Murdered Editor is Said to Have Intrigued With Germany, Whereby He Amassed a Big Fortune—Sympathy is With the Defendant in Big Case Which Has Created World-Wide Interest

[By Special Wire to The Courier] PARIS, July 22.—Politics were the predominating factor to-day in connection with the trial of Madame Caillaux for the murder of Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro. The French Government was understood to be greatly concerned in regard to the diplomatic documents mentioned at yesterday's hearing as having been in the possession of the assassinated editor, and later handed over to President Poincaré who passed them on to the foreign office.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] WASHINGTON, July 22.—Secretary of State Bryan's appeal to the two Constitutional leaders, Carranza and Villa—to eliminate any personal differences that might exist between them, was interrupted in Washington to-day as the American Government's preliminary step to prevent Carranza revolts after the entry of Carranza into Mexico City.

Confences over the transfer of government to the Constitutionalists probably would not be placed until next week, it was suggested here today. NASTY THEFTS

Flowers Just Placed on Grave of Wife Are Stolen.

One of the meanest and lowest of all thieves is at work again in the city, the grave thief, who while not digging down and removing the silver plate of the casket, contents himself with carrying away the flowers laid by some loving hand on the grave to the memory of a departed one. Complaints are being received every day of such thieving. One man telephoned the Courier this morning that last Sunday he had placed two dozen magnolias on his wife's grave, and they were all taken by Sunday evening. A police court case with a stiff fine is the only way to deal with such thieves who are not even as respectable as a house burglar.

Are Shaming Dame Fashion

ST. LOUIS, July 22.—The congregation of the East Alton Baptist Church will go to church next Sunday in calico and overalls as a means of rebuking Dame Fashion. The members noted a decrease in church attendance, and decided that many persons preferred to be comfortable on Sunday to going to church, and decided on a plan whereby they could do both.

The pastor, Rev. D. C. Blunt, is enthusiastic over the plan. Some of the persons who had been remaining away from the church told the pastor they had done so because they did not have clothes which enabled them to make a "splurge" that compared favorably with that of other members. The pastor thinks the new order will have one good effect at least. The women will devote their time to worship, rather than getting-fashion hints.

Lawn Tennis

The ladies' Tennis Tournament at the Dufferin courts proceeds merrily. The third round has been reached and it is to be played off before July 25th. When Is Baseball

Peterboro Review. The Review will give $1,111,111 to any person who can solve the question "When is baseball?" The Petes invaded Ottawa and took three out of four on the champions, Brantford hits here and has taken two out of three so far, and it might be a clean sweep. Yesterday a sort of hitting edit possessed the Red Sox in the sixth, and like real crapshooters they rolled seven hits, most of them to centre field, and scored a Lucia of runs. The day before, Mr. Kelly bungled in the first, and Brantford scored two runs, enough to win the game. The spirit of the win may alight on the head of the Petes to-day, but for the best solution of "When is baseball?" with an extra chapter on "How you can do it." The Review will give an extra Rockefeller fortune The offer is made, because we know "it can't be done."

"No Earthly Use of a Maid In Ordinary Household," Says a Pennsylvania Lecturer

"The Western world will solve the problem of the increasing cost of living or else the increasing cost of living will wreck the Western world," said Professor Scott Nearing in the University of Pennsylvania at Chautauqua, N.Y. "No society can endure in which the cost of the necessities of life is rising faster than incomes with which the greater majority of the population secure those necessities. Such a process leads inevitably to individual and social bankruptcy."

"People frequently take it for granted that the more one has, the better off he is. They fail to see that the value of a thing aside from its ability to satisfy the demand for necessities, lies in the fact that it is an objective point. When the objective point is reached the thing ceases to have value.

"The individual may not control prices. He may, however, play a conspicuous part in the reduction of costs by simplifying his wants, serving himself wherever possible, and spending the income which he receives more efficiently. The numerator of a man's life is his income. The denominator is his wants. Every able-bodied adult should have a job, and should be on the job. The women, to whom housekeeping has been reduced to a minimum of effort by patent appliances of every sort, are not doing what they should when they find that after their little housework is accomplished they have several hours of time to put in at some useless and foolish time-wasting pursuit. Such a woman is of no use to herself, nor to society as a whole.

"A woman should be busy as many hours in a day as a man. There is no earthly use in a maid in an ordinary household of two or three people. A woman puts about the house doing all sorts of little things which do not need to be done just because she has nothing else to do; just because she is ashamed to be doing nothing."

than the farmers, as his flowers are all inclosed. He believes that he got the worms in some soil he received from Harwich Township. This indicated that Harwich is also infested, which makes the ravages of the disease quite general in Kent.

Late yesterday afternoon the report came in that the worm was very bad in the oat fields of Wm. Longmore on the sixth concession in Raleigh. Mr. Longmore started cutting his oats yesterday and discovered the presence of the pest. Agricultural experts have left the city to-day to advise Mr. Longmore as to how to fight the worm.

Two Townships Escape in Oxford.
WOOSTOCK, July 22.—The army worm that has caused so much damage to the crops in Oxford county are still on the warpath, and the farmers are greatly alarmed over the situation.

They have been fighting the worms for over a week now, but the pest has spread practically all over the county. Only two townships have escaped, West Zorra, and South Norwich.

The worms are exceptionally bad in East Nissouri according to reports received from the Agricultural Department here to-day.

In East Oxford they are practically at a standstill. The farmers are holding their own with them, and that is all that can be said.

In East Zorra conditions are pretty bad, and the worms are spreading all over the township. It is thought that the worms are being held in check in Blenheim and Blandford Townships, as no fresh outbreaks are being reported.

Worst in Fields Where They Start
BERLIN, July 22.—This afternoon an inspection was made of the army worm devastations to the north of Berlin and Waterloo. Messrs W. G. Weichel, M.P., Prof. A. W. Baker, of Q.A.C., F. S. Knapp, district representative, and R. Sterling composed the party.

It was found to be worst in the fields where they first originated, although the pest has spread rapidly and reports are coming in of the worm in different parts of the country.

The visit of the experts was at the request of local members of Parliament and Prof. Baker. After inspecting different fields, where the worms has been at work, they directed farmers in the proper way to protect crops.

Have in Essex
ESSEX, July 22. The dreaded army worm has made its appearance in the county of Essex, and is causing havoc among fields in the townships of Colchester North, Gosfield North and Gosfield south. It is also feared that it will also overrun the other townships in the county. In the north-eastern part of Gosfield North the results of their visit were noticed last week, and those on whose farms evidences were found of their incursions attempted to stop their progress seemingly without success.

