Sir Philip Watts and the constructional staff at the Admiralty are now engaged in evolving a type of battle ship which will mark an immense advancement on the present Dreadnoughts.

GIRL TYPEWRITER
AUTHOR OF PLAY

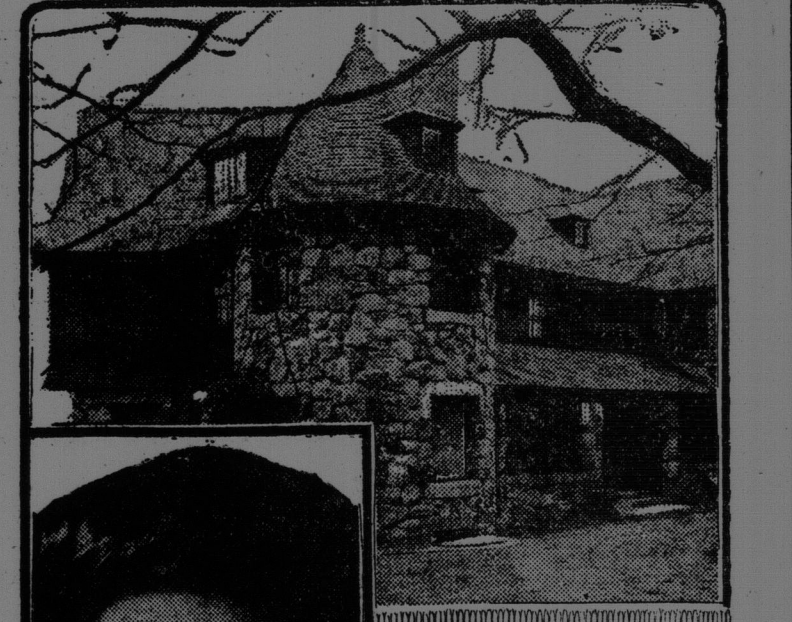

Writes Four-Act Piece, Which Critics Speak of in Laudable Terms.

LONDON, May 1—At any rate, a remarkable evening is sure to be in store for the audience at the Court Theatre Sunday, when the ever-energetic Play Actors will introduce an extremely challenging play by a new, young and interesting author. This is Miss Elizabeth Baker, a typist, who, though little more than a girl, and without either dramatic or literary connections or stage experience, has thus had her first attempt at a full-blown four-act play launched upon the world by one of the keenest and most competent of all dramatic societies.
A charming, modest, quiet, sensible, unassuming girl, Miss Baker lives with her parents in a simple suburban home, at Bedford Park, going to the city each day to earn her living. She assured a reporter who called upon her yesterday evening that nothing was further from her wish than to force herself into public notice. About the play, which is called "Chains," she naturally did not wish to boast until the first night's verdict had been given.
Every one, however, who has seen it speaks of it in the most enthusiastic terms. It was accepted by the Play Actors immediately upon submission and it is said to be particularly remarkable for its naturalness, its apparently complete absence of stage artifice, and yet unfailing interest. It seems, said a prominent member of the society, just as if it were a real London life, set down without any straining after the sensational, but with quite amazing cleverness and insight, and with an unobdurate and inevitable message.
It tells, in point of fact, the story of a rebellion against the humdrum of suburban existence. A typical city clerk suddenly becomes seized with this spirit of rebellion against the dull routine. He wishes to emigrate—anywhere, anywhere out of the suburban world. But his wife and family want him to stay where he is. He stays. That is all—a tragedy of the humdrum.
In talking over the purpose of the play, Miss Baker confessed that it was, as has been guessed, a plain tale of the actual life that she saw around her. "It seems to me," said she, "that rebellion against the humdrum is not the sole privilege of the artistic temperament. Surely quite ordinary people feel it in quite ordinary suburban homes. My play is partly a plea that it should be expected and sympathized with."
As to the writing of "Chains," Miss Baker added that she had written straight from her heart, without worrying about any "technical devices." Indeed, beyond a few visits to the pit, she had had, she said, very little knowledge of the theater at all. From her childhood, however, she had written "little things." She had once tried her hand at a one-act trifle, but this was her first big play. As it happened, neither her father nor mother nor any of her family cared much about the stage.

STORK'S COMING TO MAKE PRINCESS ALICE HAPPIER

MRS. NICHOLAS LONGWORTH.

