BATHURST, Tuesday—The funeral of Miss Nellie Power, of North Tatagouche, was held this morning in the Church of the Holy Family, Bathurst Village. Requiem high mass was served by M. G. Varley. The deceased young lady was twenty-nine years of age, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Power. Up to about March last she was employed by W. J. Kent & Co., Ltd., where she made many friends among the staff and the public. Since that time she has been gradually declining until Sunday morning, when she passed peacefully away. She is survived by her parents, three sisters and three brothers. The floral tributes were beautiful, and showed the esteem in which she was held. A beautiful wreath on a stand was sent by the staff of Kent and Co.

O. Turgeon, M.P., accompanied by Mrs. Turgeon left on the Maritime last night for Ottawa.

J. Van Norman, who with his family and six salesmen, have been spending some six or eight weeks in our town in the interests of the Wrought Iron Range Co., left last night for Sherbrooke.

A. J. Fenwick returned to his home in St. John this morning.

Miss Bertelle Blanchard, eldest daughter of Joseph Blanchard, was united in marriage this morning to Joseph Fournier, of Bathurst Village. A reception will be held this evening at the home of the bride's parents, St. Patrick's Street.

ATLANTIC CITY, Wednesday—A. A. Jewett, a retired Philadelphia butcher, with a fortune of a million dollars, is held a virtual prisoner in his room at the Hotel Continental here. He is guarded by a deputy sheriff, whose orders from the court are not to allow the man to leave the house before a damage action brought by his young and pretty wife for support is settled by the Court of Chancery.

Jewett is ill and doctors and nurses are in attendance. He is paying the board of the deputy sheriff. According to the story told by Jewett and lawyers for his wife, the two have been married for five years. They lived happily until within the last year. Decision to live apart was reached while they were here, and Jewett says that his wife accepted $60,000 in lieu of all claims against him. She declares she is suing for a more liberal allowance.

CORTEYOU PLAN IS WHOLLY WRONG DECLARES BRYAN

Secretary Working Backward Declares The Dis-ingulished Nebraskan

LOAD ON COUNTRY

Government Should Not Be Made
To Bear Banks' Burden.

WILMINGTON, Del., Wednesday—Declaring that the time has come when the national banks of the country should shoulder their own load, rather than to let it upon the National Government, William Jennings Bryan to-night condemned the Cortelyou relief plan as beginning at the wrong end of the problem which now confronts the country.

He said that the principle underlying these plans is that the Government should pay interest on hundreds of millions, and then, in effect, turn the money over to the banks to tide them over their difficulties.

Further he declared that for the government to pay interest on certificates, so that the bank may be enabled to increase their circulation, is entirely wrong in principle, as it imposes upon the people a loan which the banks themselves should bear.

Analyzing the Cortelyou plan, he declared that one factor has apparently been overlooked by those who have computed the enormous profits which will accrue to the banks; which is that even the $25,000,000 which is to be actually paid to the government for the $100,000,000 certificates issued, will unquestionably be re-deposited in the banks without interest.

Working Backward, He Says.

"The fault of the plans which the administration has put forth to relieve the present financial stringency," said Mr. Bryan, "is that they begin at the wrong end. If I could be convinced that the Government of the United States should pay the cost of re-issuing the depositors of banks, rather than that the banks themselves should bear this burden which is rightly theirs, I should approve these plans of relief. As it is, I do not approve them."

We have here, the government actually paying interest on a vast amount of money in order that the banks may be relieved in their predicament. This is precisely what I say is wrong.

"Originally, it was intended that $100,000,000 in certificates should be put out to draw out money that has been hoarded. On this money, the government was to pay 3 per cent. interest. For what? Why, solely that it might take the money on which it was paying this interest and turn it over to the banks—interest free."

"Now I contend that if this plan had worked out in the way it had intended, it would nevertheless have been entirely wrong in principle."

Will Reap Huge Interest.

"Now we have a new plan"—and here Mr. Bryan went over the figures, showing that under the Cortelyou plan for a 100,000,000 issue, the banks will be enabled to reap a 35 per cent. on the money actually paid over by them.

"There is but one thing that I would add to these figures," he said, "and that is to ask what is to be done with the $25,000,000 which the banks actually pay over to the government? Why it will merely be loaned back to the banks again, and without interest. So that the profits are again increased."

"Now what is all this for? Why merely to restore the confidence of the depositors in banks which had been shaken. This, in my opinion, is the business of the banks, primarily, and they, rather than the government, should pay the cost of restoring confidence."

"Under the plan which I have suggested this cost would be placed where it properly belongs—on the banks themselves. For the government to assume this load is entirely wrong."

FIRE BURNS UP THREE CHILDREN

Horrible Death of Youngsters In A McGregor Street Blaze In Toronto

(Special to the Morning Graphic.)

WINNIPEG, Wednesday—Three little children—William, Dora and Joseph Denaburg, aged thirteen, six and nine, respectively, met a horrible death in a fire which destroyed their home on McGregor Street at midnight. Three others were saved from the same melancholy fate by the most narrow margin. The fire broke out around the stove just after the family had retired, and the smoke which poured up the narrow stairway practically cut off those upstairs from escape.

BELIEVE HER HUSBAND WAS A JAP SERVANT

Wedding Announcement Surprises Friends Of Wealthy Widow.

SALISBURY Md., Wednesday—Announcement of the marriage of Lydia W. Franklin, formerly of Princess Anne, near here, and Kikuroto Sasaki, a Japanese, was received with consternation by her many friends in this country. A year ago Mrs. Franklin came to Princess Anne, ostensibly from New York city. She purchased at a high figure an old hotel property in the town and had it remodelled at an expense of thousands of dollars. The hostelry was magnificently furnished and when completed was beyond a doubt the most elaborately equipped hotel south of Philadelphia.

It is said that she made the public statement that as long as she did not lose $2,000 a year she would be satisfied. This hotel was her hobby.

Japanese waiters were imported and employed, and it is the belief here that Kikuroto was one of the table waiters employed at the Franklin Hotel several months ago. Mrs. Franklin sold the property and left New York, Sasaki leaving at the same time. She then sailed for Europe and nothing has been heard of her since.

DAMAGE WAS SLIGHT

Canadian Government Steamer Only Slightly Damaged

QUEBEC, Wednesday—The Canadian government steamer Montcalm, which ran on a rock while making for Point Maurier harbor a few days ago, arrived in port about ten o'clock this morning under her own steam. The damage is not believed to be very serious and it is expected she will be able to come out in time to perform her winter service.

SCRANTON, Pa., Wednesday—A daring robbery was committed last night when a lone highwayman held up a street car and at the point of a revolver robbed the conductor of the nickels he had taken during the day's run.

The car left the terminal of the Laurel Hill line shortly before 10 o'clock for the run to the central portion of the city and had not gone more than a block when the motorman stopped to take on a passenger. It was the highwayman, and the first thing he did was to place a revolver at the head of the conductor and order him to "shut out." Arnold "shelled" to the extent of almost $20. The hold-up is the second of its kind in this city within the last few weeks.

HEARS APPEAL IN THE HALIFAX ELECTION CASES.

Justice Declares That the Convenience of Counsel Is not to be Considered.

HEAD OF LIST.

He Demands That Appeals are to be Placed in Their Order.

OTTAWA, Wednesday—In the Supreme Court to-day on the Halifax election cases being called, Justice Girouard, presiding, made this announcement: "I observe that these appeals have been placed at the foot of the maritime list, and understand from the registrar that it was done by consent of counsel. I desire to point out that in election cases in which the whole public are interested, the convenience of counsel is not to be considered, and speaking for the Court and with the consent of the chief justice, I wish it understood that in future no election appeal is to be placed anywhere except at the top of the whole list, unless otherwise specially ordered by Court or judge." The two appeals in the Halifax election cases, Roche vs. Hetherington and Carney vs. Hetherington were then called. The appeal was from an order made by the election judges fixing the date of trial of the petition pursuant to a former judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada, and directing that the trial should proceed, the judges having held that they were without jurisdiction. The appellants (respondents to the election petitions) objected to the order. A motion was made to quash the appeal on the grounds that they were taken neither from a decision of preliminary objections nor from judgment or decision of the judges who tried the petition. The Court gave judgment quashing the appeals with costs. The court will meet to deliver judgments on December 13 next.

