It isn't always true that the wearer of good clothes is worthy of them, and neither is it the fact that the worthy man always wears good clothes. But the reason in the latter instance is, as a rule, that he cannot afford to do so.

Births, Marriages, Deaths | * Let the Afternoon Sports Be Held at Queen's Park.

That the committee on the reception of the Old Boys made a mistake last night up to the waist in selecting Springbank as the place of afternoon is now generally admitted. The proper place is Queen's Park, and most people would get there all right. There is still time to make the change, which could be announced, for that matter, not only in the newspapers, but at the welcome meeting tomorrow fore-There is plenty of time for the change to be made. If the change is made, there will be little or no dissatisfaction, and all will be harmony. Should the change not be made, the Springbank, or games, part of the programme will lose that eclat which is so much to be desired.

Should the committee persist in the Springbank idea, there will be nothing for it but for those who will go there, to go; and for those who conscientiously think otherwise, not to go.

This need not detract in the least, however, from the general warmth of the welcome to the Old Boys in the other parts of the programme for the two or three days of their stay. Let them be welcomed heartily on arriving tomorrow forenoon; and let the attendance and good-will at Victoria Park in the evening be a record-breaker. And let the same cordiality mark the welcome, public or private, on the other days of the Old Boys' stay. For, we may say to those of the Old Boys who have already arrived, whatever differences of opinion there may be in London respecting the merits of the Street Railway strike, there are no differences of opinion whatever among our citizens as to the desire to welcome London's Old Boys at Victoria Park, Queen's Park, or any other uncontroverted

There is plenty of time to make the change to Queen's Park-which belongs to the people-and we trust that it will

Kingston, Ont., Aug. 4.—The other day two men named Connors—one from Belleville, and the other from Syracuse, N. Y., came to the city to transact business. Accidentally they met in a hotel and entered into a con versation. One was a corn doctor and his namesake had a bad case. They adjourned to the doctor's room, and incidentally the doctor, in showing a photograph, remarked: "That is my poor old mother." The other picked it up, exclaiming, "That is my mother, too," and he showed a picture like it. The men were brothers, but had never met. The doctor had been taken by an uncle when three yars of age, and had never met any of his family again.

Alexandria, Egypt, Aug. 4 .- M. Geo. Averoff, the wealthy Greek, whose gift of a million francs for the restoration of the Stadium at Athens led to the revival of the Olympic games a few years ago, has just died here in his 70th year. M. Averoff, who was born in Metsov, Epirus, was a man of almost innumerable charities. When a lad of 17 he became a clerk in his uncle's firm in Moscow, and upon the death of his relative inherited 500,000 francs. This fortune he increased enormously, as a contractor for the supplies needed for the Russian troops in the Crimean war, and later as a banker in Alexandria. He never married. At the outset of the Graeco-Turkish war he won the special gratitude of the Greeks by presenting will return to The Hague shortly, to 40,000 uniforms to the Helenic troops. In the erection of public buildings in Greece and the maintenance of public charities and other philanthropic interests, he is said to have expended no less than $7,500,000. It was his generosity which made it possible for the Olympic games to be so successfully revived in Athens in 1896. games were played in the Stadium. which he rebuilt. The lower part was constructed of marble, but owing to lack of time the upper part was fin-ished in wood and painted white. Subsequently the wood of the superstructure was removed and replaced by marble at M. Averoff's expense. On April 5, 1896, the day before the opening of the games, the Duke of Sparta unveiled a statue of the philanthropist, erected by the grateful citizens of Athens. COURT. London, Aug. 4.—Mrs. Wm. Y. Perot, of Baltimore, Md., who was arrested at Liverpool, charged with the abduction of her daughter Gladys, appeared for examination yesterday in the Bow street police court. A deeply interested crowd was present. There was some excitement in the court room when W.

H. Perot, the father-in-law of Mrs. Perot, entered, accompanied by Mr. Hodson, of the United States embassy. Mr. Perot advanced to greet the child, but she hid her face in her hands, muttering: "I don't wish to speak to you." 'But, my child," he replied, "I have a letter from your father, and he sends his love." The child wept, but did not answer, and Grandpa Perot seemed much hurt. Mr. Crane, representing the United States embassy, said extradition pa-pers were handed to officials of the British foreign office. Some days must necessarily elapse before copies of the documents could be placed in the magistrate's hands. Mrs. Perot was remanded.

LADY R. CHURCHILL ENGAGED Announcement is made of the engagement of Lady Randolph Churchill to Lieut. G. F. M. Cornwallis-West, son of the famous beauty, Lady Cornwallis-West. It is said that the mar-riage will occur in October next.

PANIC IN IRON. Panic ruled in the Glasgow pig iron market yesterday, and iron was thrown over to catch any profit. The bears joined in the selling, and on the day Scotch iron lost 3s 61/2d; Cleveland iron, 5s 11/2d, and hematite, 3s 7d per ton for eash. Since the top was touched at 25s 7d, Scotch iron has declined 9s per ton; Cleveland, 12s 4½d, and hematite 8s 10½d per ton for cash.

ONE HUNDRED MILES AN HOUR. Recently interesting experiments were conducted with the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company's latest engine of the new design. On the return journey from Liverpool to South-port the average speed was 80 miles an hour. The engine, pulling five of the heaviest coaches, left Exchange station at 2:51 p.m., and passed the seventeenth mile-post at three and threequarter minutes past three (12% minutes). But when taking into consideration the time occupied in getting up speed, and the slows round the Bankhall and Waterloo curves, approximately the highest average speed attainwould be close on a hundred miles an hour. Such a velocity is both startling and admirable.

KAISER TO VISIT THE QUEEN. The Daily Telegraph, which announces that Emperor William will soon pay a visit to the Queen, comments editorially upon the fact as "disposing of the rumors that the emporer is trying to form an European coalition against England," and "showing the continued good relations be-tween the two countries." The paper thinks the visit will be "productive in clearing up small misunderstandings. Lieut. Freiheer Von Strombeck delivered a letter to the Queen at Os-borne House today from Emperor Wil-

That meant a cut of $3 per week in wages. The non-union men were mad. They hur-riedly appointed a committee to wait on the barn bosses. After some dick-ering the meal tickets were offered at $2 instead of $3. Mr. Richardson on the Power of the C. P. R.

Mr Blair's Explanations-The Rainy River Railway.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.-At the opening of the house yesterday Dr. Rutherford asked whether the Canadian Pacific Railway has the power by depositing plans to build branch lines within the Dominion. The minister of railways replied that the question was one involving a legal interpretation, and in the absence of any judicial determination he hardly thought it well to give any decisive opinion.

THE RAILWAY SUBSIDIES.

The house went into committee on the railway subsidies resolutions, upon which the minister of railways made a Ceneral statement. The total of these subsidies is $6,5.0,000, of which $1,647,000 is revotes. From the experience of former years he informed the house that as a rule not more than one-half of the amount voted was paid out. Taking into account the large land subsidies of former days, he felt warranted in saying that the amount involved in the present resolutions was not in excess of grants made by the Conserva-tive party. He referred with pleasure to Sir Charles Tupper's indorsation of the government's policy in this matter. In making such grants ne felt warranted in saying that such grants were in no wise opposed to the policy of the Liberal party. The subsidies un-der the Conservative party, leaving out of account the land grants, were: 1888, $1,297,000; 1889, $3,880,000; 1890, $3,613,-006; 1891, $765,000; 1892, $4,132,000; 1893, $1,032,000, and 1894, $4,658,000. He was unable to find the least ground for Sir Charles Tupper's complaint that the building of the Quebec bridge and the subsidizing of the South Shore Railway would work against the govern-ment's plan for working up the traffic on the Intercolonial, as the government had to depend mainly on the through traffic for the improvement they expected, though he acknowledged that the local traffic was already show-ing considerable betterment.

