

LAST SCENE IN EFFORT TO BRING PEACE TO IRELAND MAY HAVE BEEN ENACTED

Sinn Fein Ireland Refuses to Own Allegiance to the King.

LLOYD GEORGE SO INFORMS CRAIG

Willing to Recognize King as President of Community of Free Nations.

London, Nov. 25.—What is feared to be the last scene in the effort to bring peace to Ireland was enacted today when Prime Minister Lloyd George and Sir James Craig met at the former's official residence in Downing street, where the Imperial Premier told the head of the Northern government that Sinn Fein Ireland had not consented to own allegiance to the King, a prerequisite to Ulster's agreement to enter an all-Ireland parliament.

Refuse to Take Oath.

The Sinn Fein delegates are consulting with members of the Dail cabinet in Dublin on the crisis thus brought about, while Sir James packed his bag and returned to Belfast, where he will report to his parliament next Friday, and possibly disclose the cause of the virtual breakdown of the Irish negotiations. The official correspondence that has passed between the various delegations also may be published in the near future. Week-end in the same time in an attempt to persuade Sinn Fein to modify its attitude on the question of allegiance to the King. The Dail Eireann members have taken the oath of allegiance to the Irish Republic and thus far they have refused to substitute for it recognition within Ireland, of King George. This concession from the Sinn Fein has been their willingness to recognize the King as the formal President of the Community of Free Nations which might choose voluntarily to join, but even this was not definitely promised.

No Precedent for Move.

Lord Chancellor Birkenhead and Attorney-General Hewart, law officers of the Crown, have ransacked the constitutions of all the British dominions to find any precedent for the only kind of relationship with the British Crown that Sinn Fein will consider, but nothing can be found. The Evening News, the first London newspaper to indicate the real cause of the crisis, suggests that the relations of Bavaria, with Prussia, in the German Empire might furnish such a precedent.

But Mr. Lloyd George, it is understood, would not accept any arrangement which would weaken Ireland's allegiance to the Crown in any degree and the government would support Ulster in refusing any arrangement which would weaken its British citizenship.

Stolen Automobiles On River's Bottom

Montreal Stirred by Rumor That Woman's Body Is Under One Car.

Montreal, Nov. 25.—Considerable excitement has been caused by a rumor that there is a body of a woman under a motor car which has been located at the bottom of the river of the Longue Pointe wharf, where several other stolen automobiles are thought to lie. Last Saturday night, according to a Canadian speaking to detectives today, a Cadillac coupe car, in which a woman was sitting, plunged off the wharf into the icy waters of the St. Lawrence. Two men, he claimed, leaped from the car just prior to its disappearance, but the man is certain that he saw a woman in it who did not get out in time. Cars believed to be in the river are said to have been lost with the object of collecting insurance.

DAIL EIREANN ADMITS IRISH PARLEY HAS REACHED MOST CRITICAL POINT

Dublin, Nov. 25.—Opinion here tonight is that a critical point in the Irish negotiations has been reached. A full meeting of the Dail Eireann ministry was held this afternoon, but no statement was issued beyond formal notice that the meeting was held and that the situation is considered too delicate for public statements.

Arthur Griffith, of the Sinn Fein peace delegation, will carry with him, when he leaves for London tonight, the decision of the Dail Eireann ministry. His visit to Dublin was unexpected and was taken to indicate that new proposals were submitted by the British government which necessitated an authoritative answer on behalf of the Dail Eireann. Michael Collins and Robert C. Barton, the other members of the delegation, will remain here in the meantime.

OPPOSITION LEADERS IN FOR DISASTROUS DISAPPOINTMENT, SAYS RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN

At Lindsay, Premier Deals Fearlessly With Mushroom Issues Raised by King and Crerar—King, He Intimated, Rattled Around Noisily in the Shrines of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Stopped to Petty Things That Would Have Shamed the Great Quebec Leader.

Lindsay, Ont., Nov. 25.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—I venture to say that you wouldn't have found a petty, paltry, miserable thing like this introduced into the campaign if Sir Wilfrid Laurier was head of the Liberal party. Premier Meighen declared to a great audience in the arena here this evening, when discussing the charge that the government had accepted promissory notes from the Riridon Company in settlement of business profit taxes. The Riridon charges the Premier dealt with in the same manner as he has disposed of them at other meetings.

Over the platform, draped in mourning, was a portrait of the late General Sir Sam Hughes, late representative of the constituency of Victoria and Harbour, in the Federal House for many years, and the widow and daughter of the former Minister of Militia attended the meeting. The latter, Miss Helen Hughes, occupied a seat on the platform. The Premier in opening paid a tribute to the memory of Sir Sam Hughes.

R. J. Mitchell, Reeve of Verulam township, was chairman of the meeting. T. H. Stinson, government candidate, told his audience that the issue in this campaign struck at the very heart of the nation. He had no quarrel with farmers' clubs and co-operatives movements, but these were being used to further the ambitions of a few selfish men. These men conceived the idea of using the ready-made organizations of the farmers for political purposes.

In For Disappointment

"They're in for a disastrous disappointment," Premier Meighen remarked, referring to predictions by opposition leaders in regard to the result of the election. He would go no further than this in the realm of prophecy, he said, but would leave that field to those who were better at other argument. The Premier again declared that farmers were as welcome in the halls of Parliament as any other class of men. He then went on to deal with some of the "mushroom issues" raised by opposition leaders.

"Any man can say, and every demagogue and humbug will say, that this Government is allied with the big interests," he said. "I venture to say that you wouldn't have found a petty, paltry miserable thing like this introduced into the campaign if Sir Wilfrid Laurier had been head of the Liberal party." Mr. Meighen declared in discussing the charge that the Government had accepted promissory notes

GREAT RALLIES HELD LAST EVG. BY GOVERNMENT

Loch Lomond and Garnett Settlement Heard Meighen Policies Ably Discussed.

PARTY POLICIES CLEARLY DEFINED

Large and Demonstrative Gatherings Cheered Speakers' Remarks to the Echo.

Two rousing rallies were held yesterday evening in the Agricultural Hall, Loch Lomond and the School House, Garnett Settlement, in the immediate vicinity of the settlement. Dr. Murray MacLaren, Conservative candidate for this constituency. Very large and demonstrative gatherings were present at both meetings and indicated, by cheering to the echo the remarks of the various speakers, the rapidly increasing wave of enthusiasm and general approval which is spreading all over the country, but especially in New Brunswick, towards the candidates of the Meighen Government.

Dr. Murray MacLaren, Dr. J. Roy Campbell, K. C., C. F. Inches, Stanley K. Smith and Dr. J. H. Barton addressed the meeting at Loch Lomond where A. Norris presided as chairman. At the Garnett Settlement meeting, Dr. MacLaren and Dr. Barton were the speakers, while Geo. F. Stephenson acted as chairman. Hon. Dr. J. B. M. Baxter by reason of his position as Minister of Customs and Excise in the Federal Cabinet, was unable, much to his regret, to attend as he had to address meetings in other parts of the province.

Assailed Laurier Government Dr. J. Roy Campbell, K. C., vigorously assailed the policy of the Laurier Government from which he said the enormous waste of money which had been caused by the building of railways in Canada years in advance of their time. The Meighen Government had been forced to take over the railways, which it had acquired in order to prevent them from going into bankruptcy. Dr. Campbell also pointed out, in a thoroughly convincing manner, the injurious effects of a free trade policy in Canada, and referred to the fact that other countries in the world were increasing their tariffs for the protection of their people.

C. F. Inches contrasted the straightforward policy of the Meighen Government, which was for the interests of every class of our people as compared with the program of the "Wood" party and the "Wood" party. Stanley K. Smith declared that he had always been a Liberal prior to the present campaign; but he could not support a party such as that led by Mackenzie King, whose policy was so indefinite. Dr. J. H. Barton pointed out that the Laurier Government was responsible for the legislation which now permitted the grain going over the Grand Trunk Railway to be shipped to Portland, Maine.

Dr. Murray MacLaren discussed the tariff question and, in a thoroughly convincing manner, showed that the policy of the Meighen Government was absolutely essential to the national life of Canada. The speaker pointed out the program of his remarks that a moderate protective tariff, as proposed by the Meighen Government, was beneficial to the industries, agriculture and the workmen of this country.

Jilted By Actress, Attempts Murder, Then Suicides

Actor Couldn't Stand Being Thrown Down by His Lady Love.

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 25.—Oscie Bartley, aged 21, Chicago, an actress playing at the Lyric Theatre on the Keith circuit in a miniature musical comedy entitled "Under the Apple Tree," was shot three times and probably fatally wounded this afternoon after the matinee, by Jack Grubb, aged 42, New York, another member of the company, who afterwards turned the gun on himself and ended his life.

Grubb had been paying attention to the actress for some time. This afternoon he waited for her at the top of the steps leading to the dressing rooms. When she reached the top of the stairs he tried to speak to her, but her companion, Helen Campbell, of the same company, pushed him away. He then pulled a revolver and fired three shots, wounding Miss Bartley in the stomach, breast and behind the left ear. He then fired two shots into his own chest and died on the way to the hospital.

VET. DROWNED

Yarmouth, N. S., Nov. 25.—Joseph Murphy, 23 years old, a veteran of the great war, belonging to Argyle, N. S., was drowned when his sail boat capsized in Argyle Sound, it was reported here today.

SIXTY-EIGHT JEWS HELD AT HALIFAX GIVEN THEIR FREEDOM YESTERDAY

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 25.—Application for a writ of habeas corpus was made on behalf of seven members of the party of 200 Jews from Poland, who have been detained here for over a month, but the judge before whom the case was brought declared that the local courts had no control over the functioning of a privy council order, and in consequence of the application the Ottawa immigration authorities have ordered that the seven men be deported, it was stated here today by local immigration officers.

Sixty-eight other members of the party were admitted to freedom today and proceeded to various parts of Canada.

The chief consular agent of Poland is expected here tomorrow and it is hoped he will be able to clear up the passport difficulty of the others.

MARYSVILLE, INDUSTRIAL CENTRE OF YORK COUNTY GAVE ROUSING RECEPTION TO HON. DR. BAXTER

Tariff Issue Dealt With in Able Manner by Minister of Customs Who Clearly Demonstrated Need of a Tariff Sufficiently High to Protect Home Industries Against Unfair Competition—Returned Man Defends Government's Acts.

Marysville, N. B., Nov. 25.—Marysville, the industrial centre of the county, and the business ability of the late Alexander Gibson, and the industrial town of the Nashvaak Valley, tonight gave a rousing greeting to Hon. Dr. J. B. M. Baxter, Minister of Customs and Excise in the administration of Hon. Arthur Meighen, when he spoke in the Amusee Theatre in the interest of R. B. Hanson, K. C., Government candidate in York-Sunbury. This town traditionally is Conservative and on December 6th will not prove false to its history. Mr. Hanson will take a handsome majority. As a community, dependent entirely upon manufacturing, Marysville is for protection for native industries to the last vote.

The tariff issue was dealt with tonight in an able manner by Hon. Dr. Baxter and also by Mayor Cochran, who was chairman. Both showed the absolute need for a tariff sufficiently high to protect Canadian industries against unfair competition during the trying period of reconstruction through which the world is now passing. Some hundreds of people heard the Minister of Customs who, although handicapped by the fact that his throat is suffering from much campaigning, made an excellent speech in which he dealt with many of the attacks made upon the Meighen Government. Hon. Dr. Baxter's program, in connection with the railway problem that the members representing Maritime constituencies must hang together to see that justice is done ports in the Atlantic provinces in the matter of traffic over Canadian railways, was cheered heartily. The canvass that the returned orator was not receiving proper treatment from the Government was answered most effectively by a returned man, Leo McIntosh, of Fredericton who made a fine address.

