Now let us square away for a good winter trade. By everyone trading at home, as far as their needs can be supplied, an impetus is given to business not occasioned when money is sent away. THE editor has received an invitation to the informal ball to be given by the Bachelors and Benedicts of Watford in the Lyceum on December 1st. We are compelled to decline the invitation. If our old and tried enemy, rheumatism, would let us move around the office without pain we would be just as happy as in the old days when we could walk and gallop around the ball room with the best of them. However, we wish all a good time with no headache the next morning. Speaking of balls we were asked the other day "Why are young ladies so fond of dancing?" The only explanation we can give is that they always have in mind the daughters of Shiloh and what happened when the children of Benjamin surprised them, as recorded in the latter part of the last chapter of the Book of Judges.

READ the Want Column.

THE hardest customer an editor has to deal with is the man who never comes into the office except when he has an axe to grind and wants someone to turn the crank. His best friends are those who visit his office often and agree to disagree without any bad after effect.

A NEWSPAPER in speaking of a deceased citizen, said: "We knew him as old Ten Per Cent—the more he had the less he spent—the more he got the less he lent—his dead—we don't know where he went; but if his soul to heaven is sent—he'll own the harp and charge 'em rent."

IF YOU'RE WISE you'll buy 'em early, buy 'em early, Mabel dear.

For almost before you know it merry Christmas will be here;

The shops will all be crowded in about two weeks from now,

And every weary clerk you meet will have a wrinkled brow;

You'll have to stand so long and wait, your joy will disappear,

So if you're wise you'll buy 'em early, buy 'em early, Mabel dear.

THE Regina Province of the 14th says: "A very pleasant feature of the recital held yesterday afternoon by the Women's Musical Club was the playing by Mrs. Tanner of two of her own compositions: (a) Reverie, and (b) Regina Waltzes. BRIGDEN PROGRESS:—"A feeling of gloom has been cast over this community by the news of the death of Mrs. Charles A. Seager. Death came to her at their home in Edmonton, Alta., where she and her husband decided to settle after their marriage about three years ago. The late Mrs. Seager was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McKellar, of Colvinton, and was well and favorably known to the people of Brigden and vicinity. The deceased is survived by her husband and two young children. A very deep sympathy is felt for the deceased husband and parents in the trial which has come to them." Mr. Charles Seager is a brother to Mr. Frank Seager of Watford.

The Tyrone (Ireland) Courier says that much regret is shown by all classes and creeds at the departure of Messrs. Robert and William Boyd and Wm. Mulligan for Canada. They are kind hearted young men of fair education and they had with them a good safeguard in the person of Mr. W. J. Moffatt, of Warwick, who since he emigrated from Ballygawley to Canada some forty years ago has by his honest hard work raised himself to a man of importance and independence. The young men were entertained at a grand supper given by Adam Bell, Esq., before leaving.

Lambton County Apples at Ontario Agricultural Exhibition

The exhibition which closed Saturday, Nov. 18th, was the most successful in point of exhibits ever held in the history of the Association. The most remarkable feature were the exhibits from various counties, there being twelve counties represented. Of these county exhibits the most striking undoubtedly was the exhibit from Lambton County. It is acknowledged by all authorities to be the best commercial box display of apples ever seen in the city of Toronto. The following comment from the Mail and Empire gives an idea of the arrangement: "Lambton County has probably the most striking exhibit of the whole show. On a slanting stage thirty feet high, which accommodates sixteen boxes on end from top to bottom, and twenty-two boxes wide—three hundred and fifty boxes in all—a huge map of the county is constructed with red apples and the words "Lambton County" stand out in green apples. A corner of Lake Huron is shown in green apples, and the counties that bound Lambton are indicated by apples wrapped in white paper. The work is exceedingly well done, and the fruit ranks with the best in the building, especially the spys."

Lambton County Exhibit was sold to Eatons' and set up in their big show window on Yonge street by W. H. Porter, assistant to the District Representative, and is again on exhibition to the thousands of citizens of the city of Toronto. Thus the county is getting a double advertisement from the exhibit. The value of the advertisement and the information conveyed by the design, is of immeasurable value to the county of Lambton.