Mr. Blair explained the provisions he had made in these resolutions to prewent the amalgamation and pooling of interests between any of the western

Mr. Maclean (East York) asserted that it would not prevent the manipulation of the stock.

Mr. Blair admitted that there are many points which it is difficult to cover in the regulations, but the gov-ernment had done the best it could. He laid stress on the new provision by which the roads receiving subsidies will have to allow the government 3 per cent on the money paid them. This return would be accepted by the gov-ernment in service in the carrying of malls and supplies. The government mow paid $1,400,000 per annum for the carriage of the mails, and this provision prove of great ni fit to the country.

Mr. Richardson (Lisgar) moved an amendment requiring the subsidized companies to open their books to the officers of the government during construction, and also that when the earnings pay a dividend of 6 per cent there shall be a reduction in the rates, and also providing for government regulation of rates.

Mr. Blair pointed out that the regulation of rates was provided for, and suggested an amendment covering other points raised and insuring the observance of the terms of the resolution. The amendment was lost by 81 to 13, and the committee then took up the consideration of the items, and at 2 o'clock was still in session. In the course of the debate, Mr. Richardson said he found from official sources that no less than 40,000,000 acres of land, exclusive of lands in British Columbia and other parts of the country, had been voted for the building of railways in Manitoba and the Northwest. This 1s exclusive of British Columbia, where practically a kingdom in coal lands has been given. And the great ma-dority of the lands granted belong to the C. P. R., which is probably the largest owner of land in the civilized world. Now that the best lands in the country have been exhausted. the railway exploiters, who wanted the government to build railroads for them and allow them to own them, want cash subsidies, and it seemed to him that the time had come when they should cease giving these people sub-

Mr. Richardson complained bitterly of the oppression of the west by the C. P. R.

Mr. J. Ross Robertson alleged that Mackenzie & Mann, the promoters of the Rainy River Railway, were tools of the C. P. R., and that the two roads would work together.

Sir Wilfrid said he was surprised to see one item of this expenditure criticised as it had been, namely, the subsidy for the Rainy River Railway. "If there is a road," he said, "which ought to be encouraged, it is that. It is going over what is properly called a

Therefore, I think if there is a project which ought to be viewed with favor it is this one." Sir Wilfrid did not think Mackenzie & Mann were in collusion with the

AN AFRICAN LOVE CHARM

NothingMore Nor Less Than the Flesh of a White Man.

A new peril seems to threaten white men in South Africa. They are in danger of being cut into love charms and used to increase the marriage rate among the natives. The flesh of an European is considered by the black inhabitants of Natal as a charm powerful enough to compel the love of any unwilling maiden. When a young black man loves a maiden and his love is not reciprocated, he goes to a witch doctor and asks for a love. witch doctor and asks for a love philter. Other philters of a milder potency having been tried and the maiden still remaining obdurate and refusing to love her black suitor, the witch doctor, as a last resort, prescribes the flesh of a white man.

Murders committed for the possession of the coveted white flesh, while not common, occur from time to time. News has been received from Natal of the hanging at Harding of a witch doctor and his pupil for the murder of a farmer named Kay. The farmer was dragged from his bed at night, and after being stabbed several times with an assegai, his throat was cut and his body left on the veldt. Part of the dead man's neck was cut away, and subsequently found in the witch doc-tor's bag, with other "medicines." The 'head devil' in the murder was a witch doctor named Umtanti. With him was associated his pupil, Sibalweni. Sibalweni had not yet taken his degree as a witch doctor, but was studying under Umtanti, who considered him a promising pupil. The two were helped in the murder by two men, who seem to have been simply employes of Umtanti's college of medicine. These two men received life sentences. When Umtanti and his pupil were hanged 80 native chiefs and headmen were assembled in order that they might see the execution and spread the news of it abroad among the natives. The natives have had an idea that when one of them has been arrested for a similar crime he has not been killed, but simply sent to some far-off place, where he eventually died. The recent execution was intended as an object lesson. Recently a little child, which was stolen from its parents in the Barberton district of Natal, is supposed to have been taken by the tives for the same purpose as that for which they murdered Kay. Umtanti, the doctor, who was something of a South African Charles Peace, confessed to other murders which had not been brought to light, including the Chief Umshweshwe's sister. His face is in keeping with his character crafty and cruel to a degree. His pu-pil, Sibalweni, also had a repulsive face, while the other two men. Gomfi and Umbonwa, who received life sentences, have a pleasanter appearance. A police trooper, who discovered Kay's body lying in the moonlight, was so unnerved by the ghastly sight it presented, with gaping wounds, and clad only in a shirt, that he was unable to sleep or eat for some time after, and at night awakened his comrades with screams.

KILLED WHILE DRIVING

Two brothers were killed at Tottenhall, Chester, England, by one stroke of lightning recently, and certain circumstances that surround the affair were so unusual that the attention of medical men has been called to it officially. Two men were driving in a dogcart in a thunderstorm when they seem to have fallen simultaneously out seem to have fallen simultaneously out of the back of the vehicle, for they were found about five minutes after the flash lying side by side on the road with the seat of the dogcart under their legs and the driving apren over them. The elder brother had no external sign of injury. The younger brother was burnt over the chest and abdomen from the neck down, not continuously, but in several circular holes tinuously, but in several circular holes from one-sixteenth to one-quarter of an inch in diameter. The metallic collar button was fused and the skin beneath was deeply burnt. An odor of burnt flesh pervaded the vicinity. The back from the neck down was burnt, but less severely than in front. The vest and shirt were charred, but the waistcoat and coat were uninjured.
The woollen drawers and trousers had a hole burnt in them about two inches in diameter, corresponding to a burn on the body. There were no other in-juries, nor were any of the clothes torn from either of the bodies. There was no rigor mortis an hour and a half after death. The watch of the man was going and seemed not to have been magnetized, as it has kept good time since. The cloth of the cushion on which the younger brother sat was burnt on the outer surface, but the wooden seat beneath was uninjured. The tailboard of the dogcart had the paint slightly singed immediately behind the younger brother; otherwise the vehicle bore no trace of lightning. The horse was uninjured and trotted home of its own accord.

ELEPHANT'S CHOICE

The Big Animal Will Eat an Orange Before Anything Else-The Keen Scent of the Big Fellows and Their Actions.

If there is anything in the world that an elephant loves better than a peanut it is an orange, and if any boy who reads this wishes, when he goes to the circus, to give the massive creature an especial treat, instead of paying 5 cents for a bag of peanuts to put in the ele-phant's trunk, let him purchase for the same money one good-sized orange and present that to the small-eyed, flateared monster.

A number of years ago, in a book which was called "Leaves from the Life of a Special Correspondent," Mr. O'Shea, the author of that book, gave the following description of an adventure he had with a herd of elephants.

"A young friend asked me once to show him some elephants, and I took him along with me, having first boroff like a scared rabbit. There were eight elephants, and when I picked up the oranges I found that I had 25. waiked deliberately along the line, giving one to each, "When I got to the extremity of the narrow stable I turned, and was about to begin the distribution again, when suddenly reflected that if elephant No. 7 in the row saw me give two oranges in succession to No. 8, he might imagine he was being cheated, and give me a smack with his trunk—that is where the elephant falls short of the human being so I went down to the door and began at the beginning as

"Thrice I went along the line, and then I was in a fix. I had one orange left, and I had to get back to the door. Every elephant in the herd had his greedy gaze focused on that orange. was as much as my life was worth to give it to any one of them. What was I to do? I held it up conspicuously, coolly peeled it, and ate it myself. It was most amusing to notice the way those elephants nudged each other and shook their ponderous sides. They thoroughly entered into the humor of the thing."

