SUNDAY last was Children's Day in the Methodist church and the services were of a very interesting character. In the morning the children took a prominent part in the service supplying the singing, etc. The building was prettily decorated for the occasion, the dais being banked with ferns and flowers, with a fountain of water playing in the centre. Canary birds helped to enliven the service. J. SHARP moved the front part of the Howard house on Thursday from the stand to the lot on Huron street where it will be repaired and fitted up into a comfortable dwelling by the purchaser, Mr. Geo. The ladies of the Presbyterian Church will hold a strawberry social on the beautiful grounds of Mr. R. Campbell McLeay, on Tuesday evening, June 25th. Refreshments will be served from 6 to 8, after which a fine programme consisting of music, speeches, etc, will be given. The talented elocutionist, Miss Jean S. McDonald, of Ridgetown, has been engaged, R. J. McCormick, M.P.P. will give an address, and the Watford Silver Band will also be in attendance. Admission, adults 25c., children 15c. See large posters for programme.

THE A.Y.P.A. strawberry social on Dr. Kelly's beautiful lawn on Wednes-day evening was marred by disagreeable weather. Early in the evening there were indications of rain, and soon after 8 o'clock a gentle sprinkle came, preventing many people from attending and renting many people from attending and making it disagreeable for those present. Later a sharp shower made it necessary to shorten the program and end the proceedings. Miss F. Cullis, soloist, London, gave two solos that proved very acceptable to the audience, and Miss Pease, elocutionist, of Strathroy, the sologies of the proceedings. Miss Pease, elocutionist, of Strathroy, gave two selections that were quite amusing. R. J. McCormick, M.P.P., amusing. R. J. McCormick, M.P.P., gave a short speech and the Silver Band supplied the instrumental music. Col. Fenward presided. Had the weather been fine the social would have been a greater financial success, as the object in view by the young people was to add a certain amount to the new church building fund. Proceeds $51.00

THE military parade to Trinity church on Sunday evening was a rather tame affair. Only 18 redcoats and four Husaffair. Only 18 redcoats and four flus-sars were in attendance. The parade was headed by the Silver Band playing a lively march, and the arrangements were in charge of Drill-Sergeant Owens. Lieut.-Col. Kenward accompanied them and read the Scripture lesson. Trector, Rev. S. P. Irwin, preached rector, Rev. S. F. I'mm, preached an exceedingly appropriate sermon from Acts 21, 39. He emphasized the fact that courage and obedience were the outstanding qualities required in a soldier, and while commending his hearers for their while commending his hearers for their patriotism is becoming soldiers of the King urged them to join the noble army of the King of Kings and during the temptations that would surely beset them while at camp to ask Christ's help. The service closed with the singing of the National Anthem and the troops marched back to headquarters.

WATFORD COMPANIES, 27th Regiment, left for Sarnia on the noon train on Mon-day, and on arriving there embarked with day, and on arriving there embarked with the rest of the regiment on the Saronic for Goderich, where they will spend two weeks in camp. Officers are finding it more difficult each year to get the re-quired number of men to fill the companies. The majority of the young men of the present generation think more about becoming proficient in their chosen line of business than of soldiering, and outside those who wish to have an and get a change of air for a shor few are anxious to serve the King for two weeks at a spell from pure patriotic motives, or love of military life. At Sarnia the regiment was given a good send off and a crowd of people waved hats and handkerchiefs at the departing militia as the vessel cleared the harbor. That they may have an enjoyable time is the wish of all.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The Montreal Star in very strong language condemns the "patronage" system, and urges the leaders of both parties to get in touch with each other and put the "patronage" hunters to flight. It concludes in these words:—"The sitting Ministers would be gainers in anticipation. The country would gain all along the line. No one would lose but the political 'scavengers' who are always nosing around after the carrion provided by a party victory.'

Agricuture in Schools.