Facts About Motherhood

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at the time of child-birth, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when the strain is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results. There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, women will persist in going blindly to the trial. It isn't as though the experience came upon them unawares. They have ample time in which to prepare, but they, for the most part, trust to chance and pay the penalty. In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy, and strong. Any woman who would like special advice in regard to this matter is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. Her letter will be held in strict confidence.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Col. Cody who attained fame as "Buffalo Bill" has retired from public life. His show has been disbanded.

Reversing the order of things Manitoba potatoes are now supplying the Toronto market. On Oct. 27 a carload arrived in Toronto, and were offered for sale out of store at $1.15 per bag, which is the lowest price Ontario potatoes are selling at. Manitoba has a big crop of potatoes this year.

It is not the size of a town, but its character that makes it a desirable place in which to live. A live, prosperous town is a coveted place to live in, and a town may prosper and yet be small. Every citizen in a town should be interested in its prosperity. One of the best ways to help a town is to speak well of it. It is true patriotism to stand by your own town, and interests that affect the town should affect every citizen.

Once a stanger followed a busy New Yorker to see what all the rush was about. The man rushed down Broadway and bought a cigar, pushed up Broadway and bought a paper, rushed two blocks across town and into a hotel and watched the baseball scores, rushed back again and watched a dog fight for ten minutes, and rushed to a box office to get tickets for the show. Business is very strenuous in these large cities.

Ninety-five per cent. of the double liability call on shareholders of the defunct Ontario bank has been paid up. The fact was ascertained last week and is regarded in prominent financial circles as the remarkable evidence of the honesty, courage and optimism of Canadian investors. A total of $1,230,000 has been gathered in this way and it is probably the most remarkable clean-up in the history of banking liquidation. The bank's affairs are assuming such a shape, too, that there may be a surplus when all is completed.

In a report just issued by W. A. McLean, Provincial Engineer of Highways, it is pointed out that despite the expenditure in the past twenty years of more than $19,000,000 in cash for the improvement of township roads, or an aggregate of $40,000,000 in cash, computing the statute labor, these roads are little better than they were twenty years ago. Expenditure under the Highway Improvement Act in 1910 amounted to $553,312, of which the municipalities paid two-thirds and the Government one-third. The taxation of motor vehicles for the maintenance of the main roads, rather than the imposition of speed restrictions, is advocated by Mr. McLean.

The surest way to blight the political prospects of an infant is to name it Algernon or some of those fancy names. The Bills and the Bobs and the Jacks shine up the political ladder with the faculty of the red-headed woodpecker on a telegraph pole; but the politician with a hand-picked "moniker" is doomed. Statistics show that he seldom reaches the dizzy heights of a Cabinet position. There are only two Williams in Mr. Borden's Cabinet, but there is not a single unusual name in the lot. It includes two Bobs, two Georges, two Johns, one James, one Sam, one Charlie, one Albert, one Fred, one Frank and one Martin. A youngster with the embroidered name has a hard time at school. He finds himself outside the charmed circle of Bills and Bobs, and his disposition is temporarily, and permanently, soured. Later on he may succeed in acquiring some such desirable cognomen as "Swipesey" or "the Bunt," but the blasting effects of early ostracism are fatal to his fraternal development, and he finds himself incapable of handshaking his way to glory and the older he gets the more he feels like prosecuting his parents. At any rate he seldom lands in the Canadian Cabinet, to which a thoroughly democratic name seems to be the best passport.

The Female Wage-Earner.

"Is it possible for the female wage-earner to save from her monthly wage an amount which in the aggregate will be sufficient to provide her with an income from the time her earning days are over?" was recently the subject of an interesting discussion at a Women's Club, and the conclusion came to was, that if the wage-earner were earning less than $500 a year, this would be extremely difficult. For the purpose of illustration, the period of accumulation was assumed to be from 23 to 60, and the amount of capital required $6,000, in order to yield an income of $300 a year, which was considered to be the minimum amount on which she could maintain herself with comfort and respectability. All this may be quite true. But there is another plan of investment of which the ladies had evidently not heard, namely, the Canadian Government Annuities system, which is not only absolutely safe, but which will give a much larger return for a much smaller investment, and larger, it may be said, than any other plan available will give as a means of making provision for old age.