Allan Newman reports that they got into his oat field and were playing such havoc that he decided on Monday to cut what oats were still standing, though they were not ripe. Fully half the growing grain in the field had been attacked and the milk sapped out of the stalks.

Numerous in Gosfield
 They are also reported in large quantities on Jack Robinson's farm at North Ridge, on Charles Bunn's and Lemuel Wipers' farms near Elford on Fred Howson's and A. C. Atkinson's near Gestic, and in several farms in the fourth concession of Gosfield South.

The pests are found in several fields on the Cottam side road, and in the evenings almost cover the road in migrating from one field to another. The farmers are becoming very much alarmed, as the insects work with such rapidity, and only make their appearance in the evening.

Unless extra care is taken, they secure such a foothold before discovered that once they get into a field it is almost impossible to eradicate them. A number have been found in and about Essex on Henry Powell's farm.

Are Around Hamilton
HAMILTON, July 22. The army worm has reached this vicinity. W. D. Platt's over-run with the pest as are also farms around Ancaster and Dundas.

Invading Haldimand
CAYUGA, July 22. The army worm has invaded Haldimand county. They have been discovered at Lythmore in the Township of Oneida. The officials of the Department of Agriculture are on the ground directing operations against them.

All Oxford County Fighting the Pest
WOOSTOCK, July 21. The Army worms are still on the rampage in this county. Every little while, reports reach the Department of Agriculture, notifying them of fresh outbreaks of the worms.

Four new cases were reported to-day. If this keeps up much longer, there will not be any pasture left in Oxford County. The farmers all over the county, are fighting the pest, but up to the present the work is every discouraging.

The Department of Agriculture experts are about the busiest people in the county going from one place to another to assist and advise the farmers in their battle. Everything possible is being done to exterminate the worms and prevent new outbreaks, but despite all that is being done, every day new cases are being reported. The worms have practically ruined acres and acres of good pasture fields, besides a great many fields of corn and other farm produce, and if they are not soon checked, it is going to mean the loss of thousands of dollars to the farmers.

Many Cases Not Reported
 There are a great number of cases that have not been reported to the department, where the loss has not been very great. The following farmers have reported that the worms are on their farms: Walter Schell, on the stage road just outside of the city; E. C. Smith on the thirteenth line of East Zorra; W. H. Dibble on the fourteenth line of East Zorra and Harley Mayberry, who resides a short distance out of Ingersoll.

It is reported in the city this afternoon that there are a great many other cases all over the country, and some exceptionally close to the city. According to following the Thames River and all the farms that are near the river are infested.

Ten Acre Field of Barley Ruined
GALT, July 21.—The army worm has been discovered within a few miles of Galt in a ten acre field of barley on the farm of James Currie, about 6 miles from town, there are thousands. When Mr. Knapp, of the Agricultural Department at Galt, visited the Currie farm he found the army worm was confined to one ten acre field of barley, and it was easily seen that any effort to save the crop would be useless. Mr. Knapp advised Mr. Currie to plow a furrow around the field so as to stop their progress to other parts of the farm.

Great Alarm Felt in West Oxford.
INGERSOLL, July 20.—Farmers of West Oxford have become alarmed because of the appearance of the dreaded army worm, which has wrought such havoc in other parts of the county. The worms were discovered on Sunday on the farm of Willard Scott, near Pipers Corners, and early to-day action was taken with the hope of preventing them from reaching the crops. In the vicinity of Salford the worms have been discovered on several farms, although only in a few cases is the damage serious. On the farm of Joseph Green, near the farm of Joseph Green, they have attacked an oat field, but prompt action was taken to prevent them from making further progress. Conditions were investigated this afternoon by District Representative G. R. Green.

Bran Molasses and Paris Green Used
GUELPH, July 21.—The army worm has carried the war into Africa. Those who have fought them in other parts of Ontario have come from the Agricultural College. Now the worms have come into existence right on the college property in the dairy, bush and barley field on Edinboro road.

When your correspondent visited the scenes of the army worms ravages at the farm of Admiral Story, then-ches and a mass made of tannin, molasses and Paris green were being used to keep them back. They were being in these trenches in thousands. Burning with oil and other methods had failed to stop them.

Stopped momentarily
 Admiral Story tried this method first and burned over thirty gallons of oil on the Edinboro road to exterminate the invaders. It stopped them but only momentarily. On College avenue which crosses Edinboro road, the residents went out in the road and fought the army worm with every conceivable weapon to keep them from entering their fields. They have been successful and the great bulk of the worms seem to be working west, away from the College property.

The farmers are hopeful that they have the outbreak well in hand. There is a tendency to criticize the agricultural department in that they have not tackled the problem in a big enough way. One farmer stated that the department should send out a body of men who understand the best methods of fighting the pest, and they should take with them all necessary equipment.

REDMOND'S PISTOL.

The blind fatuity of the Toronto Globe in considering that party leaders of its own stripe of politics are not of the earth earthy, but something of pedestal origin, was never more amusingly illustrated than by these words in a leading editorial:

"It is fortunate for the United Kingdom just now that the Prime Minister is a Liberal."

Isn't the very reverse the fact? Is it not absolutely true that it has been Asquith's bungling of a grave issue which has led Great Britain to the verge of Civil War?

The British Prime Minister may be at heart a sincere Home Ruler and then again he may not. In either event it is the eighty odd Nationalist votes which he has all the time had most in consideration.

Here is what happened as the result of the general election of December, 1910:

Ministerial Opposition
England	226
Wales	27
Scotland	61
Ireland	84
Total	398

It will thus be seen that if the Nationalist vote had at any time gone en bloc against the Administration it would have been in a minority of 42.

It is this pistol which Redmond has throughout held at the head of Asquith. His compliance under such circumstances may look like statesmanship to the editor of the Toronto paper, but many other people will be quite apt to hold a differing view.

And speaking of this much vexed Irish question the fact is worth noting that when Gladstone succeeded Disraeli as Premier in 1880, there was more cruel work done in the Emerald Isle under Mr. Foster, General Post Office Chief Secretary for Ireland, than at almost any other period.

Later, in 1886 Gladstone, also angling for the Nationalist vote brought in a dual scheme for Irish Government—a Land Bill and a Home Rule Bill—and as the outcome wrecked his party. In this regard it is further worth mentioning that Gladstone, who professed such horror over the disclosure of the relationship between Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea, knew very well, privately, of the condition of affairs. This fact is clearly set forth in the book recently published by her in which she shows that she acted as intermediary between her lover and the Grand Old Man, and that he was fully aware of the intimacy between herself and the great Irish leader.

The undoubted truth of the matter is that the whole history of the Liberal party with regard to this issue has not been one of genuine interest but of cheap party expediency.

