IMAGE EVALUATION
 TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences
Corporation

CIHM/ICMH Microfiche Series.

CIHM/ICMH Collection de microfiches.

The Institute hes attempted to obtain the best original copy available for filming. Features of this copy which may be bibliographically unlque. which may alter ansy of the images in the reproduction, or which may significantly change the usual method of filming, are checked below.

Coloured covers/
Couverture de couleur

Covers damaged/
Couverture endommagéeCovers restored and/or laminated/
Couverture restaurée ot/ou pelliculseCover title missing/
Le titre de couverture manqueColoured maps/
Cartes góographiques on couleurColoured ink (i.e. other than blue or black)/
Encre de couleur (i.e. autre que bleue ou noire)
Coloured plates and/or illustrations/
Planches et/ou illustratinns en couleur

Bound with othar material/
Relić avec d'autres documents

Tight binding may cause shadows or distortion along interior margin/
La re liure serrée peut causer de l'ombre ou de la distortion le long de la marge intérieure

Blank leaves added during restoration may appear within the te :tt. Whenever possibie, these have been omitted from filming/
Il se peut que certaines pages blanches ajoutbes lors d'une restauration apparaissent dans le texte, mais, lorsque cele ótait possible, ces pages n'ont pas été filmes.

Additional comments:/
Commentaires supplémentaires:

L'Institut a microfilmé to meilleur exemplaire qu'll lui a dét possible de se procurer. Les détails de cet exemplaire qui sont peut-Ître uniques du point de vue bibliographique, qui peuvant modifiar une image reproduite, ou qui peuvent exiger une modification dans la móthode normale de filmage sont indiqués ci-dessous.

Coloured pages/
Pages de couleur Pages damaged/
Pages endommagées

Pages restored and/or laminated/
Pages restaurbes et/ou pelliculbes
Pages discoloured, stained or foxed/
Pages décolorées, tachetées ou piquées
Pages deteched/
Pages détachées

Showthrough/
TransparenceQuality of print varies/
Qualité inśgale de l'impression

Includes supplementary material/
Comprend du matériel supplémentaire

Only edition available/
Seule édition disponible
Pages wholly or partially obscured by arrata slips, tissues, etc., have been refilmed to ensure the best possible image/
Les pages totalement ou partiellement obscurcies par un feuillet d'errata, une pelure. etc., ont úté filmbes à nouveau de façon à obtenir la meilleure image possible.

This item is filmed at the reduction ratio chacked below/ Ce documant est filmé au taux de réduction indiqué ci-dessous.

The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

Ottaws Public Lilbrary

The images appearing here are the beat quality possible conaidering the condition and lagibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original sopiee in printed paper covera are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or tt.e back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the laet page with a printed or Hlustrated impreasion.

The last recorded frame on eech microfiche shall contain the symbol $\rightarrow$ (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol $\nabla$ (meaning "END"). whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, ieft to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmó fut reprofuit grâce à la gońnórositó de:

Bibliothdque publique d'Ottawa

Les images suivantes ont eté reproduites avec le pius grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la nettete de l'exempleire filmé, ot en conformit' avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couveriure en pepiar est imprimée sont flimés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernibre page qui comporte une empreinte d'impresaion ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon io cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filimbs en commençant par la promidre page qui comporte une empreinte d'impreasion ou d'llustration et en terminant par la dernidre page qui comporte une teile empreinte.

Un des symboies suivents apparaitra sur la dernidre image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole $\rightarrow$ signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole $\nabla$ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent âtre filmbe de des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour âtre reproduit on un seul cliché, il est filmé a partir de l'angle supd́rieur gauche, de gauche à droite. ot de haut en bas, on prenant le nombre d'images nd́cessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la móthode.

> THE
> H I S T O R Y 0 F
> EMILY MONTAGUE.
> V OL. II.
(

等 0

THE   H I S T O R Y   H I S T O R Y  0 F  EMILY MONTAGUE. Frances (Moore) Brooke

By the Author of
LADY JULIA MANDEVILLE.

[1]

THE

HI S OR Y

0 F

EMILY MONTAGUE.

LETTER LV.

To Miff Rivers, Charges Street. Silleri, Jan, 16.
NO, my dear, we went on too faint, it feems : Sir George was fo obliging as to fettle all without waiting for Emily's consent; not having fuppofed her refutal Vol. II. B to

23055

2 THE HISTORYOF

to be in the chapter of poffibilities : after having communicated their plan of operations to me as an affair fettled, papa was difpatched, as Sir George's ambaffador, to inform Emily of his gracious intentions in her favor.

She received him with proper dignity, and like a girl of true fpirit told him, that as the delay was originally from Sir George, fhe fhould infift on obferving the conditions very exactly, and was determined to wait till fpring, whatever might be the contents of Mrs. Clayton's expected letter; referving to herfelf alfo the privilege of refufing him even then, if upon mature deliberation the fhould think proper fo to do.

She has further infifted, that till that time he fhall leave Silleri; take up his abode at Quebec, unlefs, which the thinks moft advifeable, he fhould return to Montreal for the winter; and never attempt feeing her without witneffes, as their prefent fituation is particularly delicate, and that whilft it continues they can have nothing to fay to each other which their common friends may not with propriety hear : all the can be prevailed on to confent to in his favor, is to allow him en attendant to vifit here like any other gentleman.

I wifh fhe would fend him back to Montreal, for I fee plainly he will fpoil all our little parties.

Emily is a fine girl, Lucy, and I am friends with her again ; fo, my dear, I fhall revive my coterie, and be happy two or three months longer. I have fent to afk my two fweet fellows at Quebec to dine here: I really long to fee them; I fhall let them into the prefent ftate of affairs here, for they both defpife Sir George as much as I do; the creature looks amazingly foolifh, and I enjoy his humiliation not a little: fuch an animal to fet up for being beloved indeed! $\mathbf{O}$ to be fure!

B 2
Emily

4 THE HISTORYOF

Emily has fent for me to her apartinent. Adieu for a moment.

Eleven o'clock.

She has fhewn me Mrs. Melmoth's letter on the fubject of concluding the marriage immediately : it is in the true fpirit of family impertinence. She writes with the kind difcreet infolence of a relation; and Emily has anfwered her with the genuine fpirit of an independent Englihwoman, who is fo happy as to be her own miftrefs, and who is therefore determined to think for herfelf.

She has refufed gaing to Montreal; at all this winter; and has hinted, though not impolitely, that the wants no guardian of her conduct but herfelf; adding a compliment to my lady hip's difcretion fo very civil, it is impoffible for me to repeat it with decency.

O Heaveris I

EMILY MONTAGUE. 5

O Heavens! your brother and Fitzgerald! I fy. The dear creatures! my life has been abfolute vegetation fince they abfented themfelves.

Adieu! my dear,

Your faithful
A. Fermor:

LETTER LVI.

li at all gh not Bian of ompliof very peat it kvens:

6 THE HISTORYOF

pleafing: this odicus man has infected us all; he feems rather a fpy on our pleafures than a partaker of them; he is more an antidote to joy than a tall maiden zunt.

I wifh he would go; I fay fpontaneoully every time I fee him, without confidering I am impolite, " La! Sir George, when do " you go to Montreal?" He reddens, and gives me a peevifh anfwer; and I then, and not before, recollect how very impertinent the queftion is.

But pray, my dear, becaufe he has no tafte for focial companionable life, has he therefore a right to damp the fpirit of it in thofe that have? I intend to confult fome learned cafuit on this head.

He takes amazing pains to pleafe in his way, is curled, powdered, perfumed, and exhioits every day in a new fuit of embroidery; but with all this, has the mortification

EMILY MONTAGUE. 7

fected r pleas more naiden reounly ering I hen do as, and en, and rtinent cation to fee your brother pleafe more in 2 plain coat. I am lazy. Adieu!

Yours, ever and ever,
A. Fermor.

L. E T T E R LVII.

To John Temple, Efq; Pall Mall.
Jan. 25.
CO you intend, my dear Jack, to marry when you are quite tired of a life of gallantry: the lady will be much obliged to you for a heart, the refufe of half the proftitutes in town; a heart, the beft feelings of which will be entirely obliterated; a heart hardened by a long commerce with the moft unworthy of the fex; and which will bring difguft, fufpicion, coldnefs, and depravity of tafte, to the bofom of fenfibility and innocence.

B 4.
For

8 THE HISTORYOF

For my own part, though fond of wo: men to the greateft degree, I have had, confidering my profeffion and complexion, very few intrigues. I have always had an idea I fhould fome time or other marry, and have been unwilling to bring to a ftate in which I hoped for happinefs from mutual affection, a heart worn out by a courfe of gallantries : to a contrary conduct is owing moft of our unhappy marriages; the woman brings with her all her ftock of tendernels, truth, and affection; the man's is exhaufted before they meet : the finds the generous delicate tenderneris of her foul, not only unreturned, but unobferved; fhe fancies fome other woman the object of his. affection, The is unhappy, the pines in fecret; he obferves her difcontent, accufes her of caprice; and her portion is wretchednefs for life.

If I did not ardently wifh your happinefs, I fhould not thus repeatedly combat a prejudice, which, as you have fenfibility, EMILYMONTAGUE. $\quad 9$ will infallibly make the greater part of your life-a fcene of infipidity and regret.

You are right, Jack, as to the favages; the only way to civilize them is to feminize their women; but the tafk is rather difficult: at prefent their manners differ in nothing from thofe of the men; they even: add to the ferocity of the latter.

Yon, defire to know the fate of my heart, excufe me, Jack; you know nothing of love; and we who do, never difclofe it's myiteries to the prophane befides, I always chogre a female for thie confidante of my fentiments; I hate even to fpeak of. love to one of my own fex.

Adieu! I amgoing a party with half a dozen ladies, and have not another minute. to fpare:

Yours:
 combat fibility, will

10  THE HISTORYOF

LETTER LVIII.

To Mifís Rivers, Clarges Streé. Jan, 28.

IEVERY hour, my dear, grow more in love with French manners; there is fomething charming in being young and fprightly all one's life : it would appear abfurd in England to hear, what I have juft heard, a fat virtuous lady of feventy toaft Love and Opportunity to a young fer-low:- but 'tis nothing here : they dance too to the laft gafp; I have feen the daughter, mother, and grand-daughter, in the fame French country dance.

They are perfectly right; and 1 honor them for their good fenfe and fpirit, in determining to make life agreeable as.long as they can.

A propos to age, I am refolved to go home, Lucy; I have found three grey hairs hairs this morning; they tell me 'tis common; this vile climate is at war with beauty, makes one's hair grey, and one's hands. red. I won't ftay abfolutely.Do you know there is a very pretty fellow here, Lucy, Captain ${ }^{\text {H }}$ Howard, who has taken a fancy to make people believe he and I are on good terms?' He affects to fit by me, to dance with me, to whifper nothing to me, to bow with an air of myftery, and to fhew me all the little attentions of a lover in public, though he never yet faid a civil thing to me when we were alone. .

EMILY MONTAGUE. IT

I was ftanding with him this morning near the brow of the hill, leaning againft a tree in the funfline, and looking down the precipice below; when I faid fomething of the lover's leap, and in play, as you will fuppofe, made a ttep forwards: we had been talking of indifferent things, his air: was till then indolence itfelf; but on this B6 little.

12 THE HISTORY OF

little motion of mine, though there was: not the leaft danger, he with the utmoft feeming eagernefs catched hold of me as if alarmed at the very idea, and with the moft paffionate air protefted his life depended on mine, and that he would not live an hour after me. I looked at him: with artonihment, not being able to comprehend the meaning of this fudden flight, when turning my head, I faw a gentleman: and lady clofe behind us, whom he had obferved though I had not They were retiring: " Pray approach, my dear Mz"dam," faid I; "we have no fecrets. " this declaration was intended for you " to hear; we were talking of the weather "before you came."

He affected to fmile, though I faw hewas mortified; but as his fmile fhewed the fineft teeth imaginable I forgave him: he is really very handfome, and 'tis pity: he has this: 2 quality of preferring the hadow to the fubstance.

I. fhall,

F

here was: - utmoft me as if with the life desuld not. at him: to comen light, ntleman:
he had. ley were ear Mfecrets for youl weather faw he Shewed ve him: "tis pity eferring

1. fhall,

EMILY MONTAGUE. 3

I fhall, however, defire him to flirt elfewhere, as this badinage, however innocent, may hurt my character, and give pain to my little Fitzgerald: I believe I begin to. dove this fellow, becaufe I begin to be delicate on the fubject of flirtations, and feel my fpirit of coquetry decline every day:

2gth.
Mrs. Cl yyton has wrote, my dear, and, has at laft condefcended to allow Emily the honor of being her daughter-in-law, in confideration of her fon's happinefs, and of engagements entered into with her own confenc; though the very prudently obferves, that what was a proper match for Captain Clayton is by no means fo forSir George; and talks fomething of an: offer of a citizen's daughter with fifty thoufand pounds, and the promife of an. Irifh title. She has, however, oblerved that indifcreet engagements are better throke than kept.

14. THE HISTORYOF

Sir George has fhewn the letter, a veryindelicate one in my opinion, to my father and me; and has talked a great deal of nonfenfe on the fubject. He wants to ghew it to Emily, and I advife him to it, becaufe $I$ know the effect it will have. I. fee plainly he wifhes to make ar great merit of keeping his engagement, if. he does keep it: he hinted a little fear of. breaking her lieart; and $I$ am convinced: if he thought. fhe could furvive his infidelity, all his tendernefs and conftancy would cede to filial duty and a coronet.

Eleven o.clock

After much deliberation, Sir George has determined to write to Emily, inclofe his mother's letter, and call in the afternoon to enjoy the triumph of his generofity in keeping his engagement, when it is in his power to do fo much better : 'tis a pretty plan, and I encourage him in it; my father, who wifhes the match, frrugs his Thoulders, and frowns at me; but the little.
a very: to my great e wants him to 1 have. a. great ; if. he fear of. ivinced is : infinftancy onet.
o'clock George inclofe e aftergenero. when it er : 'tis in it; frrugs but the little.

EMILY MONTAGUE. T5.

little man is fixed as fate in his refolve, and is writing at this moment in my father's apartment. I long to fee his letter; I dare fay it will be a curiofity : 'tis fhort, however, for he is coming ous of the room already.

Adieu! my father calls for this letter; it is to go in one of his to New York, and the perfon who takes it waits for it at the door.

> Ever yours;
A. Fermor:

LET

THE HISTORYOR

> LETTER LIX.
:5 To Mifs Montacese at Silletis.
f Dear Madams.

1Send you the inclofed from my mothet: I thought it neceffary you mould fee it, though not even a mother's wihes Thath ever influence me to break thofe engagements which I: have had the happinefs of entering into with the moft charming of women, and which a man of honor ought. to hold facred.

I do not think happinefs intirely dependent on rank or fortune, and have oniy to wifh my mother's fentiments on this fubject more agreeable to my own, as there is nothing I fo much wih as to oblige her : at all events, however; depend on my ful-filling thofe promifes; which qught to be the

EMILY MONTAGUE. 17

the more binding, as they were made at a time when our fituations were more equal.

I am happy in an opportunity of convincing you and the world, that intereft and ambition have no power over my heart, when put in competition with what I owe to my engagements; being with the greateft truth,

My deareft Madam,

Yours, &c.

G. Clayton:

You will do me the honor to name the day to make me happy.

LET-

18 THE HISTORY OF LETTERTX.

To Sir George Clayton, at Quebec.
Dear Sir,

IHave read Mrs. Clayton's letter with attention; and am of her opinion, that indifcreet engagements are better broke than kept.

I have the lefs reafon to take ill your breaking the kind of engagement between us at the defire of your family, as I entered into it at firt entirely in compliance with mine. I have ever had the fincereft efteem and friendhip for you, but never that romantic love which hurries us to forget all but itfelf: I have therefore noreafon to expect in you the imprudent: difintereftednefs that paffion occafions.

EMILYMONTAGUE. 19

A fuliur explanation is neceffary on this fubject than it is poffible to enter into in a letter : if you will favor us with your company this afternoon at Silleri, we may explain our fentiments more clearly to each other: be affured, I never will prevent your complying in every inftance with the wifhes of fo kind and prudent a mother.

I am, dear Sir;

Your affectiorate friend

 and obedient fervant,Emily Montacuz.

> LETTERTLXI.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.

IHave been with Emily, who has been reading Mrs, Clayton's letter; I faw joy fparkte in her eyes as the went on, her little heart feemed to flutter with tranfport; I fee two things very clearly, one.

20 THE HISTORYOF

of which is; that the never loved this little infipid Baronet, the other I kave your fagacity to find outt. All the firit of her countenance is returned: fhe walks in air', her cheeks have the bluft of pleafure; 1 never faw fo attonifing a change. I never felt more joy from the acquifition of a new lover, thain the feems to find in the profpeet of lofing an old one.

She has written to Sir George, and in a ftyle that I know will hutce him; for though I believe he wifhes her to give him up, yet his vanity would defire it fhould cof her very dear; and appear the effort of difintertefed love, and romantic generofity, not what it really is, the effect of the moft tranquil and perfect indifference,

By the way a difintereffed miftuedsts, according to my ideas, $a$ midrrefs who fancies She loves, we may talk what we pleafe, at a diftance, of facrificing the dear man to his intereft, and pronoting his.

EMILYMONTAGUE. 21 his happinefs by deftroying our own; but when it comes to the point, I am rather inclined to believe all women are of my way of thinking; and let me die if I would give up a man I loved to the firft duchefs in Chriftendom : 'tis all mighty well in theory; but for the practical part, let who will believe it for Bell.

Indeed when a woman finds her lover inclined to change, 'tis good to make a virtue of neceffity, and give the thing a fentimental turn, which gratifies his vanity, and does not wound one's own.

Adieu! I fee Sir George and his fine carriole; I mult run, and tell Emily.

Ever yours;
A. Fermor.

LET:

22 THE HISTORYOF

L E T T E R LXII.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.
Jan. 28.
TES, my Lucy, your brother tenderly regrets the abfence of a fifter endeared to him much more by her amiable qualities than by blood; who would be the object of his efteem and admiration, if fhe was not that of his fraternal tendernefs; who has all the blooming graces, fimplicity, and innocence of nineteen, with the accomplifhments and underftanding of five and twenty; who joins the ftrength of mind fo often confined to our fex, to the foftnefs, delicacy, and vivacity of her own; who, in hhort, is all that is eftimable and lovely; and who, except one, is the moft charming of her fex: you will forgive the exception, Lucy :
perhaps

EMILY MONTAGUE. 23 perhaps no man but a brother would make it.

My fweet Emily appears every day more amiable; the is now in the full tyranny of her charms, at the age when the mind is improved, and the perfon in its perfection. I every day fee in her more indifference to her lover, a circumftance which gives me a pleafure which perhaps it ought not: there is a felfinners in it, for which I am afraid I ought to blufh.

You judge "perfectly well, my dear, in checking the natural vivacity of your temper, however pleafing it is to all who converfe with you: coquetry is dangerous to Englih women, becaufe they have fenfibility ; it is more fuited to the French, who are naturally fomething of the falamander kind.

I have this moment a note from Bell Fermor, that the muft fee me this inftant.

I hope

24 THE HISTORY OF
I hope my Emily is well : Heaven preferve the moft perfect of all its works !

Adieu! my dear girl.

Your affectionate
Ed. Rivers.

$$
\mathbf{L} \mathbf{E} \cdot \mathbf{T} \mathbf{T} E \cdot \mathbf{R} \quad \mathbf{L X I I I} .
$$

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.
Feb. ı.

WE have paffed three or four droll days, my dear. Emily perfifts in refolving to break with Sir George; he thinks it decent to combat her refolution, left he fhould lofe the praife of generofity: he is alfo piqued to fee her give him up with fuch perfect compofure, though I am convinced he will not be forry upon the whole to be given up; he has, from the

EMILY MONTAGUE. 25 firtt receipt of the letter, plainly wifhed her to refign him, but hoped for a few faintings and tears, as a facrifice to his vanity on the occafion:

My father is fetting every engine at work to make things up again, fuppofing Emily to have determined fron: pique, not from the real feelings of her heart: he is frighted to death left I fhould counterwork him, and fo jealous of my advifing her to continue a conduct he fo much difapproves, that he won't leave us a moment together; he even obferves carefully that each goes into her refpective apartment when we retire to bed.