For example, if a woman of 23 were to deposit with the Government yearly the sum of $39.24 until she was 60, which she could do by weekly or monthly instalments if she preferred, or a total of $1451.88 only, the Government would pay her $300 a year or $75 every three months so long as she might live from and after 60. If she died before attaining that age, the total payments made with 3% compound interest would be refunded to her heirs. If she died at 58 they would receive $2425.77, or $1052.37 more than she had paid in up to that time.

If she had no one dependent upon her and was concerned about herself only, she could secure under the "B" plan the same quarterly income of $75 for an annual payment of $29.67 or for a total paid in of $1097.79, a yearly return for life no matter how long that may be of nearly 30% of the sum invested.

Mark the enormous difference: on the one hand she would require at 60 a capital of $6,000 invested at 5% to yield her an income of $300, with all the accompanying anxiety of making safe investments, while on the other hand she could provide the same income for about one fifth of the purchase money spread in easy payments over the accumulating period. In ninety-nine cases out of one hundred she would not, having regard to the recurring temptation to use the money, have the capital at 60 which would be necessary to give the income. You have only to write (postage free) to the Superintendent of Canadian Government Annuities, Ottawa, to obtain full information in regard to this provident scheme.

THE SERENADE.

An Old Romantic Custom That Has Fallen Into Desuetude.

In recalling the serenade of the Philharmonic society to Mlle. Nilsson I am reminded of a custom now fallen into desuetude, but which at the time I speak of (1870) was a favorite method of bestowing a marked compliment upon any one whom you wished particularly to honor.

The serenade was not only offered to visitors of distinction, but prevailed extensively as a delicate attention which you might pay to the lady of your choice. It was thought the proper thing at that period for a man to engage the best brass band he could afford and to proceed with it after midnight to the house of his preferred and then to stand beneath the windows while the musicians played their most sentimental and sonorous selections. It was not an uncommon sound even to hear a double quartet of male voices, with a French horn thrown in, singing beneath the windows of some favored damsel, while paterfamilias or the butler made ready some light refreshment for the donors of this graceful compliment.

These romantic attentions have taken flight with the advent of electric lights, elevated railroads and other voices of the night, but even New York had a few hours of stillness after midnight, and the night watchman lent an indulgent ear to these revelers, who would doubtless be locked up as disturbers of the peace did they hazard such an enterprise under our modern regime.—Richard Hoffman's "Musical Recollections."

HORSE'S LEG SWELLED

Animal Was Too Sore and Lame to Work—Quickly Cured by "Nerviline."

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P. O. I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fore leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff, sore, and swollen. I applied Nerviline, and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment." We have received nearly five thousand letters, recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an all-round-cure for aches and pains. One million bottles used each year. Try it yourself. Large bottles of Nerviline 50c; trial size, 25c. All dealers, or The Catarthozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Miss Millicent's Neighbor

How Curiously Got the Better of Her By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Miss Millicent Elliott stood on her side porch and looked disapprovingly at the yard which adjoined her own trimly kept garden. It was a neglected yard, overgrown with plaintain and dock, while a forest of sunflowers concealed the tumbledown chicken house. Unpruned shrubs gave witness that some careful hand had once planted a garden here and that sloth and indifference had let it run to decay. The house, too, was shabby, with peeling paint and blinds sagging from their rusty hinges. On the front porch there was a comfortable paintless rocking chair, and sitting therein with his feet elevated to the porch railing was a large, shaggy looking man who was apparently reading the morning newspaper. As a matter of fact, his keen gray eyes were looking straight over the edge of his paper at Miss Millicent, and a wry smile was curving his lips, half concealed by a grizzled beard. "Shiftless!" sniffed Miss Millicent as she went inside her immaculate little house, but her lips trembled as she uttered the word.

"She stepped briskly to and fro making a chicken pie. Her kitchen was spotless, and she worked with a neat deftness that left no disorder in its wake. Presently a knock came at the door and was immediately followed by a stout woman who wore a checked sunbonnet over her glowing cheeks. "My, but it's hot, Millie!" she gasped by the open window.

"Florie was saying only this morning that you oughtn't to keep your place looking so nice, Millie." Millicent turned her sweet contented face to her caller. "Why not?" she asked calmly.

"Why, because it makes Captain Ben's place look all the worse!" cried

SHE STOOD THERE MOTIONLESS.

