfield, who was walking through the yards. Whitfield was startled and made as though to dash to a small office nearby.

Nevel got a revolver against the fugitive's head and ordered him to hold up his hands. Whitfield was handcuffed and taken to police headquarters.

Whitfield told officers he would waive extradition and "take his chances" in Cleveland courts.

The arrest of Whitfield, ends a chase which had its beginning in a warrant charging Whitfield with the slaying of a patrolman. The dead is Patrolman Griffin, 34-year-old, who was killed on his way home from work in a car.

Whitfield, according to the charges, then drove miles into the country, stripped his victim of all clothing, dug a shallow grave, dumped the patrolman's body into it and then covered it with two feet of earth. The body was found several days later.

Griffin granted the request, after having searched his prisoner, and at Whitfield's home Whitfield went into a room to change clothes, and it is believed he secreted a revolver in his trunk.

When near their destination, according to the charges made against Whitfield, he drew a revolver and shot the patrolman through the neck, killing him instantly.

Whitfield, according to the charges, then drove miles into the country, stripped his victim of all clothing, dug a shallow grave, dumped the patrolman's body into it and then covered it with two feet of earth. The body was found several days later.

Mr. Morrison Means Mr. Drury.

There is small sympathy for Hon. E. C. Drury in the statement handed out by Mr. J. J. Morrison following the election. Not once in the course of a rather long and carefully worded analysis of the results does Mr. Morrison mention the name of Mr. Drury, on whom the brunt of the whole campaign fell; he does not even pause to regret the fact that Mr. Drury was defeated; he does not even mention the fact that for four years the ex-premier gave the best that was in him to the services of the province and the U. F. O. movement.

On the other hand, the Morrison statement can be interpreted in only one way, viz., trying to place the blame for defeat on the shoulders of Mr. Drury. We quote two extracts from the Morrison declaration:

"The U. F. O. were handicapped by self-acclaimed adherents seeking to possess something they did not help to create and did not understand, who saw only in the movement a growing political force into which they wished to enter, some of whom, I am sorry to say, not for the benefit of the state, but for personal reasons well understood. The injection of this element and the attention paid to it by leaders who expected to gain support from those who were not really in sympathy with the major objectives of the Farmers' movement are the cause of the present temporary reverse. Ideals were set aside and declarations of principle forgotten, not by the heart of the movement, but by those who wished to capitalize every suggestion that might bring support."

"The lesson we have experienced had to come. It is not a reflection on the stability of the membership of the U. F. O., but upon the leadership that grasped at the shadow, and in so doing lost the substance."

The whole force of this statement is a poorly-veiled censure of the leadership of Mr. Drury, who could see no good reason why he should not go outside the ranks of the U. F. O. and bring in support from those who were in sympathy with the things for which he stood.

Mr. Morrison gave him no assistance at all during the trying months when he was seeking to bring about a working organization. Mr. Morrison was openly disappointed when he found that Mr. Drury was going to be able to carry on at Toronto. Now, when defeat comes to the U. F. O. and to Mr. Drury, whose aim it was to give tangible political expression to the U. F. O. principles, it is with poor taste that Mr. J. J. Morrison hastens out and seeks to place the blame on Hon. E. C. Drury.

Knowing and Not Knowing.

At times it is possible to pick up a lot of logic in a short time. A motor car was stalled east of the city yesterday afternoon. The driver, in a linen duster and goggles, was looking wise as though he knew what the trouble was, but he didn't. In fact, he had no idea.

The driver of a truck that picks up milk cans came along, pulled up, and asked if he could help. He shoved a capable looking hand under the hood of the car, used a jack-knife for a screwdriver, told the duster man to try it now, and away it went. One man knew—the other did not.

A little farther along the road a swarm of bees had come out, and the beekeeper was after them. They were on a tree, and thick on the ground. One man looked over a fence fifty feet away and said, "Not for me." The other man, without gloves or mask or smoke, was scooping up the bees with his hands and putting them into a box, and he was never stung once.

Just another case of one man knowing and the other man not knowing.

The Defeat of the Labor Party.

The Conservative sweep of Ontario took nearly every Labor seat. Following the election of 1919 the Labor group had quite a formidable showing, enough, in fact, to give them cabinet recognition and make them a power at Toronto.

Today there is one straight Labor representative, from Northern Ontario, and he came back by the acclamation route, no doubt because pulp and paper industries working in his riding had brought considerable activity and wages to the district.

But what of the others? Mr. MacBride in South Brant last year had 2,377 majority as a Labor candidate against a Conservative and Liberal, whereas this year, aided by the rumor spread by Conservatives that he was to be minister of labor, he won by some 700. Hon. Harry Mills won Fort William by 1,513. In East Hamilton, G. G. Halcorow had 7,588 majority, and in West Hamilton Hon. W. R. Rolfe had 1,991. This year both Hamiltons went Conservative by very large margins. In London Dr. Stevenson as a Labor candidate had a majority of 1,901 over Sir Adam Beck; Niagara Falls elected C. F. Swayze; West Peterboro had a Labor man in T. Tooms; and St. Catharines returned F. H. Greenlaw by 1,891. Sault Ste. Marie was held by J. B. Cunningham with 1,370, and K. K. Homuth rolled up the remarkable majority of 4,238 in North Waterloo.

Today the Labor party is almost out of existence as far as representation in the legislature is concerned. One London Labor man, who is closely in touch with the situation, says the Labor party were regarded as the Drury party, and blamed for all the large expenditures of that government. He also points out that it is quite patent, that the Labor men were out of step as a party, and there were serious differences between various factions. He cites the case of London as an example of this. The London Labor man to whom we refer takes the sensible view that the interests of his party have moved forward quite satisfactorily in Ontario in recent years. He points to such things as workmen's compensation, mothers' allowance, minimum wages, etc., and claims that although they are almost wiped out in the legislature today they have gained much by political activity. That is rather a sensible view to take of the situation.

Too Many Names Off the Lists.

There was something seriously wrong with the voters' list in London on polling day, because thousands of people found they were not on the lists when there was every good reason why they should have been put on.

The list used was made out between January and July of last year. Proper notice was given and published that there would be a court of revision at which the judge would add names. This should have brought an addition of from 5,000 to 6,000 names, whereas only 500 were put on. The Conservative Association was the only one, as such, that had an organization at this work. Then there is a poor system of adding names. A person phones the city clerk, who is also the returning officer, to see if his name is on the list. On finding out that it is not, particulars are left, and the name is forwarded by the returning officer to the judge, at revision time. The applicant takes it for granted that that is all that is necessary, with the result that when the court of revision sits there is no one on hand to give evidence and, failing such evidence, the name is not placed on the list.

It is not wide of the mark to say that the assessors have left off at least 3,000 names that should have been on the list without any appeal. Case after case has come to light where a wife is assessed as owner of a house and the husband has been left off. People who have been living in the city for years have a right to take it for granted that their names are on the list. They should not have to go hunting around each time an election comes to see whether or not their name has been dropped from the list.

There should be steps taken at once to get away from this "name-not-on" complaint. There is nothing more out of keeping with our way of doing business than that a person who has every good right and reason to expect a ballot shall be met with the information that he or she cannot vote.

When the Returns Come In.

Accidents will happen around election time; so it was that under a cut of Mr. Lincoln Goldie, Conservative member for South Wellington, used in The Advertiser, the printer put the words:

"Lincoln Goldie, Conservative candidate, who captured South Wellington by a cost over $3 it will be worth it to set majority of one thousand."

The one fine feature about it is that Mr. Goldie cannot take offence because it will be impossible for him to understand what it means.

When Nature Rises to Protest.

Never in our recollection have the forces of nature registered such a vigorous protest over the verdict of a people as that witnessed in this section of Ontario on Monday night.

Just as soon as it became apparent that there had been a Conservative victory, the forces of nature began to gather their strength as though to protest against the folly and nonsense of this 1925 generation.

Early in the evening there was a little lightning, just a flash here and there, in the shape of a warning as to what might happen if returns kept on showing Conservative victories.

Well, sir, about the time word came that the Conservatives would have a clear working majority at Toronto, all the powers of the skies cut loose. That particular department that attends to making hailstones turned them out as big as hens' eggs, and pelted them down in protest; the lightning department, not to be outdone, made a wonderful quantity of forks, chains and flashes, while the thunder section crashed, banged and roared in the most vigorous manner heard here in years.

Then, as though to try and stem the awful error of the people, these kindly forces of nature turned their attention to the telegraph wires, which were carrying the news of a Conservative victory. And how they did smash those offending wires. If ever there were heaven-sent protest against the follies of human frailty, it came then.

And far into the night the thunder muttered away and the sky was full to the point of saturation with dark, threatening clouds. Once the moon tried to get a look out, but three or four big clouds were hustled off in that direction, and when the moon heard that the rumptus was all about she willingly hid her face. Yes, sir, the moon went away off for the rest of the night, and not one single little squint would she take at the land over which Howard Ferguson was to reign.

Wise old Mother Nature. How quick she is to smile upon the people in their hours of righteousness, and how ready and powerful to speak with dynamic force when the children of the earth do a grievous wrong.

Note and Comment.

Mr. J. J. Morrison wanted a small farmer group in the Ontario Legislature. He should be well pleased with the results.

The Toronto Globe says in regard to Sir Adam Beck's win in London: "Many who had voted against him in the past for party, personal or local reasons must have supported him yesterday on purely public grounds." Let us see—Sir Adam got 11,107 votes in 1919 and 9,365 in 1923.

The St. Catharines Standard in its last issue before election day said, "It is little to be wondered at that many voters on the eve of the provincial election are really at sea as to which party to vote for." The Tories must have heard of this and sent out a scow or a schooner to pick up all these voters.

Wellington Hay, leader of the Liberals, was at his home town, Listowel, when returns came in showing that he was defeated in North Perth. Mr. Hay's comment was, "If Dr. Monteth is elected he will do honor to the great riding of North Perth." That spirit is the one thing that makes politics worth while.

The Toronto Globe reads lesson No. 1 in the post-election series to Sir Adam Beck on what he must do and how he must behave in the legislature. He must beware of Hon. Mr. Ferguson or that man may hit him on the head with the mace that straddles the table. "He should make it plain that he is in the legislature as his chief informant on hydro-electric matters." Sir Adam, we hope you'll appreciate the course of instruction you are receiving from Toronto.

WHY THE WEST PROTESTS.

(From the Edmonton Bulletin.)

The royal commission recommends that the railway board be given control over the rates charged by shipping companies for carrying western grain across the Great Lakes. That or an amendment of the law aimed directly at the shipowners was almost inevitable. Hitherto the assumption has been that as the lakes belonged to whoever chose to build a boat, competition could be relied upon to keep the water freight rates in reasonable relationship to the cost of the service rendered.

The developments last fall destroyed that comfortable supposition. With more traffic offering than ever before, rates went to three times the normal charges. No doubt the shipping interests kept clear of acts expressly forbidden by law, but they achieved the same financial results by methods which may not be punishable.

The western farmers and the whole country are still suffering from the margin thus added to the cost of getting out the crop. Considering the magnitude of that crop, it is entirely possible that the express charges absorbed several million dollars which would otherwise have gone into the pockets of the grain producers. Undesirable as it is that private enterprise should be interfered with, this is plainly one point in the transportation system where regulation of some kind has to be introduced. The western farmer is not in business for the exclusive benefit of the lake shippers.

BELOVED RIVERS.

Are not Abanah and Pharpar, the rivers of Damascus, better than all the rivers of Israel?—II. Kings 5:12.

The Jordan, except in its upper branches, is not a beautiful river. It is violent, rude, muddy below the Lake of Gennesaret, and so liable to floods and droughts that no one can live near it, or be friendly with it. It is a river to cross, that is all; and the crossing is often difficult and dangerous.

Very different are the streams that water Damascus and make its oasis blossom as the rose.

They do not overflow nor go dry. They carry a thousand streams of musical refreshment through the gardens and orchards.

Naaman was quite right about them. He loved them for their beauty, but also for their familiarity, because he had often walked beside them.

The rivers that we love most are always those that we know best—the stream that ran before our father's door, the current on which we ventured our first boat or cast our first fly, the brook on whose banks we first picked the twin-flowers of young love.

Your Health

HOW TO APPLY FIRST AID TO A SPRAINED ANKLE OR KNEE.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., United States Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

This is the season when you take long walks beside the sea, in the field and woods, or on the mountains. You are likely to slip and fall. As a result you may sprain your ankle or knee. What is to be done?

You attempt to get home by the aid of a stick or by some conveyance. Then you apply cold compresses until the pain subsides, and you are satisfied there will not be great swelling.

Dr. Copeland's applications do not relieve the pain, you may try hot water compresses. The latter are more grateful and useful in some cases.

After these applications have been discontinued, the foot should be bandaged, beginning at the toes and gradually wrapping the foot, ankle and lower part of the leg. This bandage should be left in place until you can provide yourself with adhesive plaster. When it can be had, cut strips of adhesive about half an inch wide. Beginning at the great toe, apply the adhesive around the edge of the foot, back of the heel, across the top of the foot to the place of beginning.

Start the next strip a little above the first, but overlapping it. Keep on till the foot is covered. Then carry a strip from one side of the ankle, under the heel, to the opposite side of the ankle. Overlap this with another strip, and keep on till the foot is covered.

This arrangement protects the foot and ankle and thoroughly supports the injured part. You may not be able to walk on the foot, but anyhow he will be very comfortable.

After the pain, tenderness and swelling have disappeared, the part should be massaged and exercised carefully.

An injury to the knee or to another joint may cause great pain. If in the knee, it is almost impossible to bend the leg. Every effort to walk is painful.

Under these circumstances the joint should be "fixed." That is, it should be so dressed that it cannot be bent. It may be covered with a layer of cotton to protect the skin, and then firmly bandaged from the ankle to some distance above the knee.

