

WANDAS' SACRIFICE, "A WALKING BOMB"

Intended to Blow Up Herself and Police Headquarters at St. Petersburg.

Russian Young Girl and Jewish Father Under Arrest in That City.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 17.—The police to-day arrested a young girl nicknamed "Wanda," who is accused of participating in a plot to blow up the headquarters of the secret police, situated on the Moika Canal, whose torture chambers have aroused the most bitter feelings on the part of the revolutionists.

MAURETANIA'S TRIAL TRIP. SISTER SHIP OF LUSITANIA.

Three Days' Preliminary Sea Trial--Description of This Leviathan of the Deep.

Shields, Eng., Sept. 17.—The Cunard Line steamer Mauretania, sister ship of the Lusitania, and the largest vessel ever built on the Tyne, left her moorings in the River Tyne this morning and started on her preliminary sea trials, which will last three days.

The keel plate of the steamer Mauretania is five feet wide and 3 3/4 inches thick, and is flush outside with the bottom of the ship.

MILLIONAIRE IN BAD FIX.

ADMITTS WRITING LETTERS TO GIRL HE WISHED TO DEPORT.

Newark Man Forged to Tell Story of His Meeting Austrian, Who Alleges He Promised to Wed Her.

New York, Sept. 16.—Enraged beyond measure, Horace E. Miller, the wealthy Newark manufacturer who is trying to accomplish the deportation of pretty Paula Klippenburg, was forced to admit under oath before the board of special inquiry on Ellis Island to-day that he has written a series of remarkable love letters to the young woman, whom he denounced as a woman of the streets when she came here to sue him for breach of promise.

Throughout the hearing was dramatic in the extreme, and when a cable message purporting to come from the prefect of police in Vienna was produced containing the statement that Miss Klippenburg was such a woman, her attorney jumped to his feet and declared that he for one was not willing to accept the authenticity of the message.

Except for this message and the horrible story of his own degradation forced from Miller's own lips, there was not a single thing in the hearing that operated against Miss Klippenburg's chances of being permitted to stay in this country long enough to bring any kind of action against Miller's care.

The man who never has time to do anything it is noticed generally never does anything done.

CAPTAIN JAMES B. WATT OF THE LUSITANIA.

Captain Watt, whose mammoth ship, the Lusitania, failed to wrest the transatlantic records from German steamers, reached New York on Friday, the 13th inst., and docked his steamer at the foot of Thirtieth street, but the captain blames the fog and green stokers. He went to sea at fourteen, was a master at twenty-five and has been with the Cunard line thirty-four years.

A JAP DISASTER. FORTY SEAMEN KILLED AND HURT IN EXPLOSION ON BATTLESHIP.

Tokio, Sept. 17.—Noon.—Forty of the crew were killed and injured on board the Japanese battleship Kashima by the explosion of a 12 inch shell after target practice, near Kure at 4 p.m., on Sept. 9.

The explosion followed an attempt to remove an unexploded shell from the gun. A majority of the bystanders were fearfully mutilated.

YOM KIPPUR. Day of Atonement Begins at 6 This Evening.

(By Rabbi Bernard L. Amdur.) The day of atonement is one of the holidays instituted by Moses. It occurs on the tenth day of the seventh month (Tishri). It is a fast day, by abstaining for twenty-four hours from eating and drinking, bathing and anointing.

The services in the Synagogue are of a very solemn and impressive character with traditional melodies and sacred music composed and selected for the occasion. A part of the day services represent the features of the "Avodah," a description of the atonement services in the time of the temple of Jerusalem when the most magnificent ceremonial of the year was performed on the day of atonement.

COME TO HAMILTON. Canadian Manufacturers Will Pay Visit Next Week.

Hamilton is to have a visit from the delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, next week. The annual general meeting will be held in Toronto, opening on Tuesday, the 24th, and closing on Thursday night.

A local committee has been formed with provisional officers, Robt. Hobson, chairman, W. R. Dunn, treasurer, and C. R. McCullough, secretary, and a meeting will be held at the Royal Hotel to-morrow at 5 o'clock to complete arrangements.

The Man In Overalls

The hundred thousand population is coming our way. Checker Club at Lib. Club to-night.

This is the kind of weather we read about. What kind of a reception has Chief Smith mapped out for the hoboes this fall?

In the meantime the Beach is a sort of Hermit Kingdom. Mr. Borden is heading for British Columbia to see what political capital he can make out of the riots.

It's all very well to go for the Grocers' combine but how do the bakers and the milkmen know when to raise or to lower the price? By wireless?

Are you laying up a few dollars to tide over the cold snap this coming winter? If Dundas should capture Hamilton during the Thanksgiving sham fight it would not know what to do with us.

Have you seen the road repairs at the corner of Hughson and King streets? I hope the Finance Committee won't drop dead when it sees the School Board's next year's appropriation figures.

What pleasure or profit can there be in eternally knocking the city? Suppose there are a few cases of typhoid fever in the city, why trumpet it all over the country as if there were an epidemic fitted to scare people away?

The announcement that Ald. Farrar may be a Mayoralty candidate came with a shock to the City Hall inhabitants.

The single track is responsible for quite a lot of railway tragedies. That Saturday picnic may be the means of forcing some kind of a nomination on John Milne.

The Vancouver Socialists may be trusted to give Mr. Borden a bad quarter of an hour when they meet him. Glittering generalities and vague promises won't go with them.

I suppose it would be an act of charity to buy a ticket for the benefit of the Twentieth Century Club. The lucky fellow is the one whose holidays have yet to come.

Don't be surprised if you see your name mentioned in the papers as a candidate for Parliament or Council or something. Faking of that sort is thought by some newspapers to denote enterprise.

When is Mr. Whitney to appoint the Fraternal Society Commission to find out about our dues? Then the "lodge doctor" is a subject that would be none the worse of a little ventilation.

Perhaps the School Trustees will say who are hitting at when they speak of "incapable and inefficient" teachers.

Let us hope that the proposed church union will not end in dissolution. Surely Mr. Pope did not switch the Bishop of London past Hamilton.

Even the necessities of life come high, but we must have them. No doubt if any change is ever made in the City Engineer's department it will mean more expense.

THIEF OF BAGGAGE. New York, Sept. 17.—Thousands of dollars worth of baggage have been stolen in the last three months from Cunard Line steamship pier 51, North River, the police say, the plan of the thieves being to change the owners' labels on the baggage and to substitute for them labels bearing the names of junk dealers.

NEW YORK CITY AND LONDON COMPARED.

Andrew Carnegie Declares That The Former is In Advance of The Latter.

New York Will Yet be the Richest in Public Ownership Properties.

Glasgow, Sept. 17.—Andrew Carnegie this afternoon appeared as a eulogist of the municipal government of New York, compared with the government of British cities, in a speech delivered at a luncheon after the laying of the corner stone of the Mitchell library. He said: "New York is held up before the world by her own yellow press as sunk in iniquity, with everything going to the bad, and with nothing creditable whatever. To me who gets away from New York for half the year and is able to look on here from a distance there are three or four things that comfort him greatly. He compares New York with London, and finds that upon these mat-

IMMEDIATE TRIAL WANTED FOR SLAYER OF STANFORD WHITE.

Great Forensic Battle Expected When Thaw's New Counsel and Jerome Meet.

New York, Sept. 17.—When the criminal branch of the Supreme Court opens next month and the case of Harry K. Thaw, charged with the murder of Stanford White, is called, Martin W. Littleton, senior counsel for the defendant, will demand immediate trial for the accused Pittsburgher. District Attorney Jerome will oppose an immediate hearing of the case, and on the question of the date of trial there will result the first skirmish of the people.

PRETTY WEDDING. Marriage of E. D. Echlin and Miss Plain To-day.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon a quiet wedding took place at 140 Catherine street south, the home of E. J. and Mrs. Plain, when their eldest daughter, Annie Echlin, became the wife of Mr. E. D. Echlin, of the Hamilton Printing Co. Rev. J. C. Sycamore performed the ceremony.

The bride was given away by her father, the bride's going-away gown was with asters and palms. The bride's maid was Miss Evelyn Plain, sister of the bride, and the groom's man Mr. Allan McNab. Miss Vera Houlding played the Lohengrin wedding march.

The bride was attired in a lace-trimmed gown of white organdie, and carried white asters and maidenhead ferns. The bridesmaids wore white Swiss, with pink trimmings, and carried pink asters and ferns. The groom's gift to the bride's maid was an emerald and diamond ring, to the groom's man a diamond tie pin.

After a dainty luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Echlin left for a trip to Montreal and Quebec. The bride's going-away gown was a tailored costume of blue cloth, with hat to match.

MUST BE WATCHED. William Bedell Allowed to go on Suspended Sentence.

Judge Monck let William Bedell down pretty easy this morning. Bedell was up on a charge of aggravated assault on his wife, Annie Bedell, on the night of Sept. 3. Both were drunk, and Bedell, according to the testimony, objected to the idea of his wife getting drunk, although he did not seem to mind if he had a load on once in a while himself.

In his statement this morning he said that he only slapped his wife's face once that he remembered, but she had two black eyes, and a cut under her chin that required 15 stitches. Bedell said that his wife must have fallen and cut herself on some glass.

Judge Monck said there was no evidence produced to show that Bedell had struck his wife, but he believed that he was a man who would beat watching in future. His Honor told P. C. Xaxley to notify the Chief that Bedell must have the eye of the law on him. He then allowed him to go on suspended sentence.

THREE ELKS KILLED. Automobile Crashed Into Telephone Pole at Colorado Springs.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 17.—An automobile containing a party of seven Elks, returning from Manitou, ran into a telephone pole here early to-day. Three men were killed outright and a fourth is reported to be dying.

Three of the victims are Wm. Ralston, dealer in electric supplies; B. Graves, a druggist, and the chauffeur named Grey. The party had attended a social session at their club house given in honor of visiting Elks, and were on the way home, driving at a terrific speed.

EXPORT OF POWER. The Dominion Government Will Control it Effectually.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 17.—(Special.)—Under the act of last session of Parliament O. Higman, of the Inland Revenue Department, Chief Electrical Engineer of the Dominion, prepared certain regulations affecting the export of electric power. It was arranged that all the hydro-electric companies affected would have an opportunity of discussing these regulations before they came into effect, and a meeting was arranged for to-day in the Premier's office. General Green, general manager of the Ontario Company, was present to-day, but the other parties interested in all the hydro-electric companies that export were not in attendance the meeting was put off until Oct. 1.

GOT SANTA ANA'S CORK LEG. Man Who Captured It in the Mexican War Tells How He Did It.

The man who captured Gen. Santa Ana's cork leg, the most interesting relic of the Mexican War, is yet living. He is Edwin Elyon Elliot, who now lives at San Rafael, Cal. From Mr. Elliot comes the first authentic account of the capture, says the Mexican Herald. In the course of his narrative Mr. Elliot describes the scene when the American troops charged across the open plain. The Fourth Illinois advanced rapidly to the Palapa road, in which stood the luxurious and gayly caparisoned coach of Gen. Santa Ana harnessed and ready to leave. This coach, however, had been rendered unserviceable by the artillery fire, one of the mules having been killed. The saddle mule was being cut out of the line by the American troops came up. The latter noticed the Mexicans mounting an officer upon this mule, but they did not know until later that this officer was no less a personage than Santa Ana himself. Companies B and H charged down the hill, and Private Edward Elliot was the first soldier to reach the carriage. He jumped inside and secured the cork leg of the General and passed it out to the soldiers who followed. It was sent to the rear as a prize of war, and eventually was placed in Memorial Hall at Springfield, Ill., where it is yet on exhibition. Elliot also found a basket of lunch, consisting mostly of chicken, which had been put up for the General. The food was quickly devoured by the hungry soldiers. Continuing his search, Elliot found a bag of gold under the seat. The coin was kept under guards until an aid of Gen. Twiggs came up, when it was turned over to the commander. The chief as a prize of the Government, the sack contained in all $10,000. Mr. Elliot's regiment, the Fourth Illinois, saw much hard service in the ensuing month, but the war ended in September, 1847, and the soldiers were mustered out in the following year. Mr. Elliot's capture of the leg was productive of the capture of the leg was productive of much merit. The story of the incident has been published in the Boston Herald, but the story of the man who secured the leg is probably the only authentic account. He thought as a sage, though he felt as a man. Beware of cheap imitations. Doctor - Do you ever have ringing sounds in your ears? Patient - Certainly.

