HOMEWARD BOUND AFTER LONG TOUR

Synco, Aged 40, A Native Of Poland, Sentenced To Serve Two Year Term For Assault

Crazed Man Strikes Down Fellow Prisoners With Crowbar, Then Launches Attack On Guard

DORCHESTER, N. B., March 15.—Shot in the leg after he had struck down three fellow prisoners with a crowbar and was running in a mad frenzy towards the guard in charge of the gang George Synco, 40 year old inmate of Dorchester penitentiary died in the prison hospital yesterday of what was officially termed "shock."

Details of the prisoner's death were not available to the public until after the inquest begun in the penitentiary this morning, had finished in the court house this afternoon.

In their verdict, the jury exonerated N. P. Ward, the keeper, who felled Synco with a revolver bullet in the leg. He used no more force than was absolutely necessary to give the necessary protection to himself and the other prisoners in his charge, the verdict said, adding:

"We exonerate the keeper of all blame and from any intent to kill." One of the three men felled by the crowbar in Synco's hands is still in the prison hospital, receiving treatment for head injuries. The other two men were injured only slightly about the head and shoulders and soon recovered. The keeper was not harmed.

Synco, who was born in Poland, and never naturalized, as a resident of Canada, had worked as a laborer at Sydney, N. S., until he was sentenced last December at Sydney to two years in the penitentiary here on a charge of assault, causing grievous bodily harm. He has no relatives, so far as is known. He will be buried in the prison cemetery here. It was said at the inquest that previously he had been a well behaved prisoner and had given the guards no trouble.

Synco was working with a gang of prisoners yesterday morning in helping to build new huts on the prison grounds for members of the penitentiary staff. As the prison whistle blew at 11.20 a.m., to remind the guards to bring their gangs into the penitentiary dining hall, Synco, evidence at the inquest showed, ran amuck. Without warning, he raised the crowbar above his head and struck another prisoner to the ground. Then he made for two other men nearby and knocked them down. Shouting, he continued toward Ward, the guard, whose warning to halt was disregarded. His shot pierced one of Synco's legs and he fell to the ground, dropping the crowbar. He clutched a sledge hammer and suddenly hurled it at the guard, narrowly missing his head. Synco, still shouting, clawed pieces of frozen earth and threw them at the keeper. Then he became quiet and was rushed to the prison hospital where he recovered somewhat from his apparent exhaustion and attempted to kick a male nurse. An hour later he was dead.

Synco, a familiar figure in the foreign colony in the Coker Oval district, was arrested by Detective Sergeant George Peck on December 14th, on a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm, having attacked Sarah Tarbot, another well known character in police circles, with a bread knife inflicting minor wounds to the back. He also struck her over the back of the head with a chair.

He was arraigned in the city court before Stipendiary Magistrate F. G. Muzgah and when convicted was sentenced to a two year term in Dorchester Penitentiary.

A native of Poland, Synco came to Sydney five or six years ago. He was a widower, his wife having predeceased him some years ago, and during his brief residence here he was employed in the general yard at the Steel Plant. He had a police record, having been arrested on several occasions charged with drunkenness and, about two years ago had to appear in court to answer to a charge of assault laid against him by a fellow com-patriot in the Pier district.

REICHBANK'S ANNUAL STATEMENT HELDS REPAIRMENT PAYMENTS ARE IMPRACTICABLE

BERLIN, Mar. 15.—The annual report of the Reichsbank, issued today, reflects in figures the seriousness of last year's economic crisis as well as the efforts of Germany's leading bank to maintain the stability of the Reichsmark.

The turnover of the bank declined about 10,000,000,000 marks, as compared with 1930, to 893,736,000,000. The bank purchased 256,000,000 marks in gold from foreign countries. At the same time it lost 1,508,000,000 marks in its efforts to regulate the stability of the mark.

Its reserves in foreign countries dropped from 400,000,000 to 172,000,000 marks. Its obligations in foreign countries at the end of 1931 amounted to 428,000,000 marks compared with only 133,755,000 in the preceding year.

Gross profits were 209,000,000 compared with 127,000,000 in 1930. Net profits, however, dropped to 13,300,000, compared with 14,000,000 in 1930. A dividend of 15 per cent, the same as paid at the end of 1930, again was proposed.

In the report the bank pointed out the disastrous consequences of loss of confidence throughout the world and registered that the Government to now had not succeeded in checking the developments of the after effects of the great war.

Reparations payments have been proven impracticable, the report added, and it said the Reichsbank's view was that there is no other way but to abolish the system formally and with the utmost speed if the world were to be preserved from new economic and social catastrophes.

CANADIAN LEGION

SYDNEY MINES, March 15—The local command of the Canadian Legion held its regular weekly meeting in the club rooms on Sunday afternoon with the president, Dr. N. Macdonald in the chair. Owing to the meeting of the District Command which was held in Sydney the same afternoon, the meeting was not so well attended as usual, Major Milburn, D. O'Hare, George Unsworth and John Sutherland attended the district meeting as official delegates from the local branch.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and adopted, the secretary read letters from the Pension Board at Ottawa in reply to communications sent there. These replies were all favorable. Several bills were then read and ordered paid.

Letters were received from the Deputy Minister of Mines, Hon. Norman MacKenzie, Dr. L. W. Johnstone, M. P. and Hon. R. H. Butts, M. L. A. promising to give their utmost support against the closing of Florence colliery.

The president urged all returned men to turn out next Sunday at the Salvation Army headquarters to hear Col. Baldwin speak. Major Milburn, D. C. M. will preside at Sunday's meeting.

A request was sent from the Ladies' Auxiliary, that Sergeant Maxwell be asked to take charge of the play to be put on by them in the near future.

The meeting then closed with the National Anthem.

HELD MEETING.

A largely attended meeting of the parents of the high school pupils was held in the Assembly Hall on Monday afternoon. Major MacO'Rourke occupied the chair and in a few words introduced the supervising principal Nelson A. MacLeod at whose request the meeting had been called.

Mr. MacLeod then addressed the meeting and asked for the cooperation of the parents with the teachers. He stated that he felt that there were several hindrances to the pupils' progress that should be rectified—for instance, pupils who attend dances, matinees, etc. cannot concentrate upon studies as their thoughts are too much upon other things. Then too he spoke of the pupils studying where the radio was going and urged the parents to endeavour to see that the pupils had quiet during their study hours.

He stated that with the large number of pupils in the class it was impossible to give much individual attention and that he strongly approved of the one o'clock closing which gave ample time for preparation of work for the following day. Each pupil he felt should give 2-2-2 hours to study each day along the methods pointed out by the teachers. Other speakers at the meeting were Mr. D. C. Macdonald, Mr. S. R. Purves, Dr. N. D. MacLean, Mrs. Jas. Robertson and Mrs. Angus Macdonald. The other teachers of the high school staff also spoke at some length.

At the close of the meeting a great many of the parents had a much better understanding of the work of both teachers and pupils and good results will no doubt accrue from it.

LINDBERGH DASHED INTO WOODS ARMED WITH GUN WHEN ADVISED OF KIDNAPPING

Two Weeks Elapse Since Infant Son Of Col. Lindbergh Was Snatched From Crib By Unknown Abductors—Graphic Description Of Events Immediately Following Disappearance Finally Published

(Copyright 1932 By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 15—When, two weeks ago tonight, the nurse Betty Gow cried out to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh "the baby is gone," his first act was to seize his rifle and rush into the Sourdland thickets in search of the kidnapers. A detailed account of the hectic hours when Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was snatched from his crib by abductors, as yet unknown, was made known today.

Mrs. Lindbergh, the former Anne Morrow, was one of the three persons most closely involved in the events of that night. The others were her husband and the baby's nurse.

Mrs. Lindbergh's story, as learned from a trustworthy source, was as follows:

On Saturday afternoon, February 27, she and the baby arrived for a week end at Hopewell after three weeks absence. Although the Lindberghs had made frequent week end trips to Hopewell, they had stayed at the Morrow home on the previous two weeks end. Col. Lindbergh arrived late that day.

In the evening the baby developed a cold, which grew worse in the next two days. Wheatley, the Butler, was sent to a drug store for medicine and chatted with the clerk, who said he had similar illness at home. Later he went to the store to buy a thermometer, telling whoever waited on him it was to take a child's temperature.

On Tuesday morning, when the cold still lingered, Mrs. Lindbergh summoned Betty Gow from Englewood and she arrived about 1.30 p. m. with Betty attending to the child. The mother went for a walk in the afternoon, and returned about 5 p. m.

Betty sewed an extra flannel shirt for the child and he was put to bed about 7.30 p. m. when he was snugly tucked away. Mrs. Lindbergh left his room before Betty. The window had not yet been opened and the lights were still on. About a half hour later, while Mrs. Lindbergh was sitting at the desk in the living room downstairs, Betty stopped on her way to the kitchen to say that the child had gone to sleep.

Writing and listening for the sound of Col. Lindbergh's car, Mrs. Lindbergh once thought she heard car wheels turn on the gravel driveway outside. She listened and concluded she was mistaken. For it was not until twenty minutes or so later that she heard his "approach."

They had dinner, sat by the living room fire for a short time. Then Mrs. Lindbergh went to her room and the Col. settled down to read. Getting ready for bed, Mrs. Lindbergh found she had left her tooth powder in the baby's bathrobe, she went and got it with out switching on the light.

About 10:30 Betty ran into her "Mistress" room and asked if "Col." Lindbergh had taken the baby. Finding that Mrs. Lindbergh didn't know she ran out and sought the Colonel. The mother, following, met her husband "coming upstairs."

"Did you take the baby?" she asked.

The Colonel, his face grim, made no answer. Miss Gow had already told him the awful news. Running to a closet, he seized his rifle and disappeared in the darkness outside the house.