It is amazing how quickly the pain disappears after fixing the joint. Answers to Health Questions. Q. T.: Q.—Will you kindly advise me how to remove freckles? 2. How can I stimulate the growth of my eyelashes? A.—Freckles are due to excessive pigment in the skin, and nothing can be done to remove them. A peroxide cream will make them fainter.

2. Apply 1 per cent yellow oxide of mercury to the eyelashes at night before retiring, to stimulate the growth of the eyelashes.

B. T.: Q.—I am a girl 20 years of age, weighing 170 pounds. Will you please tell me what my correct weight should be?

A.—As you do not state your height I cannot say just what you should weigh. A girl of the age you mention, 5 feet 6 inches tall, should weigh about 132 pounds. For instructions on weight reduction, inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and re-state your question.

To the Baby Across the Street

By ANNE CAMPBELL.

A babe across the street from me is just the way you used to be. Her head is round and sweet and fair.

Her eyes as innocently stare. She sits there in her buggy, too. And watches as you used to do.

A peddler's wagon on the street, And her surprise is quite complete; A neighbor passing on the walk, She waves her arms and tries to talk.

I like to sit across and gaze At all her funny baby ways.

I look, and cannot help the tears That come with thinking of the years.

I feel a weight upon my arm, And cuddle close a yielding form. I do not see the baby then; For wishing you were small again! (Copyright, North American Newspaper Alliance, 1923.)

Looking Abroad

A LOOK IN ON THINGS ABROAD.

DOUBLEDAY, MACFARLANE.

The English people, from their earliest days, have always had a cult for horses, as a symbol of which affection, and almost worship, St. George, the patron saint of England, is the special protector of horses. But just across the English Channel in France horse meat is considered good food and all over that country are found butcher shops bearing the sign "Boucherie Hippophysique," where there is sold nothing but the flesh of departed equines. The British have never been able to stomach this practice, for the abstention from eating horse flesh, characteristic of the Anglo-Saxons, was originally a feature of their religion.

A white horse was borne on the Saxon standard, and its symbol, carved on the Urington Hill of the Berkshire Downs, is supposed to have been cut by the "pious King Alfred" to commemorate his victory over the Danes in the great battle of Ashdown, which was fought in 871. The standard of the ancient Saxons was preserved in the royal shield of the Puritans, "dankous to the Saxon" and the hobby-horse was introduced into England by the Georges.

The galloping white horse, which is the ensign of Kent, dates from 149, when Hengist and his Minheads and Horsa (the horse) landed on Kentish shores with the sacred emblem emblazoned on their banners. What the English call a nightingale, the result of a visitation from the Saxon demon Mare, or Mara. This was a sort of vampire, which sat on the chest of its sleeping victim, half strangling him and causing fearful visions.

The hobby-horse, which today is known as a child's toy, played a great part in the May games of the middle ages until it fell under the displeasure of the Puritans, who regarded it as "the soul." In the end the Puritans were successful in their campaign, and the hobby-horse was banished from the May games, along with Friar Tuck and Maid Marian and all Robin Hood's gallant little company of Sherwood Forest, on the ground that all were tainted with ropery, though actually the hobby is of pagan origin.

The ancient custom of the hobby-horse is still practised at Minehead, Somersetshire, being kept up by the seamen. Salisbury possesses a giant hobby-horse known as "Hobnob," which is carried in a number of processions until its appearance led to so much ruffianism that the corporation of the town interdicted it in the museum. It is probable that it was the ruffianism of the crowd on these occasions that originated the word "horse-play."

The "Hooded (hooded) Horse," is an ancient English jest in much the same spirit and still prances into action in Thetford during Christmas revels. The man who plays the part is called the "hoodener," and he assumes, according to an ancient chronicle descriptive of this custom, "a most restive manner, champing his teeth and rearing and plunging and doing his best to unseat the rider."

Since the war several countries, realizing the courage and devotion of the horse in the hour of danger, have decided to raise monuments to these dumb friends of man. England at the present time is raising subscriptions for a suitable cenotaph for the animals who did their part in helping win the war. Such honors to dumb brutes are not without precedent in other lands.

At the close of the Russo-Japanese War the Japanese erected a magnificent monument to the horses which, during the highest of civil, religious and military authorities, took prominent part, while the clergy of the Buddhist and Shinto rites recited prayers for the repose of the spirits of the departed animals.

"Way back in the time of Alexander the Great, similar rites were held, for the great warrior king, devoted to his splendid charger Bucephalus, who had so often carried him to battle, had a superb mausoleum of a memorial to him. Not content with this honor, he went so far as to found a city, which, called Bucephala, became one of the most important towns and trading centres in Asia. Bucephalus, a Thracian horse, died in 326 B.C., some say of wounds received in the battle on the Hydaspes, and other historians contend he succumbed to old age.

The Roman Emperors Caligula and Titus ordered state funerals held for their favorite war horses, all the dignitaries of the realm being compelled to attend the obsequies of these honored steeds, which in life were stabled in luxury and caparisoned with trappings set in gold and gems.

In later days that grim old monarch of Potsdam, Frederick the Great, had a soft spot in his usually hard heart for his favorite charger, which was killed beneath him at the battle of Kunersdorf. So as to keep his memory ever fresh in his own mind, as well as in that of his people, he caused to be erected one of the finest Lutheran Churches in Prussian Poland. This is a magnificent edifice in white stone, which still stands as a reminder of the terrorizing hand of time.

TO THE EDITOR.

MR. WALKER'S STATEMENT.

Burgessville, June 22, 1923.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir: Will you kindly grant me a little space several miss-statements and omission regarding a report by a correspondent of a meeting (of a Liberal candidate) at Ingersoll on June 20th, in which my name is mentioned several times. These miss-statements I can't let pass. There wasn't at the meeting any appearance of a riot, and I received as good a reception as an opposition might expect. I heard no threats of being thrown out, and saw no signs of bodily harm. These things are reported. But I did compare this with the reception and courtesy accorded opposition at any U. F. O. meetings. The whole trouble is "if you can call it such," arose over my asking a question at one of our own meetings in which connection, no name or names were mentioned. The case is one of "if the cap fits wear it." I did not retract as reported, one word of what I had said on that occasion, although it was demanded more than once. In fact if your correspondent had been fair several other things might have been mentioned which it appeared as purposefully left out. Half truths again. Now the electors demand and they have a right to know just where a candidate stands, he might just as well come forward and lay all his cards on the table, stating where he stands on all issues of the day, willing and desirous of letting the search be turned on his future and even private life. This should be voluntary on the part of every candidate. Your correspondent omitted entirely my invitation to Mr. Buchanan to meet me at a certain place on the day following at 10 o'clock. The matter would be carefully gone into and every statement I made verified. This was accepted by him, but at the time appointed he failed to put in an appearance.

Trusting your correspondent in this case will be checked up, as it is a shame that all the things are wrongly reported to you, and many things of interest are omitted.

Thanking you for the favor.

A. T. WALKER.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir—I notice in your "Social and Personal" column one day last week that there was to be a memorial service and decoration of soldiers' graves at Mount Pleasant Cemetery on June 24 by the Overseas Chapter of the I. O. D. E. The ladies of the above chapter did their best to honor the fallen. Where were the loyal and patriotic citizens that we are supposed to have in the city of London? I am very much afraid that there are not many here. I honestly think this is the most selfish city in Canada. As I was waiting to go to the cemetery for the service, I noticed quite a number of people out joy-riding. Don't you think it would be more to their credit to have volunteered to have driven those ladies out there instead of having to hire taxis to pay homage to the fallen heroes who gave their lives for us. I know it is thoughtless of me to say so many have been able to dash about as they do. I think the citizens should wake up and help this little band of ladies at least one day in the year to honor the fallen. This is one of the many cities of Canada that does not hold a decoration day for the fallen heroes. There are much smaller places than London which have a decoration day, and everybody turns out for it. I ask you to publish this letter in your daily paper, because I think it a perfect disgrace, the public not turning out for such a service as this. I think the matter would be carefully gone into and every

FERGUSON IS PREPARING CONSERVATIVE CABINET FOR NEXT PARLIAMENT

McRea Will Be Minister of Mines—Expect Nickle Next Provincial Treasurer—Price, Attorney-General—Henry, Public Works—Martin, Agriculture—Mahony, Agriculture—McDiarmid, Public Works and McBride, Labor.

BECK MENTIONED FOR POWER PORTFOLIO

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 27.—With a substantial majority assured, the Conservatives in the next provincial legislature and only two ridings still in doubt, the public attention is turned to speculate on who Hon. Howard Ferguson will select as his cabinet. Steps towards the change of administration moved quickly yesterday, and with the premier-elect announcing that his party would be ready to assume control on July 16, it is evident that he has already pretty well decided on his ministry, or at least a considerable portion of it.

Mr. Ferguson stated last night that Charles McRea, barrister, member for Sudbury, will be minister of mines. Mr. McRea was one of the strongest debaters and one of the most consistent workers both in the house and in the committees among the Conservatives of the last legislature, so it came as no surprise among the political prophets when Mr. Ferguson intimated during his campaign tour in the north that his party would be the minister of mines if his party were returned.

Select Nickle.

Most of the cabinet pickers are selecting W. F. Nickle of Kingston as provincial treasurer instead of attorney-general. A few months ago Mr. Nickle was looked upon as the successor of Mr. Raney should the Conservatives come into power during the campaign, as in the house he concentrated his attack on the management of the provinces finances rather than on the enforcement of laws. This is taken as indicating that he will be minister of finance, while Col. Price of Parkville, Toronto, is looked upon as probable attorney-general.

PLANS WELL ADVANCED FOR THE WESTERN FAIR

Manufacturers' Building Progressing Well—Fine Amusement Features.

Preparations are well advanced for the 1923 Western Fair, in spite of the oft-postponed erection of the new manufacturers' building. Everything in the Queen's Park garden is now lovely. The great building is now well on the road to completion, and the space in it has been let. In the old Crystal Palace all the space has also been let, and everything points to a busy and well-supplied fair.

The Johnny J. Jones Shows will operate in the Midway, and Secretary Hunt of the Western Fair Board has selected a particularly fine list of stage performances. There are several death-defying stunts, and one in particular that will appeal to all who love the thrilling risk and the breathless excitement that always accompanies a really worth-while turn. This special turn consists of a circular track such as motorcycle riders race on in most of the fairs. In this case the track goes up and down in the air, while the riders are racing at breakneck speed. The track goes up on four steel supports as far as thirty feet in the air, and there is nothing but centrifugal force to prevent the riders from crashing to the ground. This is one of the few genuine thrillers traveling the circuit this year, and Londoners are particularly fortunate in being able to see this stunt for themselves. There are several other turns, including some fine hand-balancing and gymnastic performances, and the whole arrangements for the fair are on a very high plane.

BLAMES WHISPERING FOR ELECTION DEFEAT

Hon. W. Rollo Claims Electors Did Not Like His Party Affiliation.

Special to The Advertiser.
Toronto, June 27.—"I was a victim of a whispering campaign in Hamilton to the effect that the Conservatives would give them back the beer," said Hon. Walter Rollo in explaining the cause of his defeat in Hamilton West to The Advertiser today.

"I was also told by hundreds of men that they had nothing against me personally, but that they did not like the crowd I was associated with," added Mr. Rollo. "The crowd" referred to is the Farmer group.

Asked if he had any comment to make on the election result as a whole, Mr. Rollo said: "I would imagine that the same whispering tactics that were adopted in Hamilton regarding the return of the beer were adopted generally throughout the province."

position without portfolio, as Hon. D. Carmichael has under the present administration, or be minister of power with the government definitely taking the hydro under its wing and assuming responsibility for it as any other department.

Minister of Power.

As minister of power with government responsibility, instead of keeping the hydro non-political, was frequently urged last session. There is much speculation as to whether Hon. George S. Henry will return to the portfolio he occupied under the Hearn government, namely, minister of agriculture, or be minister of public works. During the last two sessions of the legislature he has been more active as a critic of the good roads policy of the Drury government than of its management of the department of agriculture.

John S. Martin of Port Dover, commonly known as the "Wyandotte King" because of his great success in producing this breed of poultry, is being urged as minister of agriculture. He was elected for South Norfolk.

T. J. Mahoney of South Wentworth, secretary of the Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers, is also suggested. However, Hon. F. G. McDiarmid, former minister of public works, was returned for West Elgin and may get his old portfolio back, with Mr. Henry as head of the department of agriculture again.

Labor Portfolio.

The suggestion that M. M. MacBride, Labor member for South Brant, will be minister of labor is most interesting. Mr. MacBride was one of the Independents in the last legislature, but a strong supporter of the Conservatives on some of the more important issues, particularly the hydro. He received the support of the Conservatives in his last campaign. The standings of the party remain unchanged from last year. U. F. O. 17, Liberals 14, Labor 4 and Independents 1. Aigoma, which is placed in the Liberal column, is still making the Conservative and Liberal and several polls remaining to hear from.

JAMES COMISKEY DIES
AFTER ACTIVE CAREER

Deceased a Leader in Agricultural Life of Western Ontario.

A life-long resident of Western Ontario, and one who had taken an active part in the agricultural development of the Garden of Canada, passed away at Salford last night in the person of James Comiskey, J. G. Comiskey, who was 78 years of age, was born in Ingersoll, and devoted practically all his life to farming. In this connection he became widely acquainted not only in the Ingersoll district, but in London, as well as other cities and towns in Western Ontario.

His wife predeceased him five years ago, and since that time he had lived in retirement at the family homestead with his son Edward. He was always in robust health, but he succumbed to a short and sudden illness while visiting the home of his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Clear of Salford.

Mr. Comiskey is the father of Jas. J. Comiskey, the popular G. T. R. trainman who was killed near Hamilton last spring.

He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Clear of Salford, Mrs. Russell Myers of London, Mrs. Thor Callahan of Watford, Mrs. W. J. Ryan of Bothwell; two sons, Ambrose of Toronto, Edward of Ingersoll, and one sister, Mary, of Ingersoll.

