Fine Old Gentleman Suffered 40 Years With His Kidneys

He even had Hemorrhages from the Kidneys, so you may know how bad he was. Yet today, at 67 years, Mr. Allen is able to do a good day's work or enjoy a long drive without the least pain. This is what Gin Pills did for him. They will do as much for you if you have any Kidney or Bladder Trouble.

Port Elgin, N.B. November 12th.

"I feel it my duty, for the sake of those afflicted with similar troubles, to send you these few lines about Gin Pills. I am about 67 years old and have been troubled with Kidney Trouble since I was 26 years old. This was brought on by my getting over-heated and then sitting on cold steps in a draught.

At last, I had Hemorrhages of the Kidneys. I went to three doctors and tried most everything on the market but got no relief. I got very weak, had pain and lameness in the back often, I had to lie down during the day and it hurt me to be on a wagon. I began to think there was no help for me. The bleeding continued for 16 months until I just happened to try Gin Pills which has now put an end to the trouble.

Now I can look back over 15 months at my relief from suffering and anxious care. I can do a lot of chores, drive all day, have no pain, although I am still taking 2 pills a week as they seem to make things easier."

JEREMIAH ALLEN

Gin Pills are sold by dealers everywhere at 50c. a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. Trial treatment sent free on request. These pills can be had in the United States under the name "GINO" Pills.

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS

A Great Intrigue,

OR, THE— Mistress of Darracourt.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

"Quite right," he said, quietly; "it is the marchioness's signature."

Mr. Head looked at him with grave surprise.

"Indeed, my lord!" he said; "I can only say that it is unlike her ladyship's signature—like, and yet unlike. I have brought down some passed checks to show the difference."

The marquis waved them aside. "Signatures often differ, Mr. Head," he said, with suppressed impatience. "You will allow me to know her ladyship's handwriting when I see it," and he smiled a ghastly smile.

Mr. Head bowed.

"I beg your pardon, my lord," he said. "There only remains for me to apologise to this gentleman—and he bowed to Mr. Sinclair.

"No, you don't!" he snarled. "I don't accept any apology! I'm going to make you pay for this! Both of you! I'll bring an action against the bank!"

Mr. Head looked at him with thinly-veiled contempt.

"You will use your discretion in that matter, sir," he said. "I wish you good-day. I offer you my apologies, my lord, for giving you so much trouble."

"Don't mention it, Head. Much obliged to you," said the marquis.

Mr. Sinclair slipped out, casting a glance at Harry Herne and the marquis, and the other two were following when Lucille appeared at the door.

She was dressed in black and wore a thick veil, and for a moment she stood as if too numb to advance or retreat, and at that moment Mr. Head recognized her.

"Oh, my lady," he said; "you have come at an opportune moment for me. I have made a grievous mistake, but I shall be deeply grateful to you if you will help me to show that it was not an unnatural one. Will your ladyship kindly glance at that check and tell me that it is—unlike your usual signature?"

Lucille raised her veil, and stood looking at the check in the centre of the room.

"Check?" she said, faintly, as if she had scarcely understood.

"Yes," said Mr. Head, gently, but insistently. "There it is," and he placed it in her trembling hand.

She took it and looked at it. There was a breathless moment of silence, during which Harry drew near to her, and between the rest and the door.

Lucille looked at it for a moment, then put her hand to her brow, and handed the check back with a weary, listless gesture.

"I know nothing of it!" she said.

Mr. Head colored.

"You—you know nothing? Your ladyship did not sign it?"

"No," she said, in the same weary tone; "I never saw it before!"

CHAPTER XXXV.

"I know nothing about it, I never saw it before," said Lucille, looking from the check in her hand to the faces around her.

Harry's fingers sought the key of the door and gently turned it.

Softly as the action was performed, Mr. Sinclair's ears caught the click of the lock, and he made a step toward the marquis, his face white with fear and passion.

ward the marquis, his face white with fear and passion.

"What's the meaning of this?" he demanded. "Dye hear, marquis, what 'er ladyship says—that she's never seen that check before? Isn't that what you say, my lady? That it ain't your signature? Look at it again, my lady, for 'Erven's sake!"

Lucille let her eyes rest upon the check again.

"It is not my signature," she said, in the same low, sad voice.

"Are you sure? Be careful, Lucille!" said the marquis, frowning at her significantly.

She raised her proud, sad eyes to his face.

"I did not write it," she said, in the same slow voice. "Is it possible that I could have forgotten it?"

The detective softly moved toward Mr. Sinclair and laid a hand upon his sleeve.

"Let me alone!" cried that gentleman. "You keep your hands off me! If it's a forgery, and it's bound to be, if her ladyship says so, I suppose, I'm not the guilty party. You don't suppose I forged it, do you?"

The detective smiled.

"That remains to be proved," he said, quietly. "Why did you drag us down here and annoy the marquis and marchioness in this way? Why did you give all this trouble, eh?" and he gave Mr. Sinclair's arm a little shake.

Mr. Sinclair flew round at him white with passion.

"Don't you do that! What? You think I'm a prisoner, I suppose!"

"I do, indeed," said the detective. "So come along quietly, there's a good fellow; you have caused trouble enough."

Mr. Sinclair drew back, and jerked his arm free.

"What? I'm to be made a scapegoat of, am I?" he cried. "I tell you I didn't forge the check—I'm as innocent as that gentleman there," and he pointed to Mr. Head.

Mr. Head looked at him.

"Where did you get the check from?" he asked. "Wait! Remember that anything you say will be used against you—"

"I don't care about that! I've got nothing to be afraid of! Where did I get the check from? Why—" he stopped suddenly, and glanced at the marquis, whose steely eyes were fixed upon him warningly.

Mr. Head watched him carefully.

"Where did you get it?" he asked.

"From the marquis," said Sinclair, sullenly. "What's the use of keeping it back, marquis?" he said. "It will have to come out."

Mr. Head looked at the marquis; in fact all eyes were turned upon him.

"With a slow, grave smile, his lordship shrugged his shoulders.

"That is not true," he said; "I never saw the check before."

Mr. Sinclair literally gasped for breath.

"Never—never saw it before?" he gasped. "You didn't give it to me?"

"Certainly not," said the marquis, who had been making up his mind to throw Mr. Sinclair over—for the present, at any rate.

"You didn't!" Mr. Sinclair almost howled. "Oh, I see how you meant to work it! This is a trap, is it? A trap! Very well, marquis! Now you listen to me!" and he swung round to Mr. Head. "I say he did give it to me, and I'll tell you what for!"

The marquis raised his white hand; it was steady now as a rock.

"I think," he said, "that Mr. Sinclair is laboring under a mistake. It is an awkward one, but I fancy I could set it right. Will you leave him to me for a few minutes, please? Lucille go to your room; this is no place for you."

Lucille moved to the door, but Harry stepped to her side and laid his hand gently on her arm.

"Can you remain?" he murmured.

"Are you strong enough?"

She looked at him.

"I will do anything you say and wish," she said, faintly, and he led her to a chair.

The marquis' face blazed.

"Am I to be disobeyed in my own house?" he said, in a loud, ringing voice. "Leave the room, gentlemen, and leave me to see this man. You dare—"

Stronghold Cleanliness

Harry stepped to the door.

"One moment," he said. "The marchioness wishes you to remain."

The marquis sprang to his feet.

"Insolent scoundrel!" he exclaimed.

"Do you dare—this house is mine! Leave it, or I hand you over to justice."

Harry smiled, and the smile was more ominous than many words.

"No," he said, gently, "the house is the Lady of Darracourt's, my lord. Mr. Head," and he turned to that gentleman, who stood petrified with amazement at the strange complication, "the Marquis of Merle has accused me of burglary and theft. I am here waiting the constable who is to take me in charge. Whether I am innocent or guilty matters little at this moment. But meanwhile here is a forgery committed, and the man who presents the check declares that the person who gave it to him is the marquis. I am ready to go to prison, but on one condition only."

that the man and the marquis are charged with the forging and presentation of the check which the marchioness disowns."

The marquis sank into his chair—checkmated.

Mr. Head looked from one to the other; the detective kept one hand on Mr. Sinclair, while he toyed with the other with the handcuffs concealed in his pocket.

"This—this is braggart insolence!" he said, his eyes glistening. "I know nothing of this check; but I can understand that a mistake may have been made, and—"

"I will undertake to see that Mr. Sinclair comes to no harm. If you will leave him here, gentlemen, I will promise to produce him if it should be required."

"There you are!" he cried. "Do you hear? The marquis is responsible for me—he'll answer for me! Does that look as if I had forged the check? Take your hand off, will you?"

The detective looked to Mr. Head for instructions. There was evidently something behind the case. He did not want to rake up a scandal in high life.

Mr. Head looked at Lucille.

"What shall I do, my lady?" he said in a low voice.

