Evening Telegram Fashion Plates.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

9642—A SIMPLE STYLE FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.

Girl's One Piece Box Plaited Dress with Long or Shorter Sleeve and in High or Round Dutch Neck.

Blue linen embroidered in white is here shown. The design would also be effective in brown gingham piped with white or green. The round neck and short sleeves are attractive for summer. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes; 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for an 8 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

9645—A SPLENDID STYLE FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

Girl's Dress with or without Added Yoke Portions.

White linene with a contrasting color on collar, cuffs and belt will develop this model effectively and inexpensively. It is also attractive in gingham, chambray, or linen, and will look equally well in voile, cashmere or serge. The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes; 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. It requires 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for a 10 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Cookies!

How the youngsters love them! When they come begging pennies for sweets, just whisper: "There's a jar of fresh cookies for the good boys and girls in this house."

What a happy trip to the pantry!

Cookies made from Rainbow Flour are nourishing as well as toothsome. In milling Rainbow Flour we eliminate all but the choicest nutriment of the finest hard wheat of Canada.

Rainbow Flour will make cookie dough that bakes into round treasures of delight. Try it.

In using Rainbow Flour for pastry, more water (added slowly) is required and less flour.

One in a Thousand, BUT TRUE TO THE LAST

CHAPTER VIII.
 AT THE YEOMANRY BALL.

"Now do, Miss Luttrell," says this boy warrior.

"I couldn't," I answer, decisively. "They were given to me, and, on principle, I never give presents away."

"Then I shall take one of your gloves!"

"You will do nothing of the sort!" I say, crossly. "Give it back to me this moment!"

But, to my astonishment, the saucy boy puts it into the breast of his tunic and simply defies me.

"You may redeem it with a flower, if you like," he says; "but on no other terms."

"I won't do that," I reply, doggedly.

"I think this is my dance," says Sir Adrian, at this moment. Then, just as we are about to start, he asks, suddenly: "Where is your glove?"

"Never mind," I say, curtly, for I am annoyed.

He looks at me for a moment, and then suggests that we shall join the dance; and after that we go away.

"You have taken cold," says Loys, on the following day; "so you will have to stay at home this afternoon!"

"Very well," I answer indifferently.

"And, if Sir Adrian comes, tell him that I want to see him particularly, and that he is to wait until I come in."

Certain Relief

BEECHAM'S PILLS
 Sold everywhere. In boxes, 25 cents.

"I don't think Sir Adrian will come," I say, calmly.

"Why not? You didn't quarrel with him last night, did you?"

"Something very much like it," I answer.

"Oh, nonsense! I cannot think it. I'm sure he looked all right when we left."

Loys is certain, and so am I; and the end of our convictions is that she and Teddy go out to make a call eight miles off, and I am left alone in the drawing room. I settle myself in a low chair, and am soon deep in the second volume of "Joan," when, to my surprise, and a little to my dismay, Sir Adrian Charteris is announced. So Loys is right after all; but in thinking he was and is not, she is decidedly wrong.

"Loys and Teddy have gone to call on some people called Brandling," I tell him, as we shake hands; "and Loys wants to see you."

"How is it you have not gone with them?" he says, gravely.

"Oh, I have such an awful cold that I am afraid to stir even out of the room! I suppose I must have caught it last night, though I'm sure I don't know when."

Then there is a long silence, and I wish heartily that he would either go away and leave me to see how "Joan" is getting on or try to make himself more agreeable. However, my wishes seemed doomed to be unfulfilled, for he does not go away, nor does he apparently intend to become more agreeable. I steal a surreptitious glance at my book, which is lying open on the hearth rug; but, being short-sighted, I cannot see a word.

"Is it true," he says, breaking the silence suddenly, "that you gave one of your gloves to D'Arcy last night?"

"It is quite true that he stole it," I answer, icily.

"Then you didn't give it to him?"

"Certainly not. Does he say I gave it to him?"

"Yes, the young fool; he's been spluttering all over the place with it! How came he to get it?"

"Well, I had to pin up a founce, and he held my founces. Of course I had to take my glove off to do it, and, because I wouldn't spoil my bouquet, he stole my glove."

"I hardly know what happens, for it comes upon me like a shock of an earthquake, and somehow I find myself lying close against Sir Adrian's breast."

"You love me! As I live, you do love me!"

I shrink instinctively from the clasp of those strong arms, and from the passionate love shining in his gray eyes, no longer sleepy, but dusky with the intensity of a great joy.

"My love," he murmurs—"my little darling—my own love! Oh, how happy you have made me!"

"Yes?" I say, for lack of anything better.

"Happy?" he goes on rapturously. "Happy is but a poor word! Oh, child, you don't know what love is yet! It is pain—pain to love as I love you."

"So soon," I say, laughing. "I am glad if you are; but whatever you can see in a red-haired, deceitful, cruel—"

"Hush!" he says, with imperative passion. "Don't talk to me in that way. We are out of 'polite society' now, and I will tell you the truth. Your hair is red—red with the redness of sunshine upon pure gold—and you are cruel—cruel because you lie here, close pressed against the heart which has been hungering for you since the very first moment I saw you, with my arms clasped about you, and my kisses on your sweet mouth, yet your little fingers on my breast with never a notion of caressing me, and your dear lips respond to mine as little as those of a dead woman. You are deceitful, because, as late as this very afternoon, you made me think you did not care for me; and yet, my one love, my priceless pearl, for each and all of these things I love you a thousand times."

"Then I am not to kiss you," I say calmly. "That is a great relief"

"Pray, are you going to call him 'Sir Adrian' forever?" inquires my sister, saucily.

"Oh, well, Adrian, then!" I reply. I go upstairs repeating the name and thinking it the sweetest music I have ever heard; but, when I am alone with him, it slips off my tongue, as of old, and I call him by his title.

"I should like to know, Miss Luttrell," he says, gravely, "how you have the audacity to address me in that manner."

"Well, I forgot," I urge in defense.

"And what business, I should like to know, had you to forget? Who gave you leave to forget?"

"I didn't want anyone's leave," I say, with a laugh. "Surely I can please myself in what I call you. You are my property; you belong to me. At least that is what you have been endeavoring to impress upon me ever since four o'clock this afternoon; and then, on the very first day of your 'most willing slavery,' you find fault because I choose to address you in a manner befitting your dignity."

As I expect and intend, he bursts out laughing; but I must confess his next proceeding startles me not a little.

to my mind. I was so afraid you would ask me."

Sir Adrian laughs a joyous, well-satisfied laugh, and bends his stately head to the level of mine.

"Kiss me," he says for the third time. "Is that the tone in which you mean to address me if I should be so foolish as to marry you?" I demand.

"Kiss me," he says again.

"I think, Sir Adrian, that, like the Pharisees of old, you expect to be heard for your much speaking."

"Kiss me," he says for the third time, "or—"

"Or what?"

"Or go away from me. Ah, child, child," he breaks off, "don't play with me any longer. If you wish me to be like a sane man when they come in!"

"What a self-willed creature it is!" I say, in a superb aside.

"Then go away," says he, freeing me from the clasp of his arms.

But that I do not do. I draw closer to him; and my hands find their way somehow to his neck. His arms steal round me once more, and our lips meet in a long kiss.

CHAPTER IX.

IN THE SEVENTH HEAVEN.

"Well, you are a lucky girl!" says Loys, when she hears the news.

"And we shall be in the same regiment; that's the very best of it all! I dare say, though, when you're married, Sir Adrian will want to send in his papers."

