

NOISE OF PARIS IS CONTRAST TO LONDON'S QUIET

Taxis Dash About Streets at Reckless Pace With Honking Horns - Latin Quarter Changes.

Paris, Nov. 15. - Coming over to Paris, the first thing that one notices is the extraordinary contrast between the amount of noise in the streets here as compared with the quiet of London, where the warning motor horn so rarely needs to be sounded by the careful driver, and the cries of the newspaper boys are the loudest sounds that impinge on the low murmur of life in a big city. In London you grumble at the stately pace at which you are taken to keep a belated appointment by an inconceivable pace, and the Minshi hurries you through the streets at a breakneck pace, and the strident clanging of his motor horn before he comes to a crossing and again in its intact are the only concessions he makes to your safety. The pedestrian gets a free exercise in gymnastics that should rejoice the heart of Captain Hebert, that pioneer of physical culture in France. Long ago the postal motor vans were nicknamed "La mort sans phrases," because of their habit of rushing through the streets like fire engines minus the warning clanging bell. Nowadays the taxis have a royal right to this title, and you certainly waste no time en route if you are in one, and are shivering at the side of the roadway trying to make up your mind to trust to the new red lines that are supposed to typify the chauffeurs into caution. I hear that there are some new taxis to replace those tumble-down old rabbits-hutches that somehow one always looks upon with indulgence, remembering a certain night in 1914 that they still celebrate once a year with a proud little flag, but General Gallieni's improvised army transport, the little red Renault cars, are the only ones I have seen so far.

Latin Quarter Changes. Even the Latin quarter, that so many Canadian artists and students know so well, hasn't been untouched by the Great Post that seems to have attacked nearly every part of Paris. The old restaurants, Germain-Lacine, Henriette's, with its painted walls and air of inaccessibility, and Boude's, where, even in these days of "vie chere," one still has a modest meal at a reasonable price, are all intact, but who can hear unmoved the big sign over the Cafe du Dome announcing a "Changement de proprietaire," or that Hissard has bulled his harassed salespeople for the last time and probably retired to a chateau in the environs on the fortune he must have amassed in selling groceries to thousands of Latin Quarter students these many long years. The old Bal Bullier was re-opened about a year ago and is more popular than ever. In spite of the fact that Rudolph now has to pay six francs to enter himself and four francs fifty for his friends, the place is still the place to hunt for souvenirs to take home for presents.

A. Felice Heroine. The great fire at the Printemps happened before I came over to Paris, but crowds of curious people are still inspecting the ruins and telling each other details of the gruesome scene when so much waxen beauty melted into nothingness. The favorite story is the heroic tale of the little cat who lived in the room and was there with her four kittens when the fire broke out. The team was on the seventh floor and the journey down the seven flights of stairs must have seemed interminable, but the mother cat managed to carry two of the kittens down and then fed back for the other two. By this time the smoke was rolling down the shaft of the staircase and no one ever knew how the second ghastly journey was managed, but the other two kittens arrived in safety and the workers on the ground floor found a badly burnt little cat, who is now receiving the attention she deserves as the purner over the kittens she risked her life to save.

A COSTLY PLAN. Ottawa, Nov. 14.—That $500,000 should be spent on investigation of the physical difficulties of the St. Lawrence deep-waterways and power system before any scheme of construction was decided upon, was urged here this afternoon by Colonel Hugh L. Cooper, engineer of New York, before the International Joint Waterways Commission.

Curiosity Shops. After an absence of nearly a year, Paris seems to me to be more full of old curiosity shops than ever. They must surely do business among themselves, for almost every second shop displays a bewildering collection of bric-a-brac, bibelots, furniture, lace and old brass and copper. Some of them are very new, with dazzling color schemes on their shop fronts, and I notice that the "diner chie" is to write the name of the proprietor without capital letters: tom smith; tout court. One of the most delightful little shops I have discovered is in the short rue de Miromensil, not far from the rue de Fouborg St. Honoré. It has the quaint name of "Perette," from the fable of Lafontaine about Perette and her Port de Lait, and its owner is origin to a group of French women who realized a few years ago that thousands of women of their own class were badly in need of money and had but few facilities for earning any. So they started this delightful little shop, where, on payment of a small yearly subscription, the members of "Perette" may expose the beautiful things they have made for sale or the family heirlooms that would fetch such a "prix d'indigne" from a dealer. The result of a year's work must give deep satisfaction to the energetic organizers, for the "turnover" has been far beyond their expectations and the membership is daily increasing. The shop is fascinating because of the immense variety of things sold there, and it is an ideal