MARKETS AND FINANCE

Tuesday, Sept. 17.—The market this morning was not very large and few changes were noted in the prices. Erie was rather scarce after Saturday's large market, of which it is said there was more fruit in than was seen on the market in ten years. Meat was unchanged in price and vegetables remained the same.

Additional word from Otto Lake confirms the reports of recent finds on the Crawford properties. Mr. J. A. Spear writes from Englehart that the large shot recently put in the Crawford properties, blew up fully 20 tons of ore. Of this amount, ten tons were first assayed, and it has proved itself to be the finest mineralized ore which has ever been seen in that section.

It is now the universal opinion of the mining men that the Larder Lake district is destined to become the most wonderful gold producing country in the world. The work accomplished by the prospectors during the summer has revealed wonders and scores of claims which could have been bought last winter for a few hundred dollars are now held at high prices.

A broker who has just arrived from the north says that the recent discoveries on the claims of the Highland Mary Syndicate have proved of more importance than was first reported. Mining engineers at Larder Lake are greatly interested in the finds which have been made on the north-east arm of that water.

Mr. Robert Tighe, who is one of the pioneers of the Larder Lake dis-

NOON STOCK LETTER (Received by A. E. Carpenter from Ennis & Stoppani.) New York, Sept. 17.—The market during the morning developed considerable strength. Foreign houses were good buyers, and offerings were light. The Reading annual meeting is expected to show a large advance in surplus. A 6 per cent. extra dividend for Northern Pacific is, we believe, in prospect. Industrials average about 1 per cent. below level at which the rising trend of prices was initiated Aug. 24. While rails average 4 per cent. higher, Judge Gary thinks that the market has discounted the Presidential election. It is well known that the Steel Corporation has held prices down and that iron prices are rising from $18 to $19 per ton in 1905 to as high as $26, have declined to around $20. In this industry the large producers work in perfect accord, discuss conditions, and act in a manner calculated to keep business on a stable basis. Copper, on the other hand, had a tremendous rise, being still quoted at what were practically top figures several years ago.

If it sells for 15 cents for the rest of this year producers will have received over 19 cents on an average for the twelve months. That would leave ample margin over the present Amalgamated and Anaconda dividends, provided that business is done in undiminished volume. But this is improbable. On 15 cent copper neither company ought to maintain present dividends, but it is thought that as soon as large buying appears copper prices will advance. It seems that copper and steel stocks have discounted enough by losing 50 per cent. of market value as is practically the case with N. C. P. and Steel Common. Best inquiry for wheat for foreign account since the latter bull movement is reported by one who handled much of his business for that speculator. Gold imports should in due course materialize.—Ennis & Stoppani.

COBALT NOTES The Cobalt ore shipments for the week ending Sept. 14 are gratifying, and are expected to help to stimulate the prices of the various mining stocks.

Mr. Frank Woodrow, of Toronto, for the last two years a prospector living in the camp, has just returned to Cobalt from Night Hawk Lake, where he staked a claim. He, like the others who have recently returned from that territory, confirms the report regarding the big finds.

Additional word from Otto Lake confirms the reports of recent finds on the Crawford properties. Mr. J. A. Spear writes from Englehart that the large shot recently put in the Crawford properties, blew up fully 20 tons of ore. Of this amount, ten tons were first assayed, and it has proved itself to be the finest mineralized ore which has ever been seen in that section.

It is now the universal opinion of the mining men that the Larder Lake district is destined to become the most wonderful gold producing country in the world. The work accomplished by the prospectors during the summer has revealed wonders and scores of claims which could have been bought last winter for a few hundred dollars are now held at high prices.

A broker who has just arrived from the north says that the recent discoveries on the claims of the Highland Mary Syndicate have proved of more importance than was first reported. Mining engineers at Larder Lake are greatly interested in the finds which have been made on the north-east arm of that water.

trict, was in Toronto yesterday after spending several months in the north. Mr. Tighe rode on horseback over the new Government road, from Boston to Larder Lake. The lack of this way, he says, has retarded the development of the district. It is built broad enough to carry the new railway, which is projected into the town of Larder. The Larder Lake country, he says, has proved itself an immense camp of copper, silver and gold, but the chief problem for the mine owners is to obtain fuel to operate the smelters, which will be erected in a short while, after the smaller interests have been inveigled into the larger companies.

The executors of Andrew Marks Wiley are suing for $150,000 commission before Master-in-Chambers at Osgoode Hall for the sale of the Anthony Blum Mine to Hugo Von Hagen, New York, for $800,000. It is alleged that $10,000 was paid on account and that the Laurentian Mines Company then took over the property and that Mr. Blum was given stock in it instead of cash. The vendor claiming that the transaction was altered, refused to pay the commission to Wiley.

JAILING YEGGS IS COSTLY. A Big Bill for Wayne County Farmers to Pay.

Rochester.—Monroe and Wayne counties are now counting the cost of landing behind prison bars the three yeggmans who murdered Edward Pullman, the night watchman of the village of Solus, while he was trying to prevent them from robbing Knapp's Bank. Two of the yeggs have been sentenced for life, having been convicted of murder in the second degree, and the third has gone to prison for 19 years and 9 months, having escaped with a verdict of manslaughter in the first degree.

To accomplish the conviction of the three robbers has taken nearly a year and a half and the cost is variously estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000. Practically all of this money must come out of the pockets of Wayne county taxpayers. Wayne is an agricultural county, with no large centres of population, so that the cost of punishing the yeggs will fall heavily on the individual farmers.

The three yeggs were Fred Schultz, alias John Gallagher; Big Ed. Kelly, with a string of aliases, and James McCormick, alias Henry King. The police say they were members of a band that operated in banks and post offices in the western part of New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio. Seventeen post offices were robbed in western New York alone within a few months before the murder at Solus, and the crimes ceased immediately afterward.

Pullman was murdered in the Solus Bank on the morning of March 22, 1906. The next morning the Rochester police caught the suspected murderers in this city. The belief that the three men were members of a powerful gang was apparently borne out by the resources that they were able to employ in their defence. Although they had little money when nabbed they did not want for money very long. Where it came from the authorities do not know. It is presumed that the money came from fellow yeggmans throughout the country.

They brought witnesses from cities near and distant in an effort to establish an alibi. These witnesses stood the ordeal of cross-examination remarkably well, even though it was conducted by a master of the art, George Raines. The trial developed a surprise in that several Rochester detectives and police officers appeared as witnesses for the accused murderers. Of the half dozen officers who broke into the room and made the capture, one-half contradicted the other half as to what happened in the room. Policemen from Cohoes, Troy and Tonawanda also came here to help in establishing the alibi. This condition of things—policemen hurrying to the defence of cross-examination—caused considerable talk, and it is expected to result in an upheaval in the local police department at least.

Each of the accused men demanded a separate trial, but the defence, in the main, was the same as that of Schultz as the first to face the law. His case was moved Feb. 18, 1907, nearly a year after the homicide. The case went to the jury on April 8, and after they had deliberated twenty-eight hours a verdict of murder in the second degree was returned. He received the statutory sentence of life imprisonment.

Kelly was the next to be called to the bar. This was on May 8. The case was given to the jury on June 14, and after seventeen hours the jury compelled him to the same fate as his accomplice. He received the life sentence on June 17. McCormick was the last of the trio to be placed on trial, facing the jury on July 1. After twenty hours deliberation the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter in the first degree. The court gave McCormick the limit, 10 years and 9 months. During the three trials more than 500 witnesses were sworn. In selecting the (thirty-six jurors for the three trials 750 talesmen were examined.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS. Mildew, if not of too long standing, can be removed by the use of raw tomato and salt. Rub the stains with tomato, sprinkle thickly with salt and lay in the sun. It may be necessary to repeat the process two or three times.

To free a room of bedbugs, close the room tightly and burn sulphur. There is another remedy which was never known to fail. Put three ounces of corrosive sublimate in one-quart of alcohol, then with a feather put in every crevice in the room.

To clean a carpet without taking up take a cup half full of cornmeal mixed with salt and sweep well when spots are left; then take oxgall or ammonia. Both are very good things to make the carpet as bright as a new one.

Here is a way to obtain a fire for cooking in the summer time without the use of coal. Obtain a soft brick, saturate it with kerosene, place in stove and light same and you will obtain a fine fire which will last long enough to cook a dinner at a moderate cost.

The fine ash found over the oven of a cook stove in which wood is used furnishes (when used dry) a silver polish equal to any on the market.

Have a small horseshoe magnet fastened to the end of a tape of ribbon of sufficient length so that it can be dropped to the floor to pick up scissors and needles.

A newly imported wood, used for high-class cabinet and piano work, is the Tasmanian myrtle. It is of a rich pink color, moderately hard, and very close grained.

Turn your coffee mill down very tightly, fill the hopper with granulated sugar, grind it through once or twice, or even three times, and you have an excellent powdered sugar.

To remove paint from glass, wet the window with either cold or warm water and rub a coin over it. A half a dollar would be best and will remove paint without scratching glass.

Girl is Killed. Corry, Pa., Sept. 17.—A skittish horse that became frightened at a tombstone in the cemetery here to-day caused the death of Miss Cora Mathewson, 18 years of age, of Edinboro, Pa.

The horse ran away and hurled Miss Mathewson violently to the ground when the vehicle overturned. She was pitched headlong into a tree beside the cemetery and her neck was broken. She died almost instantly.

Miss Mathewson's mother was also thrown out of the vehicle and injured.

THE HAMILTON TIMES

TUESDAY, SEPT. 17, 1907.

MUST PHYSICIANS REPORT?

The course decided upon by Dr. Gray, of Peterboro, in making conformity to the law conditional on being paid...

The medical profession owes nothing and is under no obligation to any government, city or municipality under the sun...

The ability to give this information we, the medical profession, acquired by incessant night and day toil, and in acquiring this information some of us have spent a lifetime, and not at the expense of any government, city or municipality...

Dr. Gray's proposed scale of charges for reporting cases as required by the health authorities calls for these fees per case: Typhoid fever, $10, and attendance and medicine, $4 per day; diphtheria, $50, and daily attendance and medicine $12; scarlatina and measles $10, and attendance and medicine $12 per day; smallpox, $100, attendance $100 per day, and medicine $5. Night attend 75¢ much higher.

This scale of charges for filling in the necessary blanks may fairly be said to be a generous one, from the physician's point of view. The proposed fees for "attendance" does not concern the immediate question of reporting. The statute, it is plain, does not contemplate remunerating the physician for the performance of the duty thus laid upon him by the Public Health Act, treating it as a trivial matter and one for the public benefit...

But we do not think Dr. Gray will succeed in his campaign against reporting contagious diseases unless paid for it. Moreover, we do not think that in this matter he has the sympathy of the profession with him. No body of men is given greater powers and protection under the law than the physicians, and none is called upon to do so much for the public in a variety of ways. Seldom do we hear of a physician refusing his services to the poorest, even when to hope for reward would be folly, and when the greatest of skill and care have to be exercised. They render valuable services to the community in the protection of the public health. The sacrifices made by the profession have resulted in advances in knowledge which save thousands of lives annually, and the secrets which cost millions and years of toil are freely given up to the benefit of mankind. The poor are treated freely in our public institutions, and in many ways the battle against disease is waged at the physician's expense. There has been no general disposition shown to ignore or defy the law as to reporting diseases as provided by the Public Health Act; and we do not believe that the men who give so freely of skill and time and material in the public interest will seek a reputation for ungenerousness over the trivial matter of the mere reporting of cases to the Board of Health. To do so would be the rankest folly.

SIR HIBBERT, THE PROPHET.

Sir Hibbert Tupper's incautious utterances in the line of prophecy in Nova Scotia, where he boasted that the Tories would carry a majority of the seats in that Province at the next election, reminds us of the elder Tupper's boasts at the Dominion election of 1900, when he led the Tory party to their second defeat. He proclaimed just prior to the election:

We are on the eve of a great battle, and the rising morn will witness one of the most tremendous victories that the Conservatives ever had in the Dominion. The "morn rose," but on a different scene—a triumphant Liberal party and Sir Charles Tupper himself was among the slain politicians.

On October 30th (the elections took place on November 7th) Sir Charles said at London, Ont.:

Here to tell you I entertain no doubt that on the 7th of November (deafening cheers) the party that I have the honor to lead—that party whose constructive statesmanship has made Canada what it is to-day, the banner will be borne to victory, as it was in 1878. Just as in 1878, we have the support of the most able of thousands and tens of thousands of independent Liberals to be found in Canada.

We all know how the election resulted. But a little thing like that does not worry Sir Hibbert. Talk is cheap, and talking oracularly is his natural occupation. But how unfortunate it is for the tribe of false prophets that their former efforts are on record and rise against them whenever they think they have a moment of inspiration!

