ANNUAL REPORT
OF

STIPENDIARY MAGISTRATE, COMMANDER OF THE EXPEDITION FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE FISHERIES IN THE GULF OF ST.
LAWRENCE, ON BOARD OF "LA CANADIENNE," DURING THE SEASON OF 1864.

LAPRAIRIE, 30th December 1864.

SIR,—I have the honor to transmit to you my report of the operations of the Expedition for the protection of the Canadian Fisheries in the River and Gulf of St. Lawrence, during the season of 1864.

I have used every possible effort, and availed myself of all the means at my disposal, on board of the "La Canadienne," to afford to our fisheries all the protection and all the administrative care of which they are so worthy; and I trust that after the perusal of this report, you will find I have faithfully discharged the duty entrusted to me, and thoroughly carried out the several instructions with which you honored me throughout the season which has just come to a close.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your very humble and obedient servant,

Hon. ALEXANDER CAMPBELL,
Commissioner of Crown Lands, Quebec.

The service for the protection of the Fisheries, at the head of which I have the honor to be placed, requires the presence of the armed Government vessel in the Gulf, at the earliest moment on the opening of the navigation, that is to say, between the 20th and the 25th April, and I have already had occasion, in former years, to draw the attention of the Government to that point of my duty.

In the present year, I had hoped to be able to sail at the requisite period, but the unfavorable weather and the extreme cold of the month of April prevented us from completing the repairs necessary to be made on "La Canadienne," to strengthen her, before the 30th of the month, notwithstanding the activity and zeal evinced by the employees of the Public Works in executing them. I left the Port of Quebec, however, on that day. This was upwards of a month earlier than the previous year, and a week earlier than the date of my departure in the year 18... which was the earliest before the present year. This was, in good truth, a great improvement, but something still remains to be done. I do not think, however, that under the present system of docking the schooner every autumn and painting her all over (which requires fine weather) before taking her out again, we can, with all possible exertion, succeed in getting away earlier than the end of April or the beginning of May. This is why I would suggest the plan of laying up the schooner for the winter afloat in the Coves, either at the Anse des Mères, or at Indian Cove, where she would be well sheltered from the ice. But for this purpose she would require to be coppered, a work easily executed and not very expensive, and one which would effect a great saving in the annual expenses for the wintering of the vessel.

On the 30th of April, therefore, we left the Port of Quebec with a light breeze from the West, which rapidly changed into a strong North-east wind, and it was not until the 6th of May that we succeeded in reaching Bersimis, and the 7th, Point aux Outardes, the first place where I was called upon to hear a criminal prosecution.

I judged the case of a individual accused of assault and battery; and, in a case in which information was laid of an assault with intent to commit murder, I carried out the preliminary proceedings prescribed by law and the person accused was held to bail to appear at the next session of the Criminal Court for the District of Saguenay, at Malbaie.

At Bersimis, I had, in my capacity of Commissioner per dedimus potestatem, sworn in Mr. Matthew Fortescue, a resident of that locality, and I have no doubt but that that gentleman will do good service to the cause of order upon that part of the coast, where the necessity for a Magistrate had been keenly felt for a long time. It is known that Bersimis is now the central point of meeting of most of the Montagnais families who inhabit the North shore of the River and Gulf of St Lawrence; and I recommended the appointment of Mr. Fortescue chiefly with the view of providing protection for those poor Indians, and to prevent travelling dealers from going there to sell spirituous liquors.

On the 9th I arrived at Point des Monts, and there met Mr. Alexander Comeau, fishery overseer in that division of the coast, and disposed of the licenses for the salmon fishing at the fishing posts which it contains.

Meanwhile the wind, which had blown without ceasing from the east, continued to blow from that quarter, and we did not succeed in reaching Seven Islands until noon on the 12th.

I had to land there the Collector of the Port, Mr. Smith and his family, together with his luggage, and this business being accomplished, we shaped our course for the south shore, the wind still holding in the same quarter, and not favorable to my intention of calling at River Moisie.

Having reached the coast of Gaspé, we steered for the Magdalen Islands, where we arrived on the 16th, having had foul winds and met much floating ice on the south side of Amherst Island.

I was much astonished on reaching Amherst Harbour to find no more than nine schooners there, six of which were fitted out for the herring fishery and three for the cod fishery, (their names will be given hereafter) and that at a time when the Harbour usually can hardly contain the hundreds of fishing-vessels which assemble there from the Lower Provinces and the United States, and even of the few we found, the first had been there only a few days.

This state of things was occasioned by the ice. In fact, the south side of the Gulf, from the Gut of Canso to Prince Edward's Island, and even quite near to the Magdalen Islands, was filled with it, so that the navigation of these waters was completely obstructed, and as we were informed by the fishermen, the ice-field which we fell in with on the 15th, extended as far as the Isle of Cape Breton, and its presence had still the effect of keeping the air cold and damp.

I saw the Collector and the principal inhabitants of the Port, and was informed that the last winter had been very mild, but that the Islands had been almost entirely surrounded by ice, from the month of January to the month of April.

In the month of March, an immense ice-field, thickly strewn with seals, almost all young, had grounded on the beach of the north-east coast of the Islands, and in two days the fishermen of House Harbour, of Etang du Nord, and even of Amherst Island, killed, either with firearms or with clubs, nearly 6,000 of them, a rich harvest speedily gathered in, though not without danger which would have been greater if an east wind had not come on and carried off the floating ice burthened with such wealth.

The Herring had made its appearance in the Bay of Plaisance towards the end of April, and had been abundant as also on the neighboring coasts, and the enormous quantities of spawn cast up by the waves on the beach of the bay, the putrescence of which was offensive to the inhabitants, plainly indicated that they had accomplished the important office of reproduction with immense effect. Unluckily, the herring-fleet had not arrived in good time, and the inhabitants of the Islands are not possessors of the large seine-nets necessary for the purpose, consequently only a very small quantity of fish had been captured.

I had touched at Entry Island on the 10th; on the 18th I visited House Harbour and Grindstone Island, and took note that all was right at those places. Nothing requiring the presence of "La Canadienne," until the mackerel fishery, I gave orders to make sail for the coast of Gaspé.

There had been twenty-five wrecks the previous autumn, on the northern coast of the Islands, in one of which a captain and four sailors perished while endeavoring to land in their jolly-boat. Such accidents, commonly the result of inexperience or carelessness on the part of the captains, are very injurious to the navigation of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, by creating an impression that it is still more dangerous than it really is, and contribute mainly to keep the rates of insurance on ships leaving Canada, higher than what are charged on vessels bound for the Lower Provinces or the United States, to the great detriment of the maritime commerce of our country. Vessels from Richibucto and Miramichi are most frequently unfortunate enough to terminate their existence (often a short one, for some of them are just off the stocks and newly launched) on the sandy shoals of the Islands, from which, when once they are grounded, they seldom get off.

I cannot quit this subject without bearing testimony to the ready zeal of the inhabitants of the Magdalen Islands, in affording aid to shipwrecked persons, and the regular system which prevails in the salvage and sale of articles belonging to wrecks.

On the 20th of May, about noon, we arrived at Percé.

Both herring and cod had made their appearance some time before, and the fishing commenced under the best auspices.

I ascertained, by visiting the fishing-establishments, that no disorder existed.

The following day I landed at Douglstown and issued salmon-fishing licenses for the River St. John, and in the evening we entered Gaspé Basin. I passed the 22nd and 23rd in visiting the Harbour, which contained 25 vessels, some from Europe, the rest from Quebec or the Lower Provinces, and in issuing salmon-fishing licenses for Dartmouth and York Rivers, fifty in number. This business being completed, we sailed for Paspébiac where we arrived on the following afternoon. We counted 26 ships in the roadstead here; some from Europe with full cargoes of goods and fishing-gear and supplies, the others taking on board all necessaries for the cod-fisheries on the north shore, everything betokening great activity and an evident increase in the fish-trade, of which Paspébiac is the grand centre for the County of Bonaventure, and even for that part of the North Shore east of Mingan. I ascertained to my great satisfaction, that at this port, where more than 500 men were at work, there was not the least disorder.

On the 25th I issued licenses for salmon-fishing, at Port Daniel, not having occasion to visit that place, and at noon weighed anchor and reached Carleton the following day. That day, in the afternoon, I visited Maguasha and Dalhousie, and returning to Carleton, on the 27th made sail for the Magdalen Islands.

During my stay off the Bay of Chaleurs, I had issued salmon-fishing licenses for all the stations on the River Restigouche, the Bay of Carleton, Maria, and the Cascapédiac and Bonaventure Rivers. Salmon-fishing was not sufficiently advanced to enable me to judge of its probable success. This year, again, a large number of white porpoises (Déphinapteres Buluga) were found in the Bay of Chalcurs, near its inner shore, and it was a prevalent opinion among the fishermen, that they were in pursuit of the salmon, on which they feed, and that they are therefore very injurious to the Salmon-fishery.

I think we must await the experience of a few years more before committing ourselves to this opinion; we must, in the first place, have some certain facts verified, concerning the habits of these fish, and especially as to the nature of their food.

Last year the porpoises appeared in as great numbers as in the present year, at the mouth of the River Restigouche, and it was not found that the salmon-fishing was diminished in any remarkable degree at that place.

On the 30th, after a two days' run, we came to an anchor, for the second time, at Amherst Harbour, in the Magdalen Islands. My object in using so much expedition was that I might be present during the mackerel fishing, and I arrived in sufficient time, as the fish had not yet made its appearance in the Bay.

There were no other foreign schooners in Amherst Harbour, besides those we had already seen; but there were some belonging to the Islands, which had lately returned from the Seal-fishing on the ice, and which unluckily brought back but little for their labor, so unproductive had the fishery been, through the difficulty which vessels found in leaving their winter-quarters sufficiently early, the entrance being blocked up with solid ice. The fields, also, which they fell in with in the Gulf, carried but few seals.

At House Harbor, the schooners fitted out for the seal fishery had returned from their dangerous and most adventurous cruise, with no more success than those belonging to Amherst Harbor, except two which had been lost with all on board: one near East point of the Island of Anticosti; the other off the Island of Bonaventure.

The loss of those two vessels had carried grief and dismay amidst the population of the Islands, as their crews were of the most respected and experienced inhabitants of the country; and as they were nearly all married persons, they had left behind them many widows and orphans, most of them in a state of poverty.

In another part of my report, I shall give a statement of the vessels belonging to the Magdalen Islands with the value of the seals taken by them respectively; but before entering on another subject, I must remark that the failure of the seal fishery, carried on by the vessels belonging to the Magdalen Islands, in the two last years, notwithstanding the skill and active enterprise of the fishermen in their expeditions, in which they have to contend with constantly recurring storms, cold and ice, would be fatal to the future prosecution of this important branch of industry, (important as yielding an article of great value in commerce, and as training a hardy body of seamen) if the bounty did not encourage it by aiding to defray the expenses of the outfit. This premium on their labors, will moreover be a strong motive to induce the fishermen to make new efforts in the same pursuit next year, under the influence of the never-failing hope that their toil must sooner or later be crowned with full success.

I continued at the Magdalen Islands until the 11th of June, during which time I was engaged in protecting the cod-fishery, by preventing American fishermen from making use of deep sea-lines in taking cod on the coast of the Magdalen Islands, or within three miles of the same, in pursuance of the law; and the mackerel-fishery, by obliging both foreigners and Canadians to set their nets according to the by-law regulating the fisheries in the Bay of Plaisance, and keeping free from obstruction, that part of the said Bay, which subtends the entrance of Amherst Harbour.

Most of the fishermen complied with the by-laws, but several of them persisted in their determination to set their nets in places reserved for the passing of vessels, and I was obliged to have them removed, to the number of 13, and confiscated them; for the owners fearful of being sentenced to pay the fine, did not appear to claim them. Accordingly, when I left Amherst, although there were upwards of a thousand mackerel nets set in the Bay of Plaisance, from the 6th, on which day the taking of that fish commenced, none were set contrary to law.

The schooners, also, in the different harbors, had complied with the law, in every respect, and particularly in these provisions which relate to the disposal of ballast. I devoted a few days to the duty of visiting Coffin Island, Grosse Isle, Boyer Island, and the Bird Islands, and found good order prevailing in all.

On a future page I shall give a statement of the different fisheries of these islands.

The 13th was the date of our arrival at Percé. The cod-fishery had commenced and was progressing favorably, some of the boats having taken already nearly 100 drafts. The bait made use of was herring, which was plentiful near the coast. The capelin had not yet made its appearance. On the 14th, I sat in Court at Percy, with Dr. Konick, a Justice of the Peace of the District, to try five fishermen who were charged with having broken their engagement. Their guilt having been fully proved, they were sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars each, or to be imprisoned for twenty days, and as they did not pay the fine, they were all sent to Percy Gaol.

I must here remark that such an example as this could not fail to produce a salutary effect among the people of the coast, by showing them that if any of them should be inclined to break their engagement, after having received from their shippers considerable advances in fishing-tackle, and especially in provisions, justice would overtake them and punish them for their bad faith; but would also protect them against any unworthy treatment from their employers, if need were.

On the 14th we touched at Point St. Pierre, and the following day we entered Gaspé Basin. Everything at that place was quiet, as also on all other parts of the coast visited by me.

The cod-fishery was proceeding with middling results; the greatest success was at Percé, and Point St. Pierre; in Gaspé Bay, it was very poor.

On the 18th we left Gaspé Basin to proceed to the North Shore, visiting the fishing-stations at Cape des Rosiers, Griffon Cove, Fox River, Grand Etang, Petite Vallée, Grande Vallée and Magdalen River. I had intended to visit the establishments at Mont Louis, but on account of a calm which happened first, and next of a strong gale from the North-west, we were obliged to give them a wide berth, and to make for the Seven Islands.

The length of coast which I had visited since leaving Cape Gaspé was upwards of sixty miles, and comprised a great number of important cod-fishing establishments. Unfortunately the fishing had been very unproductive, although throughout the spring herring-bait had been very abundant near the coast. It was the cod which was wanting. No capelin has been seen. I had several difficulties to settle on this coast, and I took measures to prevent vessels from discharging their ballast in several of the small rivers—those of Grande Vallée and Mont Louis for instance, into which the small schooners engaged in the coasting-trade, are glad to run for shelter in bad weather. In all other respects, everything was quiet, and no United States vessels had appeared in those waters.

At the Seven Islands, where we arrived, as I observed, on the 23rd, I learned that the cod had not yet made its appearance, and consequently the fishing had not yet commenced, although the capelin had been taken from the 10th May.

The Collector of this port, Mr. Smith, had nothing new to report.

From the 24th to the 27th I was engaged in visiting the establishments between the Rivers Moisie and Mingan, a distance of 80 miles; they are those of Pigou, Gibraltar Cove, Shell-Drake, River Jupitagan, Rivers St. John and Longue-Pointe. I stationed a keeper at the River Moisie, and satisfied myself that everything was going on well. The salmon-fishery had commenced some time before, and promised to be productive; as to the cod-fishery, it was absolutely nothing. The first fish had been taken the night before we arrived; and this was the more surprising because there was abundance of capelin and lance on the coast; and it is well known that the cod habitually lives on those pretty little fish, and with good reasons, as they are usually very delicious.

At Pigou, I had a difficulty to settle, relating to the possession of certain beach lots occupied for fishing purposes, and having received the evidence, I gave judgment in favor of those who, in accordance with the fishery-laws, were entitled to them.

At all these places the cod-fishing had just commenced, and was very poor, although the bait was had in abundance. The fishermen had succeeded best at Shell-Drake, Magpie Bay, and the River St. John.

The salmon-fishing in the River St. John and the neighborhood had hitherto had but little success.

I gave Mr. Ross, the Hudson's Bay Company's Agent at Mingan, the fishing-licenses for the River St. John and several other salmon-fisheries in the Seignior of Mingan.

On the 28th I was informed that a person named Edward Quigley was fishing in the River Romaine without a license, and even within the limits of the stakes occupied by the Hudson's Bay Company. I proceeded, therefore, with all diligence to the place, and on his conviction, sentenced him to pay a fine of $20.00, and confiscated his nets, which had been set within the limits assigned by their license to the Company.

On 1st July, I arrived at Esquimaux Point. Eleven schooners which had been to the seal-fishery in the spring, had returned with 2,500 seals, almost all young. This was no great success, but as oil bore a high price, the animals produced enough to repay them for the toil and misery they had undergone in their dangerous expedition.

On the 5th I visited the River Cornicille, and went up to the first falls, in a canoe. There I found the nets belonging to the Lessee set according to law. The fishing was not very successful, either there or at the River Natashoo.

On the 7th I touched at the River Napiitippi and the River Agwanus, and found everything in order. The fishing not very good, and towards evening we anchored opposite the River Natashquan. I immediately landed to inquire into a complaint laid by Mr. Gauthier, the lessee of the River Natashquan, against Mr. Hypolite Vigneault, that the latter had set his nets within the limits of that River.

Together with Mr. Têtu and the canoe-man, and in presence of Mr. Gauthier and his associate, Mr. Boulé, I measured the distance from North Point, at the mouth of the river, to Mr. Vigneault's fishing-station, and found it to be 1000 yards, being 1100 yards beyond the northern boundary of that river, as shown by a post bearing the initial letters of the name of Robert Stanley, planted by Captain Bernier, by my directions, in 1861.

The post itself is a little outside of the limits which extend one mile on each side of the river, measuring from the middle of it north. For as the stream is a mile and two cable lengths in width at its mouth, if we measure a mile from the middle, we find that the northern limits extend no further than half a mile, less by a cable's length, or about 771 yards from the north point of the river.

I found moreover that Mr. Vigneault had set his nets this year, as in former years, and consequently could not be blamed in any way. But a remarkable change had taken place at the mouth of the river, north, for the channel, instead of a direct course as formerly, had changed its direction and now ran N.N.W., making a much nearer approach to Mr. Vigneault's station. For this reason it was,—and perhaps because of the diminished productiveness of the fishery in River Natashquan this year,—that Mr. Gauthier was led to make his complaint against Vigneault. That gentleman had also taken less Salmon this year than he did last year. The sand-bar which I have just mentioned, extends from the north-west side of the Island at the mouth of the river, in a semi-circle, half a mile towards the N.W.; is dry at low water in spring-tides; and as I have said, completely fills up the former channel of the northern mouth of the river; but the new channel, although it takes a different direction, is as deep and as wide as the old one was.

Mr. Gauthier alleged that his limits extended to the distance of a mile on each side of the river, and that therefore Mr. Vigneault's station was within his (Mr. Gauthier's) limits; but I proved to him, by reading his lease to him, that he was mistaken, and that his pretensions could not be maintained.

The following day I visited and measured the fishing-stations on the River, and found nets as follows: one on the north bank, reaching from a point about 150 yards above the Hudson's Bay Company's House, to a distance of 400 yards towards the middle of the Island; a second, commencing on the N.E. side of the said Island, opposite to the spot where schooners are accustomed to anchor in the river, and taking the direction of the Company's House, to a distance of 433 yards. It even overlapped the first mentioned, and left a distance of no more than 108 yards between the two; a third range of nets was affixed to the south-east bank of the Island, and took a south-easterly direction to the distance of 203 yards in the south entrance of the river; a fourth line of nets, 534 yards long, had been set on the opposite shore, in a direction which brought it so near to the third that there was no more than 175 yards between them. This I ascertained by measuring the line of stakes on which the nets comprising it, had been extended, and which were still standing. The line of nets was carried away by a freshet on the 28th June, and not since replaced. Accordingly, previous to the last mentioned date, there was no more than 175 yards of the river open in the southern channel, and only 107 in the north channel, while the fishery-laws require at least 200 yards free between the several ranges of nets.

In the face of such a flagrant violation of the fishery-laws, my duty was plain. It required me to punish the delinquents; but in consideration of the great loss of money which Mr. Gauthier would suffer in the present year (competent judges estimate it at over $2000) through the failure of the fishery, which would yield no more than 50 barrels instead of 250 barrels and upwards, the usual yield of this river, I inflicted no greater fine than $20, and only confiscated the line of nets set in the north channel, 108 yards from those of the opposite side.

The law might have visited the offence with greater severity, but after full consideration I thought the punishment severe enough, especially as this was his first offence.

Mr. Gauthier, in his defence, pleaded ignorance of the principal provisions of the Fisheries' Act, but I could scarcely believe that the main heads of the Act respecting the salmon-fishery had not been explained to him at the Fisheries' Department, and that he had not been informed, at least, that he was not to obstruct the principal channel of the river, and that he must leave a distance of not less than 200 yards between the ranges of the nets.

On the same day I sent my assistant, Mr. Tétu, to examine the nets in the upper part of the river. That officer found, three miles above, a range of nets extending too far over the channel, and a portion of it was, by my orders, taken up. Still three miles higher, George Morissette was setting salmon-nets for Mr. Gauthier, which were lawfully placed. I left as keeper in this river, one of my sailors named F. X. Labbé, giving him necessary instructions.

I have to add, while on the subject of Mr. Vigneault's fishing-stations, that although it is not within Mr. Gauthier's limits, yet, as the bar of the river has changed its position, so that the body of the water passing down the north channel takes a more northerly direction than heretofore, and therefore inclines more to the beach where Mr. Vigneault's nets are set, though I do not think they are more injurious to the free passage of the river than formerly, yet to make things go more smoothly and remove any ground of discontent, however unreasonableness, from the mind of Mr. Gauthier, I beg to recommend that Mr. Gauthier's lease be modified as to the limits, so that instead of being measured from the middle of the river, they may commence in future from the points at the mouth of the river, and that Mr. Vigneault's station may be removed to the extremity of the new limit, northerly.

I informed Mr. Vigneault that such a change might take place, as I have mentioned, and as he will be, in some degree, a loser by the change, I did not think it fair or reasonable to raise the price of his license.

As to the Natashquan, I have only to add that the cod-fishing there had been very unsuccessful. A large number of fishing-schooners had come into the bay in the spring, but had soon left when they found how scarce the cod was on the banks.

On 10th July I left Natashquan in order to visit the fishery-stations of the Island of Anticosti. I proceeded to Bear River on Metallic Bay, to Salmon River where a person named Harrison carries on a salmon-fishery belonging to Mr. William Corbett, the lessee of the Seigniorship of Anticosti and next to Bell Bay, where I found six establishments and three schooners engaged in the cod-fishery.

All these establishments are on the north side of the Island. Cod was tolerably abundant, but the bad weather was a sore hindrance to the operations of the fishermen.

On the southern coast, I stopped at Shallop Creek, at the south-west point of the Island, and the River Jupiter. I had found everything in good order on the Island, except at the last-named river, where Mr. William Corbett had set his nets in direct violation of the fishery-laws. I was therefore obliged to summon him before me, and full evidence of the fact being found, I sentenced him to pay a fine of $8, and confiscated the net which had been set unlawfully, besides ten salmon which had been taken in it.

This was the second time I found Mr. Corbett or his men violating the Fisheries' Act, in the River Jupiter.

On the 16th we stayed a few hours at west point of the Island of Anticosti, and then stood away for the eastern extremity of the coast of Labrador. The following day, as the wind was no longer favorable, we entered the Bay of Coacochoo, where, having some repairs to make in our shrouds to prevent them from being cut by friction against the mast, we remained in an excellent roadstead till the 19th. We then proceeded to our anchorage at Wapitigan.

There were so few salmon in the Coacochoo that Mr. Aubé had, up to that time, taken only one; and Mr. Blais, in the river Etamamu, had taken no more than 123 (about 5 barrels) and his fishing was ended and his nets taken up. This showed a very extraordinary falling off in the number of salmon in that fine river, where formerly from 60 to 80 barrels were wont to be taken in a season; and yet there was no obstruction in the channels of the river; the salmon had always had free ingress. In another part of this report, I shall return to this subject.

On the 21st we entered Mutton Bay, having lain to the whole of a very stormy night. The fog prevented me from putting in at the various ports between Etamamu and Mutton Bay. At the latter place the cod had been plentiful, in the spring, but was now falling off. We found 15 schooners, Canadian and Nova Scotian, each with about 200 quintals of cod, as will be seen by the following table:

We were prevented by the bad weather and the fogs from leaving Mutton Bay before the 23rd, in the evening of which day we were able to reach St. Augustin, from which time till the 31st, I was engaged in visiting the principal fishing-stations between St. Augustin and the easterly limits of Canada, (Blanc-Sablon Bay) as follows: On

24th I visited Wood-Island

25th " Blanc-Sablon Bay.

" " Bradore Harbour.

26th " L'Anse des Dunes and Little Harbour.

29th " Entrance of River St. Paul, Lizotte's Fishery, Dog Island, Bay of Rocks, Malouin Bay, the River Napiitippi.

30th " Nicataca, Portage Bay, St. Augustin, Whale Head, and Paccachoo.

At all these places the cod-fishing had been unsuccessful, although the bait had been generally abundant.

The salmon-fishery had not been more productive, and the fish had not appeared in the river till a late period.

During my visit at Blanc-Sablon Bay, and while engaged in visiting the ports which have always been considered as a part of the territory of Canada, those namely of Fruing & Co, at the head of the bay, and LeBoutillier & Co., on Wood-Island, I was informed that the officers of customs, of the Labrador coast, which belongs to the Government of Newfoundland, had been to those establishments, and had demanded from the persons in charge, the duties payable on the goods which they had imported from Europe this year, amounting to a considerable sum, under pain of having them confiscated, as they had been last year. I shall remark, further, that the said officers claimed the whole of Blanc Sablon Bay, as well as Wood Island, as belonging to Newfoundland, in virtue of a clause in an Imperial Act, which declares that the western boundary of the territory belonging to Newfoundland, on the Labrador coast, shall be in 51° 25' N. and 57° 09' W. (The words in Italics are extracted from the Commission of the Governor General.)

On 25th July, I went on board of the armed cutter, "Hawk," Stephen Marsh, Esquire Commander, belonging to the Government of Newfoundland. That gentleman, who is the Commissioner of the Fisheries, told me that he had received orders from his Government to consider the western boundary of the territory belonging to Newfoundland, as lying on the meridian of 50° 9' W. from Greenwich, and that accordingly the whole of Blanc Sablon Bay and Wood Island lie within his jurisdiction. Now as my letter of instructions from the Department, dated 20th June, 1864, directed me to treat Wood Island as a possession of Canada, a conflict of jurisdiction arose, creating for the inhabitants of these parts, a state of things full of difficulty and even peril, as they did not know to which Government obedience was due, and their industrial as well as their commercial pursuits suffered in consequence.

If I had been at Blanc Sablon Bay when the Newfoundland officers of customs made their visit to the establishments on Wood Island to collect duties, I should have resisted their claims, as required by my instructions, and should have made use of all the means at my disposal to prevent them from levying contributions on fishing establishments, which, up to that time, had always been considered as belonging to Canada. The House of Le-Boutillier and brothers, at Wood Island, were forced to pay, this year again, £60 sterling for duties, and the House of Fruing & Co., of Blanc Sablon Bay, £46 8s. 11d. sterling. But as an undesirable conflict of jurisdiction might have ensued, and as the claims of the Newfoundland officers of Customs will probably be renewed next year, and it might happen again, as it has happened in the present year, that I should not be on the spot in time to protect our traders and fishermen against these encroachments on our territory, and it is very desirable to put an end to these conflicts of jurisdiction, I take the liberty of recommending that the Governments of Canada and Newfoundland come to an understanding, with a view to a final arrangement of the matter in dispute, and that monuments should be planted on the division line, by competent persons, to show, in an unmistakeable manner, the boundary line (East) of Canada, in Blanc Sablon Bay.

I have to add that the said Officers of Customs of Newfoundland compelled schooners, both Canadian and those of the lower Provinces, anchoring in Blanc Sablon Bay, this year, for the purpose of taking cod, to pay duties on their salt and their empty barrels.

During my visits to Green Island and Bradore Bay, I fell in with French schooners (from Miquelon) fishing in these waters, and, on the complaint of our fishermen, obliged them to quit our coast, and to carry on their fishing in the open sea.

On the 31st we left the North shore, sailing from Whalehead of Pacachoo, and on the 2nd August we cast Anchor at Bryon Island, one of the Magdalen group. From that date to the 13th, when we set sail for Percé, we cruised about without intermission among the islands, to protect our fishermen and the inhabitants of the coast from the insults and deprivations of the foreign fishermen, (from the United States) who, to the number of 3,000 men, with nearly 250 schooners, were for the most part engaged in the mackerel-fishery, though a few were fishing for cod.

These American schooners had arrived on the coast within two, three or four weeks, and it was reckoned that they had taken each from 100 to 150 barrels of mackerel, then in its finest season and condition. I saw a great many of them, sometimes on one part of the coast, sometimes on another, and I have great pleasure in stating, that during the whole cruise, I never heard that any of our fishermen suffered any wrong at their hands.

The only thing that they had to complain of was a habit, on board of several French schooners, fishing off the Etang du Nord, of throwing the offal of their fish overboard, and I hastened to put a stop to this evil by obliging the fishermen belonging to those schooners, to carry out their offal, either to the open sea, or near to the beach, where it could be in no way injurious.

With regard to our fishermen belonging to the Magdalen Islands, I have only to say that they carried on their cod-fishing with various success; generally less than the average of long past years.

The fishing for mackerel, which abounded in the neighborhood of the Islands, especially in the Bay of Pleasance and about Allright Island, had succeeded much better, and many fishermen from House Harbour and Amherst Harbour followed it zealously whenever they had fine weather; and it was hoped that they would derive great profit from it, as it bore a high price in the American market.

There had been two shipwrecks near the Etang du Nord since my former visit. Fortunately no lives were lost.

At Percé, where, as I before stated, I arrived on the 14th August, I ascertained, by visiting the establishments, that nothing remarkable had happened since my former visit. The cod-fishing was highly prosperous here, as well as at Bonaventure Island.

On the 16th I touched at River St. Pierre and was informed that the cod-fishery was going on satisfactorily. Everything here, as elsewhere in the environs, was in the best order.

The same day we entered Gaspé Basin where we found only a very small number of vessels.

I had been informed that the Indians in Gaspé had been spearing salmon in the south-west and north-west rivers. Accordingly I proceeded, on the 19th August, to Deadman's Bay where they reside, in order to make inquiry and ascertain the truth of the report. I found no salmon in their houses, nor any instrument or fishing-tackle forbidden by law; and the inhabitants of whom I made inquiry, declared that they had no knowledge of their having taken or sold any. But although I found no evidence to establish the guilt of any of the Indians, I was by no means convinced of their innocence, and before leaving the place, I instructed the keeper of the division, Mr. Thomas Boyle, to redouble his activity, in order to find out the guilty parties, if such there were, and to watch over the salmon-fisheries entrusted to his care, with increased vigilance.

We passed some days at Gaspé Basin, to lay in stock, and on the 20th we set sail to continue our cruise, which was this time to extend on the south shore of the River St. Lawrence, as far as Rimouski, then to be continued along the coast of the Bay of Chaleurs, until the time appointed for our last visit to the North shore.

I was thus occupied from 20th August to 6th September: visiting the fishing-posts from Cape Gaspé to Rimouski. At the former date, I landed at Cape des Rosiers, and the next day at Fox River and Little Cape.

After the last-mentioned place, we were prevented from approaching the coast, by the fog brought up by the east wind, and we made sail for Rimouski. We were off that place on the 23rd, but fog prevented us from anchoring before the next day.

On the 25th I delivered the salmon-fishing licenses for that place and the neighborhood.

On the 26th, having been informed by Mr. Luc Sylvain, that a person named Julien Landry had obstructed the River Rimouski, by setting nets therein, during the season of salmon-fishing, and moreover that he had speared salmon, I lodged two informations against him, by Nazaire Hynse, and the defendant was summoned to appear before the Justices of the Peace of the village on the 27th. On that day I was in attendance before the Court, consisting of two magistrates of the place, to support the charge, having all necessary evidence to prove the two charges laid in the informations. But the defendant, appearing by his advocate, obtained a delay of the hearing of the causes till the 25th of September, under pretence that his most important witness could not be produced before the Court before that day. Nothing remained to be done in the cases but to entrust them into the skilful hands of Augustin Michaud, Esquire, advocate, being convinced that that gentleman, who feels a deep interest in the fishery laws, would conduct the causes before the Court, with all proper care and diligence.

The salmon-fishing had not been successful at Rimouski and the neighboring places, and nobody knew to what cause the change was to be attributed, from a good season like that of 1863, to a bad one like the present. The herring-fishing had been tolerably good. As to the cod-fishing, it may suffice to say that the fish had hardly made its appearance on the coast this year, between the Island of St. Barnaby and Matane.

While at Rimouski we had constant bad weather, that is to say, an East wind, rain and fogs, and we could not put to sea before the 29th, on which day also, we came to an anchor at Grand River of Metis.

I immediately went to see Mr. Noble, (who was not at home) and Messrs. Page and Ouellet, his partners in the salmon-fishery, and heard from them that they had taken no more than 303½ lbs. of salmon during the season of 1863, making about 1½ barrels. In 1864, the fishery had fallen off still more, as it had produced only eight salmon, total weight 87 lbs., with two ranges of nets, each 10 fathoms long. It was evident, therefore, that the fishery did not yield enough to pay half the expenses. For this reason, to which I gave due consideration, and having the promise of Messrs. Page and Ouellet, that if I granted a licence on lower terms, they would undertake, to the best of their ability, to cause the fishing-laws to be observed, and to prevent nocturnal depredations by the Indians and others, I gave them their license for 1864 for $2.00, and received $2.00 likewise, on account of the license for 1863.

Before quitting this subject, I must remark that this River of Metis, as it is now situated, without a passage for the salmon over the mill dam, cannot be a salmon river of any consequence, and if there be no change, in a few years the salmon will have entirely forsaken it.

I was told that some Indians had speared salmon in the spring, but it was utterly impossible for me to ascertain the truth or falsehood of this report.

The cod-fishery had been very unsuccessful both at Metis and at Sandy Bay.

The herring-fishery, on the contrary, had been very productive throughout the season, and I was informed that not less than 1,000 barrels had been taken in the wattle-fisheries of the parish, since the spring. Part of these were used fresh, some were salted for winter, and a few hundred barrels were cured for the Quebec market.

On landing at Metis, I could not but remark the fine appearance of the crops in the fields, which are generally well cultivated. The hay, on the contrary, was scarce, on account of the drought. The land seemed to be of good quality.

At Metis and in the neighbourhood all kinds of grain grow and ripen perfectly, and it is worthy of notice that the wheat there is not attacked by the Hessian fly. It is the absence of markets within reasonable distance which deters the farmer from extending his operations in this part of Canada.

In the morning of the 30th, we came to anchor opposite the mouth of the Grand River, Matane.

I immediately visited the river, as also the salmon-pass made in the mill-dam belonging to Mr Price. This I found to be very substantially constructed and apparently well calculated to answer the purpose for which it was made. There was a constant stream of water of great volume passing over it; and Mr. Poire, the agent at the mill, informed me that he knew positively that several salmon had leaped the pass, no doubt for the purpose of ascending to the upper part of the river.

I hope, and I have no doubt, that this account is true; nevertheless, no salmon had been seen above the dam. This does not prove, however, that there was none; but it affords ground for believing that if there are any, they are few in number.

It seems, that in former years, the Indians and even some white people, were in the habit of spearing the few salmon which were found in this stream. This year, at least, this destructive practice has not been carried on.

The lessee of the River, Mr. Lacroix, had taken only 10 salmon, a proof how small a number of these fish frequent the River Matane, which formerly, before the erection of the mill and mill-dam, abounded with them. Mr. Fraser one of the most respectable inhabitants of the parish, told me that fifty years ago this pretty river afforded yearly 100 barrels of salmon, and up to the period when the mill-dam was made, 17 or eighteen years ago, it still produced from 25 to 30 barrels yearly. It is plain that the salmon threaten to desert the river, and it will require great care and labour to stock it again with its ancient denizens, even if the pass in the dam should prove to answer the purpose.

On the coast of Matane, the cod-fishery had been tolerable, the herring-fishing good, and quantities of sardines had been taken.

In the afternoon I went to visit Little Matane. I found the number of fishing-boats had been greatly increased since last year, although the cod-fishing had been rather less productive than usual. The settlement is quite new, but as it offers to settlers the two great and inexhaustible resources of agriculture and fishing, it promises to become very important and populous. The soil is fertile, and the woods, of fine growth, affording all kinds of timber for building. Nothing is required but colonization: roads to enable the inhabitants to penetrate to the interior of the country. Trade also seems to be on the increase in this part of the coast. It is carried on with Quebec and the free port of Gaspé, by means of schooners; but as it has no harbour nor safe anchorage, vessels are sometimes in great danger. A pier which might afford shelter to small vessels, would be of great utility; and if the Government were able to award some slight pecuniary aid to the Municipality of Little Matane, I do not doubt that the latter would make an effort to effect such an important improvement, at least so say the chief inhabitants of the place.

