The Bread and Butter Miss.

PART IV.

'Yes,' said Despard, 'as a sudden idea struck him. "If you happen to know my sister, Mrs. Selby, by sight, I'd be eternally grateful to you if you would tell her I'm going home. I'll wait for her at the old church, would you say?"

'Don't know her, but I'll find her out. Mrs. Selby, of Markers-leaf, I suppose? Well, take my advice, and keep on the shady side of the road.'

'I shall go through the woods, thank you. My sister will understand.'

With a friendly nod the young fellow went off.

Despard had been roused by the talk with him. He got up now and went slowly round to the back of the house it was a place he had known in old days—thus avoiding all risk of coming across any of the guests. By a path behind the stables he made his way slowly into the woods, and in about half an hour's time he found himself where these ended at the high road, along which his sister must pass. There was a stile near, over which, through a field, lay a footpath to the church, and here on the style Mr. Norreys seated himself to await Mrs. Selby.

'I've managed that pretty neatly,' he said, 'trying to imagine he was feeling as usual. "I wonder who that fellow was. He seemed to have heard Maddie's name though he did not know her."

He was perfectly clear in his head now, but the pain in it was racking. He tried to think, but in vain. Clearer, and yet more clearly, stood out before his mind's eye the strange drama of that afternoon. And the more he thought of it, the more he looked at it, approaching it from every side, the more incapable he became of explaining Miss Ford's extraordinary conduct. The indignation which had at first blotted out all other feeling gradually gave way to his extreme perplexity.

'She had no sort of grounds for speaking to me as she did,' he reflected. 'Accusing me vaguely of unworthy motives—what could she mean?' Then a new idea struck him. 'Some one has been making mischief,' he thought: 'that must be it, though what and how, I cannot conceive. Gertrude Englewood would not do it intentionally—but still—I saw that she was changed to me. I shall have it out with her. After all, I hope Madeline's letter has gone.'

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—'Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon.'—Mrs. SADEY MULLEN, 2728 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

This Home-made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly, and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes 16 ounces—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50. Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough. You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gualcol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula. The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully. A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

And a vague, very faint hope began to make itself felt that perhaps, after all, all was not lost. If she had been utterly misled about him—if— He drew a deep breath, and looked round. It was the very sweetest moment of a summer's day existence, that at which late afternoon begins softly and silently to fade into early evening. There was an almost Sabbath stillness in the air, and a tender suggestion of night's approach, and from where Despard sat the white headstones of some graves in the ancient churchyard were to be seen among the grass. The man felt strangely moved and humbled.

'If I could hope ever to win her, he thought, 'I feel as if I had it in me to be a better man—I am not at all selfish and worldly, Malsie—surely not? But what has made her judge me so cruelly? It is awful to remember what she said, and to imagine what sort of an opinion she must have of me to have been able to say it. For—no, that was not my contemptible conceit—and his face flushed. "She was beginning to care for me. She is too generous to have remembered vindictively my insolence for insolence it was, at the first. Besides, she said herself that she had been getting to like and trust me as a friend. Till to-day—has the change in her all come from what I said to-day? No girl can despise a man for the fact of his caring for her—what can it be? Good heavens, I feel as if I should go mad!"

And he wished that the pain in his head, which had somewhat subsided would get worse again, if only it would stop his thinking. But just then came the sound of wheels. In another moment Mrs. Selby's pony carriage was in sight. Despard got off his stile, and walked slowly down the road to meet her. "So you faithless—" she began—for, to tell the truth, she had not attached much credence to the story which had reached her of the fearful headache—but she changed her tone the moment she caught sight of his face. "My poor boy, you do look ill!" she exclaimed. "I am so sorry. I would have come away at once if I had known."

'It doesn't matter,' Despard replied, as he got into the carriage; 'but did you get my message?'

'Oh, yes; but I thought it was just that you were tired and bored. What is the matter, dear Despard? You don't look the least like yourself.'

'I fancy it was the sun this morning,' he said. 'But it is passing off, I think.'

Madeline felt by no means sure that it was so.

'I am so sorry,' she repeated, 'and so vexed with myself. Do you know who the young man was that gave me your message?'

Despard shook his head.

'It was Mr. Conrad Florde, Lord Southwood's nephew and heir—at least to the title, but to little else.'

'So I would suppose,' said Norreys indifferently. 'The Southwoods are very poor.'

'How queer that he knew your name if you have never met him before,' said Mrs. Selby. 'But I dare say it's through the Flores-Carters; they're such great friends of mine, you know, and they are staying at

Laxter's Hill as well as the Southwood party.'

'Yes,' Despard agreed, 'he had evidently heard of you.'

'And of you too in that case. People do so chatter in the country. The Carters are dying to get you there. They have got the Southwoods to promise to go to them next week. They—the Carter girls—are perfectly wild about Lady Margaret. I think it would be better taste not to make up to her so much; it does look as if it was because she was what she is, though I know it isn't really that. They get up these fits of enthusiasm. And she is very nice—not very pretty, you know, but wonderfully nice and unspoilt, considering.'

'Unspoilt,' repeated Despard. He was glad to keep his sister talking about indifferent matters. 'I don't see that poor Lord Southwood's daughter has any reason to be spoilt.'

'Oh, dear yes—didn't you know? I thought you knew everything of that kind. It appears that she is a tremendous heiress; I forgot the figures. The fortune comes from her mother's husband. Her mother's elder sister married an enormously wealthy man, and as they had no children or serious relations on his side, he left all to this girl. Of course she and her father have always known it, but it has been kept very quiet. They lived in the country six months of the year, and travelled the other six. She has been most carefully brought up and splendidly educated. But she has never been "out" in society at all till this year.'