THE TRAGEDY OF QUEBEC.

In this book of a hundred and twenty pages published by Mr. Robert Sellar, editor and publisher of 'The Gleaner, Huntington, Que., the story of what the author is pleased to call "the expulsion of the Protestant farmers" from the Province of Quebec is told. The Gleaner has been often quoted in recent years by the Tory press as evidence against the Laurier Government, because, although ostensibly a Liberal paper, it has seen fit, whenever it thought opportunity offered, to attack the Government from time to time, supplying much-prized ammunition for the Opposition organs. In the preface of this work, he says, "When I came to Huntington forty-four years ago the county, leaving out one of its municipalities, St. Amice, was as solidly Protestant as any in Ontario. I have witnessed the decline of its Protestant population to the point of being in the minority. The same changes, only in a more marked degree, has taken place in all the counties east of the Richelieu. Drummond, Wolfe, Shefford may be said to be Catholic. The transformation has been going on with startling rapidity during the past fifteen years. Often when friends deplored the departure of Protestant farmers, I heard them ask, 'Did the electors of the other Provinces know what is happening to us of Quebec, would they not intervene?'" The volume is somewhat pretentious in that it gives a historical sketch of Quebec from before the conquest of the French, quoting Governors' reports and other public documents to substantiate the views enunciated, one of which is that the victory of the Plains of Abraham was the worst calamity that could have befallen Canada, as it indirectly caused the American war of the rebellion, and made the French-Canadians the enemies of the British. Whereas, had that battle never been fought, the French would in the course of time have peacefully thrown in their lot with the English. Mr. Sellar endeavors to show that the laws of Quebec, and of the Roman Catholic Church, work together for the expulsion of the English-speaking farmers from the Province. A gradual elimination is constantly going on, he says, one of the chief factors being the inability of Protestants in sparsely settled parts to maintain Protestant schools. For every Protestant school that sells out a French-speaking Catholic takes his place. But the author takes pains to place a share of the blame for this unhappy state of affairs upon the shoulders of the Protestants themselves. He says: "Had they realized the grandeur of their opportunity, had they been faithful to their duty, would they have been abandoned to those who, from their first coming, plotted against them? The Protestants of Quebec had presented to them an opening to do a grand work. They threw it away, and as a people they have been thrown away." Whatever good or evil the volume may do, the author is terribly in earnest. He says himself that agitation on their behalf may fail to help them, but cannot make their situation worse. The policy of fawning of silence, of loud talk about tolerance, broad-mindedness, living in peace and harmony, he declares, has failed. But the remedy, if a remedy is required, is not forthcoming. The picture he paints may not be a pleasant one, from a Protestant point of view, to dwell upon, but there is a possibility that this "expulsion" is neither a calamity for Quebec nor for the Protestant farmers, who, in more congenial environment, may find themselves better off elsewhere. It is worthy of note that Mr. Sellar does not mention the process of assimilation that is supposed to be going on there through intermarriage.

The book (copies of which may be had from the author) is worthy of being read from a historical point of view if nothing else. One can sympathize with Mr. Sellar (without sympathizing with the object of the book) when he declares that his publication means to him a loss of friends and loss of business. We hope he will find himself mistaken in this, and that his French-speaking neighbors, whose many virtues he eloquently pictures, will give him credit for his fearless expression of views and manliness of statement, though they may agree with neither.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

One year more to think over the basis of church union. It is a matter that should be well considered.

The average price of passenger transportation per mile by the C. P. R. in 1907 was 1.79 cents. Carry the news to Billy Maclean.

In the last six years $900,000,000 has been spent on the United States navy, more than the total naval expenditures of the preceding twenty years. The pace is a rapid one.

Judge Longley has found against the Coal Company in the celebrated Nova Scotia Steel-Coal litigation. Of course there will be an appeal and further stagnation while it is pending.

Those people who are "quite confident" that Hamilton has 5,000 more population than the assessors discovered ought to open a guessing school. It is a harmless amusement.

No, an all-round increase of so much per cent. in assessment is not likely to tend to greater equity. The increase should be large, but it should be arrived at on a fair valuation basis.

A number of the Hindus arriving at Vancouver are said to be incapable and undesirable because of trachoma and other physical defects. If that is found to be the case they will be deported under the immigration laws and regulations, without any regard to where they came from or under what conditions.

If a French treaty is concluded and goes into force it will probably require ratification by the Imperial Government; if it is a mere trade convention such ratification may be unnecessary.

This is Sept. 17, the anniversary of the evil day 29 years ago when the Canadian electorate deposed Hon. Alex. Mackenzie and put on the N. P. yoke. It is an ugly spot on the page of Canadian political history.

The socialistic organs are boasting much about the alleged success of an antipodean railway under state operation. But the fact that its freight rates are almost three times those of American roads is not made prominent in the statements.

Australia is one of the most highly taxed countries in the world. The per capita rate, commonwealth and state, is £3 6s. 2d. The worst of it is that the rate is steadily rising, and large additions in the taxes levied by the commonwealth Government are already in view.

The alderman who is aching to put on the minutes a motion of censure of the city newspapers for the offence of lese majeste against the alderman has a clean page, a ready clerk and all the resources of the English language to draw upon. Of course the newspapers would feel duly squelched.

Toronto's street railway is a veritable gold mine for the city. The receipts for August were $327,353.53, and the city's percentage was $65,470.72. In addition to this 20 per cent. of the receipts which come to the city, there is $6,750 in mileage, or a total of over $72,000 for August.

It is to be feared that the heavy frosts in Saskatchewan have done serious damage to the wheat crop. From 10 to 13 degrees was experienced, and in some places and in the newer localities it is probable that a considerable proportion of the crop is injured. The letter in this issue from a former Ancestor man tells a discouraging story.

Dr. Coughlin, superintendent of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, Belleville, is said to have occupied a prominent place on the platform at Mr. Borden's meeting at Peterboro. Let's see, were not some Liberal office-holders decapitated because it was said that they had not lost interest in politics? Didn't Whitney promise dismissal to any officials found meddling in politics? Was the rule to apply to Liberals only?

Copper prices dropped lately about 13¢ a pound, and immediately steps are taken to decrease the output. Under natural conditions the price should fall about 50 per cent. About 18,000 men are employed in the Lake Superior copper district alone, and the Michigan Smelting Company, near Houghton, last week broke all records for a single smelter by pouring 375,000 pounds of refined copper in a single charge. The restriction on output is a combine device to bleed the public.

Speaking of Mr. Borden's "platform" the Canadian Courier apprehends that it is not the platform of his party. Of his civil service plank it says "The Opposition Leader will have to do some strong arguing within his party and among his supporters. He will find it necessary to explain to the Conservative members his reasons for adopting this particular plank." He will, Civil service reform is the very last thing that Conservatives would wish to see enforced, if there were the slightest hope for them attaining power.

The people of Hamilton will be asked to vote for or against the ward system of electing aldermen. If the purely political votes prevail they will keep things as they are. They favor the triumph of the machine.—Kingston Whig.

The people of Hamilton understand that. Those of them who favor the present system cannot be blind to the fact that it favors "machine" methods and foists upon the city a class of men whose great ambition is not the good of the city, but the interests of a political clique which is anxious to turn the city's interests to political account. In fact, the organ of these people publicly boasts that the at-large system must be maintained so that the Council shall remain in the hands of the Tory machine. And some who pretend to be independent of that party are also active in their efforts to retain that system. This state of affairs should appeal to all honest men, who want the city's affairs to be the first and last consideration of the Council, to work for the return of the ward system.

A woman who has taken up her residence in Woodstock writes to the Sentinel-Review complaining of the "cold disposition" which exists in some of the churches there. She says:

For a year my husband and I have attended one of the prominent churches here, going in and out Sunday after Sunday, and during that time not one Sunday has extended a hand or even bowed, with the exception of a few whom we have met outside of the church. How often I have wished, as I rose to leave the service, that the young couple behind us would just smile and shake hands, or that the middle-aged couple ahead would turn, if only to bow.

The question arises here, why does she not turn and bow or smile. Perhaps the young couple wonder why she is so cold and distant. Of course, she being the stranger may think that the old-timers should break the ice. But why stand upon etiquette? Give the glad hand, and see how readily these "cold" people will respond. We are free, however, to confess that there is too much

"stand-offishness" in our churches, whatever the reason may be. The Christian religion is essentially one of love—"Love the brethren," "salute them with a holy kiss." But these injunctions seem to be forgotten.

Our Exchanges

Not to Blame. (Galt Reporter).

In these days of bad water, why blame Hamilton aldermen for taking to whiskey?

Quality, Not Quantity. (Toronto Telegram).

When the Ontario Opposition, 22 strong, gets together to choose a new leader it will look as numerous as a Saturday night crowd on the streets of Hamilton.

So Sarcastic, You Know. (London Advertiser).

No doubt Mr. Borden was cheered last night by five members of the school board, who are pure civic patriots, and don't believe in pail or favoritism or nepotism.

The Prophet at Large. (Henry Clews).

The world's peace in the future is more likely to be discovered on the Pacific Ocean side rather than the next few years all the great European nations will combine in friendly relations, offensive and defensive, against the balance of the world, which American possessions will be a good thing for us, as, when the Panama Canal is built, these islands will be of much more value to us than the Philippines, and thus secure our permanent peace. The Philippines will be a great source of expense to us without any possibility of obtaining corresponding advantages, therefore, we retain what will keep a sore spot open as long as we hold out.

The Cow. (Toronto Star).

It is with great reluctance that we venture upon any adverse criticism of the harmless necessary cow, or to lay upon her any share of the blame for the scarcity of milk. In the midst of a frivolous and impatient world, the cow holds up the standards of an earlier day, patient, uncomplaining, and a thoughtful disposition which is satisfied with reflection, and is in no haste to express itself. But the cow has the defects of its good qualities. It is a quietest. Who necessity arises for prompt and energetic action the cow is not equal to the occasion. When there is a drought when water is scarce and grass poor, the cow raises no clamorous complaint, but it diminishes the supply of milk. It lacks enterprise and initiative. It must have some thoughts about artificial irrigation or moisture-producing foods: the age-long experience and reflection of the bovine race must have some some fruit; yet the cow does not speak. It has nothing to say. It writes no letters to the newspapers; it forms no deputations to wait upon Mr. Fisher at Ottawa, or Mr. Monteith at Toronto. In its silent protest against the garrulity and impatience of the human race the few words of wisdom that would set it right.

LOCAL CASES.

Another Appeal in Hamilton vs. H. G. & B. Dismissed.

Hamilton vs. Hamilton, Grimshy & Beauville Electric Railway Co.—J. G. Gaull, for defendants, appealed from order of Falconbridge, C. J. 19 O. W. R. 197, dismissing defendants' appeal from certificate of senior taxing officer as to allowance of a counsel fee of $125 as fee with brief at trial. Defendants contended that there was no trial, but only an assessment of damages, and that not more than $10 could be allowed under item 152 of the tariff. No one contra. Held, that there having been no interlocutory judgment, but merely a noting of the pleadings as closed, the proceedings were not to be regarded as an assessment of damages. Held, also per Meredith, C. J., that the note to item 152 of the tariff applies to item 152 as well, and thus counsel fee of $10 on assessment of damages is liable to be increased. Appeal dismissed without costs.

FORESTER'S WEEK.

I. O. F. Will Have Bennett Theatre in November.

A sub-committee of the Hamilton District Committee, Independent Order of Foresters, met last evening in the I. O. F. office, 37 James street south, and decided to close an arrangement with Manager Driscoll of the Bennett Theatre, for a big week at that popular place of amusement, commencing Nov. 4. Tickets will shortly be placed in the stores of several up-town Foresters, and other convenient locations, and the object of the committee will be to have the members of the order purchase their tickets at the places to be hereafter advertised. Mr. Driscoll promises one of the best weeks of the season for this engagement, with the Independent Foresters of Hamilton and district.

The price of milk was raised in Ottawa yesterday to seven cents per quart. It is thought probable that another advance of one cent may take place in November or December, owing to the scarcity of fodder for the dairy herds.

THE T. H. PRATT CO. LIMITED

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE.

September Meeting of Blackheath Branch at Mrs. Beattie's.

The September meeting of the Blackheath branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. Beattie, on Wednesday, the 11th. About thirty ladies were present.

The next number was a paper by Mrs. E. F. Appleton, on "Household Economics," in which she pointed out the great difference between stinginess and real economy, also recommending the purchase and use of the labor-saving appliances now on the market, as a wise economy in both time and strength.