WASHINGTON, May 3—They do say that Princess Alice, that is, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, has been engaged for some time in a course in domestic science, which includes the making of certain wonderful mysterious little fluff lace garments that go to make up a layette. The course also includes numerous other matters pertaining to the proper bringing up of a juvenile Nick or Alice, and is being imparted by all the wise old dowagers in her wide circle of friends and acquaintances.
And they also say that Mrs. Alice expects the visit of the stork, before many weeks. At any rate, caretakers of the Nicholas Longworth summer home, not far from President Tat's new summer home, at Beverly, Mass., have received orders to open up the house and get in readiness for the coming of Mrs. Alice, who will arrive there early in June.
The house is beautifully situated and contains a cash payment for goods delivered to an out of town party, took as security a cow, which is now being kept in a barn and stable, and some fun is expected before the matter is settled.
Speaking about the case last night, Mr. Friers said that Lane did not get into him as much as the others and that his loss does not amount to much. It is stated that Lane left the city Wednesday night on an east-bound train and is thought to be working his way through Nova Scotia or Cape Breton.
The local police are aware of the matter and claim that the salesman has been in trouble before.
Lane is said to have a wife and family residing in the city.

TRAVELLING CIGAR MAN WORKED SMOOTH GAME

A smart and very energetic cigar salesman who is said to travel under the alias of Sammy Lane, in the city and through the out of town districts, has been successful in securing a large number of orders. He carried a large variety of cigar samples, and for the past few months worked up a rather large business in the city and through the out of town districts. He sold goods for Mr. Friers and others on the commission basis, and being a good talker he managed to place a large number of orders. He was most generous with his customers, and made collections, and these collections, which amounted to upwards of $300, have not been handed in to the cigar merchants who filed the orders sent in by the travelling salesman.

JOHN MARSH WINS DERBY

John Marsh, a Winnipeg runner, won the Canadian Marathon derby at the Island Saturday afternoon, finishing one and three quarters laps ahead of Abbie Wood of the Montreal Harriers. Selton and Marsh set the early pace, but the Winnipegger was too fast and Selton dropped out in the seventeenth mile.
Marsh's time for the distance was two hours, thirty-nine minutes and forty-seven seconds. The distance was supposed to be twenty-six miles, three hundred and forty-six yards, but the track was little short of that.

AMUSEMENTS.

GREAT MARATHON RACE AT THE NICKEL TODAY.

This is the day the Nickel presents its great feature-film, The $10,000 Marathon Derby at New York, in which event St. Yves Longboat, Shrub, Dorando, Haynes and Maloney competed. The first showing of the picture will be made shortly after the noon hour to accommodate those who can spare a little time of their lunch hour and will be shown each half hour afterwards until 1:20 and then again at 7 and so on. The same arrangements on Tuesday. It will be necessary to be early at the evening sessions and to witness this great sporting event in New York, but the Nickel patrons will be enabled to watch it for the same minimum amount. Every particular phase of the race is shown in the long film and despite the inclement weather of the racing day the pictures are bright and clear. Of course the Nickel will have its usual length of programme, the additional pictures being Larry, The Limit of Develity, What the Tots Saw at the North Pole, and an excellent song by Miss Edwards.

GREAT VAUDEVILLE TREAT.

The vaudeville attraction this week at the Princess is Pritrow and Blanchard, who will present what is reported to be one of the best acts ever shown at this house. This act consists of character singing, yodeling and comedy. Mr. Pritrow has the honor of being the writer of many of the popular songs among them "Take Back Your Gold," "Just For Old Times Sake," and many others. Miss Blanchard is a comedienne of rare merit. Taken as a whole this act will be the finest we have ever had. Pritrow and Blanchard offer their engagement this afternoon and will continue to appear both afternoon and evening for the balance of the week. Three thousand feet of new pictures and a new illustrated song, makes the longest and best programme in the city. If possible attend the matinee and avoid rushes in the evening.

THE GALOPPE DANC AT THE "STAR".

Tonight at the Star Theatre in North End one of the most successful pictures of the month will be shown. It is Cohen at Coney Island, in which hilarious film the famous Galoppe Dance is introduced. This is the most of a side-splitting burlesque and will in no wise shock the ladies. Cohen's Dream is another funny number. The dramatic pictures are: His Ward's Love, The Vendetta, and two shorter numbers. Miss Miss Colyer will conclude her engagement this week with several new ballads. Next week the old favorite, Frank Austin, will be heard.

OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN WAS TALKING IN PHILADELPHIA ABOUT THE SUCCESS THAT HE HAD WITH OPERA.

"And yet, at first," he said, "success came very slowly — as slowly as the trains on that southern line — you know, I think. It doesn't come. I was waiting for the train; it was three hours late. I was indignant. "After a while, however, the agent sauntered out of the office and lighted a cigar.

"LOOK HERE," I said, "won't that train be along soon?"

"Ah, yes," he said, "she'll soon be here now. Here comes the conductor's bag."

