RUSSIA'S PARLIAMENT

GENEVA, May 27.—The police are investigating what appears to be the execution by Russian revolutionary committee of a man named Naldoff, thought to have been a Russian Government spy. Naldoff was shot to death by a comrade whose description is known. He is tall and large and a search of all Russian revolutionary centers in Switzerland has been ordered.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 27.—The committee of the Council of the Empire by a vote of 27 to 24 last night adopted the proposal for the construction of the Amur Railway as passed by the Duma. ST. PETERSBURG, May 27.—The debate in the Duma on the Octoberist Interpellations regarding Finland was closed about midnight. All three resolutions were defeated by overwhelming majorities.

These were on the subjects of the advisability of uniting the administrative activity of Finland and Russia by making the Finnish secretary of State a member of the Russian Cabinet, under the authority of the Premier, dealing with the railroads of Finland and Russia and with the activity of the so called "Voima," a Finnish military society which it was alleged was engaged in preparing the duchy of Finland for revolt.

TWO REMARKABLE CHILD ACTORS.

In support of Thomas Jefferson, who is to appear at the Opera House on June 2nd and 3rd, in "Rip Van Winkle" is the youngest actress on the American stage. It is the little Miss Edna May Hamel, who plays the part of little "Mamma." She is only four years and a half old, yet she plays a part which in length would puzzle the oldest actress, and is one of the principals in support of Mr. Jefferson. Another remarkable child player is Master Oscar Johnson, who is three years older. He assumes the character of little "Hendrick" and together they form one of the taking features of the performance. The pretty little juvenile actors are under the constant care of their mothers who travel with them. Their appearance at the Opera House is sure to be a source of delight to the younger generation of theatregoers, most of whom have never seen the grand old classic, "Rip Van Winkle."

SAY SMUGGLED CHINESE WERE MAILED IN BOXES

NEW YORK, May 27.—Under orders from Immigration Commissioner Sargent, agents of the immigration bureau today investigated a report that twelve Chinamen who were smuggled into this country over the Mexican border, mailed tightly in boxes and shipped from El Paso, Texas, to New York, were dead when they reached this city. Rumors concerning the death of the Chinese were circulated in El Paso where Fung Wing, the interpreter for the immigration inspector heard a story that a telegram had been received there from a New York Chinaman, stating that twelve boxes containing the Chinese had been received, but that the men were dead. When this information reached Commissioner Sargent he put Charles L. Babcock, a secret service officer and Harry R. Sigson, the inspector in charge of Chinese department of the bureau of immigration in New York to work on the case, although the commissioner said he did not regard the story seriously. Quong Lee Yuen, a Chinese merchant of this city, said that he had telegraphed to Quong Dong, a Chinaman in Paso concerning some Chinese in transit, but had received no reply.

A GREAT STRIKE ENDED.

The great shipbuilding strike in Britain has very fortunately been brought to an end by the sensible decision of the men in favor of accepting the offer made by the employers. Why, under appalling conditions, the workmen ever allowed themselves to be locked out, is a mystery. The average wage earned in the great yards was fifty shillings per week, and owing to the scarcity of orders the builders decided on a reduction of eighteen pence per week. That could not have been of serious moment to any of the men, but on the principle that reductions are dangerous, the majority decided to oppose it. On the Clyde the cautious Scotchmen agreed to accept the cut, but in spite of this they suffered by the lockout ordered a few weeks ago. The trouble has existed since last December, and while only about 24,000 men have been idle, many thousands of others whose employment depends to a large extent on the prosperity of the shipyards have been affected. Had the reduction in wages been an attempt on the part of great corporations to secure larger profits because of sheer greediness, the dissatisfied workmen would have had general sympathy, but conditions in the shipbuilding business have been such that the cut has been regarded as very moderate. Times have never in the past forty years been so bad as at present. On the Clyde during the month of January there were launched a steam yacht, two tugs and several barges. In February and March there was some improvement, but the total output was not half what it was in the corresponding quarter of the previous year, nor a third of what is usually built in an active season. Reports of similar depression come from the other Scottish centres, Leith, Dundee and Aberdeen, and in England it has been just as bad. Hull, Barrow and Birkenhead have all suffered, and there is no indication that any immediate improvement will occur. Early in the year there is usually a rush of orders before the slack time comes in July and August. Yet during last month the shipping tonnage under construction was half a million less than in April of last year, and the orders were not much more than fifty per cent. There was also a reduction in the naval tonnage. Under these circumstances the men have decided to accept the slight reduction. They would have been wise in accepting it last December.

ANIMALS AND CHILDREN.

