PARLIAMENT PLANNED

MOCK ASSEMBLY SLATED FOR MARCH; ELECTIONS THIS MONTH

Plans for a Model Parliament on this campus have been put in a more concrete form as a result of a joint meeting of all interested parties here last Tuesday evening. In answer to a "Challenge" published by the P.C. Club in the Brunswickan there was a representative turnout of Liberals and Independents at the meeting. David MacKeen, the Conservative Club president, chaired the meeting and submitted the proposals of his organization. After discussion from the floor plans were finalized for the organization of the Parliament.

It was decided that an election would be held on February 22, with the candidates chosen on a proportional representation basis, with the party obtaining the largest percentage of the vote forming the government with a proportional number of the seats. It is planned that the platform of the various parties will be published and that prospective premiers will be named to aid the voters in choosing their government.

The House will number 40 members and will sit on Friday and Saturday, March 1 & 2. Legislation will consist of a number of topics pertinent to current events and will no doubt be of such a nature as to come under heavy fire in the House. The actual constitution and procedure of the session is still to be decided.

The organizers of the plan have approached Prof. Whalen of the Political Science Department to be Speaker of the Parliament, and the acquiring of a Governor General and other officials was discussed at the Tuesday meeting.

The meeting adjourned on an optimistic note with both Liberals and Conservatives, the dominant parties on the campus, laying plans for an intensive campaign for support.

CARNIVAL TICKETS SELLING WELL

The Chairman of the Ticket committee of the Winter Carnival, Ted Boswell, reported on Wednesday that tickets for the Winter Carnival are going quickly. On Wednesday evening money had been collected for over 1200 tickets, and it was confidently thought that many more tickets had been sold. Mr. Boswell stated in an interview with a Brunswickan reporter that he was sure that the full complement of two thousand tickets would be sold. When asked how the sale of tickets was going 'up the hill' he replied that it was on the hill that the tickets were selling fastest, he did not think that there would be too many students who would miss the Carnival.

Last year, the first Winter Carnival at the University had Mr. Boswell as co-chairman of the committee which organized the sale of seventeen hundred tickets. He states that he is sure that figure will be overtaken this year. The Brunswickan hopes that his confidence is justified.

ORGANIZATIONAL MEETING

WILL THE AAA FLOAT?

Officials of the Alexander Athletic Club have announced that they will feature a Carnival Queen in the forthcoming Winter Carnival. The queen, in Fredericton at great expense, will ride on the club's entry in the Carnival Float Parade. "Unlike last year, we will not break a city ordinance in exhibiting our float on the streets of Fredericton", one official stated. It appears that the Alexander entry in the 1956 Carnival, was questioned on legal grounds by certain citizens.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE HAS ITS PROBLEMS AT U.N.B.

The preliminary Spring Budgets caused little controversy at the meeting of the SRC in the Student Centre on Wednesday. All the Budgets were approved by the council, with only a few questions asked. The only suggested change concerned the money allotted to Student Activity Awards. It was suggested that the money granted should be raised, because of the drastic revisions of the system which were made earlier in the term. Under the revised system it is expected that more students will qualify for these awards.

Several UNB students discovered that private enterprise has its problems. The SRC conducted an extensive investigation into the manufacturing and sale of pennants bearing the University crest and the name of the Winter Carnival. Bill Ray, chairman of this year's Carnival committee, requested some kind of protection from the Council. He felt that the Carnival was in danger of being exploited. Members of the committee pointed out that the Carnival is not a profit making organization, and that six or seven hundred dollars worth of prizes and goods donated each year. They felt that the individuals concerned should have consulted the committee first. It was revealed that during a meeting of the Carnival committee that the committee had requested that the sale of pennants be forbidden in buildings in which Carnival events were taking place.

Council member, Elsworth Briggs proposed a motion stating that a concession be set up for any profit making venture by either individuals or campus organizations using the name of the University or of any organization within the University, and that they may not operate without the permission of the SRC. The application was to be made to the Council, who would consider it in consultation with the organization concerned.