In South Essex an experiment has been inaugurated to bring the school into closer relation to agricultural life. Dr. Maxwell, the public school inspector of that division, has writof that district, which is corn-growevery boy and girl under 16 years, who will undertake to plant it and care for the crop. Dr. Maxwell says in his letter to each teacher:
"There should be in your school a Corn Club including every boy and girl under sixteen years old, who is able to cultivate a small piece of land. They should keep a record of the amount of seed used, the amount of land cultivated, the kind of land, the amount of labor put upon it, the condition of the land, etc., and send to the Corn Show next winter five or more ears out of the crop. You will have much material for arith-metic keeping farm accounts, in composition, in items of business, and in showing the value, privileges etc., of farm life as compared with urban life.

It is understood this plan has been adopted in other places with good results, and it seems a practical way of teaching agriculture as well as subjects in the ordinary school curriculum. It is quite probable that the Department of Agriculture would give similar aid to experiments in other crops in other districts where these crops are the chief ones. The experiment will be watched with interest and if successful should receive the encouragement of every person who comes in contact with rural life.

Ontario's Mortality.

One of the best and most readable government reports that has been issued of late years is being sent dealing with infant mortality in this province, and compiled by Dr. Helen MacMurchy, of Toronto. Dr. MacMurchy has presented some startling facts with candor and clearness. The chapter dealing with the reduction of the infant death rate is an instructive one. Despite all efforts along this line, we still bury nearly 7,000 babies in this province under one year old, every twelve months. The cost of burial of these little innocents is about $350,900

"FEEBLE STOMACH"

Causes Digestive Weakness and Poisons the Entire System.

"No one can have suffered more than I did with stomach trouble." writes Phil. E. Pascalar, well known at St. Andrews Corners. "My doctor told me my indigestion and sleeplessness were due to poisons in the blood. Certainly my condition was desperate, and it seemed from the despondent feelings that swept over me that I would lose my reason. I happened to read about Dr. Hamilton's Pills and bought five boxes from the druggist. Such body-cleansing pills Inever used; they were mild and yet quite strong enough to drive all the humors out of the blood. My stomach gained strength rapidly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I improved so much that in eight weeks I could eat and digest all ordinary food. Depression and weariness passed away and I am, thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills, enjoying robust good health."

No remedy for biliousness, indigestion headache, sick stomach, or constipation that compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse substitutes. Sold in 25c. boxes. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

In addition to the twenty-seven first prizes of $50 each, there will be eighty-one other cash prizes, ranging from $10 to $25 in our

1912 PRIZE CONTEST FOR FARMERS

This contest is along the same lines as the one which was so successful last year, except that there are three times as many prizes, and therefore three times as many chances for each contestant to win. Every farmer in Can-ada who uses "Canada" Cement is eligible to compete. The conditions are such that large and small users of cement have equal opportunities to win a $50 prize.

The contest is divided into three classes, and there first, second, third and fourth prizes ($50, $25, $15 and $10) in each class.

CLASS 'A"—Prizes to be awarded to the four farmers in each province who use most "Canada" Cement on their farms in 1912.

CLASS 'B"—Prizes to be awarded to the four farmers in each province who send photographs of the best concrete took done with "Canada" Cement on their farms in 1912.

"Prizes to be awarded to the four farmers in each province who send the best descrip-tion, telling how any piece of concrete work was done with "Canada" Cement. (Entries for this prize must be accompanied by photo-graphs of the work.)

501 Herald Bldg. - Montreal

In addition to thus being divided into classes, so as to give small users of cement an equal chance with those who use more, the Contest is also divided into nine divisions, one for each province. So you see you need only to compete with the other farmers of your own province, and not with those all over Canada.

THE SECOND WIND,

Scientific Explanation of a Familiar Phenomenon.

Every boy or man who has run a mile knows what it is to gain a "se-cond wind," though he may not be able to explain why one minute he is out of breath and the next feels as if he could run several miles. This curious circumstance may be explained as follows:

Most persons may not be aware that in ordinary breathing we use only a portion of our lungs, the cells at the extremity not being brought into play.

This is the reason why those who are not in training and who try to run for any distance soon begin to gasp and unless they are courageous enough to persevere in spite of the choking sensation are forced to stop. But if they will persevere the choking goes off, and the result is what is known as "second wind." When the second wind is fully established runner does not become out of breath, but goes on running as long as his legs will carry him. The fact is that on starting the farthest por-tions of the lungs are choked with air, and the remainder do not supply air enough to meet the increased circulation caused by exercise.