I next visited the fishing-stations of L'Anse-à-la-Croix, at Méchins, in the evening. I found everything in perfect order. The fishing was about an average success. For a few years past, the part of the coast extending from Little Matane to Cape de Chatte, had acquired a certain importance, both on account of the number of fishing-establishments, and from the great number of new settlements opened there. It was said that all the farms along the road which connects the Cape de Chatte with Little Matane, were taken up already, and nearly all were inhabited: a striking difference this, between the present aspect of this coast, and what it was fifteen years ago! Then it was a dense forest, without a single human habitation, and, in order to pass from one parish to another, it was necessary either to go by water or to travel along the beach, and those who then traveled, are alone able to describe the difficulties and fatigue which they encountered—the loose rocks which they had to climb over, and the other natural impediments which were met with at every step. Decidedly this part of the coast is advancing in the road of improvement.

I arrived at Cape de Chatte on the 21st, and immediately communicated with Mr. Joseph Roi, who made the following report of the fishing operations on the coast.

The cod-fishery had not been as productive as usual; but as the number of boats had considerably increased, it was thought that the quantity taken would equal that of former years. Herring had been abundant, but salmon had been scarce on the coast.

Mr. Lamontagne had had built, for the House of Price, at Cape de Chatte, a salmon-leap or passage in the mill-dam, 100 feet in length, 12 feet in width, and 7 feet in height, or fall; but scarcely any water passed over it, as the dam was broken down in the middle, and more than half the water of the river passed through the opening, which still continued to grow wider, and it was hoped that in a short time, both salmon and trout might be able to pass through it without difficulty, and so reach their spawning-grounds in the upper waters of the river. In that case, this pretty stream will be stocked again with salmon, in a few years, especially if torch-fishing be prevented, by the presence of a river-keeper.

At St. Anne des Monts, the salmon-fishing had fallen off within the year, but that had not prevented the spearing of salmon, of which several cases were reported. My inquiries after the delinquents, were ineffectual. I knew, of course, perfectly well, that such breaches of the law could not have taken place without the knowledge of the inhabitants of the banks of the river; but the odium which attaches to the name of an informeur, is strong among the people of Canada, and it is therefore as difficult at St. Anne des Monts as elsewhere, to obtain evidence to convict friends and neighbors of a breach of the fishery-laws; and it will always be difficult to prevent the destruction of salmon in these remote spots, unless paid fish-keepers are appointed, whose interest it will be to do their duty. The remarks here made, with respect to the fishery at Cape de Chatte, will equally apply to those of St. Anne des Monts.

From the evening of the 31st, when we left Cape de Chatte, till the 3rd September, when we entered Gaspé Basin, I was engaged in visiting the fishing-stations at Mont Louis, at Great Fox River, at Griffin Cove, and at Grand Grave. I found everything quiet, but the cod-fishing had not improved.

Very few American schooners had been seen on the south side of the river, throughout the season, to the great delight of our fishermen, who often have complaints to make of the proceedings of their crews.

Our stay at Gaspé Basin was prolonged till the 10th, as we had to clean the bottom of the schooner, which was covered with moss and shells, to paint the vessel, repair the rigging and take in wood and water. Nothing occurred worthy of notice. I was required twice to sit as a Justice of the Peace, in matters of summary jurisdiction.

The trade in dry cod-fish was very active in the port, the price offered for the best being from 19s. to 2Js.

In the evening of the 10th, I was at Percé. My intention then was to set sail at once for the north shore; but a heavy north-east gale came on and obliged us to make for shelter in the Bay of Paspébiac; and, being in the Bay of Chalcurs, I availed myself of the opportunity to visit the principal fishing-ports, on the Bonaventure River, Carleton, Point Maguacha, New Richmond, Little Pabos, Grand River, L'Anse du Cap, and Percé. This cruise, in which nothing happened that was remarkable, occupied the time till the 19th.

The keepers of the divisions here mentioned, had no complaint to make; but at Bonaventure River, it was reported that certain Indians had gone so far as to spear fish on the spawning-grounds. As these violations of law always took place at night, it was very difficult to discover the guilty parties, especially as Mr. Dimock, the keeper, resides 18 miles off, and I fear the same difficulty will always exist, unless a keeper resides on the bank, and is always at hand to observe who goes up or down the river, by night as well as by day.

On the 18th we returned to Percé, and the following day, having touched at Point St. Peter, we made for the S.W. point of Anticosti.

On the 20th, in the morning, we were making the point when a heavy gale set in from the N.W., driving such mighty breakers on the shore that we were compelled to take shelter at Salt Lake, about 12 miles to the east. We managed, however, to make S.W. point the next day, by the aid of a light breeze from the S.E., and I was enabled to land in the bay, behind the light-house. The keeper, whom I had left at River Jupiter on my former visit, was in waiting, and I hurried him on board, as the wind had veered to the N.W. again and the sea was running high on the Point, so that it was not without danger (we were nine in the long-boat) that we came up with the schooner, which was not able to anchor near so dangerous a shore, and had been laying till I should get on board.

The keeper seemed to have done his duty with great zeal; he had visited several important fishing-posts on the island, namely: those of Jupiter River, Shallop River, Dauphiné River, Salmon River, and Bell Bay. He reported that he had no knowledge of any infraction of the laws, on the island, except perhaps, at a small river near Shallop Creek, where an individual from Point Esquimaux was said to have taken salmon by the torch and spear. It was too late to take cognizance of the affair in the present year; accordingly I put off all inquiry on the subject, till next year.

The whole produce of the salmon-fishery, on the Island of Anticosti, had not exceeded the small amount of 31 barrels, a remarkable falling off from the quantities taken in former years.

My intention in going to Anticosti, was to sail round its western part, and to stop at Mingan and the neighboring posts, before proceeding to Natashquan; but the N.W. wind which blew strong and was dead in our teeth in taking that course, did not allow me to carry out my plan, and we were obliged to scud as far as East Point, where we took shelter for 24 hours, from the gale, which increased in violence. At last the weather cleared, and we reached Natashquan at noon of the 24th.

Nothing worthy of notice had happened at this place, since my former visit, and the keeper of this important river had no knowledge of any breach of the fishery-laws, either in the river or its neighborhood. That officer seemed to have fulfilled his duties with much zeal and efficiency. He had ascended the river several times as far as the fourth rapids, to ascertain if there was any violation of the law.

I must not omit to notice, in the first place, the signal service and assistance afforded to my keeper this season, by Mr. Francis Doré, the Hudson's Bay Company's Agent, as also the correct and interesting information which that gentleman was willing and anxious to give me, relative to the fisheries at Natashquan, and its environs. Mr. Doré understands the value of our sea and river fisheries, and has, on all occasions lent a willing hand to enforce the observance of the fishing-laws. It is needless repetition to state that the fisheries, both of cod and salmon, had been very bad at Natashquan, and several families established at Grand Harbor, were completely disheartened by the ill luck attending the fisheries for two years past, and had resolved to return to the Magdalen Islands, which they had left a few years before, to seek their fortune on the north shore. They had been cruelly disappointed in their expectations; as, since their arrival on the inhospitable shores of Labrador, the famous bank of Natashquan, which was so renowned for the quantities of cod till then found upon it, had not received their visits, but at long intervals, and then in scanty numbers; while on their native fishing-grounds, at the Magdalen Islands, the fishing had been prosperous. This, among a thousand others, is an instance of the ill-fortune and great difficulties attendant on the life of a fisherman: the success of his calling depending as much on chance as on continuous and intelligent labor; and he must be endowed with great courage and perseverance to contend with elements which sometimes seem to conspire to render all his toil useless and unproductive.

Unquestionably, all care and solicitude should be evinced by the Government, and every means employed, to protect and encourage the fisheries; a branch of industry which abounds with material resources for the country—for any country where it can be carried on, on a large scale, as in Canada.

On the 26th, I visited Kegasca Bay, and the next day came to an anchor in Mutton Bay. I made haste to visit the fishing-posts in the neighborhood, but found nothing worthy of notice.

On the 28th, we arrived at Bonne Espérance, where I visited all the fishing-stations, as well as those at Salmon Bay. The fishing had been closed some time, and not a single vessel remained. In the afternoon, I proceeded to Five Leagues where two fishermen were brought before me, charged with having taken salmon after the close of the season, namely, in the month of August. The evidence was complete, and the two defendants were sentenced, both to pay a fine, and one to lose his nets, which were confiscated; the details of which will be found in an appendix to this report.

Great destitution prevailed among the inhabitants of the coast of Labrador, in consequence of the ill success of the fishing-season, and the almost total failure of the hunting of fur-bearing animals, the previous winter; and, if the herring-fishery had not been successful, in an extraordinary degree, at some places on the coast, I do not know how the greater number would have been able, without great suffering, to struggle through the long winter, in that inclement region: for, in consequence of the heavy losses which they had suffered by the system of credit, for many years past, the traders seemed determined to make no advances of provisions to a great number of the poorest of the fishermen, who, failing to receive such providential aid as they had found in the herring-fishery, would have been absolutely destitute of provisions. I have learned, since that time, that public charity had been invoked in their favour, in Quebec, and that the Napoleon III. had been sent down with stores of flour and other provisions.

On that part of the coast of Labrador which belongs to Newfoundland, the distress was still greater than on ours; many of the inhabitants were already reduced to the brink of destitution, and it is very certain that if some help is not sent to them, in the present autumn, a large portion of them will perish by starvation, during the winter. It was the failure of the cod-fishery which produced this great distress, which was ascribed, probably with reason, to the unusual quantity of ice remaining closely compacted along the coast of Cape Charles, northward, to a very advanced period of the fishing-season.

On the 30th I visited several fishing-posts at Old Fort and at Dog Island, and, on the 1st October we arrived, with a fair wind, at St. Augustine. The fishermen at these places and at Whale-head Pacachoo, which I visited on the following day, declared unanimously that the fishery had been less productive this year than it had proved for several years, and that the salmon had been late in making its appearance on the coast. This was, in their opinion, the principal cause of their ill success in taking it.

Here I ended my visit to the North shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and the Straits of Belle-Isle. There were still some ports besides, which I had not seen; but generally they were of little importance, and as I knew that nothing required my presence, and moreover, the season was already advanced, and the weather very unfavorable, I resolved to make sail for the South, and, on the morning of the 4th October we landed at Bryon Island. My visits to the several islands of the group occupied my time till the 8th. I satisfied myself that good order prevailed, and collected a varied mass of information relating to the several fisheries carried on there, which will be found in the appendix to this report.

On the 8th we left Amherst Harbor, and touched at Georgetown, on the coast of Prince Edward's Island, under instructions received from the Honorable the Commissioner of Public Works, to take on board a grist-mill, for the Colony of Matapedia, which I was to carry to the Restigouche River. By some accident or another the mill had not reached Georgetown, and, having waited a few hours in the harbor at Georgetown, we left it, to steer for the Bay of Chaleurs. We came to anchor at Carleton, in the morning of the 14th, and were detained there four days, by a gale from the east; not exceeded in violence by any that I have encountered in the Gulf, during the thirteen years that I have navigated it. Happily it blew itself out, without doing any mischief on our coast, and we had no calamity to deplore. Nothing had happened at Carleton worthy of notice, nor at the Restigouche, since my last visit.

On the 17th we proceeded to New Richmond. I immediately hastened to the River Cascapédiac where Mr. Dimock made a complaint before me, of a woman who had purchased salmon from an Indian woman, which had been speafed. The charge was proved and the defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of $8.00, and costs. This zealous keeper had learned, some time before, that some Indians had taken salmon in the places reserved in the river as spawning grounds, and had made the most active inquiries to discover evidence of the fact, but had found no clue to the discovery of the guilty parties, if such there were.

On the following day, in the morning, we went to New Carlisle, and in the afternoon, to Paspébiac. We found in the roadstead, 12 vessels loading with dry codfish, which was less plentiful than in former years, and much higher in price. It was hoped, however, that enough would be collected to load all the ships in the harbor. Their destination was Spain or Italy. At the close of this report, will be found a list of the ships here mentioned as taking in cargoes of fish in our ports, for foreign markets.

In the evening we left Paspébiac, and the next day cast anchor at Percé. On visiting the fishing-establishments of the latter place, I learned that the autumn cod-fishing had produced very little, and that the cause of the failure was the bad weather, which had prevented the men from putting out to sea, and had kept them idle whole weeks. The same may be said of other parts of the coast.

On the 21st I put in at Malbaie and Point St. Peter, and on the following day anchored in Gaspé Basin.

Summary proceedings, instituted before me on several successive days, and many matters connected with my particular duty, which required to be done during this my last visit, detained me there till the 30th October; and I was fortunate in having remained in the port till then, as the shipment of the cod intended for the foreign markets, brings together a great number of seamen and fishermen, and the public peace was broken on two occasions, in a shameful manner, and had I not been on the spot, it is more than probable the guilty parties would have escaped from justice.

When we arrived in the Basin, we found 32 vessels which were engaged in the fish-trade. This commerce was going on briskly, and cod-fish of the first quality was in greater demand than it had been in September. For many years, cod-fish had not borne so high a price on the coast of Gaspé, and accordingly the fishermen made great efforts to dry a portion of their autumn fish for the markets of Spain and Italy, instead of sending it green to Quebec and Montreal, in which latter markets it is often disposed of at a loss. We are no doubt to attribute the high price of cod on the coast of Gaspé, in the present year, to the scarceness of the fish; but we must not forget that the rivalry and competition between the many commercial houses at the Basin, established there since it became a free port, and serving to increase the traffic, have much to do with this result—a result which favors the fishermen, and is of importance to trade.

The old mode of doing business is gone, never to return, which was prevalent at a time when two or three great firms in the whole district, fixed the price of fish beforehand, and on terms suitable to their own interests, and paid for that important article in provisions or goods, almost never with money. Now I have personal knowledge, that in the present year, there have been sales of fish to the amount of many thousands of pounds, ready cash. This is an auspicious change in our fish-trade, presaging for the future the most beneficial results.

On the 30th, we set sail from the Basin; and at noon of the following day, anchored at Griffon Cove, the wind being strong from the N.W.

At this place I received three complaints for theft of cod. I caused the persons accused to be arrested, and, after having heard the evidence of the witnesses in the case, held them to bail to appear at the next session of the Criminal Court at Percé.

On the 1st November I visited Fox River, where I found all well.

The late season cod-fishery had been bad there, as at Griffon Cove, and generally upon the whole south shore of the River St. Lawrence, principally in consequence of the bad weather.

A fever of a serious character, and of a very contagious description, and to which several had already fallen victims, was raging at Griffon Cove and the vicinity. A large number of families were attacked by it, and there being no physician in those parts, they were suffering greatly from it, without its being in their power to obtain the remedies necessary to effect a cure, or to give relief to the patients.

During the few days which we passed at the place, I made it my duty to visit the greater number of sick there. I distributed medicines to them, and at the same time gave instructions to those who were not yet attacked by the disease, as to the best means to be employed to arrest its progress, and to prevent its attacks. I also left with the Curé of Fox River, febrifuge powders, with directions as to their administration to those of the sick whom I had not seen.

On the evening of the 3rd, favored by a light breeze from the west, we left Griffon Cove, for Seven Islands.

In the night of the 4th and 5th, off Cape Cormorant, on the north shore, we encountered a violent storm, which compelled us to lie to for nine hours, and next day we entered the Bay of Seven Islands, with a light breeze from the west and fine weather.

The sea was too rough near the coast to allow of our thinking of anchoring at the Moisie River; I therefore sent three of my men to fetch the fishery overseer whom I had left there. They had much difficulty in crossing the Moisie River in consequence of the ice, which had already formed there; however, by walking a part of the night, they succeeded in returning on the morning of the 6th, having travelled a distance of thirty miles, going and coming, over a sandy beach covered with water in many places.

I took on board, Mr. Charles Smith, who had acted as Custom House Officer at the port of Seven Islands, since the death of John G. Smith, Esquire, his father, who had been Collector there for four years, and we set sail for Quebec.

On the morning of the 7th we passed Point de Monts, with a light cast wind, which went round to the south at noon and fell entirely in the evening.

On the 8th we met a head wind, off Portneuf, which lasted the whole day. In the night the wind again went round to the east and brought us up to Quebec, where we cast anchor about ten or eleven o'clock in the morning, after cruising for nearly six months and a half on the dangerous coasts of the Gulf of St. Lawrence without accident to the crew, or any mischance occurring to the vessel.

I at once gave orders for the unrigging of the schooner. On the 11th, we moored at the Government wharf, and on the evening of the 12th, the work of unrigging being completed I paid off and dismissed the remainder of the crew, that is to say, eleven sailors; I had already discharged eight on the day of our arrival.

I only retained a few officers to superintend the landing and storing of the rigging and fittings of "La Canadienne," in the Government store-houses, which was completed on the 14th, by men employed for the purpose, a course which was much less expensive than keeping the crew of "La Canadienne" to perform the work.

At noon on the 15th, the schooner was towed to Anse des Méres, there to be placed in a dock; and on the 16th she was conveyed, (in the dock) to her berth in the Palace Harbor.

SUMMARY.

The cruise of "La Canadienne," in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, for the protection of our maritime and river fisheries during the season which has just come to an end has been the longest yet made by me. It has lasted one hundred and eighty-six days, or nearly six months and a half, during which time I have been constantly engaged in coasting along our shores, over an extent of one thousand nautical miles, in order to visit the fishing-posts established along them, or to take up a position in our ports and roadsteads with the view of maintaining order and public peace, as may be seen by the foregoing report.

The requirements of the service rendered it necessary for me to make four visits to the Magdalen Islands, three visits to the Bay of Chaleurs, two to the south shore of the River St. Lawrence, three to the Port of Paspébiac, six to Percé, and five to Gaspé Basin. The latter three places, like the port of Amherst and House Harbor, are our principal centres, from which expeditions are sent out to take part in the great fisheries, and from whence our dried fish is exported to foreign countries.

It will be understood that in order to make all these visits and to stop at all the fishing-posts, it was necessary to make numerous cruises and frequently to pass over great distances; and when it is considered that my service is performed in a sailing-vessel, and that consequently I am entirely dependent upon the wind, which may be as often contrary as favorable, to convey me from one place to another, and that I have besides to strive against the unceasing dangers entailed by a perilous coast, in many places bristling with reefs and devoid of anchorage, which are further increased by the fogs brought up, nearly always from the Gulf Stream, by the winds from the south and south-west, the conclusion will, I hope, be come to, that I have neglected no means to render the service for the protection of the fisheries as complete and efficient as it was possible to make it, and that I have made use of the time of the cruise, in the most advantageous manner, for the mission with which the Government has during thirteen years honoured me.

Calculating in a direct line, the distances traversed during the season, from one place, visited by me, to another, I find the total to be 5214 nautical miles. But if we add a dozen hundred miles for way lost in tacking against contrary winds, or during fogs or lying to, and five hundred miles for trips made in an open boat, we shall have a total of nearly 7,000 miles, as representing the whole of the distances traversed during the season. Those who have been to sea will at once perceive how often it has been necessary to get up sail, how many times it has been necessary to go about, and how many nights it has been necessary to pass under sail in order to get over so much way and to stop at so many places as we did during the cruise, with a sailing-vessel, let her be as good a sailer as she may.

There is certainly ground for gratulation upon the result obtained by the service for the protection of the fisheries this year.

Peace and public order, with the exception of some cases of assault and battery, have reigned uninterruptedly in our ports and roadsteads, which have been frequented by a larger number of English vessels, but by a smaller number of American vessels.

The inhabitants of the Magdalen Islands have, this summer, been free from the depredations and thefts frequently committed by the crews of foreign vessels, which come to these coasts to engage in the herring and mackerel-fishery, and this is due, there can be no doubt, to my frequent visits, and to my prolonged stay during the month of August, on the shores of that important group of islands.

The continued presence of "La Canadienne," in the midst of that fleet of fishing-vessels, for several consecutive weeks, gave their crews a wholesome warning to be on their guard and to abstain for the future from acts of pillage and damage, of which those islanders have so often had to complain, up to the present time, and from which they cannot protect themselves; for generally their isolation on the coast prevents their being able to assist each other in case of aggression.

It now remains to speak of the manner in which the fishery-laws and regulations have been observed on our shores, and I shall make a distinction between the laws which are applicable to maritime fisheries, and those which regulate the river fisheries.

The especial object of the former is to prevent the taking of fish, either by means prohibited by the several sections of the Fishery Act, such as the use of seines which are not of the dimensions required by the law, and the use of ground lines for the cod-fishery, at the Magdalen Islands, within three miles from the shore, as provided by the regulation respecting those islands; or in certain places reserved for navigation, as is the case at Pleasant Bay, in the herring and spring mackerel-fishery.

This part of the regulations has been very well observed on our different shores, both north and south, excepting the infractions which occurred at the Magdalen Islands during the mackerel-fishery, but which did not produce any unpleasant consequences; for, as may be seen by this report, I caused to be raised in my presence, and confiscated to the Crown, all nets which had been set in the reserved places, and in contravention of the fishery regulations.

With respect to the laws which regulate the river fisheries, those which are applicable to salmon and trout alone, are worthy of special mention, for the other river fish, common in Canada, are not sufficiently numerous in the streams in the gulf division, to call for any special attention.

I may, in the first place, state that on those of our shores which are placed under my superintendence, and the extent of which, as I have already stated, is one thousand miles, no person fishes for salmon without a lease or permit authorizing him to do so, as provided by law.

Moreover, I visit, or cause my officers, or the fishery overseer of my division, to visit nearly all the nets set either in the river or along the coast; and I see that they are set in accordance with the law, that they are removed before the closing of the fishing season, and that the meshes of the nets are of the proper dimensions required by law.

The carrying out of this part of the regulations entails very active and uninterrupted surveillance on my part, and also on that of my officers; for many fishermen might sometimes be tempted to violate these regulations, if they had any reason to hope that they could do so with impunity. Fortunately things are no longer as they were; they can no longer lull themselves with that hope, for they are too closely watched on our shores (I must however, except that part of the coast from St. Anne des Monts to Rimouski) to commit such infractions without its almost invariably coming to my knowledge, sooner or later; and the severe penalties which I inflicted on those violating the fishery law, this year, and of late years, are of a nature to cause all those who might be inclined to commit similar offences, to think seriously before doing so.

Altogether, I may say that the regulations in relation to the salmon and trout fishery have, during the season which has just terminated, been, in general, well and strictly observed along the coast placed under my immediate superintendence, where there are more than 300 salmon fishing stations, and the proof of this is, that I have only had to sit in judgment on five cases of infraction of those regulations. It is true that I found the accused party guilty in each case, as may be seen in an appendix accompanying this report.

I must not, however, forget two other cases tried at Rimouski, in which I acted as the representative of the Crown in the prosecution. In each of these cases the accused was found guilty and fined.

A fisherman of St. Anne des Monts was also convicted, before a local magistrate, of having set nets in contravention of the law, and was consequently fined.

Besides these cases, there were suspicions that salmon had been taken with the spear and the torch in one or two rivers on the south shore, the River St. Anne, and the Great Metis river; but either these suspicions were not confirmed, or else the individuals (Indians) against whom the complaint might have been brought, and proof of whose guilt might have been adduced, had since left the place without its being in the power of the local authorities to take any steps in the matter.

As I have before remarked, the part of the south shore of the River St. Lawrence, from Rimouski to St. Anne des Monts,—I might say to Magdalen River,—which extent includes five rivers, which are certainly not as important as those on the north shore, but which may produce a certain quantity of salmon, is less protected than any other portion of the coast, for there is there no fishery overseer, although the Justices of the Peace residing in the vicinity of those streams are willing to take the cause of the fisheries in hand and to do all in their power to cause the fishing regulations to be observed in their localities. But it will be easily understood that in many cases, this is not sufficient; and that in addition the interested surveillance of a salaried officer of the Government is required; such an officer should reside at one of the rivers and should be charged to visit the others from time to time.

Before, however, concluding this summary, I must not omit to speak of what, in my opinion, constitutes one of the principal objects of the service for the protection of the fisheries; I mean the general protection afforded in an efficient manner to the fishermen of Canada, (as well as to those of the other British Provinces) who have established themselves on our coasts, or who visit them only during the fishing season, and the security now enjoyed by the proprietors of fishing-stations in regard to their habitations, the buildings used for carrying on their business, and the land and beach which they are entitled to occupy in virtue of certain sections of the fishery act.

So necessary is this security to fishery operations and the trade in fish, that without it these two great sources of riches to countries which possess maritime shores yielding fish, cannot but languish and entail loss and ruin upon those who engage in them. Without it, we cannot hope to see our fisheries grow and attain a degree of prosperity from which the people as well as the state must derive great profits; in proof of this assertion I may state that many years ago the abundance of the cod on the banks near the coast extending from Mingan to Seven Islands was already known, and that many of our Gaspé shippers and fishermen endeavored to make establishments there for carrying on the codfishery; but they could not do so for want of protection for their persons and for want of security for their buildings and their fishing apparatus, and the employés of the Hudson Bay Company, who pretended to be entitled exclusively to that coast, and even to the maritime fisheries attached to them, drove them away without mercy, and several times burned and destroyed their vessels and the buildings which they had constructed on shore to provide shelter for themselves and a place wherein to deposit their apparatus. The consequence was that this coast, rich in fish of the finest description, remained unutilized until of late years; for no person frequented it, except the few agents of the company or some tribes of Indians, who there hunted for furs, sea fowl and seals.

What do we see now on this coast, some ninety nautical miles in extent, since the service for the protection of the fisheries has been established? Hundreds of cod-fishing establishments, (some of them giving employment to two hundred men, a fact which demonstrates their importance) worked by several thousand fishermen, and yielding both to foreign trade and to the home markets in a single year—the year 1861—more than 30,000 quintals of cod, which may be valued at nearly $100,000, and cod oil to a value of $10,000 to $12,000, besides several hundred barrels of herrings and mackerel, as may be seen by examining my reports from the year 1861 to last year.

It is true that a law was passed in 1854 (16 Vict., c. 92) defining the rights of our fishermen on this coast, but it is well known that it would have remained a dead letter but for the service of the protection of the fisheries.

There is still another subject to which I have to allude before concluding, and that is the sedentary seal fishery and the salmon fishery on the coast of Labrador. These were especially exposed to the trespasses of foreign fishermen, and even of the inhabitants of the coast, previous to my visiting them with the expedition which I command since 1852; and many of those who held and worked them had suffered serious losses, and, in some cases, had been ruined in consequence of the trespasses in question, without its being possible to obtain justice, or the smallest indemnity for their loss.

But all is now changed in those remote parts, and the weakest as well as the strongest, the poorest as well as the richest fisherman, whether engaged in the seal or in the salmon fishery has no longer anything to fear in respect of the possession of his fishing ground, or in respect of the extent of land and beach necessary for the carrying on of the operations involved by his arduous calling.

And truly we have here again one of the good results of the service for the protection of the fisheries, for the part of the coast upon which are situated the fishing-stations to which I allude, is entirely devoid of any organization whatsoever, and cannot rely on any assistance of any public power other than mine.

We must not, moreover, lose sight of the fact that since the construction of "La Canadienne," in 1855, which allowed of my expedition being placed upon a better footing, no English vessel of war has appeared upon our maritime coast, except in passing, and that all the police duty in our ports and harbours and along the whole of our coasts, has entirely devolved upon the service which I have the honor to command on board the schooner "La Canadienne," fitted out by Government.

REMARKS

ON THE

FISHERIES DURING THE SEASON AND THEIR PRODUCTS.

Canada, as I have already frequently remarked, is possessed, both in the Gulf and in the lower part of the River St. Lawrence, of a large extent of maritime and river coast, along which, from the opening of spring, fisheries of various descriptions are carried on; of these the most important by far and without any question, is the codfishery.

I purpose to give an abstract of the manner in which these several fisheries have been worked during the present year and of the results produced by them; but, as our coasts are not continuous, and as, moreover, many parts of them give opportunities for descriptions of fishery different from those on other parts, and also with the view of conveying a better idea of their extent and position and importance in respect of the various sources of riches which they contain, so that the trader or shipper who is desirous of engaging in any branch of fishery or of trade, may know what places offer the greatest chances of success for his trade, I shall consider them in three distinct divisions.

The first will comprise the Magdalen Islands with an extent of 114 nautical miles of coast.

The second will comprise the County of Bonaventure with 72 miles of coast, the County of Gaspé with 202 miles of coast, and part of the County of Rimouski. These, united, constitute what is commonly called the Gaspé coast, and includes an extent of 354 miles.

Lastly, the third division will comprise the whole north shore of the river and gulf of St. Lawrence, from Bersimis to Blancs Sablons Bay, an extent of 510 miles, and the Island of Anticosti with 260 miles of coast.

The whole extent of coast amounts to 1228 nautical miles.

FIRST DIVISION.

MAGDALEN ISLANDS.

This group consists of seven islands, five of which, Amherst Island, Grindstone Island, Allright Island, Coffin Island, and Grosse Isle, are more or less connected by long banks of sand, among which are found considerable lagoons and even harbors; the other two, Entry Island and Bryon Island, are entirely separated from the rest of the group by arms of the sea called Sandy Hook and Bryon Canal. The former is about three miles in width, and from four to five fathoms deep in the centre of the channel; the latter gives passage to vessels of the largest tonnage and is not less than  $7\frac{1}{2}$  miles in width.

In a direction of about east by north, at a distance of 11 miles, lie the Bird Rocks, so called because they are a habitation (especially the great rock) during the spring and summer, for an innumerable quantity of birds known as gannets (called Margots in Canada) and of Forda penguins, called Mermettes by the Canadians.

There is also a rock, situated about west by north from the west point of Amherst Island, at a distance of about eight miles, which received from the early voyagers who perceived it the singular name of Deadman Rock in consequence of its striking resemblance, when seen from a certain point, to a corpse covered with a shroud.

The Magdalen Islands are about 45 miles in length; their greatest width is 13 miles. They lie near the southern point of the Gulf of St. Lawrence facing the principal entrance to that inland sea, between the 47th and 48th degrees of north Latitude—their most southerly extremity being only 25 miles further north than the city of Quebec,—and between the 61st and 62nd degrees of Longitude west from Greenwich. Discovered by Jacques

Cartier on his first voyage to the Gulf of St. Lawrence in 1634 these islands received the names of Ramées, Bryon, and Alezay, and it was not until a later period that they acquired the names which they now bear.

Situated as they are at the mouth of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and in the sailing line of vessels on their way to Canada, they were frequently visited by the French trading and fishing vessels after the discovery of Canada. But it does not appear that at that time any considerable settlements were made upon them previous to their concession in 1663 by the Company of New France to François Doublet, a ship captain of Honfleur, who in the following year associated with himself François Gon de Quimé and Claude de Landemare, for the purpose of trading and fishing there. But there is reason to believe that in 1719 the islands again became the property of the French Government, as the latter, according to Charlevoix, conceded them to Lecompte de St. Pierre.

In 1763, at the time of the cession of Canada and its dependencies to the British Government, they were only inhabited by some ten families of French and Acadian origin, who engaged in walrus and seal hunting, and to a small extent in the herring and cod fishery. Subsequently an American shipper, Gridley by name, founded, on Amherst Island, near the entrance to the harbour of that name, a trading and fishing establishment, the ruins of which still exist. He took into his service families of French origin, residing upon the islands, in order specially to carry on, upon a large scale, the hunting of the walrus and the seal, the oil obtained from which brought a good price in the markets of the New England colonies, as did also the skins which yielded a very thick leather, and the tusks which served as a substitute for ivory.

The property of Mr. Gridley and his apparatus were partly destroyed during the American War, by the privateers of the revolted Colonies, but on the conclusion of peace he resumed his trade and his labors; but the walruses, whose habits of coming in herds upon the beach, had exposed them to the constant attacks of the hunters, to whom they had become a valuable prey, had already almost completely disappeared from the vicinity of the islands.

On the other hand the seals did not appear in as large numbers near the shore, and were not as easily captured as formerly, and in consequence the establishments of Mr. Gridley and of other shippers, engaged more especially in the hunting of amphibious animals, rapidly decreased in importance and prosperity.

I must here observe that besides the fishermen of the Magdalen Islands, a large number had also come from the English Colonies, since the conquest of Canada, to engage in walrus hunting; they had carried it on with that perseverance and energy for which they are so celebrated, and to them, in great measure, is to be attributed the extinction in our waters of this amphibious animal which is second in importance only to the whale.

But the inhabitants settled on Amherst, Grindstone and Allright Islands had already begun to engage in a more steady manner in the cod and herring fishery, the produce of of which they bartered with the traders of the other British Provinces, and even of Jersey, for provisions and merchandise, and this yielded them undoubted benefit. Moreover the cultivation of the soil, which however they by far too much neglected, as their descendants do at the present day, yielded them some certain supplies, and at the time of the concession of all the Magdalen Islands by the British Government to Admiral Isaac Coffin, in 1798, as a reward for the services which he had rendered to the English Crown during the American War, the population of the Islands was estimated at one hundred families; but from information which I was able to obtain at Amherst, I believe this amount to be a little exaggerated. In 1821, according to Bouchette, the number of families had increased to 133, and in 1831, to 153, the total population being about 1000 souls. The census of 1850, shewed it to be 2202, and that of 1860, 2651. But it must not be forgotten that the Magdalen Islands had sent out three Colonies to the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the total population of which amounts to about 500 souls.

The fisheries of the Magdalen Islands, in their order from spring to autumn, are the seal fishery or rather seal hunting on the ice, the herring fishery, the spring mackerel fishery, the cod fishery which lasts till autumn, and the summer mackerel fishery.

SEAL HUNTING

Seal hunting is carried on u n the floating ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence throughout nearly its whole extent, although it seldom happens that the schooners go higher up than Gaspé Cape, to try their fortune in the River St. Lawrence. It is rather upon the North shore of the Gulf near the Island of Anticosti, and at the entrance of the Straits of Belleisle, that the fields of ice are met with upon which are generally found the greatest number of seals. It is hardly necessary for me to repeat that the female seals, which penetrate the Gulf of St. Lawrence in enormous herds in the month of December, get upon the floating ice about the middle or end of March, to bring forth their young which they nurse with great tenderness and suckle for the three or four weeks, or perhaps more, which time they pass upon the ice without going into the water. It is during this period that our hunters have to use their endeavors to get them into their possession by killing them either with clubs or by shooting; for subsequently when they have attained sufficient strength, they take to the water and the hunters see them no more. But the floating ice also serves for a habitation for the adult seals, especially the females while they are tending their young, and our hunters pursue them eagerly when it is in their power to do so, that is when they can approach them without being perceived, or else when these amphibious animals are upon ice so closely packed together that they can find no open place through which to plunge into the water, and so escape pursuit. Then our hunters make great slaughter among them, and crews of seven men have been sometimes known to kill hundreds of these animals in some hours. Sometimes high winds, blowing from the same quarter for some length of time, drive the fields of ice covered with seals towards the shores of the Islands, and keep them aground near the coast until a change of wind supervenes, and at such times great prizes fall to the Islanders. In an instant the news is spread through all the islands by the ringing of bells and the firing of guns, and soon the whole population rushes to the shore, whence may easily be seen the seals scattered over the ice as far as the eye can reach.

Young and old men, each armed with a large knife, a rope, and a club, spring on to the fields of ice, while the women remain on the shore within reach, to prepare their meals and to supply them with hot drinks in order to protect them from the effects of the cold and damp to which they are incessantly exposed. With their clubs they stun all the seals which they come upon, and then use their knives to despatch them and remove the skin and fat. When they think their harvest large enough, they tie together, with the rope with which they are provided, as much of their spoils as will suffice to make a burthen of from 300 to 350 pounds, and they then drag this valuable load from one piece of ice to another to the shore, where they leave it in safety and return to the same ground to gather a fresh harvest. This fatiguing and often dangerous labor continues throughout the whole day, and even the night in clear weather, so long as there are any seals on the ice near the shore and the ice has not been driven away by the land breeze. I have been told that formerly, when the seals were more numerous than at present in the waters of the Gulf, the inhabitants of the Magdalen Islands had taken as many as from 1500 to 2000 seals, nearly all young, on the fields of ice aground near the shore. But since I have been visiting the islands the results produced by seal-hunting have been less abundant, and have sometimes amounted to hardly anything. This year, by a happy concurrence of circumstances, it was productive, having yielded at least 6,000 seals, which cannot be valued at less than $3 each, thus giving a total value of $18,000. This excellent hunting took place on the 27th, 28th, and part of the 29th of April, having consequently lasted but two days and a half. The ice, driven by a strong east wind, drifted out to sea carrying with it thousands of seals beyond the reach of the hunters whose disappointment may be more easily imagined than described.