The quarterly meeting of the S. P. C. A. was held yesterday. There are some interesting figures in the report of the secretary, which, however, do not tell the whole truth about conditions in St. John. Mr. Wetmore says that during the three months one hundred and eighty horses were relieved from suffering by the action of the S. P. C. A.; that one hundred and thirty-seven cattle and seventeen other animals were found to be overworked, neglected, or otherwise permitted to suffer. Yet in the same three months only one child in all St. John was ill-treated and one other child neglected. There were two women who did not receive proper care. Evidently the officers of the S. P. C. A. are inclined to the opinion that the last letter in the name of the society is of the greatest importance. Animals, according to this should receive first attention while children are only a side line. It is true that the S. P. C. A. was not originally established as a Child Welfare Protective Association but there is room for a good deal of work in this line and if the secretary could find time he would make next quarter's report very different from what the last one has been. There are hundreds of little ones in St. John who are not clothed nor fed and who would be very glad to hear from him.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian church now in session at Kansas City finds that only one hundred and seventeen students out of four million communicants are preparing for the ministry when at least twice that number should be available every year. In all Canada the theological students enrolled in Presbyterian colleges number two hundred and ninety, of whom forty-nine will graduate this year. What shall we do for the churches that are crying. This is a very simple plan. Make the ministers feel that they are not merely suffered to live through charity, but that in return for their work they may earn sufficient to provide homes for themselves and families.

The west side for the C. P. R. is a fair division. And some day soon those who smile at Mr. Flinn's optimistic prophecies will be making plans for the construction of freight sheds from the Marsh Bridge to Coldbrook, with the Marsh Creek as a waterway to bring ocean steamers alongside the railway tracks.

Nova Scotians will be particularly interested in the marriage of Miss Laura Robinson, daughter of Rear Admiral Robinson, of Philadelphia, and Mr. C. F. Burr, of Taunton, Mass. This young couple announce that they have planned to take their wedding trip through the wilds of Canada, meaning thereby, as they state, Nova Scotia. It was in the desert wastes of that province that they first met.

MOTHERHOOD.

The night throbs on, O, let me pray, dear lad! Crush of life same a moment from my mouth. To these my eyes would turn, but they go back. To my arm beside me, where he lay. So little, Lord, so little and so warm! I cannot think that Thou hadst need of him! He was so little, Lord, he cannot sing. He cannot praise Thee; all his life had learned. Wait to hold fast my kisses in the night. Give him to me—he is not happy there! He had not felt this life; his lovely eyes Just knew me for his mother, and he died. Hast Thou an angel there to mother him? I say he loves me best—if he forgets. If Thou allow it that my child forgets And runs not out to meet me when I come.

What are my curses to thee? Thou hast heard. The curse of Abel's mother, and since then We have not ceased to threaten at thy throne. To threaten and pray thee that thou hold them still. In memory of us.

See Thou tend him well. Thou God of all the mothers. If he lack One of his kisses—ah, my heart, my heart. Do angels kiss in heaven? Give him my back!

Forgive me, Lord, but I am sick with grief, And tired of tears and cold to comfort. Thou art wise I know, and tender, save. Thou hast my child, and he is safe in Thee. And I believe— Ah! God, my child shall go Orphaned among the angels. All alone. So little and alone! He knows not Thee. He only knows his mother—give him back. —Josephine Dodge Daskam, in Scribner's Magazine.

THE CRUELTY OF CALMNESS.

Senator Tillman, at a banquet in Washington, said, in a humorous defence of outspoken and frank methods: "These people who always keep calm fill me with mistrust. I suspect. He who wears under abuse an angelic smile is apt to be a hypocrite. "And old South Carolina doesn't once said to me with a chuckle: "'Keep yo' tempa, son. Don't yo' quarrel with no angry person. A soft answer can always subvert a quarrel. An' furthermo', hit makes 'em maddah'n anything else yo' could say.'"

BRILLIANT STATE BALL AT BUCKINGHAM

President Fallieres and French Guests Entertained Last Night by King Edward at Magnificent Function

LONDON, May 26.—At Buckingham Palace tonight a great state ball was given in honor of M. Fallieres, the president of the French republic. This was the culminating feature of a busy day of entertainment spent by King Edward's guests. Everywhere the French president has gone he has been greeted with the greatest enthusiasm, and early in the evening immense crowds gathered about the various royal residences to witness the processions to the palace and to cheer the president of France.

The scene within the walls of Buckingham was one of exceptional brilliancy. The royal guests assembled in the throne room, and a fanfare of trumpets heralded their entry to the ball-room, which was superbly decorated with flowers. King Edward and Queen Alexandra, accompanied by M. Fallieres and the royal entourage, passed down the entire length of the room between rows of bowing guests. By the king's command the ladies' gowns were all of soft shades of color, most of them being fashioned after the Directoire and Empire periods. All of the embassies were well represented, and many high Indian officials were present. There was a great display of jewels and orders.