CLEVELAND TO HOLD FATHERS' CONGRESS

Pastor Starts Move To Make Men Know More About Their Sons.

CLEVELAND, Wednesday—"A fathers' congress is more necessary than a mother's congress. We have too many of the latter; too few of the former. Indeed, I suppose this one we're to have here December 8 is the original," said Prohibition Officer Lewis, of the Juvenile Court, today.

He had just noticed the announcement from the Rev. Dr. A. B. Meldrum, pastor of the Old Stone Church on the public square, that he had invited the fathers of the country to join in a movement to regain closer relationship with their boys and their homes.

"Fathers are too busy these days," continued Lewis. "They're surprised when we bring them into our court to see their boys prisoners. This thing is needed far more than mothers' congresses."

"I would suggest that young, unmarried men be interested in the fathers' congress," said Mrs. S. K. Watterson, head of the W. C. T. U. "Maybe that would keep them out of the saloons."

"The trouble," she continued, "is that the mothers know too little about their homes and children; the fathers, nothing at all. The latter seem to think that if they provide the money that is all that is required."

$500 each; Jas. Hachey, Campbellton, $250; T. B. More, of Moncton, a retired member, claimed total disability amounting to $1,000; Fees and levies for the month are: Class A, $20; Class B, $12.50; Class C, eighty cents.

WIFE COLLAPSES

Goes Into Hysterics From the Joy of Her Victory over Husband

PHILADELPHIA, Monday—Again Mrs. Mary Scott Hartz is victor. The remarkable woman in Pittsburgh, who has fought as no woman ever fought before to uphold her character as a true wife, has been practically pronounced innocent by one of the highest judicial authorities of the state. The Pennsylvania Superior Court, in a decision handed down yesterday, this tribunal fully affirmed the conclusion of the court below that Augustus Hartz's plea for divorce from his young and pretty wife should be denied. It is the formal order of this court that the decree of the court below dismissing the libel shall be affirmed, that the assignments of error shall be overruled and that the appeal shall be dismissed at the cost of the appellant.

This last clause puts the whole expense of the proceedings before the Superior Court—and this means a pretty penny—upon the shoulders of the husband. Augustus Hartz, who owns a paper mill in Stephentown, Ohio. Names Negro Coachman. Hartz, in suing his wife for divorce, named a white coachman and also a negro coachman as respondents. For the wording of the Superior Court decision throughout its entire length, it is apparent that the justices agree with the conclusion of the lower court that Hartz's letter exhibits are to be presumed to be forgeries.

Indeed, Hartz had asked the Superior Court to suspend a case for the purpose of taking additional testimony, and had passed this demand upon certain newly discovered letters that are supposed to have been under the clock in Ireland. But the court pays little attention to this hearing up of proofs, evidently considering the new letters of the same class as the first batch presented in Pittsburgh.

PORTUGAL ON VERGE OF A REVOLUTION

Moneyed Classes Side With the Masses, Who Menace Throne
of King Charles.

DISCONTENT SPREADING

MADRID. All parties in Portugal have united to enforce a return to parliamentary government, and the Liberal states that a revolutionary outbreak may be expected at any time. Owing to the serious fall in the public funds and the increasing slackness of business and depression in banking, the moneyed classes side with the revolutionary party. Senior Villaverde openly declares that the struggle will end with the abdication or the overthrow of King Charles. There is a rumor abroad that the opportunity will then be taken at a great constitutional assembly to declare itself definitively constituted and set at Lisbon or Oporto, and act legislatively on behalf of the sovereign people. It is further stated that the army will join the revolutionaries. The king and his government can it be said, count only on the assistance of the municipal guard.

Bullet-Proof Absentia. The acting British consul at Chungking, China, has sent to the Board of Trade a sample of vegetable asbestos, which is stated to be bullet-proof.

Senate

FIGURES IN THE POWERS TRIAL

Youtsey, who is now serving a life term, confessed that he shot William Goebel, and afterward made a second confession to the effect that the playing was the result of a conspiracy. Powers was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment.

OTTAWA, Monday—At a meeting of the Cabinet this afternoon a final decision was reached as to the filling of three Senatorial vacancies from Ontario. It is understood that the names forwarded for the approval of his Excellency are those of Mr. Archibald Campbell, M.P. for Centre York; Hon. N. A. Belcourt, M.P. for Ottawa, and Mr. D. Derbyshire, President of the Eastern Ontario Dairywomen's Association and ex-M.P. for Brockville. The appointment of Messrs. Campbell and Belcourt will necessitate by-elections in Centre York and Ottawa, and the writs will be issued in the near future. In Ottawa the Liberal candidate will be Mr. B. T. Caron, a prominent local barrister. Messrs. Emmanuel Tasse and Auguste Lemieux, who have both been aspirants for the Liberal nomination, have agreed to withdraw, so as to avoid any disagreement in the party ranks, and Mr. Caron has consented to run. His candidature is acceptable to all parties. His fitness to represent the capital city in the Commons is unquestioned and his election a foregone conclusion.

The new Senators are younger than the general body of appointments to the upper Chamber. Hon. N. A. Belcourt was born in Toronto in 1860, and is, therefore, 47 years old. Mr. Arch Campbell is a native of Kent county, was born in 1845, and is, therefore, 62 years old. Mr. D. Derbyshire is 61 years of age. He is a native of Leeds county and was born in 1846.

WASHINGTON, Saturday—Evidence is accumulating that the financial interests of New York, which virtually control the banking situation throughout the country, are prolonging the business depression and currency stringency, in an effort to hold up the new debt certificates and Panama canal bonds. The president of the treasury promulgated these emergency measures it was with the thought of accomplishing two things. The first was to draw hoarded money out of hiding and make it once again available for the uses of business; the second was to get an increase in the national bank circulation, and so further relieve the situation.

For the latter, the banks were expected to buy the Panama bonds. This proposition they are ignoring, presumably with the idea of taking debt certificates, which were intended for investors with hoarded cash. Now the banks want these certificates on their own terms. They propose to buy them upon agreement of the Treasury to repossess with them the purchase money. This will leave unaccomplished the great purpose of the administration, which is to free money now held in the New York banks, and also to get out additional circulation.

Banks Held Responsible. If the plan of the President and secretary of the treasury for the government to borrow money in order to place it with country banks and thereby restore business confidence, has not proved effective in relieving the situation, it is because the financial powers have not responded to the government's action as they were expected to, and have treated the whole matter with a coldness indicating a studied effort to deprive the action of its intended effect.

The proposition of the banks is that the government give them the certificates and merely charge them up as additional deposits, the banks furnishing the required security. The operation, so far as the banks are concerned, would consist in transferring from their own accounts to that of the government, the full amount of the certificates awarded them.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Monday—Terrified at the thought of having to appear in the police court to answer to a charge of stealing coal from the L. C. R. Co. Fairweather, a thirteen-year-old boy, who lives with his grandmother, Mrs. Julia Brittain, on Broad Street, slashed his throat with a razor, and is in a critical condition. The boy had been reported for stealing from the L. C. R. Co. and about ten o'clock last night was notified by Officer McNamee to come to court to-morrow morning to answer to the charge. As soon as the officer's back was turned he tried to end his life. The boy's father is away in New York.

OTTAWA, Monday—It is currently reported here to-night that in the event of the Conservatives losing the next Dominion election, R. L. Borden will resign from the leadership of the party.

PARISIAN SWINDLED BY AMERICAN CROOK

"A Friend of the Vanderbilts" Victimizes Tradesmen to the Extent of $5000.

