Heart to Heart Talk Roosevelt Speaks To-Day

Coal Operators Arrived in Washington Last Night and Mitchell is on His Way—J. P. Morgan Backs the President and His Plan.

PRESIDENT TAFT,
Head of the Operators.

PRESIDENT MITCHELL,
Head of the Strikers.

Washington, Oct. 2.—It is expected that all the men to whom invitations were sent yesterday will be present at the strike conference to-morrow. They have all accepted.

This was the only statement that could be obtained at the White House to-day regarding the conference. Senator Quay of Pennsylvania consulted with the President for an hour to-day. It is understood that he came to the request of the President to discuss the strike situation. The President and the Senator were interrupted, and two cabinet officers who called did not see the President while the conference was in progress. Senator Quay, after he left the President, would not discuss the situation or express an opinion as to the probability of the conference.

During the day Secretary Root, Attorney-General Knox and Senator Shaw were in conference with the President. Secretary Wilson was at the White House for about an hour, but the three first remained with the President for nearly an hour. It is understood that the President discussed the subject of the conference with them, and the cabinet officers made a number of suggestions as to what the President should say to those who will participate in it. It has been decided that Attorney-General Knox shall attend the conference to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, the coal operators, and Mr. Mitchell of the Miners' Union. He will be the only member of the cabinet who will attend. Carroll D. Wright, Commissioner of Labor, who recently made an investigation of the strike situation, will attend on the invitation of the President. While everyone connected with the administration is extremely restless concerning the coming conference, there is a hope among those who attend the President that it is going to result in the settlement of the strike. This hope is based on the fact that the situation, and the necessity that exists for a settlement, along with the known determination of the President to bring about a settlement of the great labor controversy, if such a thing be possible, are the factors which have arrived in the city to-night.

MORGAN BACKS ROOSEVELT.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Walter Wellman, writing to Record-Herald from Washington, says: J. Pierpont Morgan has sent word to President Roosevelt that he fully approves of this effort to settle the strike and hopes it will be successful. Your correspondent has seen the messenger who brought Mr. Morgan's approval to Washington to-night. He was present in Mr. Morgan's office when the President's action came, and Mr. Morgan said at once: "That is right. The President is doing just the right thing in the right way. It will do him no harm." The significance of this is very great. It means that Mr. Morgan, as the strongest financial backer of the corporations, will add the weight of his influence to that of President Roosevelt in the effort to bring about a settlement. As I have already stated upon full information, Mr. Morgan has for several weeks been trying to secure an adjustment of the trouble, and it is not his fault that he has been unsuccessful. There had been a fear that because of Mr. Morgan's dislike of President Roosevelt's attack on the Northern Securities Company he would not try to have the President gain the honor of settling the strike. But Mr. Morgan has shown above any such narrow considerations. He is ready to cooperate with the President, and has already shown his tremendous force upon the side of the President, and who may win credit therefor.

W. H. Brown is Arraigned, Bail Refused Murder of His Step-father is Suggested Aged Mother Accuses Son in Both Cases

Startling Sequel to Arrest of Collingwood Man on Charge of Conspiring to Murder His Parent in Order to Secure Insurance—Crown Investigating Deal Where Prisoner Secured Premium on John Brown's Life Three Years Ago.

W. H. BROWN,
Man Now in Jail

MRS. JANE BROWN,
Mother of W. H. Brown.

CHIEF MAIDEN,
Guardian of Collingwood.

Collingwood, Oct. 2.—(From our man on the spot.)—In the presence of a curious crowd, this afternoon, William Henry Brown was arraigned on the charge of conspiring to murder his mother, Magistrate Nettleton presided. Provincial Detective Greer represented the Crown, and Messrs. Allan and Brint appeared for the prisoner. The complaint was signed by Frederick Maiden, chief of the Collingwood police. "That on or about Sept. 1, 1902, William H. Brown did conspire to murder one Jane Brown," is the brief accusation which promises to develop a most extraordinary criminal affair. The defence deferred entering a plea, and the preliminary was set for Oct. 7, at 2 o'clock, and bail was refused.