"I don't think so. I wish to try the life," I reply.

"Oh, then it's all right," she says, joyfully. "For, though, of course, when a senior officer leaves, it makes a step, still I shall like keeping you with us best."

"Didn't you tell me the colonel was likely for promotion?" I asks, idly, wondering if I shall ever be able to talk so glibly about the regiment as Loys does. I doubt it; but I always was willing to follow my sister in anything; and perhaps in time I may do her example justice.

"Yes, dear, in a few weeks; and then Sir Adrian will have the majority. So you will be the major's wife—a much greater person than I am"—with a complaisant laugh.

"I am a little taller than you," I remark, quietly.

"Do you know," she says, presently. "I wonder you are not more elated about it. I remember, when I was first engaged to Teddy, I was as proud as—"

"A dog with two tails," I suggest.

"Never saw one, dear, so I can't say," is her reply. "But, if you remember, I was dreadfully consequential."

"I remember most distinctly how you and Teddy both cried at the station," I say, wickedly; "and I remember very well daddy looking round and catching you 'spooning.'"

"Did he?"—with supreme indifference. "Well, it didn't matter much, you know."

"Not a bit," I agree. "Well, I must run and dress for dinner. Sir Adrian will be back directly."

"Pray, are you going to call him 'Sir Adrian' forever?" inquires my sister, saucily.

"Oh, well, Adrian, then!" I reply. I go upstairs repeating the name and thinking it the sweetest music I have ever heard; but, when I am alone with him, it slips off my tongue, as of old, and I call him by his title.

"I should like to know, Miss Luttrell," he says, gravely, "how you have the audacity to address me in that manner."

Spanish Act Big Success.

There was not standing room at Rossley's Theatre last night, and a more delighted audience would be hard to find, for they just simply laughed themselves tired at the screamingly funny act. The songs and dances are all new and original, the costumes are appropriate and very pretty. Mrs. Rossley appeared in a very beautiful new Spanish costume. Jack Rossley, as the Spanish coquette was too funny for words, and his dance brought down the house. It is the very funniest act seen in a great while, the pictures were very fine, both amusing and instructive, while the popular orchestra played some of the very latest music. An all round good show.

Marine Notes.

The Tobacco sailed last night for Halifax.
 The schr. Margaret E. Schwartz is now loading fish at Ramea for Operto. The S. S. City of Sydney leaves Sydney to-morrow at noon for here.
 The S. S. Wasia arrived from Sydney last night with a coal cargo, after a two days' passage.
 The Schr. Lady St. John is loading codfish at Grand Bank for Operto.

Died Suddenly.

There died suddenly last night of heart failure Agnes Wylie, the wife of Mr. Wm. Benson. The deceased was in her 38th year and leaves a husband, mother, brother and three sisters who reside respectively in Montreal, Sydney and New York, to whom the Telegram extends its sympathy.

Boat Club Meeting.

Another enthusiastic meeting of the L. B. Boat Club was held at the Armoury last evening. Mr. C. E. Hunt presided over a large attendance of members. Several important matters in connection with the boat club was brought up and discussed. The meeting then adjourned until Monday night next when committees will be appointed to carry out certain plans.

Why has STAFFORD'S LINIMENT obtained such a large sale? Because the quality is in every bottle that is sold.—June 30, 11.

Special Notice.

We take pleasure in announcing the appointment of Mr. Richard C. Power as our Newfoundland Representative for the sale of one of the most attractive securities that we have marketed during the long period of forty years in which we have served the investing public.

We refer to the 7 per cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock of the Maritime Mail Company, Limited, a prosperous corporation operating at St. John, N.B., with the largest output of any single mill of its kind in Canada.

This issue is unusually well secured by assets appraised at $100 for every $100 share of Preferred Stock, exclusive of the amount covering the Bonds outstanding. The earnings record of the issuing Company is alike exceptionally strong and rapidly expanding under the present efficient management. Two other desirable features are the 50 per cent. Common Stock Bonus and the alternative plan of payment, cash or installment.

A fully descriptive circular has already been mailed to our many Newfoundland patrons. We advise these friends of ours and all other interested persons to immediately get in touch with Mr. Power, from whom additional copies of the circular and further particulars may be had. His office address is given below.

Strike Not Settled.

Special to Evening Telegram, JOHANNESBURG, To-day.
 At a meeting held in Union Park yesterday afternoon the Militant leaders delivered fiery speeches to three thousand assembled. A resolution declaring the strike still on and condemning the strike leaders was carried. One of the chief speakers announced the organization of the new union of South Africa workers, which he said would be the revolutionary party. Efforts are now being made at Bloomfontein to bring out railway workers. A dispute is on over the actual terms of the settlement which General Botha, Premier and General Smuts, Minister of Mines made with the unions. The Mine owners say the strike leaders are attempting to show they concluded a better bargain than they did in order to strengthen themselves with the men. Attempts to organize the Rand Club and other buildings are feared. The Club is barricaded and deserted except for armed members who patrol the premises day and night. The residences of mine owners are heavily guarded by soldiers. The attempt to destroy the railroad between Johannesburg and Germiston was made during the night but failed. The only newspaper published was a four page one issued by the Printers' Union. Twelve thousand members of the Trade Union marched at the funeral of the victims of the riot. Immense crowds lined the route. Rev. Michael Bolton Fuz, Lord Bishop of Pretoria officiated. He begged the militants to return home peacefully out of respect for the dead. The spokesman of the Trades Federation made similar appeals to disperse quietly. He said, "Let none say we are a disorganized rabble. Among the wreaths was one from the Socialist party inscribed: 'In memory of our martyred—foully murdered in cold blood by capitalist classes. At the end of the ceremony the Socialists assembled outside the cemetery and sang The Red Flag.'

Episcopal Visitation.

His Lordship Right Rev. John March, arrived at Holyrood by Wednesday morning's train to administer the Sacrament of Confirmation in this part of his See, and was received at the Station by Rev. W. P. Finn, the newly appointed Parish Priest, who accompanied him to the Presbytery. The Bishop and the Priest after a short rest proceeded to the church where the children of the parish schools had assembled for examination. His Lordship examined the children orally, and though he put them through the test of a searching individual examination, all but a handful successfully and were awarded their Confirmation Tickets. The examination being finished the successful candidates were ordered to present themselves at 3 o'clock at the church for the reception of the Sacrament. Precisely at the hour of three the church was filled with a large congregation. The candidates occupied the front pews—the girls artistically dressed in white and garlanded and wreathed; the boys neatly fitted in their new spring suits and sporting bouquets. Immediately before confirmation the Bishop vested in Cope and Mitre and with crozier in hand, made a brief address to the candidates complimenting them and their good teachers on the excellence of their examination and on the soundness and thoroughness of their preparation. The ceremony ended his Lordship again ascended the altar and delivered an eloquent and impressive address to the new "Soldiers of Christ," and their parents on the paramount importance of the Sacrament. He had just administered, exhorting the candidates to strain earnestly to preserve unscathed the gifts and graces he had conferred upon them, and the parents to guard well their little ones, and strive to keep them pure and spotless, as now they were, and from the evil influences of night walking and bad company. In the administration of the ceremony the bishop was assisted by the esteemed and popular Pastor, Rev. W. P. Finn, who was guest His Lordship was during his visit here. By the evening's express the Bishop and Father Finn left for Gambo to administer confirmation along the line, another part of Father Finn's Mission. In all places visited the people were delighted to see the Bishop. He received a hearty welcome everywhere and his instructive discourses, rich in wisdom and prudence, made a deep impression on the people.