Mayor Cochran, in introduction, referred to the fact that the general election was unique in the fact that there were three parties in the field and there was not one acclamation. R. B. Hanson, K. C., was the candidate (Continued on page 2)

Physician and Nurse Testified For Ar buckle

Endeavored to Make Case Look Brighter for the Celluloid Comedian.

San Francisco, Nov. 25.—Miss Virginia Rappa, motion picture actress, whose death, the state charges, resulted from injuries received at the hands of Roscoe C. Arbuckle, was reported in a statement read at the Arbuckle manslaughter trial here today as having stated to Dr. H. E. Rimball, San Francisco physician, that she "must have been intoxicated for could not remember what had happened" during the course of a party in Arbuckle's hotel rooms here.

Dr. Rimball was not cross-examined. Miss Irene Morgan, trained nurse of South Pasadena, was the next witness. Miss Morgan said she was employed by Miss Rappa as housekeeper and trained nurse. She said she saw Miss Rappa tearing at her clothes many times. And treated her at least five times for bladder trouble. Her patient used to "double-up and cry," presumably as a result of the trouble, the witness said. After drinking intoxicating liquor, Miss Rappa would tear her clothes off, she said.

Under cross-examination, the witness testified to having attended a South Pasadena woman during an operation. The prosecution explained that by bringing out this information it wished to establish a motive for Miss Morgan's statements regarding Miss Rappa. This line of evidence was stopped by the court.

The crowds were so dense at the opening of the afternoon session that the defendant and counsel had difficulty in reaching their seats.

BRITISH MADE GOATS BY RUMOR PEDDLERS IN U. S.

Some Newspapers Declare Delegation is Responsible for Rules of Secrecy at Conference.

PROMPT DENIAL FROM SECY HUGHES

Better Element of Americans Indignant at Attack Made Upon British Delegates.

Washington, Nov. 25.—(By Ben Deacon, Staff Correspondent of Canadian Press)—The rumor peddlers are busy again, and, as has been the case in connection with practically all of the wild yarns that have been circulated since the Washington Conference began, the British are the victims. This morning a story was printed in a local paper to the effect that the British delegation was attempting to impose the methods of "the old school of diplomacy" upon the conference. This "old school" it was stated, was "seeking to transplant to American soil the seeds of the old methods of secrecy, evasion and diplomatic intrigue." Opposed to this, the story said, was the new school of diplomacy, represented by the United States, whose slogans were "open diplomacy with the backing of public opinion as against secrecy, evasion, and evasion, frankness and directness against diplomatic intrigue."

The story gave a circumstantial account of a meeting of the Far Eastern Committee, at which it alleged there was a "clash between the two schools." It was said the question of keeping a record of the proceedings was under discussion and that, while the United States delegates favored this, Mr. Balfour, on behalf of the British delegation, objected. "He made the usual plea for the old accustomed way of conducting diplomatic conferences of this character," the story continued, "and, under no circumstances it would not have been courteous for the other delegations to insist." On this account, the writer says, it was decided no stenographic record would be kept.

The story brought a prompt denial from Mr. Hughes, United States Secretary of State. The attack on Mr. Balfour aroused general indignation among United States newspapermen who are practically unanimous in declaring the British delegates have proved their desire to give as wide publicity to the proceedings of the conference as is possible.

Court Decision Fixes Liability of Canadian Pacific

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 25.—Liability of the Canadian Pacific Railway for damages arising out of the wreck of the steamer Princess Sophia, which sank off Vancouver reef, Alaska, in October, 1918, is limited as to passengers, baggage and cargo, to the value of the ship and the passengers' fares and cargo tariffs charged, in a decision handed down today by Federal Judge Jeremiah Netter here. The decision reverses a former ruling by Judge Netter that the liabilities could be limited only as to cargo. Effect of the decision is that more than 200 claimants, who were granted the right of $2,000,000 damages by the former decision, only will be allowed some $8,000. The former decision held that liability should not be limited as to passengers and their baggage but only as to cargo.

U. S. Congress To Buck Conference

Washington, Nov. 25.—Members of Congress are openly declaring that the Conference on Limitation of Armaments cannot control the size of the army. Not only has a movement been begun to cut the army from 150,000 to 100,000, but some of the ablest of the House Republicans today said it would prevail regardless of the Conference.

They also declare that if several economies additional to the reduction of the arms conference are possible Congress will insist on them in making the naval appropriations. last week and introduced the element of buoyancy into the contest, though he accomplished but little else. At Milltown just one hundred and twenty-four persons by actual count, attended his meeting, and they heard nothing but some prattle about local politics. At St. George he made himself ridiculous by attempting to explain his belated arrival at the meeting as being due to a bad break, coming from the Minister of Public Works of the Province, and since then the cause of much merriment. The Liberals are finding it difficult to get audiences in any section, and with the candidate forced upon an unwilling convention, there is no enthusiasm in the party and no one to push things along in the home stretch. So far as appearances go, Liberal dependence is being placed on that fallacy would mean the wiping out of their industries and of their homes.

Veniot's Bufoonery Hon. P. J. Veniot was called to the assistance of the Liberal candidate

(Continued from page 1) of the Government, a man who had the unique distinction of winning an election and never taking his seat. The world as it was an issue which had been fought over before, that of the tariff. The McLaughlin Government was said by its opponents to be not a Government favorable to the laboring man. Was the party which favored the trade the friend of the laboring man? If free trade came it would close the doors of the one industry of Marysville, the largest industry in York County.

The candidate Mr. Hanson was the man who stood against that. He also was the man who would be returned on December 6th. (Applause.) Mayor Cochran said he was proud to act as chairman of a meeting in favor of the Government. The chief speaker was to be Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, Minister of Customs. He was pleased to be able to hear so distinguished a man who had been selected by Premier Meighen to represent New Brunswick in the Dominion Cabinet. The ability of Hon. Dr. Baxter was recognized by all. Sir Douglas Haysan, as a Cabinet member, had a record unequalled, but New Brunswick was a man who was unsurpassed in the Cabinet.

Returning Soldier's Tribute Mayor Cochran then introduced Lee McCutcheon, a returned soldier, who, with an artificial limb, gave unmistakable evidence of having been in the war. McCutcheon stated that, although recognizing the fact that others were much better qualified for platform speaking, he was glad to have the opportunity to speak in the name of the returned soldiers. The Government which was appealing for the support of the electorate was that which had carried on Canada's part in the greatest war the world had seen. That effort had been successful and the Government then had set about the task of returning to Canada the troops who were on the other side. Demobilization had been carried on and completed in the shortest time possible. In addition to that the inmates of the hospitals were brought across the sea. Sixty thousand stretcher cases were handled. In addition forty-eight thousand dependents were returned to Canada. Was not that a most creditable performance? Did the Government not again deserve the support of the people. (Applause.)

In Canada the Government had undertaken the enormous task of returning the demobilized men to civil life. Gratitudes to the astounding total of $160,000,000 were paid, the most generous provision of its kind made by any country of the world. The civil service of Canada provided positions for 31,333 returned soldiers and ten thousand more were provided permanent employment. The support of the returned man, and those near him, should go to the Government which had accomplished these things and not to Hon. Mackenzie King, who fought and voted against sending to the men in the trenches the support which they so urgently needed. This need not be a matter of sentiment but merely a consideration of facts.

In Fight to Win Hon. Mr. Baxter followed. He said that all were in the fight to win and to win behind the brightest and best mind of Canada. (Applause.) Recently near St. John, he had said that Hon. Mackenzie King had said that the tariff was not the issue of the campaign. The Telegraph had taken him to task and said that Hon. Mr. King had not said that it was not an issue but it was not the only issue. Right after that Hon. Mr. King did say exactly what he (Baxter) had attributed to him. Possibly both the Telegraph and himself were right for Hon. Mr. King seemed able to say one thing in one part of the country and another in another (laughter).

Why not ask the question, "Why should the government be turned out?" Was the answer ever seen? Possibly one might see this: "Turn the government out because it permitted the McLaughlin company to own the $400,000." What were the facts? The country takes precedence over any creditor by law. The McLaughlin company conducted an industry comparable in a certain community to the cotton mill in Marysville. It owed the country money. The government made an arrangement whereby the company was given an opportunity to pay over a period of time. Was it fair to do that or to crush the company and its industry, turn the employees adrift and let them seek elsewhere for employment? The candidate for a Liberal candidate had called the government the "mean" government, because it had not properly treated the returned soldiers. That charge had been answered from the lips of a returned hero. (Applause.) No person would expect anything of the "groser" but fault finding, whether he was returned soldier or not. Could the government be held responsible because a soldier missed a meal, or because at some time he had lain on a hard bed? The reasonable returned man was not found attacking the government.

This campaign was not to be fought out on a question of the returned soldiers. There was enough common sense in Canada to take the matter of soldiers' pensions out of politics. The matter of rearrangement of pensions should be decided by a committee of the whole House.

The Real Issues. What were the issues? Hon. W. S. Meighen was not chosen as Premier at a general election. But the Premier of Nova Scotia, Hon. George Murray, was chosen in the same manner as Hon. Mr. Meighen. That, of course, was different, as Mr. Murray was a Liberal and Mr. Meighen a Conservative. In Nova Scotia, that was the matter of the day. In federal politics it also had happened without comment, on the death of Sir John Macdonald, and later on the death of Sir John Thompson. Hon. Mr. Fielding was hard put to say that line.

Another charge was that there had been a general election without a redistribution. But the census had been taken in June last and redistricting could not have taken place before January. But Mr. Fielding also condemned the government because it had not gone to the polls in June, 1920. On what leg was that to stand? The memory of Mr. Fielding's old friend reciprocity was invoked by him. He evidently forgot that a reciprocity provision carried its revocation by either party. Every reciprocity agreement had been formulated by the United States. The latter had desired to have permanent employment in the industry by a high tariff. It had been perfectly right to do that. For the United States was building up their own country under their own flag. Canada should do the same, but could not under the principles advocated by Mr. Crerar and Mr. King. He might be accused again of misrepresenting Mr. King, but the latter must be able to stand by the pamphlets issued in his name.

"Sob Stuff" of King. There had been what might be called "sob stuff" published about the struggle of the housewife. It was an effort to fool her, because there was such a thing as buying too cheaply. Boots and shoes bought in Canada were made in the United States or in Germany. It would be a pretty poor way to save. It looked very like not saving for the own country. It meant all the loss to be made by Canadian workmen in Canadian factories. It was a job for the Canadian as of boots and shoes. A tariff might increase cost to a slight extent, but the goods were made by machinery made in Canada. A tariff prepared to pay the price of cheaper goods if it is accompanied by lower wages? Sir Auckland Geddes, in the Chamber of Commerce, had held a gathering that goods could be made too cheap. If cheapness was to be attained by making social conditions such that the people were living in industrial slavery, Canada could do that if she wanted to force her people to seek homes in other countries.

King's Misstatements. Hon. Mr. King had told of the burden of taxation of sixty-two dollars per head or $310 on a family of five. He attempted to make his hearers draw the inference that that burden of taxation was pressing on each family and would be lifted if the Government would let up. But it was not necessary for a person to buy imported goods. He could buy his clothing, his boots and his food, all the product of Canadian industry. If he fastened upon paying taxation through a customs tariff, why should the Government be blamed? He (Baxter) felt safe in saying that the average family did not pay ten dollars per year in customs duty. Hon. Mr. King's statement was made for the purpose of making his hearers disbelieve with conditions. Political it was dishonest.