NOMINATIONS FOR SRC ELECTIONS OPEN

Nominations for the forthcoming SRC elections are now open. They can be given to the President and the Secretary of the Council before the 13th of February, when the nominations close. The elections are planned for the 27th of February.

The positions open for nomination are the President, 1st and 2nd Vice-Presidents, Secretary and Treasurer of the SRC. All these nominations must be in writing and signed by a nominator, a seconder and eight other students. The same system of nomination applies to the positions of President, Vice-President and Secretary of the AAA.

In addition to these are the class representatives to both the SRC and the class executives. These nominations shall be in writing and signed by a nominator and seconder who shall be members of the class concerned.

The final item of business considered by the council was a report given by Ron Pearsall of the World University Service which clarified the Hungarian Scholarship Programme being set up in co-operation with the University Administration. Mr. Pearsall disclosed that, in consultation with Dr. Mackay, plans had been made to establish scholarships for five Hungarian students on the campus next fall. These students will, during their first year at the University, be provided with all necessary funds to cover tuition, board, lodging and books. For every year following this the Hungarian students themselves will be responsible for the largest percentage of the necessary funds and any necessary amount over and above their share will be attended to by the University Administration and the local W.U.-S.C. committee. A plebiscite is to be held at the time of the S.R.C. elections to determine whether or not the students of this campus will share in this programme.

REMBRANDT FOR FILM SOC ON SUNDAY

The Film Society will feature a famous pre-war film at its bi-weekly showing on Sunday. The film is to be a screen biography of the renowned Dutch artist Rembrandt Harmenszoon Von Rhy. Sir Charles Laughton will play the artist. The showing will begin at 8:30

FESTIVAL OF ARTS OPENS MONDAY

ART, THEATRE, MUSIC, ARCHITECTURE TO BE FEATURED NEXT WEEK

Miss Lucy Jarvis the director of the Arts Centre, has announced more details of the festival of the Arts which is to take place during next week. Throughout the week the exhibits, which have been submitted from all sections of the University, will be on display in the Centre.

The Festival will open, on Monday, with a talk by the President, Dr. Mackay on Arts and Scholasticism. After the president's opening Miss Lucy Jarvis, who is director of the Centre, will give a talk on drawing and painting. Miss Jarvis has travelled widely and is well versed on the history and technicalities of both drawing and painting.

The second day of the Festival will feature Architecture as the main topic of discussion. Mr. Rolf Duchenes who has recently returned from a protracted tour of American and Mexican cities, will include all the latest developments in his field in his talk, Art and Architecture. Mr. Duchenes will illustrate the talk with slides which he took on the tour, in addition to some he has drawn himself.

Wednesday will see a performance by the University Drama Society. They are to give a rehearsed reading of Aldous Huxley's "The Gioconda's Smile". The cast will comprise members of the Societies Festival Production; they include: Al Shaw who is directing the Festival production, Joan Mansfield, the successful director of the Societies' Fall Production, who is to read what she terms 'her favourite role', Iain Barr, May Keith and Joan Yeomans. The reading will be directed by Professor Shaw.

On Thursday the University Camera Club will present slides, taken by members on their trips around the world. The evening will provide a great opportunity to see, on the screen, places which have been left uncovered by John Fitzgerald.

One of the highlights is to take place on Friday of next week. The newly formed choral group is to make its debut under the direction of the director of music, M. Trythall. In addition Mr. Trythall will present a section of the band to accompany the choral group. On Saturday too, music is the main attraction. During the afternoon The Collegians will conduct a Jam Session. Thus providing the University with the first opportunity to hear the band away from its written arrangements. The UNB film Society will show the UNB film for 1956 on Saturday evening.