Lucille raised her sad, weary eyes to his face, then turned them to Harry.

He saw that she was tried almost beyond endurance—that her strength was failing her, and he said, gently: "Accept the marquis' offer."

The marquis shot a furious glance at him.

"What business is this of yours, sir?" he demanded.

"Mr. Sinclair stole round the table. 'Hush! Don't—rile him. Let him settle it.'"

And at the warning whisper the marquis subsided.

"Do as you like," he said, waving his hand. "I do not understand this—this mystery. No, doubt Mr. Sinclair will explain to me privately."

Mr. Head made a motion to the detective and moved to the door.

Lucille rose, and Harry unlocked the door for them to pass out.

As he did so a voice was heard in the hall—a woman's voice—inquiring if the marchioness was in. It was Marie Verne's. The footman, who had seen Lucille pass down the hall in her outdoor things, replied in the negative.

"No! then I will wait. I must see her at once. Can you—can you tell me if Mr. Herne has been here?" she asked, in a quick, anxious tone.

Lucille started.

"It is Marie!" she said. "Oh, let me go to her!"

Harry kept her back gently, and went into the hall.

At sight of him Marie uttered a cry of relief and joy, and, flinging up her veil, dashed to his side.

"Oh, Harry, what has happened? Why have you left me so suddenly? Almost on our wedding eve, too—"

She got no further, for Mr. Sinclair, who stood as if her voice had turned him to stone, seemed to return to life, and with a spring dashed past the men and reached the hall at the moment Marie was clinging to Harry's arm.

She uttered a cry and sank back from the white face with its red spots of furious passion.

"You!" she gasped.

"Yes, me!" he shouted. "What are you clinging to him for? What do you call him Harry for? What's this about your marriage day?"

Marie stood trembling, speechless. Harry looked from her to Sinclair.

"Are you mad?" he said, sternly.

"What do you know of this lady?"

"What do I know—?" Mr. Sinclair broke off with a wild, shrill laugh. "I know that she is to be my wife! Marie, come to me! Tell him I speak the truth! Tell him how I've worked and waited for you! How I kept you at school, and made a lady of you! Come to me, Marie!" and he held out his arms. It was piteous.

1039.—A POPULAR STYLISH WRAP.

Ladies' Cape Coat.

Brown broad cloth was used for this model. It is cut with full cape sleeve sections, joined to the back and front in "raglan" style. The coat is provided with a lining. A rolling collar finishes the neck edge. The coat closes at the centre front. This model is one of the latest words in wraps. It is especially designed for comfort, its lines are graceful, and it made of heavy woolen fabric it will make a fine serviceable winter wrap. In silk, velvet, and evening materials. It is serviceable also for dressy wear. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: Small, Medium and Large. It requires 4½ yards of 44 inch material for a Medium size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1078.—A PRETTY STYLE FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

Girl's Dress with Long or Short Sleeve, and Tunic Blouse.

Brown serge, combined with plaid woolen is here shown. The model would be equally effective in blue velvet, with cashmere for blouse and tunic. The style is smart and becoming. The skirt is a three piece model, and is joined to an underwaist, over which the blouse is worn. The tunic is attached to the waist under the belt, but it may be omitted. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. It requires 4-8 yards of 36 inch material for a 10 year size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

MACKINTOSH Fibre Steel Studded Tyres.

An all-rubber tyre is unsuitable for our roads. Look at the cars of those who have been motoring here for years, and what do you see? Why, Steel Studded Tyres.

But steel studs in leather do not wear well, the leather cracks with the wet and heat, the studs work in through the tyre and puncture the inner tube.

This is where the Mackintosh Patent Tyre scores, the studs are embedded in fibre which is not affected by wet or heat, it does not crack, and the studs do not work inside the cover, and the fibre is puncture-proof. A car wearing these Tyres last year and this has not had a single puncture, and every cover has given over 4,000 miles of running before wearing out.

A new shipment just in, call and see them.

The Balance of Power.

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Slurash."
The Balance of Power is a sort of diplomatic haymaker that kept Europe at peace for forty years. It was a very delicately adjusted device for keeping all the European nations afraid of each other. It has kept any one nation from getting too powerful by moral suasion backed up with twelve-inch guns.

The balance of power idea has kept the Balkans free and privileged to shoot each other up on all occasions because it was unsafe to divide them up among the larger countries. Switzerland has remained free and happy for 680 years because it keeps France, Austria, Germany and Italy from rubbing elbows too closely. Holland is a nice little country with fine seaports and Germany would like to own it. But that would tip the balance of power and England would get so mad about it, as if she had something to do with Holland herself.

The powers have also balanced by making alliances so that when any one nation got hostile, a dozen would be involved. All of these arrangements kept a fairly good imitation of peace in the family until Austria tried to grab Serbia and another seaport on the Adriatic.

That tipped the balance, and Russia jumped on Austria. That tipped the balance the other way, and Germany jumped on Russia. France then gave a low cry of joy and leaped for Germany's neck, while England snuffed her battleships, kicked over the kennel and turned loose the dogs of war.

Now they are settling the balance of power with rifles, and the only winner will probably be Austria. Austria has been licked twenty times in the last four centuries but has grown bigger right along, because all the territory chipped off of other countries to maintain the balance of power has been given to her on the theory that nothing can make her powerful.

Girls! Draw a Moist Cloth Through Hair
Try this! Hair gets thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful at once—Stops falling out.
Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and totes of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Kowloon's from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

Casino Opens
AS NICKEL CLOSES.
Owing to the death of Archbishop Howley, the Nickel Theatre closed Thursday afternoon and will not reopen until Monday. The show has been transferred to the Casino which will open to-day. The principal feature this evening is the great Biograph war drama produced by D. W. Griffith in two parts: "The Massacre." It is a wonderful story of the days of the Indian troubles. It is full of exciting situations, and all should see it.

"His Grandchild" is a sweet drama by the Edison Co.
"A Dangerous Case" is a Lubin Comedy. "After the Honeymoon" is a comedy-drama by the Vitagraph artists. There will be a full reel of Hearst-Selig Pictorial giving all the interesting news events. Mr. Arthur C. Huskins, the pleasing tenor who is now singing at the Casino, will give the delightful number: "Just Awaiting for You."
The matinee for children this afternoon will be at the Casino. Extra pictures will be shown and a good time assured the little ones.

At the Popular Crescent.

Last night at the popular Crescent a very large audience heard the most successful tenor, Mr. Frederick Knights, sing: "Then Sing to the Merry Green Woods," a song from "Robin Hood" by Reginald de Cavani; it was pronounced a real treat. Mr. Knights has been connected with some of the most successful operatic productions in New York and the management of the Crescent is to be complimented on securing the services of Mr. Knights. It is not often St. John's has the opportunity of hearing such a singer.

The picture programme is also of a fine order and in keeping with the times. "Taps"; or the story of the flag, is one of the greatest war features ever shown here and delighted the audience, as also did the "Burning Lariat," a western drama full of thrills. "Branding a Bad Man" and "The Terrible Turk," two comedies that just had the house in uproars of laughter. Don't miss this big show at the Crescent to-night.

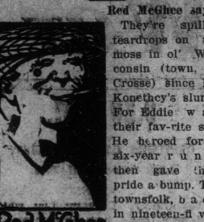

A Sore That Would Not Heal.

Police-man's Testimony to Zam-Buk.
Constable R. B. Nunn, of Vernon, B.C., says: "I would like to bear testimony to the wonderful healing properties of Zam-Buk. For over two years I suffered acutely with a sore on my leg which, despite all treatment, turned into an open ulcer. I tried all kinds of medicines, ointments, liniments, etc., but notwithstanding, the wound seemed only to get worse. Finally it became so bad that I was on the point of going into a hospital, when a friend persuaded me to try Zam-Buk. I did so, and the first few applications made the ulcer less painful. By degrees the inflammation went down and there were traces of healing. To cut a long story short, from the time of first commencing to use Zam-Buk the ulcer improved and twelve boxes of Zam-Buk effected a complete cure. "Although the ulcer was healed, I was still afraid that the healing would be only temporary, and that in a very short time it would break out again. To my extreme delight such has not been the case. It is close on a year since Zam-Buk healed the ulcer, and as there is not the slightest trace of any further trouble, I can safely speak of my case as a complete cure."
The above is but one of the many instances where Zam-Buk has proved effective in healing old and obstinate sores after other preparations have completely failed. For eczema, piles, cuts, burns, bruises, chapped hands, cold cracks, and all skin diseases or injuries, and as an embrocation for rheumatism, sciatica, stiffened muscles, etc., nothing can equal Zam-Buk. All druggists and stores, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto for price; 50c. per box. Refuse substitutes.

Have You an Itchy Spot?