WELL HANDLED

The Borden Government has handled the difficult Hindu situation at Vancouver with commendable firmness and success. In this regard the following editorial is reprinted from the Hamilton Times (Liberal):

"A situation wholly unforeseen and quite desperate in its nature has arisen in connection with the coming of the Japanese steamer Komagata Maru, and the refusal by the Government, sustained by the Court of Appeals, to allow the undesirable to land. The Asiatics are determined not to be carried off or driven back were brought to Canada to make a test of the Canadian law which has so far successfully stood in the way of their entry into the country, and they apparently do not intend to give up the fight until they have made the test as thorough as their resources will admit. Some of the Hindus have reached the land and will, it is announced, be placed on board a C.P.R. liner and sent back without delay, but the grave problem is what to do with the infuriated men on the vessel, and with the vessel itself. In the hope of inducing the peaceful departure of the vessel and her passengers the Government recently undertook, at an expenditure of about $6,000 to provision the ship for their return voyage, but the thought of going seems to be quite the most remote thing in the minds of the unwelcome visitors at one shore."

But the infuriated men on the vessel, and with the vessel itself. In the hope of inducing the peaceful departure of the vessel and her passengers the Government recently undertook, at an expenditure of about $6,000 to provision the ship for their return voyage, but the thought of going seems to be quite the most remote thing in the minds of the unwelcome visitors at one shore."

his entire crew would be glad to get out of the trouble by resigning, which course cannot be assented to. Yesterday a force of nearly two hundred special immigration constables undertook to get control of the vessel in the hope of subduing those on board and ridding Vancouver harbor of the whole outfit. They met with a repulse which they little expected and, with many casualties, had to retreat, leaving the intruders temporarily masters of the situation. The Government at Ottawa is being kept fully advised of the situation, and it is determined that, no matter what happens, the Hindus will not be allowed to land in Canada.

It is well that a firm and definite stand should be taken in this matter, and that the world shall be given to understand that the Government, and the people of Canada, shall have a right to say who shall land on their soil. It has just been announced that the Government of Russia has decided to relax the laws which made emigration from Russia, except under certain restrictions, a serious offence. Russia has surplus millions of people kept in their own country by the law which it is now proposed to repeal. Does Canada want these millions? If given liberty to go where they please would it be more natural that they should be attracted to the broad fields of western Canada? Because they are Europeans are the scum of the Russian cities any better than the Sikhs, the Japanese the compatriots of the men now on board the Komagata Maru or any other Asiatics? The safety of the development of Canada depends not upon great population as much as proper assimilation and it would be folly for the Government to take any other stand than that any people who are not wanted shall be kept out, no matter what part of the world they come from.

The present situation at Vancouver presents many difficulties, but a great principle is at stake, and the concrete case in hand must be dealt with vigorously and with a view to the future.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Well, the Hindus didn't.

Just to show their blooming independence the army worms are now at work on the Ontario Agricultural College near Guelph.

The Canadian team at Bisley were beaten out by two points for the Kolapore Cup. That's what you might Kolapore piece of luck.

Burglars at Lindsay broke into the C.P.R. station and carried off a safe weighing over a ton. They'd be a handy gang to have around about moving time.

What on earth is the use of Old England, a country where the weather is decidedly warm. Don't we all know it by the exudations which fill even our dimples?

All the officers of the Storstad have been re-instated. As for the captain of the Empress of Ireland who went down with his ship, and was held inculpable by the court, he has announced that he will never take another command. These things all depend upon the point of view.

Miss Monk, daughter of the late Hon. F. D. Monk, M.P., has returned a check for $1,475, the balance due of his indemnity for the time he was absent from the House during sickness. She states that she knows her father would not have accepted the amount under the circumstances. The late statesman was always known as one of the most honorable men in Canada's public life and Miss Monk is evidently of a like calibre.

The question is asked: "Why do bald-headed men make the best husbands?" The nearest we can come is that they are shown to be a shining example to their hairy brethren."—Guelph Mercury.

That's not the real reason. The truth is that original man was covered with hair. As he progressed he lost more and more of the same so that the bald headed man of to-day is the very highest type of civilization.

A HARD TASK

CHICAGO, July 22.—While the Federal board of mediation, endeavoring to bring about a settlement of the wage dispute between the Western railroads and their engineers is pledged to silence concerning what is done at the meetings here, it became known to-day that the task is a hard one. "We are bound by solemn pledges to divulge nothing that is said on either side in the meetings," said W. L. Chambers of the federal commission. "Nevertheless I am at liberty to say that this is the most difficult task of mediation that has ever confronted this commission."

TO ENLARGE ELEVATOR

MONTREAL, July 22.—Plans are now being considered by the harbor board for the construction of an addition to the No. 1 elevator, which will give it an additional capacity of a million and a half bushels. The elevator already has a capacity of 2,500,000 bushels, so that when the new work is completed next fall it will be a four million bushel elevator or one of the largest on the continent.

HINDUS GIVE UP

off, for they fear for his life. On the occasion of the previous incident Barn Singh was accused by the men on the ship with being a traitor.

Made New Demands.

After the return of the local Hindu committee at 3.15 from their talk on the Komagata Maru, the seven Hindu heads quarters to draft a migration reply to the Government. Then they decided they wanted legal advice and went up to see A. H. MacNeill. They brought him back with them before 5 o'clock and submitted new written proposals.

They made new demands. Not only did they ask for food and medicine immediately as a price for restoring peace on the ship and also return passage for cash for their return passage. The Government reimburse the local Hindu committee for the money spent recently in sending food to the Maru and for the charter of the vessel.

MAYOR CALLED OUT MILITIA

Government Had Nothing to Do With Mustering of Land Forces

OTTAWA, July 22.—The Government is keeping very close touch with developments at Vancouver, and messages acquainting it with the goings on were frequent. The Ottawa end of it is about finished. The Hindus being ineligible for admission under the immigration laws, their deportation is ordered, and it is for the departmental officials at Vancouver to carry out these instructions. Recognizing the difficulties of the situation and in view of Saturday night's episode, the cruiser Rainbow was requisitioned. Whether they submit calmly or only after determined resistance, the deportation order is absolute.

From what can be learned here to-day it is probable that the Hindus will be sent back by the Empress of Japan on Thursday, but he decision in that regard is left largely with the departmental officials. They were handed with much less difficulty on the Canadian Pacific liner than on the Komagata Maru.

The situation is being handled at Ottawa personally by Sir Robert Borden, Han. C. J. Doherty, acting Minister of the Interior, and Hon. Arthur Meighen, Solicitor General.