The funeral will be held on Friday morning from the Church of the Sacred Heart in Ingersoll, where burial will take place at 10 o'clock. Interment will take place in the Roman Catholic Cemetery at Ingersoll.

Kiwanians Declare War Upon All Rotarians Who Think They Are Spellers

Battle of Words Under the Auspices of The Advertiser Will Be Fought to a Finish on July 9—Champions Selected by Both Clubs.

Chief Bev. Hay of the Kiwanis Club today filed a declaration of war against all and sundry citizens who belong to the local Rotary Club. This morning the challenge was readily accepted by Secretary Clarence May, and a date set for the two societies to engage in mortal combat.

But don't become too excited. The battle is only to be a battle of words, and all munitions will be obtained from Webster's standard dictionary. In more understandable language, the Kiwanis and Rotary have decided to hold a spelling match under the auspices of The Advertiser on July 9, when the Rotarians meet for their weekly luncheon.

For weeks members of both clubs have anticipated the big occasion when wit is matched against wit and learning against wisdom. The Rotarians claim to have a big edge on their opponents in learning, but the latter believe their superior wisdom will achieve for them an overwhelming victory.

Champions Named.

Today the champion spellers of both institutions were announced. The lists show a formidable array of names. All professions and commercial callings are well represented on the two teams, and the contest is certain to result in many casualties.

"We're going to win," President Bev. Hay declared. "Our adversaries have selected all the learned gents of the city, but our greater experience and wisdom is sure to prove too much for the highly-educated Rotarians. The inclusion of such men as Dr. Sherwood Fox, Rev. D. C. MacGregor and Bert Beal in the Rotary doesn't phase us a bit. They'll likely fall down long before some of the alleged low-brows."

Clarence May, speaking for his aggregation, was more than optimistic. "They haven't much chance," he said. "We have some of the best spelling experts in the world. But of our team will probably be out of town, and it is possible that the number of spellers will have to be cut down for that reason."

Word Wizards.

T. H. Yull, who headed a committee of selection for the Kiwanians, chose men familiar with all varieties of peculiar words. Col. William Beattie is depended on to face words of a theological nature, and Drs. J. G. Hunt and Cameron Wilson are the bulwarks which will brave the assault of physiological terms. Ed. Grange is expected to successfully wrestle with words such as "psychiatricism," and Albert Murphy is said to be a wizard on all technical legal phrases.

On the other hand Tom Faust of the Rotarians, who specializes in awful chemical terms, such as "acetylenoxide," is considered one of the pillars of strength in the ranks. Then there is Dr. Alf. Grant, who claims he can spell "bovine tuberculosis" correctly, and Rev. John Garbutt, whose familiarity with Biblical and religious words will stand his team in good stead.

He Kant Kum.

A tinge of regret was felt by Kiwanians this morning when one of their finest spellers, Edward Gairns of the Bradstreet Company announced he could not be present. Mr. Gairns' letter was as follows:

Secretary of the Kiwanis Club, London, Ontario:

Dear Sir—If my ears did not deceive me at the last Friday lunch meeting the name of the contest was not in vain as I am one of the team to compete with the Rotarians.

the party as minister of labor. Hon. G. S. Henry, also named for public works portfolio, and Sir Adam Beck, who, it is rumored, will give no position as minister of power.

in the spell contest, while I appreciate the honor which a have placed upon me, I have no objection to the Kiwanis Klub to regret that owing to circumstances over which I have no control I will have to forego this pleasure it would have been.

Assuring you that I greatly regret the disappointment it will be to me, as I hoped to be with their with bells on four keynotes.

Yours for success of Kiwanis.

"EDD."

The teams are announced today are: Kiwanis—T. H. Yull, C. L. Eddy, E. W. Grange, Col. William Beattie, P. Love, W. Benson, M. J. Abbott, Albert Murphy, H. B. Muir, Dr. J. G. Hunt, Dr. Cameron Wilson, W. B. Wharton, J. B. Hay.

Rotary—Dr. Sherwood Fox, Tom Faust, George Copeland, V. K. Greer, Bert Beal, C. H. Ivey, Rev. D. C. MacGregor, Lloyd Houlding, Rev. John Garbutt, Ed. Jenkins, Clarence May, Bert Silverwood, Dr. S. M. Kennedy, Dr. Alf. Grant, E. V. Buchanan, T. D. McCullough, W. F. McShall, Jed. Vining, W. B. Wendall, Russ Taggart, Ross Thomas.

DECLARES DOMINION
THIRSTY FOR LEARNING

British Press Welcomes Delegation to Imperial Educational Conference.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, England, June 27.—In welcoming the overseas delegations to the imperial educational conference the Daily Telegraph says that each quarter of the empire has ideals and experiments of its own. In Canada, for example, there is a spirit of educational ambition and enterprise which no doubt is stimulated by proximity to the vast field of educational development in the United States.

The conference, says the Telegraph, must now be established as an imperial institution. None is richer in promise of progress and unity among the peoples of the British commonwealth.

MAYOR OF LONDON
MAKES HOT REPLY TO TWO ALDERMEN

Advises Messrs. Judd and Greer To "Mind Their Own Business."

THE WAGE QUESTION

Readjustment at City Hall Will Be Taken Up Within Next Few Days.

In his most courteous manner, but firmly, Mayor Wenige advises Ald. Albert Judd, chairman of the finance committee, and Ald. John Greer, to "mind their own business."

"All they or any other member of the council, for that matter, have to do," his worship pronounced today, "is to come to the regular council and committee meetings with all available knowledge at their command about the various questions that come before us, in order that we shall make some headway. If they will do this, we shall no doubt make greater progress than in the past."

Mayor Wenige has noted that "Ald. Greer and Judd say that once again the mayor is wrong." (They were referring, it appeared, to his statement in the recent election that it would be well for the citizens to defeat Sir Adam Beck and keep hydro out of politics.)

"Once again I am wrong, they say," commented Mayor Wenige. "I expressed my opinion about the local situation in the recent campaign, and any opinion that I express is after I have given the question careful consideration, and weighed the facts. I did it in this instance, and furthermore, I have not changed my opinion, either."

The Wage Question.

It would appear that Ald. Judd, amongst others, has undertaken to criticize the mayor in connection with his supposed attitude relative to the proposed revision of the city hall wages and salaries.

Mayor Wenige declared today that notwithstanding reports and rumors to the contrary, he favored increased remuneration for deserving city employees, in so far as available finances would permit.

"Nothing could be fairer than that," he continued. "That has always been my opinion, despite an obvious attempt to have it appear otherwise. I can say this, that what Ald. Greer and Ald. Judd may think is a long way from what Ald. Greer and Ald. Judd may know. There is a big gap between. And, furthermore, they should mind their own business, and leave the mayor alone to do his duty. The mayor is working 24 hours a day in the interests of the city, and if they will do their part by coming to the meeting prepared to do the business quickly we will get along better."

The advertiser questioned the mayor point-blank if he had advised a $200 increase for the assessment commissioner Bennett, the current rumor at the city hall today.

"When I have any $200 increase to recommend, it will be in the council, or in the committee," he replied, "and not out on a street corner or elsewhere."

His worship acknowledges that there should be a wage adjustment at the city hall, particularly as it would apply to the assessment department, but he has already placed publicly on record to that effect. The only difficulty at this moment will be the extent of the finances available for that purpose.

City Treasurer Bell is responsible for the announcement that care was exercised that a certain amount for this very purpose was provided in the 1923 estimates. In any event, definite action will soon be forthcoming. The mayor called one meeting to consider city hall salaries, but all action was indefinitely deferred at the request of certain aldermen, who wanted more detail of the several departments.

INTRODUCE BILL TO CUT POSTAGE ON NEWSPAPERS

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 27.—First reading was given to a bill in the House of Commons this morning, reducing the postal rate on newspapers and magazines to 14 cents per pound. The present rate is 12 cents said Hon. Charles Murphy, postmaster-general, against a former rate of only 1 cent a pound. Many representations he said, had been received, particularly on the part of small town dailies and rural newspapers as to the desirability of a lower rate.

Young Chinaman of Windsor Offers His Services to Inspector Tambling.

IS WELL EDUCATED

Official Forced to Decline Aid On Account of Insufficiency of Taxpayers.

To the average Canadian, China is useful only so long as she supplies enough laundrymen to handle the weekly washing and deliver it all of back door on schedule. But the Orientals who forsake the land of the poppy for the twentieth century Dominion of Canada, there are a number whose ambitions soar higher than handing parcels over a counter or murmuring glibly, "No check—no shirt."

Desires to Succeed.

The intelligence and the desire to succeed manifest in this latter class has just recently been brought to the attention of George Tambling, commissioner of taxation in the London district. As everyone knows it is the commissioner's duty to collect federal income tax from all and sundry in Western Ontario who come within the law in this regard.

So a young Chinaman who calls Windsor his home, wrote Mr. Tambling and offered his services. His ability as an interpreter, and in his letter tried to emphasize how extremely useful he would be to the London office.

The text of his communication the Chinaman is evidently well educated and more intelligent than the average Oriental. Mr. Tambling is afraid that he would not be of much use in his office.

The commissioner pointed out that although the Chinese population in Western Ontario is not so small as to be disregarded, the class that pays income tax numbers is so small in comparison that it does not require the work of a special man to look after them.

Rarely Any Difficulty.

"We rarely encounter any difficulty in collecting from Chinamen," Mr. Tambling told The Advertiser. "Of course a lot of them try to tell us that they are married and have a family, and so are not taxable, but we also require definite proof before we believe these stories."

Although this Chinaman was not successful in securing the position he thought fitted him, the case shows that when East meets West, East does not always live up to the popular idea by hanging out a laundry sign, but often strives for a better life in the land it has adopted.

United States Press Aims Views On Ontario Election Fight.

PRAISES PREMIER

Tribune States Defeat Due to Refusal of Farmers To "Broaden Out."

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, June 27.—Under the heading "Ontario Sees the Light," the Tribune devotes nearly a column this morning to a discussion of the result of the Ontario elections, which the Tribune writer regards as a "complete swing of the pendulum from an extreme experiment in radicalism to the safer and broader councils of the least experimental of all Canadian parties."

"In the post-war period the farmer movement in Ontario was the most conspicuously successful of all the proffered palliatives," the Tribune says, reviewing the strong position attained by the United Farmers and declaring "to punish the manufacturers of the least experimental of all Canadian parties."

"Mr. Drury is an able man," the Tribune continues, "and was as good a premier as his friends permitted him to be. Even his sternest opponents concede his personal capacity for government; but his very excellencies encompassed his downfall. Considered All."

"Mr. Drury was soon found directing the affairs of the province with an eye to what he believed to be the best interests of the community as a whole," declares the Tribune writer, declining "to punish the manufacturers of Ontario at the behest of the U. F. O., and instead urging upon the farmers a broader viewpoint. The farmer's view of the liquor problem, and they condemned Mr. Drury's 'broadening out' policy."

"Government by farmers has failed in Ontario," the Tribune writes, concluding, "just as government by plumbers, by authors, or by manufacturers would have failed."

The Herald attributes the result in Ontario to a widespread opposition on the part of the majority of the people of the province to a drastic "dry" rule.

Prohibition Issue.

"While some responsibility for the Farmer-Labor defeat must be attributed to mistakes in office and the growing unpopularity of radicalism in politics," the Herald says, "the big issue was prohibition."

The Conservatives, the Herald pointed out, at this time, had a fresh expression of popular opinion and refused to consider the prohibition question closed for all time. By the vote of the people, Ontario "have placed the new assembly under a mandate to refer prohibition back to the people."

Contra the prohibition issue, wet and dry battle which the American people will watch with real interest," the Herald adds. "The wets on the basis of Monday's returns appear to have the advantage."

The prohibition issue and the political inexperience of Premier Drury and his lieutenants were the main causes of the farmers' defeat, in the opinion of the Times.

Lacked Experience.

"Mr. Ernest Charles Drury, a 250-acre farmer, has long been known for his low tariff policy," says the Times, "but he had no experience in administration when he formed his government, and there was only one man in it who had ever held office. His main aim, the premier said, was to give efficient government and cut down the cost of government." That is exactly and memorably what it has not done, and its failure to do that largely accounts for its fall."

Regarding the prohibition issue, the Times says:

"Mr. Ferguson said that the liquor question ought to be decided by the people. He acts on that principle, the Ontario folk will say, as opportunity, as the Manitoba folk have just had to show that they are sick of fanatical prohibition."

WILL GET NO REWARD
UNTIL 3 YEARS ARE UP

Sergeant Last Must Wait Until Regis Finishes Sentence in Canada.