Fear Murder Was Done.

This preface gives but slight suggestion of the sensational features involved, and everything points to a scope covering a pariticide as well as the attempted patricide before the investigation is concluded. While the prisoner stands accused of plotting to secure his aged mother's murder, that he might receive the insurance on her life, the authorities have secured much evidence which they believe will warrant the more serious charge of murder by the time the case is again called. Like the case William Henry Brown is now called upon to defend, the alleged motive in the graver crime which is being traced to his door was prompted by the same motives—to secure the insurance on the life of John Brown.

Mother Accuses Son.

The hideous details already unearthed in connection with the affair are made more frightful by the fact that the chief link in the chain of circumstances indicating that William Brown poisoned his father has been supplied by the prisoner's mother. The poor woman declares that she has entertained the awful suspicions before, but that she was never fully satisfied that her son could have committed such a deed until she discovered that he was plotting to have her murdered. The entire case is full of contradictions and unnatural features, and paints the son as the blackest figure in one of the vilest pictures ever framed in a criminal's mind. The story is replete with revolting phases, and the central figure of the trial promises to be the graying, grief-stricken mother, standing as the chief accuser of her son in both alleged crimes. And yet, as if by magic, the monstrous charges in every detail, William Henry Brown's life presents a career of lot, covering 18 years, in the pit of a fire-box—a consuming labor that has dwarfed him physically and intellectually, in the presence of a curiously very small crowd with his body. This is the extraordinary aspect presented by the man who is now being unfolded to the view of the horrified people of Collingwood.

Was Rose Playing a Part?

This is the sequel of the "huge hole" perpetrated, according to his own account, by John Rose, the Toronto insurance man, who was sought in connection with the case of John Brown. The message is not clear, but if the authorities do not place him under arrest on their own motion, representatives of the defence assert that they will swear out an information against him. "We will have Rose in the dock and Brown in the witness box before we get through with this case," observed one of the lawyers the accused has employed. In the meantime, the wife of the prisoner is expected to make a statement, which will be given in full in the next issue of the World. The wife of the prisoner is expected to make a statement, which will be given in full in the next issue of the World.

Good Work of Chief Maiden.

In all his work he is being given the most intelligent assistance by Chief of Police Frederick Maiden, to whom is attributed all the credit for bringing to light the miserable affair. Chief Maiden took occasion to deny that John Rose told him anything about the case, as the Toronto man claims to have done.

Anxious to Get Started.

When the case was called to-day Detective Greer insisted on being permitted to introduce some evidence at once. This was objected to by the defence. The detective urged that the adjournment could be taken after he had placed one or two witnesses on the stand. He was very anxious to get his work done, and refused to take anyone into his confidence as to the plot he desired to make. Chief of Police Maiden explained, however, that Mr. Greer would get on record the evidence of the mother touching her husband's death, in which she had told the detective that she did not know her husband's life was insured until she was notified by her son. He was promised her $200 if she would keep quiet and say nothing about him having collected the insurance money. This phase indicates that the death of John Brown will figure primarily in the preliminary of William Henry Brown, and that a fear exists that some of the evidence on this point may not be available later.

Merits of the Case Desired.

Counselor John Birnie asserts, with vigor, that the defence will go into the merits of the case at the preliminary hearing, placing witnesses for the defense on the stand and making the issues apparent at this time. This promises to make the investigation of much more than usual interest. On the conspiracy charge, the Crown's case rests with this complex case. John Rose, Toronto, insurance solicitor, who wrote a $1500 insurance policy on the life of Mrs. Jane Brown in 1897, for which the son now accused, paid, will testify that about Sept. 1, he met Brown on the streets of Collingwood. At that time the insurance man was with his nephew, John Rose, chief engineer of the water works, who suggested that they murder Brown and divide the insurance. He said he favored using "white devils" to do the deed. The case of the old man," appeared to refer to the poisoning of his step-father in August, 1898. He appeared to accept the suggestion, and received $200 from Brown, who he believed was the murderer. He was to receive $100 from his step-father's mother. Later he met Rose, his nephew, and asked him what he supposed that "white devils" wanted. The nephew couldn't imagine, and the elder Rose told him of the plot. He also exhibited an envelope which he supposed was organized as having been addressed by Brown, and which had been sent him with the balance of the $100.