By degrees, however, the neglected cells come into play, and when the entire lung is in working order the circulation and respiration again balance each other, and the "second wind" in the care. wind" is the result.

wind" is the result.

Let one repeat the experiment of holding his breath against time, but first let him force out of his lungs every particle of air that he can expel and then draw as deep a breath as his lungs will hold. If this be repeated seventy or eighty times by way of imitation of the whale the experimenter will find that he can hold his breath for a minute and a half without inconvenience. Should he be a swimmer he should always take this precaution before "taking a header," and he will find that he can swim for a considerable distance before he needs to rise for A Religious Flower.

The Madonna lily, which has been cultivated in northern Furope since 1596, is indigenous to the Levant. Moreover, its natural blooming time there is round about the average celebration of Easter. No one knows, of course, but it is not at all unlikely that when the first Easter dawned this lily was disclosing its lovely white chalices in Palestine. If this were not a substantial enough claim for the Madonna lily, there is its constant appearance in religious paintings and ecclesiastical decoration to show that it was and is the church's sacred lily. It is, in fact, a flower fairly steeped in religious sentiment.

SOUNDS IN THE SILENCE,

Animals Hear Noises That Do Not Affect Our Auditory Nerves.

It is very difficult to make some persons believe that nothing can move without making a sound, although it may seem to be absolute silence to them. Everything that moves disturbs the air around it and sets up a kind of wave motion that spreads through the atmosphere in all directions. the atmosphere in all directions. When these wave motions are strong enough we hear a sound. That we do enough we hear a sound. That we do not hear anything is no evidence that there is no sound, for other living things may hear what we cannot. The motion that is started in the air when anything vibrates or moves suddenly has often been compared to the motion of the surface of still water when we drop a pebble into a pond. But there is this great difference—the eye can see the wave made by the eye can see the wave made by the smallest glass bead you ca. find, but the ear is not nearly so sensitive, and unless the waves are pretty high in the atmosphere the human ear can-not detect them as sound. Animals and birds have much better ears than we have. A dog will prick up its ears at the sound of your voice or a faint whistle when it is an astonat the sound of a footstep that was still half a mile away in the woods. A gamekeeper in the south of England noticed that the partridges were startled by some sound which he startled by some sound which he could not hear just at sunset every evening. An army officer who was visiting the estate thought it peculiar that the time should change with the change in the hour of sunset, and he had an idea had an idea.

At a fort twenty miles away they fired a gun at sunset every day, and he noted the difference in the time and the moment that the partridges jumped and found it was just about the time that it would take for the sound to travel that distance. One day he arranged to have the sunset run fired five minutes late and the gun fired five minutes late, and the partridges rose just exactly at the predicted time.

Here is an experiment to prove that there are sounds which we hear. Tie a string around the neck of a heavy poker or any short bar cr iron and then swing it gently against a wooden chair. All you will hear is a little tan.

wooden chair. All you will hear is a little tap.
But the poker has been made to vibrate and must be still disturbing the air round it with tiny waves of motion far too delicate for your ear to catch. But now twist each end of your piece of string round the forefinger of a hand and, letting the poker hang free stick your fingers in your hang free, stick your fingers in your ears so that the poker hangs like a Y. Now tap it on the chair, and for several seconds you will hear a sound as loud as a bell in a cathedral.

Ether and Matter.

Ether and Matter.

The densest matter is more or less porous. Gold will absorb mercury as a lump of sugar will absorb water, showing there must be interstices or interatomic spaces in it, but the ether shows no such property. If a drop of water could be magnified sufficiently one would ultimately see the different atoms of hydrogen and oxygen that constitute the molecules of water. If a small volume of ether could be thus magnified the indicawater. It a small volume of ether could be thus magnified the indications are that the ultimate part would look like the first, which is the same as saying that it is not made up of discrete particles, but fills space com-pletely. This is expressed by saying that the ether is a continuous medium and incomparable with matter.

A Honey-Sucking Mouse.