DR. GOULD'S LECTURE
MOST INTERESTING
Tells of Terrible Corruption of Civil and Military Authorities of Turkey

Dr. Gould's address to men at St. John (Stone) church yesterday afternoon was attended by over 400. It was an impressive gathering and the speaker was listened to with rapt attention. Dr. Gould spoke forcibly upon the Interior Economy of the Turkish Empire and the Ottoman Government in particular, and as a person who is familiar with affairs in all circles. He spoke with emphasis upon corruption in official departments and compared the two religions—the Mohammedan and Christian—and the effect it had on the state. As an instance he told that European powers had to have their own post offices, as the Turks could not be trusted. He pointed out the terrible corruption of both civil and military authorities and upon the degrading lives of the Turkish women.

He also spoke upon the many changes in the church by removals.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 2.—The commonsense morning sitting tomorrow and with both sides of the House prepared to expedite the rest of the business of the session it is hoped that prorogation will be reached in a fortnight's time.

On Tuesday the opposition intend to bring up the question of Hon. Dr. Pugsley's connection with the New Brunswick Central Railway referred to in the report of the Landry royal commission. The government will bring down in a few days some supplementary estimates totalling a small amount and consisting of the main items in connection with departmental administration when the main estimates were prepared. Largely Signed Petition
T. C. Robbette of Toronto was in Ottawa yesterday to present to the Minister of Justice a largely signed petition praying for the release of New Kingston penitentiary of Joseph Phillips, the ex-manager of the York County Loan Company, who has served two years of his five years' term of imprisonment. Mr. Robbette also asked for executive clemency in the case of Blythe, the Agincourt railway man, under sentence to be hanged this month for the murder of his wife last fall.

It was urged that Blythe did not intend to kill his wife and a reduction of sentence from capital punishment to imprisonment for manslaughter will be asked for. Hon. Justice has promised consideration in both cases.

Word was received in the capital last night announcing arrival in Victoria yesterday of W. L. MacKenzie King, M. P., from China, where he has been for the past two months and is attending the international conference for the suppression of the opium traffic and investigating the question of oriental immigration to Canada.

COMPANY TO CARRY COAL
Syndicate Formed to Place Steamers in Coastal Trade

HALIFAX, N. S., May 2.—Embracing the opportunity afforded by the withdrawal from the Canadian coasting trade of all foreign steamers of under fifteen hundred tons, which takes place on July 1st, a syndicate has been formed in Sydney to go into coal carrying trade. One steamer has already been purchased and the acquisition of a number of others this year is being considered. For the present they will confine themselves to smaller steamers, but it is expected that a few years all foreign steamers should be barred from Canadian coasts they hope to be in a position to carry all Nova Scotia's coal in Nova Scotia ships.

They have purchased a steamer of twelve hundred tons register in Britain. She will be in Canadian waters about the middle of June.

MR. ROSS ABOUT TO BECOME A BENEDICT
In celebration of his approaching marriage, a number of friends of Henry R. Ross, manager of the New Brunswick Cold Storage Company, gave a banquet in his honor at the Golf Club Saturday night. J. H. McCarty presided at the head of a prettily decorated table laden with an unusually tall bill of fare. Lt. Col. Wedderburn occupied the vice chair. Good fare, good cheer, good music and good fellowship joined to make an evening of hearty enjoyment.

The toast to the guest of the evening was eloquently proposed by M. W. Doherty of Sussex, and Mr. Ross during his modest and fitting response received an ovation cordially attesting to his great personal popularity. The other toasts honored were The King; The President of the United States, requested by T. E. Ryder; The Ladies, the respondent naturally being Alderman Baxter; and The Press, which was answered by Mr. McCready of The Telegraph and Mr. Crandall of The Sun. Songs by Mr. Hurrell and P. C. Gatus concluded grandly to the pleasure of the evening.

QUEEN OF THE MAY--1904.

FLYING MACHINES AND INTERNATIONAL FRONTIERS

(By Major F. S. Baden-Powell in National Review.)

Hitherto international frontiers have been fixed by natural divisions of land and water, such as the sea coast or river bank, or else, when such do not exist, by artificial fences or clearly defined strips of ground. Such lines of demarcation are not easily crossed by those who wish to do so unseen and without interruption. But in the air it is different. Here no natural boundaries exist, nor can artificial obstructions be erected so as to be insurmountable by airships.

We are then called upon to answer a most vital question. Are aeroplanes to be allowed to traverse these frontiers without let or hindrance, or must they descend at frontier stations to report themselves? If the former, many laws and regulations now in force would be affected. Those regarding passports, alien immigration, and the like would be seriously upset, and the chance of heavy penalties for non-compliance with them might form a sufficient deterrent. But a far more important matter is that of the collection of Customs. Even supposing it were not practicable to convey large cargoes of goods, and there is no good reason why this should not be done some day, still it would undoubtedly be possible to carry parcels of 100 lbs. or so. If such an amount can be taken through the air free of duty, it would manifestly have to be allowed equally to land travellers. Considering, too, the rapidity and ease with which machines are likely to travel, they could be employed continually going to and fro over the frontier and so transporting large quantities of dutiable goods.