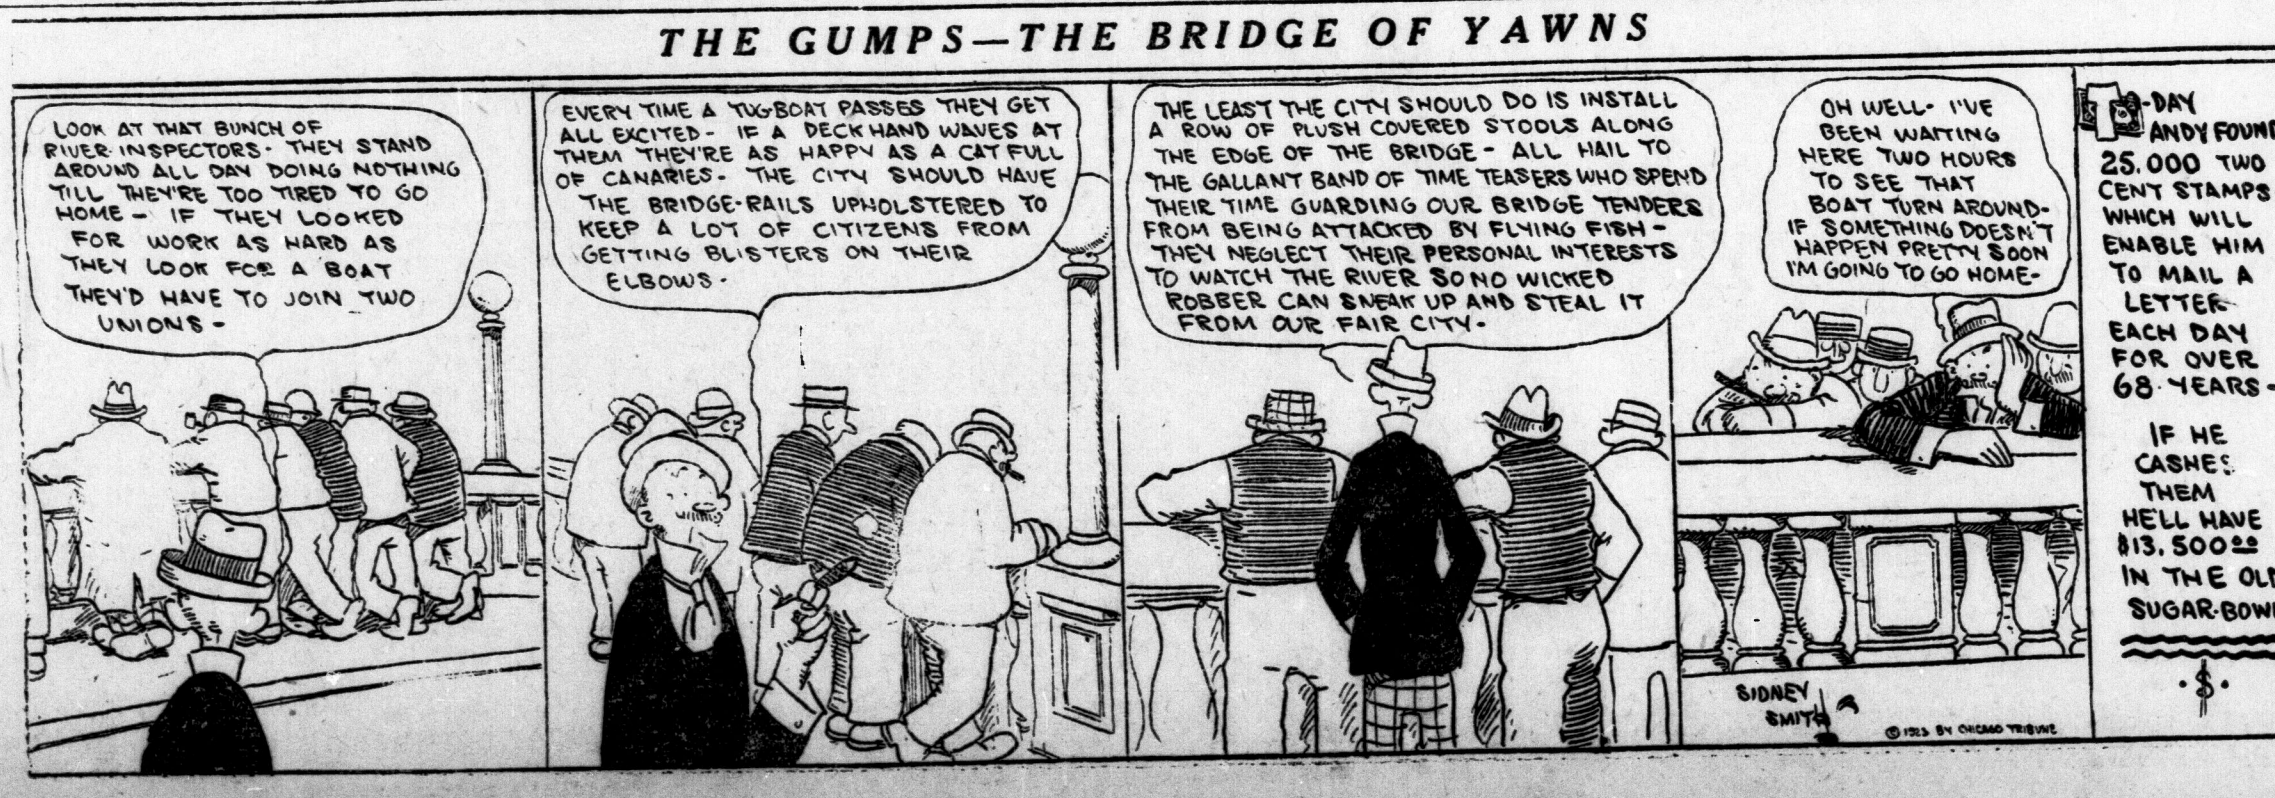

Sergeant Percy Last will not receive the reward offered for the arrest of Carl Regis, escaped prisoner from Ionia State prison, until three years have elapsed, according to information received here this morning.

Regis, who escaped from the American prison on May 24, where he was serving an indeterminate sentence of from three to 15 years for breaking and entering, was arrested by Sergeant Last at 4 a.m. three weeks ago, on suspicion of being the man who was terrorizing the city with midnight burglaries.

When Regis appeared in police court he pleaded guilty to six charges of burglary and was sentenced by Magistrate Graydon to three years in Kingston.

Sergeant Last, on being informed that a reward of $100 had been offered for the capture of Regis, decided to lay claim to the money. With this object in view, he conducted an inquiry into his possibilities of getting the reward and has been informed that the sum would not be paid until the man was handed over to the American authorities, which will not be until he has finished his sentence at Kingston.

"I won't forget about it," declared the sergeant this morning, "and as soon as he is turned over to the Michigan authorities, my application for the reward goes in."

W.C.T.U. Fresh Air Camp Open Soon At Springbank

Union Appoints Superintendents At Regular Meeting Held Yesterday In Clarence Street Rooms.

An address from Mrs. George McAllister, Exeter, editor of the White Ribbon Ties, featured yesterday afternoon's meeting of the W.C.T.U. Mrs. McAllister referred to the temperance situation as it confronted the province of Ontario today, making special reference to the effect which the recent vote in Manitoba would have on that situation. Her belief was that the enormous number of foreigners in the western province had been responsible for the opposition to strict prohibition.

The opening of the W.C.T.U. fresh air camp near the pump house at Springbank in about a week was another subject of discussion at the meeting. Mrs. Ida Harrison, who will have charge of the camp, went to Springbank yesterday to make preparations for the reception of the children.

A pontoon bridge has been stretched across the river just opposite the camp, which will make the approach from the south side of the river much easier than it was last year. Electric lights have also been installed in the camp cottages. The Union has arranged to hold its picnic at the camp on July 10.

The garden party given yesterday at Putterbough Park, Regent street, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Robinson Memorial Methodist Church, was a most successful affair. The grounds were kindly loaned by Mr. John Putterbough, and Mrs. Minnie McVicar, president of the society, acted as general convenor. The proceeds are in aid of the organ fund of the church.

Small electric lights and colored lanterns were strung across the grounds, and during the evening music was provided by the Salvation Army Band. Enjoyable solos were given by Mrs. Wesley Andrews, and Mr. A. J. Bradley.

The ice cream tooth was in charge of Mrs. Charles Catermole, assisted by Mrs. Southern, Mrs. Andrews and Mrs. W. A. Wilson. A candy table and fishpond were arranged by the members of the Epworth League, under the convener'ship of Misses Billa Lince and Hooper.

The piano pupils of Miss Dorothy Davis were heard in a very fine recital presented at the Musical Art last evening, assisted by violin pupils of Miss Marian Sharpe. Throughout the program the numbers were well executed and showed talent in many instances. The program follows: "Queen of Drowsyland," by Bessie Birchmore; and Elizabeth Marsh; "Merry Peasant," by Bessie Birchmore; "The Top," by Leonard Hayman; "Pirates at Hunting," by Russell Schram.

INSTITUTE TO DISCUSS EGG-GRADING RULES

Manitoba Annual Convention Opened In Winnipeg Yesterday.

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, June 26.—Mrs. Bracken, wife of Manitoba's premier, welcomed the delegates to the thirteenth annual convention of the Manitoba Federation of Women's Institutes, which opened here today. Mrs. David Watt of Birtle presented the presidential address.

The following are among the outstanding subjects to be discussed in various addresses: "Dominion Egg Grading Regulations," A. C. McQuillan, Dominion poultry promoter; "National Status of Canada," J. W. Daffoe; "The Place and Value of Advertising in Education," Miss Helen Campbell, Ottawa; "The Report of the Committee on Laws and Legislation," Mrs. Edith Rogers, M.L.A.; "Mrs. R. Johnston of Deloraine will give the report on education, and Mrs. H. M. Speedy Winnipeg, the report on child welfare; Mrs. William Leslie, Melita, Agriculture; Mrs. A. Playter, Winnipeg, Women's Institutes technique; Mrs. Rachel Parsons, Pilot Mound, the report on social service; Miss A. F. Fair, the report on the federal convention.

WEDDINGS

DOLAN-COLEMAN.
St. Thomas, June 26.—A very pretty June wedding took place at Holy Angels' Church this morning, at 7 o'clock, when Margaret Mary, eldest daughter of Mrs. Victoria Coleman and the late James Coleman, became the bride of Joseph Charles Dolan, son of Mrs. W. Dolan, 135 Curry avenue, Windsor. Rev. Father Moran officiated at the ceremony. The bride, very lovely in her wedding gown of white tulle, white lace and white roses and sweet peas, entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Sue Cunningham. Miss Genevieve Coleman, prettily dressed in white with orchid hat and carrying a bouquet of roses, attended her sister. Mr. Philip Dolan, brother of the groom, was groomsmen. After the ceremony the guests retired to the home of the bride's mother, at 50 Elizabeth street, where a delicious buffet lunch was served, after which the young couple left amid showers of congratulations and confetti on a wedding trip to Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Nelles leave Thursday on a fishing trip to the Georgian Bay district. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Dearnley and family leave today to spend the summer at their cottage in Bayfield. BEAUL-WRANCHER.
Bothwell, June 26.—A very pretty wedding took place Saturday, June 23 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Wrancher, when their eldest daughter, Pearl J., became the bride of Mr. Beaul, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Beaul. The ceremony was performed before an altar of ferns and cut flowers by Bishop John C. Dent of the Latter-Day Saints Church.

The bride looked lovely in a beige Victorian crepe gown trimmed with ruffled lace, and she wore a large flower-laden hat to match. Her bridegroom wore a tuxedo, and she wore the groom's gift, a string of pearls. The bride and groom were unattended. Miss Verlyn Wrancher, only sister of the bride, wearing a yellow crepe de chene gown, played Lohengrin's Wedding March. After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding dinner was served by seven young girl friends of the bride, all prettily attired in white. They were: Misses Leta and Fay Dent, Mary Leventon, Madeline and Gladys Johnson, Miss Beatrice McMaisters and Miss Grace Gordon of Thameville. About 50 guests were present from Detroit, Windsor, Port Huron, Chatham, Harrow and Newbury. The house was tastefully decorated with yellow flowers and white wedding bells.

The bride and groom left for their honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, where they will take the boat for Fort Hunt and travel west. The bride traveled in a suit of navy tricot, with bag and blouse of Egyptian crepe and beige picture hat. The groom's gift to the pianist was a sardonyx ring.

DOYLE-WALTERS.
At St. Joseph's Church, Milwaukee, the marriage took place last Tuesday of Martin Doyle, of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Doyle, of Harwich and Violet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walters, of 633 12th street. Rev. Father Palmer, S.J., performed the ceremony at 9 o'clock in the presence of the immediate relatives. In the evening a reception for nearly fifty guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle will reside in Detroit.

WATKINSON-DAVIS.
Strathroy, June 26.—The marriage took place on Friday afternoon last of Mrs. Davis, widow of the late Charles Davis of Strathroy, to Fred W. Watkinson, inventor and commercial traveler of Strathroy. The happy couple have returned to Strathroy, and will take up their residence at the bride's home on Metcalfe street west.

WILL SEEK RECOGNITION OF WORK OF DR. BANTING
Ottawa, June 27.—Premier King yesterday announced he intended to move in the House of Commons for recognition by parliament of the work of Dr. F. G. Banting of Toronto, discoverer of the insulin treatment for diabetes. An annuity which would permit the scientist to devote his life to medical research is proposed.

PRESENTATIONS MADE AT KNOLLWOOD SCHOOL

Pupils and Staff Honor Teachers Who Are Resigning.

An interesting event marked the afternoon session at the Knollwood Park school yesterday. It was the occasion of a farewell presentation to Miss Mabel Broughton, one of the teachers, whose marriage takes place shortly. The gift took the form of a handsome coffee percolator, the presentation being made by Mary Belcher, one of the pupils, and the address of appreciation read by Marjorie Blake. Elsie Cring also had a share in the ceremonies, handing Miss Broughton a lovely bouquet of flowers. The gift came from the pupils and teaching staff of the school.

Another interesting presentation was made at the same time, when Gwendolyn Scream, who is being transferred to the teaching staff of the Talbot Street School being the principal of London Central Collegiate Institute, was presented with a lovely hairpin. She also received a pretty bouquet of flowers from the hands of Miss Margaret Scopes.

Miss Perrin, Eleanor Thomas, Isabel Holmes, Betty Holmes and Bethel Summers, Miss Jean Nelson assisted at the tea hour.

Interesting guests in the city over the past week-end were the Rev. Dr. E. B. Lancelotti of Toronto, and his bride, who was formerly Mrs. Ogden of Toronto. The marriage having taken place in Toronto on Saturday last, Dr. and Mrs. Lancelotti, who spent Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Ziegler, Waterloo street, expect to sail for England tomorrow, where they will spend the summer. Mrs. Lancelotti is a prominent worker in Methodist Mission Circles, being president of the W. M. S. at the Eaton Memorial Church. Dr. Lancelotti was at one time pastor at the Dundas Center Methodist Church here.