'I never remembered hearing of them in town,' said Despard.

'Oh, Lord Southwood himself never goes out. He is dreadfully delicate—heart disease, I think. But she—Lady Margaret—will be heard of now. It has all come out about her fortune now that she has come into the title. His cousin, the last earl, only died two months ago.'

'And,' said Despard, with a strange sensation, as if he was listening to some one else speaking rather than speaking himself, 'till he can enter the title, what was he called? He was the last man's cousin, you say?'

'Yes, of course; he was Mr. Florde—Florde with two "f"s and an "e," you know. It's the family name of the Southwoods. That young man—the one you spoke of—is Mr. Conrad Florde, as I told you. They say that—'

But a glance at her brother made her hesitate.

'Despard, is your head worse?' she asked anxiously.

'It comes on by fits and starts,' he replied. 'But don't mind; go on speaking. What are you going to say?'

'Oh, only about young Mr. Florde. They say he is to marry Lady Margaret; they are only second cousins. But I don't think he looks good enough for her. She seems such a womanly, nice-feeling girl. We had just been introduced when Mr. Florde came up with your message and she wanted him to go back to you at once. But he said you would be gone already, and I—well, I didn't quite believe about your head being so bad, and perhaps I seemed very cool about it, for Lady Margaret really looked quite vexed. Wasn't it nice of her? The Carters had been telling her about us evidently. I think she was rather disappointed not to see the famous Despard Norreys, do you know?'

'Then I must write again at once—myself—to Gertrude Englewood to make her promise on her honour never to tell what you wrote—even if I thought she would believe it—and I am not sure that she would—I could never allow myself to be cleared in her eyes now.'

Madeline stared at him. Had the sunstroke affected his brain?

'Despard,' she said, 'what do you mean?'

He turned his haggard face toward her.

'I don't know how to tell you,' he said. 'I wish I need not, but as you know so much I must. I did see her, Madeline. I met her when I was strolling about the shrubbery over there. She was quite alone and nobody near. It seemed to have happened on purpose, and I told her all.'

'You proposed to her?'

He nodded.

I rather wonder you never met her this summer in town, though perhaps you would scarcely have remarked her just as Miss Florde, for she isn't—'

But an exclamation from Despard startled her.

'Maddie,' he said, 'don't you understand? It must be she—she, this Lady Margaret—the great heiress! Good heavens!'

Mrs. Selby almost screamed.

'Despard!' was all she could say. But she quickly recovered herself. 'Well, after all,' she went on, 'I don't see there's any harm done. She will know that you were absolutely disinterested, and surely that will go a long way. But—just to think of it! Oh, Despard, fancy your saying that you half thought she was going to be a governess! Oh, dear, how extraordinary! And I that was so regretting that you had not met her! What a good thing you did not—I mean what a good thing that my letter showing your ignorance was written and sent before you knew who she was! Don't you see how lucky it was?'

She turned round, her eyes sparkling with excitement and eagerness. But there was no response in Mr. Norreys' face; on the contrary, his expression was such that Mrs. Selby's own face grew pale with dread.

'Despard,' she said, 'why do you look like that? You are not going to say that now, because she is an heiress—just because of money,' with a tone of supreme contempt, that you will give it up? You surely—'

But Mr. Norreys interrupted her. 'Has the letter gone, Maddie?'

She nodded her head.

'Then I must write again at once—myself—to Gertrude Englewood to make her promise on her honour never to tell what you wrote—even if I thought she would believe it—and I am not sure that she would—I could never allow myself to be cleared in her eyes now.'

Madeline stared at him. Had the sunstroke affected his brain?

The Evening Chit-Chat

The very sweetest lady I know, that dear, unselfish saint, in fact, on whose prayers I place my best hopes of heaven—I don't suppose I need to identify her further to anyone who has a mother—has a regular habit of saying at Sunday dinner "This morning in church I thought—"

And she was the minister's wife, the first lady of the church, with a convincing reason, may two or three of them, if anyone ever had, for listening to every word of the sermon! Another dear, good woman admits frankly that she plans all the children's clothes in church.

What are you going to do about it? May I offer two or three little suggestions? My first is not to have any sermons over half an hour long, preferably nearer the fifteen minutes mark. A wicked shortening of one's devotions, you say? I don't see it that way. I think we could listen to a fifteen minutes sermon throughout, and surely that's better than hearing a few words of a longer discourse. Another is for ministers to talk instead of preach. As I say, there have been a few occasions when I listened to the whole sermon. On most of these I sat under a minister who seldom raises his voice; never gets oratorical or audacious, but just talks as if he were talking right to me, whereupon I feel in courtesy bound to listen to him just as I would to anyone who was talking to me. Whereas, with a minister who is preaching, I feel that he is addressing an audience with a capital A, and it doesn't really matter whether I listen or not. My third suggestion is for the audience—for you and me, in other words. And it is for us to realize that we don't honour God and worship Him, and do our duty by sitting in a pew and thinking of clothes and pleasure and business, any more than by sitting at home and thinking of those things. Presumably when we go to church we are dedicating a certain amount of time to honoring and worshipping God, and time spent in selfish secular thoughts is stolen from this dedicated time. Perhaps if we bolstered up our resolutions to really listen, by that point of view we might do a bit better. Here's good luck to you—and me.