The Railroad Problem. There was another matter and that was the attack on the Government on the railway problem. The Toronto Globe—more Liberal than Liberalism—had stated editorially that the railway policy of Hon. Mr. King and Hon. Mr. Fielding was so uncertain that a definite statement was wanted. This statement never had been made. Sir Lester Bower, ex-Premier of Quebec, had entered Federal politics as a Liberal, stating that it would be better for Canada to permit the operation of the railways by the Canadian Pacific Railway. What did the Toronto Globe think of that? As a matter of fact at least be described as "just honestly."

BRIAND NOBLY VINDICATED THE FRENCH FEARS

Speech Helped Work of Peace and Good Will, Asserts British Editor.

Washington, Nov. 24.—There is one outstanding and salutary difference between the plenary sessions of the Washington conference and those of the peace conference in Paris. Formality and a feeling that what was being thought and done in private violated all the public proceedings of the Paris gathering save possibly the final ceremony of the signature of peace. At Washington there have been three plenary sittings. Of the first it is superfluous again to speak. It set the tone, and indeed the pace, of the conference, and lifted it to a high plane. In a less drastic fashion the second public sitting was worthy of the first, but when the moment comes to look back upon October 6th, they would see that Richard B. Hanson was returned as the member for York-Sunbury. Cheers were given for the Government and the National Anthem the meeting broke up.

French Aviation Becomes Stagnant Paris Show Has Scarcely New Idea for the Technical Man.

Paris, Nov. 23.—If France is to remain in the front rank of nations capable of producing aircraft something like a revolution is necessary in the French aircraft industry. Never in the history of aviation has there been a hero whose work looked prettier or more impressive to the inexperienced public; never has there been one which was less interesting to the technical man.

It is full of beautifully painted and polished airplanes of all sizes, from the tiniest single-seater to the great twenty-seater airliner, and except for two or three machines there is not a new idea or step forward in the aeronautical science among the lot. The aircraft designers of America, England, Germany and Holland seem to have produced more new ideas per month for the last two years than all the French designers in that whole period.

There are two reasons for the stagnation of the French industry, but both are based on one idea—fear of Germany. Because that fear the French Government desires to maintain an armistice at all costs, so it has given such big subsidies to the French air line that it pays the owners to run inefficient and obsolete airplanes; because of that fear also the Government wants to keep its airplane factories in the hands of the French, and to apply military aviation services accepts for the French army newly built airplanes which have not a single new idea in them.

In England the smallness of our civil aviation subsidy is forcing our air lines to use only airplanes which are highly efficient and the hearing of several of our technical department forces designers to sweat their brains for if they are to secure orders. The comparative results of the two systems are obvious after a visit to the Paris show.

Copying German Designs. Another quaint result of French Government is seen in the attempt of French constructors to build all metal airplanes of steel or duralumin. Their only idea in doing so seems to be to imitate the behavior of the French Germans used during the war, most of which the Germans now have discarded or improved upon. In fact, the whole technical section of the Paris show is a huge bazaar designed by the British designers to get their utmost best, would be free competition by German designers.

Exception to the general stagnation in France are the manhood built by the Blériot-Spad firm and the "honor man's airplane," built by Levasseur. The former is a huge biplane designed by Herbet, who is today undoubtedly France's leading designer. It has four engines of 300-horsepower each, two in a tandem on each wing, but otherwise it is almost exactly an enlargement to scale of the single engine Spad fighters familiar to all airplane enthusiasts. It is a job for the moment to build a 1200-horsepower 26 seat scout, but it looks as if Herbet would succeed.

The Levasseur is a two-seater biplane with an engine of 150-horsepower. Its framework is built almost entirely of girders of laminated wood, but just as an airscrew is built. The whole thing is held together by a mass of wires and clips and plates as is the usual method. It is an entirely novel method of construction and one which interests the really technical people more than anything in the show, but its chief quality is that it probably is the cheapest possible way of building an airplane and shows great replacement of parts about as easy and cheap as in a Ford car.

MYSTERY MAN OF EUROPE IS PARIS BANKER

Larhoff's Specialty is Financing Bankrupt Governments of Old World.

London, Nov. 23.—Europe's mystery man, supposed to pull the invisible strings by which puppet kings are seated or unseated, and to have a hand in almost every European intrigue, is playing a brief visit to London. Incidentally he has just been photographed publicly for the first time in his life. The photograph discloses a white goateed gentleman of 41, somewhat resembling a slight portly Buffalo Bill, black-clothed and distinguished-looking.

"Who's Who" gives him as Sir Basil Zaharoff, G. B. E. (Knight Grand Cross of the British Empire) holder of the grand cross of the French Legion of Honor, and a banker of Paris.

Popular reports give this Anglo-British-Greek-Russian holder of a British knighthood and the highest class of the Legion of Honor credit for being the man who put King Constantine back on his throne, financed a couple of Greek wars, and who, any time he gets a new idea, visits the proper premier and "puts it across."

Sir Basil was born of a Russian father and a Greek mother. He is French by nationality and English by education. He is at home in London, Paris, Athens, Madrid and Monte Carlo. He is known to any European capital and tells the ordinary resident things about the city.

He has a palatial residence in Paris, in the Avenue Hoche. There is a beautiful dining service, with jewel-like spoons. It is at Monte Carlo, however, that the entertainments reach their climax. There, where he has an Arabian Night-like suite at the Hotel de Paris, he entertains as he does in Paris or London, ministers, peers and bankers, and, according to gossip, arranges for his plans to be carried out.

Sir Basil's wealth is estimated at anything from $100,000,000 up. It is probably "up" as he controls all sorts of property from a theatre to half of Monte Carlo. He controls an army of banks and armament firms. He is supposed to be financing bankrupt governments one day; introducing cabinets the next. He entertains lavishly and gives as lavishly, though he is a business man whose touch is apparently Midas-like. He gave $2,500,000 a year to the Greek government during the Balkan wars and is supposed to have financed Constantine in his return to the throne. He gave Athens a huge wireless station, helped French athletics, established chairs of aviation at the Universities of Paris and Petrograd, besides one at Oxford University.

Newspapers and politicians frequently attack Sir Basil. He never replies, and is never interviewed. He is a Col. Gutterhead recently in the House of Commons, referring to Lloyd George's friendship for Sir Basil:

In no quarter was the feeling of pleasure and admiration of M. Briand's speech keener than among the members of the British delegation. They felt that by reason of the comparative weakness of the French delegation, he had hitherto played at the conference a part commensurate with the greatness of his services, the splendor of his valor and the amenity of his sufferings in war.

It was therefore hoped that Monday's proceedings might redress the balance. It was also hoped that the French Minister might be able to destroy once and for all the efforts of the "poisonous propaganda" which the American people had been so long and so vainly endeavoring to combat.

Those who know M. Briand know also that he regards the European situation in a constructive spirit; that he wishes to maintain the closest co-operation with England, and even to collaborate with a democratic Germany in the task of mitigating the sufferings caused by the war. They felt that should his speech be inspired by this spirit it would be cordially welcomed and might be publicly endorsed.

These expectations were fulfilled. M. Briand's speech was all that could be desired. It was clear, concise, matter of fact and eloquent by turns. It was a masterpiece of the profound paths that ran through the main portions of it. It was not an analysis of the true condition of Germany and a spur to the British precautions which a peace loving France is, in duty to herself and to the cause for which she, with her Allies and associates, victoriously fights; he meant to maintain it raised in pertinent form the question whether in discharging this duty France is to stand alone, in moral isolation, or whether she will be comforted and supported by the good will and support of her comrades in arms.

GREAT RALLIES HELD LAST EVG. BY GOVERNMENT

(Continued from page 1) There was no doubt, he declared, but that the Government's policy in regard to the tariff would protect the industries of Canada from undue competition with foreign concerns and at the same time permit the making of a moderate profit only, if, on the other hand, free trade was introduced and put into legislation, it would result in foreign manufactured goods pouring into Canada. This would be a consequence seriously hamper the building up of our industries and in the vast majority of cases Canadian giants would be forced to go out of business.

In either event, a great amount of unemployment would follow and the workmen of Canada would be forced to go to the United States for work. There was one alternative which the industries of Canada might take in order to compete with the products of foreign enterprises under free trade, and that would be to reduce the scale of wages to a starvation rate. The McLaughlin Government did not want the workmen of this country to be placed in such a condition that they would have to work at any rate, which would not provide them with sufficient money to maintain their families and live happily. No patriotic citizen should desire the introduction of such a condition for the advancement of any particular selfish class movement.

Dr. MacLaren declared that the Progressive Party desired to secure such legislation as would benefit the grain growers of the prairie provinces. There was nothing whatever in common between the mixed farmers of Eastern Canada and the Western grain growers, who desired merely to obtain support for selfish and class interests only. The real farmers of New Brunswick depended on the home market for the sale of their products while the Western grain growers found a market in all parts of the world. The speaker pointed out that even if the industries of Canada failed, and the destruction of our home market followed as a consequence, the grain growers of the West, who sometimes masqueraded under the name of farmers, would not be affected, but could fall their wheat to all parts of the world as they have always done. On the contrary, the destruction of Canada's industries would destroy the home market of the Eastern farmers, and cause a fatal depression in our country.

Liberals Stand In dealing with this question, Dr. MacLaren declared that the Liberal Party in August, 1919, had adopted a platform, which virtually called for free trade. This programme, however, had not been published in any of the Liberal papers; and Mr. Mackenzie King had avoided discussion of this important issue. It was impossible to

Resident of Devon, N. B., a Graduate of U.N.B., Chosen Yesterday by the Committee

The meeting of the Rhodes Scholar Committee to choose a Rhodes scholar for New Brunswick took place at St. Douglas Hayes's office in the city yesterday afternoon. The committee is composed of Sir Douglas Hayes, Chairman; R. St. John Press, secretary, barrister of Sussex; W. H. Irving, principal of the High School, Moncton; John B. McNair, barrister of Fredericton and R. M. Ryan, Managing Director of the St. John Standard.

The applicants for the Scholarship were Joseph W. Sears of Devon, N. B., a graduate of the University of New Brunswick; P. Skelton, Kingston, also a U. N. B. graduate, and Henry O. Mills of Sydney, N. S., a graduate of Mount Allison University.

It was decided by the committee to award the scholarship to Joseph W. Sears. Cecil Rhodes, the founder of the Rhodes scholarship, in his will allowed certain funds to be used for the applicant for Rhodes scholars to be judged. They come under four heads:—1. Scholarship, 2. Quailities in Leadership, 3. Athletics, 4. Character. Originally each candidate in the Province in turn had the appointment of a Rhodes Scholar; in later years it has been left in the hands of the above committee and any resident of New Brunswick, or any student who has completed two years of his university course in a New Brunswick university is eligible for the scholarship. There have been eight Rhodes scholars sent to Oxford from New Brunswick. Atwood Bridges was awarded the scholarship for the Dominion of Canada in competition with other applicants from the other Provinces.