This hunting is very often not unattended with danger, for the currents or the wind sometimes drive off the ice before the hunters can regain the shore, and if they are not taken off by boats, they are carried off to sea, there to perish inevitably from cold and hunger. Within some fifteen years several accidents of this nature have, to my knowledge occurred. But every possible effort is made to prevent their occurrence by warning the hunters who are busy on the ice, when the latter begins to move away from the shore, by the firing of guns and by signals agreed upon beforehand.

The fat of young seals is tender and melts easily in the sun; it yields a very fine oil, which is white and almost quite devoid of unpleasant smell.

The Magdalen Island schooners fitted out for seal hunting, amounted in number this year to 25, as may be seen in the Appendices attached to this report. Of these 16 belonged to House Harbor, and 9 to the port of Amherst. The latter usually winter in Basque Harbor, at the head of Pleasant Bay, to be the sooner ready for sea in the spring, for that harbor, like House Harbor, is free of ice long before Amherst Harbor, in consequence of the strength of the tide running into it. In spite of this, the ice was so solid in those harbors that it was only broken up by the action of high winds and the high temperature of some warm days in the month of April, too late however to allow the schooners to proceed to sea in time to have a chance of being successful in their hunting; and they had even to saw out great pieces of ice to make their way to the open sea; this was about the end of April. When they reached the usual hunting ground, they could find no great ice-bergs, or if they did, those that they saw had upon them only a few herds of seals, few in number. When, in addition to this, the bad weather and the snow storms are taken into consideration, the cause of the small success of the hunting will be easy of comprehension.

A misfortune still greater than this want of success, happened to two of these vessels; the Emma, belonging to William Johnston, and the Breeze, belonging to Germain Sire (having crews of 20, all told, 13 of whom were married and left 13 widows and 45 orphan children in a state of want), went down in the Gulf with all on board, whilst engaged in seal hunting. It is needless for me to say that these expeditions into the midst of the ice fields of the Gulf (at a time of the year when tempests and hurricanes are frequent), with vessels of small tonnage and which are often wanting in necessary solidity, are not made without great danger. But the mariners who strive on these frail vessels against the elements are inured to the labor of this rough calling, and combine prudence with the greatest daring; these are the hardy sailors of whom Canada may be proud, and it is the duty of the government to encourage them by every possible means in order to increase their number.

A reference to the Appendices will shew that the port of Amherst this year fitted out for seal hunting 9 schooners, and House Harbor, 16; the total tonnage being 1,048 tons, and the total number of hands on board being 250. These instructive statistics shew that this branch of industry, the importance of which to our country cannot be questioned, is rather uncertain in its results, but not on that account less deserving of all the care and attention of the government.

HERRING FISHERY.

The herring fishery at the Magdalen Islands, especially in Pleasant Bay, is carried on from the end of April to the beginning of June. That fish resorts thither to perform the important function of the reproduction of its species; and the sight of the shoals of these fish pressing forward towards the coast, and of the thousands of ova thrown up by the waves on the shore after a storm is a convincing proof that that process goes on upon an enormous scale, so that no fear need be entertained of the extinction of the species, let the fishery be as extensive as it may, provided that the fish are allowed as great facilities as possible for approaching the shores which are most advantageous for the reception and the hatching of the spawn. It is with this important object in view that the fishery regulations, with respect to the Magdalen Islands, provide that nets shall not be set in a part of Pleasant Bay, and that those that are set shall be set at a distance of at least 100 feet from each other.

The shoals of herring nearly always approach the shores of the Magdalen Islands in immense quantities, but it does not follow that in consequence the herring fishery is always plentiful in its results, for many circumstances may arise to diminish its success; the high winds, however, which raise a heavy swell near the shore are the greatest obstacles against which our fishermen have to contend. Indeed, unless the weather is fine and the sea calm, it is impossible to cast the seine to advantage. Besides the herrings rarely approach the shore in great numbers except when the sea is calm, and it has been observed that they select the night by preference for the performance of the generative act.

Under the most favorable circumstances, and when there were in Amherst Harbor a large number of schooners provided with large seines, the herring fishery has yielded immense results to the Magdalen Islands; and by consulting my reports it will be seen that as many as 70,000 barrels of herrings have been entered as having been taken at the Magdalen Islands either by foreign fishermen or by our own.

In the spring, for some years past, and especially since the commencement of the American war, this fish, (which at that time is lean it is true, but which keeps very well even in hot climates,) has been less sought after on the markets of the British Provinces and the United States, and sells at a very low price. This is the reason why the fitting out of vessels for this fishery has been less considerable than formerly.

This year, to say nothing of the ice which prevented the vessels from arriving at the Magdalen Islands at the most favorable time, those which did engage in the fishery,—about ten in number,—only obtained insignificant results, perhaps 1500 barrels in all; which with 1500 barrels taken with nets and seines by the inhabitants of the islands, gives a total of 3000 barrels as representing the entire yield of this fishery for the year, whereas in 1863 it reached 26,550 barrels; this is a great failure, the cause of which is specified above, as well as in the body of the report.

Let us hope that next year our fishermen will be more fortunate, and that ample success will reward their efforts and their labor as they deserve.

MACKEREL FISHERY.

The spring mackerel fishery generally begins at the Magdalen Islands about the first days of June. It is carried on with nets set in Pleasant Bay and the vicinity. Unfortunately it lasts at the longest but ten or fifteen days.

It is only during the time of spawning that our fishermen can engage in this fishery with nets, when the mackerel appear in shoals in the bay, and take advantage of the night to approach the shore and deposit their ova. This fishery sometimes yields large profits, but very often also it fails entirely in consequence of bad weather. It may, therefore, be said that in general it is uncertain in its results.

This year it began a little later than usual, for the first mackerel was taken in Pleasant Bay only on the 6th of June; it continued until about the 25th of the same month and yielded results which may be estimated at 900 barrels. It is known that the mackerel taken at this time is lean, and is only reckoned as second and third quality.

COD FISHERY.

This fishery, which is one of the principal resources of the inhabitants of the Islands, is carried on from the beginning of May to the end of October, near the shores and upon the banks adjacent to them. The following, however, are the places where the cod is found in the greatest abundance: Pleasant Bay, the south shore of Amherst Island, the vicinity of Deadman Rock, the west shore of Grindstone Island, the north-west shore of Grosse Isle, the vicinity of Bryon Island and the Bird Rocks, and the waters which wash the eastern shores of Allright and Entry Islands.

The cod follows closely upon the arrival of the herring in Pleasant Bay and rapidly spreads around the whole of the islands. It is however to the south of Amherst Island, at Deadman Rock and off Etang du Nord that it is most abundant at the commencement of the season. It is also at this time that it approaches most closely to the shore to deposit its ova in enormous quantities on the bottom which its instinct leads it to select in preference to any other, doubtless because it offers greater advantages both for their preservation and for their hatching. This however does not prevent the fact that the greater part only of the ova come to maturity and produce small cod which are seen some months later in enormous numbers swimming in the bays, in the harbors and in all shallow places in which Providence provides suitable food for them in the form of small fish, crustacea, &c. The remainder fall a prey to the fish which frequent those waters and to the cod themselves, for it is not unusual to find in the stomach of the cod quantities of the spawn of its own species.

When once the process of reproduction is accomplished, the cod retire a little further from the shore to take up a position in waters inhabited by mollusca and crustacea which, together with the herring, the caplin and other small fish, constitute its habitual nourishment. But, when once hungry it has not even mercy on its fellows; but devours the young cod by two, three or even more at a time, a fact of which the opening of its stomach has often afforded proof.

The most common bait used by the fishermen of the islands for the cod fishery is the herring, which they take in nets. When that fish, however fails, they substitute for it shell fish, termed coques (mya arenacea) which they find buried in the sands of the bays and lagoons.

The mackerel is also made use of as bait, during the summer, but in the autumn these various fish run short and recourse is then had to a small fish known in Canada as the goget (barbeau) the fundula of naturalists; these are obtained from the little streams and the heads of the bays.

Fishermen in boats always use fresh bait, those who fish from schooners on the banks are very often compelled, when their nets which they set at night along the side have yielded nothing, to make use of salt fish (nearly always herrings) and even of salted mya. But the latter do not tempt the cod except when it is very hungry, and even then they have to be soaked for some time in water until they have lost in great part their salt taste, before the cod can resolve to swallow them, notwithstanding that fish's well-known voracity.

The cod is also taken by baiting the lines with what the fishermen call gob, that is, the stomach of the cod, and even sometimes with the flesh of sea fowl, gulls, gannets, &c.

I must not forget the mackerel, of which the cod is extremely fond; and when the fishermen can obtain them, they succeed as well as with any other bait.

Generally the cod remain in the waters adjacent to the Magdalen Islands throughout the whole season, but in greater or less quantity according as the fish, crustacea and mollusca, upon which they feed as I have before remarked, are more or less abundant there. There are indeed exceptions to this rule: for the herring and mackerel have been seen in large quantity near the islands, without the presence of the cod; this however is of rare occurrence.

The success of the cod fishery does not depend entirely upon the presence of the fish in the waters in which the fishery is to be carried on; the fishermen must also be able to procure fresh and good bait, as men familiar with the art say, and moreover (what is very essential) the weather must be fine and allow of their putting off their boats in order to reach the places where they have the best chance of finding the cod, and of keeping out at sea until the conclusion of their day's labor.

The high winds which always cause a heavy swell around the islands and make the approach to the coast very dangerous for boats, are the greatest obstacles against which the fishermen have to contend in their daily operations. They are often seen upon the banks when the day has just begun to appear, the sky being clear, the sea calm and the cod abundant and taking the bait freely, in a word when they have every reason to hope for a plentiful harvest in the shape of one and even two boat loads of fish. Scarcely however have a few hours passed, when the light breeze gives place to a gale from seaward which soon increases in violence, and a heavy sea comes up rapidly; very often currents and the tide running in a contrary direction make matters still worse, and the poor fishermen are compelled to return with all speed, with difficulty, and often amidst great danger, to the shore from which they sailed but a few hours before, buoyant with the most brilliant hopes now changed by an unfavourable wind into bitter disappointment.

For this reason the best years for the summer fishery, and especially for the autumn fishery, are those in which gales and tempests are less frequent and of shorter duration. The season of 1863, for instance, was one of the finest which we have had for a long time past in the gulf; the cod was abundant; bait was tolerably easy to procure, and accordingly the results of this fishery were more abundant that year than for a long time previously, there having been taken 12,350 quintals, against 9,170 quintals for this year; 8,270 quintals for the year 1862, and 9,131 for the year 1861.

It will be seen that there has been a diminution this year of nearly one-fourth on the products of the preceding year. This is to be attributed in the first place to the fact that the cod did not appear on the coast as early as in 1863, and also that it was not so abundant. But undoubtedly that which was most injurious to the success of this fishery, was the bad weather; in other words the high winds, the frequency and unusually long continuance of which compelled our fishermen to pass many days ashore during the best season, with their boats drawn up on the beach, the bravest of them not venturing out to sea. And thus it was that they found it impossible to gather from the fish-yielding waters which wash their coasts all the advantages which they were entitled to expect.

However, the high price which cod commanded this year, went far to compensate for the losses to which they were subjected by the bad weather. This summer several schooners from Amherst Harbour, and from House Harbour, made an attempt at the cod-fishery on the banks, but the same causes which militated against the fishery in boats, exercised an unfavorable influence over their proceedings, and I calculate the results obtained by them at but little more than 400 quintals of cod.

This year the presence of an unusually large number of haddock on the coasts of the Magdalen Islands, and especially at Etang du Nord, was observed. This fish, which is excellent when fresh, yields an inferior preparation when salted, and fetches but little more than three-fourths of the price of dried cod of the best quality. Some forty American schooners, thirty from Nova Scotia, principally from Cheticamp, in the Island of Cape Breton, and eleven French schooners engaged in the cod-fishery on the great banks, as far as 20 or 25 miles from the islands, with varying opportunities; in general they did not obtain any great results.

THE SUMMER MACKEREL FISHERY.

The shoals of mackerel, after having completed the reproductive process near the shores of the Magdalen Islands, and chiefly in Pleasant Bay, retire to the deep water in search of the nourishment of which they stand in need, in order to recover themselves from the state of exhaustion and leanness, which is the inevitable result of the great loss of substance to which they have been subjected in the shape of spawn from the female, and milt from the male. In the middle or rather at the end of July, they have already acquired much flesh and fat, but it is at a later period, in the autumn, that they are in the finest condition, and then it is that they command the highest price, especially on the markets of the United States where the people appreciate them at their true value.

I shall not dilate upon the mackerel fishery carried on with the line; I have already remarked at length upon that subject in my report of 1859. I shall merely remark that the mackerel was generally plentiful around the Magdalen Islands, during a great part of the season, and that our fishermen, who have engaged in that fishery which was taught them by the Americans, only within a few years past, succeeded better than in former years; but it is far from having attained the proportions and extent of our other fisheries; it has always been neglected and will yet be neglected. Its importance does not seem to be appreciated in Canada.

None of our fishermen make a special pursuit of this fishery as do our neighbors. As yet not a single schooner has been known to be fitted out for this purpose in our country.

The Magdalen Island boats which engage in this fishery, took about 1400 barrels of fish. This is more than in former years: for in 1863, the spring and summer mackerel fishery together, only yielded 1000 barrels; in 1862, 943 barrels, and in 1861, 1271 barrels.

What is this when compared with the yield of the summer mackerel fishery to the American schooners in our waters, in which by treaty they enjoy the same rights as British subjects.

From 250 to 300 of these schooners well manned and the best sailers in the world, have successfully carried on this fishery around the Islands, without going more than eighteen or twenty miles away from them. Some have even made several trips.

Adopting the lowest estimate, these vessels must have carried back to the ports from which they sailed, on an average, at least 100 barrels each, and probably more; thus from 25,000 to 30,000 barrels of mackerel, of the value of from $250,000 to $300,000, have been taken on our Coast or in the waters adjoining it, and before our very eyes; and I repeat, not one of our shippers, not one of our great dealers in fish has, as yet, fitted out a single vessel for this fishery. Yet it would appear that there are large profits to be made, although it may be truly said that the American fishermen have certainly an advantage over ours, as they can employ during the winter on their own shores in the cod, haddock and halibut fishery, both those of their schooners which have been engaged in the cod fishery and those that have been used in the mackerel fishery during the summer, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, while ours have to submit to a compulsory hibernation of at least five months in our ports, which are closed to navigation by the ice.

SECOND DIVISION

This division comprises 354 miles of sea and river coast, and forms part of the Counties of Bonaventure and Gaspé, and the eastern section of the County of Rimouski from Maguacha Point to the Island of St. Barnabé; of which 354 miles, 72 are in the Bay of Chaleurs, of which they form the north shore; 52, including Gaspé Bay, are in the Gulf of St. Lawrence; and the remaining 230 miles form the south shore of the River St. Lawrence, according to Captain Bayfield and other Hydrographers. But the commissioners acting under the Reciprocity Treaty, have decided that the river begins only at Cap Chatte and not at Gaspé Cape, and taking this view, 124 miles more of coast must be added to the gulf, so that only 106 miles remain on the river.

These coasts, abounding in fish, did not fail to attract the attention of Jacques Cartier and those who followed him into the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and many years had not elapsed after the discovery of Canada before the French founded establishments there, for the purpose of carrying on the cod fishery, which gave employment to many vessels and people, and produced an important article of trade. Those at Percé, Gaspé Basin, and Mont-Louis appear to have been the most considerable and the most prosperous. But little, however, is known of their history, except that these establishments were several times visited and destroyed by the English ships of war. But they rose from their ashes. To provide a safe refuge for the vessels engaged in trade and in the fisheries in time of war, the French fortified the entrance to Gaspé Basin, and not many years ago the remains of the works which they had constructed on the cape, called Fort Ramsay, were still to be seen.

On the Restigouche River the point called the Battery still shows traces of works of defence, erected by the crews of French vessels and detachments of French soldiers who had escaped from the disaster of Louisbourg, in order to defend themselves against a victorious fleet of English vessels which was pursuing them.

In spite of this they could not hold out long, the battery was attacked in the rear and taken, and several frigates and corvettes which had taken shelter above Indian Point were burned or sunk; the remains of them are still visible at low water; and some of their guns, marked with the fleur de lys, still serve to decorate several properties in the vicinity. Before the conquest several centres of population had already been formed near the places which offered the greatest advantages to trade and the fishery, and Paspébiac, the roadstead and good land of which are well sheltered from the winds from the sea, Percé, with its fine fisheries; and Gaspé, with its excellent harbor and fine roadstead capable of accommodating from 300 to 400 vessels of the largest tonnage, are those which, at that time, were best known.

After the cession of Canada and its dependencies by France to England, the French entirely ceased sending fishing expeditions. On the other hand the traders and shippers of Quebec did not appear to attach any great importance and value to the fisheries on the coast of Gaspé, and neglected to restore the ruins of the old French fishing establishments, most of which had suffered great damage during the last war. To a merchant of the name of Charles Robin, who came from the little Island of Jersey to the coast of Gaspé, about the year 1773, belongs the honor of having understood better than any person here the whole value of our fisheries, and of having founded first at Paspébiac, and then at Percé, and at Grande Rivière on the coast of Gaspé, fishing establishments which not only still exist and are in a condition of great prosperity, but which are moreover the most considerable of their class upon the whole gulf coast.

Subsequently other traders, from the same Island, among whom we may mention Mr. Jauvrain, also founded fishery establishments in Gaspé Bay, which rapidly acquired great importance; they have now passed into the possession of the firm of Fruing & Co.

The population, however, had not increased very rapidly on the coast of Gaspe, and the wars of American independence and of 1812 had retarded its growth and had proved highly injurious to the development of the fisheries by depriving our fishermen of facilities of transport for their fish to foreign markets, and by making their trading operations uncertain.

Every year, however, some Canadian families left the old parishes in the interior to settle permanently on some point on the coast. It was principally the south shore of the River St. Lawrence, from Cape Rosiers to Fox River inclusive, and after that Percé and Grande Rivière, which had the greatest attractions for them. Again, Irish, Scotch and Jersey emigrants, attracted by the truly magnificent prospects held forth by the coast of Gaspé, its inexhaustible fisheries and its soil, which is almost everywhere very rich and fertile, selected it as their new country. The first mentioned settled by preference at Douglstown, Percé and Maria; while the second proceeded to open up lands, in the townships of Hopetown and New Richmond, now the most fruitful in produce of all kinds in the whole District of Gaspé. As to the last mentioned, they spread themselves over nearly the whole coast. According to Bouchette, the population of the whole of this part of our coast only amounted in 1830 to 2,567 souls in the County of Gaspé, and 5,110 in the County of Bonaventure. As to that part of the coast lying between Cap Chatte and the Island of St. Barnabé, it could not have contained many inhabitants, and the probability is that they did not exceed 2,000 souls in number.

I shall here allude to several of the causes which presented the greatest obstacles to the more rapid growth of the settlements, both those which were formed entirely with a view to the working of the fisheries (by far the most numerous), and those formed for the purpose of cultivating the soil.

One was the absolute deficiency of means of communication by land between the several centres of population and the length, difficulty and uncertainty of that by sea with Quebec. At the time of which I speak roads were almost entirely wanting on the coast of Gaspé throughout its whole length, and that interesting part of Canada was, in the winter season, entirely isolated from the centre of the country and the action of the government, for it could only be reached on foot, by using snowshoes through the forest. But the attention of the government was called to this unfortunate state of affairs, the necessary sums of money were voted by Parliament, and a road connecting all the settlements was opened from the head of the Bay of Chaleurs to Gaspé Basin; and almost at the same time, the banks of the River Restigouche, and those of the River St. Lawrence were connected by the road known as the Kempt Road. This was a new era for the country: at once rapid progress was made, and in 1850 the census shewed the population of this part of Lower Canada to be 21,748 souls.

In 1860 the total population of the District of Gaspé amounted to 27,169 souls, and that of that portion of the County of Rimouski lying between Cap Chatte and the Island of St. Barnabé, to no less than 10,000; giving a total of 37,169 souls, upon the same extent of coast, the population of which only reached 10,000 in 1830; thus it had increased four-fold in thirty years. But it is increasing still more rapidly in the present day, thanks to the colonization roads which permit those of the inhabitants who know the value of the benefits derivable from agriculture, to settle at some distance from the coast on land which they obtain from the Crown for the moderate price of 20 cents an acre, and to the easy communication which now exists by means of steam vessels between the principal points on the coast and Quebec: and thanks also to the measures of protection and encouragement which have been so liberally set on foot by the Government for some years past; the bounties awarded to the vessels engaged in the great fisheries, and the establishment of the Free Port of Gaspé, are by no means the least important causes of the growth in question.

The Gaspé coast is beyond all question the most important of the maritime coasts of Canada, in respect of the great fisheries, and especially of the cod-fishery which can be carried on over nearly its whole extent. The herring fishery is also carried on to a considerable extent in the Bay of Chaleurs. Mackerel is also sometimes very abundant near the shore; and the rivers, some of which are very considerable, contain a certain quantity of salmon and trout.

In considering these fisheries, I shall begin with the herring fishery, because it is the first entered upon; the cod-fishery will follow, and subsequently that of the mackerel, the whale, &c.; and lastly the salmon and trout fishery.

HERRING FISHERY.

Every spring the herring leaves the northern seas, according to some naturalists, (others maintain that during the winter it merely retires to the deep parts of the sea in the vicinity of the gulf,) to spread along the coast of the Gulf, urged by the strong impulse of an instinctive desire to reproduce its species. And, as I have said, they arrive in immense shoals at the Magdalen Islands, and also, I might say if I was treating of those parts of the Gulf coast not belonging to Canada, at St. George's Bay. But the Bay of Chaleurs, and especially its north east shore, is one of its favorite spots, for they are seen there every year in very considerable numbers, from the beginning to the end of May; they come to perform the reproductive function which they accomplish near the coast, in spots sheltered from the high winds, and where the water is shallow.

Port Daniel, Bonaventure, New Richmond, Maria and Carleton are the places where this fish is found in the greatest abundance; it is there consequently that our fishermen are most successful in the fishery which is carried on by means of nets set across the places they have to pass, although a certain quantity which is generally used for bait in the codfishery and for the daily consumption of the inhabitants, are taken along the whole of the rest of the coast of Gaspé and during a great part of the season.

At nearly the same time when the herring appears on the Coast of Gaspé, the River St. Lawrence from Matane to River du Loup, is visited by an immense quantity of fish of the same species, but generally of smaller size; and the inhabitants of the shores of the River upon which the fish appear in the greatest numbers, carry on by means of brush nets a productive fishery, the yield of which is sold, for the most part, in the fresh state in the country parts and upon the markets of Quebec. This year the herring fishery was generally good in this division, for it was observed that on the Coasts of the Lower St. Lawrence, from Cap des Rosiers to Cap Chatte, this fish was more abundant throughout the whole season than it had been observed to be for a very long time; and the results yielded by it are as follows:—

COD FISHERY.

The cod fishery on the Gaspé Coast, constitutes in itself one of the principal branches of our maritime industry. In fact it gives employment to nearly four thousand fishermen, without taking into account the women and children who work at the preparation of the cod on shore, and to more than one hundred vessels manned by from eight to nine hundred sailors; and its products, so much sought after in foreign markets, have given rise to, and keep up, internal and foreign trading operations, requiring the employment of a very considerable amount of capital; which may be estimated without any exaggeration at several millions of dollars. A mere journey along the Coast either by land or by sea, will suffice to convey an idea of its numerous establishments, several of which are upon the largest scale, each giving employment to several hundreds of men, and all well managed. The following facts shew the truth of what I assert.

Its fisheries are abundant, and, so to speak, inexhaustible. They may be said to extend from the head of the Bay of Chaleurs along the whole coast as far as Metis, and sometimes even as far as the Island of St. Barnabé. But there are places for which the cod seems to have a predilection and where consequently it is nearly always found in greater numbers than elsewhere, because there also the small fish and the mollusca and crustacea, which it incessantly pursues, collect in greater shoals and remain for a longer time. These places are, the waters that wash the shores of Newport, Grand River, Cape Cove, Percé, Bonaventure Island, Point St. Pierre, Grande Grève, Griffin Cove, Fox River and Grand Etang.

It is usually Percé and the places in the vicinity that are first visited by the cod in the spring, generally about the end of April, and a few days only after the arrival of the herring, upon which it then feeds. About a week later it appears upon the whole coast of the Bay of Chaleurs.

About the 15th May it appears near the shores between Cape Rosiers and Cape de Chatte; and between the latter and Matane and Métis, from the 1st to the 18th of June. These figures must not be taken as invariable, for the arrival of this fish may be advanced or retarded by general and special causes which it is impossible to estimate fully, but which exercise a large influence over the phenomena of the periodical emigration of all fish that live in shoals in deep water, towards the shallower and warmer waters of the coasts: an emigration which they almost invariably undertake for the purpose of providing for the reproduction of their species in a place of safety, which their instinct impels them to seek.

So soon as the cod appear in each place, the fishing begins, the bait for the lines begin herring which the fishermen take with nets set specially for the purpose at night. But after a few weeks, the herring seem to diminish near the coast, and seek refuge in deep water, followed by the cod. The latter, however, soon reappears and often in greater abundance than before, in pursuit of that beautiful little fish called the capelan, which play so important a part in our codfisheries.

Fishing is thus actively resumed, and continued until towards the end of June, when the Capelan disappears for the rest of the season; and there would then be a failure of bait for the codfishery were not the caplin succeeded by a species of herring called by our fishermen the summer herring, which is more or less abundant near the coast until towards the close of the season. Then comes the mackerel, between the 10th and 20th of July, which the cod also take very greedily. The squid, a mollusk curious from its strange form and the black liquid it pours forth upon its enemies as a means of defence, appear in shoals, generally in the night, near the shore, between Newport and Cape Gaspé about the 10th of July, and between Cape Gaspé, Cape de Chatte and Matane between the 15th and 20th of July. This is one of the most enticing baits for cod, and our fishermen often succeed in taking it by fishing in the evening and at night with instruments called Turlutttes, up to the close of the season. Lastly, trout, goget, called choquemort on the Gaspé coast; and Mya are used for bait in the autumn, when other fish fail. Smelt, a delicious fish found at the entrance of most of the rivers on the Gaspé coast is also frequently used for the same purpose.

Nevertheless, notwithstanding this variety, it often happens during the season, that our fishermen lack bait, and then codfishing ceases; for without bait there can be no fishing, even though the cod were far more abundant than they have ever yet been near the coast. In such cases it is true, recourse may be had to the use of a fishing implement called fauc, which consists of a tin fish, thin and brightly polished, generally made in imitation of the caplin, which is attached by the tail to an ordinary line and from the mouth of which protrude two hooks fastened back to back. The cod, attracted by the glitter of the metal, rush in shoals to the spot, and the fishermen by shaking their lines in the water succeed in hooking a certain number of fish sometimes by one part of the body, sometimes by another. This mode of fishing is, however, seldom practised on the Gaspé coast; it is toilsome and not very productive.

The produce of the codfishery on the coast of the division of which I am now treating has not been very good, it is less than that of past years, and the reason is that this fish has not been so abundant there as it usually is, more especially on the south shore of the river St. Lawrence, from Cap Rosier upwards, and particularly towards Matane and Métis, where it failed almost entirely. Nevertheless, at several points along the coast, between Ste. Anne des Monts and Matane, particularly, the take of Cod this year has equalled and even surpassed that of last year, as a larger number of fishermen were engaged in this fishery. The table in the appendix for the county of Rimouski, will shew the proportionate increase in the number of fishing-boats in these several localities for this year, and it is calculated that more than one hundred new boats will be built at Matane alone for next year.

Bait has been abundant, for while there was in some places a scarcity of caplin, mackerel and squid, the summer herring, which had not for a long period been seen in such vast numbers in the waters of the Gaspé coast, were within reach of the fishermen and supplied the wants of the fishery.

From the most reliable information procured from the fishery overseers, the fishermen themselves, and the outfitters, it appears that the quantity of fish taken on all the coasts of this second division is as follows:—

|--------------|------------------|
| 111,682..... | quintals of Cod. |
| 690.....     | do Haddock.      |
| 369.....     | do Hake.         |

In 1863, the produce under the same heads was as follows :

|              |                  |
|--------------|------------------|
| 117,292..... | quintals of Cod. |
| 504.....     | do Hake.         |

A diminution of 6,039 quintals only, as compared with last year. It is clear therefore that the excess in the number of boats this year over the number last year, has fully compensated for the deficiency in the fishery in this division.

But inasmuch as a higher price has been obtained for codfish this year than last, it follows that the value of these products is..... $405,223.20

Value for 1863 ..... 354,848.00

Excess over 1863..... $40,375.20

The outfitters and traders of the Gaspé coast, besides carrying on the fisheries of this division, also send fishing vessels to the north shore of the River and Gulf of St. Lawrence, and even to the island of Anticosti, the produce going to feed their trade, and this accounts for the fact that there are more large establishments and more trading houses on this part of our coast than any where else.

It is chiefly in the harbors or on good roadsteads that the largest of these establishments are situated. The harbour of Gaspé Basin contains not less than ten, the most considerable being those of Messrs. Jean LeBoutillier, Fruing & Co., John and Elias Collas, Lowndes and Brothers, &c.

The house of Robin & Co., LeBoutillier et Frères, Jean LeBoutillier and LeBrun, have also very fine establishments on the roadsteads of Percé and Bonaventure Island. But at Paspébiac, the houses of Robin and Company, and LeBoutillier et Frères possess the finest and most extensive of our fishery establishments, and the traveller is surprised to find such noble buildings in that remote part of the country. This roadstead, which is also a port of entry, is the point from which the largest exports of dried cod to foreign markets are made.

Gaspé Basin, which is the only good harbour we possess on the coast, and to which is sent all the codfish of the neighboring coasts, for export to foreign countries, receives a large number of ships, which give it great commercial importance. The following table shews the number of ships I found in this port on the 22nd October, and will afford a general idea of the business of the port:—

I must not forget to mention the improvements made in this port within the past few years, many of which originated with the establishment of the freeport. These improvements consist of large storehouses, capable of holding a vast quantity of codfish, and solidly constructed wharves, alongside which vessels drawing from 8 to 14 feet of water, and even more, can lie, as will be seen by the following table:—

Percé is an open roadstead where vessels of every size may find shelter, in all winds ranging from south-west to north, in two large bays, called the south-west bay, and the north-west bay. But with the wind from seaward there is no shelter. Moreover, vessels must anchor in 12, 15 and even 20 fathoms water, if they wish to avoid going too near the shore.

At Bonaventure Island there is shelter from east and south-east winds. The establishments located on this roadstead have store-houses and sheds capable of holding from 50 to 60,000 quintals of cod-fish, and also immense flakes for drying the fish.

The harbour of Paspébiac is closed to all winds ranging from east to north-west. Winds from the west, south-west and south blow direct into it. But it is only in autumn, at the period of the great gales, that the winds are dangerous, for the ground is excellent and a vessel properly moored cannot drag her anchors,—the cables would part first.

There are two wharves in this roadstead, one belonging to the house of Robia & Co., and the other to the house of LeBoutillier et Frères. Schooners lie along side of them in fine weather and with the wind off the land, but large vessels cannot do so, as they would be exposed to danger in case of the wind shifting to seaward.

The sheds and stores of these two houses are of immense size, and kept in very good order. They are capable of receiving with ease from 100,000 to 120,000 quintals of cod-fish.

The narrow-limits within which I must of necessity confine these remarks, will not permit me to speak of other anchorages on the coasts, such as L'ause aux Griffons, Malbay, Anse du Cap, Port Daniel, the Bay of New Richmond and Carleton, where there are fine fishing and lumbering establishments.

MACKEREL FISHERY.

This fish appears on the Gaspé coast between the 5th and 10th of July, and ascends the River St. Lawrence as far as Cap de Chatte. The fishery has not acquired all the importance it merits. Apart from the quantity used in baiting their cod lines, our fishermen do not take more than 558½ barrels. It must be stated also, that there is no regularity in the migrations of this fish from one point to another of the coast, during the summer, sometimes it may be abundant in one place and sometimes in another.

However, some years it is very abundant on this coast, and expeditions conducted with energy and perseverance might be sent out to engage in this fishery, and derive large profits from it, as the American fishermen do.

WHALE FISHERY.

I found it difficult to decide as to the division in which I should place the whale fishery; for while it is at times and to a limited extent, carried on on the Gaspé coast, it is, properly speaking on the Labrador coast that our fishermen practice their difficult and dangerous avocation. But the expeditions all start from Gaspé Basin, and I deem it right to speak of them now, before treating of the fisheries of the third division.

Eight schooners have been engaged in the whale fishery this year. Their aggregate tonnage was 445 tons, and the number of hands 120.

The majority of them selected for their fishing grounds in the Straits of Belleisle, between the Labrador coasts—from Gros Meccatina to Bonne Espérance,—and the north shore of Newfoundland—from Bernachoix Bay to Ferolle; while one of their number proceeded to Bay St. Marie, on the south shore of Newfoundland, to try their chance, and another to the Labrador coast in the Atlantic. The two latter, though their voyages did not succeed very well, had a better take than the others, only two of these having made good profits and the others paying their cost of outfit and very little over, the species of whale which they continually pursue during the season for that fishery—from the end of May to the beginning and even to the end of September—having been exceedingly scarce this year in the Gulf.

Bad weather also impeded the operation of this fishery, which requires a clear atmosphere, so that the whale may be discovered from a distance, and a calm sea to enable the fishermen to approach it without danger.

I estimate the produce of this fishing at 25,014 gallons of oil. The greater part of this oil is exported to England and to Jersey.

Value $17,509 80.

HALIBUT FISHERY.

The Halibut Fishery is carried on at the same time as the cod-fishery, and on the same fishing grounds. But this fish is only taken accidentally and in comparatively small quantities.

A great deal of it is eaten fresh.

The quantity salted this year was 275 barrels, of the value of $1,325.

SALMON FISHERY.

This is a river fishery, though it is carried on in many places along the maritime coasts, but always in the vicinity of some river, large or small, by the fresh waters of which the fish is attracted.

The habits of the salmon are now sufficiently known in Canada to justify me in not repeating what I have said in relation to this fish in several of my reports. I need only remark here, that the salmon is a fresh water fish, that it is produced in rivers, that it spends there the first year of its existence and that it goes down to the sea only in the spring of the second year.

It seeks clear waters and prefers those flowing over gravel and sand.

It always reproduces its species in fresh water, depositing its spawn in our latitudes, about the months of September and October.

Many naturalists pretend that the salmon inhabits the rivers during the whole winter and that they emigrate to the sea towards the spring. Others merely hold that only a certain number remain in fresh water during the cold season, and that the others return to the sea on the completion of the act of reproduction; and both parties furnish proofs in support of these contradictory opinions.

The limits within which I desire to restrict my remarks relative to the salmon fishery on the Gaspé coast, do not permit me to enter into a critical examination of these proofs, which relate to a fact of natural history not devoid of importance. The subject has been fully treated by authors who have written treatises on the order of the Salmonidæ.

In Canada we are very certain of one fact, namely; that immense number of salmon, after passing the winter in the upper parts of the rivers, descend to the sea in the spring generally at the time of the breaking up of the ice. The observation of numbers of intelligent fishermen have placed this matter beyond a doubt. The fish are then so lean and feeble as to lead to the conclusion that they must have undergone a more or less rigorous fast, under which they become exhausted during the winter. But, under the influence of the rich and copious supply of food they find in the numberless small fish, caplin, sand-eels, &c., which appear on our coasts at that period, they are speedily invigorated, and within the space of a month or two their flesh, which was flabby, dark and unfit to use as an article of food, becomes firm and red and possesses the exquisite flavor which is so well known; they have also, by that time acquired an astonishing increase in weight, an increase which it would be hard to believe possible had it not been established beyond a doubt by repeated experiments.

In the months of June and July they have acquired all their beauty, and then it is that loaded with spawn, the precious deposit which is to provide for the continuation of their valuable species, they commence their grand migration into the rivers, which they ascend generally until some insurmountable obstacle arrests their course, in search of the localities which their instinct prompts them to select as best adapted for the accomplishment of the important functions they are about to perform.

Nevertheless they do not make these migrations in one run. On the contrary, they appear to make but a short days' journey at a time. They also like to make some stay in the brackish waters of the estuaries, the object being, it is said, to rid themselves of the parasites with which they are then covered and which these waters destroy; they ascend and descend with the ebbing and flowing of the tide, selecting in preference water of little depth.