The Misses Beattie sang a beautiful duet in which their voices blended very sweetly.

Mrs. John Degrow read an excellent paper on "The Influence of our surroundings on our lives, spiritual, mental and physical." Mrs. Degrow gave many helpful suggestions as to how to make our surroundings and influence for good only, and advised that especial note be made in choosing literature for the home.

Miss E. Hanson in another paper on the same subject, dwelt on the influence that makes and maintains of our surroundings is likely to have on the individual, the family and community.

Mrs. Hannah again played some of her favorite selections which brought to a close a very interesting programme, the company then singing "God be With You."

All the books of the small library being on hand, a general exchange was effected. Miss Blain acting as librarian.

Mrs. Beattie, assisted by the Misses Peattie, served a delicious luncheon, which was disposed of to an accompaniment of merry talk.

After individually thanking the hostess for so hospitably opening her beautiful home for the occasion, the company departed, well satisfied with the work accomplished during the afternoon.

Miss McAdam extends a very cordial invitation to all to be present at the October meeting, which will be held in her home on the 9th at 2.30 sharp.

FOUND A WILD WOMAN.

The Strange Experience of Harvard Professor.

Ottawa, Sept. 16.—Prof. Macaulay, of Harvard, who has come here after having spent a few weeks in the country surrounding Blue Sea Lake and Manitowish, up the Gatineau River, not many miles from Ottawa, on the Quebec side, brings a strange story of a woman roaming wild in the forests of that district.

Prof. Macaulay says that while hunting in the woods a rush and scurry in the undergrowth caused him to quickly turn, and to his surprise the face of a woman, tanned to a dark brown by exposure and framed by masses of dark, coarse hair, peered at him from the shadows. The hunter quietly approached her, but before he could speak she turned and fled.

BEATEN BY A BURGLAR.

St. Catharines, Sept. 16.—Early on Sunday morning Mrs. Kirkpatrick, widow, residing on Court street, was awakened by some one in her room. Striking a match, she saw it was a negro, but before she could do anything the man blew out the light and struck her several force blows in the face with the butt of a revolver, and escaped through the window. The neighborhood was aroused, and search was made, but the intruder could not be found. Examination of the house revealed the fact that nothing had been stolen, though robbery is supposed to have been the motive for the crime.

His reverence—Hallo, Pat, riding on horseback and carrying a heavy pack on your back. How's that? Pat—Avee you see, sor, the poor laste is tired, and I didn't want to overburden him.

WHO GET THE MONEY

The designation of certain legatees named in the will of the late Elizabeth Brown, of this city, who died in 1905, has given her executors considerable trouble. She left $2,000 to the deserving poor of the parish of Fordjoe, Banffshire, to be distributed by the Presbyterian minister of the parish. Fordjoe, however, happened to have two churches of the Established Kirk, besides three of the United Free Church, one of the latter styling itself also the parish church. All laid claim to the legacy for the benefit of the poor among their flocks. Finally it was decided that an appointment of the five ministers as a board to distribute the fund would be the proper solution. This was submitted to Mr. Justice (Guthrie) yesterday and his Lordship approved the arrangement.

Another legacy of $2,000 was left to the "Home of the Friendless" Hamilton, and was taken to mean "Home of the Friendless and Infants." A third legacy of $2,000 was left to the third largest "Home" in Hamilton, and this was interpreted as the "Hamilton Orphan's Asylum, Aged Women's Home and Ladies' Benevolent Society." A legacy of $200 given to the Locke Presbyterian Church and St. James' Presbyterian Church was designated as the congregation intended to benefit. His Lordship agreed to these various interpretations.

During the hot season, when flies are bad, stock will naturally do much of their grazing at night, and should have the run of a night pasture. This, to make it handy for early milking, should be situated close to the barn or yard. The night pasture should be free from weeds than any other, as the animal cannot see to avoid taking in weeds. High ground, free from mosquito pools or ponds, is preferred for night pasture.

A good tonic of salt water for the hair should contain a teaspoonful of salt to a tumbler of water, and should be applied to the hair two or three times a week.

What I took to be a calf, or some light yellow animal.

"My second look took in the object and I saw a mountain lion making ready to spring on the doe when the chance offered. He had seen the bucks and knew his finish should be the attack."

"Well, of course it was one of those breathless moments to a huntsman. I wanted a buck and I wanted that lion, and I had to think quickly."

"In the meantime the doe had almost laid herself down in the water and the fawn was approaching the spring. I was favored by the wind, being to windward, and they did not scent me."

"One of the bucks turned and looked at me and I let him have it. Then I turned as quickly as possible to the lion, but my horse was then restless and I seem to have shot wild. The buck fell (only 35 or 40 yards off) and it's a fact that if I had been off my horse probably I could have got another deer."

"However, they sailed out of that place and in a few moments on the hillside I heard them firing. It seems one of the bucks came straight on for Billy and the man, and as Billy expressed it, he 'really thought it was time.' He got him, and then we all went for the lion as fast as we could track him."

"The two other men were standing ten or twelve feet apart on the other side of the oaks where I had sent them, and it seems the lion had made a detour, and had come between them going like blazes. They were either too frightened or too inexperienced to shoot quick enough (they were only men I had taken to do the heavy work), but my guide (not one by profession) was the best man on the trail I ever saw, and between his horse and himself he finally located that cat, and it's needless to say that I shall one day show you his pond."

"Billy is too proud for words. He has gone this morning for the day only with my man for anything he can find. Yesterday afternoon coming in he shot quail after quail on the wing and many rabbits. The quail are by the hundreds of thousands and come in flocks and jacks, I have arranged a coyote hunt on horseback for to-morrow."

FRENCH HEROISM.

DESPERATE ARAB ATTACK REPULSED BY FRENCH.
Overwhelming Odds—Gunsners' Magnificent Display—Many Moorish Dead—"Goums" Put to Flight.

(Sheffield Independent.)
Casa Blanca—Yesterday afternoon, just after the mail closed, the booming of the Gloire's guns was heard around the town. All thought it was the usual firing on the enemy many miles distant, but the volume of the fire was soon field guns, and it became obvious that something of interest was taking place. I hurried out of camp, accompanied by the newly-arrived Colonel Lewis, the correspondent of the Times, and we were immediately joined by M. Bourdon, of the Figaro, and M. Nordeau, of the Journal.

We found that the French force, consisting of two companies of the Foreign Legion, 50 Spahis, and also "Goums" (Algerian Arabs), with two field guns, had gone out to make the usual reconnaissance at 2 p. m.

Opening of the Engagement.
The increasing roar of fire showed that they were seriously engaged, but they were hidden from view by the hills. On the horizon the "Goums" could be seen riding hither and thither, and firing their carbines from the saddle at the Moors on either flank, who had apparently got behind the French infantry and guns.

A signal reported that the enemy were 1,200 strong. The roar of the Gloire's guns on the left flank and on the right showed that the engagement was general, but the chief interest was centred on the immediate front, where an advance party, hidden from view, could be heard firing magazine volleys.

We hurried across the open ground to join in the "Goums" on the crest of the hills, hoping from there to reach the infantry. We passed one man badly wounded in the stomach, who was being held on his horse by six companions, loudly shrieking, and lamenting their friend's ill fate.

We were glad to reach the "Goums," whom the Moors were pressing on both flanks, but our joy was short-lived, for the former fired recklessly in all directions, at anything living within six miles. Totally ignoring the despairing orders of the French officers, they rode in all directions in hopeless confusion, riding over anyone unfortunate enough to be on foot, as were the representatives of the press, who had been unable to find horses in Casa Blanca.

The Moors were quite close on either flank, when the "Goums" all rode off in different directions, leaving us in the middle of a ploughed field in unpleasant proximity of the enemy. We saw one man leading a spare horse captured from the enemy, but he refused to part with it, valuing his prize far more than our safety.

France's Cowardly Allies.
At last we luckily saw, 300 yards in front, two companies of the Foreign Legion, formed in a shallow square around two field guns. We hurried on to join these steady infantry. They were firing hard on the Moors, who were attacking them on three sides at the same time. When we reached the square the Moorish fire was very heavy, and the French gunners were working their guns with great speed under a heavy fire.

The teams and caissons were lugged together and the drivers crouched down for shelter. The horses provided an excellent mark for the enemy, who took full advantage of it; but luck was with the French, for few men were hit.

The guns were fired with amazing speed, casting a hail of shrapnel over any group of Moors and scattering them for the moment, only for them to come together again at some different point.

This necessitated a frequent changing of the position of the guns. One gun, placed to rear its team, almost in the rear of the horses, caused them much alarm, but they were splendidly kept under control by their drivers.

Meanwhile the "Goums" had retired to the top of the ridge, a quarter of a mile away, leaving the two guns and companies to face the enemy alone.

The Foreign Legion, formed into a hollow square, with their commander, Major Provot, in the centre, stood like a granite wall under trying circumstances. Their calmness and obedience to orders, and the careful fire, were truly admirable. They were attacked on three sides, under a heavy cross-fire, from an illusive enemy, who continually changed his position. Nothing, however, disturbed their serenity for a moment.

Hot Work Around the Guns.
After moving along for some time as well as it could, the square made a halt, the men lying down and returning the enemy's fire, while the guns were limbered up and dragged up to the ridge on which the "Goums" had taken up a position. Thanks to the extended formation and to the fact that the men were lying down, and also to the bad quality of the Moorish rifles, the French casualties were not nearly so heavy as might have been expected. The officers in the square, who declined to dismount, came to the westward.

As soon as the artillery was safe on the ridge Major Provot brought the square a hundred yards back to slightly more favorable ground. This movement was favorably carried out. Here it again halted, facing its enemies, who were doubtless looking for an opportunity to charge home; but the heavy shrapnel fire from the field guns and the great naval shells and the steady infantry kept them at a respectful distance.

The courage displayed by the Moors was magnificent, and sometimes little groups would be fired until they were broken up by the shrapnel. Every one was surprised at the accuracy of their fire, which was far better than hitherto witnessed, apparently showing that a different lot of tribes were engaged.

Too much praise cannot be given to the Foreign Legion, for the manner in which these men moved and obeyed orders under fire was an object lesson. A bullet passed close to the head of one soldier, who took off his hat with a sweeping bow, saying, "Bon jour, mademoiselle." In fact, this is the usual greeting of the Foreign Legion to leaden messages.

Arab Attackers Repulsed.
A young doctor on his first campaign bound up the wounded as coolly as if he were in hospital. A Spahi orderly came up to Major Provot, who was handling his men superbly, and pathetically asked if he might retire from the square for a few minutes, as he had no more ammunition. "How many rounds have you fired?" asked Major Provot. "Only seventy-five," was the answer. "That is quite enough for one day," was the reply.

The Spahi sighed at his ill fate, and remained an interested spectator for the remainder of the afternoon. The fire control of the Legion was excellent, and strict orders were issued for no man to use his magazine, but to reserve that in case the Arabs, taking courage from the smallness of the force, should charge home. Major Provot wisely made no effort to retire from the position, as the moral effect of a retrograde movement would have been bad. However, the determined front presented by the square soon showed the Moors that any effort to charge home would be futile. Thus for some time the attack continued in a desultory manner.

At five o'clock there was a general retirement of the enemy on all sides under the shrapnel fire. Now came the opportunity of the "Goums" who pursued the Moors, routing the lurking marksmen out from the broken ground, where they were searching for one of their number who had been killed. The French remained on the ground until the enemy had vanished, then the square broke up into sections and retired in successive lines on to the camp.

The total French loss in this smart little fight was three killed and nine wounded, and 15 horses wounded, which, considering the severity of the fire, was remarkably light.

It is impossible to estimate the Arab casualties, but they were probably not severe, on account of the wide front and consequent wide diffusion of the fire of the small French force.

It is difficult to say if the French reconnaissance anticipated a general attack on the camp, or if the Moors, taking advantage of the usual hour of the French advance, had deliberately fallen on the small party.

The number of Moors engaged is placed at between 1,500 and 2,000, but without doubt a far large number carried rifles than hitherto.

Great sorrow reigns to-day in the camp of the "Goums" for they lost two killed and several horses and men wounded. They found the body of a man, whose horse fell, entangling him. He was unable to rise, and was overtaken by the Moors, who cut off his head.

The enemy have again been sighted in large numbers, but so far there has been no attack.

The Peril at Tangier.
A Paris message says: The Echo de Paris announces that the object of the interview which Sir E. Bessie, the British Ambassador, had of M. Clemenceau, yesterday, was to call attention to the situation of the British colony at Tangier, which has demanded adequate protection.