Either Customs must be entirely done away with (except possibly such as coal or corn), or we are faced with the second alternative, that is, that all aerial vessels must descend at the Customs houses to declare their cargo. Though in the ordinary way it might be possible to enforce this by the imposition of severe penalties on anyone detected in evading it, yet so great would be the opportunities for smuggling, especially in the dark or

REFORMATORY BOYS
REVOLT AND MURDER
Kill Two Warden and Compel Others to Supply Them With Wine and Tobacco.

PARIS, May 1.—Eighty boys of the penitentiary school at Gallion, near Rozen, broke into open revolt yesterday, and after half killing two jailers and smashing everything they could lay hands on, helped sixteen of their number to escape. Seven of these were captured, but nine are still at liberty.

There are 120 boys of age varying from 14 to 19 in the penitentiary. At lunch time twelve of the twenty-four jailers went off duty, and the boys made a sudden attack on the remainder. They pulled down a piece of wall and pelted the jailers with bricks. The twelve men shouted for help, but when the others came back the lads were too many for them.

The director of the penitentiary telephoned for soldiers, but only ten men were sent, and the lads drove them off

GUESSING A FACTOR IN PLAYING POKER

One Who Has Had Experience Says Science and Luck are Not the Whole Thing.

When Science Called for Laying Down Four Kings the Holder Wisely Gessed Again.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 23.—"I noticed," said the man with a past, "that somebody has been guessing whether draw poker is a game of science or luck. The answer he got was the proper and obvious one—that it was a mixture of the two.

"For myself, however, and," he continued with a reminiscent smile, "I have played some poker in different places and with different sorts of men, and I should be inclined to think that there was a third element of success involved. It may be a little difficult to give a name to a single word, but perhaps, guesswork would come as near as anything. I mean the faculty or knack of divining the operations of the other fellow's mind.

"There are many situations in poker in which the very extreme possible exercise of skill or science will dictate a certain line of play or in which the success of that play will seemingly depend altogether on the player's luck, and yet a shrewd guess will dictate the exact opposite, and the really shrewd guesser will win out. Probably the best way to explain what I mean is to give an illustration from the game itself, as I have actually seen it played; for it is a fact that I saw once a situation in which a particularly clever guesser settled the ownership of a pot of over $1,000.

"I reckon a majority of the poker players in this country at least know the famous story of the man who laid down four aces without calling his opponent, because he knew that he was better than he would have been if he knew the story understands fully the line of reasoning of which Mr. Goodplayer laid down his hand.

A FIGURED RIGHT.

"You remember, probably, how the circumstances were told in the story—how A opened the jack pot on four aces pat in a five handed game, how C and D passed and E came in without raising. Then A, being first in the draw, stood pat and B took one card, whereupon A reasoned that E must be drawing to a straight flush.

"He felt certain that if B had two or better he would have raised before the draw, seeing that there was nobody to frighten out by raising, but as he did not raise he must be drawing to a four straight, a four flush or a four straight flush.

"Knowing as he did that E was a shrewd player, A knew that he would not stay against a single antagonist with only a four straight or a four flush, but that he would be justified in staying on a four straight flush, since the chance of improving was about 1 to 3, and he was getting 2 to 17 in the betting, as A had opened for the size of the pot.

"So far the story is absolutely correct from a scientific standpoint, and I have seen it followed in actual play, but with four aces, it is true, but once with four queens and once with four nines.

"Then, the story goes on, A threw in a white chip and E pushed his whole pile forward, whereupon A folded, the theory being that he knew E was probably true in a somewhat modified form, of some of them. It commands the interest of every poker player on earth the first time he hears it, and when his attention is called to the successive steps of the reasoning which induces the holder of four aces to lay down, he is filled with admiration for what looks like an exceptionally brilliant play. It looks like a signal triumph of science over luck.

"Yet I once saw a game in which a situation almost precisely like that in the story was met in a totally different way, and I was not only compelled to acknowledge the brilliancy of the play, but I was led to the conclusion that shrewd guessing is sometimes a potent factor in the game as either science or luck.

"The doctor, the lawyer, the editor, the lieutenant and myself used to play regularly every week for two or three years, and we came to know one another's play thoroughly well and to have a profound respect for one another's ability.