DEFENDANT IN GIRL'S MURDER SENTENCED. Quebec, Nov. 14.—Raoul Binet was acquitted a few days ago on a murder charge in connection with the Blanche Gagneux case, pleaded guilty to perjury in court today and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by Judge Choquette. Binet gave a statement to the police implicating Frederick William Palmer as a principle and himself as a participant in the crime. He later denounced Binet's statement on the witness stand during the trial at which both he and Palmer were acquitted.

POLICEMAN SLAYS BROKER. With Companions Assaults Philadelphia In Auto Tried to Run Him Down. Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—Howard Perkins, a wealthy wool broker, 41 years old, of 5229 Larchwood Avenue, was shot and mortally wounded by John Boyle, a policeman of Haverford township. Perkins died at 10 a. m. in the Bryn Mawr Hospital of a bullet wound in the neck. Boyle, with Albert Shafer, a van driver, and Joseph Lonne, Sergeant of Police, asserted that Perkins tried to run down the policeman at Eagle Road and the Westchester Pike. In the car with Perkins, hysterical from fright, was Mrs. Dorothy Bonnell, 52, of 5109 Walnut Street. She is held at the Oak Mount Station pending further investigation.

"We weren't doing anything wrong," she sobbed to Chief Scanlon, and I don't know what possessed Mr. Perkins to try to run away from the police. I suppose he thought the policemen were holdup men. There was no other reason. The whole affair is like a nightmare." Perkins had been a widower for two years. Two children survive him, Howard A. Perkins, Jr., and Mrs. Dorothy Morrison of 4811 Walnut Street.

Mrs. Bonnell is employed at a downtown department store. She was married two years ago, but her husband left her following domestic troubles nearly a year ago, the police say.

BETTING ON THE WEATHER. Rain Gambling Most Popular in India. The recent interests in the prospects of rainfall might have afforded ample opportunities for a form of gambling known in India as rain-gambling. A few years ago the Calcutta police were busily employed in putting down this sport, which was becoming as general among the inhabitants of the city as backing horses is in this country.

Rain-gambling is most successfully practiced on the flat roofs of high houses. In the dry seasons little business is done, though men work a book in connection with the two or three days' rain generally to be expected in the middle of the cold weather.

The real season for rain-gambling is from the middle of June to the middle of October, the annual rainy season. At the first warning of the approach of the southwest monsoon the proprietors of the gambling establishments get busy, and books are made on the day, hour, and even the minute of the first fall of rain.

The approach of threatening clouds the roofs, where the odds are laid, and will send a crowd of eager gamblers to sometimes thousands of rupees change hands.

JOHN McCORMACK BUYS PAINTING

The Singer Pays $150,000 for "Portrait of a Man"—Now on Its Way to America.

John McCormack has paid $150,000 for the "Portrait of a Man" by Frans Hals, and the picture is now on its way to the United States, after its removal from the collection of Count Maurice Zamoycki, the Polish Ambassador to France. The report of the purchase was printed in The American Art News and confirmed at the Reinhardt Galleries, who acted for Mr. McCormack in the transaction.

Many other great paintings are on their way to this country, and art dealers predict that the present art season will bring back the pre-war days of large deals in framed pictures. The total of paintings bought abroad this year runs into millions of dollars, and it is predicted that the winter months will see many more important sales.

Art dealers here were interested in the report from London that the purchaser of "The Blue Boy" by Gainsborough, was Henry E. Huntington, but Sir Joseph Davenport denied last night that any deal for the picture had been consummated. Sir Joseph repeated that the painting had been bought by Duveen Brothers with no client in mind and that it would not be brought to this country for several months. It is to be exhibited in the National Galleries in London. Another picture bought by the Davenens is "The Tragic Muse" by Sir Joshua Reynolds.

Another important purchase reported this season was that of two Rembrandts for $750,000, for the collection of Joseph Widener. Many other smaller purchases have been reported.