M. Clemenceau, the journal adds, told the ambassador that the dangers threatening the Europeans at Tangier had not escaped the attention of the Government, and that the cruiser Desaix would leave Toulon for Tangier in the course of the night. This vessel will take up a position near the Jeanne d'Arc, which is already at Tangier.

This statement was commented later in the day by a message from Toulon to the effect that the Desaix and the destroyer Dard had left for Tangier. The Desaix carried live oxen and provision. The departure of the store ship Mytho, which is now loading, is imminent.

The Parisian says: It is considered that considerable time will be devoted to Moroccan affairs at Saturday's Cabinet Council. The Ministers will discuss the measures which are to be taken, in agreement with Spain, at Casa Blanca after September 15, the date when the port usually becomes particularly difficult of access for large vessels, and they will also consider the steps to be adopted regarding the organization of the police in the four ports which have been allotted to France for the purpose.

French Reinforcements.
A message from Oran, Algeria, says: A battalion of the Second Foreign Legion, stationed at Maska, and another battalion of the same corps from Saïda, each 800 men strong, will arrive here on Friday by special trains, and will embark on the transport Nive, which will probably leave in the evening. A train composed of 15 trucks of artillery and rifle ammunition has arrived from Algiers.

SIGN FELL FOUR STOREYS.
Crashed Into Baby Carriage, But Little Occupant Escaped.
Guelph, Sept. 16.—While workmen were putting a cement cornice on the King Edward Hotel here they loosened a large wooden sign. It crashed down, tearing its way through electric wires, and struck a baby carriage in the street, for four storeys below.

The child was not killed is a miracle. It was slightly injured, and the spring of the carriage was bent. The sign was twenty feet by four and was of great weight.

Drowned at Walkerville.
Walkerville, Sept. 16.—Darise Menard of Cedars, Quebec, watchman on the City of Ottawa, fell from the scrubbing stage of the boat while at the dock here to-day and was drowned. The body has not been recovered.

Big Game.

The Daily Fashion Hint.

Suit of Striped Cloth.

Grey and black striped suiting trimmed with military braid was used to make this suit. The skirt is plain with rows of the braid. The straps over the shoulders continue to the waist line in the back, where they turn and cross the back like a belt, with buttons in the corners. The small triangular spaces on the collar and cuffs, formed by the braid, are filled with red velvet.

OFFERS HER LIFE.

CHICAGO WOMAN WOULD DIE TO TEST INVENTION.
Has Faith That Prof. Poe's New Artificial Respirator Would Bring Her Back to Life—Inventor Declines the Offer.

Washington, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Harriet A. Martyn, of Chicago, has offered to give her life in the cause of science in the hope that the same science will bring her back to life again. Professor George Poe, of South Norfolk, Va., who has invented an artificial respirator, which he claims will resuscitate persons who have died of asphyxiation, received this letter from Mrs. Martyn to-day:

"I have heard that your wonderful invention has brought back life to dumb creatures drowned or killed by gas or electricity. I am very much interested, and will be glad to offer myself as a human experiment. I am a very healthful woman of twenty-eight years, and I trust that you will consider this offer as seriously as it is made."

The letter was addressed from the Saratoga Hotel, Chicago. Professor Poe declared to-night that he could not accept Mrs. Martyn's offer. "It would mean that we must first kill her deliberately. No serious scientist could consider such a thing. I am waiting anxiously, however, to test the machine upon someone accidentally killed. So many animals known to have been dead twenty minutes have been resuscitated that I have no doubt it would bring back human life."

The machine, it is claimed, restores life by pumping air into the lungs until respiration and the heart start again, at the same time pumping back the poisonous gases that have been the cause of death.

MANHOOD—WOMANHOOD.

THE TURNING POINT OF HEALTH.
Growth, hard study and the tax of social life, entered upon with the zest of youth, is a severe tax on strength. If strength is not guarded, it may lay a train of evils that retard success, and the result is poor health.

Your son and daughter need something to tide them over the first great tax on vitality. Give them a good chance and insure them a period of perfect health.

Of what use is education if you have not health to carry out much-cherished plans in the future? Ferrozone will bestow the priceless blessing—health—on every weak, nervous boy and girl.

Two reasons why young people bleed: Ferrozone: First, it is easily taken, pleasant to the eye and palate. Secondly, it acts so promptly and with such certainty that the failing powers of the body are restored; the blood is renewed and color restored.

How delightful it is to feel strength and hopefulness coming back, after having been on the verge of physical collapse. Take Ferrozone, give it to your friends and watch the happy results. Ferrozone takes away that tired feeling and gives you a feeling of repose and strength.

KILLED CHILDREN.

TERRIBLE DEED OF AN INSANE WOMAN AT MIDALE, SASK.
Took Her Three Boys to the Potato Patch and Knocked Them on the Head With a Hammer—Cut Bodies Up With Drawknife.

Midale, Sask., Sept. 16.—On Saturday afternoon Mrs. John Anderson, wife of a farmer residing about a mile from Midale, on the Soo line, took her three children, all boys, to the potato patch and there knocked them on the head with a hammer, after which she cut them up in a horrible manner with a draw knife.

She had not shown any signs of insanity before, but had been ill, and it is supposed the murder was due to religious mania. She is probably thirty-five years old. The police of Weyburn were notified of what had taken place, and Constable Ing arrested the woman, who is insane. The woman shows no remorse for what she has done and expects to be hanged. She believes it was some kind of a blood-sacrifice.

Later reports give fuller particulars of the horrible tragedy. The three children murdered were a baby, eighteen months old, and two boys, six and nine years old, respectively. She also made a desperate attempt to kill her eleven-year-old daughter. She put a rope around the girl's neck, but the child struggled bravely, and was assisted by a dog, who attacked the maddened mother.

NO MONEY IN PREACHING.

Pittsburg Clergymen Abandoning Calling for Life Insurance.
Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 16.—Declaring there is more money in insuring lives than in saving souls, ministers of Pittsburg are forsaking the pulpit to engage in the life insurance business. Within the last two years a score of Pittsburg clergymen have given up their charges for the life insurance business, and all are making more money, they say, than had they remained with their churches.

The latest Pittsburg preacher to lay aside the cloth for the life insurance business is the Rev. J. C. Carpenter, pastor of the Mount Washington Methodist Episcopal Church. He told his congregation to-day he had resigned, and that his resignation had been accepted. "I do not quit from choice, but from necessity," said Mr. Carpenter. "It is not altogether a matter of money consideration, but in consideration of the high cost of living. If ever the opportunity offers I will re-enter the ministry, but at present there is not a living in it. The shortage of ministers to-day is occasioned solely by the insufficient pay."

Annual Western Excursions.

On Sept. 19, 20, 21, the Grand Trunk will issue round trip tickets at special low rates from Hamilton to the following points: Port Huron $4.20, Detroit $5.70; Bay City $5.00; Grand Rapids $8.45; Saginaw $6.50; Chicago $11.50; Cleveland (via Buffalo and C. & B.), $5.15; Cleveland (via Detroit and D. & C.), $8.20; St. Paul and Minneapolis $28.40 and $31.90, according to route taken; returning on or before Monday, Oct. 7. AFFINITY MURDER COSTS A LIFE.

Her "Twin Soul" Bachelor Companion Slays Her.

Runs On, Throat Agape—Ghastly Sacrifice to Illicit Admiration in a Reading Street at Night.

Reading, Pa., Sept. 17.—The reigning "affinity" had cost a woman's life here last night under most shocking and tragic circumstances, and bids fair to cost the life of her illicit admirer when the law gets around to his murder case. In a most fiendish way, because, as he said, he feared she would desert him and return to her lawful husband, Frank Palmer, a bachelor of 36, cut the throat of attractive Mrs. Gertrude A. Clinton, from whom she had separated. The woman ran half a square with blood flowing from her wounds, until she fell exhausted and died two hours later.

The confessed murderer and "affinity" champion went to the City Hall and surrendered, seeming to court sympathy for so tragic a loss of a love to which he never was entitled. The tragedy followed a meeting between Mrs. Clinton and Palmer on the outskirts of the town. Mrs. Clinton, deserting her own husband some time ago, had lived with Palmer; but she recently left him because she desired to lead a different life.

Mrs. Clinton was intensely jealous of the woman, and expressed the fear that she would return to her husband. He followed Mrs. Clinton about the streets, pleading with her and threatening to kill her if she did not resume their former relations. Mrs. Clinton refused him until yesterday, when she agreed to meet him last night. Her final refusal to return to him brought about the tragedy.

Palmer, who was partly under the influence of liquor when arrested, blamed his wife's troubles upon his "extreme love." He says he is a disciple of Elbert Hubbard.

"Mrs. Clinton was my 'white hyacinth' until she wanted to throw me out of paradise. She is my twin soul and affinity, and I could not consent to a divorce. It is far better that we both than that both should suffer by a separation," said Palmer.

In the murderer's pocket was a copy of "The Message to Garcia." He declares he is not afraid to die for his crime and has no regrets. Palmer surrendered a blood-coated razor, with which he had done the cutting. His right hand was covered with the blood of his victim. He at first told his story in a rambling way, as follows:

"She tried three times before to fix me and I got ahead to die for it if I must. Her husband, Jim Clinton, is living, but she has not been with him for some years. I have been going with her for three years, and during this time she tried to do me three times, but I always stopped her. Yesterday I met her at Fifth and Penn streets, when she handed me a note in which she asked that I meet her at night on Water street, near the hotel. I got to the place, which is very dark, on time and ran full against the muzzle of a revolver she was holding. I grabbed her arm, took the revolver and threw it away into the river. It was either her or me, and I got out my razor and let her have it. This makes the fourth pistol I took from her."

The other story about the "affinity" and the defendant's willingness to die for his crime, was an afterthought following the information that before she died Mrs. Clinton had indicated just how the tragedy was enacted. She managed to gasp to the hospital physicians that she had been murdered and without provocation gashed by Palmer, who she admitted, was her lover. Palmer was intensely jealous of her, she said. He asked her to meet him on Water street, and she kept the apartment. Palmer she said, asked permission to go home with her and, while walking along the dark street he suddenly stroked at her and, with three or four strokes of a razor cut her in the throat.

The surgeon began at once to operate and were making rapid progress in closing the terrible wounds, when she collapsed from sheer exhaustion, and passed away.

BRITISH RAILWAY LABOR CRISIS.

The Final Rupture Has Been Postponed Until October.

London, Sept. 16.—The final rupture in the British railway labor crisis has now been postponed until October. The employees of all the roads in the country who belong to the Railwaymen's Union, will in the interval sign ballot papers, which will be issued this week, to decide whether they are prepared for a national strike in the event of the companies refusing to accept the programme of the Executive Committee, the chief claim of which is for recognition of the union. It also demands an eight-hour day for men engaged in the movement of vehicles and a ten-hour day for others, and a minimum of the rate and a quarter for all time over the standard hours.

The companies have refused to discuss the union's proposal on the ground that it represents only a quarter of the men employed, and also that it would be destructive of responsible railway control to allow the union to intervene.

Shaving Brushes.

KING OF SIAM'S TREAT.

Free Beer From Buffets and Champagne for Foreign Guests.
Berlin, Sept. 16.—The King of Siam intends to give a grand treat to the whole of Homburg on the occasion of his birthday, on Sept. 21. Beer will flow from three buffets in the Casino Garden. Each foreign guest in the Casino will receive a bottle of champagne and a bottle each of red and white wine. A magnificent supper will be laid for 600 persons. His Majesty will give $8,000 to the poor of the town.

IN THE WORLD OF AMUSEMENT

The new bill presented at Bennett's Theatre yesterday was an exceedingly strong one, and delighted the audience at both performances. Perhaps the most artistic number on the excellent programme was that presented by Rosa Coghlan and W. H. Sama. The former dramatic star had an interesting vehicle to display her great emotional talents, being a delicate playlet entitled "The Higher Law" or the "Ace of Trumps". She had good support from Mr. Sama, and the act was beautifully staged. The playlet is clever, both in plot and dialogue, and there are several interesting dramatic scenes in it.

The most sensational act in this week's bill; in fact, one of the most sensational ever seen on a local stage, was given by Mlle. Carlotta, a pretty French lady, who after doing an interesting turn on a bicycle, looped the loop on a wheel. The loop is a steel structure, weighing 5,000 pounds, and the danger of the act is greatly enhanced by the fact that there was a runaway of only a few feet for the wheel after it left the loop. The wheel is stopped by means of sand bags, attached to a rope stretched across the exit from the loop. Mlle. Carlotta was loudly applauded for her daring act.