In the Astor tenements, in Elizabeth street, says Jacob A. Riis, in the Auguse Atlantic, where we found 43 familles living in rooms intended for 16, I saw women finishing "pants" at 30 cents a day. Some of the garments were of good grade, and some of poor; some of them were soldiers' trousers, made for the government; but whether they received 5, 7, 8, or 10 cents a pair, it came to 30 cents a day, except in a sigle instance, in which two women, sewing from 5 in the morning till 11 o'clock at night, were able, being practiced hands, to finish "45 pants" at 31/2 cents a pair, and so made together over $1 50. They were content, even happy. I suppose it seemed wealth to them, coming from a land where a Parisian investigator of repute found three lire (not quite 60 cents) per month a girl's

They were all there, and happy in being together even in such a place. On a corner shelf burned a night lamp before a cheap print of the Mother of God, flanked by two green bottles, seen at a certain angle, made quite a festive show.

There was a good attendance, and the crowd expected the Cockneys to put up a good enough game to at least make the Western Leaguers try a little bit.

They were disappointed. Price was in the box for London. the head. He almost struck out Buelow by hitting him on the side of the head with a pitched ball. It laid Buelow flat on the ground, and the spectators were beginning to feel sick and uncomfortable when Dungan stood up and began to count Buelow out. "One -two-three-four," he counted after the manner of an accomplished prizefight referee. Buelow sat up, was assisted to his feet, and staggered off to first base. Good humor was restored. The burlesque had just missed being a tragedy. But Price didn't like his comedy role. The fans, who almost from the beginning had been calling for Seiver, Cooper, Babbit, anybody but Price, began to roast him unmercifully. Some of them made unkind, personal remarks, and Price, exasperated, started for the grand stand with blood in his eye. Lohman stopped him, and reminded him that he was doing the heavy villain part in a burlesque melodrama, and that he shouldn't regard the remarks as personal at all, but merely as a tribute to his art:

A RACE FOR MOTORS. Montreal, Aug. 3.-Canadians will see for the first time what motor pacing means at the world's meet at Montreal Aug. 7 to 12. Mr. Rubenstein, piesident of the C. W. A., has returned from Boston, where arrangements were made to bring on several motor machines and a special race will be arranged for motors only.

The reception and accommodation committees of the world's meet during the last few days have been flooded with notifications and applications. They reach all the way from St. Louis to Prince Edward Island, and a very moderate estimate, judging from present appearances, would put the num-ber of visitors to Montreal during "wheel week" at between 30,000 and 40,000. The entries are still piling in, but they cannot be arranged before late tonight or early tomorrow morn-When it is published it will be found to be the biggest thing in the history of athletics.

GLENCAIRN WINS THE CUP. Montreal, Aug. 3.-The final race of the series for the Seawanhaka cup, which was to have been sailed on Lake St. Louis this afternoon, ended in a most unsatisfactory manner. The Constance, the American boat, before crossing the starting line, ran aground on a shoal, and the Glencairn, after crossing the line, sailed over the course alone. The race, which was a beat to windward and return, was to have been started at 1:15, but owing to difficulty in setting the course, it was 2:55 when the preparatory gun was fired. When the windward buoy was set, Mr. Crane, the American skipper, protested that it was not sufficiently to protested that it was not sufficiently to windward, and the committee ordered the buoy to be reset, which caused considerable delay. Siding With the Corporations. In the railway committee of the House of Commons on Wednesday, Mr. Blair, Minister of Railways and Canals, expressed the hope that Canada would soon have a railway commission, Sir Charles Tupper replied that he hoped the country would never see a railway commission organized. Hon. John Haggart held that one of the chief objections to a railway commission was that the labor men would continually be appealing to the commission, "and," said the former Minister of Railways, 'you'M have to act because of their

This discussion grew out of some important railway legislation advanced by Mr. Blair. Sir Charles Tupper vehemently opposed two clauses, one giving the railway committee of the Privy Council power to decide where railway stations should be located when the railway agents and the people of the neighborhood disagreed; the other, relating to uniformity of rules for the running of Canadian railways. It is hard to see upon what pretext these clauses can be opposed, except it be that Parliament should be ruled by precedent, which puts the interests of rallway corporations before the interests of the public. Railways have more than once acted like highway robbers toward certain communities. The latter had either to meet the demands of these haughty corporations or be sidetracked, and perhaps ruined as the town of Moyie, B.C., nearly was, until public opinion compelled the railway company to do it justice. A railway commission will be organized sooner or later. An instrument must be found to attack the present abuses, and to exercise on behalf of the public a keen and constant supervision of railway methods and operations. In re- Is this sarcasm or oversight?—London e to a widespread growing senti- Advertiser. ment, which is especially strong in the west, the Government have sought to bring the railway_systems... waracand ery for this purpose. Those who oppose the movement are clearly on the side of the corporations.

Mr. Haggart is unduly apprehensive when he says the "labor men" would be a disturbing factor under the proposed arrangement. The railway companies and their employes usually manage to settle their own differences without outside interference, but if a case should arise such as the recent trackmen's strike, in which an appeal would be made to the railway commission or committee, it is better that such a body should be the arbiter, than that a railway strike. We do not think that many members of Parliament are afraid, like Mr. Haggart, of touching labor questions. At least some of them showed no such timidity in the trackmen's late struggle.

The flurry in Montreal illustrates the maxim that confidence is the lifeblood of business.

An English express train has made 100 miles an hour, and still the Americans say the English are slow.

The Hamilton Herald still thinks a City Council may give away a city's rights for eternity. We have more confidence in justice than that.

No other Canadian newspaper has done or is doing as much as the Toronto Globe to keep the East informed of the progress of events in the great Northwest. Canada Knows the Game.

[Bobcaygeon Independent.] In all international agreements between Britain and the States the British representatives have been euchered, if not swindled, to the loss of this country. England must be made to realize that Canada nderstands the game of eucher, that it has a perfect knowledge of its opponents, and that it does not proposed playing the game with a stacked deck. England may be up to every twist in all European and Oriental games, but at eucher the worst American chump could rob Salisbury of his undershirt without his feeling it go. The Russo-British treaty, in itself a fool treaty, is what Canada the public should be inconvenienced by will arbitrate on, and nothing else.

The sooner all parties get down to that fact the better.

> A Rap at the Banks. TWoodstock Express.]

Why did not the big banks in Montreal put a stop to the panic by lending the weaker ones their support, just as the New York banks supported one anotther in 1893, when we were so proud of our supposedly better system? The keystone of the system is the mutual support of banks by one another, and this has failed lamentably. When the great run on the Illinois Trust Company of Chicago was going on in June, 1893, the other banks of the city advanced it millions of dollars that they could ill afford, because they knew that suspension of payment by that great institution for a single hour would at once bring down their de-positors upon their own heads, and after that the deluge. This is what we have been led to expect our Canadian banks would do, and were legally bound to do, for one another, but they have failed miserably when at last a crisis arose.

Filipinos Profiting.

[Hamilton Times.] The statement of a United States soldier that the Filipinos have profited by their five months of warfare against the Americans; that they are at last adopting American tactics and are becoming better disciplined and more skillful in the use of their weapons every day, is not singular in history. The Romans learned from Pyrrhus, King of Epirus, and from the Carthaginians. how to fight. "Another such victory," said Pyrrhus after the battle on the River Siris, "and I must return to Epirus alone." Peter the Great of Russia learned the art of war in the defeats which he sustained at the hands of Charles XII. of Sweden, before the decisive engagement at Pultowa. So the Filipinos, with numbers on their side, may be able to weary out any force which the United States can send against them, until the people of the attacking country shall demand the cessation of a profit-

TO PLEASE A GIRL

Herman Hauser's Reason for Jumping From Brooklyn Bridge.