Somewhere on your body? If so, attend to it at once. In eczema and itchy spots, whether dry and scurfy, or moist and inclined to "weep," are generally eczematous—delays are foolish, allowing the disease to spread and affect more of the good skin. Your best chance for a cure is to use Zylex, which will give almost instant relief, and if used in the earlier stages of the trouble will almost certainly bring a cure, and in any event will greatly ameliorate the trouble. Ask your druggist about it. Price 50c. a box. Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake. ZYLEX, London.

Ed. Konechy.

Red McGhee says: "They're spillin' leadrons on the moss in ol' Wisconsin (town, La Crosse) since Ed. Konechy's slump. For Eddie's w a s their fav-rite son. He heroed for a six-year r u n — then gave their pride a bump. The townsfolk, b a c k in thirtens-t v e thought Ed. the greatest guy alive at bat or on first base. The town team's brightest little star. They talked of Ed. across the bar—homes, pulpits, any place. The Cardinals picked Eddie up. It filled the village's jay cup until it overflowed. An Eddie had a lot o' class. To shine he let no chances pass at home or on the road. His six feet two made him a peach to play first base. He had a reach a ladder couldn't beat. Then, too, he had a bunch o' weight that came in handy at the plate where hat an' spheroid meet. Last year the Pirates started out for some firststicker who could an' made a bid for Ed. The Cards asked half a dozen guys before they'd trade their great, big prize an' Clarke was nicely bled. When Eddie joined the Pirate crew he couldn't make the hits come through no more than he could fly. That why La Crosse is wet with weeps. An' when Clarke looks at Ed he keeps a hanky near his eye."

Fads and Fashions.

Button boots are the only boots. Long basques have pleated skirts. Very wide girdles are embroidered. All colors for day wear are subdued. Long skirts are pleated and set on hip yokes. Coral is a favorite shade in gowns for evening. Loose Russian coats button from throat to knee. Sautache braiding appears on many coat dresses. Square metal buttons appear on black satin gowns. The new very narrow sashes are lined with chiffon. Forest green is a most fashionable color this fall. The wide-brimmed hat has regained its popularity. Basque dresses have net tunics over their satin skirts. Dance frocks for young girls are both sleeve and trained. High satin collars have lace collars standing up inside. Tunics are gathered on to the skirt yokes with headings. Angles rather than curves distinguish the new buttons. Blouses of afternoon gowns are made of embroidered chiffon. Some skirts have tiers of chiffon bonnets bordered with satin. Old-fashioned round combs are coming in again for children. The gamine-cut of ribbed silk is used on many smart costumes. The smaller fur neckpieces are formed almost entirely of tails. The all-white frock will continue its popularity through the winter. The broad girde is even more popular this season than before. All of the broad-lined hats are worn at a very pronounced angle. Furs are of cloth backed with futalene. The new chemises have full necks, held under the chin by a velvet band. Collars on dresses are frequently lined with contrasting colors instead of white. Skirts cross the blouse in front like a surplice and end in the back in a bow. Skirts are no longer of any fixed dimensions, but the newest are the barrel shape.

SATURDAY, Oct. 17th, 1914.

The Justice of Our Cause.

Of no war waged by us can we lay claim to a clearer conscience or a juster cause than the present war. The free press of a great and neutral nation has already given judgment in favour of our claim in this war. On the part of Germany it is an aggressive war, long prepared and decided on years ago, without regard to conscience, justice or right. The testimony of the British Ambassador at Vienna establishes as a fact that Austria and Russia were on the verge of a settlement of the Serbian dispute, when Germany intervened and precipitated the war, fearing the pretext of the Sarajevo assassination might fall. The evidence of an intention, fixed years ago, to disregard the neutrality of Belgium and to violate their solemn pledge to respect it is abundant. The treaty was but a scrap of paper, and the doctrine was that might is right anyhow. The building of strategic railways to the borders of Belgium for the carrying on of a French war is conclusive proof of this. There is however no need for us to labour the case, for the main points of the case were all set out clearly by General F. Von Bernhardi, three years ago, in his book entitled: "Germany and the Next War." According to this teacher of the War Gospel, Peace aspirations are immoral and destructive and for the German people, "the maintenance of peace can only be the goal of a policy."

"France must be so completely crushed that she can never again come across our path." It must be "war to the knife" with her. She must be "annihilated as a world power."

"If we attacked France or Russia, the ally would be compelled to bring help, and we would be in a far worse position than if we had only one enemy to fight. Let it then be the task of our diplomacy so to shuffle the cards that we may be attacked by France, for then there would be reasonable prospect that Russia for a time would remain neutral."

"This view undoubtedly deserves attention, but we must not hope to bring about this attack by waiting passively. Neither France nor Russia nor England need to attack in order to further their interests. So long as we shrink from attack they can force us to submit to their will by diplomacy, as the upshot of the Morocco negotiations shows."

"If we wish to bring about an attack by our opponents, we must initiate an active policy which, without attacking France, will so prejudice her interests or those of England, that both these States would feel themselves compelled to attack us. Opportunities for such procedure are offered both in Africa and in Europe, and anyone who has attentively studied prominently political utterances can easily satisfy himself on this point."

General F. Von Bernhardi offered the suggestion that the acquisition of the Congo by Belgium might afford a pretext to pick a quarrel with Belgium; and that "a financial or political crash in Portugal might give us the opportunity to take possession of the Portuguese colonies."

Is it any wonder that a State which takes to itself such doctrines as these prepares deliberately to smash neighbouring States, seeks out pretexts, treats treaties as "scraps of paper" to be disregarded, violates the neutrality of a friendly State, commits all kinds of barbarities, and casts an envious eye on the possession of its neighbors and determines it is right to take them if they can muster up the might to do so?

Gen. Von Bernhardi avers that the law "force one another" can "claim no significance for the relations of one country to another, since its application to politics would lead to a conflict of duties. The law which a man shows to another country, as such would imply a want of love for his own countrymen. Such a system of politics must inevitably lead men astray. Christian morality is personal and social and in its nature cannot be political."

No wonder that the Christian civilization of to-day is in a arm against brutish German. If ever there was need of a St. George, there is a call for him to-day to slay the German dragon; and a St. George is to the fore in the strife, and to-morrow is a Day of Intercession for the success of his fight for the Right.

Big Fire At Lewisporte. Damages Estimated at $20,000.

A disastrous fire of unknown origin occurred at Lewisporte early yesterday morning, and before it could be got under control, the hotel, store and outhouses owned by Mr. E. Manuel were razed to the ground. A piano, which was badly scorched, a few chairs, and a stove were the only articles saved. Mr. Manuel's loss alone is about $15,000, and this with the damages done to the adjacent buildings will make the total loss about $20,000.

The fire was discovered at 3 a.m. yesterday, and the alarm quickly spread over the settlement. There was a strong breeze from the southwest which intensified the flames to such an extent that in a short time all the principal buildings, including the Post Office, F. P. U. Store, and Freck's Hotel were in imminent danger. The crew of the S.S. Home, the section men of the Reid Nfld. Co. Railway, train hands, and yard men fought the flames courageously and succeeded in confining the area of the blaze to a small section as possible. After about two hours and a half of hard work the fire was pretty nearly under control. In the meantime the hotel, with all its contents had been destroyed. The F. P. U. Store, which is about one hundred yards from where the fire originated, caught twice, and with great difficulty it was saved from destruction. The railway station also was in danger and the sides of the building became badly scorched and blistered. But for the services of the men from the Reid Company, the whole town would probably have been destroyed. The hose from the S.S. Home together with all the buckets available kept the adjacent buildings from igniting during the terrible conflagration, that terrified the inhabitants who were awakened at such an early hour. At 8 a.m. the fire was practically all out though a quantity of coals that was stored in the cellar of the hotel, continued to burn during the remainder of the day.

Very little insurance was carried, the total amount being only $4,200. It is thought that the fire originated in the store where a hard coal fire was kept burning all night.

War News.

9.30 A.M. OFFICERS CASUALTY LIST.

1,203 Officers All Told.
LONDON, To-day.
The Officers' Casualty List which embraces losses from September 29 to October 6th, shows a total killed, wounded and missing, 116, added to previous totals up to September 29th. Deducting for wounded men who have died and missing men who have been accounted for, the record shows that since the beginning of the war, Britain's casualties in officers amounts to 1,203 men, of whom 280 killed, 625 wounded, 298 missing.

10.30 A.M. GERMANS OCCUPY OSTEND.

LONDON, To-day.
Germans entered Ostend at 10.30 o'clock on Thursday morning, according to the Daily Mail's correspondent, who left that port at the moment of German occupation. Their appearance excited tremendous commotion among the hundreds of refugees who had been unable to get away and stood stricken on the quays. Correspondent adds there was an outburst of groans and hoots mingled with screams and cries. The correspondent got away on a small Red Cross Motor boat.