This jealoufy has ftarted an idea which I think will amufe us, and which I hall take the firft opportunity of communicat ing to Emily; 'tis to write each other at night our fentiments on whatever paffes in the day: if the approves the plan, I will fend you the letters, which will fave me Vol. II. - C ágreat a great deal of trouble in telling you all our petites biffoires.

26 THEHISTORYOF

This fcheme will have another advantage; we fhall be a thoufand times more fincere and open to each other by letter than face to face; I have long feen by her eyes that the little fool has twenty things to fay to me, but has not courage; now letters you know, my dear,
" Excufe the blufh, and pour out all "c the heart."
Befides, it will be fo romantic and pretty, almoft as agreeable as a love affair : I long to begin the correfpondence.

Adieu!

Yours,

A. Fermor.

LET:

EMILY MONTAGUE.

LETTERRLXIV。

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.

Quebice, Feb. 5. pretty,
I long

My fenfations on this occafion are not to be defcribed: I admire that amiable delicacy, which has influenced her to give up every advantage of rank and fortune which could tempt the heart of woman, rather than unite herfelf to a man for whom the felt the lealt degree of indifference; and this, without regarding the cenfures of her family, or of the world, C 2

28 THE HISTORY OF

by whom, what they will call her imprudence, will never be forgiven : a woman who is capable of acting fo nobly, is worthy of being beloved, of being adored, by every man who has a foul to diftinguifh ber perfections.

If I was a vain man, I might perhaps fancy her regard for me had fome fhare in determining her conduct, but I am convinced of the contrary; 'tis the native delicacy of her foul alone, incapable of forming an union in which the heart has no fhare, which, independent of any other confideration, has been the caufe of a refolution fo worthy of herfelf.

That fhe has the tendereft affection for me, I cannot doubt one moment; her attention is too flattering to be unoblerved; but 'tis that kind of affection in which the mind alone is concerned. I never gave her the moft diftant hint that I loved her : in her fituation, it would have been even an outrage to have done fo. She

EMILYMONTAGUE. $2 q$

mpruvoman verthy d, by nguif rhaps are in con-ede-formas no other a re, knows the narrownefs of my circumftances, and how near impoffible it is for me to marry; She therefore could not have an idea-no, my dear girl, 'tis not to love, but to true delicacy, that the has facrificed avarice and ambition; and the is a thoufand times the more eftimable from this circumftance.

I am interrupted. You fhall hear from me in a few days.

Adien!
YQur affeetionate
Ed. Rivers.
31
C 3
LET-

30 THE HISTORY OF ## LETTER LXV.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Strees.

Silleri, Feb. 10 .

IHave mentioned my plan to Emily, who is charmed with it; 'fis a pretty evening amufement for two folitary girls in the country.

Behold the firt fruits of our correfpone dence:

> " To Mifs Fremor.
" It is not to you, my dear girl, I need " vindicate my conduct in regard to Sir " George; you have from the firt ap" proved it; you have even advifed it. " If I have been to blame, 'tis in having $"$ too long delayed an explanation on a " point

EMILY MONTAGUE. $3{ }^{1}$ " point of fuch importance to us both. "I have been long on the borders of a

32 THE HISTORY OF

* all language, mewed his foul was of " intelligence with mine !
" A ftrong fenfe of the force of engage" ments entered into with my confent, " though not the effect of my free, unbi" affed choice, and the fear of making
" Sir George, by whom I fuppofed my" felf beloved, unhappy, have thus long " prevented my refolving to break with " him for ever; and though I could not "bring myfelf to marry him, I found " myfelf at the fame time incapable of " affuming fufficient refolution to tell him " fo, 'till his mother's letter gave me fó " happy an occafion.
*There is no faying what tranfport I "feel irr being freed from the infupport"able yoke of this engagement, which " has long fat heavy on my heart, and " fufpended the natural chearfulnefs of " my temper.

" Yes,

EMILYMONTAGUE. 33

M. Yes, my dear, your Emily has been" wreiched, without daring to confers it: " even to you: I was afhamed of owning "I had entered. into fuch engagements "with a man whom I had never loved, "though I had for a fhort time miftaken "efteem for a greater degree of affection. "than my lieart ever really knew. How "fatal, my dear Bell, is this miftake to "half our fex, and how happy am I to ". have difcovered mine in time!
" I have fcarce yet afked myfelf what I "c intend; but I think it will be mott pric. "dent to return to England in the firft " fhip , and retire to a relation of my mo " the:'s in the country, where I can live' "with decency on my little fortune.
"Whatever is my fate, no fituaticn can "be equally unhappy with that of being "wife to a man for whom I have nor * even the Ilighteft friendfhip or efteen, "for whofe converfation I have not the "leatt tafte, and who, if I know him,

$$
\text { C. } 5 \text { " would }
$$

34 THE HISTORY OF

" would for ever think me under an obli" gation to him for marrying me.
"I have the pleafure to fee 1 give no " pain to his heart, by a ftep which has " relieved mine from mifery : his feelings $\because$ are thofe of wounded vanity, not of love.
"Adieu! Your
"Emily Montague."

I have no patience with relations, Lucy; this fweet girl has been two years wretched under the bondage her uncle's. avarice (for he forefaw Sir. George's acquifition, though fhe did not) prepared for her. Parents fhould choofe our company, but never even pretend to direct: our choice; if they take care we converfe. with men of honour only, 'tis impoffible: we can choofe amifs: a conformity of tafte and fentiment alone can make mar-. riage:

EMILYMONTAGUE. 35

riage happy, and of that none but the parties concerned can judge:

By the way, I think long engagements, even between perfons who love, extremely unfavourable to happinefs : it is certainly right to be long enough acquäinted to know fomething of each other's temper; but 'tis bad to let the firf fire burn out before we come together; and when we have once refolved, I have no notion of delaying a moment.

If I hould ever confent to marry Fitzgerald, and: he fhould not fly for a licence: before I had finifhed the fentence, I would difmifs him if there was not another lover: to be had in Canada.

Adien!

Your faithful:

A. Fermors:

$3^{6}$ THE HISTORY OF

My Emily is now free as air; a fweet little bird efcaped from the gilded cage. Are you not glad of it, - Lucy? I am amazingly.

LETTERRLXVE

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.
Quebec, Feb. 11.

WOULD one think it poffible, Lucy, that Sir George fhould confole himfelf for the lofs of all that is lovely in woman, by the fordid profpect of acquiring, by an interefted marriage, a little more of that wealth of which he has already much more than he can either enjoy or become? By what wretched motives are half mankind influenced in the moft important action of their lives !

The

EMILY MONTAGUE. $3^{7}$

The vulgar of every rank expect happinefs where it is not to be found, in the ideal advantages of fplendor and diffipation; thofe who dare to think, thofe minds who partake of the celeftial fire, feek it in the real, folid'pleafures of nature and foft affection.

I have feen my lovely Emily fince I wrote to you; I fhall not fee her againof fome days; I do not intend at prefentto make my vifits to Silleri fo frequent as I have done lately, left the world, ever ftudious to blame, fhould mifconftruehep conduct on this very delicate occafion. I am even afraid to theve my ufual attention to her when prefent, left fhe herfelf fhould think I prefume on the: politenefs fhe has ever fhewn me, and fee her breaking with Sir Geonge in a falfe light: : the greater I think her obliging par* tiality to me, the more guarded I qught to be in my behaviour to her; her fituation. has fome refemblance to widowhood, and. fhe has equal decorums to obferve.

38 THE HISTORY OF

I cannot however help encouraging a pleafing hope that I am not abfolutely indifferent to her : her lovely eyes have a foftnefs when they meet mine, to which. words cannot do juftice: She talks lefs to me than to others, but it is in a tone of. voice which penetrates my foul; and when I fpeak, her attention is moft flattering, though of a nature not to be feen. by common obfervers; without feeming. to diftinguifh me from the crowd who Arive to engage her efteem and friendihip, fhe has a manner of addreffing me which. the heart alone can feel; fhe contrives to. prevent my appearing to give her any: preference to the reft of her fex, yet I. have feen her blufh at my, civility to an-other.

She has at leaft a friendihip for me, which alone would make the happinefs of. my life; and which I would prefer to the: love of the moft charming woman imagi-: nation could form, fenfible as I am to the: fweeteft of all pafions: this friend fhip, however,

EMILYMONTAGUE. 39.

sing a: ly inave a which. efs to ne of. and. flat. feen. ning. who hip. hich. s to.
any:
$t I$
Adieu !
Your affectionate
Ed. Rivers.

LET:

幺 $\mathrm{c}_{\mathrm{c}}$ THE HISTORYOF

LETTER LXVII.

To Colonel Ruvers, at Quebec.

London, Dec. 1 .

YOU need be in no pain, my dear brother, on M.. Temple's account; ; my heart is in nodanger from a man of his prefent character: his perfon and mannerare certainly extremely pleafing; his underftanding, and I believe his principles, are worthy of your friendihip; an encomium which, let me obferve, is from me: a very high one: he will be admired. every where, but to be beloved, he wants, or at leaft appears to me to want, the moft endearing of all qualities, that genuine tendernefs of foul, that almoft femininefenfibility, which, with all your firmnefs of:

EMILY MONTAGUE. 4 I of mind and fpirit, you poffers beyond any rinn I ever yet met with.

If your friend wifhes to pleafe me, which I almoft fancy he does, he muft endeavour to refemtle you; 'tis rather hard upon me, I think, that the only man I perfectly approve, and whofe difpofition is formed to make me happy, should be my brother: I beg you will find ous fomebody very like yourfelf far your fifter, for you have really made me faucy.

I pity you heartily, and wifh above alt things to hear of your Emily's marriage, for your prefent fituation muft be ex-: tremely unpleafant.

But, my dear brother, as you were fo very wife about Temple, allow me to allo. you whether it is quite confiftent with prudence to throw yourfelf in the way of 2 woman fa formed to infpire you with tendernefs ${ }_{2}$

42 THE HISTORY OF

tendernefs, and whom it is fo impoffible you can ever hope to poffefs: is not this acting a little like a foolifh girl, who plays round the flame which the knows will confume her?

My mother is well, but will never be happy till you return to England; I aften find her in tears over your letters: I will fajy no mone on a fubject which I hiow will give you pain. I hope, however, to hear you have given up all thoughts of fettling in America: it would be a better: plan to turn farmer in Rutland/hire; we could double the eftate by living upon it, and I am fure I hould make the prettieft milk-maid in the county.

I am ferious, and think we could live very fuperbly all together in the country; confider it well, my dear. Ned, for I cank not bear to fee my mother fo unbappy as your abfence makes her. I hear her on the ftairs.; I muft hurry away my letter.
fifible $t$ this who hows

Adieu!

Your affectionate

Lucy Rivers.

- St Say every thing for me to Bell Fermor;

Io 1 and in your own manner to your
1). Emily, in whofe friendrip I prow mife myfelf great happinefs.

LETTER LXVIII.

ct To Mirs Monthoue, at Sillerí.
Montreal, Feb. ia
T. TEVER any aftonifhment equalled mine, my dear Emily, at hearing you had broke an engagement of years; formuch to your advantage as to fortune, and and with a man of fo very unexception-: able a character as. Sir George, without any other apparent caufe than a light indelicacy in a letter of his mothe:'s, for which candour and affection would have found a thoufand excures. I will not ailow myfelf to fuppofe, what io however publicly faid here, that you have facrificed prudence, decorum, and I had almoft faid honor, to as imprudent inclination for 2 man, to whom there is the ftrongeft reafon to believe you are indifferent, and who is even faid to have an attachment to another: I mean Colonel Rivers, who, though a man of worth, is in a fituation which makes it impoffible for him to think of you, were you even as dear to him as the world fays he is to you.I ain too unhappy to fay more on this fubject, but expect from outpalt friiend fip a very fincere anfwer to two quef tions; whether love for Colonel Rivers was the real motive for the indifereet ftep.

4 THE HISTORYOF

EMILYMONTAGUE. 45 you have taken? and whether, if it was, you have the cxcufe of knowing he loves you? I Thould be glad to know what are your views, if you have any. I am,

My dear Emily,
Your affectionate friend,
E. Melmoth.

LETTTER LXIX.

To Mrs. Melmoth, at Montreal.

Silleri, Feb. 19.

My dear Madam,

IAM too fenfible of the rights of friendfhip, to refufe anfwering your queftions; which I fhall do in as.few word; as poffible. I have not the lealt reafon to fuppofe myfelf myfelf beloved by Colonel Rivers; nor, if $I$ know my heart, do I bye bim in that fenfe of the word your queftion fuppofes: I think him the bef, the moft amiable of mankind; and my extreme affection for him, though I believe that affection only a very lively friendhip, firt awakened me to a fenfe of the indelicacy and impropriety of marrying Sir George.To enter into fo facred an engagement as marriage with one man, with a ftronger affection for another, of how calm and innocent a nature foever that affection may be, is a degree of baseners of which my heart is incapable.

46 THE HISTORY OF

When I firf agreed to marry Sir George, I had no fuperior efteem for any other man; I thought highly of him, and wanted courage to refift the prefing 5licitations of my uncle, to whom I had a thoufand obligations. I even almoft perfuaded myfelf I loved hime nor did I find my miftake till I faw Colonel Rivers, in whofe converfation I had fo very lively a pleafure as foon convinced me of my miftake: I therefore refolved to break with Sir George, and nothing but the fear of giving him pain prevented my doing it fooner: his behaviour on the receipt of his mother's letter removed that fear, and fet me fice in my own opinion, and I hope wiH in yours, from engagements which were equally in the way of my happinefs, and his ambition. If he is fincere, he will tell you my refufal of him made him happy, though he choofes to affect a chagrin which he does not feel.I have no view but that of returning to England in the fpring, and fixing with a relation in the country.

EMILY MONTAGUE. 47

If Colonel Rivers has an attachment, 1 hope it is to one worthy of him s for my own part, I never entertained the remoteft thought of him in any light but that of the moft

48 THE HISTORYOF

moft fincere and tender of friends. I am, Madam, with great efteem,

Your affectionate friend
and obedient fervant,
Emily Montague;

LETTER LXX.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street:

Silleri, Feb. 270

THERE are two parties at Quebec in regard to Emily : the prudent mammas abufe her for lofing a good inatch, and fuppofe it to proceed from her partiality to your brother, to the imprudence of which they give no quarter; whilft the miffes admire her generofity and fpirit, in facrificing all for love ; fo impoffible it is to pleare every

EMILY MONTAGUE. 49.
every body. However, the has, in my opinion, done the wifeft thing in the world; that is, the has pleafed herfelf.

As to her inclination for your brother, $\mathbf{I}$ am of their opinion, that fhe loves him without being quite clear in the point herfelf : fhe has not yet confeffed the fact even to me; but fhe has fpeaking eyes, Lucy, and I think I can interpret their language.

Whether he fees it or not I cannot tell;' I rather think he does, becaufe he has been lefs here, and more guarded in his manner when here, than before this matrimonial affair was put an end to; which is natural enough on that fuppofition, becaufe he knows the impertinence of Quebec, and is both prudent and delicate to a great degree.

He comes, however, and we are pretty good company, only a little more referved on both fides; which is, in my opinion, a dittle fymptomatic.

30 THE HISTORYOF

La! here's papa come up to write at my bureat; I dare fay, it's only to pry into what I am about; but excufe me, my dear Sir, for that. Adieu! jufqu'au demain, ma très cbere.

> Yours,
A. Firmor.

L E T T E R LXXI.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.
Quebec, Feb. 20.

EVERY hour, my Lucy, convinces me more clearly there is no happinefs for me without this lovely woman; her turn of mind is fo correfpondent to my cwn , that we feem to have but one foul : the firft moment I faw her the idea ftruck me that we had been friends in fome pre-exiftent ftate, and were only renewing our acquaintance here ; when the fpeaks, my heart vibrates to the found, and owns every thought the expreffes a native there.

The

EMILY MONTAGUE. 51

The fame dear affections, the fame tender fenfibility, the moft precious gift of Heaven, inform our minds, and make us peculiarly capable of exquifite happinefs or mifery.

The paffions, my Lucy, are common to all; but the affections, the lively fweet affections, the only fources of true pleafure, are the portion only of a chofen few.

Abstract

Uncertain at prefent of the nature of her fentiments, I am determined to develop them clearly before I difcover mine: if the loves as I do, even a perpetual exile here will be pleafing. The remoteft wood in Canada with her would be no longer a defert wild; it would be the habitation of the Graces.

But I forget your letter, my dear girl; I am hurt beyond words at what you teil me of my mother; and would inftantly return to England, did not my fondnefs for this charming woman catain me here: you are both too good in wihing to retire with me to the country; will your tendernefs lead you a ftep farther, my Lucy? It would be too much to hope to fee you here; and yet, if I marry Emily, it will be impoffible for me to think of returning to England.There is a man here whom I hould prefer of all men I ever faw for you; but he is already attached to your friend Bell Fermor, who is very inattentive to her own happinefs, if fhe refufes him: I am very happy in finding you think of Temple as I wifh you fhould.

52 THE HISTORYOF

You are fo very civil, Lucy, in regard to me, I am afraid of becoming vain from your praifes.
': Take care, my dear, you don't fpoil me by this excefs of civility, for my only merit is that of not being a coxcomb.

I have

EMILY MONTAGUE. 53

I have a heavinefs of heart, which has never left me fince I read your letter: I am fhocked at the idea of giving pain to the beft parent that ever exifted; yet have lefs hope than ever of feeing England; without giving up the tender friend, the dear companion, the adored miftrefs; in fhort the very woman I have all my life been in fearch of: I am alfo hurt that I cannot place this object of all my wifhes in a ftation equal to that the has rejested, and I begin to think rejected for me.

> I never before repined at feeirg the gifts of fortune lavifhed on the unworthy.

Adieu, my dear! I will write again when I can write more chearfully.

Your affectionate

Ed. Rivbrs:

LET:

54 THE HISTORY OF ## L E T T E R LXXII.

To the Earl of
My Lord,
Silleri, Febr 20.
TOUR Lordfhip does me great honor in fuppofing me capable of giving any fatisfactory account of a country in which I have fpent only a few months.

As a proof, however, of my zeal, and the very ftrong defire I have to merit the efteem you honor me with, I thall communicate from time to time the little I have obferved, and may obferve, as well as what I hear from good authority, with that lively pleafure with which I have ever obeyed every command of your Lordfhip's.

The French, in the firft fettling this colony, feem to have had an eye only to the conqueft of ours: their whole fyttem of policy policy feems to have been military, not commercial; or only fo far commercial as was neceffary to fupply the wants, and by fo doing to gain the friendflip, of the favages, in order to make ufe of them againgt us.The lands are held on military tenure : every peafant is a foldier, every feigneur an officer, and both ferve without pay whenever called upon; this fervice is, except a very fmall quit-rent by way of acknowled sement, all they pay for their lands: the feigneur holds of the crowns. the peaiant of the feigneur, who is at once his lord and commander.

EMILY MONTAGUE. 's5

The peafants are in general tall and röbuft, notwithftanding their exceffive indolence; they love war, and hate labor; are brave, hardy, alert in the field, but lazy and inactive at home; in which they refemble the favages, whofe manners they feem ftrongly to have imbibed. The governD 4 ment ment appears to have encouraged a military fpirit all over the colony; though ignorant and ftupid to a great degree, thefe peafants have a ftrong fenfe of honor; and though they ferve, as I have faid, without pay, are never fo happy as when called to the field.They are exceffively vain, and not only look on the French as the only civilized nation in the world, but on themfelves as the flower of the French nation: they had, I am told, a great averfion to the regular troops which came from France in the late war, and a contempt equal to that averfion; they however had an affection and efteem for the late Marquis De Monicalm, which almoft rofe to idolatry; and I have even at this diflance of time, feen many of them in tears at the mention of his name: an honeft tribute to the memory of a commander equally brave and humane; for whom his enemies wept even on the day when their own hero fell.