Despair and Despondency No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism. IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good." It is non-secret, non-dosibolic and has a record of forty years of cures. Ask Your Neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures. If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 31 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce, pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. Handsome cloth-binding, 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Household Notes. With rubber gloves, as with others, the right-hand glove usually wears out first, leaving the other practically whole. To prolong their usefulness, occasionally turn the gloves inside out, which transfers the right glove to the left hand, and makes them wear evenly. To clean a zinc bath scour it well with fine coal ash moistened with paraffin, using a coarse cloth for the purpose. When perfectly clean, wipe out carefully, and rinse in hot, soapy soda water. Buckets treated in this way will look like new. One great objection to using a soapstone griddle is the length of time required to heat it. This can be overcome by placing the griddle in the oven at night, so that it will be warm the next morning. When it is placed on the stove the next morning, it will take a surprisingly short time to heat it. Any article made of celluloid (as combs, barrettes, etc.) may be successfully mended by means of collodion. Scratch the broken edges to be mended with a sharp knife until a new surface is obtained. Apply the collodion, and press tightly together for several minutes. Let stand for at least twenty-four hours. When winding wool for crocheting or knitting, if the tag that comes with it is used to start the ball, there will be less trouble; if more wool is needed, as the tag has the number and size of wool on it, and will be there when the end of the ball of wool is reached, it will serve as a guide for the person who uses the last of the wool. Housekeepers who have been troubled about cleaning the bowl in the bathroom toilet will find the best and easiest way to keep it clean is by putting a little chloride of lime in the water and letting it stand for a while. A mop kept for the purpose or an old whisk-broom will then make it as white as snow. Pajls, washubs, and other receptacles made of paper pulp may be easily mended with putty when they are cut or worn. The putty is covered with a piece of cloth which has received a coat of paint, and when the paint has dried, the cloth is given another coat to match the color of the tub. Leaks may be stopped entirely in this way at small cost. Dried peaches cooked in this manner are delicious: Pour over them boiling water, let stand a few minutes when the peel may be easily removed. Put them in a saucepan, cover with water, and leave to soak over night; then cook in the usual way, without changing the water. Prunes and other dried fruits are also much improved if cooked this way. Objects which would be disfigured by common cement may be securely mended with chrome cement. This is

Loss of the Schooner W. E. Morrissey.

CAPT. CHARLES DALEY.

The schooner W. E. Morrissey, of Gloucester, left that Port on the 28th of December, for Bonne Bay, Newfoundland, via Sydney, when the Captain received orders to proceed to Bonne Bay and then discharge part cargo of salt. Nothing eventful happened on the voyage, and she arrived at Bonne Bay, 2nd January, discharged cargo and received orders to go to Bay of Islands and load herring for Gloucester, U. S. A.

Left Bonne Bay, 8th of January, for said port; everything went well for a time and had the good weather continued a couple of hours longer she could easily have reached Lark Harbor, but such was not the case. When off Gregory a south east hurricane struck the vessel almost before anything could be done to prepare her for it. The vessel could not carry sail and was run to sea under bare poles; when 35 miles from land the vessel was hove to under two reef topsails; this was about 6 p.m. of the 9th, and at 12 o'clock, midnight, the foresail blew from the rope, and she lay hull to the sea as it was impossible to get any sail on her. Shortly after midnight the wind changed to west north west blowing fierce, they managed with great danger to their lives to get the riding sail on the foremast, the vessel was headed north that course remained on this course about 27 hrs. After the wind changed to west north west the vessel leed up and every man aboard worked for his life cutting ice to keep the vessel afloat, had this not been done she must have become entirely unmanageable and this account could never have been written.

During the 27 hours the blinding snow prevented them from seeing anything till quite near it, and the skirts of ice made matters worse as with the heavy sea running we had to avoid. At 2 p.m. Thursday, of the 11th, the weather cleared a bit and we saw land and noticing it to be low we thought there was a chance to save our lives we headed for it. In about half an hour the vessel struck on a rock on which at the time there was about four feet of water, they expected her to go to pieces as there was a terrible sea, but fortunately the heavy sea over our friend and lifted the vessel over into deeper water. Every sea threw the vessel nearer to the side of the beach as far as it was possible for her to go. With considerable difficulty the men got ashore not thinking of what may await them on such a stormy night on the rugged coast of Newfoundland. The first thing they did after getting ashore was if possible to find a place of shelter; they all went to the woods and hoped to get a fire to keep them from freezing till morning, but what was their dismay to find a fire was not obtainable as every thing was coated with snow carried along by the fierce gale that blew at the time. Capt. Daley accompanied by one of his crew went in search of a house, and after scrambling about over rocks and low trees for some time at last found an unoccupied house. They then hurried to tell the rest of the crew which they soon reached. On their way back to the house the captain being drenched with water while getting ashore and hunting for shelter could get no further, and lay down on his back to die. But such a brave crew could not let their self-sacrificing captain die without making an effort to save his life; they soon had him brought and placed in the house where a fire was made and everything done to help bring him back to life. Early in the morning some of the industrious people of Billburns saw the vessel ashore and soon every man and boy old enough to help was by their side. The crew were soon divided up among them and everything done to relieve their suffering. All the crew but one man was frostbitten, the worst was the captain, whose two wrists and hands and other parts were in a bad condition. The captain and crew speak in the highest terms of the good people of Billburns who made their stay among them as pleasant as possible by doing everything in their power to help them in every possible way, and so great was the kindness they received by them that they say they will never forget it as long as they live.—W. S.

Here is a Real Dyspepsia Cure.

No Indigestion, Gas, Sourness or Headache five minutes later. The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia or out-of-order Stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapepsin. If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a re-enforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach. People with weak Stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and, besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved in five minutes after taking a little Diapepsin. Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel life is worth living.