Dressing frantically, his wife started a search of the house. There was no sign of the baby. Once she fancied she heard a cry near a woodpile, but found it must have been only the wind.

QUEBEC WILL NOT ALTER ATTITUDE ON WATERWAYS

Premier Taschereau Returns From Conference With Premier Bennett

MONTREAL, Que., March 15—The government of the province of Quebec has not changed its attitude toward the St. Lawrence waterways project, Premier L. A. Taschereau stated here today on his return from Ottawa where he conferred with Premier R. B. Bennett on the subject.

"The attitude of Quebec is the same today as it was yesterday," Mr. Taschereau said. "Even the Conservative opposition in the legislature made it clear that it did not want a treaty to be concluded with the United States, without the treaty being submitted previously to the provincial legislators. This much was said in the motion presented by Jean Paul Sauve, member for Two Mountains, to ensure me for not having produced in the House a confidential letter sent me by Premier Bennett on the same question. This motion was modified by the House to eradicate the censure, but the part asking for the submission of the treaty to Quebec before its final adoption was left in. As modified, the motion received the support of the majority of the House."

As in the past, we will stand by our rights, in this question as in others."

Premier Taschereau said he was willing to accept another invitation from Ottawa to discuss the problem, before a treaty with the United States was concluded.

"We have exchanged our points of view," Premier Taschereau said. "And for the time being, there is nothing more to do or say. Premier Bennett explained at length what had been done by his government, in its negotiations with Washington on the question."

In return, we gave our own opinions on the matter. The result of our conference will have to be discussed by the Cabinet, before I can say more."

Asked whether the Beauharnois question had been discussed, Mr. Taschereau said: "Only as regards the canal of the same name, now being built and which, if the St. Lawrence Waterways scheme was realized, would be a part of the new canalization plan."

German People Advised To Rally To Communist Cause

MOSCOW, March 15—Soviet news papers hailed the Communist gains shown in the German Presidential election Sunday. In editorials commenting on the elections today, and called on the German proletariat to rally to the Communist cause, as the only means of saving the country.

The result of the election was according to expectations here, and although the official circles viewed both President Von Hindenburg and Adolf Hitler as representatives of capitalist philosophies, they considered Von Hindenburg the "lesser of two evils."

There was an added gratification in Hindenburg, however because of the feeling that his election would mean the continuation of the present cordial Russo-German relations. While it Hitler had been elected Moscow would have expected a set back in Germany.

Eastman's Life Work Universally Praised In Great Britain

LONDON, March 15—News of the suicide of George Eastman was published by morning papers today in great prominence, and his life, work and benefactions were praised universally.

The papers recalled gratefully his gifts to Great Britain, especially £200,000 given to establish a model dental clinic in London, and £40,000 to endow a visiting professorship at Oxford University.

News of the tragedy was received here too late yesterday for publication in the afternoon papers.

Lord Riddell, millionaire newspaper owner, was greatly shocked. "It is amazing," he said, "and hardly seems true. Eastman was among the kindest and best of men and the Countess and I counted him among our dearest personal friends."

"I received a letter from him only last week. In this letter he spoke of his ill health. I imagine this must have been playing on his mind, for he had been such an active man. He was a great philanthropist. He gave magnificently and in the most charming and trustful manner it is possible to imagine."

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 15—Separated from five other vessels of the sealing fleet, the steamer Ranger is jammed in heavy ice ten miles south of Funks Island, according to wireless messages reaching here this morning.

The steamer lost her propeller last night. Captain Badcock asked for assistance but stated his ship was in no immediate danger. He has a crew of 150 men.

All ten other vessels of the fleet are 50 miles northwest of Funks Island. The steamer Kyle is being outfitted to assist the Ranger but she is not expected to leave St. John's before tomorrow.

District Convention Will Be Called To Determine Policy Of Miner's Union

Five Collieries Operated In Cape Breton Tuesday at Reduced Wage Rates--D. W. Morrison, President of U. M. W. Requests Men to Continue Operations at Conclusion of District Board Meeting--Sub-District Convention at Dominion No. 11 Finishes Work.

GLACE BAY, March 15—At the concluding sitting of the executive board of the United Mine Workers of America which has been in session here for several days, it was announced by President D. W. Morrison that the miners employed by the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation will be requested to remain at their posts until such time as a general convention can be held, and the policy of the union regarding the wage reduction determined.

Today, five collieries operated in the Cape Breton area, and the workmen in these collieries will be paid under the new wage schedule as announced by the Company last night. President Morrison declared tonight that the convention will be held sometime late in the month of April, probably in the town of Truro.

The following are the mines which were operated yesterday: Number two; Caledonia; Number eleven; and Number 24, while at Sydney Mines Princess colliery was operating with the regular working force on the job.

The sub-district convention which convened in Dominion No. 11 Saturday last, met again today, and at the conclusion of nearly four hours discussion it was decided to demand of the district officers that a general convention be called immediately to deal with the situation created yesterday, when the miners of the district rejected the wage reductions as recommended in the report of the Duncan Commission.

Despite the heated remarks of some of the delegates at the No. 11 meeting today, it is generally felt throughout the colliery districts that the mine workers will heed the plea of their executive officers and remain at work.

Strong condemnation of the union international in the attitude adopted by headquarters in dealing with trouble in this district was heard at today's session. Alex J. McNeil, Phalen delegate, declared that at the last convention of the international not a word was mentioned regarding conditions in District 26, and at no time, said the speaker, did the Nova Scotia collieries receive aid from headquarters. In 1909, when the U. M. W. was organized in this country, some assistance was received, and again during the 1925 strike, but with these two exceptions, he went on, District 26 has been practically ignored.

At the conclusion of the meeting of the general executive, the various out of town officers left for their homes.

The Sub-District Convention reconvened this morning at ten o'clock in the No. 11 Local hall, and decided to demand of the District Executive that a District Convention of the U. M. W. of A. for District 26, be called immediately to deal with the situation now existing in the district over the result of the wage referendum held yesterday. Sub-District Board Member Petrie occupied the chair and William Pilling, of No. 11 Local was secretary.

At the outset a dispute arose over what was to come before the meeting. Several delegates maintained that the convention should resume where it left off on Saturday. Chairman Petrie took the stand that on account of the result of yesterday's vote, a new complexion was put on the affairs of the District and today's proceedings should be along lines as to what was best to be done now under the new turn of affairs.

After the minutes of the Saturday convention were read, Reserve delegates took exception to a report claimed to have been made in the No. 11 Local that some of the Reserve delegates voted more than once on some of the divisions of the convention on Saturday. The matter was explained and the Reserve delegates completely exonerated from the alleged charge.

In the two hours that followed, the District Officers came in for some severe criticism from a number of delegates who also assailed the U. M. W. and its International President, John L. Lewis.

Delegate Joe Nearing, (Reserve) was the first to suggest that a District Convention should be immediately called.

This was followed by a long discussion in which various suggestions were offered whereby a District Convention could be called.

Delegate Alex J. McNeil, (Phalen) in a lengthy address, outlined the steps leading up to the present situation in District 26. He criticized the policy of John L. Lewis in regard to District 26, claiming that at the last International Convention, which sat for eleven days not one syllable was uttered about District 26. The International, he claimed had given this district little or no support from 1909 to date, with the exception of a little in 1925. "When we had to carry the bag," "We have been retreating," stated the speaker, "talking reductions, accepting worse and worse conditions, longer hours, less pay and it is time we called a halt."

of the country. There had never been an Executive in District 26 that had been able to secure for the rank and file the policy laid down at conventions. Referring to his own case, he said that he was one of the first to join the U. M. W. in Cape Breton and as a result had to leave this country and go to another to make his living and today some of the same men who were responsible for driving him out of this country were the loudest in their condemnation of the District Officers.

Angus McDonald, (No. 24) started to assail the previous speaker when he was called to order on account of using personalities. Delegate Fortune, (Phalen) stated that when he voted yesterday he also voted against the District Officers.

Delegate McNeil, (No. 2 Mechanic) claimed that some of the delegates were trying to bring in outside influences. "We must settle our own troubles."

When the convention sat in the afternoon, A. B. Farrell took the chair. Sub District Board Member Petrie, who presided in the forenoon was unable to be present and a vote taken as between Leo Cann, (No. 11), and A. B. Farrell, (No. 11), the latter being appointed.

The discussion during the afternoon session was largely along the same lines as the morning session, some of the delegates supporting the motion to have outside representatives attend the proposed District Convention while other took the stand that it would be useless to present such a resolution to the District Officers as they would not entertain it.

Delegate Mick McKenzie, (No. 1-B) then moved a motion to the effect that the Sub District Convention ask the District Executive to immediately call a District Convention and that a committee composed of one man from each Local be selected to get in touch with outside organizations to have them attend the proposed convention.

Delegate Mickey F. McNeil, (Reserve) then withdrew his motion and the McKenzie motion carried with only four voting against it. The committee was then appointed as follows: Joe Nearing, (Reserve); Mick McKenzie, (No. 1-B); Peter McNeil, (No. 2 Mechanic); Dan J. McDonald, (Phalen); Tom Shanahan, (Mechanics); Silby Barrett, (No. 24); and John R. McDonald, (No. 11).

The next question was the policy to be adopted at the District Convention and after some discussion on motion of John R. McDonald, (No. 11) it was decided that the policy be the same as that adopted at the Sydney Convention last June.

The relocation scheme was brought up by Delegate McNeil, (No. 2 Mechanic) who read a resolution of protest from his Local. After some discussion in which it was shown that apparently everything possible had been done to check the proposal to close down mines, it was decided that the resolution be tabled.

Neil R. McDonald, (Phalen) referred to the heavy cost of holding a District Convention and thought the same policy adopted in the first June Convention should stand. He maintained that the vote yesterday was a vote of no-confidence in the District Executive and the latter should now resign.