56 THE HISTORY OF

EMILY MONTAGUE. 57

mili-higthere and hout ed to poly zed $s$ as ad; Ilar ate

I am called upon for this letter, and have only time to affure ycar Lordihip of my refpect, and of the pleafure I always receive from your commands. I have the honor to be,

> My Lord,
> Your Lordfhip's, &c.

William Fermor:

L E T T E R LXXIII.

To Mifs Fermor.
Feb. 24, Elevep at night.

IHAVE indeed, my dear, a pleafure in his converfation, to which words cannot do juftice: love itfelf is lefs tender and lively than my friendfhip for Rivers; from the firft moment I faw him, I loft all tafte for other converfation; even yours, amiable as you are, borrows its molt prevail

D 5
ing

58. THE HIOTORYOF

ing charm from the pleafure of hearing you talk of him.

When I call my tendernefs for him friendhip, I do not mean either to paint myfelf as an enemy to tenderer fentire ents, or him as one whom it is eafy to fee without feeling then : all I mean is, that, as. our fituations make it impoffible for us to think of each other except as friends, I have endeavored-I hope with fuccefsto fee-him in no other tight: it is not inhis power to marry without fortune, and mine is a trifie : had I worlds, they fhauld be his; but, I am neither fo felfifh as to defire, nor fo romantic as to expect, that he fhould defend from the rank of life he has been bred in, and live lof to the world with me.

As to the impertinence of two or threewomen, I hear of it with perfect indifference: my dear Rivers efteems me, he: approves my conduct, and all elie is below my care : the applaufe of worlds

F  earing

EMILY MONTAGUE. 59

would give me lefs pleafure than one fmile of approbation from him.

I am aftonifhed your father fhould know me fo little, as to fuppofe me capable of being influenced even by you: when I determined to refufe Sir George, it was from the feelings of my own heart alone; the firt moment I faw Colonel Rivers convinced me my heart had till then been a ftranger to true tendernefs : from that moment my life has been one continued flruggle between my reafon, which fhewed me the folly as well as indecency of marry.ing one man when I fo infinitely preferred another, and a falfe point of honor and mitaken compaffion: from which painful ffate, a concurrence of favorable accidents has at length happily relieved me, and left: me free to act as becomes me.

Of this, my dear, be affured; that, though I have not the leaft idea of ever marrying Colonel Rivers, yet, whilft my:

$$
\text { D. } 6 \text { fenti- }
$$

60 THE HISTORYOF

fentiments for him continue what they are, I will never marry any other man.

I am hurt at what Mrs. Melmoth hinted in her letter to you, of Rivers having appeared to attach himfelf to me from vanity; fhe endeavors in vain to deftroy my efteem for him: you well know, he never did appear to attach himfelf to me; he is incapable of having done it from fuch a motive; but if he had, fuch delight have I in whatever pleafes him, that I hould with joy have facrificed my own vanity to gratify his.

Adicu! Your

Emily Montacue.

LET-

L E T T E R LXXIV.
To Mifs Montague.
Feh. 25, Eight o'clock, juft up.

MY dear, you deceive yourfelf; you love Coionel Rivers; you love him even with all the tendernefs of romance : read over again the latter part of your letter; I know friendihip, and of what it is capable ; but I fear the facrifices it makes are of a different nature.

Examine your heart, my Emily, and tell me the refult of that examination. It is of the utmoft confequence to you to be clear as to the nature of your affection for Rivers.

Adieu! Yours,

A. Fermor:

LET:

62 THE HISTORY OF ## L E T T E R LXXV.

To. Mifs Fermor.
TES, my dear Bell, you know me better than I know myfelf; your Emily loves.-But tell me, and with that clear fincerity which is the cement of our friendthip; has not your own heart difcovered to you the fecret of mine? do you not alfo love this moft amiable of mankind? Yes, you do, and I am loft: it is not in woman to fee him without love; there are a thoufand charms in his converfation, in his look, nay in the very found of his voice, to which it is impoffible for a foul like yours to be infen. fible.

I have obferved you a thoufand times liftening to him with that air of foftnefs. and complacency-Believe me, my dear, I am not angry with you fo; loving him; he

EMILYMONTAGUE. 63

he is formed to charm the heart of woman : I have not the leaft right to complain of you; you knew nothing of my paffion for him; you even regarded me almoft as the wife of another. But tell me, though my heart dies within me at the queftion, is your tendernefs mutual? does he love you? I have obferved a coldnefs in his manner lately, which now darms me. - My heart is torn in pieces. Muft I receive this wound from the two perfons on earth moft dear to me? Indeed, my dear, this is more than your Emily can bear. Tell me only whether you love: I will not afk more.-Is there on earth a man who can pleafe where he appears?

64 THE HISTORY OF ## L E T T E R LXXVI.

To Mifs Montague.

YOU have difcovered me, my fweet Emily: I love-not quite fo dyingly as you do; but I love; will you forgive me when $I$ add that $I$ am beloved? It is. unneceffary to add the name of him I love, as you have fo kindly appropriated the whole fex to Colonel Rivers.

However, to fhew you it is poffible you: may be miftaken, 'tis the little Fitz I love, who, in my eye, is ten times more agreeable than even your nonpareil of a Colonel; I know you will think me a fhocking wretch for this depravity of tafte; but fo it is.

Upon my word, 1 am half inclined to be angry with you for not being in love with Fitzgerald; a tall Irihman, with EMILY MONTAGUE. 65 good eyes, has as clear a title to make conquefts as other people.

Yes, my dear, there is a man on earth, and even in the little town of Quebec, who can pleafe where be appears. Surely, child, if there was but one man on earth who could pleare, you would not be fo unreafonable as to engrofs him all to yourfelf.

For my part, though I like Fitzgerald extremely, I by no means infift that every other woman fhall.

Go, you are a foolifh girl, and don't know what you would be at, Rivers is 2 very handfome agreeable fellow; but it is in woman to fee him without dying for love, of which behold your little Bell an example. Adieul be wifer, and believe me

Ever yours,
A. Fermor.

Will

6. THE HISTORYOF

Will you go this morning to Montmorenci on the ice, and dine on the inand of Orleans? dare you truft yourfelf in a covered carriole with the dear man? Don't anfwer this, becaufe I am certain you can fay nothing on the fubject, which will not be very foolih.

L E T T E R LXXVII.

To Mifs Fermor.

IAM glad you do not fee Colonel Rivers with my eyes; yet it feems to me.very ftrange; I am almoft piqued at your giving another the preference. I will fay no more, it being, as you obferve, impoffible to avoid being abfurd on fuch a fubject.

I will go to Montmorenci; and, to fhew my courage, will venture in a covered carriole with Colonel Rivers, though I fhould rather wifh your father for my cavalier at prefent.

Yours, Emily Montague. LET-

EMILY MONTAGUE. 67

Mont: on the u truft le with er this, an fay h will

L E T T E R LXXVIII.
To Mifs Montagee.
Y OU are right, my dear: 'tis more prudent to go with my father. I love prudence; and will therefore iend for Mademoifelle Clairaut to be Rivers's belle. Yours,
A. Fermor.

L E T T E R LXXIX.

To Mifs Fermor.
TOU are a provoking chit, and I will go with Rivers. Your father may attend Madame Villiers, who you know will naturally take it ill if the is not of our party. We can akk Mademoifelle Clairaut another time.

Adieu! Your
Emily Montague.

LET.

68 THE HISTORYOF

LETTTER LXXX.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.

Silleri, Feb. 25 -

THOSE who have heard no more of a Canadian winter than what regards the intenfenefs of its cold, muft fuppofe it a very joylefs feafon: 'tis, I affure you, quite otherwife; there are indeed fome days here of the feverity of which thofe who were neverout of England can form no conception; but thofe days feldom exceed a dozen in a whole winter; nor do they come ia fucceffion, but at intermediate periods, as the winds fet: in fram the North-Weft; which, coming fome hundred leagues, from frozen lakes and rivers, over woods and mountains co. sered with frow, would be infupportable, were it not for the furs with which the country abounds, in fuch variety and plenty as to be within the reach of all its. inhabitants.

Thus

EMILY MONTAGUE. 69

Thus defended, the Britih belles fet the winter of Canada at defiance; and the feafon of which you feem to entertain fuch terrible ideas, is that of the utmoft
b. 25 more what muft 'tis, e are ty of Engthofe thole but $s$ fet: ung ikes CO. ble, the ind its chearfulnefs and feftivity.

But what particularly pleafes me is, there is no place where women are of fuch. importance : not one of the fex, who has the leaft fhare of attractions, is without a levee of beaux interceding for the honor of attending her on fome party, of which every day produces three or four.

I am juft returned from one of the moft agreeable jaunts imagination can paint, to the ifland of Orleans, by the falls of Montmorenci; the latter is almoft nine miles diftant, acrofs the great bafon of Quebec; but as we are obliged to reach it in winter by the waving line, our direct road being intercepted by the inequalities of the ice, it is now perhaps a thind more. You will poffibly fuppofe a ride a ride of this kind muft want one of the greateft effentials to entertainment, that of variety, and imagine it only one dull whirl over an unvaried plain of fnow : on the con ry, my dear, we pafs hills and mountains of ice in the trifling fpace of there few miles. The bafon of Quebec is formed by the conflux of the rivers St . Charles and Montmorenci with the great river St . Lawrence, the rapidity of whofe flood-tide, as thefe rivers are gradually feized by the froft, breaks up the ice, and drives it back in heaps, țill it forms ridges of tranfparent rock to an height that is aftonifhing, and of a ftrength which bids defiance to the utmoft rage of the moft furioully ruhing tide.

70 THE HISTORY OF

This circumftance makes this littlejourney more plealing than you can poffiblyconceive : the ferene blue fky aboye, the dazling brightnefs of the fun, and the colors from the refraction of its rays on the tranfparent part of thefe ridges of ice, the winding courfe thefe oblige. you to make, the fudden

OF

ne of the $t$, that of Aull whirl : on the zills and fpace of Quebec ivers St . the great of whofe radually ice, and s ridges $t$ that is ich bids he moft tlejourblycon. he dazcolors ranfpa-winde, the fudden

EMILY MONTAGUE. 7 It

findden difappearing of a train of fifteen or twenty carrioles, as thefe ridges intervene, which again difcover themfelves on your rifing to the top of the frozen mount, the tremendous appearance both of the afcent and defcent, which now. ye re not attended with the leaft dang: a together give a grandeur and varie,., to the fcene, which almoft rife to enchantmient.

Your dull foggy climate affords nothing that can give you the leaft idea of our froft pieces in Canada; nor can you form any notion of our amufements, of the agreeablenefs of a covered carriole, with a fprightly fellow, rendered more fprightly by the keen air and romantic fcene about him; to fay nothing of the fair lady at his fide.

Even an overturning has nothing alarming in it; you are laid gently down on a foft bed of fnow, without the leaft danger of any kind; and an accident of this fort only gives a pretty fellow occa-occafion to vary the ftyle of his civilities, and fhew a greater degree of attention.

But it is almoft time to come to Montmorenci: to avoid, however, fatiguing you or myfelf, I hall refer the reft of our tour to another letter, which will probably accompany this: my meaning is, that two moderate letters are vaftly better than one long one; in which fentiment I know you agree with

Yours,

A. Fermor.

LET. ntion.
to Montuing you our tour bably acthat two ter than I know

ERMOR.
E. T.

EMILY MONTAGUE. 73

L E T T E R IXXXI.
To Mifs Rivirs, Clarges Street.

Silleri, Feb. 35, Afternoog,

©O, my dear, as I was faying, this fame *) ride to Montmorenci-where was I, Eucy? I forget. $\mathbf{- O}$, I believe pretty near the mouth of the bay; embofomed in which lies the lovely cafcade of which I am to give you a winter defcriptión, and which I only Aightly mentioned when I gave you an account of the rivers by which it is fupplied.

The road, about a mile before you reach this bay, is a regular glaffy level; without any of thofe interyening hills of ice which I have mentioned; hills, which with the ideas, though falfe ones, of danger and difficulty, give thofe of beauty and magnificence tob.

YOL. II. E
As

74 THE HISTORY OF

As you gradually approach the bay, you are ftruck with an awe, which increafes every moment, as you come nearer, from the grandeur of a fcene, which is one of the nobleft works of nature: the beauty, the proportion, the folemnity, the wild magnificence of which, furpafing every poffible effect of art, imprefs one ftrongly with the idea of its Divine Almighty Architect.

The rock on the eaft fide, which is firft in view as you approach, is a fmooth and almoft perpendicular precipice, of the fame height as the fall, the top, which a little over-hangs, is beautifully covered with pines, firs, and ever-greens of various kinds, whofe verdant luftre is rendered at this feafon more fhining and lovely by the furrounding finow, as well as by that which is fprinkled irregularly on their, branches, and glitters half melted in the fun-beams : a thoufand fmaller fhrubs are fcattered on the fide of the afcent, and, having their roots in almoft imperceptible

F

the bay, hich in-

EMILY MONTAGUE. 75

ble clefts of the rock, feem to thofe below to grow in air.

The weft fide is equally lofty, but more noping, which, from that circumitance,' affords foil all the way, upon thelving inequalities of the rock, at little diftances, for the growth of trees and hrubs, by. which it is almoft entirely hid.

The moft pleafing view of this miracle of nature is certainly in fummer, and in the early part of it, when every tree is in foliage and full verdure, every thrub in flower; and when the river, fwelled with a watte of waters from the mountains from which it derives its fource, pours down in a tumultuous torrent, that equally charms and aftonifies the beholder.

> The winter fcene has, notwithftanding, its beauties, though of a different kind, more refembling the ftillnefs and inactivity of the feafon.

76 THE HISTORYOF

The river being on its fides bound $\mu \mathrm{p}$ in froft, and its channel rendered narrower than in the fummer, affords a lefs body of water to fupply the cafcade; and the fall, though very fteep, yet not being exactly perpendi ular, maffes of ice are formed, on different melying projections of the rock, in a great variety of forms and proportions.

The torrent, which before rufhed with fuch impetuofity down the deep defcent in one vaft theet of water, now defcends in fome parts with a now and majeftic pace; in others feems almoft fufpended in mid air; and in others, burfting through the obftacles which interrupt its courfe, pours down with redoubled fury into the foaming bafon below, from whence a fpray arifes, which, freezing in its afcent, becomes on each fide a wide and irregular frozen breaft-work; and in front, the fpray being there much greater, a lofty and magnificent pyramid of folid ice.

EMILX MONTAGUE. 77

I Riave fot told you half the grandeur, half the beauty, half the lovely wildners of this Iteine : if you would know what it is, you muft take no information but that of your own eyes, which I pronounce ftrangers to the lovelieft work of creation till they have feen the river and fall of Montmorenci.

> In hort, my dear, 1 am Montmorencimad.

I can hardly defcend to tell you, we paffed the ice from thence to Orleans, and dined out of doors on fix feet of frow, in the charming enlivening warnth of the fun, though in the month of February, at a trime wher you in Eugland fcarce feel his beams.

Fitzgerald made violent love to me all the way, and I never felt myfelf liften with fuch complacency.

$7^{8}$ THE HISTORYOF

Adieu! I have wrote two immenfe letters. Write oftener; you are lazy, yet expect me to be an abfolute llave in the fcribbling way.

Your faithful

A. Fermor.

Do you know your brother has admirable ideas? He contrived to lofe his way on our return, and kept Emily ten minutes behind the reft of the company. I am apt to fancy there was fomething like a declaration, for fhe blufhed, " Celeftial rofy red,"
when he led her into the dining room at Silleri.

Once more, adieu!

LET.

OF

EMILY MONTAGUE. 79

L E T TER LXXXII.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.
March 1.

IWAS miftaken, my dear; not a word of love between your brother and Emily, as fhe pofitively affures me; fomething very tender has paffed, I am convinced, notwithftanding, for the blufhes more than ever when he approaches, and there is a certain foftnefs in his voice when he addreffes her, which cannot efcape a perfon of my penetration.

Do you know, my dear Lucy, that there is a little impertinent girl here, a Mademoifelle Clairaut, who, on the mere merit of features and complexion, fets up for being as handfome as Emily and me?

If beauty, as I will take the liberty to affert, is given us for the purpofe of pleaf-

$$
E_{4}
$$

 THE HISTORY OF

ing, fhe who pleafes moft, that is to fay; fhe who excites the möt paffion, is in all intents and purpofes the mof beautiful woman ; and, in this cafe, I am inclined to believe your little Bell ftands pretty high onithe foll of beauty; the men's eyes may perhaps fay fhe is handfome, but their bearts feel that I am fo.

There is, in general, nothing fo infipid, fo uninteretting, as a Beauty; which thofe men experience to their coft, who choofe from vanity, not inclination. I remember Sir Charles Herbert, a Captain in the fame regiment with my father, who determined to marry Mifs Raymond before he faw her, merely becaufe he had been told The was a celebrated beauty, though fhe was never' known to have infpired a real paffion : he faw her not with his own eyes but thofe of the public, took her charms on truff; and, till he was her hurband, never found out the was not his tafte; a fecret, however, of forne little importance to his happinefs.

I have, ich thofe o choofe rememin in the o deterefore he een told igh fhe 1 a real vn eyes charms Ifband, afte; a rtance have,

EMIEY MONTAGUE. 8\%

- I hdve, however, knọn fome Beauties who had a' right to pleafe; thht is, who had a mixture of that invifible charm, that natnellefs grace which by no mean's depends. on beauty, and which ftrikes the heatt in a moment; but my firft averfion is your fine women: don't you think a fine woman a deteftable creature, Lucy? I do: they are vaitly well to fill public places: but as to the heart-Hearens, my dear! yet there are men, I fuppofe, to be found, who have a tafte for the great fublim: in beauty.

Men are vaftly foolifh, my dear, very few of them have fpirit to think for themfelves; there are a thoufand Sir Charles. Herberts: I have fee fome of them weak: enough to decline marrying the woman on earth moft pleafing to themfelves, becaufe not thought handfome by the génerality of their companions.

82 THE HISTORYOF

Women are above this folly, and therefore choofe much oftener from affection than men. We are a thoufand times wifer, Lucy, than thefe important beings, thefe mighty lords,
-" Who ftrut and fret their hour upon "t the ftage;"
and, inftead of playing the part in life which nature dictates to their reafon and their hearts, act a borrowed one at the will of others.

I had rather even judge ill, than not judge for myfelf.

> Adieu! yours ever,
A. Fermor.

LET:

EMILY MONTAGUE. 83

L E T T $\quad$ T $\mathbf{R}$ LXXXIII.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.

Quebec, March 4.

AFTER debating with myfelf fome days, I am determined to purfue Emily; but before I make a declaration, will go to fee fome ungranted lands at the back of Madame Des Roches's eftate; which, lying on a very fine river, and fo near the St. Lawrence, may I think be cultivated at lefs expence than thofe above Lake Champlain, though in a much inferior climate: if I make my fettlement here, I will purchafe the eftate Madame Des Roches has to fell, which will open me a road to the river St. Lawrence, and confequently treble the value of my lands.

E 6
I love,

84 THE HISTORYOF

I love, I adore this charming woman ; but I will not fuffer my tenderness for her to make her unhappy, or to lower her ftation in life: if I can by my prefent plan, fecure her what will in this country be a degree of affluence, I will endeavor to change her friendmip for me into a tenderer and more lively affection; if fhe loves, I know by my own heart, that Canada will be no longer a place of exile; if I have flattered myfelf, and fhe has only a friendihip for me, I will return immediately to England, and retire with you and my mother to our little eftate in the country.

You will perhaps fay, why not make Emily of our party? I am almoft afhamed to fpeak plain; but fo weak are we, and fo guided by the prejudices' we fancy we defpife; that I cannot bear my Emily, after refufing a coach and fix, fhould live without an equipage fuitable at leaft to her birth, man; is for er her refent untry eavor nto a if fhe that ce of hd the eturn : with eftate make amed ind fo y we after thout sirth, and

EMILY MONTAGUE. $\dot{8}_{5}$ and the manner in which fie has always lived when in England:

I know this is folly, that it is a defpicable pride; but it is a folly, a pride, I cannot conquer.

There are moments when I am above all this childifh prejudice, but it returns upon me in fpite of myfelf.

Will you come to us, my Lucy? Tell my mother, I will build her a ruftic palace, and fettle a little principality on yoú both.