FOOT PASSENGERS

Pedestrians should be suppressed, all motorists avow; long since they ceased to be a jest, and they're a nuisance now. There's nothing harder on a car than running over men; it gives the works a deadly jar, and wrecks the springs again. This spring I bought a new machine that took 'most all my pile; I filled its tank with gasoline, to try it for a mile; two neighbors got beneath the wheels— their nerve was cold and raw; what wonder that a driver feels there ought to be a law? It takes all pleasure from the game, it spoils the joyous craft, and that is what was 'farc'ed' form is wound around the shaft. The walkers have a right to alley, street and lane, and just to demonstrate their spite, they let themselves be slain. Pedestrians will go too far; they're claiming now, 'tis said, that every man who runs a car should stop and plant his dead. With jealousy their breasts are filled; since they can't ride in cars, they take delight in being killed, in gaining wounds and scars; by this they're hoping to create a sentiment adverse to this, the past time of the great—could jealousy do worse? Our legislatures and our courts should shield us from such shocks, should guard the noblest of all sports, and jail the man who walks.

The Man Who Would Be King

BY RUDYARD KIPLING

PART II.

THE wheel of the world swings through the same phases. Summer passed, and winter thereafter, and came and passed again. The daily paper continued, and I with it, and upon the third summer there fell a hot night, a night issue and a strained waiting for something to be telegraphed from the other side of the world, exactly as had happened before. At 3 o'clock I cried, "Print off!" and turned to go, when there crept to my chair what was left of a man. He was a local Hindu, and he had been sent to the Maru and for the charter of the vessel.

"I went back to the office, the man following with a groan of pain, and I turned up the lamp.

I looked at him intently. Once before I had seen eyebrows that met over the nose in an arch broad black band, but for the life of me I could not tell where. "I don't know you," I said, holding him the whisky. "What can I do for you?"

He took a gulp of the spirit raw and shivered in spite of the suffocating heat. "I've come back," he repeated. "And I was the king of Kafiristan—me and Dravot—crowned kings we. In this office we settle, and you setting there and giving us the books. I am Peasey—Peasey is Taliaferro Carnehane, and you've been sitting here ever since—oh, Lord! Poor, poor, Dan, that would never take advice, not though I begged of him!"

"Take the whisky," I said, "and take your own time. Tell me all you can recollect of everything from beginning to end. You got across the border on your camels, Dravot dressed as a mad priest and you his servant. Do you remember that?"

I leaned forward and looked into his face as steadily as I could. He dropped one hand upon the table and I grasped it by the wrist. It was twisted like a bird's claw, and upon the back was a ragged, red, diamond shaped scar.

"No, don't look there, Look at me," said Carnehane. "You went as far as Jagdallah with that caravan," I said at a venture. "To Jagdallah, where you turned off to try to get into Kafiristan."

"No, we didn't either. What are you talking about? We turned off before Jagdallah, before we heard the roads was good. They were their wasn't good enough for our two camels—mine and Dravot's. When we left the caravan Dravot took off all his clothes and mine too and said we would be heathen, because the Kafirs didn't allow Mohammedans to talk to them. So we dressed betwixt and between, and such as was Daniel Dravot I never saw yet nor expect to see again. That was in a most mountainous country, and our camels couldn't go along any more because of the mountains. They were tall and black, and coming home I saw them fight like wild goats—there are lots of goats in Kafiristan."

"Take some more whisky," I said very slowly. "What did you and Daniel Dravot do when the camels could go no further because of the rough roads that led into Kafiristan?"

"What did which do? There was a party called Peasey Taliaferro Carnehane that was with Dravot. Shall I tell you about him? He died out there in the cold. Slap from the bridge fell old Peasey, turning and twisting home in air like a very whirligig that you can sell to the ameer.

"And then these camels were no use, and Peasey said to Dravot, 'For the Lord's sake let's get out of this before our heads are chopped off!' And with that they killed the camels all among the mountains, not having anything in particular to eat, but first they took off the boxes with the guns and the ammunition till two men came along driving four mules. Dravot up and dances in front of them, singing 'Sell me four mules.' Says the first man, 'If you are rich enough to buy you are rich enough to rob!' But before ever he could put his hand to his knife Dravot breaks his neck over his knee, and the other party runs away. So Carnehane loaded the mules with the rifles that was taken off the camels, and together we starts forward into those bitter cold mountainous parts and never a road broader than the back of your hand.

"He paused for a moment while I asked him if he could remember the nature of the country through which he had journeyed.

"I am telling you as straight as I can, but my head isn't as good as it might be. They drove nails through it to make me bear better how Dravot died. We came to a big-level valley all among the mountains, and the mules were near dead, so we killed them, not having anything in special for them or us to eat.

"Then ten men with bows and arrows ran down that valley, chasing twenty men with bows and arrows, and the row was tremendous. They were fair men—fairer than you or me—with yellow hair and remarkable built. Says Dravot, unpacking the guns: 'This is the beginning of the business.' We'll fight for the ten men.' And with that he drew two rifles at the twenty men and drops one of them at 200 yards from the rock where we was sitting. The other men began to run.

but Carnehane and Dravot sits on the boxes picking them off at all ranges up and down the valley. Then we goes up to the ten men that they run across the snow, too, and they fired a shot little arrow at us. Dravot he shoots above their heads and they all falls down flat. Then he walks over them and kicks them, and then he lifts them up and shakes hands all round to make them friendly like. He calls them and gives them the boxes to carry and waves his hand for all the world as though he was king already. They takes the boxes and him across the valley and up the hill into a pine wood on the top, where there was half a dozen big stone idols. Dravot he goes to the biggest—a fellow they call Imbra—and lays a rifle and a cartridge at his feet, rubbing his nose respectful with his own nose, patting him on the head and saluting in front of it. He turns round to the men and nods his head, and says: 'That's all right. I'm in the know, too, and all these old Jimjams are my friends.' Then he opens his mouth and brings down it, and when the first man brings him food he says 'No,' and when the second man brings him food he says 'No,' but when one of the old priests and the boss of the village brings him food he says 'Yes' very brightly, and eats it slow. That was how we came to our first village."

"Take some more whisky and go on," I said. "That was the first village you came into. How did you get to the king?"

"I wasn't king," said Carnehane. "Dravot he was the king, and a hand, so he he looked with the gold crown on his head and all. Him and the other party stayed in that village, and every morning Dravot sat by the side of old Imbra, and the people came and worshipped. That was Dravot's order. Then a lot of men came into the valley, and Carnehane and Dravot picks them off with the rifles before they knew where they was, and runs down into the valley and up again the other side and finds another village, same as the first one, and the people all falls down flat on their faces, and Dravot says, 'Now, that is the trouble before you two villages?' and the people points to a woman, as fair as you or me, that was carried off, and Dravot takes her back to the first village and counts up the dead—eight there was. For each dead man Dravot pours a little milk on the ground and waves his arms like a whirligig and 'That's all right,' says he. Then he and Carnehane takes the big boss of each village by the arm and walks them down into the valley and shows them how to scratch a line with a spear right down the valley and gives each a not of turf from both sides of the line. Then we asks the names of things in their lingua—bread and water and fire and idols and such, and Dravot leads the priests of each village up to the idol and says he must sit there and judge the people, and if anything goes wrong he is to be shot."