Delegate Howley (Reserve) stated that one of the reasons why conditions are as they are in District 26, is that altogether too much politics has been injected into the District machinery.

Delegate Mickey F. McNeil, (Reserve) after several delegates had spoken briefly, moved that the District Executive officers be asked to call a District Convention at once and that representatives from organizations all over Canada be invited to attend the convention.

Chairman Petrie would not consider the motion claiming that delegates from other organizations would have no business at a U. M. W. convention.

This was the signal for an attack on the Executive Officers by several delegates who claimed that the Corporation had voluntarily given the men more than the District Officers were able to secure, citing as their argument the paragraph in the wage notices posted wherein it is stated that the corporation has taken ten per cent off domestic coal for employees and off the prices of explosives supplied to the men.

Chairman Petrie held to his determination not to recognize the McKenzie motion and addressing delegate Howley (Reserve) stated that there were no strings on him, Liberal, Tory or company.

SOMETHING TO DO

Possible Solution for Unemployment for Both Men and Women

The following article, from the Toronto Mail and Empire was an incentive to those who are interested in making some form of employment for those in need, during this time of stress. It would be such a simple thing to start in Sydney and would certainly fill a long felt want here where there is no place available where one can get odd jobs done at a reasonable rate. It only means collecting waste materials that have been discarded by householders and setting people, otherwise unemployed, to work at re-making and repairing.

Just think too, what quantities of material, for the purpose, could be gathered, by any enterprising person, at our noted "City Dump."

Do somebody start the thing going. The Scouts would help in the beginning, getting ready, et cetera, and think of the steady employment that could be given. The thing would pay for itself in no time and would be of untold benefit to the public.

Following is what The Mail and Empire has to say about it:

"A beehive of industry where men are transforming cast-off materials into useful articles, is the new industrial plant of the Poppy Fund, Wiltshire Avenue, which was officially opened by Mayor W. J. Stewart yesterday afternoon. Anything nobody else wants and would ordinarily throw out, this department snaps up and for remodelling or repairs, and then distributes it to needy families."

"The plant has a floor space of a little over 42,500 feet. Everything collected is utilized. Old cars are stripped, the parts cleaned and sold. Waste paper baled, old furniture repaired, shoes re-soled, hundreds of cords of lumber cut into uniform lengths. On the top floor there are two weaving machines made from salvage lumber by men on these rugs are woven from waste materials."

"At present there are about 45 men working each day. They are working on five-day shifts. Each man is a returned soldier with dependents, but without pension. They are all paid on a 40-cent-an-hour basis. As the plant grows it is hoped to employ more men, and include many more lines of work. None of the salvage materials is sold. All donations are handled 24 hours after the plant is notified."

WATERLOO BRIDGE.

ANYONE who reads British news will have seen that the people of London and elsewhere are stirred by the fact that the famous Waterloo bridge is doomed. The old structure is to be replaced by a new one.

Sentiment and interest centre around this splendid old span that now is inadequate for the immense traffic it is called upon to carry.

The name given the bridge by Londoners has a little flavor of history, and it is thus recorded in the Sunday edition of The Observer:

"The sword of Damocles has fallen, and we are to have a new Waterloo bridge which will at once realize Mr. Morrison's ideas of the beautiful and the useful. Presumably, it will still be called Waterloo. The village gave its name to the bridge, and the bridge to the station and the road, so that it would be unfair now to break the chain of associations. Whatever the official decision, the name would stick, from pure force of habit."

"It was, indeed, the voice of the people that gave the existing bridge its name. It is well known that the original intention was to call it the Regent bridge, but even before it was completed, it was popularly known as the Strand bridge. Shelley, writing to Thomas Love Peacock, in 1818, spoke of a Roman structure at Rimini as 'not unlike the Strand bridge.' After the battle of 1815 the demand was overwhelming that the bridge (opened two years later) should take the name of Waterloo."

Whatever may be the form or beauties of the new bridge to the people of London it still will be for them Waterloo bridge as of old.

A SAGA OF THE SEA.

ONCE more an unwritten rule of the sea has operated to help men in peril. From a gale-whipped ocean east of Nantucket Shoals Lightship, 100 miles outside the bobbing outpost of America which marks the teeming crossroads of trans-Atlantic travel comes a tale of a timely rescue. Thirty-four officers and men, abandoning the helpless American collier F. H. De Bardeleben a few hours before she sank, were taken up from the sea amid the lashings of a winter storm.

Barely had the collier's wireless portrayed her plight before the radio keys of ships in that vicinity crackled with replies of reassurance. First to turn toward the disabled vessel was the steamship White Star liner Adriatic, already hours behind schedule in shouldering out the western ocean graybeards. Other ships soon turned in response to the wireless report of the plight of the helpless collier.

Steep running seas and the violent rolling of the De Bardeleben compelled her people to remain. For two days the Adriatic stood by waiting for a chance to launch a lifeboat. Not until the morning Laganbank arrived and volunteered to relieve the waiting White Star liner did her master reshape the Adriatic's course for New York to discharge her long-delayed mail and passengers. Then in the comparative security of a lull in the gale, the collier's people abandoned ship, and immediately were taken out of the sea by the skilful work of the Laganbank's crew.

Even in this day of comparatively greater efficiency and consequent safety at sea; mishaps will occur to place ships in peril. And modern mechanics, greater comfort and security in the design of ships have not submerged the stamina and the courage of those who today "do business in great waters."

When the SOS call of a ship in distress goes forth, it finds quick response from seafarers of all nations. In the saving of the De Bardeleben's crew by the Laganbank and the two-day vigil of the Adriatic which served to instill fresh hope into the crew of the collier, a new episode can be written into Neptune's logbook of gallant rescues in storm at sea. It is an episode such as adds real luster to a long roll of heroic deeds actuated by a higher law than ever has been written into any documentary code of the sea.

PLACING CAPE BRETON COAL.

H. J. KELLEY, is en route to Ottawa where he will discuss with Government officials the best means of placing a million additional tons of Nova Scotia coal in Ontario and Quebec markets. Both Mr. Kelley and the fuel experts who have this matter in hand anticipate little difficulty in solving the problem, so that news of allocation of this material may be looked for shortly.

MINERS OPPOSE WAGE REDUCTION.

BY a majority of 1203 Nova Scotia miners on Monday rejected the Dominion Coal Company's offer of a wage cut, despite the fact that reduction was suggested in the Duncan finding and concurred in by the President and executive of the United Mine Workers of America of District 26.

Colliers engaged at Springhill and Stellarton voted in favor of the reduction, while those employed in the Glace Bay area rolled up a majority of 2055 against the proposal.

Monday evening the Company posted notices at all the collieries, appraising its employees that on and after March 15 there will be a reduction of 10 per cent in all gatal rates, with the provision that no adult worker be reduced below $3.25 per day; a reduction of 12 1/2 per cent on all contract rate, with local contract rates also subject to a 12 1/2 per cent cut.

President Morrison has advised the miners to remain at their posts pending decision of the District Board, which is in session at Glace Bay.

Open shop conditions must prevail until such time as the Company and the Union come to an agreement.

SCOTS TO VISIT CANADA.

THE SCOTTISH Trade Mission, sailing on the Anchor-Donaldson liner Letitia from Glasgow on May 5, is certain of a hearty welcome in Canada. Natives of Scotland and their descendants played a great part in the settlement and development of this country, and have left an indelible impression upon its life. Sentiment and business make a strong team when working together, and we hope that the Mission will result in a mutually advantageous increase of trade.

The Mission is national in character. The Glasgow Chamber of Commerce has endeavored to secure fully representative displays of Scottish manufactures, and the corporation of that city is fitting up the steamship so that the exhibits may be displayed to the best advantage while she is in port at Montreal during the week of May 16 to May 20.

The Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce has promised to co-operate, and Hon. H. H. Stevens, the Minister, will open the exhibition officially on May 16. Over 100 firms in Scotland have engaged exhibition space for their products, and 60 to 70 leading business men will represent their firms. Every effort has been made not to compete directly with Canadian manufacturers, but even with that limitation a vast range of Scottish products will be available.

The mornings will be reserved for inspection by the trade, affording the best opportunity for Canadian buyers to inspect the sample goods, and for the Scottish salesmen to interview prospective clients, while in the afternoon and evening the ship will be thrown open to the general public. It is thought that this chance for people to see what is made in Scotland will be generally appreciated.

BALDWIN'S PHILOSOPHY.

OF ALL THE TROUBLES in my life, three-quarters never happened." This was one of a number of gems of homely wisdom brought out by Mr. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the British Conservative Party, in an unpretending homily on happiness and success delivered recently in London.

Whatever may be the differences among Mr. Baldwin's supporters and opponents as to the soundness of this statesman's political views, there is none as to the happiness of his poise where questions of conduct are involved. He aimed his shafts on this occasion especially at a "scorched and cynical generation" in revolt against the conventions and convictions of the past.

His main thesis was the sound one that there is no short cut either to happiness or to success, and that renunciation of some kind is essential for all who would reach these goals. Illustrating the fallacy of imagining that there is an easier road, Mr. Baldwin said: "We always cherish the illusion that if only obstacles were removed—Die-Hards, Left-Wingers—our happiness would be complete. But it is an illusion. Courage, hazard and hardship can give a quality to human happiness undreamed of by those who sit secure and at ease."

Mr. Baldwin is under no misunderstanding as to the limitations of his prescription. "There will be," he said, "no headlines across the sky tomorrow, 'Secret of Happiness Discovered by Conservative Leader. Vote Tory!'" Nevertheless, his philosophy is sagacious, for happiness is an attitude of the mentality, and assuredly the old truth stand, "The kingdom of heaven is within you."

DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

At a recent meeting of the Women's Institute at Ayr the members were asked to bring relics. "Some married ladies, we understand, very generously produced their husbands."—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

The license fee for radios is to be raised by one dollar. This is one tax the public would willingly accept even with another dollar added, if it were used to establish a national radio and baby-hoo free programs.—Port Arthur News Chronicle.

SPEAKING OF PHYSICAL INFIRMITIES.

Homer and Milton were blind, Vergil and Arnold Bennett stammered, Dante galled, Byron lame, Kipling unable to enter the army, Lawrence consumptive and half blind, Huxley short-sighted and anaemic, Conrad a Pole.—Life and Letters, London.

IT'S PLAIN WHO LOSES.

The Vancouver Sun has ceased publication, the publisher not wishing to run a non-union shop and the union printers not willing to take a reduction in their schedule. There is only one guess here as to who are the final losers.—St. Catharines Standard.

HUMAN PEACOCKS.

Officious persons who think they dictate man's fashions in clothes announce that male attire this summer is to be so bright and colorful that depression will not have the heart to stay around. But what could be more depressing than a lot of human peacocks strutting about in raiment that resembles a tulip bed?—Toronto Globe.

SAFER BRITISH MOTOR CAR DRIVING.

Great Britain does not appear to have reason to regret the passing of its Act of Parliament abolishing the speed limit for privately-owned passenger cars. The result of the first nine months' test of the revised regulations showed a reduction in the total number of fatalities, but an increase in the number of pedestrians injured.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

A LONG TWENTY-NINE.

In one of Barrie's plays an actress tells a friend to wish her "a long twenty-nine," as no woman in her profession ever goes beyond that age. The census returns show how both most of the sex are to admit that they have passed it. But possibly they may alter their practice on learning that ten women recently picked as the most beautiful in the United States are all over thirty. The judge explains that only then can it be determined "whether a woman is merely a pretty thing or a great beauty."—Edmonton Journal.

A COMPLIMENT TO CANADA

(Montreal Herald)

People in the northern portions of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire have faith in the future of Canada.

According to the news despatches they are backing that faith with their money.

Communities are being drained of currency, we are told, banks are worried and business is hurt because they are withdrawing their money from the local banks and taking it across the border to deposit in Canadian banks.

More than that, some farmers are mortgaging their lands to the limit and converting the proceeds into money to deposit in Canada.

This, of course, is not entirely because they have more cash in Canadian than in American banks, although that has something to do with it.

They see an opportunity for profitable trade. They feel sure that the Canadian dollar will come back to par and when that happens they will recall their money and cash their profits.

All the same, their action is a nice little compliment to Canada.

THE OTTAWA CONFERENCE

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

It may be taken for granted that the mass of the press throughout the Empire will agree heartily with those London newspapers which are urging that a strong delegation, headed either by the Prime Minister or R. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, should attend the Ottawa Conference. The deliberations fore-shadowed will indeed be vital to the Empire. The principles discussed should be brought to a decision during the conference and the only way this can be done is to have delegates of unimpeachable responsibility.

Of necessity all agreements will have to be ratified by the parliaments of the Empire; nevertheless this ratification can be assured in advance if the delegates assemble with full authority to make decisions, and possibly more important, effect necessary compromises on behalf of their respective governments. Not only is it essential that Great Britain shall send delegates whose authority will not be questioned, but the same applies to all the dominions as well.

RELIEF METHODS IN CANADA.

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

There has been no report that the people of Canada have become a set of moral weaklings, that their self-respect has been undermined or that their manhood has disintegrated. Yet they have been exposed to the grave perils against which our administration spokesmen have been industriously warning. The Canadian Government, since the autumn of 1930, has been trying in the face of all the alarms sounded from this side of the border. It has paid for one third of the direct relief given by provinces and municipalities, for one quarter of all municipal public works for relief purposes and one half of all such provincial public works. Its Parliament approved a program for relief and construction limited only by the needs, and the Government has proceeded with a large schedule of public works. A recent writer in the Commonwealth estimates the Government's total expenditures will be $100,000,000 before the program's completion, and this for a country of Canada's resources, is a vast amount. But, as Premier Bennett has stated, no Canadian will be permitted to starve.

Local initiative has not been lost sight of in Canada, but the central government has not shied away from its duty. It should enlighten Mr. Fess and others who orated against the La Follette-Costigan bill to know that no moral collapse has as yet occurred in Canada, after 18 months of this "demoralizing" policy.

THE SENATOR AND THE BEAUHARNOIS SCANDAL.

(Toronto Mail and Empire)

In the Commons investigation into the Beauharnois scandal it was brought out in evidence that the company paid an hotel bill of Mr. MacKenzie King at Bermuda, a resort to which the Senator and the then Prime Minister had gone in company. After presumably furnishing up his memory, Mr. McDougald now goes into the Senate witness box and declares that it was he personally, and not the Beauharnois company, who paid Mr. MacKenzie King's hotel expenses.

We do not think that the country sees much difference between the payment of an account by the company's itself and by the chairman of the company's board. Mr. McDougald's testimony is obviously just another attempt to introduce new matter into the controversy with a view to diverting public attention from the main issue.

The fact remains that the Beauharnois project was launched mainly through the efforts of Mr. King's appointees to the Upper Chamber, that the Liberal Government of the day facilitated the project and that the project yielded the Federal Liberal organization a campaign fund of $720,000 for the general election of 1930.

THE WITHDRAWAL FROM SHANGHAI.

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Negotiation, based on definite formulas, has followed Japan's declaration of cessation of hostilities at Shanghai. The league committee refused to be saddled, in explicit terms, with the regulation of the Chinese troops at Shanghai—in Chinese territory under Chinese sovereignty. And the Japanese delegate at Geneva, falling in this, has accepted the good offices of the league to "negotiate"—that word is important—the withdrawal of his country's troops from the Yangtze territory at the mouth of the Yangtze.

Reports from Shanghai of Chinese refusal of the terms of the "stop fire" decision agreed to by Japan will not affect the general result ultimately. China has suffered an irremediable defeat in the fighting area, after her best defence. The pressure of the representatives of the foreign powers at Shanghai cannot be ignored by bellicose Chinese factions nor mob opposition at Nanking.

The negotiations for evacuation by Japan in and about Shanghai will not make much progress unless the powers are satisfied that the Chinese hostiles are withdrawn outside striking distance and remain there. The guarantees in that respect will have to be made plain to Tokyo, not inclined to always, of outside interference.

It cannot be otherwise, because Japan will look to the foreign negotiators to restrain the Chinese from further overt acts against Japanese nationals and other interests in the Shanghai district.

"QUIPS AND CRANKS"

Cold!

An Englishman touring Canada was staying in a wayside hotel. One night it was very cold and the Englishman, feeling it pretty badly came downstairs early in the morning to get warm. At the same time a trapper, who had been out looking at his traps, came in at the door. Icicles were hanging from his moustache, and with an expression of pity the Englishman looked at him and exclaimed: "By jove, old man, what room did you sleep in?"

BEAUHARNOIS

Electric Commission because G. Howard Ferguson, then Premier of Ontario, "wouldn't let it be signed until he got $200,000."

This was the final word in the evidence of the Senator taken at his home today, before the Senate Beauharnois Committee adjourned his examination to another date. It followed a lengthy interrogation by J. A. Mann, committee counsel, consequent upon the Senator's evidence given under questioning by A. S. Robertson, his legal adviser.

The committee repaired to Senator Hayden's home this afternoon, having first secured the advice of Dr. J. Penton Argue regarding the Senator's physical condition. Sixteen persons formed a half circle round the bed on which Mr. Hayden lay. His examination took the form of written questions to which the Senator supplied written answers.

The introduction of Mr. Ferguson's name into the proceedings came at the end, Senator Hayden was endeavoring to recall conversations he had had with Mr. Sweezy in connection with Beauharnois. He remembered one occasion at the beginning of 1929.

"I asked him, of what good was Beauharnois," the Senator said. "It didn't seem to be of any value because Mr. Sweezy had no takers of power. I asked him if he had any contract. He replied that he hadn't, particularly. He thought about the Americans who would settle there when the enterprise began. I said, 'What's the good, if they won't be nailed down.' He declared then, 'We have a contract in sight with the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission. I said, 'Didn't you get it signed?' His answer was 'Howard Ferguson wouldn't let it be signed until he gets $200,000.' I said nothing after that."

This conversation, which took place at Queen's University, Kingston, was some time late in 1928 or the beginning of 1929, the Senator repeated.

The Senator's evidence comprised answers to three questions, following which he stated his "personal position."

"As a member of the Senate and of a firm that received fees from the Beauharnois Power Corporation for services rendered," he declared, "I have not either directly or indirectly contravened any section or clause of any act of parliament and particularly any part of what is called the independence of parliament act."

"The Beauharnois Power Corporation, the work of incorporation of which was done by Mr. Ebbs of my firm, working with Messrs. Meredith, Holden, Howard and Holden, of Montreal and Messrs. Blakely, Lash, Anglin and Messrs. of Toronto, acting for the bankers and other interests, had no contract with the Crown and never could have, so far as I know. If it is illegal for a member of the Senate to be a member of a law firm which incorporates companies under the Dominion Companies Act, then every member of the Senate and every member of the House of Commons, who is a lawyer and does any business of any consequence at all, has contravened the law many times.

"Such an argument, of course, is no excuse if my conduct was wrong; but the explanation of what I and my firm have done will clearly show that I was not wrong; but it does show that all the hateful publicity of last year constituted in my mind, so far as I am concerned and of the greatest wrongs that could have been done to any man in public life in Canada. This is not a complaint—I am not the only example in history. It is only a comment upon the political zeal of some people who, to injure a political opponent, will stop at nothing."

With reference to the evidence that he had received from Mr. Sweezy certain sums of money for campaign funds, the Senator declared this to be true.