Mrs. Benson, the words fairly tumbling out of her eager lips. "Ain't it a disgrace the way he's come home and not lifted his finger to fix up the place?" "Perhaps he isn't ready to do anything," evaded Millicent, picking over strawberries with slender brown fingers. Her dark lashes swept the smooth oval of her olive tinted cheek, where a little flush came and went. Mrs. Benson made a note of the flush to tell her daughter that Millie Elliott was not so indifferent to Captain Ben Perry's return as she appeared to be. "He's waiting a good long time. Why, he's been home six months, hasn't he? Came home the first of the year and has lived like a hermit ever since. What does he say about it?" asked Mrs. Benson cunningly. "Captain Perry hasn't mentioned the subject to me," said Millicent calmly. "Are you doing up any cherries this year, Ellen?"

"Twenty-four quarts," said Mrs. Benson, with a baffled glance at the younger woman. "I must be going home now, I've got to get dinner. It beats me how the captain gets along all alone. He must eat sometimes, and yet he seems to be sitting out there on the porch most of the time. Somebody said he ate down to the hotel. Does he?"

"How should I know?" asked Millicent rather crisply. Mrs. Benson darted a keen glance of displeasure at Miss Elliott's bent profile. She opened the door that she might have a clear way for flight. "I thought maybe you ought to know something about his affairs, Millie," she said meaningly, and she slipped outside and banged the door shut.

In the kitchen Millicent was smiling over her strawberries; it was a queer little smile, mingled of triumph, bitterness and regret. Presently it was all regret, for she was thinking of that distant day when she had sent handsome young Ben Perry about his business, and he had straightway gone to sea and vowed he would never see her again. Millicent learned too late that the feeling she had thought was coquetry was love and that the departure of Ben Perry was the turning point in her happiness.

Ben did not return to Little River. His people moved away to another village, and she heard indirectly that he was in command of a large schooner in the coasting trade. Then one day, six months before, it was announced that Captain Ben Perry had fallen heir to the little house next door to Millicent Elliott's and was expected home. He did come there to live, and Millicent met him on the street the next day, and because her heart was beating so trippingly she ignored his attempt at greeting and passed him swiftly by with uplifted chin.

How he spent his time Little River conjectured whenever it met at post-office, sewing society or mothers' meeting. His whole careless mode of housekeeping furnished gossip for nine times nine days.

Just as Miss Millicent was concluding her solitary dinner she saw her neighbor emerge from his shadowy porch and stride down the overgrown path to the gate. A moment later he was swinging down the road toward the hotel.

As if giving way to a long repressed impulse, Millicent left the house and stole down through her little orchard to come out at last at the farthest corner of Captain Perry's domain. Here was a break in the fence, and she slipped through and plunged into a thicket of raspberry bushes. When she came forth she was scratched and bleeding and her neatly arranged hair hung in rippling disorder over her ears.

"Of all the shiftless!"—gasped Millicent as she found her way up to the back door of the house. It was nearer than she had hoped to find it, and when she had lifted the door latch and found herself in the kitchen of the house she exclaimed with wonder at its shipshape appearance. The stove was brightly polished and every pot and pan hung upon its appointed hook. It was all as snug as the galley of a ship.

The sitting room was cool and cozy, with a smell of fragrant tobacco. There were large comfortable chairs and piles of newspapers and books. On the mantelpiece a large clock ticked loudly, and Millicent fancied that its round face watched her curiously.

She opened another door and stood petrified with astonishment. Here was the little bedroom of the master of the house, and on the immaculate cover of his dressing table was an old-fashioned photograph of Millicent herself. After her first gasp of surprise she stood there motionless, her heart throbbing heavily, her eyes shining strangely.

All at once there was the clang of the closing gate and firm steps on the path. Captain Ben was returning. Millicent gazed wildly around and opened the door which she thought led into the kitchen to find herself at the foot of the back stairs. At the sound of steps on the porch she drew the door close and stood panting with fright.

The front door opened and closed, and Captain Ben came into the sitting room whistling cheerily. Millicent heard him slap a bundle of papers down on the table and later the scratch of a match and the smell of tobacco. If he would only seek his front porch, as was his custom, and thus permit her to escape by the back way, but he did not. He settled himself in a creaking chair, and Millicent heard the rustle of his newspaper.