The queen alone wore a crown and jewels valued to be worth $5,000,000, while the Duchesses of Buccleuch, Roxburghe, Westminster and Wellington, and Lady Dudley wore magnificent jewels. The Dorchester house party present included American Ambassador and Mrs. Reid. M. Fallieres' visit to England is proving so vastly attractive and popular to Londoners that much attention is being devoted to the comments of the French and Austrian newspapers on the probability of advantage being taken of the occasion to develop the entente into a formal treaty of alliance. Four parlors already have commenced for a commercial treaty and should they be successful no doubt the idea of a stronger tie would be warmly welcomed. The newspapers here are discussing the question with lively interest.

NEW LINE THROUGH ROCKIES WILL REDUCE THE GRADE.

Difficult Engineering Task Will be Completed This Year.

EDMONTON, May 26.—The railway enterprise of which so much is now being heard in the West, is not being confined entirely to the new construction work across the northern plains. Extensive operations are also being carried on in connection with the betterment schemes on existing lines in the country. The doubling through the mountains. The doubling of the Canadian Pacific between Fort William and Winnipeg and the construction of the mammoth bridge at Lethbridge, are the two largest single enterprises east of the Rockies; but a third piece of work is now under way in the heart of the mountains, that bids fair to rival anything in the way of railway engineering that has hitherto been done on the continent. This is the reduction of the grade on the Hector-Field division of the Kicking Horse Pass. The present grade at this point on the Transcontinental route is the most difficult on the entire road, and passengers to and from the coast are familiar with the long hard haul up the mountain on the eastward trip. When the road was built a fairly straight course was taken through the mountain route. With, however, a grade of 4.5 per cent, it represents a heavy haul. It is being replaced by a more gradual, and entirely satisfactory, requiring, as it does three and four engines to bring each train over the summit. That there have been remarkably few accidents on this steep grade is testimony of the carelessness with which the mountain is operated, but it nevertheless represents an expense in operation which the company have long been endeavoring to reduce. An extensive and difficult piece of engineering has therefore been undertaken, and the success of these methods are to be judged by the unstinted praise of the faithful workers, combined with a practical monopoly of high-class positions. This judgment is backed up by the condemnation of the few lay and indifferent people who are bound to stray in. To every thoughtful person all classes are consciously and unconsciously endorsing this school's work. "You are sure of a position here," has become a byword. The advanced methods and new ideas of this school, for pushing students to the front has yet to be duplicated in Canada, and the success of these methods are to be judged by the unstinted praise of the faithful workers, combined with a practical monopoly of high-class positions. This judgment is backed up by the condemnation of the few lay and indifferent people who are bound to stray in. To every thoughtful person all classes are consciously and unconsciously endorsing this school's work.

POPULARITY. In every section of the city the Currier Business University Ltd., leads as a popular institution, for the reason that every section contains such a large number of its successful students. Success is contagious. Every faithful student prides just as every indifferent or lazy pupil condemns its sharp methods of compelling them to hustle. "You are sure of a position here," has become a byword.

CRIMINALS WEIGH LESS THAN MORAL MEN because they're lighter-fingered. "She has no friends to speak of." "Good heavens! What does she talk about?"

Midsummer days are the longest in the year because heat expands. Cracked eggs are sold in soldiers' canteens at reduced prices, and, as Tommy Atkins is not a man of means, there is fairly good demand for these damaged articles. One day a Scotman walked into the canteen and asked for two pennorth of cracked eggs. "We've got none," said the steward. "A weel," said the Scot, "ye might just crack us a few then."

COMPLETED THIS YEAR. The tunnels are now being bored at the rate of forty feet daily, through alluvial sandstone. At the same time a road-bed is being constructed through the valley and along the crest of the mountain. The project is of special interest from an engineering standpoint, it assumes as it is the only undertaking of the kind in the world, except in the Simplon tunnel under the Alps between Switzerland and Italy.

JAPANESE AT WORK. A number of other smaller projects for reducing the grade and straightening the road are also under way through the Rockies, and the Canadian Pacific is in places practically re-making itself. Since the days when the road was first built, it has been necessary to make several shifts, in order to overcome the danger from snow-slides and freshets, but now that all dangers of this kind have been effectively guarded against, the present changes are simply with a view to improving the road, and giving it an easier route. At ten or twelve miles.

MOUNT STEPHEN'S GIFTS TO KING EDWARD HOSPITAL. LONDON, May 27.—Lord Mount Stephen, formerly late president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, who had formerly donated $200,000 to the King Edward Hospital Fund, has now further donated 5,000 shares of the Great Northern Railway of the United States, to the same fund. In a letter to the Prince of Wales notifying him of the gift, Lord Mount Stephen expresses the hope that should the finance committee decide to change any of the securities in which his contributions already are invested, it would not be tempted to reinvest the money in what is called "Trustee Securities."