The following is a list of the Rhodes Scholars who have gone to Oxford since 1904:—1904—Chester B. Marten, U. N. B.; 1905—Frank P. Day, Mount Allison; 1906—Ralph St. John Press, U. N. B.; 1907—G. D. Two Afternoon Fires Yesterday Buildings Owned by F. E. Williams on Carleton St. Badly Damaged—Crown St. Blazed

Yesterday afternoon two fire alarms were sounded within a few minutes of one another. The first alarm was sent in from the west end of Carleton for a fire on Carleton street in a residence occupied by Charles W. Piers and owned by F. E. Williams. The blaze, which started from a defective chimney, had destroyed the kitchen and spread to the nearby woodshed which were badly damaged.

The house in the front, which is occupied by N. A. Vassil and Mrs. Smith was quite badly damaged by smoke and water. It is estimated that the total damage amounts to about $2,000, which is covered by insurance. The roof of the Piers residence was destroyed and the contents badly damaged.

An alarm was rung in from box 3 at 3:15 o'clock, for a fire between the floors of a house occupied by L. B. Eberoy on Crown street. The chimney was used here to extinguish the blaze. The damage was slight.

DON'T NEGLECT BRONCHITIS The principal symptom of bronchitis is a cough which is dry, harsh and hacking, accompanied with rapid wheezing and a feeling of tightness through the chest. There is a raising of phlegm, especially in the morning after rising from bed. This phlegm is at first of a light color, but as the trouble progresses it becomes of a yellowish or greenish color and is sometimes streaked with blood.

DR. WOODS' NORWAY PINE SYRUP you will find a remedy that will stimulate the weakened bronchial organs, subdue the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, loosen the phlegm and mucous, and get the bronchial tubes free from the morbid accumulation.

Girl's Legs Found In New York Pond

New York, Nov. 25.—The legs of a woman, severed at the knees, were found last night beside a pool of water in an unoccupied part of Van Cortlandt Park, at Broadway and 240th street. The police began an investigation on October 23 near Rawson street and charge of the detectives.

It was believed at first that the legs presented a new murder mystery, but Capt. Carey, after examining them with Dr. Carl Kommand, Chief Medical Examiner of The Bronx, said they probably were a part of the missing portions of the body of the woman found on October 23 near Rawson street and Queens Boulevard, Long Island City.

Capt. Carey said he would work on the theory that the legs found at Van Cortlandt Park were hacked from the body of the woman found on October 23 near Rawson street and Queens Boulevard, Long Island City. He did not explain how he could make a partial identification of the lower legs when the thigh, the connecting link between the parts found last night and the torso, hand and arms now at the Morgue, are still to be found.

"You have the choice," declared Dr. MacLaren, "of choosing between the Government of Premier Meighen, who never failed in his duty to Canada, in fighting the huge problems which confronted her, or voting for the party whose platform might lead anywhere and the supporters of Mackenzie King. I do not think the people of this country want free trade with its accompanying disastrous effect, and I ask you to support Hon. Dr. Baxter and myself by your votes on election day."

Yesterday afternoon two fire alarms were sounded within a few minutes of one another. The first alarm was sent in from box 43 at about 3 o'clock for a fire on Carleton street in a rear house occupied by Charles W. Percy and owned by F. E. Williams. The blaze, which started from a defective line in the water pipe, quickly spread to the nearby woodshed which were badly damaged.

The house in the front, which is occupied by N. A. Vassil and Mr. Smith was quite badly damaged by smoke and water. It is estimated that the total damage amounts to about $2,000, which is covered by insurance. The roof of the Percy residence was destroyed and the contents badly damaged.

Concede Election of George B. Jones

Conservative Candidate in Royal Is All to the Merry, Says Prominent Barrister.

R. St. John Press, barrister of Sussex, who was in the city yesterday, was interviewed about the political situation in Royal. Of the candidates, in his opinion, George B. Jones has by far the platform that will appeal most strongly to the electors. He is a friend of the farmers, having been intimately associated with them in business.

On Nomination Day he laid down his policy. As far as the farmers of the Maritime Provinces are concerned he pledged himself to support any legislation that would be in their interests. He refused to consider an offer of nomination from the United Farmers because he believed the Crerar party favored only the grain growers of the West and was against the interests of the farmers down here.

The disclosures made by Mr. Jones in his speech at Hampton with reference to the cheques which had recently been issued from Fredericton, greatly in excess of what was owing to the recipients, are having an important effect in the campaign. So far, the charges made by Mr. Jones in reference to these cheques have remained unanswered, although the Provincial Secretary, Hon. Judson E. Hetherington, from whose department the cheques were issued, was present at Hampton on Nomination Day and was directly challenged to give an explanation. The fact that this same thing occurred at the last provincial election, to use the words of Mr. Jones, "makes the transaction look rather fishy."

It might possibly have some relation to the transfer of the Queen Hotel and the purchase of the liquor from some of the wholesale vendors. The tariff. Talking about the tariff, Mr. Press says that the farmers of Royal do not quite know where the Liberals stand on the tariff. Fielding is for free trade, Gouin is for protection, and King is for anything that will get votes. It is generally admitted that George B. Jones is the best friend that the farmers of Royal could have as a representative, and his election is conceded, even by his opponents.

THEATRE EMPLOYEES A contract has been signed between the local branch of the International Alliance of Theatre and Stage Employees, an international organization which places the Keith houses upon a definite wage scale in conformity with the policy of that corporation across the continent. The local I. A. T. S. E. is a new union having about 100 members in its membership the motion picture operators, stage hands, stage electricians, and others. The Imperial orchestra is already included in the membership of the American Federation of Musicians, an international body. It is interesting to note that the Imperial has been paying union wages in the past, but the formal contract recently signed underlines the men and gives them status and recognition in the international field.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Made and bottled by prescription.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes. Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as directed. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and at only $2. Taste pleasant and never spoils.

The Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the inflamed membrane and breaks the cycle. It is really a day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and whooping cough. It is nothing better.

Queens County Swinging To Jones

Series of Profitable Meetings Conducted by Messrs. Potts and Rice.

There is every indication that the sentiment of the people of Queens County is swinging toward George B. Jones and the National Liberal and Conservative party. Thursday night at Cumberland Bay, Messrs. P. L. Potts of St. John and E. C. Rice, barrister of Peticodiac, terminated the series of successful meetings they have held in Queens County this week.

On Wednesday they spoke at Gaspareaux and succeeded in rallying many to the Conservative cause. On Thursday evening they spoke at Cumberland Bay. Here it was found that the United Farmers were alarmed to speak, but had no hall, they were, therefore, invited to take part in a joint meeting in the hall hired by the Conservative speaker and the generous offer was accepted.

Mr. Rice was the first speaker of the evening, he was followed by Mr. Harry Magee, Mr. Burns and Mr. Charles Hughes, the defeated candidate in the last provincial election, all of whom spoke on behalf of the Farmers. Mr. Potts, the final speaker of the evening delivered a stirring address in favor of the Meighen administration.

Mr. Rice, in his address, devoted himself to the assistance rendered by the Government to the returned soldier, and also touched on the Melgoin Railroad and Tariff policy. Mr. Magee followed with an exposition of the Farmers' platform. Mr. Burns made a number of extravagant statements in regard to the Returned Soldiers, a number of which were refuted by Mr. Potts later in the evening.

Mr. Hughes attempted to deal with the Tariff and showed an absolute lack of knowledge of the basic principles of the Protective system. His arguments were turned against him in such a manner by Mr. Potts, that many in the audience, who had formerly held the Farmers' views, saw plainly the fallacy of Mr. Hughes' arguments. Mr. Potts closed the meeting with one of his usual formidable addresses.

Friday night Messrs. Potts and Rice spoke at Young's Cove. They were favored with a good audience which was made up of well represented women as men.

The usual issues were dealt with and the fallacy of the Farmers' platform clearly exposed to the audience. In this county the tide of sentiment is steadily flowing away from the Farmers, and all things point toward a sweeping vote on the 6th for George B. Jones the Conservative candidate.

George B. Jones Is Popular Candidate

Reports from All Over Royal Point to a Grand Jones Victory.

Reports from all over Royal point to a grand victory for George B. Jones, the National Liberal-Conservative candidate, and the electors are fully satisfied that George B. Jones is the man whom they wish to represent them in the House of Commons. Mr. Jones and other speakers are receiving much attention from large audiences all through the county. Meetings are well attended and the name Jones is the favorite one on the ticket.

Hon. J. A. Murray and Everett J. Chambers arrived in the city last night en route to Sussex after speaking at a number of places, and these speakers are much enthused over the prospect. Mr. Pungile, of General Election, who spoke this week at largely attended meetings in New Brunswick, Central Greenwick and Westfield Beach. Owing to the recent storms the roads are bad for traveling, but despite these conditions the electors attend the meetings in large numbers and everything points to a large majority for George B. Jones on Dec. 6.

COAL HANDLERS

The Coal Handlers and Trimmers met last evening in their hall on Smythe street with a very large number present. The meeting was called to discuss the proposed wage agreement.

John Paris Finished Giving Evidence

Dr. McCurdy, Magistrate Crowe, Stewart Fraser and George Murray Testified.

(Continued from page 16) At the time the doctor did not recall the man was John Paris, and was not sure till he saw him at the trial. No one pointed him out, he saw him in the dock. He would now swear he was the man he saw then. When he said he did not know John Paris' name the doctor said he meant he did not know John Paris.

John Paris Finished Giving Evidence

(Continued from page 16) At the time the doctor did not recall the man was John Paris, and was not sure till he saw him at the trial. No one pointed him out, he saw him in the dock. He would now swear he was the man he saw then. When he said he did not know John Paris' name the doctor said he meant he did not know John Paris.

When he saw Paris at Clyde's was between 3.30 and dinner. On Aug. 1 he called in the afternoon. He did not know how any of the negroes were dressed on either day.

How he recalled Paris was that he only talked with the sick boy and with Paris. He thought Paris was in the room when he was there. He was not certain. He was not in the Clyde house at any other time during the month of August. He had been to the island, but did not remember being at any Paris house. He had never been to the Clyde house before Aug. 1. He did not remember if he had been to the island more than once on Aug. 2.

Mr. Byrne asked if, not knowing Paris and not having anything with which to fix him in his mind, might it not be possible that he was mistaken in saying the man was Paris. The doctor said there was no possibility. He knew Paris' name when he worked with him. At the time of the first conversation Mr. Vernon had asked him if he had known John Paris the day of his visit, and the doctor said he did not, though the name was a very familiar one, and that he used to know a man of that name.

Mr. Byrne asked if he could identify the man, and the doctor said he thought he could.

Mr. Byrne—You did not know Paris then when you saw him in the house? Witness answered "No."

Mr. Vernon—But you now identify Paris as the man? Answer—"Yes."

Magistrate Crowe. Leonard Crowe, stipendiary magistrate of Truro, justice of the peace for Colchester county, identified a search warrant signed by him. Crowe stated he had been town magistrate for thirty years and was seventy-four years of age. The warrant was dated Aug. 2, and was handed to Chief Paris at about 3 p. m. by appointment with the informant, who was present when the chief received the warrant.

The magistrate said he had committed Paris for trial on the charge of theft of a can of gasoline. Before Chief Fraser came to St. John to give evidence he showed him the warrant, and asked him if it was the same as he had issued. The chief said he had found the warrant among his papers.

Paris recalled. Paris was here recalled. To Mr. Vernon he said he did not carry a watch and might be mistaken as to hours. He spoke with Albert Morten when he got off the train at St. John and saw him get on the train at Amherst.

The only John Paris he knew on the island was an old man and considerably dicker. He was a very dark man. He knew of no Paris in Truro who looked like him.