The Chadwick trio got a generous "hand" for their farce, "The Sale of Wiggins Farm." The farce is the limit of absurdity, and it was helped very materially by the buck dancing of Miss Chadwick. The lady made a hit with the gods.

The inimitable Patsy Doyle was as funny as ever. He kept the audience in roars of laughter, his appearance and manner being exceedingly amusing. Doyle told his stories well, but then he ought to—he has told them so often.

The American Comedy Four presented a very droll act; their "travesty" on "Waiting at the Church" being clever. One of the members impersonated President Roosevelt and the encounter with the "bears" was funny.

The rest of the bill was made up as follows: Foster and his two smart does, Mike I. and Mike II.; Bernier and Stella, songsters; The DeVoie trio, and the Benett-trio.

Notwithstanding the heat, there was a good sized audience present at the evening performance.

as well as it should have been; yet, despite the warmth of the weather and audience attentions, and derived a large amount of pleasure from the new musical play. The piece is, naturally, more interesting to the residents of the republic; but the pranks of Dan Cupid know no international barrier, and his proceedings at Vassar are as much appreciated in Hamilton as in any other city north or south of Mason's line. There was nothing specially original in the story, but the locale was sufficiently varied to make it somewhat out of the ordinary; and added to this were the scenes of girl college life, making, altogether, an interesting production.

"Cupid at Vassar" introduced a bright and clever comedienne, Florence Gear, in the part of Kate Newton. Miss Gear has vivacity and a refreshing naturalness of manner, coupled with a fine voice and a good deal of skill as a vocalist, and she soon established herself a favorite with the audience, who recalled her time and time again, after her catchy songs. Miss Gear has ability enough to secure her a still better part than Kate Newton.

The company was competent, the small chorus did its work well, and the stage sets and accessories were in line with the admirable performance.

Big Show To-night.

Few attractions have caused so much pleasant anticipation as "The Top o' th' World," the newest and most up-to-date extravaganza which will be presented in this city at the Grand to-night. The book by Mark E. Swan presents a novel and interesting story; the lyrics by James O'Dea are sparkling and jingly, and the music by Manuel Klein and Anna Caldwell is not only musically but whistlable. The company of over seventy people is one of the best singing organizations ever gathered together. Notably in the cast are a prime favorite with the public in Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz"; Kathleen Clifford, a pretty little English girl who is winning all hearts by her clever singing and dancing; John D. Gilbert, who has been a favorite comedian for years; Harry Fairlight, the English spot; Will F. Phillips, a clever singing comedian, and Arthur Hill, who so pleased the children as the Cowardly Lion in "The Wizard of Oz." The piece is full of pleasing song hits and laughable comedy.

Isabel Irving To-morrow.

Two precocious child-players are one of the best character studies in the new Clyde Fitch play, "The Girl Who Has Everything," which will be presented by Miss Isabel Irving at the Grand on Wednesday night. The children permit Mr. Fitch to put the stamp of novelty on the play right as the curtain rises. They get into a quarrel, and smash vases and each other in the sight of the audience. Then the young aunt coaxes them to make up. The boy has an injury again in the third act, when in pajamas he runs in to protect Sylvia from her own father. In the last act there is a realistic scene between the aunt and the boy Tommy, in which she punishes the boy for lying by making him strike her with a ruler until his young senses are muddled awakens, and he falls crying at her feet.

PRETTI HARD LINES.
FORMER ANCASTER MAN ON NORTHWEST CROPS.
How a Hailstorm Threshed Into Ruin 144 Acres in 15 Minutes—Frost and Cold Weather Spoil Many a Farmer's Year's Labor.

To the Editor of the Times:
Sir,—I have read crop reports in yours and other Hamilton papers, and I am sorry to say that they are a long way from being correct, as far as this part of the Province is concerned. To begin with, we had a very late cold spring, and a little too dry to make the grain stand out. The last half of June was very warm, and the grain made rapid growth. I heard one man say the wheat was killing itself growing, and doing fairly well on breaking and summer fallow; on fall and spring plowing about one-half crop. On July 24th we experienced our first hailstorm. In Cannington Manor the stones were nearly as large as hen's eggs. It destroyed about one-fourth of my crop. I considered myself lucky getting off with so little damage, and, of course, hoped it would be the last. But, alas! on August 6th we had another one, that made a complete job. Hailstones can beat threshing records all to pieces. It threshed 144 acres for me in about fifteen minutes. After the storm the hail was about three inches deep in the garden, and you would not know there were any onions there only by the smell of them. The hailstorm was about three miles wide here, and travelled in a southeasterly direction and seemed to get wider as it travelled, for at Redvers, 20 miles from here, it cleared up a strip of country six miles wide. I have got a year's feed to buy, and seed to sow 130 acres next year. This is Sept. 11th, and there is not one per cent of the grain cut yet, and the weather is very unfavorable for ripening the grain. We are having too much cold, wet weather. The farmers around here who have had their crops destroyed are busy plowing. I have 90 acres ready for wheat and expect to get as much more done before it freezes up. I must close for this time, wishing you and your valuable paper every success; from yours truly,

Ed. Dennis,
Cannington Manor, Sask. (From an old Ancestor boy.)

EGYPT'S COTTON.
Cairo, Sept. 17.—The cotton crop of Egypt which exceeds seven millions captars, (a captar is a little over 90 pounds) shows a large increase over all records of the past decade. It is estimated to be worth $150,000,000.

Discovery of Steam Power.
A little boy one day in the village of Greenock, in Scotland, sat with his head between his hands watching a kettle boiling on the fire, while his mother was kneading the dough for griddle cakes. The lid of the kettle began to move up and down under the pressure of the steam beneath. At each rise and fall of the lid the boy would say to himself, "Jamie, mon, there's power there." Suddenly his mother turned around, and giving him a stinging box on the ear, exclaimed, "And, Jamie, mon, there's power there! To think of sic an idle ne'er-do-weel sitting by the fire while his puir, auld mither is a'most dead frae work." Little did the honest woid man dream that the "idle ne'er-do-weel," afterwards the illustrious James Watt, was at that moment perfecting his ideal and inventing the steam engine.

Another Scotch laddie, Thomas Carlyle, was born in the obscure village of Ecclefechan, in Roxburgh, where only himself and the minister could read the Bible; but he had an ideal—he saw a chair waiting for him in the temple of fame, and day and night and night and day he bent all his energies to secure that seat, and never stopped until he occupied it as the greatest master of English literature.

These sturdy Scotch youngsters had ambition, they had ideals, but, just like you, they did not know of what they were capable until they tried.

So Very Simple.
A woman riding in a Philadelphia trolley car said to the conductor: "Can you tell me, please, on what cars I can use these exchanges? I am from another town, you see, and these mix me up somehow." "They really shouldn't, ma'am," replied the polite conductor. "It's very simple. East of the junction by a west-bound car an exchange from an east-bound car is good only if the west-bound car is west of the junction formed by the east-bound car. South of the junction formed by a north-bound car an exchange from the south-bound car is good south of the junction at the time of issue, but only south of the junction going south if the south-bound car was going north at the time it was south of the junction. That is all there is to it."

denly his mother turned around, and giving him a stinging box on the ear, exclaimed, "And, Jamie, mon, there's power there! To think of sic an idle ne'er-do-weel sitting by the fire while his puir, auld mither is a'most dead frae work." Little did the honest woid man dream that the "idle ne'er-do-weel," afterwards the illustrious James Watt, was at that moment perfecting his ideal and inventing the steam engine.

JUDGMENT FOR STEEL COMPANY

Judge Longley Decides Great Suit Against Coal Company. Must Carry Out Contract and Pay Damages.

Halifax, Sept. 16.—Judge Longley's long-expected decision in the celebrated Steel-Coal case was made public this evening, having been transmitted to the prothonotary at Sydney. The decision is in all points a complete victory for the Steel Company, upholding the contention of that company, and finding that the Coal Company committed a breach of contract in not supplying coal in sufficient quantities to meet the requirements of the contract.

Judge Longley decides that the action of the Steel Company in refusing to take in large quantities of unsuitable coal furnished by the Coal Company between Nov. 1 and Nov. 9 was justifiable and did not constitute a breach. He holds that the contract is still in force, and orders specific performance of its terms. He recommends the appointment of a referee to determine the damages sustained by the Steel Company by reason of the failure of the Coal Company to supply sufficient coal to operate the plant during August, September and October, and the additional cost thereof; also the cost of the coal above and damages suffered by the temporary suspension of the plant. He orders the issue of a decree compelling specific performance, which he declares can be enforced in the event of the Coal Company's attempt to evade performance by the appointment of a receiver. This, in short, is the substance of the decision which marks the climax of the first stage of the legal battle which opened in Sydney in July. The trial of this celebrated case lasted sixteen days. Ninety witnesses, including many of eminent counsel were engaged there. In and the cost of the trial, one of the most expensive in the history of Canadian courts, was not less than one hundred thousand dollars.

Efforts at Settlement. Judge Longley's decision was ready several weeks ago, but the filing was withheld pending efforts made to bring about a settlement. The latest proposition submitted to the Presidents of the respective companies by the Governor-General was that the whole matter be referred to arbitration and adjustment to some capable and impartial tribunal. Following up this suggestion, His Excellency mentioned the names of Mr. E. S. Clouston, General Manager of the Bank of Montreal, and Mr. Byron E. Walker, President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, as persons whom the matter might be referred to arbitration. It is further understood that this view has not found favor with either of the parties involved, and it is altogether unlikely that any action will be taken.

Judge Longley's Decision in Brief. The Dominion Coal Company committed a breach of contract in furnishing to the Dominion Iron and Steel Company coal that was unfit for the purposes for which it was required. The Steel Company was justified in refusing to accept such coal, and the refusal did not constitute a breach of the contract.

A referee should be appointed to ascertain: (a) How much coal it was necessary for the Steel Company to purchase in August, September and October, 1906, and the cost of such coal delivered at their works; (b) The amount of damage suffered by the Steel Company through their non-delivery of coal, apart from the additional cost; (c) The cost of coal obtained by the Steel Company since Nov. 1, 1906; (d) The amount of actual loss and damage sustained by the suspension of the steel works in November for want of coal.

The contract of October, 1903, is still in operation, and the court has power to appoint a receiver to compel the Coal Company to perform the terms of the agreement. An order therefore issues requiring the Coal Company to pay such damages as may be determined by the referee, and to specifically carry out the terms of the contract.

GREAT SHIPMENTS OF CATTLE. Finest Jerseys and Guernseys Being Brought to America.

London, Sept. 16.—Beginning last week, and continuing for a month, large shipments will be made of the finest Jersey and Guernsey pedigreed cattle to the United States. During the summer all the important cattle fanciers of America had agents buying up the best specimens of these island cattle. Over one hundred and fifty head were secured. The competition was so keen that prices rose immediately, calves bringing £50 and cows over $100.

HUMAN BONES FOUND. They Are Thought to be Remains of Victims of Murder.

Montreal, Sept. 16.—A number of human bones and a skeleton were found in a quarry in the north end yesterday. The place was being drained by order of the police in order to ascertain the truth of a statement made by a convict serving a term in penitentiary that the murdered bodies of Ellen Quinn and a Chinese were disposed of by the murderers in that place. Yesterday's find is a corroboration of that man's story.

Addresses of Welcome and Other Preliminaries—President Verville Reads Executive Report—The Japanese Question.

NO BASIS FOR CHURCH UNION.

ANOTHER CONVENTION WILL BE HELD NEXT YEAR.

Expert Reports Needed—Actuarial and Legal Questions Must Be Dealt With in the Meantime.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—The Joint Committee on Church Union, composed of representatives of the Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches, which for the past ten days has been in session at the Metropolitan Church, arose last night about 10.30 from its final session without having solved the problem of church union. The convention just terminated has been a busy one, the delegates sitting practically twelve hours a day. The reports at the first session announced that they could not come in the union, and the Anglicans notified the other churches that they could not join in the discussion of church union before the meeting of their synod in 1908, but at the present time it is regarded as impracticable that the Anglicans will go in.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the Joint Committee: "Moved by C. D. Massey, seconded by Judge Forbes and resolved that this Joint Committee on the proposed union of the Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches, in the event of the failure of the proposed union, be dissolved, and that the respective churches be left to their own devices, and that no further action be taken in the matter of church union."

Mr. Allan Studholme, M. P., directed his attention to the importation of Asiatics, and said that after 40 years of practical experience with the brown and yellow races he was satisfied that the white man would have to seek new markets if indiscriminate immigration was permitted in Western Canada. "In 1870, because the Legislative Assemblies did not listen to labor, the white man was driven out of California to make room for the yellow fellow," said Mr. Studholme. "They have since been driven out of the United States, and the same thing is being done in Canada."