M. C. L. I. Debate.

The debate in the M. C. L. I. Rooms to-night will be in the following propositions:— "Granted that the resources of the country warrant an expenditure of $70,000 for the amelioration of the various conditions of sickness and poverty; Resolved that the objects sought would be better obtained by maintaining two central hospitals and spending the balance in providing agricultural colonies for the poor in the interior, than by maintaining 17 sanitariums." There's a new green season just breaking through to the light. There's a new tinge in the air, a new stirring in the blood. The very advertising pages are crying Spring.

All the blizzards and all the rains in the world can't stop it now. The earth and everything upon it is calling for new things to wear. Even the old house is asking for a new coat, and everything inside of it is also just as eager to be renewed.

New fabrics are beginning to blossom out in the aisles of many a store—such wonderful fabrics that have been growing silently in all the great looms of the world. The trees of the forests have been taking on strange shapes all winter. And now, stripped of their foliage, with their limbs bent and turned and polished into a new beauty, they are waiting for you in a thousand great Furniture Sales throughout the land.

Indeed all over this whole earth for the last three long dark months there has been such a hammering and clattering and grinding and whirring going on for you as has not been heard before in all the history of the world.

All for you and your husband and your children and your home a great international reception was being planned. Over in Sebnitz, Germany, a whole City of men, women and children have been fashioning beautiful flowers for your new spring hats; while clear on the opposite side of the earth, the dark-skinned Japanese have been weaving the braid itself. The hills of Dunfermline in Scotland have been whiter than ever the snow could make them with sheerest linens bleaching there for you. And the looms of St. Gallen, high up in the Alps, have been weaving embroidery patterns more curious than the pictures of frost on a window pane.

And now all this great harvest of new beauty has been gathered and is waiting for you by our advertisers of this City. Who wouldn't go to such an exhibition! Who wouldn't be eager for such a reception! But the Advertising News on page after page of this paper tells the story far better than any editorial can tell it. For there is the real news, the concrete news of all that has been prepared for you. Turn to it now. Get the spirit of the new season in your blood. Go down to the stores and prepare for the first warm days of Spring.

Did Not Follow Advice Sought.

Elsewhere, we publish a letter of criticism of the Teachers' Pension Bill. In it, we occur the sentence: "One wonders why the Superintendents did not interfere when they saw the wholesale wrong about to be enacted." Our correspondent should remember the Superintendents are Government officials, and they could not well initiate any matter of government policy, or even initiate any interference with a government policy. Our correspondent will be able to peruse the reports of the Superintendents in which he will find, if the others follow the course pursued by Mr. Blackall a copy of a joint letter from the four Superintendents of education, in reply to a communication addressed to them by the Prime Minister. Our correspondent will not fail to observe that the Superintendents were alive to objectionable features in the measure, but that the Government did not follow the advice and suggestions in these directions tendered to them by these gentlemen. We take an extract from it which is in point:

(7) At present all contributing teachers of the same age on entering the profession make the same annual contributions, according to sex. Under the scheme of the present Education Act this is just, for each teacher is to receive the same pension, i.e., one hundred dollars a year in the case of males, and eighty dollars a year in the case of females.

Now that the pension is to vary principally in accordance with the grade of the teacher, we are strongly of opinion, that the scale of annual contributions should vary in some measure according to the grade of the teacher.

We may here say that the many odd sums of money stated for the annual contributions or premiums give a great deal of unnecessary labour in the offices of the service, and we suggest that the present is an opportune moment for reducing the contributions to round numbers for certain groups of years.

(8) We do not think that the recommendation of Section 4, Schedule B, is a prudent one. We are of opinion that the Pension Fund should be kept distinct and placed under the control of a Board of Trustees appointed by the Governor in Council—one-third of the number being nominated by the teachers. The fund should be submitted to an actuary, say, every five years, and the income to the Board regulated from time to time, according to circumstances.

(9) Under the proposed Pension Scheme it seems to be essential—(1) That uniformity of grading teachers be secured; and (2) That the necessary steps be taken to secure that none but healthy persons be admitted to the profession.

(1) The following terms require very precise definition—Teacher, Salary and Service.

Two Men Shot.

Two residents of Fox Harbor, P.B., Messrs. Thomas and James Duke, cousins, arrived here by the Placentia train this morning both severely wounded as the result of a gunning accident which occurred yesterday. The men were shooting ducks which infest the waters there and fired from the shore while walking along. Thomas, who was behind James at several yards distance stumbled and fell. The gun which he carried cocked and exploded, and most of the charge of heavy duck shot in it passed by James's head, two of the leaden pellets lodging in his arm. Thomas received several shot in the face and about the lips, and bled profusely from the wounds received. They were rushed to Placentia as quickly as possible and on arrival here were taken by Mr. Eli Whiteway to the Hospital and admitted, though there is not a vacant bed in the institution. The shot will be extracted from the men to-day. Had James been a little nearer the other man he would have been killed.

Big Wages.

Capt. J. B. Foote, of Grand Bank, arrived here yesterday night after being 3 weeks in Conception and Trinity Bays looking for bank fishermen for his fleet of vessels. He wants 60 men but could only secure 10. This is owing to the prospect of railway work and employment at Bell Island and the Sydneys. Where last year $180 and $190 was the wage offered for the voyage, this year Mr. Foote and others have advanced $250 as an incentive to the men but with little success. This is a most serious condition of affairs for this branch of the fishery, and the belief is that most of the fleet will go undermanned to the Banks this season.

Can't Charter Steamers.

Mercantile establishments find it very difficult to charter ships in England to come to Newfoundland, several steamers are wanted to bring salt and other cargoes from Europe, but the great English coal strike is tying them up. If it continues, soon shipping will be at a premium for coal carrying purposes and this will render it difficult to get eligible boats.

Released.