New York, Aug. 4.-Herman Hauser, treasurer of the Herald Square Theater, and formerly treasurer of Hooley's Theater, Chicago, jumped from Brooklyn bridge yesterday afternoon, and was rescued by Frank Luckey, of this city, an employe of the Long Island Express Company, who happened to be on the ferryboat Southampton. Mr. Hauser was removed to Gouverneur Hospital. The physicians say that the man will undoubtedly survive, but that he will be compelled to remain in the hospital for some time to come. Accounts differ as to the exact origin of this particular bridge jumping. One story, which was quite generally accepted last night, was to the effect that a little girl, on her way back from Coney Island on a Third avenue car, commenced to interrogate her father concerning the big bridge, just about the time they reached the Brooklyn end. This child finally inquired whether anyone had ever jumped from the bridge. The parent replied in the affirmative, and attempted to induce his daughter to keep still. Seated just back of the man and the little girl, so the story runs, was Mr. Hauser. Suddenly, and without warning, the child broke out with the remark: "Say papa, I would like to see somebody jump off." "Well, I am afraid you won't get your wish today," replied her father. 'Won't she," came a voice in reply;

"I'll jump for the little girl." This much is certain-Mr. Hauser did spring from his seat, and dropped from the car into the roadway with an agility that surprised the spectators. So sudden were his movements that the conductor had no time to pull the rope to stop the car, and 100 feet had been traversed before the motorman finally succeeded in bringing things to a pause. By this time Mr. Hauser was high up on the rail, ready for his plunge. Pausing for a single instant, he waved his hands towards the people on the car, then sprang into the air, and went down like a shot. He struck the water with a splash which was heard both on the bridge and on the shore.

BRITISH DIPLOMATS

How They Are Bred to the Service-A Long Training.

Many Erglishmen are reared for diplomatic careers. England's sover-eignty over one-fifth of the globe is due in a large measure to the men she has tutored in statecraft and disciplined in the foreign office, so that they are able to look wisely after her colossal interests. Many of these young fellows are educated at Eton and Oxford for the profession, but they get a practical drill by going through every grade of the service; for instance, at Brussels, Rio de Janeiro, Washington, Lisbon, Constantinople, Paris, Pekin, Athens, Rome, Egypt, Berlin. After such experience a man is usually old enough to acquire the Grand Cross of the Bath and to be appointed a privy councilor—the ulti-mate goal of his ambition. Just think what all his sumptuous travel and intercourse with rulers, dignitaries, and aristocratic society mean to a wide-awake man! The first requirements of the British service is that the applicant for a diplomatic billet must be a gentieman by birth and education. Noble blood is not necessary, nor are academic honors. In fact, many of the young men of title who enter the for-eign office are not in the least scholastic. They, of course, must have a private income of at least $2,000 a year; for they are sent to some foreign cap Ital first as unpaid attaches to the minister. They must keep out of debt and conserve their reputation. The moment they get into a scrape and create scandal they are ruined so far as the service is concerned. These rigid regulations, not relaxed, even in the cases of noblemen, preserve the high standard of character for which English diplomats are celebrated the world

It may be several years before the unpaid attache gets a paid appoint-ment, and then usually the remuneration is of microscopic amount. But in the meantime he is being watched by the under secretary at Whitehall, and if his minister writes favorable reports of his penetration, shrewdness, gallantries to the ladies, etc., he is likely to receive a promotion. When he becomes a second secretary of legation he gets $3.009 a year, and in the grades above that the salaries range from $4,000 to $50,000 considerably better pay than American diplomats enjoy. The British public takes pride in being-I am tempted to say-fashionrepresented abroad by popular ambassadors, and it is the rule of the department to give every gentleman representing the Queen a comfortably independent position. In addition to his salary he is given a fine house, servants and an allowance for furniture. No wonder that the British diplomatists are zealous in their efforts to serve their country honorably and faithfully. They have every incentive in the world to be good and faithful. Many of the British ambassadors are rich, and spend twice the amount of their salaries every year in the splen-dor of their entertainments and princely hospitality. Not a few of them have been ruined in this way—notably Lord Augustus Loftus, who some years ago went into bankruptcy, having contracted enormous debts while ambassador at St. Petersburg.

But with a rational exercise of frugality these financial disasters need not occur among the Queen's foreign ministers; for they are paid liberally and are handsomely treated in every way. The United States Government should at least increase the salaries of its ambassadors to Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Austria and Russia, so that our representatives might maintain establishments in consonance with our rich and illustrious nation. These provisions will come some day, when we better understand our need of diplomatic tuition. The time is ripe now for us to realize this need.—From a plea for "A National School of Di-plomacy," by Leon Mead, in Self-Culture for August.

The Yaquis' Insurrection Assuming Serious Proportions.

Three Sloops Attacked and Burned-Mexican Troops in a Trap.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—A special to the Tribune from the City of Mexico says: Dispatches from Guyamas show that the Yaquis insurrection is constantly growing in extent, and all the Indians in the towns along the rivers are rising in arms and taking to the woods and mountain to join their com-panions already arrayed against the authorities.

Jack Ramsay, the famous frontier character, and the American photo-grapher, Ed. Miller, were on their way to Alamosa when they were attacked by the Indians and killed.

THREE SLOOPS BURNED. Three sloops' on the Yaquis River, near Medaro, were also attacked, and Aurille F. Paredes, who had charge of them, was killed. The vessels were set on fire, but were saved by Federal forces, who drove the savages away. The body of Parades was found floating in the river. One of the sloops, the Alondre, was again attacked as it was leaving the mouth of the river on its way back to Guyamas, but the Indians were scattered. It is reported that the Romero family was captured as they were about to embark on one of the sloops, and that Paredes was killed in trying to rescue them. Troops are pursuing the bands supposed to have the family. The telegraph line, south from Alamosa has been cut. The Indians along the Mayo River are quiet, and do not seem inclined to join the insurrection. Col. Augel Garcia Pena telegraphed yesterday that Don Carlos Hale, the noted merchant, had not been killed as reported. Official advices up to Monday, however, state clearly that after Gen. Torre's forces took Bacum they found ten dead of the troops from Cocorit and four of the body guard of the Yaquis chief.

TROOPS ENTRAPPED. Austin, Texas, Aug. 4.-There passed through Austin on an east-bound express train for Indianapolis, a gold hunter named Arnold, who said that he was but recently from the scene of the Indian uprising in Mexico. reports that just before leaving that section it was reported that the Yaqui Indians had entrapped a force of several hundred of the Mexican soldiers in a defile in the mountains, and inaugurated an old-time warfare by throwing down rocks upon them, with the result that many of them were killed. He says that the war is being conducted on the guerilla plan, and that the Indians have sufficient force to maintain the war for months to come, as they are perfectly at home in mountain fastnesses, and the Mexican soldiers are no match for them. The reports coming to the mining camos to date are that the Mexicans have lost a number of soldiers, while the Indians have lost comparatively few of their members.

MINERS DRIVEN OUT BY INDIANS. Austin, Texas, Aug. 4.—A dispatch received here from Casa Grandes, state of Chihuahua, Mexico, states that four American miners have arrived there direct from the Upper Yaqui river country. They were driven out by marauding bands of Yaqui Indians. They state that there is probably 2,000 American miners and prospectors scattered through the Yaqui country, and that their lives are in imminent danger, as the Indians are getting bolder and more desperate each day. Harwell, one of the men, says that the news of the bloody outbreak among the Yaquis in the lower valley had not reached the upper part of the valley when he left, and that as soon as the news reached the Yaqui, men in the placer mining country, they would massacre every white man along the river. He estimates that there are 5,000 Yaqui braves and that it will take a force of 40,000 Mexican men to conquor them, if they are enabled to reach their former stronghold in the Sahuaripa range of mountains. During the two years the Indians have been at peace they have been quietly investing their earnings in arms and ammunition and they are now better equipped than ever for a long and bloody campaign.