The day he saw Chautauque they had a parade. He saw it at Victoria Park near the Eastern Cap & Hat factory. He spoke with Ralph Singer in Lawrence's store on Aug. 2. It was the store Archie Paris drove a car for.

When on trial for the theft of gasoline he told the court he returned to St. John on the Amherst train that left Truro on a night train on Aug. 3. At that time he did not know he was wanted for the murder. After the trial he was held in custody, as he thought for the purpose of identification, but did not take the matter seriously at the time.

No one ever told him who were on the train on Aug. 3. He remembered Paris. The name was true of his movements in Truro.

Mr. Byrne objected to Mr. Vernon putting a leading question. The judge allowed the question subject to objection, and Paris said no one had refreshed his mind as to Dr. McCurdy's visit.

This concluded the examination of the prisoner which lasted almost two days, and during which he was made go over his movements from the time he says he left St. John for Truro till the day after his return.

The Attorney-General's cross-examination was a grueling one, but had little visible effect on Paris, nor did it break down his story which, except in a few particulars, differed but little from that he told at the first trial.

Stewart Fraser. Stewart Fraser, aged 23, of Truro, N. S., was the next witness. He stated he had known the prisoner all his life. On Aug. 1 he said he took Paris' place in a game of cards at William Byrd's house. There were only young people there; the older ones were attending a social. He was the only white person present.

To Mr. Byrne he said his memory was good, very good. He refused to answer the question that it was extraordinarily good until ordered to do so by the judge. He then said he would not say it was.

The first he remembered hearing of the murder of Sadie McAuley was when he was subpoenaed at the first trial. The first man he told he was in Byrd's house was Mr. Vernon, whom on the witness stand. He supposed some one told Mr. Vernon he was there.

He did not consider it a remarkable thing that he had told no one that he saw Paris there, knowing Paris was charged with murder. He was not worrying whether Paris was on trial for murder or what he was on trial for. He paid no attention to it beyond reading of the murder in the paper.

To Mr. Byrne's question: "When a girl is murdered or outraged it does not matter in this country" Fraser answered: "No, in my opinion it does not."

Mr. Byrne said that would do. He had been said that one could judge a man from the company he kept, and he was sure the court and jury had no desire to hear anything further from such a witness.

Mr. Vernon interposed and to his question Fraser said that he did not say that he did not care whether the little girl had been murdered or a girl. What he said was that he paid no attention to it.

George Murray. George Murray, of Lower Truro, N. S., an employee at the Nichols Garage, stated he had seen Paris come to the garage with a five-gallon can of gasoline and saw Nichols pay him for it. He did not know the date, except that it was the same day the Imperial Oil Company delivered 150 gallons. The time was 10 o'clock in the morning. The first he saw of the entry of the sale in Nichols' book was when Nichols was summoned to give evidence at the first trial. He did not know that Nichols had also given evidence at the trial for the gasoline theft, nor that he had then said the purchase was made on Aug. 2 or 3. He supposed the book would have been available to establish the date then at the St. John trial.

Murray said he had never seen Paris until that day. He paid particular attention to him then, because he thought it funny that the gas should be bought in that way. He himself thought it was stolen, but supposed Nichols' judgment was as good as his.

No further evidence was taken, and the court adjourned to this morning at 10 o'clock.

When the other witnesses succeeded Paris on the stand, the accused busied himself sketching and writing his name on a sheet of paper till the court adjourned.

DENUNCIATION OF BRITISH-JAP TREATY IS PREDICTED BY KNOX

Sees New Arrangement With England and America Co-operating in Chinese Problems.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Of the major achievements of the Washington conference which the American delegation has ardently hoped for and diligently sought has been the abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese treaty. It is no exaggeration to describe the denunciation of this pact between Great Britain and Japan as the supreme test in the eyes of President Harding and Messrs. Hughes, Root, Lodge and Underwood, of British sincerity and good faith in their professions of good will for a better Anglo-American understanding.

The announcement yesterday afternoon of the creation of a conference sub-committee to deal with the entire question of Chinese fiscal affairs, including customs duties, the appropriation of spoils of government receipts for specified purposes, preferential rates, and all of the other forms of financial limitations which the powers have put upon Chinese finances, can mean no less than effectual abandonment by Great Britain of its treaty relations with Japan, for these subjects are an essential part of the British-Japanese agreement as it touches Chinese affairs. It may be some time before the world will be advised that Great Britain and Japan have vacated their special agreement in favor of the agreements reached by this conference but I believe I can fully warrant in the conviction that yesterday's action is a sure forerunner of such an announcement.

Co-Operation With America.

It is significant that the author of this move to create a sub-committee on Chinese financial affairs, including its internal revenues, was Senator Underwood, of the American delegation, who as former chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, made of himself one of the best informed public officials in Washington on financial questions. The significance however does not attach to Senator Underwood's stipulation for the chairmanship of this sub-committee but to the fact that the move was initiated and sponsored by a member of the American delegation. Profound as is its effect upon British relations with the Japanese it is highly improbable that it was undertaken without consultation with Buller and his associates, and this being true it obviously reflects a very much to be desired co-operation between the British and ourselves with respect of Chinese affairs, instead of a British-Japanese coalition a thing which the Anglo-Japanese treaty pre-supposes and officially sets up.

The unanimous agreement among all of the powers represented, excepting China, whose inclusion was not required inasmuch as the resolutions which bear Senator Root's name provided solely for the treatment of China by the other powers, upon certain aspects of the Chinese problem, constitutes an indication that in dealing with Pacific problems, no less than with questions of naval limitation, it is the settled policy of the conference to clinch agreement immediately upon those subjects on which the delegates find themselves in accord. By this method or group of subjects which come within the agenda of the conference. This first long stride toward international accord with regard to Chinese problems, involving as it does unequivocal and unanimous acceptance of the principle of Chinese integrity and political independence and the open door goes a long way toward the realization of China's "ten points." Since this is true and the name China is, repeatedly used without defining just what "China" is, it becomes of acute interest to learn what is the attitude of the American delegation on this phase of the situation.

The Real China.

It can be definitely stated that when the American representatives in the Washington conference employ the word "China" they mean the historic China, they mean the same China that the Chinese mean. They include not only the 15 provinces of China proper but they also regard as a part of China, Manchuria, outer and inner Mongolia and Tibet. This, to put it mildly, is not the view of all of the delegates to the conference, particularly it is not the view of the Japanese, and since this is so it becomes of very real interest to know that the United States in contending for Chinese integrity contends for the sovereignty of those portions of China which have been temporarily alienated through one cause or another. This is, of course, the Chinese contention and members of the Chinese delegation express their feelings without reserve in commenting upon the posture of the American Delegation. This view was eloquently revealed in a statement made to me by one of the members of the Chinese delegation who is in intimate touch with the official representatives of China: "China came here determined to follow without hesitancy, or doubt, the lead of the United States, seeking confidence in her distinctness and friendship. Whenever America led we determined to follow. That our course was wise and our reliance upon the traditional friendship of the United States was not misplaced is abundantly shown by Mr. Root's proposals which have the unanimous endorsement of all nations represented here, and by what we understand to be the American Government's attitude toward the integrity of China itself."

The Difficulties.

It is plain that conference will not encounter many insurmountable difficulties in arriving at agreement upon

Guidance For Parley Invoked By The Pontiff

He Hopes All Danger of Future Wars Will Be Removed by Conference.

Rome, Nov. 24.—Pope Benedict in his allocution delivered at today's secret consistory dealt with the subject of disarmament, expressing gratification at the calling of the Washington conference. In striving for the good and well being of the peoples through the operation of reason and experience, said the allocution, "it would be a mistake to count alone on these means and not invoke the aid of God." Referring to the representatives of the nations now meeting in Washington the allocution says: "Not alone do we warmly hope that their labors may have a happy success, but, instead, for the good of all, we pray God that He may aid them with light, that they may determine not alone how to lighten the heavy burdens of the peoples, which is no small thing, but a thing which matters much more—to make as remote as possible for evermore the dangers of new wars."

The Vatican's relations with new States and how the new agreements were established between them and the Holy See were recounted by His Holiness. He deplored the unrest observable in them and added: "We note with grief that the solemn treaty of peace has not brought about peace of mind."

Chinese Governors And Government Reach Crisis

Peking, Nov. 25.—The financial crisis which threatened the stability of the Government has been averted temporarily through resistance from provincial military Governors totaling 7,000,000 taels.

Such heavy remittances from the provinces are unprecedented, and the action of the Governors is pointed to as indicating the seriousness of the situation. High civil officials are supporting the Government banks by transferring their personal funds to Peking, and as a result notes are again negotiable.

JAPAN HEAVY BUYER OF WORLD LUXURIES

Wines, Pate de Foie Gras and Precious Stones Sought Since War.

London, Nov. 20.—In his report for 1920-21 on industrial and financial conditions in Japan M. F. Crowe, commercial counselor of the British Embassy at Tokio, comments on the spread of expenditure on luxuries in that country. During the war, he writes, Japan accumulated a great deal of wealth, and as this filtered through the country the people as a whole began to acquire luxurious tastes and habits. In the matter of clothing, for instance, the quality asked for now are much better than in former years, in spite of the enormous advance in price.

As an example of the change which has come over the country and the greater adoption of foreign customs attention is drawn to the fact that the imports of wines and spirits were of the value of nearly 4,000,000 yen in 1920, as compared with 800,000 yen before the war. Only a small proportion of this is accounted for by the foreign residents. Furthermore, foreign style provisions were purchased in 1920 to the value of nearly 14,000,000 yen as compared with 3,000,000 yen in 1918. In former years one case of pate de foie gras would last a provision dealer quite a long time, as it was only used by foreign residents and the foreign hotels. Now large quantities are imported for the requirements of wealthy Japanese. One explanation of this phenomenon which has been put forward is that entertaining in Japanese tea houses has recently become so extravagantly expensive that even Western luxuries have become an economy. Perhaps this may be considered as extreme example, but it gives a good idea of the change which has come over the country. Similarly before the war the import of precious stones was negligible. Last year it amounted to nearly 6,500,000 yen.

In former years Japan was looked on as a country which could afford to buy only cheap articles and where there was only a small demand for foreign goods. Now it may almost be said that nothing is too expensive for the wealthy classes of Japanese, and even among the lower classes there is a strong demand for the real imported goods, notwithstanding the limitations which abound.

As regard exports it is stated that in most markets there are large stocks of Japanese goods and buyers abroad hesitate to place any fresh orders until they have been cleared. But in Japan itself domestic manufactures continue so good that manufacturers have not yet had forced on them the absolute necessity of cutting down their prices.

Painful Sores On Her Ankle

Healed by Hood Preparations

For two years I suffered greatly from blue veins on my leg. They started with a little sore that grew larger, larger, more painful till it extended around my whole ankle. I decided to take Hood's Sarsaparilla to purify my blood, with Hood's Medicated Soap to wash the sore, and Hood's Olive Ointment to help heal it. It was soon apparent I was on the right course, for as the result of faith, fully taking the Sarsaparilla, the sore diminished and finally disappeared. I heartily recommend these remedies to all suffering from similar troubles. Mrs. John Peterson, Detroit Harbor, Wis.

PROSECUTION IN LANDRU TRIAL CLOSES CASE

Versailles, Nov. 25.—When the jurors who are sitting in the case of Henri Landru "the Butcher of Gambais," left the court-room at the adjournment of the session today they had impressed on their minds the testimony given by Dr. Saurea, a prominent dentist, who was called to the stand by the prosecution as one of its trump cards.

