AND

(Stall 10. London Philatelic Exhibition. July 22nd to Aug. 5th.)

NEARLY EVERY BODY collects stamps now-a-days, it has grown to be an enormous business, and young and old seem to be alike fascinated with it. Once a person becomes interested in the collection of a few stamps it is surprising the educational influence it awakens, stimulates his mind and he soon learns to become familiarly acquainted with the geographical location and advantages of different countries, as well as to study the lives and character of their rulers.

It is an agreeable and at the same time an instructive occupation and serves to refresh the mind after all the other elements that enter into our busy life have failed. It shows us the progress and development of civilization all over the globe and puts us in close touch with all of the nations of the earth and gives the imagination full sway while a ponderous historical book would only serve to confuse and then fail to satisfy us as a bright little stamp is sure to do.—(SELECTED).

BRIEF reviews and reading notices will appear in next issue, not only remarks on the Philatelic Journals, Catalogues and Handbooks, will be found, but it is my intention to make special reference to any particular articles invaluable to philatelists. No charge whatever will be made for review and brief mention of the merits of certain articles or publications, but it must be strictly understood that such articles or publications sent in become the property of the reviewer, and when sent in should be addressed marked SAMPLE for Review or Examination.—Speaking of stamp mounts or hinges, Excelsior. The Perfect. Ideal, Surpassing, are only a few names given to these gummed pieces of paper of various sizes and manufacture, whilst perforation guages bear different names. The "Exact", Star perforation guage (Registered) and so on. Stock Books, Surcharge Measures, Watermark developers, Colors charts, Magnifying Lenses. Transparent Stamp Envelopes, and approval sheets especially suitable for foreign mail trade, because of the strength lightness and durability of the paper. Stamp & Postal Card, Albums, Etc., Etc.

Edwards' Philatelic Press List,

P.O. Box, 379 Montréal, Canada.

I shall not dwell on the merits or demerits of such articles in this issue but promise a most carefull and impartial examination or review in my next issue.