I make this a private excurfion, becaufe I don't choofe any body fhould even guefs at my views. I fhall fet our in the eveniing, and make a circuit to crols the river above the town.

I fhall not even take leave at Silleri, as I propofe being back in four days, and I 5 know

86 THE HISTORY OF

know your friend Bell will be inquifitive about my journey.

Adieu!

Your affectionate

Ed. Rivers.

L E T T E R LXXXIV.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.

Silleri, March 6.
TOUR brother is gone nobody knows whither, and without calling upon us before he fet off; we are piqued, I affure you, my dear, and with fome little reafon.

Very

EMILY. MONTAGUE. 87

Four o'clock.
Very ftrange news, Lucy; they fay Colonel Rivers is gone to marry Madame Des Roches, a lady at whofe houfe he was fome time in autumn; if this is true, I forfwear the whole fex: his manner of ftealing off is certainly very odd, and fhe is rich and agreeable; but, if he does not love Emily, he has been exceffively cruel in Shewing an attention which has deceived her into a paffion for him. I cannot believe it poffible: not that he has ever told her he loved her; but a man of honour will not tell an untruth even with his eyes, and his have fpoke a very unequivocal language.

I never faw any thing like her confufion, when the was told he was gone to vifit Madame Des Roches; but, when it was hinted with what defign, I was obliged to take her out of the room, or the would have difcovered all the fondnefs of

IMAGE EVALUATION
 TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences
Corporation

88 THE HISTORY OF

her foul. I really thought fhe would hatebifathetd as I led her out.

night opelocek.

I have fent away all the men; and drank tea in Emily's'apartment; ;he has fcarce Spoke to me; I am miferable for her; fhe has a palentef which alarms me, the tears fteal every moment into her lovely eyes: Can Rivers aet fo unworthy a part? her tendernefs cannot have been unobferved by hin y it was too vifible to every body.

10 n

9thy Ten o'clock:
Not a line from your brother yet; only a confirmation of his being with ivatatme Des Roches, Havify beeń feen there by fome Canadians who are coffite up this motning : I am not quite pleafed, though I do not believe the report; he might have told us furely whete he was goitg.

EMILY MONTAGEE. 89

1 pity Emily beyonid words; fhe fays nothing, but there is a dumb eloquence in her countenance which is not to bedes fcribed.

Twelve o'clock.

I have been an four afbofe with the dear little girl, who has, from a hint I dropt on purpore, taken courage to fpeak to titie on this very interciting fubject ; the fays? " The thall be moft unhappy if this re"port is true, though without the leaft " right to complain of Colonel Rivers, "who never even hinted a word of any * affection for her thore tendef than se friendith, that if her vanity, her left 0 love, or her tendernefs, have deceived * her, the onght only to blame herrelfif Stie added, "that the withed him to remary Madame Des Roches if he 8 could make him happy; but when the faid this an involuntary tear feemed to contradict the generofity of her centio ments.

90 THE HISTORY OF

I beg your pardon, my dear, but my efteem for your brother is greatly leffened; I cannot help fearing there is Tomething in the report, and that this is what Mrs. Melmoth meant when the mentioned his having an attachment.

I hall begin to hate the whole fex; Lucy, if I find your brother unworthy; and fhall give Fitzgerald his difmiffion immediately.

I am afraid Mrs. Melmoth knows men better than we foolifh girls do: The faid; he attached himelf to Emily merely from vanity, and I begis to believe the was right: how cruel is this conduct I The man who from vanity, or perhaps only to amure an ide hour, can appear to be attached where he is not, and by that means feduce the heart of a deferving woman, or indeed of any woman, falls in my opinion very little fhort in bafenefs of him who pratiics a greater degree of fo. duction.

What

What right has he to make the moft amiable of women wretched? a woman who would have deferved him had he been monarch of the univerfal world!: I might add, who has facrificed eafe and affluence to her tendernefs for him ?

You will excufe my warmth on fuch an occafion; however, as it may give you pain, I will fay no more.

Adicu!

e faid, from e was The nly to be atthat g wo lls in ofs of fe.

What

EMILY MONTAGUE. gr

$\qquad$

THE HASPORYOF

LETTER LXXXV.  To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.

Kamarakas, March 12.
THave mee with fomething, my dear Lucy, which has given nye infinite uneafinefs; Madame Des Roches, from my extreme zeal to ferve 'her inf an affair wherein the has been hardly ufed, from my fecond vifit, and a certain involuntary attention, and foftnefs of manner, I Hate to all women, has fuppofed me in love with her, and with a franknefs I cannot but admire, and a delicacy not to be defcribed, has let me know I am far from being indifferent to her.

I was at firt extremely embarraffed; but when I had reflected a momsent, I confidered that the ladies, tho' another may be the object, always regard with a kind of complacency, a man whelpues, as ane who acknowledges the power of the fex whereas an indifferent is a kipd of rebel to their empire; Ifoufidered alfo that the confeffion of a prior inclination faves the mof delicate, yanity from being wpunded: and therefore determined to make her the confidante of my tendernefs for Emily; leaving her an opening to fuppore that, if my heart had been difengaged, it could not have efcaped her attractions.I did this with all poffible precaution, and with every foftening that friendifip and politenefs could fuggeft ; the was fhocked at my confeffion, but foon recovered herfelf enough to tell me the was highly flattered by this proof of my confidence and efferm; that be believed me a man to have only the more refpect for a woman who by opyning her partiality had told me fhe confidered me not only as the mof amable but the mof noble of my fex that the had heard, no love was 10 , tender as that which was the child

EMILY MQNTAGUE. 93

94 THE HISTORYOF

child of friendmip ; but that of this the was convinced, that no friendihip was fo tender as that which was the child of love; that he offered me this tender, this lively friendflip, and would for the future find her happinefs in the confideration of mine.

Do you know, my dear, that fince this onfemion, I feel a kind of tendernefs for ner, to which I cannot give àname? It is not love; for I love, I idolize another: but it is fofter and more pleafing, as well as more aninated, than friendfrip.

You cannot conceive what pleafure I find in her converfation; the has an admirable undertanding, a feeling heart, and a mixture of fofthers and fpirit in her manner, which is pecufiarly pleafing to men. My Emily will love hat; I muft bring them acquainted The promifes to come to Quebeç in May; I hall be happy to fhew her every attention when there.

I have

F

this the p was fo child of der, this the fu-onfideraince this rnefs for e? It is another : as well eafure an ad heart it in her afing to I muft nifes to e happy there.

sif axos
I have

EMILY MONTAGUE. 95
I have feen the lands, and am pleafed with them : I believe this will be my refidence, if Emily, as I cannot avoid hoping, will make me happy ; I thall declare myfelf as foon as I return, but muft continue here : $a$ few days longer: I fhall not be lefs pleafed with this fituation for its being fo near Madame Des Roches, in whom Emily will find a friend worthy of her efteem, and an entertaining lively compapion.

Adieu, my dear Lucy !

Your affectionate

Ed. Rivers.

1 have fixed on the lovelieft fpot on earth, on which to build a houfe for my mother: do I not expect too much in fancying the will follow me hither?

LET.

異 THE HISGORYOF

- HETTE $\mathbf{H}$ LXXXVI
- To Mís Ryers, Clarges Street.

©TiLL with Madame Des Roches: appearances are tather againft him, you mult awn, Lucy: but I will not fay all I think to you. Poor Emily ! we difpute continually, for the will perfift in defending his conduct; the fays, he has a right to marry whoever he pleafes; that her loving him is no tie upon his honor, efpecially as he does not even know of this preference; that the ought only to blame the yeaknefs of her own heart, which has betrayed her into, a falfe belief that their sendernefs was mutual: this is pretty talking, but he has done every thing to convince her of his feeling the frongeft parfion for her, except making a formal declaration.
T 1

EMILY MONTAGUE: 97

She talks of returning to England the moment the river is open : indeed, if your brother marries, it is the only ftep left her to take. I almoft wifh now the had married Sir George: the would have had all the douceurs of marriage; and as to love, I begin to think men incapable of feeling it: fome of them can indeed talk well on the fubject; but felf-intereft and vanity are the real paffions of their rouls. I deteft the whole fex.

Adieu!

A. Fermor:

98, THE HISTORYOF

L ETTER LXXXVII.

To the Earl of

My Lord,
Silleri, March ${ }_{13}$.

1GENERALLY diftruft my own opinion when it differs from your Lordfhip's; but in this inftance I am moft certainly in the right : allow me to fay, nothing can be more ill-judged than your Lordhhip's defign of retiring into a fmall circle, from that world of which you have fo long been one of the moft brilliant ornaments. What you fay of the difagreeablenefs of age, is by no means applicable to your Lordhip; nothing is in this refpect fo fallible as the parih regifter. Why fhould any man retire from fociety whilf he is capable of contributing to the pleafures of it? Wit, vivacity, good-nature, and politenefs, give an eternal youth, as ftupidity and morofenefs a premature old age. Without a thoufandth part of your Lordthip's mining qualities, I think myfelf much younger than half the boys about me, merely becaufe I have more good-nature, and a ftronger defire of pleafing.

My daughter is much honored by your Lordhip's enquiries : fhe is Bell Fermor ftill; but is addreffed by a gentleman who is extremely agreeable to me, and I believe not lefs fo so her; I however know too well the free fpitit of woman, of which the has her full thare, to let Bell know I approve her choice; I am even in doubt whether it would not be good policy to feem to dilike the match, in order to fecure her confent : there is fomething very pleafing to a young girl, in oppofing the will of her father.

To fpeak truth, I am a little out of hue mor with her at prefent, for having con: tributed, and I believe entirely from a fpirit of oppofition to me, to break a match

F 2
on

re THE HISTORYOF

on which I had extremely fet my heart; the lady was the niece of my particular friend, and one of the moft lovely and deferving women I ever knew : the gentleman very worthy, with an agreeable, indeed a very handfome perfon, and a fortune which with thofe who know the world, would have compenfated for the want of moft other advantages.

The fair lady, after an engagement of two years, took a whim that there was no happinefs in marriage without being madly in love, and that her paffion was not fufficiently romantic; in which piece of folly my rebel encouraged her, and the affair broke off in a manner which has brought on her the imputation of having given way to an idle prepoffefion in favor of another.

Your Lordhip will excufe my talking on a fubjeci very near my heart, though uninterefting to you; I have too often experienced your Lordßhip's indulgence to doubr

F

EMILY MONTAGUE. ror doubt it on this occafion: your good-natured philofophy will tell you, much fewer people talk or write to amufe or inform their friends, than to give way to the feeiings of their own hearts, or indulge the governing paffion of the moment.

In my next, I will endeavor in the beft manner I can, to obey your Lordhip's commands in regard to the political and religious ftate of Canada : I will make a point of getting the beft information poffible; what I have yet feen, has been only the furface.

I have the honor to be,My Lord,Your Lordihip's &xc.

William Fermor.
$\mathrm{F}_{3}$. LET.

102 THE HISTORY OF

L E T T E R LXXXVIII.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.

Silleri, March 16, Monday.

YOUR brother is come back; and has been here: he came after dinner yefterday. My Emily is more than woman; I am proud of her behaviour: he entered with his ufual impatient air; the received him with a dignity which aftonifhed me, and difconcerted him: there wasa cool difpaffionate indifference in her whole manner, which I faw cut his vanity to the quick, and for which he was by no means prepared.

On fuch an occafion I fhould have flirt. ed violently with fome other man, and. have thewed plainly I was piqued: the judged much better; I have only to wifh

EMILY MONTAGUE. 103 it may laft. He is the verieft coquet in nature ; for, after all, I am convinced he loves Einily.

He ftayed a very little time, and has not been here this morning; he may pout if he pleafes, but I fatter myfelf we fhall hold out the longet.

He came to dine; we kept up our ftate all dinner time; he begged a moment's converfation, which we refufed, but with a timid air that makes me begin to fear we fhall beat a parley : he is this moment gones and Emily retired to her apartment. on pretence of indifpofition : I am afraid She is a foolifh girl.

Half hour after fix:
It will not do, Lucy: I found her in tears at the window, following Riverṣ's carriole with her eyes : The turned to me with fuch a look-in fhort, my dear,

$$
\mathrm{F}_{4} \quad \text { : The }
$$

104 THE HISTORY OF  " The weak, the fond, the fool, the " coward woman"

has prevailed over all her refolution : her love is only the more violent for having been a moment reftrained; fhe is not equal to the talk fhe has undertaken; her refentment was concealed tendernefs, and has retaken its firt form:

I am forry to find there is not one wife woman in the world but myfelf.

Paft ten:
I have been with her again : fhe feemed 2 little calmer; I commended her fpirit; fhe difavowed it; was peevilh with me, angry with herfelf; faid ine had acted in a manner unworthy her character; accufed herfelf of caprice, artifice, and cruelty; faid fhe ought to have feen him, if not alone, yet with me only : that it was natural he hould be furprized at a reception fo inconfiftent with true friend/hip, and therefore that he fhould wifh an explanations

OF
fool, the ion : her r having $=$ is not ken; her efs, and one wife

Paft ten; feemed fpirit ; ith me, Eted in accufd cru. im, if it was recepdhip, in extions

EMILY MONTAGUE. 105

 planation; that ber Rivers (and why not Madame Des Roches's Rivers?) was incapable of acting otherwife than as became the beft and moft tender of mankind, and that therefore fhe ought not to have fuffered a whifper injurious to his honor: that I had meant well, but had, by depriving her of Rivers's friendłhip, which She had loft by her haughty behaviour, deftroyed all the happinefs of her life.To be fure, your poor Bell is always to blame: but if ever I intermeddle be: tween lovers again, Lucy-

I am fure fhe was ten times more angry with him than I was, but this it is to be too warm in the intereft of our friends,

Adieu! till to-morrow.

> Yours;
A. Fermor:

Hencir Fs
I can

SO6 THE HISTORY OF

I can only fay, that if Fitzgerald had vifited a handfome rich French widow, and ftaid with her ten days tête-d-tette in the country, without my permifion-

O Heavens! here is mon chor père: I muft hide my letter.

Bon foir.

L E T T E R LXXXIX.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.

Qurebec, March 6

ICANNOT account, my dear, for what has happened to me. I left Madame Des Roches's full of the warm impatience of love; and flew to my Emily at Silleri : I was received with a difdainful coldnefs which I did not think had been in her nature, and which has fhocked me beyond all expreflion.

1 went

OF

rald had widow, d-tette in on-père: I )

Bon foir.
XIX.
eet.
1arch 6
r what adame tience illeri : Idnefs er nayond

EMILY MONTAGUE. 107.

- 1 IWent again to-day, and met with the fame reception; I even faw my prefence was painful to her, therefore fhortened my vifit, and, if I have refolution to perfevere, will not go again till invited by Captain Fermor in form.

I could bear any thing but to lofe her affection; my whole heart was fet upon her: I had every reafon to believe myfelf dear to her. Can caprice find a place in that bof m which is the abode of every virtue?

I muft have been mifreprefented to her; or furely this could not have happened : I will wait to-morrow, and if I hear nothing will write to her, and ank an explanation by letter; fhe refufed me a verbal one to-day, though I begged to fpeak with her only for a moment.

F 6
1 have

108 THE HISTORY OF

Trefday.
I have been afked on a little riding party, and, as I cannot go to Silleri, have accepted it: it will amufe my prefent anxiety.

I am to drive Mademoifelle Clairaut ${ }_{2}$ a very pretty French lady: this is however of no confequence, for my eyes fee nothing lovely but Emily.

Adieu!

Your affectionate
Ed. Rivers;
$\therefore$ ex

?
$\%$
LET:

L E T TERXC.

To Mifs Rivers, Clarges Street.

Silleri, Wednefday morning.
DOOR Emily is to meet with perpetual mortification: we have been carrioling with Fitzgerald and my father; and, coming back, met your brother driving Mademoifelle Clairaut: Emily trembled, turned pale, and fcarce returned Rivers's bow; I never faw a poor little girl fo in love ; fhe is amazingly altered within the laft fortnight.

Two o'cleck.
A letter from Mrs. Melmoth : I fend you a copy of it with this.

Adieu!

Yours,
A. Frrmor:

LET:
1., THE HISTORYOF

LETTERXCI.

To Mifs Montafue, at Silleri.

Montreal, March 1g.

1F you are not abfolutely refolved on deftructions my dear Emily, it is yet in your power to retrieve the falfe ftep you have made.

Sir George , whofe good-nature is in this inftance almoft without example, has been prevailed on by Mr. Melmoth ta confent I fhould write to you before he leaves Montreal, and again offer you his hand, though rejected in a manner fo very mortifying both to vanity and love.

He gives you a fortnight to confider his: offer, at the end of which if you refufe him. he fets out for England over the lakes.

EMILY MONTAGUE. ITB

Be affured, the man for whom it is too plain you have acted this imprudent part, is fo far from returning your affection, that he is at this moment addreffing another; I mean Madame Des Roches, a near relation of whofe affured me that there was an attachment between them: indeed it is impoffible he could have thought of a woman whofe fortune is as fmall as his own. Men, Mifs Montague, are not the romantic beings you feem to fuppofe them; you will ot find many Sir George Claytons.

I beg as early an anfwer as is confiftent with the attention fo important a propofal requires, as a compliment to a paffion fo generous and difinterefted as that of SirGeorge: I am, my dear Emily,

> Your affectionate friend,

E. Melmoth;

L E Tè

182 THE HISTORYOF

L ETTER XCII.

To Mrs. Melmoth, at Montreal.

Silleri, March 1g*

IAM forry, my dear Madam, you fhould know fo little of my heart, as to fuppofe it poffible I could have broke my engagements with Sir George from any motive but the full conviction of my wanting that tender affection for him, and that lively tafte for his converfation, which alone could have infured either his felicity or my own ; happy is it for both that I difcovered this before it was too láte: it was a very unplealing circumftance; even under an intention only of marrying. him, to find my friendihip ftronger for another; what then would it have been under the moft facred of all engagements, that of marriage? What wretchednefs. would have been the portion of both, had timidity ${ }_{2}$

EMILY MONTAGUE. 113 timidity, decorum, or falfe honor, carried me, with this partiality in my heart, to fulfill thofe views, entered into from compliance to my family, and continued from a falce idea of propriety, and weak fear of the cenfures of the world?
farch $1 g$
The fame reafon therefore ftill fubfiting, nay being every moment ftronger, from a fuller conviction of the merit of him my heart prefers, in spite of me, to Sir George, our union is more impoflible than ever.

I am however obliged to you, and Major Melmoth, for your zeal to ferve me, though you muft permit me to call it a miftaken one; and to Sir George, for a concefion, which I own I mould not have made in his fituation, and which I can only fuppofe the effect of Major Melmoth's perfuafions, which he might fuppore were known to me, and an imagination that my fentiments for him were changed :

114 THE HISTORYOF

 changed: aflure him of riny efteem, tho' love is not in my power.As Colonel Rivers never gave me the remoteft reafon to fuppofe him more than ny friend, I have not the leaft right to difapprove his marrying : on the contrary, as his friend, I ougbt to wifh a connexion which I am told is greatly to his advantage.

Tc prevent all future importunity; painful to me, and, all circumftances confidered, degrading to Sir George, whofe honor is very dear to me, though $I$ am obliged to refure him that hand which he furely cannot wilh to recelve withput my heart, I am compelled to fay, that, without an idea of ever being united to Colonel Rivers, I will never marry any other man.

Were I never again to behold him, were he even the hurband of another, my tendernefs, lively, would never ceafe: nor would I give up the refined delight of loving him, independently of any hope of being beloved, for any advantage in the power of fortune to beftow.

Thefe being my fentiments, fentiments which no time can alter, they cannot be too foon known to Sir George : I would not one hour keep him in fufpence in a point, which this ftep feems to fay is of confequence to his happinefs.

Tell him, I entreat him to forget me; and to come into. views which will make his mother, and I have no doubt himfelf, happier than a marriage with a woman whofe chief merit is that very fincerity of heart which obliges her to refufe him. I am, Madam,

Your affectionate, &c.
Emily Montague.

LET.

116 THE HISTORY OF ## L E T TER XCIH.

To Mifs Rıvers, Clarges Street.