Personal.

Mrs. Moore, wife of Mr. William Moore, engineer at General Hospital, accompanied by her little boy Jack, left here yesterday on a visit to friends abroad. The boy is unwell and a change of scene and air it is hoped, will do him good.

Mr. Arthur Morey, brother of Mr. James Morey, of Morey & Co. arrived here by the Tobacco. He underwent an operation in London for appendicitis and is now in excellent health.

Notes and Comments.

The terrible tragedy at Roseville, carries at least one lesson with it, and that is the necessity of having boilers in good condition. The information which is coming to hand, would seem to show that the boiler which was blown up was in poor condition and so worn in places that it could not bear any great pressure of steam. We have no doubt but that the lesson of the explosion has been taken to heart, and that all who own and operate boilers have examined them with a view to an assurance that their boilers are in a safe condition and to insure against a repetition of the dire tragedy.

According to the Daily Mail, the measure, popularly known as the Cat and Mouse Bill, has had the effect intended and has sapped the strength of the militant suffragette movement. In connection with the movement for female suffrage, it should be remembered that there is a clean cleavage among the supporters and that a large and respectable section long ago withdrew from the militants to conduct their campaign on lawful and constitutional lines. The chief society is the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies. Mrs. Fawcett, the widow

Hr. Grace Notes

We regret to report the serious illness of Mr. William Smith, who returned here from Sydney last year, hoping that his native air and rest would build up his weakened constitution. For the past few weeks he has been very ill, and his friends are anxious about him, but still we hope there will soon be an improvement in his condition.

Mr. R. Parsons, of St. Pierre, brother of Mr. Ed. Parsons, M.H.A., is in town spending a few days with friends.

Misses Elsie and Madge Oke left for St. John's on Saturday morning to spend a day or two with friends. They will likely return to-night.

The petition by the ladies of this town asking the Government for an hospital for Harbor Grace, has been numerously signed, and no doubt the Government will accede to the request at once. The ladies no doubt feel that men are not to be depended on to push such a worthy object, hence their reason for petitioning the Government themselves. Bravo, ladies.

A very severe thunder and lightning storm passed over this town at about 7.30 on Saturday night. The thunder seemed very near, and during the heavy peals the glass shook in the windows and the houses trembled. No damage has so far been reported, except the blowing out of the fuse in several of the electric transformers and the cutting out of the lights in several parts of the town.

Miss Bertha Willis, who for a number of years has had charge of Ship Head school, has just accepted the position of teacher at the C. of E. High School here. Miss May Chafe takes the Ship Head school. Both these young ladies are very popular and much thought of by the children, and congratulating them we wish them much success in their profession.

Rev. G. L. Mercer, of Bay Roberts, took the service at St. Andrew's Church yesterday forenoon, and his brother, Rev. R. H. Mercer, occupied the same pulpit in the evening. Both services were very much enjoyed by the congregations. The rev. gentlemen who are spending a few weeks with their friends returned to Bay Roberts by this morning's train. Mrs. (Rev.) R. H. Mercer accompanied her husband.

Messrs. Charles and Richard Ash have just completed a new race boat to be used by them at this season's regatta. The boat, although being of the regulation length, depth and breadth, is different from the other boats, and many who have seen her think she will be a match for anything "on the pond." It is too early to say much, nor would it be wise to do so. But the enterprise and pluck of the Messrs. Ash is commendable, and they are deserving of success. The workmanship is good, and her appearance on the lake will add much to the interest of our annual regatta.

LONDON, To-day.

The most important news from the war is a report confirmed from Sofia of the appearance of a large Bulgarian force at Vranja, which threatened the Serbian line of retreat. Still more significant as tending to confirm the belief that the Serbians are suffering defeat is the announcement from Belgrade of only meagre reports being received from the Serbian army headquarters, that the Government has decided to publish reports only on alternate days. In addition a rigorous censorship of newspapers is being enforced and the publication of special war editions has been stopped. The Serbians wounded described the battles as of almost inhuman ferocity, men throwing away their firearms and using their bayonets as daggers. Rumania and Turkey are giving signs that they will not long hold reported the Greeks occupied Doronino and Stramitz. According to reports from the Bulgarian General Wanoif has been slowly retiring northward before superior Greek forces. Another dispatch asserted that General Wanoif by an expected attack shattered the Greek army. Eighty thousand men commanded by King Constantine occupied Narta and other points on the Greek lines.

HAVANA, To-day.

General Armada, Chief of Police, was shot and mortally wounded during a pistol fight last evening in the most crowded portion of the Prado. General Ernesto Asbert, Governor of Havana Province and Senator Vidal Morales and representative Arias were involved in the fighting which was the outcome of a raid made by General Riva on Saturday night on Asbert Club. On that occasion a large number of members were caught gambling. They were arrested and sentenced to heavy fine. The Governor complained to President Menocal who is understood to have sustained the action of the police in enforcing the letter of the law. General Riva was taken to the hospital where he made the statement, that he was shot by Governor Asbert. He was not expected to survive last night. The tragedy caused most intense excitement throughout the city. All political clubs are closed. The central park was patrolled by squads of police and prevent any assembling of groups, a strong force of rurales being held in reserve. General Riva is an officer of the Regular army. He was appointed Chief of the National police by General Gomez and reappointed by President Menocal.

LONDON, To-day.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst was arrested together with several other suffragettes at a meeting at Bromley last night. The warrant had been issued for her arrest because she had failed to appear at Bow Street Police Court last Saturday morning in answer to a summons compelling her to vacate her crowds to raid the residence of Ministers at Downing Street on June 29th.

BUFFALO, To-day.

Five men, members of prominent families at Niagara Falls and La Salle, N.Y., were drowned on Lake Erie when a sudden gale overturned canoes in which they were paddling down the lake. They ranged from seventeen to twenty-two years of age and were students of chemistry at the Niagara Falls laboratories.

The Roseville Explosion.

A Terrible Affair--Details of the Fatal Occurrence.

By the Bruce express yesterday there arrived here from Alexander Bay Mrs. Rose, widow of the late Alexander Rose, who met with such a tragic death on Wednesday last, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Strong and Robert Breen, son of Mr. Patrick Breen, of Bambrick Street.

The Telegram last night had an interview with Master Breen, who says that altogether ten persons worked at Roseville, viz., Alex. Rose, proprietor of the mill; James, his son, aged 18; John, William and James Whalen, brothers, aged respectively, 18, 21 and 23 years; E. Arnold, D. Norton, Wallace Kean, Henry Littlejohn and Robt. Breen. The killed as a result of the explosion of the boiler and the wrecking of the mill, are:—Alex. Rose, James (his son), John, William and James Whalen, brothers, and Adelaide Babstock who was a domestic with Mrs. Rose.

