Good Work Performed by Nelson Board of Trade Last Night

Many Subjects of Interest Are Taken Up—Aid Asked in Development of District—Visit of Western Journalists

There was a very business like session of the board of trade last evening at which a number of subjects of public interest were handled, chief among which the question of public utility, the protection of fish, the exploitation of the available lands for settlement and the alleged freight rate discrimination against this city.

There were present F. Starkey, in the chair, B. J. Brydges, secretary, Bruce White, W. H. Jones, Phillips, J. G. Goodwin, A. W. Hyndman, L. H. de Vries, J. M. Taylor, and J. G. Gillett.

With regard to the alleged discrimination against this city, Nelson, on which the wholesalers' association were asked to present a memorial had not been completed.

John A. Turner and B. Hand were elected members of the board.

A letter was read from Lord Grey's secretary regarding the time would not permit the inclusion of the Nelson Board of Trade in the list of the Nelson Board of Trade.

A claim was made by letter from Charles St. Barbe for a month's salary in lieu of a month's notice over the advertising fund of the board of trade of last night.

Secretary Brydges reported that the Nelson Board of Trade had been elected.

A letter was received, emanating from the Nelson Board of Trade, regarding the Nelson Board of Trade.

NEWS OF THE OLD LAND

MANY ABLE MEN IN NEW HOUSE OF COMMONS

SOME OF THE TROUBLES LABOR MEMBERS MEET

Henniker Heaton, M.P., who claims to be as good a judge of character as most men in the house of commons, has been giving his impressions of the new parliament to his Canterbury constituents.

One of the most significant of his remarks was that the labor members showed a strong disposition to far to the right, and that the conservative party, the new house, he said, contained an unusually large number of very able, very energetic, and very good men.

It was astonishing to him, as an old member, to find so many men who were filled with the responsibility of their positions, and who were not only great orators, but who had the interests of the country deeply at heart.

It was with great satisfaction that he could tell them that he never remembered a house of commons in the five or six parliaments which he had seen in which there were so many men of high character and reputation, and they might be well satisfied that there would be no destructive legislation. The members had shown much good sense and independence, against even their own side.

Speaking of his work of postal reform, Mr. Heaton said that of the 200 new members, 220 had sent him letters asking him to support his proposal for universal penny postage.

Six liberal members of the house of commons have been sitting in the same house on Friday evening last, and some of the most interesting of the new members have been sitting in the same house on Friday evening last.

The following is the list, the father's name occurring first, the son following:

Mr. Geo. Nevins; F. L. Nevins; C. E. Schwann; C. D. Schwann; Sir J. T. Brunner; J. F. Brunner; J. W. Benn; W. Benn.

Russell R. W. R. Russell; Sir C. B. MacLaren; H. D. MacLaren.

The opposition can show as standing in the same relationship only Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Chamberlain, who both found themselves unable to accept the invitation to be present at the dinner.

Lord Avebury has written as follows to a correspondent:

Sir,—I am afraid Mr. Chamberlain will find that there is no disposition on the part of colonies to form a silver union with this country. Canada even charges as much as 20 per cent and also must submit our goods much more nearly on even terms before any question of preference can arise. A general duty of course involves protection, and I cannot think