One of the greatest curiosities of Australian animal life is the nool-benger, a tiny member of the opossum family, which is the only beast specially adapted for living on honey. In size and general form this little crea-ture resembles a common mouse, but has a longer muzzle, weak, degenerate teeth, and nails instead of claws. Its tongue is slender, and so long that it can be protruded an inch from the mouth to lick the honey from the flowers, while the tail is prehensile and clasps the twigs, giving additional support.

McLaughlin-Lamont.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lamont, 2nd line, Brooke, was the scene of a festive occasion on Wednesday, June 5th, 1912, when their only daughter, Kate, was united in marriage to Angus McLaughlin of the 7th concession, Brooke, The Rev. N. A. Campbell, of Inwood, performed the ceremony, in the presence of about 50 guests, most of whom were near relatives of the bride and groom. The wedding music was played by Miss. The wedding music was played by Miss Ella McFarlane, of Brigden, and at 12 o'clock the bride, leaning on her father's arm, entered the parlor where the groom awaited her under a floral arch. The bride was simply attired in a dainty gown of white marguisette trimmed with wide cluny lace, and carried a boquet of white carnations, both were unattended. After the happy couple had been made one, and the good wishes of those present had been showered on them, all repaired had been showered on them, all repaired to the drawing room where a sumptuous dinner was served. The numerous gifts to the bride included a kitchen shower given by her S. S. class of the Presbyterian church, Inwood, on the previous Saturday, and a handsome parlor table and brass jardinere presented on Monday evening by the Women's Institute, of which she is a valued member. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl pin, and to the organist a gold bracelet. In the early afternoon Mr. aud Mrs. Mc-Laughlin left for Petrolea, where they boarded the train for Detroit and other eastern points. After a short honeymoon they will take up their residence on the 7th con. Brooke, where they will be at shome to their many friends.

DARK ROOM TESTING

Every child on reaching the age of seven years should have the eyes examed. Many children have defective vision, and it often happens that one eye only is affected. This throws all the work on the better eye while the other through disuse frequently loses its function entirely. With proper lense correction this trouble will be wholly overcome. If accompanied by parents we will be glad to examine children's seyes free of charge.

A Thrilling Escape

Of a Russian Revolutionist Who Captured a Locomotive

> By PETER POTOFF e de la factación de la factac

In a restaurant in the lower part of New York a number of Russian exiles were dining and talking. One of them told the following experiences:

Ten years ago we revolutionists were sometimes as much puzzled at one another's movements as the government was puzzled at both. In the arst place the deepest plotters among as were pretending to be serving the government. Some were known to their revolutionary intimates to be playing this game, while some were not. I was a locomotive engineer and was supposed to be working for the chief of police. I was to receive a re-NORTH END BAKERY. ward for information leading to the capture of any one either tampering with the roadbed before the expected transit over it of a high government official or the arrest of any "political" attempting to escape by the road. Several of us were at the time conspiring to kill a prominent government official in Moscow, and we were going about the matter methodically. One of our number was watching him with a view to determining his habits. Another had the bomb in charge with which we intended to do the work, while I was running the engine hauling a passenger train between Moscow Summer Beverages of all and Odessa by which we might get the assassin out of Russia.

All the Leading Brands of one day a young man came into the yard where I was oiling my locomotive and asked me if I would carry him out of Moscow some day on my engine I asked him why he wished to go with me instead of in a coach, and he confessed that he desired to carry some funds with him which another was trying to get hold of. He offered to pay me a thousand rubles to take him out. Thinking him to be one who had committed a robbery, I informed the police of the matter, describing the man minutely and pretending to suspect him of being a revolutionist up to some villainy. They failed to find him, at which I'was not disappointed. My companions and myself were still watching and waiting, when one morning not long before my train left I thought I heard a distant faint boom. Being engaged at that kind of business myself, my attention was arrested, but there are many causes for such explo-sions in cities, and I soon forgot this one. At the starting time I pulled my train out and on reaching the outskirts of the city saw ahead of me a switch turned to throw me off the track. I was obliged to stop. A man came from behind a shed, threw the switch as I reached it, and I started on. As I passed the switch the man climbed up into the cab with me. "I wish you," he said. "to drive this engine for all she is worth."