"Next week they was all turning up the land in the valley as quiet as bees. That's just the beginning," says Dravot. "They think we're gods." He and Carnehane picks out twenty good men and shows them how to click a rifle and form fours and advance in line. He takes out his pipe and his honey comb and leaves one at one village and one at the other, and off we two goes to see what was to be done in the next valley. That was all rock, and there was a little village there, and Carnehane says: 'Send 'em to the old valley to plant,' and takes 'em there and gives 'em some land that wasn't took before. Then Carnehane he went back to Dravot, who had got into another valley, all snow and ice and most mountainous. There was no people there, and the army got afraid, so Dravot shoots one of them and goes on till he finds some people in a village, and the army explains that unless the people wants to be killed they had better not shoot their little matchlocks, for they had matchlocks. We makes friends with the priest and I stays there alone with two of the army, teaching the man how to drill, and a thundering big chief comes across the snow with kettledrums and horns twanging, because he heard there was a new god kicking about. Carnehane tells for the brow of the men half a mile across the snow and wings one of them. Then he sends a message to the chief that unless he wished to be killed he must come and shake hands with me and leave his arms behind. The chief comes alone first, and Carnehane shakes hands with him and whisks his arms about, same as Dravot used, and very much surprised that chief was, and strokes my eyebrows. Then Carnehane goes alone to the chief and asks him in Gumb show if he had an enemy he hated. 'I have,' says the chief. So Carnehane weeds out the pick of his men and sets two of the army to show them drill, and at the end of two weeks the men can maneuver about as well as volunteers. So he marches with the chief to a great big plain on the top of a mountain, and the chief's men rushes into a village and takes it, we three Martins bring into the brown of the enemy. So we took that village, too, and I gives the chief a rag from my coat and says, 'Occupy till I come,' which was Scriptural. Then I sends a letter to Dravot, wherever he be, by land or by sea."

"At the risk of throwing the creature out of train I interrupted, 'How could you write a letter up yonder?' "The letter?' Oh, the letter! Keep looking at me between the eyes, please. It was a string talk letter that we'd learned the way of it from a blind beggar in the Punjab."

"I sent that letter to Dravot and told him to come back because this kingdom was growing too big for me to handle, and then I struck for the first valley to see how the priests were of the old village we took. The first village we took was Babhat, and the first village was doing all right, but they had a lot of pending cases about land to show me, and some men from another village had been firing arrows at night. I went out and looked for that village and fired four rounds at it from a thousand yards. That used all the cartridges I cared to spend, and I waited for Dravot, who had been away two or three months, and he kept my people quiet. One morning I heard the devil's own noise of drums and horns, and Dan Dravot marches down the hill, with his army and a tail of hundreds of men, and which was amazing—a great gold crown on his head. 'My God, Carnehane,' says Daniel, 'this is a tremendous business, and we've got the whole country as far as it's worth having. I am the son of Alexander by Queen Semiramis, and you're my younger brother and a god too. I've got a crown for you.' I told 'em to make two of 'em at a place called Sbu, where the gold lies in the rock like it was in mutton. Call up all the priests and, here, take your crown."

"One of the men opens a black hair bag, and I slips the crown on. It was too small and too heavy, but I wore it for the glory. Hammered gold it was, five pound weight, like a hoop of a barrel.

"Peasey," says Dravot, 'we don't want to fight no more. The crafts the trick, so help me! I told he brings forward that same chief, but that was Babhat—Billy Fish was called him afterwar because he was so like Billy Fish that drove the big tank engine at Mach on the Bolan in the old days. 'Shake hands with him,' says Dravot. And I shook hands and nearly dropped, for Billy Fish gave me the grip. I said nothing, but tried him with the following craft grip. He answers, all right, and I tried the master's grip, but that was a slip. 'A fellowcraft he is,' I says to Dan. 'Does he know the word?' 'He does,' says Dan, 'and all the priests and they've come to find out. It's God's truth. A god and a grand master of the craft am I, and a lodge in the third degree I will open, and we'll raise the head priests and the chiefs of the villages.'

"It's against all the law,' I says, 'holding a lodge without warrant from any one, and we never held office in any lodge.'

"It's a master stroke of policy,' says Dravot. 'The women must make aprons as you show them. I'll hold a levee of chiefs tonight and lodge tomorrow.'

"I was fair run off my legs, but I wasn't such a fool as not to see what a pull this craft business gave us. We took a great square stone in the temple for the master's chair and little stones for the officers' chairs and painted the black pavement with white squares and did what we could to make things regular."

"Dravot gives out that him and me were gods and sons of Alexander and past grand masters of Kafiristan a country where every man should eat in peace and drink in quiet and specially obey us. Then the chiefs came round to shake hands, and they was so hairy and white and fair it was just shaking hands with old friends. We gave them names according as they were like men we had known in India—Billy Fish, Holly Dilworth, Plicky Kergan that was bazaar master when I was at Mhow, and so on, and so on.

"The most amazing miracle was at lodge next night. One of the old priests was watching us continuous and I felt uneasy, for I knew we'd have to judge the ritual, and I didn't know what the men knew. The old priest was a stranger come in from beyond the village of Babhat. He catches a hoop and a bowl and tries to overturn the stone that Dravot was sitting on. 'It's all up now,' I says. 'That comes of meddling with the craft without warrant!' Dravot never winked an eye, not when ten priests took and filled over the grand master's chair—which was to say the stone of Imbra. The priest begins rubbing the bottom end of it to clear away the black fur, and presently he shows all the other priests the master's mark, same as was on Dravot's apron, cut into the stone. Not even the priests of the temple of Imbra knew it was there. The old chap falls flat on his face at Dravot's feet and kisses 'em. 'Luck again,' says Dravot across the lodge to me; 'they say it's the missing mark that no one could understand the why of. We're more than safe now.' After that Peasey and Dravot raised such was worthy—high priests and chiefs of faroff villages.

Big Crowd Listen to Band
Alexandra park was thronged last evening with old and young at the band concert of the Dufferin Rifles band, under Bandmaster Johnson. Several pieces were encored, and the band's rendering of the overture to "William Tell" was superb, and was loudly applauded. Among the popular selections given, "Good-bye Summer, So Long Fall," with the chimes brought in, was perhaps the best received. The citizens certainly appreciate the open air band concerts, and it is too bad that there are no permanent band stands erected in every park for such occasions.