11.30 A.M. GERMAN GUNBOAT CAPTURED.

LONDON, To-day.
A despatch from Melbourne says that advice of capture of a German gunboat has been received by the Government from New Guinea. From the Battlefront: The belief in their final success appears to have taken a firm hold on the Allies. All the men display confidence in their commanders, who are doing everything possible to spare their troops. The Allied soldiers are fighting with vigor; they often perform marches which seem beyond their power, while on the battle field their ardor is unrestrainable.

RUSSIANS SOWING MINES.

PETROGRAD, To-day.
The Russian Government announces that because of the presence of German submarines in the Gulf of Finland and the sowing of mines in Russian waters by the enemy, it has been compelled in turn to have recourse to similar measures, consequently certain zones of Russian waters, especially those near the Gulf of Riga and Finland and the Littoral of the Archipelago must be considered as dangerous.

GERMANS CAPTURE AEROPLANE.

LONDON, To-day.
A despatch from Amsterdam says that according to a German paper Der Tag, an English aeroplane was shot down near Peronne, France, inside the German line. The two aviators aboard were captured.

BELGIAN TROOPS IN GOOD SPIRITS.

LONDON, To-day.
The Times Antwerp correspondent who accompanied the Belgian army in its retreat to France telegraphs from the present headquarters of Belgians which is unnamed saying that far from the army being demoralized. Troops, though fatigued, are in the best spirits and anxious to meet the Germans again.

2.30 P.M. GERMANS PLEASED WITH TAKING OF OSTEND.

LONDON, To-day.
All reports reaching London say that German imagination has been fired by the taking of Ostend and the cry now is not only "On to Calais," but "on to Boulogne." What progress, if any, the Germans have made since they entered Ostend on Thursday morning is not known here but their next object is apparently Dunkirk. The opinion in England seems to differ as to what part the British fleet would play should the battle continue to skirt the coastline. The reports that British dreadnoughts would back up French, British and Belgian forces from the Straits of Dover seem to originate in German sources.

GERMAN OCCUPATION OF COAST LINE.

LONDON, To-day.
The papers generally depressed by the importance of the German occupation of the Belgian coast line, pointing out that the British mine field prevents the enemy bringing ships to operate from the home to spacious harbor of Ostend. The fact remains, however, that as fighting gets geographically nearer to England, the public heretofore discussing and speculating on a Zeppelin raid is bound to ask itself what will come next. The Allied left is holding its ground. At some points it is even moving forward, having occupied Laventie, driving the Germans back in the direction of Lille. One report had it that the Germans had been driven out of Lille, but this has not been confirmed. Late definite news came during the morning of the fighting along the Vistula River, where the Russians claim to have repulsed a German attack. Whether the German advance on Warsaw has been permanently checked, only the future can show. One version has it that the Germans are preparing to winter in Poland.

St. Pierre Bulletin

Official 16th.—To our left wing the action continues with vigor everywhere. Have gained ground on certain points and occupied Laventie westward of Estaires in direction of Lille. No notable incident to report on high parts of front except for unsuccessful attack by Germans in region of Malancourt at northwest of Verdun.

Nab.—Servians and Montenegrins have taken Grand Plateau of Glininatz, a few miles from Sarajevo and dominating fortifications of Bosnian capital.

At St. Andrew's.

To-morrow's services at the Kirk will be of a special nature in keeping with Intercession Sunday. At the morning services the Rev. J. S. Sutherland will take "Conditions of Acceptable Prayer" as his topic. The musical portion of the service includes a solo by Miss Jean Strang, and a trio by the Misses Strang and Miss Anderson. At the evening service the topic will be "Why Prayer Prevails." The choir will sing an anthem and Mr. Ruggles contributes a solo.

Personal.

Mr. Stewart J. Fuller, U. S. Consul General at large, arrived in the city on Thursday last on a tour of inspection of the U. S. Consulate. Mr. Fuller is a guest at the Cochrane House, and will remain in the city until some time next week.

His Grace Archbishop McCarthy, of Halifax, accompanied by Rev. Father Callyon, arrived at Port aux Basques this morning, and will arrive in the city by to-morrow's express.

Here and There.

EARL OF DEVON.—The Earl of Devon left Bale Verte last midnight, coming south.

WEATHER.—It is calm and fine along the line of railway to-day with the temperature ranging from 40 to 50 above.

FOGOTA.—The Fogota left Musgrave at 6.40 a.m. to-day, coming south, and is due here to-morrow morning.

LECTURE.—To-morrow evening, Mr. W. C. Jones will give an illustrated lecture at the Grenfell Hall on "Switzerland."

FISH STEAMER ARRIVES.—The s.s. Rudolph Hansen, 9 days from Swansea, reached port to-day. She will load fish for Mediterranean ports.

POEM BY MR. I. C. MORRIS.—Mr. Morris has furnished us with a somewhat lengthy poem entitled "The Price of Empire," which we hope to publish on Tuesday.

TENDERED A DINNER.—Last night, Chief steward Wright of the s.s. Bonaventure, entertained the officers of the ship to a dinner at Butler's restaurant.

LOADING FOR PERNAM.—The schr. Novelty is now loading codfish for Pernambuco, from the Monroe Export Co., and will sail towards the end of next week.

PROPOSED CHARTER.—It is said that either the Nascope or Bonaventure will be chartered to make one trip on the Red Cross service during the absence of the Florizel.

STEPHANO SAILS.—The s.s. Stephano, owing to the large freight of coffee, will not sail until Monday evening. The following passengers are booked to go in saloon: Mrs. Baker, Miss Breen, W. A. Winter, P. Farrell, Wm. King and 30 steerage.

NOTICE.

Owing to the Postponement of the Funeral of the late Archbishop to Monday, the Guards of Honour from the various Societies will be continued on Sunday evening and Monday morning, the schedule of Friday and Saturday being resumed—"Cade's 7 p.m.—8 p.m., etc."

By order,
T. P. HALLEY,
Secretary,
Gen'l Com. of Societies.

MINARD'S LINIMENT RELIEVES NEURALGIA.

J. M. DEVINE, The Right House,

Says that on Friday and Saturday of this week he intends offering 500 Pairs
at $2.50, that he will sell on Friday and Saturday at
He also says that he has 300 pairs, regularly sold
Men's Tweed Pants, $1.20 per pair.

Good quality. Regular $1.90 and $2.00 goods at $1.50.

English Overcoats will also be on sale at greatly reduced prices; and a first class line of American Suits.

The story of the Pants is simply this. A manufacturer who found himself overstocked, closed out to Devine's at a very low price—so low indeed as to make people wonder how such articles of clothing could be made so cheaply.

Here is another item of interest: He has just captured 50 doz. Men's, Women's, Misses' and Child's Stockings, which will be sold at a low price.

Tribute of St. Georges.

Special to Evening Telegram.
ST. GEORGES, To-day.
St. Georges' deeply grieved over death of Archbishop Howley. The people here do not forget his loving care and solicitude for their interests, temporal and spiritual, during the years that he presided over our widely scattered population. He endured the hardships of the pioneer and helped us to bear the burden of an oppressive treaty. Through his occasional championship of our cause, came at first amelioration and then release. His name will live in the history of our country and in the hearts of a grateful people.

Messages of Sympathy.

Brighton, Eng., October 16.
Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, Prime Minister of Nfld.: Greatly grieved at Archbishop's death. Much sympathy.

BOYLE, (Sir Cavendish Boyle, former Governor.)

The Archbishop Toronto sincerely sympathizes with Catholics in Newfoundland, in loss beloved Metropolitan.

N. McNEILL, Archbishop.

Sincere sympathy for the loss of your esteemed Archbishop. ARCHBISHOP BRUCHESE, Montreal.

Day of Intercession.

According to the Proclamation issued by His Excellency the Governor, after consultation with the heads of the different denominations, tomorrow will be observed as a day of Universal Prayer and Supplication to Almighty God for the protection of the British Empire and for the success of the British Arms and Allied Forces, and for the blessings of an honourable and lasting Peace. In the afternoon also special services of a patriotic character are being held.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Capt. Isaac Bartlett, of Bay Roberts, arrived in town yesterday, and will build the house for the Messrs. Davis, returned to by us last week.

Miss Butt, Principal of Victoria St. school, reached another milestone along life's journey to-day. Miss Butt is receiving the congratulations and best wishes of her pupils and other friends.

The 'Mystic Tie,' Capt. M. Fleming, arrived from the Labrador Wednesday morning, and the Dorothy, Capt. M. Sheppard, yesterday, also from the Labrador.

Mr. Eugene Adams, mentioned in our notes some time ago, as being very sick with tuberculosis, passed away this morning. He leaves a widow and a large family to mourn the loss of the breadwinner. Mr. Adams was a member of Rising Sun Lodge, No. 1, L.O.A. of this town. Mr. Adams was 41 years old.