Feeling that my load was lightened, I looked back and saw my train standing on the track behind me. Some one, doubtless a confederate, of the man in the cab with me, had uncoupled it. "Who are you?" I asked, looking at the man beside me.

"Never mind who I am," he said, pulling a revolver from under his coat and cocking it. "Get all the speed you can out of this engine."

I remembered to have heard his voice before and in a few moments I knew. though he was disguised, that he wa the man who had offered me 1,000 rubles to let him ride with me. Evidently he was running away with the funds, as he had intended, and was using my engine for the purpose without my consent. I was unarmed, and there was nothing to do but obey him. I increased the speed.

What occupied my mind was how to make capital with the government out of the episode. I couldn't see any way to prevent his escape, but it occurred to me that the conductor of the train I had left would telegraph ahead the fact that I had run away from him. This led me to glance at the telegraph wires beside the road, and I noticed that they were sagging. I felt sure they had been cut. Then I began to realize that my passenger's flight was a deep laid scheme. He had not only confederate who had detached the rain, but one who had cut the wires. He was the coolest chap I ever met, out he was as determined as he was cool. I knew by his eye that the slightest disobedience on my part would be followed by a bullet crashing through my brain.

Being of his kind myself, I determined to have an understanding with "Tell me," I said, "what you wish to accomplish and I will do my part in accomplishing it for you." "I wish to catch the boat at Odessa for Constantinople." "It is impossible—that is, we shall have a smashup on the way." "Never mind the smashup! Get

He said this as one who would prefer to die under a heap of metal to being taken. I began to doubt if it was money he was getting away with. I determined to apply a test:

"You have killed a government official," I said, "and are endeavoring to get out of the country."

He paled. He was about to deny the charge, but changed his mind. "And as such would you help or de-morning I gained access, through a confederate in his service, to the office of"-he gave the name of the official we were intending to assassinate-"and killed him. I timed my act to board your train."

"A confederate uncoupled the coaches?" "Yes."

"Another cut the telegraph wires?"

"Others-several others." I put on every ounce of steam possible and pulled the throttle wide open. "Do you know," I said, "that I and two others have been working all winter to accomplish the deed you have "No!" "We have. You, working on other lines, have anticipated us. Had we, instead of you, succeeded another would have been here in your place. You can understand how I feel and cannot doubt that every nerve in my body will be strained to save you."

For a few minutes I gave myself up to thinking how to avoid other trains and like dangers. Then I said to the

"We must play a part. You can personate a government official. Tell those along the line that there has been an assassination in Moscow and the perpetrator is on a train ahead of us. the first station south of which there is telegraphic connection order the train dispatcher to send word for all trains and obstructions to clear the track. I, as a trusted engineer of the road and the government will, if necessary, confirm your story."

I shall never forget the look he gave

"Good!" he exclaimed. "What a remarkable coincidence! Without some unforeseen misfortude we shall suc-

We soon pulled up at a station, and my passenger hurriedly called out what I had suggested, and without stopping I drove on. We knew not if the order he gave would be obeyed, but we believed it would. As we rat tled along we saw trains sidetracked and persons gaping at us, though they only saw us as by a flash of lightning. Every switch was properly placed for us. Twice we were obliged to stop for water, but the fugitive ordered those connected with the tank to get to work so sharply that neither they nor we lost time.

Then we came to a station where the station master had put out a red flag. As we approached I suggested to my man to simply cry haste. I slowed down as we passed the station. "What is it?"

"We have a telegram from Moscow to stop all trains or engines.

It was evident that the wires had een repaired. "You have not been ordered to stop us!" yelled my companion. "We are on government business that admits of no stop. An assassination has been committed. The assassin is ahead of us and we must catch him."

I waited for no more, but pulled open the throttle, and, with a jump, our steed shot forward. Half an hour passed, during which we ran through villages, rattled over bridges, plunged through cuts, while all along the road both the people and the railroad offi-class stood gaping at us. As we drew near Odessa - my companion was marking the time with his watch, while I noted the miles-we saw another red flag. Just beyond it a switch was turned to throw us off. But I noticed a man standing with his hand on it, and I believed the matter to be a bluff. At any rate, I drove on at full speed, and an instant before we reached the switch it was turned to let us go by. But my heart was in my throat.