THE BRITISH NAVY

An Interesting Experiment Now Being Tried.

Protecting Foodships From Canada-Details of the Maneuvers.

peculiar interest, for one of the duties which devolves upon one of the fleets is to safeguard a convoy, supposedly of foodships, on its way from Halifax to Great Britain. The absolute dependence of the British Isles for their bread from oversea wheatfields in no small degree influences naval strategy, and at the present moment the prob-lem is being worked upon the high in war be shepherded across the Atlantic and into British ports in reasonable safety, despite the flercest raiding of an alert commerce-destroying foe.

Apart from all details, the spectacle presented by the mobilization of the British fleet has been most impressive. The Channel Squadron, eight of the finest battleships in the world, with a proving a form of median continues. proportion of modern cruisers, in all rather over a dozen ships, has for the purposes of this war-game been reinforced by something over a hundred ships. Twenty-eight of these are tor-pedo-boat destroyers those sea-hawks which fight at the speed of an express train, 24 are torpedo boats, half a dozen are gunboats, but some 60 ships are cruisers and battleships, the smallest of them imposing vessels. On the evening of Monday, July 10, these vessels lay at their berths in the dockyards, reserve ships, with perhaps the eighth part of their complements of men on By noon on Tuesday, July 11, fifteen thousand men had been em-barked upon them and they were all ready for a real war. And many more vessels still lay in reserve, two or three thousand seamen were ready to man them if need be, and the Royal Navy Reserve and the Coast Guard had barely been drawn upon. From the berths of the fleet reserve there had sailed out into the English Channel ten great battleships, five mighty cruisers, nearly thirty-two second-class cruisers. The battleships are older, slower, less well protected, of less deadly armament than the newer obline of the first line but they are ships of the first line; but they are confessedly the second line, and what other power could in one summer morning send forth to sea so noble a reserve? The situation given to the opposing admirals is that Great Britain and hostile power, i.e., France, are at war, Ireland represents France, the west coast of Scotland, England and Wales is to represent the east and southeast coast of England. The Channel Squadron, with its fast battleships, rein-forced by cruisers until its strength in that arm reaches close upon a score, and supported by torpedo boats, is to simulate the French fleet and will have the Irish ports for its bases. The Reserve Squadron, more numerous, and therefore, by the rules of the game, the stronger, but also the slower, with a score of cruisers and nearly a score and a half of torpedo-boat destroyers, represents the British fleet. From Halifax a fleet of merchant vessels, represented by a couple of old and slow cruisers, one of them the Calliope which steamed out of Apia Bay so gallantly, is making for England. The swift "French" fleet is to search for it; the slower but stronger "British" it to search for a sweifed rendezfleet is to meet it at a specified rendezvous and try to escort it to Milford Haven. The most important point upon which the admiralty desire to gain information is as to scouting. The cloud of cruisers given the two sides is intended to be used to gain information; the convoy will be earnestly hunted by the "French" cruisers, the Channel Squadron battleships will be hunted with equal zeal by the "British" scouts. Newspaper readers will recollect the utter lack of information as to the movements of the Spaniards which so embarrassed the American fleet in the summer of 1898. No systematic attempt at scouting was then made. The art of employing cruisers as lookout ships is imperfectly understood, and the maneuvers are design ed to cast some light upon this problem. Dashing torpedo attacks may also be expected, for the narrow St. George's Channel will swarm with these craft and the rules favor their exercise. Wireless telegraphy is to be tried, and Marconi himself is on board a cruiser to experiment with the new discovery.

We in Canada may well hope for the success of the "British" fleet, for if it be satisfactorily worked out that in war-time grain and cattle ships from our ports can be reasonably protected from commerce-destroying attack, no-table advantages may accrue to us from the revelation which it will afford of a new source of strategical strength to the empire.

Unique Office at Hankow-The Taster Must Be an Abstainer.

In the August Century Miss E. R. Scidmore writes of "The River of Tea, the Yangtse Kiang, and the trace that brings it most in touch with the western world. Though Russian, and Siberian, only are now in the trade at Hankow, the tea-tasters, it appears, are all English, and Miss Scidmore thinks they are likely to remain so. which are in progress in the neighborhood of the English Channel possess a this first quality black leaf-tea, which is all shipped to Odessa, is about Mexican dollars for each 90-pound chest. Twenty-five half-chests of this first crop's pekoe-leaves are sent to the Emperor of Russia for palace use. Several times it has happened that the whole crop of some particular farm or hillside has been bought up by the Russians and shipped before Chinese con-noisseurs, who would drink no other tea, knew it. At once they cabled to seas, with battleship, cruiser and torpedo vessel, of whether cargoes of wheat and of cattle from Canada could rival and shipped back to China. Twice on the Yangtse I used a rich and fragrant tea from the Keemung hills that had performed that journey to Odessa and return, because some mandarin knew what he wanted and was willing to pay for it.

The tea-taster is king at Hankow for the six weeks of his exclusive reign, and whatever he may do during the remainder of the year, he is a most rigid total abstainer during the high season, when every faculty of his keenest senses is on the alert. Although he never swallows a sample sip. the tea-taster's nerves and digestion are impaired at the end of ten or twelve years, even the stimulating effect of the strong, volatile aroma in the tea-hongs sometimes giving retired tea-tasters attacks of that tea-tremens which the Chinese and Japanese recog-nize as a disease; while temperance reformers, usually green-tea drinkers, seem ignorant of the fact that other stimulants than alcohol may be abused. The professional tea-taster at Hankow is said to drink only soda or min-eral waters during the scorching weeks of his exacting season, and when word goes round the settlement that such a one of the great experts was seen to take sherry and bitters at the club, it is a signal that the great tea season is declining, that little choice tea is being brought in. Then the tension relaxes, and a certain section of Hankow gives itself over to a jubilation and indulgence that are the scandal and byword of the other ports. Although the tea firms are all Russians or Siberians now, the tea-tasters are Englishmen, and, for reasons not flattering to Russian character, it is said that the tear tasters will always be English.

Winnipeg, Man., July 31.-Probably the most enthusiastic man in Manitoba in regard to Dodd's Kidney Pills is Ben Rafferty, of the C. P. R. LIFE SAVED-Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

Some Sidelights on the Mysterious Ways of the Street Railway Special.

Any small boy who wants to go into the bold highwayman business can get a supply of revolvers and billies at reduced rates just at present. Some of the street railway company's special guardians are going out of the guardian business, and are trying to dispose of their kits at a sacrifice. Two of them visited a local pawnshop for that purpose Wednesday. The poor fellows suffer from an uncomfortable feeling of insecurity with real revolvers that will shoot stowed away in their clothes. They can't sit down nor reach for a chew of tobacco without a nervous tremor. The pesky things might go off, and somebody might get hurt. Better is it to dig ditches and have contentment therewith than to be an armed special of the street railway might shoot the owner. The duties of the street railway specials are numerous, and not well defined. Yesterday evening one of the specials came out of the police station, glanced about furtively, slipped down the alley and filled his pockets with stones. An astounding statement was made to The Advertiser this morning by a well-known bookkeeper for one of the largest factories in the city. The street cars run in front of his residence, and says that last night between 9:30 and 10:30 o'clock he and his wife, who were seated on their verandah noticed a car passenger stand on the side step of the car and throw an egg at the motorman. The passenger was a young man who had made several trips on the car previous, and after throwing the egg resumed a seat inside. A moment or two before the young man threw the egg, The Adver-tiser's informant saw him in whispered conversation with the motorman. Some special detectives who were on board the car, and even the motorman himself laughed after the egg-throwing. To them it was apparently a joke. The next car that passed that way had city police on board, and no prank was played. Another car came along with only the car crew, and some of the company's special detectives on board. It stopped, and The Advertiser's informant saw the conductor get off, and in the light, at the rear of the car, stoop as if to pick up something. A moment later there was a sound as if a stone rattling against the car window. The special detectives, smiling, scurried off the car, and looked about for a moment. Then the trip was continued.