Silleri, Thurday.
TOUR brother dines here to-day, by my father's invitation; I am afraid it will be but an awkward party.

Emily is at this moment an exceeding fine model for a ftatue of tender melancholy.

Her anger is gone; not a trace remaining; 'tis forrow, but the moft beautiful forrow I ever beheld : the is all grief for having offended the dear man.

I am out of patience with this look; it is fo flattering to him, I could beat her for

EMILY MONTAGUE. 117

 for it: I cannot bear his vanity fhould be fo gratified.I wanted her to treat him with a faucy, unconcerned, flippant air; but her whole appearance is gentle, tender, I had almoft faid fupplicating: I am afhamed of the folly of my own fex: $O$, that I could today infpire her with a little of my fpirit! the is a poor tame houfehold dove, and there is no making any thing of her.

Eleven o'clock.
" For my fhepherd is kind, and my heart " is at eafe."

What fools women are, Lucy! He took her hand, expreffed concern for her health, foftened the tone of his voice, looked a few civil things with thofe expreffive lying eyes of his, and without one word

118 THE HISTORYOF

 word of explanation all was forgot in 2 morrent.
Good night! Yours;

A. Fermor:

Heavens! the fellow is here, has followed me to my dreffing-room; was ever any thing fo confident? Thefe modeft men have ten times the affurance of your impudent fellows. I believe abfolutely he is going to make love to me : 'tis a critical hour. Lucy; and to rob one's friend of a lover is really a tempt ution.

Tweive o'clock.
The dear man is gone, and has made all up: he infifted on my explaining the reafons of the cold reception he had met with;

ERMOR:
has folvas ever modeft of your utely he critical nd of a 'clock. made gh the dimet with;

EMIL Y MONTAGUE, 119 with; which you know was impoffible, without betraying the fecret of poor Emily's little foolifh heart.

I however contrived to let him know we were a little piqued at his going with-: out feeing us, and that we were fomething inclined to be jealous of his friendfiop for Madame Des Roches.

He made a pretty decent defence; and, though I don't abfolutely acquit him of coquetry, yet upon the whole I think I forgive him.

He loves Emily, which is great merit with me: I am only forry they are two fuch poor devils, it is next to impoflible they fhould ever come together.

I think I am not angry now as ta Emily, her eyes dance with pleafure; the has not the rame countenance as in the morning; morning; this love is the finef cofmetick in the world.

120 THE HISTORY OF

After all, he is a charming fellow, and has eyes, Lucy - Heaven be praifed, he never pointed their fire at me !

Adieu! I will try to fleep.Yours,

A. Fermor.

L E T T E R XCIV.

To Mí́s Rivers, Clarges Street:
Quebec, March 2 e.

THE coldnefs of which I complained, my dear Lucy, in regard to Emily, was the moft flattering circumftance which could have happened : I will not fay it bF ofmetick low, and aifed; he

ERMOR;
treet.
$\operatorname{arch} 20$.
lained, Emily, which fay it was

EMILY MONTAGUE. $12:$

 was the effect of jealoufy, but it certainly was of a delicacy of affection which extremely refembles it.Never did the appear fo lovely as yefterday; never did fhe difplay fuch variety of lovelinefs: there was a fomeching in her look, when I firt addreffed her on entering the room, touching beyond all words, a certain inexpreffible melting languor, a dying foftnefs, which it was not in man to fee unmoved: what then muft a lover have felt?

I had the pleafure, after having been in the room a few moments, to fee this charming languor change to a joy which animated her whole form, and of which I was fo happy as to believe myfelf the caufe: my eyes had told her all that paffed in my heart ; hers had hewed me plainly they underftood their language. We were ftanding at a window at fome little diftance from the reft of the company, when I took an opportunity of hintVol. II.

G
ing

122 THE HISTORY OF

ing my concern at having, though without knowing it, offended her: fhe bluhhed, fhe looked down, fle again raifed her lovely eyes, they met mine, fhe fighed; I took her hand, fhe withdrew it, but not in anger; a fmile, like that of the poet's Hebe, told me I was forgiven.

There is no defcribing what then paffed in my foul : with what difficulty did I reftrain iny tranfports! never before did I really know love: what I had hitherto felt even for her, was cold to that enchanting, that impaffioned moment.

She is a thoufand times dearer to me than life : my Lucy, I cannct live without her.

I contrived, before I left Silleri, to fpeak to Bell Fermor on the fubject of Emily's reception of me; The did not fully explain herfelf, but fhe convinced me hatred had no part in her refentment.

EMILYMONTAGUE. ${ }^{23}$

I am going again this afternoon : every hour not paffed with her is loft.

I will feek a favorable occafion of telling her the whole happinefs of my life depends on her tendernefs.

Before I write again, my fate will poffibly be determined: with every reafon to hope, the timidity infeparable from love makes me dread a full explanation of my: fentiments: if hér native foftnefs fhould have deceived me - but I will not ftudy to be unhappy.

Adien!

Your affectionate

Ed. Rivers.

$24 THE HISTORY OF ## L E T T E R XCV.

To Mifs Rivérs, Clarges Street.

Silleri, March 20.

IHAVE been telling Fitzgerald I am jealous of his prodigious attention to Emily, whofe cecifbeo he has been the laft ten days: the fimpleton took me feriounly, and began to vindicate himfelf, by explaining the nature of his regard for her, pleading her late indifpofition as an excule for fhewing her fome extraordinary civilities.

I let him harangue ten minutes, then ftops me him. Ihort, puts on my poetical face, and repeats,
" When fweet Emily complains,
"I have fenfe of all her pains;
" But for little Bellà, I
". Do not only grieve, but die."

EMILY MONTAGUE. 125

He fmiled, kiffed my hand, praifed my amazing penetration, and was going to take this opportunity of faying a thoufand civil things, when my divine Rivers appeared on the fide of the hill; I flew to meet him, and left my love to finin the converfation alone.

Twelve o'clock.
I am the happieft of all poffible wo: men; Fitzgerald is in the fullens about your brother; furely there is no pieafure in nature equal to that of plaguing a fellow who really loves one, efpecially if he has as much merit as Fitzgerald, for otherwife he would not be worth tormenting. He had better not pout with me: I believe I know who will be tired firt.

Eight in the evening.
I have paffed a moft delicious day: Fitzgerald took it into his wife head to endeavor to make me jealous of a little pert Frenchwoman, the wife of a Croix de St. Louis, who I know he defpifes; I then thought myfelf /at full liberty to play off all my airs, which I did with ineffable fuccefs, and have fent him home in a humor to hang himfelf. Your brother flays the evening, fo does a very handfome fellow $I$ have been firting with all the day: Fitz was engaged here too, but I told him it was impoffible for him not to attend Madame La Broffe to Quebec; he looked at me with a fpite in his countenance which charmed me to the foul, and handed the fair lady to his carrole.

126 THE HISTORYOF

I'll teach him to coquet, Lucy; let him take his Madame La Brofe: indeed, as her hufband is at Montreal, I don't fee how he can avoid purfuing his conqueft : I am delighted, becaufe I know fhe is his averfion.

EMILY MONTAGUE. 127

Emily calls me to cards. Adiet: ! my dear little Lucy.

Croix ifes; I rty to ith in. home bro: very with e too, r him Quein his 0 the carlet ced; on't On10w

Yours,
A. Feicmor;

L ETTERRXCVI.

To Colonel Rivers, at Quebec:

Pall Mall, January 3:

IHÁVE but a moment, my dear Ned, to tell you, that without fo merch as afking your leave, and in fpite of all your wife admonitions, your lovely lifter has this morning confented to make me the happieft of mankind: to-morrow gives me all that is excellent and charming in woman.

You are to look on my writing this letter as the ftrongeft proof I ever did, or G 4 ever

128 THE HISTORY OF

 ever can give you of my friendfhip. I muft love you with no common affection to remember at this moment that there is fuch a man in being: perhaps you owe shis recollection only to your being brother to the lovelieft woman nature ever formed; whofe charms in a month havedone more towards my converfion than feven years of your preaching would have done. I am going back to Clarges Street. Adieu!> Yours, &c.

John Temple.

L E T T E R XCVII.

To Colonel Rivers, at Quebec.

Clarges Street, January 3.

IAM afraid you knew very little of the fex, my dear brother, when you causioned me fo ftrongly againt loving Mr . Temple :

EMILYMONTAGUE. $\quad 129^{\circ}$ Temple : I fhould perhaps, with all his merit, have never thought of him bnt for that caution.

There is fomething very interefting to female curiofity in the idea of thefe very formidable men, whom no woman can fee without danger ; we gaze on the terrible creature at a diftance, fee nothing in him fo very alarming; he approaches, our little hearts palpitate with fear, he is gentle, attentive, refpectful; we are furprized at this refpect, we are fure the world wrongs the dear civil creature; he flatters, we are pleafed with his flattery; our little hearts Atill palpitate-but not with fear.

In fhort, my dear brother, if you wifh to ferve a friend with us, ${ }^{\text {" }}$ defcribe him as the moft dangerous of his fex ; the very idea that he is fo, makes us think refiftance vain, and we throw down our defenfive arms in abfolute defpair.

G 5
I an

130. THE HISTORYOF

I am not fure this is the reafon of my difcovering Mr. Temple to be the moft amiable of men; but of this I am certain ; that I love him with the moft lively affection, and that I am convinced, notwithftanding all you have faid, that he deferves all my tendernefs.

Indeed, my dear prudent brother, you men fancy yourfelves extremely wife and penetrating, but you don't know each other half fo well as we know you: I shall make Temple in a few weeks as tame a domeftic animal as you can poffibly be, even with your Emily.

I hope you won't be very angry with me for accepting an agreeable fellow, and a coach and fix: if you are, I can only fay, that finding the dear man fteal every day upon my heart, and recollecting how very dangerous a creature he was,

EMILY MONTAGUE. 13

"I held it both fafeft and beft "To marry, for fear you fhould chide." Adieu!

Your affectionate, &c:

Lucy Rivers'。

Pleafe to obferve, mamma was on Mr . Temple's fide, and that I only take him from obedience to her commands. He has behaved like an angel to her; but I leave himfelf to explain how: the has promifed to live with us:" We are going a party to Richmond, and only wait for Mr . Temple.

With all my pertnefs, I tremble at the idea that to-morrow will determine the happinefs or mifery of my life.

Adiet! my deareft brother:

32 THE HISTORY OF ## LETTER XCVIII.

To John Temple, Efq; Pall Mall.

Quebec, March 21.

WERE I convinced of your converfion, my dear Jack, I Thould be the happieft man breathing in the thought of your marrying my fifter ; but I tremble left this refolution fhould be the effect of paffion merely, and not of that fettled efteem and tender confidence without which mutual repentance will be the neceffary confequence of your connexion.

Lucy is one of the moft beautiful women 1 ever knew, but fhe has merits of a much fuperior kind; her wiadertanding and her heart are equally lovely : fhe has alfo a fenfibility which exceedingly alarms me for her, as I know it is next to imporfible fible that even her charms can fix a heart fo long accuftomed to change.

EMILY MONTAGUE. 133

Do I not guefs too truly, my dear Temple, when I funpofe the charming miftrefs is the only object you have in view; and that the tender amiable friend, the pleafing companion, the faithful confidante, is forgot?

I will not however anticipate evils: if. any merit has power to fix you, Lucy's cannot fail of doing it.

I expect with impatience a further account of an event in which my happinefs is fo extremely interefted.

If the is yours, may you know her value, and you cannot fail of being happy: I only fear from your long habit of improper attachments: naturally, I know not a heart filled with nobler fentiments than than yours, nor is there on earth a man for whom I have equal efteem. Adien!Your affectionate

134 THE HISTORY OF

Ed. Rivers.

L E T T E R XCIX. To John Temple, Efq; Pall Mall.

Quebec, March 23.

IHAVE received your fecond letter, my dear Temple, with the account of your marriage.

Nothing could make me fo happy as an event which unites a fifter I idolize to the friend on earth moft dear to me, did I not tremble for your future happinefs, from my perfect knowledge of both.

I know

Virtues like Lucy's will for ever command your efteem and friendhip; but in marriage it is equally neceffary to keep love alive: her beauty, her gaiety, her delicacy, will do much; but it is alfo neceffary, my deareft Temple, that you keep a guard on your heart, accuftomed to liberty, to give way to every light impreflion.

I need not tell you, who have experienced the truth of what I fay; that happinefs is not to be found in a life of intrigue; there is no real pleafure in the poffeffion of beauty without the heart; with it, the fears, the anxieties, a man not abfolutely deititute of humanity mult feel for the honor

r36 THE HISTORY OF honor of her who ventures more than life for him, muft extremely counterbalance his tranfports.

Of all the fituations this world affords, a marriage of choice gives the fairelt profpect of happinefs; without love, life would be a taftelefs void; an unconnected human being is the moft wretched of all creatures: by love I would be underftood to mean that tender lively friendthi F , that mixed fenfation, which the libertine never felt; and with which I flatter myfelf my amiable fifter cannot fail of infpiring a heart naturally virtuous, however at prefent warped by a foolifh compliance with the world.

1 hope, my dear Temple, to fee you recover your tafte for thofe pleafures peculiarly fitted to our natures; to fee you enjoy the pure delights of peaceful domeftic life, the calm focial evening hour, the circle of friends, the prattling offspring,

Abstract

EMILY MONTAGUE. ${ }^{134}$ and the tender impaffioned fmile of real love.

Your generofity is no more than I expected from your character; and to convince you of my perfect efteem, I fo far accept it, as to draw out the morey 1 have in the funds, which I intended for my filter: it will make my fettlement here turn to greate: advantage, and I allow you the pleafure of convincing Lucy of the perfect difintereftednefs of your affection : it would be a triffe to you, and will make me happy.

But I am more delicate in regard to my mother, and will never confent to refume the eftate I have fettled on her : I efteem you above all mankind, but will not let ber be dependent even on you: I confent The vifit you as often as the pleafes, but infift on her continuing her houfe in town, and living in every refpect as the has been accuftomed.

in ${ }^{8}$ THE HISTORY OF

As to Lucy's own little fortune, as it is not worth your receiving, fuppofe fhe lays it out in jewels? I love to fee beauty adorned; and two thoufand pounds, added to what you have given her, will fet her on a footing in this refpect with a nabobefs.

Your marriage, my dear Temple, removes the ftrongeft objection to mine; the money I have in the funds, which whilft Lucy was unmarried I never would have taken, enables me to fix to great advantage here. I have now only to try whether Emily's friendihip for me is fufficiently ftrong to give up all hopes of a return to England.

I fhall make an immediate trial: you hall know the event in a few days. If the refufes me, I bid adieu to all my: fchemes, and embark in the firft fip.

Give

EMILY MONTAGUE. 139

 mother and fifter. My dear Temple, only know the value of the treasure you poffers, and you mult be happy. Adieu!
Your affectionate

Ebi Rivara:

reline; hich ever fix now Mip up

Silleri, March 24*
1 OTHING can be more juft than your LordMip's obfervation; and I am the more pleafed with it, as it coincides with what I had the honor of faying to you in my laft, in regard to the impropriety, the cruelty, I had almoft faid the injuftice, of

140 THE HISTORY OF

of your intention of deferting that world of which you are at once the ornament and the example.

Good people, as your Lordhip obferves, are generally too retired and abftracted to let their example be of much fervice to the world: whereas the bad, on the contrary, are confpicuous to all; they ftand forth, they appear on the fore ground of the picture, and force themfelves into obfervation.
'Tis to that circumftance, I am perfuaded, we may attribute that dangerous and too common miftake, that vice is natural to the human heart, and virtious charaters the creatures of fancy; a miftake of the moff fatal tendency, as it tends to harden our hearts, and deftroy that mutual confidence fo neceffary to keep the bands of fociety from loofening, and withour which man is the moft ferocious of all beafts of prey.

EMILY MONTAGUE. $14 i^{i}$

Would all thofe whofe virtues like your Lordhip's are adorned by politenefs and knowledge of the world, mix more in fociety, we fhould foon fee vice hide her head: would all the good appear in full view, they would, I am convinced, be found infinitely the majority.

Virtue is too lovely to be hid in cells; the world is her fcene of action: the is foft, gentle, indulgent; let her appear then in her own form, and the muft charm: let politenefs be for ever her attendant, that politenefs which can give graces even to vice itfelf, which makes fuperiority eafy, removes the fenfe of inferiority, and adds to every one's enjoyment both of himfelf and others.

I am interrupted, and muft poftpone sill to-morrow what I have further to fay

$$
\begin{aligned}
& \text { THE HISTORYOF. } \\
& \text { to your Lordhip. I have the honor to } \\ & \text { be, my Loid, } \end{aligned}
$$

Your Lordhhip's, &c.
W. Fermor.
> L.ETTE E R CI. To Mrs. Temple, Pall Mall.

Silleri, March 25
TOUR brother, my dear Lucy, has made me happy in communicating to me the account he has received of your marriage. I know Temple; he is, bzfides being very handfome, a fine, fprightly, agreeable fellow, and is particularly formed to keep a woman's mind in that kind of play, that gentle agitation, which will for ever lecure her affection.

EMILY MONTAGU.E. 143

He has in my opinion juft as much coquetry as is neceffary to prevent marriage' from degenerating into that neepy kind of exiftence, which to minds of the awakened turn of yours and mine would be infupportable.

He has alfo a fine fortune, which I hold: to be a pretty enough ingredient in mar-: riage.

In fhort, he is juft fuch a man, upon the whole, as I hould have chofe for myfelf.

Make my congratulations to the dear man, and tell him, if he is not the happieft man in the world, he will forfeit all his pretenfions to tafte; and if he does not make you the happieft woman, he forfeits all title to my favor, as well as to the favor of the whole fex.

144 THE HISTORY OF
I meant to fay fomething civil; but, to tell you the truth, I am not en train; I am exceffively out of humor: Fitzgerald has not been here of feveral days, but fpends his whole time in gallanting Madame La Broffe, a woman to whom he knows I have an averfion, and who has nothing but a tolerable complexion and a modeft affurance to recommend her.

I certainly gave him fome provocation, but this is too much: however, 'tis very well; I don't think I fhall break my heart, though my vanity is a little piqued. I may perhaps live to take my revenge.

I am hurt, becaufe I began really to like the creature; a fecret however to which he is happily a ftranger. I thall fee him to-morrow at the governor's, and fuppofe he will be in his penitentials: I have fome doubt whether I fhall let him dance with me; yet it would look fo particular to refure him, that I believel I hall do him the honor.

EMILY MONTAGUE. 145

Adieu!  Your affectionate  A. Fermor:

26 hh , Tharday, it at night.
No, Lucy, if I forgive him this, $I$ have loft all the free fpirit of woman; he had the infolence to dance with Madame La Broffe to-night at the governor's. I never will forgive him. There are men perhaps quite his equals!-but 'tis no matter-I do him too much honor to be piqued-yet on the footing we were-I could not have believed-

146. THE HISTORY OF

I was fo certain he would have danced with me, that I refufed Colonel H-, one of the moft agreeable men in the place, and therefore could not dance at all. Nothing hurt me fo much as the impertinent looks of the women; I could cry for vexation,

Would your brother have behaved thus to Emily? but why do I name other men with your brother! do you know he and Emily had the good-nature to refufe to dance, that my fitting ftill might be the lefs taken notice of? We all played at cards, and Rivers contrived to be of my party, by which he would have won Emily's heart if he had not had it before.

Good night,

EMILY MONTAGUE. 147.

> LETTER CII.

To Mrs. Temple, Pall Mall:

Quebec, March 2:

IHAVE been twice at Silleri with the intention of declaring my paffion, and explaining my fituation to Emily; but have been prevented by company, which made it impoffible for me to find the opportunity I wifhed.

Had I found that opportunity, I am not fure I hould have made ufe of it; a degree of timidity is infeparable from true tendernefs; and I am afraid of declaring myfelf a lover, left, if not beloved, I fhould lofe the happinefs I at prefent poffefs in vifiting her as her friend: I cannot give up the dear delight I find in feeing her, in hearing her voice, in tracing and admiring every fentiment of that lovely unaffected generous mind as it rifes.