She glanced up the dark stairway. Once up there she might conceal herself until Captain Ben went out again, when she might escape to her own domain. She leaned forward and cautiously removed her little slippers; then, rising like a thief, she crept softly up the stairs to the upper floor, which was quite bare of furniture. She heard Captain Ben arise and walk around the room. He even went into the unused east wing and tried a door there. Then he paused in the lower hall, as if pondering whether to go upstairs.

Did he suspect her presence there or the presence of an interloper on his premises? Had she left any telltale evidence of her visit below?

At last he went back into the sitting room, and she heard him whistling softly.

It was stifling hot upstairs, where the sun had poured all day through the unshuttered windows, and Millicent felt quite faint as she sat on the top step and leaned her head against the wall, while the thunder rolled and the lightning flashed sharply. Then came the rain in silver javalins that rattled on the roof of the east wing and drummed a tune against the window panes.

When the rain was over and the sun peeped palely forth Captain Ben's voice came up the stairs with startling suddenness.

"Why don't you come down, Millie?" he asked quietly.

So he had known she was there all the time! Now he was aware that she had entered his house and pruned into his rooms just as a common gossip might have done!

"Millie," he repeated softly, "I have waited a long time for you. Won't you come to me—now?"

And Millicent, struggling between love and pride and a sense of shame, went down the front stairs and into Captain Ben's waiting arms.

"Saw you when you got caught in the briars," explained the captain softly. "I was coming back, and then I went on. I guessed you hadn't time to leave when I did come back, and I knew you were here, heard the seventh stair creak as you went up. I came back to find myself your neighbor and that you wouldn't speak, and I made up my mind to anchor here for awhile. I thought maybe you'd stayed single because you didn't find any one you liked, and so you might as well like me, if you could."

"Why, I always have, Ben," whispered Millicent. "I couldn't like you any better—why, Ben!"

Wash That Itch Away.

If your druggist told you that you could simply wash away that awful itchy Eczema—yes—that the very first drop of a soothing cleansing wash would give you instant relief, it would seem too good to be true, wouldn't it?

But it is true, every word. We keep on hand a supply of such a liquid known as the D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema, because we know that this wonderful compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients actually does wash away Eczema and all other skin impurities—that it clears the complexion over night and leaves the skin as healthy and smooth as that of a child.

We could not recommend D.D.D. so positively unless we knew of the wonderful cures wrought by this remedy. We vouch for the merits of D.D.D. and know positively that it takes away the itch instantly. When your own druggist can give you certain relief from that awful itch, you don't need to suffer another day.

Wash away all your skin troubles with D.D.D. and then keep your skin in perfect condition with D.D.D. Soap. Let us tell you more about this wonderful remedy, or write the D.D.D. Laboratories, Dept. W.G., 49 Colborne St., Toronto, and get their free trial bottle.

This space is the property of the East Lambton Reform Association.

R. J. McCORMICK.

To the Electors of East Riding of Lambton.

GENTLEMEN:— I am before you as a candidate to represent the East Riding of Lambton in the Ontario Legislature. I take this opportunity of soliciting your support at the coming election on December 11th. Owing to the shortness of the campaign it will be impossible for me to see you all personally, but will be grateful to all my friends who can mark their ballots for me on December 11th.

All my interests are centered in East Lambton and should you entrust me with your confidence to represent you in the halls of the Legislature nothing in my power will be left undone to merit the trust reposed in me.

As a resident of the riding for many years my record is well known to many of you, and is, I trust, a guarantee that I will use my utmost endeavor to further the best interests of the country as a whole and East Lambton in particular. If returned as your representative the Agricultural interests of the country will receive my best attention.

My record as a lifelong temperance man is known to many of you. I am a firm believer in the good old British maxim, "The Majority Rules," and will support any legislation for the repeal of the three-fifths clause, now governing the vote on local option.

In regard to educational matters I consider the people the best judges of their requirements, and am unalterably opposed to dictating to them what course they must pursue. "Trust the people," they seldom make a mistake.

The railways and by-corporations are not bearing their just share of taxation and any legislation tending to equalize this inequality will receive my hearty support. The farmers of Ontario have too long borne the heavy end of the yoke and it is time for the readjustment of the burden.

During the three years I have represented you in the Legislature I have, to the best of my ability, served your best interest. I have urged, and not without some success, the restoration of the Model Schools, and will continue to do so until there will be at least one Model School in each County.