CAPTURE SAFE CRACKERS IN DOVER, MAINE

DOVER, Me., May 26.—The two men arrested at Millington yesterday brought here today on suspicion of being burglars who blew the safe in the Canadian Pacific railway station at Greenville Junction, but failed to secure the contents, were assigned before Judge Smith in the lower court late today and bound over to the supreme court in the sum of $1,000. Being unable to furnish bail, they were committed to Dover jail.

Although they entered a formal plea of not guilty the officer says they practically admitted their guilt. Three revolvers were taken from the men, also cigars. One of the revolvers was stolen from the American Express office and the store of the Arthur Crafts Company at Greenville Junction. After the prisoners had been locked up, Sheriff Knowles thought he would make a more thorough search and as a result took from one of the couple, who gave his name as Frank Brown, of Lincoln, a fully loaded revolver. Brown is about 20. His companion's name and residence were given as Clarence Alward, of Washington state. They had $50 in money. The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff B. E. Kimball, who had been notified they were from the train. No resistance was made.

OLD MAN FATALLY INJURED

Struck by Automobile While Walking Along Street.

BROOKFIELD, Mass., May 26.—Henry Mathewson, aged 81 years, a

MEMORIES OF THE WORLD FAMOUS GREINA GREEN.

"For we shall be in Greina Town Before the morning light." Greina Green! Lives there a man whose pulse does not beat quicker at the very sight of these words and at the romantic memories they revive? What visions they conjure up of old-time chases, drawn by galloping, foam-flecked horses, rattling through sleeping villages, racing over wild moorland wastes, up hill and down dale, to the crack of the whip and postboys, the sweet and fearful maiden inside the chaise resting in the strong arms of her lover, with heart and ears strained to catch the dreaded sound of pursuing hoots, while her gallant whispers words of love and courage; of swiftly following horses ridden by irate fathers and baffled rivals, straining madly and (let us hope) vainly to gain the starting post, and of that final consummation when the words which make the runaway lovers one for life are spoken by the rude "parson" in fabled Greina Green village.

How the blood throbs in these unromantic days, at such stirring memories, and how one watches in fancy the wild race for the altar, hoping desperately that a providential highwayman, a loose shoe or any other timely disaster will cheat the pursuers of their quarry.

What odd, romantic characters were these priests who, for so many years, did Cupid such good service in the little village across the border? Two of them stand out with special prominence. One of these self-appointed opposites of Cupid, a cocked hat and gown by name, who made a brave appearance at the nuptial ceremony in full regimentals, and with sword by his side, ready to defend his patrons if necessary at the cost of his life.

But the most remarkable of them all was Joseph Paisley, a man who had spent his unregenerate days as a freer booter, and who was soberly when it was necessary to attend a funeral. More than once this bibulous "priest" succeeded in marrying a couple, and when, on one such occasion, the mistake was pointed out to him, quite calmly he merely biccoughed, "Ay, jest sort yersels," and thus simply the mistake was adjusted.

ROMANTIC IDEAS.

More amusing is the story told of Lord Erskine and his runaway match with Sarah Buck, his housekeeper, who had captured his aged heart, possibly through the medium of a less sentimental organ, for the lady was cunning in culinary arts. As his lordship's family naturally refused to smile on this oddly-assorted union, he conceived the romantic idea of carrying off his would-be bride across the border, a journey which, it is said, he accomplished in woman's attire. In the company of the housekeeper, but of her four children.

"When I first saw them," says a man who was present when the heavily-laden chaise stopped at Greina, "I took the elderly lady for the mother of the children and the learned lord for the grandmother, until the sight of a waistcoat button visible between the folds of a neckerchief betrayed the sex of the venerable lady." The ceremony was performed in the parlor of the Queen's Head Inn, and at its conclusion the Lord Erskine pocketed the handsome and uncommon fee of $100.

Twelve months the groom had so far from the ex-Scottish chaise, and he remanent that he tried to get the marriage declared void, but the knot had been so securely fastened that the Court of Law could untie it, and for four years more, until death released him, he had to make the best of his ill-advised bargain.

But all runaway bridegrooms were not in a position to be as lavish as Lord Erskine. A story is told of one of them, a wealthy clergyman's son, who after being united to a poor governess, was so penniless that he and his bride were kept for four months by a benevolent landlady of the Greina Inn, until a remittance arrived.

A copy of a Greina Green marriage certificate which lies before the writer, and which is a singularly romantic story of the days when our grandfathers were young or still uncradled. This document, which is impossibly old, is headed by the Royal Arms and the words "Kingdom of Scotland, County of Dunbarton, Parish of Greina, in the diocese of the Church of England, and solemnly married at Greina, in the County of Dunbarton, Prince of Capua, and Penelope Caroline Smith of the parish of Temple Michael, County Waterford, were married after the manner of the laws of the Church of England, and agreeably to the laws of Scotland."

PRINCE'S INFATUATION.