"I need hardly say that we were all familiar with the four-aces story. We had discussed it more than once, and had agreed, as poker players generally do agree, that it was probably the best example of skill that could be cited in all the annals of poker.

"But one night it happened that the editor opened a jackpot under the guns for the size of it. The lieutenant, the lawyer and I all dropped, and the doctor, who had dealt, came in after a little hesitation. As we thought of it afterward, his very hesitations was an indication to the editor.

EDITOR STANDS PAT.

"Then the editor stood pat, and the doctor took one card, so of course we all recognized the fact that he was drawing in a straight flush—and mind you there was no possibility of suspecting any crooked play in that party. None of us, of course, had any means by which to judge what the editor's pat hand was, but we all thought of the famous story, thought not suspecting that he really held four.

HAD A HARD TIME OF IT

Six Workmen Were Marooned

STRANGE EXPERIENCE

Forty-Eight Hours Spent in Casino on Ocean End of Pier

OLD ORCHARD, Me., May 2.—The six workmen who have been marooned in the Casino on the ocean end of the Old Orchard pier since Friday morning were taken ashore in row boats today after nearly 48 hours of troubled existence in the frail structure while it was shaken under the buffeting of a heavy gale. Although tired, nervous and perhaps, guesswork would come as near as anything, I mean the faculty or knack of divining the operations of the other fellow's mind.

"There are many situations in poker in which the very extreme possible exercise of skill or science will dictate a certain line of play or in which the success of that play will seemingly depend altogether on the player's luck, and yet a shrewd guess will dictate the exact opposite, and the really shrewd guesser will win out. Probably the best way to explain what I mean is to give an illustration from the game itself, as I have actually seen it played; for it is a fact that I saw once a situation in which a particularly clever guesser settled the ownership of a pot of over $1,000.

"I reckon a majority of the poker players in this country at least know the famous story of the man who laid down four aces without calling his opponent, because he knew that he was better than he would have been if he knew the story understands fully the line of reasoning of which Mr. Goodplayer laid down his hand.

A FIGURED RIGHT.

"You remember, probably, how the circumstances were told in the story—how A opened the jack pot on four aces pat in a five handed game, how C and D passed and E came in without raising. Then A, being first in the draw, stood pat and B took one card, whereupon A reasoned that E must be drawing to a straight flush.

"He felt certain that if B had two or better he would have raised before the draw, seeing that there was nobody to frighten out by raising, but as he did not raise he must be drawing to a four straight, a four flush or a four straight flush.

"Knowing as he did that E was a shrewd player, A knew that he would not stay against a single antagonist with only a four straight or a four flush, but that he would be justified in staying on a four straight flush, since the chance of improving was about 1 to 3, and he was getting 2 to 17 in the betting, as A had opened for the size of the pot.

"So far the story is absolutely correct from a scientific standpoint, and I have seen it followed in actual play, but with four aces, it is true, but once with four queens and once with four nines.

"Then, the story goes on, A threw in a white chip and E pushed his whole pile forward, whereupon A folded, the theory being that he knew E was probably true in a somewhat modified form, of some of them. It commands the interest of every poker player on earth the first time he hears it, and when his attention is called to the successive steps of the reasoning which induces the holder of four aces to lay down, he is filled with admiration for what looks like an exceptionally brilliant play. It looks like a signal triumph of science over luck.

"Yet I once saw a game in which a situation almost precisely like that in the story was met in a totally different way, and I was not only compelled to acknowledge the brilliancy of the play, but I was led to the conclusion that shrewd guessing is sometimes a potent factor in the game as either science or luck.

"The doctor, the lawyer, the editor, the lieutenant and myself used to play regularly every week for two or three years, and we came to know one another's play thoroughly well and to have a profound respect for one another's ability.

"I need hardly say that we were all familiar with the four-aces story. We had discussed it more than once, and had agreed, as poker players generally do agree, that it was probably the best example of skill that could be cited in all the annals of poker.

"But one night it happened that the editor opened a jackpot under the guns for the size of it. The lieutenant, the lawyer and I all dropped, and the doctor, who had dealt, came in after a little hesitation. As we thought of it afterward, his very hesitations was an indication to the editor.

EDITOR STANDS PAT.

"Then the editor stood pat, and the doctor took one card, so of course we all recognized the fact that he was drawing in a straight flush—and mind you there was no possibility of suspecting any crooked play in that party. None of us, of course, had any means by which to judge what the editor's pat hand was, but we all thought of the famous story, thought not suspecting that he really held four.

"He threw in a white chip carelessly, and the doctor, after looking over his hand, perhaps a shade too carelessly, raised him $5. We were playing fairly, raised him $5. We were playing

THE STAR, ST. JOHN N. B. MONDAY, MAY 3 1909

MONSTROUS INQUISITIONS OF THE SULTAN OF TURKEY

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 1.—Guarded by forty soldiers and thirty policemen, Nedib Pasha is conveyed daily in a bullet-proof carriage to the place where he is on trial for his life...