148 THE HISTORY OF

In fhort, my Lucy, I cannot live without her efteem and friendihip; and though her eyes, her attention to me, het whole man. ner, encourage me in the hope of being beloved, yet the pombility of my beitig miftaken makes me dread an explanation by whick I haserd lofing the lively pleafure 1 find in her friendihiposco TVALI

This timidity however muft be cons? quered; 'tis pardonable to feel it, but not to give way to it. I have ordered my carriole, and am determined to make my attack this very morning like a man of courage and a foldier.

Adieu!

Your affectionate
ED. Rivers.

A letter:

EMIEX MONTAGUE. 149
A letter from Bell Fermor, to whom I wrote this morning on the fubject:
"To Colonel Rivers, at Quebec:
silleri, Friday morning.
" You are a foolifh creature, and know " nothing of women. Dine at Silleri, and "t we will air after dinner; tis a glorious
"d day, and if you are timid in a covered
4. carriole, I give you up.
"Adien!

- Bours
A. FERMOR." tee
H 3

150 THE HISTORYOF

L E T TER CIII.

To Mrs. Temple, Pall Mall.

Quebec, March 27, 11 at night.

SHE is an angel, my dear Lucy, and no words can do her juftice: I am the happieft of mankind; I painted my paffion with all the moving eloquence of undiffembled love; fhe heard me with the moft flattering attention; fhe faid little, but her looks, her air, her tone of voice, her blufhes, her ve-y filence-how could I ever doubt her tendernefs? have not thofe lovely eyes a thoufand times. betrayed the dear fecret of her heart ?

My Lucy, we were formed for each other;

 our fouls are of intelligence; every thought, every idea-from the firft moment I beheld her-I have a thoufand things to fay, but the tumult of my joy-fhe has given me leave leave to write to her; what has the not faid in that permiffion?I cannot go to bed; I will go and walk an hour on the battery; 'tis the lovelieft night $I$ ever beheld, even in $\mathrm{Ca}_{\mathrm{a}}$ nada: the day is fcarce brighter.
EMILYMONTAGUE. ${ }^{515}$

One in the morning.
1 have had the fweeteft walk imaginable: the moon thines with a fplendor:I never faw before; a thoufand ftreaming metears add to her brightnefs; I have ftood gazing on the lovely planet, and delighting myefif with the idea that 'tis the fame moon that lights my Emily.

Good night, my Lucy! I love you beyond all expreflion; I always loved you tenderly, but there is a foftnefs about my heart to-night-this lovely woman=

$$
\mathbf{H}_{4} \quad \text { I know }
$$

n 152 THE HISTORY OF

I know. not what I would fay, but till this night I could never be faid to live.

Adieu! Your affectionate

Ed. Rivers.

LETTER CIV.

To Mrs. Tzmpile, Pall Mall.
Quebec, 28h March:

IHAD this morning a fhort billet from her dear hand, entreating me to make up a quarrel between Bell Fermor and her lover : your friend has been indifcreet; her spirit of coquetry is eternally carrying her wrong; but in my opinion Fitzgerald has been at leaft equally to blame.

His behavipur at the governor's on Thurrday., night was inexcufable, as it expofed her to the freers of a whole circle of her own fex, many of them jealous of her perfections.

A lover

RMIEY MONTAGUE. 153

A. lover thould overlook little caprices, where the heart is good and amiable like Bell's: I Thould think myfelf particu-: larly obliged to bring this affair to an amicable conclufion, even if Emily had not defired it, as I was originally the innocent caufe of their quarrel. In my opinion he ought to beg her pardon; and, as a friend tenderly interefted for bath, I have a right to tell him I think fo: he loves her, and I know muft fuffer greatly, though a foolifh pride prevents. his acknowledging it.

My greateft fear is, that an idle refent:ment may engage him in an intrigue with the lady in queftion, whi is a woman of gallantry, and whom he may find very troublefome hereafter. It is much eafier to commence an affair of this kind than to break it off; and a man, though his heart was difengaged; hould be always. , on his guard againt any thing like an attachment where his affections are not really: interefted: mere pafion or mere H 5 vanity vanity will fupport an affair en paflant; but, where the leaft degree of conftancy and attention are expected, the heart muft feel, or the lover is fubjecting himfelf to a lavery as irkfome as a marriage without inclination.Temple will tell you I fpeak like an oracle; for I have often feen him led by vanity into this very difagreeable fituation: I hope I am not too late to fave Fitzgerald from it.

T54 THE HISTORY OF

Six in the evening.
'All goes well: his proud heart is come down, he has begged her pardon, and is forgiven; you have no idea how civil both are to me, for having perfuaded them to do what each of them has longed to do from the firt moment: I love to advife, when I am fure the heart of the perfon advifed is on my fide. Both were so blame, but I always love to fave the ladies from any thing mortifying to the dignity of their characters; a little pride in love becomes them, but not us; and 'tis alw.ys our part to fubmit on thefe occafions.

EMILY MONTAGUE: 25

I never faw two happier people than they are at prefent, as I have a little preferved-decorum on both fides, and taken the whole trouble of the reconciliation on myfelf. Bell knows nothing of my having applied to Fitzgerald, nor he that I did it at Emily's requeft : my converfation with him on this fubject feemed accidental. I was obliged to leave them, having bufinefs in town; but my lovely Emily thanked me by a fmile which would overpay a; thoufand fuch little fervices.

I am to fpend to-morrow at Silleri: how long fhall I think this evening?

H6
Adien!

356 THE HISTORYOF

Adieu 1 my tendereft wifhes atterd you all!

Your affectionate

Ed. Rivers.

L E T T E R CV.

To Mrs. Temple, Pall Mall.
Silleri, March 27, eveninge.

FITZGERALD has been here, and. has begged my pardon; he declares. he had no thought of difpleafing me at: the governor's, but from my behaviour was afraid of importuning me if he ad-dreffed me as ufual.

I thought who would come to firt ; formy part, if he had ftayed away for ever, I : would not have fuffered papa to invite him to Silleri : it was eafy to fee his neglect was. all pique; it would have been extraordi-

EMILY MONTAGUE. T57

youn ERS.
nary indeed if fuch a woman as Madame: La Broffe could have rivalled me: I am fomething younger; and, if either my: glafs or the men are to be believed, as handfome : entre nous, there is fome little difference; if the was not fo very fair; the would be absollutely ugly: and thefe very fair women, you know, Lucy; are always infrpid; The is the tafte of no man breathing, though: eternally making advances to every man;: without fpirit, fire, underftanding, vivaciry, or any quality capable of making amends for the mediocrity of her: charns.

Her infolence in attempting to attach Fitzgerald is intolerable, efpecially when. the whole province knows him to be my. lover: there is no expreffing to what a. degree I hate her..

The next time we meet I hope to return her impertinence on Thurfday night at. the governor's: I will never forgive:

Fitzgerald:

158 THE HTSTORYOF

Fitzgerald if he takes the leaft notice of her.

Emily has read my letter ; and fays fhe did not think I had fo much of the woman in me; infifts on my being civil to Madame La Broffe, but if I am, Lucy-

Thefe Frenchwomen are not to be fupported; they fancy vanity and affurance are to make up for the want of every other virtue; forgetting that delicacy, foftnefs, fenfibility, tendernefs, are attractions to which they are ftrangers: fome of them here are however tolerably handfome, and have a degree of livelinefs which makes them not quite infupportable.

You will call all this fpite, as Emily does, fo I will fay no more : only that, in order to fhew her how very eafy it is to be civil to a rival, I wihh for the pleafure of feeing another French lady, that I could mention, at Quebec.

Good

EMILT MONTAGUE 159

Good night, my dear! tell Temple, I am every thing but in love with him.

Your faithful

A. Fermor ${ }^{7}$

I will however own, I encouraged Fitzgerald by a kind look. I was fo pleared at his return, that I could not keep up the farce of difdain I had projected : in love affairs, $\mathbb{I}$ arn afraid, we are all fools alike.

LET:

160 THE HISTORY OF:

L E T T ER CVI.

To Mifs Fermor.

Saturdăy noom

CIOME to my drefling-room, my dear;: I have a thoufand things to fay to you: I want to talk of my Rivers, to tell you all the weaknefs of my fould

No, my dear, I cannot love him more, a paffion like mine will not admitaddition;: from the firf moment I faw him my whole: foul was his: I knew not that I was dear: to him ; but true genuine love is felf-exiftent, and does not depend, on being beloved : I' hould have loved him even had: he been attached to another.

This declaration has made me the happieft of my fex; but it has not increafed, it could not increafe, my tendernefs :
with

EMILY MONTAGUE. 163
with what foftnefs, what difflence, what sefpect, what delicacy, was this declaration made ! my dear friend, he is a god, and my ardent affection for him is fully jultified.

I love him-no words can fpeak how 'much I love him.

My paffion for him is the firt and flall be the laft of my life: my bofom never heaved a figh but for my Rivers.

Will you pardon the folly $c_{i}$ a heart which till now was afhamed to own its feelings, and of which you are even now the only confidante?

I find all the world fo infipid, nathing amufes me one moment; in fhort, I have no pleafure but in Rivers's converfation, nor do I count the hours of his abfence in. my exiftence.

162 THE HISTORYOF

I know all this will be called folly, buv it is a folly which makes all the happinefs of $m y$ life.

You love, my dear Bell ; and therefore will pardon the weaknefs of your Emilys?

LETTER CVII.
To Mifṣ Montreurit

Seturday:
TES, my dear, I love, at leaft I think fo; but, thanks to my ftars, not ip. the manner you do.

1 prefer Fitzgerald to afl the reft of his fex; but I count the bours of bis abfence in my exiftence; and contrive fometimes to pars them pleafantly enough, if any other agreeable EMILY MONTAGUE ROS agreeable man is in the way: in fhort, $\mathbf{I}$. relifh flattery and attention from others, tho ${ }^{5} I$ infinitely prefer them from him.

I certainly love him, for I was jealous of Madame La Broffe; but, in general, I am not alarmed when I fee him firt a little with others. Perhiaps my vanity was as much wounded as my love, with regard. to Madame La Brofle.

Ifind love is quite a different plant in different foils; it is an exotic, and grows: faintly, with us coquets; but in its native climate with you people of fenfibi-: lisy and fentiment.

Adieu! I will attend you in a quarter of an hour.

Yours,
A. Fermor:

164 THE HISTORY OF

LETTER CVII,
To Mif Frrmor:

N
OT alarmed, my dear ${ }_{2}$ at his atten: tion to others? believe me, your know nothing of love.
$\therefore$ I think encery woinan who behoids my, Rivers a rival; , I imagine I fee in every. female counteranse a pafion tender and lively as my own, I tuen pale, my heart dies within me, if I observe his eyes a moment fixed on any other woman; I tremble at the polfibility of his changing; I cannot fupport the idea that the time may come when I may be lefs dear to my Rivers than at prefent. Do you believe it: poffible, my deareft Bell, for any hearts, not prefoffeffed, to be infenfible one moment to my Rivers?

He

EMILYMONTAGUE. 165

He is formed to charm the foul of wo. man; his delicacy; his fenfibility, the mind that Speaks through thofe eloquent eyes; the thoufand graces of his air, the found of his voice-my dear, I never heard him \{peak without feeling a foftnefs of which it is marible to convey an idea.

But I am wrong to encourage a tendernefs which is a acy too great; $I$ will think lefs of him; I will not talk of him; do not fpeak of him to me, my dear Bell: talk to me of Fitzgerald; there is no danger of your paffion becom. ing too violent.

I wifh you loved more tenderly, my deareft; you would then be more indulgent to my weaknefs: I am ahamed of owning it even to you.

Afhamed, did I fay? no, I rather glory in loving the moft amiable, the moft angelic of mankind.

4.66 THE HISTORYOF

Speak of him to me for ever; I abhor all converfation of which he is not the fubject. I am interrupted. Adieu!

Yoùr faithful

Emily.

My deareft, I tremble; he is at the door; how fhall I meet him without betraying all the weaknefs of my heart? come to me this moment, I will not go down without you. Your father is come to fetch me; follow me, I entreat $I$ cannot fee him alone; my heart is too. much foftened at this moment. He muft not know to what excefs he is beloved,

LET-

L ETTERCIX.
To Mrs. Temple, Pall Mall.
Quebec, March 28.
I AM at prefent, my dear Lucy, extremely embarraffed; Madame Dts Roches is at Quebec: it is impofible for me not to be more than polite to her; yet my Emily has all my heart, and demands all my attention ; there is but one way of feeing them both as often as I wifh; 'tis to bring them as often as poffible together: I with extremely that Emily would vifit her, but 'tis a point of the utmoft delicacy to manage.

Will it not on reflection be cruel to Madame Des Roches? 1 know her generofity of mind, but I alfo know the weaknefs of the human heart: can the fee with pleafure a beloved rival?

68 THE HISTORYOF

My Lucy, I never fo much wanted your advice: I will confult Bell Fermor, who knows every thought of my Emily's heart.

Eleven o'clock.
I have vifited Madame Des Roches at her relation's; the received me with a pleafure which was too vifible not to be obferved by all prefent : She blufhed, her voice faltered when the addreffed me; her eyes had a foftnefs which leemed to reproach my infenfibility: I was fhocked at the idea of having infpired her with a tendernefs not in my power to return; I was afraid of increafing that tenderne's; $I$ fcarce dared to meet her looks.

I felt a criminal in the prefence of this amiable woman; for both our fakes, I muft fee her feldom: yet what an appearance will my neglect have, after the attention fhe has fhewed me, and the friendinip the has exprefled for me to all the world?

I know

EMILY MONTAGUE. ${ }^{169}$

I know not what to determine. I am going to Silleri. Adieu till my return.

I have entreated Emily to admit Madame Des Roches among the number of her friends, and have anked her to vifit her to-morrow morning: the changed color at my requeft, but promifed to go.

I almoft repent of what I have done: I am to attend Emily and Bell Fermor to Madame Dis Roches in the morning: I am afraid I hall introduce them with a very bad grace. Adieu!

Your affectionate
Ed. Rivers.
this es, I. apr the the to all

LET:

170 THE HISTORY OF LETTER CX.

To Mifs Fermor.

CIOULD you have believed he would have expected fuch a proof of my defire to oblige him? but what can he afk that his Emily will refure? I will fee this friend of his; this Madame Des Roches; $\mathbf{I}$ will even love her, if it is in woman to be fo difinterefted. She loves him; he fees her; they fay fhe is amiable; I could have wifhed her vifit to Quebec had been delayed.

But he comes; he looks up; his eyes feem to thank me for this excefs of complaifance: what is there I would not do to give him pleafure?

EMILY MONTAGUE. ifi

Six o'clock.
Do you think her fo very pleafing, my dear Bell? fhe has fine eyes, but have they not more fire than foftnefs? There was a vivacity in her manser which hurt me ex-tremely: could the have behaved with fuch unconcern, had fhe loved as I do?

Do you think it poffible, Lucy, for a Frenchwoman to love? is not vanity the ruling paffion of their hearts?

May not Rivers be deceived in fup: pofing her fo much axtached to him ? was there not fome degree of affectation in her particular attention to me? I cannot help thinking her artful.

Perhaps I am prejudiced: The may be amiable, but I will own the does not pleafe me.

172 THE HISTORY OF

Rivers begged me to have a friendfhip for her; I am afraid this is more than is in my power: friendfhip, like love, is the child of fympathy, not of conftraint.

Adieu! Yours,

Emily Montague:

L E T T E R CXI.

To Mifs Montague.

Monday.

THE inclofed, my dear, is as much to you as to me, perhaps more; I pardon the lady for thinking you the handfomeft. Is not this the frongeft proof I could give of my friendhip? perhaps I fhpuld have been piqued, however, had the preference been given by a man ; but I can with great tranquillity allow you to be the women's beauty.Dictate an anfwer to your little Bell, who waits your commands at her bureau.

EMILY MONTAGUE. 173

Adieu!
" To Mifs Frrmor, at Silleri.
Monday.
" You and your lovely friend obliged ": me beyond words, my dear Bell, by " your vifit of yefterday: Madame Des " Roches is charmed with you both: " you will not be difpleafed when I tell " you fhe gives Emily the preference; " fhe fays fhe is beautiful as an angel; " that fhe fhould think the man infenfi" ble, who could fee her without love; " that fhe is toucbant, to ufe her own " word, beyond any thing fhe ever be" held.

174 THE HISTORY OF
"She however does juftice to yout " charms, though Emily's feem to affect " her moft. She even allows you to be " perhaps more the tafte of men in gene$\because \mathrm{ral}$.
" She intends paying her refpects to, " you and Emily this afternoon; and " has fent to defire me to conduct her.
"As it is fo far, I would wifh to find ". you at home.
". Yours,
"Ed. Rivers." ${ }^{4}$

L E T TER CXII.
To Mifs Fermor.
LWAYS Madame Des Roches! but let her come : indeed, my dear, fhe is artful; the gains upon him by this appearance of generofity; I cannot return it, I da

EMILY MONTAGUE.

yout affect to be gene-cts to ; and
! but r, fhe $s$ aprn it, I do

I do not love her; yet I will receive be: with politenefs.

He is to drive her too; but 'tis no matter ; if the tendereft affection can fecure his heart, I have nothing to fear : loving him as $I$ do, it is impoffible not to be apprehenfive: indeed, my dear, he knows not how I love him.

Adieu!

Yow TMEx.

LETTER CXIII.

To Mifs Felmor.

> Manday evening:

QURELY I am the weakeft of my weak fex; I am afhamed to tell you all my feelings: I cannot conquer my dilike to I 4 Madame

176 THE HISTORY OF

Madame Des Roches: fhe faid a thoufand obliging things to me, he praifed my Rivers; I made her no anfwer, I even felt tears ready to ftart; what mult the think of me? there is a meannefs in my jealoufy of her, which I can ${ }^{2}$ forgive myfelf.

I cannot account for her attention to me, it is not natural; fhe behaved to me not only with politenefs, but with the appearance of affection; fhe feemed to feel and pity my confufion. She is either the moft artful, or the moft noble of women.

Adieu!

Your

Emily.
I. ET.

EMILY MONTAGUE: 177

L E T T E R CXII.

To Mrs. Temple, Pall Mall.

Silleri, Mareh 29.

WE are going to dine at a farm-houfe in the country, where we are to meet other company, and have a ball: the fnow begins a little to foften, from the warmth of the fun, which is greater than in England in May. Our winter parties are almolt at an end.

My father drives Madame Des Roches, who is of our party, and your brother Emily; I hope the little fool will be eafy now, Lucy; fhe is very humble, to be jealous of one, who, though really very pleafing, is neither fo young nor fo handfome as herfelf; and who profeffes to wifh only for Rivers's friendfinip.

178 THE HISTORYOF

But I have no right to fay a word on this fubject, after having been fo extremely hurt at Fitzgerald's attention to fuch a woman as Madame La Broffe; an attention too which was fo plainly meant to pique me.

We are all, I am afraid, a little abfurd in thefe affairs, and therefore ought to have fome degree of indulgence for others.

Emily and I, however, differ in our ideas of love : it is the bufinefs of her life, the amufement of mine; 'tis the food of her hours, the feafoning of mine.

Or, in other words, fhe loves like a: foolifh woman, I like a fenfible man: for men, you know, compared to women, loye in about the proportion of one to twenty.
${ }^{3}$ Tis a mighty wrong thing, after all, Lucy, that parents will educate creatures

EMILY MONTAGUE. 179

To differently, who are to live with and for each other.

Every poifible means is ufed, even from infancy, to foften the minds of women, and to harden thofe of men; the contrary endeavor might be of ufe, for the men creatures are unfeeling enough by nature, and we are born too tremiblingly alive to love, and indeed to every foft affection.

Your drother is almoft the only one of his fex I know, who has the tendernefs of woman with the fpirit and firmnefs of man : a circumftance which ftrikes every woman who converfes with him, and which contributes to make him the fävorite he is amongt us. Foolifh women who cannot diftinguifh characters. may poffibly give the preference to 2 coxcomb; but I will venture to fays. no woman of fenfe was ever muck acquainted with Colonel Rivers without I 6 feeling

iso THE HISTORY OF feeling for him an affection of fome kind or other.

'A propos to women, the eftimable part of us are divided into two claffes only, the tender and the lively.