Precisely who Miss Smith, the heroine of this matrimonial venture, does not appear to be known; but the probability is that she was a daughter of a middle-class Devonshire family. That she was young and radiantly lovely is certain, when, at Naples, Charles Ferdinand, Prince of the Sicilies and of Capua, and brother of the King of Naples, first saw and promptly fell head over ears in love with her. It was one of those mad, unreasoning infatuations to which Erskine is as likely to fall victims as peasants; and in spite of royal rank and threats nothing would satisfy the impetuous Prince, but an immediate marriage, followed by a precipitate flight to Spain, of which country the bridegroom's sister was Queen Regent. To the lovers' diemny Her Majesty refused even to see the runaways although to appease her, they were started on their travels—this time to Paris, where the foolish young couple were persuaded that nothing short of a marriage at Greina Green would legalize their union and restore the Prince to his rightful place in society; and so, off they farel, as fast as chaises, and lost could take them, to the distant lover Mecca, where Pareson Lynton, innkeeper and ex-butler, made them one for the third time.

GREINA GREEN TRAGEDY.

Joseph, was according to all accounts, a man who denoted tactful treatment, for his temper was as brutal as his arm was strong. He could, says Mr. Alexander, "beat down" any man with his arm, and straighten a cold horse-shoe with his hands; while, it is said, in fits of anger, he would tear a man's hair out of the blood from the finger-tips of those who had offended him.

It was Paisley who officiated at the very first recorded elopement-marriage at Greina Green, which, through a tragic incident, has become the story of the world to the hitherto-unknown Scottish village and made it the Mecca of runaway lovers. The bride and groom, had eloped with pretty Jean Scott, and to evade the pursuit of angry relatives, left the high road and crossed the Solway by boat. The pursuers, as ill-luck would have it, tracked them to the Solway and also took a boat; a violent storm, however, wrecked the boat, and one of its occupants was drowned, at the very time when Paisley was pronouncing the words which made Jean Mrs. Edgar. And thus in tragedy was cradled the romance of Greina Green.

Of all the runaway matches which found their happy consummation at Greina few were more romantic than that of Miss Child, the wealthy banker's heiress, and the gallant and gay Lord Westmorland. In vain did the young lord plead his suit to the bank, and describe to dear ears the advantages of the proposed alliance. "Four blood, my lord, is good," was "Old Child's" gruff, uncompromising answer; "but money is better."

Miss Child, however, had a different opinion. The Earl had stolen her heart and all the gold in the world could not buy it back. And that it was to pass that one night the heiress crept stealthily out of her father's house at Osterley, to her waiting lover's arms, and in a few minutes a chaise drawn by four swift horses was racing towards the distant north. How the hearse, which had been had down, followed in hot pursuit and by lavish rewards to the postboys gradually gained on the runaway pair, at last he came up with them while changing horses half-way between Carlisle and Penrith; and here, after a desperate and resource, extricated himself from the dilemma by shooting one of the angry father's horses. Then, a story which thrilling as it is, is perhaps too well remembered to need re-telling.

CLEVER REUSE.

A much less-known story is that of Edward Gibbon Wakefield, in latter years the famous New Zealand statesman, and Miss Ellen Turner, a north country belle. At the time of this romantic episode Wakefield was a widower of thirty. He was a man of good education and engaging manners, who, after losing his first wife, (with whom by the way he had eloped) had been leading a Bohemian life on the Continent. While in Paris he first heard from an English lady of a very beautiful school-girl of her acquaintance, the only daughter of a wealthy Cheshire landowner; and the story her charms and her prospective riches so inflamed him that he determined at any cost to make her his wife.

For a number of weeks a few weeks in the neighborhood of the girl, and discovered all that was possible about her and her family. Then he was presented himself at the landowner's boardinghouse, at which the heiress was a pupil, with a letter purporting to come from her father, and in his handwriting skilfully forged, stating that he was seriously ill, and begging his daughter to come to him as quickly as possible under his friend, the parson's escort.

The parson succeeded admirably. The girl's tears and the stranger's plausibility quickly overcame the schoolmistress's scruples and the heiress was allowed to depart with her charming, if unknown escort. When the chaise

PASTOR SEES "SHOW" DRIVEN FROM BOARD

Camden Man Skips Prayer Meeting for "The Christian"—Is Punished.

PITTSBURG, May 26.—For going to see a theatrical performance on Wednesday evening instead of going to prayer meeting, the Rev. Dr. J. P. Clark, a Methodist Protestant clergyman, of Camden, N. J., was unceremoniously ousted today from a place on the board of ministerial education by the Methodist Protestant General Conference, which is in session in this city.

There was an awful furore over the matter, and when the allegation was made against the Camden minister he refused to make a recital. When it came time to re-elect the members of the board tonight and the name of Dr. Clark was offered for re-election, the Rev. Dr. T. J. Ogburn made the accusation.