The last day of the festival, Sunday, will feature poetry readings and music. In the afternoon, after a reception at three o'clock, members of both the faculty and the student body will read a selection of poems. The Festival will close with a recording of the rarely heard 'Miramichi Suite' by Kelsey Jones. The recordings will be presented by Miss Louise Manny of Newcastle, who is an expert on the music of the Miramichi.

The starting time for the events on the week days is to be eight o'clock, on both Saturday and Sunday the events will start at half-past eight.

CARNIVAL COMMITTEE DISOWNS PENNANTS

By BILL RAY

It may have been noticed by the student body that pennants bearing the Winter Carnival snowman crest and the words "U.N.B. Winter Carnival 1957" have been and are being sold on the campus.

Neither the U.N.B. Winter Carnival Committee nor the S.R.C. were approached previously for their sanctioning of the manufacture and sale of these pennants. The pennants are being sold by students who are not connected with the Winter Carnival.

RINK SCHEDULE

The Rink schedule for the next week has been announced by athletic director Pete Kelly. On Sunday the Curling club will have the rink from 8.00 until 10.30; In the afternoon more Intramural Hockey starting at 1.30; and in the evening the rink is open for general skating. The only occupants of the rink on Monday will be the Intramural Hockey players who are using the ice from 9.00 p.m.

On the following three days the rink will be taken over by the varsity teams; the Senior Varsity uses it on Tuesday and Thursday, while the Junior Varsity takes the ice on Wednesday.

For Your Info . . .

These small spaces are awkward, and must be filled. So, as an Englishman I would like to take this opportunity to remind students that the hockey game of the century is to be played in the Rink tomorrow to add to the celebrations of the annual Winter Carnival.

P. C.'s TO MEET ON THURSDAY

The Progressive Conservative Club plans to hold its next meeting on Thursday at eight o'clock in the Student Centre. At the meeting the P.C.'s will organize for the forthcoming election. The meeting will be used to draft their platform and organize for its enactment.

NOTICE!

Students are reminded that lectures and labs for both this afternoon and Tomorrow (Saturday) morning are cancelled. This is an action taken by the President to enable students to participate fully in the Winter Carnival events scheduled for both today and tomorrow.

Let's Be Humane . . .

Most students are aware of the activities of the Canadian Red Cross in this province. Twice a year, the Blood Donor Clinic solicits donations from Students at UNB. Taken in whole, the volume received is not abnormally low. Yet it appears that many students suffer from misapprehensions, are malinformed or both; and there are those who do not care.

It would not be exaggerating to suggest that the majority of students here are in abysmal ignorance of the raison d'être of Blood Clinics. This is not their fault—they have never been informed. Yet to give credence to some of the wild rumours floating around the campus without first trying to substantiate them, is little short of criminal; criminal because it is wrong to neglect saving lives!

500 bottles of blood are distributed weekly in New Brunswick. If this supply is not used within 14 days from its extraction, it must be broken up into its component parts, which in turn are indispensable. Perhaps this is common knowledge, but the fact remains that persons must be made to realize that the demand for blood is continuous, it never stops. The only way to provide adequate medical service is to assure a sustained supply of blood.

It is our boast that scientific progress has all but eradicated superstition. Is this true? The response to the Blood Clinics would seem to indicate otherwise. If any student has a question concerning the Blood Clinics, direct it to the Editor of the Brunswickan. It will in turn be passed on to officials who will answer it in the paper.

Red 'n Black Revue

Students will have noted reference in the "Brunswickan" to the forth-coming Red 'n Black Revue, scheduled for the middle of March. Perhaps there are a few of us, notably freshmen who are unaware of what exactly this revue is.

The Red 'n Black was started in 1947 by a group of senior students, who felt that the UNB needed an undergraduate variety show. Since then, the success of the venture has amply supported their opinion. It would not be an exaggeration to state that the Red 'n Black Revue is the biggest single local attraction annually staged in Fredericton.