The two young men Mansfield, who were the principal figures in an assault case about a month ago for ill-treating a police officer and were sentenced to six months in the Penitentiary, were released from prison to-day at noon. Both men are going to sea and were liberated to sign bonds for their future good behavior, two citizens having good security in each case for forty dollars.

Sealing News By Wireless.

Many conflicting messages were received yesterday concerning the sealers, particularly the Fogota, which was expected to arrive during the day. The Postal Telegraphs had the following messages:—

Bonavista, 2.40 p.m.—
"Two steamers seen off the Cape to-day, apparently going south. Too far off for identification."

Bonavista, 4.40 p.m.—
"Steamer supposed to be the Fogota, passed south about 1 p.m."

Bonavista, 4.40 p.m.—
"Reported four steamers N.E. of the Cape, working north. No particulars from them."

Catalina, 4 p.m.—
"Steamer passed south 1 p.m. Supposed to be the Fogota."

It may be that the "Fogota" harboured out of last night's gale and should be along to-day.

Last evening Messrs. Baird Ltd. had a message from Port au Port saying that the Labrador was seen at Red Island in company with the Neptune and apparently were working in the seals.

The Postal authorities had the following messages last night:

Grate's Cove, 8.15 p.m.—
"Up to dark, no steamer passed here."

Old Perlican, Last Night.—
"No steamer passed here up 't dark; and nothing is in sight."

Port au Port, 9.50 p.m.—

"A steamer, supposed to be the Neptune, seen off Red Island yesterday; not in sight to-day. Shoresmen getting hoods. Reports from Cape George say thousands of hoods in water and on ice in the mouth of Bay. Labrador off Port au Port. Light in hoods. Shoresmen saw pans flagged, and picked up carcasses on ice. At Black Duck Brook and mainland shoresmen getting hoods."

Latest Sealing News.

Mr. A. J. Harvey has received a wireless from Capt. Jacob Kean of the s.s. Adventure, which reads:

"Adventure 14,000; chances for more fair; Bellaventure and Bonaventure 1,500 each; picking up scattered harp seals; heavy swell on, do not think much can be done now. Sdgona clean; Ranger, 14,500; Fogota, 11,000; Diana, 5,000.
(Sgd.) KEAN."

Messrs. Bowring Bros. had the following message from the Stephano, sent last night, and one from Cape Bonavista, as follows:
"Wednesday, 7 p.m.— Patch cleaned up. On board 9,500; average weight 50 lbs. No news of any importance.
KEAN."

"Cape Bonavista, March 27.— Florizel sighted 10 miles off, going north, 1 p.m. to-day, with Adventure and Sagona; ice apparently tight."

The Coal Crisis.

It is Expected Work will be Resumed after Easter. Rioting in Stafford.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day. The Lords to-night passed the second reading of the Minimum Wage Bill, without a division. During the course of debate, Lansdowne said the Opposition would not amend the bill or delay its passage, but Ministers must accept full responsibility for it. Nobody but the Government and their supporters, he added, had a good word for the bill which failed to satisfy either of the disputants. Other Opposition Speakers denounced the bill in a similar strain. Owing to some hitch in the wording of the Government amendment its failure to suit both sides of the house. Crews announced the committee stage be postponed until Thursday. This will result in delaying the royal assent until Friday. Reports from mining centres point to the probability of a large majority in the taking of the ballot of men in favor of resumption of work but it is doubtful if such work would be done until after the Easter holidays. A Derbyshire majority for resumption of work is considered certain. The same may be predicted for Cumberland, Durham, Nottingham, Staffordshire, North Wales, possibly Scotland. But though in Scotland as in South Wales large sections favor maintaining the fight, they may in view of distress from unexpected prolonged action of struggle, be outnumbered by those who wish to resume and make the best of the Government

Bill. Warwickshire miners are expected to start to-morrow. The most serious outbreak since the strike began to-day at Cannock, Staffordshire, where several thousand strikers accompanied by hundreds of women raided a colliery in which eighty men were working, stoning and overpowering the small force of the police guard, setting fire to buildings, and wrecking others. Rioting continued several hours, until large reinforcements of police arrived and scattered the rioters, with baton charges.

Reciprocity Negotiations.

To Repeal Reciprocity Law.

Special Evening Telegram.

WASHINGTON, To-day. A favourable report of the Bill to repeal the Canadian Reciprocity Law, excepting section relating to wood pulp print paper, was authorized by the Senate Committee on Finance yesterday. The law is rendered inoperative save as to the paper schedule, by Canada's rejection of the Reciprocity Agreement which the law was to enforce.

Ending of a Sensational Murder Case

Sedden of London Found Guilty and His Wife Acquitted.

LONDON, March 15.—The sensational poisoning trial in "the Old Bailey" of Mrs. and Mr. Sedden for the murder of Miss Barrow, which has aroused the greatest interest in London since Crippen stood in the same dock, ended last night by a verdict of "guilty" in the case of the woman. The address against the man and "not guilty" in that of Attorney General Sir Rufus Isaacs to the jury on behalf of the Crown was one of the greatest, speeches ever delivered in a London court.

His detailed and masterly analysis of the evidence shook the foundation of the defence to pieces. Sedden listened to Isaac's terrible and almost relentless indictment unmoved, but his wife was terribly affected and she shed tears towards the conclusion of his speech, when Isaacs seemed to offer her a ray of hope. Before the sentence was delivered Sedden in a few words to the judge declared that before "the great architect of the universe he was not guilty, but the judge on passing the sentence of death upon him said that he agreed with the jury's verdict. Sedden turned and kissed his wife passionately.

THE WEAKER SEX.

BY H. L. RANN.