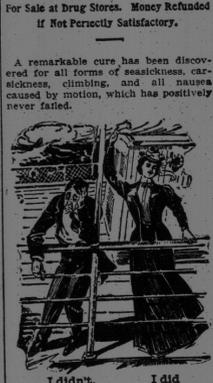

Dr. Clark had a chance to defend himself. The only thing he could do was to admit it was true. The play for which he neglected the members of the board tonight and the name of Dr. Clark was offered for re-election, the Rev. Dr. T. J. Ogburn made the accusation.

Seasickness Positively Cured

A Wonderful, Harmless Cure For All Forms of Sea and Car Sickness.

For Sale at Drug Stores. Money Refunded if Not Perfectly Satisfactory.

A remarkable cure has been discovered for all forms of seasickness, car-sickness, climbing, and all nausea by motion, which has positively never failed.

I didn't. I did. Take Mother's Seaside Remedy that positively never fails.

To prove that this remedy is harmless and that it can never produce any bad after effects, an analysis was made by Milton L. Hersey, M. Sc., Chemist for the City of Montreal, and Analyst of the Province of Quebec, who has analyzed a sample of "Mother's Seaside Remedy," purchased by me in the open market in the City of Montreal, and my tests have failed to detect the presence of opium, morphine, cocaine, or any other alkaloid or chloral whatever.

A party of 500 delegates to the International Sunday School Association convention, who went to Rome, Italy, had a supply of this remedy on hand, and not a single delegate was affected with seasickness.

This discovery at last disposes of the prejudice so many people have entertained against the use of medicines as a preventive for seasickness.

Mother's Seaside Remedy is sold in 50c and $1.00 boxes at druggists. If your druggist has not got it in stock, send us the name and address today to the following: 119 Cleveland Bldg., Detroit, Mich., for interesting information and testimonials from many who have used this wonderful remedy.

Happy Half Hour

Large crowds were present at the Happy Half Hour yesterday and nothing but expressions of approval were heard. Today a new programme of four pictures will be shown. The Persuasion is a comedy. The Last Pocketbook is a dramatic picture of the medieval age. The costumes and scenery are true to history and are very interesting. The photographic detail is excellent, and it makes a very pretty dramatic love story. Many people no doubt would like to visit Naples, but it is expensive to do so. However, those who are fond of travel views will have a chance to see the Lido and Customs of Naples. This will prove to be a very interesting picture, showing as it does many street scenes, toy and doll factories, street dancers, and a moonlight scene in which the sons of sunny Italy show the proper way to eat macaroni. AMATEUR NIGHT ON WEST SIDE.

Last Wednesday evening the West Side mark for another night was reached in the Palace Theatre, West End, and such a fine bill was presented that it has been the talk of the city. This evening a large number will undoubtedly attend from the city, and a record attendance is expected in the big City Hall, the three-story building devoted to moving pictures, in the city. This evening the programme to be offered is still better, and besides twelve amateurs will include a comic sketch by Fairbanks, Harrison and Moffat. These three artists compare favorably with any entertainers ever heard in the city, and in themselves are well worth the price of admission. Four new motion pictures and an illustrated song by Miss Moffat goes to make up the best programme ever offered in any picture house in this city for any price.

LUMBER LADEN SCHOONERS COLLIDE OFF SEAGONSET

NEWPORT, May 26.—A collision between two three-masted lumber-laden schooners four or five miles south of Seagonsset was reported here today by the fishing agent, S. S. S. According to the story told by the fishermen, they saw two schooners lying near each other in the thick fog this morning with their flying jibbooms and a large part of their headgear gone. The fog was too thick to find out the names of the vessels or to learn how seriously they were damaged, but it was believed that both were at work making temporary repairs to their headgear as if they were injured below the waterline. One of the schooners appeared to be new and apparently from a Nova Scotian port.

WEDDING AT THE CEDAR

The programme tonight at the Cedar Theatre is an excellent one and contains subjects and themes of all classes. The dramatic class is well represented by one very high class picture entitled, The Gambling Demon. This picture is of an unusual style and has been pronounced as being of a very pathetic and stirring situation. The comedy element is again to the fore and the picture entitled 'I'm Mourning for the Lowly Cane,' and A Comedy of Errors, promises to provoke roars of laughter. The illustrated song, Dolly Dear, sung by Mr. Plamondon, is still making a hit. Barrett and Glenmore, the vaudeville team, will be seen in their big class picture entitled, The Gambling Demon. THE STAR, ST JOHN, N. B. WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1908

The Back Number.

B. TEMPLE BAILEY.

When the boys came back to college, Catherine Newlands displayed rejuvenated charms.

Catherine felt their admiration with a thrill of gratification. For ten years she had basked in the delight of making that first impression on the new boys, and it was like a draught of old wine to a tippler.

Now then in her triumphant progress a junior or a senior stopped her and greeted her with frank friendliness. That was one of the advantages of an affair with Catherine Newlands.