Wednesday morning last the mill as usual opened at 7 o'clock. Mr. Rose had a good cut of logs, everything was progressing well and the mill was running very successfully and Mr. Rose looked forward to a profitable season's work. Wednesday morning there were in the mill when it opened James Rose, Ned Arnold, Jas. Whalen, John and William Whalen, while Robert Breen was in the yard outside at the rear of the mill. Mr. Rose, the owner of the mill, had been on the wharf superintending some work when he heard the machinery in the mill near stop and running into the engine room found that a pin had given out. There was full steam on the boiler and Mr. Rose seizing a piece of old shafting which he used as a bar began to hit the pin with it to jam it home. He had given the third blow and had the bar poised for another when the lad Breen who was looking at Mr. Rose through a side window says there was a terrible explosion and he was surrounded with steam dust and debris and could not tell for several moments what had occurred. Though he was hit with a flying piece of board in the head he knew he was not seriously hurt and ran for dear life, going blindly forward until he was well clear of the mill and dust and steam which almost choked him. The other men about the works were like Bob almost blinded with dust, steam and smoke. Norton, Littlejohn, Arnold and Kean also ran from the place when the explosion occurred. They were hit with flying debris. Arnold was knocked down, though not severely hurt, and when the smoke and dust subsided a terrible sight met the gaze of the horrified beholders. When the explosion occurred Miss Babstock was in the engine house to get a supply of hot water and live for her household work. She was driven through the back of the mill, twenty yards away and presented a horrible spectacle, as moaning with pain and terror she supported herself on her hand and dragged herself along the ground in the direction of Mrs. Rose's house.

Mrs. Rose also rushed screaming from the house and recoiled at the spectacle of the poor girl on the ground. She had her left leg broken below the knee, her face and hands were covered with blood, she was terribly scalded and the clothing she wore was in shreds about her person. There was a terrible wound and a big hole in the side of her head and this was covered with hot live and ashes and the poor girl's sufferings were awful to witness.

The whole mill, with the exception of a portion of it was utterly destroyed and the iron smoke stack 40 feet high was hurled to the ground and smashed to pieces. Strange to say, though the mill was demolished the big saws and fly wheel were left standing but the boiler was thrown out through the roof and part of it fell through the front section of the mill after being driven in the air and this killed instantly James Rose and Wm. Whalen, who were in this section of the building. Jas. Whalen stood in the centre of the mill and his face and head were beaten into a shapeless mass. John Whalen who drove the engine and was foreman of the works, was found some distance away lying on his back with his head beaten in and his nose broken. The bodies of all were cut and bruised terribly. John Whalen lived until 8 o'clock at night but never recovered consciousness, but the rest except the Babstock girl, were quite dead when found. The body of Mr. Rose was found driven tightly under the mill and wedged in between a lot of boards. He was dismembered and dismembered and the heart was torn from its place. Shortly after the accident Edgar Bright drove at high speed on horseback to Middle Arm and telegraphed Gumbo for a doctor. Dr. McDonald responded promptly but could do nothing for the Whalen man or Miss Babstock, but ease the pain from which they suffered. She died in the evening. The Whalen brothers were buried at Traytown, Mr. Rose and his son at Roseville and the body of Miss Babstock was confined and sent to her native place Happy Adventure, where interment took place. Parts of the boiler which two men could not lift, were found thrown 200 yards from the mill. The people of Alexander Bay acted in the kindest and most humane manner possible, especially Messrs. Lewis, Robert and Richard Edgar and Lewis Little. These men worked at the gruesome task of getting the remains together, helped splint the broken limb of the poor girl Babstock, and did all possible to cheer and comfort the survivors. The funeral of the victims was the most wonderful sight ever witnessed in that section and people from all over the countryside attended. Mrs. Rose is yet prostrated from the effects of the awful affair, and those who were present say they can never forget the fearful explosion and the horrible sights which they saw afterwards.

Absence makes the heart grow fonder, we're told, but a good portrait of the absent one will keep the recollection more vivid—and comfort many a lonely hour of separation.

We make a specialty of portraiture and our studio is exceptionally equipped for fine portrait work.

PRESENT TO HIS SHIP.—A large present has just arrived to be presented to His Lordship Bishop Jones. It is the gift of the Women's Association of White Bay.

The Police Court.

Two drunks were discharged and another was fined $2 or 7 days.

A cooper, for vagrancy, was remanded.

Two young men charged with loitering and disorderly conduct on the public street were fined $1 or 3 days.

Five United States seamen were charged with refusing to do duty on board the auxiliary scho. Gifford. The defendant told the judge that the vessel was not seaworthy to go to Greenland whaling, and besides they had but very little clothing to wear. The American Consul will be consulted by his Honor.

Steamers' Reports.

The following reports were received by the Reid Nfld. Co. last evening:

From the Duchess of Marlborough at Lewisport—"Made all ports of call. Good sign of fish. Cape John to Cape Norman. Too much ice to use traps."

From the Melgie at Humbermouth at 6 p.m. yesterday—"Made all ports of call to Battle Harbor. Traps and bookmen on both sides of Straits doing fairly well." On Friday last all traps from Blanc Sablon to Cape Charles were taken up owing to the ice. Grant has 2,000 qts.

Fierce Thunderstorm.

People in the Southern Shore yesterday say that since last Thursday some terrific thunder storms with torrential rain have occurred. At Deep Cove Gulch, near Tor's Cove, the trees of the bridge were partly swept away with the force of the wind, and repairs about 50 feet of track, and repairs have since been made. The lightning affected the instruments in the telegraph office, and the same occurred at Whitbourne, Come-by-Chance and other places.

British Soldier says He Killed Beron.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 22.—A British soldier in the garrison at Port Royal, has confessed that he committed a murder on Clapham Common, London, three years ago, for which a man named Morrison is now serving a life sentence.

Stinie Morrison is serving a life sentence in an English jail for the murder of Leon Beron, a Frenchman, on Clapham Common on January 1, 1911. This murder was connected by some with the Houndsditch murders which led up to the famous "Battle of Sydney Street" less than a month previously. It was alleged that Beron gave information to the police which resulted in the death of the two men in the Sydney Street house when it was attacked by the police and soldiers and the house was set on fire. Beron was found dead on Clapham Common and Morrison was arrested shortly afterward.

When Morrison was first arrested he gave the name of Morris Stein, but afterward gave the name of Stinie Morrison. It was charged that he was seen in the company of Beron on the night of the murder. Beron was the landlord of the houses in which the supposed Houndsditch murderers lived. Morrison, who strongly denied that he had committed the murder, was found guilty on March 15, and sentenced to death. When sentence was pronounced Morrison exclaimed: "I am innocent. I do not believe there is a God in Heaven!" His counsel appealed from the verdict, but was not successful. Later however, the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Here and There.

ALLAN LINE.—The R. M. S. Mongolian was set down to leave Liverpool to-day for this port.

ANNUAL MASS.—The Anniversary Requiem Mass will be celebrated at Mount Carmel Cemetery on Sunday, the 20th inst.

PREVENTED BY ICE.—Batters dated at Hawk Harbor, the 5th inst., say that the Cachelot had not a whale up to that time. Ice prevented anything being done.

CABLE REPAIRS INTERRUPTED.—The Mackay-Bennett had to return to port again to-day owing to the heavy sea raising and preventing repairs being made to the cables at Cuckhold's Cove. As soon as conditions permit the work will be continued.

BASEBALL.—To-morrow afternoon commencing at 5 o'clock, the baseball match between the Wanderers and Shamrocks will come off at St. James' field. It is expected that a large number of people will witness the game which is fast becoming popular.

CATTLE VESSEL HERE.—The cattle schooner Gladys E. Whidden, arrived from Port Mulgrave to-day after a passage of five days, bringing 53 head of cattle, 19 horses and a quantity of produce to J. & W. Pitts.

C. C. C. BAND COMING.—The C. C. C. Band of Harbor Grace, will arrive here by the train to-morrow and will play down through Water Street from the station. Our C. C. C. Band will help out their dance at night in the British Hall and a good time is expected.