Mr. Robert Brazil is suffering from another attack of appendicitis, and it is thought he will have to go to St. John's to hospital.

A rather strange sight was witnessed by the writer on Wednesday afternoon, near Cape St. Francis. Our attention was first attracted by what looked like four columns of smoke near the Cape. Almost immediately three other columns appeared some distance to the north. With a glass we could see plainly other columns rising in straight lines at first, and then spreading. In all we saw about twenty columns, then all was clear again. The affair seems strange, but it had the appearance of heavy firing from ships. It must have been either a naval engagement or some ships at target practice. Several of our citizens watched the horizon with keen interest.

The ladies of St. Paul's Church intend holding a Sociable and Apron Sale in St. Paul's Hall on Wednesday, November 25th, the proceeds to go to defraying expenses of repairs on roof of St. Paul's Church.

Two Heroic Officers.

(From the London Chronicle.)
A German maxim concealed in brushwood wrought terrible havoc during the early days of the war, and a small company of the Royal Scots was detached to capture it.

Captain Brussell, D.S.O., who directed the movement, shouted "Cheer up, men, you all belong to the Royal Scots. If we go down we are dying for the old Royals."

These were his last words, for he fell immediately the charge had begun, struck down by two bullets from the maxin.

(Related by a corporal who was wounded in the charge.)

"Our Major (Mathieson) was a hero. When we were hard pressed and they charged our weak line we were almost on the point of retiring, but he stood up in the midst of the fire and shouted, 'Never let it be said that a Coldstream retired in front of a German dog.'"

"Each man felt as one after that, and we lay down and never flinched. They got to us, but never broke our line. One big beast of a sergeant went up to one of our men and said, 'It's all right, I'm a French officer. The French are here.' He then ripped the poor fellow up. Four of them attempted the same thing, but one of our officers shot the four with his revolver."

"They charged us seven times. Each time their trumpeters sounded we gave it to them. They were nearly through once or twice. We saved the remainder of the division. I think we will get a special bar for it."

(Told by a private in the Coldstream Guards.)

A PRAYER.

This solemn appeal, from the pen of Neil Munro, was read in the churches of Glasgow on Sunday, August 9.

Lord, from this storm-awakened isle, At this dark hour on land and sea, Twixt bugle-call and Sabbath bell Go up our prayers to Thee.

For the long years of sanctuary

We tender thanks, O Lord! For peaceful fields and sacred hearths And the unused sword.

Thine be the praise! And now when quakes The world, and trials come, O God! preserve inviolate Our sacred island home.

O! had we died untried, unproved And missed this hour of stress— Praise be to God for this last gift, The joy of steadfastness!

Where'er our people be to-night, Our husbands or our sons, Tossed on the thunder-bolted deep, Or bivouacked by the guns—

Treading the mire of a foreign land, Or guarding our native coasts, Be Thou our Shield and Comforter, We pray Thee, God of Hosts!

The 4 British Belles

LAST DAY HERE.

To-night is the farewell performance of the four British Belles, and they intend giving a real farewell finish. See the British Belles to-night. They will give two full performances, and have arranged to give their final performance late for the benefit of the store people. The Frog Man, who was such a sensational hit here two years ago, opens a welcome return engagement on Monday. Also the marvelous Serpentele, the Boneless Lady, the greatest novelty performers in the world to-day and their first show on Monday night will prove that this statement is true. There will also be the latest and best pictures, and some very good music, pretty and appropriate by Mrs. Nurse.

Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works, and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Marshall Bros

Shattering the Nest.

(From a Sermon by the Rev. John Macneil, B.A., Toronto.)

There never was a better cause undertaken after more patient exhaustion of the means of an honorable peace, and in the face of more deliberate and insulting provocation, and there are no lengths of resistance and self-sacrifice, we believe, to which the British nation and the nations of the Empire will not be prepared to go to defend the right and to crush that mad spirit which, beginning in "folly," has had its end in "wickedness." I speak of this because, without a clear conscience, our purpose cannot be high, our faith cannot be firm and strong; but with the profound conviction that our cause is right, the faith of the nation will remain unclouded, the courage of the nation will know no limits, no defeat shall ever dismay us, no victory shall ever spoil us, for with unshaken conscience we can and we will in humbled dependence wait upon God.

With that deep sense of right underlying all, what is to be the spirit of our people? There are three duties that await us:

1. We must seek, first of all, for the good that lies beyond this conflict, for good there surely is: It is not easy now to see its form. It is hard to trace one gleam of light through the cloud. It is difficult to behold anything in the immediate prospect but the incalculable suffering and misery that must fall on guilty and innocent alike, and the innumerable loss that must come, not to this country alone, but to every country, and not to this age alone, but to posterity and to the whole prospects of European civilization. But good there will be! I repeat, it is not easy now to see.

For who can so forecast the years. And find in loss a gain to match? Or reach a hand through time to catch the far-off interest of tears? But a "far-off interest" there will surely be to all our tears, and in the providence of God a mightier gain will match each overwhelming loss. It may be that England needs this baptism of blood. We are not here to condemn one another, but to confess that as a nation, in the riot for gain and pleasure, we have been forgetting God. Isaiah tells of a time when Bright, Browning, Tennyson, Shaftesbury, and many others, all born within ten years of each other. In these same ten years Italy suckled at her bleeding breasts Cavour, Mazzini, Garibaldi, and a few years later Victor Emmanuel, the four names worth mentioning in the last century of Italian history, the four men who secured the liberty of the Italian people and brought about the unity of the Italian kingdom. In those same ten years Germany, fighting then against the Caesarism of which she is now the exponent, produced her first and greatest statesman, Bismarck; France gave us Victor Hugo for literature; while the throbs of that world-upheaval seemed to reach America and there sprang into being Wendell Phillips, William Lloyd Garrison, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Henry Ward Beecher, and last and most splendid of all, Abraham Lincoln, the flower of American manhood. "No! I am not an advocate of war," I believe that "war is hell" and comes out of hell. But let us not forget that in His overruling wisdom God brings good out of evil; He will make the wrath of men to praise Him; and let us remember that the highest spiritual interests and hopes of the race were redeemed and secured out of the mystery of suffering by the word of the Saviour in Gethsemane and Calvary.

2. Our second duty, above all, is to remember that God is over all. In the stately words of our lesson, "It is He that sitteth upon the circle of the earth and the inhabitants thereof are as grass-hoppers." The nations before Him are as a drop of a bucket. He is the exalter of princes and the debaser of monarchs. He setteth up whom He will and putteth down whom He shall choose. Eagle-like He moves with lofty power in lofty places. He is strong to destroy as well as to save. His eye is keen to mark every fault upon the earth. His sudden justice often swoops down on the rotting carcass of society to rend it in pieces with His unexpected judgment. We recall what Victor Hugo said of Waterloo: "Was it possible for Napoleon to win Waterloo? We answer, No. Why? Because of Wellington? No. Because of Bucher? No. Because of the rain? No. Because of God. It was time this vast man should fall. He had been impeached before the throne of the Infinite and his fall had been decreed." And then Victor Hugo adds, with almost a touch of sacrilege: "Napoleon bothered God." We can hope for and ask for nothing higher than to be the instruments of His Will in all His unfolding of the moral order. And if so be that we are among those who are His chosen ministers of judgment, we must do our appointed work thoroughly and well.

3. Our third duty is to fortify ourselves for great sacrifice. We shall all be sufferers. There is no one, rich or poor, high or low, from the King with his overwrought anxiety to the lowliest child, on whom the burden will not fall. The pressure of pain will come upon Society everywhere. Destruction will not be slow to visit us. Sorrow shall sit on every door step. The homes of great and small will be wrapped in gloom alike because the light will have died out of young eyes, and the strong hearts of fathers and husbands and brothers and sons will have ceased to beat. It is the duty of all to sink their selfish interests in the interests of mankind. We must tend ourselves—as each one

The Titanic Play-Spot

Summer was hailing the last of its waves of play-seekers upon the beach and board-walk of Atlantic City, Marian Winthrop had heard and read much of the famous resort. She found it a perfect water of leisure and herbaric color. Here was democracy engaged in a brooding, magnificent frolic.

From the terpsichorean tumult of the Maxixe-mad horde in the ball-room, set like a flaming jewel in the end of that gaudy bar-pin, the steel pier, to the endless parade of strollers on the boardwalk, and the wave-splashed thousands of bathers in the foaming surf, she found everything and more than she had expected.

Over seas to the east, war was ravaging Europe with unprecedented ferocity, yet here, save for the Titanic headlines of the newspapers and their vendors' shrill cries, the only evidence of conflict was that of gaudy color with color among the promenaders, and the battle of breakers with bathers on the crowded beach.

Marian spent her first day soaking up impressions and making notes for the article the editor of the "Cliff Dweller" had suggested. Gathering her material was easy. It surrounded her in gobs. The task of wringing it into attractive form was less facile of accomplishment. For two days she toiled, then viewed the completed work with pleasure and dispatched it to New York.