The Police Are Investigating
What looks like the deliberate attempt of some one to start a disastrous fire occurred yesterday evening about 5:30, when a telegraph pole in the rear of the old Y. M. C. A. building was discovered on fire. An alarm was sent in from box 61, corner of Market and Colborne streets, and the firemen made a quick run with full equipment. Every wagon is always turned out when an alarm comes in from a business centre. When the men arrived on the scene others had already checked the fire with buckets of water, and it was all out in about five minutes. There is a refuse heap just at the foot of the pole, and it certainly looks as if some one had touched it off with the intention of setting fire to the rear of the buildings on Canal street, as the post alarm directly up against the building. Chief Lewis has placed the matter in the hands of the police, who are investigating.

NINE MONTHS MORE FOR JOE IN ADOPTED HOME

Magistrate Gave Sentence to Gillies This Morning - Bawdy House Case

Joe Gillies was given another nine months to add to his already lengthy record of Government service, when he was sentenced by Magistrate Livingston at the court this morning. Commenting upon his list of convictions the bench said he did not want to add another instalment to Gillies' system of taking a life sentence, but the safety of the public must be considered and therefore it was his duty to impose sentence and Joe will serve another nine months in his "adopted home" as the police described it.

A colored man, Isaac Johnson, charged Ernest Vansickle with conversion, but after hearing the evidence, the magistrate dismissed the charge, it being a very petty one concerning empty barrels, which had been taken from Brant Avenue and not returned. They will be replaced.

Bawdy House
A charge of keeping a bawdy house was investigated at the police court this morning when Charles Stover and a woman named on the list as his wife, but denied by him, were charged with this offence.

The two had lived upon Bruce St. at the corner of Brock Lane, for two years, and during this time the woman had acted as his housekeeper. Complaints had been received of the manner in which the house was conducted, neighbors stating that they had noticed foreigners visiting the house at various hours of the day and night. To this effect they gave evidence this morning. Several times they had seen men, of different nationalities visiting the house.

Pleading not guilty, Stover denied the offence and said that although he brought the woman from Hamilton he had never lived with her. Under cross-examination, he admitted being sent to the penitentiary for five years for an offence which he never knew that this was for a white slave traffic crime, when he took a girl from Brantford to the States and was charged and sentenced at Woodstock. He claimed he had lived straight since then.

Ida Young, the woman in the case, gave a rather complex tale and among other things she revealed a peculiar marriage tangle. She had left Hamilton, knowing she could not marry Stover, because of his former allegiance, while she herself had been married to a man named Bates, who was illegally united to her because he had been formerly married and his wife still lived. She had not lived with the defendant. The two foreigners mentioned by a witness, simply asked for a drink of water, and then left.

Asked her age, she said she was twenty, and this led to some questions and she said it was three years since she left her husband and she had lived for five years with him. This made her twelve years old when she married and after consideration she amended this to sixteen, making her now twenty-four. She had not kept count so she said. Mr. Brewster, who defended, claimed that a case of keeping a bawdy house had not been made out and the magistrate found that the evidence did not justify a conviction. If defendants had been acting illegally, they had better reform, for they had been sailing close to the law. The case was dismissed.

PRICES TO ADVANCE

House Keepers Will Likely Have to Pay More For Meat.

It will be sad news to the housewife particularly in these strenuous days to know that there is likely to be a big jump in the price of meat during the coming fall, especially as she thinks she is paying a lot too much already. The rise will be principally caused by the scarcity of cattle in the local market, which is due primarily to the shipping of such a great quantity to the American markets, and also to the effect of the dry weather on the grazing land. The price of dressed beef locally, said a butcher on the central market to-day, "is from 12 to 13 1-2 cents. The price for cattle on the Buffalo is from 16 to 17 cents for dressed beef to the retailer, who is selling to the customer at a very close margin. Something of the kind will probably happen here before long and it is then that the housewife will feel the drought."

RAILWAY MATTERS

City Solicitor Henderson Has Just About Finished Heavy Job.

The Street Railway Commissioners met last evening at the City Hall with ex-Mayor Hartman in the chair, and Commissioners Walter Turnbull and A. K. Bunnell present. The meeting was called for the opening of applications for manager of the street railway but no one application has as yet been decided upon. It is expected that the railway will be formerly transferred to the city within the next week. City Solicitor Henderson is now busy going over the titles and deeds of the company and this has involved an immense amount of detail which has not yet all been straightened out. However the solicitor announced this morning that he expected that the railway would be transferred to the city within the next week or ten days at the outside.

testant counties of Ulster to vote together on the question of exclusion from the home rule parliament and that he may also go so far as to change the time limit of six years embodied in the amending bill which already has been dealt with by the House of Lords.

Speech Criticized

The Liberal newspapers in the provinces continue to criticize King George's speech, which most of them will not believe the cabinet was responsible for. They appear to be particularly irritated at the phrase "the cry of civil war is on the lips of the most responsible and sober-minded of my people," which they say might have been taken from the speeches of the Ulster leaders. These, says The Manchester Guardian, a leading Liberal newspaper, the King "thought fit to sum up to his presence without a word of rebuke. The king has been unduly alarmed by the reports of certain of his unofficial counsellors and the impression thus made on his mind may, unless he wisely determines to be guided henceforth by his official counsellors, have consequences more serious than any that have yet been produced."

Conferees in Session

The conferees were again in session for an hour and a half to-day and then adjourned until to-morrow. At a meeting the claims of the two opposing Irish parties led by John E. Redmond and Sir Edward Carson, on the subject of the crucial question of the boundary of the area to be excluded from the operations of the home rule bill, were presented to the conferees. As expected the Nationalist nor the Ulster Unionist leader possesses plenipotentiary powers, however, these claims must be submitted to the consideration of their respective party caucus at each stage so that the progress of the conference necessarily must be deliberate. John Redmond and John Dillon as they left Buckingham Palace and passed along the sidewalk in front of Wellington barracks were given a great reception by the men of the battalion of Irish Guards stationed there. The soldiers crowded to the windows of the barracks rooms, cheering wildly and waving their caps. Royal Action Under Fire. LONDON, July 22.—The remarkable speech of King George at yesterday's conference at Buckingham Palace already has provoked bitter press polemics and seems destined to revive the old controversy about royal interference in political affairs. The immediate question which comes to the front is whether the king prepared and delivered the speech on his own initiative, whether it was after consultation and with the acquiescence of responsible ministers, or whether, as the extremists do not hesitate to suggest, under the direct influence of Carsonites. All morning newspapers in their editorial comment seize on the phrase "the cry of civil war is on the lips of the most responsible and sober-minded of my people," and, while the Unionist journals describe the speech as a noble and patriotic appeal which will rally the nation behind the throne the Liberal organs frankly accuse the king of exceeding his prerogative. The Daily Chronicle characterizes it as an amazing speech, extraordinarily ill-inspired. This newspaper contends that the cry of "civil war" is nothing but the invention and party cry of the followers of Sir Edward Carson and that the most responsible and sober-minded even of the Unionist party are shy of repeating it. Other Liberal and radical organs similarly express their irritation and suggest that it was impossible that Premier Asquith could have approved such a speech. The view taken by The Daily Mail, which, arguing that the Premier must have sanctioned the speech says that the king's earnest warning is proof that his ministers have at last been brought to understand the reality of Ulster's hostility to home rule.