"The twenty nine teeth I have here are indisputably human teeth," said Dr. Saurea, referring to teeth found among the refuse in Landru's villa at Gambais, where the prisoner is alleged to have killed some of the eleven persons for whose deaths he is on trial.

The loose teeth, some of which were virtually intact, although some of them showed traces of contact with fire, were handed from juror to juror for examination, with the dental expert repeating time and again that there was no doubt they once had belonged to human beings. The testimony made a great impression on the jury. To offset the effect of it the defence brought up 15 witnesses to show that Landru's villa at Gambais had remained unvisited for two weeks between the first and second searches of it by the police. This testimony, however, seemed to pass virtually unnoticed.

The prosecution then closed its case.

During the trial the prosecution has occupied sixteen sessions to present its case. The witnesses for the defence took up barely two hours. Two attorneys, who are looking after the interests of the heirs of two of the alleged victims of Landru, will sum up tomorrow. Prosecutor Godetroy will address the jury Monday and M. Morro-Giaffell, on behalf of the defence. It is made his pleading Tuesday. It is probable that a verdict will be arrived at late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

NOW OVER 500 PURITY ICE CREAM AGENCIES

— IN —

NEW BRUNSWICK

One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Quart Increase in Our Ice Cream Sales This Year

MAY we thank you---the people of New Brunswick---in behalf of our five hundred agencies and ourselves, for the favor of this enormous, unprecedented increase which you have given us this year.

WE have given to you, at a great expense to ourselves only, the LATEST SCIENTIFIC PROCESS in the making of Ice Cream. We refer to the CARBONATING PROCESS by which the dangerous multiplication of bacteria is absolutely prevented.

WE have also given you in our Ice Cream the FULL MEASURE of butter-fats and food values which our high standard calls for. We have done this faithfully, even during the hottest part of this Summer when the commonest "Trick of the Trade" is to skimp such food values.

WE have kept foremost in our minds that Cream is first of all a FOOD by which the weakest loved one in a hospital is MADE STRONG and the sturdiest little rascal at home is KEPT STRONG. And if we were to skimp these food values, by even a single ounce, we would feel in no different class from the old-time grocer who weighed his thumb with the sugar---and sometimes his fist.

ICE CREAM not only tastes good, but is good for you, IF YOU GET WHAT YOU PAY FOR because Ice Cream is one of the fundamental foods, equal in food value to porterhouse steak.

Sentenced To Term of Twenty Years

Thomas J. Spellman Was Found Guilty of Manslaughter.

Thomas J. Spellman was sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary by Mr. Justice Barry yesterday morning. Spellman was found guilty of manslaughter at the last circuit court in connection with the death of Albert Norris, Baraboville. At eleven o'clock the Paris trial was interrupted and Judge Barry ascended the bench. The accused was brought in. He was dressed in a blue suit and soft collar with blue tie and was pale and appeared very nervous. Before sentence was passed Judge Barry asked the judge to take into consideration the health of the prisoner and his excellent overseas record. Daniel Mullin, K. C., also asked for leniency. He said Spellman had tried to come with the first contingent and when rejected crossed to England and enlisted in the Artillery. He had been shotwounded and gassed. His part in the killing of Norris was directly traceable to his physical condition. His condition was still further aggravated by drinking lemon extract.

Judge Barry said the crime was a most serious one. The blood of Albert Norris called out for justice. He had been sent into sterner with all his imperfections on his head. His honor said he could not help but consider the remarks of the counsel, and their fight for their client reflected credit on them. However, the King's Bench judges in England refused to take military service into consideration in imposing sentence. The military service could be urged before the executive, who could easily revise his sentence if it was too severe. The maximum sentence was life imprisonment. While he did not intend to inflict this punishment, common would doubtless think his sentence severe. He then sentenced the prisoner to twenty years in Dorchester. Spellman stood while sentence was pronounced and gave no sign of emotion. Immediately after sentence he was taken from the court, with a slight frown on his face and deathly pale.

A radio was received at C.P.R. headquarters to the effect that the C.P.R. liner Tunisian will arrive here Sunday about noon. She is the first passenger boat of the season and is bringing from Glasgow forty-eight cabin and ninety-six steerage passengers.

The first grain boat of the season will be the S.S. Stygia, which was due to reach port yesterday. She is to arrive with approximately 350,000 bushels of rye for a European port. More is en route here and will in all probability arrive some time next week.

The weight is beginning to arrive here for the steamers. Only a small amount has been received to date as the port of Montreal is still open and traffic is still being routed there. More freight is expected daily for the liners.

James McKenna, travelling salesperson agent of the C.P.R., and J. O. Apps, general agent of baggage, mail and milk, arrived in the city yesterday from Montreal to arrange for the season's activities. Members of the various staffs are arriving daily and are making preparations to handle the freight and passenger traffic.

Girl's Strange Sense Disappears Under Scientific Tests

Madison, Wis., Nov. 25.—Willette Heston, Janesville, Wis., 21, who says she can smell colors and hear by the sense of touch, is neither totally deaf nor totally blind, said Dr. Joseph Jastrow, head of the psychological department of the University of Wisconsin, today.

Tests were made by the professor with Miss Heston as the subject in the university laboratories. Articles about the girl have appeared in magazines and newspapers.

"There is no miracle or mystery involved," said Dr. Jastrow. "I have no hesitation in saying that the tests so far as they went gave not the slightest indication of a possession by this girl of any unusual sense and that, on the contrary, indications are perfectly clear that she gets a knowledge of color through such portion of vision as remains to her. The same is true of hearing by vibration."

Rheumatic Pains Have Disappeared

As a Result of Treating the Trouble Through the Blood.

The chief symptom of rheumatism is pain. The most successful treatment is the one that most quickly relieves and banishes the pain. Many rheumatic suffer pains that could be avoided by building up the blood, when rheumatism is associated with thin blood it cannot be corrected until the blood is built up.

Mr. Ed. Hall, Main-a-Dieu, N. S., suffered from rheumatism 12 years, but was more fortunate in taking the victims of the disease for he found a remedy that so built up his entire system that he is now free from rheumatism. Mr. Hall says: "I was taken down with rheumatism, and at times was under the treatment of several of the best doctors in Cape Breton, but they held out no hope for my recovery from the trouble. I was confined to bed for three years and a helpless cripple from the trouble. I could not move, and had to be turned in sheets. My legs and fingers were drawn out of shape, and sorely developed on my body as the result of my long confinement to bed; I was in this serious condition when a friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I began taking them. The first benefit I felt from the pills was an improved appetite, and then I began to feel stronger and was finally able to get out of bed and go about on crutches. I continued taking the pills for months, slowly but surely getting new strength, and finally I was able to lay the crutches aside. I will always be lame, as the result of my long stay in bed my left leg has shortened somewhat, but otherwise I am feeling fine and able to do my work as Fishery Overseer. I may add that when the rheumatism came on I weighed 140 pounds, and when I began going about on crutches I only weighed 67 pounds, and now I am at normal weight. There are many here who know and can vouch for the truth of these statements."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Ganong's Chocolates
The Gift of Gladness

There's no excuse now for poor quality!

During the war, your palate was lenient towards lowered standards in chocolate making. But now, when Nature's choicest fruits and flavours are abundantly available for the maker who takes pride in his product, there is no excuse for poor quality—either in the chocolate coating or in your favourite centre. But, are you sure your palate has quite recovered its old pre-war discrimination? Let the "G.B." mark be your trusted guide to securing that attention to detail which means a quality confection. "G.B." meaning Ganong's Best! As a mark of identification, as a guarantee of quality—that you will get yourself and give to others the same pleasure with every purchase.

Will the Destruction of Warships Destroy War?

"The Hell of war is always paved with proposals for disarmament," remarked a cynical German admiral when asked his opinion of the Harding-Hughes plan for the reduction of navies. Through the world-wide chorus of acclaim that greets America's proposal to join with Great Britain and Japan to scrap nearly two million tons of battleships and to build no more for ten years sound occasional discordant voices that range from the cynicism of the German expert in Berlin to the reluctant skepticism of certain sincere friends of disarmament whose only fear is that our Government's revolutionary program is not drastic enough.

Naval disarmament will not insure peace, asserts Arthur Brisbane, in the New York American, because "all Europe and all civilization outside of America can be wiped out from Russia or Asia with never a man or gun used afloat." The New York Call also "declines to share in the general rejoicing," because it expects from the Washington Conference "the same disillusionment that followed the 'war to end war.'"

W. G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, avers that "bold, drastic, and courageous measures are required if civilization is to be snatched from the brink of the fateful chasm upon which it now stands." The Philadelphia Record thinks that "the only means ever devised for preventing war is the League of Nations, which the United States has thus far refused to join," while the Louisville Courier-Journal asserts that "the Conference can reduce taxation, but it can not insure peace."

There is much enthusiasm in the British press over the proposed arms limitation, while in Japan the American proposal is "not far removed from a basis of common understanding," according to the Tokyo Asahi.

All phases of the arms limitation proposal are shown in the leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week November 26th, which also gives a vivid reflection of public opinion in this country, Great Britain, and Japan.

BRITON THINKS AMERICA WILL REMAIN DRY

Can See No Prospect of That Country Coming Back to "Cin Rickeys" and "High Balls."

London, Nov. 24.—Sir Arthur News, formerly member of the Ministry of Health, discussing prohibition in America on his return here after a two years' visit to the United States, hammered another nail into the lid of the "medicine chest."

"The American public," he said, "will endorse the action already taken and will insist on its continuance and extension, and prohibition, in my view, will remain in operation as the law of the land."

Sir Arthur views the question from the standpoint of the persons made to suffer the consequence of other persons' drinking.

"Liberation of the many from unfair conditions rather than personal liberty, which might easily become illusory, is," he says, "the present social desideratum. The case for compulsion, and it is a good one, is that moral suasion act slowly on minorities and meanwhile multitudes of innocent persons continue to suffer, and the community suffers in pocket and in efficiency."

Why is it that there are over 600 branch factories of United States companies in operation in Canada to-day employing 90,000 people living in Canada, and representing invested capital of about $400,000,000.00?

THE TARIFF and The Tariff alone brought these United States manufacturers to Canada.

The Tariff stands as a partial barrier against the importation of products manufactured in other countries. It is a Customs Tax placed by the Government on certain foreign-made goods and it is collected when these goods enter Canada.

Because of The Tariff, these United States manufacturers found that they could not sell their particular products as extensively and profitably in Canada as they desired; they realized that to get our trade they had to come over here and be one with us. Consequently, they have established factories in this country, they are manufacturing their products here and are employing Canadian workmen. Both CRERAR and KING are pledged to the destruction of our Tariff—and with what result?

The hundreds of plants established in this country by United States manufacturers would be shut down. They would not need to be maintained, for the goods can be manufactured cheaper in the United States by reason of larger production due to their huge home market. Ninety thousand Canadian working men would lose their employment. These men are receiving over one hundred millions of dollars a year in wages; they represent 270,000 men, women and children all dependent upon these industries for a livelihood, and all consuming the produce of Canadian farms.

What is more, the great majority of our factories which are all-Canadian and which represent Canadian capital would also be forced to close. They could not successfully compete with United States products—cheaper because produced in larger quantities—or with goods from Europe or Japan, where wages and the standard of living are very much lower than in Canada.