The Hals painting is rated as one of the gems of the Zamoycki art collection, and formerly was in the Blue Palace in Warsaw, which Count Zamoycki turned over to the American government for use as a legation.

"This 'Portrait of a Man' belongs to the latest and most sought-after period of Hals art," said The American Art News, "when the master almost abandoned the use of positive color in favor of a scheme of blacks and whites and flesh color, which offered no impediments to the brilliant rapidity of his execution. As a master of brush work and in the consummate power of his handling the great Dutchman shined second, if second, to Velasquez alone."

"The subject of this picture is an elderly man who is still youthful in spirit. He appears to be a substantial citizen, but abet a man with a sense of humor and a disposition that enabled him to enjoy life. He is represented at three-quarters length, and the fine head, surmounted by a black hat, slightly faces to the right. He has gray whiskers and a moustache. The white flat lace collar makes such a note against the blues and greys of his coat. One hand is gloved, while the other holds the limp glove just taken off."

"The famous Blue Palace in Warsaw, from which the picture comes, derived its name from the color of the metal roof. This roof was removed by the German army of occupation for purposes of war. The palace was built at great speed, by torchlight and by day,

Montreal, Nov. 14.—While an enormous crowd waited in the court of King's bench today to hear sentence imposed on Grace Morera, twenty-three years old, who has been convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of John Rowe, the woman sat in the cells downstairs smoking cigarettes. Judge Monet, however, postponed sentence until tomorrow. Rowe was fatally stabbed during an argument with the woman over a five dollar bill.

"And Man, How I Did Eat Real Food!" LOOKING BACK, now, to those vacation days, there's a lively kind of joy—even in the memory of appetite at camp-fire meals. Real food—and real hunger! That's the year-around relationship between appetite and Grape-Nuts—that crisp and wholesome gift from the great outdoors—the perfected goodness of Nature's best food grains. There's a flavor and charm to Grape-Nuts that appeal to the appetite like the tang of the summer camp, and there's a scientific balance of nutrition and a readiness of digestion that make Grape-Nuts a wonderful aid to health and vigor. "Real food" is the verdict of enthusiastic thousands who find a daily delight in the unique sweetness and crispness of Grape-Nuts, and who "carry on" splendidly with its body-building nourishment. Let the zest of appetite be a companion of your indoor meals, too. Grape-Nuts is sold and served wherever good food is sold and served. "There's a Reason" for Grape-Nuts

IMMEDIATE FUTURE IS NOT ASSURED
Underlying Conditions Still Unsatisfactory — No Unusual Aggressiveness.

(Financial Post.)
It cannot be readily determined at this moment whether such improvement as has been noted in business in recent weeks, has been due to seasonal influences, and is therefore unstable, and subject to further depression and stagnation, or whether it is the definite beginning of a period of better times. Has the business cycle, in its revolutions carried us beyond the period of acute depression which recurs at more or less regular intervals, or are we still submerged in the pit of depression, in which we have been floundering since the turn of the year? The business situation has so far not been characterized by any outstanding aggressiveness, and in fact in many lines the improvement has been rather in sentiment than in actual turnover of commodities. The outlook too is clouded by the fact that underlying conditions are still highly unsatisfactory. There are several distinctive characteristics which invariably appear to denote that the up-turn after a long period of depression in business is under way, or will not be long delayed. When such a condition has been reached there is usually an abundance of loanable funds; security prices have substantially recovered from the bottom, and wages and the price of materials in the building trades are at a low ebb. How far does this situation prevail at the present time? Stock market records indicate that list securities have been showing more strength than in recent months. The improvement has not been general, however, and there is no assurance that reactionary tendencies may not develop. Money is undoubtedly in freer supply, but the loaning institutions are still highly critical of their prospects and clients, and this fact has a tendency to curtail the amount of money in circulation. It is very evident that the peak of supply has not been reached. Wages and prices for building materials too most certainly have not yet reached the low ebb. There have been reductions from the peak it is true, especially in material prices, but the deflation will have to proceed much farther yet before pre-war levels have been reached. The matter of a revision of wages has been more or less neglected in many lines, although many employers are now realizing the necessity of getting production costs down to the lowest scale possible.