HIS CHECKS WORTHLESS

PARIS. A plausible, well-dressed American, who modestly announced himself as being a personal friend of the Vanderbilts, has victimized a number of Paris tradesmen to the extent of about $5000. He ordered clothing and articles of expensive jewelry from several of the leading shops, which were sent to a fashionable Paris address, at which he was staying. The "friend of the Vanderbilts" always paid by means of checks. These have turned out to be valueless. Some of the articles he obtained have since found their way to the Mont de Piete. The police got to hear of the affair, and went to the house of the American in order to arrest him. They were too late, for he had left an hour previously, saying that he was called away to Italy on important business. He is believed, however, to have crossed the channel to England, and the detective department has sent his description to Scotland Yard, and are asking the London police to keep a sharp lookout for him.

C.P.R.'S. NEW FREIGHT RATE NOW IN EFFECT

Was Considerable Opposition in Certain Quarters
over the Matter.

WINNIPEG AGAINST IT.

City Claims it Means a Huge Increase, in Rates and Does Injustice to City.

WINNIPEG, Monday—A telegram received to-day by the freight department of the C. P. R. from the Railway Commission in Ottawa, announces that the new freight tariff, which has been announced by the C. P. R., will take effect to-day. In view of the considerable opposition which arose over the matter, the date at which the new tariff was to go into effect had been postponed, but this order was rescinded by the latest decision of the Commission, and to-day the new tariff comes into effect, subject, however, to subsequent approval after the question has been taken up with both sides. The Winnipeg board of trade claim the schedule means a huge increase in rates, and does a gross injustice to this city. But some other western cities, however, claim that the new rates simply do away with the undue favoritism which has been shown to Winnipeg in the past.

RED BANK, N.J., Monday—Captain James H. Holmes, one of the last of John Brown's band of abolitionists, died late last night at the home of William Hockman, near here. Captain Holmes accompanied John Brown to Kansas in the early fifties, took part in the rioting there preceding the civil war, and after saw service in the war itself. He was Territorial Secretary of New Mexico under President Lincoln. Captain Holmes was seventy-four years old.

JOHNNY KNEW. Teacher-Johnny, can you explain the difference between "like" and "love"? Johnny—Yes, ma'am. I like bread and butter, but I love pie.

On the Maritime Express Saturday morning was a moose killed by Oliver Heandry near Bathurst. The moose was being shipped by express to Bel Falls, Vermont. It weighed about 300 pounds, and will be stuffed and mounted. Mr. Heandry recently killed a seal in Bathurst harbor which weighed about 70 pounds. This was also shipped to Mr. D. M. Richards, Vermont.

Eleven persons, including four women, were yesterday killed by gendarmes, and twelve others were wounded, during the celebration of a new Roman Catholic church at Chernov.

A Slovak priest named Hlinka had been removed from the pulpit for political intrigues, and the priest of a neighboring church was appointed to perform the consecration ceremony.

As it was known that the peasants sympathized with the expelled priest, a magistrate and three gendarmes accompanied the officiating priest.

When the party arrived at the new building they were received by a hostile mob of the parishioners. Stones were slung at the priest and gendarmes, and women in the crowd poured boiling water on the intruders.

The magistrate and the officer in charge of the gendarmes were thrown down, and the officer drew his revolver and fired. The volley checked the advance of the mob, who turned and fled. The leader of the demonstration was arrested. An inquiry has been ordered by the authorities.

WOODEN LEG AS BAIT. A man who was knocked down by a hansom cab in Essex street, Wellington, yesterday, had the stump of his wooden leg broken, and a large number of silver and copper coins dropped out of the limb.

Two families of Cornish, in Elgin, have fought a terrible duel with three men on each side.

There had been a vendetta between the families for generations, and finally to wipe it out they decided to fight in formal fashion.

It was arranged that Signor Corti and his two sons should fight Signor Alfieri and his two brothers. The chief of Cornish was chosen for the encounter, and it was agreed that pistols should be the weapons.

Within a few moments of the beginning of the duel Signor Corti and the two brothers of the Alfieri family fell dead, and the three survivors sustained serious wounds.

A crowd of inhabitants witnessed the duel. The police force, consisting of two carabinieri, stayed away until the affair was over.

WALL STREET LOSING ITS GRIP, IT IS SAID

Professor Patten Of U. of P., Declares Financial Centre Has Shinted As Result of Recent Stringency

NEW YORK, Monday—That Wall Street has failed to realize that the financial centre of the country has shifted, and that, if it is to dispose of its securities, it must absolutely satisfy investors in the West of their soundness, is the declaration made yesterday by Simon N. Patten, professor of political economy at the University of Pennsylvania, in an interview with the correspondent of the Graphic. It was asserted by Professor Patten that Congress at its coming session can take such steps as will cause a speedy clearing of the financial skies. No one of the underlying elements, he said, is unsound. He declared that the difficulty under which the business activities of the country are laboring to-day is purely one of currency; that, therefore, it devolves upon Congress speedily to make an important increase in the currency. He urges that, as a means of preventing Wall Street from locking up the nation's wealth, country banks be compelled to keep in their own vaults a greater percentage of their money. There should be, he believes, some form of asset currency, and the removal of the tax now placed upon the circulation of banks.

COMPANION OF JOHN BROWN.

Death of Capt. Holmes, a Prominent Abolitionist.

RED BANK, N.J., Monday—Captain James H. Holmes, one of the last of John Brown's band of abolitionists, died late last night at the home of William Hockman, near here. Captain Holmes accompanied John Brown to Kansas in the early fifties, took part in the rioting there preceding the civil war, and after saw service in the war itself. Neither knives, guns, ammunition nor fire, so dear to the heart of the Equimaux, would induce them to part with the few dogs which an epidemic had spared them. Undaunted, Caldwell determined to go through with his enterprise. By dint of persuasion and bribes he hired two dogs and bought one pup from the Pullerton natives, and then, by promising to take through the mail, persuaded Sergeant Haynes, who was in charge of the police post, to let him have the services of six more as far as the native settlement at Chesterfield.

The start was made on January 8, and without serious mishap Chesterfield was reached on the 19th, a distance of a hundred and eighty miles. At Chesterfield the natives were found to number forty, twelve of them being men. Disease had broken out among the dogs there, leaving only a remnant of the teams, which the natives regarded as more valuable than anything the white man had to offer. After negotiations, which lasted for two days Mr. Caldwell succeeded in purchasing one more dog and got the loan of another for the trip. Thus he found himself the possessor of five dogs when nine constitute a team.

A couple of days later a remarkable native arrived on the scene from the hunting ground with five dogs and a load of skins which he was taking to Fullerton to exchange with the police. He had traversed practically the whole extent of Canada from the Arctic Ocean to the international boundary. Eight years before a traveller named Clifton had got Ahumaha to accompany him to Churchill and had then induced him to go on to Winnipeg, where the native had, Mr. Caldwell said, been left without funds. The Hudson's Bay officials, who are still the guardians of the north, had then taken charge of Ahumaha and sent him back to Norway House.

REGINA, Monday—Representatives of two of the largest coal firms in the province, are back from a trip to the mines of Banff, Bankhead and Lethbridge, and confirm reports of a possible coal shortage this winter. Both firms state that the mines are running half shift owing to a scarcity of skilled labor, and the present supply is only about equal to the demand during the mild weather. One firm is now completely out of coal in Regina, and the mines cannot fill orders. With cold weather for a few days suffering from the lack of fuel would be distinctly felt throughout this province.

OTTAWA, Monday—A stirring record of endurance, courage and daring is contained in a report of a thousand-mile trip through the frozen winter wilderness of Canada's northland, received recently by the Royal North-West Mounted Police Department at Ottawa. In 1906 George F. Caldwell was commissioned to report on the character of the land, the lakes and the streams which lie back from the western shore of Hudson's Bay. The beginning of January found him at the Cape Fullerton police post, at the extreme north of Hudson's Bay, where a steamer had landed him. He had been there the year before, under Mr. Low, on the Neptune expedition. On that occasion he was despatched with five natives and two dog-sleds to Wagner Inlet, a hundred miles to the north of Fullerton. He mapped the shore and returned, after an absence of fifty days, with some four hundred miles of travel and exploration to his credit. In his story of the trip Mr. Low says that Caldwell "on this trip did a large amount of excellent work in surveying the coast line and examining the rocks along the route."