If there are students who have some special talent or only have a willingness to participate, we can assure them the time of their lives. Simply speaking, the Revue is one of the most enjoyable events of the college year, especially for those who take part. The main purpose is to have fun. The audience has fun, and more important perhaps, those participating have fun. Let's all support the Red 'n Black!

A CHALLENGE . . .

Last Thursday evening about 20 interested students met to discuss the possibility of holding a Mock Parliament. A venture of this sort has not been adequately investigated for too long. At the meeting was a large representation from the UNB Progressive Conservative Club, plus a few students who were interested in forming an opposition.

For some inexplicable reason, UNB students are completely impervious to political stimulus. Perhaps they are scared, perhaps they don't realize the importance of such activity, or perhaps they don't care. We prefer to believe the second. Experience derived from witnessing, or taking part in, a mock parliament will be invaluable after we leave the university. It is not a question of aligning oneself to a particular party; it is only a question of expressing an interest in the governmental processes of our country. When you reflect on this, you discover that this lack of interest is not only ridiculous, but dangerous. If we are to take an active part in the future of our country, we must prepare ourselves.

There is a nucleus of students at UNB who are vitally interested in the future of Canada. It would be sad reflection on our education, if these were the only ones. Presently forming are two parties to take part in the parliament. Watch the Brunswickan for further announcements.

The "Brunswickan" challenges the student body to prove that they are not uninterested in the future of Canada; that they, as future leaders, will take an active part in learning something about the democratic process; that students at UNB will leave the narrow field of book learning and broaden their now inconsiderable education!

Editor does "Loose Thinking"

Mr. J. Barry Toole,
 Editor-in-chief,
 The Brunswickan.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I have just read your issue of January 18th. As you suggest, a newspaper editor is allowed many latitudes. These should not, however, include the right to split an infinitive in the first line of an editorial, to indulge in loose thinking, to make unsubstantiated charges, or to print false information. I could comment on all but the first of these points—and even that perhaps—at length, but I am only too conscious of your editorial warning on the size of letters for publication.

Suffice it then to say that if you wish an article on what exactly UNB gains from its membership of NFCUS it may be had for the asking. It should, too, be said that the national budget of the Federation runs this year to some $21,000.00, and that of this $10,000.00 is allocated to salaries. I agree that the proportion should be two-thirds, and perhaps, between us, we can conspire to persuade the next National Conference that my salary should more nearly approach what my qualifications could command in the Civil Service or private enterprise. More seriously, I know that you are a good fellow at heart and that, in proper possession of the facts, you would not grudge us our honest dollar. The $10,000.00 is divided among four of us—all overworked and underpaid—and even NFCUS employees must live!

Yours faithfully,
 James Pickett,
 Executive Secretary.

Dear Mr. Secretary,

Permit me to apologize for suggesting that your salaries constitute two thirds of the national budget. I note you offer me part in a conspiracy to implement your present salary. Further, you suggest it should "nearly approach what my qualifications could command in the civil service or private industry". Perhaps I should be excused from this enterprise on the grounds that my opinion would not concur with yours.

You will agree though, sir, that the fact that the portion of the national budget allocated to salaries is lower than I stated, does not detract from the fact that the University of New Brunswick receives little or no indication of the existence of NFCUS!

If you will take part of your valuable time to re-read my editorial you will discover that my quarrel is not primarily with the National organization, but with the Local Committee. Judging by the results of last year's referendum, UNB overwhelmingly supports the National Federation. If you will agree that the "Brunswickan" must act in the students' interest, then you will agree that their interest is best served by assuring an active committee. We do not have a competent local committee!

I would be delighted to receive "an article on what exactly UNB gains from its membership of NFCUS". I am somewhat curious to find out.

In conclusion, let me point out that when I indulge in "loose thinking" the National Federation of Canadian University Students is farthest from my mind. In all honest humility, my dear secretary, do you?

Letter to the Editor

University of New Brunswick,
 Fredericton, N.B.