FOGOTA'S PASSENGERS.—The s.s. Fogota left this morning, taking a large freight and the following passengers: J. T. Power, Geo. Porter, T. Benson, J. Roberts, E. Winsor, A. Diamond, Miss Sadie Kean, Mrs. (Lieut.) Bradley, S.A. Ina and Mary Abbott, Miss Wright, J. N. Brown and wife, J. H. Perry, Miss Head, Rev. W. R. G. Higgett, Rev. W. Vail, Mrs. Somerton, N. Walsh, Mrs. J. C. Walsh and two children, Master Paul Walsh, Miss Mary Walsh, Rev. E. Moore and 12 steerage.

Invermore Here.

The s.s. Invermore, Capt. Jacob Kean, arrived here this morning at 7.30. Going north she had stormy weather an east wind with dense fog the whole time. She reached Horse Harbor Saturday and met a lot of loose ice with hundreds of icebergs from Battle Harbor north. There was a great jam of ice from Horse Harbor north and only four schooners got down, up to the time the ship left, beyond Horse Harbor. Ice has prevented fishing, and there is only a slight sign of cod at Sandy Islands. She left to come south on Saturday evening and brought three passengers.

What's Wrong?
The mail boat Invermore with the Labrador mails arrived here about 7 a.m. to-day. The mails were not delivered at the post office building before 10.55. What caused the delay in transferring from the ship to the office? This is an outrage and business people justly resent it. Could not a cab be hired to get it along? Even if extra cab hire were given it would not be too much considering the service to the public. Officials seem to do what they like, and are emulating their principals in the Picnic Government. It must soon come to an end.

READ THIS AND PROFIT THEREBY.—If you want a good, stylish suit of clothes, made from one of our fifty patterns, with the very latest cut and finish, come in and see us. We have the most handsome line of tweeds you ever looked upon, and our Indigo Serges are the standard of excellence. Your next order, please, and be convinced. SPURRELL BROS., 365 Water Street, next door to Parker & Monro's.—July 4th.

HIS THIRTY-FIRST ANNIVERSARY.—On yesterday, the 7th inst., Mr. Wm. Churchill, of the Board of Works, celebrated the 31st anniversary of his entry into the Civil Service. Mr. Churchill is a most competent, obliging and faithful official, and we wish him ad multos annos.

Some Cases for the S.P.C.C.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Enthusiasm is a wonderful thing. It puts the shine into sunshine and it helps love with its task of making this old world of ours go round. A few unfortunate people seem to absolutely lack enthusiasm from birth, and go through life lack-lustre creatures, not much to themselves or any one else—except probably their mothers.

The average human being, however, is born with a goodly stock of enthusiasm. And yet the average grown person has little. Why is it? Partly because life itself, and the process of growing up, just naturally squeezes a lot of enthusiasm out of us. But partly because people who have lost their own enthusiasm deliberately try to rob others of theirs. I emphasize that because, although it is not a legal crime, I think it is just as bad as many which are on the statute books. And worse still, who do you think are among the most flagrant offenders? Mothers and fathers. Yes, I mean it. They who must know what a wonderful key to happiness and effectiveness enthusiasm is, and therefore ought to cherish their children's enthusiasm with all tenderness, are frequently guilty of doing just the opposite.

For instance, a neighbor of mine has a son about eight years old who is the most enthusiastic bunch of energy I ever saw. Almost every day that boy breaks out with some new scheme—they range from raising frogs for the market to writing a letter to the President—and with equal frequency his mother wet-blankets his enthusiasm. Of course she couldn't consent to all his schemes, but she certainly could let him follow up some of them. Again, I shall never forget the shadow that came across the face of a bright little girl I know when, in answer to the outburst, "Oh mother do come and see the sunset. I love pink sunsets!" her mother answered coldly, "How many times have I told you not to say 'I love' about anything and everything. You like pretty sunsets and love your father and me."

If the child did love her mother, it was only because the latter was her kin in blood, for she certainly was not kin to her child in sympathy and understanding.

Another time I heard a boy of fifteen, suddenly conscious of the wonder of a June morning, shyly quote, "Every day is a fresh beginning. Every morn is the earth made new." Now boys of fifteen aren't given to quoting poetry, and I expected to see his father show his appreciation. Instead he corrected curtly, "Every morn is the world made new, Phillip. I wonder where you get your poor memory. You must have heard that a dozen times."

Ruth Cameron

As I said before, enthusiasm is a wonderful thing, and there is none too much of it in the world. So let's be very careful not to wantonly destroy it, especially in those we love the most.

Household Notes.

When a fabric loses its color in washing, it may frequently be restored by sponging the material with ammonia and water. If this fails, vinegar may be effectual.

Pecan and English walnut meats, chopped and halved and laid over the top of a pumpkin pie just before it goes into the oven make fine seasoning, rich and well-flavored.

A rich puff paste, baked in strips about an inch wide and two or three inches long, is very good in sandwiches. Guava jelly and whipped cream are used for filling.

Paint stains may be removed from woollen fabrics by rubbing with turpentine. If the stains are old and do not respond to this treatment, add ammonia to the turpentine.

Some housewives always make their iron holders of marble cloth, using suitable material for interlining. The advantage is that they may always be wiped off when soiled.

When postcard photographs curl and become brittle, rub them over with a cloth dipped in a cupful of water to which a teaspoonful of glycerine has been added to soften them.

A thin coat of potash left on the sink overnight once a week will remove the ugly yellow stains that will not yield to kerosene. It should be applied with care, as it is poisonous. The best thing to dust furniture is a large, soft paint brush which has been dipped in olive oil and squeezed almost dry. This will take up every bit of dust without sending it flying about.

Housekeepers who get butter in the jar or tub will find that the use of a little charcoal will insure having the butter sweet. The charcoal is placed in a paper bag and then put into the jar.

When the mayonnaise separates in the making, add a little of the white of the egg and continue adding the other ingredients. In almost every case the separation will be overcome. An apple pie made without the upper crust is a pleasing change. Line

Varicose Veins and Itching Piles

Usually Arise From Same Cause—Relief and Cure Effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Nearly everybody knows of Dr. Chase's Ointment as the most effective treatment for piles or hemorrhoids that medical science has been able to compound. So much suffering and misery arises from this ailment that one is not long in telling his friends when he has found an actual cure. This accounts for the enormous sales of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

This letter tells of relief from the suffering of varicose veins by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Many suffer from this trouble not knowing the comfort to be obtained by the use of this great soothing ointment.

Mrs. R. J. Evans, 187 Munro street, Toronto, writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years. I have been troubled with varicose veins, and find it the only thing that gives relief. For every purpose when a soothing, healing ointment is needed there is nothing so good as Dr. Chase's Ointment." 60 cents a box all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Road Repairing.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I wish to ask if the Government organs, or some one in authority, or in the knowledge will inform us of St. John's East, what kind of a game they are playing in the giving out of, or seeing to, the road repairing in this district? Will they, or some one, inform us who is in authority in this work down here? Is it Inspector Liddy, or Inspector Parsons, or is it any one particular individual? And, Mr. Editor, the story is going the rounds down here that there's a row in the camp and that one Kelly, an ex or super-numerary auctioneer, and, betimes mail clerk, at the Government's beck, is waiting to be told to go on and take up the job of East End Road Inspector. Now that seems so strange to us how a man without the slightest idea of road building, or repairing, should be even thought of for the position, or that he would have the cheek to accept it if offered to him. And while all this humbugging is going on, what is our position? Parsons comes along and starts work on a piece of road and when you go to the office to see Parsons you find the other man Liddy in full charge, and there is no Parsons there, and to find Parsons you must go to the Board of Works office, which makes it seem as though the otherwise general Road Inspectors have not two minds with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one, no more than their masters, the governing body have. Then again comes in the reckless crew of graballs and spend-thrifts, or wastebills that ever got possession of a country's finances. Just think of it, two road inspectors, and one pensioned ex-inspector, and a marine works inspector, at a big pay, all doing what was the work of one man, the now pensioned inspector. Oh, Mr. Editor, is there any one with a slight sense of fair dealings, or a heart-beat of patriotism, but will decide and say, 'tis time to turn the rascals out.