THE TARIFF brings foreign capital into the country; it provides employment, it protects the home market of manufacturer and farmer alike, and it ensures the maximum development of Canada's great natural resources, our raw materials being made into finished goods at home instead of being sent to other countries.

THE TARIFF is the one big issue before Canada today—and it affects the future of every man, woman and child in the country.

BAT MASTERSON HAD A VERY ADVENTUROUS CAREER

Not through violence, but still with his boots on, Bat Masterson died suddenly in New York a few days ago. For some years past he had been writing sporting comment for the New York Telegraph, and his comment was usually pointed. So far as we know he got by without being forced to retract anything, for retaliation was not in his line.

When the buffaloes began to give place to cattle, Bat became a cowboy, and eventually drifted to Dodge City, Kansas. This young town was the end of the Texas trail. Cattle were driven to Dodge City and then shipped east by rail. Here, too, the cowboys were in a rude paid off, and there were all the opportunities most of them desired for spending their money. Gamblers and parasites of both sexes haunted the place, and liquor flowed twenty-four hours a day.

A Good Gunman. Bat Masterson was a gunman, but a good one. That is to say there is no evidence of him ever killing any one who did not deserve to be killed. His pistol was drawn always on the side of law and order, so far as he knew. When he was a boy, Bat, who had attained to great experience with rifle and revolver, went to Kansas and there supported himself by shooting bad fellows for their hides. It was at this period of his career that he took part in the Adobe Walls fight, one of the classic adventures in the annals of the West. Bat and other hunters were at Adobe Walls when the place was surrounded and attacked by a band of Indians. They were roused early in the morning to see the scalp-hunters advancing swiftly upon them.

Restaurants Crowded With After Theatre Parties and Everything Gradually Worked Back to Pre-War Festive Days.

Paris, Nov. 21.—For the first time since 1914, Paris is regaining her pre-war aspect. The Parisian subway system has just put into effect the pre-war schedule regarding number of trains and speed. During seven long years the Parisian has been forced to submit to inadequate transportation service. A complaint was always met by the inevitable "C'est la guerre." Even with the pre-war schedule the rush-hours are reminiscent of New York because the population has increased several hundred thousand since pre-war days.

SHALL GREAT BRITAIN LET IRELAND GO TO IT?

Startling Suggestions from London Spectator of Wall in Freedom.

The absence of Mr. Lloyd George from so momentous a world proceeding as the Washington Conference emphasizing the importance of the British question to England and to the British Empire, has attracted, presumably, the attention of all to the most important matter before the Government. The crisis of humanity may be the business of the nations at Washington, but practically the most important matter before the Government is the British question.

BRITISH WELL SATISFIED WITH PROGRESS OF ARMS CONFERENCE

They Foresee Success and Heartily Give Approval to Agreement on China—Marked Interest in Document to be Drawn Which May or May Not Take the Form of a Treaty.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The British Lloyd George Government before it agreed to the Chinese resolution yesterday. The British declare that most of the agreements incorporated in the resolution are contained already in treaties and agreements between the British Empire and China and the different nations represented at the Conference. The effect of the resolution will be that the stipulations will become collective rather than individual. Instead of separate agreements there will be one document for all the countries. Therefore, the British point of view, all the national agreements already in effect, a final agreement would be reached by seeing that the joint bargain is carried out.

THE STANDARD'S FINANCIAL SECTION

Listless Market Acquired Strength On Closing Hour

Bonds Were Consistent on Large and Diversified Dealings—Pools Bullish.

New York, Nov. 25.—Stocks were listless at the opening of today's session, becoming steady at midday and developing general strength before the close. The Government seemed to have its basis mainly on easier money rates, call loans declining from 5 to 4 1/2 per cent, on liberal offerings. Bonds again displayed constant strength on large and diversified dealings in which five of the Liberty series established new high records for the year. An exception to the higher trend of the bond list was furnished by French municipals, which reacted sharply.

Pools Still Bullish

Pools resumed their bullish tactics in specialties of the chemical, utility, metal, leather and miscellaneous divisions without evoking perceptible public response, but rate moved to higher ground as a result of steady and substantial accumulation.

In the afternoon a sudden drive against the shorts in Mexican Petroleum was accompanied by advances in domestic issues. The Standard Oil group again coming forward. Sales amounted to 735,900 shares.

Policies Hurt Market

The statement of the British Foreign Minister, dealing with the military policy of the French Government, probably contributed to unsettlement in foreign exchanges, the Paris rate falling almost 15 points, with reactions in other Continental quotations. Decline of German marks to a level approaching their recent minimum accompanied denials of reports of immediate extension of credits to German industrial interests. Liberty is again high grade rails, such as Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Burlington 6 1/2's and numerous minor bonds participated in the broad inquiry from investment sources. Transactions also were strong with several of the international group of war issues. Total sales, par value, aggregated $20,560,000.

Truth About Lumber Market From Experts

The Supply and Demand Law Clearly Brought to Prominence.

Washington, Nov. 25.—It requires no complex analysis to understand the plain simple truth about the lumber market. In exactly the same way that the immutable law of supply and demand acts and reacts in the whole world of barter, it applies to lumber and lemons. Thousands of sawmills are engaged in making lumber. These mills are scattered all over the continent, and competing for the business of many more thousands of retail dealers. Most great industries congregate at convenient shipping and manufacturing centers, bringing their raw materials to them. Sawmills have to locate in close proximity to their raw materials and their deterioration is based upon limited time operation.

This means that there is a wide spread in the costs of lumber production, figured upon variation in the elements of typography, size and character of trees, logging conditions, distance from stump to mill and kind of log, transportation for different woods, labor supply and freight and market conditions affecting distribution from each mill. Take the Douglas fir and North Carolina pine, for instance. There is scarcely a problem of a difficulty in common between the sawmills of Washington and Oregon and the mills of North and South Carolina. The character of the land is different, logging conditions are different, marketing and transportation factors are different—and yet pine and fir compete actively in common markets for similar purposes. And this situation applies to the entire "lumber industry."

Now a few sawmills—representing say 20 per cent of lumber production—might be able to make and sell lumber at the market price for thousands of feet. But the remaining mills—representing say 80 per cent of production—could not operate on such a market. As long as there is only a 20 per cent demand on lumber manufacturing capacity, the price must be high. This means that in direct ratio to this growing demand more of the higher cost mills must operate. And in order to operate they must get higher prices for their product in proportion to the higher cost of their operations over the more favored (in the matter of costs) group. If the demand for lumber should increase from 20 to 40 per cent of the normal mill capacity, it follows that the price must be high. It will be when the demand for lumber is sufficient to absorb the normal output of the mills. And that price will, of course, be high enough to cover the cost.

So lumber production costs must be further reduced or the price realized at the mill must increase if production of lumber is to continue in a volume sufficient to meet the needs prospective home-builders. The average price realized for lumber at the sawmill is still in many sections less than the average cost of production. Ordinary common lumber today at the sawmills is cheaper than it has been for years past and there is a likelihood to be again for years to come.

Interstate Commerce Commission orders sweeping investigation of all railroad rates and passenger fares, and will hold a hearing, Dec. 14th, to consider new cuts in tariffs.

Evans says "there is no change in New York market situation. Excessive hopes and high enthusiasm raised by Conference at Washington, when it first met, are being more or less dispelled, but this is because the expectations were too high. The main trend of prices, however, is upward. Stocks should be bought on all weak spots, as we will see higher prices next year."

Rumors are persistent if vague, to the effect that interesting developments may be brought to light at the Pierce-Arrow directors' meeting scheduled for Monday. There seems to be considerable uneasiness in automobile circles.

Specialties are expected to continue to show strength with professional elements working for reaction. Fuel interests are reported bullish on Com Gas, Allied Chemical, U. S. Cast Iron, and Lusa and Pac.

Market Opinions
J. S. Bachs and Co.—"The resistance to selling pressure has been noteworthy. However this character of action is not unusual on top of such a rise as we have had."

Hornblower and Weeks—"We do not think that rails are immune from a reactionary tendency."

Thomson and McKinnon—"We are rather inclined to the opinion that the present is a natural resting and reactionary period in a rising stock market and does not possess any further significance."

Wagner and Co.—"Consider R. L. M. O. P., and B. and O. S. L. and M. P. and P. and M. exceptionally favorable purchases. We are likely to witness a burst of buying any day in the equipment."

Cheaper Fertilizer In New Brunswick Predicted This Year

Agricultural Societies United Held Annual Meeting Thursday.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick Agricultural Societies, United, was held at the Parliament Buildings, Fredericton, on Thursday afternoon. There were a number of delegates present from various parts of the province, and it was decided that an effort should be made to extend the work of the organization among the agricultural societies of the province. Reports for the past year were read and adopted. The following directors were appointed: President—Stanley Wilson, Rolling Dam.

Vice-president—W. B. Gilman, Fredericton.

Directors—W. H. Jackson, Keswick; Ward Gitsen, Hartland; A. A. H. Margison, Centreville; Fred. Fowler, Chipman.

It was decided to send delegates to address the Farmers and Dairymen's convention, which convenes at Moncton on Jan. 17, and the objects of the Agricultural Societies United will be brought more definitely to the attention of the delegates at that meeting.

One encouraging feature of the for-tilifer situation for 1922 is that chemicals will be very much cheaper than for some years, thus reducing the cost of fertilizer in New Brunswick. A buying committee was appointed and will later decide on a definite policy for the next year.

500 U. S. Concerns Operate In China

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—Nearly 500 concerns established entirely by Americans and American capital are operating in China. They are vitally interested in the conference determination on Far Eastern questions.

American concerns represent approximately six per cent of all the foreign firms doing business in the Chinese republic. The nationals of more than eighteen countries have branches and trading companies in China.

In 1920 alone more than 400 American concerns opened for business in China. In 1914 there were only 136 American companies there. The growing friendship of Chinese business men for American companies, and their seeming preference for American made goods is causing concern to the business men and exporters of England, France and Germany, according to records of the Department of Commerce.

More than 7,000 American business men are devoting their entire time to managing their concerns in China. A far larger number of American manufacturers and exporters have a direct interest in the republic through a continuous exchange of commodities and raw materials. In addition American financiers are interested through loans made to the Government. A large number of Americans hold bonds of the Chinese republic. The exact number is not known, but it is understood to be well into the hundreds.

PROSPECTS NAT. RYS. BRIGHTEN UNDER GOOD MANAGEMENT

The improved financial showing of the Canadian National Railways for the months of August and September has received general and favorable comment in the Press throughout the country. It will be of interest to the public to see in graphic manner the monthly advances made since the beginning of the year.

The accompanying chart shows that operating expenses, as indicated by the upper line on the chart, were brought down, month by month, and that they drew gradually towards a meeting with the lower line, which indicates the gross earnings. In August, the lines met and crossed, showing a small margin to the good for that month. In September, the widening gap between the lines indicates net earnings of more than half a million dollars. The trend of the "leaves" or "curves," as they are sometimes termed, predict a much better showing in October.

Those who were in close touch with the situation, and who knew what was being done to bring about operating economies, could see well in advance, that a combination of these measures, with the usual increases in volume of traffic, would bring the lines together, and that with the seasonal crop movement, they should cross. It was hardly expected that the month of August would show net earnings, but reductions in the costs of materials and supplies, coupled with the readjustment of wages, and the increase in gross earnings, were factors which, combined with the management's determination to produce a small balance on the right side for August. The crop movement in September was sufficient

GERMANS DEBATE WHAT HIT 'EM RAISE HUGE SUM BEFORE JAN. 15

Did Army Fall, or Was It Pushed—Kolster Says It Was Licked.