Mrs. Mary Dunlop, Simcoe street, was the hostess of a tressureau tea given in honor of her daughter, Miss Anna Dunlop, a bride-elect of this week. A large number of guests were present and the rooms were artistically arranged with roses and peonies. The tea table, covered with a maderia cloth and centered with a centerpiece of flowers, was presided over by Mrs. James Donaldson in the afternoon, while Mrs. Roy Brown officiated during the evening. The assistants included Mrs. Alfred Light, Mrs. George Hodgins, Miss Eva Steel, Miss Kathleen Donaldson and Miss Elmina Vincent. Little Misses Kathleen and Reta La France made charming door attendants.

Many are looking forward with interest to the garden party which is to be held on the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium grounds today under the auspices of the London Health Association. The Ladies' Auxiliary, of which Mrs. George Brown is president, will act as hostess for the occasion. The public, which is invited to inspect the institution on this occasion, will be received by Mrs. H. E. Gates, vice-president of the auxiliary, Mrs. (Dr.) Praton, wife of the superintendent of the Sanatorium, and Miss Forest, lady superintendent. Tea will be served in the grounds under the conservatory of Mrs. C. H. Ziegler, while Mrs. Ibbotson Leonard will convene the ladies. The R. C. E. band will be in attendance, and will be supplemented by the Sanatorium band. Sir Adam Beck, London's new member, expects to be present.

Complimenting Miss Laura Stephenson, a bride-elect of this week, Mrs. Ralph McKay, entertained at a charming luncheon at her home in Malland street yesterday. Covers were laid for ten and the table was adorned with pink and white peonies.

Miss Nanette Bewley, of Surrey, England, who was a week-end guest last evening for the cup of which she is commandant in Massachusetts. Miss Bewley is head of the ranger companies of the British empire.

Mrs. H. H. Young, Dufferin avenue, entertained at the tea hour, yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Wakeman of Wisconsin, who is a guest with Mrs. George McCormick. Mrs. Young also entertained at a supper party last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wakeman.

Mrs. E. J. Archibald of Montreal is expected in London tomorrow for the wedding of her sister, Miss Stirling Love, which takes place Saturday. While in the city, Mrs. Archibald will be a guest with her brother, Mr. Archibald, of the "Love-holme Farm," Springbank.

Tempier, Talbot street, for the wedding of Miss Edith Helen Tempier, which will take place Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. H. Childs, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Childs, is taking place at the Cronyn Memorial Church today.

Mrs. Ronald Harris and Miss Helen Baker are in Buffalo taking part in an invitation golf tournament which is being held there by the Buffalo Country Club. Although members of the London club have been invited to such occasions, this is the first time golfers from London have accepted the invitation.

The semi-finals for the Smart cup, which are to be played on the Hunt Club links by tomorrow night, are attracting a great deal of interest among local lady golfers. In the semi-finals Miss Helen Baker plays against Mrs. E. H. Nelles, and Mrs. Ronald Harris against Mrs. George Little. The finals will be completed by Saturday of this week.

A delightful supper party was arranged last evening at Wong's Cafeteria by the Alumni of the Conservatory of Music in honor of Mr. F. L. Willgoose, who is leaving the city, shortly to conduct a summer school in New York. The party was held following the conservatory graduation exercises, and the guests who numbered thirty-five included the graduates.

Miss Ethel Gurney, Gerrard street, was the hostess of a merry party on Monday afternoon in honor of her 10th birthday. After "Mrs. Young" served the young guests spent a jolly evening. The little guests numbering 14 included Misses Jean Asnew, Audrey Darling, Eleanor Harley, Jean Todd, Jean Brooks, Mary Kennerson, Vera Kennerson, Dorothy Hill, El-

W. H. T. Mooney Honored By Collegiate Teachers

Delegation Calls At His Home and Presents Him With a Handsome Silver Tray.

W. H. T. Mooney, retiring principal of the London Collegiate Institute, was honored by the teaching staff of the school, when a deputation called at his home and presented him with a handsome silver tray, suitably engraved. The actual presentation was made by a committee of four, including N. R. Gray, G. L. MacDonald, Miss Alice Kelso and A. E. O'Neill, appointed at a special meeting of the members of the staff held on the last day of school. The address, which accompanied the presentation, expresses the good wishes of the staff. It is signed by the members of the delegation, and reads in part as follows:

"After a long connection of 17 years as assistant and five years as principal of London Central Collegiate Institute you have seen fit to sever your connection with our institution. On this occasion of your leaving the members of the staff desire to give you some formal and tangible expression of their good wishes for the future of yourself and Mrs. Mooney."

"Some of us have been associated with you longer than others and have thus come to know you very intimately, and have become closely knit to you in the bonds of friendship. To these your departure from our midst brings a very real sense of personal loss."

"Other members of the staff have been associated with you for a brief period and so have not had the same chance of forming those close bonds of friendship that come only with the passing years. These, however, have nothing but the sincerest good wishes for you and for Mrs. Mooney in whatever place or position your lot in life may in future be cast. You may rest firmly assured that the members of this staff will follow you there, that they wish for you every good thing that you may wish for yourself, and that the realization of these wishes by you will give them one and all the greatest joy and pleasure."

Fathers Are Funny. The Children Say So and Their Mothers Admit It.

There's no doubt about it. Fathers are funny. The children say so and their mothers admit it.

"My father is funny," said Midge to Bob.

"Yes," said Bob.

"Whenever we children do something that he doesn't like he says to mother: 'Those children of yours, but if we do something that's good, he says: "My children. Isn't that funny?"

"Yes. Mine's just like that. Last winter I had a run of bad luck. I got in trouble in English four. The teacher didn't like me, and nothing I did suited. Of course I know I'm no star, but just the same she never gave me a mark she could help and I came near flunking. Got a second warning, you know. That made Dad sore. He says: 'Mother, that boy of yours isn't doing his work. What's the matter with him?"

"Next thing I caught cold and had to stay in bed three days. Then I got back to school and fell on the stairs and sprained my ankle and the doctor had to come again. Just as I was getting spry again I got a boil on my neck and he had to come again, and Dad says: 'That boy of yours seems to be doing nothing but getting sick. I was never sick like that! And Ma never says a word."

"No. My mother doesn't either."

"Well, long toward the end of the term I picked up and ate the English so she had to give me a passing mark and I got the prize for the essay from the Bugle."

"I was glad to get that, so Ma could say something about me that wasn't against me, you see? All winter Dad had been saying: 'That boy of yours, so I chased home and told her about it."

"Your father will be so pleased," says she. "Run and tell him the first thing when he comes in."

"So when Dad came in I told him and he smiled all over and when he was talking to Mr. Spence over the phone he says: 'Did you hear that my son Bob drew the medal from the Bugle?' and mother smiled as pleased as could be. Fathers are funny."

"Aren't they? And mothers just let them be and never say a thing. When the little ones get to scragging and crying, Father puts down his paper and calls, 'Stop that noise, and they quiet down a little bit and start right in again and then he hollers, 'Ma, can't you make those children of yours stop their racket?' and she does."

"But when the photographer came in and asked Ma if he could have a picture of the twins for exhibition, father was very careful to see that his name was given as their father. I noticed that."

"Sure. When we're bad we belong to mother, and when we're good, we take after father!"

"Yes. Aren't fathers funny?"

Zona Gale Says

"Nervous Prostration Is a By-Product of Self-Consciousness."

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, Labrador doctor, says that he has no case of nervous prostration among the young men and young women who voluntarily spend the winters, without compensation, in the frozen north.

Of course not! Nervous prostration is a by-product of self-consciousness. Those who respond to such a call for unselfish devotion to others as Dr. Grenfell makes thereby move from self-consciousness to race consciousness. They work for a whole instead of for one.

Power flows out from them when they give themselves to others. And power flows back to them by the very act of giving. They are centers of renewing strength thousands of idle, nervous men and women found rest and serenity in alleviating the misery of others. The strong medicine of a will to help their fellows brought in, healing activity the cells of selflessness.

For the first time in their lives some of these war workers realized themselves as parts of the social unit. In the companionship of useful work, of creative service, of the new conviction that they were needed, they lost that restless turning back upon the self which is the basis of so much more than our nervous troubles. But some thoughtless ones have condoned the wickedness of war because it incidentally draws out noble traits of human nature. As well condone leprosy because it offers the Father Damien of the world a chance to throw away their lives!

One task of society is to multiply the Dr. Grenfells and their humble and lofty service. They we shall have fewer nervous wrecks.

Your Home and You

By HELEN KENDALL.

Do you love chintz—gay, flower-hued, cheerful chintz—especially in a bedroom? I am sure you do. We women waited a long time for the chintz era to come, while our mothers and our grandmothers used heavy plush, brocade, chenille, Nottingham lace, and kindred gloomy materials for their curtains. Now that we have chintz, however, don't let's allow it to go to our heads. Too much chintz is as bad as too much perfume or too much jewelry—and in order to make any charming thing effective, it must be used sparingly.

Not long ago I was shown into a guest-room which gave me a headache before I had gotten my hat off. My eyes began rolling about, my right hand reached out for a chair to steady me, and my tummy had a queer sort of seasick feeling. I was wallowing in a sea of chintz, and I felt as if I could hardly find my way about the room. I made a hasty sketch of one corner of it, so that our artist could show you how not to let chintz "get that way."

To begin with, there were looped-up chintz curtains at the windows, and these curtains collided with frilly chintz covers on the dressing table, the big over-stuffed chair and the lounging chair. The mirror over the dressing table was covered with the material and the candle shades were made of it. Across the room was the bed, with a full valance of the stuff around its feet and a four-poster canopy of it overhead. Two more chairs, another window, and a shirt-waist box were draped in the same flowered material.

I reeled and gave a low moan. Then I clapped my hand over my mouth—I was afraid I would begin to scream.

But there I stopped. I longed for the contrast of a plain shade everywhere in the room—in the bed-canopy, on all but perhaps one of the chairs. I was almost afraid to sleep in that room, lest too much chintz should make me mad!

Months Effected.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, June 27.—The Montreal police yesterday credited authorities in Albany, N. Y., with having bagged the biggest group of Canadian criminals in many months—a group held responsible for many daring hold-ups.

The local authorities were advised today that four men were being detained for them in Albany and expressed belief that one of them was the bandit who robbed the paymaster of the Standard Shirt Manufacturing Company of this city of a $60,000 payroll last April. Three others arrested with this suspect were believed to have been involved in a series of automobile thefts.

HOW GOLFERS GAMBLE.

Golfers can be divided into two classes—those who play simply and solely for the love of the game and those who regard it as a healthy pastime and "a good game when the stakes are high enough to make it worth playing."

Let us hope the first mentioned will always outnumber the second by an enormous majority. Should the reverse become the case, the "Royal and Ancient Game" will lose the exalted position which it at present holds among all sports and pastimes. Strictly speaking, "gambling" is playing for stakes higher than one can really afford to lose. This being so, the mere thought that a bad shot may mean the paying out of a large sum is quite sufficient to upset the entire game of a player who is nervously inclined.

A competitor in a ladies' championship had come successfully through a hard match and was greeted by a stranger who showered congratulations upon her. This delight at her victory was almost entirely due to his having backed her for a large sum. During her next match, her casual supporter informed her that he had doubled his stakes and she would have to win as he could not afford to lose.

Whether this affected the player or not, she was too sporting to admit, but the fact remains her game began to show signs of nervousness, and she eventually lost to an opponent who should have been her victim. Gambling among spectators at any game is general, and golf is no exception.

but each spectator should keep the knowledge of his or her bets from the players concerned.

The form of the favorites in a certain Ladies' Open championship was seriously affected by a selling sweepstakes. The names had been drawn and auctioned on the eve of the meeting. The knowledge that your chance of ultimate success has been bought for a large sum may have an inspiring effect upon some temperaments, but a decidedly unnerving one upon others.

It is almost unnecessary to add that the L. G. U. does not sanction the holding of any such gambles, and limits the sweep to the all-one-price type, in which, if you are lucky, you draw a Miss Wethered, and if you are unlucky, you do not.

There was an amusing case of "the biter being bit" on a certain course the other day. A is a player who plays for the love of the game. B, his opponent, is a professional gambler. Class B put the usual question, "What shall we play for?" A replied that he did not play for money as a rule, but his opponent was particularly anxious.

After some discussion, a certain sum per hole was agreed to, and A drove off from the first tee. The shot was a truly bad low hook into the rough. B, on seeing this poor effort, suggested the doubling of the stakes, to which A agreed. History does not record the spirit played, but there was a general feeling of satisfaction when it became known that A won the match shortly after the turn, and that his notecase benefitted considerably.

EXEMPLIFY FIRST AID
AT SPRINGBANK PICNICMembers of Lord Kitchener Nursing Division Hold Unique Picnic.

The efficiency of the stretcher work and first aid work of the members of the Lord Kitchener Nursing Division, No. 28, St. John Ambulance Brigade, was demonstrated yesterday at their annual picnic held at Springbank. Several accidents were staged for the occasion, giving the stretcher-bearers an opportunity to display their work and proving the skill of the members in offering first aid. The members even went further than this maintaining a small hospital under the trees in the park, where demonstrations in home nursing were carried on.

Miss Ella Davis, divisional superintendent, and Miss Hoffman, first officer, were in command. Those taking part in the demonstrations included: Stretcher, Mrs. Churcher, Mrs. Forsythe, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Routledge, Mrs. Dodd and Miss Smith; human stretcher, Mrs. Dear and Mrs. Astles; Sgt. Woolcott, instructor in stretcher work, was a special guest of the afternoon.

A very fine program of sports was run off, under the convenship of Mrs. James Mills and Mrs. Marsh. Mrs. Emily Churcher was supper convener.