In building trades, however, there is yet room for considerable adjustment.
Gradual Upward Movement.
It is quite evident therefore that the fundamental conditions do not favor an immediate resumption of broad-scale trade. It is probable that the improvement noted to date may be maintained with a gradual movement to still larger business, but the offsetting factors will have to be cleared away, before a state of normalcy, and active business, with employment and general contentment and prosperity for all has been reached. It is noticeable that a large part of recent operations has been stimulated by a further reduction in prices, and at the expense of profit. A productive capacity exists far in excess of present needs, which condition tends to make for keen competition and small profits.
Two ordinary large potential markets for Canadian manufactured goods have been practically closed of late as the outcome of unavoidable circumstances. The farmer has borne the brunt of the adjustment situation, and he is in no mood for buying beyond necessities. He has been forced to accept relatively low prices for his goods. The situation in western Canada has been further aggravated by the fact that late September rains, falling on the crop which was yet in-stalk had seriously reduced the grade of the grain, and consequently the farmers' revenue.
Foreign Markets Depressed.
Then again the demand for our goods from foreign markets has been very seriously reduced. This situation is in part due to the financial straits of European countries, but the exchange barrier is primarily responsible for the present dearth of foreign customers. Adjustment of the present situation depends largely upon the exchange situation, and in view of the present chaotic condition of the finances of several European countries there is no immediate prospect of improvement here.

WHERE ALL ARE POOR OR HUNGRY

Baku, Which Has Made Millionaires Overnight, Now Down-at-the-Heel.

Baku, Azerbaijan, Oct. 20.—(By a Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press)—The economic keynote to this city is found in a small shop of the broad Nikol'skaya, a stone's throw from the ancient Palace of the Khans.

Baku has neither bread nor clothes but she still hopes to come back sometime. Thanks to her vast oil wealth, now unproductive in the main, she has for many years been like Pittsburgh, a place where men became millionaires overnight.

Everybody is poor and hungry now, as they have been before, but they live on the gambler's hope. One of the specialties of Baku, with its rough citizens of many races, has been the making of raffles and another may be produced to put out the Soviet and bring back the good old times.

For the present the city wears a down-at-the-heel look. Houses are painted, windows are boarded up for want of paint. The only color of life is produced by flaming Bolshevik posters, illustrating the evils of alcohol and demon rum, capitalism and sundry odds and ends, including the necessity of caring for the teeth.

Baku took up Bolshevism when Moscow left it off and still pretends that it is very, very socialistic and brotherly. The small boys in the streets have taken a liking to the word "lovarish," (comrade) and address passersby with it, even begging a bit of bread or a match.

There are no hotels at all in Baku today. All the buildings and homes have been communised and the stranger is hard put to it to find a place to sleep. The city still has a good supply of artists and singers. Some of them are sent from Moscow which has, through thick and thin, kept faith to the programme that the public should have first-class entertainment.

Strangers meet courtesy and expedition at the office of the minister of foreign affairs. Youth is in control here. The foreign minister is a Tartar, aged 28. The war minister is 20 years old, the minister of industry and commerce, 22 and the president of the parliament of the republic is 24.

When oil is mentioned, the old-timers explode. "There is hardly any oil left here, in one of the world's richest countries," said one engineer. "After the oil properties of the private companies were requisitioned, workmen who didn't know how to read or write, or anything about oil, were put in control, as a committee."

"The Soviet has ruined us and brought us all to starvation. It has ruined the richest wheat section in Russia and now we can't get bread from Samara. If there had been no drought, the famine would have come just the same due to Soviet requisitions of grain that left no seed grain to the peasants."

NO SUCH PERIOD AS QUEEN ANNE

Not in Development of English Literature, Says Dr. C. E. Moyses.

"In the development of English literature there is really no such period as the Queen Anne period, or, as it is sometimes called, the Augustan age," said Dr. C. E. Moyses, at a meeting of the St. James Literary Society, Montreal. This was the first appearance of Dr. Moyses, Hon. President of the Society, since his return from England, and he was greeted with much enthusiasm.