We both believed that we would be prevented from getting on the boat at Odessa and determined to outwit the officials by stopping half a mile from the station. We pulled up in a wood and ran for the boat. As we approached it we walked leisurely like any other passenger, but were obliged to hurry toward the end in order to get aboard before the withdrawal of the gangplank. Then we both went to a dark corner, where we kept out of sight till the vessel was well away

Who my companion was I never knew-never wanted to know. I came to America, where I have lived ever since. If I go back to Russia I will either go to Siberia or the scaffold.

Wood Engraving.

It has never been satisfactorily as-certained whether 'he art of wood engraving came to Europe from the east or was rediscovered by some European artificer. The precise date of the first European woodcut is also a matter of serious doubt, but we, have data which enable us to come pretty close to the right time. We pretty close to the right time. know that European wood engra know that European wood engraving dates certainly from the first quarter of the fitteenth century. There is considerable evidence to show that the art had its origin among the Chinese, the wonderful people who have given us so many of our "modern" inventions. ern" inventions.

The destruction of the house fly is a public duty. Almost every American State Board of Health is carrying on a crusade against him.

Weak Heart Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, their heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which has no bad after-effect. Such is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical-Discovery, which contains no danderous parcection. Medical Discovery, which contains no dangerous narcotics nor alcohol.

nts, as attested under oath, are Stone root (Collinsonia Canadenot (Sanguinaria Canadensis), Golden Seal root (Hydrastis Canadensis), Toot (Stillingia Sylvatica), Black Cherrybark (Prunus Virginiana), ot (Podophyllum Pelitatum), with triple refined glycerine, prepared: laboratory in a way that no druggist could imitate.

This tonic contains no alcohol to shrink up the red blood corpuscles; but, on the other hand, it increases their number and they become round and healthy. It helps the human system in the constant manufacture of rich, red blood. It the other hand, it increases their number and they become round and healthy. It helps the human system in the constant manufacture of rich, red blood. It helps the stomach to assimilate or take up the proper elements from the food, thereby helping digestion and curing dyspepsia, heart-burn and many uncomfortable symptoms, stops excessive tissue waste in convalescence from fevers; for the run-down, anemic, thin-blooded people, the "Discovery" is refreshing and vitalizing. Stick to this safe and sane remedy, and refuse all "just as good" medicines offered by the druggist who is looking for a larger profit. Nothing but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will do you half as much good.

RICH FIND OF FOSSIL

VICTORIA NYANZA CO: NTRY YIELDS MAMMOTH REMAINS.

Important Geological and Biological Disc:veries Have Been Made In Equatorial Africa and the Great Age of the Inland Sea Has Been Definitely Established - Explorer Not In Love With the Country.

At the beginning of last year the late Mr. Digby Pigott, one of the As sistant Commissioners of British East Africa, while camping on the eastern shore of the Victoria Nyanza, discovered some fossil remains. One of the relics was brought to England by Mr. C. W. Hobley last June, and this on examination was found to be the jawbone of a Dinotherium, one of the mammals which flourished in the Lower Miocene or Middle Tertiary period, a period of time which is sometimes defined by geologists as being somewhere about three million years ago.

The discovery excited considerable interest in biological and geological circles, and the British Museum authorities, with whom the fossil was deposited, expressed the opinion that further investigations were desirable. Accordingly, Dr. Felix Oswald, the Probate Registrar of Nottingham, who will be remembered as the author of a book on the geology of Armenia, volunteered to undertake the work dur ing his "leave" from professional duties. Dr. Oswald's offer was accepted and last November he started for the spot on Victoria Nyanza where the discovery had been made.

It may be recalled here that Mr. Pigott met his death while shooting hippopotami on the lake. A wounded hippo charged the raft on which he w-s standing, upsetting its occupants into the water, where they were at once devoured by crocodiles.