Berlin, Nov. 21.—Why Germany was beaten is again a topic of acrimonious newspaper controversy now that the third anniversary of the collapse of the German war machine is at hand.

Opinions are as violently expressed and as widely divergent as ever. All impetus to bitter recrimination has been given an interview with Field Marshal von Hindenburg, which appeared the other day in the Hamburg Tageblatt. In it, the aged army chief once more affirmed his belief in the "thrust in the back of the army"—the treacherous breakdown of a civilian support for the military leaders.

The sequel has been the publication of a mass of official material, notably by the Vorwaerts, to show that it was certainly not the civilians who lost the war.

Major Dettlmeier, the former chief of the official German press bureau, writes in the Berlin Tageblatt maintaining that the blame for the German nation in its military defeat continued to the bitter end: in fact, until it was plain to all that the military leaders had come to grief irrevocably, "because they were just soldiers and statesmen, which was the deplorable mistake made by the people at home," says the writer.

The extreme radical press is even more bitter in its denunciation of the military failures. The Freiheit publishes a long article to show that the German people were systematically deceived; that they had no conception of the true situation at the front, and that the supreme army command deliberately spread false reports.

Furious denials of these allegations come from the conservative organs. The Tagespost wrathfully accuses the "vile agitators" who, it says, had long ago whittled the weapon of treachery, while Count Reventlow in the Abendpost declares that it was neither Foch's genius nor the British blockade that overcame Germany, but "the venomous work of deserters and traitors behind the German front, who had been infected by the pacifist and revolutionary virus."

Adolph Koester, a former minister in the Socialist cabinet, who says that the dagger thrust into the German throat, "No Bolshevism and no pacifism had anything to do with that," the writer declares.

There is no sign that Germans ever will agree on the question why they were defeated.

Frank Brown, who was accidentally shot on Wednesday by his cousin, Watson Power, is reported to be resting comfortably at the General Public Hospital, and his condition greatly improved. The police have been holding Power since the shooting.

LIGHT AND POWER. A definite offer in writing, regarding the horse-power available from the Musquash development and the cost of the current, has been received by the Mayor from the N. B. JOHN PARIS ON CHARGE OF MURDER FINISHED HIS EVIDENCE YESTERDAY

Dr. McCurdy, Magistrate Crowe, and Stewart Fraser, and George Murray, All of Truro, Testified That Accused Was in Nova Scotia Town on August 2.

The direct and cross-examination of John Paris was concluded yesterday afternoon, and the defense began producing the Truro witnesses who are expected to clearly prove the alibi of the defense has already set up. Dr. McCurdy, of Truro, swore to the morning at the Clyde house on the morning of Aug. 2. Magistrate Crowe swore that he made out and delivered a search warrant to Chief Fraser on the afternoon of that day to search the Byrds house, and that the chief returned later and said he had failed in the search.

Stewart Fraser swore to having played cards with Paris in the Byrds house on the night of Aug. 1. George Murray, that he had seen Paris in the Nichols Garage the same day 150 gallons of gasoline were purchased from the Imperial Oil Company which, according to the garage day book, was Aug. 2. The trial will be resumed today, and there will in all probability be an afternoon session.

When court opened the cross-examination of Paris was resumed. He said he visited the Eastern Hat & Cap Company, Truro, on Aug. 2, but could not remember if he was clean shaven. There are a number of people named Paris in Truro; one, John Paris, is about fifty years old. He was at the Clyde house on Aug. 2. He received money in two places in Truro on the same date. When Chief Fraser saw him in jail he was not positive it was Aug. 2. He sold mushrooms to Moxom on Aug. 3. He saw Billy Sweet, Drussela Hodges and Maude Minchile in St. John on Aug. 2 about 11 o'clock in the morning. Later on Walter Humphrey rowed him across the river. He also saw Campbell, Chester Ford and John Best that day. Humphrey had offered him $125 to murder Walter Cook.

The accused was bombarded with many questions regarding his movements on Aug. 1, 2 and 3, and stuck to his original story about being in Truro on those dates.

On the opening of the afternoon session Paris again took the stand and Mr. Byrne resumed his cross-examination. When giving evidence at the trial for the gasoline that Paris said he did not say how long he had been away from St. John. He did not "remember" of saying he had been away from St. John 7 or 8 days.

Mr. Byrne asked, if when according to the Court record he said he left St. John on the 23rd and had been away 7 or 8 days, he would have then arrived back on or about the first of August, so that the date would tally with the date McDonald said Paris wanted a loan from him. Paris replied, "According to that it would."

Paris said he practically, but not direct, fixed the date of the last trial by insurance. He then told about letters being made out on relatives.

Before Levine Girl. As to whether he told Mr. Vernon at the last trial that the Levine girl had never identified him positively at the police station, Paris said, she had never said he was the man. He did not remember if he said at the first trial that he had taken his mustache off. He did not now think he had one at the time.

On the 18th or 19th of August he did not know she was the Levine girl until after he returned to his cell and then not till an hour or 3 hours afterwards. Some one at the jail said where did they have you? Paris told him, and the man said the little girl was Hattie Levine.

He would not say that he turned sideways when brought before the Levine girl. Asked to tell all he remembered on that occasion, the day of his arrest, Paris said he remembered the deskman questioned him when he was taken upstairs, as to his age, residence and religion. He did not notice the Levine girl then. Some one standing at the detective's door asked some questions, and when he turned around to answer, he saw a little girl seated on a chair between two men.

Girl said, "No." One of the men spoke to the little girl and she said "no" then they took him away. The others could hear her just as well as he could. He was five feet from Hattie, Sergeant Detective Powers was there. He did not know if he was the questioner or not.

Asked if he was present when Hattie said, "He looks like the man, he's the same size," Paris said he did not hear her say that.

When brought back from Truro, he had a mustache. He did not remember if Hattie then said, "He looks like the same man he is the same size, but his mustache makes him look different." He had heard that but did not know if it was, there or in Court.

Officer Told Him. It was one of the officers who told him that it was Hattie Levine on the first occasion.

Officer Hatt was brought before Paris, the prisoner said he had seen him before but did not think he had any conversation with him about Hattie. He did not tell Hatt that Policeman Thomas told him it was Hattie Levine. He would rather swear he didn't than swear he did.

It was a policeman who told him it was Hattie Levine, he did not know who the officer was. He did not tell Hatt it was Thomas and then say it wasn't. He did not know where the Hillyard home was. Mr. Byrne, "the spot where Sadie's body was found is right back of it." Paris, "I was never to that spot. I don't know where it is." Paris continuing said he did not know where the park was.

Sudden Death of St. John Man F. E. Townshend Died While Being Removed to Hospital in Boston Yesterday.

The first intimation that Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Townshend, 3 Provoost street, had of the sudden death of their son, F. E. Townshend, which occurred in Boston yesterday was last night when the following Canadian Press dispatch was read to them:

"Boston, Nov. 25.—A man believed to be F. E. Townshend, of St. John, N. B., died on the way to the City Hospital here today after he had been taken suddenly ill in a South End refreshment saloon. A notebook found in his pocket said 'Return to F. E. Townshend, care F. E. Townshend Piano Company, St. John, N. B.'"

C. H. Townshend, of the C. H. Townshend Piano Company, 54 King street, and father of the deceased, was in Edmundston last night and at the request of Mrs. Townshend, the telegram was sent to him by The Standard over the long-distance telephone. Needless to say that both Mr. and Mrs. Townshend were shocked on receiving the sad message, and they have the full sympathy of their many friends.

Mr. Townshend wired to Boston for particulars and requested that the remains be held until his arrival there. He leaves Edmundston this morning and will try and make connections with the Boston express this evening at McAdam Junction.

Mr. and Mrs. Townshend were not aware that their son was in Boston until the sad word was received last night. He has been traveling since last word received from him was a few weeks ago from St. John's, Newfoundland and Sydney, N. S.

Dr. McCurdy, physician and surgeon of Truro stated he was a graduate of Dalhousie University. His parents resided in Truro. His father was a building contractor.

The doctor said he was a married man, and had been practicing in Truro for three years.

He knew the accused. He had known him some years ago, but had not seen him of late years until recently. He knew James Clyke, and visited him in his home on the island in the month of August. He went there to treat him twice, August 1st and August 2nd. He made an entry in his visiting book to that effect. It was customary for doctors to enter their visits in a book. He usually made notes in the book as to the case. He had refreshed his mind by referring to the book. The two nights he had charged the accused in his visit on the 2nd and 3rd of August. Paris was in the kitchen and in the room adjoining the sick man's.

To Mr. Byrne the doctor said he had not been practicing in Truro very long. He had been in the Army overseas. He knew there were a number of Paris' and Clyke's on the island. He knew of one other John Paris. The doctor said his own age was 31. When he said he had not known Paris of late years he meant six years. Paris had worked on buildings with him any where from five to eleven, even more years ago, when he, the doctor, used to work during the vacation.

He practiced among the colored people when called to do so. He knew the accused's house with him but had the jottings.

William Byard's house was about fifty yards from Clyke's. He remembered seeing three colored people at the Clyde house that day, two other besides Paris. It was the first occasion he had seen Paris for some years. There was nothing that drew his attention to Paris, nor did he remember what he was wearing. He did not have a mustache as large as he had now, and could not say if he had one at all. He said goodnight to Paris and spoke to him in a general manner. He would recall that he knew of a negro in Truro of the same appearance as Paris. He knew ninety per cent of the negroes in Truro and could name fifty per cent, by name. He would not swear that he knew of a negro in Truro there was no man of his size and build. There was none of his appearance. There were some who resembled him to some extent. Colored people did resemble one another.

He was in the house fifteen or twenty minutes. On Aug. 1 he only remembered the patient and his mother in the house. He was not subpoenaed. Mr. Vernon asked him to come to the trial last Wednesday. He first told Mr. Vernon he had seen Paris' weeks ago. He did not know what when, in September, about the 7th. It was after he learned Paris was accused. He called Mr. Vernon by phone on business. Mr. Vernon said, "By the way, did you make a call on Oscar Clyke's?" He said yes, and looked up the date and told him when. Mr. Vernon said, "Was there a young man there?" He said yes, and Mr. Vernon said, "John Paris says 'he was there.'"

Assistance For Empty Stocking Fund

Young and Old Can Help to Make Many Poor St. John Children Happy.

A few kind hearted citizens yesterday sent cash donations to the Standard's Empty Stocking fund and it is expected that a great many others will take this opportunity to make Christmas bright for the children of St. John's children who otherwise would find an empty stocking next Christmas. Just to show that "somebody cares" and in a cash donation as nearly as possible for it is agreed that everything be ready in time to deliver the Christmas treat to the poorer children of the city before Christmas Eve. The little girl or boy who is better situated financially than some others in the city can help no matter how small the contribution and it will please Santa Claus just as much as the larger donations received from the other residents.

It is the intention of the kind assistance of Miss Robertson, secretary of the Associated Charities in obtaining a list of homes where the children are to be made happy.

Not only will the kiddies receive fruits, candy and toys but each little girl and boy will receive a new pair of stockings and instead of one stocking filled with good things there will be two. The larger the amount of money received in the fund, the more number of children will be looked after, any amount from one cent to many dollars will be gratefully received and it is thought that business men especially will not forget to assist in such a worthy cause. Local churches and other organizations can co-operate in some manner and their co-operation will be appreciated. It is an urgent call for assistance for Christmas is only a few weeks away.