The former, at the head of which I place Emily, are infinitely more capable of happinefs; but, to counterbalance this advantage, they are alfo capable of mifery in the fame degree. We of the other clafs, who feel lefs keenly, are perhaps upon the whole as happy, at leaft I would fain think fa.

For example, if Emily and 1 marry our prefent lovers, fhe will certainly be more exquifitely happy than I fhall; but if they fhould change their minds, or any accident prevent our coming together, I am inclined to fancy my fituation would be much the moft agreeable.

1 hould

I fhould pout a month, and then look about for another lover; whilft the tender Emily would " Sit like patience on a monument;". and pine herfelf into a confumption.

Adieu! They wait for me.

Yours,
A. Fermor:

Tueflay, midnight.
We have had a very agreeable day;; Lucy, a pretty enough kind of a ball, and every body in good humor: I danced: with Fitzgerald, whom I never knew fo agreeable.

IMAGE EVALUATION
TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences

Corporation

182 THE HISTORYOF

Happy love is gay, I find; Etrily is all fprightlinefs, your brother's eyes siture never left her one moment, wid her blufhes feemed to thew her fenfe of the diftinction; I never knew her look fo. handFome as this day.

Do you know I felt for Madame Des Roches? Emily was execflively complaifant to her: The returned her civility, but 1 could perceive a kind of conftraint in her manner, very different from the eaf: of her behaviour when we faw her before: fhe felt the attention of Rivers to Emily very ftrongly: in flort, the ladies feemed to have changed characters for the day.

We fupped with your brother on ous teturn; and from his windows; which look on the river St. Charles, had the pleafure of obferving one of the moft beautiful objects imaginable, which I

EMILY MONTAGUE. 18;

is all Hiave her-$f$ the $k$ fo tame vely: her kind difriour the very: emthe out ich the newer remember to have feen before this evening.

You are to obferve the winter method of filhing here, is to break openings like: fmall fifh ponds on the ice, to which the fifh coming for air, are taken in prodigious quantities on the farface.

To fhelter themfelves from the excef five cold of the night, the fifhermen build fmall houres of ice on the river, which are arranged in a femicircular form, andi extend near a quarter of a miles, and which, from the blazing fires within, have a brilliant tranfparency and vivid luture, not eafy either to imagine or to deficribe: the ftarry femiaircle looks like an immenfe crefcent of diamonds, on which the fune darts his meridiam rays.

> Abfolusely, Lucy, you fee nothing in Europe: you are cultivated, you have: tive tame beauties of art; but to fee na"ture

184 THE HISTORY OF

ture in her lovely wild luxuriance, you muft vifit your brother when he is prince of the Kamaralkas.

Adieu!

Your faithfuI

A. Fermor.

The variety, as well of grand objeets; as of amufements, in this country, confirms me in an opinion I have always had, that Providence had made the conveniences and inconveniences of life nearly equal every where.

We have pleafures here even in winter: peculiar to the climate, which counterbalance the evils we fuffer from its rigor.

> Good night, my dear Lucy !

LET:

EMILY MONTAGUE. $\quad 185$

LETTER CXIIF.

To Mrs. Temple, Pall Mall.
RMOR:
Quebec, April 2. bjeets; , con. fs had, nveni nearly untergor.

IHAVE this moment, my dear, a letter from Montreal, defcribing fome lands on Lake Champlain, which my friend thinks much better worth my taking than thofe near the Kamarafkas: he proffes me to come up immediately to fee them, las the ice on the rivers will in a few days be dangerous to travel on.

I am ftrongly inclined to go, and for this reafon; I am convinced my wifh of bringing about a friendihip between Emily and Madame Des Roches, the Atrongeft reafon I had for fixing ar the Kamara!̣kas,

186 THE HISTORY OF

Kamarafkas, was an imprudent one : gratitude and (if the expreffion is not impertinent) compaffion give me a foftnefs in my behaviour to the latter, which a fuperficial obferver would take for love, and which her own tendernefs may caufe even her to miffoniftrue; a circumftance which mult retard her refolution of changing the affection with which the has honored me, into friendhip.

I am alfo delicate in my loves and cmanot bear to have it one moment fappofed, my heart can know a wilh but for my Emily $v$

Shall I fay more? The bluft on Emily's cheek on her firtt fecing Madame Des Roches convinced me of my indifcretion, and that vanity alone carried me to defire to bring together two momien, whofe affection for me is from their extreme meric fo very Aattering.

1 hall

EMILY MONTAGUE. 187

I thall certainly now fix in Canada; 1 can no longer doubt of Emily's tendernefs, tho' the refules me her hand, from motives which make her a thoufand times more dear to me, but which I flatter myfelf love will over-rule.

I am fetting off in an hour for Mont:seal, and fhall call at Silleri to take Emily's commands.

Seven in the evening, Des Chambenuxy
I alked her advice as to fixing the place of my fettlement; the faid much againft my staying in America at all; but, if I was determined, recommended Lake Champlain rather than the Kamarakkas, on account of climate. Bell fmiled, and a blufh, which I perfectly undertood, overfpread the lovely cheek of my fweet Emily. Nothing, could be more flattering than this circumftance; had the feen Madame Des Roches with a calm indifference,

188 THE HISTORY OF

ference, had the not been alarmed at the idea of fixing near her, I fhould have doubted of the degree of her affection; 2 little apprehenfion is infeparable from real love.

My courage has been to-day extremely put to the proof: had I ftaid three days longer, it would have been impoffible to. have continיำ my journey.

The ice cracks under us at every ftep the horfes fet, a rather unpleafant circumftance on a river twenty fathom deep: I fhould not have attemptad the journey had I been aware of this particular. I hope no man meets inevitable danger with more fpirit, but no man is lefs fond of feeking it where it is honorably to be avoided.

I am going to fup with the feigneur of the village, who is, I am told, married to one of the handfomeft women in the province.

Adieu!

EMILY MONTAGUE. 189

Adieu! my dear! I hall write to you from Montreal.

Your affectionate

Ed. Riverf.

LETTER CXIV.

 To Mrs, Temple, Pall Mall. Montreal, April 3.IA M arrived, my dear, after a very difagreeable and dangerous journey; I was obliged to leave the river foon after I left Des Chambeaux, and to purfue my way on the land over melting fnow, into which the horfes feet funk half a yard every ftep.

An officer juft come from New York has given me a letter from you, whichcame

igo THE HISTORY OF

came thisher by a private flip: I am happy to hear of your health, and that Temple's affection for you feems rather to increafe than leffen fince your marriage.
You ank me, my dear Lucy, how to preferve this affection, on the continuance of which, you juftly fay, your whole happinefs depends.

The queftion is perhaps the mof delicate and important which refpects human life; the caprice, the inconftancy, the injuftice of men, makes the tark of women in marriage infinitely difficult.

Prudence and virtue will certainly fecure efteem; but unfortunately, efteem alone will not make at happy marriage; paffion muft alfo be kspt alive, which the continual prefence of the objeet beloved is too apt to make fubfide into that apathy, fo infupportable to fenfible minds.

The

The higher your rank, and the lefs your manner of life feparates you from each other, the more danger there will be of this indifference.

The poor, whofe neceffary avocations divide them all day, and whofe fenfbility is blunted by the coarrenefs of their education, are in no danger of being weary of each other 3, and, unlefs natarally vicious, you wili fee them generally happy in marriage; whereas even the virtuous, in more affluent fituations, are not fecure from this unhappy ceffation of tendernefs.

When I received your letter, I was reading Madame De Maintenon's advice to the Dughefs of Burgundy, on this fubject. I will tranicribe fo much of it as relates to the woman, lenving her advice to the princess to thofe whom it may concern.

192 THE HISTORY OF

" Do not hope for perfect happinefs; "c there is no fuch thing in this fublunary " 5 Atate.
" Your fex is the more expofed to fuf" fer, becaufe it is always in depen". dence: be neither angry nor afhamed " of this dependence on a hufband, nor " of any of thofe which are in the order " of Providence.
" Let your hurband be your beft friend "، and your only confidant.
" Do not hope that your union will " procure you perfect peace : the beft " marriages are thofe where with foft"c nefs and patience they bear by turns 4. with each other; there are none " without fome contradiction and dif" agreement.
" Do not expect the fame degree of "f friendihip that you feel: men are in

F

inefs; lunary to fuf-depenhamed d, nor e order

EMILT MONTAGUE. 193

"general lefs. cender than women s: and " you will be unhappy if you ase soo de" licate in friendhip.

1. ${ }^{6}$. Beg of God to guard your heart 4f from jealouly; do not hope to bring se back a hurband by complairtsy inll hac "s inor, andureproachess The ondy means st which pronife succeff, are patience " and.foftne's : impatience fours and alicIf nates thearts i afbfmefs leaids then back 46 to theiriduaye ybusingiq ads ai ax? min bertsixt bris a froig dive boovo 2ich In faerlifing frout own will, pretend " to no right over that of a hubband: * men are more attached to theirs than ac wonnd becaufe educated "with (hes

" They are katurah dyrannical; they "will have pleafures and liberty, yet 4, infift thate women renúunce both : do 2. not exathine wheitel their rights are - well cointided, get it fuffice to you, 5. Thiat they cate eftablified; they are Voi. II. K "matters,

194 THE HISTORYOF

46 nafters, we have only to fuffer and obey Es with a gaod grace.?

Thus far Madame De Maintenon, who muft be allowed to have known the heart of man, fince, after having been above twenty years a widow, fhe enflamed, even to the degree of bring. ing him to marry her, that of a great monarch younger than herfelf, furrounded by Beauties, habituated to flattery, in the plenitude of power, and covered with glory; and retained him in her chains to, the laft moments of his life.

Do not, however, my dear, be alarmed at the picture he has drawn of marriage; nor fancy with her, that women are only born to fuffer and to obey.

That we are generaliy tyrannicai, I am obliged to own but fuch of use as know how to be happy ${ }_{4}$, willingly give up the harf title of Mafter, foft the more tender

EMITY MONTAGUE. 195 tender and endearing one of Friend : Men of fenfe abhor thofe cuftoms which treat your fex as if created merely for the happinefs of the other; a fuppofition injurious to the Deity, though flattering to our tyranny and felf-love; and Wwifh only to hind you in the foft chains of affection.

Equality is the foul of friendthip: marriage, to give delight, muft join two minds, not devote a Rave to the will of an imperious lord; whatever conveys the idea of fubjection neceffarily defroys that of love, of which I am fo convinced, that I Fave always wifhed the word obey expunged from the marriage ceremony.

If you will permit me to add my fento ments to thofe of a lady fo learned in the art of pleafing, I would wih you to ftudy the tafte of your hubband, and endeavor to acquire a relifh for thofe pleafures which appear moft to affect him ;

ig6 THE HISTORY OF

let him find amurement at home, but never be peévifh at his going abroad; the will return to you with the higher guff for your "converfation": have feparate apartments, fince your forfune makes it not inconvenient ; be always elegant, but not too expenfive, in your drefs; retain your prefent exquifite delicacy of every kind; receive his friends with good-breeding and complacency; contrive fuch little parties of pleafure as you know are agreeable to him and with the moot agreeable people you can felect : be lively even to playfutnefs in your general turn of conveffation with him, but, at the fame time, fpare no pains fo to improve your undertanding, which is an excellent one, as to be no lefs capable of being the companion of his graver hours: be ignorant of nothing which if becomes your fex to know, but avoid all affectation of knowledge: let your economy be exact, but without appearins otherwife than by the cffeet.

EMILY MONTAGUE. 197

never ill reyour nents, onve30. exrefent eceive comries of ble to people layfulration fpare ftand to be janion of noex to know ; but

Do not imitate thofe of your fex who by ill temper make a hufband pay dear for their fidelity; let virtue in you be dreft in fmiles; and be affured that chearfulnefs is the native garb of innocence.

In one word, my dear, to not lofe the miftrefs in the wife, but let your behaviour to him as a hurband be fuch as you would have thought moft proper to attract him as a lover : have always the idea of pleafing before you, and you cannot fail to ploafe.

Having lectured you, my dear Lucy, 1 muit fay a word to Temple : a great ${ }^{\text {to }}$ riety of rules have been given for the conduct of women in marriage; fcarce any for that of men; as if it was not effential to domeftic happinefs, that the man fhould preferve the heart of her with whom he is to fpend his life; or as if beftowing happinefs were not worth a man's attention, fo he poffeffed it : if, K 3 however, however, it is poffible to feel true happinefs without giving it.

198 THE HISTORY OF

You, my dear Temple, have too juft an idea of pleafure to think in this manner : you would be beloved; it has been the purfuit of your life, though never really attained perhaps before. You at prefent poffers a heart full of fenfibility, a heart capable of loving with ardor; and from the fame caufe as capable of sheing eftranged by : neglect: : give your whole attention to preferving this invaluable treafure; obferve every rule I have given to her, if you would be happy $\mathrm{i}_{\text {a }}$ and believe $\mathrm{me}_{2}$ the heart of woman is not lefs delicate than tender; their fenfibility is more keen, they feel more ftrongly than we do, their tendernefs is more eafily wounded, and their hearts are more difficult to recover if once loft.

At the fame time, they are both by nature and education more conftant, and and fcarce ever change the object of their affections but from ill treatment : for which reafon there is fome excufe for a cuftom which appears cruel, that of throwing contempt on the hufband for the ill conduct of the wife.

Above all things, retain the politeners and attention of a doyer; and avoid that carelefs, manner which wounds the vanity of human: pature, 1 a paffion given us, $\mathrm{s}^{2}$ as were all paffions, for the wifeft ands, and which never quits us but with life:

Therebis a certain attentive tenderneff, difficult to be defcribed, which the manly of our fex feel, and which is peculiarly pleafing to woman: 'tis alfo a very delightful fenfation to ourfelvess as well productive of the happieft confequences:s regarding them as creatures placed by Providence under our protection, and depending on K 4 us for their happinefs, is the ftronget poffible tie of affection to 2 well-turned: mind.

200 THE HHOTORY OF

 If I died not know Lucy perfectly; I fhould perhaps Hehtate in the next advice I am going to give you; which is, to make her the confidante, and the only comphanues of your gallintpies, is your are fo nunhrappyiss to be inadiver: teotly botraped sinte any :rher heare will poffibly becat ifirt a little" wounded by the confefion, butisthis preof of perfect efteem will increafe her friendthip for you; the will regard your error with compafiam and indurgdińte, and tead sou gently baick by fien endearing tendernefs to honor and her: felf.

Of all tafks I deteft that of giving advice: you are therefore under infinite obligation to me for this letter.

EMILY MONTAGUE:

Be affured of my tendereft affetions and-believe me,

Yours, &rc.

Ed. Rivers?

LETTER CXV:

Fo the Earl of

Silleri, April 8:

NOTHING can be more true, my Lord, than that poverty is ever the infeparable corspanion of indolence.

I fee proofs of it every moment before me; with a foil fruitful beyond all be lief, the Canadians are poor on lands which are their own property, and for which they pay only a trifling quitarent to their feigneurs.
$\mathrm{K}_{5}$. which

202: THE HISTORYOF

This indolence appears in every thing: you fcarce fee the meaneft peafant walking; even riding on horfeback appears to them a fatigue infupportable; you fee them lolling at eafe, like their lazy lords, in carrioles and calafhes, according to the feafon; a boy to guide the horfe on a feat in the front of the carriage, too lazy even to take the trouble of driving themfelves, their hands in winter folded in an immenfe muff, though perhaps their families are in want of bread: to eat at home.

The winter is paffed in a mixture of feftivity and inaction; dancing and feafting in their gayer hours; in their graver fmoking, and drinking brandy, by the iide of a warm ftove: and when obliged to cultivate the ground in fpring to procure the means of fubfiftence, you fee them juft turn the turf once lightly over. and.

EMILY MONTAGUE. 203

hing: walkppears you $r$ lazy prding horfe rriage, driv. winter $h$ perbread:
ure of fẹaft graver $y$ the bliged pro1 fee over, and. and, without manuring the ground, or even breaking the clods of earth, throw in the feed in the fame carelefs manner, and leave the event to chance, without troubling themfelves further till it is fit to reap.

I muft, however, obferve, as fome alleviation, that there is fomething in the climate which ftrongly inclines both the body and mind, but rather the latter, to indolence: the heat of the fummer, though pleafing, enervates the very foul, and gives a certain laflitude unfavorable to induftry; and the winter, at its extreme, binds up and chills all the active faculties of the foul.

Add to this, that the general fpirit of amufement, fo univerfal here in winter, and fo neceffary to prevent the ill effects of the feafon, gives, a: habitof diflipation and pleafure which pakeglahor doubly irkfome at its return , storis a in itaiom

204 THE HISTORYOF

Their religion, to which they are extremely bigoted, is ancther great bar, as well to induftry as population : their numeroas feftivals inure them to idlenefs; their religious houfes rob the ftate of many fubjects who might be highly ufeful at prefent, and at the fame time retard the increafe of the colony.

Sloth and fuperftition equally counterWork providence, and render the bounty of Heaven of no effect.

I am furprized the French, who genetally make their religion fubfervient to the purpofes of policy, do not difcous rage convents, and leffen the number of feftivals, in the colonies, where both are fo peculiarly peraicious.

It is to this circumftance one may in great meafare attribute the fuperion in creafe of the Britifh Almerican fettleinents. compared to thofe of Fratice: : a religion which encourages idleners, and makes.
a virtue

EMILY MONTAGUE. 205

 a virtue of celibacy, is particularly unfavorable to colonization.However religious prejudice may have been fuffered to counterwork policy under 2 French government, it is fcarce to be doubted that this caufe of the poverty of Canada will by degrees be removed; that thefe people, naves at prefent to ignorance and fuperftition, will in time be enlightened by a more liberal education, and gently led by reafon to a relig. on Which is not only preferable, as being that of the ceuntry to which they are now annexed, but which is to much more caleulated to make, them happy and profperous as a people.

Till that time, till their prejudices fub:fride, it is equally juf, humane, and wif, to leave them the free right of wormiping the Deity in the manmer which they have been early taught to believe the beft and to which they are confequently atached.

206 THE HISTORY OF

It would be unjuft to deprive them of any of the rights of citizens en account of religion, in America, where every other fect of diffenters are equally capable of employ with thofe of the eftablihed church; nay where, from whatever caufe, the church of England is on a footing in many colonies little better than a toleration.

It is undoubtedly, in a political light, an bject of confequence every where, that the national religion, whatever it is, hould be as univerfal as poffible, agreement in religious workhip being the ftrongeft tie to unity and obedience : had all prudent, means been ufed to leffen the numben of differters in our colonies, I cannot avoid believing $\downarrow$ from what I obferve and hear, that we, Ihould have found in them a Spirit of rational loyalty, and true freedom, inftead of that factious one from which fo: much is to be apprehended $1: s s$ assec.

EMILY.MONTAGUE. 207

It feems confonant to reafon, that the religion of every country fhould have a relation to, and coherence with, the civil conftitution : the Romin religion is beft adapted to a defpotic government, the prefbyterian to a republican, and that of the church of England to a limited monarchy like ours.

As therefore the civil government of America is on the fame plan with that of the mother country, it were to be wihhed the religious eftablifhment was alfo the fame, efpecially in thofe colonies where the people are generally of the national church; though with the fulleft liberty of confcience to diffenters of all denominations:

I would be clearly undertood, my Lord; from all I have obferved here, ? am convinced, nothing would fo much contribute to diffufe a fpirit of order, and rational obedience, in the colonies, as the appointment, under proper reftrictions, of bihops:

208 THE HISTORY OF

bifhops: I am equally convinced that nothing would fo much ftrengthen the hands of government, or give fuch pleafure to the well-affeted in the colonies, who are by much the moft numerous, as fuch an appointment, however clamored againft by a few abettors of fedition.

I am called upon for this letter, and muft remit to another time what I wifhed to fay more to your Lordhip in regard to this country.

I have the honor to be,
My Lord, &rc.
Wm. Fermor:

LET-

EMIIXMONTAGUE. 209
L. $\mathbf{L}$ T $\mathbf{T}$ CXVI,

1) TolMter Meimeth, at Montreal.