In 1906, however, Mr. Caldwell found his situation vastly different from that of the year before. He was on the rim of the Arctic region in mid-winter, with almost a thousand miles of frozen and practically uninhabited wilderness between him and his destination, which was nearly a thousand miles to the south.

Pack Dogs Scarce. Neither knives, guns, ammunition nor fire, so dear to the heart of the Equimaux, would induce them to part with the few dogs which an epidemic had spared them. Undaunted, Caldwell determined to go through with his enterprise. By dint of persuasion and bribes he hired two dogs and bought one pup from the Pullerton natives, and then, by promising to take through the mail, persuaded Sergeant Haynes, who was in charge of the police post, to let him have the services of six more as far as the native settlement at Chesterfield.

The start was made on January 8, and without serious mishap Chesterfield was reached on the 19th, a distance of a hundred and eighty miles. At Chesterfield the natives were found to number forty, twelve of them being men. Disease had broken out among the dogs there, leaving only a remnant of the teams, which the natives regarded as more valuable than anything the white man had to offer.

After negotiations, which lasted for two days Mr. Caldwell succeeded in purchasing one more dog and got the loan of another for the trip. Thus he found himself the possessor of five dogs when nine constitute a team.

A couple of days later a remarkable native arrived on the scene from the hunting ground with five dogs and a load of skins which he was taking to Fullerton to exchange with the police. He had traversed practically the whole extent of Canada from the Arctic Ocean to the international boundary.

Eight years before a traveller named Clifton had got Ahumaha to accompany him to Churchill and had then induced him to go on to Winnipeg, where the native had, Mr. Caldwell said, been left without funds. The Hudson's Bay officials, who are still the guardians of the north, had then taken charge of Ahumaha and sent him back to Norway House.

Two Georgian candidates for Congress have agreed to quit their district and remain away until after the voters have decided in the primaries which one they prefer. That would not be bad precedent to follow occasionally in this vicinity.

YEARS OF PROSPERITY

That President Roosevelt, in his call for hard cash the other day, had ample reason to boast of the general prosperity of the United States is proved by the statistical record just published by the Department of Commerce and Labor. In the decade ending July 1, 1907 for instance, the deposits in the savings banks of the country increased from $1,933,000,000 to $3,495,000,000. Almost equally substantial was the increase in the deposits in all banks—from $5,000,000,000 to about $13,000,000,000. During the same ten years the public debt, minus cash in the United States treasury, dropped from $987,000,000 to $878,000,000 and the per capita indebtedness from $13.78 to $10.29. So, too, there was a welcome decline in annual interest charges—from $34,333,333 to $21,666,666 on the public indebtedness and from 48 cents to 25 cents on the per capita debt. Finally to clear up the momentary side of the auspicious returns, the money in circulation grew in the aggregate from $1,640,000,000 in 1897 to $2,734,000,000 this year. Now let us glance at the commercial and industrial side of the recent picture. The value of the merchandise imported into the United States in 1897 was $765,000,000; in 1907—, or, to be precise, in the fiscal year ending July 1 last—it was nearly double that amount or $1,434,000,000. During the same time, notwithstanding an expanding demand at home, the merchandise exported rose in value from $1,031,000,600 to $1,854,700,000 and the trade in manufacturers' crude materials more than doubled as regards both output and income—in the former case the value rising from $297,000,000 to $593,000,000 and in the latter case from $196,000,000 to $477,000,000. It was a good, healthy development all around. We have no space to go into details, but we would point out that while in the South the number of spindles in the cotton mills has increased in the last ten years from 3,259,000 to 9,000,000, the Northern mills—mostly New England mills—have made a gain of nearly 2,000,000 spindles, bringing their total up to 15,000,000. The report, on the whole, is timely and therefore doubly impressive. It reveals conditions that speak well for the future if, as the President said in his letter to Mr Cortelyou, the people will but take a normal view of things and act in a normal manner. Of course the President will set the country an example in this respect.

HARVARD V. YALE

Harvard and Yale have been meeting on the gridiron, off and on, since 1883. There was no game in 1885, and there was another gap from 1894, after the Hinky incident, until 1897. The Crimson forfeited a game in 1888. The games of 1897 and 1899 resulted in no score for either side. Of the remaining eighteen games Harvard has won only three. The first victory for the Cambridge side was in 1901, and the score that year, 22 to 0, represented the best showing Harvard has ever made against Yale. Back in 1884 Yale scored 52 points to Harvard's naught, but only once in the last twenty years has the Blue rolled up more than 25 points and that was seven years ago, when the game ended thus: Yale, 28; Harvard, 0. Harvard has not scored a point against Yale since her last victory in 1901, and altogether the teams drilled in Cambridge have failed to rise above the zero point in thirteen of the twenty games played in the series up to date, while Yale has failed to score on but four occasions. Yet it is good to see Harvard, notwithstanding the record, answering Not to the familiar question, "Are we downhearted?"

MR BRYAN'S SCRUPLES

Mr. Bryan, in the latest issue of The Commoner, gives two reasons why he cannot accept the nomination, as he is pleased to call it, to name a Democratic candidate. "If a majority of the Democrats would agree," he says, "to allow Mr Bryan to name the candidate, they would hold him responsible for the success of the person named, and who is wise enough to assume intelligently such a responsibility? It might be very pleasing to the friends of a particular candidate to have that candidate endorsed by Mr Bryan, if Mr Bryan's endorsement insured a nomination, but Mr Bryan's endorsement would not insure the nomination of the person endorsed, and it would not insure his election, but it would insure one thing, namely, that Mr. Bryan would be denounced as a dictator not only by all who are unfriendly, but by many who are friendly." Mr Bryan's second reason for declining the nomination is that for him to name a man would not be democratic. "Power," he declares, "comes up from the people, not down from the leader." There is a third reason which modesty must have prompted the distinguished editor to suppress, namely, that he would like the nomination himself. As for the democracy of the act proposed to him, it is worth noting that on this point Mr Bryan and President Roosevelt are in utter disagreement. At least, the Taft boomers would have us believe they are.

LAW AND AFFINITIES

Persons who casually speak and write of the complexities of modern civilization probably do not always appreciate the full significance of the subject. Nowhere is there a more striking expression of the new problems that have been developed by latter-day relations than in the law courts. The new conditions and ideals have so far outrun the legislatures that judges are frequently impelled to overturn old precedents and decisions so that the letter of the law may be applied to new conditions. The complications that grow out of our American standard of marital relations are among the most perplexing with which jurists are called upon to deal. Our customs and moral ideas advance so rapidly that the ponderous and slow moving courts are hopelessly distanced. It is true that the courts have made desperate efforts to keep up with the mere demand for dissolving decrees and within recent times there has been no cause for complaint that the legal machinery for breaking the marriage ties has not been adequate to the wants of the people. But, after all, that, at best, is but a perfunctory operation. On the nicer questions that have grown out of the injection of affinities into the marital relations of Americans the courts are distressingly silent. What suffering this sluggishness may cause is illustrated by an action commenced in New York last week. An affinity has been sued by a young woman who claims damages to the extent of $100,000 because of the man's broken promise. Let it not be misunderstood that this is a vulgar breach of promise suit in which the shattered heart of a maiden seeks alive because her plighted husband has changed his mind and married another. Such complications are entirely out of date. In the case to which we refer the beautiful woman says:—I met him first last summer. My husband introduced us and we loved each other at first sight. I gave up everything for him, and he promised to secure a divorce when his wife returned from Europe and marry me. Last Sunday she returned. On Tuesday in spite of his promise to me that he would not see her, I met him and his wife on Broadway. Could anything be more harrowing? Could perfidy sink lower than that man? Imagine, if you can, the sufferings of the tender heart when she met him with his own wife? The law may have no precedents in cases of this kind, but if it was to serve the needs of the people, it must speedily be brought up to the point where it can meet modern conditions and solve the questions that grow out of them.