In the course of his lecture on "The Queen Anne Period — its Poets," Dr. Moyses said the eighteenth century was, in general, a century of great achievement in various fields, although Carlyle described it as a "century of quacks." But Carlyle was somewhat inconsistent in reference to that observation because he wrote an eulogious essay on Lord Chatham. But by calling the Queen Anne Period the Augustan Age was naturally putting it into comparison with the age of Augustus, the golden age of literature; but the time of Shakespeare deserves that application far more than the Queen Anne period. However, the time of Augustan kept in close touch with the literature of the time of Augustus, used it and translated it, a thing which the previous age had also done.

The lectures drew attention to the fashionable life of London in those days and the influence it played in the literature of the Queen Anne period. He spoke of the London coffee-houses frequented by the wits of the day, and authors and poets met and discussed and criticized the doings and actions of the prominent men of the day.

SMASHED $30,000 WORTH FURNITURE

Wally Reid Very Strenuous in the Sumptuous Picture "The Affairs of Anatol"—Imperial Turned People Away Last Night.

Securing $30,000 worth of furniture for a single interior setting and then smashing the outfit before the camera produces photoplay realism, but at a well-nigh prohibitive cost. Yet that is what Cecil B. DeMille did in his Paramount production, "The Affairs of Anatol," which is being shown at the Imperial Theatre just now, opening yesterday to tremendous business.

The setting in question serves as a background for a part of the story portrayed by Wallace Reid, Gloria Swanson, Elliott Dexter, Belle Daniels, Wanda Hawley, Theodore Roberts and other all-star players. It is an ultra-luxurious apartment and Howard Higgin, production manager for Cecil B. DeMille productions, was instructed to spare no expense.

The result was an attractive suite—designed by Paul Iribé—furnished with approximately $30,000 worth of furniture. This included a valuable set of Louis XVI chairs, a magnificent carved photograph case of unique design, a hand plane, lamps, mirrors, tables, a desk, lounge, pictures and bric-a-brac.

At the climax of this episode, Wallace Reid was instructed to run the camera smashing everything breakable in the set. The orders were comprehensive and he obeyed them to the letter. Not a stick of furniture remained in its original shape when the vandalism was complete. Using the small picture camera as his blueprint, Reid shattered everything in sight while the camera flicked just out of range of his blows. Mirrors, lamps, chairs, phonograph and pans were demolished one by one. An explosion to the scene, the husky star, lifted the huge overcasted divan and hurled it bodily through the French doors at one end of the set.

In a like manner, the whole production of "The Affairs of Anatol" was lavishly done. The costumes, the house settings, the marvelous cabarets, roof gardens, ballets, etc. The last word in toilet parlors, comfort furniture, negligees and all that sort of thing. It was "ultra" in very truth, so "ultra" that it will take small-town folks years to realize that the real thing as portrayed in this picture luxury. This kind of investiture with such an array of acting talent proved such a lure to picture-lovers that the Imperial was literally jammed with patrons all afternoon and for the both evening shows.

"The Affairs of Anatol" is running again tonight and tomorrow, the third day. It was a foregone conclusion that such a magnificent production should run more than the ordinary life of a picture at the big theatre. To see "Anatol" is to have witnessed the most extravagant tastes of the most prodigal producer in all movieland. It is also to see together in the same story all the really big stars of the Paramount force. It is unique in these regards, the story's bit of picture-tobacco sauce—but it is not naughty.

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Product of Canada

It was known many years ago that yeast is an excellent thing for the many ills that result from disordered stomach or run down blood condition. Lately eminent scientists have been investigating the matter thoroughly and their conclusions point to the fact that the beneficial effect of yeast has not been overrated. The yeast treatment is very simple and economical - and altogether harmless.

Before each meal eat a Royal Yeast Cake, or take a cake dissolved in water or fruit juices. The scientific investigators say that the curative elements in Royal Yeast are the vitamins and nuclein which it contains. It is certainly well worth a fair trial by those who suffer from any of the ailments mentioned above.

FOR IMPROVEMENTS IN EAST ST. JOHN

The East St. John Community Club held a meeting last evening in the Edith Avenue Mission Hall with the president of the club, W. G. Magee, in the chair. The result of the canvass of the vicinity for members was apparent last night when more than 120 visitors were present to investigate the objects of the club. There was a general discussion of the various movements of the club, such as the establishment of a skating rink this winter, the work of improving the roads of that section of the county and the progress of the negotiations regarding the admission of East St. John as a part of the city of St. John.