Took Woman to Toronto.

The insurance man's testimony will then cover the taking of Mrs. Jane Brown to Toronto, to make the witness believe the plan of murder was to be carried out. This will be the chief witness story, and he will add that through the affair he was acting as the agent of the "white devils," which the woman's life was insured, and that he intended to expose the

Minister Tarte at Oshawa Spending a Strenuous Day

Accuses Certain Persons of Writing Letters to Sir Wilfrid Brandt, Calling the Minister of Public Works as a Wrecker of the Government—He Doesn't Care.

Oshawa, Oct. 2.—(Special.)—Hon. Mr. Tarte, Minister of Public Works, was met on his arrival here to-day by a deputation of representative citizens and a number of prominent persons including Hon. John Dryden, M.P., and William Ross, M.P., South Ontario. Mr. Tarte and his party, including Charles Marcell, M.P., Mr. Lafleur, chief engineer of the Public Works, and his private secretary, were taken in a private electric car through the principal portion of the town, and thence to the wharf, where considerable work has been accomplished of late by the government.

They then visited several of the large manufacturing establishments, including the tannery of James Ross, the Malcolme Iron Works of William Cowan, the woolen mills of Schofield & Son, and the large carriage works of Montreal, but in what he had seen, Oshawa had the greatest metropolitan business, and in not a few important industries. He hoped that on his next visit all lines of business would give the same evidence of progress as he had seen to-day.

In the Evening.

The Opera House was well crowded with ladies and gentlemen in the evening, when a complimentary address to the visiting minister was read. Mayor T. L. Fowke presided, and in the general remarks he paid a glowing tribute to the activity and energy of the guests of the occasion. William Ross, M.P., expressed surprise at having seen the industries of the town in such a prosperous condition. He thought the excellent example set by Mr. Tarte would be productive of good results. [Applause.]

Charles Marcell Speaks.

Charles Marcell, M.P., followed, in an eloquent address, in which he expressed his gratitude to the Minister of Public Works for having given him an opportunity of becoming better acquainted with this great province. Mr. Tarte set out to visit the various important points in the province in view of his invitation to respond to the numerous attempts extended to him. It showed that Ontario knew new and better things than it had been credited with in a rather biased light, that many to-day were being enlightened everywhere.

An Address Read.

Mayor Fowke then read an address to Hon. Mr. Tarte on behalf of the town, expressing their appreciation of his visit and stating that such visits by our statesmen tended to destroy provincialism among us and make us one great united people. "While we are proud of our own progress, we are attached with a warm affection to the progress of the whole of this great country," said Mr. Tarte at the outset of his reply. "I received the honor of forming me of a presentation to me of a little stranger in the world. [Applause.] May God bless the new subject of His Majesty the King—[Applause.]—and will take care to have him called by a good Canadian name."

The Strenuous Minister.

A banquet was afterwards tendered Hon. Mr. Tarte in the Oshawa House, at which several hundred of the citizens were present. Mayor Fowke presided, and in proposing the toast of the evening, referred to Mr. Tarte as the most active man in the country, in promoting its interests. He explained that he made up his mind to follow the course which he was following to-day immediately.

Funeral from his late residence, 176 Brunswick-ave., on Saturday, Oct. 2, at 2 p.m., to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

after going into office. He felt that our industries should be protected, and our country developed. Our American friends were truly big, but he was of the opinion that they had the sweetest head at times. When he asked for money to improve the Montreal harbor, many called him extravagant. But Sir Wilfrid Laurier would have enough for he had been sent letters by certain men to the effect that he (Tarte) had been sent letters by certain men to the effect that he (Tarte) had no desire to do that. There was no private interest in Montreal which were perfectly satisfied with their business and they did not bother about the interests of the country at large. A conference was arranged with the grain men in that city, and he would say that he gave those men a thrashing that they would not soon forget. As a result of that, Sir Wilfrid did not put him out for that he was kept in since then and he had the satisfaction of afterwards having the support of Sir Wilfrid in his transportation policy; besides, he had the support of the men on both sides of the house who thought heaven looked upon the question as above party politics. [Applause.]