Dear Sir,

The letter of David R. Mount printed in the Tuesday, January 22nd issue of the BRUNSWICKAN demands a reply to his question: "Why are we making an all out effort to assist Hungarian refugee students?"

If I have interpreted Mr. Mount's remarks correctly, his entire letter boils down to the proposition: "Should we help foreign students at the same time as or prior to granting assistance to prospective Canadian students?"

Mr. Mount seems to think that we will be giving the Hungarian students something for nothing. Most certainly we are not for, while their first year among us may very well be financed, for each succeeding year they will be expected to provide by far the largest percentage of their educational costs. This may mean that, like so many of us, they too will find it necessary to make loans which, I think, is quite justifiable since it is not our ambition to give them a better chance than Canadians, but simply an equal opportunity.

From a matter of expediency it is a very wise move for us to offer the Hungarian university students assistance, as these people represent the element of immigrants who are best able to transplant that which is most desirable of their European culture to our Canadian Heritage.

From the economists it is also to our advantage to assist such people as these, for it is a known fact that one of the main barriers which is retarding the development of Canada is the lack of population. Furthermore, upon graduation these university students will for the most part assume positions in the higher income bracket and will undoubtedly return to Canada in taxes tenfold the amount we at present may give them.

Yours very truly,
 G. R. Pearsall, '58.

DANCE BAND ADDS TO CAMPUS LIFE

The idea of forming a university dance orchestra originated in the Lady Beaverbrook Men's Residence one night in early November, by Paul Stewart, Bob Simmonds and George Harper. The idea was that the band would play the kind of music students enjoyed most and make the college independent of an outside source of music; it was thought too that extra attention might be given to improvisation and solo work.

The next step in this undertaking was to secure the right musicians preferably those with past experience in the field. The sax section comprised George Harper, Bob Simmonds, Paul Stewart and George Gunter. George Bryson and Clarence Parker were to comprise the trumpet section; and Gary Stewart on guitar joined the rhythm section. The man for the drums was immediately found to be Eddie George with Hugh MacDowell on piano, and Bill Stutz on trombone. The personnel of the orchestra was now complete.

Next came the hectic work of rehearsals, ordering of music and so on. It was essential to have at least seventy tunes in swing in order to play for a dance. Rehearsals took place on weekends, usually, Saturday and Sunday afternoons with an average of about 13 hours per week.

Now U.N.B. can boast of a well organized and talented dance orchestra, a group which may in the future become well known throughout the Maritimes. Mount A has their "Mount Aires", St. F.X., its "X Men of Note", Acadia its "Gentlemen of Swing" and now the "Collegians" of U.N.B. are added to the roll.

go ahead industrially we will suddenly enter upon a seaside utopia. Maybe we should do some clear thinking about what we have got now and what we might lose with an economic boom.

When I first moved here from the booming area of southern Ontario a few years ago, I was full of ideas and ways in which the Maritimes might go ahead. This was essential. This was the "faire necessaire" or so I thought. But then, I began to realize that if the industrial boom was to visit our slumbering villages and sleeping towns and cities it could do a lot of harm as well as good.

For our area has more of those things that cannot be measured in dollars and cents than our busy counterpart in Toronto and Montreal. We have here a sense of patience that is born of the sea and land. They have only the sense of being always in a hurry, in a state of pressurized worry.

Canada owes a great debt to the religious, educational, and political leaders who the Maritimes have contributed to the country and who have in other parts of Canada maintained a respect for the things which matter most, the unpurchasable qualities of life.

We have a closer family life and warmer regard for the education of our young. Our colleges are, as the Montreal Gazette phrased it "more a part of their community, natural and sturdy, and endowed with sacrifice".

If there is any premium of happiness, few of us will accept the Gordon Commission's suggestion.