"I received no contributions from the Beauharnois Company, but only from Mr. Sweezy personally," Mr. Hayden said. "I suppose Mr. Sweezy would have been the proper person for the committee to ask why he made the contributions. He told me nothing. He made no bargain with me or with anybody else that I ever heard of for any favors received or to be received. No promises were asked and none were made. There was not the slightest relation between his contributions and the passing of the order-in-council on March 5, 1929, by Mr. King's Government."

"This whole matter of campaign funds is one on which the general public is liable to become very self-righteous," continued the Senator. "Everybody knows that elections cost money—and a lot of money—for perfectly legitimate purposes. The ordinary voter gives nothing. The practice referred to by Mr. Sweezy in his evidence of large contribution to political campaign funds was not invented by either Mr. Sweezy or by me. When I acted officially as the general party organizer, nine or ten years ago, I organized a meeting that a man should give to his political party as he would to his church—but I never got any cheers."

"A man commits no crime by helping with money in an election and he is quite within the law. The Election Act was amended two or three years ago in a way to help Mr. Gardiner's party so that now farmers' organizations can make campaign contributions from their funds without being specially incorporated for such purpose, as was previously required."

"I have only to add that I made no explanations or disclosures regarding campaign funds to Mr. King, or to any of his ministers or to anyone else. The money went directly into the general organization work of the Liberal party as soon as it was received."

Asked if he had any recollection of the two or three occasions on which he had been present at discussions between Mr. Sweezy and Senator McDougall regarding the purchase of the Sterling Corporation, the Senator answered in the negative. He was confident Mr. Sweezy was mistaken.

"I took no part in these negotiations," he said. "I desire to add that I had no interest whatever in Sterling Industrial Corporation. It was incorporated in our office in 1924 as any other company might be, and my connection with it at any time was only as a lawyer. I was not President. Mr. Ebbs was president and some of our staff were directors; but this was entirely nominal and in accordance with common practice in company matters in any lawyer's office."

Asked what he had to say on the evidence that his firm accepted a contingent retainer—a retainer in which payment was contingent upon the passing of the order-in-council approving a certain application made by Beauharnois, Senator Hayden replied there was no contingent retainer.

"Neither I nor my firm was retained to perform any service in connection with the application of Beauharnois to the Governor-in-Council," he declared. "The Commons' committee's report refers to the application as my firm's application. That is a gross misrepresentation for which there is not a word of support in the evidence before the committee. It is well-known, and the evidence shows, whose application it was, and that it was filed long before it or my firm had anything to do with Beauharnois. There was also ample evidence as to what solicitors were retained in connection with and to forward that application."

"Several of these lawyers gave evidence; some of them have given evidence before the Senate committee also. Not a single witness has ever connected me or my firm with that application or with the order-in-council, and for the very plain and simple reason that I had nothing to do with it."

ANNEX CONTRACT TO BE AWARDED

City Council to Deal With Contract Thursday

Selection of a tender to construct the Sydney tuberculosis annex will be one of the principal business items to occupy the attention of the City Council at its bi-monthly meeting, Thursday, notices for which went out from the City Hall this morning.

A number of firms, local and outside are bidding on the job, the lowest tender for which will undoubtedly be accepted. Because of changes made from time to time in the plans and specifications, the City Hospital Commission at a special meeting last week decided to jettison the old tender and call for new ones.

Cape Breton's hockey season will officially come to a close on Thursday night at the Arena Rink, when the Glace Bay All Stars and the Sydney All Stars meet in the final game of the schedule two game exhibition series.

The initial round was played on Tuesday night and fans were treated to what was considered to be the finest exhibition of hockey played here this winter. FAR EAST PEACE PLAN APPROVED

Tentative Agreement Approved "in Principle" by Japanese

TOKYO, Mar. 16—A tentative agreement for peace at Shanghai, reached Monday, at a conference between representatives of the two nations in the presence of envoys of Great Britain, France and Italy, was approved by the Japanese Government today "in principle."

The Government instructed Namuro Shigemitsu, Japanese Minister to China and its representatives in the parley, to confer again with Japanese spokesmen on the details of the plan, which was taken to be an agreement concerning withdrawal of troops from the Shanghai zone.

China's representative in the conference was Kuo Tai-Chi, Nationalist commissioner at Shanghai. The parleys were held at the British Consulate.

"The parleys Monday were held before the League of Nations investigation commission arrived from Japan, but the Earl of Lytton chairman of the commission, was reported from Shanghai as saying the members of the League group were willing to assist other neutral mediators and to remain in Shanghai until all danger of further hostilities was past."

Emperor Hirohito already has authorized the withdrawal of a large part of the Japanese forces at Shanghai.

HITLER BECOMES GERMAN CITIZEN

National Socialist Leader Becomes Enraged in Court

WEIMAR, Germany, Mar. 15—Adolf Hitler, rival of President von Hindenburg for leadership of Germany, appeared as a witness at an official hearing today and said he his citizenship today and said he took the enquiry as a personal insult.

After answering questions regarding the administrative methods of Wilhelm Frick, former National Socialist Minister of the Interior in Thuringia, he told the officiating commissioner to take his hands out of his pockets when speaking to him (Hitler), and stalked out of the courtroom.

Questioned as to whether he had approved Frick's scheme to make him a citizen, one of the issues at stake, Hitler trembled with rage and roared that he had refused to accept citizenship from the Brunswick scheme.

He denied he had authorized Frick's measures but asserted it was nothing that a man who had fought four years at the front should have been refused naturalization while thousands of east Galician Jews had been made citizens.

The Nationalist Socialist leader was admitted to citizenship several weeks ago by his acceptance of an appointment as Counselor to the Brunswick Legation in Berlin.

Senator Johnson Rans Bankers

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15—In stinging language, Senator Hiram Johnson of California, today arraigned international banking as a "racket" and rebuked the United States government for "smug complacency and supine indifference" while United States investors were losing billions of dollars in foreign securities.

The Californian reported the results of the recent investigation of foreign loan flotations in the United States and demanded legislation to protect the public in the future.

BILL TO LIMIT

ment were unusual, said Mr. Stevens, but so were the problems it had to face. It was impossible to determine beforehand what situation would be encountered or what remedial works would be required. This was the reason for the "blank cheque" feature of the legislation.

Opponents of the bill focused their attack on its constitutional aspects. Parliament, said E. J. Garland, United Farmer member for Bow River, was being asked to delegate all its powers and rights to the cabinet. His House would remain in session at least until May 1—the dead-line of the proposed extension of time—and was willing to grant the government any sum of money it requested to relieve distress and unemployment. But I was unwilling to delegate its constitutional powers to appropriate money, pass and amend laws and otherwise cope with distress conditions.

George McPhee, Lib., Yorkton, said the action of the old "Tory Compact"—existing in upper Canada prior to the 1837 uprising—"pale into insignificance when we consider the actions of the present government." The present administration, he said, was stifling trade through its "tariff juggling and manipulation," bankrupting agriculture and endangering Canada's foreign trade.

Another western member, W. A. Beynon, Cons., Moose Jaw, presented a defence of the administrative record of the Saskatchewan Relief Commission. It was operating on a low percentage of cost, he said, and politics played no part in its record.

Other speakers during the day were J. C. Elliot, former Minister of Public Concerning statements before a special Works, Onetime Gagnon, Cons., Dorchester, Dr. J. K. Blair, Lib., North yesterday by Senator Andrew Hayton. Wellington.

IN MEMORIAM

NEW WATERFORD, March 16.—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Walter Donovan, who died at Dominion No. 1 March 16, 1926. Inserted by her daughter Mrs. W. John Wilson, New Waterford.

None are the days and sad the hours.
Since her sweet smile has gone,
But, oh, a happier home than ours
In heaven is now her own.

She was beloved by one and all
By friends at home and friends afar,
But Jesus loved her and thought
It best
To take her to His home of rest.

A. D. CAMPBELL IN FINE ADDRESS

Juvenile Work Is Subject Of Interesting Lecture

RESERVE, March 15.—An interesting lecture was given here by Judge A. D. Campbell of the Juvenile Court. The lecture was under the auspices of the local branch of the Red Cross and was largely attended.

The speaker took for his subject juvenile work, and traced the work of the Juvenile court from its establishment in Chicago to the present.

He showed the progress that had been made with the methods of dealing with delinquents, that is, those under sixteen. He showed how those had been dealt with in the past and how they are dealt with today. He stressed the point that those of such age need guidance more than punishment and he showed clearly how this was successfully accomplished with excellent results by the Juvenile Court.

He explained fully the operation of the court, the function of the probation, illustrating by example.

He explained fully the value of contacts of home, church and school, in molding character. In conjunction with these, he illustrated how the different social agencies worked to cooperate with other existent agencies to bring about better environment and helped greatly to bring children up as useful citizens of the community.

The lecture was listened to with rapt attention by the audience.

On the conclusion of this instructive lecture, a vote of thanks was moved by Rev. Father Campbell, seconded by Mr. D. McDonald, was presented to the lecturer, Judge Campbell. In conjunction a short, but enjoyable programme was carried out, consisting of musical numbers by Bob Clarke, pianist, Mrs. Adam Lewis, vocal solos.

MUST HOME BE A CABARET TO HOLD THE CHILDREN?

(By Winifred Black)

Let's see: we were talking about Christopher and Sylvia the Second and her friend, and about their party, weren't we?

Well, there's Joan and Franklin. Franklin was talking about it the other night.

"I've always sort of wanted a daughter," said Franklin. "I liked little girls better than I liked little boys. Joan has always laughed at me for that."

"But I've changed my mind, Franklin, Jr., will do for me."

"He was home from college during the Winter holidays, and his mother and I were crazy to see him. We found he'd changed a lot, but we liked the change. There were some things that were puzzling me in this new sort of world we seem to be living in, and I sort of thought I'd talk them over with Franklin and get his slant on them."