The weaker sex is a term applied to women by men who never startle anybody by earning more than $8 a week. It is generally used to open an argument about how much better a woman can stand twelve hours behind the counter. It is a very convincing argument with people who are not accustomed to think in relays. Since women began to take all the prizes in scholarships and the fine arts, including the culture of the pigeon-toed bird, we don't hear quite so much mellifluous yapping about the weaker sex as formerly. In St. Paul's time women were not allowed to speak in the churches, which accounted for the large male attendance, but all this has been changed, and now the melodious voice of womanhood mingles with the dulcet tones of the reed organ at all of our prayer meetings. It is no trouble at all for a man who has lived off his wife's money from the time that he followed her up the aisle in a hand-me-down frock coat, to blent about the weaker sex until the veins in his forehead stand out like a whipcord pattern. Some women are very obstinate and would rather make their own living than marry the first man who begins to circle around in a boutonniere and a fresh shave. This has embittered a good many men who are looking for free board and lodging, in exchange for an honoured name and a collection of "dishonoured checks. The only time woman is weak is when she marries somebody who is too tired to tackle anything but the night key and a baseball score. The woman who can persuade a big, hulking breadwinner to spend a little more money at the bakery and a little less at the pool hall never has to hunt around for an argument when the weaker sex proposition comes up.

A baby boy arrived on Monday last to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Munn. Congratulations.

Dr. Parsons reports another case of scarlet fever at Bear's Cove this morning. The house will be placarded this evening.

A large number of people visit the country each day, their object being to bring home firewood. The scarcity of coal has caused a big drain on the wood supply, and consequently that, too, is getting short. Many people were compelled to use hard coal, and found it to burn all right in the common cooking stoves. But coal at $10 a ton is indeed "hard" coal.

A very serious outbreak of measles of a very virulent type is reported from Upper Island Cove. We called on Dr. Parsons who gave us all the information possible relative thereto. The doctor informed us that he had visited 110 cases, and that he had little doubt that there were as many as 150 cases in that village.

We have also intercourse with that place, and also with Bell Island where the disease is said to be very bad. The authorities should be up and doing at once. Dispense with all "red tape" in this case, gentlemen, and get to work. Already several deaths have occurred at Island Cove, and the disease is spreading rapidly. Measles, so we are informed, is a deadly enemy to any one with symptoms of lung trouble, and we think the A. P. C. should also take a hand now and endeavour to stay the ravages of this dreaded malady. Many people think the best remedy is to provide Island Cove with a doctor at once and give him power to expend a few dollars while fighting the disease. Place the families on quarantine and keep them from mingling with the people of other settlements, as much as possible.

However this is the state of affairs and it is now up to the authorities to make their bravest efforts to stamp out the plague, for such it seems to be, as quickly as possible. Do away with all red tape, and get to work, then.

Special to Evening Telegram. BUENOS AYRES, To-day. Eight persons were killed and 30 injured during a cyclone which caused the collapse of several buildings.

S.W.C. Fishery.

The winter fishery on the S. W. Coast is now drawing to a close. It has not been nearly as successful as last season, as not as much herring bait could be had as on other occasions. Only the bankers which were supplied with salted squid did well, though their average is not at all up to last season. Some of the bankers had as high as 1,200 qts. ashore last spring, whereas from 600 to 700 will be the best this year. As Capt. Thomas Fitzpatrick had whom there is no better authority on this fishery has repeatedly pointed out cold storage depots are a prime necessity on this coast, and their absence means the loss of thousands of dollars annually for the fishermen there.

Brought to the Station.

Just after the storm began last night some boys found a man wandering about the streets in an aimless manner and brought him to the police station where he was kept for the night. He appeared to be more or less demented, said he belonged to Bauline and spoke of starting on the road home when the lads met him. It was perhaps fortunate he fell in with the boys, for to start countrywards in the storm which raged would be a dangerous proceeding for the man.

Fishermen Getting Ready.

Mr. D. O'Reilly and several planters and fishermen are now here from Placentia, proper and Fox Harbor, making ready to prosecute the coming season's fishery. These people fish at Cape St. Mary's and will begin this year about the middle of April which will be somewhat earlier than usual. All hope for a prosperous voyage.

Hr. Grace Notes.

A baby boy arrived on Monday last to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Munn. Congratulations.

Dr. Parsons reports another case of scarlet fever at Bear's Cove this morning. The house will be placarded this evening.

A large number of people visit the country each day, their object being to bring home firewood. The scarcity of coal has caused a big drain on the wood supply, and consequently that, too, is getting short. Many people were compelled to use hard coal, and found it to burn all right in the common cooking stoves. But coal at $10 a ton is indeed "hard" coal.

A very serious outbreak of measles of a very virulent type is reported from Upper Island Cove. We called on Dr. Parsons who gave us all the information possible relative thereto. The doctor informed us that he had visited 110 cases, and that he had little doubt that there were as many as 150 cases in that village.

We have also intercourse with that place, and also with Bell Island where the disease is said to be very bad. The authorities should be up and doing at once. Dispense with all "red tape" in this case, gentlemen, and get to work. Already several deaths have occurred at Island Cove, and the disease is spreading rapidly. Measles, so we are informed, is a deadly enemy to any one with symptoms of lung trouble, and we think the A. P. C. should also take a hand now and endeavour to stay the ravages of this dreaded malady. By WALT MASO

Down this little world we travel, headed for wood and scratching gravel, here to-day, to-day of doubts and dangers, we are toddling, mile after mile, straggling, dumped into this world a while, pleasant for the little time we stay; all we need is just To-day. Let's encourage one another, saying to a jaded brother: "Here, I'll banish scorn and vain revelling, banish used the Journey smiling, all our hearts with love for sorrow, since the Journey is so brief; how have what we to do with grief? Down this little world from some unknown spheres, headed they have no sighs or tears; let us therefore no longer grieve; let us all go into training for the joyful life to come!"