The Advertiser's informant does not wish his name mentioned at present. but states that he is prepared to make it known, if necessary, and testify to the truth of the above statements. He is also prepared to bring witnesses to

The startled, raw conductor or motorman reports to Chief Detective Flynn, that a few stones were thrown gently, but didn't hurt anything. A local paragraph appears in the morning paper that stones were thrown at a car at such a point, and the wise specials continue to hold their jobs. The absurd report several weeks Smallman's stable had a similar origin. RE-ELECTED.

At a fully attended meeting of the Amalgamated Association of Street Rallway Employes, London Division, held last night, the old committee and the old officers were re-elected.

STRIKE NOTES.

Mr. J. J. Ward, of Toronto, who is coming up with the Old Boys tomorrow, wires that many old London boys would be compelled to decline to go to Springbank, or anywhere else, on the street robbery, but explained matters by cars, while the strike is unsettled, as stating that he thought the prisoner's they could not conscientiously even an indirect part against the men. No attempt will be made to run 'busses to Springbank tomorrow.

Several of the bands expected are union bands, and would hardly take any part against the strikers. At the Old Boys committee meeting ast night, probably no one was deceived as to what was really intended. The voice was Jacob's voice, but the

They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indication.

His assailant then threw him down and relieved him of $3.80. The man then jumped up and took to his heels and ran towards the city. He had not gone far before he was met by another man. Dark was positive that Cahill was the man who committed the crime. He saw his face in the moonlight. Mr. Dark swore out an information at the time, charging Thos. Cahilf, a brother of Frank, with the stating that he thought the prisoner's name was Tom. Cross-examined, Mr. Dark said he had taken only six drinks before leaving the city. He had two bottles of whisky with him, but had not opened them. He was sober at the time of the assault. Cahill was found not guilty. He had a number of witnesses to show that he had not left the hotel until long after the offense was committed.

WEST HURON CASE

Investigation Still in Progress-Mr. Fielding's Resolution Affecting Military Members.

[Special to Advertiser per C. P. R.] Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 4.-At the West Huron investigation today Henry Ross, of Toronto, who had worked in the ganization in this city is colossal. Its same establishment as James Farr, the deputy returning officer who canbranch of the organization's work, yet not be served with a subpoena, was examined, for a time he boarded with Farr. While passing Farr's room one day last month Farr said that there was a summons out for him, and that he was about as bad as being in jail. Farr, who had been drinking somewhat, told witness that he had voted 22 times in Goderich. Farr said he had a ticket for Dakota, and expected a check for $500, but did not say where the money was coming from.

Mr. Fielding has given notice of a resolution to provide that senators and members who are officers of the militia should not be compelled to lose their sessional indemnity for the time they were attending camp.

Montreal, Aug. 4.-There was no lit-Hudson train had brought from New York nearly a million dollars in gold, shipped for the Bank of Montreal and Bank of British North America, for the purpose of allaying apprehension regarding the stability of the banking institutions of Montreal, and providing for any emergency that might arise through the panicky condition of the public mind. The gold arrived in twenty kegs, each containing about $50,000. now safely locked up in the banks for which it was intended, the proportion being about $600,000 to the Bank of Montreal, and $400,000 to the Bank of British North America. The express company had an armed official with loaded rifle in his hand, watching every movement of the men who handled the kegs, and he accompanied the consignment to its destination. There was a considerable consignment of silver received from New York, half-dollars and twenty-five-cent pieces for the most. The bank scares are now completely over. At the Hochelaga affairs have assumed their normal condition, and there is absolutely no sign of the disturbance of a few days ago.

"I must get a good night's rest, if I am to travel, tomorrow. Will you excuse me if I go upstairs, thus early?" "Do not let me detain you a moment. Is there nothing I can do to assist you?"

"Notning, thank you! There will be time to strap my trunks in the morning. You still think I had better gowhatever may be the weather?" stopping with the door in her hand. "I do, certainty; that is, if you are not afraid of adding to your cold—if you are well enough." "My cold is nothing. I have ordered breakfast at half-past six. I am glad the train does not leave so early as it did last year. Good-night!"

The cold, indifferent accents sank to the bottom of his heart like lead. What a millstone about this woman's neck was her marriage vow! His endeavors to make it lighter, and her existence endurable—the work to which he had given his best energies and wisest deliberations; the selfabnegation and prayerful struggle he had accepted as the penalty of his grevious indiscretion, had proved futile. He had guarded, eye, tongue, and action for five months; drilled them in friendly '9011, words, and deeds, lest a glimmer of the affection that glowed-a pent but consuming fire in his soul-should offend or dismay her; had ministered to her with a lover's constancy and tenderness without a hint of love's reward. And this was the end! Some insignificant glance, an intonation, an excess of solicitude for her wellfare had betrayed his design to win her anew, and she had taken the alarm; was terrified and reluctant, without the power of escape. Or her constitution-physical and spiritual-rad succumbed to the attrition of duty against womanly instinct. With vain care he had kept her shackles out of sight. Everything in her surroundings; the very pronunciation of her name by acquaintances, had reminded her continually of her anomalous position. Neither wife, nor maid, she stood, according to her morbid perceptions, alone and banned, without so much as a title to the shelter of his roof, except as a bondwoman. She could not forget that she was a slave. The untamable heart-in which the

"From which I cannot release her!" he repeated for the thousandth time. His habit was to go to the library when she left him for the night, but he lingered, this evening, in the apartment he had fitted up for her with such fond pride; which she had made a sacred place by her abiding. There was a cruel pleasure in noticing the tokens of her recent presence; in inhaling the odors of the flowers she had tended: in touching the books she had handled. She could never be more to him than she was now. He believ-ed that she must from this hour be less; that the solace of her friendship would be withheld. Else, why her anxiety to be away from him? ber chafing at the threatened delay of a day in her flight back to the only real home she had ever known? Was the memory of the evanescent phantasy of her girlhood-the brief space during which she had deluded herself into the belief that she loved him, so sore and hateful that she would shun the sight of one who kept it in constant remembrance? Could it be true that he had in the face of these frightful odds, permited himself to cherish a hope that he might yet persuade her

A loud ring at the door bell startled him into consciousness of the hour and place. Phoebe had gone up to and Mr. Fordham went himself to admith the unseasonable visitor. 'Good evening," said a familiar voice when the door was unclosed, and Dr. Baxter walked in as naturally and coolly as if it were not ten o'clock at night, and he plentifully besprinkled with rain. He had obeyed Roy's impulse in the direction of the sitting-room, but declined to take a chair. His crayat was a damp string; the handkerchief twist-ed about his left hand bore marks of terrific usage, and when he removed his hat, every one of his stiff gray hairs appeared to have gone into business on its own account, so distinct was its independent existence. His eyes were the those of a partially awakened somnambulist, and his voice had dreamy inflections. Had his own mood been less sad, Roy must have smiled at the grotesque apparation, uncouth even to one so familiar with the peculiarities of the good man, as was the coadjutor in the business of his life. As it was he appreciated gratefully the love the old scholar bore his former ward, and the new proof of this evinced by his stepping

I believe it seems to me that I had a message"—with an ominous twitch of the handkerchief, and a dreamier accent.