The fishermen avail themselves of these habits of the salmon to set snares for them in divers ways during their passage, and this it is that constitutes the salmon fishery. But I hear some persons exclaim: "what, you permit salmon fishing during that period! Then you wish to destroy the whole species, since the salmon (female) you kill, bear in their bellies millions of ova which would, within a few months, become so many fish, with which our rivers would soon be swimming. Why not wait, before destroying the fish, until the spawn has been deposited in a place of safety and vivified by the fecundifying fluid of the male fish?"

The answer to this objection is simple.

To prevent the taking of salmon when the fish is ascending the rivers to spawn, would amount to an entire suppression of this fishing, for after they have performed the act of reproduction they are too far up the rivers, or their branches, to be come at, and, moreover, their flesh is then lean and unwholesome. As to fishing for salmon in the sea, supposing that they do return to it in the autumn, it is simply impossible.

Formerly, in Canada, and until the passing of the Fishery Act, the appliances used in salmon fishing were nets, seines, wattle-fisheries, and spears used at night with the aid of torches. The two last modes of taking fish were condemned and abolished by the law, for with the spear the salmon might be followed up to its last retreat, and with the wattle-fisheries the smaller rivers might be completely closed.

Seines are permitted but hardly ever used (I am not aware that they have been used more than once, in the Moisie River) owing to the fact that they cost a high price and require a large number of hands to manage them.

They might become very injurious, however, if generally used, and I think they should be prohibited, for with this fishing apparatus the salmon can be followed in the channels as well as in the shallow waters of the rivers, and even in the creeks, where they seek to conceal themselves from the eyes of man.

I have now spoken of all with the exception of the net. All the salmon fisheries of Canada are carried on with this apparatus; I do not speak of the brush fisheries, placed near the shores in the river St. Lawrence from Rimouski, in which a certain number of salmon are taken.

Nor do I deem it necessary to speak of salmon fishing with the artificial fly, for this can only be considered a pastime and pleasant recreation for persons of leisure and fortune. The real salmon fishery on the contrary is reserved for the outfitters and a host of fishermen who inhabit the most remote parts of our coasts. The latter derive a portion of their subsistence from this fishery.

To commerce it furnishes the material for highly prized preparations, both in the fresh state and when salted.

Objections are also made to the use of nets. Some parties desire that seines should be substituted for them, on the plea that they would be less destructive than the former.

For my part I am aware of but one drawback connected with nets as they are now used in Canada; it is that the salmon entangled in them often succeed, after great efforts, in breaking the bands by which they are confined and escaping into the sea, bearing, however, in many cases the marks of more or less serious wounds (of which many of them die and are thus lost to man) which they receive in striving to break the fine but strong twine of which the meshes of the net are made.

A certain number, no doubt, when recovered from their wounds, reappear in fresh water, but almost always, it is said, in a different river from that in which they have been wounded, and from the information I have acquired during the past thirteen years, in my visits to the salmon fisheries, I am strongly inclined to consider this opinion well founded.

This year, for example, the first salmon taken in the Kegashca river, nearly all bore marks of wounds on the front part of the body, evidently caused by nets. Moreover, these fish were not of the same kind as the salmon that inhabit that river. I concluded therefore that they came from the river Natasquan, where they had striven, without success, to overcome the numerous nets set at its mouth, and they bore clearly defined marks on the head, back and belly, of the nets they had broken through when they appeared in the Kegashca river, which is only some twenty miles distant from the Natashquan. What confirms me more strongly in this opinion is, that the salmon peculiar to the first of these rivers, a smaller fish than those of the latter, did not return to the river until sometime afterwards.

Hence, after duly considering the subject, I should prefer to the ordinary net in which the salmon become entangled, a net in which they imprison themselves in chambers, remaining therein alive, but without the possibility of escape until they are removed by the fishermen.

Under this system no salmon are wounded or lost, and by restricting the apparatus to a uniform length and fixed position, there is no ground to anticipate an excessive destruction of fish.

Besides, it appears to me that the best net is that in which the largest number of salmon can be taken, provided it be placed in conformity with the law.

The laws now regulating the salmon fishery were passed in 1857 and 1858, with a view, not only of preserving this species of fish in our waters, but also of increasing the quantity and then of stocking the rivers which the fish formerly visited, but from which they had disappeared within a few years.

Laws almost similar, but less general in their application, already existed in Canada, in the counties of Northumberland (composed in part of the county of Saguenay), and the county of Cornwallis (the present counties of Bonaventure and Gaspé) for a long time, but these laws having, so to speak, never been enforced, their objects had not been attained, namely, the preservation of the salmon, which had already diminished in an alarming manner in some parts of the country.

It is only since the establishment of the service for the protection of the fisheries, and above all since fishery-overseers have been located at several points on our coasts, and particularly on the coasts of Gaspé, that these laws and the rules made by His Excellency the Governor General in Council at different times, have been carried out as strictly as could be expected in view of the number of fishery overseers, the extent of our coast, the number and length of the rivers frequented by the salmon and the great difficulty of watching everywhere on the rivers and all their branches, parties who avail themselves of the isolated position of certain places which serve as favorite retreats for the salmon, and under cover of the night, engage in taking this fish by spearing and by any and every means, quite reckless of the harm they may do and in utter contempt of the law.

In the summary of my report, I have already spoken in the same sense of the manner in which these laws have been carried out this year, in the division with the fisheries of which I am now occupied.

All that remains to be done now is to shew what influence these laws have had on the produce of those fisheries.

During the first few years of the working of these laws, the yield of salmon, according to the reports of our fishermen, seemed to have increased more or less, in most of the fishing stations, while in some it appeared to remain stationary and even to diminish.

In 1861, the yield was 688½ barrels of salmon, on the Gaspé coast.

In 1862, with the same number of fishing stations, it only amounted to 512¾.

In 1863 the fishery was better and the yield nearly equalled that of 1861. It is stated at 643¾ for the counties of Bonaventure and Gaspé, and 87 barrels for a portion of the county of Rimouski, extending from Cap Chatte to St. Barnabé island. Total : 730¾ for the whole division:

In 1864 the fishery has been unsuccessful, particularly on the coast of the Bay of Chaleur and in the Restigouche river, and the yield for the whole division has been only 513 barrels of salmon.

An attentive comparison of the above figures,—which I have reason to consider correct, inasmuch as I received them from the fishing overseers, who themselves obtain them from the fishermen, will shew, that, in spite of all the care that can be taken to preserve the salmon in our rivers and to render the fishery more productive, and in spite of judicious laws effectually carried out, climacteric or other influences and circumstances of which we cannot tell the cause, the progress or the duration, will from time to time render all our efforts fruitless, and convince us, that in estimating the results likely to flow from our system of protection for the salmon fisheries, we must not speak too confidently nor see things in too favorable a light; nor can we hope that a few years will suffice to bring about a large proportionate increase in the yield, even under the best circumstances.

The system of protection should, nevertheless, be continued; for hereafter we shall derive good results from it. At least we may hope that such will be the case, judging from the increase in the yield of the salmon fishery in the rivers of Scotland and Ireland, under the operation of a system of protection analogous to ours.

The number of salmon fishing stations in the counties of Gaspé and Bonaventure, is 137.

In that part of the county of Rimouski which form part of this division, there are but eight net fishing-stations for salmon.

TUNNY FISHERY.

This fish, which has been long known on the coast of Canada under the name of the Horse Mackerel, and which many fishermen erroneously believe to belong to the shark family, is the Tunny fish of the American and European Coasts. During the summer it visits, generally in pretty large shoals, the Bay of Chaleurs and Gaspé Bay, in pursuit of the shoals of Herring and Mackerel, on which it likes to feed.

A tolerably active Tunny fishery has been carried on at Caraquette for the past few years.

Sandy Beach is the only place on our coast where a certain number of them are killed each year with the harpoon.

This year about a dozen of these fish were taken. Part of this yield has been consumed in the fresh state and part has been salted for the market. But this fishery is susceptible of further development on our coast.

A barrel of this fish, pickled, is usually sold for five dollars at Gaspé. It is more highly valued in England.

A Tunny furnishes a barrel of 500 lbs. and more of fish fit for salting. Yield, 10 barrels of Tunny fish, value $50.

TROUT FISHERY.

The trout fishing is of but trifling importance in this division.

This fish is taken with nets in the rivers, sometimes with seines on the sea coast, and far more often with the line and fly.

In the last mentioned manner this fishery constitutes a very agreeable amusement and a most beneficial recreation for persons who require exercise in the open air.

The Great and Little Cascapédiac and the St. Jean appear to be the best stocked trout rivers in this division.

The trout belongs to the same family as the salmon, and exhibits very much the same habits. But it is the salmon's greatest enemy, for it devours every year vast quantities of salmon spawn and of young fish of that species.

Its great voracity is well known, and I cannot say whether by facilitating the propagation of trout in our rivers, we do not to the same extent affect the multiplication of the salmon. This many fishermen maintain and I believe with some show of reason.

This subject deserves to be more closely studied.

I estimate at about 60 barrels, the quantity of river trout taken in this division with net, seine and fly.

The greater part of it is consumed fresh, and does not appear in the statistics of the fishery overseer.

THIRD DIVISION.

This division covers 510 miles of Coast, north of the River and Gulf of St. Lawrence, from the Bersimis River to the frontier of the Province at Blancs-Sablons Bay, and 260 miles more on the Coast of Anticosti Island.

The eastern part of these coasts is known as the Labrador Coast, and appears to have been discovered towards the end of the fifteenth century, by Basque fishermen.

Ever long French fishermen went there to engage in the whale and cod-fisheries; and the archives of the town of Dieppe contain documents clearly proving that the mariners of that city had visited the coasts of Newfoundland; previous to the year 1500; now inasmuch as Newfoundland is separated from the Labrador coast only by the Strait of Belle Isle, which is not more than twelve miles in breadth, between Point Fortune and the opposite coast, the fishermen must have visited some parts of the Labrador coast every time the requirements of the fishery induced them to visit the coast of Newfoundland.

In his first voyage of discovery to Canada, Jacques Cartier met on this coast, near the river now known as the Napitippi, a vessel bound for the port of Brest, which was probably the first settlement founded by Europeans in Labrador.

It is situated at the foot of the bay now called Old Fort Bay.

This settlement must have increased quite rapidly, for within a few years afterwards the French had built a stone fort in order to shelter themselves against the attacks of the Indians, who, according to the narratives of travellers, were then very numerous on this part of the coast.

The places most frequented by the French, next to Brest, were Blancs Sablons bay and Spaniards bay, now called Bradore bay, which afford good anchorages for ships.

Towards the end of the 16th century two hundred vessels from various French ports visited the Labrador coast each year, for the whale, cod and seal fisheries, and so soon as their labors were ended, returned home escorted by several war vessels. But a certain number of men remained to winter on the coast, and carry on the fur trade with the Indians.

An extensive fishing establishment appears also to have existed on Bradore bay, for there are still to be seen there the vestiges of a village, which had perhaps been founded by the Spaniards, and hence the name of Spaniard's bay. The village contained at least one hundred buildings.

The importance and inexhaustible wealth of the Labrador fisheries appear to have been well understood by the French from the period of the first settlement of Canada, and many large seigniories were conceded in those locations, by the Kings of France, to several of their subjects who desired to engage in the fisheries and carry on the fur trade with the Indians; amongst the number were the Seigniory of Spaniard's Bay, St. Paul's river, the main land of Mingan, the islands and islets of Mingan, and the island of Anticosti.

At the period of the conquest, the French were obliged to leave the coast of Labrador, never to return; and to abandon for ever the various lucrative fisheries they had carried on there for a very long time.

But the fishermen of the English Colonies rushed in, in crowds to take their place and they there found a vast field open to their spirit of enterprise. They engaged chiefly in the cod and right whale fishery, the latter being then still tolerably numerous on the north coast of the strait of Belle-isle.

Soon afterwards a powerful company was formed at Quebec, under the name of the Labrador Company, having for its object the working of the sedentary seal fisheries on the Canadian coast, from Cape Whittle to the frontier.

Nor were the salmon fisheries neglected, for, from the accounts transmitted to us, it appears they then furnished a most abundant yield, in which, each year, numbers of fishermen from Nova Scotia and the other English colonies, largely shared.

After the war of American independence, the Government of the United States, which had always taken a deep interest in the great fisheries and encouraged them by every possible means, because it looked upon them as a great source of national wealth and the best possible training school for sailors to supply the large demand for its many and numberless merchant vessels,—reserved for itself for ever, by a treaty, that of 1784, the right of fish-in common with British Subjects, on nearly the whole of the Labrador coast, from Mont-Joli, ten miles east of Natashquan, to Cape Charles on the Atlantic and thence north to the possessions of the Hudson's Bay Company. This constituted not less than 800 miles of a coast exceedingly well stocked with fish and affording numerous harbors, safe and commodious, for the operations of the fishermen. The Americans were not, however, permitted to engage in the salmon fishery.

Therefore it was that these fishermen, even after having become foreigners, in relation to us, continued to frequent this coast, as they have done to this day.

Within the first few years, however, the fishermen of Nova Scotia have entered into a vigorous competition with them in these very latitudes, and in fact I believe the Nova-Scotians are now the more numerous of the two.

The cod fishery is their principal occupation.

To return to the Labrador Company, I may state that they carried on the seal and salmon fisheries for some sixty years, when, finding that these fisheries did not yield a sufficiently profitable return, the company was dissolved, and its most important posts transferred to various parties who had settled on the coast.

On the abolishment of the monopoly so long exercised by the Labrador Company over nearly 200 miles of coast, fishermen, nearly all Canadians, took possession of the posts which had been abandoned, and within twenty years their trade increased to two hundred and fifty.

On the western part of this coast this monopoly had also existed for a long period, to the benefit of the Hudson's Bay Company, in the seigniory of the mainland of Mingan, which the company rented and still rents from the proprietors, and in the King's ports, which they held under a lease from the Government of Canada.

The agents of that powerful company there carried on the fur trade with the Indians, and the salmon fishery, to the exclusion of all other British subjects who were not their servants, and what is still worse, they would not permit the latter, as I have already had frequent occasion to state, to engage in the cod-fishery there.

Happily this exclusion no longer exists, and the good fruits of the liberty now enjoyed by our fishermen of engaging in the cod, herring and other fisheries, on the coasts of the Seigniory of Mingan, and of the King's Posts, very soon became manifest; and in a few years these coasts were covered with cod-fishing establishments, affording employment to thousands of fishermen.

At the period of my first visit to the coasts included in this third division in 1852, the population was 1408 souls.

The census returns of 1861 shewed it to be 4413; a very considerable increase (3005 souls) in the space of nine years, which renders it unnecessary for me to say anything further on this subject.

The fisheries carried on in this third and last division of our coasts, are as follows:—

The spring seal fishery;

The seal hunt on the ice, with vessels, in the spring;

The cod-fishery;

The Fall herring fishery;

The Fall seal fishery;

THE SPRING SEAL FISHERY.

The seals after passing the winter in the Gulf,—where, as I have already stated, the females bring forth their young on the ice, about the month of March,—on the opening of Spring set out on their return to higher latitudes, and a climate far colder than ours, and therefore better adapted to the nature of this marine mammifer. It would appear that they go as far as the coasts of Greenland, where several varieties of the gadidœ species, which are there very numerous, constitute their food.

There are, it is well known, three passages from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the open sea; the Gut of Canso, the narrowest—the middle passage 55 miles in width, between Eel Cape on the coast of Newfoundland and North Cape, on the Island of Cape Breton, and the Straits of Belle Isle. It is by the last mentioned arm of the sea that the seals seem to make their exit in the greatest numbers, in the spring. Large numbers of them may perhaps also pass out by the middle passage, but the latter does not receive much attention.

These animals then follow the coasts of the Straits of Belle Isle, and the inhabitants of these localities set snares, in the form of immense nets, in order to enrich themselves with their precious spoils.

But this spring fishery can only be carried on on a limited scale in Canada, for we hold but a small part of the coast of the straits of Belle Isle. Moreover, for some years back the ice did not break up in the spring until towards the end of June, and thus presented a great obstacle to the labors of our fishermen.

Nevertheless the yield this year has been far in excess of that of last year, as the following will shew:—

Yield of spring seal-fishing on the Labrador coast:—

|              |              |
|--------------|--------------|
| In 1864..... | 2,080 seals. |
| In 1863..... | 165 "        |

SPRING SEAL HUNT ON THE ICE, WITH VESSELS.

Vessels are fitted out every year for this hunt at the following points: the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the Bay of Kegashca, the harbor of Natashquan and Esquimaux Point; the number has steadily increased since 1859.

These schooners carry on their perilous calling very much under the same circumstances as the Magdalen Island vessels, engaged in the same pursuit. They enjoy, however over the latter, the advantage of being to windward of the ice on leaving their ports of outfit.

This year, eighteen schooners, with an aggregate of 180 hands, and belonging to the ports above mentioned, engaged in this hunt. They brought in a total of 5,151 seals of the value of $30,934.

In 1863 the yield was only 3,147 seals, while in 1862 it reached the figure of 13,195.

This shews that the hunt is quite a matter of chance, and that its good success does not depend solely upon intelligence and activity, which our fishermen are never slow in exhibiting in such undertakings.

COD FISHERY.

This fish which has seldom commanded a higher price than this year in our markets, is found, more or less abundantly, I may say on all the coasts of Canada, extending from the frontier to Bersimis.

It appears generally about the beginning of June, remains from one to two months near the shore, and then moves off to take up its abode on banks where the water is deeper, and which are generally speaking near enough to the shore to enable our fishermen to reach them in fine weather.

It is when the cod approach the shores in pursuit of the capelan; that the large takes mentioned in several of my reports, are effected. I have also enumerated therein the localities to which the cod resort in largest numbers, and which, since the discovery of Canada, have always appeared to be the best fishing grounds for this fish. It is therefore unnecessary for me to refer to these points again.

I shall then confine myself to the results of this fishery for the present year; and what I have to report is not by any means favorable, for this has been one of the worst seasons we have had for a very long time.

To begin, the cod appeared late on the coast, and in many places did not show itself at all. In the most celebrated fishing grounds, such as Blancs Sablons Bay, Bonne Esperance, Dog Islands, Natashquan, and many other posts, the boats took only an average of 15 to 20 quintals of cod each.

Other stations, such as those between Pigon and Mingan, the Bay of Kegashca, and Mutton Bay, have been more fortunate, and there the boats succeeded in taking 50 quintals of cod, and even more.

But, on the whole, the season has been a bad one, and many of our outfitters, more especially at Moisie, have, in consequence, suffered heavy losses.

Scarcity of bait has not been the cause of these bad results, for it was tolerably abundant everywhere. The cod itself failed and did not visit these coasts this year in its usual numbers.

But how are we to account for this change in the habits of the cod, which induced them to seek new latitudes for their habitations this year in place of those they had so long frequented?

It is very difficult to give a satisfactory answer to this question.

Some assert that the ice which remained so long in the straits of Belisle, in the spring, prevented the cod from entering; others allege that the fish were driven out of their course by the wind, and I should never end if I were to state all the opinions put forth on the subject.

I think it would require a more searching examination into the phenomena accompanying the migration of the cod from the deep water of the sea to the coasts, than any that has hitherto been made, to enable us to account for the true cause of the great decrease of this fish this year, not only on the Canadian coast of Labrador, but also on those under the jurisdiction of the Government of Newfoundland.

Generally speaking, the more small fish—caplin, sand eels, and herrings, of which the cod are very greedy—there are near the coast, the more the cod abound. This year, however, there was an unusual abundance of herring on the Gaspé coast and yet cod was very scarce; I speak of the coast from cape Rosier upwards, as far as Matane and even higher up.

The Island of Anticosti, which was neglected until last year as a fishing station, will now rank under that head in my tables.

The absence of good harbors and the difficulty of approaching the coast in bad weather were the chief obstacles to its establishment as the centre of a cod fishery.

This fish, having disappeared from several places on the north shore, our fishermen were compelled to try their luck elsewhere, and a certain number of them betook themselves to the north shore of this island, selecting the following points: Belle Bay, Salmon River, Bear River Bay, and another bay in the vicinity of Cape Observation.

They have been highly successful, as may be seen from my tables accompanying the fisheries of their island.

Thirty-six fishing boats took, in the location mentioned above, over 3,500 quintals of cod, making an average of nearly 100 quintals to each boat.

I shall conclude with a statement of the yield of the cod fishery on the coast of this third division, in 1864, and for several years previous.

|              |        |                  |
|--------------|--------|------------------|
| In 1864..... | 35,360 | quintals of cod. |
| In 1863..... | 53,748 | “ “              |
| In 1862..... | 52,975 | “ “              |
| In 1861..... | 51,668 | “ “              |
| In 1852..... | 9,980  | “ “              |

This shews that the yield increased more than five-fold, from 1852 to 1861. Since then it has gradually augmented, until this year, when the ill-success of the fishery has reduced it to the figure given above.

MACKEREL FISHERY.

This fish does not frequent the coasts of this division in sufficiently large numbers to deserve the attention of the fisherman.

In summer it appears, nevertheless, in some places, such as Little Mecatina and the adjoining coasts, and in fact it sometimes enters the straits of Belle Isle. It also appears not unfrequently at Shell-Draie, Lower Moisie, and the Bay of Seven Islands, but not in large shoals, nor at such fixed and certain periods as to enable our fishermen to adopt this fishery as a special branch of their calling. And, generally speaking, it is only when they are engaged in other fisheries that they are fortunate enough to take, with seines, a few hundred barrels of this fine fish. This year, this fishery has yielded but 350 barrels.

HERRING FISHERY.

This fishery has been carried on with varied and, generally speaking, very limited success this year, in those places which the herring are in the habit of visiting at the close of the summer and the beginning of autumn, between Shicataka and Blancs Sablons Bay.

A certain quantity was also taken in the vicinity of Pigon and even on the north coast of the island of Anticosti, particularly at Belle-Bay.

|---------------------------|-------|----------|
| The united yield was..... | 2,050 | barrels. |
| In 1863, it was.....      | 2,943 | “        |
| In 1862 “ .....           | 636   | “        |
| In 1861 “ .....           | 2,371 | “        |

FALL SEAL-FISHERY.

I stated above, when speaking of the spring seal fishery, that this marine mammifer after providing for the re-production of its species in the Gulf, passes out into the deep water of the sea.

In the Autumn, on the contrary, they return to the Gulf, chiefly by the straits of Belle Isle, and their appearance in these waters is the signal for the commencement of an active fishery, which is carried on during the last two weeks of the month of December.

This fishery was formerly highly productive, and I might mention stations where as many as 3600 of these amphibious animals have been captured. But its importance and the value of its products have greatly declined within the last fifteen years, for reasons which I have already given in several of my reports.

The principal cause seems to be the excessive number of establishments now in operation on the coast.

The noise made, the coming and going of fishing boats, and even the smoke from the chimnies of the houses, have rendered the seals so timid, that they are now greatly afraid to approach the coast very closely, as they did forty years ago. Now in order to the success of the net seal-fishery, it is absolutely necessary that the shoals of this amphibious animal should pass quite close to the shore.

In accordance with a general law of nature, all animals, both great and small, which man has not succeeded in domesticating or bringing into submission so as to render them available for his use, invariably fly at his approach, and seek refuge in regions where they trust to find an impenetrable asylum and shelter from his attacks.

Striking examples of this are afforded in the Gulf.

The porpoise, an amphibious animal now of great value for its skin, which is almost an inch in thickness, and the abundance of oil it yields, and which was to be found in vast numbers in many parts of the Gulf when these latitudes were first visited by Europeans, has completely disappeared within a period of less than 250 years. It has taken refuge in the polar seas and the unfrequented coasts of Hudson's Bay.

The Greenland whale, that valuable cetacea, so gentle by nature, which, owing to its timidity and the slowness of its movements, the seaman was enabled to pursue with success, is now no longer to be seen in the Gulf or even on the Atlantic Coasts in the vicinity of that inland sea.

And yet it was the large profits resulting from this fishery on the coast of Newfoundland, in the straits of Belle Isle and in certain parts of the Gulf, that attracted to the coasts of America the first European vessel manned by the Biscayan those renowned seamen of former days, who were the inventors of the whale fishery.

Have not the sperm whales nearly all disappeared from the Atlantic, and are not those who now pursue them compelled to penetrate the fields of polar ice, in order to find the remnants of the numerous families of these giants of the watery waste that swarmed in every part of this sea at the time of the discovery of America.

I could mention many more cases, but I must curtail my remarks.

The seals have already abandoned a portion of our coast.

At the period of the first settlement of Canada, they ascended the river St. Lawrence as far as Quebec; and in many parts of it this fishery was carried on, as is clearly proved by the remains of the furnaces used in melting the oil, which are found in many places on the shores. I do not think, however, that we need fear that these mammifers will abandon the coast altogether, for the points they still frequent will never be much more thickly settled than they are at present.

But what I apprehend is that they may gradually pass at an increased distance from our coast in their periodical migrations, and that a portion of our fishermen may thus be deprived of the resources they derive from this fishing.

I cannot give the yield of this fishery for this Fall (1864), until next year. The Fall yield for 1863 was less than half that of the previous year, but slightly in excess of that of 1861, as the following figures will shew.

|                    |      |        |
|--------------------|------|--------|
| Fall fishing 1863, | 818  | Seals. |
| “ 1862,            | 2115 | “      |
| “ 1861,            | 696  | “      |
| “ 1852,            |      | “      |

SALMON FISHERY.

The yield of the Salmon fishery this year, on the coast with which I am now engaged, has been on the whole, the least abundant I have ever known. And the oldest fishermen do not remember a year in which this fishery was so unproductive.

I refer more particularly to that part of the coast which extends from Blancs Sablons Bay to the river Natashquan.

This scarcity of salmon was not confined to our coasts alone. The coast of Labrador under the jurisdiction of the Government of Newfoundland, as far as Cape Chudleigh, suffered in the same way; that is to say, salmon was there extremely scarce and appeared only at a very advanced period of the season. I received this information from Captain Dixon, of Halifax, who has for a very long period been in the habit of visiting this coast for the salmon fishery, his operations extending more than three hundred miles beyond Cape Charles.

It was also remarked, at several points on the eastern parts of the coast of this division, and more particularly in the vicinity of Five Leagues, that the only time when the salmon appeared in any numbers was in the month of August, while in the western part nothing extraordinary had been noticed in the habits of this fish. The quantity was, however, somewhat less than last year.

This deplorable state of things is generally attributed to the extraordinary quantity of ice with which the waters of the Atlantic coast of Labrador and the straits of Belle Isle were covered up to a very advanced period of the season, and to the rigor and coldness of the summer in these latitudes.

Captain Dickson also stated that, on his way to his usual fishing grounds, he had been ice bound up to the 26th July, and that on the 28th of that month snow had fallen on the part of the coast where he happened to be, to the depth of three feet.

Special causes may also have affected the development of the young salmon in many of the rivers of the coast, causes which we are not in a position to examine, for the facts which it would be necessary to note in order to arrive at a correct conclusion occur in very remote localities totally uninhabited and therefore difficult of access.

The following comparative table of the yield of the salmon fishery will show with what success this fishery has been carried on since the year 1860:—

|                          |       |                    |
|--------------------------|-------|--------------------|
| Yield for year 1860..... | 1689½ | Barrels of Salmon. |
| “ “ 1861.....            | 1831  | “ “                |
| “ “ 1862.....            | 1819  | “ “                |
| “ “ 1863.....            | 1992½ | “ “                |
| “ “ 1864.....            | 1169¾ | “ “                |

The yield for the Island of Anticosti is as follows:—

|              |     |                    |
|--------------|-----|--------------------|
| In 1861..... | 35  | Barrels of Salmon. |

| 1864.....    |     |                    |

In addition to the products above mentioned, which have been used for human food, 1,560 barrels of herrings, 1450 barrels of caplin, and 2,100 barrels of plaice have been used as manure in the county of Bonaventure.

In the county of Rimouski over 400 barrels of herrings have been used for the same purpose.

I may also state that the greater part of the offal and waste of the cod taken on the Gaspé coast, is spread over the fields, which it fertilizes in the highest degree. The great fishery is thus of the highest service to agriculture.

Reached Amherst Island from Montreal, with salt and provisions, 15th May. Was occupied during the summer months in the cod fishery. Left the port of Amherst 6th October, with 3000 gallons of cod oil, large codfish and mackerel for Halifax.

Schooner "A. Painchaud" Capt. P. Gaudier.

Arrived at Amherst 1st May, from Montreal with provisions worth £1000. Sailed from Amherst 10th June, for Montreal, with 6000 gallons seal oil, and returned to Amherst 15th July, with provisions. Sailed again for Halifax, 10th September, with 2000 sealskins, and 600 quintals of dried codfish.—Returned to the Magdalen Islands 8th October, and was to leave in a short time for Caraquette, to take in a cargo of Oysters for Montreal.

Schooner "Cutter."

Was engaged during the summer months in the cod fishery on the Labrador Coast, and round the Magdalen Islands. Was to leave in October for Halifax, with 600 quintals codfish.

Schooner "Loup Marin."

Was to leave 20th October, for Halifax with 500 quintals dried codfish.

Schooner "President," Capt. Martinet.

Was engaged during the summer in the cod fishery, and was to leave on the 20th October, for Halifax, with 500 quintals codfish.

Schooner "Fleet Wing," Captain J. Lacombe.

Was to leave for Montreal in the month of October with 500 barrels wet codfish, mackerel, oil, &c., c.

Mr. William Johnson, merchant, residing at House Harbor, exported in five or six schooners about 2000 quintals of codfish to Halifax, also about 9000 gallons seal oil, 1200 gallons cod liver oil, as well as several thousand seal skins, herrings and mackerel.

Mr. Clarence Hamilton, merchant of New Carlisle, in La Baie des Chaleurs, who has two fishing establishments on the North Shore of the St. Lawrence, one at Long Point, and the other at the River Moisie, exported this year to Spain in his vessel the Mingan, about 2000 quintals of dried codfish.

CONTINUATION OF THE LIST OF FISHES FOUND IN THE GULF OF AND RIVER ST. LAWRENCE.

LUCIO-PERCA AMERICANA.

French—Le Sandre d'Amérique, vulgar appellation in Canada. "Doré."

English—American Sandre, American Pike-Perch, Yellow Pike-Perch, vulgar name, "Dory."

Of the order of Acanthopterygians of the family of Percoides, of the genus Sandres or Lucio-perca.

It can only be by analogy that in Canada the vulgar name has been given to the kind of fish now claiming my attention, because the fish known under the French name of "La Dorée" (and sometimes "Poisson de St. Pierre") and in England as the "John Dory" is quite a different fish from the "Sandre." The Dorée is a Scomberoide, the Zeus of Faber, with a short body, compressed at the dorsal fin, with long spinous rays filiform. The sides shew metallic shades and are covered with yellowish stripes.

Nor can it be on account of its likeness to the "Dorade" or "Cyprinean Doré" of China. The latter is a red fish belonging to the family of "Cyprinus" and consequently has only one dorsal fin composed of soft rays. I rather think that it is owing to the lustrous and golden shades found in the American Serran, that it is called "Doré, the name under which it is universally known in Canada. Whatever name may be given to it, it is one of the best fish found either in our own or in neighbouring fresh waters. Its flesh is firm and delicious, but it is always in the best condition during the spring and fall. Its average length is fifteen inches, but it sometimes reaches even two feet and more. Its colour is olive on the back, paler on the sides, which sometimes bear spots of a brownish black colour with golden shades, and silvery white under the belly. On the head we find small spots of greenish brown and grey colour, with black spots on the first dorsal fin. The following is the form of the rays of the fins in several specimens caught at Montreal, Quebec and in the Lower St. Lawrence, which I examined with very great care.

1st D. 13.1.20; P. 15; V. 1.5; A. 1.12; C. 17<sup>8</sup>.
 2nd D. 12.1.20; P. 15; V. 1.5; A. 1.12; C. do.
 3rd D. 13.1.20; P. 15; V. 1.5; A. 1.13; C. do.
 4th D. 15.1.21; P. 15; V. 1.5; A. 1.14; C. do.

The mouth of this fish is large, and has strong teeth, making it a dangerous enemy to other fish. In the rear part of each jaw are two long pointed teeth which serve as "canines" and give the fish quite a dangerous appearance. With such means of attack, with its well known strength and agility, it is an easy matter for it to become voracious. It is believed that in common with the Pike which it in some respects resembles, the Sandre destroys a large number of small fish of which they make their daily food. The Doré is caught both with line and net, particularly in the neighborhood of Sorel.

It spawns in the spring near the shore in still water. The ovaries of the females contain a large number of eggs.

LUCIO-PERCA CANADENSIS—SMITH.

French—Sandre du Canada.

English—Canadian Sandre—Green Pickerel.

This variety of the Sandre, smaller than the preceding kind, has been found in the Gulf of St. Lawrence; and if we can believe the authors, it is found only in Canada. Its distinguishing feature is, that the posterior side of the operculum is armed with five spinous fins, which distinctly differ; while in the American species, the posterior part of the same section is uniform. Moreover, the greenish olive colour of its back, and the darker shades of all the other parts of its body would be sufficient, with its small size, to establish it as a separate variety of the species, if the distinctive mark did not exist.

According to Richardson and Smith, the rays of its fins are as follows:—

D. 12, 1, 17; P. 12; V. 1, 15; A. 12; C. 17.

I think that this fish is scarce in the River St. Lawrence, although it is a Canadian species. Its flesh is the same as the species previously described, and there is no doubt that its habits are also the same. There is a third species of the Doré, the "Lucio-Perca Grisea." It is said that it can be classed with the "Lucio-Perca Americana." As its name indicates, its colour is grey; it is a small fish, but quite as good to eat as the kinds previously described.

CENTRARCHUS ZENEUS—CUVIER.

French—Centrarque bronzé. In Canada, Achigan Vert.

English—Rock Bass, Fresh Water Bass.

Of the order of Acanthopterygians, of the family of Percoïdes, of the genus Centrarchus.

This fish is quite common in the fresh waters of Canada, particularly in the River St. Lawrence. It takes natural and artificial bait easily. Fishing for this kind of bass is amusing, and furnishes sport for gentlemen who cannot indulge in the luxury of fishing for trout or salmon. Its flesh is frequently seen on our tables, as it is firm, wholesome, and well liked. Its form resembles that of the "Pomotis," for which it may sometimes be mistaken, but it is generally larger than the latter fish. Its colour is generally bronzo, mixed with green. On the posterior part of the appendix to the operculum, there is a remarkable black spot. The lateral line is quite prominent, and follows the line of the back. Under this line, there are ten or twelve parallel lines, with small black spots of square form on a grey basis, which give to this part of the fish a striped appearance. The eye is large, with a white pupil; the iris is yellow. The ordinary length of this Bass is from 8 to 9 inches. The specimen which I examined most attentively, was:—

In length.....7½ inches
 In width.....3 "
 In thickness.....1½ "

The rays of the fins were as follows:-

D. 10.11; P. 14; V. 1.5; V. 6.11; C. 18.

The anterior rays of the dorsal, and anal, as well as the ventral are strongly spinous and are, no doubt, used as means of defence by this species of "percoïdes." The mouth of this fish, which is of a kind peculiar to America, is of middling size. It is armed at the jaws, the palatine bones and pharyngeans, with a number of teeth, small, conical and bent inwards.

POMOTIS VULGARIS—CUVIER.

French—Le Pomotis Commun. En Canada Crapais.

Of the order of Acanthopterygians of the family of Percoides of the genus Pomotis. This pretty little fish, which, like the last described, is peculiar to the fresh waters of America, is found in abundance in all the rivers of Canada, where it is well known under the popular name of "Crapais." Its flesh is firm during the whole year and very good eating. It is always very small. Its compressed form, its brilliant colours, and above all, the black spot with vermilion border, to be found on the posterior part of the operculum, distinguish it from congenerous species. The principal dimensions of a specimen which I procured in Montreal were as follows:—

|                         |               |
|-------------------------|---------------|
| Length in full          | 6½ inches.    |
| Breadth " 3 "           | and 7 lines.  |
| Thickness " 1 "         | and 1 line.   |
| D. 10 spinous rays..... | 10 soft.      |
| P. 12 " " " " " "       | " " " " " "   |
| V. 1 " " " " " "        | 5 " " " " " " |
| A. 3 " " " " " "        | 9 " " " " " " |
| C. 16 3/8 " " " " " "   | " " " " " "   |

The two middle rays of the caudal fin are at a greater distance from each other than other species. The colour is an olive brown on the back and sides, yellowish on the belly, with small yellow spots on the sides. This fish prefers tranquil water particularly where aquatic plants grow. It is easily taken with both line and seine-net.

ASPIDOPHORUS, LACEPEDE.—AGONUS, BLOCK—PHALANGISTA, PALLAS—COTTUS, CATAPHRACTUS—LINNEUS.

French—Aspidophore.

English—"Armed Bull-Head?" Pogge.