Unjust Scheme.

Editor Evening Telegram:
Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in the people's popular paper for a few remarks re the Teachers' Pension Scheme as it now stands after receiving some very peculiar alterations. Every disinterested person who takes the trouble to give it a thought must admit that the present arrangement is most unjust. Can any person anywhere point to any other scheme in any connection whatever in which the subscribers pay a uniform premium, and receive therefrom benefits in proportion to their salaries received while actively engaged in their particular calling? Teachers cannot be classed with civil servants in this matter, as no civil servants in this Colony pay premiums, and therefore what they receive as pensions comes directly from the Government and at the discretion of the Government. If they paid equal premiums no doubt they would be natural enough to expect equal pensions. If those responsible for the scheme, so-called alterations made in Dr. Pilot's fair and equitable scheme want to receive higher pensions than the great majority of the fraternity, let them purchase them with higher premiums, and not act as parasites on their poorer brethren. If this is the sort of good things the N. T. A. is going to obtain for the teachers, the sooner the outport teachers sever their connection therefrom the better. One wonders why the Superintendents did not interfere when they saw the wholesale wrong about to be enacted. If the great friend of teachers, Rev. Dr. Pilot, were in the field to-day such an audacious scheme would never have been engendered. But unfortunately for the teachers he is not, and his place as friend of teachers has not been filled. He did not soar and view matters from the ethereal blue, but stood right on the mundane sphere and looked after the interest of the teachers, and encouraged both them

TRAVELLERS.

By WALT MASON.

Down this little world we travel, headed for the land of Dawn, sawing wood and scratching gravel, here to-day, to-morrow gone! Down our path of doubts and dangers, we are toddling, mile on mile, transient and inquiring strangers, dumped into this world a while. Let us make the journey pleasant for the little time we stay; all we have is just the Present—all we need is just To-day. Let's encourage one another as we push along the road, saying to a jaded brother: "Here, I'll help you with your load!" Banish scorn and vain reviling, banish useless tears and woe; let us do the journey smiling, all our hearts with love aglow. Let us never search for sorrow, since the journey is so brief, here to-day and gone to-morrow, what have we to do with grief? Down this little world we wander, strangers from some unknown spheres, headed for the country yonder where they have no sighs or tears; let us therefore cease complaining, let us be no longer glum; let us all go into training for the joyful life to come!

Unjust Scheme.

Dear Sir.—Please allow me space in the people's popular paper for a few remarks re the Teachers' Pension Scheme as it now stands after receiving some very peculiar alterations. Every disinterested person who takes the trouble to give it a thought must admit that the present arrangement is most unjust. Can any person anywhere point to any other scheme in any connection whatever in which the subscribers pay a uniform premium and receive therefrom benefits in proportion to their salaries received while actively engaged in their particular calling? Teachers cannot be classed with civil servants in this matter, as no civil servants in this Colony pay premiums, and therefore what they receive as pensions comes directly from the Government and at the discretion of the Government. If they paid equal premiums no doubt they would be natural enough to expect equal pensions. If those responsible for the meagre, sordid alterations made in Dr. Pilot's fair and equitable scheme want to receive higher pensions than the great majority of the fraternity, let them purchase them with higher premiums, and not act as parasites on their poorer brethren. If this is the sort of good things the N. T. A. is going to obtain for the teachers, the sooner the outport teachers sever their connection therefrom the better. One wonders why the Superintendents did not interfere when they saw the wholesale wrong about to be enacted. If the great friend of teachers, Rev. Dr. Pilot, were in the field to-day such an audacious scheme would never have been engendered. But unfortunately for the teachers he is not, and his place as friend of teachers has not been filled. He did not soar and view matters from the ethereal blue, but stood right on the mundane sphere and looked after the interest of the teachers, and encouraged both them and their children. He never tried to use teachers as mirrors to reflect his greatness. But to return to the pension scheme, the outport teachers should become as one over it and sever themselves from the N. T. A. at once, and form themselves into a protective union, and have a memorial ready by the time the Hon. Sir Robert Bond comes into power, who, no doubt, would rather answer the prayers of the under dogs than acquiesce to the pandering few. We notice The Evening Telegram has shown up the injustice of the scheme. Go ahead, Mr. Editor, it is not the first time The Evening Telegram has helped the under dogs in the fight.

Yours very respectfully,
SYMPATHY.

What Humanity Has to Say.

Editor Evening Telegram.—The Daily News in reporting the sad occurrence on the S. S. Bruce, wherein one of the firemen was found dead in his bunk, opens the said report with the disgusting heading—"Arrested a Corpse."

Now, Mr. Editor, this in my opinion is the most glaring exhibition of coarse journalism that we have witnessed in this community for a long while, and I am surprised that a gentleman like Hon. J. A. Robinson, who prides himself on his fine feelings, should permit such disrespectful treatment of the dead by a paper edited by him.

Let me ask Hon. M. Robinson what will be the feelings of the relatives of the deceased when they read the item headed: "Arrested a Corpse," and what will their opinion be of us as a Christian people.

Our papers refer very often to unjust treatment accorded our country by outsiders and the outside press, but what can we hope for when men who hold high positions in the land give exhibitions of coarseness, cruelty and vulgarity in reporting the sudden death of a stranger in a strange land. I hope that the Daily News man will take a gentle hint and not try to make his paper sensational at the expense of wounding those who are already burdened with trouble and grief.

I remain, Mr. Editor,
Yours truly,
March 27, 1912. HUMANITY.