Yours truly,
AN EXTERN MAN.

St. John's East, July 1st, 1913.

Made Him Nervous.

In a churchyard an old man, deep in thought, sat on a fat tombstone. It had been raining, and all the trees looked fresh and green. A tramp, passing by, made a remark on the weather.

"Grand morning!"

"Yes," said the old man.

"Just the sort of weather to make things spring up," said the tramp.

"Hush! Hush!" said the old man.

"I've got three wives buried here!"

BOSTON, July 7. The Grenfell mission schooner, George B. Cluett, arrived to-day from St. Anthony.

NEW YORK, July 7. Two men were killed and between twenty and thirty persons injured, in a rear-end collision of a roller coaster, at Palisade Park, New Jersey.

HALIFAX, July 7. The schr. Maud Carter, 51 tons, coal laden from Louisburg to Charlottetown, foundered off Cape George this morning. Captain and crew landed safely. W. J. Morgan, a Newfoundland, was among the latter.

ST. HYACINTH, P.Q., July 7. Diving to the assistance of a student, Rev. Omer Gagnon, a professor at St. Vincent de Paul College, here, managed to save the boy, by pushing him into shallow water, but he lost his own life in the swift current of the Yamaska River, in which the boy was bathing.

MEXICO CITY, July 7. The Mexican Government is willing to exchange six women prisoners for Pascual Orozco, who has been in the hands of Emiliano Zapata's forces for several months. The women are the mother, wife, sister and three sisters-in-law of Emiliano Zapata. They are authorized for the statement that Orozco has not been executed, as reported.

LONDON, July 7. The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Mail writes that Austria has arranged a bargain between Bulgaria and Roumania, whereby Bulgaria will get Salonki in return for territorial concessions to Roumania. As a precautionary measure, garrisons in Southern and South Western Russia, are being mobilized with a view to eventualities.

LONDON, July 7. The estate of the late Sir John Murray Scott, which he inherited from Lady Richard Wallace, will be disposed of in accordance with the terms of his will made in 1901, and of the five coheirs, giving more than half his property to Lord and Lady Sackville. The jury of the probate Court rendered this verdict to-day. The Sackvilles will obtain about $2,500,000 of the $5,900,000 of the testator's property, including some of his magnificent art collections.

VIENNA, July 7. The Sofia correspondent of the Reichspost says that 11,000 officers and men of the Thuk division were killed during a battle with the Bulgarians, in which the Servians were outflanked, surrounded and defeated. Only 4,000 Servians survived, and these were taken prisoners. According to another newspaper report a Bulgarian column, composed of 12,000 troops, succeeded in reaching the Serbian town of Vranha, and are threatening the line of retreat of the Serbian army. The Bulgarians are pushing forward from Egriplanka.

LONDON, July 7. The Daily Mail says that the result of a special investigation has announced that the Cat and Mouse law has killed the militant suffragettes. Practically all that now remain of the members of the organized conspiracy is a small knot of leaders, who are suffering from various disabilities, which prevent them from putting into effect their plans of re-organization. The organization has lost its followers, and the movement is financially crippled, as nobody is subscribing. Isolated crimes happening from time to time, are attributed to individual fanatics. The mice, who have recently disappeared, says the Mail, must have gone abroad to the satisfaction of the authorities. The Mail confirms the report that all the members of the Cabinet, are receiving threatening letters. One minister, in particular, is in danger of being murdered, if any suffragette should die in prison. Mrs. Pankhurst is not likely to be arrested again, unless she participates in a militant campaign.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GAGGET IN COWS.

Mr. Myers Appears At The Nickel.

THOUSANDS HEAR HIM SING. The great attraction yesterday was the Nickel Theatre, as Mr. John W. Myers, one of the greatest baritone voices of the present age made his appearance and charmed thousands. Long before the show began the hall was crowded and throughout the evening there was a steady stream of ladies and gentlemen all anxious to hear the marvellous voice of the celebrated vocalist. No artist in any part of the world could have received a more enthusiastic reception than St. John's gave to Mr. Myers last evening. When he first made his bow the applause was loud and long but it was nothing compared to the oration at the close of his song. His opening number was "The Monarch of the Woods"—a song greatly in demand at English concerts. His rendition of it was perfect, and it gave the great singer every opportunity to show the wonderful range and power of his voice. Everyone present was charmed. His second song was the sweet love song of old Ireland, "Come, kiss the Blarney, Mary Darling," which was very prettily decorated. This was enthusiastically applauded, and when Mr. Myers repeated the chorus the entire audience joined in. The films were splendid. The first was a fascinating story of Western life. Then followed a thrilling story entitled "The Parasite," which was watched with the greatest interest. "From Jerusalem to the Red Sea" is a travelogue which gave every satisfaction. It showed among other things Solomon's pools, the Convent of St. George when the ravens fed Elijah in Jericho, the Mount of Temptation, the River Jordan, the place of baptism, the Dead Sea, 1,300 feet below the sea level. The last film was a laughable comedy entitled "The Line at Hogan's." The programme will be repeated this evening.

The Litterateur.

The litterateur is a caldwell book worm whose mind is littered with literature to such an extent that he can tell the style of Thomas Carlyle from that of Robert W. Chambers without a moment's hesitation. His business is to devour all of the new books and then classify them according to the quality of pitiful diffusion. Litterateurs are born, not made. Some of the best litterateurs we ever had never saw the inside of a free public library or tasted its hidden sweets, yet they can correct anyone who declares that Rudyard Kipling wrote "Snow Bound." It is a humiliating thing to refer several times to George Eliot in the masculine gender and be called down by some homespun litterateur, who as like as not doesn't know a thesaurus from a hippopotamus. Practically all successful litterateurs have a keen and retentive memory and have no trouble in locating Micawber where the author placed him. Nobody ever saw a good litterateur misplace a well-known character, and finally corner him in an entirely different book from the one he started out in. When the litterateur is present people who carry around a book-venered culture and an assortment of not-eaten quotations, ranging from the last stanza of "Thanatopsis" to "There is No Death," usually retire to the ante room and discuss the price of new potatoes.

One of the most trying persons in social life is the acid female litterateur who will never let a male guest get by with a stirring passage from Mark Anthony's funeral oration without moving to substitute what Shakespeare really said. This irritating habit has none more to keep deserving bachelors out of the state of wedlock than the high cost of living. There is not much profit in the litterateur business, as things go, and this is probably the reason why so few people engage in it.

The Regatta.