For Catherine would have none of them. She liked to bask in the sunlight of their admiration, she liked to be the queen of the junior promenade, she liked the violet and the blue pennants and the crowd of eager boys surrounding her at the football game.

"Dear old boy," she said, as they walked toward the great gate that led out into the city street, "it's good to have you back."

"Don't call me old boy," he flung out with a touch of irritation. "Heaven knows I am old—but you needn't rub it in."

"You're just right," she told him, and then she saw eyes swept the scene—the sunlight squares, the old buildings that seemed to breathe a benediction over the boys, the boys themselves of the best college type, the strong young animals, ready for the training that should make men of them—she exclaimed:

"Because you are the one woman. And I know you better than you yourself. Some day this will put on you."

They had reached Lamson Hall, and he was forced to leave her. As she made her way slowly back across the campus her eyes were thoughtful, but her ears were sharpened to hear the comments of the new boys.

"Who is she?" came an eager question. "Catherine Newlands." "She's a beauty!"

"I interrupted him. 'I shan't change' she said disparagingly, 'but I should like to see that stuffy little missy little class-room of yours—and tell you—'

MULAI HAFID, THE MOOR PRETENDER, WILL BE SULTAN.

French Opinion Is He Will Force Present Ruler to Retire.

PARIS, May 26.—Considerable anxiety, not to say dismay, reigns in the Foreign Office as well as in other circles, over the problem which Mulai Hafid is creating in Morocco.

It is a foregone conclusion that after taking the Moroccan capital of Fez importance he will ultimately succeed in taking Fez itself, forcing the French government then it not before to declare its attitude toward the successor of Abdel Aziz.

Will France recognize him? That is the question which is asked everywhere here, though for months the events in Morocco had excited but the feeblest interest outside of official quarters.

Directly concerned it was openly asserted in the newspapers and in the official information that the exact state of affairs in Morocco had not been permitted to reach Paris from the French agents, who have allowed it to be supposed that the power of the Sultan of Fez was crushed and that Abdel Aziz was sure to gain the victory.

Such a thing as Hafid's actually entering Fez was never seriously considered in Paris.

Nevertheless, although at present there is no intention to recognize Mulai Hafid, a large number and perhaps the majority of the public mind, believe that if he enters Fez France will be upon him as Sultan.

His representatives have been received officially by the German foreign office after the German government had notified the powers of their intention on its part, and they have remained in Paris in dignified silence until they have become a thorn in the government's side.

If they were once received here officially they would disappear.

Moreover, according to their chief representative, Khalid Schmi Ben Alina, it is only a question of a few days when his master will enter triumphantly into Tangier.

He may be there in a few days, he said, "France gets her Morocco news late. Two days ago I announced Mulai Hafid's arrival in Fez, but the news had been known several days before. It is only a question of time when he shall choose to take Tangier as well as all other coast towns. Europeans must get ready to see this happen."

The Khalid added that he is an enlightened man of letters and friendly towards Europe. He has only one idea and that is to uplift his country. The cowardice of Abdel Aziz has made him the laughing stock of the world, the new Sultan will do nothing but to cooperate with France until Morocco shall be pacified. It is for this reason that his representatives have come to Paris.

DECREASE IN THE AMOUNT OF LIQUOR CONSUMED IN CANADA

OTTAWA, May 26.—Whether because of the growth of the prohibition movement in Canada or the present financial stringency, advocates of temperance may regard as significant the fact that the returns of the Inland Revenue Department for the past six months show a decrease in the amount of liquor consumed in Canada.

The decrease in the production and consumption of liquor may, of course, be only temporary, but it is significant that it has taken place, despite a time of rapid growth in the population.

NEVADA BABY CHOKED TO DEATH BY A PILL

Brave Little Boy Took the Pill, But It Lodged in His Throat. RENO, Nev., May 25.—Little Tommy Wagon, of Sparks, was choked to death by a pill given him upon the advice of the family physician.

The brave little boy took the pill, swallowed it and then took a glass of water from his father. "There, it's down," he said, and smiled.

Almost as he spoke he began to choke and could not breathe. His parents did everything they could to get the pill out, which had lodged in his windpipe, and hastened to call Dr. Asher, but before the physician reached him the child choked to death.

A PAINFUL ACCIDENT

TODAY AT YORK POINT

Timber Falls on Capt. McIntyre, Breaking His Leg—Taken to the Hospital.

While handling some heavy piling this morning a heavy stick fell on the leg of Capt. Newton McIntyre, breaking his leg. Some piling which was being prepared for the Dominion Coal Co's wharf, was placed on the York Point wharf, and McIntyre, with a couple of other men, was getting it ready for use. One of the pieces, which was curved at one end, was propped up to have the butt sawed off. McIntyre was stepping over the timber and dislodged its balance. The heavy timber fell on him, causing a serious fracture of his leg. The ambulance was summoned and he was conveyed to the hospital. Mr. McIntyre is over sixty years old, and at his age the injury is likely to be a serious matter to him. He was formerly skipper of a schooner running from this port, but has been working on shore for some years.