Would Not Take Back a Word.

Continuing, Mr. Tarte said he had been accused of saying things he should not have said. He would not take back a word he had uttered. He would be charged if it will, he would stand by his arguments. By a strong tariff he meant one that would give protection to the farming, as well as the other industries. "Permit me to say, Mr. Chairman," he remarked, in a grave tone, "I am in a position to prove before a committee of the house, that men from the United States come here and say to our manufacturers, 'If you do not manufacture more than a certain quantity, we will slaughter your market and shut you up. Well, call that kind of talk. It makes my blood boil. Such an affront is unbearable. I am in a position to prove that, and in those points I say we shall have a protective tariff.' [Applause.]

Spent $25,000,000.

He would like to see $25,000,000 spent in improving our transportation equipment. American railway and steamship trusts were endeavoring to swallow our railway. He would like to see $25,000,000 spent in that direction, but he would not see it. He would like to see $25,000,000 spent in that direction, but he would not see it. He would like to see $25,000,000 spent in that direction, but he would not see it.

All in Translation.

Referring to his speeches in France he said they had created no little fuss among newspapers, but he was not afraid of such trouble. Speeches delivered in French often looked differently when printed in English, and he was not surprised for such misinterpretation, so long as he believed he was doing his duty. His notion was that the time was not far off when England and her colonies would be united in a better way, and then we would not only be able to command the situation on the sea, but on the land as well. The American would not be threatening us on every possible occasion, and we would be able to hold our own. If we did not fail to be true to ourselves, our destiny was assured. "I do not know what the future has in store for me," said Hon. Mr. Tarte, "but I do know that as long as there is any energy left in me I will be there all the time. [Applause.] I will be there with my sons, Canadian views, with the confidence that I love my country and desire to see its resources developed. [Applause.] Speeches were afterwards made by the other prominent gentlemen present, and the happy gathering dispersed with cheers for Mr. Tarte and the King. [Applause.]

HEARST FOR CONGRESS.

New York, Oct. 2.—William Randolph Hearst, editor and proprietor of The New York American, was nominated for congressional re-election in the eleventh district of New York. Former Senator John O'Sullivan, a member of the committee, and Wm. S. Devery seconded it.

MASSACRES IN NEW GUINEA.

Dutch and British Prepare Punitive Expedition Against Tribes.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 2.—Shortly before the steamship Moana, which has arrived here, left Sydney, official despatches arrived from New Guinea telling of intertribal fights and massacres.

The Tugeri and other tribes had attacked the Sanana villages and killed a large number of natives and carried off many women.

Sanana afterward attacked the Tugeri. Sir F. P. Winter, administrator of the Territory, has ordered a punitive expedition.

Proceeding down the Morehead after their raid on the Sanana villages, the Tugeri were encountered by a large hunting party of our natives, among whom were some Sanana men.

They were met at one place by the Tugeri, killed several of them and forced them to abandon their canoes and take to flight in the bush.

On my arrival here from Australia I at once empowered J. I. Carr to communicate direct with the Dutch authorities at Masore respecting the Tugeri and other tribes.

With regard to the alleged massacres by the Tugeri, Sir Francis Winter writes: "Since my arrival in this possession more natives have been killed."

He makes the statement that he has been informed that a party of natives within a radius of twenty miles from the house in which I am now residing has been during this period been killed in this possession by the Tugeri.

Education Solution.

Dr. Carl Von Ruck of Asheville, N.C., is the guest of Dr. E. Heber Adams. The doctor is an authority on tuberculosis, and is a strenuous believer in the fresh air mode of treatment.