FRUIT-A-TIVES" ENDED THREE YEARS OF HEADACHES

A FIRM FRIEND OF THE FAMOUS FRUIT MEDICINE

MRS. VALIQUETTE

Nervous Dyspepsia completely relieved

Although "Fruit-a-tives" have been before the people of Canada for nearly a quarter of a century, their marvellous success in over-coming disease is nothing short of a miracle to those who try them for the first time. And these grateful people are proud and happy to tell what this fruit medicine has done for them. Mrs. Honore Valiquette, 1133 Notre Dame Street West, Montreal, writes, "I wish I could tell every sufferer in the world what 'Fruit-a-tives' have done for me. For three years, I was troubled with Bad Headaches, Nervous Dyspepsia and Liver Trouble. Then, I commenced taking 'Fruit-a-tives'. Very soon my condition improved and now, thanks to these wonderful fruit tablets, I am once more entirely well". "Fruit-a-tives" perform such marvels because they are entirely different from any other medicine in the world; being the concentrated and intensified juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes combined with tonics. They have proved their marvellous value in all cases of Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Skin Trouble. Try them. 25c. and 50c. a box—at all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

New Stories By O. HENRY

WHY CONDUCTORS ARE MOROSE

Street car conductors often have their tempers tried by the inconsiderate portion of the public, but they are not allowed to ease their feelings by "talking back". One of them related yesterday an occurrence on his line a few days ago.

A very fashionably dressed lady, accompanied by a little boy, boarded a car which was quite full of people. "Conductor," she said languidly, "let me know when we arrive at Peace avenue."

When the car arrived at that street the conductor rang the bell and the car stopped.

"Peace avenue, ma'am," he said, climbing off to assist her from the car.

The lady raised the little boy to his knees and pointed out the window at the name of the street which was on a board nailed to the corner of a fence.

"Look, Freddy," she said, "that straight letter with a funny little curl at the top is a 'P'. Now don't forget it again. You can go on, conductor; we get off at Gray street."

TOO MUCH.

The Independent Society of Emancipated Women was about to form in line for the grand parade through the principal streets of the city.

They were a thousand strong, and they were prepared to demonstrate that they were fully equal to man in strength, courage and ability to cope with the world.

The young woman who was to head the procession and carry the banner, stepped forward.

She was a magnificent brunette, five feet eight inches in height, and with flashing eyes and determined manner.

The band began playing, and an attendant brought her the banner she was to carry.

She took it in her hand, and then with a loud scream threw it from her as far as she could, and sank upon the ground trembling with fright. The banner was made of mouse-colored silk.

OVERWORKED MOTHERS

We all know them. Mothers who in their anxiety to keep their homes neat and attractive, and their little ones as well dressed as their playmates, toil on day in and day out, sweeping, dusting, mending and cooking, often suffering from backache, pain in the side, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness—all symptoms of more serious ailments. Thousands of such women have found relief from such suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as is evidenced by letters of recommendation continually being published in this paper. For nearly 50 years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring ailing women to health and strength.

LONDON LADY FINDS RELIEF

Mrs. Crabb Finds in Dreco, the Famous Herbal Remedy, Corrective Properties That Overcame Sufferings of Years.

The story of Mrs. A. Crabb, of 22 Rayburn street, London, Ont., is an object lesson to every man or woman who is troubled with digestive ailments. It shows the extent of the suffering had in digestion causes, if allowed to pursue its way unchecked. Check your digestive complaints now with Dreco, and avoid the misery that Mrs. Crabb describes. Here is her statement:

"Since August 17, 1922, I have been in terrible pain, through my left side, and also around through my back. The pains were so acute that night after night I would walk the floor, unable to sleep. I was unable to do my housework, as I was in misery from morning to night. Gastric trouble caused my stomach to bloat, and my sufferings from indigestion were awful.

"I began taking Dreco on January 15, and today I feel like a new woman. The pains have entirely gone, and I am now able to do my own housework and cooking. My appetite is good, and I have no gastric troubles, while before taking Dreco everything would turn my stomach.

"I tried every kind of pills and remedies, and had almost given up hope when I heard of Dreco. I am so happy over the benefits Dreco has given me that I tell everyone about it. It was a godsend, and I am continuing to use it."

Dreco is a natural remedy, prepared from herbs, roots, bark and leaves known for ages for their medicinal properties.

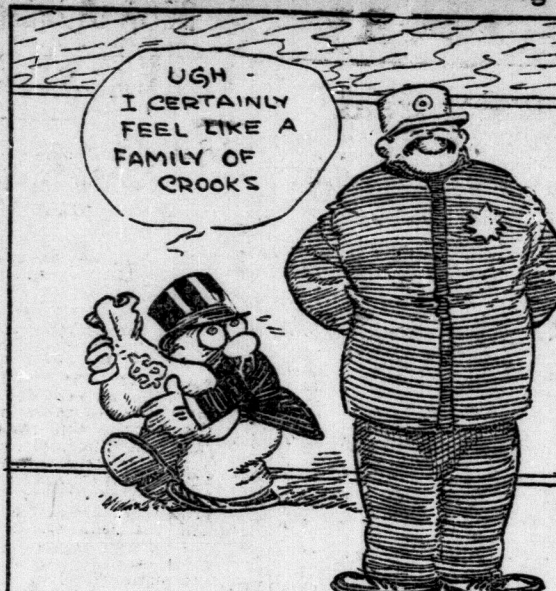

Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs, and is a safe and certain spring tonic and regulator.

Dreco is being specially introduced in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and is sold at all their stores in London, St. Thomas and Woodstock. It is also sold in Chatham by W. W. Turner, in Sarnia by Ingersoll's Drug Store, Stratford by Nasmith & Harwood, Ingersoll by A. L. Law, Galt by R. W. Meikleham, Ridgeway by D. H. Stewart, Bothwell by Bothwell Drug Store, Lucan by H. S. Stanley, and by a good druggist everywhere.

It is related that the South African diamond fields were discovered by accident. A farmer became curious about the bright pebble with which some Boer children were playing. This same "pebble" was afterwards sold for nearly $25,000.

Carroll Finds Out Many Interesting Things From the Little Chatterbox Who Is His Hostess

"They didn't believe me at first. Then Sis said you were too old — and you're not old at all — and Gerald said — he said — she giggled. 'What did Gerald say?' 'He said: 'Damned impertinence!'"

"'Hm! I wonder just what he meant!'"

"'Oh! Goodness! It doesn't matter what Gerald means. He makes me weary. He's simply impossible — and I can't see what Sis ever married him for.'" "I suppose she saw more in him than you do. They must be very happy together."

"'Happy! Poof! Happy as two dead sardines in a can. They can't get out — so they might as well be happy. Besides, he's away a good deal.'" "He is, eh? When was his last out-of-town trip?"

"'Carroll was interested now — he had steered the conversation back to matters of importance. "Oh! 'bout four days ago — you know — the day Roland was killed by that vampire in the taxicab.'" "He was away that night — all night?"

"'Uh-huh! All night long. And would you believe that Sis — who is scared of her shadow at night — was the one who suggested that I go out the night with Hazel? And it's certainly fortunate you? That's because if she hadn't I wouldn't have been with Hazel all night, and you would have believed her story that she was at home in bed; and then you would have arrested her for murdering Roland — and she'd have gone to jail and be hanged — or something. Wouldn't she?"

"'Hardly that bad.' But it was fortunate that you were there. It made the estate of the alibi a very simple matter. And you say your sister — Mrs. Lawrence — is nervous at night?"

"'Oh! Fearfully. She's just like all women — scared of rats, scared of dark, scared of being alone — perfectly disgusting, I call it.'" "Quite a few women are that way, though."

"'I'm not. I'm scared of snakes and flying bugs and things like that. But who's going to be scared of the dark — pff! I always say. I believe in figuring things out, don't you? I read in a book once —"

"'But maybe you do Mrs. Lawrence — an injustice. Maybe she isn't as afraid at night as you imagine.'" "She is, too."

"'Yet you say she let you spend the night at Miss Gresham's house when Mr. Lawrence was out of the city, and there wasn't anybody on the place but the servants?'" "Worse than that. The servants don't even live on the place. She spent the night here all alone —"

"'Then all I'll say is that she is a brave woman. When did Mr. Lawrence get back from Nashville?"

"'Oh! Not until 10 o'clock the following morning. Al — believe me, he was all excited when he read about Roland in the papers. Poor Roland! If you were only a girl, Mr. Carroll, you'd know how terrible it is to have a man who's crazy about you and engaged to your best friend and everything — go and get himself murdered. Why, when I read the papers that morning, I couldn't hardly believe my own eyes. I just said to myself: 'It can't be!'"

"'I said it over and over again just like that. Having little faith, I think they call it. I was reading in a book once about a young faith —"

"'She talked interminably. Carroll ceased to hear the plaintive voice — he was thinking of what she had just told him — thinking earnestly. He knew he was desperately anxious to have a talk with the Lawrences — to talk things over in a casual manner. And tonight was his opportunity. He knew he'd never have another like it. He didn't want to be forced to seek them out in his capacity of detective."

"'From somewhere in the rear of the house he heard the clatter of a door, then the sound of footsteps in the hall, the opening and closing of the front door — and then Naomi Lawrence appeared in the main room. Carroll could have sworn that he was twinking with amusement"

"ECONOMY" FURNACE

We have often said you can't go wrong with a Pease Furnace properly installed. Mr. J. R. McLeod, 355 Wortley road, London, confirms this.

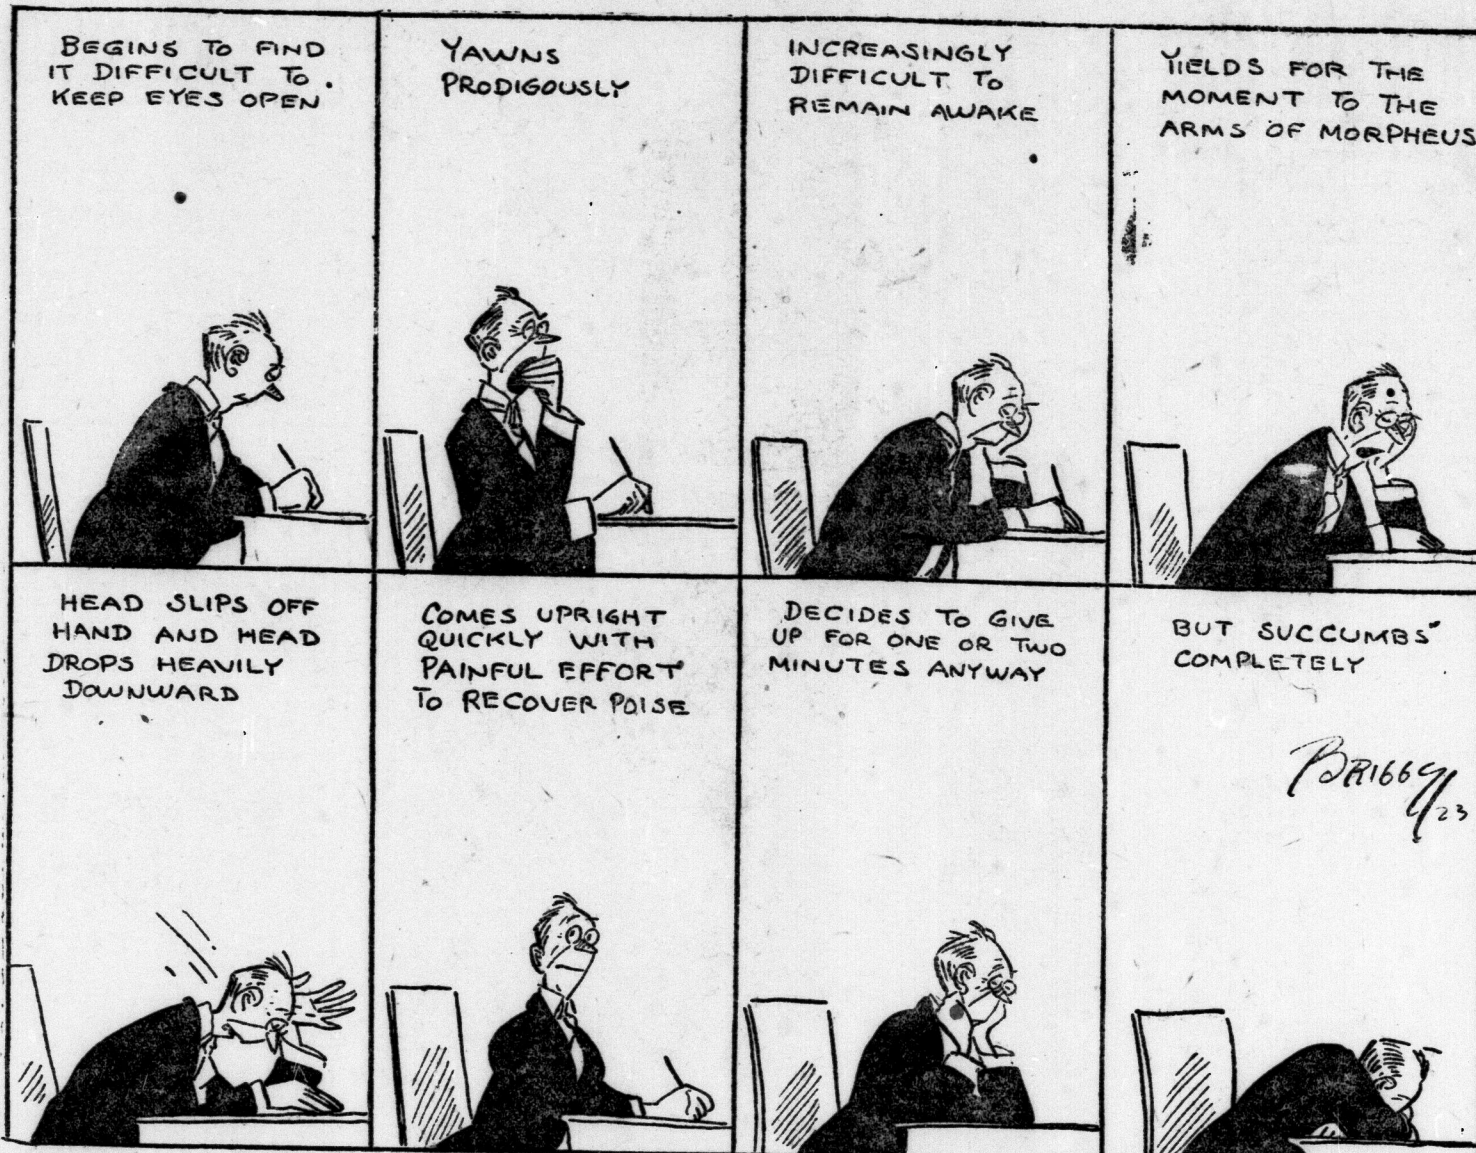

"We are very much pleased with the Pease Furnace. We find it no trouble to have the house between 70 and 75 degrees or higher during the most severe weather. We are not burning as much coal as we did with the two stoves we used before the furnace was installed."

that he was a guest in her home, and as such he was entitled to ordinary courtesy.