Although the weather was unfavourable, a thick fog being in evidence, eight crews were practicing on the Lake last evening. The Highlanders and their juveniles had a spin in the Myrtle. There is good material in both crews and with plenty of practice will be able for the best of them. The Shamrock's amateurs had a try and seems to be making good. The work of erecting the new C. C. Boat House on the southern side of the Lake is going on apace. Some of the "has-beens" at the pond last night were talking in earnest of the revival of four-oared races. A timely suggestion, no doubt. It is thought that the Press Race will be kept on the programme. The collectors will be around in a day or two to get the necessary funds to run the Regatta.

C.E.I. Win Match.

Before a goodly attendance of on-lookers the Feildians and C. E. I. tried conclusions on St. George's Field last evening. The result was that the Feildians went down to defeat for the first time this season. The teams were: Feildians—Goal, Raley; backs, Hewitt, Rendell, halves, Bernard, Rowsell, Strong; forwards, Winter, C. Rendell, Wood, Phinot, Lush. C. E. I.—Goal, Volsky, backs, R. Stuk, Hussey; halves, L. Stick, Dwyer, Fox; forwards, Bartlett, James, Harris, E. Churchill, M. Churchill. At the opening play was a little slow but ere long the players settled down to business and a lively exhibition was witnessed. The Feildians made a few effective runs but could not get through the back division of the In-stitute. Churchill controlled the ball on the right wing and passed neatly to Bartlett who captured it just as nearly and netted No. 1 for the C. E. I. and the one and only goal for the evening. Some hot play followed by both teams but no scoring was done. After the interval the Feildians tried hard to equalize but their efforts were futile as their opponents were in much better form and kept the ball clear of their goal. The game ended: C. E. I., one goal; Feildians, 0.

Minimise The Loss.

Practically farmers may easily minimise the loss, due to a backward and cold season, by the judicious use of Sulphate of Ammonia as a fertilizer. Sulphate of Ammonia contains over 20 per cent of nitrogen, as against 15 per cent in Nitrate of Soda, and is therefore more than 25 per cent better than nitrate of soda as a means of quickening and increasing the growth of crops. The use of Sulphate of Ammonia has increased enormously of late years and it is recognized to be the most valuable fertilizer obtainable. By its judicious use the production of root crops per acre may be doubled, and the growth of late crops stimulated. We invite the attention of Farmers to our special pamphlet on the best methods of using Sulphate, copies of which will be forwarded free to any address on application. The price of Sulphate is moderate, and our terms are accommodating. ST. JOHN'S GAS LIGHT COMPANY, Board of Trade Building, St. John's, July 8th.

A Useful Society. Just one more of Mr. Hicks' stories. A kind-hearted lady was collecting for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. She paid a series of house-to-house visits, and at one door her knock was answered by a rather stupid-looking servant. The lady explained her errand, that she was collecting small sums for the funds of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, but the girl found this title rather too much of a mouthful. She went upstairs to the nursery, where her mistress was hard at work bathing and dressing half a dozen lively, shouting children, and trying at the same time to coax the recently-arrived baby to go to sleep, and announced: "Please'm, there's somebody at the door collectin' for the Society for the Prevention of Children." The worried mother sent down a willing donation of half a crown.

Tim Shannahan on the Regatta.

Our annual Regatta is certainly the most popular event of the year, as it furnishes amusement to the whole community. It has been antly termed the Poor-Man's Holiday, but at the same time thousands enjoy the sport who could start a bank of their own. But while our Regatta is so generally enjoyed, still, there are a score or two of individuals in the community who voluntarily face all the bother and trouble, as well the laborious manual labor that the getting up of a Regatta entails. For weeks and weeks previous to the event scores of enthusiastic citizens gather at the Lake side and the amount of hard work that they perform baffles description. The boats have to be carried in and out of the boat houses a hundred times, oars have to be put in shape and crews provided to ensure keen contests. What an amount of trouble this involves can only be estimated by those who have had the experience. Then there is the task of raising sufficient money to run the Regatta, and here again we see the volunteers come forward and travel the town in quest of subscriptions. The man in charge of letting out the ground for tents has an arduous task to perform and one which calls for a great deal of patience, tact and diplomacy. And above all there are the couple of hundred men who row the boats in the ten or twelve contests on the programme. Late and early these men are hard at it practising to make themselves proficient in the art of using the oar; evening after evening they work with a will, while the keen eyed coxswain watches their manoeuvres closely and makes many changes in the boat ere he feels that all is right. Regatta Day, this certainly wonderful amount of true sportsmanship that one can see displayed by the gallant crews during practice time, for 'tis no picnic to be told that you have to give up your oar to a better man, but this often happens, and the common sense way in which such a sentence is received goes to prove that we have the proper kind of men ready to sacrifice anything to make our Annual Regatta what it should be. We go down to the regatta in the morning much the same as we'd go to the train. We are not a bit surprised to find everything in readiness. We look upon the gay scene that meets our eye and scarcely give a thought to the wonderful amount of work that has been done during the preceding month or so. But the men want no thanks from us, they are in it for the sport and their recompense is the realization that they have been successful in affording a pleasant day to the thousands who throng the bank.

Park Concerts

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Judging from the immense-crowd of citizens who had the pleasure of attending the Band Concert, last Tuesday evening, the fact is very plainly brought before us that the people want music in the Parks. Now that there is some promise of fine weather, our City Fathers should get a move on and arrange for at least one concert a week in each Park. After all the talk we hear of pure air, why not give waterfamilies some inducement to take the family to the Park after the day's work, there to take in the pure ozone and absorb at the same time the excellent music which some of our own Bands are so well able to produce? Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I beg to remain, Yours truly, J. W. FREQUENTER.

The Carnival of Extravagance.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Would you kindly grant me a little space in your valuable paper for the insertion of a few remarks of mild protest against certain actions of the present pseudo-perfect administration.

Within the last few months political sop-money has been, comparatively speaking, as thickly and copiously scattered as the proverbial locusts in Egypt, all sorts of heeled having received all sorts of sops, in all sorts of ways, for doing all sorts of nothings.

As a matter for example of the unprecedented squander carnival, take the case of the erection of a light-house on Long Harbor Point. Of what use in the world is a light on a place which sees three traders a year, and nothing else, or more moderately speaking, why place a light on Long Harbor Point, and allow the Penguin Islands—one of the most dangerous spots on the Atlantic sea-board (all local ship masters will bear out this assertion) to be left as primitive, barren, and treacherous as it was in the days of Bjorn of Iceland. Dozens of other such places can be instanced.

No, Mr. Editor, the Long Harbor Point business is only a type of the contemptible tactics of squander now in progress, to secure, if possible, men in high places a renewed term of political life.

The agricultural policy of the Government, as applied to the district, is meeting with great success (save the mark!) and would be a good venture in its entirety were it not for the fact that these annoying and persistent diseases (in it "sheep cholera" on the one hand and "tater canister" on the other?) carries off the Government bulls, sheep, crows, glow-worms, fowls and potatoes faster than they can be supplied. At the present rate of increase and development of our animal and vegetable productions we bid fair to knock out the Argentine Republic—we don't think!

But the matter of greatest moment, of which the electors of Fortune District would like information, is the matter of the Sagona fog alarm affair, about which the public would like to ask the following questions:

(1) Is the contracting steamer 'Earl of Devon' (that brought up supplies, utensils, Tories, etc.), being paid at the rate of $100 a day; in other words, for the ten days work, $1,000, when schooners are easily available to suit the purpose, for at the highest figure $600, leaving the contract money in Fortune Bay as it should have been left?