VICTIMS TESTIFY AGAINST HIM

Day after day Nedib's victims—those of them who have managed to survive his tortures—have appeared to testify against him, scared, crippled and prematurely aged...

Another kind of torture, almost as simple and as atrocious as the preceding, consists in the application of hot eggs, taken from boiling water, under the arm pits...

This form of torture was applied to the eunuch Mustafa Aga, who was called to Mecca about two years ago for having divulged the secrets of the Yildiz to the English ambassador.

Executions are rare inside the palace. Women and eunuchs are sometimes, it is true, put to death over the imperial cloak, but, as a rule, a person on whom the Sultan has decided to inflict capital punishment is first quietly done away with in order to make sure that his victim has really gone to a better world...

Among the dozens of people who were tortured by Nedib Pasha was an Armenian called Eghia Kavedjian, an employee in the American Bible House office at Stamboul. Mr. Kavedjian told the court that one night 11 members of the secret police arrested him and brought him to Yildiz, where he was immediately led to the torture chamber...

When he came to himself he tried to make him confess, but as he had nothing to confess, they beat and whipped him again until he fainted. When he came to his senses the second time his fingers were broken, his hands swollen, his body covered with blood and bruises.

For a dozen days after this he was allowed to rest. Then he was again brought before the Pasha, who said to him: "Have you no pity on your wife and child? Listen to me! I swear to you on the head of the Sultan Abdul Hamid that if you confess I'll give you instantly two hundred pounds and an important post."

The prisoner said that he knew nothing and could not, therefore, confess, whereupon the Pasha burst into a violent rage and struck Kavedjian in the face, saying to him the same time: "Don't you know that the Emperor Nero had men devoured by lions? Now, I'll treat you in the same way if you don't confess."

After having undergone other tortures, Kavedjian was finally confined in a fortress, where he remained until the proclamation of the Constitution. About the fate of Nedib, there seemed to be some doubt. Nedib himself declared that the man had committed suicide, but his accusers asserted that he had died under torture. A witness called Simon told a ghastly story of how, on the night of September 17, Nedib's body was carried to the Armenian cemetery at Pera, Constantinople, by agents of the palace.

Major Farak Bey, formerly aide-de-camp to the Sultan, told a soldierly story which carried conviction with it. When the bomb burst he was standing in front of the mosque and, as a result of the explosion, his sword was torn from his side, and he received many wounds. He tried to say, suspicion fell on him, and when he had recovered he found that a spy had denounced him to the Sultan.

He was, therefore, arrested and brought before the commission, where he was shown the sword which he had lost and asked if it were his. The major explained how he had come to lose his weapon, whereupon he was set free. But a few days after his house was suddenly surrounded by the palace police, and he was again conducted to Yildiz, where he remained for three months a prisoner in the house occupied by the Sultan's aide-de-camp.

One night he heard frightful cries and blows in the building opposite, and "horrible," as he says himself, "by these screams of anguish, I left my room and went to a distant part of the park so as not to hear them. I afterward questioned the servants, and they told me that the screams proceeded from the room where the commission was conducting its inquiries. That is all I know."

The crime for the perpetration of which Nedib Pasha instituted the inquisition which has brought him to the court, was that he had been in part, and so successfully that a full report of the evidence given before the court is in a position to state that it was far more frightful than most of them.

It was about four years ago that it happened. The Sultan was on his way from Yildiz to the mosque every Friday. He was just emerging from the mosque when a terrific explosion took place a few hundred yards off, at a point which he would have had to pass on his way back to the palace, and which was occupied by the charges of the foreign diplomats and the Turkish Pashas and other functionaries which had come to attend the ceremony. The matter was so far hurried up that during a previous visit to Constantinople the present writer found it very difficult to get anything like an exhaustive account of it, but now, naturally, nothing is kept back, and if the evidence given before the court is true, this solitary bomb outrage of the Turkish revolutionists surpasses any exploit of the kind which the Russian dynamites have ever accomplished.

For instance, one of the greatest bomb explosions of modern times in Russia was that which took place two years ago in St. Stolypin's villa on Apolloniev Island, St. Petersburg, but only thirty people lost their lives on that occasion, while, according to the declaration of Nedib Pasha before the court in Stamboul yesterday, 70 officers and soldiers were killed by the Yildiz bomb, though that part was kept back from the public.

THE TERRIBLE TASK OF ABDUL HAMID

DRIVEN FROM SULTANATE AND PALACE, HOUSE HUNTING IS THE NEXT FEARFUL THING HE'S UP AGAINST.