At Port Florence Dr. Oswald was provided with a schooner by Sir Percy Girouard, the Governor of British Fort Africa, in which the reset Africa. East Africa, in which to make the journey to Karungu, the station on the lake where the remains were found. The place was reached on November 15 of last year. It consists of a mere huddle of native dwellings, with not a single white man nearer than Kisli, some five days' journey north.

Dr. Oswald was accompanied only by three natives, one an interpreter speaking the language of the Kaviron speaking the language of the Kaviron-do, the people of the district, and two native soldiers. Incidentally he had learned on his journey that all the published maps of the n-rtheastern portion of the Victoria Nyanza were inaccurate, and it is his intention to prepare a corrected map so soon as he can find time.

Once on shore he started work on his wearying and lonesome task. The time of the year was summer, and the heat was terrific, for the season was the hottest yet known in that quarter of the world. To a press representative he has described the labors and the difficulties attending his sojourn in these solitudes just of the Equator "The exact point," said Dr. Oswald, where we started our investigations was close to Karungu, in what is apparently the delta of an old river which formerly ran into the lake at that point. "At the top of all was a cliff of basalt, and below that was the sloping bed of the delta. The top of this bed was the ordinary black cotton soil of the district, and immediately below we found the ordinary lacus-below we found the ordinary lacustrum beds, the top one of grey clay, the second one of red clay and white sandstone, and the third one of buff sandstone and gravel.

"In each bed we found shells in plenty — all fresh-water shells — but there were very few fossils of any other character in the top bed, though we found a fair number in the seve found a fair number in the se cond. It was in the third bed—the bed of the Lower Miocene period—however, that we had our best finds, finding another Dinotherium, with teeth, and also some bones of Aceratherium and Anthracotherium, the ancient tyre of phiocenes. These were cient type of rhinoceros. These were all found close to the mouth of the Kuji or Kuya River, but we found other traces of fossils at points five and fifteen miles distant, in what appeared to be the same gully.

'My great trouble was the insect

'My great trouble was the insect life, which abounded to a degree which I had never experienced before, and did not believe existed. Every form of insect seemed common. Tsetse flies abounded, and I have seen Testse fies abounded, and I have seen the midges coming over the lake in such a cloud that the face of the sun was abscured, while the noise of their humming as they passed over me was like a great sustained note on the lower C pipe of an organ.

"Flying crickets as large as sparrows were common, and each particular form of cricket had a different noise, which he appeared to make all noise, which he appeared to make all through the night. In addition, there were great bloodsucking ticks, which.

after they had settled on you in the night, you would find in the morning on your body as large as peas.

"Every evening when I took my soup I had between each mouthful to skim a coating of insects from the top. Ants of every description abounded, the worst of all being the 'stink ant,' a creature about three-quarters of an inch long, which emitted such a of an inch long, which emitted such a dreadful odor, that it was impossible to sleep if one of these things got into your tent. Still, insects were not my worst trouble. What oppressed me most and affected me most was the dreadful loneliness. I would never go there again by myself, and I would never advise any other white man to do so."

LAUGHED AND LOST.

Smiles That Came at the Wrong Time and Proved Costly.

must be most careful how he laughs or even smiles in the pres-ence of the great ones of the earth, as is evidenced in the following instances:

Milbanke, a clever but blunt Scot, who was an expert in colonial admin-istration, was once summoned by William of Germany in order that his valuable advice touching eastern af-fairs might be obtained for German guidance. The Kaiser had about de-cided to intrust Milbanke with a most important office in China with considerable supervision over German interests there.

It appears that during one of their conferences the Kaiser offered some absurd suggestion as to oriental diplomacy, whereat the Scot laughed. Immediately the Emperor wished him good-day and never saw him again.

It was another Scot, Duncan McVea, who advised the amiable but sensitive King Carlos of Portugal in the Government of the Cape Verde is lands, at the time in a very shaky condition. It was practically decided to give McVea entire control over the islands at the handsome salary of $25,000 a year. During one of their consultations his Majesty became greatly excited and made a mess of the control of their consultations has been presently excited and made a mess of the English which was parally as a second of the control of the his English, which was usually excellent. McVea could not help smiling audibly, with the result that he was summarily dismissed and neverpermitted to come to court again.