He makes the statement that 97 per cent of the human race at some time or other get a touch of tuberculosis, but it does not always break out. He believes in educating the people's mind, beginning with the child in school to a proper appreciation of the evils of the plague and its eradication.

Painted at Husband's Bier.

Paris, Oct. 2.—Madame Zola was alleged to have painted her husband's name on the wall of her bedroom to-day. A large crowd assembled in front of the house, saluted her respectfully and returned to their homes.

She was attended by two doctors. She was in a state of deep mourning, and when her husband's name was painted on the wall, she was weeping.

Madame Zola's anguish was heartrending. She finally swooned. Her husband's name was painted on the wall of her bedroom to-day.

New Steamers for Dominion Line.

The Liverpool office of the Dominion Steamship Line have officially notified their agents in this country that the splendid big steamer Canada, 3000 tons, has been released by the British government, and will resume her trips from this side (from Halifax) about Dec. 1.

Next summer this steamer will sail from Montreal, giving the many patrons of the line excellent accommodation at low rates. Along with the Canada will sail the steamships Kensington, Southwark and Dominion, making a weekly service to Liverpool. The Boston service of the line has for the last four years been unexcelled, and next year will be finer than ever, the company bringing out their two new 15,000 ton steamers, Columbus and Mayflower, to make a weekly service with the steamers Commonwealth and New England.

Coal in Canada's Northwest.

In spite of shutdowns and lack of cars, one mine at Frank, Alberta, during September, sent out over 1,000 tons of the best steam and coking coal mined in the province. The shut-downs have been caused by want of cars. This mine expects soon to ship 25,000 tons of coal to make it one of the biggest coal properties in the Dominion.

Castings Have Gone Up, Too.

Owing to the advance in price of coke and iron, the price of castings has advanced in price of pig iron, incident to the strike, the local foundrymen have decided to raise their prices on Thursday and decided to advance the price of castings from 1-4c to 1-2c per pound.

The Cecilian

The Perfect Piano Player

Touch, it has been said, is the soul of the piano. The phenomenal success of the Cecilian as a piano player is largely due to perfection in touch.

In a peculiar sense the Cecilian is the instrument of the thorough musician. There is nothing mechanical, hand-organ-like about it. At the same time the Cecilian, with but the slightest attention to its special capabilities, transforms the rendition even of a novice into a more or less artistic result.

—An exhibition of the possibilities of this instrument is invited to these exhibitions.

LOST IN THE WOODS.

John McCortister of Gonor, Man., Missing for Two Days.

Gonor, Man., Oct. 2.—John McCortister, an old miner aged about 80, has been lost in the woods here since the evening of Sept. 30. Search was made for him yesterday, but without avail, no trace whatever having been found. He has now been out two nights, and, being in poor health and very feeble, there is little hope that he will be found alive.

Admiral Mr. Tarte.

Goderich, Oct. 2.—One of the brightest speeches delivered at the banquet tendered Hon. J. Israel Tarte here last night was by Mr. Ramsford of Clinton. In a most emphatic manner Mr. Ramsford declared that he attended the banquet as a Conservative, and as one who sympathized heartily in the policy pronounced by Mr. Tarte. Like every Conservative, he (the speaker) admired Hon. Mr. Tarte for the right and fearless course he had adopted, and what added to his admiration of him was the fact that he was being severely criticized by the Globe, for any man the Globe ever criticized invariably proved a good and valuable man to the country.

Judgments Mitigated.

Dublin, Oct. 2.—The Barr County Court today upheld the term under the Crimes Act Court in the cases of Edmund Haviland-Burke, M.P., and Michael Reddy, M.P., and chairman of the Barr Rural District Council, but reduced Mr. Burke's sentence to one month's imprisonment, and omitted the hard labor in the case of Mr. Reddy.

241 Deaths in 1 Day.

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 2.—There were 241 fresh cases of cholera reported in Egypt yesterday and 241 deaths from that disease. The total since the outbreak, July 15, are 30,658 cases, and 30,988 deaths.