HARVARD'S ACQUITTAL

As usual, the football experts are warm in their praise of Harvard's pluck. The Crimson gladiators played for all they were worth—gingerily, manfully, desperately. Their opponents were made to realize that indeed they had been through a strenuous struggle. Encouragements are heaped upon this Harvard player and that, and altogether the spokesman representing the oldest college in the land are proud of their eleven. And what of the eleven men, brave and true? They were "reticent" but yet they "felt satisfied that the Elis had to fight every inch of the way." Thus they reflected the sentiment of their head coach, who said, at the close of the splendid contest, that he was "perfectly satisfied with the team." In the opinion of disinterested authorities it is just this customary feeling of satisfaction over making Yale play the limit that keeps Harvard from winning more than once in every ten years on the average. At Yale and at other colleges we

The announcement that the government engineers have reported favorably upon the project to continue a bridge at Matapedia is one which the people of Campbellton should take unbounded delight in. The announcement means the early construction of a bridge and this is one of the chief things to be desired. The bridge project at Matapedia should be second in importance to us only to the project to construct a bridge across the Restigouche at this point. The Matapedia bridge will prove a great convenience to the people of St. Alexis and neighboring districts in Quebec who wish to make Campbellton a market place for their farm products. There are four or five thousand people on the other side who will be benefited by this bridge and many who seldom if ever now come to Campbellton will come regularly and often when the bridge is completed. The construction of the bridge will prove a big help toward making Campbellton the market place and trade centre of the Bonaventure country.

MCDONALD GAME TO MARRY NO. 3.

Had two Wives Living, But Tried to Take Another.

Mrs. William McDonald, whose husband is now under arrest in Egypt, Mass., on a charge of bigamy discussed the case at length with a reporter for the Graphic yesterday afternoon at the residence of William Le Bouffe, Sugar Loaf Street, where she is now staying.

Mrs. McDonald went back to the time when she and her husband resided at Campbellton.

"It was just about nine years ago that we went to Bangor to live, she said. "I remained there with my husband for eight months, then he sent me home, telling me that he would follow a month or so later. He did not do so, however, neither did he write to me for three weeks. When he did write me, he said: 'Now you're home where I want you, and you can stay there.' I want you, natakou ooyan."

This came as a great shock to me, for previous to it there had been little or no trouble between us. I replied to his letter, but he ignored my communication entirely. From his brothers, however, I learned that he went to Eastport and then to Massachusetts, where he remained about eight years, working as a carpenter. He deserted me entirely. One summer I paid a visit to his family at Buetoche, and while there heard that he was married. In fact he sent a letter to his brother there with the photograph of a woman enclosed and asked his brother to ask me how I liked his second wife. But all the time I honestly believed that he was bluffing. I did not think that he was quite bad enough to commit bigamy. Later I came home, and while here I kept getting word that he was married the second time.

"I sent our little boy to school here, but the first day some of the other boys asked him why his mother didn't go and live with her husband who deserted her. I then took my boy away from school, and we went to Wisconsin where I sent him to school. All the time I was working in order to support myself and child. We came home at the expiration of two years. This was last May. I heard here that my husband was in Moncton, and went down to see him on June 18. He told me he wanted to make up and go to Wisconsin, but I wanted to remain in the east. He said, however, that he would never remain in the east, but although I had heard time and again that he was married the second time, I never suspected the reason why he wanted to get out of the country. I stayed thirteen days with him in Moncton. Then he got me to come home, saying he would be ready to go west in five weeks. He did not write me however, and as I learned the address of the woman in Egypt, Mass., and she hadn't had any support from him since. She added that he left her on one occasion before, but that she had traced him to Nelson, Mass., and compelled him to return to her. He was then, she said, engaged to marry a nurse.

"I went to Moncton to have him arrested, but before I could see the police he came to me and promised to live with me. He arranged with a woman for rooms and left me promising to show up on the following day, but I soon learned that he had skipped.

"Meanwhile his second wife had had a warrant issued against him for non-support. She wanted the authorities in Egypt to come to Moncton and arrest him, but this they refused to do. She showed the police my letters and they told her to take good care of them. "He reached Egypt on the 9th, and the police there arrested him and then the sheriff went to the second wife to get my letters. She reluctantly gave him an order for them, for she was not desirous of pushing the bigamy charge against him. When McDonald was asked if he had not another wife and child living he replied: "Not on your life. When I can't support one, I can't support two." He was held in $1,000 bail, and on the 16th I went on. On Saturday his case came up. He pleaded guilty to the non-support charge but denied the other. I showed my marriage certificate and the second wife produced hers. He tried to put in the defence that he heard that I was dead. He was committed for trial. It will take place in December, and I will go on. Possibly Dr. Carr who married us will go on too.

"The first day of the examination I went to my husband in the court room and told him his little boy wanted to see him. He said: 'I guess not,' and ran into the clerk's room.

BEAR EATS ALL OF MR. SPROUL'S GRUB.

Campbellton's Sportsman's
Camp is also Wrecked
by Bruin.

There is a big brown bear up in the neighborhood of Rocky Gulch, seven miles from here, which would give a good deal for a bromo seltzer or some dyspeptic tablets just now, for he is suffering most terribly from indigestion and countless other stomach ailments, all because he made a gluttonous onslaught on Billy Sproul's larder at the camp of that renowned sportsman at Rocky Gulch. Along with Edward Price and guide, Bill Benson Mr. Sproul started for his Rocky Gulch camp on Saturday. They took along with them some potatoes, but nothing else in the shape of eatables, for Mr. Sproul had a week of two before stocked his camp with enough provisions to last a small army a month.

The first night they laid out some miles this side of the camp. In the morning, bright and early they started out again to reach their destination. When they were within three miles of the camp they came upon pieces of pork and biscuit.

"This looks suspicious," said Mr. Sproul. "Someone has evidently broken into the camp."

Then the trio hastened on. When they reached the spot where once stood Mr. Sproul's highly valued camp, a scene of devastation presented itself such as is rarely given to mortal eyes to gaze upon. For yards and yards on all sides of the site of the camp were strewn the wreckage of the camp and its contents. Of the camp itself, which was made of canvas, there was not enough left to make a dish rag, to use the words of Mr. Sproul himself; and on all sides were innumerable bear tracks. Among the eatables which Mr. Sproul had left in the camp were barrels of codfish, shad, cornbeef and flour. Broken barrel staves and bits of fish alone remained to tell the tale of the big feast indulged in by the four-footed intruder. Later, on going down to the side of the brook, Mr. Sproul found the skin of the codfish. Sproul is confident the bear skinned the fish before eating it. A large quantity of surprise soap had also been left in the camp by Mr. Sproul, and this too was gone, the bear evidently ending up with soap in place of cheese. Besides eating the soap with coffee in it, drank that and polished off half a side of bacon, two pounds of cheese, etc.

"It was certainly a great meal he had," said Mr. Sproul yesterday, "but it was one which put a crimp into us. We had nothing to eat but the potatoes we brought with us. But wait! Yes, Mr. Bruin did leave enough flour for us to make a pan of biscuits with. In the morning we sent over to Arthur Fournier's camp for some grub, but that didn't last long and we were compelled to come out yesterday. We had intended staying until the 23th."

Before coming away, Sproul and his party tracked the bear over the light snow for three miles. Then the snow gave out and they were compelled to abandon their search. They set traps for him, however, and they will have a look at them when they go up again in the course of a few weeks.

MERCHANT AND PEDLER DIFFER

Former Says He Was Struck
First, While the Latter
Says the Same Thing.