It is related that once, when he permitted to come to court again.

It is related that once, when he was very weary after a long journey and consequently in no mood to be trifled with, the Czar of Russia, in passing through an apartment in the palace at St. Petersburg, slipped on a mat that lay on the polished floor and nearly fell. Clutching wildly at one of his attendants, the Emperor of all the Russias went through a series of gyrations extremely ludiorous to behold that nearly brought himself and his subject to the floor. Enidoff, at the time a prominent and confidential adviser to the throne. confidential adviser to the throne, could not check a smile, a smile that the Czar turned just in time to catch. The very next day Baron Enidoff lost his post, carrying a salary of $60,000 annually.

Van Tromp's Way of Fighting.

The Dutch Admiral Van Tromp, who was a large, heavy man, was once challenged by a thin, active French officer. "We are not upon equal terms with rapiers," said Van Tromp, "but call upon me to-morrow morning, and we will adjust the affair." When the Frenchman called he found the Dutch admiral bestridhe found the Dutch admiral bestrid-ing a barrel of gunpowder. "There ing a barrel of gunpowder. "There is room enough for you," said Van Tromp, "at the other end of the barrel. Sit down. There is the match, and as you are the challenger give fire." The Frenchman was thunderstruck at this terrible mode of fight ing, but as the Dutch admiral told him he would fight no other way terms of reconciliation ensued.

A Guide to Apiculture. By direction of the Hon. Martin Bur-by the rection of the non. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, a timely bulletin on bee-keeping has been issued by the Federal Department of Agriculture. According to a statement of the author, Dr. C. Gordon Hewitt, Dominion author, Dr. C. Gordon Hewitt, Dominion Entomologist, this work has been prepared to meet a very persistent demand for information by persons who wish to learn how to begin and to continue the industry of apiculture. It was the further object of the author to increase the number of bee-keepers in Canada by indicating the advantages of bee-keeping. It is pointed out that bee-keeping returns the direct profit of a honey crop and the indirect one of improvement to yields of clover seed and fruit. It is observed that a bullock after being fed and cared for during an entire winter will not realize much more than the produce of a colony of bees in a single season. Beginners are recommended to start on a a colony of bees in a single season. Beginners are recommended to start on a small scale with one or two hives increasing the number annually as experience is gained. This treatise of 45 pages, which is helpfully illustrated, covers in plain language the whole field of apiculture, including equipment, management, the production of honey and wax, diseases, legislation of the various provinces against bee diseases, etc. It is designated "The Honey Bee," Bulletin No. 2. Division of Entomology and No. 69, Experimental Farms. Copies may had free by applying to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Ottawa. IT HAS MANY OFFICES .- Before the

NEURALGIA SEVERE

GRAIN AND SEEDS Williams' Pink Pills.

There is an excellent reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured the most severe cases of neuralgia, sciatica and other complaints in the group known as disorders of the nerves. This group also includes St. Vitus dance, partial paralysis and the common state of externe nervousness and excitability. Each of these complaints exists because there is something the matter with the nervous system. If the nerves have tone and are strong and healthy you will not have any of these complaints. The reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure nervous disorders is, that they restore weak, run down nerves to their proper state of tone. They act both directly upon the blood supply and the nerves. The highest medical anthorities have noted that nervous troubles generally attack people who are bloodless and that the nerves are toned when the blood is renewed. It is thus seen that Dr. Williamst Disk Pills cure nervous disany attack people who are moderness that the nerves are toned when the blood is renewed. It is thus seen that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure nervous disorders by curing the cause of the trouble. The following is an instance. Miss Annie Jones, London, Ont., says:—"For over a year I was an intense sufferer from neuralgia, which located in my face and head. The pain at times was so intense that I could scarcely keep from screaming, and nothing I was doing for the trouble seemed to help me. As time went on my whole system was affected. At last when I felt that my case was almost hopeless I was advised to try Dr. Williams, Pink Pills. The result of this treatment was that I am now enjoying such comfort as I had not known for years, and only those who have suffered from neuralgic pains can realize what a