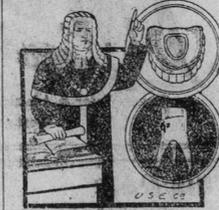

Her immediate work done, Marian let herself relax, determined to have a good time. She dallied with the fake jewels offered for sale in the endless shops and marvelled at the flashing surfaces of dollar "diamonds" and fifty-cent "sapphires." She sent picture post cards to a dozen of her friends. She visited the steptenace and its laugh provokers, nibbled salt-water taffy, rode in wheel chairs, bathed in the ocean, basked in the warm sand, watched brazen bathers tangoing in the wet sand, listened to brass bands and orchestras, watched nimble-footed negroes smirking and doing the cake-walk, and beheld the one-step lay hold of whole armies of its devotees and hurl them into its weird gyrations.

It was here, watching the sea-wind-swept, dance-obsessed merry-makers in the ball-room far out on the far-flung pier, that the first feelings of loneliness began affecting her. At one time she had been very much of a social creature. She loved to dance. Yet here she was, amid a whole army of dancers, but utterly alone.

She found herself wishing that Bert Barker were here, or Jack Meadows. Yet, as she thought of them, she became aware that both of these men who in turn had laid such strong hold of her interest and friendship, had begun to fade greatly in her memory. And Marian Winthrop faced the knowledge that Charles Challoner had become the one man who meant the most to her in the world just now. Where was he? What must he be thinking about her and her failure to communicate with him in New York? After all, why had she failed to do so? Regarding dreamily the dance-intoxicated throngs on the gleaming floor before her, she questioned the logic which had made her run away from New York after having returned there at the call of Challoner, the man who had come so forcefully into her life.

Conflicting emotions played with her as the evening wore on. Uppermost in her heart was the feeling of consuming and oppressive loneliness. She wanted this man Challoner—and more than she was willing to admit. To-morrow—Trying to Forge: Challoner.

Joints Quit Aching Soreness Beats it Away

NO MORE STIFFNESS, PAIN OR MISERY IN YOUR BACK OR SIDE OR LIMBS!

Wonderful "Nerviline" is the Remedy.

A marvelous pain reliever. Not an ordinary liniment — just about five times more powerful, more penetrating, more pain-subduing than any thick, oily or ammonia liniment. Nerviline fairly eats up the pain and stiffness in chronic rheumatic joints, gives quick relief to those throbbing pains, and never burns or even stains the skin.

"Rheumatism kept my joints swollen and sore for ten years. My right knee joint was often too painful to allow me to walk. In this crippled condition I found Nerviline a blessing. Its warm, soothing action brought relief I had given up hoping for. I rubbed on quantities of Nerviline and improved greatly. I also took Ferrézine at mealtime in order to purify and enrich my blood. I am today well and can recommend my treatment most conscientiously." (Signed) C. PARKS, Prince Albert.

Not an ache or pain in the muscles or joints that Nerviline won't cure. It's wonderful for lumbago and sciatica; for neuralgia, stiff neck, earache and toothache. Nerviline is simply a wonder. Best family liniment known and largely used for the past forty years. Sold by all dealers everywhere. Large family size bottle 50c. Small trial size 25c. Refuse a substitute take only "Nerviline."

Long chiffon sleeves, resembling the bishop, are gathered into crepe de chine cuffs.

The Bartlett Exploration Trip.

There arrived by the S. S. Nascope yesterday from the Far North Capt. Harold Bartlett after an eventful trip. Capt. Bartlett sailed from here on July 15th last in his auxiliary schooner Laddie with supplies for Messrs. O'Flaherty and LeDuc, representatives of the Canadian Railway Company, whom he took north last year on an exploring expedition. Conditions were normal until Cape Mugford was reached when heavy ice was met. The craft had to be navigated carefully to avoid being jammed in the ice. She was off Madjuak Bay on August 15th. On that day the ice in the harbour started to loosen and break up and two days after she put in there where Messrs. O'Flaherty and LeDuc, who were at Madjuak all last winter, accompanied by S. Sainsbury, of Westville, were taken on board. Four days later the Laddie left and proceeded to Cape Dorset, thence to Erik Cove, Cape Western Home and Ottawa Islands. On September 10th the vessel put into Belcher Islands and the party landed there. Capt. Bartlett said that they were the first white men to land there, though other explorers had sighted the place before. These islands, which lay in 56 north latitude, were found to be different in many respects than the charts show. A thorough examination of the islands were made and maps drawn by Messrs. O'Flaherty and LeDuc. On the islands are foxes, Arctic hare and geese. After five days spent exploring the Belchers the Laddie moved on to Nastipoka Sound where the party again landed. Before reaching there the craft was caught in a fierce storm and lost nearly every stitch of her canvas. She came through without further mishap although having battled with the elements for ten or twelve hours. Exploration was carried on at Nastipoka Sound and continued at Mantouch Sound the next port reached. Leaving there the Laddie journeyed to Great Whale River, which was reached on September 20th. It was then the voyagers learned for the first time that greatest war in the world's history was in progress. Six days later Capt. Bartlett and three of his crew joined the Nascope at Charlton and came on here, leaving behind two of his crew, Mate W. Robertson and Engineer M. O'Leary to remain at Moose Bay, in James' Bay, to look after the Laddie till next spring when Captain Bartlett will resume his exploring operations. Messrs. O'Flaherty and LeDuc went by canoe from Charlton to Cochrane, Cobalt. From there they expected to get to their principals in Canada.

The Laddie is a staunch little vessel and withstood the voyage well. Her motor engine worked satisfactorily. Near Belcher Islands the craft struck an uncharted shoal but was not damaged.

The weather on the whole was fairly good, though fog was prevalent. On September 1st at Ottawa Islands the Scottish steam whaler Active was met but she had no fish taken up to then.

Capt. Bartlett has now visited every section of Hudson Bay.

Wishes.

The blacksmith labors at his forge and mutters now and then: "By George, I'd like to be a banker; it's weary work to swing a sledge, and manufacture iron wedges, and fashion plow and anchor. The banker's life is around and gloats o'er piles of bonds and stocks and notes, attired in princely raiment, while I must strain my weary thews to meet my Sons of Milo dues, or make some other payment. The banker's girls are wearing gems, his wife has priceless diamonds, all gifts the kind gods bring 'em; but my good wife and girls, alas, have only brooches of plate glass, and they are wearing gingham." The banker, shy of brawn and pith, admires the mighty, stalwart smith, all full of red corpuscles; he sighs, "Oh, chee, I'd give my wealth, to have that man's abundant health, his giant bones and muscles! I do not doubt that he can eat a side of mutton and repeat, and feel no indigestion; his stomach takes what it receives, and never balks, and never heaves, and never asks a question. But if I eat a crumb of cake I have twelve kinds of stomach ache, my works will be corroded; a sirlin steak would knock me cold—so what's the use of all the gold with which they say I'm loaded?" Complaining mortal, be content, and envy not the other gent, whose lot seems so much better; he also sighs for some relief; he has his share of care and grief, as sure as donner-wetter.

Fishery Reports.

Oct. 10. From J. Benning (Burin to Lawn Point).—The total catch is 5460 qts., and for last week 20. Forty dories, 4 boats and 1 motor are fishing. Two vessels returned from the Western Banks and report no fish. Prospects are good and there was plenty of squid on Thursday and Friday. The weather is excellent but the bait supply uncertain, there being days when none can be obtained. Apparently there is plenty of cod on the grounds, as on Friday, the only day the men were out, they secured good catches.

At the City Hall.

Tributes of Respect to the Archbishop. The Chairman and full Board were present at last night's meeting of the Civic Commission.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and adopted, the pay rolls were passed. The Chairman then arose and touchingly referred to the death of His Grace Archbishop Howley. He spoke of His Grace's distinction of being the first Newfoundlandier to become Bishop, followed by his elevation to the Archbishopric, in which capacity he ruled with charity, dignity and distinguished piety. He referred also to the deceased Prelate's deep interest in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the country, and the advancement of the city, particularly in the betterment of the condition of the poor. In him were to be found all the noble traits that go to make a devoted churchman, an earnest patriot and an exemplary citizen. As a citizen, His Grace expressed many excellent suggestions with regard to the question of housing the poor, and the Chairman was of the opinion that when those in charge of the city were in a position to consider the housing problem, the name of His Grace the Archbishop would be associated with the movement, because in him this question had a most earnest advocate. Mr. Gosling then submitted the following resolution:

"The members of the St. John's Municipal Board having learned of the death of His Grace Most Rev. M. F. Howley, Archbishop of St. John's, and head of the Roman Catholic Church in Newfoundland, desire to place on record their deep sense of sorrow in the loss of so distinguished and highly accomplished churchman.