CHATHAM, Tuesday.—The brick work on the new hotel being built by Peter Archer has been finished and the inside framework will be commenced at once, and the work on it pushed throughout the winter, so that the hotel may be ready to open in March. The assault case in which a merchant is the defendant and a pedler the plaintiff, has been adjourned until next Monday to get another witness. The pedler says that the merchant assaulted him in the latter's store. The merchant claims that the pedler commenced the trouble, and will likely bring an action against him.

NEW YORK, Saturday.—Theodore Shonts' objections to having a titled son-in-law having been overcome by the pleadings of his wife and daughter, and the engagement of Miss Theodora Shonts to the Duc de Chaulnes has been announced, apparently on authority.

It has been prematurely announced on several occasions, but in each instance it was denied by members of the family, and with special emphasis by Mr. Shonts, when he was chairman of the Panama Canal commission. He asserted that he wanted his daughters to marry Americans, and he has been stating that for a long time he strenuously opposed the union to which he has now agreed.

Miss Shonts, who was 18 in March met the Duke in London about a year ago. The duke is 38 years old. He has a house in Paris, and a hereditary castle in one of the French provinces.

His second wife's name was Carrie Letichfield. He met her at her father's house where he boarded. She is now 33 years of age.

Mrs. McDonald doesn't appear to be very much worked up over the case. Neither is she very bitter toward her husband. She declares she would like to see him punished for what he has done, but wouldn't like to see him get five years.

DEATH OF MR. FRITH DEEPLY DEPLORED

Brilliant Young Man Succumbs to Yellow Fever in Trinidad.

The death of Rev. A. T. Frith, formerly of Campbellton, has occurred in Trinidad after a brief illness. Mr. Frith was inducted into charge of St. Andrew's, the native Presbyterian church, San Fernando, Trinidad, only a few weeks ago, succeeding Rev. Dr. Grant, who had resigned.

Soon after taking up the work Mr. Frith was stricken down by yellow fever. He survived by his mother, brother and several sisters, from whom he parted only two months ago. Douglas C. Frith, of Campbellton, is an uncle. In an account of his funeral, a Trinidad paper says:

"The funeral of the late Rev. A. T. Frith took place on Wednesday afternoon at the Sussanach church, San Fernando, to the cemetery. The cortege was very large and representative. At the church the Rev. W. P. Simpson conducted the funeral service which was choral. The choir was led by Miss Beatrice Francis, who presided at the organ. The ceremony commenced with the singing of hymn No. 128. Asleep in Jesus, followed by the reading of scripture by the Rev. J. S. Wilson. The Rev. Dr. Morton offered a pathetic prayer, in the course of which he prayed that strength might be given the deceased's mother, brothers and sisters, to receive the sad news. The choir sang O God Our Help in Ages Past, and the Rev. S. A. Fraser pronounced the benediction.

"That portion of the service ended, the cortege formed up in procession order after the coffin had been borne to the hearse by the church committee. Eight ministers walked before the hearse and other ministers came immediately behind. They were the Revs. Drs. Morton, Jamieson and Coffin the Revs. Harvey, Morton, W. McC. Thompson, W. H. Mayhew, J. S. Wilson, W. F. Dickson, A. W. Thompson, S. A. Fraser, W. B. Mattinson, R. A. Cook, W. P. Simpson, the Rev. Canon Dooley, the Revs. G. H. McPherson, Wm. Springer, J. C. Penherton and Lal Beharry. The boys of the Sussanach primary school and many men and women were in the funeral procession.

"At the grave the Revs. W. McC. Thompson and W. P. Simpson recited the remaining portion of the burial service, and the Rev. W. F. Dickson offered the closing prayer. The beautiful casket which contained the body was lowered into another box which had been placed in the grave, and covered. Very many wreaths were sent, so that the grave was literally covered with them."

Mr. Frith was son of the late William Frith, of Campbellton. He was educated in the Campbellton common schools and was afterwards on the teaching staff here. He took the arts in the University of New Brunswick, graduating in 1893. He took his theology course in the Presbyterian College, Halifax, and was ordained minister at a meeting of the presbytery held here. He left after that for his chosen field of labor in the island of Trinidad. He was a young man who had brilliant prospects, and his death occurring at this early age is to be deeply deplored.

CHATHAM FRIDAY.—Early this morning the chief of police received word that a coat had been stolen from B. Johnson, proprietor of the Dime Opera. The coat is worth about $5, and Mr. Johnson was naturally much disturbed about his loss. He believes it was stolen from the hotel Saturday night, and that the thief had made an entrance through a broken window. The chief started an investigation and learned that there was a coat at the express office answering the description of the one lost, and addressed to Mr. Johnson. When told of this Mr. Johnson remembered that he had got a parcel from the express office on Saturday morning, and had returned it without opening it, as he had not ordered anything by express. The parcel had then been sent to J. Johnson, of the Happy Half Hour. He also lost a coat recently and opened the parcel with half a hope that the missing garment was inside. The coat was not his, and he returned it to the express office. Then B. Johnson got it for the second time, and found that it was the coat he had lost. It is presumed that one of the singers with the Dime Opera recently took the coat to St. John when leaving on a cold morning and returned it by express.

"Was you ever disappointed in a man?" asked the novice of the stage. "I should say so," confessed the chorus girl of 39 summers. "I once encouraged a real millionaire to write me the most gushing love letters you ever read."

"And was that a disappointment?" "Well, rather. Just about the time I was going to sue him for breach of promise I found that he had written on disappearing paper."

NOW SELLING IT OUT OF POCKET

Since Chatham Bars Are Closed Men Are Peddling
"Booze" On Street.

CHATHAM, Tuesday.—The Scott Act case against the proprietor of the Albert hotel, where a raid was made, comes up to-morrow.

It is understood that no defence will be offered and that the liquor will be destroyed. Since the bars have been closed up pocket peddling is being resorted to to a considerable extent. The pocket men are hard to catch, but the police are on the trail of a couple of them and expect to land them soon.

A number of men were busy on the river yesterday picking up logs which had gone adrift from a boom across the river.

There was good skating on the lake on Saturday and Sunday and there were crowds of skaters on both days.

Mr. Nelson left for Bathurst this morning to spend a few days with his daughter.

DEFENCE OF OLD KENTUCKY.

"Where have you been, Johnson?" asked the postmaster of the village. "Been across the line to see a court trial in Kentucky," drawled the angular man on the speckled mule. "Trial, eh? Was the prisoner ably defended."

"Very ably, sah. He was baricaded by six chairs and a table, had his head covered up with a bucket, wore a sheet of tin under his shirt and there was seven friends surrounding him with army pistols. Don't you call that good defence, neighbor?"

The liver is the largest gland in the body; its office is to take from the blood the properties which form bile. When the liver is torpid and region, pains between the shoulders, yellowness

of the skin and eyes, bowels irregular, coated

POWERS HOPEFUL OF GETTING FAIR JURY

Special Verdict of 300 men
Will Report to Court
Today.

ACCUSED GAINS POINT

James Howard will go from Penitentiary as Witness for Defence

(Special to the Morning Graphic).
GEORGETOWN, Ky., Saturday—

Members of the special venire of 300 men summoned from Grant County
as prospective jurors to try Caleb Powers, charged with the murder of Governor William Goebel, are arriving tonight. The entire 300 will answer to their names when court convenes tomorrow.

These men were summoned in person
by Sheriff Waring of Scott County, and his deputy, both of whom are personal friends of Caleb Powers, and he and his attorneys are sure of fair treatment at his hands.

Powers at first wanted to object to summoning men from Grant County, as it is strongly Democratic and is in the district represented in the State Senate by William Goebel, the man for whose murder Powers is tried. Powers feared this would operate against him, and he wanted a jury from this Payette County. Judge Morris overruled this motion, and ordered the venemen from Grant County.

WASHINGTON, Friday—In his message to the Congress upon the financial situation President Roosevelt, it is definitely understood, will place the blame for existing conditions where it properly belongs.