"She will appreciate your kind re-membrance of her, sir. She prizes your friendship very fondly." "Ah!" another mental shoulder-jog. "We shall hardly see her again until autumn, I presume? I infer as much from what Mrs. Baxter has told me of her plans." There has been no definite time set for her return," said Roy, evasive-ly, his heart heavier than before at the thought that Jessie had expressed to her cousin a desire for a long sojourn in the country. Yet if he had failed to keep her with him now, what warrant had he for confidence to lure her back?

'You will be lonely without her!' the worthy president observed, some-thing in the atmosphere of this her special apartment, conveying to his straying wits an indistinct percention of the yold her absence would make in the daily life of the man before him. In his own way, he missed his rest-less and faithful Jane when she was not at home.

Not another word before the lips were closely sealed. The doctor looked at him quickly and keenly, then put out his hand to pat his shoulder.

The success of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in the cure of diseases peculiar to women, is beyond comparison greater than that of any other medicine prepared especially for woman's use. It is not a cure-all but a scientific preparation, the prescription of an eminent living physician, still in active practice and who, assisted by his staff of nearly a score of trained physicians, treats and cures thousands of women every year. "Favorite Prescription" has an invigorating and vitalizing power peculiar to itself and a phenomenal control of diseases which attack the delicate organs of woman. It permanently cures backache, bearing-down pains, ulceration, inflam-mation and like ills by curing their cause. It dries up the drains, puts out the fever fire of inflammation and cures the corroding ulcer. It makes marriage a happiness and motherhood a blessing, by giving to women such an abundant vitality that the baby blossoms into life as sweetly, simply and naturally as a flower. BURGLARS HAD Purloining Jewelry and Visiting a Bank and a Railway Office.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—Burglars smashed the front window of C. Lapierre's jewelry store on Rideau street, one of the main thoroughfares, at 4 a.m. yesterday and got away with $60 worth of jewelry. Burglars have robbed about 30 places in Ottawa recently, their haus aggregating about $2,600.

Thedford, Ont., Aug. 8.—Last night burglars entered J. Fuller's bank and blew the safe open, the jar smashing every window in the building. They got little for their trouble, however. W. N. Ironsides' hardware store was also entered and several watches and chains and other articles of jewelry, and also a bicycle and a small amount of cash were taken.

Tottenham, Ont., Aug. 3.— The Grand Trunk Railway depot here was broken into this morning, the safe was drilled and blown open, and about $17 in cash and a number of old coins were abstracted. There is no clue to the burglars. The work appears to have been done by professionals.

REWARDS FOR THE WINNERS

How Famous Generals Have Been Paid for Their Victories.

Lord Kitchener's grant of something over $150,000 for his services to the British Empire in taking Khartoum was a modest present compared with some others which grateful nations have bestowed upon successful generals. The American Government gave to Lafayette $200,000, and a township of land for his services in our revolution.

Of all successful generals, however the Duke of Marlborough and the Duke of Wellington received the richest rewards. Begides their dukedoms, to them were given large annuities for themselves and their heirs, and great sums of money. Marlborough received the royal manor of Woodstock, where the great palace of Blenheim was built for him. Then to him was granted tor himself and his heirs forever a pension of $20,000 a year. That $20,000 in the days of Marlborough was equal to at least $100,000 now. The Dukes of Mariborough drew this pension up to as late as 1883, when it was commuted for a lump sum. Wellington, besides his dukedom, received grants in cash amounting to $3,500,000, and an annuity of $10,000. To Lord Napier of Magdala, for his success in the Abyssinian expedition, was granted an annuity of $10,000, for himself and his successor in the title. Sir Garnet Wolseley, for his Ashanti expedition, received a grant of $125,000, and for his Egyptian campaigns he was made Lord Wolseley. General Roberts-"Little Bobs"-for his

Afghan campaign, received $60,000 and he was made Lord Roberts. For his services in the revolution, the American Government gave to Gen. (the Baron) Steuben, an annuity of $2,-000 a year, a large sum in those days, for a yearly income, and the State of New York gave to him 16,000 acres of land near Utica. Several other states also gave to him large grants of land. Gen. Nathaniel Greene, who had nearly exhausted his private fortune in the revolution, received large grants of land from the Carolinas and Georgia. part of this land was Cumberland Island, near Savannah, where he was building his new home of Dungeness when he died, leaving his estate much embarrassed. Called to Time by the City Engineer-Street Railway Company Not Running 17 Hours a Day-Other Business

The board of works has almost reached the end of its tether. The fact was pointed out by the city engineer at the regular meeting last night. When the improvements now under way are completed, the board's funds will be exhausted, he said.

Owing to the depleted treasury consideration of the engineer's estimate of replacing a box culvert, corner of Waterloo and Oxford streets, will be deferred until next year. The cost would

The notification of Fraser & Fraser on behalf of Mr. C. A. Morley, respecting property on Beech street, was laid over for further information.

A petition for a plank walk on Kengington street, West London, was referred to the engineer to get a petition for a walk under the local improvement act.

If Messrs. John Labatt and F. E. Leonard will undertake to sign for a sewer on Adelaide street when called upon, they will be permitted to tap the trunk sewer from a private drain payment of one-half of the cost, which is estimated at $325.

The engineer will have walks at the fair grounds graded, but not graveled. Other supplies, including 3,000 feet of cedar, will be granted for the fair grounds.

Contractor Howie's claim for damages on account of plank sidewalks was referred to the council.

Mr. J. M. Logan appeared on behalf of residents on Central avenue west. The roadway was impassable, he said, owing to the condition Contractor Johnston has filled in the sewer trenches. Ald. Parnell moved to instruct the contractor to put the street in the same shape he found it in. The chairman said none of the contractors were treated that way. This job had just been completed, and a shower would improve it. "It was a disgrace," said Mr. Logan.

The contractor's should not be allowed to leave the streets in such shape." Ald. Wilkey never saw it any place but in London. In other places the excavated earth was packed into the trenches. Here the streets were left out of repair for a year, he said. The matter was referred to the chair man and engineer. The city engineer reported that the street railway company were running 20 cars in the city, and 1 on the Springbank line, and that they were not runming 17 hours a day.

Remarkable Reseue

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption, and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use, and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by W. T. Strong & Co.

Games Proposed To Be Held at

Springbank. Decision of the Reception Committee Reached by Secret

The Committee Far From Unanimous in Their Choice-Sunday Services.

Ballot.

Springbank Park was selected last night as the place for the afternoon games and sports in connection with the Old Boys' reunion tomorrow. The choice was decided largely by the votes of persons who were not members of the committee. It was made in spite of the protests of many of the most active and influential workers on the committee-men who were chiefly instrumental in bringing former reunions to a suc-

"It will result in strife and discord," said Mr. McCann. "It's no use to ask the people to ride to Springbank," said J. W. Jones. "The citizens don't and the visitors won't.' Nineteen of the people who voted when the deciding ballot was taken, did not vote at all when it was only a question of going to Queen's Park or not. They waited until Springbank was in question.

Another peculiar feature of the meeting last night was the calm assumption on the part of Ald. Carrothers that the Western Fair board did not want to allow the use of the ring and stand at Queen's Park. For fear of having his feelings hurt by a refusal, he had refrained from making a formal application for their use. The singular re-fusal of the Grand Trunk to run cars to Queen's Park also caused considerable speculation.

THOSE PRESENT.