Carroll was more than a little sorry for her, and also a bit rueful at his own part. Things had gone wrong for him from the commencement of the evening. And this — well, the fact of the matter was that he had been in her face and he was no man to refuse to be challenged. But his muscles were taut until the soft voice of Naomi broke in on the pregnant stillness.

"'Won't you be seated, Mr. Carroll?' Carroll smiled gratefully at her. With her words the unpleasant tension had lightened. He dropped into an arm chair. Lawrence laid down his paper and rose to his feet. 'Well,' he inquired, inquisitively. 'Carroll laughed lightly. 'It got too much for me. Too much you folks. I dropped in here for a chat with you. I didn't understand that you had come to call on us,' said Lawrence, coldly.

"'Why, I didn't —'" "You're tired," snapped Lawrence. "I'm no fool, Carroll. From the minute I heard you were coming, I knew what you had up your sleeve. You wanted to talk about the Warren case. Now suppose you go ahead and talk — then get out!"

CHAPTER XIII.
No Alibi.

Carroll was rarely thrown from a mental balance, but this was one of the exceptions to a rule of conduct as a personal man. His eyes were half-closed in their clash with the coldly antagonistic eyes of his host. His instinctive dislike of the man had opened up, and he controlled himself with an effort.

One thing Lawrence had done: he had stripped from Carroll his disguise as a casual caller and settled down to a personal man. Lawrence stood by the table, eyes shifting from one to the other.

"'Id rather,' she suggested, softly. 'that we did not discuss the Warren case.'" "It doesn't matter what you prefer," snapped her husband, coldly. "Carroll forced himself upon us for that purpose — with a lack of decency which has now been expected. Let him have his say."

"'Carroll forced himself upon us for that purpose — with a lack of decency which has now been expected. Let him have his say.'" "Carroll forced himself upon us for that purpose — with a lack of decency which has now been expected. Let him have his say."

"'Just the same, dear —'" started Naomi, when her husband interrupted, angrily.

"'Nor any apologies to him from you, Naomi. Carroll has placed himself beyond the pale by what he has done in having the impertinence to force himself upon us as a social equal. Now, Carroll — are you ready with your little catechism?"

"'Yes.' The detective's voice was quite calm. 'I'm quite ready.'" "Well — ask," Lawrence paused. "You did come here to inquire about Warren, didn't you?"

"'I don't need to forebear a dig: I trust that you are not putting it upon me to deny your statement to that effect.'" "I don't give a damn what you deny or affirm."

"'Good! Then we know all about each other, don't we. You know that I am a detective in search of information and I know absolutely what you are.'" That dart went home — Lawrence squirmed. "So I'll come back to the point. Is it not a fact that you were in this city at the hour Roland Warren is supposed to have been killed?"

"'He heard a surprised gasp from Naomi, and saw that her face had blanched, and that she was leaning forward, with eyes wide and hands clutching the arms of the chair in which she had seated herself."

Lawrence leered. "As the kids would say, Carroll — that's for me to know and for you — super-detective that you are — to find out."

Your letter stating that if Henry Wadsworth Longfellow wrote that piece about is this a dagger which I see before me to send you a copy of the book it was in because Hen Silsbury bet you $5 he didn't and you took him up and if the book doesn't cost over $3 it will be worth it to settle the argument has been received period.

You put it very well Mister Inmrong where you say that there is nothing like having the facts right in your hand when you go to prove where you're right and for that reason coupled with the fact that Henry Wadsworth Longfellow probably never even saw a dagger before much less wrote about it prompts us to suggest that you order our Erdrite set of Shakespeare with handsome red leather ends that will add culture to your library no matter what you have there now and then wait for the Little Bears to bet that Shakespeare did not write the quality of mercy is not strained a complete description of which you will find in our inclosed folder.

The CHILDREN'S HOUR

Mother Bear Teaches the Three Little Bears How To Get An Ant Dinner.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

It was as Mrs. Grouse had said: Mother Bear is not given to doing any one thing very long at a time. That hole in which Peter Rabbit had hidden was a deep one, and Mother Bear soon gave up trying to dig it open. The little Bears were not quite so ready to give up, for they found a lot of excitement in digging. But Mother Bear shuffled away and told them to follow, they didn't dare disobey.

Mother Bear shuffled along lazily until finally they came to a little open place in the middle of which was a mound of sand. Mother Bear's eyes brightened. She called the triplets and led them over to it. All about in that mound of sand were little holes, and going in and out of those holes and scurrying about in all directions were big ants. That they were big as ants go. Mother Bear licked her lips greedily. The three little Bears licked their lips. They had already learned to like ants.

"This," said Mother Bear, "is an ant castle. Down under ground are ever and ever and ever so many Watch them. And I'll show you how to get them."

The three little Bears sat down to watch. They were very much puzzled. They wondered if Mother Bear would try to dig that ant castle open. They wondered how she would be able to lick up those ants with one of those long noses of hers. They tried it themselves as they saw ants running back and forth over the mound, but each time they got more sand than was at all to their liking.

Mother Bear sat down beside the mound and then dug down into the middle of it with one big paw, and worked it back and forth, and round and round. Then she withdrew it and stretched out flat on the ground with both forepaws out in front of her on the edge of what mound.

At once she poured an army of very angry ants. They were angry because their home had been disturbed. Right away they began to swarm up along them. They seemed to know that here was the place where they had disturbed their castle. Now of course Mother Bear was covered with hair, and those ants could not easily get down to the skin to bite. Moreover, it wasn't the easy traveling over those hairs. They kept on just the same. Then out swept Mother Bear's long tongue, and licked up the ants that were on her paws. As fast as they came out and climbed up on her big paws she swept them into her mouth. There was no more ants.

Now, little Bears learn quickly. They watched round-eyed for a few minutes, and then they, too, stretched out flat on the ground with their little paws out in front of them, and began to lick up the ants that came crawling up on those paws. Once in a while Mother Bear would stop to dig down into that castle and stir it up again. Each time she kept the ants angry. Each time she poured out to fight for their home.

Such a feast as those Bears had.

"This," said Mother Bear, "is an ant castle."

The side tid sports cost may be a bit too sophisticated for the very young ones, but there are many youthful styles being shown for which will please her feminine heart. A short sports coat is really going to be quite essential in the summer wardrobe, and one should choose now while the assortments are plentiful. Bright colors will be worn with white shirts, and neutral shades will be worn with the rainbow effects and shades of Egyptian colors which are seen in many of the new skirts and frocks.

Here is one of the straight line jackets for the very young girl. It is an adaptation of the favorite old Norfolk style, and is made of white flannel or broadcloth. Red flannel is used as piping and banding. It edges the collar and front of the jacket, trims the pockets and bell sleeves, and adds a smart dash which the young girl will like. A belt of self material is worn here, but the coat may be worn without a belt with just as pretty a line. A white silk skirt and white ribbon and straw hat complete the costume, which may be worn upon all occasions which sub-debs may attend.

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

GOLD-THREAD MAGIC.

By MARTHA McCULLOCH-WILLIAMS

Verre made a picture against the silver trunk of a huge beech, sole survivor of a primeval forest. The turf at her feet was tussocky to raggedness, but she loved it better for that — the tussocks gave shelter to so many vagrant wild flowers, and garden straws — harebells, acenella, violets, white, blue and yellow; larkspur, sweet williams, even starveling mignonette and candytuft.

There were runways June roses, too, in a thick clump on beyond, with a backing of stout blackberry briars. Gold-thread, whose name she loved, was in love vine, laced the thorny tangle richly. Verre had pulled a handful of the fine yellow filaments, and stood snipping them in pieces, saying under her breath:

"Love live! Love die!"

Black mammy had taught her the charm when she was fifteen. She had practiced it, as she thought, in the strictest privacy, only to be discovered by Royal, the object of her incantations. His shouting laugh had been cruel enough, but less so than the shamed silliness of his eyes when her flaming confusion enlightened him.

He was two years older. They had been comrades half a year — pals. Evidently by his thought she had never sensed articulately what he had meant to her.

Sudden knowledge had been scathing as a lightning stroke. He had turned from her awkwardly, saying dully: "Oh, I better be going. Aunt Margaret sent me to — to ask if she can get you people to help out with the party — cups and spoons and plates, and things, you know. I'll tell her yes, and that you'll come help with the party."

She had slept ill that night, thinking of what she must endure facing him again. But fate kindly spared her that — Aunt Margaret made her gay good-byes from Royal — he had been suddenly called home — but was coming back at Christmas — she was not to forget him and be sure to save him dances. And she had smiled beautifully.

In the night she had suddenly grown up. This mature self knew Royal would not come back at least not for years. In truth, he did not come — his father's slight illness that he had had to go far away, taking Royal with him.

Then nobly she heard of him, prop and stay of a falling fortune — later of his father's death, the son's engagement to an heiress of the golden coast — after that silence — five full years of it.

They had been eventful years for Verre. She had found her voice, a magnificent one. Then just as it was coming to full strength and charm, trickery fate had made her lap to a tidy fortune. It had ended her potential career — she had never craved distinction, but sang as birds sing, because it came for music in the air. Now, standing in the old spot, idly repeating the old charm, she wondered whether she had been wise to choose the high distinction of private station rather than the world acclaim. She had had lovers — sheals of them — one or two so fine she had considered them for partners a fortnight and ended by giving them the kindest of nays.

Not that she was romantically faithful to that girlish fancy, but that the scar of it seemed to bar her heart from again swelling at another voice, another touch.

If Royal had ever kissed her it would not have been so strange. She had nothing to remember but the shouted laugh, the sullen, shamed eyes — measure food, indeed, for a heart throughout a stretch of years.

He was coming in a very little while — hence, her present employment. Fancifully she had told herself she could better show him thus, her complete indifference to anything in the past. As a married man, he might be so much more susceptible. If he came, bent on making amends for that old cruelty, there might arise a situation — unless she took great pains to avoid it.

Had the ten years changed him greatly? To her they had been wholly cold, robbing of it nothing, only changing her little angularity into a singular grace of pose and motion. Yet would they know each other if they met elsewhere? A faint, amused smile hovered about her lips at the thought — it froze as a voice behind her said: "Am I speaking to Miss Hawthorn — or Verre?"

"That depends!"

"Upon whom? Or what?"

"Upon whom you seek?" airily, not lifting eyes from the gold-thread now almost exhausted.

"As to that — honestly, I can't say. I came to see Verre — but her supplanter will not let me find her."

"Ah, ah! We have learned to pay compliments. Is your wife with you?"

"Not yet," rather thickly — then as she flung away the last yellow thread:

"I want that, please. Don't believe I should have known you if you hadn't been playing the same game as when I saw you last."

"What a memory!"

"Verre's apothrophized space, then quickly: "Come to the house. I want your judgment of several and sundry things there. I have such a passion for changing, and then so little confidence in the result."

"Of course, you have daffodils all along your drive, and starbuds and geraniums," Royal interrupted. "Those were your two pet ambitions in the old time. Now that you're not only a rich lady but a person of distinction, I am certain you have achieved them."

"I have not," pretending to pout. "My lawn is as unflawed as ever my conscience. Out back there's a real riot of blooms, I ravage to my heart's content there."

"I see! Your predatory impulses have come to the surface," Royal laughed. "I felt them without knowing they were there. That was what made me always deadly afraid of you."

"Politeness is a fearful strain," Verre said reflectively.

Royal laughed, saying softly, "Say damn — call me a liar right out — if you're thinking such things."

"What a mind reader you are!" Verre interrupted him. "You know — were your two pet ambitions in the old time — after the day you pulled me out of your saddle."

"You had no business in it — foot of a side!" Royal countered, his chin going up.

"But I wanted to try it," Verre persisted. "And have been glad always of the trial. It has made and kept me a side-saddle fan — helped, of course, by your going away — it wouldn't have done at all to let you know you had any hand in it."

"Come along!" I want to see how you have desecrated 'The Beeches,'" Royal said masterfully, clutching her arm.

She drew it away, and half ran along the tussocks to the smooth grass, pausing there to say: "Shut your eyes — right — till I give you leave to open them."

Silently she obeyed — walking beside her, guided by her light footfalls. Presently he was aware of a darkening overhead — at the same instant Verre cried: "Look!" pausing back of him so his vision might range unimpeded up down aloft, toward the green temple of ancient trees.

Royal bared his head to them, saying reverently: "You have kept the faith. All is better than even hope could paint it. Talk of change — I see none. The place has always haunted me — now it will haunt me more than ever."

"I wonder — will your wife like it as well?" Verre said, half wistfully.

Royal caught her hand and raised it to his lips, saying: "I am sure she will — for unless she is a yare, she will never be anybody at all."

Contractors Threaten To Foreclose On Arena.

Associated Press Despatch.
Shelby, Mont., June 26.—Further financial complications loomed today for the management of the Dempsey-Gibbons heavyweight championship fight, when local team men and labor contractors threatened to foreclose on the arena constructed for the battle.

Steps were taken immediately by local officials of the fight and Great Falls businessmen, financially interested, toward plans for an application for a restraining order from the Supreme Court at Helena, if such action becomes necessary.

The claim against the arena for materials furnished is approximately $38,000, according to George H. Stanton, Great Falls banker, who attended a conference held here today where a demand was said to have been made that the lumbermen be paid out of the first receipts from ticket money.