At the conclusion of the business discussions an interesting address was delivered by A. M. Belding. A short musical programme was then given by Messrs. A. Murphy, J. Simpson, J. Murphy, W. Brindle, and J. Ponges. Following the entertainment refreshments were served by the ladies of the club.

Among the visitors at the meeting last evening were several members of the Little River Community Club, who were the guests of the East St. John Club, and these representatives were invited to attend the meetings regularly.

THE SCHOOL BOARD GETS 100.16 ON THE DEBENTURE SIXES

The school board at its regular meeting last night accepted the tender of Thomas, Armstrong and Bell, Limited, for the $157,000 issue of debentures at six per cent, the tender being the exceptionally high one of 100.16. The architect of the new school, in the North End, which has been named "Lorne," recommended the payment of $9,782.13 above the contract price for the new school in lieu of unexpected excavation expenses due to the soft nature of the soil at one end of the site. This recommendation was referred to the finance committee with power to act. Arrangements were made to have the chairman of the board, Judge McKeown, lay the cornerstone of the new school on Nov. 19 at 2:30 and to send a delegation to the school trustees convention in Fredericton. Reports were received of the recent fire in St. Joseph's school and of the arrangements for carrying on the classes while repairs are made.

An application for a position on the teaching staff was received from Jerry P. Jardine. Applications for the position of janitor were received from Clifford Titus and James F. Mowry.

A letter from the grand secretary of the Masonic order in New Brunswick informed the board that the grand master felt that he could not ask the grand lodge to take part in an outdoor ceremony so late in the season and therefore must decline to officiate at the laying of the cornerstone of the new school in the North End.

The Royal Trust Company, acting for Miss Irene M. Simonds, asked for payment for the property taken by the board as a school site in the North End. On Mr. Lewin's motion it was agreed that all payment of $6,600 should be made to Miss Simonds on receipt of the approved deed.

Neil Brodie's request for $2,000 on account of services as architect to the swan street school was ordered completed with. Mr. Brodie sent an architect's order approving the payment of 782.13 beyond the contract price of the school. This was to cover cost of

Province-Wide Reports Favor Liberal Cause

Dissatisfaction With Meighen Government Reflected in Attitude of Electors

Liberals Everywhere Entering Into the Campaign With Vigor and Enthusiasm—Workers Find Change of Sentiment Strongly Favorable to Liberal Party.

The general condemnation which the Meighen government has earned and the certainty that the electors of New Brunswick will do their part in bringing about a change in the administration at Ottawa are indicated by reports received from all parts of the province. Liberal leaders and workers everywhere are enthusiastic and optimistic and are entering into the campaign with a vigor that leaves the government forces with no room for doubt concerning the seriousness of the battle in which they are engaged.

The majority of the electors appear to have welcomed the return to a straight party fight with the issues clearly defined and changing conditions have all tended to improve the position of the Liberal party.

St. John-Albert.
In St. John-Albert, the Conservative leaders, who at one time were claiming an easy victory, now find themselves facing a stiff fight. The Liberal forces are rapidly completing their organization and are showing a determination to make up in vigor what the campaign will lack in length. Public meetings are being planned for all parts of the constituency and the issues will be presented to the electors by the candidates and other speakers. In St. John and its vicinity the lack of consideration which the port has received from the present government is an issue which is uppermost in the minds of the voters, and it is expected that they will pronounce in an unmistakable manner on the policy which has built up a foreign port at the expense of St. John and Halifax.

The first gun in the Liberal campaign in the constituency of St. John-Albert will be fired on Wednesday evening when the party candidates, Dr. W. P. Broderick and H. R. McLellan, will address a Liberal rally at Hillboro, Albert county. On Thursday evening they will speak at Albert and on Friday evening at Egan. Other speakers, as well as the candidates, will take part in the meetings.

A meeting of the local Liberal executive was held last evening in the Purton building, Charlotte street, when plans were made for an active and vigorous campaign which will be carried on incessantly until the polls close on election day.