I am highly pleased with the selection of Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., as leader of the Liberal party in Ontario, and I heartily endorse the platform he has submitted to the electors. The time has come when there should be a more liberal policy in regard to agriculture, colonization, taxation and moral reform, and under the leadership of Mr. Rowell such a policy will be pursued.

Any legislation emanating from either the Government or Opposition sides of the house, which, in my judgment I consider for the general welfare of the Province, will find in me an earnest advocate.

Trusting to receive your approval on election day,

I am, your obedient servant,
R. J. McCORMICK.

Warwick, Nov. 15th, 1911.

McCormick's Speech.

IN THE LEGISLATURE ON THE BUDGET DEBATE.

The speech made by R. J. McCormick, the member for East Lambton, on the budget debate in the Legislature, on Feb. 9th, 1911, was reported in The Globe as follows:—

When Mr. McCormick got to his feet to continue the debate the little member from Lambton had to wait—as he always does—until the members tired of pounding their desks. Then he went right for Grigg, the member from Algoma, who preceded him.

"He did remarkably well," remarked Mr. McCormick, "if you let him have his own way. He showed that this crowd of ours amounted to nothing at all that the Government before was no good whatever—but," and here Robert John squared his shoulders, "that stirs up a little Irish in me. I say, that if it had not been for the late Government's work on the board he would have been out of the Province altogether, and I don't know if it would have mattered very much," he added, while the members roared with laughter at the ally.

Mr. McCormick took a rap at the Provincial Treasurer for running up his expenditures. "The Provincial Treasurer used to criticize expenditures amounting to $4,000,000, but now he thinks nothing of asking for $10,000,000."

He paid a compliment to Hon. A. G. MacKay for the amount of work he did. "It puts me in mind of a County Council I used to be in," he remarked, "Another man did all the work and I had a little fun running around. That's the way it is now."

The veteran Liberal then turned his attention to his favorite subject, the model schools. "They say," he said, smiling, "Oh it's time for McCormick to drop it." "I can't drop it, I feel that it is too important a matter for the whole province for me to drop it. The poor people can't get their young ones educated as they used to do. They are leaving the farms and going to the cities or to the west."

"As fair-minded men," he continued, addressing the front benchers, "I want you to do something. Call it something else, but give us something similar to the model schools, so that the poor classes of people will get educated."

Mr. McCormick declared that many teachers were without certificates, and gave a number of instances in his district where the teachers had come right from the high school. He warned the Minister of Education that if something was not done the house would look different after the next election.

"If you don't," he declared, "that first aisle won't divide the Grits and the Tories. We'll run right to the other end of the House. And remember that," he wound up, waving his hand at Hon. Dr. Pym.

Mr. McCormick sent the House into hysterics by the way he handled J. Wesley Johnson's suggestion that the department bring out teachers from the Old Country.

"I tell you it won't do," he shouted. "You'll bring out Irish and Scotch and English and French, and they'll all want to use their own language. The Irish will want their own. The Scotch will want Gaelic and the French will want French. That"—and the little member became eloquent—"will never do in an English talking country like we have. We want only one language in our public schools." This was the signal for a general laugh at G. H. Ferguson, the author of the bilingual resolution.

It isn't after that we advise you to spend money, he said, but the Government should grant $25,000 more to the Ontario local fairs and the Exhibition Association.

He had something to say of the banking system also, in his riding there was a branch of the Farmers' Bank and it was scandalous the way the bank was run. There should be a better banking system.

Mr. McCormick declared the people were worked up terribly over the assessment act, and urged that taxes be placed on land instead of improvements, and closed by urging the Government to go on with its immigration work.

He also advocated a higher tax for railways.

Amos Foe, who conducted an ice cream parlor and lunch room in Strathroy for many years, passed away Wednesday in his 79th year. Mr. Foe had been in failing health for some time.

"FEEBLE STOMACH"

Causes Digestive Weakness and Poisons the Entire System.

"No one can have suffered more than I did with stomach trouble," writes Phil. E. Pascalar, well known at St. Andrews Corners. "My doctor told me my indigestion and sleeplessness were due to poisons in the blood. Certainly my condition was desperate, and it seemed from the despondent feelings that swept over me that I would lose my reason. I happened to read about Dr. Hamilton's Pills and bought five boxes from the druggist. Such body-cleansing pills I never used; they were mild and yet strong enough to drive all the humors out of the blood. My stomach gained strength rapidly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I improved so much that in eight weeks I could eat and digest all ordinary food. Depression and weariness passed away and I am, thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills, enjoying robust good health."