Wall Street, the sinkhole of the country's income, with its manifold schemes of manipulation and stock jobbing to tie up the capital of all sections and

paralyze commerce and industry, and the cowardice of Congress in failing year after year to deal with the currency and banking systems as the nation's needs demand, are the prime causes of all the recent financial disasters.

It cannot be said that the President as yet has any specific recommendations to make, or that he will attempt to point out just what should be done to guard against a recurrence of the trouble. It is known, however, that he will not mince words in his effort to convey his belief that wrongs against the country have been committed by the speculative interests, and that the neglect of the laws, due to the inactivity of Congress, are largely to blame for the opportunities presented for the commission of these wrongs.

The President will make it plain that he is no better pleased with the necessary for an increase in the public debt in order to restore confidence than are those who will criticize his action later on.
He will also make it manifest that he resorted to the extreme measures of issuing bonds and debt certificates only because he believed the need of the nation to be as extreme as the course that has been adopted.

As nearly as the President's plans can be ascertained in advance of their publication it is known to be his intention to ask of Congress immediate consideration of the currency and banking questions, and in order to make such consideration he will point out what in his opinion were the causes of the panic.

Sick all the Time with Kidney Trouble

4 BOXES CURED HIM
Mr. Whellam was a mighty ill man this spring. He had been ailing for almost a year. Sharp pains in the back and through the hips. Dull headaches and dizzy spells. Appetite poor—nothing seemed to taste right.

Finally, an old friend told him about a friend who was in just that condition and who was cured by GIN PILLS.
Mr. Whellam tried them. And you would not know him for the same man
now. That worried, strained look about the face is gone. His eyes are bright—his complexion rosy. He enjoys what he eats—has gained in weight—and sleeps like a top.
He had kidney trouble. GIN PILLS practically gave new kidneys—healed and strengthened these vital organs—soothed the bladder—and freed the system of uric acid that was poisoning him.
Broad Cove, C.B., July 6, 1906.
I received a sample of your GIN PILLS last fall. They are a great deal of good. In fact, they are the best kidney medicine I know of. A neighbor of mine has tried them and they did him more good than all the Doctor's Medicine he took in three months. I will not forget during my lifetime the benefit your GIN Pills have been to me. J. W. WILKINSON.
Are your kidneys sick? Do you feel just as Mr. Whellam did? Then take GIN PILLS on our positive guarantee that they will cure you. To have you give them a fair trial, we send a free sample if you return this paper. Write

PENILESS, THEY FLOCK TO CANADA.

Hundreds Thrown Out of Work in Buffalo are Crossing the Border.

MUST ADMIT THEM.

If Sound Physically and Mentally Canada Cannot Keep Them Out.

(Special to the Morning Graphic).
TORONTO, Saturday—Hundreds of laborers and mechanics who have been laid off in Buffalo and surrounding cities, notably from the Lackawanna Steel works and kindred industries are flocking over the line into Canada in search of employment. Many of them are in a penniless condition, and in view of the slack state of most of Ontario industries this invasion is likely to become considerable of a menace to conditions in this part of the province.

In answer to inquiries as to whether anything could be done by the immigration officials to check the flow of the unemployed into the country, it was stated in the Parliament Building that under the law physically and mentally unfit can be prevented from entering Canada. American officials are said to be adding the influx by refusing re-admission to the United States except in the case of American born citizens who cannot be deported.

A STRONG FAVORITE.

With all classes of people, professional men, business men, mechanics, farmers, etc., the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, is the popular paper of Canada. Its success is well deserved, too, for certainly no paper in Canada gives such big value.

How such a paper can be supplied to subscribers at one dollar per year is a mystery. Few homes in Canada will be found to-day without the big Montreal paper, and there is greater demand than ever this season and those that want to receive the paper regularly during 1908 should send in their orders at once.

INSTIGATORS OF LOOTING

Men Hitherto Regarded as Reputable Citizens Revealed in Their True Guise.

(Special to the Morning Graphic).
PARIS, Friday—

Every day brings a new sensation in connection with the great crime syndicate in which Antoine Thomas is at present the leading character.
Having learned that, despite the promise made to him, Mme. L., to save whose honor he returned to France and voluntarily surrendered, had been immediately compromised in the stolen treasures accused of the theft of the police, Thomas became very angry.

There was now, he declared, no reason why he should spare any of his accomplices, and he proceeded to give the magistrate the names of four well-known Paris art dealers, against whom he made the most serious charges.

One of them he accused of being the instigator of the theft of several works of art at Solignac; another of offering him commissions of $1200 and $800 if he obtained possession of certain statues; a third he accused of promising him $200
if he stole the eucharistic dove of Lan-guenne.

Starting Accusations.
The text of Thomas' letter to the magistrate is as follows: "The names of the persons he accuses being of necessity suppressed:
"I am absolutely determined to help you to the utmost of my abilities in recovering the entire truth with reference to this disastrous affair. I have learned through my barrister of the police raid on the studio of a woman whom I passionately loved, and for whose sake I had determined to say nothing.
Now, however, that the veil has been raised concerning her, and her name has been given, I see no reason to remain silent."

"I propose to write you a circumstan-tiated letter in which I will give you full information concerning the complicity of persons now at large, and at whose houses no perquisitions have been made as yet by the police. Yet these persons were the instigators of all the robberies I have committed. At the late hour at which I write this letter I can only make a few revelations."

"I accuse — (a provincial antiquary) of being the instigator of the robbery of the statue of the Virgin of Survetet, which was committed in 1904. I accuse him of having sold the statue to — (a Paris merchant) for $200. This was merely the man of straw acting for another."

"I accuse the first of these of being the instigator of the robbery committed at Solignac in 1905, and of having sold the reliquary and other articles to the person mentioned for a price which I do not know."

"I accuse — (a third Parisian collector) of having proposed to me the purchase of a statue from a church in the Department of the Allier, of having offered to pay me $200 for the theft of the portable altar in the Abbey of Con-combre, and of having offered to take me to England with him to dispose of the stolen property. I accuse him of being the instigator of the robbery of the statue of St. Beaudouin at St. Neactaire, of having promised me $500 for the statue delivered to him in Paris, of which, however, he refused to take possession for want of a scandal."

"I accuse — of having bought from me all the articles stolen from the museum at Gueret, and of only having maintained a portion of these articles, which were fifteen in number. I accuse him of having instigated the robbery of the eucharistic dove from the church of Languenne, for which he promised to pay me $200. He refused to pay me when he found that the dove was modern and not ancient. He refused to pay me the honor to treat me, and trusting you will accept the assurance of my profound respect—Antoine Thomas."

All the persons accused by Thomas are heavily reputed either as antiquaries or collectors.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier put the case well when he said the Liberals had not been imitators, had not walked in beaten paths, but had framed a policy to meet difficulties as they arose, a policy suited to the condition and the time. Lumber has not been such a drug on the market for years as it is at the present time, and lumbering operations both in the woods and at the mills, will be very slack this winter, says Saturday's St. John Globe. A large English firm who gave a $50,000 order for lumber a short time ago, have ordered it to be stored on this side, as they have no chance to sell it in the European market. The Ingleswood Company, which has been accustomed to have 400 or 500 men in the Musquash woods at this time of the year, have now only about 150.

He belonged to the Parish of Sellybury and was in the employ of the I. C. N. E. for about ten years. He left the service about fifteen years ago and removed to Boston, where he also engaged in railroad work.

The unravelling of the tangled threads of comedy that wrap "The Private Secretary" in delightful mystery was accomplished at the Academy of Music last night by the W. S. Harkins Company, amid continuous laughter and applause from the large audience. From start to finish there was not a dull moment, every scene was a succession of very amusing situations; and each member of the excellent company responded effectively to the situation. It was a night of keen enjoyment, unmarred by a single moment of comic relief or the presence of questionable wit. The different members of the company met with a hearty reception from the audience. OUTLOOK NOT BRIGHT.
Mr. George F. Alexander, of the United Lumber Company, of Springfield, Mass., is in the city to-day, accompanied by Mr. O. H. Perry, also of Springfield, says Saturday's Frederickton Gleaser. They are guests at the Queen. In speaking with The Gleaser this morning, Mr. Alexander said that the outlook of the American lumber market was not considered very bright. Some looked for a better tone in the spring, but others felt that the manufacturers were carrying too heavy stocks for any noticeable reaction to set in soon. Mr. Alexander says that the financial situation is of course affecting the lumber market, but he expects that in six months or less the financial outlook will be brighter. "A Vanderbilt cannot borrow money to-day," said Mr. Alexander.