The Executive reported as follows re an interview with the Minister of Labor, Hon. Mr. Lemieux: "With reference to the immigration of the Chinese, the Hon. Mr. Lemieux stated that the Hon. Mr. Lemieux has no power to stop the immigration if possible, and the British authorities had made representations to their representatives in the countries from which the Hindoos came that Canada was not a suitable place for such people. He thought that the matter of national education was a question of national importance which should not be overlooked, and he promised his full support in this connection. Dealing with the letter carriers, he stated that he spoke as a convert on the subject. He thought that not only the letter carriers, but those that belong to the outside service, should be better remunerated. He expressed himself as being in favor of Mr. Verville's eight-hour bill. Generally speaking, he hinted that efforts should be made to bring his colleagues to the same views as he himself held. On the whole, the interview was a satisfactory one, and we feel assured that the Hon. Mr. Lemieux will have a worthy successor of Sir Wm. Mulock and one upon whose sympathy we can at all times depend."

The report of our Parliamentary representatives will be presented to you in due time. From it you will observe that the last session of the Dominion Parliament was an extremely busy one from a labor standpoint. Probably the most important measure that became law was that introduced by the Minister of Labor, the Hon. Mr. Lemieux, entitled the Trades Disputes Investigation Act, 1907. Your Executive, after careful consideration, gave the hearty endorsement to the principle of the bill. Organized labor does not want to strike to enforce its demands if the consideration of them can be obtained without recourse to that remedy. The strike has been our last resort, and as the bill contained our right to strike, but assured a fair hearing of the matter by the Labor Board, there was nothing to do but to give our support to it. Nor is organized labor blind to the fact that in every great industrial struggle the public have a large interest as well in the result as in the means adopted to reach that result. The least the public are entitled to is a knowledge of the merits of the dispute. This knowledge was given to them under the proposal outlined in the bill.

SWEPT OFF THE WHARF. An Italian Named Carolita Killed at Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 16.—An Italian named Carolita, who was at work on the sheds on the Alexander Wharf, Lyall & Son, met his death today. He was employed as a hod-carrier, and was just about to climb down the wharf to a barge lying alongside when the crane in use on the wharf swung around and hit the unfortunate man, throwing him to the barge, some forty feet below. An inquest will be held.

AGAINST JAPS. BRITISH COLUMBIA A WHITE MAN'S COUNTRY.

Ten Thousand Japanese Now in Canada—Chinese Over 15,000—Mr. Ishii and Sir Wilfrid Discuss the Question—Settlement Expected.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 16.—So far as further resort to disorder as a protest against Asiatic immigration is concerned, public opinion throughout British Columbia has become so settled or unified during the past week as to put all danger of that character far beyond the range of probability. At the same time, popular feeling is steadily taking definite and dignified ground, unmistakably on the side of restriction of immigration. British Columbia's white man's country appears to be more than the labor party slogan. The issue insists upon capable legislative treatment.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—The return of Oriental immigration to Canada for the past seven years, as reported to the Immigration Department, shows that since 1901 the total number of Chinese immigrants have been 641; Japanese, 8,882; and Hindus, 2,906, a total Oriental immigration of 12,229. The figures include those who have arrived up to the end of July last. The census of 1901 showed the number of Chinese in Canada to be 16,375 and Japanese 3,612. There were but a score or so of Hindoos. The total Oriental population of Canada at present is, therefore, approximately 30,000. For the four years preceding 1905 there was practically no Oriental immigration. In these four years the Chinese numbered 1,237 and the Japanese 1,237. During the fiscal year ending June, 1905, the Japanese immigration totaled 354; Hindoos 45; and Chinese none. Next year's figures were, 1,922 Japanese, 387 Hindoos and 1,237 Chinese. The British Columbia complaints have taken place almost wholly within the last thirteen months. During that period arrivals have been as follows: Chinese, 614; Japanese, 6,406; Hindoos, 2,474, a total of 9,494. The total number of Japanese now in the country is about ten thousand. It is not enough, it is felt, to seriously affect the labor situation in the west. But the reports of the past few years, and the legislation was invoked to prohibit the importation or immigration of the Chinese. While I have seen hundreds of black men in the trades union movement, I have never seen the Chinaman or the Japanese ally themselves with the movement in this country. They were selfish all along, and they would live in shacks and hovels under poor and miserable conditions. No man or woman in Canada would wish to come down to their level. Out of the 13,000, 900 who live on the verge of starvation in the United Kingdom all the time we can get sufficient to do all the surplus labor in this country."

Approved Lemieux Act. The Credentials Committee presented its report, and after a discussion of the delegates the various committees were appointed. The Executive reported as follows re an interview with the Minister of Labor, Hon. Mr. Lemieux: "With reference to the immigration of the Chinese, the Hon. Mr. Lemieux stated that the Hon. At the same time, popular feeling is steadily taking definite and dignified ground, unmistakably on the side of restriction of immigration. British Columbia's white man's country appears to be more than the labor party slogan. The issue insists upon capable legislative treatment.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—The return of Oriental immigration to Canada for the past seven years, as reported to the Immigration Department, shows that since 1901 the total number of Chinese immigrants have been 641; Japanese, 8,882; and Hindus, 2,906, a total Oriental immigration of 12,229. The figures include those who have arrived up to the end of July last. The census of 1901 showed the number of Chinese in Canada to be 16,375 and Japanese 3,612. There were but a score or so of Hindoos. The total Oriental population of Canada at present is, therefore, approximately 30,000. For the four years preceding 1905 there was practically no Oriental immigration. In these four years the Chinese numbered 1,237 and the Japanese 1,237. During the fiscal year ending June, 1905, the Japanese immigration totaled 354; Hindoos 45; and Chinese none. Next year's figures were, 1,922 Japanese, 387 Hindoos and 1,237 Chinese. The British Columbia complaints have taken place almost wholly within the last thirteen months. During that period arrivals have been as follows: Chinese, 614; Japanese, 6,406; Hindoos, 2,474, a total of 9,494. The total number of Japanese now in the country is about ten thousand. It is not enough, it is felt, to seriously affect the labor situation in the west. But the reports of the past few years, and the legislation was invoked to prohibit the importation or immigration of the Chinese. While I have seen hundreds of black men in the trades union movement, I have never seen the Chinaman or the Japanese ally themselves with the movement in this country. They were selfish all along, and they would live in shacks and hovels under poor and miserable conditions. No man or woman in Canada would wish to come down to their level. Out of the 13,000, 900 who live on the verge of starvation in the United Kingdom all the time we can get sufficient to do all the surplus labor in this country."

Approved Lemieux Act. The Credentials Committee presented its report, and after a discussion of the delegates the various committees were appointed. The Executive reported as follows re an interview with the Minister of Labor, Hon. Mr. Lemieux: "With reference to the immigration of the Chinese, the Hon. Mr. Lemieux stated that the Hon. Mr. Lemieux has no power to stop the immigration if possible, and the British authorities had made representations to their representatives in the countries from which the Hindoos came that Canada was not a suitable place for such people. He thought that the matter of national education was a question of national importance which should not be overlooked, and he promised his full support in this connection. Dealing with the letter carriers, he stated that he spoke as a convert on the subject. He thought that not only the letter carriers, but those that belong to the outside service, should be better remunerated. He expressed himself as being in favor of Mr. Verville's eight-hour bill. Generally speaking, he hinted that efforts should be made to bring his colleagues to the same views as he himself held. On the whole, the interview was a satisfactory one, and we feel assured that the Hon. Mr. Lemieux will have a worthy successor of Sir Wm. Mulock and one upon whose sympathy we can at all times depend."

The report of our Parliamentary representatives will be presented to you in due time. From it you will observe that the last session of the Dominion Parliament was an extremely busy one from a labor standpoint. Probably the most important measure that became law was that introduced by the Minister of Labor, the Hon. Mr. Lemieux, entitled the Trades Disputes Investigation Act, 1907. Your Executive, after careful consideration, gave the hearty endorsement to the principle of the bill. Organized labor does not want to strike to enforce its demands if the consideration of them can be obtained without recourse to that remedy. The strike has been our last resort, and as the bill contained our right to strike, but assured a fair hearing of the matter by the Labor Board, there was nothing to do but to give our support to it. Nor is organized labor blind to the fact that in every great industrial struggle the public have a large interest as well in the result as in the means adopted to reach that result.

TWO FAVORITES ONLY IN FRONT.

Hamilton Horse Akbar, Stopped in the Stretch.

Toronto Argos. Had a Practice Yesterday—Toronto W. E. Y. M. C. A. Enters Protest Against Longboat.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—A large crowd was at the second day's races of the Ontario Jockey Club's fall meeting. The weather was bright and warm and the track fast. The racing was spirited, with large fields in almost every event.

The public was unable to pick the winners, as Merry England and John Dillon were the only winning favorites. Merry England, backed down from 4 to 5 to 3 to 5, just got home by a neck in front of Ballot Box, the 4 to 1 second choice, who beat Loupania, the long shot of the race, by a nose.

Loupania was cut off at the top of the stretch, or she would have been closer to the leaders. Two lengths back of Loupania was Earl Rogers, who was a neck in front of Cearfell, who had a lot of early speed.

Twelve youngsters went to the post in the second race at 5-1-2 furlongs, and Giles, at 7 to 1, was returned the winner after a drive through the stretch, beating Greendale a length. Truro, the second choice, after turning in the stretch, but got third money, a half length in front of Gada.

Catherine F., the 3 to 1 choice, had a poor journey, and after moving up to third place, fell back in the stretch and finished in sixth position. Takbu ran out at the turn and carried Kitty with him.

The Hamilton horse, Akbar, was the favorite in the last race at six furlongs, being backed down from 10 to 7 to 2. The horse flattered his backers by running in second place to the stretch, but dropped out of it at that point. Marquis de Carabas, at 30 to 1, set a hot pace for five furlongs, and was then passed out by Paul Clifford and Bonnie Reg, the former winning by a length.

Paul Clifford and Bonnie Reg were at 5 to 1 in the betting. Following is the summary: First race—Have purse for 3-year-olds and up, 6 furlongs—Merry England, 113 (McDaniel), 3 to 5 and 1 to 4 and 1 to 4; Ballot Box, 10 (Koenig), 5 to 1, 4 to 1 to 3; Loupania, 195 (Goldstein), 40 to 1, 19 to 1, and 4 to 1 to 3. Time—1:12.5. Louise, Scarfell, Earl Rogers also ran.

Second race, Huron Purse, selling, for 2-year-olds, 5-1-2 furlongs—Giles, 109 (McDaniel), 5 to 1 and even, won; Greendale, 10 (Pothanka), 20 to 1 and 1 to 2 to 5; Truro, 150 (Englander), 20 to 1, 8 to 1 and 4 to 1 to 3. Time—1:08.5. Bonny, Marquis de Carabas, Catherine F., Gada, Lexington, Lady Paul Fry, Mohi, Don Otario, K. Takbu also ran.

Third race, for all ages—Sally Preston, 104 (A. Martin), 3 to 1, 2 to 1 and even, and 1 to 2; Hawakana, 107 (V. Powers), 5 to 1, 2 to 1 and even; 2; Kelpie, 59 (Mahaney), 6 to 1, 2 to 1 and 1 to 1; 2; Ota, 115 (Freese), 4 to 1 and even, won; Lights Out, 145 (Heider), 5 to 1, 2 to 1 and even; 2; Aris, 150 (Rodrick), 6 to 1, 3 to 1, and 3 to 2.5. Time—1:05. Father Catech, Bilberry, Ohay, Ruth's Battler, Bill Cozier, Billy Ray, Sam Farmer, Russell, A. Bank, J. G. C. Cardigan, Gold Run also ran.

TROTS AT COLUMBUS. Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 17.—Four of the five races on the first programme of the Columbus Grand Circuit meeting were for pacers that went eleven heats in all the way from 2:04 to 2:09.1-4. Kruger, a positive choice for the Board of Trade Stake, was defeated by Jennie W., and the record for the event was cut to 2:04.1-2.

Leland Onward and Hidalgo, first and second choices for the Hotel Hartman Stake, each took a heat and then had a fierce duel in the third mile. Onward had the most reserve and won by a length.

Wilkesheart was picked as the best of the 2:10 trotters and Sterling McKinley played as second choice. The winner turned up in Axeyell, owned by N. W. Hubner, of New Haven. This horse took a record of 2:09.1-4 in the second mile to keep clear of Silko.