"His Grace had a long and brilliant career as missionary priest and Bishop of Newfoundland and a prolific and graceful writer. Self-sacrificing, straightforward, endowed with the higher qualities of priestly virtues, he endeared himself to his people and was highly regarded and appreciated by all classes of the community.

"Many monuments of his zeal and activity remain as the result of his labors in the ministry. He was a man of great public spirit, an exemplary citizen and above all things a generous, kind and courteous gentleman.

"RESOLVED that the Board place on record their expression of profound sorrow in the loss of this community and country sustains in the death of the Archbishop.

FURTHER RESOLVED that a copy of these Resolutions be sent to the Administrator, Right Rev. Monsignor Roche, V.G., and to the family of the deceased, and that also a copy be entered on the Minutes of this meeting.

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that as a mark of respect for the memory of the deceased Archbishop, this regular meeting do stand adjourned."

Mr. J. W. Withers, in proposing the adoption of the resolutions, paid the tribute of a personal friend to the memory of the late Archbishop. With feelings of genuine personal grief, he very touchingly referred to his long acquaintance with the deceased Prelate, his recollection of their boyhood associations when they played the old game of "hurlies" together on Quidi Vidi Lake, and the close friendship that characterized their associations of later years. He said that His Grace was a distinguished member of a distinguished family. Though his predecessors in office may have exceeded him in some qualities, he felt sure that in general versatility, he excelled all those who had gone before him. Mr. Withers was deeply moved by the passing of his much cherished friend, and expressed his inability to pay worthy tribute to his memory. In conclusion he said that his remarks were but an appreciation of the worth of a man, who worked for the generation in which he lived.

Hon. John Harris, in seconding the adoption of the resolutions, referred at length to the splendid work accomplished by the Archbishop, who during the twenty years of his sacred office had erected buildings that would stand as a fitting monument to his memory. He was always ready to offer assistance in any civic undertaking, and would make suggestions where he thought good might result.

Hon. John Anderson spoke to the motion, and said that amongst other things the city had a monument of the late Archbishop in the City's Coat of Arms, which was designed by His Grace some ten years ago.

Mr. I. C. Morris spoke as a personal friend of the deceased, from whom he had received much encouragement in his literary undertakings. Amongst the many priceless documents which he prized, were to be found notes of appreciation of his literary efforts from the pen of His Grace. He said that when at work on Thursday last, he heard of the death of the Archbishop, he received a sudden shock, and when making a note in his diary a little later, he added the following: "a prince in his church, to his country a patriot, and to everyone a benefactor."

Mr. E. M. Jackson referred at

The Patriot.

In Memory of Archbishop Howley. The hand is sorrowful for his dead; Who was her friend thro' years of grief and joy. Tho' all the years to be, it shall not die The lustre that his life's work round her shed.

Oh, Terra Nova! thou hast lost a heart That clung to thee as clings thy circling sea. A soul that loved and watched thee as a part Of his own life. Bright shall thy memory be Thou first and gifted Prelate of our Isle; On every side great works thy worth can tell. Deeds of thy hands in town and hamlet smile, And more than this — thy people loved thee well!

To many a field to-day, the hero-souled — The lover of his land — goes forth to die, We believe, Oh, Lord, the Gates are open rolled, That alleluias greet the brave on high; And him we mourn — none loved more than he His sea-girt home; he battled for her long; And so his spirit with the bold shall be — Behold him! There where white-robed heroes throng!

Yes, Post-lover of thy native land, The patriot's God looks from His throne to-day. For Heavenward now a hero-marched band Moves on, bright angels herald their array; Now from amongst them thou art seen to stand, And as their ranks grand acclamation gave. We see thee, in the glory of the Lord, Decked with the patriot's crown amid the brave! DAN CARROLL.

length to the great work of the Archbishop. He had been many years intimately acquainted with him, and knew of the keen interest he had taken in his native land. He spoke of his strength of character and dignity. He was in every respect a patriot, a churchman and a citizen, and at all times interested in Newfoundlanders at home and abroad. He said that only in the future, when the coming generations look back through the years and see all that was accomplished by this great man, will these lasting monuments of his labors be appreciated.

Messrs. F. Bradshaw, J. J. Mullaly, C. P. Ayre, F. McNamara and J. McGrath also spoke in support of the resolutions, each in turn, paying a marked tribute of respect to the memory of the most distinguished son that Newfoundland has yet produced.

After the unanimous adoption of the resolutions, the meeting adjourned.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11, 1903. Minard's Liniment Co., Limited. Sirs—I came across a bottle of your MINARD'S LINIMENT in the hands of one of the students at the University of Maryland, and he being so kind as to let me use it for a very long time, which I obtained in training for foot races, and to say that it helped me would be putting it very mildly, and I therefore ask if you would let me know of one of your agents that is closest to Baltimore so that I may obtain some of it. Thanking you in advance I remain, Yours truly, W. C. MCGUEN. 14 St. Paul street, Care Oliver Typewriter Co. P.S.—Kindly answer a once.

Fell Into Hold of Vessel

While boarding the sch. Willie K. at Stabb's wharf yesterday afternoon, Mr. T. Mahoney, belonging to St. Mary's, met with an accident and was injured, though not seriously. He tripped in the combings of the hatch, which was left open, and landed on a pile of stone ballast. As a result his body was badly bruised and a deep cut inflicted in his head but no bones were broken. He was picked up in a semi-conscious condition and brought to the police station, where he was attended by Dr. Roberts, who had to insert three stitches to close the wound in Mahoney's head. But the fact that Mahoney broke his fall by grasping the side of the hatch when going through the open space he would no doubt have fared badly.

A TRIAL WILL PROVE THIS.

The Usages of Silence.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Grand court's speeches were of that brief sort which never fail to make a conversational figure when the speaker is held important in his own circle. Stopping so soon, they give signs of a formidable ability to say more and have also the meritorious quality of allowing lengthiness to others."

—Daniel Deronda.

Of ten women eight are apt to be overdressed to one who is too simply costumed.

Of ten rooms eight are sure to be overcrowded to one that is too bare.

And of ten people, at least eight will talk too much to one who says too little.

The poise, the dignity, the significance of silence is something little understood.

Few people realize what an impression of superior force the man who says little and says it with an air of being able to say much more, may give.

I know a man of little early education who has risen by force of ability into the companionship of educated and cultured people. Most of these people know nothing of his lack of education and suspect nothing; for he has thoroughly learned the usages of silence. When the talk turns on topics with which he is familiar and he has something good to say, he says it. When it swings on to dangerous ground he does not try to bluff, with the inevitable result of sooner or later making himself ridiculous to people who know. Instead he listens and absorbs, throwing in a sympathetic word now and then, and for the rest keeping silence with a dignity that often makes him seem wiser than those who speak.

Again I know a young woman who was thrown among people of more breeding and savoir faire than she herself possessed. She was self-conscious, and like most self-conscious people, made the mistake of talking too much and saying things she regretted. She was clever enough, however, to soon realize her own mistake and made up her mind to check herself. Accordingly she made a determined effort to say as little as possible and she was astonished to find how often a smile or a nod of acknowledgement would serve for an answer to her friends' sallies instead of a reply which she was not enough at ease to make successfully.

A smile is the universal language understood by young and old, rich and poor, Asiatic and Caucasian. We should speak in this tongue more than we do. Pauses too, are auxiliaries to vocal speech of which few people take full advantage. A pause before an answer not only gives you time to prepare that answer properly and put it into the words which best express it, but it adds weight to what you finally do say. A pause indicates the presence of thought, that rare but welcome ingredient in conversation.

If speech indeed is silver and silence golden, few of us seem to be anxious for riches.

Ruth Cameron

Say Big Guns of Germans Not Effective.

Paris, Oct. 9.—A question widely discussed by the military experts but undecided is the relative effectiveness of the German big howitzers, their approximate range of action, and if they do as much execution as the noise they make should warrant. The testimony of a British captain who had actually observed the operations of these new guns is of interest and importance. He said:

"I was standing with a sergeant watching the German snipers climbing up a church steeple, 'black mar-god deal of shell fire and a good deal of them—that they do very little harm, except exactly where they pitch. If they come near where men are standing, of course, they blow them to bits. But you see my own case. After a day or two I was very little the worse but for the splinters. I should say that at thirty yards there was no danger for men lying down, though, of course, standing you might get hit. How I came to be in the hole and so little damaged I cannot imagine. There was nothing left of the sergeant at my side.

"By my reckoning, these shells cost about $5,000 apiece. As they can be fired only at the rate of about one every quarter of an hour, it would seem that they are by no means so formidable or so practicable and business-like as quick-firers."

Tigers Feed on Elk.

In Famine-Hit Zoo of the Hagenbecks.

London, Oct. 9.—A well known showman in London has received curiously interesting news from Hamburg concerning the famous Hagenbeck menageries.