Silleri, April 8.
TAM indeed, Madam this inconfintent creature I have at once refufed to marry Colonel Rivers, and owned to him all the tendernes of my foul.

Do ngt however think me mad, on fuppofe mys tefufal the effect of an unmeaning childifh affectation of difintereft. ednefs is can form to my felf no idea of happinefs equal to that of fpending my life with Rivers, the beft, the moft tender the moft amiable of mankind; nor can I fupport the idea of his marrying any other woman: I would therefore marry him to-morrow were it poffible without ruining him, without dooming him him to a perpetual exile, and obftructing thofe views of honeft ambition at home, which become his birth, his connexions, his talents, his time of life; and with which, as his friend it is my duty to infpire him.

210 THE HISTORY OF

His affection for me at prefent blinda him, he fees no object but me in the whole taiverfe; but fhall I take advantage of that mebriation of tenderness, to feduce him into a meafure inconfiftent with his real happinefs and intereft? He muft return to England, muft parfue fortume in that world for whieh' he was formedi! friall his Emily retard him in the glorious race? Thall fhe not father encoufagel him thy every laudable atempt? fhall fle fifufer him to hide that handing merrit in the uhis barbarifm anddiignotince, whichilentitles him to hopelachappy fate in wheiddap lanid of aits and army? womeri-os thid Ythem.

EMILYMONTAGUE. 21:

ucting home, xions, 1 with uty to

I entreat you to do all you can to difcourage his defign. Remind him that his fifter's marriage has in fome degree removed the caufe of his coming hither; that he can have now no motive for fixing here, but his tenderriefs for me; that I fhall be juftly blamed by all who love him for keeping him here. Tell him, I will not marry him in Canada; that his ftay makes the beft mother in the world wretched; that he owes his return to himfelf, nay to his Emily, whofe whole heart is fet on feeing him in a fituation worthy of him : though without ambition as, to myfelf, I am proud, I am ambitious for him; if he loves me, he will gratify that pride, that ambition; and leave Canada to thofe whofe duty confines them here, or whofe intereft it is to remain unfeen, Let him not once think of me in his determination: I am content to be beloveds and will leave all elfe to time I You cannot fo much oblige or ferve me, as by perfuading

212. THE HISTORY OF fuading Colonel Rivers to return to England.

Believe me, my dear Madam,
Your affectionate
Emily Montaourá

LETTER CXVII.

To Mrs. Temfle, Pall Mall.
Silleri, April g:
TOUR brother, my dear, is gone to Montreal to look out for a fettlement, and Emily to rpend a fortnight at Quebec; with a lady fhe knew in England, who ats lately arrived from thence by New York.

I am

EMILY MONTAGUE: 213
I am loft without my friend, though my lover endeavors in fome degree to fupply her place; he lays clofe fiege; -I know not how long I fhall be able to hold out: this fine weather is exceedingly in his favor; the winter freezes up all the avenues to the heart; but this fprightly April fun thaws them again amazingly. I was the cruelleft creatùre breathing whilt the chilly feafon lafted, but can anfwer for nothing now the fprightly May is approaching.

I can fee papa is vaftly in Fitzgerald's intereft; but he knows our fex well enough to keep this to himelf.

I Thall, however, for decency's fake, afk his opinion on the affair as foon as I have taken my refolution; which is the very time at which all the world ank advice of their friends.

214 THE HISTORYOF
A letter from Emily, which I muft anfwer : The is extremely abfurd, which your tender lovers always are.

Adieu! yours,

A. Fermor.

Sir George Clayton had left Montreal fome days before your brother arrived there; I was pleafed to hear it, becaufe, with all your Brother's good fenfe, and concern for Emily's honor, and Sir George's natural coldnefs of temper, a quarrel between them would have been rather difficult to have been avoided.

LET.

OF

I I muft d, which

Fermor:

- Montreal brother ared to hear ir brother's for Emily's e's natural quarrel bebeen rather oided.

EMILYMONTAGUE. 215

L E T T E R CXVIII.

> To Mifs Fermor.

Abstract

Quebec, Thurfday morning. DO you think, my dear, that Madame Des Roches has heard from Rivers? I wifh you would aik her this afternoon at the governor's: I am anxious to know, but afhamed to enquire.

. Not, my dear, that I have the weaknefs to be'jealou's but'I Thall think his lettet to me a higher compliment, if I know he writes to nobody elfe. I extremely approve his friendfhip for Madame Des Roches; The is very ahiabile) and certaitily deferves it': but you knows;Bell, it would be cfteel to. encourage an affection, which fhe frruft conquer, or be unhappy: if the:did not love'bim; there would be nothing wrong in

216 THE HISTORYOF

in his writing to her; but, as the does, it would be doing her the greateft injury poflible: 'tis as much on her account as my own I am thus anxious.

Did you tver read fo tender, yet fo live-: ly a letter as Rivers's to me? he is alike in all: there is in his letters, as in his converfation > ${ }^{66}$ All that can foftly win, or gaily charm "The heart of woman.".

Even ftrangers liften to him with an involuntary attention, and hear him with a pleafure for which they fearce know how to account.

He charms even without intending is, and in finte of himfelf; ibut when he wihes to pleafe, when he addreffes the woman he loves, whien his eyos fpeak the foft language of his heart, when your

F

loes, it injury bunt as fo livealike in his conpeak the nn: your Emily

EMILY MONTAGUE. 217

Emily reads in them the dear confeffion of his tendernefs, when that melodious voice utters the fentiments of the nobleft mind that ever animated a human formMy deareft, the eloquence of angels cannot paint my Rivers as he is.

I am almoft inclined not to go to the governor's to-night; I am determined not to dance till Rivers returns, and I know there are too many who will be ready to make oblervations on my refufal : I think I will ftay at home, and write to him againft Monday's poft : I have a thoufand things to fay, and you know we are continually interrupted at Quebec; I fhall have this evening to myfelf, as all the world will be at the governor's.

Adieu, your faithful

Emily Montague.'

> Vor.II. L LET:

218 THE HISTORY OF ## LETTER CXIX.

To Mifs Montague, at Quebec.

Silleri, Thurfday morning.

IDARE f.y, my dear, Madame Des Roches has not heard from Rivers; but fuppofe fhe had. If he loves you, of what confequence is it to whom he writes? I would not for the world any friend of yours fhould afk her fuch a queftion.

I fhall call upon you at fix o'clock, and Thall expect to find you determined to go to the governor's this evening, and to dance : Fitzgerald begs the honor of being your partner.

Believe me, Emily, thefe kind of unmeaning facrifices are childifh; your heart is new to love, and you have all the romance of a girl : Rivers would, on your account, account, be hurt to hear you had refufed to dance in his abfence, though he might be flattered to know, you had for a moment entertained fuch an idea.

EMILYMONTAGUE. 219

I pardoin you, for having the fomantic fancies of feventeen, provided you correct them with the good fenfe of four and twenty.

Adieu! I have engaged myfelfito Col lonel LI you ape too polite toc refinfe to dance with Fitzgeialds and too prudent to refufe $x 0$ dunce at all.

Your affectionate

L& LET:

220 THE HISTORY OF LETTERCXX.

To Mifs Fermor, at Silleri.

> Qeebec, Saturday morning.

$\mathbf{H}^{+}$OW unjuft have I been in my hatred of Madame Des Roches 1 fhe fpent yefterday with us, and after dinner defired to converfe with me an hour in my apartment, where the opened to me all her heart on the fubject of her love for Rivers.

She is the nobleft and mof amiable of women, and I have been in regard to her the moft capricious and unjuft : my hatred of her was unworthy my charater; I blufh to own the meannefs of my fentiments, whillt I admire the generofity of hers.

Why;

EMILYMONTAGUE. 221

Why, my dear, fhould I have hated her? fhe was unhappy, and deferved rather my compafion: I had deprived her of all hope of being beloved, it was too much to wifh to deprive her alfo of his converfation. I knew myfelf the only object of Rivers's love; why then fhould I have envied her his friendfhip? She had the ftrongeft reafon to hate me, but I fhould have loved and pitied her.

Can there be a misfortune equal to that of loving Rivers without hope of a return? Yet the has not only borne this misfortune without complaint, but has been the confidante of his paffion for another; he owned to her all his tendernefs for me, and drew a picture of me, " which, fhe told me, ought, had fhe liftened to reafon, to have deftroyed even the fhadow of hope: but that love, ever ready to flatter and deceive, had betrayed her into the weaknefs of fuppofing it pofible I might refufe him, $\mathrm{L}_{3}$ and

222 THE HISTORYOF

and that gratitude might, in that cafe, touch his heart with tendernefs for one who loved hin with the moft pure and difinterefted affection; that her journey to Quebec had removed the veil love had placed between her and truth; that the was now convinced the faint hope the had encouraged was madnefs, and that our fouls were formed for each other.

She owned fhe ftill loved him with the moft lively affection ; yet affured the, fince fhe was not allowed to make the moft amiable of mankind happy hepfelf, fhe wifhed him to be fo with the woman on earth the thought moft worthy: of him.

She added, that fhe had on firt feeing me, though the thought me worthy his heart, felt an impulfe of dinike which fhe was afhamed to own, even now that reafon and reflexion had conquered fo. unworthy a fentiment; that Rivers's. complaifance complaifance had a little diffipated her chagrin, and enabled her to behave to me in the manner fhe did: that the had, however, almoft hated me at the ball in the country: that the tendernefs in Rivers's eyes that day whenever they met mine, and his econsparative inattention to her, had wounded her to the foul.

EMILY MONTAGUE. $\mathbf{I 2 3}^{2}$

That this preference had, however, been falutary, though painful; fince it had determined her to conquer a paffion, which could only make her life wretched if it continued; that, as the firft ftep to this conqueft, fhe had refolved to fee him no more : that fhe would return to her houfe the moment the could crofs the river with fafety; and conjured me, for her fake, to perfuade him to give up all thoughts of a fettlement near her; that the could not anfwer for her own heart if fhe continued to fee him; that The believed in love there was no fafety but in flight.

$$
L_{4} \quad \text { That }
$$

224 THE HISTORY OF

That his abfence had given her time to think coolly; and that fhe now faw fo ftrongly the amiablenefs of my character, and was fo convinced of my perfect tendernefs for him, that fhe fhould hate herfelf were the capable of wifhing to interrupt our happinefs.

That fhe hoped I would pardon her retaining a tender remembrance of a man who, had he never feen me, might have returned her affection; that the thought fo highly of my heart, as to believe I could not hate a woman who efteemed me, and who folicited my friendinip, though a happy rival.".

I was touched, even to tears, at her behaviour: we embraced; and, if I know my own weak foolifh heart, I love her.

She talks of leaving Quebec before Rivers's return; fhe faid, her coming was an imprudence which only love could could excufe; and that the had no motive for her journey but the defire of feeing him, which was fo lively as to hurry her into an indifcretion of which the was afraid the world took but too much notice. What opennefs, what fincerity, what generofity, was there in all the faid!How fuperior, my dear, is her character to mine! I blufh for myfelf on the comparifon; I am fhocked to fee how much fhe foars above me: how is it poffible Rivers fhould not have preferred her to me? Yet this is the woman I fancied incapable of any paffion but vanity.

EMILYMONTAGUE. 225

I am fure, my dear Bell, I am not naturally envious of the merit of others; but my excefs of love for Rivers makes me apprehenfive of every woman who can poffibly rival me in his tendernefs.

L 5

I was

226 THE HISTORY OF

I was hurt at Madame Des Roches's uncommon merit; I faw with pain the amiable qualities of her mind; I could fcarce even allow her perfon to be pleafing : but this injuftice is not that of my natural temper, but of love.

She is certainly right, my dear, to fee him no more; I applaud, I admire her refolution: do you think, however, the would purfue it if fhe loved as I do? fhe has perhaps loved before, and her heart has loft fomething of its native trembling. fenfibility.

I wifh my heart felt lier merit as ftrongly as my reafon: I efteem, I admire, I even love her at prefent; but I am convinced Rivers's return while fhe continues here would weaken thefe fentiments of affection : the leaft appearance of preference, even for a moment, would make me relapfe into my former weaknefs. I adore, I idolize her character ; but

I can.

EMILY MONTAGUE. 227

pches's in the could pleafof my to fee ire her er, fhe 10? She r heart mbling

Adieu! my dear!

Your faithful

Emily Montague:

LET:

228 THE HISTORY OF

L E T T E R CXXI.

To the Earl of

Silleri, April r4*

ENGLAND, however populous, is undoubtedly, my Lord, too fmall to afford very large fupplies of people to her colonies : and her people are alfo too ufeful, and of too much value, to be fuffered to emigrate, if they can be prevented, whillt there is fufficient employment for them at home.

It is not only our intereft to have colonies; they are not only neceffary to our commerce, and our greateft and fureft fources of wealhh, but our very being as a powerful commercial nation depends. on them : it is therefore an object of all others moft worthy our attention, that they they fhould be as flourihing and populous as poffible.

EMILY MONTAGUE. 229

It is howeve. equally our intereft to fupport them at as little expence of our own inhabitants as poffible: I therefore look on the acquifition of fuch a number of fubjects as we found in Canada, to be a much fuperior advantage to that of gaining ten times the immenfe tract of land ceded to us, if uncultivated and deftitute of inhabitants.

But it is not only contrary to our intereft to fpare many of our own people as fettlers in America; it mult alfo be confidered, that, if we could fpare them, the Englifh are the wort fettlers on new lands in the univerfe.

Their attachment to their native country, efpecially amongft the lower ranks of people, is fo very ftrong, that few of
the

230 THE HISTORY OF

the honeft and induftrious can be prevailed on to leave it; thofe therefore who go, are generally the diffolute and the idle, who are of no ufe any where.

The Englin are alfo, though induftrious, active, and enterprizing, ill fitted to bear the hardfhips, and fubmit to the wants, which inevitably attend an infant fettlement even on the moft fruitful lands.

The Germans, on the contrary, with the fame ufeful qualities, have a patience, a perfeverance, an abftinence, which peculiarly fit them for the cultivation of new countries; too great encouragement therefore cannot be given to them to fettle in our colonies: they make better fettlers than our own people; and at the fame time their numbers are an acouifition of real ftrength where they fix, without weakening the mother country.
prewho the fitted it to d an fruit-

Their emigrations therefore were lefs owing to their populoufnefs, than to their want of induftry, and barbarous contempt of agriculture and èvery ufeful art

$23^{2}$ THE HISTORYOF

It is with pain I am compelled to fay, the late fpirit of encouraging the monopoly of farms, which, from a narrow fhort-fighted policy, prevails amongft our landed men at home, and the alarming growth of celibacy amongft the peafantry, which is its neceffary confequence, to fay nothing of the fame ruinous increafe of celibacy in higher ranks, threaten us with fuch a decreafe of population, as will probably equal that caufed by the ravages of thofe fcourges of Heaven,'the fword, the famine, and the peftilence.

If this felfifh policy continues to extend itfelf, we fhall in a few years be fo far from being able to fend emigrants to America, that we fhall be reduced to folicit their return, and that of their pofterity, to prevent England's beconsing in its turn an uncultivated defart.

But to return to Canada; this large acquifition of people is an invaluable treafure,

EMILY MONTAGUE. 233

fure, if managed, as I doubt not it will be, to the beit advantage; if they are won by the gentle arts of perfuafion, and the gradual progrefs of knowledge, to adopt fo much of our manners as tends to make them happier in themfelves, and more ufeful members of the fociety to which they belong: If with our language, which they fhould by every means be induced to learn, they acquire the mild genius of our religion and laws, and that fpirit of induftry, enterprize, and commerce, to which we owe all our greatnefs.

Amongft the various caufes which concur to render France more populous than England, notwithftanding the difadvantage of a lefs gentle government, and a religion fo very unfavorable to the increafe of mankind, the cultivation of vineyards may be reckoned a principal one; as it employs a much greater number of hands than even agriculture itfelf, which has however infinite advantages in this refpect above pafturage, the certain caufe of a want of people wherever it prevails above its due proportion.

234 THE HISTORY OF

Our climate denies us the advantages arifing from the culture of vines, as well as many others which nature has accorded to France; a confideration which fhould awaken us from the lethargy into which the avarice of individuals has plunged us, and fet us in earneft on improving every advantage we enjoy, in order to fecure us by our native ftrength from fo formidable a rival.

The want of bread to eat, from the late falfe and cruel policy of laying fmall farms into great ones, and the general difcouragement of tillage which is its confequence, is in my opinion much lefs to be apprehended than the want of people to eat it.

In every country where the inhabitants are at once numerous and induftrious; there

EMILY MONTAGUE. 235

above
itages 3 well orded hould which ed us, every are us idable there will always be a proportionable cu!tivation.
$\therefore$ This evil is fo very deftructive and alarming, that, if the great have not virtue enough to remedy it, it is to be hoped it will in time, like moft great evils, cure itfelf.

> Your Lordihip enquires into the nature of this climate in refpect to health. The air being uncommonly pure and ferene, it is favorable to life beyond any I ever knew : the people live generally to a very adwanced age; and are remarkably free from difeafes of every kind, except confumptions, to which the younger part of the inhabitants are a good deal 〔ubject.

It is however a circumftance one cannot. help obferving, that they begin to look old much fooner than the people in Europe; on which my daughter obferves, that it is not very pleafant for women to come to. refide refide in a country where people have a fhort youth, and a long old age.

${ }_{2} 3^{6}$ THE HISTORY OF

The difeafes of cold countries are in general owing to want of perfpiration; for which reafon exercife, and even diffipation, are here the beft medicines.

The Indians therefore fhewed their good fenfe in advifing the French, on their firft arrival, to ufe dancing, mirth, chearfulnefs, and content, as the beft remedies againft the inconveniences of the climate.

I have already fwelied this letter to fuch a length, that I muft poftpone to another time my account of the peculiar natural productions of Canada; only obferving, that one would imagine Heaven intended a focial intercourfe between the moft diftant nations, by giving them productions of the earth fo very different each from the other, and each more than fufficient for itfelf, that the exchange might be the means of fpread- medies limate. o fuch nother 1atural rving, nded a diftant of the other, itfelf, ans of pread-

EMILYIMONTAGUE. 237
fpreading the bond of fociety and brotherhood over the whole globe.

In my opinion, the man who conveys, and caufe to grow, in any country, 2 grain, a fruit, or even a flower, it never poffeffed before, deferves more praife than a thoufand heroes: he is a benefactor, he is in fome degree a creator.

I have the honor to be,
My Lord,

Your Lordhip's &ic:

William Fermor:

LET:

238 THE HISTORY OF ## L E T T E R CXXII.

To Mifo Montaous, at Quebed!

Montreal, April 14.

IS it poffible, my dear Emily, you can, after all I have faid, perrfilt insehdeavoring to diffuade me from a defign on which my whole happinefs depenils, and which I flattered myfelf was equally effential to yours ? I forgave, I even admired, your firft frruple; I thought it generofity: but I have anfwered it; and if you had loved as I do, you would never again have named fo unpleafing a fubject.

Does four own heart tell you mine will call a fettlement here, with you, an exile? Examine yourfelf well, and tell me whether your averfion to ftaying in Canada is not ftronger than your tendernefs for your Rivers.

EMILYMONTAGUE. 239

I am hurt beyond all words at the earneftnefs with which you prefs Mrs. Melmoth to diffuade me from flaying in this country: you prefs with warmth my return to England, though it would put an eternal bar betweer us: you give reafons which, though the underftanding may approve, the heart abhors : can ambition come in competition with tendernefs? you fancy yourfelf generous, when you are only indifferent. Infenfible girl! you know nothing of love.

Write to me inftantly, and tell me every emotion of your foul, for I tremble at the idea that your affection is lefs lively than mine.

Adieu! I am wretched till I hear from you. Is it poffible, my Emily, you can have ceafed to love him, who, as ynu yourfelf

240 THE HISTORY OF

 yourfelf own, fees no other object than you in the univerfe?Adien! Yours;

Ed. Rivers:
You know not the heart of your Rivers, if you fuppofe it capable of any ambition but that dear one of being beloved by you.

What have you faid, my dear Emily ? You will not marry me in Canada. You have paffed a hard fentence on me: you know my fortune will not allow me to marry you in England.

END OF VOL. II.

$$
\sigma
$$