No remedy for biliousness, indigestion, headache, sick stomach, or constipation that compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse substitutes. Sold in 25c. boxes. All dealers, or The Catarhazone Co., Kingston, Ont.

HE WAS THANKFUL

But Still He Thought There Was a Little More He Might Get.

Old Simon, as we will call him, is quite a character in his way. He believes in asking for a thing until he gets it, and then—well, he is immediately in need of something else. He has lived on the same estate all his life, and until quite recently he was paying a merely nominal rent—£1 a year—for the small cottage he occupied.

Simon, however, wasn't quite satisfied. Whenever he paid an installment of his rent he called his master's attention to the fact that this thing wanted doing and that thing wanted going to the property. At length Simon's master decided on a bold move. The next time Simon turned up with the quarter's rent and the usual list of suggested repairs the owner was prepared to meet him.

"Look here, Simon," he remarked, "I've been thinking the matter over, and in recognition of your long and faithful service I'm going to make you a free gift of the cottage you live in. From this moment it's yours to do as you like with. Now, what do you say to that?"

"Thank 'e, sir—thank 'e," returned the old fellow. "An' now, sir, what about that bit o' paint for the back door? Yell' throw that in, o' course?"

Waterlogged Servians.
An Englishwoman traveling in Servia thus gives a striking glimpse of her own prejudices and tastes. "The Servians drink too much cold water, and they drink it till they are pulpy. An average Serb drinks enough cold water for an English cow. I doubt whether the language contains an equivalent for 'bad training,' for when I tried to explain the idea it created surprise. A doctor told me he had never heard the theory before. To him it seemed a natural and wholesome habit. Moreover, he added, 'there is plenty,' and seemed to think it was rather wasteful to leave any unsvalowed. To me it explained the lack of activity. The nation is waterlogged. All day long and every day the Serb calls for a glass of cold water, and when he has drunk it he calls for another. Perhaps owing to this he has little space for alcohol. At any rate, I never saw a drunken man, even among the peasants."

City Cattle Market, Toronto, Nov. 21.
—Receipts to-day were 24 cars, with 2,000 head of cattle, 3,700 sheep and lambs, 1,500 hogs and 200 calves.
Receipts of cattle continue large and include more than a fair proportion of light rough stock. The result is that the local abattoirs are pretty well filled up with as much of this kind of stuff that they can very well handle, while the demand for quality is comparatively scarce and insufficient to meet demands. There is a fairly steady demand from outside points for butcher cattle of medium quality, and from farmers, who are looking for stockers and feeders. In this way, though the market was slow, with a tendency towards easier prices, there is very little stuff left over, or that fails to find an outlet for one purpose or another.

weaker all the time, and was only a mere shadow of my former self. My parents believed I was in a decline and could not get better. My mother had heard so much about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that she decided I ought to try them. I did not notice much change until I had taken five or six boxes, when a decided improvement set in, and from that on I grew stronger and stronger each day, until through a continued use of the pills I was back to my old-time health and strength. I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the best remedy on earth for sick people, and cannot too strongly urge other weak girls to give them a trial."

THE STAIRCASE TEST

If You Cannot Pass It Your Health is Failing.

When you suffer acute palpitation of the heart, dizziness or faintness every time you go upstairs; when exertion of any kind leaves you breathless and trembling, it is a warning that your blood is defective—that you are anemic. If these warnings are neglected worse disorders will follow—perhaps decline and deadly consumption. If you are in this condition you need the new, good blood of health that has been given to thousands of sufferers by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills banish all the ailments arising from poor blood, tone up the system and make weak men and women well and strong. Miss Elizabeth Campbell, Almonte, Ont., says: "I was living in Pembroke at the time my health failed me. I kept going weaker every day until at last grew so weak I could not walk upstairs without help, and I could not go down street without sitting down and resting. My mother got quite anxious about me and took me to a doctor who said he was quite sure he could restore my health. He gave me a bottle of medicine, and I continued its use until I had taken four bottles, but instead of getting stronger I was growing