"We could not agree to this," said Stanton. "As the second $100,000 guarantee at Great Falls was paid with the understanding that the arena would be reimbursed first out of the fight proceeds."

"We offered to split up the money received pro rata in the payment of outstanding obligations," declared Stanton. "If that offer is refused, our only resort will be to ask for a restraining order."

Associated Press Despatch.
Shelby, Mont., June 26.—Another crisis which threatened to imperil the holding of the Dempsey-Gibbons world's heavyweight championship fight here today was averted when an agreement was reached between the fight officials, Great Falls businessmen, financially interested in the fight, and nine local lumber dealers and labor contractors, who hold a mortgage of $35,000 against the arena constructed for the bout.

Gibbons did not work out today, but pitched one inning of a baseball game between the Gibbons Athletic Club and the Shelby team.

St. Michaels mounted another step on the C. A. A. ladder last night, when they triumphed over St. Peter's in a postponed game at Sunshine Park, winning their sixth straight game, and going into second place. St. Michaels stepped into the lead with two runs in the first frame, and only by a fast double play did the St. Peter's pitcher hold the runners to a pair of corners. At the time the bases were filled, and two were caught at the plate. A long single, however, sent the other two runners across.

St. Peter's notched one in their half, and another in the second, tying the score. Neither run was earned. A walk, a wild pitch and a passed ball did the damage, resulting in St. Peter's first tally, while in the second a hit into the wind was the second tally. The throw-in got lost in the sun and rolled past first, for a double, and last tally being chalked up.

St. Michaels drew into the lead again in the third, when the batter, who had Nopper's delivery continued, adding another in the fourth, and made it a total of six at the end of the sixth. St. Peter's didn't even threaten after the second.

Richards hurled beautiful ball all the way, except for slight wildness traceable to the game of wind that was blowing. He allowed only five hits, walked three, and had a wild pitch. Nopper pitched for twelve solid smashes, inserted throughout the session where they would accomplish. Two of St. Peter's three hits were doubles.

PLAYER CAUSES RIOT GOING IN AFTER FAN

Associated Press Despatch.
Baltimore, June 26.—A riot was threatened during the Baltimore-Rochester International League game here today, when Sydney Jones, Rochester player, jumped into the stands and struck at one of the spectators. Instantly the stands were in an uproar, and some effort on the part of the police was necessary to restore order. Earlier in the game John Jenkins, Rochester, threw a handful of dust into the faces of two men sitting just behind the visitors' dugout.

The assaults were consequences of alleged abuse to which the players had been subjected since their arrival Saturday. A particularly strident group of Orioles supporters, the visitors claimed, has been gathering behind the Chiefs' dugout, shouting derisive and obscene remarks at the players.

Special to The Advertiser.
Flint, Mich., June 26.—Despite strong head winds, which reached the proportions of a gale, and a rather spotty track, due to hot weather, the short-shipp races at the Davison oval got off to a fine start today.

The 2:16 pace might have been turned in "ten" according to drivers and officials, but for the winds, which would have better marks would have stood in the other events. With a crew working all night on the track and a lessening of the winds, some of the fastest racing in the State is expected for Wednesday, especially in the 2:18 stake for $1,000, which will bring together such steppers as Brownie, Hale, Gentry H. and others.

The 2:20 trot featured opening day's card, with Lady Forbes winning, after being headed in the second heat by Pirella Hopeful. All three heats went to blanket finishes. In the 2:30 pace, Grif won in straight heats, and Money Moon had too much reserve in the final heat for Glen P., and took high money.

All Injured Cup Games To Be Redrawn, L. and D. Votes

Long Drawn Out Controversy Will Bring C.N.R. Back Into Competition—O.F.A. Officials Present.

The London and District Football Association council last night decided to redraw all injured cup games for London and St. Thomas teams except the St. John's Rovers, which team would be given a bye till the finals. This settlement of a long standing controversy was only reached after a lengthy discussion covering the several phases of the question since the difficulties arose over the draw for the C. N. R. vs. Maple Leafs game.

W. Dean of Hamilton and R. B. Muir of Toronto, president and secretary respectively of the Ontario Football Association, were present at the meeting in order to hear the alleged grievances and to endeavor to bring about a settlement. President Dean, in a short address to the meeting prior to the bringing up of the C. N. R. vs. Maple Leafs argument, stated that petty jealousies and bickerings almost universally found in football associations were hindering and impeding the better development of Canada's Association football.

The point arose which the C. N. R. officers based their case on the meeting in order to hear the alleged grievances and to endeavor to bring about a settlement. President W. Friend of the L. and D. F. A. suggested that the Maple Leafs be given the advantage of a bye till the finals. The dispute dates back to the first round, when, as it was stated, it was drawn that the Maple Leafs should play the Rovers. The Rovers, however, were unable to play, and the game was postponed.

Knights of Columbus Honor State Deputy At Banquet

Clergy and Laymen Felicitate Colonel Dr. Claude Brown, Recently Appointed To Highest Provincial Post In Order.

An event of manifold interest and unique in the history of the local Knights of Columbus, Court 1419, was the banquet tendered to Col. Dr.
Claude Brown, prominent K. of C. and well-known Londoner, last night in the Catholic Auditorium, when some 300 knights gathered to pay their respect and loyalty to one who has brought upon himself, and the becoming state grand deputy of the Knights of Columbus for the province of Ontario. On entering the auditorium Dr. Brown was given a rousing reception, after which all present sat down to a sumptuous dinner prepared for the occasion.

Charles Finney, chairman and grand knight of the local council, gave a brief speech in which he stated that the honor conferred upon Dr.
Brown at the recent meeting in Ottawa was the highest that any member could obtain in Ontario and was worthy of the support and confidence of every knight in the province from the lowest to the highest. On rising to tender the congratulations of Bishop Fallon and the clergy of this diocese the Right Rev. Monsignor O'Connor, vicar-general, was loudly applauded, and in glowing terms paid tribute to Dr. Brown, the first knight

Would You Dare Take a Tour On Your Present Tires?

Half the joys of touring are lost if you haven't confidence in your tires—if you cannot depend upon their ability to "take you there" and "bring you back."

Firestone Cord Tires are the seven-league boots of the motorist—they lend added mileage, they take you over the ground safely and surely—and, incidentally, they render a rare degree of comfort.

The raw materials—the "tempering"
—the compounding—the perfected air-bag curing—tested methods that in Canada's most modern tire plant serve to build a tire that for resilience, safety, ability to withstand unusual strains, establishes a new standard of excellence in tire construction.

Firestone Cords occupy a quality niche of their own. You can pin your faith to them with the assurance of uniform dependability and loyal wear.
They are the safeguards of service—the symbols of security—the silent messengers of mileage. Ask your

LIVELY EVENTS MARK PROGRAM OF ROTARY PICNIC

Special Train Conveys Members To Annual Frolic
At Port Stanley.

AWARD MANY PRIZES

Port Stanley, with all its possibilities for enjoyment, realized its responsibility toward the municipal slogan, "This is 1923," and behaved in a most excellent manner yesterday afternoon, when the London Rotary Club arrived there for its annual picnic.

Leaving London at 1:15 by special train, the picnicers numbered more than 100 members, with their families and friends, and all entered with great zest into the lively program of sports prepared for Invererie Heights.
There were no water sports on the beach afterwards, as Lake Erie, betraying the customary fickleness of the shallow, was icy-cold, in contrast to the pleasant warmth before the night's storm.

Supper, with the concluding awarding of prizes, was carried out in the London & Port Stanley cafeteria, with the president, Dean Sherwood Fox, presiding. The cafeteria orchestra rendered excellent music during the hour.

Events Well Arranged.

All arrangements were made in a most capable manner under the convener'ship of Ed. Waller with the following committees: Sports, C. E.
Jarmain, E. V. Buchanan; Refreshments, Emerson Nichols; prizes, Mrs.
Roy Cunningham, Mrs. Wendell
Holmes and Mrs. W. Jarmain.

These were the events in the sports program: Balloon race for boys and girls—Betty Gibson, Jean Lawson.
Boys and girls race—Billy Ferguson,
Jean Cunningham and Lou Cunningham.
Race for boys under eight—
Charles Gibson, Tom Lawson, Tom
Faust. Race for girls under eight—Margaret May, Ruth May and Catherine Fox. Race for boys under ten—Jack Purdom, Charles Gibson, Ray
Lawson. Race for girls under ten—Eleanor Harley, Elizabeth Greene, Betty Holmes. Race for boys under thirteen—Jack Holmes, George Tambling, Pearson Greene. Race for girls under thirteen—Jean Tambling, Margery Dolan, Louise Skev. Ladies' shoe race—Mrs. Egelton, Mrs. Partridge, Mrs. W. E. Greene. Biscuits and whistle race—George Tambling, jun., Emerson Nichols, George Copland. Mother and daughter race—
Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Tambling and Mrs. W. E. Greene.

MAYOR SUGGESTS CENTRAL STATION FOR ALL BUS LINES

Board of Works Appoints Committee To Secure Suitable Site.

BUY AIR COMPRESSOR

That there should be a central terminal for all the bus and truck transport lines running into London was the suggestion of Mayor Wenigo at last night's meeting of the board of works.

"The general public," he stated, "is without definite knowledge of where these buses start from or what is their time table, and if the city had some central rooms from which all the buses and motor transports would be compelled to start, it would be to the mutual advantage of both operator and passenger."

The idea appealed strongly to the board, and it appointed Aldermen Hayden and May as a committee to find a suitable site for the proposed station and to report back to the board.
The board also decided to build a sidewalk on the north side of Beaconsfield avenue from the existing walk to the Wharncliffe road.

Every year the city has a large amount of heavy work, such as breaking up cement curbing and stiff, clay soil, and in view of the time taken in this work, and because it was such a slow process, the city engineer asked the board to consider the purchase of a portable air com-pressor. He stated that a 90-foot machine would be adequate for all the work of the city, and that being charged to the department and to the cost of the machine, it would soon pay for itself.

The machine recommended will cost $1,287, and the board, agreeing that it would constitute a saving in the city's work, ordered the machine to be assembled by the makers so that it would be ready for use as soon as possible. The machine will also do bridge cleaning, and paint work, with a spray brush. The matter will be brought before the next meeting of the city council Tuesday for ratification of the purchase. The council will be asked to also pass a bylaw formally opening the street beside the breakwater known as Drake avenue.

A communication was read from Manager Buchanan of the Public Utilities Commission stating that the commission considered that Victoria Park was already sufficiently well protected by the existing bylaw and that in any case they had no funds to permit of erecting gates at the entrances to the park. The board agreed to supply the necessary funds and will ask the commission to supply plans of the gates and their cost.

Have Your Upholstering Done While On Your Vacation

Ingram's Couplets at Toilet Counter

Twelve dozen double couplets, containing flesh face powder and medium rouge, with mirror in center and two wool puffs in gold-finish case with initial on top. You will just want one of these when you see them, so convenient to carry, and only $1.25

A very convenient plan to have all your upholstering done (that you will need for next fall and winter) while you are away on vacation, the one time in the year when you will not miss the furniture.

We upholster any style chair, couch, chesterfield, rocker or box; or build to order any style overstuffed chair or chesterfield, window seat cushions, bedroom boxes, bolster forms, box chairs and cushions. We also make a specialty of slip covers for any piece of furniture that you may wish covered. A chintz slip cover on any discarded chair turns it into a very attractive piece for bedrooms or living-room.

We can assure you of perfect satisfaction, and if you prefer an estimate, we'll be pleased to send our man to figure on your needs.

Our range of materials is almost unlimited for upholstering purposes: in mohair velvets, velours, tapestries, shadow cloths, denims, cretonnes, chintz, casement repps, poplins, etc.

Does Your Porch Swing Need Recovering

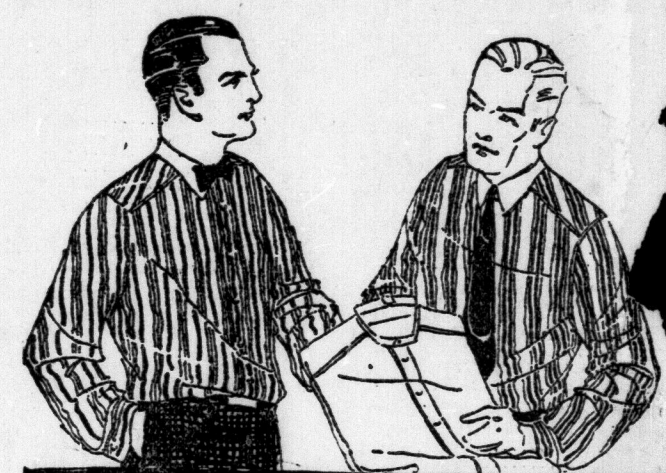

We can re-cover your Porch Swing in special materials for this purpose. Both plain and figured, in colors of taupe, brown, green, blue, mulberry or gray. Let us estimate on your work.

"LUVISCA" SHIRTING, $1.25

We have opened up a new shipment of this beautiful fabric in white with stripes of blue, mauve, black, green, etc. It is a silk mixture of unusually strong weave, very fine and firm; wears better and looks better than any other make of silk shirting. Colors fast to washing.
Ask to see "Luvisca" for the next shirt you make. Name is stamped on selvage, and quality is the famous Courtauld make; 32-inch $1.25 yard

Tricolene Shirting $1.25 is a very fine make of shirting woven entirely of the finest mercerized Egyptian yarns; white with new and smart stripes of mauves, brown and blues, in pretty shaded effects. The goods is bleached after colors woven in, thereby assuring you of fast colors. The lovely appearance of silk with greater durability remains after repeated washing. 32-inch, per yard $1.25

LET'S SWAP

When Mrs. Suburbia moved into town
She didn't know what to do—
The dandy baseburner she'd bought the last year
Was still just as good as new;
The town's leading paper she purchased at once;
On the SWAP-AD page she read
Of a washing machine someone offered to trade—
"That settles it," she said.

collection of the street railway's share of the cost is more a matter of