'LES CHANSONNIERS'

By NORVAL BALCH

How could anyone see much to laugh about in the political events of this modern, atomic age? The black headlines on newspapers throughout the world would seem to give reason for varied feelings: horror, dismay, sadness and even shame anything but mirth. However, the human spirit is a many-sided thing and it takes much to depress it entirely, so that it is not too surprising to find in France a group of entertainers whose sole aim is to reduce news events to satirical ditties and make laughter of men's folly. These are the famous "Chansonniers" of Paris, men equipped with more wit than musical talent, but held dear in French hearts for their piercing and constant ridicule of the government.

"Les Chansonniers" perform in five or six little theatres or cafes in Montmartre which never fail to be packed. While the dazzling spectacles of the Folies-Bergere, the Moulin-Rouge and the Lidom light up the night in Montmartre, the "Chansonniers" entertain in their little theatres. The setting is invariably informal with the small audience sitting around drinking. Late comers suffer from the jibes of the performers—three ladies entering are asked if this is husbands' night at home, a youth with his arm around a girl is cautioned not to hold her too tight—and so all partake of the fun.

There are few news events, national or international which are not treated in humorous song by the performers. Hungary, however, has not proved to be a laughing matter, so few references have been made of it; this subject is off limits.

But the Suez crisis has provided good material for the wit of the "Chansonniers" and for months now everyone from Nasser to Eisenhower has been the butt of their musical satire. When a performer comes in late, for example he apologizes: "Sorry, but I had to come by way of the Cape of Good Hope."

The titles of some of the current revues are in the order of: "Nasser here nor there", "All's well that ends Fuel," "Le Paix . . . troleuse." Above all, the French government is continually taking the brunt of the "Chansonniers" attacks. Such comments as "Nasser nationalized the Suez and the French replied with fifteen minutes silence in the Assembly," or "When you have been robbed you call in all your friends and invite the thief. You then confer on the problem, asking the thief if he is willing to share half with you. But if he refuses, you give it all to him."

Bubbles may keep the St. Lawrence Seaway ice-free during the winter months. According to an article in The Financial Post, a new Swedish process might prove an economical way of keeping the waterway open.

The Swedish experiment involved pumping air through perforated polyethylene pipe laid along the channel bottom. This sent the warmer bottom water to the surface, preventing ice formation. In the Swedish experiment the savings in ice-breaker expenses paid for the operation in two years.

The cost of the plastic pipe is about $2000 per mile, making a total of $800,000 for the 400 miles that would have to be kept open. Compressor stations and laying costs would bring the total bill up to between $1 and $2 million.

The Canadian government has been studying the possibility of such a project, but has not yet made public its findings.

Probable results of such a project: a drastic fall-off in the winter trade of Maritime seaports and thus a further decline in the area's prosperity. To boost the Maritime economy Canadians will then celebrate National Fish Week five times a year. A Baked Bean Week and a Dulce Week will also be introduced. There will be a concerted effort to start a Golden Glo Week.

Artisans will be in great demand to write editorials for the local papers emphasizing the merits of fish, potatoes and the Conservative government's "beer".

DEVILS, MT. A. CLASH TOMORROW

By GORDON HOWSE

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, UNB Red Devils play Mount Allison Mounties at the Lady Beaverbrook Rink in the biggest hockey game of the year, both for local fans and the Red Devils.

Red Devils have now established themselves as the team to beat in the Intercollegiate loop. They will have a Maritime championship within their grasp if they put the Mounties in the ash can for the second time this season. Mount A has been on an exhibition tour the past two weeks, prepping for this game. They have played teams from the APC and North Shore Senior Leagues. They defeated St. Thomas College last Saturday nite 6-4 in an intercollegiate game. One thing for certain, Coach Major McLaughlin will bring a team to Fredericton that will be out to win at any cost, for a loss will virtually mean oblivion as far as the Mounties' hopes for an Intercollegiate championship are concerned.