Of the order of Acanthopterygians, of the family of Mailed Cheeks, of the genus Aspidophorus.

The specimen from which I furnish the following description was given to me by Mr. Elias Collas, of Pointe St. Pierre, on the shores of Gaspé. It was caught in a net in that neighborhood.

|                           |               |
|---------------------------|---------------|
| Total length.....         | 7½ inches.    |
| Length of the head.....   | 1½ "          |
| Length of body.....       | 5½ "          |
| Length of caudal fin..... | ¼ of an inch. |

This fish whose head is strongly mailed with scales, surmounted by spinous rays in the same way as all the members of this family, and whose body is covered over its whole length with strong pointed scales; presents the appearance of an elongated pyramid. The head is larger than the body. The eyes are large, slightly raised upwards, and the iris is yellow. The mouth is of average size with sharp fine teeth, both in the upper and lower jaws. There are no teeth in the vomer. The nose ends in a horny protuberance, hollow in the upper part, with a short spinous ridge bending backwards. At the commissure of the lips on each side there are four barbels, one above, with three others (the upper one being the longest); on the same line as the lower jaw, and a little further than half the length of the same jaw, there is also on each side, a bifurcated barbel one quarter of an inch in length. The others are half an inch in length. The form of the body of this fish, from the head to the beginning of the tail-third is octagonal. This is owing to the eight rows of strong scaly plates which cover it. Further on, the two back rows join with those of the belly in one row, and from that point to the tail, the form is hexagonal. There are two dorsal fins: the first is  $7\frac{1}{2}$  lines from the head. It is  $5\frac{1}{2}$  lines in width at its base and has 7 rays. The second is five lines in rear of the first, and is also composed of seven rays.

The pectorals are  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches in length and are composed of 15 rays. They are susceptible of great dilatation.

The ventrals are under the pectorals and are composed of 3 rays, the first of which is short and spinous.

The anal is  $\frac{3}{4}$  of an inch in length at its base, has 8 rays and is situate a little in front of the second dorsal fin. The caudal fin has 11 rays.

D. 7. 7; P. 15; V. 1. 2; A. 8; C. 11;

This fish is common in the sea waters of Europe and America, but it is found principally on the north coasts of Labrador, Greenland and Norway.

GASTEROSTEUS PUNGITIUS.

French—Epinoche à dix épines.

English—Ten spined Stickle-back.

Of the order of Acanthopterygians, of the family of Mailed Cheeks, of the genus Gasterosteus.

This fish, one of the smallest in Canada, is found both in fresh and salt water. Its average length is  $2\frac{1}{2}$  inches. The lower jaw is longer than the upper and the mouth is directed upwards. The body is as it were naked; in other words, it is not covered with scaly bands, as are those with three spines of the species described in my Report of last year. The tail is crenated and covered with scales on each side. The lateral line is clearly marked, colour brown on the back, and olive on the sides that are marked with small black spots, also silvery under the belly.

From the lateral line to the back, there are very distinct diagonal lines.

The ova of the females are yellowish in color, and measure one half line in diameter.

The distinctive character of this species is, that on the back between the head and dorsal fin there are 10 spinous rays of about one line in length that go alternately from right to left. These spinous rays are stationary, and can be brought to the level of the back according to the will of the fish.

The rays of the fins are distributed, as follows:—

D. 9; P. 10; V. 1; A. 1.9; C. 12.

The ventral is composed of a strong spinous ray which attaches itself to a bone of which this fish makes use as a powerful means of defence when so inclined. In a state of quietude, this spinous ray rests upon a scaly band of the fish. I found a number of specimens of this variety in the stream called, "Ruisseau de la Pointe aux Esquimaux." There is no doubt that it is also found in other parts of Canada. Some are found with nine spinous rays on the back instead of ten. In its general features, this fish more clearly resembles the ten-spined gasterosteus of Europe than the western Gasterosteus of Cuvier, and it is for this reason that I have given to it the name of Pungitius. I found in the same stream, Pointe aux Esquimaux several specimens of a kind of Stickle-Back with 4 spinous rays on the two first large and the two latter smaller by half, and nearer to each other. In their general appearance, these sticklebacks are similar to those with three spinous rays. They have the scaly bands on each side of the body that distinguish the Gasterosteus aculeatus. The fins are as follows:—

D. 9; P. 9; V. 1; A. 1.8; C. 9 or 10.

This variety, if it belong to the species, cannot be the Gasterosteus Quadraeus of Mitchell and much less the Gasterosteus Apeltes of Cuvier. Perhaps the fourth spinous ray is an anomaly in this fish.

PREPILUS CRYPTOSUS—CUVIER—RHOMBUS CRYPTOSUS—CUVIER ET VALENCIENNES—RHOMBUS TREVIANTHUS—DE KAY.

French.—Le Rhombe à Fossettes—Cuvier.

English.—The three Spined Prepilus—Storer; the Short finned Harvest-fish—De Kay.

I give a description of this fish which is rarely found on our coast according to a specimen taken at La Pointe St. Pierre, also procured for me by Mr. Elias Collins.

|                                |         |            |
|--------------------------------|---------|------------|
| Length of the body of the fish | .....   | 4½ inches. |
| “ tail                         | “ ..... | 1½ “       |
| Total length                   | “ ..... | 5½ “       |
| Width of the body              | “ ..... | 2 “        |
| Thickness of “                 | “ ..... | 1½ “       |

Length from the front of the fore part of the head to the rear part of the gills 1½ inches. Length of the pectoral fin, 1½ inches.

The body of this fish is of elliptical form and compressed. The line of contour of the abdomen is more rounded than that of the back. The nose is pugged. The scales are small and scarcely visible. The lateral line runs parallel to the contour line of the back, but is raised a little higher and is scaly. There are also two other lines on the sides of this fish, one straight and deep that runs from the tail to the beginning of the lateral line above the pre-operculum, the other lower and less distinct, also deep, commencing at the lower part of the dorsal fin, and running parallel with the contour line of the abdomen to the tail. On the back of this fish on each side, beginning at the front part of the dorsal fin and extending backwards, I found on the right side four, and on the left side twenty-four small apertures that appear to be the orifices of the mucous glands, and over each of these apertures there is a small dimple that rises in the direction of the dorsal fins. The eyes are large, the pupil is bluish and the iris yellow. Double nostrils, small teeth, very small in the upper and lower jaws, and also in the pharynx. The tongue is small and moves easily. The dorsal fin extends from the extremity of the forepart of the back to the tail; it is composed of three spinous rays, and forty-five soft rays. The foremost rays are longer than the others. In the pectoral fin, there are twenty-five soft rays, those in the middle being the longest. There is no ventral fin. In the anal fin, there are three short spinous rays, the first and third bending backwards, and the second forward; there are also thirty-nine soft rays. The caudal fin is sloping, and is composed of 19 +  $\frac{5}{8}$  soft rays. We find on each side of this fish, and particularly in the posterior part, small scaly plates raised up, of a round shape, they are visible, and of metallic tint. The general colour of the Rhombus, is a silvery white on the belly and sides, darker on the back.

ZOARCES LABRASUS—CUVIER.

French.—Zoarcs à grosses lèvres; erroneously called in Canada Chat de Mer, Congre.

English.—Large-lipped Bleung, Eel-shaped Bleung, Thick-lipped Eel-Pout.

Of the order of Acanthopterygians, of the family of Gobioides, of the genus Zoarcus. This fish which is exclusively found in sea water, is found in all parts of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Our fishermen frequently catch them in fishing for cod. It is however of no service to them, as the flesh although wholesome and good is but rarely eaten in Canada.

The names of Chat de Mer and Congre given to it by our fishermen are not correct. The first of these names is better suited to the Anarrhichas Lupus; and the real Conger Vulgaris has never yet been caught in the water of the Gulf. The following are the dimensions of the Zoarcus as found in our waters:

Length 24 inches, width 3½ inches.

The fins are as follows:

|    |         |                     |
|----|---------|---------------------|
| D. | 95 rays | 17 inches long.     |
| P. | 17 “    | 3 “                 |
| V. | 4 “     | $\frac{3}{4}$ inch. |
| A. | 76 “    | 14½ inches.         |
| C. | 63 “    | “                   |

Between the dorsal and the caudal; there are 7 or 9 spinous rays, that is to say that these two fins are as it were joined one to the other by short spinous rays. The mouth is large, and the lips are thick and hanging. The two jaws are armed with three rows of strong conical teeth. There are also teeth on the pharyngeal bones. The colour is as follows:—head, blackish; body, olive brown with brownish spots; the dorsal, olive brown with blackish spots on several rays; the caudal, olive brown, and each ray is spotted lightly with black. There is also an anal tubercle.

CTENOLABRUS UNINOTATUS.

French—Cténolabre Mouché.

English—Spotted Bergall.

Of the order of Acanthopterygians, of the family of Labridæ, of the genus Ctenilabrus. In October last, I procured a specimen of this kind of "Ctenilabrus" in Gaspé Basin. It was two and one-half inches in length, and four lines and one-half in width. Its colour is olive, its scales small and well defined; the mouth is large, and the eyes black. The fins in the specimen I procured were as follows:

D. 17.10; P. 14; V. 1.5; A. 3.10; C. 13½.

The front rays of the dorsal, ventral and anal were spinous, as in the description of which I gave a detailed account last year. The peculiarity however that distinguishes this kind, and to which its name can be attributed, is a blueish spot of oval form of about one line in diameter on the three first soft rays of the dorsal fin. Several naturalists assert that this fish is nothing more than the young of the Ctenilabrus Chayset which at the age of maturity loses the spot peculiar to the Cténolabre mouché; while others maintain, that it is a distinct fish that never reaches a large size. I am inclined to agree with those who offer the latter opinion, because Cuvier's views are in my favour, and such an authority is very valuable. Moreover, the habits of this little fish and the kind of water it frequents, are the same as those of the Chayset.

HYODON TERGISUS.

French—Hyodon. In Canada, Laquaiche. The "voyageurs" of the North call them Nacaiche.

English—Hyodon. River Moon-eye, Moon-eye herring.

Of the order of Abdominal Malacopterygians, of the family of Clupeidæ, of the genus Hyodon-Cuvier.

This fish of which probably there are several varieties in Canada, is peculiar to the fresh waters of America. The kind taken in the river St. Lawrence so much resembles that described by Le Sueur under the title of hyodon tergisus, that I thought it prudent to describe it under the name. In the colour, and in the number of fins, there may however be some difference. This fish might also be classed with Richardson's Hyodon Chrysopsis, which is by him described as frequenting the fresh waters of the northern parts of this continent, were it not that there is a difference in the number of spinous rays in the dorsal fin and in the size of the fish, which is greater than that of the Hyodon of the St. Lawrence. Our laquaiché might be a kind of fish not yet described, and what leads me to be of that opinion is, that neither De Kay nor Storer have alluded to the longitudinal bands with which this fish is marked on the sides. They may perhaps have composed their description according to a stuffed specimen in which the true colours of the fish are scarcely seen. In my case, I can assert that I studied the form of a specimen just taken out of the water.

The following is a brief description of the "laquaiché" of the River St. Lawrence:—Length, 11 to 13 inches; width, 3 inches; thickness, 1½ inches.

Small head, very large eyes, blackish back, with five narrow longitudinal bands of whitish colour above the lateral line, which is straight and well defined. Sides and belly of a silvery color, with eight parallel whitish bands, but less defined than in the upper part of the fish. One row of conical teeth in the upper, and two rows in the lower jaw. The extremity of the tongue is furnished with strong teeth, the outside ones being longer than the others. The body is compressed. Large brilliant scales cover the whole body, and even the root of the tail, which is bifurcated. The following is the form of the rays of the fins in the two specimens that I studied with care.

1st specimen; D. 13; P. 12; V. 7; A. 32; C. 18.
2nd " " D. 14; P. 14; V. 7; A. 31; C. 18.

The first ray of the dorsal fin is the shortest; the second is the longest, and they go on diminishing to the last. In the pectoral fin, the two first rays are very strong and the longest. The rays of the ventral fin are very distinct, and are all ramified. In the anal fin, the 4th, 5th 6th, and 7th rays are the longest; those following shorten gradually to the 19th, and from this one to the last, they are of equal length. The flesh of the Lacuaiche is wholesome and furnishes very good food, but it is not one of our best fish.

It is caught at the fishing stations of Beaumont, and in the vicinity of Quebec. In these places, it is generally caught of small size. At Sorel, it is found in the largest quantities, and of the largest size.

LEPISOSTEUS OSSEUS, LINNÆUS. LEPISOSTEUS LONGIROSTRIS—GUVIER.

French—Lepisosté Vulgaire, Lepisosté à long museau, Carmon—En Canada, Poisson Armé.

English—Common Garfish; Buffalo Bony Pike; Alligator Gar; Common Bill-fish.

Of the order Abdominal Malacopterygians of the family of Clupidae of the genus Lepisosteus.

The elongated form of this fish, its long jaws provided with strong and sharp teeth, give to it an appearance of boldness and ferocity that might permit of its being taken for the shark of our fresh waters; but happily, the large stony scales which cover its body and the small extension of its fins compel it to move slowly, and it is, therefore, less an enemy than might at first have been supposed. There are three kinds of the Lepisosteus to be found in America; the one I have described is found in the River St. Lawrence, in some of our large lakes, and in all the fresh waters of the United States both north and west. It is also found in the northern regions. Its ordinary length is from 2 to 4 and even 5 feet.

In the River St. Lawrence, it does not attain the size which makes it a redoubtable adversary in the large lakes, and the specimen I now have before me is one of the largest size taken:

|--------------------------|-------------|
| Total length.....        | 3½ feet.    |
| Width.....               | 3 inches.   |
| Length of the head.....  | 11½ inches. |
| Length of the snout..... | 8¼ do       |

The whole body of this fish is covered with large stony scales which when dry are of the hardness of ivory. There are 64 rows of these from the head to the root of the tail, and each row is composed of eighteen to twenty scales of rhomboidal form, which go in an oblique direction from the back to the belly. The lateral line is easily traced, and runs parallel to the line of the back. There is a streak in the middle of the back that extends from the head to the dorsal fin. The head is small, and flattened on the upper part. The eyes are large; the jaws very narrow and elongated, with 25 to 30 conical sharp teeth in each, from one to two lines in length between which can be seen a large number of small sharp teeth on the exterior part of the jaws. I counted 180 of these teeth in the upper and at least 120 in the lower jaw. These numbers are of course subject to variation. The upper jaw is the longest, and is furnished at the end with five or six long pointed teeth. The nostrils are double, and are at the extreme end of the snout. The interior of the jaws is furnished with a large number of small soft or velvety teeth that give to this portion of the fish the appearance of a rasp. With such a formidable engine of attack, it is certainly difficult for any fish seized by the Lepisosteus to escape, and this fish must be a great enemy to all those that live in the same waters. Happily, reproduction of this species is not very fruitful, because in these waters it is not abundantly found, even where it would seem to thrive best.

In the River St. Lawrence, this fish is caught in stake nets, below Quebec particularly, and in seines in Lake St. Peter and in the vicinity of Sorel. It is found in other places but rarely. The fins have the following number of rays according to my specimen D. 7; P. 12; V. 6; A. 9; C. 12.

The dorsal fin is two and a half feet in rear of the head, and near the caudal-fin, while the ventral is at an equal distance from both the pectoral and the anal, the latter being placed under the dorsal. The two extreme rays of the caudal and the first rays of the other fins are covered with bifid scales, that give them a rugged appearance, which has even induced more naturalists to assert that there are two distinct rays in each of the first.

The color of the Lepisosteus is a dirty yellow, but darker in the fore part of the body. This fish is good to eat, but I am not aware that it has yet been adopted as an article of food in Canada. On the contrary, it is rejected with disgust as if it were unfit to eat or unwholesome. This is certainly not the case.

PLATASSA PLANA.—MITCHELL.

French—Plie.

English—Flatfish, Flounder.

Of the order of Malacopterygians of the family of Pleuronectes, of the genus Platessa.

This variety of the family of Pleuronectes appears to be one of the most common in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. I found it on the coast of Gape, in La Baie des Chaleurs, and on the coast of Labrador. It is an excellent fish for eating purposes, although unfortunately it is not generally used as food in Canada.

It is generally used, however, as manure. For my part, I have always found it to be wholesome food and as delicate in taste, in my opinion, as the Sole of Europe. The fish found on rocky or sandy bottoms are always preferable to those caught on muddy bottoms, the latter contracting a flavour when they have remained there for some time.

The small specimen that I examined shewed the following dimensions:—

|                     |           |
|---------------------|-----------|
| Total length.....   | 3 inches. |
| Length of body..... | 2½ "      |
| Width.....          | 1½ "      |

D. 57; P. 11; V. 6; A. 40; C. 15 $\frac{22}{22}$ .

In front of the caudal fin, there is a spinous ray nearly hidden which is directed forwards. It must be remarked that this fish has only two sides of the body symmetrical, in the same way as all the family to which it belongs, and its eyes are on the right side of the body. Its colour on the right side, or on the back as it is generally called, is a greenish brown small dark spots, but in many individual cases, these spots are not visible. Moreover, the colour of the Platessa varies according to age, and according to the nature of the bottoms it frequents. The left side or the belly is white. The average length of this kind of Platessa is from 10 to 15 inches. It spawns in the spring near the shore.

ACIPENSER BREVIROSTRIS.

French—L'Esturgeon à museau court, Le Grand Esturgeon.

English—Short nosed Sturgeon.

This kind of Sturgeon is undoubtedly the largest fish in the River St. Lawrence or tributaries, and we might even say, of all the fresh waters of the interior. It frequently reaches an enormous size, and some have been caught measuring from 9 to 10 feet in length, but its ordinary size is from 5 to 6 feet. It appears to have been clearly established that this variety of the Sturgeon, studied by Lesueur the Naturalist, is peculiar to North America, although an attempt has been made to class it with the European variety known as the Common Sturgeon (Acipenser Sturio). It cannot be classified with or mistaken for the Grand Esturgeon (Acipenser Fluvo of Linnaeus) which is found in the Volga, the Don, and some other rivers that fall into the Caspian Sea. The latter has a different kind of snout, and rather shorter, perhaps, than our species; but it is much larger, because they have been known to reach 15 feet in length and to weigh as much as 2,000 lbs. The Caviar, which is a delicate food much sought for in the East, of which a large trade is carried on in Russia, Turkey, and even Italy, is nothing else but the eggs of this fish, pickled by a peculiar process. And Ichthyocolle (Isinglass) the preparation of which is almost monopolised by Russia, is the natatory bladder of this fish cleaned and dried. Isinglass may, however, also be made from other cartilaginous fish as the Ray and Squalus.

It is to be regretted that as yet, we have not thought in Canada, of attempting the manufacture of this article of commerce as well as common fish glue, as we have two kinds of Sturgeon in our large and small rivers, and a smaller kind, it is stated, in our lakes. The squalus and ray are also found on our coasts. Let us hope that a branch of industry, which could furnish us with articles of daily consumption, now imported from foreign countries, will soon be introduced among us. It can only assist in the development of our fisheries.

The "the short nosed sturgeon," so well described by Lesueur, is elongated in the body, and covered with horny tubercles, the number of which vary according to the age of the fish. It is found in all parts of the River St. Lawrence. It is caught in both stake and seine nets. The fishermen of Quebec have given it the name of Coureur. Its flesh although wholesome is not so agreeable to the taste as that of the short nosed sturgeon above described. As a general rule it is not much used as food.

But between Blancs Sablons and Mingan it was at a few points only that the Cod approached the shore this summer, among which may be mentioned Mutton Bay, where the Cod remained nearly a fortnight, Whale Head of Meccatina, and Natashquan, and, moreover, but very little was taken on these latter fishing grounds, as may be seen by the table. |

AUDIT OFFICE, QUEBEC,

SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1865.

SIR,—I have the honor herewith to present to you Part II of the Miscellaneous Statistics of Canada, for 1865, being a Summary of the Municipal Returns for the past year. It is given in a condensed form, in accordance with the desire of the Joint Committee of Parliament on Printing, and it is only proposed to prepare the extended Returns for the press once in every four or five years. The manuscript copies are, however, kept in the office in a form available for reference.

LOWER CANADA.

The Returns for Lower Canada are more perfect than they were last year, but they are not yet so complete as it is hoped they will be in future years. It should be remembered that this is only the second time that any compilation relating to that section of the Province has been made.

UPPER CANADA.

The first four columns are amongst the most important, viz., the number of Acres Assessed, the number of Rate-payers Assessed, and the assessed value of Real and Personal Property; and great care has been taken to make these, especially, as perfect as possible. A great deal of correspondence has been held with the several Municipal Officers respecting them wherever there appeared any doubt as to the accuracy of the Returns, or any discrepancy between them and those of the previous year. The consequence has been that not only the Returns for 1864 may, it is believed, be safely relied upon, but that several inaccuracies in those of 1863 have been discovered, which have been amended in the figures for that year, as given for comparison in the present Statements. Still there are many glaring inconsistencies between the Returns of the two years, which, in some instances, have certainly arisen from a revision of the scale of assessment in the latter year, in consequence of the general distribution of our former compilation having called attention to the unequal system as pursued in different Municipalities.* Much, however, still remains to be done before any trustworthy comparison between the wealth and resources of different sections of the country can be instituted from these Returns. The inequalities in the modes of assessment in different Townships in the same County are, to a certain extent—though imperfectly—remedied by the action of the County Councils in equalizing the several Rolls for the purpose of levying county rates; but very similar differences exist between the Counties themselves. I append a Statement shewing the average rates

* It is perhaps necessary to add with respect to two other columns, viz., "Amount of Municipal Loan Fund Debentures," and "Interest over-due," that the figures are given as returned by the municipalities and that some municipalities have made no returns. The debentures issued to the municipalities can of course be given from our books, but the amount of sinking fund at their credit (if any) and the arrears of interest due on this account cannot be exactly known until the revision of the Municipal Loan Fund accounts now in progress has been completed.

per acre at which the land is assessed in the Townships of the several Counties, and also the average assessment per rate-payer, distinguishing those in the Townships from those in the Cities, Towns and Villages. The great differences which appear between Counties in other respects nearly similarly circumstanced, indicate an imperfection in our present system of Municipal assessment, which is well worthy of enquiry whilst a revision of the existing law is under consideration.

It is only right to acknowledge here the readiness with which the County Clerks have attended to all the numerous enquiries made of them, involving, as they frequently have done, correspondence between them and the clerks of the various Municipalities. The information they have thus furnished is of great value to the country, but the law which requires them to supply it does not allow them any remuneration.

I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN LANGTON,

Auditor.

The Honorable A. T. GALT,
Minister of Finance.

RETURN

To an Address of the Honorable the Legislative Assembly, dated 17th August, 1865, for Copies of Documents relating to Free Ports.

By Command.

WM. McDOUGALL,
Secretary.

SECRETARY'S OFFICE,

PERCE, GASPE, 6th March, 1865.

SIR,—In obedience to instructions received from your Department, dated January, ultimo, directing me to make a Special Inspection of the Free Ports of Gaspé and the Districts attached thereto, to enquire generally into the operation of the system in force—alleged smuggling and other matters connected therewith—and to report to you, for the information of the Honorable the Minister of Finance, I beg therefore to state:—

That I proceeded as soon as possible from Quebec (having gone to Montreal to make preparations for a long winter journey)—after having had the benefit of a protracted conference with yourself—to Rivière du Loup; and there ascertaining that the Metapedia road to Restigouche was not passable with horses, by reason of late, heavy falls of snow (the last mail having been carried by dogs), I decided to travel by New Brunswick, the more, as I am instructed to visit the Ports of that Province and learn on the spot if there were grounds for the complaints of contraband trade from the District of Gaspé, intending to return by Métis and the south shore.

My route lay by Lakes Temiscouata and Madawaska to the St. John, then to Woodstock and Fredericton, thence northerly to Miramichi and Bathurst, along the Bay des Chaleurs to Dalhousie, up the Restigouche River to Campbelltown, thence over to Crosspoint, on the Canada side, and, following the north shore of the Bay, passed Carleton, New Richmond and New Carlisle, on the way to Percé and Gaspé Basin, stopping at each place to collect information from Custom House Officers, merchants and settlers, on the subject of my mission.

The roads were very heavy, the effect of recent snow storms; my progress was, consequently, slow and unpleasant. I found it necessary to travel by the stage three whole nights, and part of others.

I shall confine myself in this Report to that illicit trade said to be carried on with New Brunswick, from Gaspé, as it was the first matter I enquired into.

I called on the Collector of Customs (styled Deputy Treasurer) at Fredericton and informed him of the object I had in view. He stated that there was no smuggling at that Port from Gaspé. I did not think there was, as there is little or no communication between them.

The Collector at Chatham, "Miramichi," on whom I called, said there undoubtedly was some illicit traffic, especially in spirits, put up in fish and oil barrels, from the Free Port into the Miramichi, in fishing boats, by night; but he had made seizures. I requested him to put his opinions on paper, which he did—Please see letter annexed, No. 1. I also waited on the Collector at Bathurst, on arrival. He stated to me that one-fourth of the goods imported within his survey, but not in that town, were smuggled from Gaspé; and he had so reported to the Provincial Treasurer at the Seat of Government, but he had not a sufficient number of Coast Officers to prevent it. Some of his opinions are also reduced to writing, in Appendix No. 2.

My next visit was to the Collector of Dalhousie. He said it was a fact that a contraband trade, on a small scale, was constantly carried on from the District of Gaspé to places within his survey. He mentioned instances—one of a hogshead of Brandy, another of two puncheons of Rum and four boxes of Tobacco; again, several cases of spirits had been smuggled to the New Brunswick side—but he had not means at command to prevent it, and had made no seizures. He had been written to from headquarters on this subject and had reported the true state of affairs. He added he was on the look-out for forty cases of Gin which he heard were about to be brought over the ice from Carleton. He informed me that he believed a great deal of goods were transported from the Free Ports to the Canadian side of the Restigouche, outside the limits, where lumbering is carried on, and landed without payment of duty. He was of opinion that the Officers were not sufficiently on the alert; that the limits of the Free Ports should be restricted; and that a Supervisor of the whole District and Islands ought to be appointed. He has since written me a letter, which is an interesting one, as he is a most intelligent officer.—Appendix No. 3.

Next day I called on the Collector of Campbelltown, the most western port of New Brunswick, and he told me he believed there was no smuggling of any consequence from the District of Gaspé into his survey. However, on one occasion he had reason to know that two casks of spirits were landed on the Canada side of the Restigouche (the boundary between the two Provinces), in order to be afterwards brought across the river and illegally landed, which he supposed had been done, and without detection. He added that whatever smuggling existed was in liquors.

Before leaving New Brunswick I wrote to the Collectors at Caraquet, Shippegan, Shediac, Richibucto and St. John, as it was not necessary and would occupy too much time to visit them; but have only, as yet, heard from the two latter, whose letters—Nos. 4 and 5—are appended.

The conclusion I have arrived at respecting this illicit traffic from the Free Port of Gaspé into the neighboring Province, after due deliberation, is, that it exists to a considerable extent. In addition to the statements I have elicited, before alluded to, I beg to say that, before leaving Quebec, I was told by a respectable young man from Bay Chaleurs, that he had occasionally seen a hogshead of Gin put on board a fishing boat at New Carlisle, which immediately started for the New Brunswick side. The Sheriff of the County told Mr. Mann, Revenue Officer at Carleton (as the latter informed me), that he was aware that a fishing boat, laden with casks and cases of spirits and other goods, regularly left New Carlisle or Paspébiac once a week for the opposite shore; that her rigging was sometimes altered to avoid notice or detection. While in Dalhousie, N.B., a hotel-keeper told me (not knowing my business) that he had soon to go over to the Canada side for a hogshead of Brandy, which he intended to bring in and land at night.

I shall not, in this report, offer suggestions regarding check or prevention, as I have not yet had time to analyze the information I have collected, or to put my own thoughts on the subject into shape. I have seen and heard enough to convince me that the privileges of the Free Port are abused; that smuggling is carried on out of the District, to New Brunswick, and by the St. Lawrence into Canada; that the facilities for doing so are very great; and that it is time a stop were put to such demoralizing and fraudulent practices; an object which, in my humble opinion—by the introduction of some changes, both Departmental and in the present mode of discharging official duty—can be, in a great measure, accomplished.

The whole, nevertheless, respectfully submitted.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed,)

H. KAVANAGH,

R. S. M. Bouchette, Esquire,
Commissioner of Customs,
Quebec.

(No. 1.)

CHATHAM, 20th February, 1865.

H. Kavanagh, Esquire.

SIR,—In answer to your letter of the 10th inst., I have to state that (beyond one instance of seizure of a cask of Gin brought in a small vessel from Gaspé to Shippegan, there concealed under ship-knees, and thence to this port), nothing, from reliable information, has been run into Miramichi.

But from common rumor I am convinced that illicit traffic is carried on to a great extent between Gaspé and some of the outports to the northward, being conveyed by small craft or boats from Gaspé to New Carlisle and concealed under shingles, and then to their destination.

Mr. Willeston, being very unwell, has requested me to work for him.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,
(Signed,) J. C. E. CARMICHAEL,
Preventive Officer.

(No. 2.)

DEPUTY TREASURER'S OFFICE,
Bathurst, 23rd February, 1865.

SIR,—In reply to your letter of 18th inst., relative to alleged smuggling between the Free Port of Gaspé and this Province, I beg to inform you that such illicit trade is carried on, to a great extent, in open boats, principally by the inhabitants residing on the sea coast.

In my opinion the facilities for carrying on smuggling are so great that no mode of prevention can be successfully adopted on this side, and, therefore, I know of no remedy to suggest, excepting the abrogation of the Free Ports.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

H. Kavanagh, Esquire,
Gaspé.

(No. 3.)

DEPUTY TREASURER'S OFFICE,
Dalhousie, N. B., 25th February, 1865.

SIR,—In reference to your inquiries respecting the trade of this Port, as affected by the Free Port of Gaspé, I beg leave to state, at first an attempt was made to take advantage of the Free Port to import goods generally by entering them at Gaspé and then removing them to and landing them at Carleton, to await a favorable opportunity for transport hither, of which I received information, and being thus set on the alert, succeeded in thwarting the parties interested. Since then the illicit traffic has been principally confined to spirituous liquors and wines, in fishing boats and small craft in summer, from Paspebiac, Maria and Carleton, and upon the ice in winter.

The extensive sea-board offering tempting facilities for such an enterprise, and which with ordinary means it is now impossible to control.

I was requested by the head of my Department, about the close of the navigation in 1863, to report on the subject; to which I responded that in addition to this traffic in spirituous liquors, there had always been free intercourse and exchange of commodities between the inhabitants in Canada and those in New Brunswick, bordering the Restigouche and Chaleurs Bay; that was unrestrained because uncontrollable and consequently not considered demoralizing; that did not materially affect the revenue of either Province; and I may now add, that the smuggling of spirituous liquors is increasing, and threatens to assume a magnitude that will require the appointment of an experienced, competent and efficient officer, with the means of removal from place to place, at his disposal; and power to exercise a general supervision to subdue, and I humbly submit, to enable him to do so effectually, it will be necessary for the Legislature to restrict the importation of spirituous liquors and wines to the Port of Gaspé proper, and that a special correspondence by mail should be maintained between the Gaspé office and the different places for which spirits are shipped in addition to the regular customs clearance, say by forwarding triplicate Master's manifest or contents, or otherwise.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed,)

W. STEWART,

Deputy Treasurer and Controller.

Henry Kavanagh, Esquire,

(No. 4.)

RICHIBUCTO, February 25th, 1865.

SIR,—In reply to your favor of the 20th inst., now at hand, I beg to state that I am not aware of any smuggling having taken place from the "Free Port" of Gaspé since they became Free Ports. My officers, who are vigilant men, have been very careful in searching all vessels from that quarter, and have never been able to detect the smallest article of illicit trade, nor do I believe that any such trade has taken place to any part of my district.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

HENRY LIVINGSTON,

Deputy Treasurer and Controller of Customs.

Henry Kavanagh, Esquire,

Gaspé Basin, Canada East.

(No. 5.)

ST. JOHN, N. B., 24th February, 1865.

SIR,—In reply to your letter of 20th inst., I have to inform you that in November, 1863, I applied to the several Deputy Treasurers, from Dalhousie to Shippegan, to report to me relative to the reported smuggling into this Province from the District of Gaspé.

From their reports I gather that there is much smuggling carried on in boats, which can land at various coves and inlets on our shore, and which it is impossible to prevent or even check without such a staff of officers as would be too expensive for the Province; and unless it can be prevented by some means of the Canadian Government, we must continue to suffer damage from the Free Port of Gaspé.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed,)

B. THOS. DINNY.

H. Kavanagh, Esquire,

Gaspé Basin, Canada.

The Season.—On Monday, and particularly on Monday night, we had a severe blow from the north and northwest; this caused a heavy drift. It was also intensely cold. This blocked up the roads, and travelling is very bad.

The mail due from the southward on Tuesday morning did not reach Chatham until Thursday morning. Considerable snow fell on Tuesday and Thursday, and on the latter there was a heavy drift. It is very difficult to get on with the out door work of the country.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

Heavy Storm.—On Sunday night a snow storm commenced which lasted, without intermission, until this morning. The wind blew heavily, and in some places the drifts are very large and have so completely blocked up the roads that travel will be delayed for some days. The mail which left the St. John Office last night for Frederickton, and for the westward, could only get as far as Fairville, where they encountered drifts as high almost as the telegraph wires, and, finding it impossible to proceed, they returned to the town again until this morning.

The mail from Frederickton did not reach town until 3.30 P.M., and the American mail had not arrived when we went to press.—Globe, February 14.

MIRAMICHI, CHATHAM, Saturday, February 25th, 1865.

Late European News.—Last week we announced that the steamer Europa had arrived at Halifax on Sunday. This vessel did arrive at noon on Thursday week, and, had the roads been as they generally are, the mail would have been here on the day mentioned, but, instead of this, it did not reach Chatham until Tuesday morning. This shows what a wretched condition the roads were in. If there be one class of men more than another that deserve our sympathies and forbearance this winter, it is the couriers—they have had a hard time of it contending against storm after storm, and succession of bad roads, owing to heavy falls of snow and heavy drifts.

FREE PORT OF GASPÉ.

(No. 3.)

CUSTOM HOUSE,

(General Order, No. 61.)

Masters of vessels arriving from the Free Ports of Gaspé are required, by law, to report at the Custom House, and the Tide Surveyor, immediately on arrival of such vessel, will place a Tidesman on board, with the usual instructions not to allow any goods to be landed, unless upon authority of usual warrant.

All goods, packages, or casks, after being landed and before removal, to be strictly examined by the Landing Waiter in charge of the vessel, and a report made in detail in his Blue Book of the marks, numbers, and other particulars of each cask or package so landed.

All Water-side Officers are enjoined to satisfy themselves by actual examination, that casks reported to contain oil, do in fact contain oil, and do not contain spirits or other liquors.

(Signed,)

J. W. DUNSCOMB,
Collector.

(No. 4.)

CUSTOM HOUSE,
Quebec, 9th May, 1863.

(General Order, No. 68.)

GOODS FOR EXPORTATION.

Ordered, That all goods entered for exportation under bond, until actually placed on board the vessel for exportation, shall be under the immediate surveillance of an officer to be detailed for that purpose, and the Landing Waiter in charge of the vessel by which the goods are proposed to be exported, shall be satisfied that the identical goods taken from Warehouse, are shipped, and no others, before writing off the ship's sufferance.

(Signed,)

QUEBEC, 8th August, 1863.

SIR,—We have now the honor to report, that, acting upon special instructions, we visited the Free Port of Sault St. Mary on the 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th of October, 1862; and subsequently, the Free Port of Gaspé, in the latter case traversing first by water and then by land, the whole Canadian coast of the Bay of Chaleurs to Percé, and thence along the Gulf coast to Gaspé Basin, which place we left on the 31st of October in the same year.

As we have understood our instructions, conveyed first verbally by the Honorable the Minister of Finance, and further by your letter with which we were honored on our return from the Sault St. Mary, under date the 14th October, we were to enquire,—1st. As to how far the objects aimed at in establishing the Free Ports had been attained.

2nd. As to what intercourse has taken place between the Free Ports and other portions of the Province.

3rd. Whether smuggling out of the Free Ports has been carried on; with the best mode of preventing or checking the evil.

As we have no authoritative statement as to the objects which were aimed at in establishing the Free Ports other than those stated by the advocate of the measure in Parliament, we have had recourse to the Parliamentary Debates as our only source of information on that point.