Sussex. Nov. 15.—Reports received at the Liberal headquarters for the constituency of Royal show steady gains for the Liberal cause. Throughout the two counties it is accepted that there is to be a change in the government at Ottawa and the people of these counties, apart from the dyed-in-the-wool Conservatives who would vote for any Conservative government or candidate, can see little to be gained by electing a member to sit in opposition. The profound dissatisfaction with the course pursued by the government in many matters, and notably its refusal to take any action to aid in reducing the cost of living, has lost Hon. Mr. Meighen many votes. The Liberal party is well organized and is hard at work in every part of the constituency, and so far with most encouraging success. The party leaders declare that the reports received from many places in the two counties are even more encouraging than they had hoped for and, even discounting the reports somewhat, they believe that the result of the ballot on December 6 will furnish a most pleasant surprise for the Conservative candidate.

Westmorland.
Moncton, Nov. 14.—Prominent Liberals, interviewed tonight, in predicting the election of A. B. Copp, the Liberal candidate in Westmorland county, pointed to many evidences of the popularity of the Liberal cause.

Mr. Copp has already addressed public meetings in various sections of the constituency, and everywhere he has been accorded a splendid reception. Large crowds have gathered to hear Mr. Copp and other Liberal speakers, and much enthusiasm has been shown. The largely attended Liberal rallies are a "striking contrast" to the meetings of his political opponents, said a well informed Liberal.

Recently, when Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King visited Moncton, there was a great popular demonstration. Three thousand of the auditors of the city building were required to accommodate the crowds. The deep interest shown by the audiences and the hearty applause were prominent features. Supporters of the Liberal party point also to the subsequent rallies here addressed by the Liberal candidate and others, these meetings being well attended and very successful. Women electors, too, rallied in large numbers recently in support of the Liberal party when an organization meeting was held in Moncton.

Not only from Moncton, but from other parts of the constituency come encouraging reports for those who desire

The Meighen government must and will be shown that the Maritime Provinces are an important part of the Dominion of Canada. It will take more than a mass of indefinite statistics to convince the people of New Brunswick that this province has received its just due from the hands of the Meighen cabinet.

All Canada rejoices in the prospect of safe, sane and representative parliament, under the leadership of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, and New Brunswick will not be backward in helping to make the victory country-wide.

of St. Stephen, to carry its banner in the coming fight. The United Farmers named David W. Maxwell as their candidate, but he retired from the arena and left the field to Messrs Todd and Grimmer.

This section of the county is strongly Liberal and in the last provincial election returned a majority of approximately 350 for the party candidate, but this gain was offset by the Conservative majority at the other end of the county. While it is conceded that the town of St. Stephen may return a Conservative majority, Mr. Todd is much better and more favorably known throughout the county than is the government candidate, and those in a position to know say that he will undoubtedly pile up a large majority in the rural sections of the constituency. Grand Manan also is strongly Liberal and at recent meetings Mr. Todd received a most enthusiastic reception, indicating of the sentiment prevailing there.

A well known politician was in St. George recently trying to do a little inside work in the interests of the government candidate but his efforts met with but little success. A big Liberal rally is to be held here this week at which the speakers will be Hon. P. J. Veniot and W. F. Todd.

N. S. BOY KILLED WHILE HUNTING

Springhill Mines, N. S., Nov. 14.—John Penny, the fifteen-year-old son of Oliver Penny, was accidentally killed while hunting rabbits today. Penny was using his rifle to brush the snow from the bush when it was discharged, the bullet tearing his face and entering his eye. His boy companion, Malcolm Cummings, ran for help, and his mother arrived at the scene of the tragedy in time to witness the death of her son.

BACK TO THE STREET CARS.

In Des Moines, Iowa, there has been a cessation of street car service for a couple of months by reason of the attitude of the municipality toward the trolley company. Unable to put into effect rates and improvements that it regarded as fair, the trolley company suspended service and Des Moines people have been riding by bus and jitney, or walking. There has now been a compromise and the public again finds the street cars available. The new franchise provides for operation of the one-man car and for a sliding-scale, adjusted to financial requirements, ranging from eight cents a ride down to five cents, with ten tickets for thirty cents, or, in effect, a minimum fare of three cents. The conductors and motormen have voluntarily accepted a reduction in pay of approximately twelve per cent.