BRILLIANT WORK IN PITCHING DEPARTMENT

Brantford Again Defeated Toronto, 2-1 Taylor's Work in the Box Was the Real Finished Article—Story of Game.

The steady control of pitcher Taylor coupled with good support by the infield won the third game with the Toronto Beavers for the Red Sox yesterday afternoon at Agricultural Park. It was a good fast game, one of the best seen here in some time and considering the present standing of the team, there was a good crowd present. It is just such games as yesterday that will once again restore the confidence of the fans in the Red Sox. Kirley, who opposed Taylor pitched a splendid game for the Beavers striking five of Rubes men out while Taylor struck three of the visitors out. On the other hand Taylor never walked a man during the entire game and held himself in great control right to the end of the game.

followed, lined to Fried, who doubled Ort at second to Roth. It was surely a beautiful play. Barrett, the new man from Hamilton, played a quiet game at right field nothing coming his way, while at the bat he was walked once and flied out on his other two appearances at the bat. The Red Sox got their two runs in the sixth when Roth who was walk double to deep left, Rube got to third on Barrett's fly to centre and scored on Fried's two-bagger to left. The Sox held the Beavers scoreless until the eighth inning, when after Schultz had hit for a three bagger, he scored on Snell's single. As the score shows the game was a tight one, the hits being even, five for each, and both pitchers showed up well in the way they handled the game. Miller again umpired and in an efficient manner. Miller is from a Kansas City, Missouri, and you have to show him, at any rate he has an easier time with the fans than any umpire that has yet appeared over the dyke this year.

How the Game Was Played

First Inning Toronto—Hunt lined to Lamond who made a beautiful running catch. Ort flied to Roth, while Lamond caught Harkins fly on the run. No runs, no hits, no errors. Brantford—Long struck out, Kerley pitching four balls to the plate. Roth was out Killilea to first, a near hit. Deneau singled sharply to centre, and stole second while Snell held the ball. Barrett walked. Fried was out pitcher to first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning Toronto—Hunt grounded to Deneau. Ort was out Taylor to Deneau. Harkins flied to Fried who got ball over the third base line. No runs, no hits, no errors. Brantford—Deneau was out Kirley to first. Barrett was out second to first. Fried got a beautiful three-base hit to left centre. Ostrich walked. The squeeze play was attempted but Fried was caught at the plate, although he had it easily had he slid. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Table titled 'It Was Real Close' showing statistics for Brantford and Toronto players including Long, Roth, Deneau, Barrett, Fried, Ostrich, Lamond, Lacroix, Taylor, Hunt, Ort, Harkins, Killilea, Isaacs, Schultz, Burrill, Snell, and Kirley.

Summary—Stolen base, Deneau. Two-base hits, Deneau, Fried. Three-base hit, Fried. Left on bases, Brantford 4; Beavers 3. Struck out, By Kirley 5; Taylor 3. Bases on balls, Off Kirley 3. Double play, Fried and Roth. Time 1:21. Umpire, Miller.

Notes of Game Toronto only had two left on bases. Net a Toronto man got a base on balls. Frank Long looks plenty good enough in left field. Lamond handled two chances very nicely in the outfield. Umpire Miller got along nicely. He is boss of the job as a rule. Schultz and Snell really got the only clean hits of the day off Taylor. Our old friend, Buster Burrill failed to show anything at bat yesterday. The Beavers only got two hits in seven innings, and both were scratchy. Taylor's pitching was as good as has been seen behind the dyke all year. Kirley, the Toronto pitcher, was an easy mark at bat. He struck out twice.

Seventh Inning Toronto—Ort got a life when Lacroix and Deneau let his foul drop between them, then he got another life when Fried threw wild to first. He went to second on the overthrow Harkins lined to Fried who doubled Ort at second to Roth. It was a beautiful play. Taylor knocked down Killilea's hit and threw him out. No runs, no hits, no errors. Brantford—Lamond was out Isaacs to first. Lacroix went out the same way. Taylor was out second to first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Eighth Inning Toronto—Isaacs was out Ostrich to Deneau. Schultz got a three-base hit, spiking Ostrich as he made third. Burrill grounded out Fried to Deneau, the shortstop making a fine pick-up. Snell singled driving in Schultz. Kirley struck out. One run, two hits, no errors. One left. Brantford—Long flied to Burrill. Roth struck out. Deneau struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Ninth Inning Toronto—Hunt was out pitcher to first. Ort got a single over second. Harkins hit to Ostrich who threw to second forcing Ort but Deneau dropped a perfect throw which would have ended the game. Killilea flied to Ostrich. No runs, one hit, no errors.

McPhail's Rink Still in Trophy When play closed last night in the Labatt Trophy competition of the W.O.B.A., seven rinks remained. Three were from London, three from Toronto and the seventh was from Brantford. The semi-finals will be played this afternoon and the finals on Thursday afternoon. The select circle is as follows: Dr. J. N. Wood, Toronto Granites. James S. Bell, London Bowling Club. James S. McDougald, London Bowling Club. John Lochead, London Bowling Club. W. Moon, Toronto Parkdales. T. McPhail, Brantford Pastimes. J. R. Shaw, Toronto Queen City's.