So far as we have been able to gather then, the main objects have been, in respect of the Sault St. Mary, to encourage the settlement of our western territory, to foster the mining interests, to facilitate trade with the Red River settlements and the Northwest, to encourage the fisheries on Lakes Huron and Superior, and to establish a market at which the miners on the American shores of Lake Superior might find it advantageous to purchase their supplies.

As respects the Free Port of Gaspé, the objects appear to have taken a wider scope; for, in addition to the anticipation that the settlement of the country would be promoted, that the fisheries would be materially encouraged by the bounty which the purchase of supplies free of duty would give, it was also expected that an extensive commercial mart would be established at Gaspé Basin, to which foreigners engaged in the fisheries would resort for their supplies, at which a market would be established for the purchase and sale of fish, and which would be frequented by foreign shipping for the interchange of foreign produce for the produce of our fisheries.

As described in the Proclamation, the Free Port of Sault St. Mary embraces not less than 800 miles of coast, not counting the numerous small islands nor the bays and indentations. About 400 miles are east of the Falls of St. Mary and the remainder is on Lake Superior. The eastern portion is more or less occupied by settlements, sparsely peopled, it is true, but rising in importance by the gradual development of the mining, fishing and agricultural interests which are gradually extending and may reasonably be expected to constitute, at no distant period, an important group of interests.

The coast of Lake Superior is unoccupied except at one or two points, at Fort William where the Hudson's Bay Company has a Post, and at the Island of Michipicoten where considerable mining operations are carried on.

The village of St. Mary, or Free Port proper, is a village of about inhabitants. From this point colonization roads have been constructed, extending northwesterly to Gouais Bay on Lake Superior, and eastward to the Bruce and Wellington Mine. So far as can be ascertained the lands available for settlement on these roads are being taken up by actual settlers, and it is probable that, at no distant day, this section will be occupied by a large population engaged in agricultural pursuits, and who will find a market for their surplus produce at the mines with which they will be in close proximity.

We had an opportunity of conversing with some of the settlers who gave us a very favorable account of their lands, which they described as of a productive character, and well calculated to repay the labors of the husbandman. The acquisition of the Great Manitoulin Island, which is supposed to contain upwards of 100,000 acres of land suitable for cultivation, will greatly increase the importance of the agricultural interests of this section of the Province.

The fisheries of Lake Superior, at the Sault St. Mary, at Lonely Island, and indeed in all the waters of Lake Huron included within the limits of the Free Port district, are of great value, and will unquestionably increase. The entire mining interests, of the Western Province are also within the limits; and there are immense forests which are becoming of great value, as the operations of the lumberer are fewer northward and westward by the progressive disappearance of the nearer forest before the march of settlement. The limits of this Free Port includes material wealth which the energies of a nation might be worthily employed to develop, as well as a territory sufficiently large and productive for the support of a large population.

We find, by the public accounts, that the cost of the custom house at this port, in 1861 and 1862, has been as follows:—

|                                               | 1861.                 | 1862.             |

| Henry Pilgrim, landing-waiter.....            | 83 50 ...             | .....             |
| Edward Davis.....                             | 225 00 ...            | 300 00            |
| George Ironsides.....                         | 66 67 ...             | 200 00            |

| Total cost per annum.....              | $1,543 82 ... | $2,155 27 |

It will be admitted that the salaries are sufficiently low; but it is to be observed that both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Ironsides are paid for other services besides these rendered to the Custom House. The former has a salary from the Crown Lands Department, and the latter draws a salary from the Indian funds. It is also to be noted that Mr. Davis has never entered upon the duties of his office, having been incapacitated therefor by illness.

Mr. Gibbard, who is Inspector of Fisheries for this part of the Province and is constantly passing from one part of the coast to another with his boat's crew; is also a preventive officer, and as such renders very important preventive services, for which he receives no remuneration.

The following figures exhibit the trade statistics of this port for the years named.

The value of the foreign and domestic trade of the port has, therefore, been—

|-----------|---------------|---------------|
| 1861..... | $ 131,883 00 | $ 235,611 00 |
| 1862..... | 132,163 00    | 305,932 00    |

Of the imports in 1862, at the date of our visit, nearly $30,000 had been for account of the Hudson's Bay Company, in which we estimated the duties at $6,206.

The whole duty on the goods entered here in 1861 would have been..... $ 16,056

It is, perhaps, true that some interests are benefited by this remission of duty on the goods going into consumption within the limits of the Free Port. The mining interest is benefited by escaping duty on its machinery, tools and supplies. The general consumer saves something by escaping the tax on tea, sugar, liquors, &c., for those goods are undoubtedly cheapened in some degree by the remission of the duty imposed on them in other parts of the country.

But this cheapening does not occur to the extent which appears to have been anticipated by the originators of the Free Port policy, nor to the extent which might be inferred from the amount of duty lost to the revenue. The price of clothing does not appear to have been, in any great degree, reduced; tea has been cheapened by about 20 per cent.; gin, from 30 to 40 per cent.; and wine about 20 per cent., while but little effect has been produced on the price of sugar.

The price of the main necessaries of a settler's life have not been, nor could they be, affected by relieving the trade of this district from Customs duties, because they were free by tariff before that policy had effect, and we feel persuaded that no material stimulus has been given to the settlement of the country by the adoption of that policy, nor do we believe that the aid thereby afforded to mining operations has had any such effect on that branch of industry as will justify the risk of contraband transactions, such as we shall presently show to be probable.

We could not discover that any trade between the Free Port and the Red River Settlements had yet taken place. As has already been stated, the Hudson's Bay Company have been the chief importers of dutiable goods, and those goods have chiefly gone to Fort William; the duty on them would have been about $6,000.00. We are not aware that any provincial interests have been promoted by this sacrifice, nor do we think it likely that this branch of trade has had any tendency to promote commercial transactions between Canada and the British settlements in the Northwest Territory.

Some purchases appear to have been made at the village of St. Mary for American vessels trading to Lake Superior. Those purchases, however, have been of very limited extent and they are the only indications which we discovered of the existence of any trade between the Free Port and mining districts of the United States.

With so wide a frontier as that embraced within the Free Port of Sault St. Mary and the district attached thereto, to every portion of which the trader is permitted to carry goods for the purpose of trading with settlers, Indians, or fishermen, it would be almost impossible to maintain such a preventive service as would guard against the removal of goods with a view to introducing them into other portions of the Province. On the other hand, the shores of the Georgian Bay and of Lake Huron, bordering the fertile and populous counties of Huron, Bruce, Grey, and Simcoe, with numerous bays and indentations, afford abundant opportunities for smuggling goods into a population of more than 150,000 people who are rapidly increasing by the settlement of the Saugeen Peninsula. To guard against the extension of contraband trade along so extensive a coast would require a very great extension of the Custom House service as well as the aid of officers afloat; this extension would involve a very considerable additional outlay, perhaps of as large a sum as that now lost to the revenue by the remission of duty.

FREE PORT OF GASPÉ.

As described in the Proclamation, the Free Port of Gaspé, with the district attached thereto, has a coast line on the peninsula of Gaspé of about 250 miles, and on the north shore of about 500 miles, together with the Island of Anticosti and the Magdalen Islands.

Within these limits the undermentioned Port and Sub-ports are maintained for the transaction of Customs business, which is in this case chiefly the collection of statistics:—

The above sums are apart from certain allowances for arrears of salaries, and are also exclusive of the salaries of those officers who have been removed to other ports. The total, therefore—$8,038.21—may be taken as the annual cost of the present establishment, as arranged in 1862.

We now beg to refer to the documents submitted herewith, endorsed and numbered as follows, for the general statistics of the port—"F. P. of G., 1 to 12;" "F. P. of G. (A, B, C, D, E, F, 1 to 7; G, 1 to 8;" "(H, 1 and 2; I, J, A, 1 and 2." Those documents are abstracts of returns obtained at the Custom House at Quebec, and of other returns made upon our requisition, by Mr. Collector Belleau, all of which returns are herewith submitted.

Referring to the above-mentioned documents, it will be observed that the value of the importations of dutiable goods at Gaspé, with the duty which would have accrued thereon, has been as follows:—

|            | Value of Goods. | Duty Remitted. |
|------------|-----------------|----------------|
| 1860 ..... | $286,558 00    | No data.       |
| 1861 ..... | 374,729 00      | $65,501 00    |
| 1862 ..... | 420,180 00      | 77,407 00      |

We also beg to refer to documents Nos. 9, 10 and 11, being a return of the shipping entered and cleared from the port and sub-ports of Gaspé in 1861 and 1862, from which it will be seen that the foreign tonnage entered inwards has been—

| In        | U. States. | Other. | Total. |
|-----------|------------|--------|--------|
| 1861..... | 3,150      | 337    | 3,487  |
| 1862..... | 1,829      | 637    | 2,466  |

And that clearing outwards has been—

| In        | U. States. | Other. | Total. |
|-----------|------------|--------|--------|
| 1861..... | 3,211      | 517    | 3,728  |
| 1862..... | 1,439      | 29     | 1,468  |

Of this foreign tonnage entering and clearing at Gaspé in the two years named, 4,979 tons has belonged to the United States, 29 tons to France, and 572 tons to Norway.

While at Gaspé Basin we closely enquired into the general manner of conducting the business of the port, and we carefully inspected the books which are there kept.

With respect to the general management of the port, we find that the examination of packages has been altogether discontinued, under the impression that it has become unnecessary since no duties were to be collected. For a similar reason it appears that no declaration is now taken from the ship-master as to the truth of his reports, nor are any measures taken for verifying them.

Ships, not intending to discharge at Gaspé Basin, do not come within two or three miles of the port; they simply send a boat up to make a report. Such vessels are not boarded by any Customs Officer, nor indeed are any vessels boarded for the purpose of examination, whether entering or clearing from the port. Hence, it appears that there has been no restriction or check on the imports or exports of goods, beyond that which may be due to the truthfulness of ship-masters.

We are of opinion that a thorough examination of both ships and cargoes entering and departing is, in the interest of the revenue at other ports, even more necessary here than at ports where the duty is collected. It is an essential precaution against smuggling, and certainly we can not understand why a vessel should be required to sail a hundred miles, and, in some cases, even a greater distance out of her course, in order to report at Gaspé Basin, if she is not there to be searched and the truth of her report verified. Otherwise the ship might as well go direct to her destination and send her report by mail.

We now beg to refer to document H, 1 and 2, for an exhibit of the number and tonnage of vessels which have been diverted from their course by the necessity of reporting at Gaspé Basin in 1861 and 1862; and in doing so we beg to direct attention to Mr. Belleau's remark, that they have never been detained in any case half-an-hour by the Custom House; a detention certainly not indicative of a very rigid search.

The books have been kept in a satisfactory manner, but of course the value of their contents is altogether dependent on the correctness of the returns which have been made under the somewhat unsatisfactory conditions above related.

We have much satisfaction in reporting that the Collector and his subordinates are intelligent and fearless in the discharge of their duties.

If the precaution against smuggling out of the Free Port, which we believe to be necessary, were taken, we do not think that any further reduction of the number of employes can be effected. But if, on the other hand, it should be determined that the search of vessels and goods is not essential to the safety of the revenue elsewhere, and that the maintenance of a customs establishment is only necessary for the collection of statistics from such returns and reports as the ship-masters choose to make, then we are of opinion that one officer at each of the ports, where vessels are permitted to clear and enter, would be sufficient for every such purpose.

We have already stated that we proceeded by water from Gaspé Basin to the head of the Bay Chaleurs, returning by land. The extreme point which we visited was Cross Point, on the Restigouche River. This is the residence of Mr. John Fraser, who is also the officer in charge at New Carlisle, distant from Cross Point about 65 miles.

The name of Mr. Fraser also appears in the public accounts in connection with the Sub-ports of Carleton and New Richmond, as well as with that of New Carlisle, and the following payments appear to have been made to him for 1862:—

There is also a preventive officer at Cross Point, Mr. Bonstead, who receives a salary of $300 per annum. This officer has a range of 26 miles of frontier to guard, which is outside the Free Port limits. This wide extent of frontier is not likely to be very efficiently guarded for so small a consideration, consequently, the intercourse between it and the adjacent Province of New Brunswick, is almost as unrestricted as it is with the Free Port. It is true there are but few inhabitants, but it is said that numerous settlers have gone in with a view to taking up land on the new colonization roads.

Our visit to Cross Point was chiefly for the purpose of meeting Mr. Fraser, who, we were informed when at Paspébiac, had left his office to return home. Unfortunately, we did not succeed in meeting him, having crossed him on the road both going and returning.

Returning along the coast by land, we availed ourselves of every opportunity to collect information on the several matters upon which we are directed to report. We sought it from the merchants, the farmers, the small traders, and from the fishermen.

We shall now proceed to state, in general terms, the results of our enquiries, and the deductions we have drawn therefrom :—

We were told by the merchants at Gaspé, at Percé, at New Carlisle, and at Paspébiac that the whole advantage of the removal of the customs duties was given to the consumers, that the price of goods had been abated to that extent, that the fishermen had received immense benefits therefrom, that their circumstances had been materially improved, and that the fisheries had been greatly encouraged and stimulated.

On the other hand, such of the consuming classes as we had an opportunity of conversing with—and they include many persons of intelligence—just as strongly insisted, that except a reduction in the price of spirituous liquors, which they looked upon as anything but an advantage, no perceptible reduction in the price of goods had taken place. They say that the principal business has been monopolized by a few merchants, mostly distinguished as the “ Jersey Houses,” who command large capital, and with whom it is useless for small capitalists to attempt competition ; that those monopolists practically control the price of fish, which they regulate by an understanding among themselves ; that the fishermen, who are generally improvident, are usually fitted out by these houses, who also make advances (in goods) to the fishermen during the winter on account of the succeeding season's fishing, and thereby obtain entire control over them and their property, and generally take care so to determine the price of the fish on the one hand, and of the supplies on the other, as to give them (the merchants) the whole season's catch for what it costs the fisherman to live through the year.

Probably the truth is somewhere between the two statements. The people have, no doubt, been disappointed ; they were led to believe that all the necessaries of life would be cheapened by the establishment of the Free Port, forgetting that the main necessaries could not thereby be affected ; flour, pork, grain of all kinds, cattle, lumber, and, indeed, all the principal articles of consumption were free before the new policy came into effect, so also were the supplies essential to the fisheries, such as twine, cod-lines, and seines. Ship building materials were equally free. In the prices of these articles, therefore, the free port system could make no change.

It so happened that almost simultaneously with the establishment of the Free Ports the American Rebellion caused a great advance in the price of cotton goods, which more than counterbalanced the remission of duties. In this advance woollen and linen goods to some extent sympathized, and as the cause of this advance was but little considered, it has been broadly asserted that the duties remitted on goods of their classes has gone entirely into the pockets of the merchants.

A reduction in the price of wines, and spirituous liquors has admittedly taken place, not to an amount equivalent to the duties remitted, but enough to make the reduction decidedly felt. But this reduction, the more intelligent of those with whom we conversed looked upon as a positive injury. They say that gin and whiskey are the bane of the fishermen, and that every obstacle should be placed in the way of their use.

A careful sifting of the evidence we have collected brings us to the conclusion, that there has been but little reduction in the price of woollen clothing or in boots and shoes, but that some abatement has been made in the prices of sugars, molasses, and tea, especially when purchased for cash, but there are very few fishermen who can go to the merchant with cash in their hands. The business is done by barter, and the outfit is advanced before the fish are caught which are to pay for it. The result is that, practically, a quintal of fish will not bring to the fisherman any greater quantity, either of necessaries or luxuries, than it did formerly ; hence we arrived at the conviction, that while the more independent and well-to-do fishermen, who can purchase on terms approximating to cash payments, do participate with the merchants in the reduced prices of the goods freed from duty, the great body of them who are, unfortunately, living from hand to mouth, are not benefited in any material degree. The chief advantage has gone to the principal merchants.

Perhaps, although the advantages thus enjoyed are chiefly felt by the leading merchants, they may still have the effect of encouraging the prosecution of the fisheries by inducing more eagerness for the business, and a greater disposition to adventure. We think this may be true, but we do not believe that the effect thus produced has been very considerable, or is sufficient in itself to justify the exceptional policy which has been adopted with all the risks of contraband trade to which we shall presently refer.

The establishment of a central mart to which foreign shipping would resort for the purchase of fish and ship's stores, and to which the foreign fishermen would also resort for the purchase of supplies, has not been accomplished, and when we examine the surrounding circumstances it is not difficult to account for the failure.

The merchants who conduct their business at Gaspé Basin, hold strongly to the opinion that the limits of the Free Port ought to have been confined to that locality. This, they say, would have created there a centre of trade to which foreign vessels would have resorted. At least, one of those gentlemen holds that the Canadian fishermen should have nothing to do with the export business. They require, he says, all their capital in the business of catching and curing, and it is their interest to sell to the foreigner at their own doors instead of embarking capital in distant trade adventures. He argues that it would be most advantageous to make Gaspé Basin—which is truly a most excellent harbor—the great fish market of Canada, as St. John is that of Newfoundland.

But, on the other hand, we met with gentlemen interested in the trade of other parts of the coast who hold very different opinions. They believe that it would be a great injustice to give Gaspé Basin privileges which would compel the fishermen of the whole coast to take their fish to that place in order to obtain the advantages conferred by the Free Port. Why, they ask, should the fishermen of Paspebiac or Bonaventure be placed at a disadvantage as compared with the fishermen of Gaspé? If the fishermen of the Bay Chaleurs, the Magdalen Islands, and the North Shore could only find at Gaspé a market in which they could purchase goods free of duty, they would, necessarily, sacrifice a considerable portion of their time in carrying their fish there, whereas they now find at Carleton, Paspebiac, Percé and Amherst, a market at their own doors, both for the sale of fish and purchase of supplies. If compelled to go to Gaspé Basin, the fisherman would lose as much of his time as would more than counterbalance any advantages derived from the remission of duty.

But in truth the anticipation of those who expected to induce the resort of foreign shipping to Gaspé, by conceding absolute freedom of trade, are fallacious. To permit a foreign vessel to purchase her supplies in any of our ports, free of our Custom duties, is no advantage, nor will the permission ever be availed of to any extent. An English vessel fitting out at any British port can purchase all her outfit in bond, and, therefore, free of duty. So it is with the Spanish, French, Italian or other foreign vessels fitting out in their respective ports. Why then should they come to Gaspé? Why defer their purchases of sea-stores until they reach a port where the profits of at least one more dealer, and the charges incidental to a sea voyage, must necessarily be added to the price of goods which they might have purchased at home at first cost? Every business consideration would be an argument against such a transaction. The foreign ship-owner would not depute to his ship-master the purchase of any stores which he could lay in under his own immediate supervision.

The American fishing vessels, fitted out at the ports of Maine or Massachusetts, can purchase every store they require as free of duty there as they can at Gaspé, and they are, in fact, invariably supplied, not only with every requisite for their own voyage, but also with surplus store and tackle, which they sell to a very considerable extent to the Canadian fishermen, at rates lower than they can be purchased from our own merchants.

The only supplies of which the price has been affected by the Free Port policy are, as previously shewn, wines, liquors, groceries and clothing. All these can be purchased in bond at Boston or Portland, or at other foreign ports, cheaper than they can be purchased at Gaspé even after the duty has been remitted, because at those larger markets the competition is greater.

These considerations, and the returns submitted herewith, which the Free Port or district conclusively establish in our minds, that the Free Port has failed to attract foreign shipping, and that there are no reasons for anticipating other results in the future.

We may now refer to the regulations in force in respect of the trade of the several outports dependent on Gaspé, and more especially to the inconvenience now felt at several important points in consequence of the requirement that all vessels shall first report at Gaspé Basin.

As now interpreted, the Free Port Regulations require that vessels clearing from other than Canadian ports, and bound to any part whatever of the free port district, shall proceed to Gaspé Basin and there report before proceeding to their destination. In like manner a vessel leaving any part of the free port district, having on board any cargo except Canadian produce, must also go to Gaspé Basin to report outwards.

Thus, it appears, that a vessel bound for Paspébiac, if cleared from Halifax, must report at Gaspé, adding 120 miles to her voyage; a vessel from Carraquet must sail nine times the distance otherwise necessary. Again, a vessel from Carleton bound to Dalhousie, Bathurst, or to a foreign port must, if she has on board any goods not the produce of Canada, prolong her voyage by proceeding to Gaspé Basin for a clearance.

As illustrative of the inconvenience of this regulation, and of the manner in which it affects trade, we may mention one or two circumstances that came to our knowledge. At Paspébiac the Messrs. Robin generally have a vessel on the stocks in course of construction. For her timber-heads and for planking her topsides they import juniper from an establishment which they have at Carraquet, on the opposite side of the Bay of Chaleurs. By the regulations, the vessel bringing this timber should proceed to Gaspé Basin, making a voyage of about 150 miles, when the direct distance is not more than 20 miles. Again, the same firm purchased a lot of sugar at Halifax, but because the vessel bringing it to Paspébiac would be required first to report at Gaspé, no vessel could be induced to take the freight unless at immoderate rates.

We were informed that so much is this inconvenience felt at the Magdalen Islands that the merchants would prefer paying duty on the goods to submitting to the expenses and delay incidental to a voyage to Gaspé to report.

The regulations also operate very hardly on the inhabitants settled along the shores of the Bay Chaleurs, who formerly bought their sawed lumber in New Brunswick; but who are now cut off from that market by the restrictions on the trade above alluded to.

As might be expected the restrictions are evaded, and a contraband trade, not for the evasion of duties, but for the evasion of the regulations, is carried on, and the people are thereby demoralized and taught to hold the law in but little respect.

We have failed to discover any value in these onerous restrictions, and we beg to submit that vessels should be allowed to enter at and clear from any of the Sub-ports where a Customs Officer is stationed, certainly at Paspébiac, Carleton, Percé, and Amherst.

That there is a very considerable contraband trade carried on between the Free Port of Gaspé and the shores of the Lower St. Lawrence, even as far up as Quebec, we are constrained to believe by all the information we were enabled to collect. This Branch of our enquiry we pursued, while inspecting the Port of Quebec, after our return from Gaspé, and we found that the Custom house officers here generally agreed with us in that opinion; certainly there is but little check on the operations of the smuggler. A vessel may load with goods in bond at Quebec for Gaspé, report at the Basin as about to proceed to the north shore or elsewhere to trade, and may immediately return to the river and dispose of her cargo along shore. Indeed the goods may return to Quebec in the same vessel, since, as a coasting craft, she would not be required to report, under the routine of business heretofore permitted. Or the goods may find their way back by Railway being landed, perhaps, at River du Loup or any intermediate place; or, as it is believed sometimes happens, they may be disposed of by false packing. In short, to guard against the numerous opportunities for smuggling out of the Free Ports to the other parts of Canada, would require as much vigilance and as great a preventive force as is necessary for guarding our frontier on the Lakes. The surveillance is even more difficult because the profits on smuggled goods would be greater. Goods which were formerly smuggled in from the United States are now so highly taxed there that there is now scarcely any incentive to contraband trade in tea, sugar, wine and liquors. But brought in from the Free Ports the contrabandist gains a premium equal to our full customs tariff.

As against this contraband trade hardly any preventive service can be efficient without the aid of Revenue cutters for watching the operations of suspected vessels, and such an addition to the service could not be maintained without adding greatly to our outlay.

We had strong reasons for believing that the facilities offered by the Free Ports are also taken advantage of for the purpose of smuggling into New Brunswick; of course our revenue suffers nothing from this cause, but it does inflict loss on our neighbors, and, what is of great consequence to us, our own people, like all who engage in contraband transactions, are inevitably demoralized thereby.

We made such enquiries as our opportunities permitted as to the effect which the inauguration of absolute free trade has had on the settlement of the country by emigrants likely to engage in agricultural pursuits. All those with whom we conversed on this subject concurred in the opinion that no effect has, as yet, been produced and generally it was believed that none would be.

The agriculturist seeks fertile lands and favorable climate. As against those considerations the duties on tea and sugar—luxuries which first settlers seldom enjoy,—or on spirits—which he generally recognizes as his bane—are of no weight.

The Norwegians who, some time since, settled near Malbaie had nearly all left when we were at that place. They were induced to remove chiefly by the glowing accounts as to the fertile soil and excellent climate of Wisconsin and other Western States, brought to them by their countrymen who had settled in the Far West. They had also been discouraged by late frosts which had injured their crops.

Along the coast of the Bay Chaleurs the lands are nearly all occupied, and there are excellent farms, well fenced and well cultivated. Everywhere we had the most encouraging accounts of the productiveness of the soil, which is greatly stimulated by manure formed of seaweed obtained on the beach. This cultivated belt does not extend to any great distance from the beach, its breadth not averaging perhaps more than three or four miles; but it is said that there are large tracts of land, extending up the valleys of the numerous streams, which are susceptible of improvement and which would yield good returns to the husbandman. Nevertheless, the climate is undoubtedly severe, less so on this coast than on the shores of the St. Lawrence, but yet severe enough to deter farmers from clearing lands, except near the beach, where the fisheries afford a profitable market, and where some members of every household generally engage in the business of fishing.

In conclusion, we beg to say that we were highly impressed with the importance of the commercial interests which we found in existence in the districts through which we journeyed. We find a broad territory, teeming with wealth, and inhabited by a hardy and industrious population. We met with mercantile establishments, whose wealth has been accumulated through a long series of years by the development of the resources of these districts. There are merchants, in the largest sense of the term, fitting out their ships for Brazils, the Mediterranean and Spain, as well as for Great Britain, and while we are impressed with the conviction that the Free Port policy has failed to accomplish the objects aimed at, we are equally convinced that the interests of Gaspé deserve the utmost care and consideration of the Government.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

We have the honor to be, Sir,

Your most obedient servants,

REPORT

ON THE

FREE PORT OF SAULT STE. MARIE.

OCTOBER, 1864.

C. E. ANDERSON.

FINANCE DEPARTMENT, CUSTOMS,

Quebec, 10th October, 1864.

SIR,—In accordance with instructions conveyed to me by your official communication of 16th July last, directing me to proceed to the "Free Port of Sault Ste. Marie," extending from "Waddell's Mills," on Lake Huron, to the western limits of the Province on Lake Superior, &c., to make the necessary enquiries into the working of the Free Port, and the state of trade in that section of the Province; and to report the result of such enquiry to you for the information of the Honorable the Minister of Finance.

I have now the honor to inform you that, acting on your letter of instructions referred to, I have just returned from visiting the various points of interest on the north shore of Lakes Huron and Superior, as hereinafter detailed, within the precincts of the Free Port of Sault Ste. Marie; and in order to obtain useful information, and for the sake of comparison, I conceived it also my duty to visit various very important points on the south or United States side of Lake Superior, where I was given to understand extensive mining operations were being carried on; and I herewith have the honor to submit the result of my observations and enquiries.

I may premise by stating that I have looked upon the object and intention of establishing the Free Port of Sault Ste. Marie as being, to a certain extent, for the purpose of inducing settlers to locate in that section of the Province, and that, under the Act which came into force in January, 1861, the admission of goods duty-free was to be looked upon, not only as an inducement, but as a great boon to the settler, and it was, no doubt, hoped and not unreasonably, that considerable progress would ere this have been made in developing the commercial, mineral, and agricultural resources of the District of Algoma by a largely increased, industrious and enterprising population.

It therefore becomes, I may say, one of the most important points of my report to lay before you, for the information of the Honorable the Finance Minister, my respectful opinion as to how far the hopes of success of the founders of the Free Port policy, in so far as Sault Ste. Marie is concerned, have been realized; and if the policy has not been so far successful, to endeavor to shew why it has not been so, and respectfully to suggest such remedies as, in my humble opinion, would make it successful, and otherwise advance the prosperity of the District.

I have not and, under my instructions, could not look upon the simple examination of the Collector of Customs' books and records, as constituting inspecting the Port of Sault Ste. Marie, such a course may be all that is necessary in many of the Ports of Entry of the Province, but, as regards the Port of Sault Ste. Marie, I should certainly feel that I had failed in my duty had such an inspection satisfied me. I state this now in order, to some extent, to account for the apparent length of time occupied by me, and I entertain the hope that when my report has been read and fully considered, that the large amount of various information it contains, relative to that most important portion of the Province, will fully warrant the time taken to obtain it, and will, I feel confident, be of material service to the country if acted on.

On my arrival at the village of Sault Ste. Marie as directed by your instructions, I at once put myself in communication with the Collector of Customs, Mr. Wilson, and made arrangements for his accompanying me, with the Custom House boat, to the various points to be visited on Lake Huron, and to which there are no other means of communication.

But, previous to starting, I made it my business to call upon three merchants doing the principal business at the Sault, viz.,—Messrs. Davidson, Phipps and Karney, in order to get their views as to the working of the Free Port Act, and from them I at once learned that it was not working satisfactorily, and from the Honorable Colonel Prince and several other respectable persons with families, I also learned that, with the exception of wines, spirits and groceries, almost everything else could be bought cheaper in Toronto—so far on this point there was no great inducement for settlers to come in.

The cause I found to be as follows,—there is no difficulty in purchasing in Toronto or in any of the large towns, a general and at the same time small assortment of groceries, wines, spirits, and even staple dry goods—such as blankets, cottons, prints, &c., in bond, thus saving the duty—but what may be termed shelf fancy drygoods, silks, small articles, or German goods, small hardware, &c., &c., are, in nine cases out of ten, bought from the importer's shelves after duty has been paid on them. Also the large and important article of Ready-made Clothing.

I am of course aware, and I pointed out to the merchants in question, that under clause No. 3 of "the Regulations governing the trade of the Free Port of Sault Ste. Marie," they were allowed the privilege of sorting in bond, under certain restrictions, such goods as may be required for the markets of the Free Port, provided the assortment made up be a package of not less value than $200. They stated they were aware of this, but still it did not answer the purpose, as importers, as a general rule, were not in the habit of keeping what may be termed variety-goods in bond, and even as regards staple goods they did not care about breaking bulk in bond, while whole packages, even of staple goods, were larger quantities than were required for country stores.

The Act thus became, to a great extent, inoperative, and the general practice was to purchase this class of goods from the importer's shelves, after duty had been paid.

I then pointed out the their propriety of sending their orders to Europe direct, through the houses they dealt with in Canada; when I was met with the reply, that those who were in a position to do so had adopted that course, but they did not find it at all advantageous, inasmuch as their agents charged them a commission of 12½ per cent. for purchasing, and in almost every case sent them out certain goods quite unsuitable for the market, and they thus had their shelves filled with unsalable goods.

I then pointed out the course of going to Europe themselves to purchase their stock, but was, of course, at once met with the reply, that they thus far could not afford any such expense, and, under any circumstances, it was only the man of capital who could do so, thus placing the small shop-keeper at a great disadvantage.

A course then presented itself to my mind which I thought practicable, and which I submitted to them, as follows, and which entirely met their approval, and, as they stated themselves, would put the small and large dealer on a par, and fully carry out what they conceived to be the intention of the Free Port policy.

Thus—Let the Free Port merchant go into any wholesale importing house in Toronto or elsewhere, let him pick out his assortment of goods, which he cannot purchase to advantage in bond from the importer's store shelves, let the invoice of these goods be made with a starting or prime cost column as well as a selling column (importers, in a great many cases, are in the habit of selling to their customers at a certain percentage on the prime cost, so that there would be no objection to this mode on the part of the importer in giving his cost price), let a form of entry be made at the Custom House for these goods, that they are for the Free Port of Sault Ste. Marie, let them be marked and leaded by the Custom House authorities, and so soon as a certificate has been received from the Custom House that these goods, according to marks and numbers, are within the precincts of the Free Port of Sault Ste. Marie, let the drawback or amount of duty which has been paid be refunded to the importer—of course after satisfactory proof has been given to the Collector that the goods in question have been imported and duty been paid on them.

On passing through Toronto, I submitted this scheme to the Collector, Mr. Spence, and consulted with him as to the working of it, he quite coincided with my views and authorized me to state that he saw no difficulty in carrying it out with perfect safety to the revenue, in so far as the Port of Toronto was concerned; and he also acquiesced in the view that it would be of essential service to the success of the Free Port policy at "Sault Ste. Marie."

With regard to the article of ready made clothing, it is somewhat more difficult to deal with, it is a large and important article of traffic in the region referred to, and to a great extent monopolized by the Hudson's Bay Company, still I am of opinion that a system could be adopted that would be advantageous to the manufacturer in Canada, carry out the intention of the Free Port Act of 1861, and at the same time protect the revenue from fraud.

Thus—Let the Free Port merchant purchase his clothing at any of the wholesale manufacturing establishments in Toronto, of which there are several on a very extensive scale;

Let the manufacturer, under oath, declare as to the sterling cost of the cloth employed in the manufacture of the clothing sold, that duty has been paid on same, and on proof from the Custom House at the Free Port that the clothing has been duly landed for the purposes of trade within the precincts of the Port, let the drawback be paid to the manufacturer.

A somewhat similar course has been followed with regard to military clothing made in Canada, and although I am aware that in both cases cited it may cause a little more trouble to the department, still, in a matter of so much importance as materially benefitting the people and trade of a district one day destined to be important, it is a question whether a little extra trouble should be at all considered.

I can see a danger to the revenue in the matter in question in only one way, viz: with regard to Canadian manufactured cloths and blankets; I mentioned this to Mr Spence, the Collector of Toronto, who stated that he, with very little trouble, could so arrange that the revenue would be quite safe.

At the present moment, in fact under existing regulations, the door is quite as much open to fraud. Permit me to cite a case: A merchant from "Little Current," one of the sub-ports of Sault Ste. Marie and 150 miles east of same, goes to Quebec and purchases goods in bond to the value of say £2,000, bonds are given and he gets his goods; he proceeds to Montreal where he disposes of £1,000 of them, or perhaps he exchanges, along the route, a bale of cottons for a bale of silks; the other £1,000 worth he proceeds with to his store at "Little Current;" there is no Custom House or officer there, and he sends his clerk to Sault Ste. Marie to make his entry; the clerk enters the £2,000, perhaps knowing nothing of the £1,000 sold in Montreal; the bonds are cancelled and the revenue is defrauded of the duty on £1,000 worth of goods, and no one is the wiser. I cite this as an instance to show to what extent the revenue may, in this manner, be defrauded.

The question very naturally presents itself, it what way can this be prevented? The course I would suggest would be,—that as there are really only two Ports for the shipment of goods for the Free Port of Sault Ste. Marie, viz., Sarnia and Collingwood, that goods bought and intended for the Free Port should be shipped or forwarded in bond to either of the above Ports direct, being marked, numbered and sealed or leaded, and on the certificate of the Collector at Sault Ste. Marie that the goods have been received within the precincts of his port, he or one of his landing waiters having duly examined the goods, the Collector at the port where the goods were in the first place shipped, would then cancel the bonds. I, of course, mean that a landing waiter should be appointed at Little Current, where every steamer and vessel must pass and where they should be obliged to call and report; there is abundance of water for the largest steamers and vessels, and being a point where they generally call and the former wood.

In this latter clause I refer specially to steamers and vessels from Collingwood and neighborhood, those from Sarnia would take the "Bruce Mines" naturally as being the first sub-port on their route to report, and there is a landing waiter stationed there.

It could not, I imagine, possibly be expected that merchants importing goods for the purposes of trade, at the easterly end of Lake Huron within the precincts of the Free Port could be expected to proceed with their goods to the Bruce Mines or Sault Ste. Marie for entry and examination and then return with them to Killarney or Waddell's Mills, a distance of nearly 200 miles. In fact, by the regulations of the Port of 26th April, 1861, Wik-em-kong and Waie-bidgi-wang or Little Current, on the Great Manitoulin Island, are made sub-ports of Sault Ste. Marie, for the convenience of trade, and at the time the late Mr. Ironsides, Superintendent of Indian Affairs at Manitowaning, was a landing waiter in the Department at $200 per annum, and could, of course, receive reports and entries, and thus the trouble and expense of going to the Bruce Mines or Sault Ste. Marie was saved; but since Mr. Ironsides' death the Department has not deemed it expedient to appoint a successor; but should that now be deemed necessary, I would suggest that the appointment be made at Little Current where every vessel must pass, being on the channel; and not at Manitowaning which is 25 miles out of the way of the usual navigation and where there is neither wharf nor accommodation for wooding, whereas both these requisites are to be found at Little Current.

I have made special enquiry as to the correctness of the various rumours afloat regarding the smuggling of goods out of the Free Port after they have been entered, but I have been unable to trace any foundation for such rumour.

Having so far pointed out what I conceive stands in the way of the good working of the Free Port, and which may be in the power of the Department to remedy, I would now, with your permission, respectfully beg to submit a statistical sketch of the various points I have visited, pointing out, as I proceed, what appear to me barriers and impediments to the carrying out of the Free Trade policy, and the remedy for which does not lie within the scope of the Customs Department.