NEW CHARLISLE EVENT
A very interesting event took place at New Carlisle November 25, when Edith Barbara, youngest daughter of Robert W. Barter, of Grand Cascape-dia, was united in marriage to Andrew Clarence Smith, son of John A. Smith, of Hopetown. Rev. G. F. Fattie officiating. The bride wore a travelling suit of navy blue panama cloth with hat to match. She received some valuable presents, among them being a beautiful fur-lined coat with sable collar, the present of the groom. They left on the B. C. R. for Washington, where they will reside. They intend visiting Campbellton Montreal and other points. We join in wishing the happy couple a prosperous journey through life.

HARKINS COMING.
For many years W. S. Harkins has been bringing companies to the maritime provinces; in fact it is just thirty-one years since he made his first appearance at the Academy of Music in Halifax, and since then he has always surrounded himself with a company of ladies and gentlemen holding responsible positions in their chosen profession. He is very careful in the selection of plays, securing only the highest class comedies and dramas. On the company's recent departure from Bermuda the Daily Colonist of Hamilton said: "Mr. Harkins' theatrical company sail to-day by the steamer Orizaba for Halifax. During the company's visit to Bermuda crowded houses have been the rule; and the universal judgment is that the company has supplied to residents of this colony a fund of innocent and improving amusement for which they cannot feel too grateful. The plays have been uniformly of a high literary excellence and replete with dramatic incident which afforded ample scope for the exercise of such first rate histrionic ability as Mr. Harkins has been fortunate enough to collect into his corps. Seldom indeed if ever, have the inhabitants of Bermuda had the opportunity of enjoying a series of pieces so well selected and so ably rendered; and while wishing the company a very hearty bon voyage, we express the hope that Mr. Harkins may see his way clear to make his visit periodic." The Harkins Company will appear at the Opera House here on Wednesday evening, presenting the powerful drama "The Shadow Behind the Throne."

The Nova Scotian is the name of an exceedingly well printed and well edited quarterly, the first number of which has just been printed in Toronto. It is a magazine devoted to the interests of the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia and the present number contains several contributions of interest from members of the staff. An article from the pen of J. Cowan, entitled The Bank of Nova Scotia, shows the remarkable strides the institution has taken in the monetary world. "It was started in 1822, opened its first branch at Windsor, N.S., in 1837 and to-day has 71 branches. Since 1897 its capital has more than doubled; its reserve fund has more than trebled, making it 175 per cent of the capital, the top point of the roll of honor for Canadian banks, and its circulation has increased 119 per cent.

HARKINS COMPANY SCORES A BIG HIT

Best Dramatic Company Which Has Ever Appeared In Campbellton

A FINE PLAY

"The Shadow Behind the Throne", Best Offering Of The Season

At the Opera House last night, the theatregoers of Campbellton were certainly given a treat. The W. S. Harkins Company made their first appearance in our midst, and if they are to be judged by their opening performance, their success is assured. "The Shadow Behind the Throne" was the bill presented. The general verdict at the end of the play was that it was, by long odds, the best company that has appeared in Campbellton. The play itself is a melo-drama of the highest class, dealing with diplomatic life in China during the late Boxer outbreaks, and abounds in many thrilling climaxes and strong situations, while the comedy element is very bright and clearly brought out.

Miss Susan Van Duzer, the leading lady, appeared as Dorothy Calhoun, and not only did she look strikingly handsome in her stunning gowns, but in her acting of a very difficult role, showed that she is an actress of great merit. Miss Blanche Mall made a big hit, and was very happily cast, while Miss May Anderson and Miss Farnsworth appeared to good advantage. Mr. Orson M. Dunn, in a striking make-up, was a capital viceroys, giving great attention to detail. Mr. Carl Fey, as the "Shadow" showed great force and dramatic instinct. The comedy parts played by Messrs. Stubbs and Cummings stood out considerably. Mr. Stubbs is a comedian of recognized ability, while Mr. Cummings kept things moving every moment he was on the stage. Mr. James O. Carter, as the Chinese mission, made a distinct hit. His dialogue, make-up were perfect, his lines spoken with great feeling, and his stage scene, in the third act, was a fine piece of acting. Messrs. Bowker, Bosworth and Bernard materially added to a very enjoyable evening. The play was enjoyed by all present, and the applause was loud and frequent.

The bill for to-night will be the world-famous comedy "Charlie's Aunt," that has been played in every big city and even translated into foreign languages. No one should miss this treat. It was announced this evening that for the balance of the engagement the price of seats would be reduced to 50 and 35 cents for reserved seats. Manager Harkins expressed himself as being delighted with our theatre and the surroundings, and as it is a large hall he has agreed with Manager Dimmock on this reduction. The stage director and members of the company were all unanimous in praising the arrangements back of the curtain for the comfort of the visiting companies. They are assured of bumper houses for the balance of their engagement.

NO DOUBT ABOUT THOS. COLLINS' GUILT.

He is Reported to have Acknowledged His Guilt to Minister.

ST. JOHN, Wednesday.—Although the report that Collins had made a confession was contradicted to-day by Sheriff Lynds and Mrs. Steeves, in whose presence with Rev. Mr. Thomas, he is reported to have acknowledged his guilt, there is no doubt he did. Rev. Mr. Thomas would not confirm the report, but your correspondent has learned that he has given out a statement to the Justice Department in which he says that Collins confessed to him.

SUCH IS FAME.

Primadonna—When I become famous, the reporters will all be looking for the town in which I was born. Father—Yes, and every town will try to blame it on the other.

The Foundation of Every "Progress" Coat

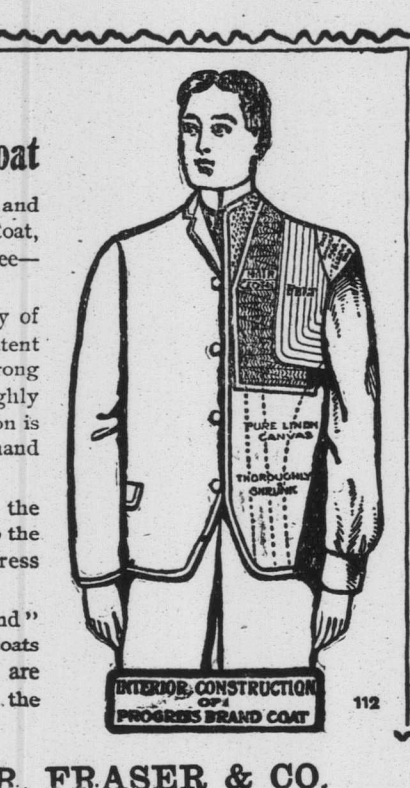

The good looks, and shape, and wear, too—of a "Progress Brand" Coat, depend on the part you never see—the INSIDE.

This figure shows the anatomy of "Progress Brand" Coats. The patent sleeve and shoulder pads—the strong felt, genuine hair-cloth and thoroughly shrunken canvas. This foundation is moulded by hand and held by hand stitches.

It is this perfect building of the foundation that gives perfection to the finished "Progress Brand" garment.

"Progress Brand" Suits and Overcoats prove that they are made right, by the wear they give.

IF IT'S YOUR FAULT

you are bound to feel uncomfortable. When you make your friend a suit that's stylish, while yours at same price, is not, there is something wrong, isn't there?

It's in the Cloth and the Tailoring We know both. Suits made by us wear and look well. We understand cutting and making.