Sport Comment Hamilton sport writers claim that Brantford got the worst of the deal in the trade of Ivers for Dudley and Barrett, but time will tell. As said scribes have been wrong most of the time this year, it can be expected they are wrong again. Manager Deneau believes he has much the best of it. Dudley was to have arrived yesterday, but didn't. He will be in the game to-day at third base, and will replace Ostrich. The latter is scheduled for release to-day. With the arrival of another infielder this week, Deneau confidently expects, with Dudley in the outfield, where he naturally belongs, Deneau believes he will have a strong team. The Red Sox have been getting pretty fair pitching, there is no doubt about that, and in three games against Toronto the hitting has shown an improvement. One cannot but wonder why the Beavers are up around the top, and the Red Sox around the bottom on their playing this week. Fried's remarkable playing has been a sensation this week. He is covering all kinds of territory, and has a great throwing arm. Yesterday his hitting was immense. Deneau should get his players out some morning, put pads on them and keep them sliding into a dummy base for half an hour. Twice this week failure to hit the dirt has cost the team runs. Yesterday, Fried came to the home plate standing up, and was out because he was blocked off the base by Snell. Had he slid he would have made it easily. On some ball clubs failure to hit the dirt occasions a fine

McPhail's Rink Comes Through After a Strenuous Day—Other Rinks Made a Splendid Showing.

Seven rinks still remain in the Labatt trophy competition at the meeting of the Western Ontario Bowling Association at London, one of the rinks being Tom McPhail's of the Pastimes club of Brantford. The other rinks still in race are Dr. J. N. Wood of Toronto Granites; J. R. Shaw, Toronto Queen City's; James S. Bell, London Bowling Club; James S. on the part of the player who won't slide. Fried is a coming ball player and it is just as well now for him to know that on close plays Ty Cobb's fade-away slide hasn't gone out of date by any means. Mr. Chas. Ivers was at bat four times yesterday, had one hit and accepted 12 chances at first base. As predicted in these columns yesterday, Tom McPhail's rink at London is making some noise for the Labatt trophy. To-day tells the tale. Knotty Lee, manager of the Beavers is supposed to be away on a scouting trip. Knotty has been scouting a long time without getting any results. But then other managers have been on similar trips, and the players secured wouldn't make a corporal's guard. There is a suspicion, however, that Lee is no longer manager of the Beavers. In the decision allowing Chase to play with the Federals, organized baseball has got a severe jolt. It hard Ottawa Takes Peterboro Into Camp by Score of 4-1.

ST. THOMAS, July 22.—London again took the measure of the Saints here yesterday by the score of 9 to 6 in a game of ball which was filled with more than an ordinary array of base hits, but the team which piled up the greater number of bingles did not garner the same proportion of runs as the victors.

Five Pitchers Work

The introduction of relief pitchers during the game tamed down the batsmen to some extent, but the damage had been done. Steiger and Wilkinson started for London and St. Thomas, respectively, and while the former was removed before the eighth, he was in good form, as he kept 13 hits well scattered, though he was found for five hits in the sixth, several of which were of the scratch order. Wilkinson went well up to the fourth when five hits in a row and a base on balls resulted in four runs for the Tecumseh.

Hammond relieved Seiger in the 8th and his first effort was a walk to Kopp, and coupled with an error and a base hit, scored. Hughey went in to replace Wilkinson with one out in the seventh. Reilly pitched the last two innings without being scored upon.

Bombardment of Hits

In the fourth London started the bombardment when Lamy singled with one out. Snyder doubled, scoring the first two. Resling cleaned up the bases on a fine drive to the outfield in the fifth Linnborn opened with

What Hamilton Thinks Of The Trade For Ivers

Both Papers Say Brantford Has Got Hold of Two Fair Fielders and Weak Hitters in Exchange for Big First Baseman.

(The Spectator) Gabby Ivers, the Brantford first baseman, will join the Hamilton ball team to-day, and will hold down the initial sack for the Hams. This is the result of a trade which Manager Jack White pulled off last evening with this time it really looks as if Hamilton got the better of the deal. Ivers is a 300 hitter and well within the charmed circle, while neither Barrett nor Dudley have been hitting anywhere near the mark.

Talking of the trade to-day, Manager White said: "Ivers will be here to-day and will take part in this afternoon's game. Likewise Dudley and Barrett will play for the Brants to-day. I swung the deal with Deneau last night and he surprised me by his eagerness to make the trade. Apparently he thought he had the better of it, but I don't think so."

Ivers has been mainly responsible for a number of the Brantford victories by his heavy and timely hitting and was in reality the only hitter on the Dykeville payroll. In Deneau's estimation he was not the best first baseman in captivity, but the Rube apparently lost sight of his ability as a closer. He is quite welcome in Hamilton.

Ivers has never shown himself to be a flashy player, neither spasmodic nor sensational. He is like the majority of Canadian league first basemen—steady, and just like the others gets all of the throws that are within reasonable distance. As Jack says, "They all miss 'em when they're not pretty good 'throws," Ivers' failure to pull any of this sensational stuff has caused the Brantford critics and manager to be deceived for he is playing the game, nevertheless, and his hitting alone makes up for any little deficiency he may have as a fielder. Once again we think we have the bulge on the deal.

In the opinion of the Herald, Roy Dudley is a mighty good ball player, but for some reason could not get going. His hitting has been very weak and certainly not what he is capable of. He has all the earmarks of a valuable man, but, as he himself admitted recently, he could not get going right. Jimmy Barrett has been off in his fielding and hitting.

MAYOR OF DELHI SEES DREAMY SUE

He Says He Was Flim-Flammed and Caused Arrest of Fair Man. His Wife Asks Embarrassing Questions—Brown Was Knocked Down.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The New York Telegraph's Delhi Texas, despatch this week follows: A good deal of excitement was created here yesterday when Hawthorne De Bell an amusement promoter, was called before Judge Ginney to answer to the charge of defrauding the public at the street fair. Mayor Cyrus Perkins Walker was the complainant.

"Your honor," said the mayor "I was strolling along through the street fair yesterday when I heard this man ballyhooning. Constable Brown was with me. We stopped and listened to his flow of language. He said to come in—that for ten cents we would see Dreamy Susie and it would be an extremely unusual sight. The fakier lowered his voice and said we'd never get a chance to see such a sight again. We each paid a dime and entered the tent. There we saw a big negroess peeling potatoes and announcing that she was Dreamy Susie. An employee of this defendant whispered to us that if we'd pay twenty cents more and go through a certain door we'd see Dreamy Susie the second. Naturally we did. We found ourselves out in the street again."

CHICAGO FAVORS THE CANADIAN TENNIS MEN CHICAGO, July 22.—Chicago tennis followers have failed so far to be greatly impressed by the work of the Australian stars, who meet the Canadians in the Davis cup preliminaries at the Onwentsia Club this week. Eastern bettors who have rated the Antipodeans as favorites at 1 to 3 or 4 for the cup are thought by local critics to have overestimated their strength. It is thought there is little chance of Australians taking the cup from America.

However, it is not considered that Canada has much better than at outside chance of defeating Australia in the preliminaries. Even the Canadians themselves seem to entertain little hope of beating their rivals, but they have continued to practice steadily with the idea of making as good a showing as possible and being prepared for the best should opportunity come.