Eighteen 2:11 pacers were eligible to start and this race was split up into divisions. Eph. Cinders, about an equal favorite with Miss Syracuse, won the first division in straight heats. R. F. D. had the record for the second division performers. Salaries: Board of Trade Stake: $3,000; for 2:07 pacers; three heats—Jennie W., b.m., by Alexander (Sunderlin)..... 1 1 1

ASHLEY'S PROTEST.

Toronto W. E. Claim That Longboat Did Not Qualify.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—The West End Y. M. C. A. have asked President Stark, of the C. A. A. U., to pass upon the status of certain competitors in the recent championship games. It is claimed that neither Longboat nor Jewell was qualified to run under the Irish-Canadian colors. If this contention is upheld West End Y. M. C. A. will get the pennant, as its representatives scored 24 points, and the Irish-Canadians 20 points. If President Stark rules the other way, then the Irish-Canadians will have 25 points, and will get the big prize.

FORFEIT POSTED.

Bart and Conkle's "Unknown" Likely to Meet at 155.

It looks as if Charlie Conkle's "Unknown" will be accommodated with a match by Demon Bart at no distant date. Bart's manager, E. C. Finley, sent a draft yesterday for $25 to the secretary of the Globe Athletic Club, as a forfeit for weight and appearance. He desires the match to take place at once for $100 a side and the gate receipts. The men are to weigh in at 155 pounds. It is now up to Conkle's "Unknown" and there is hardly any doubt but that he will jump at the chance of meeting "Aton's Unknown."

SHRUBB'S DEFI.

He Will Run Against Any Three Men in Canada.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—Despatches from Hamilton regarding the question of bringing Billy Sherring and myself together give the idea that Sherring refuses to meet me because I want the best of the financial terms," said Alfred Shrubbs today. "I never made him any definite offer for a race. As far as I am concerned we can soon come to terms if he wants a race with me on any almost any terms in reason. He doesn't want to race me, though, and says so in a letter to me. I want it understood that I never bargained with him for any division of the gate receipts.

TORONTOS LOST.

Hirovidence Nine Beat the Maple Leafs Yesterday.

At Providence—The game yesterday between the home team and the Maple Leafs from Toronto was a gift to the former when Phye, of the Toronto aggregation threw the ball over Jack Flynn's head with two men on bases in the ninth. Up to that inning the rivals had taken turns at leading, with neither team having any advantage, but with the score 7 to 6 against them the Providence team went to bat in the ninth and came over with the victory by a run. Score: Providence ... 8 13 4
Toronto ... 7 7 2
Batteries—Mack and Donovan; Moffit, Dolan and Carrigan.
At Jersey City—Montreal was shut out yesterday 2 to 0, but the tail-enders gave the Skeeters all they could do to amuse the game. Jersey City made less hits than the Royals, but they fielded better and bunched their few wallops in the fourth. It was Keeffe against Mason, and the pitching honors were about on an even basis. Score: Jersey City ... 2 3 0
Montreal ... 0 4 2
Batteries—Mason and Fitzgerald; Keeffe and Clark.
At Baltimore—Pitchers Milligan and

Comment and Chat

In last week's Philadelphia Sporting Life, Middle L. Richardson, its Hamilton correspondent, has the following article: Hamilton, Ontario, is anxious to secure a franchise in the Eastern League, and already offers have been made to the owners of the Montreal Club to purchase their franchise. It is declared that Montreal intends to stick, although it is claimed the club is about $7,000 in the hole. Hamilton is between Toronto and Buffalo, and teams going through one of the latter cities to the other pass through Hamilton. It is a place of about 75,000 population, and the people there are baseball crazy.

In all baseball history there has not been such a pennant race as that which the American League season is drawing to a close. Even the previous splendid races in this young major organization have been cast into the shadow of this year, which finds as many as four clubs still pennant possibilities, and September ball gone. At the present writing the prospects of the Athletics certainly appear the brightest. Just when the western clubs are chucking over the fact that they had been tearing each other down in the west, Philadelphia has failed to gain substantially in her matches with the weaker eastern clubs, there has come a sudden collapse of the western teams, and the dice have been so juggled that in a two-day limit the Quakers have bounded to the front with the strongest advantage they have enjoyed during the year.

The next two weeks promise to be fraught with disaster for more than one of the ambitious teams. Soon the western clubs must start on that eastern trip. Although enjoying the advantage of a finish on their own grounds, the Athletics must meet the three western cracks—Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland—one after the other—and the fate of the pennant rests on these games.

W. A. Collins, of Sunderland, the man who discovered Ben Howard, the Indian, who won two races at the Irish-Canadian games here, was in the city yesterday. He says he has two more Redmen like Howard in his string, and he will enter all three in the round-the-day race on Thanksgiving Day.

In discussing the conditions of the proposed Inter-Provincial Football League the Ottawa Journal says editorially: "Themor al seems to us to be that not more in amateur sport than in anything else is it necessary for us in Canada to follow the precise letter of the law which prevails in other countries, for instance England, based upon social conditions which do not prevail in this country."

SELLING LOTS IN ENGLAND.

Brandon People Take Unusual Means to Help Boom the City.
London, Eng., Sept. 16.—Twenty-three hundred lots of building land in Brandon City will be auctioned off at Manchester. This is the first time such property has been sold here, and it may prove an effective method of stimulating small British capitalists to make Canada their home.

LAWYERS WANT MORE.

They, Too, Feel the "Increased Cost of Living."
Windsor, Sept. 16.—A meeting of the Essex County Bar Association will be held Thursday, at which the question of increasing legal fees will be discussed. Most of the barristers are in favor of loosening the scale of prices all along the line, in view of the increased cost of living. The lawyers claim they have been handing out advice and transacting documentary legal work too cheaply.

FAST LOCKS ON WELLAND.

Electrical Equipment to be Installed—Big Saving in Time.
Welland, Sept. 16.—Next year the bridges and locks of the Welland Canal will have electrical equipment. Designs are ready for the bridge motors, and the contract has been let for the lock motors. The time of passing through the canal will be reduced each four hours, and of passing through each lock from twenty minutes to ten. The gates will be opened and closed in 35 seconds. The speedy operation of bridges will be a great convenience to the public.

PARCELS POST.

COL. VAN WAGNER WOULD LARGE- LY EXTEND SYSTEM.

Rates, He Argues, Should Be Lower—Make Postoffice a Common Carrier—Big Profits of Some Express Companies.

To the Editor of the Times:
Sir,—The Friday evening newspapers note that Stanley Mills & Co. mailed a parcel of merchandise to British East Africa and that the postage on that parcel for the 6,000 miles carriage was one-fourth less than the postage would have been on the parcel if mailed to Dundas, a distance of six miles. A short time ago the T. Eaton Co. found that it cost less to express their catalogues from Toronto to St. Thomas, send a man from Toronto to distribute them, than to send them through the mail. The Government sends the quarterly militia lists to commanding officers by express instead of through their own postoffice. It is said that more than three-quarters of the newspapers and periodicals are sent to their destination by express. Several times of late it has been charged by people over the road that Canada has a swelled head, and instead of being in the van as we imagine, we are trailing away behind civilized countries in many ways. Certainly we are in our postoffice administration. Grand Trunk Makes New Offer Over Switch Matter.

Board of Works Will Discuss Herkimer Street Case This Evening.

By next spring a Greek with a peanut push cart will be as hard to find on the streets as a needle in a haystack.

Dr. Roberts, Medical Health Officer, said this morning that, although there were twenty-four typhoid cases in the hospitals, he was not at all alarmed.

As it is in the interest of public health that all cases of typhoid fever occurring within the municipality of Hamilton should be promptly reported at this office, in order that the origin of such cases may be inquired into, kindly report any cases coming under your notice on the ordinary forms provided for that purpose.

A decidedly foolish story in a local paper yesterday, to the effect that Ald. Farrar would be a candidate for Mayorality honors, opposing Mayor Stewart for his second term.

It looks as if the trouble between the Grand Trunk Railway over the switch at Ferguson avenue crossing, Barton street, might be patched up.

Klein & Binkley have offered to pay the city $1,200 a year rental for 35 and 37 James street north, and to spend $3,500 on improvements.

City Engineer Barrow, who went over the new sewer sewer yesterday, says the septics tanks are completed, with the exception of one wall and seven hundred feet of the big sewer laid.

At the request of the Trades and Labor Council, which is not ready yet to proceed, the Board of Works and Fuel Committee will not deal with the Henry case to-night.

The total value of building permits issued for the first eight months of this year was $2,412,915, as compared with $1,281,535 for the same period last year, an increase of $1,131,380.

Mayor Stewart says he will be very much disappointed if the assessment increase in Hamilton this year does not reach the $3,000,000 mark, which would give an extra revenue of $60,000.

The new patrol station, which has been in course of erection for nearly two years, will be opened the latter part of this week.

The jail is getting too small to accommodate the number of male prisoners there. About $400 will be spent making alterations and fixing up half of that part now occupied by women prisoners for the men.

The opening of the new patrol station and the reopening of the lately repaired police court will take place the latter part of the week.

TEA TABLE GOSSIP.

Mr. W. H. Eaglesham will sail for Europe on Thursday.

Miss Margaret Nolan, Copetown, has left to visit her brother in Freepart, Ill.

—Mrs. (Dr.) Russell, of this city, is a guest of Miss Rice at the O. I. B., Brantford.

—Miss Annie Herriman, of this city, was the guest of Mrs. Ramsay, at Brantford over Sunday.

W. J. Kirkpatrick and J. W. Sweeney left on Sunday last for Syracuse and other eastern points for their vacation.

—A meeting of the South Westworth Agricultural Society will be held on Thursday at 3 p. m., at the Court House Hotel to arrange for the coming fair.

—Readers will remember the auction sale at 251 Bay street north to-morrow, Wednesday, at 2 p. m. See advertisement. Thos. Burrows, auctioneer.

—On Sunday afternoon the 44th Regiment Band, of Grimsby, gave a sacred concert at the Asylum grounds for the benefit of the patients and attendants.

—The month's mind mass for the repose of the soul of the late Rev. Father Owens, took place at Aytun this morning. Rev. Father Coy of St. Patrick's Church, this city, assisted.

—Sunday was connexional Sunday in Welland Avenue Church, St. Catharines, when subscriptions for several of the church funds were taken up.

—Get your new hat at Waugh's, post-office opposite, if you want to be up to date. Waugh's is a good place to get the newest in men's furnishings.

—Fire caused by the explosion of a coal oil stove at the home of Mrs. A. Robinson, 375 John street north, at 11.30 this morning did about $400 or $500 damage to the house and contents.

—The iron that was missed from Mack-Kay's wharf and the iron which sunk Mr. Graham's stolen rowboat at the James street slip, was discovered on Saturday afternoon.

—Mrs. Margaret Farrell, wife of Mr. Thomas Farrell, for many years manager of the Hendrie Cartage Co., St. Catharines, passed away at her home, 17 Park Place, there, very suddenly, on Saturday afternoon.

—The death of Mrs. Farrell was under the doctor's care for a few days, but was about her home. Half an hour before her death she was calling at a neighbor's home.

INVESTIGATING HER DEATH.

Authorities at Brantford Take Up Mrs. Smith's Case.

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 17.—Sergeant Wallace, of the local police force, was detailed to-day to conduct a thorough enquiry into the circumstances surrounding the death on Sept. 8 of Mrs. Smith, a foreigner.

Investigation is being made because of a request received this morning from relatives in Hamilton, that Mrs. Smith formerly resided.

From statements made by neighbors police are led to believe the woman may have been maltreated and assaulted while in delicate condition shortly before her death.

GREAT STORM.

Many Fires Seen—Barns Struck by Lightning.

Alvinston, Ont., Sept. 17.—During the terrific electric storm which passed over this section last evening there were several fires within a radius of a few miles.

Leslie Lovell, a farmer living in the village, had his barn and contents, consisting of the season's crop and farm implements, burned. Loss about $2,500.

Insurance, $900. Also the barn of John McIntyre, about four miles east of the village, was burned. Particulars not yet ascertained. The storm was one of the worst ever witnessed in this district.

WE SPECIALIZE ON THE FIT

Of a Hat as well as STYLE—give you the precise shape you ought to have, instead of trying to make something else do.

The Hat that looks well on one man won't become another. Complexions vary and features are different; for that reason we make a study of faces and fit your looks as well as your head.

Every style to select from in Christys, Stetson, Peel, Mallory, Triss, Habic, Borsaleno, $1.00 to $6.00.

Dent's Gloves $1.00 pair.