"Talk them over? Neither Joan nor I had one-half of one minute alone with our son—not a quarter of a minute. The telephone began ringing before he'd hung up his overcoat."

"Joan has ordered all the things he used to like for dinner, or as many of them, at least, as could be served at one table at one time."

"Franklin felt badly about that. He said he couldn't stay for dinner. He and his pals had got a dinner and a celebration downtown."

"Joan cried about it after he had stamped out of the house with a gasp. 'So long, Mater!': but I told her it was all right."

"He ate with us just once while he was at home, but when I heard my brother-in-law telling about the time he and his wife had with their Katherine, who came home for her vacation, too, I was glad we didn't have to entertain the whole noisy bunch of kids at our house."

"The parents of the girls did that, poor things! though the kids never stayed after eleven o'clock at night. They piled into cars, instead, and tore out to the road houses, and Franklin usually turned up about eight o'clock in the morning, after he'd taken his girl home from breakfast at some poor fool's house."

"What do they think a man's home is for, anyhow, these kids?"

"You work your fingers to the bone and your brain to a frazzle sending them through college. You pay the mortgage off your house, and think 'Oh, well, maybe it is too big and cost too much, but it makes a nice background for Jr. and his friends,'—and Jr. and his friends prefer the road-house, any place, so long as it isn't home."

"Joan gets kind of weepy about it, but I tell her I'm glad of it. If we had a girl instead of a boy, she'd turn our house into a roadhouse, or do the best she could at it and we would not have a nook or corner to ourselves."

"I wouldn't stand it, that's all. I'd tell them to earn their own money, and spend it their own way; but as long as they lived, or pretended to live, in my house they'd have to live my way."

"My brother-in-law's wife is a nervous wreck worrying about her daughter. That girl takes four fellows out in her car, and they come home all hours of the night, smelling so strong of gin that you'd think you were in an old-fashioned bedroom the minute they opened the door."

"I don't see why my brother-in-law doesn't put his foot down. I told my own kid the next time he came home for his vacation he'd better hire a room at some rooming house and let it go at that; but he'll have to earn his own money to pay for it."

"Sounds sort of grouchy, doesn't it? But somehow I wonder if parents are not really just people after all. Queer muddle, isn't it? What's your idea of a way out?"

STORM POUNDED HARBURG TOWED SAFELY TO PORT

New York Tug Willett Tows Rudderless Craft To Halifax

SHIP LADEN WITH VALUABLE CARGO

Foundation Franklin Companies Ships To Nova Scotia Port

HALIFAX, N. S., March 15.—The Harbour and her 5,500 tons of cargo, together valued at $2,000,000 were safely quartered in Halifax Harbour this morning, salvaged from the heaving Atlantic after being battered by storms for a week.

The rudderless ship was towed into port by the New York Tug Willett, winner of a three-cornered race in which one tug was crippled and wrecking steamer was abandoned, a battered derelict.

The Foundation Franklin, which was forced to drop out of the race on Friday when her steering gear broke, accompanied the Willett to port this morning. The other contestant was the wrecking steamer Reindeer I, out of Halifax, which sprang a leak on Saturday and was abandoned when her crew of 18 men were rescued by the Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm.

Captain E. L. Foster of the Willett would say little about his battle with mountainous waves to reach the side of the Harbour. "It was all in a day's work," he said with a smile.

Captain Otto Von Maltitz, master of the Harbour, said he had carried out his promise of taking the line of the first succor ship to arrive. He referred reporters to Kurt Sebastian, his chief officer, for a description of the experiences of the Harbour crew while the helpless ship was buffeted about by the sea off Sable Island, the "graveyard of the Atlantic."

"The wind blew with a force between 11 and 12 Beaufort scale," began the chief officer. This he translated into land-lubbers' language with the strongest force described in marine phraseology. It was a whole gale or hurricane.

"The first hurricane began at midnight on Tuesday, March 8, and at four o'clock Wednesday morning the Harbour was struck with a tremendous sea that raked her fore and aft, smashed the life boats and caused other deck damage."

"Also immediately afterwards the ship swayed widely and became unmanageable. An examination cast of Halifax when our ship became disabled and when the Harbour could no longer be held to a course."

"Towards evening the wind subsided but it was followed by another hurricane on Thursday. We tried to rig a jury rudder, but our attempts were futile in such a sea. On Friday and Saturday the storm continued."

"At 6.30 o'clock on Saturday night the Willett came alongside, but it was not until 9.30 o'clock Sunday morning that it was possible for a line to be put aboard. This was done on the fourth attempt by using a heaving line."

"We were 200 miles south southeast of Halifax when our ship became disabled and was 120 miles south southwest. The Foundation Franklin was making only three knots while coming to our assistance in the stormy sea and was still 55 miles away when the Willett's line was placed aboard."

"During the worst of the storm it appeared that the Harbour might not withstand the terrific battering she was receiving. Gigantic combers continually swept over the vessel and it was found impossible to keep her head to the wind. With each roll in the troughs water poured through the engine-room skylight. Engineers and firemen managed to keep up steam but the lighting plant was put out of order."

"A survey of the damage was commenced this morning. Repairs to the ship's rudder will be made at Halifax, and it is expected part of her cargo will be made here. The Harbour was bound for Saint John, N. B., from Bremen and Hamburg."

THE SCORPION

BY DOUGLAS CAREY

"I hadn't thought of that," Beauchamp replied. Here's a sovereign for yourself. That piece of advice is worth it."

"Thank you, sir," the man said, pocketing the coin gratefully. He added: "Go ahead, sir, and practise all you like. I won't disturb you at all."

After that, Beauchamp found it easier than he anticipated to accomplish the purpose of his errand. He might have been alone in the vault for all the notice the man took of him and the close proximity of his box to Anthony's facilitated matters still further. Going through a pretence of getting a combination with one hand, he cautiously operated No. 207 according to the illustrations in Anthony's code message. He turned as he felt the door of the box opening in response to the last number. The attendant was not looking. Another second and the box was open. Thrusting in his hand, he extracted the only article that he knew contained or had contained the "Light of Buddha." He closed the safe, and gave the knob a twist which readjusted the combination.

It made more noise than he had bargained for, and for a moment his heart almost stopped beating. But the attendant apparently had not noticed it, and less timorous now through such unqualified success, Beauchamp even stopped to open the box containing the diamond, to feast his eyes on the stone that had caused the death of his friend, and might even yet be the cause of his—feasting his eyes upon it that became more and more traitorously inclined.

Resting in its bed of cotton-wool, the ruby-tinted diamond emitted rays of light which were almost blood red in its intensity, making his own blood pulsate madly as he regarded it. With desire to possess it restrained by sentiment of friendship, for the first time in the history of his part-ownership, of the "Light of Buddha" he allowed himself the absorbing thought that he would willingly commit murder for the sole possession of it—if it were only someone else besides Brimmer and Norton who were concerned. At that, even the facts that they were his friends was now troubling his conscience more profanely. His covetous eyes feasted upon it, while his fingers itched to put it into his pocket. For the moment it was fear of Kwong Heisu, not sentiments of friendship that restrained him—that compelled him to adhere to his original purpose. Another moment, and he thrust it into the far recess of his own box. He wondered that the vault attendant did not hear his heart throbbing in his throat, and drumming in his ears like the noise of a sledge hammer, as after obliterating the identity of James Reynolds by caching inside also his bank pass book and receipt for the safe, he closed the door upon the gem, worth a king's ransom, which had dropped one drop of its ruby-redness as a seal of blood upon Richard Anthony and from which three more might yet exude as the seals of death upon Brimmer, Norton and himself. It was not until he had reached the street that he realized that the perspiration was streaming down his cheeks.

As he made his way northward along Chancery Lane, he was not related with his success to observe that another car had started simultaneously in the same direction from lower down the Lane. He had half expected to encounter Spink somewhere along the thoroughfare. Not seeing him, he surmised that the detective had not yet taken up his post to watch for the advent of Kwong Heisu, supposing the Chinaman, there were other thoughts milling in his mind—thoughts which had had their birth in

"Experience Great Teacher" Says Minister's Wife to Mothers of Children

Mrs. (Rev.) M. E. Conron, 187 Marlboro Street, Brantford, Ontario, Gives Her Heartfelt Thanks for BABY'S OWN TABLETS

"Experience is a great teacher," says Mrs. Conron. "When our first baby arrived I knew nothing about Baby's Own Tablets, and when he began to cut his teeth he was cross and feverish and would not take his food. We lost so much rest at night I was completely worked out, but one day my husband, who is a Communist, was out calling, a lady advised him to buy a box of Baby's Own Tablets. We certainly found they worked wonders. In 24 hours we had a different baby. We have now six strong, healthy children, and we have used no other medicine than Baby's Own Tablets."

Another mother who has written of her experiences is Mrs. J. A. Brown, Bay-side, P.E.I. "Being a mother," she says, "of eight children and real healthy ones, I have often been asked, 'How is it your babies are all so good, and thrive so well?' My answer is always the same, 'Baby's Own Tablets is all the medicine I ever give them.' When I notice any sign of a sick stomach or colic coming on, I always give a tablet. Even if the children are real well I give an occasional tablet as a preventive."

Mrs. T. Tweedy, 475 Millwood Road, Toronto, says: "If my baby is crying with colic, or is peevish when cutting teeth, I give a Baby's Own Tablet, and he is soon happy again."

Mrs. W. J. Demill, R. R. 3, Trenton, Ont., writes: "My baby girl took a terrible cold and a high fever. We were living in Saskatchewan, nine miles from a doctor and the roads were almost impassable. . . . I just gave the Bobby Jackson should be proud of the wonderful showing he made last night in his first professional fight. Pitted against one of the greatest lightweights that this country has produced, the youthful Caladonia boxer gave Stevie McDonald one of the hardest fights of his career.