Ald. McPhillips was chairman, Jas. Bell secretary, and the others present were: Hugh Sharkey, Benj. Johnston, R. A. Lyons, J. Arbuckle, W. L. Lowrie, —. Johnston, A. O. Graydon, F. Darch, J. H. Flock, Hume Elliot, E. W. M. Flock, T. W. Scandrett, O. Elwood, O. H. Talbot, Geo. Merritt, E. J. MacRobert, Dr. Ziegler, A. Friendship, Robt. Bennet, J. Carling, Thomas Gillean, J. M. Logan, Dr. Teasdall, C. McCormick, W. Mace, George Loveless, M. Dillon, J. Mac-Pherson, S. Stevely, D. Royen, S. H. Pherson. S. Stevely, D. Bowen, S. H. Craig, F. Adams, B. Sheere, L. W. Fitzgerald, Frank Cooper, E. Sanders, W. Smith, W. Wanless, W. Bartlett, Alf Talbot, John Pocock, B. C. Me-Cann, J. W. Jones, R. R. Bland, W. McPhillips, Frank Love, H. Merritt, J. Mattinson, J. R. Minhinnick, jun., Mayor Wilson, Ald. Parnell, Winnett, McCallum, Plant, Douglass. Graham, Garratt, Jolly, Rumball, Wilkey and Reed, and others. Thomas Beattie, M.P., wrote stating that he had interviewed the minister of militia, and that the committee could obtain any marquees desired from Col. Dawson. The secretary reported that $520 62 in cash and $60 in goods had been contributed to the committee. Cash subscriptions amounting to $20 were still to be collected.

A list of the members of the Old Boys' Association of Chicago was read amid loud applause. WHERE TO GO?

The question of the evening was then introduced by the chairman. They had to decide upon the place for bank, Queen's Park, Tecumseh Park,

Victoria Park and the Asylum grounds had been spoken off. The committee could get Springbank. Of that they were certain. No. 2 committee was willing that Victoria Park be used. W. I. Raid had offered the free use of J. Reid had offered the free use of Tecumseh Park. The consent of the government had been obtained for the use of the Asylum grounds. Regarding Queen's Park the committee could not Queen's Fark the committee could not be so sure. Ald. Carrothers would re-port as to the latter place. Ald. Carrothers reported having brought the matter before the fair board, and so much cold water was thrown on it, that a formal application for the use of the stands and vice was for the use of the stands and ring was not made. The council could grant the use of the grounds, but the consent of the board had to be obtained for the use of the stands. The board did not want to give the grounds because of their present condition. their present condition, owing to the work that is going on there.

Ald. Reed moved that Victoria Park

e the place.
Ald. Carrothers guessed that Ald. Reed was thinking only of the formal reception of the visitors. It had always been decided to have that in Victoria Park.

Ald. Reed withdrew his motion.

J. W. Jones said he had considered the matter from all points. Victoria Park was out of the question. It would be destroyed more than could be fixed up in years. It was no use to ask the people to ride to Springbank. "The citizens don't," he said, "and I'm sure the visitors won't." He couldn't see how they were going to get out of going to Queen's Park. There was the place for the games and the cavalry maneuvers. The people would feel free to do as they pleased, and have a day with the boys. Tecumseh Park was be destroyed more than could be fixed Methodist Church picnicked on Mount with the boys. Tecumseh Park was pleasant Heights yesterday, and spent too small, and there would not be the freedom on the asylum grounds that Queen's Park afforded. He moved to instruct Ald. Carrothers to make a for-Infant class, No. 1 girls-Mina Nixon | mal application for the stands and ring at Queen's Park.

J. M. Logan seconded.
Thomas Gillean announced that the asylum grounds were out of it. Hon. Mr. Harcourt had consented to the use of the grounds, but the C. P. R. could not get cars to run there. Ald. Garratt moved that the meeting vote on the three places by ballot.

Mr. Scandrett seconded.

Maurice Dillon—I move that Messrs.

Bennet, Carrothers and Gillean be the scrutineers. There was a general smile, and the chairman informed Mr. Dillon that his action was "premature." The chairman presented the amendment naming Springbank, Queen's Park and Tecumseh Park as the three places it was proposed to ballot upon. Mr. McCann-Springbank is not before the house. E. W. M. Flock-The places were named in the motion.

Frank Love urged the meeting to make the selection of the place unani-mous. This was a time for peace and harmony. Springbank was certainly the place if the strike was not on, but to choose it now would result in strife to choose it now would result in strife and discord. The people were not riding on the street cars. Possibly ten, fifteen or twenty years might soften the feeling against the company, and the people might ride. One thing was sure—they were not riding now. To select Springbank would result in the whole thing being a dismal failure. Queen's Park was neutral ground. To select it would injure no one, while by choosing Springbank they would be favoring one side altogether. one side altogether.

Ald. Rumball-How are you going to get to Queen's Park? Mr. Love—People can walk to Queen's Park. They can't walk to Springbank, E. W. M. Flock agreed with Mr. Love that the selection should be unanimous. He was prepared to cast a ballot for the place of his choice, and f in the minority would go in to make the choice of the majority unanimous. They should not take sides in this street railway strike, he said, and to go to any park other than that where former celebrations were held would be doing so. The strikers could run their busses on the Pipe Line road in oppo-sition to the street cars. The committee should not go out of their way to favor one side or the other. Mr. Love was mistaken about the feeling of the

Mr. Flock—The C. P. R. has no cars for use to go to the asylum, nor will the G. T. R. run.

don't do it," he said, "and it would not be fair to ask our visitors what we know will be unfriendly to their friends." He supported ex-Ald. Jones' motion. Ald. Plant did not see why fault should be found with Queen's Park. The work going on there was a sign of progress. An old stand was being replaced by a better one. They should not be ashamed of letting their friends see it. The grounds were in good shape. No objection had been made to Springbank because of the lack of grand stands. Queen's Park would do without the stands, although that wouldn't be necessary. Mr. Jones rose to correct Mr. Flock. He wished to be understood as saying that from present appearances the people wouldn't ride on the cars. "If you won't do it, how can you ask your friends to?" he asked. Mr. Love-It's forcing the people to get on a car or stay away.

Ald. Carrothers—Why can't the busses run to Springbank? That day should be called off. (Applause.) Any man who will so far forget himself as man who will so far forget himself as the bostility to the car company. It was to complain of any one riding on the hostility to the car company. Mr. Thomas Gillean spoke with considerable feeling. He indorsed what Ald. Carrothers had said. This was a matter of friendship. They should not consider the strike at all. Here were from two to four thousand old Londoners returning to see their old home and have a good time with their old com-The citizens should not consider themselves at all, but put up the best kind of entertainment they knew how. Did they want their visit ors to return with the impression that London was ruled by strikers or a railway company. The committee should not consider the strike at all, but do just as they pleased. They were going to put up the best entertainment ever seen in London.

Ex-Ald. Bennet agreed with Mr. Gillean. They should drop the matter of the strike altogether. If the Old Boys were as loyal a lot of fellows as they used to be they would do as the committee said. The members should vote as they pleased.

Mr. J. Mattinson thought the objections to Springbank were of no weight. If the people did not wish to ride on the cars they could go by 'bus.

Mr. Len Fitzgerald moved that the meeting make the choice unanimous. Mr. J. W. Jones seconded. He always abided by the will of the majority, he said. Mr. Love thought it would be wiser to move a reconsideration. "The peo-ple can't walk to Springbank," he said, "and they won't ride. On sober reflection the mistake will be discovered." Mr. Fitzgerald's motion was put to a standing vote, and about fifteen members remained seated. "Carried unanimously," chairman, smiling.

The chairman called upon Mr. Nicho-

Mr. Wilson briefly tendered his thanks, and stated that he was pleased with the result of the voting. On motion of Ald.