FOOD AND FIN FOR 2800 CLERKS

The strange death the other day of George Spencer Millett, an office boy of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, who was fatally stabbed by falling upon an ink eraser as he fled from a laughing band of girl employees who threatened to kiss him, called attention to the army of clerks, bookkeepers and other officials.

C. Mohr, who is the commissary in charge, made public the other day some of the details of his computations. "We use," said he, "about four hundred pounds of meat daily, and about twenty-four bushels of potatoes each day, and of canned vegetables we serve 120 gallons daily. Mr. Mohr added that the bakers who prepare the delicacies for the hungry pen-pushers use four barrels of flour, 130 gallons of lard, 100 pounds of butter, 100 pounds of sugar, and 100 pounds of mince-meat daily. Fifty-four pounds of coffee and 100 pounds of tea are used and more than three thousand cups of coffee and tea are consumed by the thirty bookkeepers and dining rooms together, 175 pounds of sugar are used daily, and the consumption of butter amounts to 100 pounds of butter, or about 100 pounds, a day. Fourteen cans, or 500 quarts, of milk are used in the bakery and dining room together, in addition to fifteen quarts of cream. On "fat days" about eight hundred pounds are consumed.

"Why," exclaimed one statistician, "see here! Suppose we clerks, men and women, eat three slices of bread each, that is a fair average. Suppose each of those slices is half an inch thick. Most of them are thicker, but we will say half an inch. Now, if the slices eaten in one day were piled one on top of the other, they would make a pile 350 feet high, and the supply of cut slices for two days would make a pile that would extend 700 feet into the air, or from the street level to the top of the tower."

SIXTY-THREE WAITERS HUSTLE. Sixty-three girl waiters are kept hustling each day and the total number of pieces of china in use in the dining room is 21,988. Or the total number of 2,870 clerks, heads of departments, dining-room and kitchen employees who are fed each noon, 1,000 are men and are rest are women. It is only for about two months now that the big Metropolitan restaurant has been conducted on its present plan.

For a long time the insurance company has maintained a restaurant, but on November 24 only about seven hundred or eight hundred persons could be accommodated. Under the old plan at the time of Nedib himself.

As the Second Division of the Guard was in such a state of excitement that it was with the greatest difficulty that their officers were able to prevent them from looting Constantinople and murdering every Christian they met.

"On that occasion," said Nedib Pasha, "I saved the lives of at least 90,000 people. For just across the corridor is the spacious dance hall, with its piano and its alluring 'Fum-tum-tum' girls there is not all that crowd of girls that alluring call, so while their less fortunate men comrades stroll idly about the corridors, smoking cigars and waiting for the end of the moon recess, the girls, fresh from the dinner table, gaily trip the light fantastic toe.

"Oh, yes, it is good exercise, no doubt," commented one rosy-cheeked youth, "but that's just it. It is simply exercise, don't you see? A dance without the boys—well, that is—I mean to say that a dance without gentlemen partners seems so awfully funny, don't you think so?"

"The same sentiment is heartily endorsed by the 'boys'—that is, by the 'gentlemen clerks' lined up in the corridors outside, sullenly pulling at their collars.

"Perhaps it is funny—blamed funny," growled one of them the other day; "but it may be funny from some points of view, but it certainly isn't from others. Why, here we men are about one thousand strong, and yet there isn't a man jack of us dare venture behind those green barbed doors," and he indicated the entrance to the big convention hall in which the girls were dancing.

"Why, if you had been here the other noon you'd have thought there was a riot on foot," he continued. "You see, there's an automatic lock on those doors, and it's very strong, locked the doors up tight as a drum, with the girls inside. Every man here developed into a locksmith quicker than it takes to tell it, and the way those fellows crowded into that doorway made it look for a minute as if nothing but a call for the reserves would do. And then, after all the fuss, we fellows were shown the way, and the janitor drew the job of unlocking the doors. How's that for hard luck?"

At 1:10 o'clock the eating, the dancing and smoking programme is all gone through again, when the elevator begins to arrive, and the master and second battalion of hungry clerks and stenographers. The half-hour between the departure of the first section of the hungry throng and the arrival of the second is utilized by the dining room workers to clear the tables and put them in order again.

FISHING SEASON OPENED IN ROCKWOOD ON SATURDAY. Saturday the boat house at Rockwood Park was opened to the public for the first time this season. The day, however, proved too inclement for the parks patrons and practically no fishing was done. The equipment is the same as last year—thirty-two boats in all.

Frank White, of the White Company, stated last night that the schedule of fishing rates was in process of revision and that in all probability a general reduction would be announced shortly. The prospect of good fishing is reported as being excellent and a quantity of large ones will probably be taken out of the lake this year.