THE PRIZE PACKAGE SALE

Unclaimed Express Parcels Sold by Auction This Forenoon.

From 10:20 o'clock until 12:30 Auctioneer F. L. Potts sold hundreds of packages at his warehouse, Germain street. The packages were unclaimed goods from the American Express office and with a few exceptions the bidders could only guess on what they were purchasing. Some struck excellent money for something that was of little or no value.

All kinds of articles were found in the pile of unclaimed goods and ranged from a sailor's bag of clothes to a pair of snow shoes. There was a large crowd of men and a few women at the sale; there were many funny things said and the crowd was happy.

Once a long package was opened and a teamster felt sure that it was a fine lot of whips. He bid it up to $1.25 and got it. The package instead of containing whips had a young tree, which has small chances of growing. A large trunk containing wearing apparel brought $3.50. The genuine surprises will be had this afternoon when the many parcels are opened by the auctioneer.

FIXING THE BOUNDARY AT CAMPOBELLO

Canadian and United States Engineers at Work

Settling the Exact Location—A Boom Time Coming on the Islands.

Engineers from Ottawa and Washington have for the past few days been engaged in the vicinity of Campobello in fixing the boundary line between New Brunswick and Maine or rather the extension of it from the coast line outward. The prospect of the increasing importance of Campobello owing to the interest taken in this and other islands by a number of United States capitalists has led the State departments of the two countries to this action. What has been regarded all along as the boundary there is only provisional and Mr. J. B. Challias, of Ottawa, has been sent down to work with an engineer from Washington. The boundary following the St. Croix River takes a devious course through the channel beyond Eastport. There is no dispute between the two countries as to its exact location but there is a desire to have it accurately fixed in order that there may be no trouble later over fishing rights. Some time ago Mr. H. Morton Merriman, of Boston, interested a number of other capitalists in a summer resort scheme and having taken over the charter of an company he reorganized the Campobello Corporations Limited. This company has bought out about nine-tenths of Campobello Island and in the interests of tourist trade. The company will also go in for fishing on a rather extensive scale and will in the near future operate all the hotels on the island. The old Owen House will be open for the summer but the other large hotels will not be started until next year.

A Number of Civil Suits Ended Today—More Talk of the Parker Case.

The regular sitting of the county court was resumed this morning, Judge Wells presiding.

Previous to the taking up of the case of Hazelwood vs. Cowan, on demurrer yesterday and the sentence of the escaped prisoners, the civil business was disposed of.

In the case of Dunbrack vs. J. H. Pullin, damages were assessed at $120.00. In the case of Pringle vs. Price, damages were assessed at $50.00.

In the case of Walker vs. Gleason, damages were assessed at $204.70 and in the second case of Walker vs. Gleason, damages were assessed at $103.25.

In the demurrer case of Hazelwood vs. Cowan the defendant, J. E. Cowan, took exception to the plaintiff's declaration on the ground that it was bad in point of law. The words "money lent" were left out of the writ of summons. In his writ the plaintiff claimed $165 with interest since April 1st. After hearing the argument Judge Wells decided that the declaration was good and on application of Mr. Cowan a stay of proceedings were granted pending an appeal from the decision of Judge Wells to the Supreme court.

The case itself will not be tried until after the summer appeal is decided. Mr. Hazelwood was a client of Mr. Cowan's, he having retained him as a solicitor of accident he met with in Carleton. The plaintiff claims that Mr. Cowan did not pay over to him sufficient amount of the money obtained by him of damages and Mr. Cowan alleges that it was per agreement.

His Honor thought the escaped prisoners in John O'Brien was the first called on, and His Honor told him that he could find nothing good in his record and after giving him some good advice sentenced him to two years in Dorchester penitentiary. The same term of confinement was given to John Cook and Wm. Morris. William Smith the young negro, who was recommended by the jury for money, fared better and was given but two months in jail. Yesterday Wm. J. Parker was discharged by the grand jury after the case of The King vs. W. J. Parker had been considered by the grand jury and no bill was returned. Mr. E. S. Ritchie this morning stated to the court that he did not consider that justice had been meted out in the matter as he had ascertained that the defendant had been called before the grand jury and had given evidence in his own behalf. He also called the attention of the court to the fact that the chief witness in the way of conversation had not given evidence. His Honor said that if Solicitor General McLeod had deemed it wise to call the prisoner before the grand jury he was not so sure that he could not do it. Mr. Ritchie contended that it was not British justice to adopt such a procedure and it had never been done before. Mr. J. King Kelly represented the defendant at the preliminary examination.