(2) Is Capt. Carter ('Earl of Devon'), paid to talk politics, or is his exuberance of patriotic feeling for the salvation of his unfortunate country, prompting his large, loyal heart to talk Morris in the same breath with the Seraphim, and Liberalism, Unionism and everything—opposed to Morris-ism in the same breath with the Old Chap down below?

(3) Why did Piccott, the immaculate, send his reputed heeled Mercer and Parsons to Fortune Bay on the Sagona job (and without any hint of prejudice) why not employ local workmen? (Have we none as good? Again save the mark!)

The public would like to know also (and we do not think it would hurt them) why Little Bay and Jersey Harbor two prominent places in population and trade were passed over in favor of a much smaller place in regard to number of people, Miller's Passage, in the erection of a telegraph office at the last named place, after we believe our very far-seeing ("there is no doubt about it" was the parrot's reply, and this time—) and truly representative (?) member had been repeatedly approached in the matter of telegraphic communication with Jersey Harbor prior to the contemplation of the Miller's Passage office.

Having touched on "our member" it is a great wonder to us how Hon. Mr. Emerson bears up under the severe strain and pressure of caring for, watching and providing for us his children in all matters pertaining to the public life. We imagined

(and who can blame us?) that the hon. gentlemen must of necessity spend many sleepless nights worrying over our ills, sorrows and complaints. Good man! Well may he make use of his great chieftain's expression of supreme paternal love "My People!" The public raid the post offices immediately on receipt of the mails, each individual wishing to be the first to read of the great doings with tongue, pen, and brain more especially so with regard to his stand in the House of Assembly where his eloquence so often lulls the gentle members to sleep. Oh, Ghost of Pitt, Disraeli and Gladstone have pity! Oh ye gods, what a brain! But my dear sir, in spite of this material greatness, behold the perversity of human nature and the irony of fate! What a great pity that this great publicist and statesman must, like all good and truly great men, cast his mantle on another (should his equals be found? Does his peer exist!!!) for sir, the signs of the times or the hands of writing on the wall, say and point to the conviction that as sure as the sun shines, his political doom is sealed as far as Fortune District is concerned, and no longer will his bursts of inspired oratory waft over the floors of the House on our behalf. Oh, ingrates!

On the arrival of "our member" in this bay, we shall endeavor to show him the sights and shall give him a tour of inspection of the Pass Island Bridge, the Harbor Breton motor ferry, (won from the Government after such a hard fight! oh, such a fight), and will allow him a turn at the crank of the Sagona fog alarm.—Yes alarm, Mr. Emerson, oh what alarm! and to complete a short cruise in the "People's Darling," the stately, commodious, prim and sweet-smelling "Susu" (Crosbie's ideal but alas not ours!) to St. John's forever to depart from Fortune Bay, his lolorous voice, echoing the old strain:

"Goodbye Darling, I must leave you,
Though it breaks my heart to go."
Very truly yours,
FORTUNA.

Regatta Day

An Official National Holiday?
Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Now that the most intelligent and representative of your Newfoundland citizens in Toronto, Halifax and St. John, N.E., are encouraging annual "Old Home Week" excursions to Newfoundland, the question again arises: Why not make Regatta Day, August 3rd, a "Newfoundland Day" officially approved like Empire or Dominion Day? The fact that Regatta Day is practically a national holiday, is the best of all reasons why it should be officially approved as a State Holiday, like Canada's Dominion Day. All education of Newfoundlanders in Eastern Canada take the view that their "Old Home Week Excursion" should be cordially encouraged by an intelligent Newfoundlanders if not by money at least by good will, and that's the least any honest patriot should be expected to give to cause, but the movement to make Regatta Day a national holiday, entitled "Newfoundland Day" is one we commend to the citizens of St. John's, Nfld.

Yours truly,
OLD HOME WEEK.

Discouragement.

The more one tries to swat the flies, the more they keep him swatting; I've killed a peck, and yet, by heck, up on their trail I'm trotting. From break of dawn till day is gone I keep my swatter swinging, yet they arrive in blocks of five, their aunts and cousins bringing. They come in herds, the beastly birds, to haunt me in my slumbers, and though I swat till I am hot, I can't cut down their numbers. I often think of that old gink renowned for vain endeavor, who rolls a rock uphill a block, and rolls it up forever; his job is bad, the old lad—no wonder he's a kicker; we sympathize who swat the flies and find them growing thicker. We blif and swipe when flies are ripe, we slug and smite and spank them; we charge around and swat and pönd, and fiercely cry, "Dash blank them!" No time to read the poet's screed, no time for talk uplifting, no time for thought—we still must swat, along our path-way drifting. No time for song—the whole day long we ply our sad vocation; no time to die while there's a fly that needs decapitation. What wonder, then, that swatting men grow weary of the swatters, and, faint and weak, let out a shriek, at which the welkin totters?

CHENG, TU, July 7!
A large band of Chinese recently surrounded the Tibetan town of Hsiang'Chou. The Tibetans, before going into battle, killed their women and children lest they should be captured by the Chinese. The Chinese, however, ran short of ammunition, and the Tibetans repulsed them on all sides, with heavy loss.

LONDON, July 7.
The Belgrade correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that the losses of both Servians and Bulgarians are heart-breaking. There is reason to believe that the Bulgarians suffered most, because they hurled themselves on the Servian positions in close formation, with the bayonet, regardless of the sacrifices such primitive methods entailed. Thus, throughout a sixty mile front, there has been for a whole week desperate night attacks with the bayonet, resulting in great slaughter. It is easy to understand that the Servians proved more than a match for their formidable enemy, and it is obvious that the Bulgarians underestimated both the valor and skill of their opponents. The Mail correspondent asserts that Ialip has been burned, but not occupied by either side, owing to its being surrounded by marshes. The Servians have occupied Kodchana town, and all the territory as far as Bregalinitza River. Desperate fighting preceded this achievement, the enemy being driven off, pursued by the Servians.

LONDON, July 7.
There is every sign that the forthcoming campaign for Land Reform, which Lloyd, George and the Liberal party are to enter into, will be made the occasion of a bitter fight between the working classes and democracy and land-owners of the country. The latter are already organizing with the view of preventing the Land Laws being made the shuttlecock of vote-hunting politicians. This, however, will not prevent the subject being raised. In fact it has already been raised in Lancashire, where the spectacle can be seen daily of farmers carrying on their work under police protection. Transport and railway men have threatened to join the labor strike unless improved conditions for the latter are granted. There is also great unrest among farm laborers in Somersetshire, and reports from other districts show that dissatisfaction is spreading. The time appears to be most opportune for Lloyd George's Scheme, on which the next election will be fought.

Whale Fishery Prevented By Ice.

No word has been received as to how many fish that are caught so far by the Cachelot operating at Hawke's Harbour, Labrador. According to messages just received there is a large amount of ice in strings on the coast, and which would materially effect whale hunting so that it is not unlikely that the whaler has not commenced operations yet. However, even with a late start the outlook may be bright when it is remembered that it was later than this last season when the first whale was captured and the voyage turned out to be a profitable and successful one.

The first suit over a collision of aeroplanes in flight that has come to attention has been decided in France. Two aviators, Captains Thomas and Dickson, and each one for $16,000 and the other for $20,000 damages caused by the collision, which occurred at Milan in 1910. The court decided that Dickson was to blame, and ordered him to pay $1,000 to Thomas and $2,000 to the makers of Thomas' aeroplanes, as well as eight-tenths of the cost of the litigation. Since Dickson's machine was ruined in the collision the accident has been a costly one for him.