Evidence Crops Up Every Day

THAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ALWAYS CURE KIDNEY DISEASE.

Quebec Man Who Suffered from Headaches, Run-down System and Kidney Disease Finds Quick Relief and Permanent Cure.

COIN ROND SUR RICHELIEU, Vercheres Co., Que., Mar. 27.—(Special)—More evidence crops up in this vicinity every day to prove that for run-down people there is no remedy to equal Dodd's Kidney Pills. Among the many who have come forward with statements is Octave Chicoine, a well-known resident, whose testimony can easily be corroborated.

"Before using Dodd's Kidney Pills I suffered always from headache," Mr. Chicoine states, "in fact my whole system was out of order. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me, and I have had no return of any of my old troubles."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are popular all over this country, because they not only cure the pains and aches of the different diseases springing from disordered kidneys, but also give new life and energy all over the body. They do this naturally. They cure the kidneys. Cured kidneys strain all the impurities out of the blood, and the pure blood carries nutriment instead of poison to all the nerves and muscles. You have never heard of a person Dodd's Kidney Pills harmed. You hear of thousands who have been benefited by them.

Shot Polar Bear.

Last week the residents of St. Joseph's had quite an exciting hunt for a Polar bear which was after a prolonged search discovered and killed, so Mr. John Daley who arrived here by the Portia reports. Bruin, it is thought, landed on one of the points of land near the place from strings of heavy ice which were swept in and being maddened with hunger visited the sheep pens of the residents and destroyed some of the animals in them. The brute must have landed after dark as nothing was seen of him till next day. The bear was a very large one, and after being shot his fur was secured by one of the residents.

Busy at Engines.

Engine No. 106 which had been out snow fighting on the road the better part of the winter and which was thoroughly repaired, took a trial spin to Donovans yesterday and worked well. Engine No. 62 is being practically rebuilt, has been given a new boiler and will go over the rails for a run shortly. The big new engines 113 and 114 are being brought to a finish and should be ready to go into commission about the latter part of April. The foundations for 6 more new engines have been laid and work on these will be pushed ahead by Supt. Turnbull as rapidly as possible.

Another Storm.

The snow storm which began here about 9 last night and which raged up till 1 a.m. to-day was felt along the railway line and on the S. W. Coast during the early afternoon, and lasted several hours. The wind blew with much violence from the S. W. and a good deal of snow fell along the line of railway.

Premier Brought to Order.

MR. CLIFT HOLDS THE FLOOR.

Dear Sir.—Yesterday being a half holiday, I sauntered into the House of Assembly to pass an hour or so in listening to the proceedings. During the order of business the bill for Promiscuous Spitting came up. On the Speaker announcing said bill, Mr. Clift rose to explain that he had not seen a copy of the bill, nor did he think that the Opposition had been furnished with a copy of same. Whereupon he was interrupted by the Premier, so much so that the Speaker had to call on him to take his seat. Now, sir, the point is this: Mr. Clift had a perfect right to make the statement that he had not seen the bill, nor did he think a copy had been placed before the Opposition; but the way he was interrupted by the Premier is another matter. Mr. Clift realized that the bill was not a strictly party measure and did not want to make party capital out of it; but the way the Premier rose in his seat to answer the hon. gentleman—well, it was no surprise to the large audience present. He asserted that the bill had been distributed a week ago, and that if the hon. member had not received a copy it was not his fault. But that was not all; he appeared to be grossly insulted because Mr. Clift complained of not receiving a copy of the bill, and he did not fall to put it into words. It appears to me, sir, that the Premier loves criticism, but you must not criticise. I am glad to see that the Speaker is awakening to a sense of his duty, and hope that the Chairman of Committee will follow suit. It is high time that a sense of fair play was exhibited in the House, whether it be the last or the second last session of the Assembly. No one present at last evening's session could fail to see the antagonistic manner of Sir Edward Morris, both in words and looks; but it did not have the desired effect of making Mr. Clift keep his seat when it came to him to assert his right. The Premier also attempted to browbeat Mr. Clapp, but failed egregiously.

Mr. Editor, it can all be summed up in a few words: Sir Edward knows his day is done, and he is not particular whether his language is parliamentary or not. He also knows that Bond is his master, and with Kent as Bond's able lieutenant, people are too wise to be gulled with all that he (Sir Edward) would like them to take down. The day of Toryism is drawing to a close, and whether it be this fall or next, it will come, none too soon. With thanks for space,
Yours, &c.,
A CHANGE.

Again Arrested.

Richard Grey who was arrested on Tuesday evening and released yesterday, was again arrested last night and placed in the cells at the lock up. Only a few days ago he was discharged from the Penitentiary where he lives about two-thirds of the year. He is an able-bodied man, quite capable of working and making a decent living and it is unfair to the taxpayers of the country to be supporting him. Something should be done to prevent men of this class from loafing on the public. He should be given real hard labour in the Penitentiary.

Q.—Are you serious when you say that Bovril is more nourishing than ordinary Meat Extract or Home-made Beef Tea?
A.—Certainly! and we have for years offered large rewards to anyone who can prove the contrary.
Q.—But can you prove your statement?
A.—Yes—from the pen of Baron Liebig himself, who told the world that the man who managed to get the nourishing, as well as the stimulating properties of Beef in a liquid form, would produce something far better than Liebig's Extract, and would be a public benefactor.
Q.—And you have done this?
A.—Yes. By a special process, the entire nutritious constituents of prime ox beef are separately treated, pulverized and added to specially-prepared Meat Extract, and that is Bovril.
Don't experiment with artificial imitations of dubious quality (which are dear at any price) when such a tried and proven nutritious food-beverage "made in England" is within your reach.