It is of no use whatever for the Finance Minister of the Province to attempt to advance the district of Algoma by admitting goods duty free, and by this means hope to induce settlers to come in, while the policy of other departments of the Government has been, and continue to have a tendency not only to deter people from entering the district for settlement, but is actually driving many old settlers out of the district to the United States.

I refer, in the first place particularly, to the various "Rules and Regulations" issued from time to time by various Governments and Departments of Governments, relative to encouraging the settlement of the North Western Territory.

I freely accord to them all the fullest credit for good intentions, and humbly submit that in so far as they have failed to be successful, they have erred simply from the want of being in possession of the necessary knowledge at the time, and not from any want of good will or desire to promote the well-being of the district.

Taking into consideration the soil, the climate, and the geographical position of the territory, I feel justified in saying that although the country is capable of supporting, in the aggregate, a considerable agricultural population, and of affording and supplying them with the necessaries of life, still, the success of the farmer in that territory will, in a great measure, depend on his having a good customer for his produce within a reasonable distance, and such he is only likely to find in the mining population. Thus, the settlement of the country by agriculturists, may be considered mainly dependant on the successful working of its mines.

Without entering on a description of the various metallic ores found on the north shores of Lakes Huron and Superior, or the extent of the mineral region itself, which is pretty well known, it may be observed that in the first place it is necessary that somebody should find a mineral deposit before it can be worked. Discourage and hamper the explorer, and you prevent the discovery of ores, which, if found, would more than likely be worked, and become mines.

In order to understand fully in what respect explorers may be hampered and discouraged by the "Rules and Regulations" in relation to mineral lands, it is necessary to know somewhat of the circumstances of the explorer. Generally speaking, this may be summed up in a few words—he is almost always a poor man.

He may be, and not unfrequently is, a gentleman by birth and education. Oxford and Cambridge have furnished explorers on the upper lakes. The legal, medical, and even clerical professions have been at various times represented, and one of the most valuable locations yet discovered in this region, is said to have been discovered by a lady.

A few practical miners have turned their attention to exploring on the north shore, but very, very few compared with the numbers who would have engaged in that pursuit, had the "Rules and Regulations" hitherto enforced, been adapted to the circumstances of that most important class.

As I have already stated, explorers are men, as a class, of limited means, and in legislating in regard to mineral lands, this common condition seems to have been lost sight of.

When attention was first strongly directed to the mineral region, the North West, in consequence of valuable discoveries made on the south, or United States shore of Lake Superior in 1845 and 1846, the Government was pleased to legislate on the subject, and did so by exacting that mineral lands could only be purchased in blocks or locations, the limits of which were to be not less than two miles in front by five miles in depth. Thus, an area of ten square miles or 6,400 acres for which the explorer was asked to pay $1 per acre, say $6,400, $600 down, and the balance in annual instalments, with interest.

It is easy to see that such a regulation was fatal to individual enterprise. The practical explorers, able for the work, willing to encounter the hardship and exposure, and to seek earnestly, carefully and diligently for the rich deposits of ore which undoubtedly exist in that region, was unable to explore on his own account and for his own immediate benefit, and was thus entirely discouraged.

The search after the hidden treasure of the earth devolved either upon men, already rich, or on wealthy companies, and the work was done by hired deputies. Many companies engaged in the enterprise. Geologists, mineralogists, surveyors, miners and voyageurs were employed, and a perfect scramble for mineral lands occurred. Not less than 400 square miles were located on the north shore of Lake Superior, and 290 square miles on Lake Huron, say 60 locations, about 600 square miles in all, under these regulations.

This was not exploring for veins or lodes, it was rather exploring for rocks of that particular description which contained metallic veins, than for veins themselves.

Greenstone trap on Lake Huron and amygdaloidal trap on Lake Superior, were the favorite formations, and the existence of such on the lake shore or front containing, as these rocks almost invariably do, small veins of copper ore or native copper, was held at that time quite sufficient inducement to take up the land, not one-tenth part of which was then or has since been explored.

It would occupy too much time and space to enter on any detail of the explorations and other operations carried on by the companies then engaged therein, suffice it to say that prior to the year 1852, all operations except those carried on by the Montreal Mining Company, at the Bruce Mines, had ended, and in 1854 or 1855, the Government found that the existing Regulations had not worked well, but had given a monopoly of the most accessible and promising mineral land to parties who were doing nothing themselves, and yet stood in the way of others wishing to explore them.

On few of the locations had more than the first instalments been paid, and on many only the $600 deposit, still the unwillingness of the Government to declare them forfeited has virtually taken such out of the market until quite recently.

In or about 1854, however, a new Regulation was made, which was something to the effect that mining locations in future should embrace 400 acres only, and be charged for at the rate of one dollar and a half per acre. A few locations were taken upon these terms, but nothing like an impetus was given to exploration generally. This Regulation also required that the mines should be worked—compulsory.

In 1858 another Regulation came out, requiring a license, even to explore, at a cost of $100.

In 1862 another change was made in the mode of disposing of mining locations, by levying a Royalty of  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on all ores extracted, payable in cash on the value of the ore prepared for market at the mine, and allowing letters-patent to be issued on payment of the purchase-money, without any additional conditions.

Much dissatisfaction was felt at the imposition of this Royalty, which would in effect reduce the value of a really good location one-half to its discoverer and purchaser.

For instance, if the explorer, after uncovering and opening up the lode on his location, proposed to lease it to a mining company, no English or Canadian Company would pay a higher Royalty, as rent, to the owner, than 5 per cent., unless it was richer than any yet found on Lake Superior, and such is actually the Royalty now paid by the Canada

West Mining Company for their lease of the Wellington and Huron Copper Bay Mines at the Bruce Mines, and the richest yet known in that region; so that the Government, in exacting a Royalty of 2½ per cent., was actually taxing the explorer 50 per cent. on all the prospective advantage he expected to derive from his toil and labor. The pursuit was hazardous and unremunerative enough before, and this regulation reduced the prizes to one-half. Such a regulation could hardly be satisfactory to the explorer, or afford him much encouragement.

I now come to the latest Rules and Regulations, as under:—

DEPARTMENT OF CROWN LANDS,
Quebec, 3rd March, 1864.

Regulations for the Sale of Mineral Lands, approved by His Excellency the Governor General in Council.

1. That the tracts shall comprise not more than four hundred acres.
  2. That the dimensions of the tracts in unsurveyed territory be forty chains in front by one hundred chains in depth, and bounded by lines running due North and South, and East and West, or as near to these dimensions as the configuration of the locality will admit.
  3. The applicant for a tract in unsurveyed territory must furnish a plan and description thereof by a Provincial Land Surveyor.
  4. The price shall be one dollar an acre, payable on the sale.
  5. That a tax or duty of one dollar per ton be charged on all ores extracted from the tract, payable on removal from the mine.
- This condition applies to all mining lands sold since the 1st day of April, 1862, and is in lieu of the Royalty of two and a half per cent. chargeable on the ores of these lands.
6. That in surveyed townships, lots presenting indications of minerals, be sold on the above conditions, but at not less than one dollar per acre in any township, and at the same price as the other lands in the township when it is more than one dollar per acre.
  7. That not more than one tract of four hundred acres be sold to one person.
  8. The above regulations do not apply to mines of gold and silver.
  9. All previous regulations inconsistent with the above are cancelled.

WM. MCDUGALL, Commissioner.

~~66~~ All Locations of Mineral Lands on the North Shores of Lakes Huron and Superior, and on the adjacent islands, which, on the 15th March, 1861, were liable to forfeiture for non-performance of conditions of sale and location, and which have remained liable to forfeiture to the present time, are forfeited.

The locatees, and their assignees, provided the assignments were made before the date hereof, are allowed to apply the payments they may have made on any location, over and above the deposit, or first instalment, towards the purchase of the same, or any other location which shall be open for sale at the date of their application so applied; but such application shall be regarded as a new purchase, subject to existing regulations, and must be filed in the Department of Crown Lands on or before the first day of November, A.D., 1864.

WM. MCD., Com.

Some parties are of opinion that although the area of the tracts to be taken up under this regulation, cannot exceed 400 acres, the general tenor and meaning of the regulation will permit them to purchase less than 400 acres, even if unsurveyed land, provided the direction of the lines, as run by the surveyor when located, be due North and South, East and West, and the proportion of the breadth of such location bears its length, be as 40c. to 100c., and if this construction be put on the regulation by the Crown Land Department, it will be a great boon to the hard-working bona fide explorer, who has hitherto been greatly discouraged by the necessity forced upon him of purchasing more land than he wanted, or his slender means would allow him to pay for.

This regulation, however, in so far as it required the tract to be 2½ times the breadth, i. e., 40c. East and West, 100c. North and South, is looked upon as a mistake, and mining men inform me there can be no motive for, or advantage gained, by it, as far as the Crown is concerned.

The lodes or veins most frequently run East and West, or not more than 45° North or South of that course. Suppose the extreme deviation that of a lode running West 45° North, an explorer wishing to secure as much as possible of such a lode, would be obliged, under the present regulations, to take up a tract of 40c. × 100c., or 400 acres, at a cost of $400 cash, whereas, by so managing that the lode should form the diagonal of a ½ section, 40c. × 40., he would obtain precisely the same length of the lode as before, and that at a cost of $160 instead of $400, a matter of great importance in nine cases out of ten to the hard-working explorer.

It is good policy to give the purchaser the option of taking 400 acres, should he so desire it, but it is bad policy to compel him, with 160 acres which he wants, to take 240 more that he may think entirely worthless, and which he may not have the means to pay for.

The next point which calls for notice is clause No. 5 of the regulations, which imposes a tax or duty of one dollar per ton on all ores alike, without reference either to difference of value, of quality, or description (except gold and silver).

For instance—

|---------------------------------------|---------------|-----------------|
| On native copper, worth say.....      | $400 per ton | $1 = ¼ per ct. |
| “ dressed copper ore—20 per cent..... | 80 “          | 1 = 1½ “        |
| “ poor “ —10 “ .....                  | 30 “          | 1 = 3½ “        |
| “ lead “ .....                        | 75 “          | 1 = 1½ “        |
| “ zinc “ .....                        | 15 “          | 1 = 6½ “        |
| “ iron “ .....                        | 3 “           | 1 = 33½ “       |

This clause is very objectionable on the same grounds as the 2½ per cent. of royalty which it supersedes, it is also very unsound in principle, and there is a general cry that it should be abandoned altogether.

The tax on the south or U.S. side of Lake Superior is one dollar per ton on native copper and ten cents per ton on iron ore—payable in Greenbacks—and the whole revenue from that tax is paid into the hands of the County Treasurer, and expended for local improvements, such as roads, bridges, &c., in the mining region; whereas our tax is to be paid into the Provincial Chest.

The forfeiture of all locations of mineral lands which, on 15th March, 1861, were liable to forfeiture for non-performance of conditions, was hailed with satisfaction and approval by all the explorers and others interested in the success of mining enterprise on the Upper Lakes.

Legislation has hitherto never brought the mineral lands of the North West within the reach of the working man; and until it does so, the mineral resources of that country will never be fairly and fully tested. It is humiliating to a Canadian to visit the south shore of Lake Superior, with its numerous mines, its towns and villages, and rapidly increasing population and trade, all the growth of 20 years, and compare this very prosperous condition of that country with the almost utter desolation on the north shore; and perhaps hear some kind friend intimate that the difference is owing entirely to the lack of enterprise, skill and energy of the Canadian as compared with the American.

The comparison is humiliating, and, to some extent, unjust as regards the people.

On the U. S. side, for a time, almost every working man and miner was an explorer, and if he found any ores on public land he could secure it for $50—that being the cost of a 40 acre lot.

Let our Government give the miner and explorer the same chance, and I have no hesitation in stating that the north shore will also, in 20 years hence, be a thriving and prosperous country, presenting a great contrast to what it is at the present moment.

Permit me further to bring under your notice, difficulties which further discourage explorations under the present regulations in reference to mineral lands.

A man of limited means goes out to explore, and, in course of time, finds a lode, which, after some labor spent on it, with such tools as he can carry with him on such expeditions, has a pretty good appearance at one or two points;

He would like to open it up and examine it more fully before risking, perhaps, all he has in the world on it;

He goes to Sault Ste. Marie, perhaps 50 or 300 miles distant, as the case may be, for the only Provincial Land Surveyor in the territory. If he is disengaged it is well, if not he must wait or send to Toronto for a Surveyor. The survey now being completed, the poor explorer must now set off for Quebec—he knows no one there he can trust, and feels it necessary to go himself—arrived at Quebec, he is a lucky man if he does not find his discovery to be situated on the Location of some “Fossil Company” which, in spite of “Orders in Council” and “Declarations of Forfeiture” have still sufficient power to occasion difficulties and delays, if not to defeat the claims of those who, like him, have acted in good faith, believing that the Department would stand by their own public declarations. Or, perhaps he may find, on his arrival in Quebec, that by some under-handed means a sketch of his location has reached Quebec before him, and he finds it taken up in the name of some party, who, perhaps, had never seen or heard of Lakes Huron or Superior, or their mines and minerals.

The latter is what is termed “jumping claims,” a system which has done more to retard mining operations in that country than anything else.

The expense and loss of time entailed by such a system, and the want of confidence on the part of the explorer that it creates, discourages exploration, prevents the discovery of valuable mines, which, if worked, would bring into the country capital, and a large mining population, which mining population, again, would afford an excellent home market for a considerable agricultural population, and the prosperity of that part of the Province would, I conceive, be established on a sure and satisfactory basis.

Having thus far given the result of my enquiries as regards mining operations within the precincts of the Port of Sault Ste. Marie—certainly a most important matter of trade and one on which the prosperity of the District of Algoma so much depends,—I shall now proceed to give some general and statistical information on the various points visited.

SAULT STE. MARIE

It has been regularly surveyed and divided into town lots of half an acre each, for sale at $10 per lot. All the front lots have been taken up and are in the hands of speculators, few having been built upon, and as, so far, there are no taxes to pay by which means they can afford to hold the lots, greatly retarding the growth of the village. However, six lots about the centre of the village—say three acres—have been appropriated for a gaol and court-house for the District, and for the building of which an appropriation of $8,000 has been made by Parliament. The three acres has been partly cleared up, the foundation dug out and the stone work of same completed, when, for some reason no one could explain to me, the work has been stopped, and the foundation, which must have cost a considerable sum of money, going to ruin as fast as possible. I am informed that if the gaol and court-house were completed, the remaining unsold village lots would be taken up immediately and built upon.

What is now used as a gaol, court-house, registrar's office, county attorney's office, sheriff's office, sheriff's dwelling-house, and gaoler's dwelling-house, is a 45 year old stone building at east end of the village plot, and for which the Government are paying a rental of $300 per annum. There is a centre square building which contains all the offices, &c., above named, except the gaol, and it consists of two dungeons, one to the right and the other to the left of the centre building. These dungeons were formerly the joe house and dairy, or root house of the “Ermatinger family,” and the whole establishment I consider most unsuitable in every respect. There is one very important point connected with this court-house to which I conceive the attention of the Government ought to be specially drawn, viz.: the registry office for the district. It is kept in a room in the court-house, with a common shilling lock on the door. The register books, deeds and mortgages, &c., amounting to between 300 to 400, are kept in the same room, without any protection from fire, there being neither vault nor iron safe in the building. The registrar, Colonel Savage, lives on the United States side of the river, and, I was informed by several parties there, had given no security for the duties of his office.

I duly examined the Collector of Customs books, and found them correct, and everything orderly and regular in his office. Mr. Wilson's salary is $700 per annum, and $40 per annum for office rent and fuel. The winter may be called six months, and fuel is worth $3 per cord, and similar accommodation could not be found in the place for less than $100 a year. Mr. Wilson is a most zealous and energetic officer, and respected by the whole community. He has requested me to state that his present salary does not support his family.

In addition to his duties as collector, Mr. Wilson has under his charge and supervision a 30 feet keel boat and trappings, the property of the Department, and which is indispensably necessary in that part of the Province for the public service. He has built a boat-house at a cost to himself of $100, for the safe-keeping of the boat; and it is most satisfactory to the official who is necessitated to call on Mr. Wilson for his services and the boat, to find everything in such perfect order, and surrounded with such comfort for a journey of some 400 to 500 miles, by water, in an open boat. The only difficulty seemed to be the getting a proper crew of four men.

Mr. Wilson suggests that he might be allowed to keep four men, whom he could have in thorough training, to pay $4 per month each, during the season of navigation, say six months, equal to $100, and when employed on the public service the current wages of the day. By this course a good boat's crew could always be depended on, as well as a good boat in good order, and as Mr. Wilson is frequently called upon to use a boat in the service of the Crown Land and Indian Departments, both of these Departments might be called upon to contribute towards the support of the boat's crew.

Mr. Wilson further suggests a course by which a revenue could be raised in the district sufficient to keep up both boat and crew, and which would certainly be of essential service to the district of Algoma, both socially and morally at the same time. There is a cry from one end of the district to the other that drunkenness is increasing among the Indians, and it is an established fact that an Indian will give the shirt off his back for a glass of whisky, and it is firmly believed that spirits are given to the Indians by the traders both ashore and afloat, but the difficulty lays in tracing it; no one feels disposed to turn informer. Mr. Wilson suggests that every Indian trader should be called upon to take out a license as such, and a charge made for same of not less than $20 per annum, besides entering into bonds with two good and responsible securities, that they will neither directly nor indirectly sell or give spirits of any kind to any of the Indians on Lakes Huron and Superior, or adjacent thereto.

In the village of Sault Ste. Marie, on our side, there is not to be found either baker, butcher, tailor, shoemaker, blacksmith or tinsmith, and what is still worse, no hotel or accommodation for travellers of any kind, so that one has no alternative but to go to the United States side, where very good accommodation can be got, or, on our side, eat your bread and cheese in the street and sleep in a fence corner. Such is the actual state of things.

The Revenue Inspector, Mr. David Pim, a very respectable person, called upon me, but would require more definite instructions than he has yet received. He informs me that he has issued in the district this year—

|-------------------------------|------------|
| 3 tavern licenses.....        | at $13 75 |
| 3 saloon retail licenses..... | at 13 75   |
| 11 shop licenses.....         | at 8 75    |

But in not one of these can a traveller, except in one at the Bruce mines, get a night's lodging or a meal's victuals; they are mere drinking dens, in fact, sinks of iniquity. I asked Mr. Pim if he did not consider it his duty, previous to issuing the tavern licenses, to see that they possessed what, under the Municipal Law of Upper Canada, is known as tavern accommodation, viz., so many beds for travellers, provisions, stabling, &c., when he replied he was not aware he had to do so. I recommended him to issue no more without doing so. He complains very much of being so poorly remunerated, and says his fees have never exceeded $25 a year, and he is allowed nothing for office rent, fuel or stationery.

Mr. Pim is also post master, and makes the same complaint of the poorness of his pay, and although the district town has no allowance for office rent or fuel he says all the other officers in the district are paid by salary, he alone by fees, and that all his fees put together does not more than cover rent and fuel, and he is obliged to be in constant attendance at his office. He having requested me to look at his post office books I did so, and found that the registered letters outwards and inwards were some 400 a year.

The people at Sault Ste. Marie are most anxious to have a post office money order office established, which, judging from the number of registered letters, would certainly be a great convenience to the community, and a paying office to the Department. It could also be turned to account as the means of paying the officers of the Customs their salaries. Thus, the largest amount of money orders would be outwards, consequently Mr. Pim would always be in funds, and the Collector of Customs could, at the end of each month, make up his pay list, present it to Mr. Pim, who could pay him the amount and transmit the pay list to head quarters as so much money, as the Bank of Montreal would cash the pay list on presentation or pass the amount to the credit of the Money Order Department, and it would thus come in with the pay lists of the other ports.

What is particularly wanted at Sault Ste. Marie to give it a start is a good summer hotel for tourists, and where, I feel satisfied, a man who understood his business and attended to it, would make a fortune in a very few years, and a capital of $12,000 would do the whole business.

On the opposite side of the river there is a very indifferent hotel, and during the summer season it is crowded with Southern and other travellers, many passing the whole summer there; and I may add that our side of the river possesses many advantages which the other does not, such as Free Port, fishing, shooting, &c.

My attention was particularly drawn to this by Mr. Simpson, the Hudson's Bay Company's factor at the Sault, who informed me that he had had many applications from Americans with capital to buy part of their station to establish a large summer hotel, but from the position they were in with regard to the tenure of the land, they could give no title, although most anxious to sell and encourage the project.

The position of the Hudson's Bay Company with regard to their post at Sault Ste. Marie stands thus. —

During the war of 1812, St. Joseph's Island, some 60 miles below the Sault, was occupied by two companies of British troops, who, with the French Canadian Voyageurs, took Mackinaw. The Americans tried to retake it but could not succeed, and by way of retribution went to the Sault and burned everything before them, and among the rest the Hudson's Bay Company's post, saw mill, &c. After the peace the Company re-built the stores, &c., at the post, which were almost immediately taken possession of by the Royal Engineer Department, for barracks and military stores, and the Company had again to build in another spot for themselves.

The Military Government allowed the building they had taken possession of to go to ruin, and to meet this loss of the Hudson Bay Company, Earl Bathurst, then Colonial Secretary, in a despatch to Sir Peregrine Maitland, then Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada, recommended that the Hudson Bay Company should receive 1,200 acres around the site of the Fort, as it is called, as remuneration.

The Company have had the 1,200 acres surveyed, and are in possession, but up to this period have received no patent, and consequently cannot sell.

The land certainly is not worth 20 cents per acre, still if they could get their patent they could sell their site, buildings, &c. (which is certainly beautiful, being one mile west of the village and immediately adjoining the rapids), to several wealthy applicants for an hotel for summer travel, and which, beyond a doubt, would greatly benefit the district. Thus, for the small sum of say £60, a most important impetus to the trade of Sault Ste. Marie is kept back, for wherever a large concourse of people are brought together, by proper and legitimate means, trade must flourish.

I may here state that there is not a grist mill in the whole district of Algoma, but at the Sault there are no less than five mill sites, as may be seen by a plan in the Crown Land Department, by Mr. Vidal, P.L.S., of date 18th March, 1863. The best site is one adjoining the Hudson's Bay Company's post. Colonel Prince and other gentlemen of means have made application to the Crown Land Department, proposing to purchase a site to erect a grist mill with certain run of stones, and to ask for no deed until the mill was erected and in running order; but I have not the means of knowing what action the Department has taken in the matter, although it is a matter of great importance to the district of Algoma.

I would respectfully recommend, if no action has been otherwise taken, that the five mill sites be sold at public auction, either in the City of Toronto or at Sault Ste. Marie, after being well advertised both in the United States and Canada papers, and that the sale be subject to the condition of the site being put in use within a certain period.

There is no Protestant place of worship at Sault Ste. Marie, but service is occasionally held in the Court House by the Church of England Missionary from Garden River, about 12 miles below the Sault.

There is a Roman Catholic Chapel and Priest in attendance, with a large congregation.

There is a very good school house, which has been built by private subscription. The average attendance of scholars is about 40, and they receive about $100 a year from Government towards the teacher's salary.

There are also two Provincial Policemen stationed here, under the control of the Magistracy; they are highly spoken of as decent, proper, efficient men, and are considered very useful, and a terror to evil-doers.

In the neighborhood of the Sault a good deal has been done by the Government in the shape of Colonization Roads, but for what great good remains yet to be seen. One road extends from the Sault to the Bruce mines, some 48 miles, with no less than 67 bridges on it, costing some $1,400 per mile, including bridges. This road is very little used except for a few miles out, and I could not learn that half a dozen people had ever passed over it. I visited it at several points, having been informed that several of the bridges had been burned down. I found this to be the case with three medium sized bridges, and that several of the others want repairs; and all of the bridges require to be visited by a competent person, and to have the bolts tightened up, otherwise they will certainly go to pieces. All new works of this character require thus to be attended to.

I was applied to by several parties begging of me to get what was required to the bridges done at once. I told them I had no such authority, but would consider it my duty to report the facts to the Government on my return, and which I now do.

There are very few settlers along the road referred to—but there are some very fair spots of agricultural land, and which would be readily taken up if it were surveyed and put in the market, but you cannot induce settlers to survey land themselves, at their own cost, and pay one dollar an acre for it besides, when the Government are advertising lauds in the same District, already surveyed, at 20 cents per acre.

The question may very naturally arise, why do they not go and settle on the 20 cent land? Simply because there are no roads, or markets for their products; while on the road in question, they have a market at each end, viz.,—the Bruce Mines and the Sault.

Another road branches off, about two miles out from Sault Ste. Marie, on the Bruce Mines road, into the Township of Korah, about nine miles long. Korah is a very promising township, provided the road be extended across the township, say six miles; there are some 12 or 14 families, agriculturists, settled in it, but some have left for the United States and others are about leaving, simply because they have no road to fetch out their produce to market.

Another Government road branches off, six miles out from the Sault on the Bruce Mines road, 14 miles in length, to Goulais Bay on Lake Superior; so far there are no settlers on this road.

I deem it proper to add that no one in the District seems to have any charge or control over these roads and bridges, and it is to be regretted that works of such extent, and some really splendid and expensive bridges, should be allowed to go to ruin for want of looking after, and some slight repairs.

At present, in the District of Algoma, they have no taxes, and no means of imposing any, for such a purpose, even had the people the desire or disposition to do so. In January next the District, by the Act of last Session, will be under the various old District Laws in force in Canada West, previous to the Municipal system coming into operation, but how far that is to benefit the District is yet to be seen.

Under the old District Laws all sums arising from tavern-licenses, shop-licenses and billiard-tables, go into the Provincial Chest; while in the municipalities, with the exception of $5 on each tavern-license, the revenue goes into the Municipal Chest and forms quite a large item of revenue; so that in this point of view the District of Algoma will not be anything like so favorably situated as the counties under the municipal system.

While writing the word "Billiard-tables" above, another difficulty occurs to me of anything but a favorable character to Sault Ste. Marie.

I have referred to a "Summer Hotel," as being likely to be of great service at Sault Ste. Marie, and it is well known that at such a place of resort it is necessary to provide all sorts of amusements to attract visitors, and in such a Hotel as I refer to, at least four billiard-tables would be required, and on which, under the law by which the District of Algoma will be governed from January next, there will be a tax of £10 per annum on each table, and which goes into the Provincial Chest; this is no great encouragement to Hotel enterprise, and there is no such tax in any of the counties.

Three miles below Sault Ste. Marie and on the Bruce Mines road is an old mining location, two miles front by five miles deep; it is supposed to be one of the forfeited mining locations. The whole of this lot would be taken up at once for agricultural purposes were it surveyed and in the market, but the Crown Land Agent at the Sault can give no information on the subject.

GARDEN RIVER,

An Indian Village and settlement on the Garden River, 12 miles below the Sault, and fronting on St. Mary's River, with a population of Indians and half breeds of about 400 souls.

There is a Church of England and Methodist Mission here, but the number of adherents are small. The Church of England Missionary, the Rev. James Chance, and his lady, each keep a school, but the scholars do not number more than eight or ten between both schools, and the congregation will not average 20 the year round. The Sunday previous to my last visit there the congregation numbered five.

The Roman Catholic body here are under the superintendence of Les Pères Jesuites, who here, as all over the district, are most assiduous in attending not only to the spiritual, but temporal and bodily infirmities of the Indians, by teaching them farming, mechanical and all industrial pursuits, and attending to both bodily and spiritual wants when sick. The Superior of the Order there, Père Kohler, informed me that the number of souls there and neighborhood, under his charge, amounted to about 600, and that the average attendance of scholars at their school was from 30 to 40 scholars. He also informed me that he had entered into a contract for all the material for a grist mill, and which he hoped to have in full operation by next harvest, at a cost to himself of $3,000. I asked him where the wheat was to come from, when he informed me that in addition to what would be grown in the neighborhood, he intended getting from Chicago a cargo of wheat each season, and which he could get up for next to nothing for freight, by vessels going up the South Shore of Lake Superior for iron ore, and would gladly bring it for him from time to time, as part of their ballast, and land it almost at the mill. This would be a further means of teaching his people habits of industry, and be able to supply them with flour for their own use cheap, and have the bran and shorts for their cattle. He expected to have the mill put up pretty much all by his own people, and work it by them also.

There is a splendid bridge on the Bruce Mines Road, about a mile back of Garden River, and which must have cost a large sum of money, and if not quickly attended to will certainly be down. The bolts require attending to, and some slight repairs to the approaches.

My last visit to Garden River was with Mr. Wilson, who was sent down there by the Indian Department, in order to get the consent of the Indians to the surrender of two copper locations on the reserve of 400 acres each, applied for by Mr. Keating as representing an American Company, who were going to open up the mines and work them.

The council assembled in due Indian form, on the bank of Garden River, and Mr. Wilson, through an interpreter, explained to them the object of his visit, and what he asked for, when, after a good deal of consultation and gesticulating, the senior Chief present, "Pe-qu-chin-inie," made a speech and declined to surrender the locations, thus, for a time at all events, retarding the progress of that part of the district. The two Chiefs present, "Pe-qu-chin-inie" and "Ne-ben-ai-goching," requested the interpreter to say to me that they wished to communicate the contents of the former speech to the Government. I promised that I would, and the speech, almost word for word, will be found in the Appendix.

BRUCE MINES,

Forty-five miles below Sault Ste. Marie, and 290 miles from Collingwood, is a Port of Entry, John Bowker—landing-waiter in charge, at a salary of £125 per annum, and £10 per annum for office rent and fuel—says it is not enough to support him and his family. I examined his books and office-matters, and found them fairly kept and correct. Mr. Bowker reports to Sault Ste. Marie.

This may be considered the most flourishing point of the Free Port, although, at the time of my visit, almost every house and store at the Wellington Mines, about half-a-mile west, had been burned, by fire communicated from the bush; a large amount of the property was covered by insurance, so that in a short time, no doubt, everything, on that score, will be all right again. The "Bruce Mine" is not now being worked, but the Canada West Mining Company, through the agency of Messrs. Taylor & Co., of London, England, have the Wellington Mines in full operation, under lease from the Montreal Mining Company, at a Royalty of five per cent.

This Company, at the present time, gives employment to about 400 men; and the population in the vicinity of the mines, and you may say dependent on them, numbers 1400 souls.

The smelting works are not in operation, having been burned down some years back, and have not since been rebuilt. The copper ore is crushed by powerful machinery, and then put into "puddling troughs," and washed by water, and "dressed" up, so that when shipped—as it is direct from there to Swansea, England,—it contains about 20 per cent. of copper, and is worth about $80 per ton.

This Company is in a most flourishing condition, and last year, 1863, (after paying all expenses) divided $60,000 profit among the shareholders. The export of copper ore by them last year, amounted to 4,532 tons, of the value of $270,791. The value of imports at Bruce Mines for 1863, was $52,355.

The value of copper ore shipped to England, for the half-year ended 30th June

and, I was informed by the managers, before the close of navigation this year, they hoped to ship ore to the value of between $300,000 and $400,000 more.

As this Company are only lessees of the Mines now working, and their leases expiring in three and eight years, it was feared that the mines would have been abandoned at the termination of the leases, and thus the place would have become a barren wilderness again; but, fortunately the Company have purchased the whole of the Bruce Mines (it is said for £25,000 sterling) with the full intention of opening them up, and working them next spring, so that, in a very few years, we may look to the population, at least, trebling their numbers, and the trade of the Port largely increased.

The number of British and Foreign steamers and "sail vessels," to and from the Port of Bruce Mines last year, was 116; since then a line of first-class vessels, owned by Cuningham Sons, of Liverpool, have been put on the route between Liverpool and "Bruce Mines," calling with freight at various places, as they go up to the Mines, and on arrival there are loaded with copper ore, direct for England.

A Post Office money order branch is much wanted here for the convenience of the miners sending money to their friends, especially to England.

There are three or four magistrates at the mines, of high standing; but what is very much required is a "lock-up;" if a breach of the peace be committed, or any crime where it is necessary to confine a prisoner, even temporarily, there is no "lock-up" in the district, except the two dungeons at Sault Ste. Marie, a distance of 45 miles from the Bruce Mines, and no regular means of travel or conveyance, and thus rendering the sending of a prisoner there very expensive; so that in many cases the really guilty go unpunished.

There is a good school here, well attended; also a Protestant and Catholic Churches, with large congregations; also three or four stores, doing a good business, and a very good and large Hotel.

The Mining Company have made an arrangement with the Hotel and store-keepers, that no others are to be allowed to be opened for a certain number of years, and the Company are enabled to grant this monopoly, as their Mining Locations cover all the land the vicinity of the mines.

ST. JOSEPH'S ISLAND,

Opposite the Bruce Mines, say six miles distant, and eight miles from the entrance to St. Mary's River, is a large and fertile Island, about 20 miles long, from east to west, and about 15 miles broad, covered in part, with heavy forest trees. The ruins of the old British Fort, commanding the channel of the St. Mary's River, are still to be seen.

The settlers on this island find a ready cash market for all their products at the Bruce Mines, and it would be a most prosperous island did not a great dissatisfaction exist among the settlers because they cannot get their claims adjusted. They are all squatters. Two commissions have, at different periods, been appointed by Government to investigate their claims; the first, I learn, never acted; the second, composed of Messrs. Wilson and Salter, did act—went over every lot in 1860, and made a full and complete Report to the Crown Land Department, and I am not aware what action has been taken on that Report.

There is a good deal of cleared and pretty good land on the island, and the people would be prosperous, happy, and contented if they could get their claims settled and their patents; but they are discontented for the reason stated, and some of them are leaving for the United States in consequence, as they say they do not wish to continue to build houses and make improvements on land which they do not know their families may continue to enjoy.

Joseph Dollar's Case.

This is a very industrious, hard-working settler, a squatter farmer on a lot a few miles below the Bruce Mines, adjoining the surveyed Township of Lefroy. He has occupied the lot for 15 years, and has made good and valuable improvements, but finds himself in the same position as the settlers on St. Joseph's Island. The land is unsurveyed, and was granted in 1846 to one Starnes as a mining location, two miles by five, and was forfeited by Order in Council, the six months' notice having been given.

THESSALON RIVER,

Twelve miles east of the Bruce Mines, and 60 miles from the Sault, a fine river and good front stream, but only four settlers on it, who seemed very poor. 'Tis on an Indian reserve, surrendered to the Crown but not surveyed. The land could be sold if surveyed, the Crown Land agent having had many applicants. The Indian Department were under the impression that there was some valuable elm timber on this river, but I could neither see nor hear of any from any of the settlers.

MISSISSAGUA,

A Hudson Bay Company's post, 33 miles from Thessalon River, and 90 from the Sault, situated on a fork of the River Mississagua, a very beautiful station, and everything neat and orderly, as is invariably found to be the case at all the stations of the Hudson's Bay Company. The only trade here is between the Indians and the Hudson Bay Company. There is only one settler, Sayers, a squatter, long in occupation. The land around here is also unsurveyed. The Township of Thompson is, however, within three or four miles.

Salvail's Saw Mills,

Five miles east of Mississagua, is also on unsurveyed land. These mills are now at a stand, the proprietor having got into difficulties with the Montreal Mining Company, in whose hands they now are, and, like all their property on these Lakes—except the Bruce Mines,—dormant.

Lauzon's Mills,

About 10 miles east of Mississagua.

This mill has been erected by a French Canadian, by name, Alfred Lauzon; he has been there three years; has erected a first-rate mill, with a muley and circular saw; and has built a wharf, with a tramway on it for shipping his lumber—some 300 to 400 yards long; has built six dwelling-houses for himself and men, and also a good dam. His supply of water is from a lake about a quarter of a mile back of his mill; this lake is about 1 mile long and about half-a-mile broad; at the N. W. end of this lake is a small "portage" and then another lake about four miles long and one mile wide, and both full of fish; he has also constructed a slide from the small lake for bringing his logs down to his dam. The whole place denotes industry and prosperity, and there is a good supply of fair timber all around, and a never-failing supply of water. He has applied himself and through Mr. Wilson repeatedly, to purchase, and also for a timber license, but, so far, has been unsuccessful. He is, of course, a squatter, and the land is unsurveyed. Like many others up here, he is going on helping himself, but keeping an account of the lumber he makes. He informs me he is doing well, and has expended $3,000 in cash since he went on the premises, and is most anxious to get his patent.

LA CLOCHE,

About 45 miles east of Lauzon's mills and 144 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie—another Hudson's Bay Post, immediately in front of the Township of Salter, in charge of Mr. Peter Bell; the land around is unsurveyed. There are no settlers here, the trading is entirely with the Indians. Mr. Bell makes great complaints of the Indian traders giving spirits to the Indians. There is no magistrate within 50 to 100 miles—one is much needed there, and Mr. Bell would make an exceedingly useful, intelligent magistrate.