It is rumoured that two of the brothers Hagenbeck have been killed in battle. A large number of keepers and trainers have been called to the war. As a result difficulties of the gravest kind have gradually arisen in the picturesque colony of the jungle people.

Pangs of famine have brought terrible times to Hagenbeck's beasts. When the meat supply failed certain of the less valuable specimens of deer and mountain goats were shot to supply the lions and tigers with meat.

An English-keeper has succeeded in sending a letter to London, which says:

"Elks worth 100 marks are being slaughtered to feed the tigers, while the lions, jaguars, leopards and other meat eaters are receiving daily chunks cut from carcasses of costly springbok and equally valuable sheep from Tibet."

"There were numerous tragedies in the reptile cages before it occurred to the head keeper to separate pairs in the families of snakes. They missed their weekly rabbit, hare or small sheep. A large bear, constipated, was discovered digesting his female companion. Prior to meeting her fate she herself sated her appetite on a younger and less lengthy sister, the third inhabitant of the glass-fronted lair."

10 Cent 'Cascarets' Straighten You Up

No Sick Headache, Bilious Stomach, Costed Tongue or Constipated Bowels by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and bad colds—turn them out to-night and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret, to-night straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never stir or sicken.

Great Tea Mystery.

SIX-FOLD INTEREST VIA HOLLAND.

A six-fold increase in the shipments of tea from London to Holland is shown by the official returns issued by the Custom House when compared with the figures of a year ago.

In September, 1913, London sent to Amsterdam and Rotterdam 110,624 lbs. of tea. During last month London sent to the same two ports 687,294 lbs. On one day alone shipments to Rotterdam were 112,996 lbs.

These figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as usual, or that the tea is simply passing through Holland to Germany.

Doubtless it is against the wish of the Dutch people and Government that Germany should obtain supplies through their ports, but the figures are too emphatic to be ignored.

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferers and the desire for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percie Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have the enough insurance?

War News

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.

Oct. 16. During to-day the fighting has resulted in the gaining of ground on several points of front. To our left north of La Lys, we have taken Estaires. In the centre, north and east of Rheims, we have advanced about two kilometres. On the heights of the Meuse and in Southern Woerwa near St. Mihiel and near Marcheville equal progress is noted.

Petrograd.—There is no change on the frontier of eastern Prussia. The Russian action is progressing south of Przemysl. The Russians defeated an Austrian column who were compelled to retreat leaving on the battlefield seven officers and five hundred soldiers as prisoners; they also abandoned several maxim guns.

News to-day confirms progress of our troops. At the left wing their line of action extends now from Ypres to the sea coast.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, Oct. 16. On our left wing the action continues vigorously; everywhere we have held our own. At certain points we have gained ground and occupied Lavenze. At the east of Estaires in the direction of Lille, there is no important incident to mention on other parts of the front, except an unsuccessful attack by Germans in the region of Malancourt, northeast of Verdun.

FRENCH VICTORY.

LONDON, Oct. 16. A despatch from Basel says that fierce fighting has taken place in the Vosges Pass, in which a German column was hurled back with heavy loss.

OSTEND TAKEN.

LONDON, Oct. 16. A news despatch from Amsterdam says that fugitives who arrived at the Dutch frontier declare that Ostend has fallen into the hands of the Germans.

LONDON POLICE MAKE RAID.

LONDON, Oct. 16. The police found at Willesden, a suburb to the North West of London, a building occupied by Germans, with foundations and roof of concrete. They arrested 22 Germans on the premises. The premises were being used by C. G. Roher, a German music publisher, as a factory. The police laid their plans, and conducted a successful raid in large force they surrounded the building, and then entered it, and took into custody the 22 German subjects. The factory is one storey. They found very thick concrete foundations. It was discovered that the roof was of concrete, between three and four feet thick. The site of this factory commands several important railroad junctions. The premises of the same firm in Paris were blown up recently on orders issued by the French Government.

EXIT GERMAN.

LONDON, Oct. 16. The agitation in the London press against the employment of thousands of Germans in the hotels of the city, resulted to-day in the announcement that five fashionable houses were free of Germans. Several important hotels, notably in the Strand, are managed by Germans, and English help is not desired. Many English employees were dismissed by the German proprietors at the outbreak of the war.

ADDITIONAL SURVIVORS.

LONDON, Oct. 16. The Admiralty has announced the names of additional survivors of the cruiser Hawke, consisting of Lieut. Commander Robert R. Roseman and 20 men.

ITALIAN MINISTER DEAD.

ROME, Oct. 16. The Italian Foreign Minister, Marchese San Gulliano, is dead.

LABOR PARTY IN SYMPATHY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. A despatch to the British Embassy to-day, gave an abstract of manifestos issued by the leaders of the Labor Party, declaring their sympathy with the action of the British Government in the present war. The Labor leaders urged that a German victory would mean the death of Democracy in Europe.

BOTHA STRENGTHENED.

PRETORIA, Oct. 16. A meeting of Commandants, representing all the Free State, north of Bloemfontein, held, at Kroonstad, a resolution was unanimously adopted, denouncing the rebellion started in the northwest of the Cape Provinces by Col. Maritz, as a blot on the honor of the Free State. The resolution pledged fullest support of the Commandants to the Government, and requested a mobilization of Burghers to crush the rebellion. The action taken by the meeting is considered significant in view of the fact that hitherto the people of the Orange Free State were lukewarm regarding the campaign against the Germans.

DRIVEN FROM LILLE.

LONDON, Oct. 17. A despatch from Bologne to the Daily Mail, says it is reported there that the Germans have been driven from Lille.

SURVIVED TWO SUBMARINE ATTACKS.

LONDON, Oct. 17. Sydney Austin, a boatswain of the Hawke, who was saved, bears a charmed life according to his way of thinking. He was one of the few survivors of the cruiser Hogue, and after the sinking of this vessel he was transferred to the Hawke. Thus, within a few weeks he has survived two submarine attacks.

RUSSIA'S REPORT.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 17. An official communication from the Chief of General Staff, given out last night, says: Small engagements have taken place at the front in East Prussia. The Austro-German troops on Oct. 15, assumed the offensive all along the front between the Vistula River and Galicia to the south of Przemysl. We have captured three Austrian companies and six officers.

People are doing more reading to-day than ever before, and it is very important to those who wear glasses that they should be properly fitted. If you have any trouble or are in doubt, go to TRAFWELL, the Eye-sight Specialist.—sept18

Wesley—11, Rev. C. A. Whitmarsh; 6.30, Rev. H. Royle.

Services of Intercession, in which the members of all four Churches will unite, will be held in Gower Street Church, at 8.15 p.m. to-morrow.

UNITED INTERCESSORY PRAYER SERVICE.

At 8.15 to-morrow evening in Gower Street Church a united gathering of the four Methodist Churches of the city will be held in connection with the day of prayer as proclaimed by His Excellency Sir W. E. Davidson. Our Empire is passing through a crisis unlike anything we have ever met before. The forces of German militarism and despotism are arrayed against us, in a violent and bloody endeavour to secure world-dominion at any cost. All the moral as well as the material forces of our great Empire must be massed to defeat this long-planned programme, and a full congregation will gather to unite in prayer for the success of our arms, and for our brave men who are giving their life to secure us our liberty.

GEORGE ST. BIBLE CLASS.

The George Street Bible Class are holding a Patriotic Service in George Street Church to-morrow afternoon, commencing at 2.30 p.m. Hon. J. A. Robinson will be the speaker, and a special Patriotic programme has been prepared.

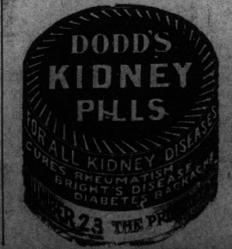

Visitors will receive a hearty welcome and especially outport friends now in the city.

WESLEY BIBLE CLASS.

To-morrow afternoon in Wesley Church the Bible Class are holding a special Patriotic Service, a good programme has been arranged. Hon. R. A. Squires will give an address. The service is open to the public and the members of the Class would like to see a large number of friends present. Visitors from the outports will receive a hearty welcome. Service starts at 2.45 p.m.

COCHRANE STREET.—Cochrane Street Sunday School holds its Rally Day Service to-morrow afternoon, in the College Hall, to commence at 2.30. All scholars are requested to be present. A hearty invitation is extended to all.

ALLAN LINE.—The Allan Liners Carthagenian and Mongolian are set down to leave Liverpool and Philadelphia, respectively, to-day for here.

The state of war makes our winters none the less severe. In making your old suit or overcoat do for the winter may be false economy. Protect your body from the warring elements by ordering one of our Heavy-weight Overcoatings. Owing to general depression in woollens we were enabled to buy in a splendid variety at a considerably reduced figure. Also a very fine range of Winter Suitings.