Best Game

Against the Saints last Saturday nite, Claude Brown played his best game of the season. If he continues in this style, he will soon establish himself as the top netminder in the league. The McDonagh-Stewart-Hersey line was very effective, providing the necessary scoring punch. Pete Mockler and Pete Coombes did a capable job of penalty-killing. Mockler utilized his hook-check advantageously to break up SDU plays. The defense played one of its better games, giving Brown adequate protection and dishing out their share of body-checks. One factor in SDU's defeat was the absence of their top player, Buck Davey, out with a knee injury. However, even with Davey, the result would not have differed greatly. The Saints currently occupy second place in the Island Senior League and were stiff opposition as was expected.

At the latest report, it appears that Ed Dohany, who injured his shoulder in last Saturday night's game, will be playing this Saturday.

Revised team scoring figures show Bill McDonagh and linemate Bill Stewart still in the lead.

98 Horses To Pull You Back Up The Hill

First man to use the new ski tow at Royal Roads, Jerome Sullivan rewarded the efforts of the few determined individuals who built it with a "well done, boys." His remarks followed a test run held this week. The official opening is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The trial run came off without a hitch.

As the last splice was put in place, Chris McConnell and John Torunski, designers and supervisors of the project, moved to the controls. Gears meshed and the rope started to move.

Pronounced Safe

Amidst the applause of a few interested onlookers, and to the delight of the operators, the first skier, firmly clutching the rope, moved effortlessly up the hill. Several other excited hickory enthusiasts followed.

UNB Ski Club officials say the tow has been put through a series of strenuous tests and will offer the greatest possible degree of safety.

This event marked the completion of a project which was begun in early October.

To The Top

The tow itself covers nine hundred and fifty feet and will carry skiers to the top of the "Pasture," from whence skiers may either enjoy an easy run down the moderate slope of the "Pasture," or ascend to the more difficult slopes a short distance above. The nineteen hundred foot, one-inch sisal tow rope is driven by the ninety-eight horsepower motor of a former Bren Gun Carrier.

The official opening of the tow will coincide with the Maritime intercollegiate and Open Ski Meet to be held on Winter Carnival week-end.

The Ski Club announces that rates for the tow will be as follows: full-day rates for Ski Club members and associate members, 75¢; non-members $1.25; half-day rates effective after 2 p.m., members 50¢; non-members 75¢.

The Ski Club would like to draw attention to a few simple rules governing the safe use of the tow:

1. Skiers should wear leather mitts or gloves as wool gloves will wear quickly.
2. When grasping the rope, pressure should be applied slowly and evenly, as a sudden grasp of the rope will pull the skier off his feet.
3. Skiers should space themselves at intervals of at least 50 feet. This is to prevent injury in case of a skier falling.
4. Skiers should avoid wearing loose articles of clothing, such as dangling scarves, belts, etc., which might become entangled in the rope, thereby endangering the skier, although the tow is provided with a safety gate which will shut off the motor in the event that a skier is unable to release himself from the rope at the end of the run.
5. Getting on the tow at any place other than at the bottom of the hill is strictly prohibited.
6. For fastest and most efficient service, skiers are to line up

CARNIVAL SPORTS

Highlighting this carnival week-end is the invasion of UNB by athletic teams from Mt. Allison.

This afternoon there will be a swim meet with UNB playing host to Mount A. and Acadia. Acadia is the defending Maritime Champ and will be sending up a strong team to defend the trophy.

In the women's division, UNB is the defending Maritime Intercollegiate and Open Champ. The Red and Black swimmers will be defending their position against a strong Mt. A team and one from Acadia. This year there are only eight girls turning out as compared to last year's eleven.

On Saturday afternoon there will be two hockey games played at the Beaverbrook Rink. The first one should see some very interesting hockey. The English Gentlemen are playing against the UNB coeds. Following this game (???) there will be a senior varsity game with UNB playing Mt. A.

Tonight will see the basketball gym busy. The first game will have UNB girls playing Mt. A coeds. So far this year the UNB squad is undefeated.