LITTLE CURRENT,

Or Waie-bidgi-wang, 12 miles across from La Cloche on the north shore of the Great Manitoulin. The main channel is narrow here, with a current running five or six miles an hour, being much affected by the winds. This is the calling place for all vessels going up the north shore of Lake Huron, and here the steamers usually wood. With the exception of the school-master, Mr. Burkit, and Mr. John Dupont, store-keeper, the population is all Indian and Half-breed. The settlement is miserable, and great misery will be experienced this coming winter by the poor Indian, in consequence of the fire through the whole country having destroyed the game, on which the Indian, in a great measure, depends for his living; and also, in many cases, their small crop of potatoes, beans, and peas. There is no hotel, or accommodation of any kind here, for a traveller. There seems to have been a pretty good clearing, at one time, around the village, if it can be so called, but it seems to be neglected, and a second growth springing up. Mr. Burkit, the school master, informs me that his average attendance of scholars is about 20; he also complains very bitterly of the Indians getting spirits from the trading vessels and steamers, when they become perfectly mad and no one's life is safe. There is no place of worship here, of any kind, and there is no magistrate; Mr. Burkit, the school-master, would make an admirable magistrate, he is a man of some 50 years of age, very exemplary, and highly spoken of. The mail for Manitowanning, where the Indian Superintendent resides, should be left here, instead of at Killarney, 25 miles below.

A landing-waiter should also be appointed here for the purpose I have already stated in my Report.

Until within some six or seven years back the Hudson's Bay Company had a station here; they built a large wharf and store-house, and the place was neat and orderly; they gave employment to the Indians and Half-breeds in cutting cordwood, hauling and piling it on the wharf, and the Company then sold the wood to the steamers at 1s. 3d. per cord, profit. The place was then, comparatively speaking, prospering, the Indian working and acquiring habits of industry, besides obtaining many comforts for himself and family. The Company, I am informed, had a lease of some 20 acres of the land, for 20 years; but, some six or seven years ago, the Indian Department deemed it wise that the Company should leave the Island, which they did rather than have any difficulty; the consequence is, that the Indian has fallen back to his fishing and hunting habits, and idling around; the store was shut up and went to decay, and scarcely a plank left on the wharf, and steamers now calling have much difficulty in getting their supply of wood. Mr. John Dupont having recently rented the store and wharf, such as they are, it is most probable that a better state of things will follow.

MANITOWANNING,

Thirty miles from Little Current, is beautifully situated at the head of Heyward Sound. It is here the Government Indian agent resides, also the English Clergyman and Surgeon, and, I regret to be obliged to give a melancholy account of the place:—In the first place, from the year 1839 to 1844, Government expended upwards of $30,000 here, in erecting some 40 Indian houses, a large frame store, a saw-mill, four large houses for the agent, English clergyman, doctor, and school-master; also a blacksmith's, carpenter's, and cooper's shops; a large English church was also built, under the hope that a large number of Indians could be congregated there, and in some degree civilized and taught industrious pursuits. The result may be summed up by stating, that, at the present time, there is no store in the place; no school or schoolmaster; and, for many months, no clergyman of any denomination. There is a good English church, and, when there is a pastor, an average congregation in all of not more than 20; all, pretty much, that remains of the Indian houses are the chimneys. A good wharf did exist, but there is not a vestige of it left; the country around has been devastated by fire, and the whole spot denotes ruin and decay.

I was informed that two thirds of the Indians there now, professed the Roman Catholic faith, that they had applied, through their priests, for some accommodation for the holding of service, but had, so far, been unsuccessful.

WIKWEMIKONG,

Also on the Great Manitoulin Island, 25 miles, by water, from Manitowanning, but only about six miles across a neck of land. This village is under the charge and superintendence of "Les Pères Jesuites," and presents a striking contrast to Manitowanning. It has received no government aid towards its progress. It has a population of over 600 souls, all Indians and half-breeds; and about 150 houses, besides barns, stables, and other out-buildings; the village presents a neat, cleanly, orderly appearance, and prosperity seems to smile on all around, and the population apparently happy and comfortable. They have a capital stone church and dwelling for the clergy, built entirely by the Indians themselves, and also a convent for educational purposes; they have two schools, one for the boys and one for the girls; five teachers, and about 80 scholars in each school; they receive $240 per annum from Government, towards the support of their schools; they have also a saw-mill and among them shoemakers, masons, coopers, blacksmiths, &c.,

The country around here has also been burned up, but, through the exertions of the clergy with their people, they have managed to save a portion of their crop, and they are close to good fishing grounds.

Complaint is also made here of the traders giving whiskey to the Indians.

The clergy, also, here go out with their people, help and teach them farming operations, and the aspect of the place denotes happiness and contentment.

The whole population of the Island way be fairly put down at 1200; say 1000 Catholics, 100 Protestants, and 100 Pagans.

From what I have myself seen, and from information conveyed to me by persons on whom I can depend, I am firmly of opinion that a very erroneous impression is abroad as to the value of the Great Manitoulin Island. There is no amount of timber of any value upon it, in fact, very indifferent cordwood; there are no less than 17 lakes on it, covering one-third of the whole island, and of the remaining two-thirds, not more than one-sixth can be called even fair agricultural land; the balance is one mass of rock and swamp. Parties have stated to me that the Indians were in the habit of making half-a-million pounds of maple sugar on the Island yearly, and that the land must be good where maple trees grow so well. My experience tells me that maple will grow on even a sandy soil, but they will grow well on six inches of gravelly soil on a rocky bottom, which latter is the case on the Manitoulin.

I am further informed that of the five townships surveyed last winter on the Island, scarcely a stake is to be found, all having been burned up, so that these surveys are useless; but I do not believe that if the whole Island was surveyed and brought into the markets, that it could be sold for sufficient to defray the expense of survey, unless it were bought by parties who had never visited it.

KILLARNEY,

Or She-ba-wah-ning ("here is a channel"), is very beautifully situated on the main shore, 25 miles from Wekwemikong, hemmed in, as it were, by mountains on all sides; on the north shore of a narrow channel about half a mile long, and very deep. It has a convenient steamboat landing, a good Catholic church, a store, 12 or 13 houses, and a population of about 75 souls, all Indians and half-breeds except three or four; they live chiefly by fishing and hunting, agriculture is neglected, except as regards the usual vegetables and potatoe patch and prairie hay for their cattle. Each house has a cow and a couple of pigs, and there are a couple of horses owned in the village.

The village has the appearance of neatness and order. Great complaints are made here also about whiskey being given to the Indians, and, although there are two magistrates, they have not been able to stop this traffic, which is carried on so clandestinely. There should be a "lock-up" here or at Little Current. The whole village may be called "squatters," and they are very anxious to have the village surveyed and each one's lot defined, which may save any amount of trouble hereafter.

Killarney should be made a Sub-port of Entry, as a great number of vessels call there, and it is the first place touched in the Free Port.

NORTH SHORE OF LAKE SUPERIOR.

On my return to Sault Ste. Marie I found that the steamer "Algoma" did not go up Lake Superior until the following trip, and it being too late in the season to risk a small boat to Fort William, I had no alternative but to lay over and get what useful information I could, about Sault Ste. Marie and its neighborhood, in the interim. Starting, therefore, on the next trip, after laying to in "Waiska Bay" for 55 hours in the "Algoma" on account of a violent storm on the lake, we at length reached "Michipicoton," about 150 miles, being the first stopping place of the boat, in fact, on our shore, the first point of civilization; and when you get there, except a splendid harbor and grand scenery, there is nothing to be seen but the Hudson's Bay Post, everything neat and orderly as is usual. "Moose Fort," Hudson's Bay, is 300 miles from this post, and has been reached from this point in canoes in six days. The business done at this post is, of course, between Hudson's Bay Company and the Indians, and the goods are all entered at Sault Ste. Marie; there is no Officer of Customs here, and I do not see that one is required.

Mr. Colin Rankin, the Company's agent here, is a highly respectable person, and strongly recommended by Colonel Prince and others, as a suitable person for a magistrate; and it is very desirable there should be one here, also a "lock up."

On leaving here we made for the Island of Michipicoton, about 45 miles distant, in order to land a miner, but were unable to do so on account of fog, and I, consequently, had no opportunity of visiting the Island or mines, at which latter, however, I learned there were only some 10 or 12 men at work, so that there is not a great deal doing there. The Island is about 16 miles by 6, covered with spruce, fir, birch, ash, and maple, but the timber is of no great value, unless for cordwood; there are several lakes upon it, full of speckled trout, and the bay is full of salmon trout and white-fish; but the island, otherwise, is thought very valuable in mineral deposit—silver, copper and lead,—and the Quebec Mining Company have a location on it.

We reached Fort William the following day, situated at the mouth of the Kaministiquoi River. Owing to a bar or shoal at the mouth of the river, we were obliged to anchor at about a mile from the fort, or Hudson's Bay Post, and the goods, &c., to be landed taken off in large boats and a scow.

A Mr. Wallbridge, from Detroit, has opened a lead mine about ten miles up the river, and is said to be doing very well. I had no opportunity of visiting the mine, as the steamer only remained at Fort William two hours. I also was informed, that some two or three copper and lead locations had just been discovered in about the same neighborhood.

If the bar or shoal I have referred to were removed, and which could be done by dredging, for $10,000, the river would then be navigable, for steamers, ten miles up, and if Mr. Wallbridge's mine turns out a success, of which there is every probability, two shipments of ore, within ten miles, would be a very great drawback.

"Les Pères Jesuites" have also a very successful mission here, some two miles above the fort on the opposite side of the river; there is a good church and some 50 to 60 houses, chiefly half breeds and Indians numbering about 300 souls, and a school with about 30 scholars; also a resident priest. The good influence of "Les Pères Jesuites," along the shores of Lake Superior, is generally admitted by all unprejudiced visitors; the poor and often degraded Indian being instructed in agriculture and industrial pursuits, tending to elevate the human species in every clime.

There have been some six or eight American steamers and other craft in at Fort William this season, but as there is no Officer of Customs there, I could procure no report of what was landed or exported. I should deem it very advisable to have a landing-waiter there, as it is becoming a place of great resort.

There is no magistrate here and one is absolutely necessary, also a "lock up." Mr. John McIntyre, the Hudson's Bay agent is strongly recommended as a most-suitable person. A reward is at present offered, by the Government, for an escaped murderer, an Indian, who has been prowling about Fort William and setting all law at defiance for more than a year; he will more than likely now be caught there, but there is no magistrate to commit him, or place to confine him, nearer than Sault Ste. Marie, upwards of 300 miles.

The Hudson's Bay Company have a large farm here, and raise oats, barley, and all kinds of roots, and there is no doubt wheat can also be raised here. Fish is most abundant both in the Bay and River, and Mr. McIntyre informed me that 30 barrels of white-fish were taken at one haul of seine, close to Fort William.

On our return towards the Sault we again tried to touch at Michipicoton Island, but found it impracticable, and had, consequently, to bring the miner back to Sault Ste. Marie, where he had started from.

I regret to be obliged to give so poor an account of our side of Lake Superior, but where there is little else than a wilderness, there is little to report upon. I am, perhaps, wrong in saying there is little else than a wilderness, for it is admitted on all sides, that our north shore is quite as rich in mineral deposits as the south shore, if not more so.

But when we find the Montreal Mining Company holding not less than 16 mining locations on Lake Superior, 160 miles of territory, and all patented, although merely the front lines run—no side or rear lines and not a pick at work in one of them, it does not omen well—and it almost deters explorers from going in, for, after spending their time, labor and money, if they do find a location, the chances are ten to one that it is on some two mile by five location of the Montreal Mining Company.

I annex, hereto, an extract from the "Portage Lake Mining Journal of 10th September, 1864," showing, to some extent, the opinion on the south shore relative to our north shore.

EX. PORTAGE LAKE, MICHIGAN, MINING JOURNAL, 10TH SEPT., 1864:

Canadian Mining Matters:

"That there are rich and extensive mineral deposits on the Canadian or "North Shore" of Lake Superior, is a fact of which most people, cognizant of the country, are well informed; and, were it possible, would have availed themselves of, had not the Canadian Government placed in their way so many obstacles as to make it a waste of time to endeavor to remove them.

"The first great obstacle was the establishment of monopolies; almost similar to that of the Hudson's Bay Fur Company, and the payment of royalty on every pound raised, according to the estimation of officials. Besides this the Government has been exceedingly dilatory in making necessary surveys, and though the objectionable royalty has been abolished, yet it is now utterly impossible to purchase a tract of land for want of a descriptive boundary.

"From the information gathered from gentlemen of standing and experience, we are led to believe that copper and silver exist in Canadian territory, in formations similar to those of this region which have proven themselves to be highly productive and remunerative beyond doubt. We have long entertained a similar opinion, and with Sir William Logan's report to the Canadian Parliament, in which he faithfully and scientifically portrayed the metalliferous wealth of the Canadian Lake Superior District, it has been a subject of wonder that our neighbors should have been so inactive in developing the resources of their country.

"In this connection we may mention the name of C. W. Starnes, Esq., of Montreal, who, we understand, has visited, with D. S. Ogden, Esq., and Hon. E. H. Thompson, of New York, the whole range of mines from the Porcupine Mountains to Copper Harbor, and taken extensive notes of the leading mines, detailing their workings, &c., with a view to bringing the subject properly before Parliament at its next Session. We trust the views of these gentlemen will result in effecting a radical change in working the Canadian mines, and especially in having the Government perfect its surveys.

"As the matter now stands, it is time and money thrown away to attempt to make any location on that side of the Lake, for you are greeted at the Crown Land Department, at Quebec, with one of two answers to your application for a location.—either that the land belongs to the Montreal Mining Company, or else that the land is not surveyed. This policy changed by the Government, and thousands would seek investment where there is now but a single instance.

I may mention that there are two townships near Fort William, surveyed and in the market at 20 cents per acre, but there is no one nearer than Quebec that can give any further information regarding them; some of the lots have been taken up, and if Mr. Wilson, at the Sault, was furnished with plans of them, there is little doubt all the lots would speedily be taken up and settled on.

U. S. OR SOUTH SHORE OF LAKE SUPERIOR.

I now proceed, and I must say with some reluctance, to give an account of the south or U. S. shore of Lake Superior. I say with reluctance for the comparison is painfully true.

The American village of the "Soo" is immediately opposite our village of Sault Ste. Marie, and is the capital of Chippewa County, Michigan; it has a population of about 1200, is 350 miles from Detroit and 15 miles from the foot of Lake Superior in N. Latitude 45.31; the rapids here have an ascent of 18 feet within one mile. The village contains two Protestant and one Catholic churches, two hotels and 10 or 15 stores, and mechanics of all kinds. Fort Brady, an old U. S. Military Post, is at the east end of the town and commands the St. Mary's River, and the approach to the mouth of the canal above.

St. Mary's Ship Canal.

It was built in 1853-4-5, being completed in June, 1855, within two years, and cost about one million of dollars; not a copper of money was paid, however, but a grant of 750,000 acres of land, was made by congress to the State of Michigan in aid of building it. The contractors accepted the land, binding themselves to complete the canal in two years which they did. There were from 12 to 1600 men employed upon the work on the spot, exclusive of the men at the quarries. A large portion of stone was brought from the quarries on the Indian Reserve near Amherstburg, O. W. The lands were selected by agents appointed by the Governor of Michigan, as the work progressed, as follows:—

|                                          |               |
|------------------------------------------|---------------|
| In the Iron region of Lake Superior..... | 39,000 acres. |
| In the Copper do do .....                | 147,000 "     |
| In the lower peninsula.....              | 564,000 "     |

750,000 "

The length of the canal, 1 mile, 304 feet. Width at top, 115 feet; width at water-line, 100 feet; width at bottom, 64 feet. The depth of the canal is 12 feet.

The slope wall on the sides of the canal, 4000 feet in length.

The width of the canal locks, 70 feet at top, and 61½ feet at bottom.

The walls are 25 feet high, and 10 feet thick at bottom.

The lift of the upper locks, 8 feet; the lift of the lower locks, 10 feet; total lockage 18 feet.

Lower wharf, 180 feet long—20 feet wide; upper wharf, 830 feet long—16 to 30 feet wide.

There are three pair of folding gates, each 40 feet wide; upper gate, 17 feet high; lower gate, 24 feet high.

There were also upper and lower caisson gates, used for shutting off the water from the canal, but these were found not to answer, and have been removed and a guard gate substituted.

There was 103,437 pounds of wrought iron used in the gates, and 38,000 pounds of cast iron, and 8,000 feet of oak timber.

The tolls on the canal are collected by the State, are merely nominal and only intended to defray the necessary expenses and repairs.

The tollage is six cents for every registered ton for every description of vessel, and no tollage on cargo.

The first steamer that passed through was the "Illinois," 927 tons, on 18th June, 1855.

The average season of navigation is 6½ months, commencing as early as 18th April, and terminating as late as 30th November.

I transmit herewith the annual report of the Superintendent of the canal for the years 1862 and 1863, giving most valuable statistical information of the trade of the canal and Lake Superior. As these reports are so clear and complete in themselves, it is unnecessary for me to make any remark upon them. I will merely draw attention to one Table B, showing the whole number of vessels, sail and steam, which have passed through the canal in 1863.

|                          | No.         | Tonnage.       |
|--------------------------|-------------|----------------|
| Sail Vessels .....       | 952         | 307,142        |
| Side-wheel Steamers..... | 176         | 129,179        |
| Propellers.....          | 129         | 71,115         |
|                          | 1257 | 507,434 |

I may add that of the above, one steamer was British.

Mr. Brown, the obliging Superintendent, further informed me, that the trade of this year would exceed that of 1863.

The copper region on the south shore is divided into three districts, viz.: Ontonagon, Keweenaw Point, and Portage Lake. Since 1845, when the copper mines were first brought into notice, some 150 Copper Mining Companies have been organized under the general law of Michigan.

More than eight millions of dollars have been expended in explorations and mining improvements.

The Minnesota and Cliff mines have declared and paid over two millions of dollars in dividends since the organization and working of these mines.

Until 1860 all the copper of the Lake Superior mines was smelted at Detroit, Cleveland and Boston, since which time, however, large smelting works have been erected at Portage Lake, L. S., while some copper ore has been shipped to Liverpool to be smelted.

The following statement shows the aggregate shipment of copper and iron from Lake Superior from 1845 to 1863, and will be found interesting:—

The first point touched at, deserving of important notice, after leaving the Sault, on the south shore, is Marquette, 180 miles, the county town of Marquette County, Michigan, and a Sub-port of Entry, situate on the Bay of Marquette, with a safe and commodious harbor. This is the only point on Lake Superior where iron mines have been opened. The town contains about 2500 inhabitants, has a court-house and gaol, five Protestant and one Catholic churches, six hotels, two of them first-class houses, two printing offices, and from 30 to 40 stores, and everything denotes prosperity around. The iron mines are from 12 to 18 miles back of the town on an elevated ridge, known as the Iron Mountain. A railroad extends from Marquette to the Lake Superior mine, 18 miles distant, affording ample means for transporting the ore direct to the vessels side for shipment, and it is so arranged that the cars are "dumped" or emptied, without injury, into the hold of the ship, thus saving an immensity of labor. There are several blast furnaces in the neighborhood, and manufactures of pig-iron, railroad castings, car wheels, &c., employing, it is said, in all about 6,000 souls. This iron business alone gives employment to upwards of 100 sail vessels besides propellers. Steamers of a large size arrive and depart almost daily for Detroit, Milwaukee, and Chicago, carrying freight and numerous passengers; so many vessels are employed in this iron and copper trade, that the merchants and traders on the south shore get their goods and supplies from below at a mere nominal rate of freight, the vessels being too glad to get the freight, to save the trouble and expense of loading and unloading ballast, in fact it has been known, in several instances, of vessels paying for the privilege of taking up a cargo of flour and salt. The shipments of iron ore this year, and pig iron from Marquette is calculated will be upwards of 200,000 tons.

The quality of the Lake Superior iron is said to be superior to any in the world. The following analysis, by Professor Johnson, gives the strength per square inch, in pounds, of various irons:

|----------------------------------|--------|
| Salisbury, Conn.....             | 58,000 |
| Swedish, (best).....             | 58,134 |
| English Cable.....               | 59,105 |
| Centre Co. (Penn.).....          | 76,069 |
| Common English and American..... | 30,000 |
| Lake Superior .....              | 89,582 |

There is enough Iron on Lake Superior, on both shores, to supply the world with iron. A new era in ship-building seems at hand, when iron will take the place of wood, which with the quantity required for railroad purposes, it is hard to conceive what the demand may be,—to say nothing of the impetus such a trade must, in the natural course of events, give to our shipping and canals.

The next point of importance, I visited, was the towns of Houghton and Hancock, on Portage Lake, 80 miles above Marquette; Houghton is 14 miles from Portage Entry, on Lake Superior. The harbor is land-locked,—protected by high hills on both sides. It was first settled in 1854, it now contains a gaol and court-house, three Protestant and one Catholic churches, several minor hotels and boarding houses—one hotel, the “Douglas House,” quite equal to any hotel in Canada,—some 30 stores and warehouses, two steam saw-mills, two breweries, &c.; the population is estimated at 3,000, being mostly engaged in copper mining and lumbering operations.

Hancock is immediately opposite, on the north side of the lake, here about one-eighth of a mile wide; a small steamer runs between the two places every five or ten minutes, and is said to be clearing $300 per week, the charge is five cents. The town was first laid out in 1858 and now contains between 4 and 5,000 of a population, including those at work at the mines in the immediate neighborhood, its sudden rise and prosperity being identified with the rich deposits of native copper in which this section of the country abounds. The site of the town is on a side hill rising 500 feet above Portage Lake, where the opening of the mines is situated. Here there are also two Protestant and one Catholic churches, five hotels—the Mason House being a first class hotel,—many stores, a steam saw-mill and barrel-factory, foundries, and extensive stamping mills, also very extensive smelting works. I was informed they smelted, on an average, 12 tons of pure copper per day, and crushed 14,000 tons of ore per day. There is, in, this immediate neighborhood, eight mines in active and successful operation,—the Quincy, Hancock, Pewabic, and Franklin mines on the north side; the Isle Royal, Huron, and Portage on the south, are the principal mines. One of these mines, last season, declared and paid a dividend to the stockholders of 100 cents per dollar, thus paying back the whole of the capital.

The successful working of these mines, by means of greatly improved machinery in connection with the smelting works, gives profitable employment to thousands of miners and laborers, thereby rendering this locality the great copper mart of the region, the pure copper being shipped to the eastern market during the season of navigation. In fact, after visiting Hancock and Houghton, one can safely say that they have seen the copper mines of Lake Superior, and certainly in their prosperous state.

ONTONAGON,

Eighty-six miles west of Portage Lake and 336 miles from the Sault, situate at the mouth of the river of the same name, some 200 feet wide at its mouth, plenty of water for large vessels, and an extensive pier and break-water; the town contains two Protestant and one Catholic churches, some 1500 inhabitants, two steam-mills, good stores, &c.; there are here also, several very productive copper mines, the ore is found some 12 or 15 miles from the landing; silver is also found here intermixed with the copper ore, which abounds in large masses. A good plank road runs from Ontonagon to near the mines, some 14 miles, a small steamer also runs on the Ontonagon River in connection with the mines.

The population, including the neighborhood of the mines, is some 6,000.

SUPERIOR CITY,

Minnesota,

Contains from 12 to 1500 inhabitants, on the Bay of Superior, at the extreme west end of the lake, near the mouth of the St. Louis River; here are two churches, two hotels, and some 10 or 15 stores and warehouses; a small river, the Veumdjii, runs through the town. It is said no place on Lake Superior has commercial advantages equal to this town, its future is magnified almost beyond conception, owing to several most important lines of railway which will certainly terminate here, viz: to the Falls of St. Anthony and Sauk Rapids on the Upper Mississippi, &c., &c.

FOND DU LAC,

St. Louis County, Minnesota, lays on St. Louis River, 20 miles above its entrance into Lake Superior. Vessels of a large class ascend to this place, being within four miles of St. Louis Falls, having a descent of about 90 feet, giving a great water power. Stone and slate are extensively quarried here for building purposes, and iron and copper ore also abound in the vicinity; and it will, at no very distant period, become an important place both for trade and manufactures.

ISLE ROYALE,

Belonging to the U. S., is about 45 miles in length from N.E. to S.W., and from 8 to 12 miles in width, a rich and important island, abounding in copper ore and other minerals and precious stones. The principal harbor and only settlement on the island is on Siskowit Bay on the east shore of the island, about 50 miles distant from Eagle Harbor on the main shore of Michigan. The whole of this island has been explored and taken up during the present season, for mining purposes; the fishing grounds are excellent all around the island. Isle Royal is not more than from 25 to 30 miles from Fort William.

The following tables of routes and distances from Superior City and Fond du Lac to important points westward may not be uninteresting:—

From Fond du Lac to St. Paul, Minn.

Having thus given, as nearly as possible, a correct version of the state of matters on the south or U. S. Shore of Lake Superior, and looking at the contrast between the great commercial prosperity on one side and almost a barren wilderness on the other, the question very naturally presents itself, what can be done to make the north shore progress as the south has done?

In addition to what I have already pointed out, I would respectfully suggest as follows:

Let all the unsurveyed lands on both Lakes Huron and Superior, be at once surveyed—say for six miles deep,—laid out, as is the system now in practice, into townships six miles square, and where there is agricultural lands let them be sub-divided into sections, but with other lands let merely the boundary lines be run;

Let all distinction between mineral and agricultural lands be done away with;

Let one price be fixed for all, not to exceed 20 cents per acre; the whole country could be surveyed as I propose for seven cents per acre, and I believe it will be admitted on all sides that the country is much more likely to be benefited by selling the lands at 20 cents—thus inducing the opening of the mines and a population to come in—than holding the lands at one dollar per acre, and parties to survey the lands themselves. I believe the calculation is that every man, woman and child in the country is worth $30 a year—that is, it takes that on an average to support each,—consequently a family of 10 souls coming in and settling would spend each year, say $300; surely this would be more beneficial to the country than the difference between 20 cents and a dollar per acre;

Let maps be prepared, lithographed and circulated through the province, in Boston, in New York, and along the south shore of Lake Superior, showing the lots taken up and those for sale;

Let the lots be sold at the agencies on Lakes Huron and Superior, and do not oblige the explorer or agriculturist to come to Quebec;

Let Sir Wm. Logan's maps and reports also be published to a limited extent and circulated, they could readily be sold at a sum sufficient to cover cost.

The foregoing was the course adopted by U.S. Government on the south shore, and the result has been that every acre has been taken up, the mines have been opened, and everything is flourishing, while on our side we have almost utter desolation.

It may be said the U. S. Government got $1½ per acre for their land, true, but that was their first and only price after they had surveyed the country, while we have had our lands, such as are surveyed, in the market at 20 cents, and it is a received maxim that it is an easy matter to lower a price, but a difficult matter to raise it without injury.

I had frequent conversations with gentlemen largely engaged in mining operations on the south shore, and by one and all was told—

“Open up your country as we did by surveying-maps, agencies, &c., and before ten years are over you will see as large a population on your side as we have on ours. We have no lack of capital, we know your shore is equally rich in mineral wealth to ours, and we are willing and anxious to go in, but you must remove the barrier now in the way. It does seem,” said they, “so inconsistent that at Fort William, 300 miles up the Lake, and at several points on Lake Huron you offer surveyed land at 20 cents per acre, while for unsurveyed lands immediately adjoining, you ask one dollar per acre and parties to survey it themselves; and as we understand the Regulations oblige us to take 400 acres when perhaps 40, in some cases, would answer our purpose.”

I would also respectfully recommend that the “Fisheries Act” (which has caused so much trouble in that region) be done away with there, except as regards the catching of speckled trout by net in the rivers running into the lakes (St. Mary's River excepted), also let it be in force as regards the throwing of the fish offal into the water, which destroys the other fish; and leave our fishing grounds open to the Americans, provided they reciprocate but not otherwise. A very large portion of the population of the District of Algoma almost depend on fish for a living, especially the Indians and half-breeds, and it is questionable if, in such a case, there should be any restrictions. The people one and all are opposed to a “Fishery Inspector” as being, as they say, useless and only likely to cause trouble; the people themselves and the magistracy say they will see that the law is carried out, so far as is necessary to the preservation of the fish.

Having understood that there was an impression abroad that the climate around Sault Ste. Marie was not suited for agricultural or horticultural pursuits, I thought well to bring down with me a box containing the following specimens,—potatoes, cabbage, turnips, peas, beet, mangel, melons, savory, parsley, barley, oats, spring wheat, and fall wheat—all of which would have stood well to compete at any public exhibition.

I have placed the box at the disposal of the Bureau of Agriculture for inspection, and in order that official notice may be taken of same in the annual report of that Department.

I would also here beg to draw your attention to what I conceive to be an oversight in the drafting of the Excise Bill in so far as the District of Algoma is concerned. Very fine barley is grown in that District and it was anticipated that it could be turned to good account there, by the establishment of a brewery or distillery; but on reference to the Excise Act it is believed that a brewery or distillery would be subject to Excise duty the same as in any other part of the Province. This does not operate favorably for the Free Port, inasmuch as they are not allowed to manufacture their own barley into whiskey or beer without an Excise duty, while outsiders are allowed to send into the Free Port their whiskey and beer and get the drawback.

The population of the whole District of Algoma may be put down at about 7,000, which includes Indians; and the population on the south shore of Lake Superior alone may be fairly estimated at about 35,000.

I have felt that in reporting upon the working of the Free Port of Sault Ste. Marie and the trade of that part of the country, I had a very different duty to perform in many respects, from what I would have had I been inspecting the Free Port of Gaspé, and for this reason that Gaspé is represented in both branches of the Legislature, has the benefit of municipal institutions, and has a large, old established trade; whereas Sault Ste. Marie, or I should say the District of Algoma, is a new District without any of the advantages I have named. I have therefore considered it my duty, through your kind indulgence, to place the Government in possession of any information I could obtain which I thought would be beneficial to the District of Algoma and the Province at large.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

(Signed,) C. E. ANDERSON.

Speech of Chief PEQUCHIN-INIE at Garden River.

"You will tell the Governor General from us, that we are poor, very poor, obliged to go out and catch a fish for our meal; that many of us are old and not able to work; that many years ago (1850) Mr. Robinson was sent up to us by the Governor; we made a treaty with him, and surrendered a large portion of our lands. Mr. Robinson promised us that the land should be surveyed and sold, and that at the end of one year we and each member of our people should receive $4 in cash, and that the rest of the money should be invested at interest for our benefit. So far the land has not been surveyed, and we have never received the $4 each promised to us by Mr. Robinson, only receiving $1 a year each as our annuity.

"Some seven or eight years ago Mr. Pennefather came up among us, also sent by the Governor General, to make a treaty and get some more of our land. He promised us that the land should be immediately surveyed and sold, and that out of the surrender on Batchewana Bay any of us Indians should have the privilege of buying for our families lots of 80 acres each, at the upset price; that those who would leave Batchewana Bay and come down to settle at Garden River should have 40 acre lots laid off for them, and deeds of occupation given them, and that before three years were over we should have $3,000 in money divided amongst us at one time. We believed Mr. Pennefather and surrendered more of our land, but not one of his promises have been carried out to this day, and when we heard of your arrival here this morning we were glad, and thought you had brought us the money, instead of which you want more of our land, although not one of Mr. Robinson's nor Mr. Pennefather's promises have been kept. Tell our Great Father that we will surrender no more land until the promises already made have been carried out."

My attention was, on several occasions during my journey, drawn to the Mail Route laid out for winter from the Ottawa to Fort William, in which there is a gap, viz., from Spanish River to Parry Sound, on Georgian Bay. If this gap was surveyed and blazed the link would then be complete between Fort William and the Ottawa.

Herewith I have the honor, also, to hand in Disturnel's Map of the Lake Region, St. Lawrence Valley and surrounding country; also, the Crown Land Department Maps of 1863, of part of the North Shores of Lakes Huron and Superior, and which may be found useful as a reference.

To His Excellency the Right Honorable CHARLES STANLEY, Viscount MONCK, Governor General of British North America, etc., etc., etc.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:

The undersigned has the honor to present to Your Excellency the Public Accounts for the year ended 30th June, 1865, together with the Report of the Board of Audit thereon.

All which is respectfully submitted.

A. T. GALT,
Minister of Finance.

BOARD OF AUDIT,

March 1, 1866.

SIR,—In submitting to you the Public Accounts for the twelve months ending June 30, 1865, as finally printed for distribution, it may be proper to state, that in consequence of the change in the financial year, and in the method of paying that portion of the public expenditure which is in the hands of sub-accountants, the whole business of the year is not strictly comparable with previous financial periods. When accountable warrants were granted to sub-accountants, large balances often remained over in their hands, which, having been charged in the past year, were applicable to the expenditure of the following one. On the 30th June, 1864, all such balances were refunded, and a new system was introduced of granting Letters of Credit, on account of which nothing was charged against Government, except the sums actually expended. It is thus evident that much less was included in the half-year ending June 30, 1864, than properly belonged to it, especially as it was very difficult, so soon after the initiation of a new system of closing the books at an unusual period, to bring all the expenditure in the accounts. In the twelve months ending June 30, 1865, on the other hand, while considerable sums remained payable which really belonged to the previous financial period, the whole expenditure at the end of the year was more completely brought into the accounts than had ever been formerly accomplished. For this reason the Board of Audit, in dealing with these two periods, deviated from the practice usually followed of late years with regard to appropriations. When there has been a balance of appropriation remaining over at the end of a year, relating to a purely annual service, such as Civil Government, the Collection of Revenue, &c., it has been customary for the Board to report to Council, that such balances may be written off; but after the half-year ending June 30, they made no such recommendation. In consequence of the unequal expenditure in the two periods, they considered it better to treat for this purpose the two estimates, which had been brought down and voted together, as one estimate for the eighteen months.

If the income and expenditure of the twelve months alone are considered, there is a serious deficiency. The expenditure, exclusive of Redemption of Debentures, was $11,651,005.16. The receipts, other than from loans, were $10,647,418.60, leaving a deficiency of $1,001,586.56; but as there was a surplus in the six months of $472,484.21, the deficiency on the whole period of eighteen months is only $529,102.35.

Comparing the expenditure of the year ending June 30, 1865, with that ending June 30, 1864, the total expenditure has increased $129,258.33, of which about $90,000 is only apparent from our now bringing into both sides of the account receipts which formerly did not come into the Provincial chest. The receipts do not compare so favorably, as they have fallen off $554,622.82, but the difference is mainly in miscellaneous receipts on open accounts, the revenues of the Consolidated Fund shewing only a falling off of $231,518.29.

In the report of the Board accompanying the Public Accounts to June, 1864, some of the difficulties were pointed out which still lie in the way of preventing any expenditure in excess of the Parliamentary appropriations; and we have again to report that in two instances such over expenditure has occurred. These two items might, indeed, have been charged as "unforeseen expenses," of the vote for which a sufficient balance remained to cover them, but it was thought better to leave them to be submitted to Parliament as "unprovided items," if for no other reason, in order to call attention to the causes which prevented the Audit Office from stopping the payment from want of authority.

The first item is $16,589.20 for Cullers. The expenditure is of two kinds—the salaries and expenses of the Culler's Office, which are under the control of Government, and the Cullers' Fees, which depend solely upon the amount of business transacted. The estimates having been taken for both together, and the amount of fees paid to cullers being in excess of the average, the appropriation was overrun, with a corresponding increase in the general receipts. It is difficult to see how this could have been prevented, as it would have been impossible to refuse payment of the specified remuneration, merely because the business had been more than was anticipated, and with it the revenue and the proportion of it payable to the cullers themselves had increased. The proper remedy has been introduced into the Estimates for the present year—the vote was only taken for the salaries and contingencies of the permanent staff, leaving the fees of the cullers to be covered by the general authority.

The other item is an excess of $6,251.95 in the Expenses of Collecting Customs. The difficulty here was of a different nature. If the vote had been taken in detail for each separate Custom House, or for each branch of the service, there would have been no more difficulty in preventing any over-expenditure than in the case of the several departments of the Civil Government. But it was taken en bloc, and when, in the last month of the year, it became evident that the appropriation would not bear the whole pay-list of the month, the difficulty arose as to where the necessary deduction was to be made, when it was impossible to tell to what quarter to attribute the over-expenditure. Under these circumstances the Auditor judged it prudent to assume the responsibility of paying the additional sum required, under the authority of the General Customs Act, and to report the case to Parliament. To prevent a similar occurrence for the future, the votes should be taken more in detail, or if not the actual votes, at least the estimates upon which they are founded.

All which is respectfully submitted

JOHN LANGTON,
Chairman.

The Honorable A. T. GALT,
Minister of Finance.