One thing that impressed all who saw last night's scrap, was the wonderful condition that Jackson was in. Another thing that was apparent is that about all Bobby needs to improve on to be able to wrest the lightweight title from McDonald is his punching.

Last night Jackson hit McDonald often enough at times to upset Stevie, his punches did not seem to phase the champion to any great extent.

With the confidence gained by the experience of last night's fight, his first ten round bout, by the way Jackson, if given another chance at McDonald, would make it uncomfortable for the popular Stevie.

H. H. STEVENS ENTERS DEFENCE OF RELIEF WORK

Division On Unemployment Relief Measure Moves Closer

OTTAWA, March 15—Division on the government's unemployment relief measures moved appreciably closer tonight after the House devoted another full sitting to the debate. Liberals will decide at a caucus tomorrow whether they will offer an amendment to the Unemployment Relief Act of last session, usually referred to as the "Blank Cheque Legislation."

Headlining the debate today was H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who entered a spirited defence of the relief undertakings of the Dominion. "No serious challenge has been made," he said, "of the manner in which the government has discharged its duty in the administration of this Act."
"Having clothed the government with these powers some nine months ago, has the government improperly used those powers," asked Mr. Stevens. "Has it abused them? Has it taken any undue advantage of its authority? Have any citizens suffered because of any action by the government under this act? The answer in every case is 'No.' On the contrary, in every instance, the actions taken by the government under these special powers resulted in some marked benefit to large sections of the country."

Opponents of the measure massed their attack on the constitutional aspects of the measure. The government said A. J. Garland, United Farmer member for Bow River, was seeking wider powers than even Sir Robert Borden requested during the war. Parliament was in session and likely would remain sitting at least until May—the deadline of the proposed extension of time—and was willing to grant the government any sum of money it requested to relieve distress. But parliament objected, said the Alberta member, to delegating all its powers and rights to the Cabinet.

A delicate play on words featured one part of the debate today. Onesime Gagnon, Cons., Dorchester, who possesses all the rhetorical powers usually associated with his race, referred to "Benedictism" as the Canadian antidote to Leninism and Mussolinism. A minute or two later, Mr. Garland, who also stands in the first rank of parliamentary debaters, described the government legislation as "an attempt to induce this House to give its 'Benediction' to the slaying of constitutional liberty and customs."

At another point, Thomas MacMillan, Lib., Huron South, whose name and Scottish burr do not belie his ancestry, called into play, Shakespeare, Byron and his favorite poet, Robert Burns, to substantiate his condemnation of the government.

COLLEGE SCRAPPER HAS FIVE RECORDS

Dr. J. K. Blair, Lib., North Wellington, said the Prime Minister, before the last election declared that he would save the country. After the election, Mr. Bennett was described as going to Toronto and saying that "nothing but the grace of God can save the country," "it seems," added Mr. Blair, "that the Prime Minister is attempting to sub-let his contract to the deity."

Replying to the charge the legislation turned Premier R. B. Bennett into a dictator and autocrat, Mr. Stevens said: "There is no one in this country more jealous of the constitution and the rights of parliament than the present Prime Minister."

The sowers delegated to the government were unusual, the commercial Minister admitted. But in view of the past and present conditions, they were warranted. It was impossible to determine beforehand what situation the government would encounter and he witnessed the drought conditions in the west which necessitated immediate and extraordinary intervention by the Dominion.

Gargoyle Gold for Britain

The hunt for gold in England goes on unabated as the gold-selling rush which has been drawing thousands of Britons to the offices of the bullion merchants for the last few weeks continues undiminished. All kinds of novel sources are being tapped for the precious metal, jewelry and even gold teeth going to the melting pot in the great wave of patriotism which has swept the Motherland. The photograph above shows workmen from the Sanger mine at Horley carrying one of their huge gargoyles to the melting pot, where the gold leaf was melted from the figure to do its bit for the common cause.

AMENDMENTS TO CIVIL SERVICE ACT PROPOSED

Dr. W. J. Roche, Chairman Of Commission, Testifies At Inquiry

OTTAWA, Ont., March 15—With Dr. W. J. Roche, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, as witness, the special parliamentary committee appointed to inquire into the administration of the Civil Service Act today listened to a number of suggestions for amending the Act. Tomorrow the committee will hear further evidence from the two other commissioners, Dr. Newton MacTavish and Emile Tremblay.

None of the amendments suggested by Dr. Roche was sweeping in its nature. A suggestion which he made that the Dominion-wide advertising of minor positions in the Ottawa civil service be curtailed met with some criticism from members of the committee. Earl Lawson (Cons. West York), chairman of the committee, told Dr. Roche that a wide-spread impression existed outside the capital that appointments to the civil service are confined too much to Ottawa.

Other members of the committee supported the view that if vacancies were not advertised widely the effect would be to recruit appointees from Ottawa. Another suggestion of the commission chairman that a cabinet minister should be delegated to deal with attacks against the commission made by members on the floor of the House of Commons, also aroused discussion. Members of the committee emphasized the independence of the commission and suggested that if a minister were delegated to speak for it in parliament, its freedom might be imperilled. The question was also raised as to how a minister could speak for a body over which he had no jurisdiction.

It was announced by the chairman of the committee that an opportunity would be given to representatives of civil service organizations to appear.

FRANCE LIFTS FRUIT EMBARGO

Government Will Permit Importations of Fruit
PARIS, March 15—The French government tonight lifted the blanket embargo on fresh fruits from Canada, the United States and several other countries, imposing instead conditions under which fruit will be admitted. The embargo was imposed last week to prevent the entrance of the San Jose scale into France.

The Ministry of Agriculture order also made a special provision for fruit in French ports or in transit when the decree of March 8 was promulgated.

Fruit importers protested when the embargo was clamped on last week, declaring that losses to shippers would amount to many thousands of dollars, because importers or shippers could not re-ship before the fruit spoiled.

This unusual ruling enabled the Bruins to register three easy goals, two by Marty Barry and the other by George Owen, as "Red" Horner King Clancy and Alex Levinsky took turns in the Toronto net.

Their rivals, the Montreal Maroons, also won and clinched third place in the Canadian division.

Canadiens took an early lead in the first period, the Amerks scored two surprise counters in the second to take the lead, then outscored the world's champions 3-1 in the final period, getting all three goals on breakaway plays while the Canadiens were attacking in full force. Joe Lamb, speedy left wing, sank two of them and Bert McInenly the other. McInenly also scored the first American goal while Jack Keating made the tally that put New York ahead.

Selling Pressure Relaxes On Stock Market

GAINS AND LOSSES EVENLY DISTRIBUTED AT CLOSE OF QUIET TRADING AT NEW YORK

Late Recovery Eliminates Earlier Losses And Press Averages Close Unchanged—Little Concern Shown Over Kreuger's Death—Rails Steady Near Close—Sales Volume Drops To 1,471,420 Shares

(By JOHN L. COOLEY.)
NEW YORK, March 15—Selling pressure relaxed in the stock market today, but there was insufficient buying power to give much tone to the late recovery which reduced or eliminated earlier losses.

Gains and losses were so evenly distributed at the close that the final standard statistics—Associated Press composite was unchanged. Nevertheless, fractional declines prevailed in a representative list of leading industrial. Rails were frankly heavy most of the day, but steadied toward the end. Total turnover dropped to 1,471,420 shares.

Neither foreign nor domestic markets appeared to be further concerned over the Kreuger death. The firmer tone of London, Paris and Berlin security exchanges stimulated enough repurchases by shorts to give local prices a fair lift during the morning, but this recovery was undermined by recurrence of selling in carrier stocks which dragged downward until the last hour.

Cheapeake and Ohio made a new low for the year and, with Santa Fe, was off nearly 2 points net. Missouri Pacific preferred and Chesapeake Corporation were also soggy. Union Pacific was erratic, but finished fractionally higher. Canadian Pacific, an exception in its group, rallied 1 3/8. Preferred stocks of U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Jones and Laughlin sagged, although none was particularly active.

KREUGER ISSUES

Special interest naturally attached to the Kreuger issues. Kreuger and Toll, after selling at 2 1/2, fell back to 2 1/8 where it closed, unchanged. International Match preferred, returned a small gain. Eastman Kodak, closely followed because of George Eastman's suicide, held firm.

RAIL EQUITIES

The bullish tinge that has attached to the rail equities this week seems to have originated in reports that February earnings were disappointing, despite the wage cut. Car-loadings for the week ended March 5 showed some recovery from the preceding total. Money markets were easy.

FRIENDS HONOR VETERAN SYDNEY MEDICAL MEN LINDBERGH CASE NEARS SOLUTION POLICE BELIEVE

Three Local Physicians Complete 50 Years In Profession

Another interesting chapter was written into the medical annals of the Maritimes when representatives of that profession as well as from other walks of life assembled in large numbers at the Isle Royale Hotel last night to honor in fitting manner three veteran Sydney physicians, Drs. William McK. McLeod, Edward J. Johnstone and Arthur S. Kendall—on the occasion of their golden anniversary in the practice of their profession.

In story, word and song, did the three principles in this unique drama have conveyed to them the expressed esteem and regard of their fellow practitioners, other citizens and organizations, white-transcending this touch of affection was the presentation to each by Dr. A. Cameron, K. C., of a gold-headed walking cane, as tangible appreciation and recognition of their half century of service in the alleviation of suffering humanity.

Upwards of 80 people, drawn from various centres of the Island were present for the occasion, with Dr. Dan McNeil, Glace Bay, President of the Cape Breton Medical Society, acting as toastmaster. It was a gala celebration. Interlarding the proceedings were humorous stories and anecdotes, while rendered in unison and with great gusto were some of the old familiar songs and ballads played to the strains of music by Bernard McIntosh and his dance orchestra.