The attractions proper are to be opened at Rockwood May 24th, when the season is expected to be in full swing. The personnel of the staff will remain practically as last year. Negotiations are still pending with the Street Railway in the matter of Standby Park. It is anticipated that the White Company will take over the attraction and that with the addition of new features the popular resort will be more than usually well attended.

Skin Diseases.

A diseased or disfigured skin will always leave its stamp on the mind of the individual. Many people suffering from disfiguring skin diseases avoid society and lose all pride in their personal appearance.

When the skin breaks out in eruptions and sores it is due entirely to an impure condition of the blood.

In all such cases Burdock Blood Bitters will quickly purify the blood and drive all the impurities out of the system.

Mr. J. J. Magee, of Irvington, N. B., writes: "I was troubled with a skin that broke out all over me. It was the worst on my face and head, had a dry, scaly top, and when I would go out it would become very itchy. I tried the doctor's medicine but it did me no good, so I then got one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and before it was all used the blood was entirely gone."

Mr. Harvey Park, of House, Gold River, N. S., writes: "I was generally troubled with sores on my face and finally had to go to the doctor about it, but he could do nothing to help me."

"I thought about Burdock Blood Bitters and decided to try a bottle. I cannot recommend B.B.B. enough, as I had not taken all the bottle before my face was cured."

Mr. Dunn said that the prospects of the new association were good and he looked for a successful future for it. Captain W. J. Thomas, of the barkentine Comet, accompanied by his wife, arrived here Saturday from New York after a voyage from Japan. The Comet is a barkentine of 2,300 tons registered in London, and owned by the Anglo-American Oil Company. She left Japan on December 5, bound for New York via a good cargo. She was following the regular route through the China Sea and round the cape. In the earlier part of the voyage heavy weather was encountered, and on entering the China Sea the weather cleared but for a few days during a spell of very thick weather, when near the northeast end of Banca straits, the vessel ran ashore on the island of Chebia. Fortunately the weather remained calm, otherwise she would have been beaten to pieces. The chief officer and four men rowed and sailed a life boat over 50 miles of open sea to the island of Banca and then pushed through 12 miles of bush and jungle to the town of Belingia where they called to Singapore for a tug. After seven days on the reef the Comet was hauled off.

CATTLE SHIPMENTS SHOW A MARKED INCREASE

But Scarcely Any Sheep Have Been Carried From St. John This Season.

During the winter port season, just closed, a total of 22,923 head of cattle were carried from St. John on forty steamers. This is an increase of 2,513 heads over last season. There has been a heavy falling off in sheep. The cattle shipments during the past five months were as follows:

Month	Steamers	Cattle
December	8	5448
January	10	7022
February	8	2728
March	8	2359
April	8	4452
Total for season	40	22,923
Total for last season	40	20,410

Increase 1908-09 .. 2,513

In handling these 22,923 tons of hay were required for feed, and 160,141 tons of grain. No less than 920 men were employed in tending the cattle on the steamers. Last season 418 sheep were taken from St. John on winter port steamers, while this year only 151 have been carried, the big decrease being due to the state of the market. In all 65 horses were carried this year from St. John as against 51 last season.

MARGARET WAS READY WITH NECESSARY CASH

Flashed Up a Hundred Dollar Bill to Pay Her Fine for Selling Liquor Without a License.

Eight drunks, two being females, were fined eight dollars this morning. The women were remanded to jail. Two men forfeited deposits of eight dollars, were fined eight dollars, and two were allowed out on suspended sentence. The latter two obtained a Sunday tag in Margaret Francis' house on Sheffield street, and on account of information given by them to the police by a dusky Margaret, was before the court this morning on the charge of selling liquor without a license. When the charge was read to her, said that she was guilty and was fined one hundred dollars, or three months' jail in default of payment. There was no delay in the proceedings. She walked across the court room floor to a colored girl and was handed a crisp one hundred dollar bill which she passed over to Police Clerk Henderson. She was told that was all that was wanted of her, so she thanked the court and made her exit.

Speaking in drunks this morning the magistrate remarked that he would rather have one dealer before him for selling than all the poor drunks on the bench. He handed out a few suggestions to the police asking them to report the dealer and report the dealer of a shop when they saw a drunken man leaving the premises.

FIRST ARREST FOR SPITTING ON SIDEWALK

Two drunks were arrested this morning. One of them is Wm. Cameron, who is not only charged by Sgt. Baxter with drunkenness, but will tomorrow answer to the charge of spitting on the sidewalk. About a week ago Chief Clerk instructed the officers to report all offenders in the spit line and this is the first case.