The principal speakers were Dr. A. Calder, Glace Bay; D. A. Cameron, K.C., F. W. Gray, Assistant General Manager of Dosco and Dr. S. L. Walker, Secretary of the Nova Scotia Medical Association, all of whom paid high tribute to the "three pioneers," touched upon the service rendered by them during their 50 years of practice, contrasted the old methods of alleviating the ills of stricken humans with the present day science of medical treatment, and enumerated the difficulties met and successfully surmounted by them, in the course of their labour.

"The day of the old physician is slowly passing, but he is leaving in his wake, a foundation upon which the profession can surely rest upon," declared Dr. Calder.

Not only did the three veterans tender suitable replies to the accolades heaped upon them, but they treated the audience to retrospective accounts of some of the experiences they underwent during the early years of their practice, and referred to marked progress and expansion the profession as a whole has made in the intervening years down to the present day.

Telegrams, read last night, extending congratulations to the three medical men on the occasion of their 50th anniversary and expressing a fervent wish for a continued and greater period of service, were received from Sam A. Brown, Dean of Bellevue Hospital and Medical College, New York; Dr. G. H. Murphy, Minister of Health in the Nova Scotia Government; D. C. Butler, Secretary of the Canadian Medical Association; Sisters and Nursing Staff of St. Rita's Hospital; Dr. M. G. Tompkins, Dominion; Mrs. M. T. Sullivan, Halifax; A. C. Johnson and St. Andrew's Lodge, No. Seven.

Almost simultaneously with the opening of proceedings last night, the wives of the three physicians were in receipt at their homes of a beautiful floral bouquet, containing 24 roses, bearing the following inscription: "A small token of the respect and esteem from the members of the Cape Breton Medical Society and other citizens."

(BY FRANCIS A. JAMIESON)

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 15—A lead in the two-week-old Lindbergh kidnaping case, described as "important enough to be taken seriously," was being tracked down tonight by detectives as they investigated the story of an old plot to steal the famous flyer's son.

The importance of the clue was stressed by Joseph Fishman, Deputy Commissioner of Corrections of New York City, after he had brought the prisoner from the Tombs prison in New York to Jersey City to confront two persons he charged with being in on the plot.

The prisoner, who has been a mysterious figure in the case for days and was interviewed in the Tombs by the confidential representative of Colonel Lindbergh last week, was identified today as John Smith when he left New York. It was learned, however, his real name is Charles Fitzgerald.

Present at the conference of Jersey City and Newark police officials were William Gleason and a woman, identified as Mrs. Catherine Danusek. They were taken into custody for questioning yesterday.

Fitzgerald's story is that he, Gleason and two others planned to kidnap the Lindbergh boy months ago, that Mrs. Danusek was to take care of the baby after he had been abducted, but that he (Fitzgerald) was arrested and jailed before the plan materialized.

He was quoted as saying one "contact" had been made with Betty Gow, the Lindbergh child's nursemaid.

State police at Hopewell, however, a short time before had reiterated an almost daily statement—that "so far nothing has been discovered that would connect Betty Gow with this crime." The state police said she was remaining on the Lindbergh estate voluntarily.

Fitzgerald told the police officials and detectives that Gleason was in the Hudson County jail at Jersey City when the plot was hatched.

Mrs. Danusek, with whom Gleason is said to board, disclaimed any knowledge of the scheme.

Under police questioning she told him Fitzgerald called on her while Gleason was in jail, expressing anxiety concerning how he was going to secure his friend's release and said he was going to retain a New York lawyer to try to "beat the case."

The names of the two other persons Fitzgerald said were involved were not made public, but it was known an intensive hunt for them had been launched.

There were reported to be discrepancies in Fitzgerald's story, but as the second week since the abduction drew to a close, with the stolen child still missing, authorities were seeking diligently for some clue that might lead them somewhere, and this one was being pursued with vigor.

Fitzgerald was interviewed in secret at the Tombs last week by Morris Rosner, himself a mysterious figure in the case.

Rosner was described at that time by officials as an emissary of Colonel Lindbergh.

He was reported to be a variety of officials as an emissary of Colonel Lindbergh.

The menu provided last night was of a high order and contained a variety of delectable and choice dishes, while the service rendered by the dining room staff left nothing to be desired.

WRIGHT'S, Limited

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM

THE HIGHWAY IN THE NORTH

Editor Sydney Post—Sir: Cape North is the most prosperous and independent farming section in Cape Breton. This is evident from the fact that a number of the inhabitants invested considerable money in the last issue of Government bonds. Well cultivated farms and fine residences are further proof of comfortable circumstances.

The pioneers here had a prosperous trade with St. Pierre in supplying that island with beef cattle and sheep, and oak timber for ship-building in the French Colony. This trade, which continued for many years, gave the first settlers in the North a good start on the way to prosperity and, as a result the generations following are reaping the benefit of the boom which prevailed in bygone years and with added improvements in farming methods and machinery the present race has well kept the pace of progress.

One of the largest country stores in Cape Breton is located in Cape North known as the MacDonald Bros., who conduct a general business and caters to the people's needs in everything they require from a needle to an aeroplane.

The more one becomes acquainted with the people here and the country's position, the more one realizes the great importance and necessity of building the Pleasant Bay-Cape North Highway which is now well underway. The tourist attractions in the section through which the new road opens up is unequalled in any part of Canada.

The valley which runs in through the valley a distance of fifteen miles, found its source in the interior to the harbour where it empties, is a rival of the famous Margaree for sea trout and salmon. The people here who know, say that in season this river is teeming with the speckled beauties of from two to five pounds. The angler can motor along the river to the deep pools upstream where salmon and trout rest.

The most notable spot on the Pleasant Bay-Cape North Highway is known as the Big Rock Bluff. A start had been made at laying this road under the administration of the late George H. Murray when Premier of the Province. The beginning was small, only about 25 yards of excavation work being done when activities ceased and, not until last Fall was the next attempt made.

Next Fall should see this work completed and the Counties of Victoria and Inverness linked in the extreme North.

To give the reader a detailed sketch of the road operations one has to begin at the headquarters, where Mr. B. L. Parker, the Engineer in charge and his staff are located. Here the writer met Archy MacPherson, stock keeper, a former well known knight of the Grip. Archy possesses the spirit of the famous Burns and believes that man's humanity to man makes countless thousands mourn. He spares no effort to make the rough spots smooth and thus help lighten his white man's burden.

Strange things have occurred recently and occupants of the house, who have been, on several occasions awakened out of their midnight slumber, are now conducting an investigation. The inmates state that in the still hours of the night a person goes through the house with a bundle of men's shirts and togery, demonstrating samples and talking high pressure sales language. The findings will probably be made known later.

The first sod on the new road was turned in September when the resident Engineer, Mr. B. L. Parker and his staff started operations. Camps were erected, machinery brought here and, in the course of a few days the silence of the valley was broken by chugging tractors and falling trees. A large garage to house two tractors was built in a convenient place where Mr. Cleveland Leslie and Ray Cunningham, master mechanics, are

Bill To Prohibit Imports Of Soviet Products Tabled

LONDON, March 15—Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, Conservative member for Handsworth, Birmingham, today tabled in the House of Commons a bill which would prohibit importation of goods made in foreign countries by forced labor.

The bill, which was given first reading, was seen to be aimed at Soviet Russia. The commander made a lengthy speech in its support in which he dwelt on "the sweating of poor peasants and convicts, and traffic in human flesh and blood."

Timber and wheat constitute the major portion of Great Britain's imports from Soviet Russia.

RECEIVES REPORT

OTTAWA, Ont., March 15—Part one of the report of Sir Alexander Gibb, eminent London, England, port engineer on his survey of the government, and the final part of the reports was on its way from London to Ottawa.

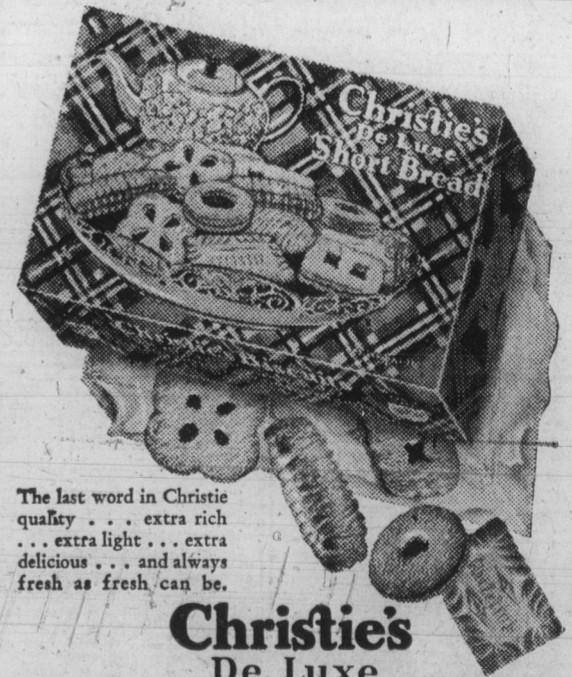

TO CONSIDER GRADING

OTTAWA, Ont., March 15—The subject of consideration by the grading of garnet wheat will be the Commons Committee on agriculture. In the House this afternoon H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, introduced a motion to refer a resolution asking for a separate grading of this type of wheat to the committee. This question is of vital concern to the western growers particularly the growers of garnet and no doubt considerable differences of opinion will develop in the committee.

and Bay St. Lawrence.

My next article will give a sketch of the Pleasant Bay section. This concludes my remarks at present with the exception that I am requested to state that the country here and its inhabitants are indebted to the local Government for opening up this road and giving employment to hundreds of men, who otherwise would be in dire need of relief, especially in the winter months when other industries are dull. It's to be hoped the parties who were the means of giving so many men work for the winter will be rewarded when the time comes.
